

S. W. Straus Says America Is In Midst Undreamed Of Era Building Construction

DETROIT, June 27.—America is in the midst of an era of building construction of such magnitude as no nation in history ever dreamed of undertaking, S. W. Straus, president of S. W. Straus & Company asserted today at the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Straus, and, although there may be no apparent housing shortage, the demand of Americans for buildings, which to transact all business construction of every building erected within the last 15 to 25 years.

Mr. Straus predicted that the record of $5,750,000,000 of new building set by the United States in 1924 would become a new record of $6,000,000,000 in 1925, and that the prosperity prevalent in the building industry today would continue indefinitely, accompanied by a conditions of general nationwide prosperity in all affiliated industries.

"There may be enough roofs today to cover every citizen of our nation, and enough floor area in which to transact all business of the country," he said, "but building on a large scale will go on just the same.

Present-Day Rival of The Pool of Siloam.

No, this isn't the cure-performing Pool of Siloam, of biblical days, but it's a "close second". Old Ponce de Leon sought—and didn't find—it, when he voyaged from Spain to Florida. It's the Daytona Beach swimming pool, the largest south of Atlantic City, and—well, what do you think of the "miracle worker"? Why not get a course of "treatments" at the Halifax Frolics of July 1, 2, 3 and 4?

MIAMI SHORES Don't Guess--- THINK! Guesswork is "chance work." Guesswork is risky Guesswork has no basis of reason. Don't fritter away your money or your time on guesses if you propose investing in the Greater Miami District.

THINK why Miami has always grown along the shores of Biscayne Bay. THINK why properties adjacent to Biscayne Bay have always commanded highest prices. THINK why the main arteries of travel into Miami have always caused enhanced property values. THINK what it means to Miami Shores to have as much Bay frontage as has the City of Miami. THINK what it means to have a definite city plan with wide boulevards and an aggressive building program. THINK what it indicates when pioneer investors in Miami are now investing in Miami Shores. THINK what it indicates that many have already taken out profits and reinvested them in Miami Shores.

THINK THIS OVER! Study the Greater Miami District. THINK—don't guess—and you will find yourself following the lead of the most successful business and professional men and women of Miami, pioneer investors who today are buying and selling, profiting and buying again at Miami Shores as they did before in Miami.
