Coolidge's Successor Expresses Pleasure Over Tour's Results

RIO DE JANEIRO, Dec. 22.—(INS)—Much gratified by the spontaneity of the reception accorded him by the friendly Brazilian populace, President-elect Hoover began the last round of his six week Latin-American tour today by having confidential conferences with various Brazilian officials and American representatives.

Mr. Hoover and his party, staying at the famous Guanabara Palace which formerly was the home of the beautiful Princess Isabel who died in Europe in 1924. The Princess was the last survivor of the royal family which ruled Brazil before it was proclaimed a republic.

The Guanabara Palace is now the summer white house of the Brazilian president, Washington Luiz. The palace temporarily to provide the most comfortable residence possible for Mr. Hoover and his party.

Distressfully situated, the palace overlooks a quarter of a mile of gardens patterned after those at Versailles. It is high up on the mountainside overlooking the entire city and harbor. Nevertheless its equipment is most modern.

Mr. Hoover's temporary office is equipped with a dictaphone, American telephone, latest types of office desk and other conveniences.

Today is to be one of the busiest of Mr. Hoover's tour. He will deliver three important speeches during the day.

During the afternoon he will attend the special session of the national congress, then visit the supreme court, the American colony and American embassy. In the evening he will be the guest of honor at a state banquet at the Cattell Palace where the Brazilian president is reading while the American president-elect is being entertained by the Brazilian officials.

Youth, Suffering From Memory Loss, Found By Parents

FORSYTH, Ga., Dec. 22.—(INS)—On the word of two people who told him they were his parents, Tom Goolby, 22, tried to fool at home here today after an absence of a year and a half.

He recognized none of his old friends, but tried to be pleasant to them because these people, who said he was their son, also told him those about him were his friends. Everything was strange to him though.

Goolby was brought here yesterday by Dr. and Mrs. Goolby, suffering from loss of memory. After a nation-wide search since he left here in July, 1927, he was located in Tyler, Texas, where he had a good job under the name of J. C. Morrison. They told him who he was, convinced him they were his parents, and persuaded him to come home for Christmas. The parents hope that a few days rest at home will restore the youth's memory, and that he will recognize relatives at a big Christmas Day family reunion planned in his honor.

Christmas Club Reaches $31,500

First National Bank officials announced today that the bank's 1928 Christmas Savings Club had reached a total of $31,500 this afternoon, the end of the third week since the club opened. The club has gained $1,500 over the total announced at the end of the first week.

HOLIDAY PARDON NOT TO BE GIVEN ANY U. S. CONVICT

Custom Of Liberating Several Each Year Has Been Discarded

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(INS)—The quality of criminals in the United States is not so good as it was in the past, according to officials here today.

Some of the thousands of the federal penitentiaries who have been pardoned in the past few years, it is stated, are now being sent back to prison for the same offense.

In the past years each pardon was submitted to the attorney general, and a few names were asked that they receive one of the time honored Christmas pardons. In return the justice department would send the recommended names to the president and on Christmas Eve a few names would slip away and back to their families.

PRESIDENT AND SOLONS UNITED ON FARM BILL

New McNary-Haugen Measure Is Held Up Pending Word From Incoming Executive

Hoover May Want Delay To March

Much Debated Equaliza- tion Fee Omitted From Proposed Law

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.— (INS)—For the first time in five years of constant agri- cultural warfare, Congress and President Coolidge ap- peared today to have com- promised in the new McNary- Haugen farm relief bill.

The agreement, however, does not insure early action on the bill as congressional leaders are awaiting some definite word from President-elect Hoover before calling up the measure. The President-Elect, it was learned, has been queried as to his wishes three times since he left on his South American good will tour but as yet has not replied.

Farm relief leaders have predicted that Mr. Hoover will make his views known as soon as he reaches the coast of Florida early in the new year. Then, he is expected to say whether he wishes the present congress to enact the new McNary-Haugen bill or whether he prefers to have the legislation held up for a special session of the new congress after he takes office as president March 4.

The new McNary-Haugen bill, introduced by Senator McNary, was drafted a year ago by Hoover himself and Secretary of Agriculture Jardine and sent to the Senate agriculture committee. It never saw the light of day, since congress at that time was intent on enacting the bill which carried the equalization fee.

Since the election, it was said, Senator McNary of Ore., merely revived the old Hoover-Jardine bill, put in a few minor changes and reintroduced it.

This revised measure, providing for a federal farm board, the creation of stabilization corporations for each major crop, the establishment of advisory councils composed of real dirt farmers and providing a $100,000,000 revolving relief fund, has the president's approval, it was said. The President undoubtedly will follow the advice of Secretary Jardine and the latter gave the bill his unreserved endorsement.

Should Mr. Hoover announce on his return that he believes congress should act in time to make the relief effective on 1929 crops, administration leaders stand ready to rush the measure through to enactment in the new year. Should Mr. Hoover remain silent, the bill will die an immature death. Then will the new congress, summoned into special session, probably will enact the very same measure.

MAGON, Ga., Dec. 22.—(INS)—Mrs. Amy Barnes of this city, wanted results. Therefore she went after them—and got them.

The young lady had not been receiving her alimony as regularly as the court had decreed. She petitioned the court and when, the day of the hearing dawned, Mrs. Barnes came before the judge without counsel. The judge inquired whether she was to have legal representation.

"No, your honor," she said, "I have had lawyers in this case before but I believe I can do better than they have if you will permit me to plead my own case."

Her plea was a success. Her husband is to be summoned to court to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court as a result of his alleged failure to keep up the alimony payments.

NEW CAPTAIN OF GATORS IS GREAT BACKFIELD STAR

Rainey Cawthon Was Born In State And Is Capable Leader

GAINESVILLE, Dec. 21.—(Athletic News Bureau)—The Trojan from Tallahassee, Rainey Cawthon, one of the finest personalities that ever stepped upon an athletic field, will captain Florida University's famous "Fighting Gators" of 1929.

Selection of Cawthon as the captain of the football team is no surprise to those who have followed the college career of the "Blushing Ox from Leon," both on the gridiron and on the campaign trail.

Rated as one of the greatest fullbacks of the present era, Cawthon's football play has been outstanding for the past two seasons, though his achievements in an offensive and defensive way have often been obscured in the glare of the headlines that have fallen upon others.

They'll tell you in football camps around the South that Cawthon of Florida is the fiercest tackle in Dixie. Surely there has never been any one in Gatorland who could bring down a runner more viciously. Several times during the 1928 season, Rippling Rainey would smash through from his fullback position, widen the gap in an enemy line, and tear up 40 to 50 yards of turf. His books for 1928 show that he was the most dependable player on the team.

It is important that we recall the many instances during the 1928 campaign when Rainey would lead in the path of an opponent's line.

Collegiate Association To Consider Plan To Split Body Into 5 Districts

DELAND, Fla. Dec. 21.—(INS)—Advisability of dividing the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association into five districts was expected to be a principal problem for solution as representatives of the 22 educational institutions of the organization met here today in annual conference.

The conference was preceded by a meeting of the executive committee last night, at which no matters of vital importance were discussed. Robert T. Hinson, of Georgetown College, secretary, said.

The proposal for the redividing of the conference will be brought before the meeting Friday. Hinson stated.

With 30 teams now composing the S. I. A. A. backers of the project believe that the conference should be divided into five districts for more harmonious and efficient management of the association, the largest of its kind in the country.

Under the proposal, each division would pass upon all eligibility acts of its district, render judgments on all athletic questions and decide eligibility of players within its own jurisdiction.

Decisions of the division would be accepted as final and would not be subject to appeal by the executive committee or by the association's yearly meeting.

The suspension of any one of the provisions of the constitution will also be within the jurisdiction of the division. Each division would be required to submit a report to the association Saturday night. There have been no applications for membership and no members were notified of withdrawal and a harmonious meeting is anticipated by officials.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (INS)—Leo Boutton, manager of the Birmingham Bulls, who started sitting on a pile for 100 hours, attempted to commit suicide today by drinking poison. Police could not locate him for the act.

Botanic Gardens

With interest in this state becoming ever greater in botanic gardens, and while efforts are being made to have the government establish a national arboretum here, it is interesting to note what an eminent author on horticultural subjects considers as the greatest benefits to be derived from the existence of botanic gardens.

According to Mr. Bailey the eight main purposes of the botanic garden are: "to popularize plant knowledge directly to the people; to conserve the natural life of the region; to preserve historic plants and species and varieties; to provide a test ground for plants adapted to its territory; to introduce new species to cultivation; to supply an adjunct to the schools; to maintain research; to publish and to cooperate with other similar institutions and agencies for the extension of botanical and horticultural knowledge."

In speaking of the possibilities for educational work in a botanic garden Mr. Bailey states: "a botanic garden may furnish material for classroom in schools, provide lectures and lantern slides and specimens."

"The Brooklyn Botanic Garden may be cited as an illustration. It cooperates extensively with the public and private schools and receives appropriation for this and other reasons from the Borough of Brooklyn."

In addition to its scientific staff it maintains offices for the special work of instruction in visiting classes from schools as well as to regular botanic garden classes. It has a green-house devoted to pupils, both children and adults, where they may study the propagation of plants."

Fighting The "Flu"

Although Sanford thus far has been fortunate in the small number of influenza cases that have been reported with the scourge spreading rapidly over the country, the danger is still imminent. For this reason it is highly important that we exercise the greatest precautions in attempting to prevent a recurrence of the epidemic that took such a heavy toll in 1918. The advice of physicians should be heeded with the greatest care, and every person should strive to protect not only himself but also his neighbor.

A recent report published by the Chicago Medical Society has come to the attention of The Herald and we pass it on to our readers in the hope that it will help to stress the seriousness of the question. It says as follows:

"Ten years have passed since an epidemic occurred which made the word influenza a dread to all people. In some sections of the country the disease is again prevalent. Reports show that influenza follows no particular direction except it naturally follows trade routes as carried by people. Climate has no bearing on it, for it has been prevalent in moist England, dry Egypt, sunny France, and in Labrador within the arctic circle, in fact all around the world. It has taken its toll of lives among the coolies in India and in the army camps of America. No one is immune to it, and one attack does not protect a person from a second."

"The onset of influenza is sudden. There is severe prostration out of all proportion to clinical symptoms and to the amount of fever. Headache, backache, pains generally over the body are also present. There may be slight soreness of the throat, or a cough, but these are not severe. In mild cases the fever lasts from three to five days, then disappears, and all symptoms go except prostration. The convalescence is exceptionally and surprisingly slow. Persons who have had influenza are particularly liable to attacks of the disease and who do not realize that they are broadcasting infection. Anyone suffering from what he may believe only a "common cold," should consult a physician. Very often this cold is the early manifestation of influenza or pneumonia and only prompt and intelligent treatment can assure uncomplicated and speedy recovery."

"As fresh air is the deadliest foe of most diseases, it is the most important measure in preventing or insuring influenza. To be on the safe side in avoiding the disease, breathe plenty of fresh, pure air, and get out of doors daily, but avoid becoming chilled, eat slowly three meals a day, bathe frequently; drink plenty of water, use no alcohol or other stimulants; avoid wet feet; dress in warm light clothing and dress in a warm room, especially after taking a cold bath; wash your hands always before eating."

"Beware of self-drugging and self-diagnosing in any case."

RHODES SCHOLARS TAMPA TIMES

It is recalled by the New York Times that establishing the Rhodes fellowships at Oxford Cecil Rhodes cherished the conviction that he was founding a training school out of which would come great leaders of statescraft in the English speaking countries. And Rhodes even dreamed that out of this environment would come "an English-speaking imperial leader of unprecedented equipment and training," as the Times puts it.

THOSE WHO WOULD FLY MIAMI NEWS

Up to October 15 of this year, 15,000 applications for pilot licenses were received by the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce—five times as many as were made in 1927. More than 60 per cent of the applications were made by student pilots. The bureau has several license classifications—transport, industrial, limited, commercial, private, and student—and the would-be flier must be the up holder of at least three or four kinds. They plan diversions as careers in all kinds of flying.

There is the common sense of most of the people of the world in that they will not do anything that will bring them into disrepute.

When getting off in a bad way, the only thing to do is to get out of it as soon as possible. It is the only way to get out of a bad way.

The Florida State Board of Education has just passed a resolution that it will not do anything that will bring it into disrepute.

STRONG VENTILATED TUBS For Shipping GRAPE FRUIT, ORANGES, POTATOES, CABBAGE, LETTUCE, SWEET PEAS, BEANS, ONIONS, CUCUMBERS, PEPPERS, PEAS, CARROTS, CUCUMBERS, RADISHES AND MIXED VEGETABLES. They are assembled complete ready for use when they arrive. No nailing or strapping required and one man can fit on several thousand covers per day as easily as he can nail up several hundred crates. No experienced help is necessary. The use of these containers is not limited to one commodity, such as oranges or grapefruit, but are used for shipping any commodity grown on the farm. This means a tremendous saving to shippers. If one crop is a failure, a tremendous supply of crates or boxes because the one crop for which they were bought has failed. The open spaces between the staves and in the top and bottom afford ample ventilation for any commodity. Chain stores and wholesale grocery stores demand them because of their convenient size and because they are used for display purposes. Will Sell One Tub or a Carload.
