NATION IN BRIEF

Calloway Used Influence

To Enlarge Resort: Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Howard H. Calloway clearly used his influence as Army Secretary to try to enlarge his Colorado ski resort, the chairman of a Senate panel investigating the matter claims.

Sen. Floyd K. Haskell, D-Colo., said there is no doubt that Calloway brought political pressure to bear in an effort to expand his $10-million Crested Butte resort complex onto a nearby federally owned mountain.

Evidence before his Interior subcommittee "clearly shows an attempt to influence," Haskell told reporters. "But whether the attempt was even necessary is an open question."

Haskell noted that every Forest Service official to testify — both from Colorado and Washington — denied bowing to political pressure in the agency's decision last December to tentatively approve the expansion.

Death-Fear Tie Studied

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A psychiatrist who interviewed more than 300 persons confronted with sudden death says few of them remember experiencing fear or pain, a process he calls "depersonalization."

"We believe this depersonalized feeling arises from an emergency mental mechanism that spares a person the disorganized fright of impending death. They report being able to think clearly and rapidly with no sense of fear," said Dr. Russell Noyes Jr., associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Iowa.

"Many talk about a depersonalization, a slowing of time, a detachment and a feeling of being outside their bodies in an aura of unreality as though in a dream, and sometimes a relief of their lives," he said.

Prisoners To Get Benefits

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts prisons today will introduce time clocks, workman's compensation, overtime, job bidding and higher pay. And during slow sales periods, there will be some vacations and layoffs.

"It's going to be set up just like anything on the outside, except the pay's not that great," said Dave Brown, public information officer for the state corrections department.

Correction Commissioner Frank A. Hall said the prison work program will cover 435 inmate-workers in prison industries at Walpole, Norfolk, Concord and the women's prison at Frammingham.

Ford Plans Train Tour

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — President Ford, predicting victory in Tuesday's key Michigan primary, says he will seek votes from Republicans, Democrats and Independents when he embarks on the first whistle-stop tour since he became president in 1974.

Ford planned to spend much of Saturday making a 165-mile rail journey from Flint to Niles, via Durand, Lansing, Battle Creek and Kalamazoo.

Not since President Harry Truman's victorious campaign against Thomas Dewey in 1948 has a president used railroad cars for campaigning.

Domestic Auto Sales Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Welcome back, gas guzzlers. All is forgiven.

That was the message American salesmen appeared to be sending in the latest new car sales statistics for the early period.

Domestic auto makers said their dealers sold 211,506 cars from April 1 through May 10, up 6.8 per cent from the comparable period in 1975.

Agents Used Wiretaps In Gambling Probe

Orlando To Be Tried For Booking

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

A 39-year-old Orlando man is docketed for trial in circuit court at Sanford this week on statewide grand jury indictments charging two counts of felony bookmaking in connection with a south Seminole sports betting operation.

Jack Crenshaw is scheduled for trial before Circuit Judge Joe A. Cowart Jr. on the charges that he received more than five bets on football games, amounting to more than $500 on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1, 1975.

Sheriff's agents, who had been using court-ordered wiretaps in an investigation of gambling activities, raided an Altamonte Springs apartment on Nov. 1 seizing alleged records of the operation and paraphernalia.

A co-defendant in the case, Luther Judson McNamara, 33, of Orlando, is free on appeal bond after being sentenced last week to 99 days in jail and 10 years probation.

Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor suspended 34½ months of a three-year jail term meted out to McNamara's plea of no contest to a bookmaking indictment. Five years of the probation meted out on a no contest plea to carrying a concealed firearm. The weapons charge was made by agents during the apartment raid.

McNamara has agreed to "cooperate" with authorities in the case and to appear in court when he was sentenced that he'd already told Crenshaw to move out because the bookie operation was over when agents raided the apartment.

McNamara said the most profitable week of operation of the gambling operation brought in $3,000 to the bookies.

He said the bets, taken by telephone from bettors in the central Florida area averaged between $100 and $300 a week per bettor, but in some cases persons wagered $500 a week.

In other cases docketed for trial this week is Ramiro Herrera, 25, of Apopka Route One, is accused of sexual battery in connection with a Dec. 18 assault upon a 19-year-old woman at Fern Park.

Brian Thomas Bleichner, 18, of Apopka, is accused of burglary and grand larceny.

Dean N. Matthews, 46, of 126 County Club Road, Sanford, is scheduled for trial on two counts of felony possession of controlled substances, heroin and marijuana.

Darrel Rita Spalding, 20, of 294 Alderwood St., Winter Springs, and Patricia Yvonne Butler, 19, of 605 Lake Orietta Drive, Altamonte Springs, are accused of grand larceny of money from the Sears store, Altamonte Mall.

James E. Fox, 25, of 402 E. 26th St., Sanford, accused of felony possession of marijuana.

Jimmy Steele, 20, of Ocoee, and Raymond W. Blades, 20, of Orlando, are accused of felony marijuana possession.

Debbie Dee Fowler, 19, of 615 Park Ave., Sanford, faces trial on charges of burglary and grand larceny.

David D. Hadsall, 21, of Orlando, arrested by Longwood police on April 6, is accused of two counts of possession of controlled substance.

Walter Henry Borgen, 19, of 110 Campbellwood St., Winter Springs, is scheduled for trial on two counts of felony possession of controlled substances, heroin and marijuana.

Benjamin P. Willis, 19, of Oviedo Route Two, is accused of receiving stolen property, a Honda motorcycle.

John T. Howat, 21, and John Hall, 25, both of Winter Park, are accused of felony possession of marijuana in connection with a raid by sheriff's vice squad agents on a south Seminole apartment.

Structure Now One Month Old

County Manager System Praised

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

In effect for slightly more than a month, Seminole County's new county manager form of government is working like a charm.

At least that's the opinion of department chiefs who were asked to evaluate both the new governmental structure and the man who runs it — Roger Neiswender.

On April 1, Neiswender formally assumed the position of the county government's new $25,000-a-year executive assistant, a position over which county commissioners argued for months before selecting Neiswender, the former director of county development.

"Philosophically, I tend to approve the county manager form of government," says Pat Glisson, chief of the county's watchdog agency, the Office of Management Analysis and Evaluation (OMAE).

commission's administrative assistant. Now, however, Neiswender keeps on top of all government affairs and provides a liaison between the board and county employees.

"Roger's approach is to make definite assignments and insure they're followed through with. I think that's what is paying off," Glisson said.

Bob Ellis, the commission's acting assistant before Neiswender took over, says he sees at least 15 major improvements in employee and employee relations.

"Some didn't cost a nickel," Ellis noted, adding that Neiswender is responsible for implementing many of the measures designed to aid county employees — and the citizens.

Some items listed by Ellis include vacation pay changes, more employee benefits training and safety, and, most important, says Ellis, is the "seen and been policy."

What that means, he explains, is that top-level administrators are expected to get out of plush offices and into the system where the rank and file workers are.

"We're trying to work out an attitude change," Ellis said. "If you change the employee's attitude, that will change the attitude of county government. Then they (employees) will be better prepared to serve the people — which is what government is all about."

Ellis readily admits county government's image is not the best. He also hastily points out he doesn't want to give the opinion commissioners didn't do a good job of running government before Neiswender, but he says the present system is better.

Gary Kaiser, Director Public Safety, echoes most of the contentions outlined by both Glisson and Ellis.

Kaiser says department chiefs now receive "more definite direction."

Before the advent of the county manager form of government, directors say they would attend meetings but little or nothing would be done concerning follow-through on decisions made at those meetings.

Now, Kaiser says, "They're being done; I think it's great."

Kaiser said he and Neiswender rode around one night until one a.m., inspecting the county's nine fire stations.

Initially, Commissioners John Rimbrough and Williams opposed the new form. But when it was learned Neiswender was the top choice, both commissioners voted yes. It was one of the few unanimous decisions made by county government.

But, according to Ellis, any administrator would have been foolish to accept the position without unanimous approval from the board.

All in all department chiefs agree it was a wise decision and one that benefited county employees and, in the long run, the citizens of Seminole.

Though Seminole's is not a total county manager form of government, department chiefs feel it will work into that.

"In time, I think you're going to see some significant advances," Glisson said.

SEA Denies Board Claim Of Contract Violation

By JEAN PATTESON
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole Education Association (SEA) has denied a grievance by the Seminole County School Board that it has violated its master agreement by allowing Grooms, SEA executive director, to represent three other employee groups in collective bargaining.

At a school board meeting on May 5, the board approved the grievance against the SEA. This grievance charges that Section C of the master contract has been violated.

Section C states that "The Association agrees that neither it nor its members or agents will attempt to represent, in any negotiations or grievances, the interest of anyone other than members of the bargaining unit."

The School Board grievance charges that there has been a breach of contract because the SEA has granted approval for its executive director to work part time with the Seminole Education Clerical Association, the Non-Instructional Personnel of Seminole County, and the Seminole County Bus Drivers Association.

Also, that Crooms has accepted employment with these three associations.

The Thursday night meeting between SEA representatives and the board's chief negotiator, Harry Pelley, his assistant negotiator, Ernie Cowley and School Supt. William P. Lauer, was an attempt to reach an informal solution to the grievance.

However, SEA representatives denied the charges against Grooms, saying that he was the agent of the SEA only when actively engaged in SEA business. They said Grooms was a free agent when he was on his own time and it was of no concern to the SEA if he should then act as the agent for any other organization.

The school board grievance also charges that SEA's chief negotiator, Steve Rosenthal, has attended several of the negotiating sessions with the three non-instructional employee groups and was observed transporting their papers and participating in their private caucuses.

The SEA representatives denied this section of the grievance, saying that the board's information was incorrect — that Rosenthal had sat in on meetings of only two, not three, of the groups.

DeVoney Elected To Planning Post

Altamonte Springs City Commissioner Cal DeVoney has been elected vice chairman of the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council.

DeVoney had previously served two terms as secretary-treasurer and replaces outgoing vice chairman James A. Fowler of Orlando.

DeVoney is currently serving the first year of a second two-year term on the city commission having been re-elected last November (unopposed).

Other Seminole County officials named to planning council posts at the annual meeting were: Seminole County Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski to the board of directors and Altamonte Springs Mayor Norman C. Floyd as the representative for Seminole County municipalities.

Ski-Mask Gang Suspects

Convicted Of Burglary

SARASOTA (AP) — "The state didn't prove it. That's all," said a juror after three accused ski-masked terrorists a third in an attack on a rural Central Florida family last fall.

"The whole thing was very unpleasant," added the woman, Tillie Workman. She refused further comment.

Daniel Morris Thomas, 27, Lee O. Martin, 19, and Larry Marshall, 17, had been charged with armed robbery, armed burglary and sexual battery — offenses which carried life sentences.

The one-man, six-woman jury deliberated four hours Friday and convicted all three of a lesser burglary charge, cleared them of sexual battery and divided on the robbery count.

Food Suit Thrown Out

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A damage suit filed by a woman who says she became ill because of food and drink served her in Havana after a National Airlines jetliner was hijacked to Cuba in 1971 has been dismissed by the Florida Supreme Court.

The court threw out the suit Friday, rejecting a claim by Theodora Edwards of Fort Lauderdale.

The court said in 5-3 opinion that the illness from the food and drink was "too remote" from National's responsibility for the woman to recover damages.

Mrs. Edwards had sought unspecified damages for medical costs, loss of wages and "inability to lead a normal life."

Escambia Board Must Talk

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The Escambia County School Board has violated the state's collective-bargaining law by refusing to negotiate in good faith with a teachers' union, the Public Employees Relations Commission says.

In a ruling Friday, the commission ordered the board to halt its unfair labor practices and begin good-faith talks with the Escambia Education Association, an affiliate of the Florida Teaching Profession.

In its ruling, the commission said the board had harassed teachers by taking photographs of them on a picket line in August 1975. It directed that no more pictures of pickets be taken.

Senate Approves Budget

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The Senate has passed its $1.94-billion budget after urban legislators won a fight to restore $13 million in school funds.

Most of the "no" votes in the 28-12 approval Friday came from senators who said restoring only $13 million of the $131 million cut by the Ways and Means Committee left public schools a disaster area.

The $13-million victory came after a coalition of urban legislators was able to get the required local-property-tax level reduced from a proposed 6.5 mills to 6.3 mills, its present level.

Study Urges Flooding

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A major study recommends flooding 25,000 acres of the Everglades to keep fertilizer-polluted water out of Lake Okechobee.

The long-awaited study released Friday also said that all building on the Kissimmee River flood plain north of the lake should be halted.

The study, conducted by a number of state agencies at a cost of $1 million, also recommended the rapid expansion of commercial fishing in the lake to "remove significant amounts of nutrients, improve sports fishing and be a significant contribution to the local economy."

Chairman In Verbal Battle With Mayor

CROP Pledges To Support Babysitter

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

ALTA MONTONE SPRINGS — Don Crabtree, chairman of the Committee to Resist Oppressive Politicians (CROP) Friday, pledged his organization's continued support — financially and morally — to Mrs. Jean Bechtold's fight against a section of the city's residential zoning ordinance.

Convicted recently in city court of two counts of violating the ordinance by operating a day care center and fined $204 plus court costs, Mrs. Bechtold, 523 Applewood Way, through her attorney Gerald Ruttery is challenging the constitutionality of the law in the circuit court.

Mrs. Bechtold filed a written "not guilty" plea to a third charge of operating a day care center in city court Thursday. She contends she is providing a baby-sitting service for neighborhood children after school at no charge.

A trial was set for May 27 by City Judge Gene R. Stephenson, dependent upon Circuit Court Judge Kenneth L. Leffler's decision on the constitutionality of the city law. A decision is expected from Judge Leffler on Monday.

Meanwhile a verbal battle has been raging between Crabtree and Altamonte Springs Mayor Norman Floyd on the propriety of the actions by city officials and the police department in enforcing the city ordinance banning day-care centers in certain residential areas.

Mrs. Bechtold, subject of the controversy, declined comment Friday on the case on advice of her attorney.

Floyd, in an open letter to CROP, called charges by the citizen organization that the city had violated Mrs. Bechtold's civil rights and the sanctity of her home "libelous."

Floyd said that while all laws may not be good or may be outdated, there are ways and means to change them, but not by ignoring a law one does not like.

The mayor denied a CROP charge that eight city police cars with flashing lights converged on the Bechtold home. He also denied that the house was searched without a warrant and that officials of the city had threatened the woman.

MAYOR NORMAN FLOYD

and officials entered the Bechtold home and onto their property without warrants, uninvited and unannounced.

He said the city official failed to attend the meeting, Crabtree invited Floyd or other city officials to explain their actions in this case.

"If mothers may be charged with aiding and abetting Mrs. Bechtold, according to your unconstitutional ordinance, then they are indeed being threatened no matter how you choose to interpret the law."

"If, in fact, people have been questioned without their rights having been read to them then what they say may not be used against them in a court of law, as we, poor laymen, understand our protections," Crabtree said.

Crabtree asked Floyd why the city did not hold up a constitution with Mrs. Bechtold until the appellate court made a ruling.

"We believe in the judicial process but you well know that while Mrs. Bechtold's rights are being restored by the judicial process you can go on as you please violating others' rights as well," he said.

"The city of Altamonte Springs has many more thousands of dollars for legal expenses, even for its own city attorney, while the individual citizen may become bankrupt fighting the city in a court of law," Crabtree said.

Crabtree said the CROP organization feels very strongly that Mrs. Bechtold needed a defense fund and "hundreds of dollars have already been given to this very fund."

He told Floyd that the "officials of Altamonte Springs need to know that the citizens of our country will not sit idly by while the protections under the constitution are violated."

Crabtree said an apology is in order and should be made to Mrs. Bechtold and the mothers who entrust the care of their children to her.

He said, "An apology to the children would do much to restore the confidence of the young people in their leaders."

Court Ruling Is A Landmark

Generally the word "landmark" is very much overused when applied to U.S. Supreme Court decisions. But it is a succinct description of the high court ruling that federal judges can order construction of low-cost housing for minorities in metropolitan suburbs even though they have not practiced discrimination.

It was inevitable that the civil rights battles that commenced with the turbulent 1960s would arrive at this point. No mandated programs to balance ethnic minorities can advance if the majority affected by the programs have the alternative of moving outside city limits. And the so-called "White Flight" to the suburbs has been an acknowledged phenomenon.

Until now, the Supreme Court has generally resisted integrational efforts that cross jurisdictional lines. The commonly cited example is the court's refusal to permit cross-district school busing in Detroit. Without changing that decision, the court has declared that courts may order the low-cost housing in the suburbs if the Housing and Urban Development agency has acted unconstitutionally in an adjoining city.

Much will be made of the decision because the issue of ethnic neighborhoods has become a central issue in this year's presidential campaign. Democrat Jimmy Carter introduced the subject a few weeks ago when he said that he believes in maintaining the "ethnic purity" of neighborhoods. President Ford later took a similar view by saying he favors preservation of the nation's "ethnic heritage." And Democrat Morris Udall and others have similarly spoken out in support of voluntary ethnic associations.

Their positions appear to be in direct contradiction to the Supreme Court decision, a fact that will enliven the campaign in the days ahead. However, as a practical matter the court decision won't make much of an impact in the suburbs so far as housing is concerned. Considering the state of the federal budget, the ability of Washington to integrate the suburbs is limited. It can prod and set the example, but in the long run economics will largely dictate whether or not the minorities will be able to afford the homes in suburbia — and the commuting costs to their jobs.

The major impact of the Supreme Court decision will be in other areas, we believe. One of these is the additional power granted to the federal courts — power that will be lost by legislative and administrative branches of government.

The more troublesome area, however, is the court's almost casual opinion that it was not troubled by arguments that the accretion of power by Washington and federal judges would constitute "impermissible" interference in local affairs. By an 8-0 majority the justices said that local control of low-income housing is no longer explicitly required.

If that's the case, efforts to end discrimination have been set back materially because it can never be achieved by federal fiat.

No-Fault Wrecked

It is a national shame that federal no-fault auto insurance legislation should have been sidetracked and, for all practical purposes, consigned to slow death by a four-vote Senate plurality.

But the greater shame was the identity and the conduct of the articulate and well-organized lobby that provided the decisive pressure — American trial lawyers with a $400,000 war chest.

More than any other segment of society, lawyers have good reason to respect not only the sanctity of the law, whatever it may be, but the sanctity of the lawmaking process. It contributes little to the public image of a long-respected profession for its members to resort to the gutter strategies of other organized lobbies.

There can be no question that there were flaws in the sidetracked bill, and it may even be said that a "good" no-fault bill has not yet been written, but that can be achieved only through the tedious process of trial, error, review and amendment.

But more important is strong evidence of a groundswell of popular demand for a starting point on this long-needed reform and this demand was frustrated by a sophisticated, well-heeled lobby representing a small minority. — Albuquerque Journal

"Hey, buddy! How about a lift and a quarter? I might be another Howard Hughes, ya know!"

Around

The Clock

By ED PRICKETT

Australia's new national anthem — "Waltzing Matilda" is symbolic of that country's spirit. The lyrics of "Waltzing Matilda" tell the story of a swagman who stole a jumbuck from a squatter and escaped state troopers by jumping into a billabong. A swagman is a drifter. A jumbuck is a sheep. A squatter is a rancher and a billabong is a small lagoon or lake. What we have is a song about a drifter who steals sheep on the side who drowns when he jumps into a lake while trying to escape the law. It was written by Australian poet A.B. "Banjo" Paterson and was first played at a horse race in 1895. The tune is loved by Australians, and just about anytime you see a group of "Aussies" gathered about a pint of beer you'll soon hear them singing the haunting strains of "Waltzing Matilda." Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser said "Waltzing Matilda" is recognized around the world as Australia's national anthem.

Australian moves the hearts and minds of all Australians. Anthems rejected in favor of the country's new song include "God Save the Queen," "Song of Australia" and "Advance Australia Fair." It's interesting how people in a country or a state identify with a certain song. It is usually a song of the people, often times written by a poet of the people, and wherever it's sung those in attendance usually become starchy or teary eyed. That's not unusual, however, when you realize Alexander The Great — who conquered the world — was moved easily to tears by music. With poets in short supply, I wonder who will write the "Waltzing Matildas" of tomorrow. Once highly prized, poetry is fast becoming a forgotten art. Poets once wrote and sang songs for great statesmen and generals, immortalizing them for all time. In the future, I guess, computers will ratle out the names of the winners and the losers of great conflicts. The emphasis on technology has pushed poetry and poets into the back seat of the culture. And that's too bad. Because after poetry, maybe the simple act of writing goes next. When was the last time you sat someone his-or-her occupation and he-she turned out to be a poet by profession? It just doesn't happen. Not anymore. In the not too distant future, I can see it now — computers writing poetry. Programmers will just feed in rhyme and rhythm, and computers will spit out national anthems. It would be more economical, and economics is the "going" jargon of the day. Somehow, though, I find it difficult to imagine a computer writing a song about a swagman who steals a jumbuck then drowns in a billabong while trying to elude state troopers.

DON OAKLEY Health Care Sure To Be Expensive

Some form of national health insurance is probably still several years away, but a number of people are already wondering about the possible consequences of a program designed to deliver the greatest amount of health care to the greatest number. As one of them expresses it, "If you take health care in the strong sense, there is always going to be greater demand than supply... How in the world can you give everybody access to expensive, exotic treatments?" The questioner is Daniel Callahan, founder of the Institute of Society, Ethics and Life Sciences at Hastings-on-the-Hudson, New York. Congress, he notes in an interview in U.S. Catholic magazine, has already passed a bill underviting hemodialysis (kidney machine treatment) for everyone, "no matter what the costs." But there are a lot of other similarly "catastrophic" illnesses, and as medical science advances, there are going to be more and more cures or treatments which inevitably will entail very large expenditures.

The prospect of an artificial heart, which is probably going to be developed in the next few years, will pose great problems, says Callahan. He estimates that 500,000 people right now could use an artificial heart, and that each heart would cost about $20,000 initially, with an annual maintenance expense of $5,000 to $10,000. The figures become astronomical.

Mental health, which "includes people vaguely unhappy, neurotic and dissatisfied with life" is "a bottomless pit," he says. The wealthy pay psychologists $50 an hour to help them cope with that sort of thing. But if the wealthy can afford it, should everyone have the right?

Callahan is not the first to have raised such questions. John Lach, professor of philosophy at Vanderbilt University, recently warned that "it will not be long before we shall have to make some rational decisions about how much of our social wealth is to be spent on extraordinary measures to keep the older members of our population alive..."

"We may well find that the amount of money we can plan into making advanced medical technology available for all is more limited than even the most pessimistic among us fear." To many people, however, all this may seem like borrowing problems that may or may not materialize and which in any case cannot be solved until we actually encounter them. The primary purpose of national health insurance, after all, is not to give everyone who needs one an artificial heart or a kidney machine or some other exotic treatment, but to extend the routine, ordinary health care that now exists to those who, for financial or other reasons, do not have it. — Kris Nash.

Terrorist Armed With Missiles

WASHINGTON — The weapons we poured into South Vietnam may now be turned against us. It is known that abandoned U.S. arms have fallen into the hands of worldwide terrorists.

Terror groups have been able to get everything from handguns to recoilless rifles, all spanning news from Vietnam. The most dangerous are shoulder-fired Redeye missiles, which can knock aircraft out of the air or destroy them on the runways.

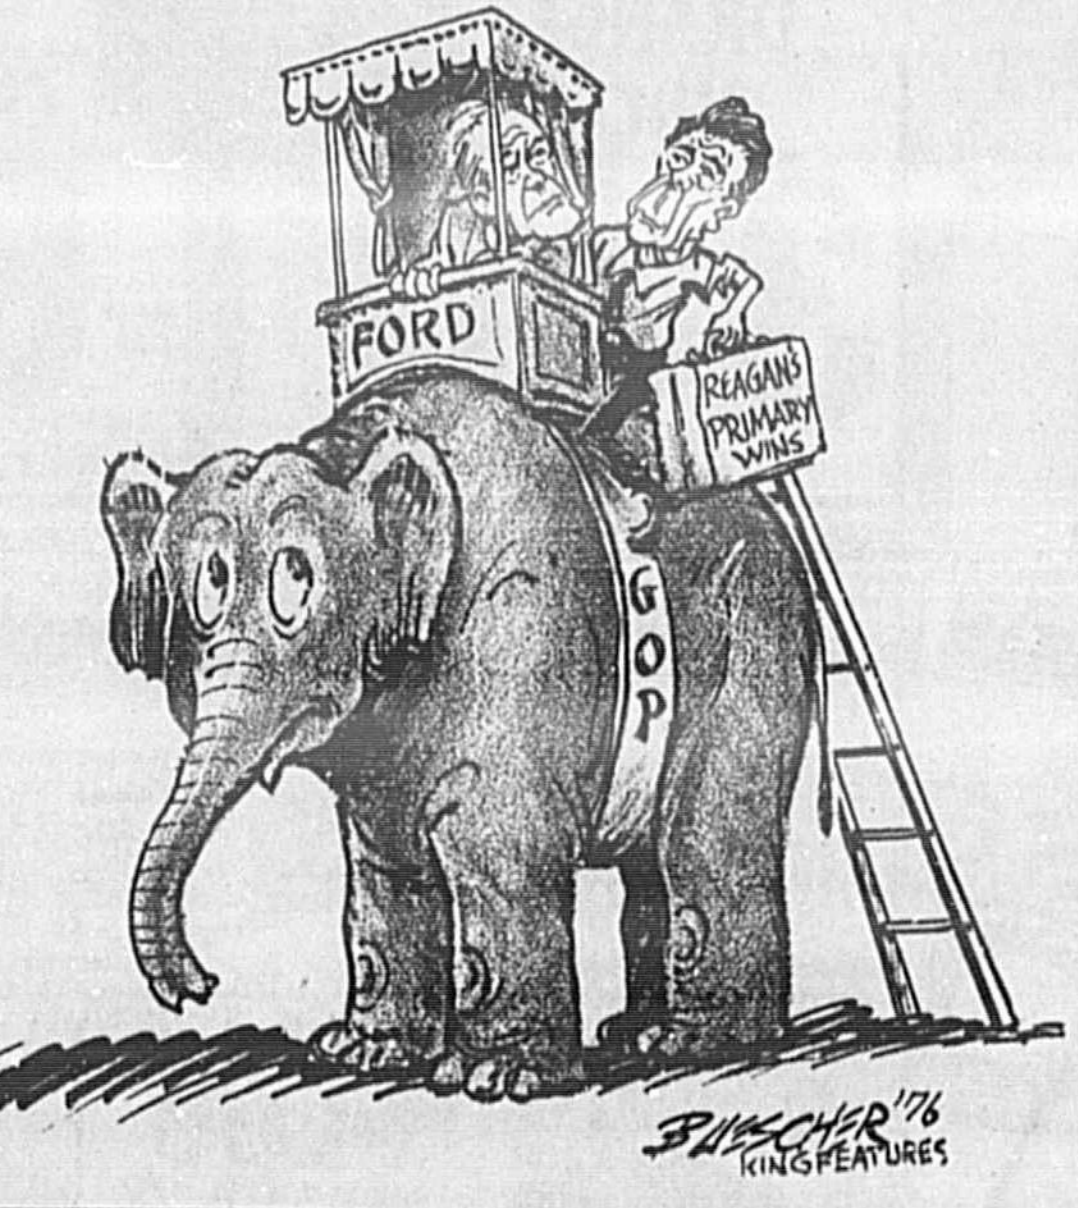

The U.S. Customs Service has quietly alerted police across the country to be on the lookout for terrorists with Vietnam War weapons.

Redeye missiles are available for sale to terrorists groups, Customs has warned. The compactness of these missiles poses the problem to Customs offices attempting to stop the illegal import of arms and explosives.

Not only do the heat-seeking Redeye missiles demolish aircraft by literally zooming up their tailpipes, but they can also be used against motor vehicles and factories.

Intelligence sources have traced the shipment of U.S.-made arms from Vietnam to Libya whose reckless leader, Col. Muammar al-Qaddafi, has become the terrorists' chief supplier.

The Customs alert is the first solid evidence, however, that the captured U.S. arms may now be coming back to haunt us, Warn Customs. "The sophistication of terrorist groups has increased... Modern military weapons are being used regularly." SOVIET BENEFITS: The State Dept. is upset because the Soviet Union once again has gotten the best of the United States in a commercial deal. REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK Blowing A Circuit

Prior to the start of the meeting of Senate Memorial Hospital's board of trustees, Member Sophia Shoemaker was discussing the effects various colors have upon people. "It's been proved in tests," she said by way of illustration, "that when a woman in a red dress enters the room a man's blood pressure rises two-to-four degrees."

A male listener immediately asked, "Blood pressure or temperature?" "And when they wear flesh tones," added another man, "it'll blow the whole machine out!"

During the session, mention was made of the "Seminoletter," a hospital news publication which will go into circulation in the near future. Board Chairman John Evans said he would like to see the hospital supply information to local media as well as to its own staffers.

"Was this supposed to be an in-house publication?" Evans asked Hospital Administrator Robert Bessner. "That's what we had planned, yes, sir," Bessner replied. "Well," Evans said, "maybe we'd better have an out-house section, too." — Kris Nash.

JOHN D. LOFTON JR. Goldwater Attacks Puzzling

WASHINGTON — Those of us who know and love Sen. Barry Goldwater are now used to his sometimes eccentric behavior. But his attack on Ronald Reagan's position on the Panama Canal — that is that it belongs to the United States and should not be surrendered — is both bizarre and puzzling.

In a press conference last week, Goldwater blasted Reagan's statements about the Canal, saying they demonstrate either "a lack of understanding of the facts" or they "reflect a surprisingly dangerous state of mind."

Now, what is odd about these charges is that Reagan's position on the Panama Canal is, for all practical purposes, the same as Goldwater's, or at least the same as Goldwater's position used to be.

Most recently, Goldwater is one of 37 Senate sponsors of Senate Resolution 97 — presently pending before Congress — which states that sovereignty over the Canal is "vested absolutely" in the United States.

This resolution specifically criticizes the Ford Administration's efforts to renegotiate the Canal treaty, which Goldwater now deems, as constituting "a clear and present danger to the hemispheric security and the successful operation of the Canal by the United States under its treaty obligations."

"The government of the United States should maintain and protect its sovereign rights and jurisdiction over the Canal and zone, and should in no way cede, dilute, forfeit, negotiate or transfer any of these rights, power, authority, jurisdiction, territory or property that are indisputably necessary for the protection of the security of the United States and the entire Western Hemisphere."

Furthermore, as far back as 1964, when he was seeking the GOP presidential nomination, Goldwater took a hard-line position on the Panama Canal treaty by comparison makes Reagan look like a real sell-out artist.

Back when he was urging President Johnson to send in the Marines to turn the water at our base in Guantanamo, Cuba, if Castro shut it off, Goldwater told a New York audience in January of 1964:

"I hope and pray the President doesn't back down one inch. The Canal is ours... The United States can't afford having governments take our property away from us. We built it with their permission under a treaty that's six decades old... There is no reason to change it."

On Feb. 6, 1964, while campaigning in Dover, N.H., Goldwater declared: "I thought at first Johnson was off on the right foot so I didn't say anything, but since then he has been adding and adding."

Referring to the Johnson Administration's pledges to renegotiate the Canal treaty, he added: "You just don't renegotiate a treaty, particularly when it relates to things like sovereignty."

This same month, in Reno, in a general attack on LBJ's foreign policy, including his position on the Panama Canal, Goldwater criticized the President in language appropriate to the locality by calling him "The Great Compromiser" who had "no stomach" for facing difficult problems at home and abroad, accusing him of being a man who had "just crapped out six times."

He said Johnson was not acting in the national interest so that "for a period of time no matter what happens to the nation, he can be all things to all people and thereby win election as President of the United States."

In his 1964 book titled "Why Not Victory?" Goldwater ridiculed President Eisenhower's 1959 decision giving into the demands of Panamanians that they be allowed to fly their flag along side the American flag in the Canal Zone to symbolize Panama's "titular sovereignty" over the area.

Making the point that the United States will never win over world opinion by getting for it, that the beneficiaries of our concessions and self-denials would soon construe these things as weakness and want more, he wrote: "Does anyone seriously suppose, for instance, that our generous decision to permit the Panamanian flag to fly over American territory in the Canal Zone will placate the Panamanian nationalists? The gesture is bound simply to whet the mob's appetite and transfer its sights to bigger targets."

Well, the Senator was right. Twelve years later, the mob's hunger for ever and President Ford seems bound and determined to feed them by giving up the whole kit and kaboodle, the Canal and the zone.

This, of course, is not surprising. But what is shocking is to see Barry Goldwater now attacking Ronald Reagan and giving aid and comfort to the mob. On this one, in my heart, I know Barry Goldwater is wrong, or, to use his phrase, maybe he just doesn't understand the facts.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Police Shoot Suspect In Montreal Brinks Heist

MONTREAL (AP) — Police shot to death Saturday a suspect in the March 30 $2.1 million robbery of a Brink's armored truck in Montreal, a police spokesman said. The man was not immediately identified.

The spokesman said the suspect was shot and killed in a west side apartment building by members of a police squad investigating the Brink's heist, which was believed to be the biggest in the company's 117-year history.

Police said five bandits used an antiaircraft machine gun to seize the Brink's truck and got away with $2.8 million in cash and silver coins commemorating the summer Olympic games.

Israeli Cabinet In Conflict

JERUSALEM (AP) — Relations between ministers in Israel's cabinet have become so strained in recent months that political analysts are questioning whether the cabinet can survive.

The main rivalry exists between Prime Minister Yitshak Rabin and Defense Minister Shimon Peres. It has so damaged their relationship that commentator Yosef Hareif of the daily newspaper Maariv reported during the weekend that the atmosphere in the cabinet has become "intolerable."

Hopes for "a new era" that accompanied Rabin's election two years ago have faded. Hardly a day passes without newspaper headlines announcing a fresh quarrel between Rabin and Peres.

IRA Bomb Kills 3 Officers

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Irish Republican Army guerrillas killed three police officers and seriously wounded a fourth in a small village on the border with the Irish Republic early today, police said.

Police said the officers were blown up by a bomb as they searched the village of Balcoo, 45 miles southwest of Belfast, for gunmen who had fired earlier on a car carrying part-time soldiers of the Ulster Defense Regiment.

The slain officers were identified as a sergeant and two reserve constables. The wounded man is a regular constable, a police spokesman said. Initially, police said the victims had been shot.

Bribe Discussions Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japanese special envoy Shirozo Saito headed for New York Saturday with plans for a meeting with U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim about the problem of corporate bribes.

Saito met Friday with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson to discuss the Lockheed bribery scandal that involved Japanese officials and threatens to force the ouster of Prime Minister Takeo Miki.

Kissinger was briefed by Saito on the situation in Japan, U.S. official said, and the secretary renewed his pledge of U.S. cooperation with Japanese law enforcement authorities.

Frankfurt Protests Expected

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Police braced for anti-American demonstrations Saturday as West Germany celebrated the U.S. Bicentennial with Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller as main speaker.

Chancellor Helmut Schmidt was to share the podium with Rockefeller before invited guests at St. Paul's Church, site of an 1848 assembly that gave birth to Germany's democratic ideals.

Lebanon Civil War Flares

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The civil war flared Saturday as Christians and Moslems ignored another call for a cease-fire.

Police reported 50 persons killed and 82 wounded overnight.

However, the threat of a confrontation between Israel and Arab's Palestinian guerrillas and Syrian-backed forces appeared to have diminished.

Loaded Gun May Go Off

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am not proud to relate my story. I am 54 and was 50 pounds overweight until a year ago. I would consume six to eight ounces of martinis every day at gatherings and parties and I could down 15 to 20 cocktails and still feel I needed more.

Several months ago I had infrequent colds and my eyes filled with blood. When I saw my doctor my blood pressure was 245 over 110 and he said I was a "living time bomb." I have cut the booze to almost nil, cut the caffeine in half and altered my life in many ways toward moderation. Of course I still work 80 to 90 hours a week in my business which is loaded with stress and tension, but I seem to thrive on work.

In the last two years at least seven of my associates have died with heart attacks and many of these men were younger than I. Most were not drinkers or smokers and some were not even overweight. Perhaps the thing in my favor is that for 15 years I have been doing the Royal Canadian Air Force exercise religiously every day including the running. The whole thing only takes 11 minutes a day, and I do it faithfully.

I eat at least two pounds of raw vegetables and fruits every day plus mountains of salads. My pressure is still 165 over 90 and I did manage to lose 10 pounds. Do you believe the exercising and the vegetables have sustained me from a heart attack thus far?

DEAR READER — When a man is playing Russian Roulette with one bullet in the barrel it is very hard to guess when the bullet is going to be in line for firing. The risks imposed by unhealthy living habits are similar to playing Russian Roulette. Obviously the more chambers you have loaded with bullets or unhealthy habits the greater will be the likelihood that one is going to kill you.

You have done very well by decreasing your alcohol intake and getting your weight down, at least partially. It sounds like you have a long way to go yet.

There are several factors which may have helped you. One might be your ancestry. If your parents have lived a long time in good health you might give them credit for this. Another is the type of food you eat. If your blood test shows that you have a low cholesterol level then you have done very well in spite of being overweight.

Your exercise may have helped, but I would not like to

Maybe Next Year, Janet! Guthrie A Spectator At Indy Pole Scramble

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — As drivers like A.J. Foyt, Johnny Rutherford and Al Unser scrambled today to win the pole position for the May 30 Indianapolis 500, there was at least one notable spectator in the huge crowd — Janet Guthrie. Miss Guthrie missed her chance to qualify Saturday or today through a combination of mechanical troubles and weather problems that prevented her from completing the final half of her mandatory driver's test. "We're on our third engine in Jan's car this week," said her car owner Holla Vollstedt. "And we've had all sorts of aggravating problems. "On Friday we waited around nearly all day for the rain to stop and the track to open. When it did, we were ready, but everybody else wanted to go out too. "Chief Steward Tom Binford finally ruled that traffic was sufficiently heavy that all rookies had to come in. We didn't like it, but since the ruling applied to all rookies we felt it was fair. "We have no choice but to wait until Monday for Jan to finish up the test. "It's too bad, too, since she had just done six consecutive laps at test speed when they called in the rookies." Besides being a wise decision, it was also expedient: veteran drivers must supervise rookie tests and there were no drivers available Friday afternoon. "They all had to tend to their own cars," an official said. With the rain cutting an already limited practice schedule, the rush to get on the track for final adjustments was understandable.

Most of the drivers in contention for the top spot had predicted it would take close to Foyt's pole winning average speed of 182.6 miles an hour. Lousis to its fourth straight victory. Lynn McGlothen, 42, Derrel Thomas singled in the only run for San Francisco, which has dropped 15 of its last 18 outings. Reds 5, Mets 1 Johnny Bench, returning to action after sitting out a week with a sprained knee, belted a two-run homer and a sacrifice fly for Cincinnati. Jack Billingham, 42, bested Mickey Lolich, 24, with a four-hit, three Met errors, two by third baseman Wayne Garrett, and three unearned runs. Padres 7, Cubs 4 Ted Kubiak drove in three runs with a triple and a single and Dave Winfield collected three singles for San Diego. Brent Strom, 41, was the winner and Paul Reuschel, 1-1, the loser. Jose Cardenal knocked in three Chicago runs with a pair of singles.

Tennis Tourney Country?

The tennis ball concession in Seminole County must be good. It must be, because they stage a tournament just about every weekend. Give me a charitable organization, and I'll give you a tournament. They recently completed the Cancer Society tournament and 158 entered. One of the upcoming biggies is the Seminole Foundation Tournament, sponsored by the Seminole Community College organization. Last year of the area net buffs are discouraged about the involvement of SCC, they can leave their entry in, because members of the crack SCC tennis team will not be playing.

The Foundation tourney is June 14 and entries close June 7. Competition begins with eight-year-olds and goes up. For this one is $10 singles, $10 for the team in doubles. Just who is the best tennis player in town? It's something of a tossup, but most experts agree that the top three players on Seminole's team — Steve Cox, Peter Roberts and Howard Flagg — and the Raiders' coach, Larry Castle, get the tap. Others may point to one of the upcoming youngsters, David McCook, as a top future. McCook is only a junior in the Seminole High team and plays No. 1.

Between tournaments and weekend play by the hackers, I'll bet enough tennis balls are lost or discarded to start a salvage business. They do it in golf, why not tennis?

The Ralibird Club is growing at the Seminole Harness Raceway. For the uninformed, that's the group of Saturday morning watchers as the Raceway slates qualifying races. The track is going great guns. The first seven nights produced a 60 per cent increase in mutual handle and 23 per cent increase in attendance. The Symphony Society will benefit from Tuesday's performance, the first of four charity nights. A week ago, the best single night handle was posted in track history, $177,358, erasing the old mark of $158,268. And this one was with a 10-race card, the old one with 12.

Lake Howell High athletes will be feted Thursday night at the Sanford Civic Center with Torchy Clark, FTU basketball coach, guest speaker. Those Dusty Boots are still at it. Another horse show is set today at the Wilco Sales Arena on State Road 46. Action begins at 10 a.m. There is no admission charge and highlight will be the exhibition of a standardbred from the Harness Raceway.

The Pittsburgh Pirates in 1962 and the Cleveland Indians in 1966 each won 10 straight games at the start of the season. In the 20th century, only one other team has equalled that — Brooklyn in 1955.

Q. Why does every team that Dick Williams manages get into heat ball action? He even had an outstanding team in the A's, which in heat-ball antics. How does he do it? — Joey Feys, Oakland, Calif.
Dick Williams is a hard-nosed manager, just as Leo Durocher was in a prior generation, and John J. McGraw was a generation before that. A tactic of baseball has been to keep batters loose at the plate. But it doesn't mean that any of those gentlemen actually condoned throwing at a pitcher's head. There's a difference. And I don't think Dick Williams is any more controversial in this area than any other aggressive manager in baseball.

Q. Is Dan Pastorini married to a movie star, and if so to whom? — G.G. Orange, Tex.
The beautiful June Wilkinson, to whom Dan has been married the last couple of years, has been in films but I wouldn't call her a movie star. The curvy lass from England is better known for her live emoting in an opus called "Pajama Tops" and has recently returned to the stage in a revival of the show after a couple of sabbatical years at Mrs. Quarterback.

Q. Who are pro golf's millionaires, and how many years did it take to get the first million? — Jim Howell, Walnut Creek, Calif.
There are eight golfers whose career earnings so far, have topped $1,000,000: Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Bill Casper, Lee Trevino, Bruce Crampton, Gary Player, Gene Littler and Tom Weiskopf. The first ever was Arnold Palmer, who won $145 in the 1955 Fort Wayne Open and 13 years and 368 tournaments later, topped the million mark on July 21, 1968, by finishing second in the PGA. Nicklaus is the only one past the $2 million mark.

Q. How come the National Basketball Association doesn't televise home games in cities that are sold out? — P.F., Hamtramck, Mich.
It does. The NBA operates by the same standards adopted for pro football — if a game is sold out 72 hours in advance it is shown on the tube locally. In fact, the NBA often waives that 72 hours rule and makes the game available for a local audience if it's sold out only 24 hours in advance.

Q. Why don't the Golden State Warriors keep banners hanging in their arena besides last year's (e.g., the championships they won in Philadelphia)? The Boston Celtics, although they have had several different owners, have had all their banners flying in Boston Garden. — George Delgado, Pinellas, Calif.
Front office spokesman Hal Childs of the Warriors says they don't have any previous banners in their possession — the league doesn't provide them. But he concedes it would be a good idea to display all banners past and present and might just go out and buy a set.

The Railroaders were stopped Friday for the first time during the 1976 Sanford Little League season — but it took mighty Tom to do it.

Trevino Sniffs Victory

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Lee Trevino, confidently seeking his first victory ever in another native Texas, stopped just short of making an outright victory prediction.
"By the way I'm playing now, it's awful hard for 'em to keep me from winning today," Trevino said after his blazing finish had wrested the second round lead from veteran Miller Barber, who shot a 65 that he called "the best I've played at in 13 years."

Wade Botts Shocks Field In Mayfair Club Tourney

Mack Cleveland looked at the leader board and his mouth opened in disbelief.
"Bob Bratler smiled happily and knowingly, "That young guy is still going to surprise some people."
Topic of conversation was Wade Botts. The 18-year-old Senior at Seminole High School had shot a pair of blistering 68s to be the talk of the Mayfair Country Club members' championship. Vic Richburg was par at 144.

Mayfair will soon boast two resident pros. Pro Bob Bratler has had Bill Oestek under his wing for a year and a half and the slim, handsome 26-year-old will be earning his PGA credentials after this month.
Oestek has been around golf since a young'un. In college at Oswego near Syracuse, N.Y., Oestek spent his four years with the two things that preoccupied his mind and his time: chemistry and golf, and he was good at both. The year he earned his BA in chemistry he was captain of the golf team.

NHL Problem Child Seals Ready To Pack Suitcase?
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The future of the California Seals, the National Hockey League's problem child since he entered the league in 1967, remained in question after a rapid-fire sequence of events.
Thursday night in San Francisco, the Mayor's Select Committee on Yerba Buena Center struck down a proposal that team owner Melvin Swig be allowed to construct a 17,500-seat arena at a cost of $20 million for the downtown area. The hockey club has operated at severe financial loss in the 12,500-seat Oakland Alameda County Coliseum, and ever since he purchased the club last July, Swig had expressed his intention of shifting the team to the new multi-purpose arena.

Proposal Bans Converter Use

By MIKE WENDLAND

CBers who suspect too strong a link between the FCC and the $1.5 billion-a-year electronics industry are pointing a new government proposal regarding frequency expansion as an example of their concern. While CBers are all for frequency expansion, many are fuming because the proposal would prohibit existing 23-channel sets from using converters or add-on devices to increase frequency range.

The disadvantage of such a restriction is obvious. If CB operators wanted to utilize the extra 50 or more channels expected to be made available by the FCC, they'd have to buy new sets.

It's hardly a secret that the CB industry has been working on special, extra-channel sets for some time, writing to flood the market with new and costlier wares as soon as the FCC acts. And it's equally obvious that, if CBers can convert their existing sets to operate on the expanded frequencies, the industry simply won't sell as many of the new extra-channel rigs.

Making it illegal to use frequency converters on existing transceivers has all the appearance of playing into the industry's hands at the expense of the consumer. If the proposal is adopted, it will be virtually impossible to enforce. Converting existing sets to operate on extra channels is an extremely simple operation for most electronics technicians. In many parts of the country a number of CBers already are quietly using frequencies above the official 23 channels even though they are violating FCC regulations.

At best the proposal smacks of government indifference. If you agree, write John Johnston, head of the FCC's amateur and citizens division in Washington. Send him this column with your endorsement.

Q. I'm one of the growing number of CBers who got suckered into speeding by a CB-equipped Smokey who told me to get the hammer down and then pulled me over. Isn't this entrapment? — J.G., Golden, Colo.

A. It sure is. And, if the Smokey didn't use a legal FCC call sign, he was also violating Part 95 of the commission's rules and regulations. In Michigan recently, the FCC notified a suburban police department to stop using CB in their patrol cars until they received Class D licenses. If you feel you were entrapped, contact a lawyer. And if the Smokey wasn't legal, report him to your nearest FCC field office.

(We welcome your questions on CB or related matters. Write Mike Wendland, "CB Break," c/o The Evening Herald, P.O. Box 157, Sanford, Fla., 32711.)

What's In A Handle?

'Happy's Pappy' Calling Washington Edsel?

Hey, Good Buddy, what's your handle?

This is a very common question heard on the Citizens Band radio airwaves these days as thousands upon thousands of new CBers key microphones and utter their first words.

"Handles" are the nicknames used by CBers to identify one another without the use of cumbersome real names.

The story has it that "handles" originally were dreamed up by truckers who didn't bother to get an FCC license and used their "handles" to hide their identities. But, handles have become a respectable part of being a CBer and are quite legal so long as they are used in conjunction with the operator's FCC call sign.

Would you readily associate "Washington Edsel," "Happy's Pappy," and "German Baloney" with three famous American governmental figures? Herald readers submitted these as appropriate handles that they feel would fit President Ford, Vice President Rockefeller and Sec. of State Henry Kissinger.

Last week, the Herald published a list of 26 national, state and local personalities and suggested that readers might want to propose appropriate handles for these well-known individuals.

Submissions ranged from the downright hilarious to some that the editor's blue pencil. Some seemed to fit the individual well but others were more subtle and required a bit of thought to connect the handle and the person.

For example, would you immediately recognize some of our presidential hopefuls — "Gooper Gubner," "Corporne," "Fooped Politician," "Guz," "Gee-er-er-er." These who picked these handles say they should belong to Jimmy Carter, George Wallace, Scoop Jackson and Ronald Reagan, respectively.

When we got down to state personalities, one proposed handle dropped up in various forms more than any other — "Sunshine." "Mr. Sunshine," "Sunshine Kid," and "Sunshine Superman." Gov. Askew and State Rep. Bobby Hattaway were the names attached to these handles ostensibly because of their involvement with bills pertaining to Florida's Sunshine Law.

"Mr. Clean" came up several times, pencilled after the names of Gov. Askew and Sen. John Vogt. "Mrs. Clean" came up only once, beside State Sen. Lori Wilson's name.

There may be a general election just around the corner but there is only one candidate judging from the responses from CBers. County Commissioner Sid Vilhen was the recipient of several votes for "the candidate" as his handle. That wasn't the only label for the Commissioner, though. Others included "Switch-Hitter," "Boy Wonder," and "Golden Boy."

One of Seminole's County Commissioners submitted his suggestions for the list and even came up with a handle for himself. How about these suggestions from his list: Sen. Lori Wilson — "Sunset Sally"; Sheriff John Polk — "Major Mountie"; or Sanford's Mayor Lee Moore — "Pete's Pain."

The author of the names will remain anonymous, but he goes by the handle of "Poland Bulldog."

"Rubber Duck, you're not going to believe this"

Some of the more colorful handles proposed for the list were as follows:

- President Ford — "First Pappy," "Headknocker," "First Mamma's Boy," "Veto One."
- Vice Pres. Rockefeller — "Six Million Dollar Man," "Happy's Homemaker," "Rocky Road."
- Sec. of State Kissinger — "Globber," "Hopkin' John," "Peacemaker," "Ronald Reagan," "Moviemann," "Maitinee Moses," "Gunslinger."
- Jimmy Carter — "Peanut Politician," "Fang," "Peanut Farmer."
- George Wallace — "Guz," "Corporne."
- Scoop Jackson — "Union Label," "Almost Ran," "Senator Boing."
- Gov. Askew — "Snow White," "Honest Abe," "Mr. Clean," "Sen. Lori Wilson — "Lady Libby," "Sunset Sally."
- Sen. John Vogt — "Vogt Getter," "Mr. Clean."
- Rep. Bob Hattaway — "Sunshine" in several forms.
- Rep. Victor Fechtel — "Link," "Mosquitoman," "The Tailor."
- County Commission Chairman Mike Hattaway — "Bob's Cousin," "Gladhand," "The Chairman."
- County Commissioner Dick Williams — "Nilly Willie," "The Outlaw."
- County Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski — "Vinton II," "The Joker."
- County Commissioner John Kimbrough — "Easy Rider," "Chicken Little," "Growler," "County Commissioner Sid Vilhen — "Handshaker," "Hizzoner," "Silent One," "Sheriff John Polk — "Big John," "Paper Bear," "Shotgun."
- Mayor Lee Moore, Sanford — "Hizzoner," "Silent One."
- Mayor Gerald Christensen, Casselberry — "Buchhorn Cowboy," "Yap Dancer."
- Mayor Norman Flynn, Altamonte Springs — "Slitter-Getter," "head Honcho," "The Captain."
- Mayor Troy Pland, Winter Springs — "Fuzzy Wuzzy," "The Hat."
- Jim Lormann, Longwood — "Slim Jim," "Grant's Policy," "Big Jim."
- Mayor Leon Olliff, Oviedo — "The Oviedo Clipper," "The Barber."
- Mayor Walter Sornson, Lake Mary — "Peaceful Livin' County Atty. Tom Freeman — "Interpretor."
- "Everyman," "Enforcer."
- Of course some of those listed above are already avid CBers and have their own handles such as Sheriff Polk who goes by the handle of "Seminole White Knight," or Mayor Floyd who answers to "Handshaker."
- Pershaps some of the new ones suggested above might appeal to the established CBers on the list enough to persuade them to adopt a new handle. After all, the public knows best.
- That's a Big Ten-four! We go. Bye. — Blue Pencil

Hospital Has New System To Detect Breast Cancer

By JEAN PATTESON
Women's News Director

Joy Lambert and Becky Wigham, both radiologic technicians at Seminole Memorial Hospital, have an important message for Seminole County women. In essence, it is this: when breast cancer is diagnosed and treated early, 85 per cent of patients will survive to live five years or more.

Seminole Memorial Hospital now has what the women term "the most modern and accurate means of detecting breast cancer available." It is the Xeroradiography 125 System — a long name for a rather plain looking machine which quickly and painlessly "photographs" the internal breast tissue. So detailed are the pictures it produces that they show cancer growths and other foreign bodies as small as one millimeter in size.

The machine is rented by the hospital. During the first six weeks of being in use, it has already helped in the detection of a number of cases of breast cancer.

According to the radiologic technicians, about 10 women undergo the xeroradiography testing each week, and on the average, one woman with breast cancer is detected every two or three weeks.

The cost per patient of the Xeroradiography treatment is $30.

The Xeroradiography system, developed by the Xerox Company, is particularly relevant in detecting change in breast shape and size and picking up the presence of cancer tissue in women with large breasts that are difficult to examine; women with a family history of breast cancer; women who have undergone a mastectomy operation; women with a chronic cystic disease and women who have detected a lump in their breast during breast self examination.

In order to inform the public that the machine is now installed

This Year's Trend: Formal Wedding; Classic Gown

PARIS — Anybody who declared that a white or formal wedding no longer interested young couples would have had to eat his words after visiting the first "Salon du Mariage" recently held here.

The organizers based their efforts on statistics revealing 400,000 marriages were performed last year in France. They dreamed up an emporium of just about everything related to a wedding, plus a display of dreamy wedding dresses.

The salon proved an immense success. Over 10,000 people came to see the display of advance publicity. Admission was free and visitors were greeted by a bevy of pretty young hostesses who led the way to the bar where a glass of champagne and a piece of wedding cake were offered.

On show a young couple could be lost in a maze of wedding dresses for every type. According to reports, brides still favor a train of sorts, while grooms prefer a tuxedo.

At the salon we learned the cost of an average wedding usually comes to about $5,000.

There were four fashion shows a day run by the three leading wedding-dress specialists in Paris — Pronuptia and Ceremonial. Their models range in price from $100 to $1,000 and up, and offered a dazzling procession of romantic, ethereal wedding dresses for every type.

According to reports, brides still favor a train of sorts, while grooms prefer a tuxedo.

Pure white still is the favorite even though a mod bride might choose to be married in a daytime dress.

French designers predict this season will favor classic white wedding gowns with fitted bodice, floor-length skirt and tulle skirt.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Davis of Sanford announce the engagement of their daughter, Inez Woodella, to Larry Edgar Finer, son of Rev. and Mrs. Earl Fisher of Aston, Va.

The bride-elect, born in Sanford, is a 1971 graduate of Seminole High School where she was a member of the Latin Club. She attended Central Wesleyan College, Central, S. C. and Seminole Junior College's School of Practical Nursing. She is employed at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Her fiancé, born in Ashboro, N. C. is a 1969 graduate of Stuart High School, Stuart, Va. He attended Central Wesleyan College, where he was a member of the college choir, and graduated in 19

Proposal Bans Converter Use

By MIKE WENDLAND
Cbers who suspect too strong a link between the FCC and the $1.5 billion-a-year electronics industry are pointing a new government proposal regarding frequency expansion as an example of their concern. While Cbers are all for frequency expansion, many are fuming because the proposal would prohibit existing 25-channel sets from using converters or add-on devices to increase frequency range.

The disadvantage of such a restriction is obvious. If CB operators wanted to utilize the extra 50 or more channels expected to be made available by the FCC, they'd have to buy new sets.

It's hardly a secret that the CB industry has been working on special, extra-channel sets for some time, waiting to flood the market with new and cooler wares as soon as the FCC acts. And it's equally obvious that, if Cbers can convert their existing sets to operate on the expanded frequencies, the industry simply won't sell as many of the new extra-channel rigs.

Making it illegal to use frequency converters on existing transceivers has all the appearance of playing into the industry's hands at the expense of the consumer. If the proposal is adopted, it will be virtually impossible to enforce. Converting existing sets to operate on extra channels is an extremely simple operation for most electronic technicians. In many parts of the country a number of Cbers already are quietly using frequencies above the official 23 channels even though they are violating FCC regulations.

At best the proposal smacks of government indifference. If you agree, write John Johnston, head of the FCC's amateur and citizens division in Washington. Send him this column with your endorsement.

Q. I'm one of the growing number of Cbers who got suckered into spending for a CB-equipped Smokey who told me to put the hammer down and then pulled me over. Isn't this entrapment? — J.G., Golden, Colo.

A. It sure is. And, if the Smokey didn't use a legal FCC call sign, he was also violating Part 95 of the commission's rules and regulations. In Michigan recently, the FCC notified a suburban police department to stop using CB in their patrol cars until they received Class D licenses. If you feel you were entrapped, contact a lawyer. And if the Smokey wasn't legal, report him to your nearest FCC field office.

(We welcome your questions on CB or related matters. Write Mike Wendland, "CB Break," The Evening Herald, P.O. Box 1657, Sanford, Fla., 32771.)

What's In A Handle?

'Happy's Pappy' Calling Washington Edsel?

Hey, Good Buddy, what's your handle? This is a very common question heard on the Citizens Band radio waves these days as thousands upon thousands of new Cbers key microphones and utter their first words.

"Handles" are the nicknames used by Cbers to identify one another without the use of cumbersome real names. The story has it that "handles" originally were dreamed up by truckers who didn't bother to get an FCC license and used their "handles" to hide their identities. But, handles have become a respectable part of being a Cber and are quite legal so long as they are used in conjunction with the operator's FCC call sign.

Would you readily associate "Washington Edsel," "Happy's Pappy," and "German Baloney" with three famous American governmental figures? Herald readers submitted these as appropriate handles that they feel would fit President Ford, Vice President Rockefeller and Sec. of State Henry Kissinger.

Last week, the Herald published a list of 30 national, state and local personalities and suggested that readers might want to propose appropriate handles for these well-known individuals. Submissions ranged from the downright hilarious to some that just couldn't make it past the editor's blue pencil. Some seemed to fit the individual well but others were more subtle and required a bit of thought to connect the handle and the person. For example, would you immediately recognize some of our presidential hopefuls: "Goobar Gubru," "Cornpone," "Popeo Politico," or "Superstar"? These who picked these handles say they should belong to Jimmy Carter, George Wallace, Scoop Jackson and Ronald Reagan, respectively.

When we got down to state personalities, one proposed handle cropped up in various forms more than any other: "Sunshine," "Mr. Sunshine," "Sunshine Kid" and "Sunshine Superman." Gov. Askew and State Rep. Bobby Hattaway were the names attached to these handles ostensibly because of their involvement with bills pertaining to Florida's Sunshine Law. "Mr. Clean" came up several times, pencilled after the names of Gov. Askew and Sen. John Vogt. "Ms. C. C." came up only once, beside Sen. Lori Wilson's name.

There may be a general election just around the corner but there is only one candidate judging from the responses from Cbers. County Commissioner Sid Vihlen was the recipient of several votes for "the candidate" as his handle. That wasn't the only label for the Commissioner, though. Others included "Switch-Hitter," "Boy Wonder," and "Golden Boy."

One of Seminole's County Commissioners submitted his suggestions for the list and even came up with a handle for himself. How about these samples from his list: Sen. Lori Wilson — "Sunset Sally"; Sheriff John Polk — "Major Moustie"; or Sanford's Mayor Lee Moore — "Pet's Pains." The author of the "handles" will remain, anonymous, but he goes by the handle of "Poland Bulldog."

Some of the more colorful handles proposed for the list were as follows: President Ford — "First Pappa," "Headknocker," "First Mamma's Boy," "Veto One," "Vice Pres. Rockefeller," "Six Million Dollar Man," "Happy's Homeemaker," "Rocky Road," "Sec. Of State Kissinger — "Gloбетrotter," "Hopkin' John," "Peaceemaker," Ronald Reagan — "Movie Man," "Matinee Moses," "Gunslinger," Jimmy Carter — "Peanut Politician," "Fang," "Sunset Farmer," George Wallace — "Gov," "Cornpone," "Scoop Jackson — "Union Label," "Almost Ran," "Senator Boogie," Gov. Askew — "Snow White," "Honest Abe," "Mr. Clean," Sen. Lori Wilson — "Lady Libber," "Sunset Sally," Sen. John Vogt — "Vogt Getter," "Mr. Clean," Rep. Bob Hattaway — "Sunshine" in several forms. Rep. Vince Fechtel — "Link," "Mosquitman," "The Tailor," County Commission Chairman Mike Hattaway — "Bob's Cousin," "Gladhand," "The Chairman," County Commissioner Dick Williams — "Nilly Willie," "The Outlaw," County Commissioner Harry Kowalski — "Vinton II" "The Joker," County Commissioner John Kimbrogh — "Easy Rider," "Chicken Little," "Growler," County Commissioner Sid Vihlen — "Handshaker," "The Candidate" several times, Sheriff John Polk — "Big John," "Paper Bear," "Shogun," Mayor Lee Moore, Sanford — "Hizoner," "Silent One," Mayor Gerald Christensen, Casselberry — "Buckhorn Cowboy," "Yap Danee," Mayor Norman Floyd, Altamonte Springs — "Baby Sitter-Genie," "Head Honcho," "The Captain," Mayor Troy Piland, Winter Springs — "Fire Wuzzy," "The Hat," Mayor Jim Lortmann, Longwood — "Slime Jim," "Grant's Folley," "Big Jim," Mayor Leon Oliff, Oviedo — "The Oviedo Clipper," "The Barber," Mayor Walter Sorenson, Lake Mary — "Peaceful Livin' County Atty. Tom Freeman — "I n t e r p r e t o r . . . " "Everyman," "Enforcer." Of course some of those listed above are already avid Cbers and have their own handles such as Sheriff Polk who goes by the handle of "Seminole White Knight;" or Mayor Floyd who answers to "Handshaker." Perhaps some of the new ones suggested above might appeal to the established Cbers on the list enough to persuade them to adopt a new handle. After all, the public knows best. That's a Big Ten-four! We gone. Bye.
