FCAT scores higher, but more will fail

By Michelle Jerla
Managing Editor

A higher number of Seminole County third-graders passed the FCAT reading exam this year, although a larger number from last year may be held back as a result of a new state law.

Of the 4,795 Seminole students who took the test, about 4,075 — or 85 percent — scored at Level 2 or higher on this year's test. The remaining 15 percent of the class failed to pass the exam, which means they may not be promoted to the fourth grade unless they can prove their reading has improved by the end of the summer. Last year, 18 percent of

Students who score at Level 1 in reading must repeat third grade, according to new law

Seminole's third-graders scored at Level 1.

Gov. Jeb Bush announced Monday that 23 percent of the state's third-graders failed the Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test. It's fewer students than last year, but with the end of social promotion, more students than ever will repeat the third grade.

"We continue to see real progress, but the number of students scoring at Level 1 shows that we still have much work to do," Gov. Bush said. "With the end of social promotion, we have an unprecedented opportunity to provide students with the time and tools they need to be successful in the classroom."

The purpose of the FCAT is to make sure students are learning the basic skills they are supposed to be learning in school. These basic skills are called the Sunshine State Standards, and were created by teachers in the mid-1990s.

FCAT scores fall into one of five levels —

Level 5 is the highest; Level 1 is the lowest. Beginning this year, third-graders who score Level 1 in reading on the FCAT must repeat the third grade, unless there is other evidence that proves these students can read on grade level. For example, students who scored Level 1 on the FCAT but have already passed the Stanford 9 will be promoted. They may also be promoted if they pass by completing a portfolio, pass the Stanford 9 after summer reading assistance or are ESE (Exceptional Student Education) students who were previously retained.

The state is encouraging school systems who were previously retained.

FDOT tells businesses to deal with profit loss

By Jamie J. Anderson-Potter
Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Florida Department of Transportation tells businesspeople along State Road 46 in Sanford to deal with profit loss caused by incorrect and missing directional signs until construction ends.

As reported last month in the Seminole Herald, businesspeople say would-be patrons traveling east and west bound on I-4 are unaware of their businesses on State Road 46 because of the lack of signage.

For example, when traveling westbound on I-4, the only directional signs at the State Road 46 exit are for gas stations. However, while traveling eastbound on I-4 there are no signs to direct people to exit for restaurants, hotels or gas stations.

"That intersection has been under construction," said Roger Eudy, FDOT state administrator for the logo sign program. "Although we have been dealing with this issue for some time, there is nothing we can do about it because of the construction. It is just now reaching a point that we can make some type of decision."

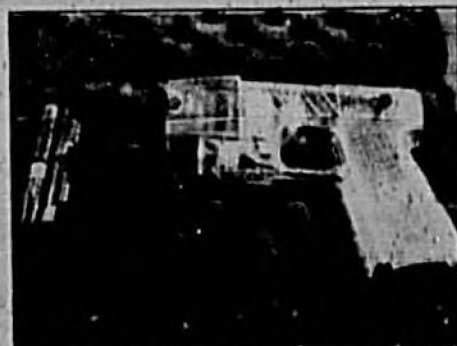

According to Eudy, logo signs are the last items to be added to a road under construction.

The contractor, Florida Logos Inc., plans to meet with the district traffic operations engineers in a few weeks to decide what signs can be installed," he said.

During the meeting, officials will determine whether the proposed signs meet the requirements outlined in the Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Devices (MUTCD). According to this manual, which is followed by all DOT offices within the United States, there must be a minimum of 800 feet between signs on a major interstate. This allows drivers time to look at the sign, make a decision and follow through. Off-ramps require only 150 feet because of decreased speeds.

"We do the best we can with signing as many people as we can according to the rules," said Eudy.

The logo program is a great program," according to Fred Ferrell, district traffic operations engineer with DOT, the first time Florida Logos Inc. submitted the plans for logo signs at the State Road 46

Sanford's newest weapon is ... stunning

Sanford K-9 Officer Robert Shull yells out in pain after feeling the effects of a Taser gun. Sanford officers are currently going through training to carry the new weapon.

Officers feel effect of Taser during training

By Michelle Jerla
Managing Editor

More than 100 Sanford law enforcement officers are in shock over a new weapon recently acquired by the city's police department.

The gun is called the Advance Taser M-26, a less lethal weapon that uses electricity to stop suspects in their tracks. Within the next 60 days, every sworn officer on the city's force, will carry the new device — but not before they experience for themselves the intense electrical force of the Taser.

"We've got the Tasers in inventory," said Sanford police spokeswoman Cleo Cohen. "There are 111 Tasers, enough for each sworn position. But, before they can carry one, they have to go through one day of training."

The recent Taser acquisition follows two years of research by police and city officials. Police Chief Brian Tooley previously said he wanted to make sure the weapon was the right product for his department before purchasing the device.

In January, an in-house demonstration was held at the city's police headquarters. Tooley approached City Commission soon after and Investigator Sean Arthur and Officer Adam Creamer react after being stunned by the Taser.

Decision expected for lease agreement

By Jamie J. Anderson-Potter

SANFORD — Seminole County Commissioners will vote Tuesday on whether to accept a lease agreement to relocate the Seminole County Supervisor of Elections office to the Orlando Sanford International Airport.

County Commission will decide whether to accept deal for relocation of Elections office

The proposed lease would give Sandra "Sandy" Goard, supervisor of elections, and her staff an estimated 18,168 square feet of office and warehouse space. This is more than double their current location on West 1st Street in Sanford.

The proposal to move the offices to the airport was first brought before Commission by Goard in early April. At that time, Commission voted 4-1 to negotiate a lease agreement between the county and the Sanford Airport Authority, with Commissioner Carlton D. Henley voting against it.

If approved, the airport authority will move forward with plans to build the office site. Goard's move-in deadline is April 2004.

The original floor plan was an estimated 20,000 square feet. However, in an attempt to keep costs low, Commissioner Grant E. Malov requested that Goard work with county staff employees to review the space needs in hopes of reducing the size of the building.

Goard fulfilled this request, reducing the overall structure by nearly 3,000 square feet. The revised floor plan was designed specifically with additional personnel and voter services needs in mind.

The building reserves approximately 4,000 square feet for warehouse storage, nearly 1,000 for training purposes and approximately 2,500 as a bin room. The remaining areas include offices, conference rooms and common

First public hearing scheduled regarding new Magnolia Club development

By Jamie J. Anderson-Potter
Staff Writer

SANFORD — City Commissioners will hold the first of two public hearings regarding the proposed development of Magnolia Club, a residential townhome community Monday.

If approved, approximately 25 acres of private property will be annexed into the city and then rezoned from agricultural to planned development to allow for the construction of the 114-unit townhome community. Currently, two single family homes and accessory structures reside on the property.

The property to be developed is located west of Mellonville Avenue and east of Sanford Avenue on Andrews Road. Residents of the adjacent community of Rose Hill are concerned that the new community will "affect their way of life."

Taking this into consideration, Commission asked engineers to review the proposed site, looking at traffic, water drainage and compatibility issues.

According to their findings, the proposed development would not cause adverse impacts to the water drainage or roadways in the area.

Furthermore, city staff found the development to be consistent with other projects in the area.

"We're trying to work together with the community," said Ken Burke, property owner on Andrews Road. "I've never run into a situation like this. We've been verbally attacked — all for selling our land."

In order to further ensure the least impact on the surrounding areas, mandatory buffering between the Rose Hill subdivision would take place. This would include a 6-foot high masonry wall located approximately 38 feet from the west property line, and the internal access road will be shifted to the east of the masonry wall.

Also, the proposed units will remain 105 feet away from the property line on the west, and the 35-foot wide natural buffer area along the west property line will remain.

The Burke's plan to move their house from Andrews Road to a community adjacent to Rose Hill if the acquisition is approved.

"We have put our lives on hold for six months," said Rebecca Burke, homeowner. "Our house has been vandalized. We're not trying to cause problems, we just want to sell our property."

City Commission will also:

- Give guidance concerning the level of service the city of Sanford Public Works Department should provide to the Orlando Sanford International Airport in infrastructure

School system needs volunteer reading mentors

Volunteer reading mentors are needed in Seminole County public elementary schools to help third grade students improve their reading proficiency.

Reading Mentors will work in coordination with the summer reading camps to give participating students another opportunity to improve their reading ability. Mentors will work on school campuses during the school day this summer from June 9 to July 3.

New reading mentors will need to attend a training session and be fingerprinted. There are two sessions scheduled. Volunteers will only need to attend one session. Both sessions will be held at the Seminole County Public Schools Educational Support Center, 4001 Lake Mary Boulevard, Sanford on Monday, May 19, 9 to 11 a.m. or Tuesday, May 20, 6 to 8 p.m.

These newly trained reading mentors will be encouraged to continue as Dividend School volunteers during the 2003-04 school year. To register for the training sessions, please e-mail Patty Baumhofer at psp412@us.net or call the Dividend School Volunteer office at 407-321-0184. Volunteers are encouraged to complete an online Dividend Volunteer registration at www.seps.k12.fl.us/Community/Involvement-Volunteer-application/Dividend-Volunteer-application. Join the more than 16,000 school volunteers making a difference in the lives of children in Seminole County Public Schools.

Under the contract with the Sanford Airport Authority, the lease rate would be $8.09 per square foot and include custodial service, HVAC maintenance, pest control and landscape/lawn maintenance. The cost per year would be $146,980.

The proposed lease is standard for the county except an addition made by the airport authority to charge $29 or 1.5 percent, whichever is greater, if the lease payment is more than 10 days late.

The proposed lease is for 10 years, with two five-year renewals. The lease rate will remain the same for the first five years and will increase by three percent in years six through 10.

Commission will also:

- Decide whether to approve final plans for the Florida Power & Light unmanned substation expansion. The site is needed to meet increasing demands for electricity in the area. The 3.4-acre project is located approximately 200 feet south of State Road 46, on the east side of Rinehart Road. The expansion portion encompasses 2.25 acres of existing unmanned substation leaving 3.08 for development.

- Decide on proposed amendment to the Seminole County Code in regard to alcoholic beverage consumption. The amendment states that the sale and service of alcoholic beverages must cease at 2 a.m. However, patrons may remain in establishments and possess and consume alcohol until 2:30 a.m. This amendment was initiated by Sheriff Donald J. Eslinger to clarify the current code, which only regulates the hours of sale, not the hours of service, possession and consumption. The clarification is needed for deputies and the Florida Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco to be more efficient in monitoring and controlling this issue.

Ready to run. The worst kept political secret in Seminole County was officially let out of the closet this week when District 1 County Commissioner Grant Maloy announced he would run for county tax collector, a position currently held by Ray Valdes.

The rumor mill has been buzzing about a possible Maloy-Valdes race for at least a year. Maloy was first elected in 1996, at which time he made a Newt Gingrich-type pledge to serve only two terms as county commissioner. After Maloy won re-election in 2000 with a commanding victory over Andrew Van Gaale, speculation turned to whether the young commissioner would uphold his pledge.

He has, it only to the letter of the promise and not the spirit. It's semantics, I know, but volunteering to retire from one political office only to jump into a campaign for another isn't exactly the best example of shunning a political career that politicians would have us believe when they pull such stunts.

Still, Maloy is the first elected county official in more than a decade to leave on his own terms. (Former Sanford City Commissioner Whitey Eckstein did the same in March.)

What's his chance of winning? It's early but I wouldn't bet against Maloy. He is a tireless campaigner who has beaten the odds before. He's also not afraid to buck the system and stand alone for what he believes. Many a time Maloy has been the lone dissenter on commission action, earning him the nickname "Commissioner No." That hasn't stopped him from being an effective commissioner, and he has earned the respect, grudgingly in some cases, from his colleagues.

In addition, Maloy is reaching out to some of the county's top movers and shakers, most notably former Sanford mayor and current airport czar Larry Dale. The two had lunch last week at the Colonial Room "to bury the hatchet," as Dale put it.

Maloy, a Republican, might first have to dig the cleaver out of Dale's back, or vice versa, depending on your point of view. During the 2000 District 1 race, Dale, also a Republican, backed Van Gaale by raising money for the GOP-turned-Democrat candidate. One of Maloy's campaign mailers blasted Van Gaale for earning support from "Larry & the good ole boys." The piece — complete with a menacing picture of Dale chomping on a cigar and wearing a top hat and tails — referred to Dale as a "corrupt real estate developer/politician" and claimed Van Gaale was "on Mayor Dale's payroll for years."

Maloy's claim that Dale is a controversial developer/politician is a fair assessment. Larry likes to use the shock and awe method when dealing with problems, though in recent months he has adopted a more diplomatic approach. (Maybe dealing with all those Brits out at the airport is finally rubbing off.)

The assertion that Van Gaale was on Dale's payroll is disingenuous. Van Gaale was employed with the city of Sanford during Dale's administration but, as anyone who studied the recent strong mayor referendum should know, Dandy Andy owed his employment more to the city manager than the mayor.

Whether Dale and "the good ole boys" choose to back him, Maloy has a shot at winning the seat. Like any long-term incumbent, Valdes is ripe for the picking. Already Maloy is making hay of an Orlando Sentinel article from last year detailing land purchases made by Valdes and his family during property auctions for back taxes. (The buzz Around the Clock at the time was that Maloy or his supporters planted the story with the daily paper.) The land purchases weren't illegal, but bet on Maloy to play the ethics card over and over in the coming campaign.

If Valdes chooses to run for re-election, and at this point it appears he will, this will be one of the more competitive county races in 2004.

Sign of the times. It's not been easy to be a University of Alabama alum in recent years. Sub-par football seasons, probation and that humiliating loss to the University of Central Florida (where Grant Maloy earned his degree) have diminished somewhat the shouts of "Roll Tide" from the Ping household.

Now we have to deal with ex-coach Mike Price and exploits with Pensacola strippers. Of course all my "friends" are having fun at my expense. The best e-mail I've received so far explains what type of sign Bama fans should hold up during an ESPN broadcast. Every Stripper in Pensacola knows Alabama's Urge.

exit, they failed to fall within these restrictions.

According to Ferrell, the company has not made an effort to re-schedule the meeting to submit new plans, as believed by Eudy.

As for the directional signs, the Herald reported that drivers traveling eastbound on I-4 who take Exit 101 to State Road 46, a two-mile off ramp, are becoming increasingly frustrated because of the incorrect signage. The directional signs located on the exit read as though State Road 46 only takes drivers to Mount Dora, and implies that is the home of the Sanford Historic District. Furthermore, it directs those looking for Sanford to take State Road 417, which leads them to Oviedo.

According to former Sanford-resident Monarcha Marcet, she drafted a letter regarding the issue of the directional signs to the Sanford City Commission in March 2002.

"I wanted to get people pointed in the right direction so the historic district can be enjoyed by all," she said.

As a follow-up to Marcet's letter, City Commissioner Art Woodruff instructed City Planning Director Jay Marder to look into the issue.

He [Marder] spoke with the correct people within DOT in August of last year and requested that an additional green sign pointing to the city of Sanford be placed there," explained third-grader city engineer. Woodruff continues to follow up, but is waiting to hear from DOT.

According to Ferrell, DOT is aware of the directional sign problem and is working to correct the issue.

The construction on the ramp is part of the $1.1-billion I-4 Project and this section of construction should be completed in the fall or early winter. When construction is complete, a brown Sanford Historic District sign will be placed atop a ramp before exit 101 to show drivers to take I-4 for the district and Amtrak Auto Train.

That will help orient people as to which exit to take," she said.

The current signs will remain the same. However, once drivers reach the traffic light at State Road 46, another sign will direct them to the right to reach the Sanford Historic District and to the left to travel to Mount Dora.

"One of our biggest problems when the beltway came through is that all roads led to Sanford and we haven't properly indicated that," said Ferrell. Marcet and others are concerned it will now cost taxpayers more money to fix the problem because the road is functioning.

According to Ferrell, there is no difference in cost caused by the timing of the sign installation.

to offer reading camps or other programs during the summer for students who scored at Level 1. Those who show they possess required competency in third-grade reading will be promoted to the fourth grade.

Through a concerted effort this summer among parents, teachers and educators statewide, I am confident a significant number of students who scored at Level 1 will build the skills they need to move to the fourth grade," Gov. Bush said.

Although some experts say children who don't meet the basic reading skills by the end of the third grade struggle with their school careers, not every educator agrees with holding a student back based on one test.

"I am not for mandatory retention," said Idylwild Elementary School Principal David Scott. "It's based on a single test. It's one day, one test, that determines your future."

As a principal, Scott has been involved in the retention process for many years. He doesn't disagree that some students should not move to the next grade level if they are not ready, but he believes one test should not determine a student's fate.

"There are good retentions where students are not mentally or developmentally ready to move on," he said. "The decision to have a student repeat a grade level is made by teachers and parents. I know of numerous examples where students have repeated a grade and have done very well. But, with the new law, I think it's placing too many marbles on one event."

Scott said he found out Wednesday which students at his school scored at Level 1. Although he expected to see some students' names on the list it includes all struggling groups including special education students. "There was a name that appeared on a page that shocked the principal."

There was one student who took us off guard," he said. "She has been on the honor roll. She was just a few points away from scoring at Level 2."

Scott said he doesn't believe the third-grader will be held back because she possesses the skills required by the State Standard Test. "The fact is, she works — which will be used in her portfolio — along with her projected score on the Standard Test will enable her to move on to the fourth grade."

As an alternative to student retention, Scott said he would prefer to see third-graders who score at a Level 1 on the FCAT receive intensive reading instruction during the fourth grade. It would enable students to move on to the next grade level while allowing them to catch up with their peers in regard to their reading skills.

"Testing helps identify children with academic needs," he said. "That helps us make some dynamic changes in our teaching."

Based on previous scores, Scott said his school has shown improvement in the areas of reading and writing. Along with resource assistants, the school now has a reading coach as a result of previous test scores.

The additional instruction and emphasis on reading and writing has worked at Idylwild. Although the complete FCAT results haven't been released, students' scoring at Level 1 decreased from last year and for the first time an Idylwild fourth-grader scored a "perfect score" on the writing assessment.

OPINION

I cry a lot

There's nothing wrong with tears of joy and sorrow

When my father was in his late 50's and I was a teenager, I often criticized him for getting tears in his eyes as the result of a particular situation.

One benefit of being allowed to write a personal column for the Seminole Herald is that I am allowed to vent my personal feelings. In effect, now that I am in my 70s, I find I am in the same boat as my father.

Nick Pfeifauf

Yes, I'll admit, I have tears in my eyes on many occasions. Perhaps a few of you have heard of the Gaither Vocal Band, or the Gaither Homecoming TV programs. I often find tears gathering in my eyes when I hear certain musical selections. While I don't consider myself as a "religious fanatic," I have a religious background, and am prone to follow those tenants. Some of their music brings deep meaning to my being. Of particular instance, I mention the video tape (which is difficult to locate) of the program "Mark Lowery on Broadway." Although it is humorous, it has some depth to it that I don't believe any other religious video tape I have seen will contain. I laugh at the comedic parts, but get tears in my eyes, especially when Mark does the song he wrote "Mary did you know?"

I would like to take this personal opportunity to recommend you seek out and purchase this tape if possible. If you are like me or my father, it will bring you to tears and a superlative religious position.

But there are other instances which bring tears to my eyes. For example, a recent episode of "Ed" in which an innocent man was exonerated from a murder charge brought moisture to my eye lids. I had never liked the program before, but if the series continues like this, I will become a regular viewer.

Of late, probably the one thing that brought me to tears was the memorial service for the seven astronauts who perished in the explosion aboard the space ship Columbia. I had listened to NASA spokespersons discussing the tragedy, to President George Bush giving his comments, and the magnificent voices of the Naval choir with their presentation, which was outstanding. I was in my car at the time, and while I didn't see the program, I could listen. After the final singing, there was a fly-over, the aircraft formation which depicted one plane missing. I heard that, and had to pull over on the side of the road — the tears in my eyes for just that one instance was more than I could take.

Later, I began to think about people who cry at what seems to be the most ridiculous situations, or at the slightest provocations. I beg you — don't think of them (or me) as being odd or overly sentimental. It's just the way we depict what is happening in our lives and the lives of others.

It took me possibly 50 years to understand why my father seemed to cry at unusual circumstances, but it's clear to me now, and I beg the younger generation to accept this as true feelings on the part of us members of the older generation.

There is nothing wrong with tears. It doesn't make a man or woman into a "wimp" if we cry from time to time. Each of us has our own mental recognition of either sadness or appreciation. (Yes, I often cry when someone is recognized for outstanding achievements.)

If you see your father, mother, grandmother or grandfather observing a situation which may bring tears to their eyes, accept it, and appreciate it. They are looking forward to your achievements which may also make them proud, regardless of the outcomes.

What they are saying about us in ...

The Office of Research of the State Department periodically distributes Issue Focus papers reprinting foreign press reaction to the events of the day. One was issued on Monday which included 20 commentaries from 20 countries, under the heading "Iraq Shiite Uprising: A Paradox of Freedom or Islamic Awakening?"

Richard Reeves

The paradox noted particularly by newspapers in friendly countries beginning with Great Britain and Canada, focused on the fact that the U.S. military liberated Iraq's majority of Shiite Muslims to openly practice their religion and politics of the street — and the awakened Shiites used their new freedom to demand that the United States get out of their country.

Voices from the rest of the world, some with sadness, some with foreboding, questioned American intelligence in more than one sense of the word. As President Bush was on the USS Abraham Lincoln, proclaiming victory 30 miles from California, and Gen. Tommy Franks packed up to go home to Florida, this is what the world was saying, with translations where necessary, by the State Department.

In Pakistan, Dawn, an independent newspaper in Karachi, wrote: "The Americans are still unable to comprehend why the Iraqis joy over the departure of the despot has not translated into any gratitude toward the U.S. The inability to predict such a response clearly represents a massive failure of U.S. intelligence and betrays a complete lack of understanding of the highly complex system on the ground. If not boxing such possibilities well in time, the U.S. could now end up reaping the bitter harvest of a wholly unnecessary war."

In Great Britain, American

partner in war, the Financial Times was gentler, but still critical. "Washington seems taken aback by the speed with which Shia religious leaders of varying hues have moved to establish their authority. The Bush administration appears to have believed a bit too much of its own propaganda, and the stirring tales it was told by its favorite Iraqi allies — in Germany, Munich's left-of-center Sueddeutsche Zeitung said: "Those who like the professed Christian George Bush should welcome the fact ... that Iraqis are now trying to introduce their beliefs into politics and want to found religiously motivated politics. The genie is out of the bottle. It will be impossible to put it back again."

In Belgium, De Financieel-Economische Tijd said: "The Shiites are the majority in Iraq. It is not unrealistic that, more than 25 years after the revolution in Iran, a rather strict Islamic order is created in Iraq via democratic means and that a Teheran-Baghdad-Riyadh axis is born. This is probably not what the United States is aiming for."

In Brazil, moderately conservative O Estado de São Paulo editorialized: "Bush is proving to be incapable of establishing peace because he has only a vague idea of the history and reality of the nation he invaded. Iraq Shiites do not need to be encouraged by Iran to be hostile to occupying forces. The U.S. did not need the United Nations to enter Iraq, but it will probably need the U.N. to get out."

In Algeria, where elections have been cancelled to prevent the victory of Islamic fundamentalists, the independent Liberte assumes that the Americans will act the same way their own army has to block the fundamentalists.

The American maintenance of law and order might shift to a brutal subjugation of the population and perhaps to a vicious cycle of agitation-repression. The Americans expose themselves to the dilemma of having to act harshly or get out — and at the risk of other preventative massacres. The country's principal French-language publication, Le Quotidien, added: "The American military presence is no more than an occupying enterprise of a colonial nature and a messianic intention produced irremediably by the religiosity of the White House occupants and the Zionist lobby."

In the Philippines, the popular independent Philippine Daily Inquirer said: "The Bush people want a Pax Americana where most of the subordinate populations like the Arabs are kept in check by a healthy respect for lethal American power, while the loyalty of other groups such as the Philippine government is purchased with the promise of cash. With no moral vision to bind the global majority to the imperial center, this mode of imperial management can only inspire one thing: resistance.

So it goes. Only a handful of the 59 State Department selections really supported or sympathized with U.S. postwar positioning. In Sri Lanka, the state-owned Tamil weekly, Thirukaran Vaaramanjari, wrote: "The war on Iraq will definitely create more enemies for the U.S. Well, there was always a contradiction between our stated aim of finding and eliminating weapons of mass destruction to protect ourselves and our rhetoric of liberation. Glib talk promising that leaders would emerge has proven true, but these are not the leaders we imagined."

The overseas comment, favorable and unfavorable, is actually more dispassionate than I would have thought. But the fact is, we went into Iraq on our own — and our triumph is a lonely one. The whole world is watching, but it's not their war. We're still on our own, strangers in a strange land.

Bush's triumphant jet flight could cause future turbulence

Remember Bill Clinton's infamous haircut?

In 1993, according to front page headlines and blame broadcast reports, Clinton shut down Los Angeles International Airport to get a trendy hair stylist. (Have reports, which turned out to be dead wrong, back on a life of their own because of alleged involvement of the passengers in including in frustration.)

Later news reports that put the episode in perspective — there were no delays or scheduled commercial flights — ended up on the back pages of newspapers or were mentioned briefly at the end of broadcast reports.

Last, forward a few years to President Bush's decision to fly himself and engage a pilot to fly him to an aircraft carrier bearing shore just so he will have heroic imagery of himself in the during his reelection campaign.

Bush not only wanted the footage to buff his reelection as a successful commander in chief, but also to remind voters of his brief experience as a pilot in the Air National Guard. In an attempt to get himself into the ranks of combat-hardened veterans, Bush, who sat in the co-pilot's seat of the S-3B Viking, told reporters, "Yes, I flew it."

Even by current political standards, this was rank. Not only did Bush seek to link himself to combat pilots, but he did so despite his less-than-stellar National Guard service.

But Bush's flight suit has proved so far to be yellow-coated. His fancy airplane ride has received glowing coverage that was the mirror image of the negative accounts of Clinton's haircut. Initial reports of Bush's flight were adulatory, followed days later by questions of cost and delays to the crew that were relegated to back pages of newspapers or brief broadcast reports.

While the White House has denied delaying the arrival of the USS Abraham Lincoln, Ari Fleischer had to back away from an earlier statement that the ship was lost at sea for the president to fly to it by helicopter.

The ship will be hundreds of miles from shore when the president arrives, Fleischer said. In fact, the Lincoln was 39 miles off California, well within range of Bush's Marine One helicopter.

So Fleischer's story changed: The president decided to fly in on the Viking because he "wanted to see an aircraft landing the same way that the pilots saw an aircraft landing."

Notes Time magazine: "Then there was the carrier's position, which had to be filled to obscure any view of the nearby coastline."

The president's self-promotion may not immediately affect his statespheric poll ratings, but he is nevertheless taking a political risk. The gimmicky landing aboard the Lincoln only calls attention to the contrast between his "Top Gun" imagery and his actual service. During the 2000 campaign, The Boston Globe and other news media raised serious questions about Bush's attendance for required Guard drills.

While still in the Air National Guard, he signed up to work in the losing U.S. Senate campaign of an Alabama Republican named Winton "Red" Blount. To fulfill his military requirements, he transferred to a unit based in Montgomery. But there is no record that he showed up for the periodic drills he was required to attend.

Bush's superior officer, William Turnipsseed, told reporters that he didn't believe Bush fulfilled the requirements. "I think I would have remembered him."

Turnipsseed, who retired as a general, told The New York Times: "At least a few veterans were offended by Bush's use of an aircraft carrier full of weary sailors to film a campaign ad. Captain Donald Watkins wrote to The Atlanta Journal-Constitution: "I own a pair of Navy Wings of Gold) — except, unlike Bush, I earned mine, wearing them proudly during two consecutive tours of Vietnam combat duty. Bush could have offered his services there but declined, opting instead to — save Texas from — surprise attack."

It is a profound insult to the skills, bravery and sacrifices of real naval aviators for Bush to masquerade as one.

It may be that the president's short airplane ride will prove costlier than he expects.

LAKE MARY — The Class 6A Region 1 Softball Tournament is turning into a road team's dream and Oviedo hopes the trend continues tonight.

The Lions (18-10) pounded out 11 hits and Kelly Raw hurled a one-hitter as District 2 runner-up West Orange got a combined three-straight road game of the regionals, 4-1 over Cypress Creek.

Pre-tourney favorite Lake Mary also was bitten by the visitors as District 1 runner-up West Orange got a combined three-hitter from sophomores Kristen Stewart and Jamie Rausch to also win its second straight road game, 3-1.

With the upsets Oviedo and the

Oviedo, Trinity Prep to play for Regional crowns today

Warriors (22-11) will meet for the Region 1A title in a spot in next week's state tournament when the teams meet at 7 p.m. in Winter Garden.

West Orange shut out the Lions twice during the regular season, but at this week's game means anything Oviedo would be a prime position to earn the trip to Tampa.

Trinity Prep (28-0) also pulled out a road win in a game to Lake Mary and will meet at Post #20 on May 12 in a Class 2A Region 1 Semifinal.

The sports rivalry of No. 6 in the final Class 2A State Title will have their hands full this afternoon as they must take on No. 1 ranked Lake Highland Prep (21-3) at 1 p.m. in Orlando.

The only team to buck the trend theory was Winter Springs (11-19), which saw its amazing playoff run end at the hands of host Trinity Prep in a 13-4 on May 4 in Class 2A Region 2 Semifinal playoff.

The Lake Mary-West Orange encounter was a battle of state powerhouses as the Rams (27-1) came into the game ranked No. 3 in the final Class 6A poll, while the Warriors were No. 6.

Both teams went down in order in the first inning and the top of the second, looked to be the same as the first time West Orange batters flew out to left.

Courtesy runner Jenn Henry then gave the visitors a 2-0 lead when she scooted home on a double off the fence down the leftfield by Kalenigh Craig.

OVIDEO — The Oviedo Lions celebrated being named the No. 1 team in the final FSWA Class 6A State poll by winning their opening game in the Class 6A Region 1 Quarterfinals Tuesday night at Mikler Field.

Gorey Bexis went the distance, scattering four hits and striking out nine to run his record to 9-0 as Oviedo blanked Ed White, 5-0.

The Lions improved to 27-2 with the win and had a chance at a little revenge on Friday as they hosted Winter Park (20-10), which shutout Oviedo 2-0 two weeks ago in the Regional Semifinals.

If the Lions win, they will probably host Apopka, which played Sandalwood in the Regional finals at 7 p.m. on Tuesday.

Two other Seminole County are also alive in the playoffs as both Orangewood Christian and Trinity Prep also won their regional quarterfinals on Tuesday.

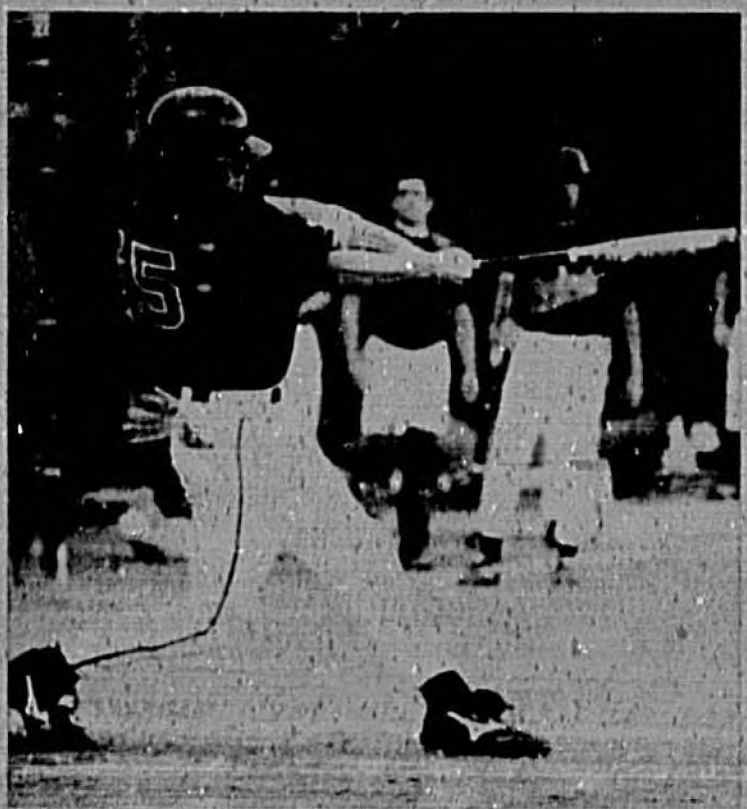

John Auld drove in two runs to back the pitching of J.J. Bruce as the Saints topped Melbourne Central Catholic 6-2 in Class 2A-Region 1 and Jon Riley homered, tripled and drove in two runs as the Rams rolled over Ocala Trinity Catholic 7-1 in Class A-Region 2.

Trinity Prep (21-9) hosted Sarasota Cardinal Mooney on and Orangewood (12-15) hosted Mt. Dora Bible on Friday.

Matt Lopez (above) slides safely into third base on a steal attempt during Oviedo's 5-0 victory over Sackville-Ed White in a Class 6A Region 1 Quarterfinal Game at Mikler Field Tuesday night. Lopez would later score a run, but it was a solo home run by Barry Baxter (left) that opened a two-run fourth inning that broke open the tight 1-0 pitching duel and allowed the No. 1 state-ranked Lions to go on for a win that a spot in Friday's Regional Semifinals against Winter Park Trinity Prep in Class 2A Region 1 and surprising Orangewood Christian in Class A Region 2. Also won on Tuesday, the Saints whipped Melbourne Central Catholic 6-2 and the Rams rolled over Ocala Trinity Catholic 7-1, and will play on Friday at home, and if any or all succeed would be playing in the Regional Championship this coming Tuesday (May 13) with the winner advancing to the State Tournament at Legends Field at Tampa this week of May 19th.

Tyree just misses perfection, double titles

By Dean Smith

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — It was a strange feeling to be both state and national champion at the same time. Lake Howell's Shane Tyree swayed his voice over matches to claim the Class 1A Boys Individual Singles State Championship at the 2003 HSNAA Florida Tennis Finals at Sandford Park.

But Silver Hawks star missed out on another goal as he fell in the Overall Semifinal and also saw his perfect season come to an end.

Tyree defeated Chris Butone of Seminole St. Pete in a 6-1 and 6-2 and later lost to Strangest New Fort Richey Mitchell, 6-4 and 4-6 (7-5) in the tiebreaker. He advanced to the Individual final, where he went on to serve to defeat Keith Embury of Naples 6-1, 2-6, 6-2.

and the best player in the state and national tennis scene of the state tennis capital.

Embury, the brother of former state champion, defeated Tyree in the final, 6-4 and 6-2, to claim the state title.

Embury, a senior at Trinity Prep, had a perfect record in the state semifinals, defeating Tyree in a 6-1 and 6-2.

Playoffs set for Ripken

Special to the Herald

SANFORD — The Cal Ripken Baseball City Championship Series will begin this afternoon (Saturday) at the Eckstein Youth Sports Complex at Chase Park.

Cal Ripken Baseball a Division of Bob's Ruth Baseball will play a single elimination tournament for 1500's Minor (10-19 year olds) and Major (11-19 year olds) divisions.

The Minors Tournament begins at 4 p.m. with the #1 seeded Sanford Ace Hardware Angels (12-4) taking on the #4 seeded Over 30 Dinner Club Marlins (4-9) on Field #2 and the #2 seeded Sanford Elks Lodge Royals (7-6) battling the #3 seeded Knights of Columbus Cardinals (5-9) on Field #4.

The Championship Game will be played Thursday (May 15) at 6:30 p.m. on field #2.

The Majors take the field at 6:30 p.m. with the #1 seeded Sanford EX AM Lodge #2 Angels (14-3) facing the #4 seeded Railroader Cubs (4-13) on Field #1 and the #2 seeded Volca Stone Red Sox (10-7) tackling the #3 seeded Gibson Truck World Braves (8-9) on Field #3.

The Championship Game will be Tuesday (May 13) at 6:30 p.m. on field #3.

In the final games of the regular season last Saturday, the Railroader Cubs pulled off a big upset for the second consecutive game, knocking off the league-leading Sanford Ex AM Lodge #2 Angels in the City of Sanford Recreation and Parks Department Cal Ripken League Majors Division at Chase Park.

Here are the basics of the games from Saturday, May 10th.

MAJOR LEAGUE (11 and 12 year olds)

Field #1 — In a doubleheader The Railroader Cubs (4-13) behind the power pitching of big Sam Keckling were able to keep the first place Mysome Lodge Angels (13-3) at bay by a score of 5-4.

Keckling's over powering fast ball was just too much for the Angels to deal with as they only had one base hit until late in the game when they almost caught up to him.

The Angels' Brandon Whitley led off the top of the sixth with a base hit. Markkus Pangelian hit a clean single moving Whitley up a base and Lammal Graham followed with a long two run double, scoring his knock of 5-3. Graham stole third and scored on a wild pitch and Michael Sanders hit a single with two outs, but Keckling was able to shut the door.

Lake Brantley Crew captures first Florida Championship

Special to the Herald
TAMPA - The Lake Brantley High School Rowing Team was a daunting competitor on Saturday, April 26, 2003 at the Tampa Bypass Canal to capture the 2003 Florida Scholastic Rowing Association High School State Championship...

There was a lot of discussion on the hit as most could not tell if the ball hit in fair territory or not, but the third base umpire followed the ball out into left and ruled that it was fair.

The Rams finally broke through in the fourth inning against Rausch, who relieved and injured Stewart to begin the frame.

Leah Lilly led off with a single to right, but was erased on a grounder by Kristen Patton. Caitlin Mahoney then hit a fly to deep left that allowed Patton to advance to second, from where she scored on a single up the middle by Marie Keeney.

West Orange pushed the lead back to two in the sixth as Andrea Migliori walked and went to third on a single by Leslie Stephens and a sacrifice by Meagan Squatino. Levell then singled into left scoring Migliori.

The Warriors missed a chance to increase the lead when Lake Mary leftfielder Lauren Bennett made a diving, sliding catch of a Gaugh liner to end the sixth and Rams reliever Olivia Toponowsky worked out of a first and third and two out situation in the seventh.

Meanwhile, after the slow start, Rausch, a crafty left-hander, was keeping the Rams off balance and off base.

But the hosts looked like they might have gotten the break they needed when, after Mahoney walked to open the seventh inning, Keeney hit a potential double play ball to short. But the ball was booted and then thrown into rightfield, allowing the runners to advance to second and third, with no one out.

But Rausch did not let the double error bother her as got a comebacker to the pitcher, a sharp grounder to third and a called third strike to end the game.

At the South Orange Softball Complex, Ovedo scored two runs in the third inning and a single run in the fourth inning to build a 3-0 lead and Raw did the rest.

The senior righthander had a no-hitter through six innings and allowed the Bears (20-12) only one hit and an unearned run, while striking out 10, to improve to 14-5 on the season.

Offensively, Alicia Perez was 2-for-4 with a double and two RBI and Jennifer Tomasetti was also 2-for-4 with two RBI to lead the Lions. Borders and Sara Miller were both 2-for-3.

Katie Burdeaux (19-4) threw a four-hitter and also hit a two-run home run to cap the scoring as Trinity Prep rallied from a 2-0 deficit after the first inning to bounce McKeel. Whitney Conti also knocked in a run for the Saints.

Lauren Starcher had a triple for Winter Springs, but it was hardly enough as the Bears were held to only three hits and the visitors did not score until the seventh inning.

All FASCAR Divisions will be in action tonight at New Smyrna Speedway

By Jane Smith
Special to the Herald

SAMSULA — All FASCAR divisions will be in action at New Smyrna Speedway tonight (Saturday), with heats and features. As the weather gets hotter, so does the paint, battles in all divisions. Last weekend BJ McLeod finally led all divisions to take the feature win. Dave Rogers, who had won every race thus far this season, tried to take the lead on lap 24 coming into turn 2 but wiggled and gave McLeod just enough room to get in enough ahead that Rogers could not catch him. That was BJ's first win in about three years at the 1.2 mile track. Going into this weekend's action, Rogers still holds the points lead in the Super Late with 197 points. Wayne Parker sits in second with 152 points but coming up last behind Parker is McLeod with 120 points going last week's third in points. Guy Thomas who is only 4 points behind McLeod with 116 points rounds out the top five with 80 points. Brian Bellaw with the Jolly Rogers Blackies Saloon Chevy, took over the points lead in the Late Model division last weekend. Previous points leader Bobby Orr was absent from the field giving Bellaw the chance he needed to add in points. Orr now stands second in points with 108. Mark Smith still holds third with 100 points. Jay Clark debuted this brand new Late Model last weekend and came in second in the race giving him enough points to move into fourth with 72 points. Chris Lawrence slide to fifth with 60 points. Late Models will be in action this weekend at New Smyrna Speedway although some will be at Charlotte County Speedway for the two-year Challenge Late Model Series. Leading the points in the Good Year Late Model Series is Jerry Armiss followed by Rich Chomser, Jason Bow, Brad May and Larry Ostern. Mark Vandevender holds a 20 point lead in the Open Wheel Modified division over Bobby Blakely. Justin Henderson sits in third with 81 points in spite of the fact that he has missed several races due to rebuilding his machine. These drivers are tied to fourth, fifth, and sixth with 70 points each. David Castello, Chad Payne and Brad May. This week's feature will definitely make a difference in this close battle especially since May is in at Charlotte County Speedway for the two-year Challenge Late Model event. Dan Rogers sits in seventh with 65 points and will surely be in one of these weeks. Bill Spade holds the lead in the Sportsman division with 188 points. But with the return of last year's champion Donnie Williams, Spade may soon find his hands full of trying to keep the point lead. Ron Tully sits in second with 160 points. Bill Foxen holds third with 145 points, just four points more than fourth place Jim Snyder at 141. Snyder has gotten faster and faster and once his handling is figured out, very few could beat him out for the #35 Sportsman. Chris Fedala sits in fifth with 140 points. Although the Mini Stocks were off last weekend, a number of new Mini Stocks are expected for this weekend's action. Hopefully returning to the track will be the #90 Mike Sible and Varet Rozier. Going into this week's battle, Jim Mieselman McPhail leads the points with 248. In 200 points, more than second place led. Mike Mini Stock Vulpus at 188. Rex Christensen rides in third with 180 points followed by Ben Hutto with 108 in fourth. Wayne Clark and Troy Kruse are tied in fifth with 72 points each. Ron Whaley won last week's race in the Super Stocks but was disqualified for being light losing his points and money. Whaley still holds a slight lead in points with 221. But coming up last is second place Josh Woronow, 81 who is only 12 points behind Whaley and running really good this year. Charlie Collins sits in third with 200 points. Fourth place left in oblivion comes in at 170 points. Fifth place is yet another tie between first head Bob Thornbly with 88 points each. Strictly Stocks saw the top three disqualified last week for technical reasons. This class is strictly "stock" class, the novice class. They return also for heats and feature racing this weekend. New Smyrna Speedway is located at the intersection of SR44 and SR115 between I-4 and I-95, eight miles west of New Smyrna Beach, and opens their grandstands at 6 p.m. with racing action at 7:30 p.m. Bait backs from the main grandstands last week will get you 2 for 1 this weekend. Bring a friend, bring a cash and get in on one of the greatest 4-5-6-7-8-9-10. For more information on any FASCAR street track action, call the FASCAR office at 407-568-1367 (Orlando) or 407-568-4274 (New Smyrna) or check the Internet site at www.NewSmyrnaSpeedway.com. If you like pure racing, but being you also have additional choices tonight. Orlando Speedway (Orlando) will be hosting the next installment of the Quick 32 Series for the Super Pro Sports Car and Pro Cycle classes. The Quick 32 event runs 21/2 hours of parking and pit passes, while kids under 12 are free. It costs $30 for kids, admits are $10 for Quick 32 and Super Pro and $25 for Pro. Admission for Sport Car and Pro is $25. Gates open at 6 p.m. with racing at 7:30 p.m. and parking at 4 p.m. Stage racing takes place at 6 p.m. with championship to follow. For event ticket information, call 407-568-3522.

holding a regular night's action of heats and features in the weekly classes of Late Model, Hobby Stock, Mini Stock, Street Stock, and Pure Stock. Grandstands open at 7 p.m. and racing starts at 7:30 p.m. General Admission is $10 with children 12 and under free. The track also offers Senior and Student discounts. For information on schedules, etc. call 386-985-8101 or visit the web at http://www.volusia-speedway.com. Volusia Speedway Park is located just 15 miles west of Ormond Beach. From I-95, take exit 88 west on State Road 40. From Highway 17, turn left on SR 40. The facility is five miles east of Barboursville. RESULTS

CAR BUYERS WITH MONEY WORRIES MAY QUALIFY FOR LOW-INTEREST LOANS

Loans: Lender knows its requirements for car buyers who need money now. Have you been turned down for a car loan? Do you need a better vehicle for any reason? Are you unable to afford more than 10% interest?

If you answered "yes" to any of these questions, they can tell you they have the plan and without obligation what kind of car you could be approved for. Shop as a savvy buyer! High credit card debt? Less than perfect credit? Self-employed? Late on your payments? Financial problems? Medical bills? IRS liens? If you have a steady job there's an excellent chance you will qualify for a loan usually within 48 hours!

You can find out over the phone and free of charge - then make your own decision. If you need a credit manager, Bill Heard is your assistant. Make a loan that can be reached at 817-271-7800. Open 7 days a week.

Spring Fashions

Family and Community Education volunteers host spring fashion fling

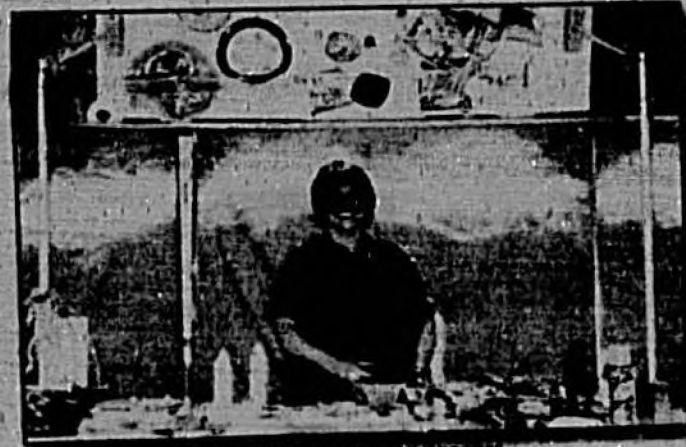

Linda Garrett, right, shows off a fashion that helps women embrace fashion.

Kay Mullenburg and Wendy Hawkins

Family and Community Education (FCE) volunteers recently held their annual luncheon and fashion show at the county's Cooperative Extension Services Auditorium. The proceeds from the event benefit the group's scholarship committee. The philosophy of the FCE volunteers is to strengthen families, have community involvement and increase self-enrichment through Cooperative Extension Services Programs. The annual event included a program about quick cooking tricks presented by Pillsbury Chef Shana Spooner. A fashion Easter parade was presented by Lily Pad Fashions of Melbourne.

Seminole High School Class of 1934 meets in Sanford's Colonial Room for 69th reunion

By Grace M. Stinecisher
Herald Correspondent

The intrepid Seminole High School Class of 1934, with 11 classmates present, met for their 69th year reunion on April 26 at the Colonial Room Restaurant. They voted to meet again on April 17, 2004, to celebrate their 70th year.

Serving as master of ceremonies was Claude Kelly, who made several announcements and informed the group that classmates Braxton Perkins, Elaine Harrison Smith and Caroline Biggers Holtzclaw had passed away during the year. John Senkarik read, "Yes, I'm a Senior Citizen." "Beatitudes for the Friends of the Aged" and "We Are Survivors," all of which the group enjoyed and could relate to.

A class gift to COMSAC, the SHS Alumni Association scholarship program, was agreed upon. It will be given in memory of those recently deceased and in honor of those who attended the reunion.

Following the blessing by John Senkarik, a delicious meal was enjoyed, which consisted of baked chicken, green beans, mashed potatoes, tossed salad and apple crisp a la mode.

Organizers of the reunion were Mary Nickel Simpson and Lorraine Yarborough Whiting, who spent countless hours on the phone urging classmates to attend. A large number were found to be ailing. But Richard Packard, a former reunion organizer, was able to make this his first outing after several months in a nursing home.

Classmates attending were Claude Kelly, Jacksonville; John Senkarik, Gainesville; Rebecca Ponder, DeBary; Virginia Gallon Smith, Palmetto; Alice Kayserman Powell, Sarasota; Dorothy Marshall Courier, Oviedo; Naomi Great Polk, Orlando; Richard Packard, Longwood; Lorraine Yarborough Whiting, Caprusa; Mary Nickel Simpson and Elmer Johnson, Sanford.

Guests were Vern Senkarik, wife of John Senkarik; Priscilla Gray, daughter of Naomi Polk; Jim Courier, son of Dot Courier; Ross Robert, friend of Richard Packard; and Grace Marie Stinecisher, daughter of class sponsor, Marie Stinecisher.

Parliamentarians donate book to Sanford Museum

This year marks the 70th anniversary of the incorporation of the Sanford Association of Parliamentarians.

The Sanford Association of Parliamentarians was organized in 1933 and has since that time been a leading force in the promotion of parliamentary procedure in the Sanford area.

As a result of the efforts of the Sanford Association of Parliamentarians, a book titled "The History of the Sanford Association of Parliamentarians" was published in 1998. The book is a historical record of the organization and its members.

The book is a historical record of the organization and its members. It is a valuable resource for those interested in the history of the Sanford area and the role of parliamentarians.

Walkers establish Word of Faith and Deliverance ministries

Pastor Harlan Walker and his wife, Minister Carolyn Walker, established Word of Faith and Deliverance Ministries.

Marva Hawkins

The ministries were established to help struggling women from all walks of life, but to use ministry skills, leadership experience, and love for God's children to reach the world with simplicity and understanding.

Both pastors have served their ministry in Denver, Colo., at the Heritage Christian Center for men, women, and children. They held weekly Bible study classes and maintained a home fellowship group of 50 or more from 1993 to 2001.

Pastor Walker, a native of Arkansas, moved to Colorado in 1972 where he was a police officer for the city of Denver for 25 years. Ordained into the ministry in 1998, he and his wife, Carolyn, moved to Central Florida area in February 2002.

The Walkers opened the doors of Word of Faith and Deliverance with seven members. To date, there are 25 with as many as 60 in attendance on Sundays. Pastor Walker says there are four ordained ministers that serve in the church, as well as other lay members that hold leadership positions. The minister has ministries for children, women, and men, as well as a dedicated ministry. They are in the process of setting up a food bank to help meet the needs of the less fortunate. God has also placed a vision for a boarding house.

As a non-denominational and inter-denominational church, they believe that God strategically placed them in the City of Sanford to help bring unity to the community and to bridge the gap between the races. Pastor Walker is a pastor/teacher with a dedicated heart toward people with a strong emphasis on ministry to men.

Walker says her goal is to encourage, teach, empower women and to help couples and the foundation to ground them in the word and to learn to love the scriptures.

Forgive parents for their flaws; they won't be around forever

QUESTION: I resent my parents. They've hit or abused me or anything like that, but they do such stupid things. My dad's never had been the only thing he's ever done. How can I respect people like that?

DR. DOBSON: Let's assume that your complaints against your parents are valid — that they did not do a very good job of raising you. Nevertheless, I urge you to let them go. You'll learn today just how hard it is to be a good parent. Children are intuitively complex.

QUESTION: I've seen my parents flood with them and a professional sense of loss. But there was not the slightest hint of regret, remorse or guilt. There were no hurtful words. I wish I could have taken back. There were no prolonged conflicts that remained unresolved between my parents and me. Why not? Was I a perfect son born to flawless parents? Or maybe not. But when Shirley, my wife, and I had been married only two years, I remember saying to her, "Our parents will not always be with us. We must keep that in mind as we live out our daily lives."

Rewards of water gardening can be enjoyed all year

Water gardening is neither difficult nor expensive. In Florida, with our extended growing season, the rewards of water gardening can be enjoyed all year.

Water gardens are a beautiful addition to any landscape. They are easy to maintain and can be placed in a variety of locations. Water gardens are a great way to add color and interest to your yard. They are also a great way to attract butterflies and other beneficial insects.

Ferrer

landscape
To promote flowering of aquatic plants, a pool site should be selected which receives a minimum of five to six hours of direct sunlight daily and is close to a water source. For the beginner, a simple pond garden is the best choice. Many retail stores sell a site that is not located in low areas into which water runoff containing pesticides and fertilizers can drain into the pool harming plants and fish.

To prevent frequent fluctuations in temperature and ensure a biological balance, an in-ground water garden pool should have a minimum surface area of 40 to 50 square feet and a minimal depth of 18 inches.

Plants For Your Water Garden

Many colorful water garden plants are available from specialized aquatic nurseries. Water lilies are the favorite choice for a garden and are available in an array of sizes and colors.

There are two kinds of water lilies: tropical and hardy. Lotus species and hybrids are less reliable as water lilies are valuable additions to any water garden. Lotus plants are noted for their large leaves and fragrant flowers. However, dwarf varieties are now available.

Lotus plants develop from tubers and rhizomes and some varieties are hardy. In addition to water lilies and lotus, marginal, floating and submerged plants add to the diversity of form and color in your water garden.

Container grown plants such as semi-aquatic iris, dwarf papyrus, pickerel weed, Chinese water chestnut, and golden club can be used in a water garden. And, be sure to use a good quality fertilizer and grower's fertilizer to give the plants the extra nutrients they need.

Planting Your Water Garden

Aquatic plants are shallow rooted and spread horizontally and should be planted in containers with a greater width than depth. A soil mix consisting of four parts top soil and 1 part well-decomposed cow manure is recommended.

Packaged cow manure is not recommended unless it is left to further decompose before used. Do not use commercial potting mixes because they are too fertile, light and will foul the water. Fill container with the soil mix to within 2 to 3 inches of the top.

Planting should be done in a shaded area. During goldfish or other fish, a water garden will be complete and will provide you and wildlife animals with many rewarding experiences.

Historical Society's Mad Hatter Tea considered a success

The Lake Mary Historical Society held their very first tea on Saturday, May 31. The tea was full of mothers and daughters as well as grandmothers and granddaughters. There was also a surprise visit by Alice of Wonderland fame.

Mary Rowell, who is first a little over 138 years old. Alice was the inspiration for the theme of the tea, which was a Mad Hatter tea. There were straw hats, silk hats and felt hats. The most interesting hat was that worn by Pat Fox. Pat wore a "Lotto Fever" hat complete with lotto tickets. Her granddaughter PJ was a little more traditional with her patriotic hat of red, white and blue.

Rowell

First and Second Vice Presidents Clinton Rhodes and Cora Kice were crucial to the planning and implementing of the tea. Major help came from society members Betty Mitchell, Mary Jane Durva, Peggy Wolfe and Cynthia Pitcock. First events are often a little more from a monetary standpoint. This first Society Tea was a success thanks to the corporate sponsorship of Jernigan Properties.

Most women become Girl Scout leaders because their daughters want to be Girl Scouts. They stay leaders because all the girls they work with become their daughters. Once a year, the Liberty Service Unit (formerly Stardust) of Lake Mary honors

Pet of the Week

Lola

Lola is a 9-year-old, spayed female basset hound, is looking for a good home. Although Lola's friends at the SPCA of Central Florida in Seminole County — where she's lived since May 4 — miss her, the canine is looking for a new home where she can have her big, long ears rubbed, as well as her back. She is loyal, housebroken and considers herself low maintenance. Her friends at the shelter say Lola really wants to find a nice home where she can go for walks and smell the flowers. She gets along with all kids wonderfully, but she isn't very fond of cats — she'd rather be around other dogs.

To adopt Lola, call the Humane Society of Seminole County at 407-323-8685 or visit the facility at 2800 County Home Road in Sanford

Woman living online fantasy can't be sure of all the facts

DEAR ABBY: I am divorced, work full time, and a year ago I became an Internet "love bug" when I met a man who lives 3,000 miles away. We started out as friends, but soon began e-mailing and talking on the phone almost daily. This relationship has become much more intense than I expected, yet I have some nagging questions.

Dear Abby

His nickname is "Skip." He swears that he loves me and is not married, but he refuses to give me his full name, home address or phone number. He calls me only from his office. He says that when the timing is right, he will give me all the information he has been withholding. We have become quite intimate over the Internet and telephone -- and yes, he has my home phone number. He tells me it's not "convenient" for me to visit him right now, and he can't visit me because when he flies he becomes deathly ill.

Abby, I enjoy his attention, the passion and excitement. We've tried several times to break it off, but I always give in and contact him. Do you think I am living in a fantasy world?

LOVING SKIP FROM AFAR

DEAR LOVING SKIP: I sure do. Or to put it another way, you'd feel right at home at Disney World. A telephone romance may make your heart "skip" a beat, but it pales when compared to the real thing. Why are you wasting your time like this?

DEAR ABBY: My husband, "Elmer," seeks attention from every woman he meets. He tells stories boasting about himself, and it's always about what he did 40 or 50 years ago.

Elmer will say to a friend, "Toll so-and-so (the wife of a mutual friend) I still love her. Or, 'How's my old sweet-heart?' Tell that little lady I'm still waiting for her."

Other times, Elmer will telephop a buddy and if the wife answers, he'll start with, "This is your old boy-er-boy, instead of giving his name."

Most of the time I'm embarrassed for my husband. I also consider his behavior disrespectful to me. What's my husband's problem, Abby? Help is needed here.

DISGRUNTLED LONGTIME WIFE

DEAR DISGRUNTLED: You married a man with an outgoing, flirtatious personality. Elmer is not being disrespectful of you -- this is simply his "schtick." Having heard his routine over and over, you've lost your sense of humor about it. He may need some new material, but I doubt he's going to alter the script, so please lighten up and try not to take it personally. I'm sure nobody else does.

DEAR ABBY: I have been secretly dating "Brandon." He has a live-in girlfriend, and I know I shouldn't be dating him, but when we're together I know I make him happy. Brandon complains about how unappreciative his girlfriend is and that she throws him out every other week. We enjoy being around each other and talk on the phone for hours at a time.

However, I have reached the point in our relationship where I want it to be just "me and him." I would like Brandon to tell his girlfriend about us, but the problem is she's my hairdresser. How should this be handled? Sign me. HIS GIRLFRIEND'S CLIENT

DEAR CLIENT: In order to avoid the "unkindest cut of all," change hairdressers. Brandon doesn't want a permanent relationship with anyone. In plain English -- he's a flake, and if you're smart you'll give him the brush-off.

sculpture. The artist says the sculpture is a tribute to the community's diversity. At a community event, Al Under-Lake, Mayor Dave and past Mayor Tom were on hand to see the sculpture as they took a full-sized boat for all the youngsters attending the event.

This year's Outstanding Leader of the Year is Kelli Kott. Mary is also a leader who goes above and beyond at all times. As quilter, Mary and her girls worked diligently to help the community. Mary is a dedicated volunteer who has spent many hours of her time and talent starting quilting to help other matched girls. Mary also put together the quilt for the school which her girls over sew for the day. In the past, Mary has helped out at many activities with our community just because the girls needed her.

Thank you, Kelli Kott. Mary and her girls should be congratulated. All to excellent work!

Lemon swirl cake light way to enjoy blueberry sensation

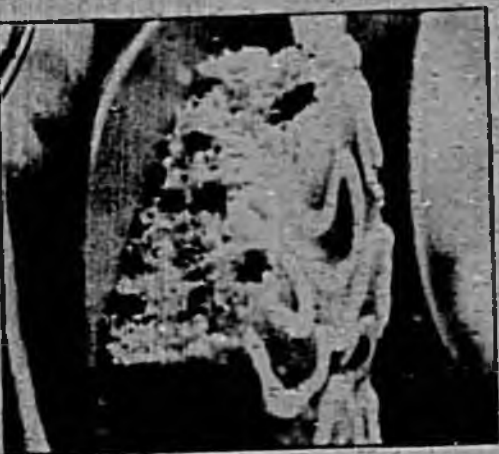

A fresh slice of lemon swirl cake provides the perfect balance of tart lemon and sweet blueberry. The cake is moist and tender, with a delicate lemon curd filling. The blueberries are fresh and juicy, adding a burst of flavor to each bite. This dessert is perfect for a light lunch or a refreshing treat.

Lemon-Blueberry Swirl Cake

- 1 package (4 1/2 oz.) Kristofe tart (see Blueberry Meringue Swirl) 1 package meringue mix and 1 can blueberries
- 1 cup water
- 1/2 cup sugar 1/2 cup butter, softened
- 1 1/4 cups flour
- 1 egg
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Preheat oven to 375°F. In medium bowl, combine meringue mix and water. Drain and place blueberries 1/2 inch in a circle. Beat meringue mix with egg in a separate bowl. Add water and lemon juice. With whisk, beat until spread out over meringue. Stir in 1/2 cup blueberries. Spoon into 12 muffin cups. Bake for 15-20 minutes. Cool 5 minutes. Sprinkle with meringue. Remove from pan and cool completely before eating.
