

Almost All Critics Love Theatre So They Fret Over It

By OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN
Written for The Associated Press
The strangest thing about the theater's history is that it is always about to terminate. Critics are traditionally obstinate with a conviction that the theater cannot possibly live more than a few years beyond the time at which they write.

I don't believe the theater has ever been as sick as they have thought it to be.

Almost all critics love the theater. Loving it, they fret over it like an anxious parent. When a change comes over the child they fly into a panic—forgetting that all things in the world keep changing. Frequently they mistake growing pains for harbingers of a fatal illness.

The theater remains despite the many diagnoses it has worn. Many plays are deliberate adaptations from the Greek. Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra" is an example. O'Neill's tragic sense is essentially Greek. I doubt if any man can write a modern play without falling into some debt to these ancient theatrical geniuses.

The most radical changes of all have been wrought in this century with the development of electronic science. Many who are predicting the demise of the theater are excluding from their considerations the electronic media of radio, television and the movies.

If you accept this limited conception, you must then admit most certainly that the theater, if not dying, is certainly shrinking. Twenty years ago New York had twice as many legitimate theaters as it has now. Many cities which used to harbor legitimate attractions have no legitimate theater whatever today. The movies have supplanted it. Now in turn the number of movie theaters is decreasing due to the inroads of TV. But in my own conception of the theater, these electronic media must be included. I believe that wherever there is an audience and a stage or a screen, or any frame within which actors are reading lines written by playwrights, or singing songs written by composers, there is theater.

As for audience interest, the legitimate theater in its heyday could never have played to as many people in one season as TV now plays to in one night. To satisfy these huge audiences there is of course much more employment for many actors, writers, directors, scenic designers and technicians than ever before.

The movies drained the theater of talent. By offering much greater salaries and the soft swimming pool life of Hollywood, they tempted away writers and actors and actresses. Television, however, has fed back to the theater a great pool of talent which did not exist before. Those of us who cast plays keep our eye on television and find many new actors and actresses there.

The way to appraise the theater's health is to examine its output over a few decades. The season will tell you nothing one way or the other. I have been working in the theater for about 40 years. During those years I don't think the American theater has done so badly. Leaving out workers who were merely successful in their time—I mean men like David Belasco, Flo Ziegfeld, Avery Hopwood—and limiting myself to men who have written plays that have become part of our national theatrical literature, I give you Eugene O'Neill, Sidney Howard, Robert Sherwood, Maxwell Anderson, Marc Connelly, Lindsay and Crouse, George Kelly, George Kaufman, Moss Hart, William Inge, Arthur Miller and Tennessee Williams among others.

Among the composers and librettists we have created and developed in this time are Victor Herber, Otto Harbach, Jerome Kern, Rudolph Friml, Sigmund Romberg, George and Ira Gershwin, Irving Berlin, Vincent Youmans, Richard Rodgers, Lorenz Hart, Cole Porter, Frank Loesser, Fritz Lowe and Alan Lerner.

Maybe I am overrating half of these men and their plays and their sons. If I am it is still a good showing for 40 years.

It has been in these last four decades that the American theater has broken from the parent theaters in Europe and started out on its own.

In the light musical theater we have evolved—without any deliberate intention that I know of—a form that is neither opera, operetta nor straight musical comedy. We call it a "musical play."

Good examples of this type are "Show Boat," "Oklahoma!," "Carousel," "Bloomer Girl," "Brigadoon," "Finian's Rainbow" and "South Pacific."

In our nonmusical plays we have begun also to establish a character that is quite our own although not as definitely set apart as our light musical works. Still behind England and Europe in theatrical style we are nevertheless more courageous when it comes to substance.

We write more rugged plays over here. We perform them more ruggedly. Our better playwrights meet their situations head on, not concerned about the embarrassment of the more timid in the audience. Our acting has less polish than Continental acting or English acting. Yet it has more vigor. It is becoming progressively more vigorous and less elegant, and at a rate which may be a little dangerous.

We have some amazingly talented directors who are helping to create a national tradition in our theater. Here again we are not rich in subtlety and elegance but we are fortunate indeed in our vitality and in the adventurous, creative approaches of Joshua Logan, Elia Kazan, Rouben Mamoulian, Harold Clurman and the more recently arrived Joseph Anthony and Albert Marre.

The theater can never die while millions of young stage struck exhibitionists insist on writing what they think and acting and dancing and singing before a public.

Navy To Construct 6th Forrestal Type Carrier

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy was reported to be planning to construct its sixth Forrestal type carrier in the New York naval shipyard at Brooklyn.

Sen. Ives R-NY said he was advised also by the Navy that its construction program for the year started July 1 includes a nuclear-powered guided missile cruiser at Quincy, Mass.

Two nuclear powered submarines will be built also, one at Portsmouth, N.H., naval yard, and one at Mare Island naval yard, Calif.

The construction program, he added, will include two guided missile frigates to be built at the Philadelphia shipyard.

Western Union Is Preparing For Conventions

Telegraph facilities unprecedented in size, duplicated both in Chicago and San Francisco, are being installed to transmit news of the presidential nominating conventions to the nation and the world.

More elaborate preparations than ever are being made. Western Union announced, because the 1956 conventions are being held in different cities and one immediately follows the other. With growing public interest, the 1956 conventions may well rival the record-breaking volume of 19,664,472 words of news from the 1952 conventions.

Four special telegraph operating rooms are being installed, two in Chicago and two in San Francisco, for the Democratic Convention opening Aug. 13 and the Republican on the 20th.

The convention facilities in each city will be prepared to flash 600,000 words of news an hour from the presidential nominating convention, the telegraph company stated. Each installation is big enough to meet the communications needs of a large city.

The largest telegraph force ever assigned to political conventions in the 105 years of Western Union has handled such events will be at Chicago and San Francisco. Four hundred of the world's most experienced telegraph people, especially trained in convention work, will work exclusively on the handling of the press in the two cities. Western Union press experts from all parts of the nation, who have handled thousands of major news events, will be present.

Western Union's logistics problem is complicated by such unrelated matters as the All-Star Football Game at Chicago Friday night, August 10, three days before the Democratic Convention. To solve this, Western Union is sending 25 additional operators from southern and southwestern cities to Chicago for the one night. These operators will then leave Chicago in a special railroad car for San Francisco to work at the Republican Convention.

One of the reasons Western Union is assigning a record-breaking number of people and facilities to the conventions is the fact that 4500 newspaper reporters, radio and TV commentators, photographers and technicians, as well as delegates, alternates, candidates' staffs and many others, will require telegraph service.

More newspapers have ordered leased telegraph circuits this year than in the past, and over these additional millions of words will be transmitted. Some of these leased telegraph wires will be operated direct from the platforms in the convention halls. Others will be in the press workrooms off the convention floors, and still others in the hotels.

Through Western Union's big press centers at Chicago, San Francisco and New York, the millions of words of news from the conventions will be flashed to the nation and the world without manual retransmission at any point over the telegraph company's exclusive press network. The three main press centers are linked directly with the 15 high-speed regional message centers connecting all principal Western Union offices in the United States on a 24-hour basis.

In Chicago the main telegraph operating rooms will be in the international amphitheater and in the big exhibition hall at the Conrad Hilton Hotel. In San Francisco the main operating rooms will be in the Cow Palace and in the San Francisco Room of the Fairmont Hotel.

At the Cow Palace, as in the Chicago amphitheater, operators on the speakers' platform will transmit "running stories" of convention developments as rapidly as the stories are written by the reporters beside them. These operators will use portable teleprinters, with special-mounted keyboards and covers to insure silent operation.

International interest in the conventions is expected to create a volume of foreign press traffic comparable to 1952, the heaviest in the history of nominating conventions. To expedite the large foreign press file, direct circuits will be set up for the exclusive handling of international press

Painting Is Back In Usual Place

ATHENS (AP)—The massive painting of the interior of St. Peter's Cathedral in Rome, given to the University of Georgia in 1867 by an Alabamian, is now back at its accustomed place in the chapel.

The 20-foot square scene, said to be the largest framed picture in the United States if not the world, and the historic chapel were seriously damaged by fire 18 months ago.

An extensive restoration job was done by Walter Probos of Athens, an authority on such work, aided by his daughter, Susan, an art student at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn.

The painting, familiar to thousands of Georgians, was remounted on a redwood panel covered with a quarter inch of Masonite. It took pulleys, hooks, ropes and 15 men to swing it back into place.

Met To 'Definitely' Have '56-57 Season

NEW YORK (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera will "definitely" have a 1956-57 season after all, a mediator's spokesman has announced.

Cancellation of the season was announced last week. It stemmed from a lengthy labor-management dispute.

That disagreement was settled in a few days, but officials delayed definite plans until determining whether star singers would still be available.

The season definitely has been reinstated, said a spokesman for the mediator, Al Masani, president of Local 802, American Federation of Musicians.

He said he had been authorized to make the announcement by Lincoln Lauterstein, attorney for the Met.

Board To Determine

ing. This would still be the case if Sanford installed a complete sewage treatment plant and chlorinated the sewage.

Knowles remarked "All the State Board of Health is requiring is a primary treatment plant which is only 60 to 70 per cent effective." Commissioner Higginbotham, in answering Berkowitz said, "We did get the city out of the septic tank business. The city was filled with septic tanks with sewage running all over the city. We've gotten the city out of the health menace to the extent of our ability to pay."

"I'm not in a position to concede anything," said Berkowitz and then asked the question, "Will the City of Sanford now advise the State Board of Health that it is not in a position to comply with its resolution?"

Berkowitz referred to sub-divisions outside of the city in which city sewers were constructed and said "the city will possibly have to refrain from extending any of its sewers."

Possibly Commissioner A. L. Wilson furnished the breaking point in the discussions when he suggested "We should do everything possible to carry out the terms of the resolution or determine when we can do it."

Commissioner Gatchel said "I think we are all in agreement that the sewage treatment plant is essential but I don't see how we can go ahead under our present financial condition."

Concluding the discussions, the Board of Commissioners instructed the City Manager and the City Clerk to look into the matter and determine a period of time when it will be possible to go ahead with the plant.

Mayor Scott told the Board of Health sanitary engineer "We will try to give the State Board of Health an answer as to our future plans as soon as we have the information necessary."

Segregation Bills Offered House

Kemp To Reveal Raceway Plans At Jaycee Meet

The President of Seminole Park Raceway, William E. Kemp, is slated to speak to the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce at their noon luncheon meeting tomorrow.

Kemp will tell the Jaycees of his organization's plans for a semi-mutual harness horse racing track in Seminole County near Casselberry.

The Board of Directors of Seminole Park Raceway appeared before the July meeting of the Florida Racing Commission to request a permit to race harness horses on the track. The request for the permit was allowed on the basis of a financial report to be submitted to the August meeting of the commission and on a referendum to be held in Seminole County for the approval of the county's citizens.

Kemp is expected to inform the Jaycees of plans to expand the present facilities at the track and to make the Seminole Park Raceway one of the foremost harness horse racing tracks in the country. Included in the preliminary plans for expansion are: the building of a half-mile track within the existing mile track, the paving of a 40 acre parking area, tripling the size of the present grandstands, and the addition of barns to the already huge facility.

The Jaycee luncheon will be held tomorrow at noon in the private dining room at Jim Spencer's Restaurant.

Seminole County Jaycees have invited members of other civic clubs as well as all interested citizens to attend their meeting.

U.S. Commissions Largest Overseas Naval Air Station

CUBI POINT, Philippines (U.S. Associated Press)—The United States commissioned its largest overseas naval air station today. A top U.S. military leader called the base a vital link in the defense of free Asia.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, described the Cubi Point station as part of a "comprehensive system of regional security in the Pacific area."

"It is part of the Philippines, and the Philippine Republic is a vital part of SEATO Southeast Asia Treaty Organization," Radford said.

The admiral said SEATO was formed to "convince potential aggressors that aggression will be effectively and immediately resisted."

Cubi Point, he added, will strengthen collective capacities to resist interference.

"The United States, he declared, will maintain at all times powerful forces in the Western Pacific as a deterrent to the use of open violence."

Herald Error Gets Results

TALLAHASSEE (U.S. Associated Press)—An interposition resolution and three non-administration bills aimed at preserving segregation were offered to the House today but Speaker Ted Davis reserved a decision on whether they may be considered.

Meanwhile, administration segregation measures approved with revisions by a House committee yesterday were delayed by the need for re-drafting them to include the amendments.

They are expected to be placed on the House calendar tomorrow.

All the non-administration segregation bills were referred to the House Rules Committee for a recommendation on whether they could be considered as falling within Gov. Collins' call for a special session. Davis said he will rule on them tomorrow.

They include a bill by Rep. Bill Coleman of Orange County to require the signature of three university alumni on the application of any student for admission to an institution of higher learning.

A measure by Rep. Francis Pruitt of Jefferson County to prohibit children from being covered into attending integrated schools and a bill by Rep. Pruitt and Rep. Marion Knight of Calhoun County to authorize the attorney general to give legal aid to county school officials in any attempt to preserve segregation.

The interposition resolution, also by Pruitt, follows the example of several other Southern states in interposing Florida's sovereignty between the state and enforcement of the U. S. Supreme Court ruling going away with public school segregation.

The House also received the administration approved measure calling for clarification of the states' rights amendment to the U. S. Constitution. An attempt to bring it up for immediate consideration was blocked by Rep. George Obell of Dade County who said time should be allowed to study it.

Gov. Collins has said passage of segregation legislation other than that recommended by a committee of legal experts and endorsed by the administration "well might weaken the legal efficacy of the program."

The House Committee on Education and Internal Affairs late yesterday completed action on two bills to expand the governor's powers in the event of riots or other disturbances and a measure to give county school boards the right to assign teachers to specific schools.

All three measures had been passed by the Senate in exactly the form recommended by the committee of experts which had been studying the segregation problem for several months.

However, the committee made changes in each of the bills before sending them to the House floor. Most notably debated alterations and one which required two votes.

The teacher assignment bill was altered by the committee to give school boards more latitude in selecting teachers to fill positions.

The committee approved without change a proposed resolution calling for clarification of the states' rights amendment to the U. S. Constitution. The measure also has been introduced in the Senate but has not been acted on.

A key measure in the program for maintaining segregation already has been sent to Gov. Collins for signature. It allows school boards to assign pupils to schools to which they are considered best suited and is a companion to the teacher assignment bill.

With the House committee split almost evenly on the proposed teacher assignment bill, a floor fight may be expected to shape up on the issue.

Bids To Be Opened Aug. 9 For Projects Including Seminole

The State Road Department today called for bids on 21 projects in 18 counties to be opened Aug. 9.

In the bids will be three Seminole County projects including the resurfacing of Park Ave. in Sanford, along with the widening of the section from 24th St. south to the French Ave. intersection; State Road 66 in Sanford from French Ave. to Park Ave. resurfacing; and State Road 66 from the Lake Jessup Bridge to the Venetia County line, widening and resurfacing.

Milwee Reveals Business-Education Day At Sept. 28

Superintendent of Public Instruction Rayburn T. Milwee, chairman of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Education Committee, has tentatively set Friday, Sept. 28, for the county-wide business-education day.

Plans already underway for the event include a briefing for teachers at the Seminole High School Auditorium followed by an afternoon of visiting in various business establishments throughout the county.

Announcement of the plan was made in the "Sem-O-gram," a bulletin of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce. However, plans for the Business-Education Day event have been in the making for a number of months.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Milwee has been working toward a greater understanding of the relationship between Seminole County Schools and the business people of the county.

Refreshments of hot biscuits, baked ham and soft drinks will be served throughout the day and a gift of a bottle of nationally prominent perfume will be given to the first 100 ladies who attend.

Chicago Begins 13th Day Of Fight Against Polio

CHICAGO, (U.S. Associated Press)—West of Chicago's Loop, where the wealth of LaSalle Street rapidly gives way to railroad yards, warehouses, factories and crowded low-rent housing, Chicagoans today fought the 13th day of a vicious battle against polio.

The near West Side has become the front line in the city's fight to contain and wipe out the unpredictable disease.

Eighteen new cases yesterday brought Chicago's 1936 total to 300, the highest in the nation. There have been eight deaths. Nearly half of the cases are in a near West Side rectangle encompassed by LaSalle Street on the east, 22nd Street on the south, Kestner Street on the west and North Avenue on the north.

Board of Health officials call it "the high incidence area" and frankly admit they can't explain why it is. They report that youngsters in such areas usually develop more natural and earlier immunity to the disease, but it hasn't been so this year.

Bid Dates Postponed On 2 Big Projects

Dates for the opening of bids on two important Seminole County projects have been postponed until Aug. 2, according to John Burton III, local architect.

Bids on the New York Giants dormitory, originally planned for opening tomorrow have been postponed until the Aug. 2 date, said Burton.

"Original plans for the huge structure to be erected at the corner of Malloryville and Celery Aves., have been changed considerably according to information released at recent meetings of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners.

The bids will be opened in the office of the Architect, John Burton III, at 2 o'clock, Thursday afternoon, Aug. 2.

Another important Seminole County School addition will get the "go ahead" signal when bids are opened in the office of the Seminole County Superintendent of Public Instruction at 10 o'clock on the morning of August 2.

Bids on this project which includes additional classrooms and a cafeteria were originally slated for opening on July 27 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

No reason was given for the postponement of the bid opening.

Jacksonville Group Stresses Importance

A packed City Commission room last night brought on a revival of the Sanford-Titusville Canal as local enthusiasts as well as St. Johns River boosters from Jacksonville, Cocoa, West Palm Beach, and DeLand spoke out in favor of the new waterway.

Earl Brown, president of the St. Johns-Indian River Improvement Association reminded the audience which began gathering at the City Hall as early as 7:30 for the 8 p. m. meeting. "This project isn't new — but a revised proposition."

"The first attempt on this project was made shortly after the Civil War and again after World War I," said Brown, "and since that time nothing much had been done until several years ago when increased data was obtained."

"Now that it is revised it is believed that we can qualify," the improvement association president told the group of waterway enthusiasts. "With the consent of the U. S. Engineers, the firm of Geo and Jensen was retained to obtain the information for the project's stability and cities all up and down the St. John River are very much interested in securing the canal," said Brown.

"From an economic standpoint the Sanford-Titusville Canal is of tremendous value and we believe that we are in a position to now realize the completion of the project," Brown informed the group.

Col. Herbert Gee, of Geo and Jensen of West Palm Beach named several influences responsible for the progress of the project. First he said the St. Johns-Indian River Improvement Association's interest and secondly a willingness on the part of the Corps of Engineers and the Central and South Florida Canal District to combine flood control, water conservation and economic feasibility in considering the canal.

The canal would provide an alternate route for pleasure boats plying between Jacksonville and Miami giving boat owners an opportunity to become aware of the vast possibilities of inland Florida, said Gee.

Col. Gee pointed out that the Sanford-Titusville Canal would have an important effect on industrial potential and said: It has been my observation that Florida has suffered because of insufficient planning.

"These are healthy signs," he said, "but a costly way to conduct our business."

"I am hopeful that from the studies being made we can show, with facts that cannot be disputed, an urgent need for the building of the Sanford-Titusville canal," Col. Gee emphasized.

Col. Gee introduced two of the men who will assist him in the engineering studies for the Sanford-Titusville Canal: Clarence Canell, an engineer who will assist in the preparation of data and George Aniel, former traffic manager for the Port of West Palm Beach who will said Gee, "contribute materially to this report."

"This is not a report for using a lot of paper and earning a fee," Gee told last night's audience, "we are going into the authorization, financing and building of the Sanford-Titusville Canal."

George Gibbs, head of the Gibbs Shipbuilding Company and other important Florida engineering and industrial organizations, who brought a delegation of Jacksonville enthusiasts to Sanford by plane spoke at length on the importance of water transportation. He said "With proper connections between Sanford and the Indian River the St. Johns would become the Riviera of Florida."

"You have, by far, more than they have in Miami," said Gibbs. "There is everything that will make this project go over, he said, and then commented "If you want to find wealth and progress then go to the streams that have been opened to barges."

"Sanford, Fla. is in the center of a steel industry and around you, you have oil and power," the world traveler and water transportation expert told the Sanford audience. "I hope that I live another year to see some of this project done," said Gibbs and then he exclaimed, "Jacksonville is even more enthusiastic over the development of the St. Johns."

Coming to Sanford in the Gibbs' plane which landed at the Sanford Naval Air Station were: Don Anderson, a Southern Bell Telephone Company North Florida manager; Harry Pierce, who originally came to Sanford on the Canale with Capt. Lund; David Jackson, secretary of the National Propeller Club and Executive Vice President of the Gibbs Company; Frank Caldwell; and two stewardeesses on Gibbs WC-3, Miss Allen and Miss Heigenbach.

Charlie Wallace, Director of the Land Use Commission for the State of Florida, attending the meeting, advised the audience attending last night's meeting. "All of Seminole County has not become a part of the Central and South Florida Flood Control District." The Rivers, Harbors and Flood Control Act, now before Congress and will certainly pass before adjournment, only gives the Corps of Engineers authority to study Seminole County to determine if its flood control is a federal responsibility, he said.

David Jackson, the National Propeller Club secretary told the Sanford group, "We are going to have a national convention in October before which we will present your problem and adopt it."

Dan Anderson, the North Florida Southern Bell Telephone Company manager said, "Water brings people to Florida, makes them love it and want to stay here."

Harry Pierce of Jacksonville, Secretary of Sanford, spoke briefly and commented "The Canal and what it means to Florida is considerable. There are two places that are the objective of nearly every one in the United States and one of them is Florida."

Frank Caldwell of Jacksonville said "There is no telling just how far Florida will go with the development of the Sanford-Titusville Canal."

At the conclusion of comments from visitors to Sanford, Earl Brown stated "With the interest, engineering, and determination we will see the Sanford-Titusville Canal completed."

Forrest Breckenridge, Manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, the organization sponsoring the meeting, and also secretary of the St. Johns-Indian River Improvement Association opened the meeting last night and introduced the president of the improvement association group, Breckenridge, later in the meeting, recognized John Krier, City Commissioner and county commissioner-elect and advised the audience that it was he who spurred last night's meeting.

Krier, asking questions from the floor, requested Col. Gee to outline the Sanford Docks and Terminal possibilities.

Col. Gee said "People blow hot and cold almost with monotonous regularity in their interest in such a terminal." However, Gee said "Very important information will be developed with the project pointing to the possibilities of freight traffic to Sanford."

Other questions posed by Krier were also answered. The project's engineer said "If I were the owner of land along the right-of-way I would be happy with the Sanford-Titusville Canal for it would keep the water level and would be helpful in providing water without wells and would provide drainage to be used in local systems. Also, the design of the canal would involve a gated spillway at the Indian River entrance and present a positive barrier to the intrusion of salt water."

Mayor F. D. Scott and Chamber of Commerce President George Touhy, welcomed the visitors to Sanford and urged their return.

Commissioner John H. Meach commented, during the meeting, "We've never been assured by any geologist of the possible damage to our fresh water supply. Seminole County is primarily an agricultural community — we've heard all of the good things to be said about the project but surely there must be some bad things. There are a lot of questions to be answered before the people will be in favor of it."

Col. Gee, in answering Commissioner Meach, stated that the Corps of Engineers in Jacksonville is hearing the complaints of their study. "There are a number of people who have voiced opposition," he said. "Indian River people complain that fresh water would have effect on their fish. The Fish and Wildlife Service has been asked to participate in the planning of this project," he said. Col. Gee admitted that plans of opposition should be answered to the satisfaction of the people. However, he said, "I believe we are well on the way toward providing the answer."

Romance Of Helen Trent Enters 24th Uninterrupted Year

NEW YORK, W. P. — A few bars of "Juanita" sounded from a few million radios across the country Monday and a soap opera called The Romance of Helen Trent entered its 24th uninterrupted year of broadcasting on the CBS radio network.

As far as anybody can find out and just watch a couple of authorities from somewhere arise to dispute the fact statement. The Romance of Helen Trent is now the oldest consecutive soap opera on the air. Its 5,900 scripts, if laid end to end, would consume 61 solid days and nights of heart-throb.

Helen has survived by a simple neat formula that has endeared her to millions of women as they slave over their ironing boards and cookstoves. She demonstrates—in fact, she proves—that a woman of 35 or older may still have romance in her life.

Granted that Helen, a successful Hollywood dress designer, may have been 38 when her perpetual and persistent romances began back in 1932, she now is a mere 62—a real spring chicken. One thing about Helen is that she's a mighty good girl, with none of the major or minor vices.

She has been courted only by wealthy men—it's doubtful if anyone knows by how many. Yet not once has she been led to the altar.

There was a time, when she was younger, when it was unthinkable that any of these bash or subtle males might kiss her or hold her hand. As she's grown older, however, she has changed with the convention of the times. She reportedly has been kissed—but married never.

Her constant involvement in romance but her careful avoidance of the state of holy matrimony apparently has not discouraged her listeners. They have their favorite suitors, of course. One actor who played a suitor's role some time ago says he used to receive constant communications from a listener, a sweet little old lady in Chicago, who was rooting for him.

She'd report to him by mail the things that were being said about him behind his back on the program. She urged him to "strike back."

But when Helen finally rejects, her listeners apparently accept the fact with a fatalism born of the ironing board. Tomorrow there will be somebody else. Tomorrow there will be hope. And there always is Gil Whitney, Helen's most persistent suitor of the past dozen years.

Helen was the brain-child of Frank and Anne Rummet, a husband and wife writing team. Only nine writers have worked on the show in its lifetime. The present writer is Margo Broome, of South Salem, N. Y. Ernest Ricca has been the director for the past 12 years. There have been occasional substitute stars. But the present Helen, who took the job at the age of 27 and will be 40 in November, is an actress named Julia Stevens who is married to a television executive named Charles Underhill and lives in Armonk, N. Y.

Ten universities, from Connecticut to California, now admit women students to their Air Force Reserve Training Program.

About 875,000 Americans play the organ.

Lloyd H. Galihier, Architect, May Go To Georgia Tech

GAINESVILLE — Lloyd Hoover Galihier, one of Florida's leading landscape architects for two decades, may go back to school.

Galihier, Leesburg resident who planned Loch Haven Park, Orlando's proposed 45-acre cultural center, is on the verge of temporarily leaving his central Florida practice to study regional planning under Georgia Tech Prof. Howard K. Menhinick, one of the country's leading authorities in community planning.

Both Galihier and Menhinick are attending a two-week (July 9-20) institute in urban planning at the University of Florida. With a score more of the South's leading planning specialists they are dealing with the tangle of problems inherent in the region's phenomenal industrial and population growth.

The program is the first of a series of institutes being organized by the General Extension Division of Florida to help communities in the state adjust to the state's development. It is concerned with a wide range of problems in the overall planning field; such as, land use, population studies, traffic flow and zoning. Cooperating in the program are the UF College of Architecture and Allied Arts, Georgia Institute of Technology and The Southern Regional Education Board.

Galihier's decision to return to university studies is tied in closely to his long interest in the development of Central Florida. "Planning is not a one-profession job," he said. "It demands such a wide range of knowledge that several professions are needed to make a workable long-range plan."

His experience at the current institute—trading ideas with some of the region's top planners—has convinced him that additional training in the area of the broad planning field, will equip him to help plan the future of the region where he has spent the last two decades of his life. "There is a distinct need for regional planning in central Florida—and perhaps the greatest opportunity in this part of the country," he said.

Galihier has already filed an application for admission to Georgia Tech. His program calls for one to two years work to complete his bachelor's degree, then an additional course of study on the graduate level. He hopes to concentrate his research work on the problems faced by Central Florida.

Galihier, at 47, is perhaps the most highly qualified applicant for admission Georgia Tech has ever received. He has gained a reputation as one of the state's leading landscape architects in the past 20 years, and at present is head of the planning and design department of the Florida Nursery and Landscape Co., Leesburg.

The Loch Haven regional cultural center in Orlando, which Galihier designed, includes an auditorium and gallery, nature museum, music hall seating 5,000 persons, garden center, planetarium, library, building for the Anti-Quarium Society, youth center, and parking facilities for 1,500 cars.

Among his other achievements, he also helped plan the two largest developments of pre-fabricated homes in the world at Norfolk and Portsmouth, Va., during World War II. The two communities housed some 18,000 families.

It was almost three decades ago that Galihier began his formal education. He spent three years at Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Ind., and a year at the University of Cincinnati's School of Applied Arts. His return to the campus, he hopes, will result in both a bachelor of arts degree and a master's in planning.

Ohio River Is Experiencing Boom Days Like Those Of Yore

MARIETTA, Ohio, July 21 (AP)—The Ohio River, key to the opening of the west in pioneer days, is experiencing boom days again.

For nearly 200 miles in each direction from this city in the upper river valley, American industries are pouring millions into industrial development. Coal mining is again making work; river traffic last year hit a mammoth 83 million tons; and long sleepy river towns are awakening to the roar of bulldozers and the chatter of riveters.

Aluminum production combined with electric and atomic power has triggered the industrial boom. All along the valley, winding through five states—Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Indiana—smokestacks pierce the skyline—giant earth moving machines churn up soil untouched by the plow for generations.

This American Ruhr once was concentrated in the comparatively short strip from Pittsburgh through Youngstown to Cleveland. Now it is moving downstream at accelerated pace and there are indications it

The reasons are easy to see. Aluminum manufacture consumes electricity at a greedy rate—nine kilowatt hours produce a single pound of the light metal. The nation's biggest coal beds are in this area and coal is a must for the low cost production of electricity. In addition, the river provides cheap transportation.

Aluminum isn't the only power hungry industry locating in the new boom area. The Atomic Energy Commission's billion dollar gaseous diffusion plant north of Portsmouth has two of the world's biggest steam powered electric plants working for it, both in the million kilowatt class.

Two companies are leaping into the valley's aluminum producing race with a 120 million dollar investment each. Another is building an 80 million dollar smelting plant.

Since World War II, just two of the states touched by the Upper Ohio—Pennsylvania and Ohio—have each received more than a billion dollars worth of plant construction. Ohio's industrial expansion per square mile has been tops for the nation.

The boom has hit the valley like rain after a long drought. For years river towns had been losing population as young people sought jobs elsewhere.

Loss of coal markets and the mechanization of mines had combined to throw miners out of work. But the reversion of furnaces of the new power plants are gobbling up thousands of tons daily and crying for more. Coal production has boomed with the industrial boom and miners are finding plenty of work again. Bituminous production, for the first time in five years, is expected to top the 500 million ton

THE SANFORD HERALD
Wed. July 23, 1956 Page 3.

Under war stress aluminum production was pushed to a billion pounds a year by 1945. Now it is about three billion pounds and in another four years is expected to go to 60 billion, much of it from the Ohio Valley. Aluminum plants will draw more and more allied industries dependent on them for raw and semifinished materials. They will go all the way to Cincinnati.

Titanium metal, which is vital for jet engines and guided missiles, has its chief U. S. production center near Las Vegas, Nev., with 1,000 employees.

Theme for a Barbecue

Half the fun of these leisurely summer days is eating outdoors. And judging from department store reports on the booming sale of outdoor cooking equipment, seems that most of us are taking to porch parties in a big way.

From the Minute Maid-Snow Crop Frozen Foods test kitchen come a few ideas to help simplify your menus and cut down on preparation time. Quick-Frozen Beef Steaks cook quickly on a charcoal grill and fit neatly into toasted hamburger rolls. To glid the lily once in a while is fun though, and a good barbecue sauce always adds extra sizzle to the meal. Here is a sauce that's at home with steak, frankfurters or hot slices. It's versatile, and oh, so good!

To round out your menu, serve attractive little dishes of raw vegetables, olives, carrot curls and radish roses. Then lots of coffee, of course, with tall glasses of Snow Crop Fresh-Frozen Lemonade for the younger folk in the family.

PINEAPPLE BARBECUE SAUCE

2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 medium onion, finely chopped
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1/2 cup Minute Maid Fresh-Frozen Lemon Juice
1 can Minute Maid Fresh-Frozen Pineapple Juice, drained and undrained

1/4 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1/2 cup water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1/2 teaspoon black pepper

Heat all over moderate heat in one-quart saucepan. Add chopped onion and cook, stirring constantly, for about 10 minutes. Do not allow onion to brown. Add remaining ingredients except salt and the peppers. Mix well, cover and simmer over low heat for about 30 minutes. Stir in salt and peppers and remove from heat. Yield: 3/4 cups.

Improvement Of Federal Excise Tax System Deserves Consideration

There is a federal excise tax on fur coats, none on woolen coats. Lipstick is taxed; bobby pins and nylon stockings are not. Smokers have to pay a federal excise tax on cigarettes and tobacco, but none on pipes.

Purchasers of electric blankets pay such a tax; those who buy electric heating pads do not. Phonographs are taxed; tape recorders are not. If you buy an electric garbage disposal unit you will pay a federal excise tax; not so if the unit you decide on is a gas incinerator.

The listings of discrepancies could go on for quite some time. However, the few items noted above are enough to underscore the haphazard nature of the present federal excise tax system. Revision of the system is badly needed.

It may even be, as the Foundation asserts in its report on the subject, that excise taxes should be adjusted to provide much more of the total federal revenue than they now do. Noting that in recent years such taxes have accounted for about fourteen per cent of total federal tax collections, the Tax Foundation says: "This is perhaps the smallest ratio of such taxes to the total budget to be found in any country."

This private research group believes that excise taxes should provide from twenty to twenty-five per cent of federal revenue. It says that this would diversify revenue sources, increase stability of federal revenues, "and reduce the distorting effects of the present tax system on economic activity."

Our jerry-built federal excise tax system needs improvement. Since high government spending undoubtedly will continue, the idea of broadening such taxes merits serious consideration.

System For Going Broke

Any easy way for any business to go broke would be to adopt Uncle Sam's system of budgeting and accounting.

Under this system, Congress is appropriating money for a single year that won't be spent for some time to come. The reason is that so many federal expenditures are long-term stretched over a period of years. Foreign aid programs and purchases of military equipment that takes more than a year to design and build, are examples.

Hence, vast sums accumulate in the federal treasury and departments far in excess of a single year's expenditure. This money doesn't revert to Congress. It stays with the departments, beyond the control of Congress.

The figures for these unexpended appropriations for the year ending June 30, 1956 is estimated at $58.9 billion.

With that kind of money clogging up the pipelines of future spending, the opportunity for laxness and waste is all too tempting.

That is why every citizen should support legislation based on the Hoover Commission recommendations and now before Congress, to require government agencies to prepare budget estimates on the basis of a single year's anticipation needs—certainly not to exceed expectations for more than a two year period.

At the end of the budget period, whether it be for one or two years, any funds not expended would revert to Congress for reallocation every June 30.

That would end carry-over funds, and restore control of the vast federal budget to Congress, where it belongs.

Congress could still authorize long-term projects, appropriating what would be needed from year to year.

The Hoover Commission estimated that this single step toward government economy would save $4 billion every year.

There's this way to look at it, should the government adopt such a method of spending and appropriating, the $58.9 billion would reduce the national debt—and there's no better way to use this surplus money—saving additional millions of dollars in interest.

With the country "yelling its head off" generally speaking, about the size of the national debt, the amount of money being spent by various agencies of the government, the revised method of appropriating money for use within the many departments would provide a stable method of scrutinizing budgets and the basis of sane figures.

This is one time that every citizen should deluge their representatives in Washington with hundreds of letters asking that this move be taken for the benefit of the taxpaying citizens.

Breakable Statues

Absurd as it seems, one can buy cheap, easily breakable statues designed for the express purpose of being smashed in a fit of temper. Most of us can recall times when it would have been a delight to be able to hurl such an object at the wall, secure in the knowledge that yielding to temptation wouldn't cost much.

Psychologists believe that there should be outlets for frustration, anger and kindred emotions. Certainly "letting off steam" is common human behavior.

Unfortunately, too many people let off steam in dangerous ways. Some get rid of their repressed emotions on the highway, driving with aggressive disregard for others. That kind of driving is an invitation to disaster. If you've built up a head of angry steam, throw something expendable at the wall if you must—but don't take it out on the rest of the driving public.

Letters To The Editor

Editor Sanford Herald Sanford, Florida
 The purpose of improving a highway is to improve the flow of traffic over the shortest and most direct route, unimpeded by the slowest possible restrictions consistent with safety.
 The four lanes and other improvements scheduled for Rt. 17-28 to handle the ever increasing volume of traffic from the area on the North East Coast to the terminals on the South West Coast must be planned with the idea of a maximum of traffic as it will be in the future, and every effort made to keep it from complicating the traffic problems already existing in some of our cities.
 The Survey already authorized by the State Road Commission of a new route for the road from Orange City to Sanford over a Toll Causeway and Draw Bridge from Enterprise to French Avenue in Sanford is a waste of $25,000,000 of funds that could be better used on the maintenance of existing roads.

To avoid a bottleneck, it will be necessary to construct a four lane Draw Bridge and Causeway, and to stop all traffic to collect the Orlando and vicinity to reach the beach.
 The movement of this traffic on French Avenue will be further slowed by traffic lights, speed and school zones; and the attendant danger to cross traffic and school children.
 With the Causeway and the safety restrictions on French Avenue, we have cancelled out two of the reasons for improving Rt. 17-28, namely the improved flow of safe handling of traffic.
 The argument has been advanced that a saving can be made in securing the right of way against other proposed routes. The right of way from Five Points south of Sanford to French Avenue will require the buying of some of the most valuable land in Seminole County.
 Now consider the alternate route from the St. Johns River Bridge south through the village of Lake Monroe to intersect Rt. 17-28 at Five Points.
 The right of way would not be costly; no cities to pass through with traffic lights; school zones or speed restrictions; and a much shorter route than across Lake would be few intersections, and a free flow of traffic at 60 miles per hour saving considerable time for the Orlando and vicinity to reach the beach.

 Weigh these advantages against a Toll Causeway, heavy traffic on French Avenue with its traffic lights, speed restrictions of 15 to 25 miles, school zones, danger to children and other pedestrians, and 20 cross streets.
 Then write the State Road Department expressing your disapproval of the proposed Toll Causeway.

THE GREAT BARRIER REEF

New York Country Town In Summer

BY HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—In the good old summertime New York City becomes the biggest country town in America.

It is now not only a great place to visit—it's a swell place to live in.

For Gotham, unlike bears, which hibernates in winter does its hibernating during the warm months.

Life slows to a dog trot and finally a leazy walk. All the two-and-three ulcer men, the nervous folk who live on pep pills, have fled to beach and mountain, leaving the city to those who love it for more reasons than the mere fact they make a living in it. All the usual social here are down. No velvet rope halls you in the night clubs. The headwaiter greets you as a human being instead of a sheep it is his distasteful duty to shear of its fleece.

The streets and subways are less crowded. You no longer have to write an indignant letter to the mayor in order to get a cab. Most of the Broadway theatres have seats for sale, and you don't have to go to your banker and float a loan to buy a ticket.

If you go through a revolving door, nobody gets in behind you and tries to come out ahead of you.

Pigeons gossip at your feet, move out of the way unburiedly, and waddle along after you, hoping for a handout.

The stores are full of wonderful bargains. Luggage is 50 per cent off, sport shirts are marked down 25 per cent.

Everybody is relaxed and easy-going. The big town has time for all the little niceties that make living in a small town so pleasant.

You can get a haircut without standing in line. The cop on the beat gives you a nod or a cherry "Hello." Old ladies lean out of tenement windows, leaning on fat arms that look like white pillows, and talk comfortably.

Even in traffic jams the truck drivers cuss out the "civilian" drivers in a way that show they don't really have their heart in it.

There is half-holiday atmosphere in the offices. The sessions at the water cooler grow longer, as the hired hands brag about the vacation they've just come from, or the one they're going on. They steal an extra 15 minutes at lunch for a little walk in the sun, and the boss doesn't say a word. He can't, since he plans to leave an hour early himself.

The whip of tension that people usually live under here has been put upon the shelf.

The ambitious reel a bit on their ears. The back-biters are at rest. Few want to pick up that first stone and throw it. Too much trouble.

Even the pickpockets take it easy here now. Most of the people with big wallets are out of

Stassen Links Others In Opposition

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON—When Harold E. Stassen gambled his own political future by opposing re-election of Vice President Nixon, he linked other Republicans with him.

Stassen, special assistant on disarrangement to President Eisenhower, denied he was acting as "front man" for anyone in trying to keep Nixon off the ticket.

But he said in an interview at his home a group of "Republican leaders"—whom he wouldn't identify—had collaborated with him in using professional pollsters to test public sentiment on the vice presidency.

Stassen said he was not speaking for these "leaders" and that they would speak out and identify themselves in due time. But he said he had consulted with them before making his statement.

Now the question becomes, Who are they? And how influential are they?

The polls, Stassen said, had been made repeatedly over the past month. Among whom? Republicans, laborites and others. What questions were asked? A number about possible running mates for Eisenhower.

He said the polls showed the re-election chances of Eisenhower would be 6 per cent better with Gov. Christian A. Herter as his vice presidential running mate than with Nixon on the ticket.

There can be no doubt the statement did the Republican party no good if its conventions in August picks Nixon again. Stassen, in calling for Nixon to step aside, angered many professional Republican politicians.

It may cost Stassen his job. If that happens, his political future looks dark indeed—although he said at his home he didn't think he'd be fired or pressured out. He said he has no intention of resigning.

What he did, Stassen said, was to "fulfill my duty and responsibility as I see it to the President and to our country and to our Republican party." He told Eisenhower Friday that he was going to do Monday.

If the Nixon forces think Stassen was doing a hatchet job on him, it at least would not be the first time Stassen has actively tried to shove another man out of the running for an office.

In the 1952 primaries, Stassen campaigned hard, particularly against Sen. Robert A. Taft, Ohio Republican, at a time when Taft, Stassen, was Eisenhower's would run, main opponent.

He was asked flatly if he would Before convention time Stassen say he would not run. But he said he had gone into the race to not give a direct answer.

stop Taft. He said he wanted to stop that "viewpoint of semi-isolation and extreme conservatism in the Republican party from getting to the top."

At the convention he threw his support to Eisenhower and, after the election, was given a high government job at director of the mutual security program. Later Eisenhower made him his assistant on disarmament.

Although Stassen Monday called Nixon a "burden" on the Republican ticket, he would not say precisely why he was so opposed to Nixon. He referred to his statement earlier in the day but that was full of generalities.

It is possible Stassen still retains some presidential ambitions—if he manages to survive this form-mold he caused among Republican politicians.

In a July 9 broadcast—while Eisenhower was still recovering from his operation and before it was announced he would run again—Stassen said that if Eisenhower didn't run he thought the Republicans could win with their own head of the ticket.

Asked Monday if he still felt that way—if anything now happened which caused Eisenhower to withdraw, Stassen said he would not discuss his possibility since the Republican, at a time when Taft, assumption Eisenhower would run, main opponent.

He was asked flatly if he would Before convention time Stassen say he would not run. But he said he had gone into the race to not give a direct answer.

BY Sandra
THE LATEST NEWS for the mothers-to-be is the Oriental look which comes in a pattern that may be bought at the local stores. For the fashion-conscious lady-in-waiting the oriental look appears in a wonderful young maternity wardrobe that can't miss with the Mrs. From just one pattern she may get a shopping-sleeve-free two-piece with side slits emphasizing slimming lines or a party time dress in a new cotton brocade with below-elbow sleeves and expandable skirt or a one-piece lounge for the lazy days at home. . . .

I hate to say it but the flapper is here again. Though we are still in hot sunny Florida it's time to be casting a glance or two at the fall fashions. Most of the clothes will arrive in the stores after Labor Day and although some of the dresses are completely without a waistline and belted at the hips, the figure beneath still is evident. There is no flat-chested look here, and the sheer fabrics used tend to cling in the right places. . . .

Strictly feminine is the word and fine detail trimmings concentrate on lace, embroidery and jeweled touches.

For a girl on a budget, as most of us are, simplicity must be her

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

There are so many ways to prepare chicken that it has become one of the most versatile main dishes for Sunday dinner. Why not try a top-of-the-stove casserole recommended by the A & P Service for diners this week end?

Chopped boiled chicken may be used in preparing the time of preparation. Here's the way it is done: Crumble two slices of bread into fine crumbs and brown in a skillet with two tablespoons of butter and get them aside. Melt an additional three tablespoons of butter in the same skillet. Blend in 1/4 cup milk, 1/4 cup butter, one chicken bouillon cube and 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add 1 package of frozen and cooked green beans, an 8-ounce can of onions, drained, a three-ounce can chopped mushrooms, undrained, one 15-ounce can boned chicken and a pint of chopped peas. Salt and pepper to taste.

Before serving, heat thoroughly and place in a casserole or serving dish and top with browned bread crumbs. Serves four persons.

An excellent dessert to top off such a meal is an easy-to-prepare chocolate pudding. Put mix two teaspoons of instant coffee powder with a box of instant chocolate pudding mix, prepared according to directions on the box. This can be served in sherbet glasses, each of which is decorated with a garnish of whipped topping mixed with crumbled macarons. Also serves four.

British Actress To Sign 3-Year Deal With RKO

HOLLYWOOD, (U) —The nicest lend-lease I can think of is having the British find us Diana Dors while Marilyn Monroe is in Old Blighty.

The best thing about it is that we'll be seeing a lot more of Diana. What I mean is, she'll be staying here for more than one picture.

Now laboring with George Gobel on "I Married a Woman," she is going to sign a three-year deal for a picture a year with RKO.

She will earn $375,000 for the year, compared to her $65,000 per film in England. The first will be "The Lady and the Prowler." After that, maybe a comedy with Tom Ewell at 20th Century-Fox.

"But I won't be staying here all the time," she said with a toss of her platinum blonde hair. "Both my husband and I have too many interests in England. We have a lot of property there—you know, flats, houses and coffee bars, as well as our own lovely home 20 miles from London."

She disclosed she was planning to add to her property by buying a home here. She and her husband Dennis Hamilton, have looked at several properties and have just about settled on the Alice Faye-Phil Harris show place in Encino. It's a large place with stables and everything.

The curvaceous actress admitted she had fallen under the California spell.

"The climate is simply wonderful," she enthused.

Her sole objections: The traffic and the food.

"The drivers here are even worse than they are in Paris, and I thought they were the worst," she observed. "Especially the women drivers."

As for the food "My chief objection is the amount that is served on a plate. It is more than you can possibly eat. I think the cooks here would do better to concentrate more on quality than quantity."

Diana came here without knowing anything about her leading man. "Nobody knew who George Gobel was in England," she explained. "His first picture, 'The Birds and the Bees,' was just being released as I left."

To acquaint her with the Gobel style, director Hal Kanter, who also masterminded the Gobel TV show, put together some of the comic's best routines from his programs. She said she found his wit very subtle and amusing.

Her progress was attested to by director Kanter. Said he: "I don't think she really knows how good she is. She thinks she has been brought over here just for her chest and hips. She actually is a very accomplished comedienne."

DRIED TO ORDER
 You will be delighted with the wrinkle-free, firey softness of your clothes when you own an automatic clothes dryer. You just set the dial for the degree of dryness you want (usually you damp dry when the clothes are to be dried ready for ironing, and dry when the clothes are to be fully dried). The dryer shuts itself off, without any guesswork, and the entire job is done in a matter of minutes, rather than hours, and without any bad-weather delays.

Home-Made Coffee Ice Cream — A Taste Of Summertime

IN THE cool of a summer's evening, let's take dessert and coffee outdoors after dinner and enjoy them on the porch or patio. A last course that is ideal for summertime dining is home-made coffee ice cream served with minted Coffee Mist and perhaps a bowlful of crumbly butter mints for nibbling. Sound cool?

Coffee Mist is a midsummer version of demitasse. It couldn't be simpler to prepare. Just heap old-fashioned glasses with crushed ice and then fill them with hot, strong demitasse coffee. You serve Coffee Mist with sugar and a twist of lemon peel. Sometimes you might like to add a topknot of fresh mint for both flavor and color.

Home-made coffee ice cream is a real joy any time of year, but it is never more appreciated than at the end of a long, hot day. And here's a serving suggestion for coffee ice cream: crumble a few butter mints over the top for a cool, delicious combination of flavors.

This is a recipe for coffee ice cream which you will want to keep:

Coffee Ice Cream
 1/2 cup granulated sugar
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup milk
 1/2 cup heavy cream
 1/2 cup instant coffee
 1 egg yolk
 1/2 cup sugar with flour and salt
 Add to hot coffee. Cook over hot water 15 minutes, stirring constantly until thickened, then occasionally. Pour over egg yolk which has been mixed with remaining 1/4 cup sugar. Return to heat. Cook 2 minutes or until mixture coats spoon. Sprinkle gelatine on 2 tablespoons cold coffee. Add hot mixture and stir until gelatine dissolves. Chill thoroughly. Whip cream stiff. Fold into chilled mixture. Add vanilla and pour into refrigerator tray. Freeze at coldest setting, stirring every 30 minutes, until mixture holds shape. Finish freezing. Makes 6 servings.

Frozen Juice Doubles As Sauce

That little gem of frozen foods, concentrated Florida orange juice, comes forth in a new role as a delicious topping for other fruits, in its undiluted state! Simple as one-two-three (simply dice or cut up whatever fresh fruits are available, such as melons, pineapple, peaches, berries, then pour the contents of a 3-ounce can of Frozen Florida orange juice over the fruit, mix and serve). It makes a gala dessert out of the simplest of ingredients, and you'll be delighted with the tangy flavor of the undiluted concentrate when combined with other fruits. Economical right now, too, with the frozen citrus juices selling for considerably less than they have all year! Pass cookies with the fruit, and dessert is definitely a success.

THE NEXT morning Meg was up at an early hour with a raspy cough and a worried expression. She washed and dressed herself with a ruthless speed that brought protests from him.

David's voice was kind. "A good singer can always find an accompanist."
"No, I want to play even if I don't do it well." She nodded at Anna and glanced curiously at Meg. David wanted to introduce them.

"Hello, Louise," Meg said.
"I'm pleased to meet you, Mrs. Beaumont." Louise was prim. She was slight, with round, childish face and heavy, light-brown hair worn loose down her back. Her eyes were almost the same color as her hair, Meg noted.

"I saw your little boy with Gretchen yesterday. He's a handsome child."
"Thank you," Meg warmed to her. "He's barely eighteen months old but he's already talking in sentences."
"My boy talked early too. He died of diphtheria when he was just past two."

"What can I do? Her brother insists on it. And—well, we can use the money." He smiled at Meg. "The hat shop, Mrs. Beaumont—Meg? Surely such close neighbors should use first names."
"Of course. The shop's doing all right. Come and visit us—Anna."

Radar Nation's No. 1 Highway Speed Cop

By ROGER D. GREENE
AP News Service Writer

A hush-hush secret of World War II is becoming the nation's No. 1 highway speed cop.

With police radar operating at present in 48 states—and new magic-eyes sprouting along highways at a rate of more than 30 a month—spot checks indicate that arrests for traffic violations are soaring from coast to coast.

"Radar and other types of devices are being employed to trap motorists rather than promote highway safety," says Harold Powell, chairman of the American Automobile Assn. legal committee.

Philip J. Martin, attorney for the Chicago Motor Club, contends: "The flagrant misuse of these devices is becoming a serious menace to the entire motoring public."

To the motorist who complains: "A guy hasn't got a chance any more." Police reply: "This isn't a game. It's a matter of life and death." Lawyers see radar as a means of cutting down traffic accidents which last year killed 38,300 and injured 1,350,000.

The principle on which the speed check operates is similar to that of an ordinary echo. Radar sends out a steady flow of high frequency radio waves. When the waves strike a solid object, they are bounced back—just as a cliff returns the echo.

When the waves strike a moving object, such as a car, their return is accelerated. The car's speed can be fixed by the rate of wave acceleration.

Along with a mountain of complaints against radar speed traps have come various attempts by motorists to outwit the electronic cop. Most of them—such as dragging chains behind the car or packing tin foil in the hubcaps—don't work.

Tom Snyder, a senior electrical engineering student at the University of California, recently subscribed in a student publication a gadget which he said would fool the new system and even burn out police radar sets.

All that is required, Snyder wrote in the California engineer, is a simple antenna circuit with a crystal rectifier. This is supposed to pick up the radar waves and bounce them back with such speed as to cause fantastic and obviously incorrect readings.

More than 200 cities and towns are using radar to bag speeders, and state highway patrols operate at least 127 sets throughout the country. The Federal Communications Commission has licensed 1,000 sets.

In 1932, before radar, the sleepy little town of Staunton, Va., sitting astride the main north-south vacation route through the Shenandoah Valley, made 96 arrests for speeding.

On July 1, 1954, the town bought a radar speed timer for $638. In 1954, speed arrests jumped to 847. In 1955 they climbed to 1,076. Police revenue rose from $6,370 without radar in 1953 to $88,238 in 1955.

In traffic-congested New Jersey, which uses radar extensively on its Turnpike and Garden State Parkway, arrests for traffic violation jumped from 255,500 in 1950—before radar—to 600,000 last year.

In Virginia, which introduced radar enforcement July 1, 1954, speeding arrests leaped from 27,538 in 1953 to 80,017 in 1955. Officials say 45,570 of last year's arrests were made through radar.

Spurred by the upsurge in radar arrests, a whole new crop of drum-head traffic courts has sprung up in rural areas—along heavily traveled vacation routes—where fascinating constables and justices of

President Nasser Declares Egypt's Economy Is Sound

CAIRO (AP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser has declared Egypt's economy is sound and sharply criticized the United States for withdrawal of its offer to help finance the Aswan Dam on the Nile.

"We Egyptians will not permit any imperialist or oppressor to rule us militarily, politically, or economically," he said. "We will not submit to the dollar or to force."

Soviet Ambassador E. D. Kisselov said the Soviet Union is ready to finance the dam "if Egypt asks for it" and declared Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri T. Shepilov had made this clear.

"That's what Mr. Shepilov said and I am only stressing his statement," Kisselov told reporters in Moscow, a Cairo suburb, at Nasser's inauguration of a new Mos- throld oil refinery and an 81-mile pipeline from Suez.

The Soviet ambassador accused the Western press of distorting Shepilov's statement to reporters at the Heligen embassy reception in Moscow Saturday.

Dispatches from Moscow reported Shepilov said the Soviet Union is ready to help in Egypt's industrialization, but made plain it does not intend at present to put up the money for the dam, which he described as "not a live problem."

Reports once circulated widely in Cairo that Russia had offered to lend Egypt nearly all the $1,300,000,000 needed to build the dam.

Nasser did not touch on prospects for Soviet aid in his speech, but said "if an uproar in Washington creates false and misleading announcements that Egypt's economy is unsound, I say to those behind the uproar, may your hate choke you to death."

Nasser's speech marked the first public attack on the United States by an Egyptian government leader since he master-minded the army revolt which deposed King Farouk four years ago. He did not mention Britain, which also has withdrawn an offer of aid.

HOT WATER IS A MUST
Hot water, pliance will take away 60 per cent of the hard work in dishwashing and other household tasks because hot water cleans 2 to 20 times as fast as cold water. Hot water has innumerable uses in the home. It is needed for laundry and bathing. Washing dishes, windows, the refrigerator, and the kitchen work surfaces—all require hot water. Hot water is needed for cleaning kitchen and bathroom floors, porches, stairs and the basement. In time of illness, hot water is a must for cleanliness and special laundry purposes. And, of course, food can't be prepared properly without it. Be sure you have a water heater that is adequate to take care of all these demands.

20,000 Injections Of Salk Vaccine Given During June

"Over 120,000 injections of Salk vaccine were given during the month of June," stated Dr. C. M. Sharp today, new director of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases, Florida State Board of Health, "and this is the largest total of immunizations for any one month since the program started in Florida on April 1, 1955."

State Board of Health figures reveal that an estimated 40.5 per cent of the population 0-19 years and expectant mothers have received one or more injections of Salk vaccine purchased with federal funds. This is an increase of almost 16 per cent over the month of May when the percentage was 34.9 per cent.

"We still have not reached even the half-way mark toward our goal of complete protection of the eligible group, however," says Dr. Sharp, "and we strongly urge all parents whose children are not immunized to take them to their private physician or local health department and secure these injections as soon as possible."

He further points out that we are well into the pollen season and State Health Board's figure show that for the period January 1 through July 6, 1956, there have been reported 122 cases of poliomyelitis, 44 paralytic, 45 non-paralytic and 33 unspecified. Last year for the

Weather Bureau Is Investigating 'Suspicious Area'

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The Weather Bureau said today it was investigating a "suspicious area" in the southwest Gulf of Mexico. In a 9 a. m. CST bulletin the bureau said the disturbance shows some signs of development, but "at the present time there appears to be only local winds about 30 miles per hour and a few squalls."

The bureau said the suspicious area was located about 450 miles southwest of New Orleans. At Jacksonville, the Navy said a Neptune patrol bomber piloted by Lt. J. Peter Wendler of Gibbon, Ohio, took off around 11 a. m. to investigate the area of suspicion. It is expected to reach the area about 200 miles east of Brownsville, Tex., around 4 p. m. The craft will probably land at Corpus Christi after completion of its flight, the Navy said.

Another hurricane hunter plane, a Super Constellation, is ready to relieve the first plane if evidence of the season's first tropical storm is found, the Navy said.

NEW IDEA IN STUFFING

Try using liver pate' when stuffing a roast chicken. It's a new idea that makes for a different taste sensation. Set the oven temperature control of your range at the usual 375 degrees and roast. Serve with tiny onions and green peas, mashed potatoes and a tossed salad.

AN ARMY rescue helicopter carries a disabled smaller 'copter over the Polomene River, near Washington, after the latter had been abandoned. Chief Warrant Officer Nodesta Ruk was flying the wingless craft to Ft. Bragg, N. C., when he had to make a forced landing. Officials decided to turn the recovery into a training maneuver.

Rep. Orr Says NAACP Member

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Rep. Jack Orr of Miami, who cast the lone vote against the only segregation bill passed by the Florida Legislature during its special session, says he has been a member of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People about two years.

Orr, an attorney, showed his NAACP membership card to newsmen yesterday in discussing his vote against the pupil assignment bill passed by the House. Orr said that an Episcopal minister had asked him to join the NAACP and he did. He commented: "I hardly think the Episcopal Church is subversive."

The Dade County legislator said that "the big trouble with the NAACP is that it has been right. They (the NAACP) seek action in the courts. They do not burn crosses."

MAN DIES AT 105

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (AP)—John Divie, a stonemason for 90 years, died yesterday at the age of 105.

Jack Leonard Is Dieting

NEW YORK (AP)—"How will I recognize Jack Leonard?" asked a man waiting for the comedian in a restaurant. "He's lost so much weight I won't know him."

"It's easy," replied a wit, pointing to the revolving front door. "When a guy slides through that door without turning it, that will be Leonard."

Leonard came in a moment later — turning the door, it's true. But nevertheless a much thinner man, down 125 pounds to a mere 205 by his bathroom scale. A woman tourist who had blundered into the restaurant and was waiting for a table called excitedly, "Aren't you Jack Leonard?"

"I was," muttered Leonard and stalked to a table with the man who had been waiting for him. "Don't worry about eating a big lunch," said Leonard. "I hate the sight of food."

Overcoming his aversion to the stuff, he ordered a corned beef sandwich — no butter — on corn bread — crust trimmed, and a cup of black coffee. He admitted to eating a soft-boiled egg and slice of protein bread for breakfast. For dinner his wife Catherine, who weighs 116 and helped him lose that 125 pounds, would serve him lean roast beef and a plate of spinach.

"So you want to know my diet," said Leonard, who appears frequently on many TV programs and soon will launch his own regular situation comedy series. "Just say it's a few crumbs and one fig leaf scraped. Put it down that I'm now the world's tallest midget."

Actually Leonard, who never has drunk liquor but used to eat anything practically all day long, went on a 1,200 calorie daily diet. He did it the hard way, by making it 400 and 500 calories a day. A total of 22 doctors said he had to lose weight as a result of a leg injury. At first they said he'd die of starvation. Somebody made him eat a one-pound steak and he's been happy on his 1,200 calories a day ever since.

Formerly often billed as "Fat

Jack Leonard," the comedian finds that thinness has not spoiled Jack Leonard. He's in constant TV demand and feels fine — terrific. "I merely do all my fat man jokes in the past tense."

Administration Measure To Clarify States Rights Passed By Legislature

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — The administration resolution asking clarification of the states' rights article of the U. S. Constitution cleared the Legislature today with an 89-1 House vote.

Rep. John Crews of Baker County, who steered the measure to passage, said it "protests in the most solemn language usurpation of the powers residing in the people of the several states."

The resolution is part of the five-phase administration program for maintenance of segregation and is a protest against the U. S. Supreme Court's abolition of segregation in the public schools.

Crews said the court's ruling affects not only segregation but "takes from the people their unalienable rights." He declared the people of the West and the North should get behind the Southerners in protesting it and demanding a clearer statement of states' rights.

"Only by building up public opinion in the North and West can we accomplish this effort," Crews said.

The only vote cast against the measure was by Rep. John Orr of Dade County who has announced his intention of voting against the entire administration program for preserving segregation.

Passage of the amendment started the House off on a busy day of activity on segregation legislation, including some phases apart from Gov. Collins' recommendations.

Gov. Collins broadened his call to the special session with a supplemental message asking consideration of five additional bills.

House Speaker Ted Davis ruled that segregation bills not listed in the governor's call for the special session, but which were okayed by the rules committee could be introduced.

Several such measures were referred to the House yesterday and referred to the Rules Committee for their recommendation on whether they should be considered without the call.

The committee ruled out bills dealing with segregation at the universities on the ground the call deals only with elementary and high schools. However, it said it

Retirees To Get Increase

Senator George Smathers this week helped score a two-fold victory for 25,000 retired Government and railroad workers in Florida as well as several hundred thousand other similar retirees throughout the nation, according to a message received from Washington this morning.

Congress approved a bill sponsored by Senator Smathers that increases railroad retirement pensions about ten per cent. The Senate also passed a proposal that increases benefits for Civil Service retirees and survivors from $100 to $300 a year.

In Florida some 14,000 will receive the 10 percent railroad pension increase while an additional 11,000 elderly citizens will benefit from the Civil Service increase.

Smathers told the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee that the Federal government has a "direct responsibility" in the nearly quarter of a million retired workers as well as the thousands under the railroad retirement plan.

"Over three-fourths of retired Federal employees receive less than $150 a month and some $50 a month," Smathers said, adding:

"The plight of their survivors is even worse for over 85 percent of them are receiving less than $100 monthly."

Constantly fighting for greater retirement benefits, Smathers feels that "inflation has taken a particularly heavy toll on the dollar of the individual who is retired, and who is primarily dependent on a fixed pension or annuity for a livelihood."

Meisch To Head Sportsmen

John Meisch, County Commissioner and local real estate man, was elected president of the Seminole County Sportsman's Association at its annual meeting held at the Elk's Club last night.

Meisch, at first requested his name to be withdrawn but when urged by the membership reconsidered and agreed to serve if elected.

Porter Lansing retiring president, immediately presented Meisch with a lifetime membership in the association. Lansing said, "The Board of Directors, in recognition of your sincere interest and long service to the organization, present you with this lifetime membership."

Meisch immediately called for the support and cooperation from the board of directors and the entire membership of the organization "to make our needs and wants felt in Tallahassee and all over the state."

The new president of the Sportsman's Association, in accepting the office of president said "I'm not against the Sanford-Titusville Canal. I want to see our county grow and prosper. If the Canal will help I want to see it go through—if it hurts I don't."

Meisch, speaking of his statements at a meeting on Tuesday night told the membership attending last night's meeting "I just want more information. I don't say the canal will take our water away from us. If we can be convinced it is a good thing the Sportsman's Association will be for it just as they are for so many other things."

The retiring president, Porter Lansing, told the local sports group "I've served for seven terms but I want you to know that if I can help at any time, call on me."

Other officers elected last night to head the Seminole County Sportsman's Association for the coming year were: Colton Brown, vice president; M. L. Tillis, secretary; Bill Hoffman, treasurer; Johnny Cameron, custodian; Buford Brown, Jimmy Hoolihan, George A. Speer, and Bill Kilbee, directors.

John Galloway and his nominating committee, Mrs. Sara Johnson and James Ekern, named the slate of officers elected at last night's annual meeting.

Gary Bennett, Mayor of Cocon, spoke to the local sportsmen on the effects of the Sanford-Titusville Canal and "What the people of Brevard County think of it."

Bennett said "I'm afraid that the Sanford-Titusville Canal would go through, Brevard County has bought a well field in Orange County to supply water to the missile base and other areas."

"There are a few people, with greed who are pushing this canal to further their own endeavors," Bennett said. He recalled "There was a meeting in your city last night expounding on the Sanford-Titusville Canal."

"What effects?" Bennett asked. "Our entire economy was based on citrus and fishing—we were a small but poor county—and along came the guided missile and our economy changed. However, there are those people who have invested their savings in citrus and fishing."

Bennett explained "My belief, as a native Floridian, is that if such a canal or waterway is cut to the East Coast, a terrible problem will be created." And he commented "The St. Johns Valley is a basin of muck and hardpan—and if we take the pressure off it the St. Johns may become the 50th wonder of the world and flow south—there are times that it does flow south—it did this year."

"It would take very little to turn the St. Johns south," Bennett said. Hinting the wildlife problems he explained "We have a tremendous duck population and any change in the present river may increase the salinity and destroy the food on which the ducks thrive."

"Any water that flows into the Indian River will have an effect on the food for enormous trout for which we are famous," the Mayor of Cocon said. "The greed

Mrs. Jamison, 89, Gets 'Whole Works' At Beauty Shop

By J. MARION HARMAN SR.

There must be something to the saying that seems to float around that "psychology has something to do with keeping one young and effervescent."

And to prove the point, we watched a young lady enter a local beauty shop, wait her turn for a chair, and then ask for "a permanent, wash, and set."

We say young, for the lady moves along with a sure step, has beautiful hair that has never been cut, and makes known that she is happy and delighted at all of the "fuss and bother" about having her locks readied for maybe a "best moment."

Mrs. Clara Jamison, a native of Regina, Canada, looks many years younger than her actual age.

She will be 89 this Oct. 24 and her favorite hobby, she says, is going to Harriett's Beauty Nook and getting the "whole works."

Mrs. Jamison reflects that meticulous spirit when she wants every curl and strand of hair exactly in place "to look her best."

She went to South Bend, Ind., from Regina, Canada when she was a mere 12 years old where she married and then settled in Marion, Ind.

Later, Mrs. Jamison moved to Sanford with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Love who purchased the Loading Transfer and Storage Co. here.

The hobby of visiting a beauty shop has its dividends, according to the youthful appearance of one who is so rich in experience and wisdom in watching the panorama of events spin by through the years.

Hurricane Service Plans Announced

The Seminole County Chapter of the American Red Cross today released the Hurricane Service Plans for 1938 which were received from the Weather Bureau, Washington, D. C.

The local chapter of the Red Cross said, quoting from the plans, that "this year the Weather Bureau will use several new procedures in the Hurricane Warning Service in an effort to provide more accurate warnings to all residents in areas affected by these dangerous storms. The term 'Hurricane Watch' will be used instead of 'Hurricane Alert' which was used last year. A 'Hurricane Watch' is a preliminary storm announcement issued by the Weather Bureau for areas where all interests should make every effort to keep advised regarding the progress of the hurricane."

"The National Hurricane Research Project," the local Red Cross Chapter quoted, "has set up an operating base at West Palm Beach in connection with the large scale effort to discover more about hurricanes, how and why they form, forces that control their intensification and movement and methods for use in more accurately forecasting their future track. Using a B-47 and two B-50s specifically equipped aircraft for hurricane research, plus plugs supplied by the Air Force, probing flights will be made into several hurricanes this summer. Automatic recording instruments will analyze in hours the data which in the past took months of work. Plans have been made to use Navy rockets fired from pocket ships to seek hurricane weather information from heights up to 50 miles above the earth."

Director Of FOP Baseball Program Is Residing Here

Detective Jim Brooks, one of Cincinnati's amateur baseball magicians, has returned to Sanford to make his residence after directing the sandlot baseball program for more than 200 boys annually for the past 10 years.

As director of the Fraternal Order of Police baseball program, Brooks has been responsible for from 18 to 20 teams each year.

This summer the Fraternal Order of Police, in an effort to suppress juvenile delinquency and develop friendly relations between the police and the city's youth, supported 12 teams which included nine in the Knottville Circuit, two in the Babe Ruth, and one in the Class D Municipal League in Cincinnati.

Detective Brooks, who served 14 years with the Cincinnati Police Department, has retired and moved his family back to Sanford, his former home. He is the father of six children including four boys.

Brooks took over Cincinnati's Fraternal Order of Police baseball team in 1944 when the organization had its own league. Since then he has helped at least 4,000 boys, all under 17, find worthwhile activities.

One season his organization sponsored 22 teams.

The Fraternal Order of Police Babe Ruth team has won three league championships. Cincinnati FOP clubs have won the Class D Municipal title the past two years.

"We'll miss Jim," Cy Horton, manager of the Cincinnati Fraternal Order of Police's Babe Ruth entry, said. "He was always willing to help and wouldn't sacrifice a thing in satisfying the boys."

Sports Fans Urged To Attend Session

Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock a meeting of people who are interested in the Seminole High School athletic program will convene at the City Hall to form what is tentatively called The Seminole Chiefs Club.

Everyone who would like to see "bigger and better sports" at the local high school is asked to be present and to join in the support of a program pointed toward that goal.

Andrew Bracken, Principal, and Fred Gans, Athletic Director, have said that they will attend and will be glad to cooperate.

It is hoped that out of the meeting there will come a large organization that will stimulate interest in and attendance at all the games played by the high school teams, especially those on the local fields and courts.

One sportsman, talking about the plan, said that it "should be a big step forward in placing Seminole sports out in front where they belong." He added, "the players just naturally do better when they know that the older folks as well as the students are backing them. Last baseball season we had a club that went to the state tournament. They were that good; and yet not a hundred people seemed to know about the fine job the boys and the coach were doing. They might have won that state title if they'd had a boost from the home folks."

The purpose of the proposed club will be to give such support and generate enthusiasm for the local athletic activity. It is hoped that a large crowd will be on hand tomorrow night at the meeting.
