Young Cleveland Pro Pulls Wizard Tricks To Defeat Leaders

MIAMI BILTMORE GOLF COURSE, CORAL GABLES, Nov. 30.—(P)—Densmore Shute, modest 28-year-old professional from Cleveland, Ohio, pulled wizard tricks from his golf clubs yesterday to overcome early leaders and win first place and $250.83 in prize money in the $10,000 Miami-Biltmore open golf tournament with a 291 that was challenged until the last threesome made their way into the clubhouse.

Shute survived hard going through yesterday to advance to first place from a quartet of golfing horsemen that stood far behind in fifth place at the end of 30-hole play Monday. He fought a nip and tuck battle over the last 36 holes with John Revolta, 21-year-old Menominee, Mich., dark horse, and Ed Dudley, of Chicago, veteran of many golfing campaigns before he finally scored his 291 to the 292 of Revolta and the 293 of Dudley.

Paul Runyan, of Westchester, N. Y., holding up the judges' final decision as to third place until Densmore fell over the difficult Miami-Biltmore golf course, was in fourth place with a 294, while Gene Sarason, unable to score his second Miami-Biltmore victory in succession, and Al Espinoso, of Akron, Ohio, were in fifth place with 296 each.

Billy Burke, Greenwich, Conn.; Al Watrous, Detroit, and Joe Kirkwood, Chicago, did their bit to divide the richest purse in the world's 1932 golf tournaments, as they scored 298. Immediately behind them, with 299, were Roland Hancock, Stoneham, Mass., who caused concern earlier in the tournament among the better known golfers, Craig Wood, Deal, N. J.; John Gordon, Noroton, Conn., and Mike Turnesa, Elmford, N. J.

Walter Hagen, of Detroit, divided honors at 300 strokes with Tommy Creavy, Albany, N. Y., and H. G. Pickard, Charleston, S. C. Curtis Bryan, of Jacksonville, was low amateur and captured the silver trophy donated by Henry L. Doherty, utilities magnate and president of the Florida Year Round club. Bryan's score was 243-76-319.

Kanner Stars In Carolina Rat Tilt With Duke Outfit

Murray Kanner, Sanford's only All-Southern High School football player who is now a member of the freshmen team of the University of North Carolina, played for 60 minutes in the final game of the year, played last Thursday against the Duke freshmen, and again was one of the outstanding players, according to newspaper clippings received in Sanford today.

Kanner was credited, along with guards Moore and Joyce, as being the outstanding players on offense and defense. He made the longest run of the game when he intercepted a pass and ran 45 yards before being hauled down by a lone player. Kanner's team lost the game by a score of 19 to 0, its only defeat of the season.

The lanky center, who is probably the most sensational player to represent a Sanford High School since the days when Coach Leonard McLucas called signals for Sanford High, expects and active year in 1933. He writes that he will fight tooth and nail to make the varsity team along with Don Jackson, another Seminole High star who was forced out of play at North Carolina this year because of a shoulder injury.

Crooms Academy To Play DeLand Friday

Crooms Academy's negro football team closes a successful 1932 season at Municipal Park on Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock when it meets the strong DeLand Wildcats team which played a 6 to 6 tie with Crooms Academy in DeLand last October.

The game, expected to be well-attended, will see "Trince Albert" Sherman who has turned in several near sensational performances as fullback for Crooms Academy, making his final appearance as a

Bringing his subject to modern days, Mr. Dingfelder pictured the life of the school boy of pre-war Germany, who was taught Latin, Greek, and similar subjects with monotonous regularity. He told how, over the opposition of the teachers and professors, groups of boys decided that their lives should be made fuller by the introduction of genuinely refreshing topics such as nature studies and how groups of boys and girls would spend week-ends in tramping through woods and forests enjoying a fellowship and contact with neighboring peoples that soon spread throughout Germany.

"Then came the war," Mr. Dingfelder said as he told how as a school boy he along with thousands of other youths were pressed into military service by "Feeble soldiers of the old school who were no longer able to handle front line assignments." He said that the youth of Germany flocked to this service, proud to be wearers of uniforms and carriers of side-arms, and trained by veteran officers, many of them men famous in the military history of Germany.

The war wasn't the youth movement some of us pictured," he said, "It was murder. It was no wonder then that when it was over and the youths of 1914, now grown old and bitter although they were but 17 and 18, came home they sought an avenue of escape from the bitter memories that crowded their minds."

Here entered the Youth Movement on a grand scale. Mr. Dingfelder said, covering all of Germany late in 1919 and reaching its highest peak in 1923 and 1924. Under the guiding hand of young men whose interests were almost as one, he said, the youth of Germany soon took to the fields and forests to commune with nature, to learn German history as they could in no other way, and to become strong in mind and body and they slowly shook off the memories of the war.

However, Mr. Dingfelder said, since 1924, crafty figures that are now prominent in the political life of the German nation such as Adolf Hitler, scoured the nation for the purpose of recruiting youth into scores of separatist groups with the sole purpose of training them to believe in the major tenets of the various parties.

"As a result," he said, "We now find Germany a land of strong, narrow-minded political groups made up of the youth of the nation who are rapidly becoming blinded to the finer things of life, and who instead of being the close friends they once were as members of the Youth Movement are now bitter enemies too stubborn to bend their efforts to the only salvation of the nation, the brotherhood of man."

"My earnest hope is that soon there shall arise some one who will lead these fine youths into the proper paths," he concluded, "paths that will make of them sturdy, industrious, peace-loving men and women who aspire to the higher things of life."

Rotarian G. W. Spencer, introduced as the Current Event feature of the program, the possibility that "Beer by Christmas" is further away than some of its advocates believe it is.

Upon his suggestion, the club made public congratulation to Rotarian Leonard McLucas, whose Seminole High School football team has just closed a successful season.

President Randall Chase announced that he would appoint a committee within a few days that would investigate the matter of staging a Rotary sponsored dinner for a group of needy children on Christmas Day.

Those present at the luncheon were: G. R. Ramsey, Charles Ramsey, Julius Dingfelder, C. A. Byrd, Oscar Boone of Orlando, as guests and Rotarians Randall Chase, George C. Harden, R. L. Malbie, W. C. Hutchison, H. R. Stevens, W. I. Cooper, H. I. Louttit, W. A. Leffer, H. M. Watson, Leonard McLucas, P. J. Sline, F. C. MacMahon, J. A. Brown, S. O. Shinholser, R. F. Monsalvatge, R. F. Haines, J. A. PLAN IS OFFERED WHEREBY STATE WILL AID CITIES

League Of Municipalities Has Program To Give Debt Relief

TAMPA, Nov. 30.—(P)—The legislative committee of the Florida League of Municipalities at a meeting here yesterday worked out an eight point program to be presented to the next legislature, asking state aid for municipal debt relief.

Salient points of the plan as outlined follow: 1. Establishment of a state board to buy in city and county bonds with gasoline tax or other additional revenues at current market prices, the board to hold the bonds and give the cities or counties liberal extensions of time for retirement.

2. A bill authorizing cities to levy a two cent gasoline tax to be credited against the state's gasoline tax. 3. Authorize the state road department to take over and maintain such city streets as are used as highway links, paying the cities full sums for reimbursement for construction and for maintenance.

4. A bill exempting cities from paying gasoline tax on gasoline bought for their own use. 5. Authorize cities to levy and collect automobile registration fees of $5 on small cars and $10 on big cars, payments to be credited on the state's automobile license taxes.

6. A bill designating city tax collectors as automobile tax agents. 7. A series of bills applying to bondholders mandamus suits against cities whereby debt service funds shall be held for the benefit of bondholders on a pro rata basis to be recovered in proportion to the ratio between the faces of bonds and the total issue and requiring that 75 percent of defaulting bond issues to be deposited in court as a condition precedent to issuance of writs of mandamus to enforce payment.

8. A bill exempting from state and county taxes property acquired by cities in tax foreclosure and keeping this property on exemption toll until it is sold to private individuals. Mayor R. B. Gaulties, of Miami, was elected chairman of the legislative committee, and he appointed a committee of city attorneys to draft the recommended legislation.

Among speakers at the session yesterday were Congressman-elect J. Mark Wilson, of West Palm Beach, and J. Hardin Peterson, of Lakeland, and Col. W. E. Kay, general lecturer of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad.

The speakers said state aid must be forthcoming if cities of Florida are to be relieved of their bonded debts.

Describing Florida's municipalities as "the state's neglected stepchildren" Wilson expressed encouragement in the personnel of the next legislature and confidence that the league, if it put forward an intelligent program, would be able to get its bills enacted into laws. Peterson likewise said the cities must get help from Tallahassee next spring to avoid a collapse of municipal government in many urban communities."

Basketball Practice Put Off Until Monday

Because of the absence from the city tonight of Coach Leonard McLucas, who will be in Palatka attending the annual meeting of coaches of the Northeast Florida Conference, a scheduled basketball practice for members of the proposed Sanford team in the Central Florida National Guard Basketball League has been postponed until next Monday night.

The league gets under way in Orlando tonight when Company F of Haines City sends its basketball team into a game against a squad from Company K of Orlando. The second game of the season will be played in Sanford next Wednesday night when Company F of Haines City plays the Sanford team, while Sanford goes to Orlando next Thursday night for a game with Company K.

The game next Thursday night will be a double-header, the first game to be between the girls auxiliary team of both the Haines City and Sanford guard units. Mrs. Gladys Morris Williams is coach of the local girls team, which will hold a regular practice at Seminole High School tonight at 8:00 o'clock.

Spencer, A. W. Epps, S. G. Gray, W. M. Haynes, and H. H. Coleman of Cooca, who will assume the position of manager of the Sanford branch of the Florida Power and Light Co. within a few days.

BRONCHIAL TROUBLES Need Creomulsion Bronchial troubles may lead to something serious. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritated state of the throat. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for soothing the throat after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough would, no matter of how long standing, be not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Ad.)

State Aid For Cities

The eight-point program prepared by the Florida League of Municipalities should be of particular interest in Sanford and similarly situated Florida cities, offering as it does some hope of relieving them of their present financial difficulties. The establishment of a state board empowered to purchase distressed municipal and county securities at market prices appeared to us especially as presenting possibilities.

With some $600,000,000 worth of bonds said to be outstanding in Florida, with many of them in default and probably all of them selling under par, it might appear that such a board would be confronted at the very start with the impossibility of financing so gigantic a proposition. However, through the creation of a revolving fund and the improvement in the bond market which is bound to come sooner or later, the difficulty of financing might well be overcome.

It might be possible to organize a sort of Municipal Refinancing Corporation with the state taking say $5,000,000 worth of stock in it, obtaining the funds from such an agreeable tax levy as, for instance, a beer tax. Thus fortified, such a corporation should be able to sell fifteen or twenty million dollars worth of bonds, if necessary backed by the state (calling unfortunately for a constitutional amendment). That would provide a working capital of some $25,000,000.

From that point on progress should be simple. The directors of the corporation could come into a place like Sanford. Our bonds are now selling at between fifteen and twenty. With less than a million and a half they could buy all of Sanford's outstanding bonds. In the course of time with a total indebtedness of only $1,500,000 Sanford should then be able to float a new issue out of which the corporation would be repaid, thus releasing that money for operation in other cities.

If it is good business economics and practical political science for the federal government to organize a Reconstruction Finance Corporation for the purpose of stabilizing banks, railroads and insurance companies at the expense of the taxpayers but for the benefit of depositors, workers, and policy holders, why wouldn't it be equally sound for the state to risk a comparatively small amount of the money derived from state taxpayers in order to benefit the taxpayers of its various counties and cities?

After all, a state is no stronger than the counties which comprise it.

The Hunger Marchers

A problem of no inconsiderable magnitude confronting Washington officials is the approaching convergence upon the Capital city of hundreds of "hunger marchers" from all sections of the country. Presumably their action is calculated to impress upon Congress, which convenes Dec. 5, the imperative necessity of effecting some measure for further relief of unemployment.

That they have taken the wrong method of approach to the settlement of a serious situation is beside the question. What is of more importance is that a large band of idle and uncontrolled individuals will be congregated in the nation's capital dependent upon local relief agencies for their shelter and food.

If these men are given food and a place to live there, will it not result in countless others coming to Washington to get the same treatment? And if this influx continues will it not result in the nation's capital becoming a reservoir of idle people, presenting a serious and embarrassing spectacle to the government?

The problem is what action to take? Will it be better to allow the "marchers" access to the city and attempt to feed and shelter them, with the inevitable result that sooner or later stringent action will be necessary, or would it be better to nip the march in the bud and prevent any unemployment hordes from entering.

The use of force at the outset will cause a wave of sympathy for the "marchers" and will tend to place the government in the light of being unnecessarily ruthless. But to allow a condition to progress to menacing proportions when it might have been avoided with a little timely action appears to us to be less sensible and even more inhuman.

In justice to the "hunger marchers" it might be said that most of them are the unwitting victims of communistic agents whose interests do not lie with those whom they pretend to help but with their own selfish desires of fomenting revolution. Most regrettable of all is that the men who are lending themselves to this "march" do not realize that by their gesture of intimidation and coercion they are destroying the confidence of wealth, furthering the contraction of credit, resulting in the reduction of business, and bringing on more unemployment.

Cooking School Opens With Big Throng Present

(Continued From Page One) and useful hints that were jotted down by dozens of the listeners, all of whom had been supplied with pencil and paper so that they could take down the recipes as Miss Moe announced them.

Miss Moe spoke from the platform of the Woman's Club, surrounding her were two I and II Electric Ranges, a new model Frigidaire, a kitchen cabinet and two porcelain topped tables, and a wide variety of useful and labor-saving electrical fixtures that had been furnished by local merchants.

At the conclusion of her lecture, Miss Moe assisted in the awarding of prizes that had been donated by some of Sanford's leading merchants, and the food that had been prepared during the morning.

The second session will be held tomorrow morning starting at 10:00 o'clock. Extra seats will be placed in the building today so that every person attending will be accommodated. C. A. Byrd, manager of the Florida Power and Light Co. today invited all housekeepers to send their cooks to the school. They have a section reserved for them in the balcony.

Miss Moe was introduced to the audience this morning by Mayor T. L. Dumas who welcomed her to the city and expressed the hope that the school would be a decided success and that she would enjoy her stay in Sanford.

The following Sanford concerns are co-operating with The Herald in staging the school which will conclude with an afternoon session on Saturday, starting at 2:00 o'clock: Randall Electric Co., Pillsbury Flour Mills, Snowdrift Shortening Co., Seminole Creamery, Churchwell's, Piggly-Wiggly Stores, Smith Furniture Co., City of Sanford, Hof-Mac Battery Co., Hill Hardware Co., Sanford Electrical Contracting Co., Winn-Lovett Grocery Co., Forrest Gatchell's Cash Grocery, Tillis Meat Market, Gatchell's Better Food Stores, Edgewood Flower Shop, A. K. Rosetter, florist, Woodruff and Watson, Lee Brothers, Myrtle's Doughnut Shop, Wesson Oil and Snowdrift People, and American Bakeries.

Hoover Starts Drive To Cut Budget Sums

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—(AP)—In an eleven hour drive to shave budget figures to the last dollar needed President Hoover today called in advisors for a final check-over of his virtually completed fiscal message to Congress. Speeches in requested appropriations for conducting the government will be drastic.

Although the President himself remained silent there have been persistent reports that he recommended a sales tax to increase federal revenue and may suggest a flat pay cut for government employees in an effort to decrease the deficit now risen above the $740,000,000 mark.

Constitutional Rights Are Restored in Cuba

HAVANA, Dec. 1.—President Machado issued a decree today restoring constitutional guarantees in all provinces except that of Havana. The constitution was suspended in 1930 in the face of threatening rebellion and suspension has remained in force since except for brief intervals when the guarantees were restored during congressional elections.

Stineselpher, and B. C. Moore will be heard in three songs, F. C. MacMahon, former opera singer, will render a vocal solo, "One Sweetly Sounded Thought", while the officers of the Lodge will perform the memorial ritual that is a feature of the service.

Death Ray Feature Of Milane Picture

All nations fear the day when science perfects the Death Ray, a gun capable of killing and destruction at enormous distances through the mysterious forces of electricity.

Such a weapon is foretold by Robert Regent, kindly old inventor, a principal character in the familiar radio broadcast, "Chandu The Magician," recently filmed as a feature by Fox Studios with Edmund Lowe enacting the title role.

When Roxor, the scheming, sinister villain of the drama, played by Bela Lugosi, gets possession of this deadly ray, kidnapping Regent and his family in the process. Chandu sets out to regain it and to rescue the inventor and his family. It is this central conflict that motivates the stirring plot of the picture to be shown at the Milane Theater tonight and Friday.

The gun used in the picture was constructed by Fox studio technicians. It is in every way the embodiment of all scientists know of projecting through the air electrical waves of sufficient force to kill at a distance. Roxor is unable to operate the device, but tries by every conceivable horror and torture to wring the secret of its operation from Regent, the inventor.

ROSE CULTURE

By CAPT. E. T. LOCKES

Editor's note: The following is one of a series of articles written by Capt. E. T. Lockes on rose culture which will appear in The Sanford Herald during the next few days.

ACTUAL PLANTING OF ROSE BUSHES

Whether your bud has been properly prepared before time, or whether you decide you will not wait to have all that preparatory work done—the actual rules for putting the bushes into the ground are the same, namely:

1. Dig a hole that is three or four inches wider than the spread of the roots in diameter, and about six inches deeper. The only way you can ascertain this is to carefully spread out the roots as widely as possible, trying the bush in the hole over and over again until the hole is exactly right.
2. Then in the bottom of the hole, about six inches below where the deepest roots extend, put in a layer of steamed bone meal, oak leaves and cow manure. Cover this with the top soil taken from the hole just dug until the hole is just deep enough for the deepest roots to touch the soil, stamping the soil down firmly with the feet.
3. Then with cow manure, steamed bone meal, and oak leaves within reach place the bush in the hole, carefully spreading out all the roots, and holding the bush so that the bud will be just below the surrounding ground level. By hand throw in top soil, mixing it thoroughly with cow manure, and oak leaves and gently but firmly pushing the soil down between all the roots, which as said before must be spread out carefully in every natural direction. Around the outside of the hole, but not touching the ends of the roots, put a layer of steamed bone meal every four to six inches and continue as before with top soil, leaves and cow manure pushing them with the fingers down firmly between the roots, being careful not to break off the roots meanwhile. When the hole is about one third full pour in a lot of water. Let this soak into the ground and then continue as before. At two-thirds full repeat the water and when the hole is filled up seal the ground well. Be sure the layers of steamed bone meal put around the edge of the hole while planting do not touch the roots of the rose bush. And be sure that the bud, when the bush was grafted, is an inch or two below the surface level or otherwise suckers will spring up from the old root stock and these suckers bleed the plant of its strength and vitality. If suckers do happen to spring up they must be cut off immediately.

Now it takes a person familiar with this process about half an hour to properly plant one rose bush.

4. Plant the bushes not further than two feet apart so that when grown the foliage will shade the roots during the long hot season here in Florida.
5. Lastly cover the whole bed with cow manure, and the manure with a layer of oak leaves. With this done exactly as directed you will have nothing much to do except wait a few weeks and then to pick a big bouquet of thrifty, beautiful roses before breakfast every morning. Rose bushes properly planted, continually nourished, and properly watered will bear good flowers for nine years or more.
6. Remember never to hoe or cultivate the rose garden. The topping of cow manure and oak leaves will keep the surface soil light and porous and will admit the oxygen and sunlight needed.

THE HUB

of the home!

Thousands of women have learned the art and science of better cooking at less cost by attending the lectures and demonstrations of electric cooking schools.

For two more days the women of Sanford have the opportunity of seeing practical demonstrations in electric cooking at the Women's Club. These demonstrations are sponsored by the Sanford Herald and in charge of the nationally known eclect.

Miss Eleanor Moe

Here is a splendid opportunity for you to learn how to cook better meals at less cost. Don't fail to attend the last two days—tomorrow and Saturday.

As the spokes of the wheel radiate from the hub, so the various activities of the home radiate from the kitchen. Cooking, refrigerating, washing, ironing, cleaning, entertaining are directly dependent upon the appliances in your kitchen. In no other room of your home can modern equipment save so much in health, energy, time and money.

Modern equipment is electric equipment. The electric range, refrigerator, water heater, washing machine, iron, vacuum cleaner, and many other electrical appliances, each have their individual parts in saving labor, banishing drudgery, promoting cleanliness and preserving health.

Life is short! Have YOUR kitchen electrically equipped... bring your workday up to date, while you are in the prime of life... enjoy life's comforts and pleasures to the fullest extent.

Consult the experts of our Home Service Division... they will show you how.
