CURBSTONE GLEANINGS

BUDGET OF OPINION "JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME."

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH "HELL PRENT 'EM"—SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

I am not feeling well today and cannot write with my accustomed dash and verve, but drawing the magnificent salary that I do each week for this column of stuff and nonsense makes it imperative that I give you something on the joyous holiday season. However, my rest was broken into last night by three invitations to eat turkey and with my well known desire to please I tried to attend all three functions and this morning the holiday season looks something like the cold gray dawn of the morning after that the poets rave about. So today, on the eve of another year I will only read you a little sermon on what I would like to see in Sanford and if this can be done all good things will follow.

I would wish that the good people of Sanford could get together on every subject for the betterment of our town and county. We may have our different opinions and express them freely. All of us have good ideas and all of us should be credited with having the mediocre of common sense. Granting that we have then dispelling argument on that point would it not be a grand idea to have a meeting of the Commercial Club or a meeting of the directors of the club or just have a meeting of all the business men of Sanford to discuss each and every subject calmly and dispassionately before rushing into print, before rushing around town cursing out Tom, Dick and Harry and, afterward finding out that we were mistaken in the man and what he may have said. This grand old spirit of getting together will do more for us individually and more for our town collectively than any one thing that we can do in the coming year of 1914 and this is my only prayer for you today. Every time I attend a function of any kind to Sanford I am struck with the large spirit of bon homie that is shown and the joyful spirit of friendship that is displayed and yet the next morning these same people who seem to have sworn eternal friendship to each other are striving to undo the good work and instead of getting together are pulling farther apart. We have the greatest bunch of hustlers in Sanford that have ever congregated together in any town and united and working together for the town they could accomplish wonders but that petty little spirit of unrest and desire to knock the other fellow's plans seem to creep in just when we are starting something and before you know it the whole business is knocked into a cocked hat.

I am taking this sermon to myself for I, by off the handle just as quickly and just as often as any quack before mature deliberation guides my movements I have singled some fellow's coat tail with my dig of harsh criticism and caused a wider breach instead of plastering up the gap with the cement of good feeling.

This New Year's spirit has hit me and like the rest of the world I am ready to make good resolutions but this is one promise that I am going to make if the balance of the boys in Sanford will hold up their right hands with me:

That I will temper the winds of criticism to the sheep lamb. That I will thoroughly investigate all conditions before expressing an opinion publicly or privately. That I will appoint myself a committee in adjusting all differences political or otherwise or will work with a committee in adjusting all differences political or otherwise and will help form a Peace Tribunal for the purpose of getting together with the idea uppermost of adjusting all differences at all times and that we will all work together for a better city, for all needed improvements and that our efforts will be directed solely to helping each other and the city of Sanford and county of Seminole.

But the rest of you must swear to do the same.

Well, it is all over now! The day for which you worked for weeks has been cast into the discard of yesterday. Did you have a good time? Was it all that you had hoped. Did you give the pleasure to others you started out to give? Or was the day a burden? Are your nerves all gone this morning, are you tired and cross and wondering whether or not the fun, the worry, the work were really worth while? It is a problem, isn't it? There is for grown-ups, if there are children about the house there is only one answer. There must be a Christmas and tired though you may be after it is all over you would not think of doing anything only as you have done it.

But for great big men and women for real boys and grown girls, perhaps there is room for argument about all this Christmas work and worry. Now don't tell me you didn't worry and you didn't work. It is impossible to have much of a Christmas without having both of the attendants mentioned above. Of course you are working for others, to make them happy, and that thought bears you up, but human endurance can go just so far, no matter what the propelling motive may be. Systematize the work all you can, there is still real labor to be performed and how few of us are strong characters enough to commence our preparations for Christmas sufficiently in advance to prevent a rush at the end of the season. Oh, yes, I know. This morning you say you certainly are going to start your work next July for the following December. I dislike to say it, but I heard you declare just one year ago today that you were going to do something of the same thing for this year. Did you do it? If so, why was it you were up until almost midnight last Wednesday putting the finishing touches on a number of things to be sent to friends Christmas morning, up when you were so tired, so cross, so nervous that you should have been in a rest sanitarium. It is sweet to remember friends but the thought of those in the midst of many last Wednesday would not have carried out the Christmas spirit, simply because the burden was more than should have been carried.

Still, there is a compensating thought this morning. Just see there is that pretty calendar Mrs. Smith sent you. Wasn't she a dear! Not a scratch of the pen did she put on it. By taking a new date fixing next year and pasting it where the one is for this year, you can pass it along and it will look just like new. One present you will not have to worry about next season. Then there is that dainty little apron, isn't that just too sweet for any use? Dear Mrs. Jones, she is surely a dear, and not even a letter on it to show that she intended it for you. She is really the most considerate woman on earth. By freshening it up a little next year you can pass it along out of town and Mrs. Jones will never know the difference. But I do hope you will not send it to the woman from whom she received it last year. Wouldn't that be a tragedy, though?

So Christmas isn't all that all. Tired as you are, you only look ahead you can find some thing to carry you through these last few days of the morning after.

The old year will soon have passed into history. We part with it as with an old friend, to others sorrow. Yet we are reluctant to say farewell. Like a palsied man it totters as it nears the ends of life's journey and goes forward towards that vast vault wherein doth lie the forms of dead dynasties and sheeted centuries swept by the remorseless hand of time to that great graveyard at the entrance of which rises the imaginary tombstone upon which is inscribed these words: THE PAST. There is a sublime solemnity in the slowly moving, yet never varying tide of years. Man has marked its course into hours, days, weeks, months, years and centuries, yet it rushes on, on, on and still on, utterly unphindful of the puny marks raised to measure the tide that never treads. Dynasties have rose, flourished and decayed; cities have sprung from fertile plains and then sank beneath the desert's drifting sands; continents have reared their lofty brows above the ocean's trackless waste, only to return to the coral caverns from whence they rose; races have risen to the noon of splendor and become lost in the depths of night; but Time, patient, plodding, tireless Time, sweeps on with the same regularity as when it first issued forth from the hollow of God's hand, to the chant of the morning stars that proclaimed Creation's dawn. And yet Time is but the image of eternity, the phanton of a shored sea, the type of a duration for which all the ages past and all the years to come would not make or constitute the first faint flush of the first streak of the dawn of its second morning. "Eternity thou pleasing, dread-ful thought!" That never ending reign succeeding the crash of matter and the wreck of the worlds, suns and systems! Intelligence has achieved triumph! It has read the stars of heaven and can foretell to a second when the great, fiery sun will be hidden in total or partial eclipse; it can read the history of the creation on the rocks of nature and unfold the secrets hidden by God in the bowels of the earth; but when it attempts to grasp the significance of eternity it stands abashed and dumb-founded at its inability to comprehend an infinite plan.

The New York and New Haven road has passed its dividend. The directors have voted that they will not make any payment on dividend account for the present. The history of the road is one of the least creditable in modern railroad. It was once under such control by the legislature which granted the first charter that it was required to pay to the state any excess over 10 per cent of the capital stock.

The line was so prosperous that in order to avoid giving up money to the people, the finest set of stations in the United States was found along the right of way and every small village had a station that was the pride and joy of its people.

But the financier, anxious to exploit a valuable property, came to the control of the New Haven and then it branched out until it not only controlled all the railroad lines into New England, except, perhaps, the Boston and Maine line, which is under control of the New York Central, but it went into the purchase of trolley, steamship lines and whatever else was flying around loose.

Incidentally, the stock was watered prodigiously and enormous commissions were paid to banking houses for conducting the various deals. Presently the collapse came. Mr. Mellon was retired with a gift altogether of about $100,000, most of it said to have been earned but not paid him, and a new president has been in who is expected to reform the property and bring it back to health.

The first thing is to spend the income getting the road into proper condition, instead of having things in such shape as to slaughter passengers every other week, and so on. No other road has earned so ill a name lately as the New Haven for wrecks of a disastrous kind. The passing of the dividend is not so much a sign of disease as really a sign of health.

There is in Washington, D. C., a society with the rather unattractive name of Spug, so that its members are known as "Spugs," devoted to the prevention of Christmas extravagance and useless giving, especially as to Christmas gifts. To many persons Christmas is a burden and not a joy as it should be, through the misuse of the Christmas spirit. Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, the president's eldest daughter, is president of this society, and therefore one of the leaders of a sensible movement in a public way. This society is directed not solely against useless Christmas giving but toward the encouragement of useful, helpful giving, either as individuals or in combination. The rule laid down by Miss Wilson is for each person on or about Christmas day to find some one person and give him or her a happy Christmas. It is not charity half the time to give without investigation. Indiscriminate giving is often more injurious to the recipient than nothing at all. It is an exceedingly difficult thing to bestow charity in a rightful way. The Spug members have been recommended to find some one person worthy of a gift, and then lift the burden for him or her, but only for one day but it is a hard thing to come, whatever that burden may be, as far as possible. No one should give, especially in the joyful season of the year, from a sense of obligation, but only for the joy of giving and to give where giving is needed. I may further add that all this should be done quietly and without ostentation. "Let not thy right hand know what thy left hand doeth."

We are saying "good-bye" to the old year, it is slipping away from us with all its memories, and it wakes a chord of pain in our hearts as we think that it will ere long be a thing of the past; gone forever, with its sunshine and its shadow, its joy and its pain, its many opportunities, employed or disregarded. Gone, and we cannot call it back again, we can only live over again one day that is past, for we again one opportunity that we have allowed to slip by us unheeded. We shall henceforth return no more that way."—Deut. 32:18. But let us remember that there lies before us a new year, fair and spotless, as yet untouched by sin or failure, and glowing with hope and promise. Then let us "go forward" (Ex. 14:15) into the untired future fearless and dauntless, staying our hearts on the grand promise that stands firm and changeless amid all the changing scenes of time. "The Lord, he it is that doth go before thee, he will not fail thee neither forsake thee, fear not, neither be dismayed."—Deut. 31:8. Yes, it is enough, we can go forward fearless and glad with His promise with us, His hand guiding and leading, His strength protecting, and His "welcome home" awaiting us at the journey's end. So we say good-bye to the old year, and enter upon the new, realizing that we are one year "nearer home," and that the hand that has led us all the days of the past will still lead us, until our feet shall stand in safety within "the pearly gates" of the New Jerusalem.

The express companies, which so many people wanted punished because of their high handed tactics, are now suffering to the limit the parcel post being the instrument of retribution. The holiday business of the express companies is nothing to what it has been in years gone by, the better handling and the cheaper rates of the postoffice department winning many people who feel no particular resentment against the arrogant express monopoly.

The express companies will receive very little sympathy from the people of this country and they deserve even less than they will receive.

Woman's Club

Notes From All Departments Of The Sanford Woman's Club

The chairman of the Welfare Department, directed the committee on colored work to have published the following excellent communication which was greatly appreciated:

Sanford, Fla., Dec. 16, 1913.
Mrs. A. E. Phillips, City.

Dear Madam—As per request I am sending this note as a report of our efforts at school and otherwise during Cleaning-Up Week before and after.

It is an established rule at Hoppy Academy that the pupils, both boys and girls clean the grounds twice per week, Tuesdays and Fridays. The principal supervises this work and is assisted by a lady teacher who has the oversight of the girls.

Our grounds were in a very poor condition when we moved into our new building two years ago, and they are not in the best condition as yet. They need clearing of stumps, leveling and draining.

The principal and the boys have from time to time removed a score or more stumps, filled in or drained the most needy places.

In wet weather our grounds are in a very poor condition. Your club could render us some assistance, I believe, by recommending to the proper person, authorities or cities or school board, the draining and clearing up of our ground.

Most of our children have assigned duties at home, the most important of which are yard cleaning, scrubbing and assisting their parents in various ways, especially along sanitary lines. These are performed each week.

Your talk to them the week before cleaning up week I am sure inspired them to the extent that they enlisted in the cause of "Sanford Clean Sanford Beautiful!"

Sanitation is taught in the grades of our school, and special talks are given frequently, covering the same. Special stress is placed upon proper ventilation, cleanliness of person, germ, how they grow, how they are carried, how they enter the body and their awful effects, as well as the effects of alcohol and tobacco.

We appreciate your manifested interest in us. We shall welcome you at any time. Your talk help us so much. Trusting this is sufficient to give you an idea of our efforts along uplifting lines. I am,

Very respectfully yours,
J. N. CROOME
(Principal)

The Music Department of the Woman's Club had its regular meeting Saturday afternoon. The program for the day was well carried out. Mrs. C. C. Gerrard being leader.

Sketches of a few of the American composers were given; Ethelbert Nevin, Mrs. Martin Whiting, Mrs. Geo. Fox, Cecil Lieblich, Miss Chandler, Edward Baxter Perry, Miss Jessie Stojan, Miss Williams played a song of Nedra, "Mighty Lak a Rose." Miss Chandler had a selection of Liebling's "Album Leaf." Duett, William Tell, played by Mrs. Marlowe and Mrs. Butt.

The next meeting of the Music Department will be January 24, 1914. A Happy New Year.

Pushing Powell in Tampa

W. B. Powell, secretary of the Columbus, Ga., Board of Trade, who until recently held a similar position on the Tampa Board of Trade, is again in the city, having arrived yesterday and will spend the next fortnight greeting old friends and discussing the gospel of boost. Mr. Powell's many friends over South Florida will be glad to know that he is more than making good at his new post.

Mr. Powell's reputation as a public man has brought him a highly complimentary notice in the current issue of Leah's Weekly, which, however, refers to Mr. Powell as still in Tampa. Leah's says:

"Lucky is the Board of Trade that has a philosopher as well as a town booster for its secretary. The Board of Trade of Tampa, Florida is fortunate in having such a secretary in Mr. Willis Powell. Here are some of Mr. Powell's pithy sayings:

"Our town is all right since the knockers have left."
"An ounce of City Hustle is worth a pound of luck."
"There should be the Initiative, referendum and recall of the town knocker."
"Don't do things on too small a scale. An umbrella is a shelter for one and a shower bath for two."
"There are lots of men in this town who would not have climbed the ladder of successful business if the Board of Trade had not steadied the ladder."
"This is good doctrine. It breathes the right spirit. It sounds the note for prosperity and against the muck raker for the 'town knocker' to whom Mr. Powell refers is only a local type of the muck raker. Any town will boom that has a Board of Trade animated by the spirit suggested in the quotations above."

NEIGHBORING CITIES TO VISIT SANFORD AND SEMINOLE COUNTY

OUR IMPROVEMENTS TO BE INSPECTED BY THEM NEXT WEEK IS THE TIME

OTHER COUNTIES ARE FORMING TRIPS TO GET DATA ON ROAD BUILDING

The many improvements being made in Sanford and Seminole county are opening the eyes of the other counties and many parties are being made to visit this county and inspect the brick roads and the city of Sanford.

A party of DeLand city officials, business and professional men will visit Sanford, Orlando and Sanford on next Thursday.

The itinerary—Leave DeLand 7 a. m., cross St. Johns at Crows Bluff; arrive Sanford about 9:30 a. m.; spend one hour in Sanford; arrive Orlando at noon; dinner and drive around town; arrive Sanford 3:30 to 4:00 p. m.; spend an hour in Sanford, and return home at 6 or 7 p. m.

About a dozen autos have already been pledged to make the trip, the weather being good. Plenty of accommodations for those who have no machines of their own.

It is to be a stag party, kind of a "for your neighbors" affair. Anyone who has not yet been seen may obtain further information by calling up S. D. Jones or Charlie O. Condrington.

Sanford has recently voted $500,000 bonds which will be spent upon the construction of macadam roads. At least a sample of this road has been in place a little over a year, and the road shows very much pleased with it.

There is a sand-clay road between Sanford and Orlando.

At Orlando, a bond issue has resulted in a new sewerage system and brick streets. Orange county has recently bonded for $600,000 for road construction.

Sanford has brick streets. Seminole county has bonded for $200,000 and is now receiving material for the construction of about 50 miles of brick roads.

There is a lot to see in other towns. Come and join the party.

Michigan Celery Slow

As a result of the severely mild weather here this fall the celery crop in this vicinity has been seriously damaged, and only about one-fourth of the crop will be available for market. The warm spell caused the celery to ripen all at once, and consequently farmers were unable to harvest it before it became top ripe.

The celery becoming overripe, rot has set in on a good portion of the acreage, making it necessary to simply plow the crop under. Instead of shipping celery up to March this year local shippers declare the season will be over in a few weeks.

It is not known whether other sections of Michigan are similarly affected, but inasmuch as they are generally subject to the same conditions as prevail in this district, it is thought that such may be the case. According to local growers who have canvassed the situation, the damage has affected all the late celery points between here and Holland, Mich., and also the Grand Haven location.

Norman Field Returning

The Norman Field Players will be the attraction at the Imperial Theatre all next week with the exception of Tuesday.

This company was very popular when here before and we are informed that the company has been considerably improved since their last appearance here. Mr. Field has secured a number of late New York successes to enlarge his already extensive repertoire and a number of new names are in the cast.

The opening play will be "The Village Parson." Popular types will prevail throughout the week.

Card of Thanks We wish to thank all kind friends for their sympathy, assistance and floral offerings during the recent illness and death of our son.

O. J. Pope and Family.

EAGLES MASQUE BALL

ONE OF THE LARGEST AND BEST SOCIAL AFFAIRS OF SEASON

ROOMS WERE CROWDED WITH GAY THROG OF MASKERS WHO WATCHED OLD YEAR OUT

The Celery City Aerie 1854, Fraternal Order of Eagles entertained their members and their friends at a grand masquerade ball on New Year's eve at the Eagles' Hall. The Eagles never believe in doing things by halves and in making preparations for this their first grand masquerade ball every energy was spent toward making it the largest social function that has ever been held in this city.

Preparations of the most elaborate kind have been going on for weeks and the culmination of the affair on Wednesday evening was a grand success from start to finish, which no doubt was gratifying to the excellent committee who had things in hand. The program was handsome booklet that bore the season's greetings and a number of excellent and appropriate mottoes that the Eagles have adopted. The Eagles' home is in the Pico building and for this special occasion several of the other rooms were opened up and used by the Eagles to accommodate their large number of guests.

The decorations were most elaborate and showed much skill and thought on the works in hand. There were two ball rooms, the rotunda being one and the lodge room the other. There were rooms for the children, smoking room, cloak room and dressing rooms for the ladies, all of which were tastefully decorated with palms and flowers and Spanish moss. The ladies' parlor, which is a permanent feature of the lodge is handsomely furnished and for the evening was attractively decorated with ferns and cut flowers, pink roses and red geraniums predominating. The table in the dining room from which the refreshments were served was beautifully adorned with star jasmine, roses and nasturtiums. The rotunda was perhaps the most elaborately decorated of any part of the building. From the center of the ceiling a large U. S. flag was draped and a huge red Christmas bell suspended. The streamers of red, white and blue alternating with gray Spanish moss that almost covered the walls made the whole of a very pictureous one. The lights were red, white and blue, carrying out the Eagles' colors.

The front of the vaudeville stage was draped with moss and red, white and blue bunting and quantities of flowers, the club's emblem occupying a most conspicuous place at the front of the stage. The arch was covered with palms and star jasmine. Here the Bushnell orchestra from DeLand was seated and furnished the inspiring music to which the throngs of happy people happily danced. The other ball room was equally as popular and the Stinson family band played while the dance went on until well into the new year and every one declared they had had the time of their lives. A special vote of thanks was tendered to those who made the dance a grand success. The names of the committees as appointed were as follows:

General Chairman—Aurel Dörner.

Press Chairman—A. V. French, Assistant, Osborne Herndon.

Floor Committee—Dave Adams, chairman; W. H. Wright, Dr. J. N. Robson, J. H. Overman, E. H. Bennett, J. F. Hickson, J. C. Harris and Wesley W. Frye.

Reception Committee, Geo. S. Arnett, chairman; A. J. Minton, D. B. Allen, Ed Nelson and Joe Fernandez.

Decoration Committee, W. H. Howell, chairman; A. J. Bolton and W. R. Pell, assistant chairmen; A. Cruise, E. F. Marrero, E. S. Jones, Geo. Walters and E. H. Butler.

Finance Committee, V. S. Arnett, chairman; assistant, Theo. Schaal.

Advisory Committee, C. H. Walsh, chairman; J. T. Hoolehan, assistant.

Ladies' Committee, Mrs. C. H. Walsh, chairman; Mrs. Aurel Dörner, assistant; Mrs. J. F. Hoolehan, Mrs. W. H. Wright, Mrs. E. M. Howard, Mrs. J. P. Butler, Mrs. W. W. Frye, Mrs. J. D. Davison.

FIRST AIRSHIP LINE STARTS IN FLORIDA AT ST. PETERSBURG

SUNSHINE CITY MAKES RECORD FOR THE WHOLE WORLD

TAMPA-ST. PETERSBURG

OTHER ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE LAND OF FLOWERS IN TABLOID FORM

St. Petersburg, Jan. 2.—The big event of the first day of the new year was the formal opening of the all-air line to Tampa. Tony Jannus, who piloted the air boat on its run was busy most of today getting his boat in shape for the trip. The boat was unloaded from the car on the Atlantic Coast line this morning and the work of setting it up was started. The only thing to try out the boat and get it from the Atlantic Coast Line pier to the hangar on the north breakwater at the entrance to the yacht basin. Jannus showed that the boat is all right and he says everything promises a satisfactory first day tomorrow. The boat will leave for Tampa at 10 a. m. and will return after a few minutes in the clear city. The boat received here carries only one passenger but it is expected to have, for the regular run a boat carrying four passengers besides the pilot. The company operating the line has had time cards printed, just like regular boats or railroads and these are the first time cards for air-travel ever printed anywhere in the world. The schedule calls for two trips a day to Tampa but later more trips will be made. Baggage is taken at a charge in addition to the passenger. Special trips will be arranged and the company advertises to take passengers as high in the air as they care to go. Jannus says he has been up to 2,000 feet in an air-boat but can go 10,000 feet if he chooses.

With the opening of the Ponce de Leon Hotel in St. Augustine next week all of the tourist hotels of the Ancient City will be in operation and entertaining guests from all sections of the country.

Judge Martin is still issuing permits to those who are a little late in the season, and cannot stem the desire to stalk forth in search of game that has by this time been forced back into the swamps. Nearly every winter complains that no game worth mentioning can be had without going some distance into the swamps and marshes, and not many of the Nimrod cars to penetrate the fastnesses of a Florida swamp, hence the small amount of game being killed this season.—Orlando Reporter-Star.

An editorial appearing in the Times-Union recently concerning the growth of Florida towns unintentionally does not give Orlando justice. The attention of Mayor Reynolds was called to the article and he said: "Why the census taken in Orlando two years ago showed the town to have several hundred over seven thousand population, and I should say that the population had increased a thousand since then. The population must be easily 8,000, possibly more." The tendency in the past has been to underestimate rather than exaggerate Orlando, but it is time to call for justice at least.

Supporters of the saloon and its friends in Pinellas county have announced their intention to abandon all attempts to re-open saloons in this county pending the wet or dry election which is to be held February 2nd, and to enter the campaign to carry the county wet, making their fight openly before the people. This course of action has been decided upon absolutely so that saloons will not be open in Pinellas county under two or three months yet at the least. Both sides of the issue are making plans to conduct one of the hottest campaigns during the next few weeks that has ever been seen in the county.

Norman Field at the Imperial Next Week

The theatre-going public of the city will no doubt be interested to learn that the Norman Field Players will appear at the Imperial next week.

Mr. Field has acquired an enviable reputation as a leading man everywhere this popular company has played, and we are glad to announce that "Happy Jack" Kearney is still with the company.

Eastern Star Install Officers

It is the custom of the order of the Eastern Star to install officers on or before John-the-Evangelist Day, which is Dec. 27th. Friday evening being the regular meeting of Seminole Chapter they met at Masonic Hall at 7:30 and installed the officers elect for the year 1914. The installation ceremony is very beautiful and impressive. The officers are: Worthy Matron, Mrs. J. D. Parker; Worthy Patron, C. F. Haskins; Associate Matron, Loretta Brotherton; Conductress, Mrs. Bertha Jenkins; The Star Points are Miss Mary and Carrie Ensminger, Mrs. Renfro, Norwood and Fox; Secretary, Mrs. Robbins; Treasurer, Mrs. Cox; Organist, Mrs. Bryan; Chaplain, Mrs. Ensminger; Warden and Sentinel, Mr. Rabun; Marshal, Manie B. Griffin. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Parker and Robbins and a social time was spent and plans discussed as to the best way to entertain Grand Chapter, which will meet with us on the second Wednesday in April.

Serious Accident Averted

What might have been a serious accident was narrowly averted on Wednesday afternoon on Magnolia avenue. Mrs. G. C. Herring, wife of our esteemed county judge and little daughter, Elinor, were driving their horse around the corner of First and Magnolia avenue, when one of the wheels of the phaeton dropped off driving a shaft against the side of the horse with such force that he became frightened and started up the street with Mrs. Herring and Elinor caught in the canopy top and unable to extricate themselves. Ladies who saw the accident turned their heads away and almost fainted while the men hastened to catch the horse and assist the ladies from their perilous situation. Elinor and her mother miraculously escaped with a few bruises but the shock to Mrs. Herring made her very weak and she was taken to her home on the Heights. She is improved at this writing and her many friends are glad to learn that no serious consequences will follow.

Morris Spencer and Joe Miot Hosts

One of the many pleasant occasions marking the close of the old year was a chicken pillow party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Miot on Sanford Heights Wednesday evening, Dec. 31st, from 7:30 to 11, at which Joe Miot and Morris Spencer were the hosts. Chicken pillow, bread and butter sandwiches, pickles and oranges were served. Many out door games were played, after which the party adjourned to the parlors where they had music and parlor games. Those who were fortunate to attend were Misses Eleanor and Ruth Roberts, Helen and Ruth Hand, Katherine and Esther Wilson, Marian and Hazel Packard, Gene and Annie Mae Post, Bertha Packard, Agnes Rotham, Ruth McDannel, Carolyn, Lillie Ruth and Emma Spencer and Maud Miot. Meats, Alfred Robson, Douglas Griffin, Francis Bell, Collier Brown, John Murrell, Percy Packard, Lloyd Brown, G. W. Spencer, Lafayette Tillis, Maurice Miot, William Pope, Morris Spencer and Joe Miot. The party was chaperoned by Misses Lola and Nellie Evans.

In Honor of Miss Underwood

Among the many social affairs given on Christmas day was a delightful dance in the Woman's Club rooms with Miss Anna McLaughlin and Miss Gladys Morris as the hostesses and Miss Kate Underwood who is home for the holidays from the Woman's College in Tallahassee, as the pretty honoree. Mrs. C. O. McLaughlin was the chaperone of the evening. The rooms were decorated in the Christmas colors, and one of the attractive features was the favor dances. At the base of the Christmas tree were favors tied with ribbons with the names of the girls attached to them. The gentlemen drew the ribbons and secured the favor and the name of his partner for the dance. The two hostesses and the guest of honor wore beautiful gowns of pink crepe de chine. Punch was served throughout the evening. Those present were Misses Kate Underwood, Charlotte Hand, Margaret Wight, Hoskins Jones, Gladys Morris, Anna McLaughlin, Helen Rowland, Elizabeth McLaughlin, Sadie Williams, Linda Connelly, Momi, Gene Rounilist, Billy Hill, Geo. McLaughlin, Pope Wicker, Henry Purdon, Willie Shelly Ned, Roy and Joe Chittenden, McDowell Butt, Frankie Woodruff, Paul Jones and Dr. and Mrs. Cecil Butt.

SHAKE UP OF OFFICIALS FOLLOWS ADVENT OF MAYOR

NEW YORK CITY WILL HAVE A GENTLE UPHEAVAL

POLICE FIRST TO SUFFER

OTHER NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BROKEN DOSES FOR BUSY READERS

John Purroy Mitchel, elected mayor on the Fusion ticket will take office at noon tomorrow, succeeding Adolph L. Kline, who assured the mayorality when William J. Gaynor died on board ship last September. A police upheaval marked the closing hours of the administration. Mayor Kline removed Rhineland Waldo, Police Commissioner, declaring him insubordinate for resigning after accepting the resignation of his deputies. Waldo's action, it was pointed out, would have left the police without a civilian head on New Year's eve when the closest supervision of the department was requested. The mayor appointed First Deputy McKay Commissioner to serve until Mr. Mitchell selects a permanent police head. Robert Adamson, secretary to Mayor Gaynor and Kline and manager of the Fusion campaign was appointed Fire Commissioner. Mayor Kline elected to the board of aldermen in November was appointed tax commissioner of Brooklyn.

Should the nation again go to war the southern states would be called upon to furnish more than their share of the supply of explosives and ammunition according to George E. Monroe, a professor of Georgetown University, who addressed the National Association for the advancement of science here to-night. Recounting the difficulties encountered by the states of the Confederacy in supplying their armies with proper munitions during the war between the states the speaker pointed out that the rapid advancement of its chemical and mechanical industries in the last half century had placed the south on a par with any section of the world with this regard.

Florida, fortunately for the travelling public, has established a system of hotel inspections, and, judging by the reports the inspector is putting out, he evidently intends to follow the good work started by Louisiana. This Florida inspector or hotel commissioner, as he is known, is publishing in the papers of the state brief descriptions of the conditions of every boarding house and hotel investigated. His language is very plain. For instance, reporting on a hotel in central Florida, he gives the name and location and says: "This little building needs cleaning up; kitchen dirty and filthy; notice given for a general cleaning up. On another at a resort point he writes: "Dining room floors and tables fairly clean; floor abundant; general condition fair only; toilet very bad." Of other hotels where conditions were found to be all right his commendations are as strong as are his criticisms of the bad ones.

Reports such as these furnished to the newspapers of the state and published by them practically force every badly kept hotel in the state to quit business or to improve its condition. May the day soon come when every state in the country will have a similar law and have a commission equally as rigid in his inspection and equally fearless in making his reports, and newspapers ready to publish all the reports made by the hotel inspector of the state.—Manufacturers' Record.

Desperate Negro Again

The shooting Sunday of Deputy Sheriff John Witty of Ocoee by a desperate negro criminal known as "Crip," has held the country in that neighborhood and Winter Garden in a spell of terror for the past two days. The negro is a refugee from Seminole county, where he has committed a series of crimes, most of them being burglaries and simple thefts, but several times he has shot his way out when the officers had him at bay. This occurred Sunday, when Deputy John Witty of Ocoee and Deputy W. H. Bell of Winter Garden caught the negro in a room in the latter neighborhood. They were about to arrest him when the desperado began shooting, one of the balls striking Witty in the arm and causing him to drop. Deputy Bell took a couple of shots at the negro and shot one of his thumbs off. Sheriff Frank Gordon hurried out to the scene and found several hundred people, all of them armed who could get anything with which to shoot, on the lookout for the refugee. The officers trailed him in the direction of Apopka and back to Claiborne, and he is supposed to be in that neighborhood now, unless he was captured some time during the night. Sheriff Gordon says it is an easy matter to track the negro because of his lame leg, but he has been remarkably successful in eluding the officers. Sheriff Hand of Seminole county took part in the chase. Deputy Witty was fortunately not seriously hurt, and his wound, while painful, is being well cared for.—Orlando Sentinel.

Congregational Church

The Christmas service, "White Gifts for the King" was nicely rendered Christmas evening, a large audience being in attendance. The music by the choir, Mrs. Barnes' reading from Alice Hegan Rice, the Living Christmas Tree were all enjoyed by the people. Though this was the first time a "giving Christmas" was observed with us, yet it proved a gracious change and all were very much pleased. Owing to the absence of several of our S. S. scholars last Sunday the attendance fell off two or three, but there were a number of new ones. Let us, the next three or four weeks give a persistent shove to the membership and keep it growing. The regular communion service is to be held next Sunday morning and several will unite with the church; all members are specially urged to be present at this service. In the evening next Sunday, 7 o'clock, "Some Ideals for a Happy New Year" will be the subject for consideration. Mr. Woodruff promises some special New Year music. All are cordially invited. The members and friends are especially urged to plan to attend the annual church meeting to be held next Wednesday night at 7 o'clock. The regular business and a good social hour are the order of the evening.

GOOD HOTELS NECESSARY

FIRST IMPRESSIONS GAINED FROM QUALITY OF HOTELS

CITY IS JUDGED BY HOSTELRIES AND BAD HOTELS KILL A GOOD TOWN

Mr. LaBaume of the Norfolk and Western Railroad, a very active worker in behalf of good hotels, has sent out broadcast a circular headed, "Our Town's Best Hotel," in the course of which, among other things he says: "Every city that lacks adequate hotel accommodations pays a bigger penalty for this discourtesy to the travelling public than he realizes. 'The town cannot be much better than its best hotel. Even if it is better, the travelling public won't believe it. 'Our town should treat its visitors with the same hospitality that we citizens show in our own homes. We give of our best to our 'company' our best feed, best bed, best accommodations. We don 'company clothes' and 'company manners.' We strive to 'put our best foot forward.' 'The town is the host of the travelling public. Strangers visiting our town on pleasure or business are 'company.' They judge our town as they would judge four homes—by what they see—and the manner in which they are treated! And they see the hotels first, last and all the time. Their strongest impressions are apt to be received from the hotels. 'The business of entertaining the public is not a strictly private affair. It should not be left wholly to individual enterprise; surely not to individual lethargy.' Florida, fortunately for the travelling public, has established a system of hotel inspections, and, judging by the reports the inspector is putting out, he evidently intends to follow the good work started by Louisiana. This Florida inspector or hotel commissioner, as he is known, is publishing in the papers of the state brief descriptions of the conditions of every boarding house and hotel investigated. Published Every Tuesday and Friday Morning by THE HERALD PRINTING COMPANY R. J. HOLLY, Editor W. M. HAYNES, Business Manager

Brick is being hauled and put in position on the streets of Sanford for the paving which is to be laid.—Wauvhula Advocate.

Not on the streets of Sanford, dear George, but upon the country roads of the Sanford special road district.

The Sanford Herald printed a fine holiday or booster edition. Five thousand copies were printed and sent north. What the new county of Seminole ought to do is to subscribe for a thousand copies of The Herald for a year and send them north to prospective settlers. Then you'll get 'em.—Winter Garden Times.

IT HITS HOME

The following from the Gainesville Sun has something of a local application—but we modestly refrain from giving specific instances. Very often, those who cry loudest about the sending of the dollar away are the slowest to produce the dollar which will keep other dollars at home. Tampa has made an enviable record the past year in patronizing home industries, but it has been done largely because of the fact that some local merchants have told local buyers what they had to sell through the medium of local papers.

Anyhow, here's what the Gainesville paper says:

As a general thing those merchants who complain most of people buying goods away from home, are the ones who advertise least in the local newspapers. Business men who let the buying public know that they have goods for sale at reasonable prices as a rule have no reason to complain of lack of patronage. The fact that the leading dry goods houses of Gainesville are very good advertisers in the Sun accounts for few orders being sent elsewhere for articles they carry. Everything needed can be bought in this city as cheap, counting quality, etc., as you can get the goods from abroad, but people should not be censured for patronizing the mail order houses if their own merchants do not let them know that they can be served just as cheap at home.—Tampa Tribune.

PRESS IS IMPROVING

The Tampa Times thinks it would be a good idea for some of the newspapers in Florida to turn over a new leaf and stop snapping and snarling at each other and saying those mean things which have no interest for the reader who pays to get something better. The suggestion is a good one, but really there is very little of the kind of backbiting, provincial journalism now indulged in by the press of Florida. A generation ago the way editors abused each other was something awful, but their preposterous egos have gradually subsided into a more personal journalism in the vast betterment of their papers from every point of view.

In the early days of journalism editors should have been of sight in a succeeding state of evolution; they assaulted one another with knives, sticks and fists, coming on higher they resorted to hot epithets in cold type and let it go at that, and now since subscriptions are no longer paid in cabbage and cordwood and editorial pessimism has fallen off accordingly, peace broods like a dove over the once warring fraternity; the editors generally respect and sometimes love each other and the whole tone and temper of the newspapers have been wonderfully improved.

Nothing shows the magic touch of modern progress more than the modern newspaper, and a man no longer needs to be a bully and a gun fighter to be an able editor.—Lakeland Telegram.

A FINE BOOKLET

George Goolsby of the Wauvhula Advocate has broken all precedents and prints a booklet about his office which he calls the "Home of Good Printing" and it is a work of art in every way. The various pages with a bit of good subject matter about printing are embellished by cuts of the printing office at various angles and we do not believe George missed an angle and the only view he escaped was one taken from an airship which he expects to get later. The other printers of Florida will all want to go to Wauvhula and build a printing office on the "bungalow" ballyhoo style. The booklet states that the building is of the Stucco style, which is probably a close second to the Italian Renaissance. And another thing George Goolsby does in the booklet that should receive the censure of the State gang and that is showing the office force picking oranges in the grove and fishing in the fish pool in the yard of the office and whoever heard of a printer picking oranges out of the window or fishing?

Our printers have already threatened to strike unless we could furnish an orange grove and fish pond at the office window and also make the office bungalow style so that they could lounge around the front porch just like the Wauvhula printers are seen in the pictures. However, the booklet issued by the Advocate is one of the neatest and best typographically and artistically that has ever left a press in the state and Goolsby and all his force deserve special mention for same. Many the Advocate continue to prosper until the editor can afford to go to Pass-a-Grille every summer.

THE STATE OF FLORIDA

That Florida is something more than a mere winter resort, and that there are many things that entitle her to take rank with the other states and even outstrip many, is shown by the following interesting compilation, reproduced from the Industrial Index published at Columbus, Ga.:

"If, perchance there may be those who yet regard the state of Florida as largely a commonwealth of winter tourists, early vegetables and citrus fruits, there is much that they might learn regarding it."

"Tourists in great numbers visit Florida in the winter and enjoy there a climate that has no superior in this country—and the comfort of modern hotels. Moreover, becoming informed personally as to Florida resources, many of these winter residents make investments of large sums, and thus in two ways aid in the development of the state. The citrus fruits and early vegetables are sold for millions of dollars annually, but Florida has many other resources."

"Florida's cigar industry yields millions annually. Florida produces the highest grade and most expensive tobacco for wrappers that is grown in the United States, some of the lands on which it is grown being worth $1,000 and more an acre."

"Florida produces annually an average of 65,000 bales of Sea Island cotton of as fine a grade as is grown."

"More than 5,000,000 worth of fish are shipped out of Florida every year."

"Florida is declared the greatest cattle raising state east of the Mississippi river."

"Florida produces the finest sponge marketed from the western hemisphere, thousands of people being engaged in the industry."

"Florida produces a large percentage of the world's supply of phosphate, the annual output of one county alone being worth approximately $50,000,000."

"Florida produces a greater quantity of turpentine and resin than any equal amount of territory in the world, these two products being worth about $15,000,000 annually to the state."

"Florida is a great lumber manufacturing state, and is said to have more virgin standing timber than any state east of the Rocky Mountains and possibly in the country. It has more than one hundred varieties of trees."

"The state has some of the most extensive apiculture in the country, shipping honey by the steamer and carload."

"Florida is rapidly becoming a great peach growing state."

"These are some of the things that Florida has done and is doing. It has room for a great many more citizens to whom the possibilities for prosperity would open."

"In the decade from 1900 to 1910 the population of Florida increased by 42.1 per cent. The increase in the United States as a whole for the same period was 21 per cent."

"More people are going to Florida now to live than ever before in the history of that state."

MORE ORANGE GROVES

Braxton Beacham Faith in Oranges and Seminole County

Paul Biggers spent the holidays with home folks here and in a conversation with The Herald representative remarked that Seminole county now contained or would soon contain some of the finest orange groves in the state. Paul is now engaged at Forest City looking after the large grove interests of Hon Braxton Beacham, the man who has taken such an active part in the development of this section of Florida and one of the most prominent and willing workers in the good roads agitation in Florida. Forest City is in Seminole county and is one of the prettiest and finest orange sections of the state. Mr. Beacham has an abounding faith in Florida and orange groves in particular and is purchasing more lands and setting out more groves. Beacham's faith in his state is shown by his work. The Orlando Sentinel has the following regarding Mr. Beacham:

"When an experienced citrus fruit grower and a shrewd business man like Braxton Beacham extends his holdings by investing his surplus in more citrus groves it may be taken as a good indication that he considers the investment gilt edge. Mr. Beacham is now preparing eighty acres of land to be set to grapefruit in January. He is making this investment for his son, B. Beacham, Jr. The land which is being cleared and put in condition for planting is of the high pine kind, and is located at Forest City. At Apopka Mr. Beacham will add twenty-five or thirty acres to his grove at that place, and the new groves will be set in Valencia. Mr. Beacham has at this time about 175 acres of citrus fruit trees in bearing. When the new groves come in he will have over 300 acres of bearing trees, and will be easily one of the largest owners of citrus fruit property in the state. He already owns some of the finest property of this kind to be found anywhere, and the product of his orchards command top prices."

CELERY GROWERS CAUTIONED

Warned Against Shipping Product Before It is Mature

Celery growers are warned against shipping celery before it is ready for the market, as has been done in previous years by growers who were so eager to get the first cars on the market that they discarded the fact that their celery was not half bleached and unfit for consumption. Such idiotic motives displayed by ever zealous growers is the cause of the market being dull at the opening of the Florida celery season. Why not let your celery remain in the field until it is matured and properly bleached? Then when it is placed on the market the trade will be attracted by its superior quality and a demand will thus be created for the goods.

It should be remembered that the consumers do not want half bleached yellow stock, and such is neglected by the buyers. The receivers are forced to sacrifice it to get rid of it, and the shipper is dissatisfied with the sale when the fault is all his own. The growers should bear in mind that California is still shipping good stock, and New York state celery is fancy and a good supply still in sight. Do not be in a hurry to move your celery. If growers will heed this advice they will find at the end of the season that their profits will be greatly increased.—Produce News.

Lakeland Celebrates

Lakeland celebrated the thirtieth anniversary yesterday and big parades, carnivals, barbecues and other attractions furnished the crowds with New Year cheer. Lakeland is one of the fastest growing cities in the state and can well be proud of her record. Not only is Lakeland one of the business cities but it has one of the finest hotels in Florida, recently erected by the Kibler Bros., and this adds to the attractions of the city and will help Lakeland grow.

Christmas Entertainment

The Christmas celebration for the Sunday school of the Church of the Holy Cross was held at the residence of Mrs. C. M. Hand on Park avenue Friday night. Mr. B. F. Whitner, superintendent of the Sunday school led the opening service, followed by appropriate remarks by the rector, Rev. A. F. Peck. A special feature of the evening's entertainment was the Christmas play given by the members of the Junior Auxiliary under the direction of Mrs. B. F. Whitner. Two members of the Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrew were also in the cast. Sidney Chapp made a merry old Santa Claus while Fannie Reba Manson was the lovable Mrs. Santa Claus. Hawkins Connolly took the part of the postman who visited the merry couple on his route to the North Pole, and Francis Gonzales played the role of mother of the four mischievous children who were represented by Norma Herndon, Serita Lake, Esther Miller and Dorothy Humph and Ruth McDaniel acted the part of the president of the Junior Auxiliary children of the play. In the last scene of all the members of the Junior Auxiliary formed a star with a wide band of red crepe paper and held tiny lighted candles in their hands, making a very pretty picture.

The children were then admitted to the room where a beautiful tree, illumined with many colored electric lights and hung with lovely ornaments and presents was the principal attraction. Mr. Whitner, assisted by members of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew distributed the presents and boxes of candy to the children and teachers. Each child had been requested to bring some present of their own to put in a box. This box will later be sent to a mission school. This concluded a very pleasant evening.

"Bought and Paid For"

George H. Broadhurst cast aside all stage conventions when he wrote "Bought and Paid For" which will appear at the Imperial Theatre next Tuesday night only, coming from William A. Brady's Playhouse, New York, where it has been the dramatic sensation of present day theatricals. The story is one that grips and holds to the pulsation of the heart, as we see it from the fall to the rise of the curtain. The incidents and happenings are such that every husband and wife will draw a lesson from it. Mr. Broadhurst has imbued into his story a new vein of comedy that is really delightful and is bound to leave a lasting impression upon the mind of every auditor. The cast in production come here under the personal direction of William A. Brady, who has spared no expense in sending to this city the complete Playhouse production and a very strong cast. Seats are selling fast. Secure yours now.

Complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Brown. Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock at their attractive home on Elm avenue Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lilia, charmingly entertained a few friends at an informal dinner, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Brown of Smithburg, Md. who are house guests of their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Brown of this city.

The living room and dining room adjoining were beautifully decorated for the occasion with quantities of red roses, and vines gracefully combined with a profusion of feathery fern. The table was perfectly appointed and places laid for ten. The centerpiece was a pretty arrangement of red geraniums and the dainty place cards, decorated with red and green baby ribbons, the color motif, and bore the date and name of the guests.

While the delicious course dinner was being served, Mrs. Jewell Wells, a very talented and accomplished musician furnished a choice selection of music at the piano. The big 40th honorees' 40th anniversary of the marriage no pains were spared in making the occasion a pleasant one. Those invited to enjoy the dinner with host and hostess and charming honorees were Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Holly, Mr. and Mrs. William Parker, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Brown and Mrs. Jewell Wells of Orlando.

Mrs. K. C. Waldron, Mrs. A. C. Cruse, Mrs. J. C. Harris, Mrs. C. M. Hardy, Miss Nelson and Mrs. J. E. Blerit.

The costumes of the ladies and gentlemen present were of great variety and some were very handsome but lack of space prevents a special mention of all. Among those present were Mrs. V. S. Arnett, whose unique costumes attracted considerable attention. It was made entirely of Sanford Herald's.

A front panel down the front of the skirt was made of the headings of the paper and the rest of the dress was made of row after row of fringes cut from paper. She wore a gilt cap with the head band lettered Sanford Herald, and her bouquet was the present edition of the paper. Mrs. E. M. Howard wore blue brocaded silk; Miss Frankie Howard, blue charmeuse, with trimmings of white lace; Mrs. William Leavitt wore lavender silk; Miss Frances a white Grecian costume. Mrs. S. Runge was handsomely gowned in blue brocaded silk, trimmed with red and gold; Mrs. Hal Colbert wore black velvet; Miss Mabel Cowan blue velvet; Mrs. James Cowan, tan messaline; Miss Margaret White, red satin with silver trimmings; Mrs. Daisy Tremaine, blue voile, pearl trimmings; Miss Jessie Stumon, yellow crepe de chine; Mrs. E. The registration books of Precincts 1 and 3 will be open in the Tax Collector's office in court house, beginning Monday, January 5th and continuing each business day until first Monday-in-March.

Notice. The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Seminole County Bank of Sanford, Florida will be held at the bank on Thursday, January 8th, 1914, at 7:30 p. m. for the purpose of election of a board of directors and any other matters that may come before the meeting. A. R. KEY, Cashier.

FOR SALE. Nice Residence, Hot and Cold water, Bath, Gas, Garage, and cement walks are paid for. Within half block paved street. BOX 247 - SANFORD, FLA.

Shepherd of the Hills. The Shepherd of the Hills at the Imperial last night was one of the best plays ever presented here this season and was highly commended to the people of this section of being well worth the money. The characters are all good and the stage effects were excellent considering the fact that it could not be used in a larger hall. The Shepherd of the Hills is well praised by the dramatic critic of the Herald.

Something New at Yowell's. A Dress Form of your own figure—based on the body and is therefore absolutely correct.

Items of invaluable help to women who do their own sewing. An entire garment from top of collar to hem of skirt can be fitted without once trying it on. It does away with the drudgery of home dressmaking. Women who dread the tedious trying on at dressmakers avoid all this by having their own figure moulded and sending it to their dressmaker. Miss Virginia Smith, who lives on Ninth street and Laurel avenue is now prepared to make these forms and will be glad to mould your figure. Call and see her.

Seminole Tennis Tournament. The tennis tournament for the championship of Seminole county, which was postponed from Christmas day on account of rain was played yesterday on the park court. Some very interesting matches were played, and several of them were close and exciting. There were nine contestants entered and keen friendly rivalry was manifested in every match. Playing began at 8:30 and continued until dark.

Round Fox vs. Wyatt, 7-5, 6-1. Second Round: Deas vs. Wright, 2-6, 9-7, 2-0. Fox vs. Yonts, 6-0; 6-0. Eulston vs. Smith, 6-9; 9-7, 6-4. Wildman vs. Hyman, 6-3; 6-1. Third Round: Fox vs. Deas, 6-1; 2-1. Wildman vs. Paleston, 6-1, 6-4. Deas, Wildman vs. Fox, 1-6; 7-5. The finals were not completed owing to darkness. This match will be played off at an early date.

Public Challenge Sale. It is hardly necessary to call attention of the readers to the Big Sale of the D. A. Caldwell Department Store as it occupies top full page of this issue and 10000 bills have been printed and scattered all over the counties. The sale will continue ten days and will include the entire stock of the famous goods. It sounds strange for this interesting item to be expiring a ten day sale for they take a page in every Friday's issue of The Herald by call attention to their regular Monday's sales, but in order to continue the bargain during for a longer period and to clear out their fall and winter goods and make room for car loads of Spring and summer goods the Caldwell store is putting on a sale that will awaken the people of this part of Florida to the possibilities of trading in Sanford at 25c.

Christmas Entertainment. The Christmas entertainment at the court house last Friday night was a very enjoyable one by the children as well as the grown folks. The proverbial Christmas tree was discarded this year and Santa Claus was on hand with T. K. Hildebrand in the title role and distributed presents for young and old with lavish hand. In company with the red cheas the Præstorian Sunday school has started a new departure in entertainments and the idea is a good one. The Sabbath school observed Christmas last Sunday and the entire program was carried out with regulations, songs and music and the present giving and other forms of amusement were reserved for Tuesday night and the children enjoyed the occasion to a greater degree than if they were burdened with the regulations and song recitals that mark the ordinary Christmas tree entertainments. The Santa was just as jolly as Tuesday night he would be with a tree and his gifts were given with a lavish hand. After the presents had been distributed games and other forms of amusement were indulged in and the evening was voted one of the most pleasant of the year. This form of Christmas entertainment will probably be adopted in the near future by all the churches as giving the children and the parents a better opportunity of enjoying the holiday season.

HE TOOK THE RISK

By FLORENCE HENDERSON.

"It's a risky thing to ask you to do," spoke the chief clerk of the Empire National bank.

"I'm willing to take the risk," smiled Gerald Alling quietly, "for two reasons."

"Would it be impudent for me to ask what those reasons might be?"

"You are so good a friend," replied Alling promptly, "that I am glad to tell you. First reason: I shall with delight vary my humdrum work of counting money in a serried way. Second reason: I am in love with Mr. Ward's daughter, Lucy, and I would like to make a good impression on her father, who, to tell the truth, rather frowns on my matrimonial aspirations."

"Very good," laughed the chief clerk. "I hope this new experience will lead to a consummation of your wishes all around."

Young Alling had been with the bank for three years and was a model employee. The Mr. Ward he spoke of was the special messenger of the institution. For years, whenever large amounts of securities or money were to be delivered, it was the duty of Ward to attend to it.

The coin transmissions were made in a wagon guarded by special officers. Mr. Ward disdained such protection. With his money satchel handcuffed to his wrist he had carried hundreds of thousands of dollars across the city. One day his good luck missed him. As he was passing an open area way two men hustled him down its steps. Two others stationed below seized him. He was knocked senseless with a blow and when he recovered consciousness the men and satchel were gone.

Fortunately the amount of currency in the satchel was small, but over $50,000 in bonds had been secured by the hold footpads. They were of no value to the robbers, but until they were recovered or proof positive of their destruction was secured, the bank had to put up a large bond against them.

Out of all this had grown a suggestion from the chief clerk of the bank Ward was to carry the money as before, only to distribute about his person. He was to proceed on his mission secretly from a side exit of the bank. Gerald was to carry the satchel—empty.

The hope was that the old gang of robbers might be on the watch for a more profitable opportunity. They the empty money satchel. One day, however, the bank detective came to him.

"You needn't know it except to keep a firm grip on your nerve. Alling," he said, "but you are being followed."

"Is that so?" inquired our young hero.

"I feel sure of it. I have noticed two suspicious looking characters approach you on your way to the bank on successive mornings now."

That evening Gerald went to visit his friend, the inventor, for lack of a better place to go to. The man was a genius and grateful to the young bank man for past favors done.

That night he showed his gratitude to Gerald by proving that he had done some thinking in his behalf.

When Gerald left the inventor's room he carried a fair-sized package which he took down to the bank with him.

When he got ready to start on his decoy route next morning he went to a secluded corner of the bank and placed the package in question carefully inside of the satchel.

A wire from it he ran through the canvas so that its loop fast clasped one of his fingers.

Every morning after that for more than a week Gerald repeated this operation and one eventful day there were results.

A jam of vehicles near a crowded court, a jostling mob around him, two men got close up to him. One quickly caught his arm. The other gave him a push down the court away from the street. Gerald Alling smiled despite his peril.

"Give up that satchel!" ordered one of the men.

"Take it!" retorted Gerald accomodatingly, and he let the loop slide from his finger.

Bang—bang!

Ding—ding—ding—ding—ding—

A frightful alarm of sound echoed from inside the satchel—two revolver shots, the sharp rasping clanging of half a dozen bells.

The dismayed and discomfited looters stared marvellingly at satchel and messenger. Before they could turn and run the bank detective was at their side.

Gerald saw them led to a patrol wagon, went on his way and after banking hours was called into the private office of the president of the institution. He found the bank detective also there.

"Now then, young man," observed the money magnate, a pleased but cautious expression on his face, "explain that young noise wagon of yours—the satchel."

And then Gerald told of the ingenuity of his friend, the inventor, in producing a device which "went off" the moment he let go of the handle of the satchel.

"I sent for you," said the president, "to tell you that through the arrest of the men your clever alarm call baffled we have recovered the stolen bonds. Our officer here will share a reward of five thousand dollars with you. And you probably deserve a month's leave of absence, Alling."

"I'll make a honeymoon of it," cried the delighted young bank man. (Copyright, 1911, by W. G. Chapman.)

right soon was attempt to rob Gerald just as they had Ward. The former was to keep a close lookout, was instructed to raise an instant alarm if attacked. A detective was to follow him within ready call, but not closely enough to awaken suspicion.

"It was the second day of the new program when Gerald was returning from his mock cash delivery to a bank that a bright-eyed old man accosted him and walked along with him.

"Messenger service, eh, Mr. Alling?" he questioned.

"Yes," assented Gerald.

"Thought that loss of theirs would stir up the bank," observed his companion. "Say, I guess I shall never be able to thank you enough for that situation you found for me."

"Oh, I was glad to be of service to you," declared Gerald heartily. "Drop your inventions, have you?"

"Until I get a little capital ahead, yes. Look here, drop in and see me at my room some time soon," suggested the inventor with a studious glance at the satchel Gerald was carrying.

"I'd like to show you a new wrinkle I've devised to make the bank messenger absolutely immune from loss."

"Why, you interest me," declared Gerald. "I will surely avail myself of your invention."

He had been going pretty regularly to see Lucy Ward, but his father had circumscribed these calls to once a week now.

"It is nonsense to think of marrying," he declared sharply, "or even an engagement until your salary is materially increased and you have enough to start housekeeping in some substantial way."

"It's a long prospect ahead, then," murmured Gerald, but Lucy loved him; he knew that, and both expired the virtue of patience.

Nothing of a sensational character had happened along of his carrying

FIRM OF HISTORIC MEMORIES

English Caterers Go Back Centuries to Recall the Days of Their Foundation.

The most famous firm of caterers in the city of London, that of Ring and Brymer, suffered the loss of its senior partner, Mr. Alexander Brymer, who died a few days ago, at the age of seventy-six. The firm has existed in London for several centuries, and has supplied the food for the lord mayor's and other banquets for many years. Its little shop in Cornhill, known as "Birch's," from the name of the original proprietor has been a landmark in the city since 1666. From the days of Charles II it has been a house of appointment and place of call for the merchants of the city of London, and throughout these years its aspect has not changed. Its front is probably the oldest in London. The original Birch, it is said, cooked a baron of beef in front of the great fire of London, and as long ago as 1775 his successor was catering for half a dozen city companies. The most famous of the Birches presided, as London's chief magistrate, over the feast which he himself had provided, with the czar of Russia, the king of Prussia, Louis XVIII and the prince regent as the principal guests. Today the house is famous for the turtle soup which is such a feature of city banquets and for punch. Usually fifteen turtles, providing 600 pints of soup, are killed for the lord mayor's banquet. It was in the thirties of last century that the shop passed into the possession of Messrs. Ring and Brymer, the fathers of Mr. Alexander Brymer and the surviving senior partner.

Old Custom Kept Up.

The custom of rushbearing, which is a survival of the time when the earthen floors of churches were annually strewn with rushes, was recently celebrated at Ambleside, Westmoreland, England. About 300 children were in procession through the streets on Saturday night, singing the rushbearers' hymn in the market place, and placed their bearings in church. Special rushbearing services were held on Sunday, and the next day another procession took place, ending with games and sports for the children.

Why are you always poring so over those government reports? They must be very dry reading.

Quite the contrary. They are irration reports.

MIDWAY

I have taken over Mr. R. C. Maxwell's sub-division, known as Midway, and am placing it on the market. Midway is a high class residence property for COLORED PEOPLE. It is located between Celery Avenue and Geneva Avenue, half a mile south of the Street Car Line at Sipe's Siding or Stop No. 9. This is a most desirable location for it is within easy walking distance of all the truck farms of the Celery Delta east side. There are 300 lots in Midway. They are all 40 feet wide and 104 feet long. All streets inside the plat are 40 feet wide. 111 of the lots are already sold. Ten houses have been built and are now occupied. There is a small church building. Many more houses will be built soon.

BUY a LOT in MIDWAY

STOP PAYING RENT. SAVE CAR FARE. BE CLOSE TO YOUR WORK. QUIT PAYING CITY TAXES. OWN A HOME OF YOUR OWN AND BE FREE. YOU CAN PAY FOR ONE OR MORE OF THESE LOTS AND NEVER MISS THE MONEY

$5.00 down on one lot or on five lots. Then $1.00 each week for every lot you buy and you will have it paid for in a short time. No interest nor taxes to pay while you are paying for the property. If you should be sick the payments will be carried over till you are well again, so you cannot lose that way. If you don't own your home, here is your opportunity to Quit Buying Rent Receipts.

If you do own your home this is an opportunity to lay up a little money each week out of your wages while work is plenty and that money will go to work for you for these lots are going to advance in value very fast. They ought to be worth double the present price by the time your payments are all completed.

TITLES

The title to all this property is in Realty Trust Company of Sanford. They have an abstract showing that the title is perfect and anyone interested can examine this abstract at any time at the office of the Trust Company. When your payments are made you will get a Warranty Deed direct from the Realty Trust Company to you. The officers of this company are: S. O. Chase, President; Geo. H. Fernald, Vice-President; Alfred Foster, Secretary, and B. F. Whitner, Treasurer. A Deed from this company is a guarantee that your title will be perfect.

A number of lots have already been sold to prominent business men of Sanford. They bought the lots to make money on. Men of this class know a good thing when they see it and invest their money. You can do the same. The terms are such that any one can buy and pay for at least one lot and most people could pay for at least five of them. Remember that a $5.00 bill will make the first payment on Five Lots if that is all you have to pay down. After that $1.00 a week on each lot you buy.

Buy a lot for the children. Let them earn the money to make the payments. Teach them to save their money this way and some day they will thank you for it. Any child who is able to work can earn enough to save a dollar a week. Soon they will have a lot paid for and own it. It teaches them independence and self respect. It makes them better and happier men and women.

home Saturday and interment at Lake View cemetery. Saturday morning Mr. Pope received a telegram from Georgia announcing the death of his father. They have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

The Christmas entertainment had a large attendance. The program was long and nicely given. Several who took part deserve special mention: Miss Kathleen Burgess, Miss Etta Johnson, Gertrude Little, Ruby Hart and Gretchen Long delighted the audience with fine recitations. Miss Nona Cowan of Jacksonville sang very sweetly and the choir gave several very good selections. The dialogue with Miss Hattie Estridge as teacher, and Will Raynor, Annie Cameron, Joe Guerry, Ruth Little, James Estridge and Etta Johnson as pupils made a hit and brought a good laugh. Altogether it was a very nice entertainment and the Christmas tree was very pretty and there was a present for everybody. Will Morris of Forest City, who was the guest of his brother, C. C. C., had everyone guessing, as he was the jolly old Santa Claus.
