WILL NOT DISSOLVE STEEL TRUST

Washington, March 2.—In a 4 to 3 decision today the supreme court refused to dissolve the United States Steel Corporation and its numerous subsidiaries comprising the so-called "steel trust."

The government's long fought suit for dissolution of the iron and steel trade combination, for alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust law was dismissed with absolution for the corporation from all existing charges.

Placing the high court an "O. K." on the steel corporation was Chief Justice White and Associate Justices McKenna, Holmes and Van Devanter.

Justice Day gave the dissenting opinion which was joined by Justices Pitney and Clarke, Justice McReynolds and Brandeis took no part, the former having been attorney-general during the litigation and the latter having expressed opinions regarding it before appointment to the bench.

Primarily, the decree officially brands the steel corporation as a "good combination" with its legality established.

Further the court held that mere size, bigness or preponderance in industry of corporate combinations is not alone sufficient cause for their dissolution.

The court also gave a new and far-reaching judicial interpretation of application of the Sherman law, analogous to its famous "rule of reason" in the Standard Oil and tobacco "trust" cases, by declaring that public interest must be considered in applying the law. The public interest, it was held, would not be served and might be injured, by dissolving the steel concern.

Very Little Tender Stuff In Fields

CITRUS FRUITS SAFE

PROBABLE THAT LOWER COAST HAS NOT BEEN BADLY HURT AS REPORTED
It is probable that as the growers of the southern part of the state have time to take stock they will find that the loss as first predicted by the cold snap of Sunday and Monday night was not as bad as predicted but late reports say that the tomato growers of the lower east coast have suffered severely.

In the Sanford section there was very little tender stuff killed as very little of it had been set in the fields. Here and there were some peppers, squash, beans, etc., that were killed some report that their peppers escaped and from all reports the damage here was slight compared to other quarters.

The thermometer went down as far as 28 during the coldest part of the night Sunday and early Monday morning. Celery of course is not hurt by cold weather unless it freezes and the greater part of the lettuce crop has been shipped. Irish potatoes here were nipped in the tops but it is thought they will come out again although it is liable to cut the crop some and retard the growth.

Fears entertained Monday for the citrus crops were without foundation and not even the early bloom was killed.

PRESIDENT IS BETTER GOES OUT

Washington March 3 (By Associated Press) President Wilson went automobiling today this being the first time he has been out since his return to Washington from his Western tour. He has been ill since October.

Weather And Crop Conditions In Florida For The Week Ending March 2, 1920

Temperature. Temperature averaged much below the normal, with freezing over most of the section on several days. The last of the week was especially cold with killing frost to the south of Miami.

Precipitation. Showers occurred over all divisions heaviest in the northern and western counties, an least in the south, rain being deficient and needed in the lower portion of the state. Snow flurries were reported in Jacksonville and vicinity during early Monday, March 1.

Condition of Crops. The week was the most unfavorable of the winter for crop growth, especially truck. Damaging frosts occurred over much of the section on 4 or 5 mornings; much truck was killed or severely damaged, and practically no growth was made during the week. Most of the soil was too wet and cold; some seed failed to germinate. Beans, tomatoes, melons, berry bloom, and white potatoes suffered to a great extent. Celery, lettuce and cabbage were not so badly affected. Plowing was delayed, although the soil has been generally prepared for corn and peanuts. Some groves were "fired" to save citrus bloom, but bloom suffered to some extent. Farm work is backward.

J. A. MITCHELL.

Mrs. C. D. Holly, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. Leach since the first of the year, left for her home in Detroit, Mich. last Tuesday.

TRY A HERALD WANT AD

Yonkers City As Others See It
I came into Sanford about noon last Friday with the intention of finding a location where my family could spend the winter. It was about six o'clock and getting dark when I met an old friend who cordially invited me to go home with him. He informed me that his wife was away from home, so I would have to eat a bachelor's supper. I was quite willing for I remembered Charlie's cooking at camp.

We drove up to his home and after parking the car in the back yard, went into the house. Charlie pushed the button for lights—no lights came. He turned to me and crumbled. "Nothing unusual." After lighting a candle he told me to come out into the kitchen. "Anyway we can eat." He laughed. He went to the sink to wash his hands, turned the faucet;—no water came. He let out an exclamation I shall not repeat here. Striking a match he held it over the open gas plate, and blaze came. "No gas either." So a bachelor's supper we had—cold beans and sardines.

As I was going out on 85 he rushed me to the depot, but the train being late we spent a pleasant half hour in the depot well lighted by a single lantern hanging in the ticket office. I boarded the train with a firm resolve never to bring my family to a lightless, waterless, gasless city.

Yankee Doodle in Berlin with the Bathing Beauties in Person at the Princess Thursday

Although it is an uproariously funny comedy, it is said that one of the most accurate representations of the Hohenzollern family ever shown on the screen is in Mack Sennett's new five-part super-comedy, "Yankee Doodle in Berlin." All the uniforms are actual war-worn soldier clothes that were worn in battle. Ford Sterling, who takes the part of the Kaiser spent several months on a study of the character of the All Highest. He also studied thousands of photographs. The result is a make-up so graphic that it would almost fool Mrs. Hohenzollern herself. Similar paths were taken by Mal St. Clair who takes the part of the Crown Prince and Bert Roach, as General Von Hindenburg and Baldy Belmont as Von Toppits.

Florence Reed in "Wives of Men" At the Princess Tomorrow

"They had just been married, the minister had but a few moments before said the words that made them man and wife. He was waiting for his bride to join him so they might start on their honeymoon. Softly she came down the stairs, stole up to her husband, looked over his shoulder and saw—the photograph of another woman with words of love written on it. Then followed twelve years of misery for her. Was she to remain true to her husband and let him do as he pleased or was she to get what pleasure she could out of life? This is the absorbing sort of a plot that is unfolded in "Wives of Men" starring beautiful and talented Florence Reed."

"The Copperhead" With Lionel Barrymore at The Princess Tonight

Lionel Barrymore repeats in the screen version of "The Copperhead" the striking impression which he made in this great drama of Civil War times when it was produced as a stage play. The picture is shown at the Princess to-day, and is well worth the attention of every admirer of really fine photoplays.

Augustus Thomas's story has been given a sympathetic interpretation on the screen and a setting remarkable realistic in its detail that adds considerably to the enjoyment of the picture. Infinite pains have been taken to reproduce the atmosphere of the time and locale of "The Copperhead," particularly in the Mexican and Civil war episodes. The result has been most happy and a credit

The Bathing Beauties in Person With "Yankee Doodle in Berlin" At The Princess Tomorrow

Some of the wildest thrills ever shown on the screen are in Mack Sennett's five-part super-comedy, "Yankee Doodle in Berlin" which is coming to the Princess tomorrow. By special permission and co-operation of the War Department, the Sennett comedians were permitted to go to the Balloon School at Arcadia, near Los Angeles. There the aviators helped them to stage an aerial show that brings your heart into your mouth, and gives you some idea of what the Yank' army was through in France. The comedy features a young American aviator who disguised himself as a girl in order to, vamp a war secret from the amorous Kaiser.

Bothwell Browne, the well known female impersonator; Marie Prevost, Ford Sterling, Mal St. Clair, Ben Turpin and other well known comedians are featured. Special for the matinee only, the bathing beauties will display costumes from "The French Shop."

CECIL B. DeMILLE'S NEW PRODUCTION IS STRIKING THEME

"Why Change Your Wife?" Story of Married Life, Filmed on Larkish Scale

Cecil B. DeMille's latest Paramount Aircraft production, "Why Change Your Wife?" will come to the Princess Theatre tomorrow. It is described as a striking drama of married life lavishly presented. Gloria Swanson and Thomas Meighan are the starred players. The story is by William DeMille.

The plot centers around Robert and Beth Gordon, married for ten years, but now beginning to drift apart. Beth was a charming girl. She has become a too wispy wife and beres her husband with her excessive solicitude for his comforts. He finds diversion in the company of vivacious, pleasure-loving Sally Clark. Literal-minded Beth imagines them in love. A divorce follows, and Robert marries Sally. To late Beth discovers why she lost her husband and, blossoming like a rose, develops into society's gayest figure. Sally, on the other hand, is transformed by marriage into a worse household drudge than Beth ever was. Robert's eyes are opened when he again sees Beth, through a dramatic series of events they are brought happily together.

The picture has been produced with all the beauty of setting, mastery of screen technique, and admirable attention to detail that was characteristic of Cecil DeMille in "Male and Female" and his other cinema classics. Sada Cowan and Olga Priestly furnished the scenario.

"Yankee Doodle in Berlin" With "The Bathing Beauties" At The Princess Thursday

"Mamma" complains the Crown Prince in Mack Sennett's delightful satire, "Yankee Doodle in Berlin" showing this week at the Princess Theatre. "Mamma, every girl I get Papa takes."

There is more truth than fact in this witty sub-title. The disclosures made since the abdication of the All Highest indicate that Mr. Sennett has shown not only a new but a very truthful angle of the Kaiser's character.

Several instances have been recorded—now that the gossip of the palace has been released to the world—where the Crown Prince and the Kaiser were rivals for fair ladies just as shown in this comedy.

In Mr. Sennett's photoplay, the "girl" for whom they were contending was an American aviator in disguise.

OMENS SAID TO INSURE LUCK

Happenings That Foretell Coming Good Fortune Are Worth Keeping in the Memory.

We must all have noticed how many unlucky omens there are, and how few signs that foretell good fortune. It has been well explained that we need to be prepared for bad luck, but that good fortune does not require to be guarded against.

All the same, it would certainly add to the cheerfulness of life in general if lucky omens were more widely known, says London Answers. How much brighter things look to us if we have reason to hope that something good is coming to us!

Everybody, of course, knows that it is lucky to pick up a bit of iron or coal. So it is to pick up a pin if its head is toward you; if not, let it lie!

It is, of course, a sign of good fortune to put on some garment inside out, but only if it is done by accident, and the garment is allowed to remain reversed during the day. William the Conqueror put on his mail-shirt back to front on the morning of the battle of Hastings, and we all know what luck he had on that occasion!

If you find your keys or other steel articles rusting, do not be annoyed about it; it only shows that somebody is expending money by for you.

It is lucky to be followed home by a stray dog. Still better it is if a strange cat comes to stay at the house. Speaking of cats, pessimists, of course, assert that when they fear the future with their claws, it is a sign of rain; but others hold that they are "scratching luck" to their masters.

VILHJALMUR STEFANSSON

From wanderer four years to the amount of 1,650,000 pounds at a production cost of one cent a pound, utilizing nothing but lands which at the present time are considered unproductive. That is one of the aims of Vilhjalmur Stefansson, arctic explorer.

Special Meetings at The Baptist Church April 4 through 11th. In accordance with the general plan for simultaneous meetings in 24800 Baptist churches in the South, arrangements have been made for a special meeting to be held in the Baptist church beginning on Easter Sunday April 4th and running through Sunday April 11th. The name of the Evangelist and the special chorus director will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Leach and Mrs. C. D. Holly were week-end guests of Governor and Mrs. Sleeper at the Ridgewood Hotel, Daytona.

Some Moniker! Speaking of names, as the Nomad has been in recent issues, we once read of an English baby being christened "Actsofthehostes Kennett." Which is some moniker, you'll admit. No doubt it was considerably abbreviated later, and it is not difficult to imagine the lad's mother exclaiming in a moment of exasperation: "Actso, how can you act so?"

Last of the Free Eats. My neighbor sent in some pudding for our dinner. Neither of us fancied it, so of course it remained for the garbage can. Just as I was emptying it into the garbage can she came upon the scene probably to ask how we liked it, as it was a new dish. You can imagine my embarrassment, and I might say that was the end of hand-outs from her.—Chicago Tribune.

MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter is lingering in the lap of spring, the son of a gun.

The frost was not on the pumpkin this morning but it was on the squash.

The people are coming to Sanford by train, boats and automobiles and we should do everything in our power to make their stay pleasant.

This is a mighty good time to talk about injecting life into the corpse of the defunct Board of Trade. Every day people come here asking where they can find such a body (body is right), the spirit has fled.

Not enough gas at the school buildings to heat the rooms yesterday and the schools were closed for the day which was the right move by the school boards. Under present conditions there is no chance to heat by gas and other arrangements will probably be made for next season.

While we are whooping them up this summer for base ball the citizens should not overlook the fact that Sanford needs a golf links and a country club for the tourists who are expected to come here next season. This is something that is badly needed and some of the energy that we expend on baseball for our own pleasure should be expended on the golf links for the visitor's pleasure.

While we are reading the reports about the damage to crops in Florida by the recent frost it would be well to remember that these reports are generally more lurid than the occasion calls for and while the reports may be thought authentic they are usually highly colored. It takes a hard cold spell to do much damage in Florida and in looking around our own immediate section and seeing the slight loss it is hard to believe that the loss farther south was anything to talk about.

MUST HAVE SERVICE Division to it by inefficient service—service which has been no service at all, according to the Herald of that city, the people of Sanford are now about to commence the construction and equipment of a municipal electric plant. For several weeks the present plant which is described by the Herald as a jumble of junk, has refused to carry out the scriptural injunction of "Let there be light" and the folks there are indignantly peevish over the whole works. If the power and light in this city happen to be off for an hour the whole community—especially the plant of

WHO SHOULD BUILD ROADS?

It is admitted that this country must be linked in every part by a complete system of good roads. Seven out of every ten men, if asked "where shall we get the money to build these roads?" would reply, "let congress appropriate it." At least one of the other three would say "I don't know," while the remaining two would probably say "state and federal government aid."

Both the plans suggested by the nine out of ten mean additional taxes on the people. While it is undoubtedly true that the people as a whole profit by the extension of good roads, still it is also evident that certain people profit more than others, and among these greater profiting ones we would say are to be found the land-owners in the improved districts, and the manufacturers of automobiles and auto-trucks and the owners of these pleasure or profit cars.

The Chicago Daily News, in commenting on the action of the conferees of delegates from the Mississippi Valley states in demanding a hundred million dollar appropriation from congress for roads work during the next four years, says:

"In the meantime it should be recognized by all that congress cannot go on appropriating for the making of such improvements as good roads vast sums wrung from taxpayers under burdensome laws. Road-building is the proper task of local or state authorities. State automobile license fees provide an appropriate means to pay for good roads in every part of the country. As Illinois is a sovereign in recent months, the revenue from this source is now surprisingly large. If wisely used it should place each state in position to go into the good road business extensively and strictly on its own account."

Certain states have already provided themselves with good roads wholly at their own expense. Florida had spent probably more for good roads than any other state of its population before it received or even thought of getting a cent from the federal government. Illinois is absolutely about to launch a plan whereby it will finance its own good roads. Counties and road districts and states are realizing that it is the best thing they can do when they announce the completion of a good road. The work must be kept going until the country is connected with roads that permit of the best average speed and the highest tonnage capacity for hauling. And in the meantime it is well that we begin to look about how we are going to finance this program without unduly burdening the people. For be it remembered, every time we get a dollar from the federal government in appropriations, we have first been made to hand over a five dollar bill.

The Chicago Daily News thinks a tax on automobiles would do the work, for says that paper: "There is nothing needed except common sense and common honesty to give success to the activities of a state that enters upon systematic road construction. It has been fully demonstrated that a sufficient fund for road building may be had if a state applies to this use the money paid into its treasury for automobile licenses. Such license fees could not be devoted to a more appropriate use. All the states have this resource. They should unite in considering how best to employ it in improving their highway." Tampa Tribune.

TOO MUCH TALK

If everybody would just decide to settle down to attending to his own business, and let other people's alone, cut out this everlasting propaganda and promiscuous meddling, and work eight hours a day—if everybody would follow out such a program for a few months, the old world would right itself with astonishing celerity. But no—we must rave about the uplift of people who can't and won't be uplifted; we must work ourselves into a frenzy about drives for this thing and that thing; we must spend enough energy to build a city in collecting information that is worthless when procured; we must impose our ideas and preferences upon our neighbor and rob him of the beliefs which have been his comfort; we must dissipate our energies; national and individual in a thousand frantic mad and follies when all the old world needs is just a little old-fashioned working and saving, just a little fairness and justice among men—just a little less "regulating" and a little more tolerance, just a little more attention to our own affairs and less interference in the affairs of others. One way to attain these things is to turn the cold shoulder to the demagogues who foster unrest because they hope to profit by it; to sit down hard on those who stimulate discord and distrust of men for man and who would incite prejudice and class hatred for the promotion of their own selfish ends.—Lakeland Telegram.

WASTEFUL BILLBOARDS

The artist, Joseph Pennell, has attacked the ugly billboard from a new and very practical angle. He says: "The lumber expended in unnecessary and unsightly billboards in this country would rebuild nearly everything destroyed abroad. The paint wasted here would cover all the new buildings, and the labor would be of incalculable benefit in what we hear is the great essential of producing more."

Mr. Pennell's statement seems exaggerated, yet it suggests the simple truth that in this day when there is such a grave need of lumber conservation and of thrift in its proper use, a vast amount of good wood is put into unproductive billboards. And vast quantities of paint might be used in freshening up and cheering a faded world, are used simply to make the nation's highway and spots of scenic beauty places of ugliness. The campaign against billboard advertising has been making steady progress and achieving success in many communities. So far it has been waged chiefly on aesthetic grounds. If now the extravagance and wastefulness of the huge, glaring billboard is added to the charges against it, surely a new impetus will be given to its eventual disappearance from the public gaze.

To a Five-Dollar Bill

Crinkle, crinkle, little bill; Goodness gracious you look ill! Are you losing all your power? You seem weaker hour by hour.

"Now that prices are so high, I'm so tired that I could die, I just circulate all day; No one dares put me away."

"When the evening board is set With the fruits of father's sweat, My small voice is hushed and still— I am in the butcher's till."

"And no matter where I go, People disregard me so; I don't seem to count for much 'Mongst the profiteers and such."

Bill, take heart, your luck may change I'll admit the times are strange, Though you're weak, I love you still—

Crinkle, crinkle, little bill.

Wauchula Development

Wauchula, Fla. Mar. 1.—The

Wauchula Development Company is rapidly entering an active developing and selling land campaign. H. B. Rainey, general manager and chief booster, has adopted a different plan of selling from that of an old company. He will clear and improve the land and sell to buyers who have sufficient capital to make a success of trucking and fruit growing. With this in view he has purchased a tractor, a palmetto plow and a sod plow and will soon buy a battery of disc harrows.

Recently a was mill was put to work and its entire output will be used for building bungalows, garages, stables, chicken houses, etc., on ten and twenty acre tracts of land. The houses will not be mere shacks, but pretty bungalows, everyone of them being built according to plans of competent architects. Mr. Rainey expects the erection of these houses to commence within ten days.

REBUKED FROM THE PULPIT

Pastoral Admonition, Gently Conveyed, Should Have Been Enough for Even Choir Boys.

The pastor of a small parish in a New Jersey town was known far and wide about the countryside for his quaint ways and eccentric habits. He had a small choir which he augmented on special occasions with boys from the neighborhood. These recruits were sometimes unruly and he did not always find it easy to hold them within the proper bounds.

In the course of a Christmas morning sermon several choir boys began to eat peanuts surreptitiously and the crackling of the shells was plainly audible to the congregation. At first the rector paid no attention to them, but finally they got on his nerves. Pausing after an impassioned outburst of oratory, he fixed his gaze sternly upon them and thus addressed them in reproving tones:

"Boys—your choir-boys, I mean. If you must eat peanuts in church, please, do not crunch the shells, then turning again to the congregation, he resumed his discourse.

Maine Liquor Laws.

"Maine law" was the name given, in the state of Maine to an act "to prohibit drinking houses and tipping shops." It was passed in May, 1851, received the signature of the governor on June 2 and was first enforced at Bangor on July 4 of the same year. This law was re-enacted, in all its parts, in 1858, and was made more stringent in 1865 and again in 1870. It was so amended in 1872 as to bring cider and wine from grapes grown in the state within the prohibition. In 1884 an amendment was added to the constitution prohibiting forever the sale of intoxicating liquors within the limits of the state. Since 1851 the expression "Maine law" has been used colloquially to denote any state enactment prohibiting the sale of intoxicating drinks.—Boston Globe.

Maine's Indian Named Rivers Are Numerous—Hard to Spell

The nomenclature of Maine probably outdoes that of any other state in furnishing memory tests in spelling. Among its Indian named rivers are the Penobscot, Kennebec, Androscoggin, Allagash and Saco, and among the lakes and ponds Moosemunciequie, Sysladadobis, Sebago, Schoodic, Cypripitic, Caudanocook, Pangood-kamook, Baskobegun, Cobbescoocitee, Chiquassibamaticook, Molechunkamunk, Pennessevaysee, Marantocook, Anartsoggin, Chesnecook and Wolekenabacook.

SAYINGS OF WISE MEN

Felicity eats up circumspection. A good fellow lights his candle at both ends. Full vessels give the least sound.—German proverb. Whatever is fortified will be attacked, and whatever is attacked will be destroyed.—Gibson. When a man finds 20 good reasons for staying away from home you may be sure he has at least one bad one.

Sustenance in the Mesquit.

The mesquit yields excellent food for both man and beast. One authority says that the bean, of which hush and all are used, contains over 50 per cent of practicable food elements. The Indians nowadays do not call on it to the extent they did formerly, when the meat portion from the beans of this plant was the staple of their diet, though they still use it freely; but horses, and the omnivorous burros and the lesser cattle rejoice at sight of a bean-hung mesquit. Many times, during expeditions that took us far out of range of ordinary fodder, the situation has been saved for our animals by our finding a mesquit or two, the twigs pendant with plump clusters and the ground whitened with the fallen fruit.—J. Smeaton Chase.

Pretty Screen Players Battle in Cecil B. De Mille's Latest Production At The Princess Today.

Introducing Gloria Swanson and Bebe Daniels, catch-as-catch-can battlers extraordinary!

For the benefit of a battery of cameras, these two talented members of Cecil B. DeMille's all-star motion picture company recently staged a battle that will go down in screen history as one of the wildest and most destructive hand-to-hand conflicts ever filmed.

The fight was promoted by Cecil B. DeMille in the interest of his latest Paramount Artafact production, "Why Change Your Wife?" which is coming to the Princess to-day.

Mr. DeMille acted as referee, time-keeper and incidentally, director. Of course, the battle was over a man. The challenger was Thomas Meighan and he was about the only person at the studio who did not witness one or more rounds of the struggle. His role required him to slumber peacefully through the series of scenes.

"Why Change Your Wife?" which has been filmed with all the DeMille artistry and eye for beauty, was written by William DeMille and scenarized by Sada Cowan and Olga Printzlau.

Tallahassee, Mar. 1.—The supreme court has reversed the decree of the circuit court for Hillsborough county in the case of C. J. Hutchinson and Harriett M. Hutchinson, his wife, appellants, v. K. Stone, appellee.

In this case the supreme court decided the law in Florida to be that a notary public or other officer authorized to take acknowledgements cannot take the acknowledgement of a married woman to an instrument undertaken to convey her interest in homestead real estate over a telephone.

The appellate courts of only four states, Tennessee, Texas, California and Michigan, have heretofore passed upon this question.

BIG INCREASE IN PAPER MONEY

World's Supply Is Seven Times What It Was in 1914.

FIGURES ARE ILLUMINATING

Statistics Give an Idea of Inflation of World's Currency—Central Powers Worst Off—Increase Mostly in Belligerent Countries.

New York.—The world's paper money is now seven times the amount it was in 1914, while the gold supply, back of the paper, has increased less than one-half in the five years since the war started.

The 700 per cent jump in paper money, too, is exclusive of the issues of currency by the bolshevik government of Russia, which has kept the printing presses turning out shiploads by the bale.

When the war started in 1914, thirty principal countries of the world had, in round numbers, about $7,000,000,000 of paper currency.

Meanwhile what was happening to the gold reserves back of the notes in the thirty countries? In 1914 they amounted, roughly, to $5,000,000,000.

Back in 1914 the ratio of gold reserves to outstanding notes in the thirty countries were 70 per cent. By the time of the armistice it had fallen to 18.4 per cent.

The allies, so the tables of the National City bank show, taken as a group at the start of the war, had $7,763,000,000 of gold and $4,000,000,000 of paper.

The central powers—Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria, and Turkey—went into the war with $600,000,000 of gold and $1,200,000,000 of paper.

To reduce it to percentages, the ratio of gold to paper at the start of the war was: Allies, 70.3 per cent; central powers, 49.7 per cent.

Increase in Belligerent Countries.

Naturally most of this increase occurred in the belligerent countries. The ratio between gold and notes in the twenty-three countries and colonies which participated in the war fell from 71.3 per cent in July, 1914, to 15.8 per cent in November, 1918, and to 11.2 per cent December.

From 1914 to last December the ratio of gold reserve to currency notes, the tables show, fell in France from 62 per cent to 3.6; in Great Britain from 191 to 22.9 per cent; in Italy from 70 per cent to 7.5; in the United States from 69.8 per cent to 52.3.

While world paper currency was increasing seven-fold national debts, represented by bonds and other promises to pay, rose from $40,000,000,000 to $200,000,000,000; bank deposits and the use of checks and other circulating media made a corresponding advance, while meantime gold production fell off from $400,000,000 a year in 1914 to $250,000,000 in 1919.

The statisticians say that the most astonishing, not to say incomprehensible, feature in the world's finances has been the inflation occurring in the year following the armistice.

Zulu Brides Cheaply Clothed.

New York.—Zulu women have solved their country's high cost of living problem by wearing the same dress all through life!

This is the statement in "True Economy," issued by the Interchurch World Movement of North America. But this is not all. A Zulu parent does not furnish his charming daughter a dress until her wedding day, and then $15 is considered quite expensive for her trousseau.

SELL ARMY SUPPLIES

$760,000,000 Is Realized on U. S. Stuff in France.

Value of Entire Property Is Estimated at $1,700,000,000 by General Connor.

Antwerp.—The sum of $760,000,000 was realized from the sale of American stocks remaining in France after the departure of the American army, said Brig. Gen. W. D. Connor, chief of staff of the American department of supply.

Had they been retailed in various countries great losses would have been entailed, as the expense would have been heavy, he said.

France paid $400,000,000 for stocks it took over, while other allies and smaller nations purchased supplies for $300,000,000. As an offset against the stocks bought by France that country undertook to pay damage claims amounting to several million dollars as a result of American operations in training areas.

General Connor again denied the old story that the French made the American army pay for the trenches it occupied in France.

"The whole truth," he said, "is that the American army has not paid a cent for any ground used or for anything destroyed at the front."

General Connor sailed on the liner Lapland, which was the first ocean passenger steamer to clear from Antwerp for America since August, 1914. There were 450 passengers, including Henry D. Morgan, American consul general at Brussels, and Mrs. Morgan.

WOMEN SEEK WEALTH IN OIL

Take Their Chances With Men Speculators in New Field Being Developed in Pennsylvania.

McKeesport, Pa.—Woman speculators have entered the natural gas field developed during the last few months in Snake hollow, almost within the city limits, and are drilling their first well. The pioneers were Miss Isabelle Milmo, assistant to the city treasurer, and Miss Irma Atwater, assistant to the city collector.

They had heard so many stories of fortunes being made in the new development that they found a bit of land not under lease, contracted for a derrick, and organized a company. Drilling is to be commenced as soon as the plant is on the ground.

Development in the Snake hollow field is going on, with every evidence of the old-time "wildcat" oil and gas boom. Town lots on the edge of the city which three months ago were next to worthless are selling for as much as $10,000 each, and every time a new well comes in the price goes up.

A number of important wells have been brought in by companies whose business it is to search for and find natural gas. But spectacular and picturesque speculation and financing are not lacking.

Deer Is Caught Fast in Ice in Trinity River

Chico.—E. N. Todd, a stockman near Paulsen ranch, reports catching a forked-horn deer that was held leeward in the middle of the Trinity river.

Todd believes the deer was chased by coyotes and run out on the ice, breaking through when near the middle of the stream.

The deer could not get out and was frozen in during the night, leaving only its head and a part of its back above the ice.

The deer was pulled out and taken to a stable, where it is recovering from the effects of the cold. Todd will give the buck an earmark and brand before turning it loose.

JAZZ MUSIC NOT A NUISANCE

Los Angeles County Judge Refuses to Give Relief to Disturbed Nerves.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Jazz music is not a nuisance, according to a decision by Judge Lewis R. Works, in the Los Angeles county superior court. The city of Pasadena had brought suit against a social club, whose neighbors complained its jazz music "jarred on their nerves."

"Once jazz music might have been construed as a nuisance," Judge Works said. "It is no longer so construed. If the music disturbed the residents of the neighborhood, I am sorry, but this court cannot give them relief."

New York.—A stray cat slipped into the annual poultry show in the Madison Square Garden and had a $100 breakfast on two carrier pigeons exhibited by a Baltimore fancier.

LOOK OUT FOR POISON IN FOOD

Federal Food Officials Warn Consumers to Watch for Signs of Spoilage.

RIPPE OLIVES KILL SEVERAL

Botulism Poison Responsible for Fatalities—No Method of Preserving Food Found That Eliminates Occasional Spoiled Package.

Washington.—Botulism poisoning, which recently killed six in one family in New York, is caused by eating spoiled food infected with the bacillus botulinus, say the officials of the bureau of chemistry, United States department of agriculture, who have investigated this and other poisoning cases in connection with the enforcement of the food and drugs act. In the New York case death was caused by botulism poison in ripe olives. The olives remaining in the bottle in this case had an offensive odor. The same condition was found in the food in other cases investigated by the department. All spoiled food does not contain this poison, but any spoiled food, even though the spoilage be slight, may contain it, and for this reason, say the officials, all food showing even the slightest unnatural odor, unnatural color, swelling of the container, sign of gas, or any evidence of decomposition whatever, should be discarded.

Trace Poisonous Food.

The department of agriculture has used every possible effort and gone to the limit of its legal authority to remove all dangerous foods from the market by seizure under the food and drugs act, say the officials. Each time when botulism poisoning has occurred food inspectors have traced through the channels of commerce the batch from which the poisonous food came and have used all measures under the law to remove it from the market. Samples from all other brands put out by the packer have been examined. Since the law authorizes seizure in such cases only when the foods are actually found to be decomposed or to contain poisonous ingredients, since only an occasional package in millions is infected with bacillus botulinus, and since it is physically possible to open and examine but a comparatively few of the millions of cans entering interstate commerce, it is beyond the power of the authorities to protect the public completely. For this reason they emphasize the necessity for scrupulous care on the part of persons opening and serving foods to discard anything which is spoiled. In products not obviously spoiled, if there is doubt in the recognition of the odor, proper to the product, thorough cooking will remove the possibility of danger from botulism. If spoilage is apparent, destruction is recommended by the specialists.

Mystery About It

Nobody knows just how the bacillus botulinus gets into any particular food. It has been found in articles put up in the home by the careful housewife and in goods packed in commercial establishments. It may be present in a few packages only of any lot. There is no method, the officials say, by which the packers or home canners can assure themselves by casual examination before canning that the product does not contain the bacillus botulinus. If the food was in all cases properly sterilized and perfectly sealed, the development of the poison would be impossible, but no method of preserving food has yet been found, the specialists say, that eliminates the occasional spoiled package. Failure to sterilize may not become apparent for weeks, or even months after the canning of the article. If signs of spoilage have appeared when the can is opened, it is clear warning that the product is no longer edible. There is no greater probability of botulism poisoning in olives than in many other food products, either commercial or domestic. Until this year it has been more commonly found in string beans, asparagus, and the like. It was originally found in sausage. It has been found in stock food, such as moldy hay and other kinds of spoiled forage, but it has never been found in the department investigations in any kind of food that was not spoiled.

Cat Heart Out of Patient

Omaha, Neb.—Physicians cut the heart out of Steve Zakeh, an Austrian, then placed it back in his body. Zakeh, who had shot himself, is expected to live.

They were lifted completely out of the body, a bullet imbedded in it removed, the heart replaced in its natural place and the incision sewed up. Zakeh is now eating solid food and is on the high road to recovery.

NOTED FACTORY OPENS SOON

Famous Chauny (France) Mirror Plant Prepares to Operate Again.

Chauny, France.—The historic mirror factory established here by Jean Baptiste Colbert, famous minister of Louis XIV, which gave employment before the war to 2,000 employees, will resume operations within a short time. This information was given the correspondent of the Associated Press when he visited the quaint old town in the devastated regions of France, where he is observing reconstruction work under special arrangement of the French government.

In more recent times a chemical factory was established at Chauny, and this also is being rebuilt. It will supply employment for about 1,000 persons. Both plants were heaps of stones and tangled masses of debris when hostilities ended.

What Becomes of Old Cars?

It has generally been assumed that when an automobile begins to show its age, it gravitates to the rural districts, but the observing traveler knows that the average farmer likes a new car as well as the city man; it is evident that the fate of used cars, and the reason for the comparatively strong price maintained on them, must be sought in other directions.

Many secondhand cars are bought by small tradesmen, who convert them to commercial uses; but by far the larger number return to their makers, or to the various branches, where they are dissected for the many parts that, with a little cleaning, can be used again thus freeing the shops from the necessity of turning out quantities of parts for replacement stock.

Specially in Winter.

"I see you have a great many auto bellum homes about here," remarked the visitor.

"So we have," replied the Southern planter. "Most of them are falling into ruin, though."

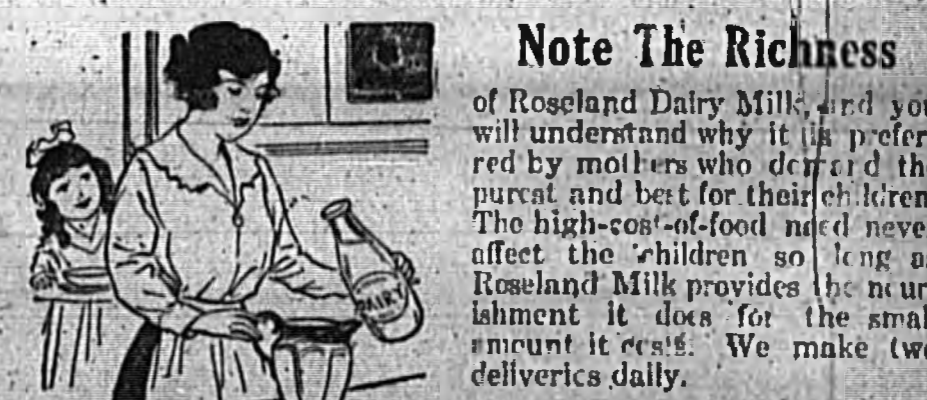

"But I thought the South had struck its stride and was now progressive?" "That's the very reason why those antebellum mansions are being deserted. They are long on looks and short on comfort."

Make Living From Flint Pebbles.

The flint pebble industry gives employment to many women and children along the French coast between Havre and Dieppe. The pebbles collected in and near Havre are selected for their spherical shape, and are used for pulverizing in certain industries, particularly in the manufacture of cement and in copper mines, being employed in the interior of large cylinders.
