Chapin has something to say to the Democrats

Yes, there are Democrats in Seminole County - and the West Seminole Democratic Club will be meeting at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, June 8 at Congregation Beth Am, 3899 Sand Lake Road in Longwood.

Linda Chapin, immediate past Orange County Chairperson and present Clerk of the Courts, will speak. Her topic: The Democratic Party in Central Florida - On the Doorstep of the 21st Century.

All interested are invited to attend - bring a Republican if you desire. Refreshments will be served, no RSVP needed. Call 260-2377 for more information.

On Thursday, June 10, the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee will meet at 7 p.m. at the Seminole County Library, 150 N. Palmetto Ave. in Sanford. The main topic is planning a major fund raising dinner later in the summer.

Marijuana found

Drug agents seized 160 marijuana plants valued at more than $100,000 inside a garage at a Casselberry home.

Daniel Scherer and Scott Damico appeared in federal court Tuesday and were ordered held without bail at the Seminole County Jail.

The garage at 7 Lotus Lake Drive, agents said, was used to store adult plants.

Cancer Screenings

Free skin cancer screenings are being offered at the Cancer Care Center of Central Florida Regional Hospital.

Area dermatologists will offer these screenings on Saturday, June 12 from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m.

For more information or an appointment, call, 1-800-445-3392.

Radio Days

Radio amateurs are going to have a couple of Field Days and fun on June 26 and June 27 at Lake Golden Park across from the Orlando Sanford Airport.

County ponders sales tax increase

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD - Voters in Seminole County may get to vote on a proposed 1/2-cent sales tax increase to fund improvements to the county's school facilities.

In a joint meeting of the Seminole County School Board and the County Commission on Tuesday, county leaders discussed a possible referendum on the 1/2-cent tax increase. School officials estimate the levy would generate $21 million per year, based on the current Seminole County tax base.

The tax would fund improvements to school facilities and campuses, land acquisition and land improvements.

If approved, Seminole would become

"This is going to be a hard sell ... We will have a hard time convincing people how much we need this money."

Sandra Robinson
Seminole County School Board

the ninth county in the state with a voter-approved sales tax to fund school improvements. Orange County voters rejected a similar tax proposal.

"This is going to be a hard sell," school board member Sandra Robinson said. "Our facilities are in pretty good shape. We don't have the type of emergency problems that other areas do. We will have a hard time convincing people how much we need this money."

School officials said there are a number of issues that need to be addressed, particularly concerning increased student population. Using projected growth calculations, school officials said the county will need five to six new elementary schools, one middle school and one high school within five years.

Little Wekiva River clean-up stalled

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

WEKIVA - Efforts to clean up Little Wekiva River suffered a setback last week.

County commissioners Carlton Henley and Randy Morris said they are unsure what effect Governor Jeb Bush veto last week of $1 million for Little Wekiva River restoration will have on the Wekiva River Study.

Henley said Bush's veto could lead to delays in the Wekiva River Study. The commission is perform studying the feasibility of development along the Wekiva River.

"This will cause us to back off and take another look at the financing," Henley said.

Morris said the clean-up efforts at Little Wekiva River could be put on hold.

"The county will not pay for the cleanup on its own," Morris said. "I can't speak for the entire commission. But, I can't imagine the county funding this on its own."

The Wekiva River restoration funding vetoed by Bush would have paid for surface water improvements. The river is heavily clogged with sand from upstream runoffs, according to environmentalists.

ETA in August? —

Pan Am delays flights

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD - Pan American Airlines officials announced they are delaying the start date for regularly scheduled domestic service out of the Orlando-Sanford Airport until August.

The airline had planned to start domestic flights out of Sanford this month. John Nadolny, senior vice president of Pan Am, said the delay will allow the airline to continue setting up its online computer reservation system.

"We want to get everything perfect and ready to go before we start flights," Nadolny said. "We don't want to jump in prematurely."

The airline's service will likely start with flights connecting Sanford to Philadelphia, Pa., Portsmouth, N.H., San Juan and Aguadilla Puerto Rico, Nadolny said.

Pan Am could also establish service through Sanford to Atlanta, Chicago and other cities in the eastern and midwestern U.S.

"That's absolutely still on the drawing board," Nadolny said. "We're definitely looking into getting out to the midwest, and cities like Atlanta, in the near future."

Pan Am officials have discussed establishing minihub service through Sanford to Portsmouth, San Juan, Newark, N.J., Atlanta, and Chicago.

"We'll expand the flights as the market demands," Nadolny said. The airline will provide the Orlando-Sanford Airport with its first regularly scheduled domestic service. Pan Am will have frequent service from Sanford, with flights leaving from the airport perhaps five to six days per week, Nadolny said.

The airline established its maintenance facility at the Orlando-Sanford Airport in March.

The Orlando-Sanford Airport handled about 1.1 million passengers in 1998. The majority of the passengers were British arriving on charter flights.

Sidewalks near county schools

By Russ White
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Have we got sidewalks for you, County Engineer Jerry McCollum assured members of the County School Board at Tuesday's joint meeting of the School Board and County Commissioners.

McCollum detailed the county's $3.5 million sidewalk program for the next seven years.

"The safety of our children is the No. 1 priority," McCollum said, stressing the responsibility to have sidewalks wherever there are children.

When the county commissioners last met, they approved plans for a number of new sidewalks including those along Oxford Road near the Indian Hills Elementary School.

This not only pleased the School Board members but resident/activist Stan Bessmer, who has lobbied for the sidewalks and a park in the area. He was successful in both efforts, and smiled throughout Tuesday's meeting.

"This is right, this is the way it should be," Bessmer said.

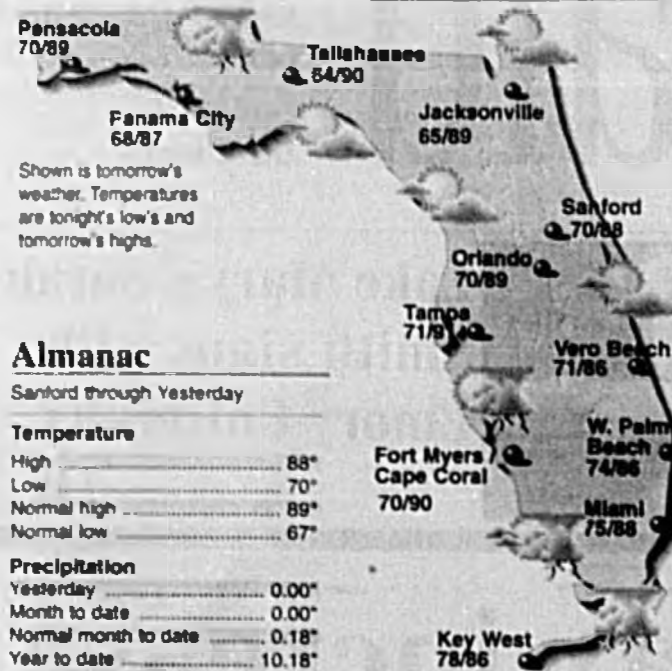

McCollum said the county was committed to an extensive sidewalk program - not only build-

False Crime Commission

Sanford - June 1-Randy J. Davis, 27, of Sanford, has been charged with filing a false report of the commission of a crime and a false stolen vehicle report. Charge narratives indicate Davis filed the false reports after a relative took Davis' rented automobile and was involved in a vehicle collision.

No brush-back pitches at 'inter-league meeting

The county commissioners and school commissioners had a joint meeting on Tuesday. It was just like inter-league baseball. The school commissioners asked if they could use Bob Goff as a designated hitter.

The county commissioners were without one of their starters - District 5 stalwart, Daryl McLain. He was vacationing in the Florida Keys. His pal, left-hander Randy Morris, covered for him.

The school commissioners quickly made it clear to the county commissioners that Yankee Lake wasn't a suitable site for an elementary school. It wasn't the name - Yankee - as much as the fact the proposed school site is next to the county sewerage treatment plant. "That's not appropriate," School Board Commissioner Barry Furlong said. "Take it back. Thanks, but we don't want it."

Furlong seemed to enjoy Tuesday's joint session of commissions. He's been on both sides - and knows how to play. Bold Barry was a county commissioner until he lost much of his hair. Now, he's raising eyebrows in school board skirmishes with Goff.

Anyone expecting some Furlong-Goff sparks Tuesday went away disappointed. Neither raised much fuss. Goff only spoke on a couple of occasions, once to say, "Creative people find creative solutions."

The biggest solution the two commissions are looking for is a way to gather $200 million. By unmet school needs, Furlong wasn't talking about the New York Mets. He was talking about

Ross Wynn

Staff Writer

unmet, non-funded monies to build five elementary schools. "You folks probably know what's coming," Furlong said, looking at County Commission Carlton Henley. "We could use some of that sales tax money to build schools. We're finding that funding is getting increasingly more difficult. So is finding 12-acre sites for schools."

Henley, a retired Lyman High School principal, said he wanted to help Furlong and his board. "We have needs, too," he said. "Roads, sidewalks, the zoo, a bigger jail, a courthouse. That's a lot of needs and wants."

Sandy Robinson, the tiniest school board member with perhaps the sharpest mind, reminded the other commissioners that the residents of the county will need to know how critical it is to build more schools. The citizens of Orange County voted a sales tax to fund schools in that county.

When the two-hour joint session ended at 4 p.m., both boards agreed they needed to go face-to-face again in October. It seemed absurd that it had been three years since their last joint session.

Tuesday's historic meeting was captured on Seminole County

Government TV, offering county residents a close-up look at 9 of the 10 commissioners they voted into office. For this glorious occasion, no one batted out of order or threw any brush-back pitches.

It had to be that way - there may have been children watching.

Almost anyone who owns a grill knows how to cook burgers, steak, chicken and even fish. But I am dedicating this column to the other foods that go well on the grill—vegetables, fruit—even as you'll see below, cake. The message here is: If you like a food cooked on a stove under a broiler or in the oven, go ahead and try it on the grill. In fact, you might find that the grilled taste makes you partial to some foods you never liked before.

These recipes come from a variety of sources: Michael McLaughlin's "All on the Grill," a new book from Weber called "Weber's Art of the Grill," and Chris Schlesinger and John Willoughby's "License to Grill."

Note: Weber runs a hot line for consumers who have grilling questions (800-474-5368, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. CST through Labor Day). Callers will receive a free booklet "Beyond Burgers Barbecue."

GRILLED PINEAPPLE AND POUND CAKE WITH KAHLUA FUDGE SAUCE

- 18 chunks (1-1/2-inch across) fresh pineapple
- 12 cubes (1- and 1/2-inch each) crustless pound cake
- 3 tablespoons unsalted butter melted and slightly cooled
- 1-1/4 cups prepared fudge sauce
- 1/4 cup Kahlua or other coffee liqueur

Light a medium hot fire in a charcoal grill or preheat a gas grill to medium.

Divide the pineapple chunks and cake cubes among 6 flat metal skewers, alternating them. Lightly brush the exposed sides of the cake cubes with the melted butter.

In a small saucepan, combine the fudge sauce and Kahlua. Cook over low heat, stirring often, until hot. Remove from heat and keep warm.

When the fire is ready, lay the skewers on the rack. Cover and grill, turning the skewers until the cake is well marked and the pineapple is slightly marked by the rack, about 2 minutes.

Spoon the fudge sauce onto 6 plates. Slide the pineapple pieces and cake cubes from the skewers onto the sauce and serve while warm.

Note: An alternate method of preparation is to cut the cake and the pineapple into slices and grill them in a flat, two-sided grill basket. The kebab method is easier, however. Yield: 6 servings.

Recipe from "All on the Grill," by Michael McLaughlin (HarperCollins, 1997).

TUSCAN-STYLE ARTICHOKE

- 3 medium artichokes, 8 to 10 ounces each
- juice of 1 lemon
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 3 tablespoons white wine vinegar
- 1/4 cup dry white wine
- 3 large cloves garlic, peeled and

Grilled Pineapple and Poundcake with Kahlua Fudge Sauce

- thinly sliced
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh thyme
- 1/2 teaspoon kosher salt
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground pepper

Preheat oven to 450 degrees.

Cut each artichoke into quarters lengthwise, dropping them immediately into a bowl of water mixed with the juice of 1 lemon to avoid discoloration. With a small, sharp knife, scoop out and discard the hairy "chokes."

In a large saute pan, mix the olive oil, vinegar, wine, garlic, parsley, thyme, salt and pepper. Arrange the artichoke quarters in one layer, with one cut side facing down, in the saute pan. Place the pan on the stovetop and bring the mixture to a boil over high heat for about 10 seconds. Then place the pan in the oven and roast the artichokes, turning once so that the other cut sides face down, until golden brown and barely tender, about 15 minutes total. The artichoke quarters may be prepared to this point several hours ahead and set aside at room temperature.

Prepare a hot fire in the grill or preheat a gas grill to high.

Pick up the artichoke quarters with tongs, if hot, and allow any excess oil to drip away. Grill the artichokes directly over high heat, turning occasionally until they are nicely browned, 4 to 5 minutes. Serve warm. Yield: 4 servings.

Recipe from "Weber's Art of the Grill," (Chronicle Books, 1999).

CHOPPED GRILLED VEGETABLE SALAD

- 2 medium eggplants (about 2 pounds total) trimmed and cut crosswise on an angle into 1/2-inch slices
- 1 medium-large zucchini (about 1-1/4 pounds total) quartered lengthwise
- 3 medium-large yellow squash (about 1-1/4 pounds total) quartered lengthwise
- 4 large bell peppers, ideally 2 each of red and green, cut into wedges
- 1 large red onion, peeled and halved horizontally
- 1/2 cup plus 1 tablespoon olive oil (3 tablespoons total)
- 3 tablespoons balsamic vinegar
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

Light a hot fire in a charcoal grill or preheat a gas grill to medium-high. Coat the vegetable pieces lightly with the olive oil. When the grill is hot, working in batches, lay the vegetables on the rack. Cover and grill, turning them once, until they are tender and well marked by the fire, about 10 minutes total for the eggplants, zucchini, squash and red onion, about 8 minutes for the bell peppers. Remove from heat and allow to cool.

Carefully chop the vegetable into 1-inch pieces. In a large bowl, toss the vegetables and the remaining 1/2 tablespoon olive oil, the vinegar, salt and pepper. Serve at room temperature. Yield: 10 servings.

Recipe from "All on the Grill," by Michael McLaughlin (HarperCollins, 1997).

GRILLED BANANAS AND PINEAPPLE WITH RUM MOLASSES GLAZE

- 1/4 cup dark rum
- 1/4 cup molasses
- 1/4 cup unsalted butter
- 2 tablespoons fresh lime juice (about 1 lime)
- 4 bananas, unpeeled, halved lengthwise
- 1/2 ripe pineapple, unpeeled, sliced 1/2 inch thick
- 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 pint of your favorite ice cream

Preheat a medium fire on a grill or preheat a gas grill to medium.

In a small saucepan, combine the rum, molasses, butter and lime juice. Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently until the butter is melted and the ingredients are well blended. Remove from the heat.

Rub the banana halves and pineapple slices lightly with the oil. Place on the grill with the bananas cut side down and grill over a medium fire for about 3 minutes, or until bananas are just golden and the pineapple slices have acquired light grill marks. Flip the fruit over, pour with the rum molasses glaze and grill for an additional 4 minutes. Remove from the grill.

Divide the bananas and pineapple slices among four dishes. Peel them, first, if you want to spoil your guests. Top each dish with a scoop of ice cream. If there is any leftover glaze, drizzle it over the ice cream. Yield: 4 servings.

MARIALISA CALTA

Snubbed bride has several options

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from "Still Steaming in S.F.," I have to wonder what kind of a man "John" is to have allowed his fiancée to be publicly snubbed at his law partner's dinner party.

"Steaming" should think twice about marrying someone who would do nothing in a situation of this sort, and if she does decide to go through with it, she should exclude the law partner and his wife from the wedding. If she does relent and invite them, the invitation should be addressed to the husband only.

Abby, a marriage should and must come before any business arrangement. If it doesn't, beware the future. It will be filled with similar "snubs" and a husband who sacrifices his life partner's feelings in favor of his working partner's.

BEEN THERE.

DEAR BEEN THERE: Although the fiancée could have been more sensitive to the treatment "Steaming" is receiving, I'm not sure the incident is a dire preview of her future with the man. The hostess showed appalling bad manners. However, I do not agree that "Steaming" should stoop to the same level by excluding the couple from the guest list, or by improperly addressing their invitation. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I have the perfect solution for "Steaming in S.F." Of course she must invite that dreadful woman to the wedding! Her husband's career will be the casualty if she doesn't. However, she can get some revenge in a subtle yet satisfying manner if she's having a sit-down dinner at the reception.

At every wedding, there's one table where the hostess seats those guests who just don't seem to fit in with the others. Usually, at least one of the people at this table is a distant relative who never shuts up and has an opinion about everything. Seat "Mrs. X" next to this guest. Maybe she'll even leave early!

The school district is facing $200 million in capital needs over the next five years beyond what has been funded, according to Dianne Kramer, director of facilities for the school district.

The most urgent needs are for elementary schools in northwest Seminole County. The new high school will be placed on the Lawton Chiles Middle School facility in Oviedo around 2004-2005, saving the county the expense of building a new high school facility.

Lawton Chiles Middle School would be forced to relocate. The new middle school facility would cost $20 million, Kramer said.

"We have a lot of unfunded need needs," school board chairman Larry Furlong said.

One of those unfunded needs is shrinking school capacity to can not accommodate smaller class sizes.

"If we don't get funding for buildings, class sizes will have to go up," school board member Jeanne Morris said.

The school board wants to invest in new classroom technology, furniture and equipment replacement, land acquisition for future facilities and for improved access to current facilities, and parking improvements.

In addition, the school board wants to expand school security and monitoring systems, renovate restroom facilities to meet requirements of the Americans with Disabilities Act, and expand transportation facilities and bus parking areas.

"We have borrowed to the maximum extent that we are able for the past eight years," Furlong said.

In the school board's current five-year plan, 4 percent of all school expenditures would go toward servicing the district's debt.

If the school board adopts a resolution imposing the levy, it could be placed before voters as early as November. However, officials said the tax would not take effect until Jan. 2002, after the county's one-cent tax for road improvements expires. Board members did not decide how long the proposed sales tax would last.

The tax must be passed by voters at least 60 days before it would take effect. Before voters are asked to approve the tax, the school board would detail the type of projects the tax would fund.

A committee of parents, business leaders, real estate agents and one school board member is studying the need for the 1.2-cent tax, and will report to the board in September.

"Obviously, a voter-approved sales tax is a pretty wonderful source of funding," Furlong said.

The school board asked the county for help in identifying land that could be exchanged for use as school sites. The district needs sites of at least 12-15 acres for new elementary schools. The school board is considering a proposed elementary school site in Chuluota. However, the board has ruled out building an elementary school near Yankee Lake because of its proximity to a county sewage treatment facility.

"We are finding it increasingly difficult to find school sites," Furlong said.

The county commissioners have not decided whether to ask voters for an extension of the penny tax. The levy, adopted in 1991, expires in Sept. 2001.

County Commission Chairman Carlton Henley said staff will report whether the county needs an extension of the tax in July or August.

If the county decides to ask voters for an extension of the one-cent tax for transportation projects, the school board could request to split the funds with the county.

The two boards asked their staff members to set up another joint board meeting in October.

DeSantis joins Herald

From Staff Reports

Joe DeSantis, former Sports Editor for the Sanford Herald, has joined the Seminole Herald as a General Assignment reporter.

DeSantis

Joe DeSantis, former Sports Editor for the Sanford Herald, has joined the Seminole Herald as a General Assignment reporter.

A long time Seminole County resident, DeSantis served as Herald Sports Editor from 1978 to 1980 and later covered the Seminole County Commission as well as Longwood and Casselberry City governments.

"We're glad to have Joe join our team," said Herald editor Dan Ping. "Joe's knowledge of the area, combined with his skills as a journalist, will be a tremendous asset to the newspaper. I look forward to working with Joe and know our readers will enjoy reading his articles."

DeSantis has also served as a radio news program director in Florida, Pennsylvania and New Hampshire, and a college instructor at Edinboro University of Pennsylvania and Florida Southern College, Orlando.

He holds a Bachelors Degree in Speech Communications and a Masters Degree in Communication Studies from Edinboro University of Pennsylvania.

"It's exciting to be back in Central Florida and back into print journalism," said the veteran reporter.

DeSantis and his wife, Deborah, have recently returned from a year-long stay in Alaska, where he worked as Community Relations Director for the Kodiak Island Chamber of Commerce. They reside in Sanford with their two Golden Retrievers, Chance and Mae.

Morris and Henley said they were shocked by Bush's veto of the Wekiva project.

"I was flabbergasted when I heard that it got vetoed," chairman Henley said. "I thought it well met Bush's criteria, that it didn't just benefit Seminole County."

Morris said he hopes a request to fund clean-up efforts in Little Wekiva River will be approved next year.

"This is an expensive program," Morris said. "We're trying to enhance the Wekiva River Basin."

Although Bush approved $6 million in funding for the Orlando-Sanford Airport and $125,000 for Sanford's Ritz Theatre, he vetoed Seminole County requests such as $1 million for drainage projects on U.S. highway 17-92, and $200,000 for Cross Seminole Trail.

Bush vetoed a record-setting $313 million in funding for projects statewide while signing the $48.6 billion state budget. He said he vetoed projects with a localized impact that did not benefit residents regionally.

"He was trying to instill discipline in state spending," Morris said. "For that he should be saluted."

ing new sidewalks but renovating or replacing those that were not safe.

McCollum listed 39 projects that were begun or under design for the county. Airport Blvd. was completed, Markam Woods Rd. was under design, Zinnia Drive was to be constructed by August, Oxford Road was under design.

The Board of County Commissioners directed the sidewalk program, a reversal from the previous policy that placed most of the responsibility on neighborhoods, owners associations and individual property owners.

The Board said that it was the county's responsibility to maintain the sidewalks just as it was to maintain roads. There have been complaints and several suits because of bad sidewalks.

"We're taking care of business," McCollum said. "The children will be safe on our sidewalks."

Local attorney Hugh Trees, 46, dies after stroke

Attorney Philip "Hugh" Trees, who in recent years challenged Seminole County's anti-nudity laws on behalf of adult club owners, died Tuesday after suffering a stroke Monday.

Trees, 46, specialized in First Amendment cases and helped Orange County write its anti-nudity ordinance in 1983. He defended the law and help keep a topless bar out of Eatonville.

A meticulous and dedicated attorney, Trees was well respected by his peers although many were disappointed when he began defending the adult clubs rather than fighting them.

Trees taught Sunday School at Sanlando United Methodist Church and coached a number of boys hockey and baseball teams.

He was a president of the Orange County Bar Association and the Orange County Legal Aid Society. He lived in Apopka and had his office in Maitland.

Trees is survived by two sons -

Philip and Andrew, who were with him when Trees suffered his stroke. He was driving the boys home from a movie.

"I regret the impact of Hugh's death on his family," Seminole County Deputy Attorney Lonnie Groot said today.

"He was a great lawyer," said Dick Wilson, a colleague.

Take the 'six pound challenge' at Cattle Ranch Steakhouse

One of the best kept secrets in Sanford is a little restaurant nestled on Sanford Avenue.

Cattle Ranch Steakhouse has been in business since 1984. The reason for the longevity is the quality of the steaks and dinners served.

Family owned and operated by Hansford and Marilyn Gallagher, Cattle Ranch Steakhouse prides itself on serving only the best possible meals at the best possible price in the best possible atmosphere.

Walking into Cattle Ranch is like stepping onto the old frontier. The decor makes you want to sit at a bonfire, eat a steak cooked over an open pit and tell terrain stories.

From the large selection of appetizers to daily dessert specials, no one will go hungry at Cattle Ranch. Each meal is served with salad, choice of potato and fresh baked bread. Appetizers aren't ordered very often due to the huge portions and many extras.

Speaking of large portions, is anyone brave enough to tackle the six pound challenge? If anyone can finish the six pound steak (yes, six pounds!) in one sitting, the meal is free and you get your picture on the wall. Not an easy task, for sure.

If six pounds is a little much for you, you can choose one of the slightly smaller steaks. Each steak is aged and cut on the premises. You will never be served a frozen steak at the Cattle Ranch. Even if steak isn't your thing, there is a full compliment of chicken entrees to choose from as well.

Instead of heading out to one of those big steak houses, check out the Cattle Ranch. You won't be disappointed.

JEFF BERLINCKE

Assistant Sports Editor

Just a few thoughts about the spring season

SANFORD - Sorry I've been away for the past few weeks. Some new responsibilities at the paper, but, to the couple of people who check me out every week, I'm back.

Anyway, there's a lot to catch up on, especially the end of the Seminole County sports season. There's a few comments we need to make about the spring sports year, so, on a personal level, here it goes:

You know, I never realized how much athletic directors do on the high school level until talking with a few of them recently. They deserve an awful lot more ink than they get.

Rick Tribit at Winter Springs, maybe, more than any of them. Not only is he in only his second year at Winter Springs, a brand new school, but he has to deal with a travel log that requires an atlas. While other schools in the county play districts close to home, the Bears are usually off to Cocoa Beach or somewhere else in the middle of nowhere.

And that isn't all. Assuming the Bears advance through districts, and it's on to regionals, Winter Springs is usually off to the Miami area.

Still, with all of the travel, Winter Springs found a way to win state titles in girls basketball and girls track. It took some great efforts from the kids and coaches, but give Tribit a lot of credit for arranging a brutal travel itinerary.

As sportswriters, we can only do so much. Still, there are no excuses for not giving more coverage to the Lake Mary boys tennis team and Seminole boys track team, both of whom won state titles. The baseball and lacrosse players get the press, but we forget sometimes how hard the so-called minor-sports battle it out and how much the kids and coaches put into their programs.

Seminole County saw some great baseball this year even though it ended a bit early as Oviedo and Lake Mary, the teams that made it through districts, didn't fare well in the state playoffs, but we still had some highlights.

Oviedo's Paul Lujbrano and Larry Grayson, for starters, are sure to be among the best in Central Florida next year, and Lake Mary's Jose Tormos was the best player in the county this season. Look for him to be drafted somewhere during today's major league draft. And if any team wants to take a shot on the best defensive catcher to come around in a long time, they'll take a shot at Lake Mary's Brandon Haney.

He has a cannon. Also, keep an eye on Justin Harris at Lake Brantley, a big hitter who is already signed at Austin Peay, but should go somewhere today.

While we're on the subject of baseball, how about the contributions of some key freshmen this year?

It says a lot about the Little League and Babe Ruth systems in Seminole County that freshmen are able to come in and start right away.

Keep a special eye on Lake Mary shortstop Matt Horwath and Oviedo outfielder Brett Murphy who are sure to be the standouts in the Class of 2002.

Sharks, Sunniland edge Curt's Alleycats in Women's Softball

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - What a great night of softball.

There were two scares and an upset as the City of Sanford Recreation and Parks Department Women's Spring Slow Pitch Softball League began the home stretch Tuesday night at Pinehurst Park.

Curt's Alleycats had the golden opportunity to keep its very slim championship hopes alive as it had a doubleheader scheduled against the top two teams in the league.

And the challengers put up a super effort, taking both the Sharks and Sunniland Corporation down to the wire before falling 14-13 and 18-15, respectively.

The upset came in the late contest as Carol Gardner ripped a two-out, two-run inside-the-park home run in the top of the eighth inning as Don Pablos of Sanford won its first game of the season, 10-8, over Vaughan Incorporated.

With the slim victories the Sharks (8-1) maintained their half-game lead over Sunniland Corporation (7-1) and now are the only teams with a chance to win the league title.

Completing the standings are Vaughan Incorporated (3-5), Curt's Alleycats (2-7) and Don Pablos of Sanford (1-7).

Next Tuesday at Pinehurst Park, Vaughan Incorporated takes on Curt's Alleycats at 6:30 p.m. and Don Pablos of Sanford gets the opportunity to be the spotters as it plays the doubleheader against the Sharks at 7:30 p.m. and Sunniland Corporation at 8:30 p.m.

Today at Pinehurst Park, the Wednesday Men's League takes the field with league-leading Tennessee Country Saloon battling co-second place Courtyard by Marriott of Lake Mary at 6:30 p.m.; co-fourth place AAA Services challenging co-second place Pebble Junction at 7:30

Five still in AAA softball running

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

LAKE MARY - I.S. finally tasted defeat and now five of the six teams in the City of Lake Mary Department of Parks and Recreation AAA Polar Bear Slow Pitch Softball League are within a game of the league lead.

On May 19th, Cross/Bones scored 11 runs in the fifth inning to pull out a 13-10 victory over Map Attack, the Bombats did a little 'bombing,' clubbing Liberty Mutual I, 23-6, and I.S. improved to 3-0, scoring five runs in the fifth inning to edge Liberty Mutual II, 17-13.

Last Wednesday night (May 26th) at the Lake Mary Sports Complex, Liberty Mutual I scored four runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to upset Cross/Bones, 8-7; the Bombats scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to upend I.S. for the first time, 6-3; and Liberty Mutual II scored at least three runs in every inning to even its record at 2-2 with a 21-2 whipping of Map Attack.

The standings after four weeks are I.S. and Bombats (both 3-1), Cross/Bones, Liberty Mutual I and Liberty Mutual II (all 2-2) and Map Attack (0-4).

The AAA League plays a tripleheader every Wednesday night at the Lake Mary Sports Complex on Rantoul Lane starting at 6:30 p.m.

Providing the offense were:

Crispell, Smith join Lake Mary teammates on college decisions

By Jeff Berlincke
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

LAKE MARY - The softball season at Lake Mary High ended a little bit too soon for the Rams.

The defending state champs went out early in the state regionals, but the softball careers of the seven seniors who tasted so much success in their four years will go on.

At least six of the even seniors have now signed college letters-of-intent and the other is expected to walk on.

The latest signings at Lake Mary were Sarah Smith who inked with Emory University, and Jackie Crispell who will attend Yale.

Yale doesn't offer athletic scholarships as an Ivy League School, but Crispell is sure to make the team.

Crispell earned Summa Cum Laude honors at last week's graduation and achieved a grade point average of over 4.0, so Yale was interested, but not just in her brain.

"I sent them a letter and a video and I always wanted to go there," Crispell said. "The coach was interested and I stayed on the campus during my visit in January and loved it."

Smith heard all about Emory University, in Atlanta, from Crispell.

"Jackie told me all about it," she said. "I loved the campus and it just went on from there. I liked it a lot."

Both players were surprised the year ended so suddenly. Last season, the team started playing average ball but picked up the pace as the season moved along. The opposite was true this year.

After jumping out to a strong start, Lake Mary High School softball finished with a record of 12-12. Please see Signings, Page 3B

Corporation scored eight runs in the bottom of the first inning and after Curt's Alleycats scored a run in the top of the second inning, Sunniland Corporation came up with a six-run third inning to take a 14-7 lead.

Curt's Alleycats closed to within 14-13 with a six-run fifth inning only to see Sunniland Corporation get a run back in the bottom of the frame.

Curt's Alleycats made the comeback complete in the sixth inning, scoring two runs to tie the game at 15-15.

Sunniland Corporation was not ready to give in though, scoring three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to take an 18-15 lead.

Curt's Alleycats tried to rally again in the top of the seventh inning, loading the bases with two out, but could not push the runs across the plate and dropping a disappointing doubleheader.

Doing the damage for Sunniland Corporation were Barb Martin (two singles, three runs scored, two RBI), Ann Larus (two singles, two runs scored, one RBI), Kim Myers and Dino Wilson (two singles, one run scored and one RBI each) and Teresa Finck (two singles, three runs scored).

Other hitters were Shelli Walters, Carol Cranick and Becky McCarman (one single, one run scored and one RBI each), Belinda Anderson (one single, two runs scored) and Micki Lewis (three runs scored).

Doing the hitting for Curt's Alleycats were Sue Nickell (three singles, three runs scored, one RBI), Becky Simpson (three singles, one run scored, three RBI), Julie Knecht (two singles, two runs scored, one RBI), Barbie Bartell (two singles, three RBI), Dee Walden (two singles, one run scored), Mary Swift (three runs scored) and Kim Curtis and Sharon Ritchie (one run scored each).

Curt's Alleycats got off to a fast start in the second game, scoring six runs in the top of the first inning, but as it would do the whole evening, Sunniland Corporation would answer with big innings of its own.

champions, seven weeks to get its first win, and it made it exciting.

Vaughan Incorporated took a 3-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning on a three-run home run by Cindy Giles.

Don Pablos of Sanford came back to take a 4-3 lead by scoring two runs in each of the second and fourth innings.

Vaughan Incorporated answered by plating five runs in the fifth inning to regain the lead, before Don Pablos of Sanford replied by scoring two runs in the sixth and seventh innings to tie the game at 8-8 and force extra innings.

Vaughan Incorporated looked like it would have a chance to win as the first two batters of the eighth inning for Don Pablos of Sanford grounded out.

But Carol Pendarvis kept the game alive by reaching on an error and Garner smacked her home run to win the game.

Pacing the Don Pablos of Sanford attack were Amanda Hunt (four singles, one run scored, one RBI), Carol Garner (one home run, one single, two runs scored, two RBI), Dawn Orimes (one triple, one single, three runs scored, two RBI) and Marie Byrd (one double, one single, two runs scored, one RBI).

Others, Lynette Barkley (two singles, two RBI), Keri Albritton (two singles, one RBI), Shay Brown (one single, one run scored), Kelly Otero (one single), Sue Hunt (one RBI) and Carol Pendarvis (one run scored).

Hitting for Vaughan Incorporated were Bree Davis (three singles, one run scored), Cindy Giles (one home run, one single, two runs scored, four RBI), Bonnie Chaplin (two singles, two runs scored), Debbie Doring (two singles, one RBI), Lynn Webb (one single, one run scored, one RBI), Pam Corneli and Sunnie Mulkey (one single each), Liz Turner (two runs scored) and Luanne MacIsaac (one RBI).

Orlando's Harpring, Doleac make NBA All-Rookie teams

Special to the Herald

NEW YORK - Schick Rookie of the Year Vince Carter of the Toronto Raptors is joined on the 1998-99 Schick All-Rookie First Team by Orlando's Matt Harpring, Boston's Paul Pierce, Sacramento's Jason Williams and Vancouver's Mike Bibby, the NBA announced on Tuesday.

The voting panel consisted of the NBA's 29 head coaches, who were asked to select five players for the Schick All-Rookie First Team and five players for the Second Team, regardless of position.

Coaches were not permitted to vote for players from their own team. Points were awarded on a 2-1 basis.

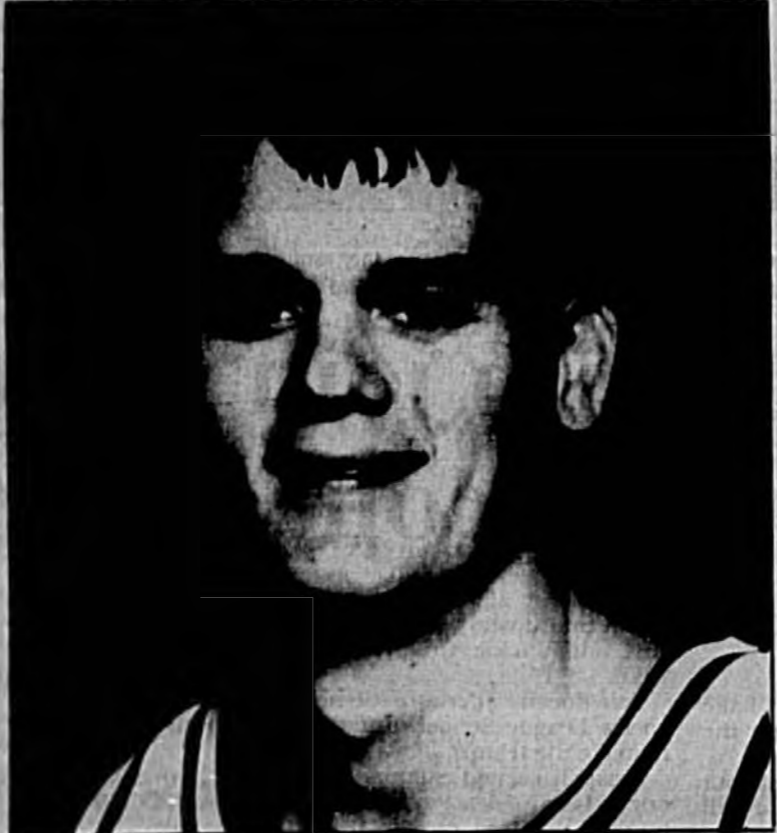

Carter and Pierce, with 56 points each, were unanimous selections and were followed in the voting by Williams (54 points), Bibby (51 points) and Harpring (50 points).

The Schick All-Rookie Second Team consisted of Houston's Michael Dickerson (33 points) and Cuttino Mobley (26 points), Orlando's Michael Doleac (30 points), Los Angeles Clipper Michael Olowokandi (22 points) and Golden State's Antawn Jamison (21 points).

Carter, from Daytona Beach Mainland and the University of North Carolina, Williams, from the University of Florida, Pierce and Bibby were the only players named on the maximum 28 ballots.

Carter and Pierce received 28 First Team votes each, and Williams, Bibby and Harpring finished with 27, 19 and 10 First Team votes, respectively.

Matt Harpring was selected to the NBA All-Rookie First Team on Tuesday. Joining the Magic forward on the First Team were Daytona Beach's Vince Carter, Florida grad Jason Williams, Paul Pierce and Mike Bibby.

HOROSCOPES

Thursday, June 3, 1999

Because of the influential contacts you're about to make in the year ahead, it looks like you'll be moving up into classier circles of friends. Their associations will prove very helpful to you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) People who find themselves in your company will be truly blessed today, because your enthusiasm and warmth uplifts the spirits of those who are down and need a note of good will. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Giving and helping others is a natural instinct for you. When you do so today, it'll turn out to be more of a joyous experience than normal as you witness the happy results.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) When others see you are truly serious and earnest about a new endeavor you're undertaking today, chances are they'll jump on board and enthusiastically support your cause.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) When plotting your strategy today as to how to acquire a material objective, be sure to incorporate bold, prompt actions in order to insure success. Your goal can be realized.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There is far more sunshine in the world than shadows. You'll quickly discover this today by stepping into the light where you can look problems in the eye and watch them be defused.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If an associate with whom you enjoy a partnership arrangement is doing as good of a job as you could do, don't jump in and rock the boat. Sit back and enjoy the ride.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) What a diplomat you are today! You have the ability to say something painful that needs saying, but you'll do so in a way that'll seem more like a compliment than criticism.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today is the day to concentrate on a meaningful career goal, because when you apply your efforts and energy on this important target, you won't miss your mark.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) In a social situation where the progress has not been up to your satisfaction, step in and personally take control. You're the one who can bring it all together for everyone.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) If there is something constructive you can do today which would benefit everyone in your family, then by all means do so. Don't be so shy that you don't give it a try.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Act together as a unit today when it comes to deliberations that are important to both you and your mate. When your minds are in harmony, favorable results can occur.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today's aspects favor financial dealings that are geared towards making a profit. If you get an inkling of yields in the making, do all that is required to earn your fair share.

WIN AT BRIDGE

A nail-biting finish

By Phillip Alder

Bridge is an unusual game in that the players don't know the exact situation. In other sports, everyone knows the score, so participants can adjust strategy in "real time." Bridge players cannot always be certain who's ahead.

However, if there is a Vu-Graph, which displays the deals on a screen, the spectators can live through the tension of a photo finish.

This deal was the final one in this year's Junior Camrose, an under-25 event between England, Ireland (Eire), Scotland and Wales. (Northern Ireland didn't compete for some reason.) With one round to go, the scoreboard read like this: England 98, Scotland 97, Wales 95, Ireland 30. Wales won 18-2 against Ireland, so England needed 16 for victory, Scotland 17. This was the final deal, at which point England had a small lead. The English East-West pair had bid and made six clubs.

On the Vu-Graph, the auction began as shown. East's four no-trump asked for specific aces. (For example, a reply of five diamonds by West would indicate the diamond ace.) Five no-trump described the big minor two-suiter. Now North, Jon Green, started to think. Three times the commentator said that North was doing the right thing in taking his time. As you can see, if he had passed and led the "obvious" (according to the reporter) ace and another diamond, he would have beaten the slam. But taking the prudent course, he sacrificed in six spades. East doubled and scored both his aces: one down.

This favorable result allowed England to eke out a two-point victory.

ASK DR. GOTT

Butter-vs.-margarine debate rages on

DEAR DR. GOTT: I regularly read your column and almost feel that I know you. I particularly like your tendency to speak out when the situation requires it. As a result of your writing, I have been able to keep up with — and occasionally scold — my various doctors. Now to my question. Which is more healthful, butter or margarine?

DEAR READER: Thank you for the compliments. Keep reading and scolding.

Although there is some disagreement in the medical community, most authorities recommend margarine over butter for people on low-cholesterol diets. Butter is rich in saturated fat; corn-oil margarine isn't. It's true that some milk-free spreads contain substances that we could do without, but — on balance — this drawback is not a serious consideration. Butter is OK for people with low cholesterol levels (200 milligrams per deciliter or less). Unlike the preacher who, garlic on his breath, promises life after death, I am not suggesting that the butter-margarine debate is over. But in today's nutrition-conscious climate, the consensus is that butter should be used sparingly if at all by those of us who follow a prudent, low saturated-fat diet.

To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Understanding Cholesterol." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: About two years ago my heart sounded like it was playing the obligato to "A Little Rosewood Casket." Three separate doctors were unable to help me. I self-treated with zinc and vitamin B and have been fine ever since. What do you make of this?

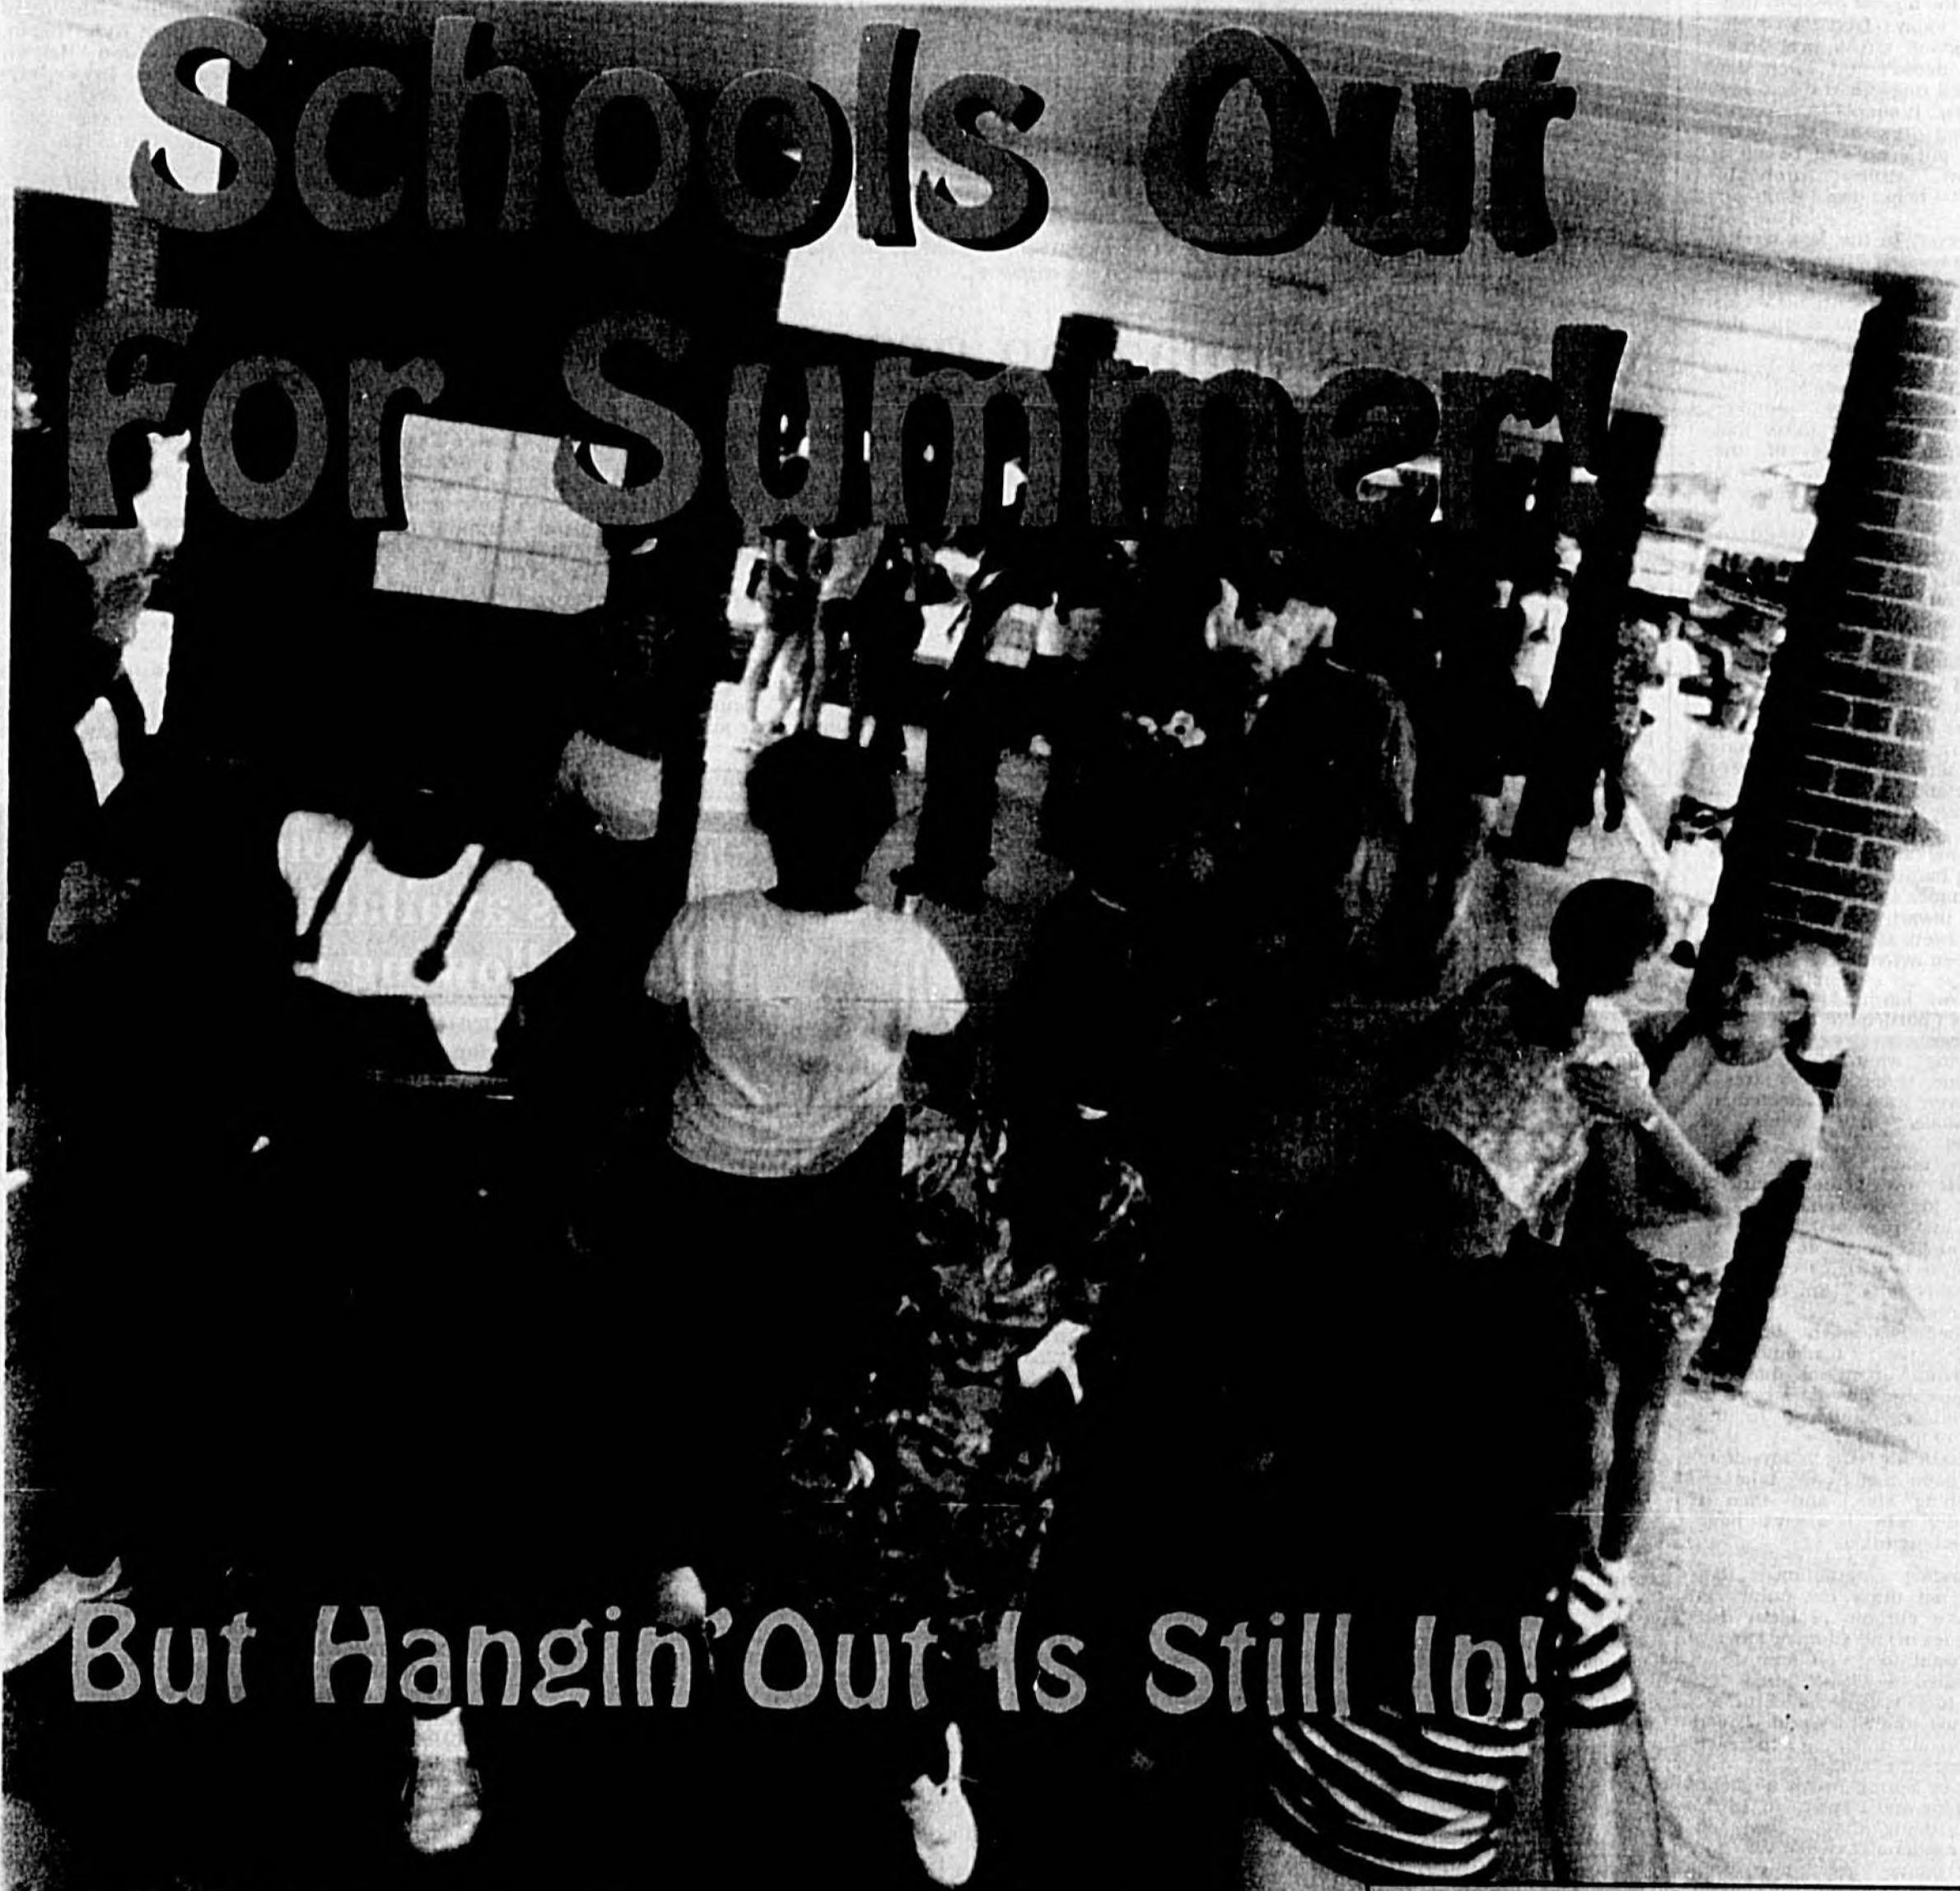

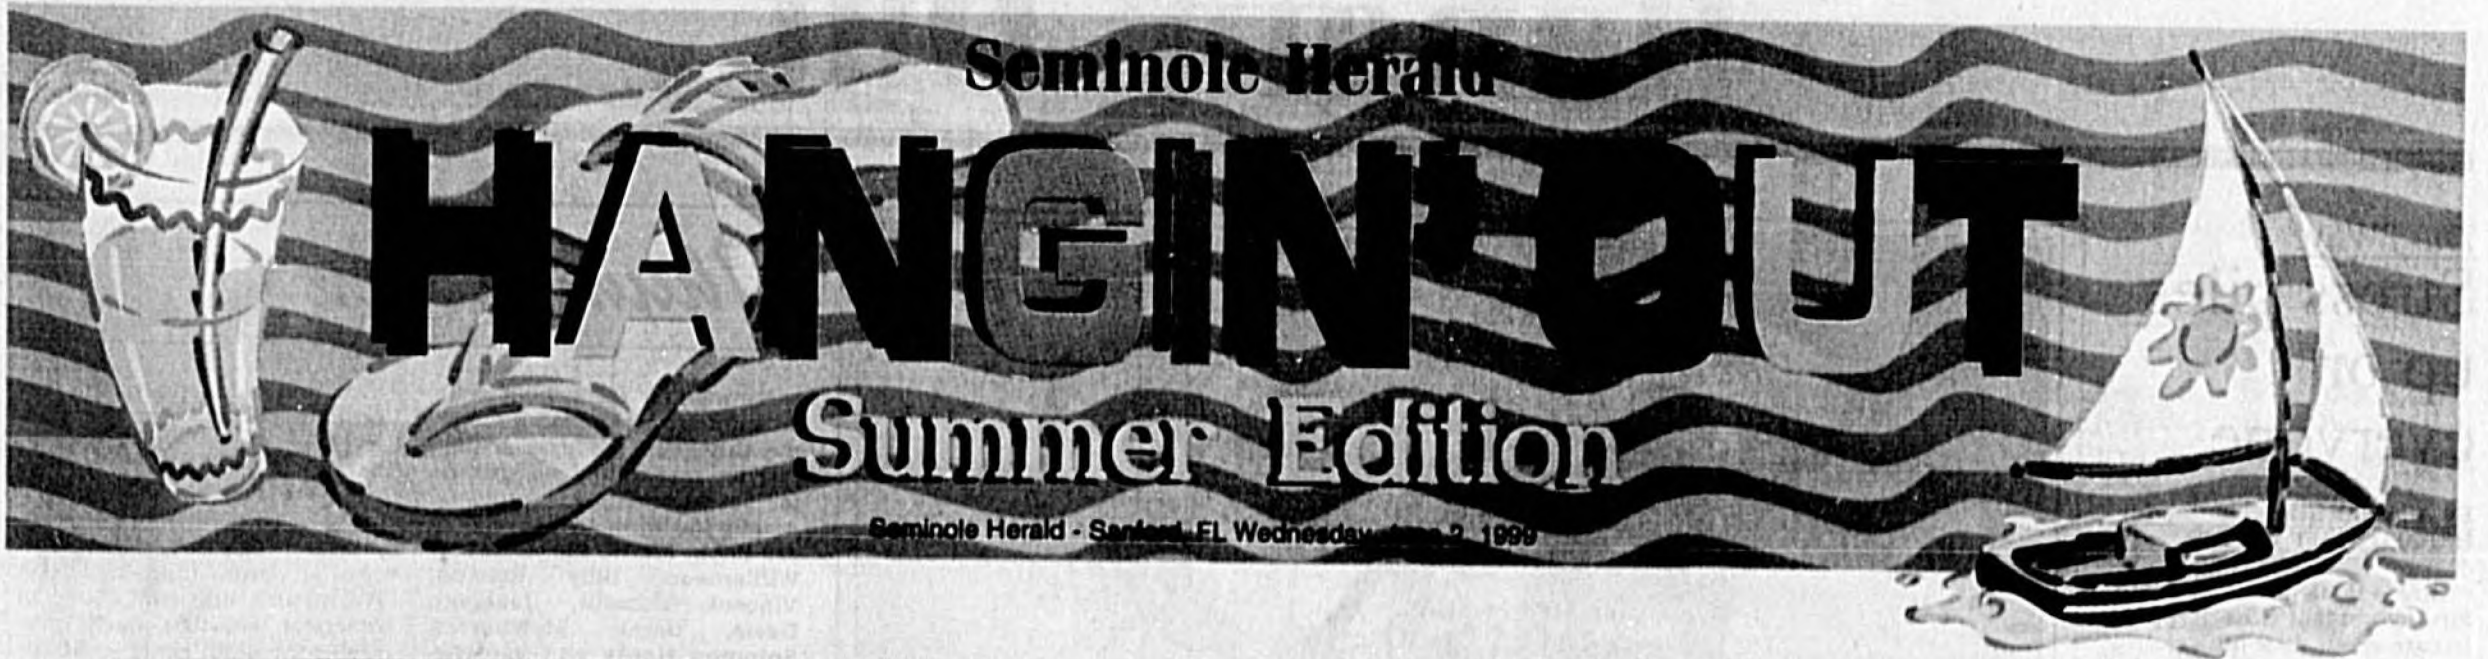

DEAR READER: I make of this that you are musically sophisticated. Other than that, you may have been deficient in zinc or vitamin B. As long as your heart doesn't mimic the percussion section of a Stravinsky symphony, you are probably OK.

DEAR DR. GOTT: If AIDS can be spread by contaminated blood transfusions, why can't it be carried by a mosquito from one person to another?

DEAR READER: This is a fascinating question that has puzzled me for years. I have never been able to track down an answer. It makes sense that if a mosquito bit a person with AIDS and then subsequently nibbled on another victim, the AIDS virus could be transmitted. Moreover, the disease is said to have originated in tropical Africa where mosquitoes are endemic. Perhaps an enterprising AIDS researcher will ask this question, zero in on the question, and come up with an answer.

The ?Why? Stress piles up on everyone

By Amy Guenther
HERALD STAFF WRITER

Stress is an everyday word, for any student (who happens to care about their future). It is the biggest problem that teens today face. I have tremendous stress problems, and it doesn't end when the final bell rings for the last day of school, it simply lessens. During the school year, stress piles up and being a tri-sport athlete probably doesn't help my situation much.

However, in the last weeks of school, between golf conference and district championship tournaments to AP tests and final exams, my stress level overflows. I think that once I began attending high school the purpose of my summer vacation altered. I think that the main purpose of the summer is to allow me to recover from the last weeks of school.

If all my stresses could be spread out a little more I wouldn't need to spend weekends at the beach and days at Kelley Park and the mall.

I would still want to, but it would no longer be an absolute necessity that is vital to my sanity.

Don't take this the wrong way, summer vacation is very important, it is mostly a recovery time and a time for "kids to be kids." However, now my summer vacation is being hampered.

Summer sports and summer jobs, thwart my fun. Luckily I have been able to have fun in between activities.

I also am currently in love with my job and I love the sports I participate in over the summer.

Loving what I do does subside some of my stress, however, I am still affected by unusually high levels of stress.

The main reason for this stress, over-achievement. I can't just do something, or even just try something, I have to push myself to be the absolute best that I can be at whatever it is I am trying to achieve.

Whether it is the sports I love, the academics I condemn, or my job that has its ups and downs, I have to exceed expectations, to the best of my ability.

I basically stretch myself to the point that I can't take on anything else, and then I wonder why I always have something to do.

Finding entertainment that will not drain my purse, is also a chronic problem that plagues me all summer long. I want to go off and do a hundred awesome things, I'd like to go to Universal Studios, Disney, and Sea World. Those places are much too expensive for my little budget.

Over Spring break a friend of mine and I spent an entire day, doing things down on International Drive. We had buy one get one free admission coupons for several attractions, and we each spent about 30 dollars.

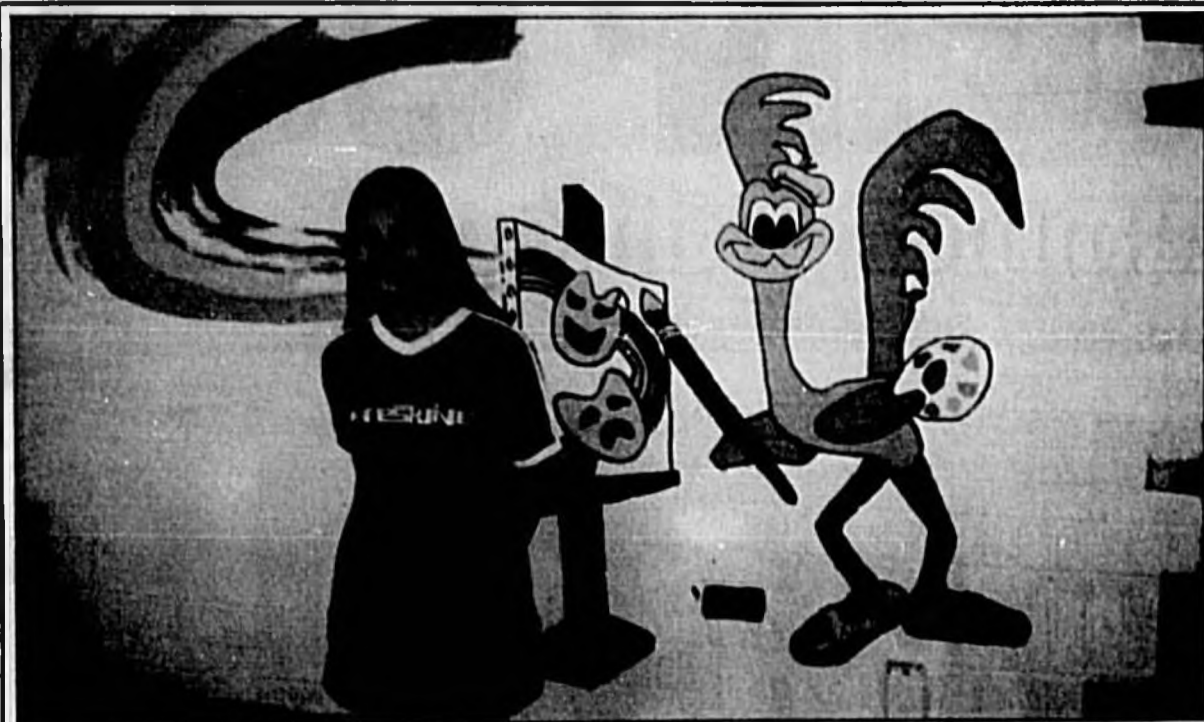

The admission price to any one of the large theme parks is approximately 45 dollars, plus we ate two meals on International Drive. It is in my opinion that as my purse's friend, I should avoid the theme parks unless their prices drop.

Trying to balance my family with my extra curricular activities has become a stress in itself. I love spending time with my family, but I just don't have the spare time. I do try to make spare time though, and I often spend time with them in between activities.

I feel that I could do without the last two to three weeks of school, because they just get me all stressed out over everything, just in time to start my summer vacation and a whole world of other problems.

Summer is supposed to be a "down time" for school aged children, but it has evolved into a whole new theater of stress.

Amy Guenther will be a senior next fall at Lyman High School.

Priscilla Ratanavong is the winner of this year's Elementary School. Someday she hopes to be a Disney Dreamer and Doer Award from Midway dance choreographer.

Midway's amazing grace

By Jeff Berlinck
HANGIN' OUT EDITOR

Amazingly graceful, in and out of the classroom. That's how Midway Elementary School principal Sharon Tanner describes fifth-grader Priscilla Ratanavong, the winner of the school's Disney Dreamer and Doer Award for the 1999 school year.

The award is given to a student who epitomizes the four C's of curiosity, confidence, consistency and courage. She, along with students from all over Seminole County, was presented with a medal during a special ceremony at Walt Disney World earlier this month.

Priscilla said she was about the last person to know she won the award.

"All of the teachers saw it in the newspaper," she said. "I didn't know I was the winner, but I was really happy when I found out."

Priscilla earns all A's and B's and loves to take dance and ballet classes when she isn't in school. She wants to be a dance choreographer when she gets out of college and loves the chance to pick her own classes at Midway, a place she says she'll miss when she moves to Millennium Middle School next year.

Ms. Tanner may miss her the most.

"We have a young, graceful lady who know exactly how to achieve her goals," Tanner said. She is all about style and grace."

Teens Today We had a great time in band class

By Jamie Bowlin
SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

At Millennium Middle School our symphonic band class went to Oviedo High School and played against other bands. Our band got superior and I asked some band members questions and these were their responses.

I asked Justin Edwards, "How hard did you have to work to achieve a superior?"

He responded, "We worked very hard and practiced very long. The whole band put in a lot of work and it paid off."

Then I asked Christine Barrett, "If you could change anything you did wrong or right at the festival, what would it be?"

Christine responded, "I think it would be in a sight-reading room when I played when I was supposed to."

Next I asked Tommy Oliver, "Do you think your bandmates try as hard as they can?"

His answer was, "Some play hard every day, but others don't because they are lazy."

When I asked Jessica P., "If she could change a good thing or bad thing about Mr.

Langston's teachings, what would it be?"

She answered, "I don't think there is anything wrong with the way Mr. Langston teaches. He pushes us and challenges us and where others don't like that, I do."

The last person I asked was Allison Feldman. I asked her if she liked the music Mr. Langston picks for them to play, her response was, "I like most of the music he picked, especially now that the festival is over. We are playing 'Zoot Suit Riot' and music from 'Star Wars.'"

These statements were made from the Millennium Middle School symphonic band class. I would also like to give credit to Amanda Seda, Andrea Poloche, Andrew Barbanera, John Pullman, Jennifer Barrett, Ashley Wouffe, Kyle Rucker, Kyle Horick and Jason Regan for playing the best that they could for our school! Special thanks to Amanda Seda for helping me with the interviews and helping me get organized.

Jamie Bowlin will be an eighth-grader at Millennium Middle School next fall.

Seminole High students celebrated last week with a cookout for Ernie McPherson's workshop class. The students built sheds which were displayed throughout the campus. Heating up some burgers here are Seminole students Jason Kramarcik and Robert Wigs.

Thumbs Up

Throughout the school year, a number of Goldsboro Elementary students won school, district and state recognition for outstanding art projects. Among the winners were: Kendra Bobb, Monte Metz, Robert Williamson, Billy Robano, Vincent Masselli, Jasmine Davis, Sarah McWhorter, Solomon Hardy and Saul Benete.

the Mind competition and recently participated on the state level.

Highlands Elementary had several classes recognized by the SAME (Seminole Association of Media Educators) organization at Winter Springs High School. Winning classes were Mrs. Morrison's ("Smiley's Great Adventure"), Mr. Roger's ("I'll Be Drug Free"), Mr. Bernosky's ("Highlands School Store"), Mrs. Spoon's ("Highlands Field Day") and Mrs. Morrison's ("All About Friends").

Lyman High School had several students from its VICA (Vocational Industrial Clubs of America) win first-place honors at the state skills championship. Winners included Robert Stachow, Kyle Halpin, Kyle Conner, Jon Harper, Tony Jordan and Bryan Reynolds who will compete next month at the national competition in Kansas City.

Sterling Park Elementary School teachers Joanne Stapp and Kathy Stanchon received a reading grant from Southland Corporation. They were awarded $648.46 as part of the "People Who Read Achieve" program and the money will be used to finance a third-grade book club.

At the Seminole County Teachers of Mathematics High School Math Contest, the Algebra II team from Seminole High School featuring Kevin Chan, Andrew Lee, Mike Hynes and Andrew Colombe won first place while the pre-calculus team of Aimee Baker, Angela Grankow and Will Troutman finished second. Mohan Bahbi placed first in calculus.

Tuskawilla Middle School won second place in the Central Florida Region Odyssey of Althea Dawn Hubbard, of Sanford, was named to the King College 4.0 honor roll for the spring semester.

Leslie Stiles, of Casselberry, was named to the Dean's List at Maryville College in Tennessee. She is the daughter of Jim and Nancy Studman.

Hangin' Out

Midway makes the grade

Check out some writing talents from the kids at Midway Elementary School next week in Hangin' Out. The kids at Midway scored their highest total ever during the Florida Writes program.

Da' Bomb hears all...

Da Bomb wants to congratulate the Seminole County high schools for what seemed to be classy and fun graduations. Let's face it, with everything going on in national high schools recently, everyone had to be it concerned. But the schools had extra security and everything went off without a hitch.

Da Bomb doesn't have enough room to list everyone of the seniors he'll miss next year, but they know who they are. The seniors at Lake Mary have been particularly friendly, but so many seniors went out of their way to meet with us so we don't want to single anyone out. Good luck next year, gang.

little bit bad about the kids at Pine Crest and Midway Elementary Schools but, according to Ms. Tanner over at Midway it really gives the kids a great chance to do some special projects that have been set up for them. But when you have a brother who goes to Millennium which got out last week, and his sister goes to Pine Crest, imagine the conflict in that family!

Speaking of showing lots of class, on the last day of school, the kids at Millennium were great. They were excited, of course, but no one trashed the place.

Da Bomb remembers when you were almost supposed to trash the school on the last day.

What do you think about school uniforms? That's what Da Bomb needs to know, so give us a call at 322-2611.

Da Bomb says it's really great to see wonderful assistant principals get promoted to a top job. There are a lot of deserving assistants out there waiting their chances all over Seminole County. Wilson Elementary made a great choice in promoting Ms. Cummings to principal.

Wilson Elementary School assistant principal Marian Cummings became the new principal of the elementary school last week. She'll take over for Suzie Crook.

Everything you need to know about cliques

By Amy Goenther
HERALD STAFF WRITER

Sticking together and hoping for the best, that is what high school cliques are all about.

Multiple groups form the student body of most high schools. Nearly all cliques are stereotyped, and the overall large groups that are formed by multiple cliques are stereotyped even more.

Thinking of all the cliques in schools now, ten groups immediately came mind. The "jocks," the "preps," the "band geeks," the "chorus," the "drama kids," the "skaters," the "nerds," the "Trekkees," the "Gothics," and the "rednecks."

"Jocks" are the main athletes at the schools. They are the kids who seem to have "everything." Ideally they are the kids who are idolized to some degree by the other students. The jocks are the ones who can cause problems in class and get bad grades and no one notices. In some cases though, jocks are held to the highest standards. Of course they are often stereotyped as the clique that skips school the most.

The "preps" are the ones who act and dress more professionally than everyone else. They are usually the ones who are considered to have an unlimited supply of money. Having after school jobs is another common thread among "preps," this maybe why they always have money.

The "jocks" and the "preps" currently seem to be merging. It seems that they are going to form the absolute largest conglomeration of people. The largest number of conformists are found within these two groups, along with a few leaders.

The "band geeks," are just what they sound like, the band kids. All the members of the band seem to form their own clique. They are the ones with musical talents that they use to play instruments. They participate in marching band, mostly because it is for a grade in band. Many enjoy marching season and they have their own table at lunch.

The chorus forms another social group. They are the other kids with musical talents. They sing in the chorus.

The "Drama kids" are the ones that can act. They are the ones who can not only perform on the stage, but also in the classroom. Convincing teachers that they had just too much to do, and getting deadlines extended are characteristics of "drama kids."

The smart "know it all" kids, are the "nerds." They are the ones who often fall within the top 20 percent of their class. They are the ones who don't do anything, but go home every night and study for hours on end, hence why they seem to "know it all."

"Skaters" are the die hard rollerbladers and skateboarders. Typically, "skaters" get bad grades and are deemed stupid. However, most of them are not stupid, they are simply uninterested in school. Baggy clothes such as jeans are the everyday uniform of the "skaters."

Tight jeans and big belt buckles are part of the unwritten dress code of the "rednecks." The "rednecks" drive pick-up trucks with big wheels. On the weekends, they go "mudding" in their trucks.

Science fiction is the main focus of the "Trekkees." Often times the "Trekkees" are not just Star Trek fans, they are also big Star Wars fans as well. Reading science fiction, such as The Complete Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy, the "Trekkees" are also among the brightest kids at the schools.

Marilyn Manson followers are referred to as the "Gothics." They usually wear all black, complete with fingernail polish and eyeliner (both guys and girls). Ordinarily they are considered social outcasts. They are accepted within their circles only. Their appearance is generally enough to ward off all others, and to cause themselves to be mocked. They are really the only group that is not accepted as part of the high school scene. However, whether the other groups like it or not, they are definitely a clique.

Basically the conformists, in high school similarly to the rest of society, are the most accepted. The non-conformists are the ones who not only do their own thing, but they do it alone, or in small groups that do things similarly to themselves.

Hair today, gone tomorrow

Idylwild Elementary School Principal Dave Scott made one of the ultimate sacrifices last week, allowing his own students to cut off his hair for achieving their goals on a statewide test. He promised months ago that he would allow his kids to take the scissors to his hair in front of the entire student body and they held him to his word. Here he is, one final time addressing his students, then the immediate aftermath.
