Paul Still In Critical Condition

CINCINNATI (UPI) — 11-year-old Paul Jewell, critically injured when a booby-trapped air hose exploded on Christmas Day, was being treated with antibiotics and blood transfusions early today after having his right leg amputated.

The boy, from the Lockhart area near Orlando, was in "critical, but stable condition" at Shriners Burns Institute, said a nursing supervisor at the hospital.

The youth's right leg had been nearly blown off by the blast. Before Jewell was flown to Cincinnati for specialized burn treatment last week, doctors in Florida had reattached severed nerves, arteries and ligaments in the leg.

"When Paul arrived here, his leg was very bad," said Shriners hospital spokeswoman Sandy Shackelford. "Doctors tried their best to save the leg, but weren't able to."

The amputation was just below the knee. Doctors said nerves in the leg had been "severely damaged" and also noted that leaving the mass of dead tissue on the leg would have reduced the boy's chances of survival, which are considered 50-50.

Doctors hope to begin skin graft surgery as early as Tuesday.

Paul suffered second- and third-degree burns over 60 percent of his body when a bomb, hidden in a coin-operated compressed air pump at a convenience store, exploded. He was celebrating his 11th birthday on Christmas, was trying to fill a tire on a bicycle when the bomb went off.

Orlando police have not arrested any suspects in the bombing or determined a motive.

More than $30,000 has been raised for Paul's medical expenses and the Shriners are paying for his stay at their hospital in Cincinnati. Rewards for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person who placed the bomb exceed $17,000.

Reagan, Nakasone Talks Set

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Amid domestic and global concerns, President Reagan and Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone meet Wednesday to open the new year with a show of allied solidarity and some gentle persuasion between friends.

Reagan and Nakasone — "Ron" and "Yasu" — to one another — approach their meeting in Los Angeles with different priorities but similar objectives: covering an agenda shaped by political pressures at home.

For Reagan, that means pressing the contentious issue of a trade deficit with Japan that is projected to near $35 billion for 1984 despite market-opening moves by the Japanese over the last three years.

For Nakasone, who will cross the Pacific for the sole purpose of meeting with Reagan for 2 1/2 hours, the session is a chance to raise his profile as a world leader and to protect his flank at home by resisting U.S. demands for trade concessions.

Higher Test Scores School Board Goal

Boosting achievement test scores is the Seminole County School Board's top priority for 1985.

The board has drawn up a list of 11 goals for the new year in the form of a district "comprehensive plan."

The school district is all ready first in the state in assessment score tests, according to Karen Coleman, director of community relations and public information for the board. And Seminole County students, on average, exceeded the national and state average ACT and SAT scores this year.

But Mrs. Coleman said the board wants 85 percent of the students scoring in the upper quartile of the state assessment test and a five point average increase on SAT scores. About 82 percent of the students scored in the upper quartile on the assessment test this year and the average SAT score was 918.

The plan also calls for the test scores of black students to be equal to or exceed the district average.

To achieve this, Mrs. Coleman said workshops will be set up to help students improve their test-taking and study skills. The district will also try to recruit more Dividends volunteers to work one-on-one with students on basic skills.

That leads to the second goal of the board — increase the number of parents and citizens involved in the activities of the school system, including planning and budgeting. The board has 500 citizens on various advisory boards.

Mrs. Coleman said increased information about these volunteer positions will help fill them. Also workshops will be set up with existing volunteers to help them understand more fully how the school system works.

Getting more kids to eat school lunches is the board's third goal. Less than half of the district's 39,000 students buy school lunches. The board hopes that figure will increase 10 percent in 1985. To do this, school officials will modify the kitchens and serving areas at seven elementary schools where participation is poor.

With about 1,000 more students expected to enroll in Seminole County schools in 1985, the board will have to construct more school buildings. Construction of an $8 million "middle school X," is scheduled to begin next year. The 36-classroom facility will be located on Longwood-Lake Mary Road.

Other projects include the addition of a lunchroom pavilion at Jackson Heights Middle School, and the construction of a media center, auditorium, 11 science labs and 20 classrooms at Oviedo High School.

The board also plans to build a $3 million complex to house its transportation, food service and maintenance facilities.

Students at five schools won't have to worry about rain leaking on to their class work in 1985. Sanford and South Seminole Middle schools, along with Bear Lake Casselberry and Crooms elementaries, will get new roofs.

The plan also calls for the rezoning of all middle schools to help determine how to distribute the students to alleviate growth problems.

Other goals include increasing teacher salaries and improving management at the board and school level, Mrs. Coleman said.

Talking more to the politicians who decide how to spend the money is a final goal Mrs. Coleman sees as one of the most important.

The school board will be sending assistant superintendent of finance Carey Ferrell to Tallahassee more often in 1985.

'No Second Chance'

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

The biggest task ahead of the Lake Mary City Commission in 1985, according to City Manager Kathy Rice, is formulating rules and regulations to guide the city's growth and "keep it from looking like one big parking lot."

With almost 3,000 homes scheduled to be built and about 7,500 people expected to move to Lake Mary in the next 12 years, professional planning is a must if the city is to retain its present quality of life, Mrs. Rice said. The city is on a collision course with growth-related problems if the commission doesn't act now.

"What we're trying to do — and what I plan to do — is get everything in place and plan for a community we all want to live in," she said. "We have to do it right because we're not going to have a second chance."

"If they don't, they will be at the mercy of a developer. All the land will be used up and we'll be just a hodgepodge of shops."

Lake Mary is no longer the sleepy wilderness town of 10 years ago and Mrs. Rice said it will never be able to go back to that. But the commission can make sure growth is compatible with the city's environment and that developers "pay their fair share" for city services.

One way the commission will make developers do that in 1985, Mrs. Rice said, will be to beef up city fire ordinances so developers are required to install more safety equipment. That way, she said, developers make their buildings safer without the city having to buy more expensive fire trucks.

The commission is also expected to adopt new zoning regulations and a land development code. Mrs. Rice said those on the books now are too broad and vague, dealing little with matters like signs, landscaping and curb cuts. The new regulations, which the commission will vote on in March, will be more detailed, letting developers know exactly what is expected of them, Mrs. Rice said.

Development has been slowed somewhat this year by the unavailability of water in Lake Mary. That will change in 1985 as the city expects to have its $1.4 million dollar water plant on Rinehart Road constructed and operational by December.

The contract for project will be awarded in January with construction scheduled to start the next month, Mrs. Rice said.

There are other plans on tap for 1985 to make sure matters like sewage, streets and garbage are not left to chance.

By the end of next year, Mrs. Rice said the city should have a master sewer plan which will determine whether developers or the city should own septic tanks and have the responsibility of disposing waste properly.

The commission is also expected to draw up a road improvement plan. There are definite plans to pave three more streets, Mrs. Rice said — Third, Washington and Evansdale.

A big stink arose this year over garbage disposal. At first the city commission embraced a free market policy, allowing four companies to compete for the trash of Lake Mary's 4,000 citizens.

But after one company, Danjohn Services, announced that it was jacking up its price the commission stepped in and said it would regulate garbage rates. The commission also fielded complaints from some Danjohn customers who said service was poor enough without the company raising its rates.

Mrs. Rice said the commission will probably abandon the free market approach in 1985 and research other options for garbage service.

"They know it's not working this way so they're going to have to make some firm decisions," she said.

The commission will consider awarding one company an exclusive franchise or raise money from taxes and make it a city service.

Giving Lake Mary residents a place to play will also be a priority in 1985, Mrs. Rice said. The city will hire an intern from

Arrest Unlikely To Quiet Controversy

Abortion Bombing Suspect Jailed

PENSACOLA (UPI) — Federal agents armed with two search warrants raided a home and arrested a suspect in four abortion clinic bombings, three of which occurred under the cover of heavy fog Christmas morning.

Matthew John Goldsby, 21, of Cantonment, Fla., was arrested Sunday by agents of the U.S. Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. He was jailed pending a bond hearing today before a federal magistrate.

AFT director Stephen E. Higgins said Goldsby faces more than 100 years in prison for eight federal firearms and explosives violations, but agent Dan Conroy said Sunday night the maximum penalty would be 80 years in prison and an $80,000 fine.

Conroy said Goldsby's home and car were searched by officials who seized "a large quantity of evidence coinciding with evidence found at the four bombing sites."

There were no injuries in any of the bombings, but extensive damage was done to the buildings.

Goldsby's arrest is not likely to stem the controversy stirred up earlier this month by FBI Director William Webster.

Webster drew fire from two of the clinic operators this weekend for his comments earlier in the month that abortion clinic bombings don't fit his definition of terrorist activity.

Webster did little to put out the fire Sunday, saying only that he was "not going to quarrel" with those who do call the bombings acts of terrorism.

And Webster angrily denied that the FBI was engaged in political maneuvering for not assigning its anti-terrorist task force to investigate the bombings. The suggestion that Webster was playing politics stemmed from the Reagan administration's opposition to legalized abortion.

Webster said in the case of the Pensacola bombings there was a federal presence — 20 ATF agents were on the scene. He said ATF agents have "the primary enforcement responsibility for explosions using incendiary devices."

Dodging Child-Support Will Be Harder in '85

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — It will be a lot harder for divorced parents to dodge alimony and child-support payments in 1985 and the new year will bring added protection for workers who handle toxic materials as a "right to know" law takes effect on Tuesday.

The year will also see newcomers having to pay $4 more for Florida driver's licenses and residents of 11 counties paying an extra penny per dollar sales tax.

A law pushed through by feminist House members requires courts to use central county depositories for collecting payments — and to garnish wages of parents who fall more than a couple months behind in alimony and child support.

Eight acts of the 1984 Florida Legislature have a Jan. 1 effective date, technically cleaning up the leftover-laws of the past session. The bulk of new laws became effective on July 1, Oct. 1 or immediately upon signature by Gov. Bob Graham.

For the estimated 6,500 new Florida residents moving into the state each week, the most noticeable new law will be a hike from $9.50 to $13.50 in the initial cost of getting an operator's license to drive. All new residents — even those holding valid licenses from other states — will have to take road tests when they apply for their first Florida license.

Four-year renewals will still cost $9.50, and will require only a vision check and — if a driver has any moving violations in the preceding three years — a written test.

The new law, sponsored by Miami Sen. Joe Gersten, is intended to make sure retirees and newcomers from big cities — long accustomed to taking subways, buses or taxis — can still handle a car.

"There were several reasons for it," said Alan Cochrane, chief of the Bureau of Records in the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles. "The Legislature seemed to feel that there were people moving here who simply didn't know how to drive, or were rusty with their skills."

Cochrane said "we get a lot of people from New York or Chicago or Boston" who have valid licenses, but haven't been behind the wheel in years.

NATION IN BRIEF

Burger Wants 10th Justice To Ease High Court Workload

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chief Justice Warren Burger says the Supreme Court needs a tenth justice who would not decide cases but would handle the court's numerous administrative tasks.

The additional justice would "take a good deal of the load off the chief justice," Burger said in a copyright article in the January issue of the American Bar Association Journal.

Burger, 77, complained that administrative duties require him to work an 80-hour week, which "interferes with my family life, hobbies, recreation and a lot of other things."

Several justices, including Burger, have complained publicly they are overworked because of the more than 5,000 cases they handle during each court term.

Burger has advanced various solutions, including an intermediate appeals court to take care of some of the Supreme Court's workload. But Congress has not passed that proposal.

His latest idea would be to borrow a federal judge to become a temporary "associate justice for administration with no judicial duties while occupying that position."

Ueberroth Man Of The Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Olympic organizer Peter Ueberroth, now commissioner of baseball, has been named Time magazine's Man of the Year, topping such other international figures as President Reagan, Geraldine Ferraro and Jose Napoleon Duarte.

As president of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, Ueberroth, 47, managed to make the games "one of the greatest athletic spectacles," despite the boycott by the Soviet Union and other Communist bloc countries, Time said.

Other nominees for the 57th annual "Man of the Year" title were Reagan; Duarte, the president of El Salvador; Ferraro, the first woman vice presidential candidate; and worldwide terrorists.

Last year Time named the computer as its Man of the Year.

Time called Ueberroth the "embodiment" of America's entrepreneurial spirit, who managed to make money on the Olympics, which traditionally put its host in a financial hole.

Death Toll Already Over 140

By United Press International
Authorities urged motorists to wear seat belts and plan their return trips to keep their names off a list of holiday traffic deaths that had topped 140 before the start of tonight's New Year's Eve revelry.

A United Press International count early today showed there have been at least 145 traffic deaths since the New Year's holiday weekend began Friday at 6 p.m. local time. The weekend ends at midnight Tuesday.

The National Safety Council has said as many as 450 people will die on the nation's roads this weekend. During the Christmas holiday weekend, 540 deaths were reported, exceeding the NSC's prediction by about 70.

Texas led the nation with 14 traffic deaths followed by California with nine. There were eight in Michigan, Illinois and Kansas; seven in Florida, North Carolina and Ohio; six in New Jersey and South Carolina; and five in Georgia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Sheets of ice spread by wintry storms made roads hazardous today for New Year's Eve travelers in the nation's midsection, while floods spawned by more than a half foot of rain made travel impossible on several Texas highways. An Eastern heatwave responsible for 40 records Sunday had ended by today, but so had flooding caused by rain and melting snow. The outlook also improved for ski areas, which reported "irretrievable" losses because of the warmth. Snow fell today in Colorado and from Montana to Michigan, with up to 6 inches expected in Wisconsin and Minnesota. Freezing rain and snow pelted Kansas and Nebraska and rain stretched from Texas to Indiana. A 65-year-old Iowa man was killed Sunday when he lost control of his car on a patch of ice covering U.S. 80 in Nebraska and struck an oncoming car. State police said a mixture of freezing mist and light snow kept roads icy today. Up to 7 inches of rain late Sunday and today soaked central Texas, pushing rivers and creeks out of their banks in Uvalde, Kerr, Real and Bandera counties. Police closed Highway 55, Highway 83 and Highway 479, but reported no evacuations.

Winds Up In Jail For Theft Of Truck

Man Forgot Cardinal Rule Of Crime

One of the basic rules in the crime business is not to let the police know about your nefarious deeds. And certainly don't conduct your illicit business right under the cops' noses. An Altamonte Springs man apparently didn't remember that and is spending New Year's Eve in jail for his forgetfulness.

According to a Longwood police report, it happened this way:

The man walked into the Longwood police department about 6 p.m. Sunday and inquired about the procedure for selling a truck for which he did not have a title. He was accompanied by a second man interested in buying the truck.

An officer inspected the truck and noticed it did not carry a license plate. A computer check showed the 1973 Chevy had been stolen two days earlier from Fruit Growers Express Co., Jacksonville.

Arrested and charged with grand theft auto was Theodore Duane Weber, 31, of 553 Karen Ave. The potential buyer was not charged. Weber was being held in the Seminole County jail today in lieu of $5,000 bond.

POT STOP
An early-morning traffic stop led to the arrest of two steamfitters on charges of possession of marijuana.

According to an Altamonte Springs police report, an officer stopped a vehicle for a routine check and called for a second officer as backup. It was not mentioned in the report why the officer decided to stop the vehicle for a traffic check.

One officer, approaching the passenger side of the vehicle, reported that he saw a passenger push something under the front seat with his right foot.

When the officer investigated, he reported finding a plastic bag containing what appeared to be marijuana.

After the passenger was placed under arrest for possession of marijuana, the driver was asked to get out of the car and a subsequent search of the vehicle yielded another bag of what was believed to be marijuana from the glove compartment. The driver was arrested on the same charge.

Released after paying $172 fines were the passenger, Timothy Clark Faulkner, 26, of Mt. Pleasant, Miss., and the driver Robert Nelson Blurton, 28, of Orlando.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS
Sandra Bryan, 21, of Orlando, reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that while she was at 791 Dogwood Drive, Casselberry, at 11:30 p.m. Friday a man who had given her a ring demanded it back. When she refused he grabbed her purse and fled. Deputies report the purse contained about $20 cash, credit cards and two checks worth a total of around $300.

A thief took $100 from a cash drawer in the Music Shack, 1429 E. Semoran Blvd., Casselberry, around 5 a.m. Saturday, deputies report. Owner Ronald Shulman, 27, of 397 Timberwood trail, Oviedo, reported the thief apparently pried open a rear door.

Lumber worth $1,325 was stolen from lots 83 and 84 Francis St., Sanford, Thursday or Friday, according to a report builder Robert Holbrook, 29, of Tampa, filed with deputies.

A radar detector and an equalizer with a combined value of about $175 were stolen from the car of Mark Simmons, 18, of 100 Ichabod Trail, Longwood, around midnight Friday, a sheriff's report said.

Ivan Jose Silvestry, 37, of 105 Joanne Court, Altamonte Springs, reported to deputies that a Tampa woman who had been living with him took his credit cards and charged more than $2,000 worth of items. He has also accused the woman of stealing two gold necklaces worth a total of about $2,200 between Dec. 13 and Wednesday, a sheriff's report said.

A thief who entered through a skylight took two tape recorders and a card reader worth a total of $309 from a room at Bear Lake Elementary School, 3399 Geaves Court, Forest City. The break-in was reported to have occurred Wednesday or Thursday.

A $750 palm tree was stolen from the entrance of Lake Pickett Downs, Chuluota, around 9 a.m. Wednesday, according to a report Michael Jones of Winter Springs, filed with deputies.

4 First Offenders Sentenced For DUI

The following persons have either pleaded or been found guilty of driving under the influence, or having an unlawful blood alcohol level.

As first-time offenders, they have had their driver's license suspended for 6 months, ordered to pay a $250 fine, pay court costs of $27.50 and complete 50 hours of community service. When a guilty or no contest plea is entered or if the defendant is found guilty of an alcohol-related charge, other charges are usually either not prosecuted or dismissed. Most of the first-time offenders are allowed to apply for business-only driving permits. —David Oren Hall, 29, of Tuskawilla Road, Winter Springs, arrested Dec. 15 by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy after he was seen driving on the wrong side of DeLeon Road, Oviedo. Charges of driving on the wrong side of the road and willful and wanton reckless driving were dismissed.

—Belinda Sue Watson, 21, of 188 E. Lake Ave., Longwood, arrested Dec. 16 by a deputy after her car was seen traveling south in the northbound lane of Longwood Avenue, Longwood. A charge of driving on the wrong side of the road was dismissed.

—Jeffrey Scott Hines, 24, of 430 Homer St., Longwood, arrested Dec. 17 by a deputy on U.S. Highway 17-92. A charge of failure to drive in a single lane was dismissed.

—William John McLaughlin, 26, of 465 Diane Circle, Casselberry, arrested Dec. 15 by a deputy after his car passed several vehicles on the right while traveling on state Road 436, Casselberry. A charge of improper passing was dismissed.

The sales tax goes up a penny per dollar in 11 counties, as the criminal justice local option tax is exercised for the first time. The counties — Brevard, Columbia, Hendry, Indian River, Leon, Monroe, Polk, St. Lucie, Sarasota, Seminole and Sumter — have to use the new revenue for courts, jails or other crime-fighting facilities.

The child support and alimony bill was introduced because of Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services estimates that half of court-ordered payments are not paid in full and that one-fourth of children affected by support orders receive nothing at all.

The new law will give delinquent parents 15 days to bring alimony or child support up to date, before their employers are ordered to deduct payments. The law also forbids employers to fire or discipline employees for the inconvenience.

The new "right to know" law will require companies that use potentially hazardous chemicals or other toxic substances to inform their employees of known effects of such materials.

"Employees have an inherent right to know about the toxic substances at their workplace, so that they may make more knowledgeable and reasoned decisions with respect to the continued personal costs of their employment and the need for corrective action," said the bill by Reps. Jon Mills, D-Gainesville, and Jack Tobin, D-Margate.

Florida State University in the spring to help develop a recreation and parks plan. Mrs. Rice said a plan for a city park should be on the drawing board by the end of 1985.

Finally, Mrs. Rice said her New Year's resolution is for Lake Mary to work more closely with the county and neighboring cities — especially Sanford.

After a six-month dispute over water with its big sister city, Lake Mary held out an olive branch last week with a proposal to drop a lawsuit and pay impact fees in exchange for a lift in Sanford's water moratorium. Lake Mary officials took Sanford to court in July after the city threatened to turn off its water supply. Lake Mary, which has been buying water from Sanford since 1976, refused to pay impact fees Sanford was requesting.

Circuit Judge Dominick Saffi in a court injunction froze the number of Lake Mary customers on Sanford's water lines but said Lake Mary did not have to pay any impact fees.

Now, Mrs. Rice said she and the commission are ready to put past animosity behind them and work with Sanford. Last week's proposal was the first step.

"We've built some strong relationships with the county and we're trying to bridge the problems with Sanford so we can work together."

IN BRIEF

Police Restore Order In Riot-Torn Border Town

PIEDRAS NEGRAS, Mexico (UPI) — Soldiers and federal riot police have restored order in the border town where a violent political protest left two people dead, more than 70 injured and several buildings burned to the ground.

The fiery four hour upheaval by an estimated 2,000 people across the Rio Grande from Eagle Pass, Texas, raged into the early morning hours of Sunday.

The violence erupted Saturday night after Coahuila state Gov. Jose Rodriguez de las Fuentes came from the capital of Saltillo and swore in Revolutionary Institutions Party (PRI) candidate Carlos Jauristi Septien as municipal president.

The ceremony took place three days before Jauristi Septien was scheduled to take office Jan. 1.

Angry supporters of National Action Party (PAN) candidate Dr. Eleazar Cobos confronted the PRI delegation outside the city's presidential palace, and an anti-riot squad guarding the officials fired tear gas into the crowd.

The crowd rampaged through the city of 120,000, overturning and setting fire to vehicles, burning the municipal palace and jail complex, freeing all prisoners and torching the newspaper building.

Bombers Strike Again

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — A bomb exploded early today in a French Embassy building, causing nearly $35,000 in damages, police said. It was the eighth bomb attack against Western targets in the past two weeks.

No one was injured in the latest blast, which shattered windows and damaged roofs in nearby single-family homes in the Bonn diplomatic district near Bad Godesberg, a police spokesman said.

The bomb went off 20 minutes after midnight in a one-story building housing the embassy's technical department, about two miles from the main embassy building. Most of the damage was to the front of the building, a police spokesman said.

The identity of the terrorists was unknown, but they were believed to be members of the Red Army Faction — the Baader-Meinhof band — which has begun a bombing campaign to coincide with a hunger strike of 39 jailed left-wing terrorists. The fast began Dec. 5.

It was the eighth attack in two weeks on American, British and French targets in West Germany.

On Sunday, two bombs damaged a U.S. Army radio antenna and a U.S. Army intelligence office at a British army installation, police said. No one was injured in the attacks, but police estimated damage at $112,000.

Vietnamese Press Assault

NONG SAMET, Thailand (UPI) — Vietnamese artillery pounded the embattled anti-communist Khmer rebel base at Nong Samet today and guerrillas exchanged fire with 2,000 Vietnamese troops massed outside the burned and battered camp.

Another guerrilla band, the communist Khmer Rouge, attacked two Vietnamese bases in a move to open a second front against the invaders and take the pressure off the Nong Samet defenders.

A New Year For

Over 3 Million More Americans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. population grew by 9.6 million to more than 236 million from 1980 to 1984, the Census Bureau reports, and most of the growth was in the sunny South and West.

The Census Bureau said the total U.S. population grew from 226,545,805 in April 1980 to a projected 236,158,000 today for a 4.2 percent increase. Regionally, the Northeast grew 1.2 percent from 49,135,000 to 49,728,000; the Midwest 0.4 percent from 58,868,000 to 59,117,000; the South 6.9 percent from 75,372,000 to 80,576,000 and the West 8.3 percent from 43,172,000 to 46,738,000.

Combined, the South and West grew 91.2 percent.

In the past year, the national population grew by more than 3.5 million. The bureau estimates the new year will be ushered in by 3,541,503 more Americans than rung in 1983.

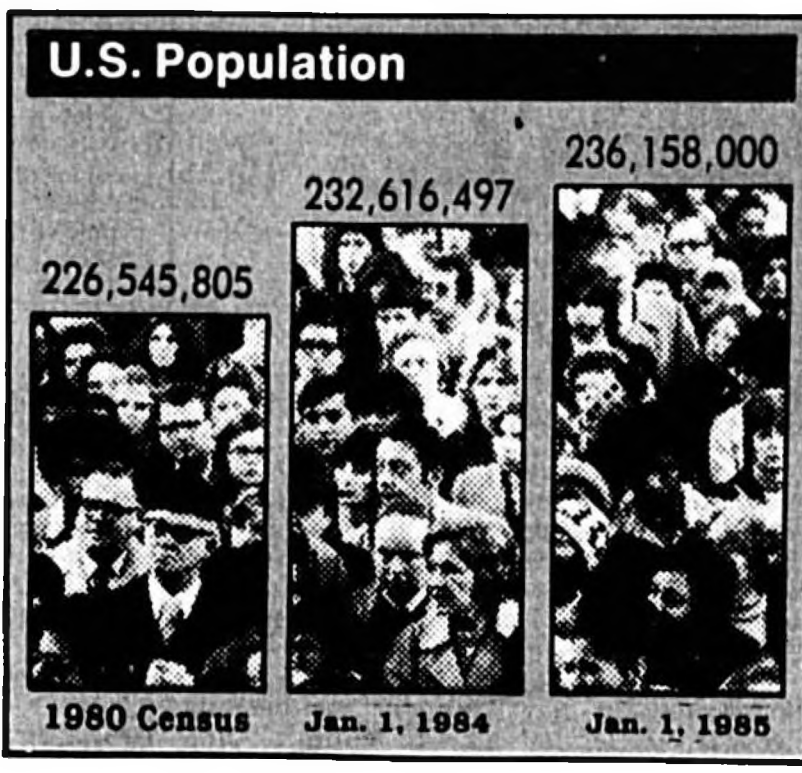

The bureau's latest figures also show that in the same period the 10 fastest growing states were Alaska, up 24.4

percent; Nevada, up 13.8 percent; Utah, up 13 percent; Florida, up 12.6 percent; Texas, up 12.4 percent; Arizona, up 12.3 percent; Colorado, up 10 percent; New Mexico, up 9.3 percent; Oklahoma, up 9 percent and Wyoming, up 8.9 percent.

California, the most populous state with 25,622,000 people, grew by 8.3 percent during the four-year period.

In the 12 months from July 1983 to July 1984, the bureau said, all Midwestern states grew, some of them reversing two straight years of decline; growth dropped sharply in Texas, Louisiana and Colorado and the energy producing states of West Virginia, Oklahoma and Wyoming lost population.

Other states showing a population increase after experiencing two straight years of decline were Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Iowa. Illinois grew for the second straight year and seven Midwestern states showed continuing growth since 1981: Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas.

More Americans than ever before will usher in 1985. The Census Bureau's estimate of the total population as of the first day of the new year was more than 3.5 million greater than the year before.

Indexing Protects Taxpayers From 'Bracket Creep' In '85

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With all the talk of tax reform recently, a significant change in tax law that begins with the New Year — indexing — has been virtually overlooked.

Starting Tuesday, personal income tax rates will be adjusted to reflect inflation, meaning anyone whose salary is raised up to 4.08 percent during 1985 will not face any income tax increase.

Previously, people often were bumped into higher tax brackets, which increase progressively from 11 percent to 50 percent, just because their salaries kept pace with inflation.

The effect of indexing is as significant as the tax simplification proposal Treasury Secretary Donald Regan announced last month. More important, it is already part of the nation's tax code.

The new indexing law will protect most taxpayers from the costly "bracket creep" of the past by widening the tax brackets by 4.08 percent and by increasing the standard deduction and personal exemptions by like amounts. The adjustments will be reflected in taxes withheld from paychecks.

However, a simultaneous increase in Social Security payroll taxes will offset part, and in some cases all, of the savings from tax indexing in 1985.

Indexing is the final stage of President Reagan's tax cut program that Congress passed in 1981. It was written to cut tax rates by approximately 25 percent over three years and then to protect the cuts from being eroded by inflation.

But opponents have complained indexing is too costly, particularly during times of high budget deficits.

The non-partisan congressional Joint Tax Committee estimates taxpayers nationwide will save over $5 billion in taxes in fiscal year 1985. That means the government will be $5 billion further away from narrowing the deficit.

Over the long term, indexing becomes more costly, rising to $16.2 billion in 1986, $29.7 billion in 1987, $45.5 billion in 1988 and $63.4 billion in 1989, for a five-year revenue loss of more than $160 billion.

Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., author of the indexing law, said it will prevent Congress from allowing inflation "to do the dirty work of raising taxes."

"If members of Congress want to raise taxes, they will have to vote to do so," he said.

The personal exemption for each taxpayer also increases 4.08 percent from $1,000 to $1,040 beginning Jan. 1.

And the standard deduction — the income threshold under which no taxes are collected — will rise from $2,300 to $2,390 for single taxpayers; from $3,400 to $3,540 for married taxpayers filing jointly, and from $1,700 to $1,770 for married taxpayers filing separately.

The Treasury Department estimates that a family of four with an adjusted gross income of $31,686 that files a joint income tax return would save about $85 in 1985 because of indexing and $1,863 through 1989. Without indexing, that family would have faced a tax increase of 2.7 percent in 1985.

Children Live With Dead Tot

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Police are looking for a woman suspected of beating her 3-year-old granddaughter to death and leaving the body to decay in a house for two weeks before frightened young relatives tossed it in a trash dumpster a month later.

Authorities said the grandmother beat the child with a broom handle while she was trying to get her to say her numbers.

Police charged the mother of Latresha Caldwell with neglect and are seeking Carolyn Starke, the grandmother, for questioning, homicide detective Frank Evans said. Authorities said Starke may have headed for New York.

Starke beat the child with a broom handle Dec. 1, Evans said, and left her in a house with five of Starke's children — aged 3 to 16 — where the infant died the following day.

"This went on for two weeks," he said, until the body smelled so badly the children wrapped it and the mattress in a sheet and put it on the patio. The children said they then put the body in the dumpster Saturday.

Revelers To Bid '84 Goodbye With Good Times

By United Press International

In Times Square a big bright red apple will slide down a pole and in Washington, D.C., the seconds will be ticked off by the descent of a huge postage stamp.

In the French Quarter a big ball will be lowered on a brewery and in Rochester, N.Y., a glass elevator with strobe lights will slide down a 21-story shaft.

At midnight tonight Americans will say goodbye to 1984 and welcome in 1985 with all the traditional revelry they can muster.

The most traditional of all New Year's parties will be in New York's Times Square where hundreds of thousands of people will watch a lighted red apple slide down a pole high above the crowds. It will be the last year for the tradition because the building holding the pole is scheduled for reconstruction in 1985.

As with other years, the nation's law enforcement agencies will be especially busy trying to keep drunken drivers off the roads.

In many areas civic groups, businesses or the city are offering free rides to drunks. The no-name bar in Sausalito, Calif., however, is going one better. It will be serving non-alcoholic drinks all evening.

More sobering is the prize being given in Lawrenceville, Ga. The Gwinnett Daily News is offering a free funeral for anyone killed while driving drunk New Year's Eve. The paper has made the offer for 11 years but never had a "winner."

Among the more unique parties will be one in St. Louis where 250 passengers will board an Amtrak train and circle the city until the magic hour. New York's upwardly mobile will attend a $750 per couple feast at Regine's that includes a bottle of Dom Perignon champagne each. On the other end of the scale, about 200,000 people are expected to jam Boston Common for parades, music and fireworks.

For those planning to party extensively, neurologist Dr. Alan Rapoport of the New England Center for Headaches in Greenwich, Conn., offers some advice. He says to avoid a hangover celebrants should avoid dark-colored alcohols such as brandy, red wine and sherry, and stick to the lighter ones such as beer, white wine, gin and vodka. He also suggests avoiding salami, bologna, pickled herring, chopped liver, ham, aged cheeses, chocolate, baked breads and egg nog.

Prevention, however, may be the best advice. He says before the drinking begins party goers should load up on foods that coat the stomach, such as milk, and eat fresh fruits to help digest the alcohol.

Consumer Group: Ford Defect Causing More Deaths

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The death rate from Ford cars that suddenly slip out of park into reverse has increased since the government let the company issue warnings rather than fix the defect four years ago, a consumer group says.

The Center for Auto Safety, in a report Sunday coinciding with the fourth anniversary of the Transportation Department's settlement with Ford, found that since Dec. 30, 1980, 1,100 people have been injured and 77 have died in 3,500 accidents caused by the faulty transmissions — more than the number of deaths from any other auto defect in the past four years.

Between 1977 and 1980, 61 people died from the defect. Overall, 260 people have been killed and 3,800 injured in 12,000 accidents resulting from the transmission problem, said Clarence Ditlow, the center's executive director.

"The Ford park-to-reverse defect stands as the worst ever recorded," the report said. "Yet safety officials within the Reagan administration continue to assert that the Ford settlement is working and that (deaths) have declined significantly" since the Ford warning stickers were mailed out in mid-1981."

The group said the department's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has manipulated fatality statistics to mislead Congress and the public about the problem, which involves as many as 23 million Ford cars manufactured between 1986 and early 1980.

The Transportation Department had no immediate comment on the charges. Ford Co. officials also were not immediately available for comment.

The center said department statistics show the death rate has fallen to 0.035 a day since December 1980, compared to 0.045 deaths a day between 1977 and 1980.

But if fatal accidents involving all 1970-1979 Ford vehicles and "rearward movement" are included, the group said the figures show deaths per day have climbed to 0.050 from 0.045. If all faulty cars are included, the death rate goes even higher, it said.

The group has urged Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole to meet with victims of such accidents and the families of those who have been killed.

Distraught Man Kills Ex-Girlfriend, 3 Children

BRADENTON (UPI) — A woman seriously injured in a weekend shooting incident that left five people dead remained in critical condition at a Bradenton hospital today.

Janice Lane, 31, underwent surgery for gunshot wounds Sunday but Manatee Memorial Hospital officials would not specifically comment on her injuries.

A man distraught over losing his girlfriend shot the woman and her three sons dead, wounded Lane then turned the .357 magnum on himself, police said.

Police said the mass killings Saturday were believed to be the worst ever in Bradenton, a city of 30,000 people on Florida's west coast that normally reports no more than two dozen murders in an entire year.

Police said Percy Seals, 33, shot to death his estranged girlfriend, Lillian Carter, 30, and her sons, Hubert Brooks, 13, Forrest Muller, 10, and Tyrone Carter, 6, at the Rogers housing project.

"She told me that he said if he couldn't have her, he was going to kill himself and her, too," Gavin said.

Police were unable to say why Carter and Seals had broken up. Neighbors told authorities Seals was a quiet man and Carter was a likeable woman. They said the two had caused no trouble in the past.

Missing Children Bureau Probed

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — Several government agencies are investigating the Tampa-based Bureau of Missing Children, which collected more than $100,000 on the promise that donations are tax exempt.

The Fort Lauderdale News/Sun-Sentinel said the Internal Revenue Service has not granted a tax exempt status to the bureau.

It said the bureau also was being investigated by Oakland Park police, the Broward County and Pinellas County sheriff's departments and the Florida Secretary of State's licensing department.

The Bureau of Missing Children, a network of private detectives with offices in at least six Florida cities, has been collecting money on the claim that it is searching for missing youngsters.

But the News/Sun-Sentinel said the bureau's claim that it has located 31 missing children "cannot be substantiated because officials will not disclose the children's names."

The bureau has claimed detectives donated more than $1 million worth of services to locate missing children, the newspaper said. But police have been unable to determine how the $100,000 in contributions have been used if the detectives' services were given for free.

Goodbye UNESCO ...

It's official. Today the United States will withdraw from the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. The bloated bureaucracy will have to make do now without the U.S. contribution of $47 million, which is 25 percent of the organization's annual budget.

This won't be easy for the Paris-based bureaucrats who have become accustomed to five-star hotels, four-star restaurants, and limousines. In fact, UNESCO officials gathered in Geneva recently to contemplate the coming budget crunch. And the organization's executive board has scheduled another special meeting for next month.

Meanwhile, the Reagan administration has announced that the U.S. share that would have gone to UNESCO next year will, instead, be distributed among the U.N. Development Program, the U.S. Agency for International Development, and the U.S. Information Agency. These agencies were selected for additional funding because the bulk of their budgets is spent on field work. On the other hand, UNESCO spends a whopping 80 percent of its budget on salaries and other bureaucratic costs.

Indeed, a recently completed General Accounting Office audit concluded that UNESCO's financial affairs are out of control because there is no monitoring machinery to determine what the organization actually does. There are no brakes on Director-General Amadou Mahtar M'Bow's spending what he pleases.

Nor is UNESCO's irresponsibility limited to unbridled extravagance. During Mr. M'Bow's 10-year reign, the organization has condemned Israel, denounced the free-enterprise system, called for a redistribution of the world's wealth, and advocated state censorship and the manipulation of international news. These are the UNESCO offenses that prompted the Reagan administration to withdraw U.S. participation and especially after the organization refused to change its ways.

The U.S. departure should have a salutary effect upon UNESCO, which continues to resist significant internal reforms. Such was the case in 1977 when the United States withdrew from the International Labor Organization, only to resume membership three years later once the ILO became more responsible.

If and when UNESCO comes to its senses, the United States will rejoin. Until then, the $47 million a year now being wasted annually on UNESCO will be put to better use in development and food-relief programs.

Future Symbol

The fund drive to restore the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island has just about reached the halfway point. Thus far, $100 million has been collected toward a goal of $230 million.

Work on the statue is well underway. It is to be finished by 1986, in time for Miss Liberty's 100th birthday.

Restoration has come in the nick of time. Salt air and winds have worked havoc. Parts have even fallen from the statue and washed across New York's Upper Bay to the New Jersey shore.

The statue's copper skin is held together by a structural framework of iron straps. Over the years, corrosion has eaten away at the iron. Most of it has come out, to be replaced with an alloy that won't react to copper.

This summer, workers removed the torch held in Miss Liberty's upraised right hand. The torch was so weakened by corrosion that a new one will have to be built. The cost of restoring the torch is $200,000, about half what it cost to construct the entire statue, which was dedicated on Oct. 28, 1886.

The Statue of Liberty is more than a historical monument. It has stood as a symbol of the future for millions coming to the United States for the first time. The fund drive deserves support.

First Family Reconciliation Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A reconciliation between the President and Mrs. Reagan and son Michael is expected to take place while the Reagans are in California winding up the yuletide holidays.

Michael, 38, has been unhappy that the president has not met his 20-month-old daughter Ashley and only seen his son Cameron, 6, a couple of times. Aides indicate a family reunion to smooth over the past friction is in the works.

Lucky, the 3-month-old heap dog resident of the White House is answering his mail through the first lady's correspondence office, and he signs off with a paw print. The impression was made by the Secret Service, which also makes finger prints.

Lucky will not be making the trip to California over the New Year's holiday. He will be in the hands of the man who trained White House press secretary Jim Brady's dog. By the time the Reagans return to the White House, Lucky is expected to be housebroken.

Sheila Tate, the first lady's secretary, said that Lucky answers to her name, has received volumes of mail and gifts of dog biscuits. She has a great fondness for socks, and grabbed a Christmas stocking from the president's hands, darting off with it.

Excitement is building over the president's second Inaugural with plans well under way.

The stands being constructed outside the White House have made the mansion more and more inaccessible at Christmas with Pennsylvania Avenue being blockaded.

There are three categories of seats for the inaugural parade: reserved seats at $12.50 per ticket; preferred seats at $75 and premium seats at $100.

Reserved seats run along the parade route. Preferred and premium tickets allow access to a special viewing area on Pennsylvania Avenue. Tickets are on a first-come, first-served basis.

They may be purchased by writing "Inaugural Parade Tickets, Box #985, Washington D.C. 20013-1985, or by telephoning 202-433-7160.

Here's what parade viewers will see — television viewers, too — 37 civilian bands, 6 military bands 35 horse units, 5 marching units, 1 dog sled, 15 military units, 7 floats, 2 choral groups.

President Reagan has been staying out of the public limelight since the election, and basically keeping his own counsel. He has big decisions to make and seems to be playing them all close to the chest while top aides are dispatched to life public forum to contradict each other, particularly on the question of "Star Wars."

Reagan had six news conferences in 1984. Speakers have told reporters that the president will assuredly have more in the new year, about one every month or six weeks. But he acknowledged that he making such promises from his best hopes and intentions, not necessarily those of the president.

ROBERT WALTERS

The Real Jobless Rate

SEATTLE (NEA) — When pioneer Henry Yesler established one of the Pacific Northwest's first timber processing plants here in the mid-1800s, he constructed a crude road to skid logs from a landing on Elliott Bay to his sawmill.

Because the timber business always has been seasonal and cyclical, lumberjacks and sawmill workers often found themselves unemployed. Many of those waiting for jobs gathered regularly along the "skid road."

In ensuing decades, that phrase was slightly mangled and "skid row" became the generic term for the street in any major city where unemployed workers congregated.

Today, Yesler Way is a major thoroughfare in downtown Seattle and only the name remains as a reminder of the country's first skid row. What remains essentially unchanged, however, is the chronic problem of unemployment.

A superficial examination of the employment statistics here in Seattle and elsewhere in the nation provides little evidence of the problem. Unemployment in this city has averaged 7.2 percent in recent months, a relatively modest rate comparable to the countrywide average of slightly less than 7.4 percent.

But the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, which compiles those figures after conducting monthly surveys of about 60,000 households throughout the country, relies upon a technique which systematically underestimates economic hardship within the labor force.

To be included in the BLS "unemployed" category, for example, an individual must have actively searched for work during the previous month — a procedure which relegates those who have abandoned their job search, those who have been forced to retire early and other discouraged workers to the category of those "not in the labor force."

The "employed," on the other hand, includes everybody who performed at least one hour of work for pay during the survey period.

"If you inflate the official BLS figure by about 50 percent, you'll probably come close to the number of people who are actually unemployed or significantly underemployed in Seattle," says Joseph A. Dear, research director for the Washington State Labor Council.

Indians Eye Lucrative Bingo Site

WASHINGTON — There's a crafty plan afoot to create an Indian reservation near Cleveland, Ohio. The idea is not, as you might think, to provide a site for the city's doddering baseball team of that name, but to give the real-life Miami Indian tribe of Oklahoma a home near what it claims are its ancestral camping grounds.

The Miamis have a 77-acre tract of land in mind for their Ohio reservation, and need only Interior Department approval to make the big move. The tribe's lawyer, Ben Loring, says the site was selected because the tribe has "original aboriginal titles" to land near the Great Lakes — though one expert told my reporter Jim Zians that the Miamis never got closer to Cleveland than the Cincinnati area at the other end of the state before the white man evicted them.

There are those who say the Miamis' motive is not nostalgia but profit. Or, to put it another way: bingo.

These skeptics suggest that the Miamis simply want to set up a

JEFFREY HART

Mild Tyranny

Where, on the African continent, are the most outrageous things happening? If you said Addis Ababa, in Ethiopia, you would have a strong case. There, the communist government is obstructing food shipments to starving Ethiopians because the drought happens to be in anti-government regions. One might call this cheap execution, saving bullets. Stalin pioneered the notion during the 1930s, when he wiped out the Ukraine.

Nobody's picketing the Ethiopian embassy in Washington.

There is also big trouble in Zimbabwe, formerly called Rhodesia. There, one black tribe, the Meshona, is squashing another black tribe, the Zulus. The present dictator of Zimbabwe, Robert Mugabe, is a Meshona. The head of the Zulus, Joshua Nkomo, the election runner-up, has nothing whatever to say about the governing of the country. The remaining whites in Zimbabwe have no rights at all. Murder is a daily political event.

The passions of the new left now seem to be focusing on South Africa, the whole familiar mechanism going into action. Having failed to prevent the deployment of the Pershing II in Europe, having failed to defeat Ronald Reagan, the left is trying to kick a midget, namely South Africa.

Thus we have had the sit-in arrests at the South African embassy in Washington, and at the legation in New York. "Highly respected black leaders have taken part," as Anthony Lewis puts it in The New York Times. "So have union officials, black and white. Thomas R. Donaldson, secretary-treasurer of the AFL-CIO, was arrested at the embassy this week. He said it was time to boycott South African imports and, if necessary, to prohibit U.S. investment in South Africa."

What about prohibiting U.S. investment in Ethiopia? Blacks are not starving, under communist auspices, in South Africa. More blacks will die in Ethiopia while you are reading this column than have died as a result of political violence in South Africa during the past 25 years.

Why, for example, are Basil Patterson and Coretta Scott King getting themselves arrested at the South African Embassy?

Clearly, they are not opposed to tyranny. If they were, they would be getting arrested at the Cuban embassy. There are more political prisoners in Cuba than South Africa has ever thought of. The dissident Bishop Desmond Tutu can hold press conferences in Pretoria. There are no dissident press conferences in Havana.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Method are being tested that could someday allow women to be vaccinated against pregnancy — and met against fertility — the same way they are immunized against whooping cough.

The two methods being tried in animals show some promise, a birth control vaccine for men and women, but scientists agree there are years of work to be done before they know for sure if the techniques will work.

Both methods are based on the immune system, which battles bacteria and other foreign or disease-causing organisms, forcing it to continually produce antibodies that same way disease vaccines do.

One method relies on protein that attack the protective membrane around the ova, or egg to which sperm must attach for fertilization to occur. Another relies on proteins that disrupt sperm function.

The anti-ova antibodies attack the zona pellucida, a part-protein shell which forms around the ova as it grows in the ovary. The zona pellucida contains receptors that allow one sperm to bind to the ova during fertilization. The receptors lose their binding ability afterward to keep more than one sperm from attaching.

Certain antibodies block fertilization by causing formation of a sort of shell around the zona pellucida covering the receptors.

"It's fascinating and it has a lot of potential. It just has a long way to go," said Dr. Bonnie Dunbar, an assistant professor of cell biology at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston who is researching the method.

However, in tests on lab animals the substance used by Dunbar and colleagues was so powerful it caused permanent sterilization. What people are looking for, she said, is something reversible.

Another snag is that the proteins not only attack the zona pellucida — they kill the ova, thus cutting down drastically on production of the female hormone estrogen. Such a reduction could induce a menopause-like state in women.

ing customers around Cleveland — and local politicians who pay attention to parish priests and other bingo enthusiasts. These relatively modest bingo parlors, cramped by state and local regulations, couldn't compete for lonisthe unregulated Indian games. (The Cherokees offer pots as high as $1 million in North Carolina.)

The prospect of Indian bingo a big business has also aroused concern that organized crime will muscle in on the operations and take control of the tribal councils. There have been rumblings from the Justice Department and Congress, where several bills have been introduced to curtail the Indian gaming system.

Lady Seminoles Left At Altar, Again

Williams' 28 Keep Metro Streak Intact

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

For Seminole County — and especially Seminole High School — the jinx lives. Once again, Sanford's Lady Seminoles were left at the altar.

The Metro Conference continued its dominance of the 8th Annual Lady Hawk Tournament Saturday night when Orlando Evans' Lady Trojans rode the 28-point performance of tournament MVP Cynthia Williams to a 53-47 overtime victory over Sanford's Lady Seminoles before a crowd of 300 at Lake Howell High.

Either Evans (three times) or Orlando Edgewater (four times) has won the Lady Hawk title the last seven years. On the other hand, Seminole has been runner-up the last three years. The two years prior, the Lady Seminoles finished third.

Evans, the fifth-ranked team in the state (4A) also snapped its losing streak to the Seminoles with Saturday's triumph. The Lady Trojans' only two losses this season came at the hands of the fourth-ranked (4A) Tribe.

"They (Seminole) took us out of our game the last two times we played them," Evans coach Dorothy Starbird said. "Control is our game, when we control the ball we control the game. We didn't control it as much as I would have liked but we didn't let Seminole play their game."

For Seminole, which now stands at 10-2 overall, it was the second loss in a tournament championship game this season. The Lady Tribe lost to 2A powerhouse Cocoa Beach in the finals of the Hoop-De-Doo Thanksgiving Tournament.

"We came out a little tight," Seminole coach Ron Merthie said. "We didn't really loosen up until the third quarter."

The game was a back and forth struggle in the early going of the first quarter, but, with the score tied at 6-6, Evans outscored Seminole, 8-2, the rest of the quarter to take a 14-8 lead. Williams scored eight points for the Trojans, six coming after offensive rebounds.

Basketball

Seminole stepped up its defensive pressure in the second quarter and outscored the Trojans, 11-4, to take a 19-18 lead midway through the quarter. The teams traded baskets to make it 21-20 and Evans took a 22-21 lead on a layup by Williams.

The Lady Trojans came back with two baskets late in the second quarter to take a five-point lead, 26-21, at halftime.

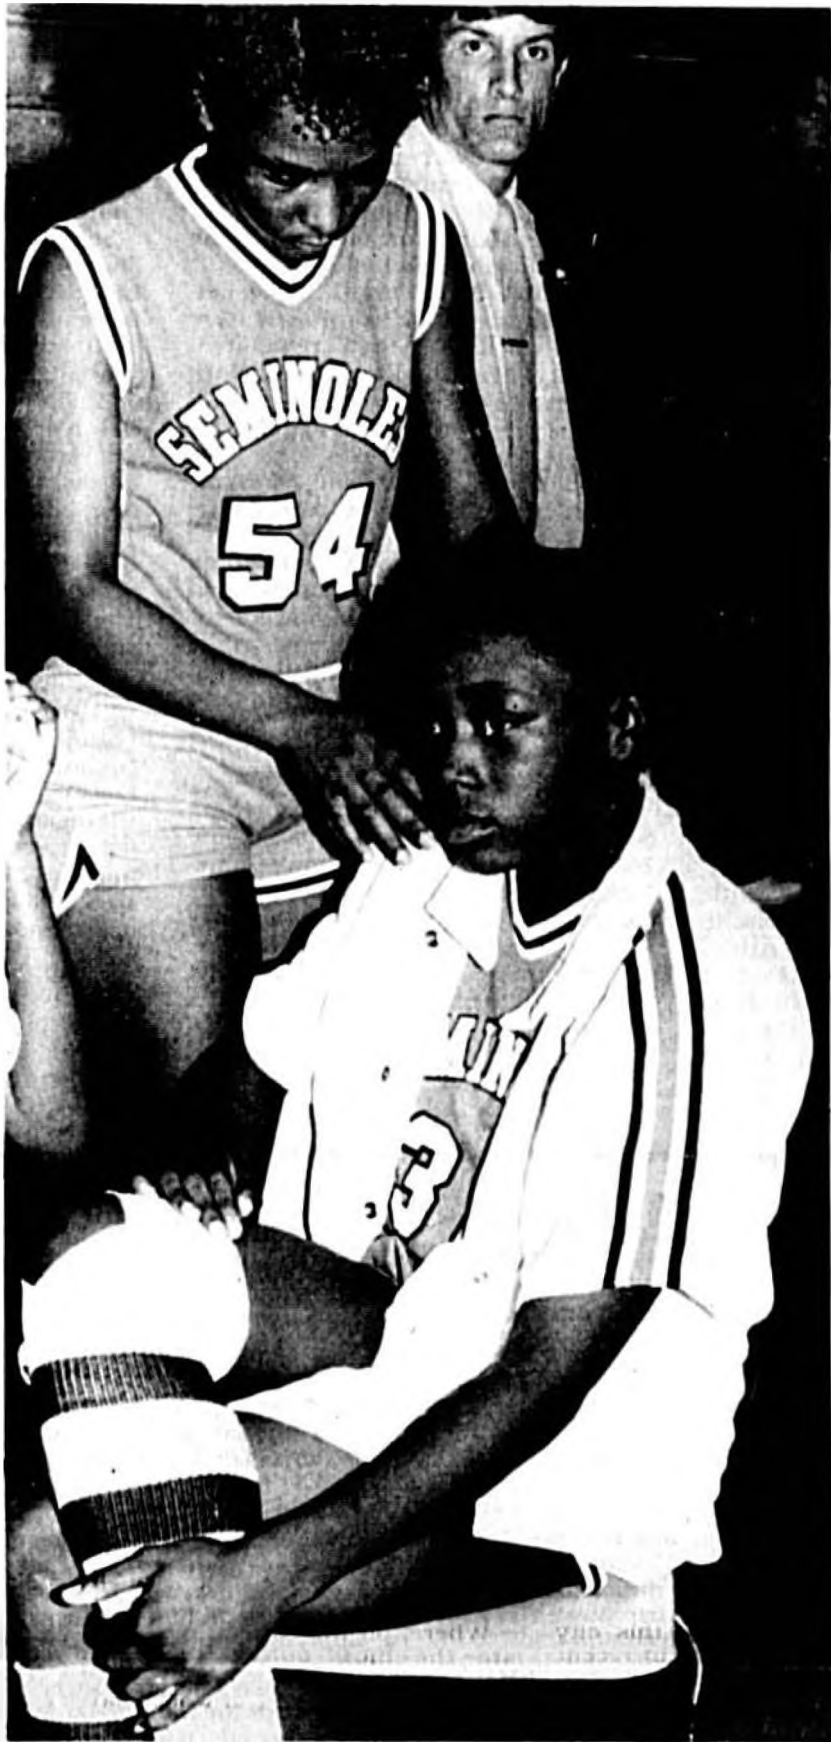

Evans opened up a seven-point lead, 30-23, early in the third period but Andell "Soul" Smith took charge and rallied Seminole back within two. Smith's jumper cut Evans' lead to 30-25 and the senior guard picked Carolyn Hightower's pocket for a steal and a layup. Smith was fouled on the layup and she hit the free throw to complete the three-point play and trim the Trojans' lead to 30-28.

But Evans responded with five straight points of its own to rebuild its seven point lead, 35-28, with four minutes left in the third quarter. Mona Benton, playing with a slight hamstring pull, dropped in a pair of layups to pull Seminole within 35-32, but Williams converted another layup off an offensive rebound to give the Lady Trojans a 37-32 lead going into the fourth quarter.

Smith continued her clutch play for the Seminoles as she scored the first four points of the fourth period to cut Evans' lead to 37-36 with 6:50 left in the game.

Seminole tied the score at 39-39 with 4:46 remaining when Catherine "Kitty" Anderson made one of two free throws. Williams' jumper put Evans back up by two, 41-39, but Temika Alexander popped in a jumper from long range to tie it at 41-41.

Another layup by Williams gave the Trojans a 43-41 lead and, after a Seminole turnover,

Lake Brantley Tips Lady Rams For 5th

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots used balanced scoring from their starting five Saturday en route to a 52-45 victory over Lake Mary's Lady Rams in the consolation finals of the Lady Hawk Tournament at Lake Howell High.

The Lady Patriots improved to 9-2 for the season with their second consolation championship. Lake Brantley won the consolation title in the Hoop-De-Doo Thanksgiving Tournament. Lake Mary now stands at 5-5 overall.

The Patriots return to Five Star Conference action Wednesday when they host Daytona Beach Mainland. Lake Brantley is tied for the conference lead with Seminole at 3-0. Lake Mary, 2-1 in the Five Star, hosts Apopka Wednesday.

Kirsten Dellinger completed an impressive tournament performance with 19 points, 14 rebounds and four blocked shots to lead the way for the Lady Patriots. Michele Brown added 13 points, 10 rebounds and six assists. Both Dellinger and Brown made the all-tournament team.

Sherry "Ice" Asplen added eight points for the Lady Patriots while Cammie Twaddell tossed in six points and pulled down eight rebounds and Kim Lubenow also contributed six points.

Aileen Patterson led the Lady Rams with 11 points and a game-high 15 rebounds and Kim Averill pumped in 10 points. Cynthia Patterson did a nice job off the bench with eight points while Courtney Hall and Karen DeShetler added seven apiece.

The Lady Rams, coming off a 70-37 rout of Lyman, took the early lead in the first quarter and clung to a one-point lead, 11-10, going into the second. Lake Brantley then outscored the Rams, 14-8, to take a 24-19 halftime lead.

Lake Mary stayed close throughout the third quarter but the Lady Patriots would not give up the lead as they took a 35-32 lead into the fourth quarter. The Patriots upped their lead to seven early in the final period but Lake Mary rallied back to tie it.

But the Rams never could take the lead from the Patriots and, after breaking the tie, Brantley maintained the lead the rest of the way.

"Lake Mary's pretty tough," Lake Brantley coach Renny Betris said. "I think they'll beat a lot of teams."

In the game for third place Saturday, Winter Park's Tina Pinkney had her way inside most of the game but, when it counted most, it was Edgewater's Tari Phillips' defensive play on Pinkney that enabled the Lady Eagles to come away with a 40-39 victory.

Phillips gave Edgewater a 40-39 lead when she made a layup with 42 seconds left and the 5-10 junior center blocked a shot by Pinkney with one second left to preserve the victory for the Eagles.

Edgewater, which improved to 9-2, has beaten Winter Park (3-7) three times this season and all three games went down to the wire.

For the third straight game, Winter Park came out like gangbusters in the first quarter and took a 12-3 lead going into the second. Pinkney scored 10 of her game-high 28 points in the first period.

Edgewater came back strong in the second quarter and, behind the play of Rena Harrison and Jackie Sealer, trimmed the Lady Wildcats' lead to one, 20-19, at the half.

Edgewater took a 23-21 lead early in the second half but Winter Park came back with eight straight points to take a 29-23 with four minutes left in the third quarter. But the Lady Eagles outscored the Wildcats, 7-2, to pull within one, 31-30, going into the final period.

Schicker Kicks 2 As Silver Hawks Trim Lake Mary

By Sam Cook

ORLANDO — Jeff Schicker booted two goals and keeper Jeff Spraker stopped a penalty kick in the second half as the Lake Howell Silver Hawks posted a hard-fought 3-2 victory over the Lake Mary Rams in the fifth place game of the Pizza Hut Tournament Saturday at Bishop Moore High School.

In the title game, defending 3A state champion Tarpon Springs nipped Miami Killian, 4-3. Bishop Moore and Tim Fall settled for fourth place when they dropped a 3-0 decision to Clearwater Central Catholic.

"We got about as much out of our team as we could," said Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle. "Schicker was just too fast for us."

The Rams started sluggishly despite scoring first when Tom Misuraca beat the keeper to his left for a 1-0 penalty kick goal. Lake Howell then took over and built a 2-1 halftime lead on goals by Eric Reesman and Schicker.

Soccer

The Silver Hawks, 9-1-1, peppered Lake Mary keeper Greg Griffing with 18 shots compared to the Rams two. "We did a much better job of attacking in the second half," said McCorkle.

The Rams outshot Lake Howell, 10-8, in the final 40 minutes, but couldn't find the net enough to upset the talented Silver Hawks. Schicker, who made the all-tournament team along with teammate Jim Morrissey, scored four minutes into the second half to give the Silver Hawks a 3-1 lead.

"That was the killer," said McCorkle. "We tied to get the momentum the second half but that early score hurt us."

Sixteen minutes later, Jerry Meyers kicked in Lake Mary's second goal to trim margin to one score. A penalty kick later in the half by Mike O'Reilly, however, was thwarted by Spraker and the Hawks pulled out the Lake Mary's Eric Zimmerman also made the all-tournament team as did Lake Brantley's Mo Moghaddam and Bishop Moore's Fall, who is from Sanford. Tom Gamble and Bill Pattides, both of Tarpon Springs, were the offensive and defensive MVP's, respectively.

Lake Mary, 9-4, returns to action Friday at Lyman at 8 p.m. A match between the Lady Rams and Lady Greyhounds begins at 6 p.m. while the junior varsities kick off the card at 4 p.m.

Steelers Have Last Laugh

Pittsburgh Offensive Line Leads Way Past Broncos

DENVER (UPI) — As the victorious Pittsburgh Steelers hustled off the field, hundreds of surly Denver Bronco fans showered them with some unkind comments about their families and accused them of doing things that are illegal in most states.

Terry Long, the shortest and heaviest member of a crushing Pittsburgh offensive line, raised a tape-wrapped fist to Sunday's angry throng and emitted a hearty laugh.

For the Steelers, and especially Long and the other offensive linemen, it was the last laugh.

"They came out and moved our front seven guys around pretty well," admitted veteran Bronco linebacker Tom Jackson, who played against the great Pittsburgh lines of the mid-70s that carried the Steelers to their run of Super Bowl championships.

"They took advantage of the opportunities when they got them, just like all those Super Bowl teams. They simply did a good job of blocking us today. They ran the traps and the draws and they did it as well as any Pittsburgh team has done it in the past."

The result was Pittsburgh's 24-17 playoff victory and a berth in next week's AFC championship game against the Miami Dolphins.

Denver had allowed an average of just slightly more than 100 yards per game on the ground this year en route to the AFC West championship.

But the Steelers ran up 169 yards on them, with Frank Pollard leading the attack with 99 yards on 16 carries and Walter Ambercrombie adding 75 more on 17 carries.

But it was the offensive line, led by 11-year veteran Mike Webster, that sent the Broncos packing for the winter. The 32-year-old, 250-pound Webster is surrounded on the front line by four giants, 255-pounders Tunch Ilkin, Pete Rostovsky and Craig Wolley, and the 5-foot-11, 272-pound Long, whose body was created in the likeness of an anvil.

AFC Playoffs

Together, the five did what no other team had done to the Broncos this year.

"We usually keep an offensive line off-balance and mixed up with linebacker stunts, blitzes and a lot of different looks," said 10-year veteran nose tackle Rubin Carter.

"But the Steelers turned the tables on us. They had us mixed up and off-balance."

Pittsburgh coach Chuck Noll said playing in the bombs-away AFC West hurt the Broncos in the playoff game.

The Steelers, champions of the AFC Central with a mediocre 9-7 record, now are one step away from the Super Bowl. And Webster said the offensive linemen know that step is not too high for them to climb over.

"We know we've got a tough task ahead against Miami and Danny Marino," he said. "But this game boosted our confidence so high that we know we can go down there and make it a tough football game."

"We've got to run the football against the Dolphins. We have to. And then we'll have to run it again two weeks later."

Not Your Average Bears, Chicago Rushes Past Redskins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — What propelled the Chicago Bears to their 23-19 NFC playoff upset victory over Washington at the Redskins' supposedly inviolable RFK Stadium?

"Moxie. Spirit. Desire. Guts."

Consider what Washington defensive end Charles Mann had to say Sunday after the Bears won the right to play in their first NFC championship game, against the 49ers next Sunday in San Francisco, and shattered the Redskins' streak of seven straight home playoff victories.

Mann had a brief encounter with the Bears' man-for-all-positions, Walter Payton, who rushed for 104 yards and threw what proved to be a game-winning, 19-yard halfback-option pass to Pat Dunsmore in the second quarter.

"I hit him on one play, and he got up and walked away while I got my bell rung," Mann said in amazement.

And so it went all game long.

"I don't know what the difference was out there today," said Chicago coach Mike Ditka. "Maybe it's like one coach said earlier in the week, that it would come down to who wanted it more."

After all, there were legitimate reasons for making the NFC East champion Redskins, 11-6, one-touchdown favorites.

The Redskins are rich in post-season

experience — this was their eighth trip to the playoffs in 14 seasons — and virtually unbeaten at home — at consistently sold-out RFK they have lost just three regular-season games and Sunday's playoff over the past 3 1/2 seasons.

The NFC Central champion Bears, meanwhile, were virtual playoff rookies: 35 members of the 49-man roster had never played in a post-season game.

Beside that, they had to start a sore-shouldered quarterback, Steve Fuller, who had started only a handful of regular-season games and who hadn't played at all since Dec. 3.

At the end of the first period, the Redskins were leading 3-0 and within 34 yards of another score. The Bears were in possession of the ball for only 2:59 of the first 15 minutes and had managed just 13 yards offense in seven plays.

"On the first series, we moved the ball well, and I was confident that we could move it all day," said Washington running back John Riggins, who was held to 50 yards on 21 carries. "Then they made some changes."

Two plays into the second quarter,

Redskins running back Joe Washington caught a four-yard pass from Joe Theismann and received a bone-rattling tackle by Todd Ball that knocked the ball out of his hands. Otis Wilson recovered, and six plays later the Bears tied the game with Bob Thomas' 34-yard field goal.

Ten minutes and three punts later, they took the lead for good on Payton's halfback option pass to Dunsmore.

Supposedly vulnerable to "big plays," the Bears stunned Washington 26 seconds into the third quarter, when Willie Gault turned a short pass from Steve Fuller into a breathtaking 75-yard touchdown play and a 17-3 lead.

Altamonte Champs: Put Both On Top Shelf

Before the curtain falls on what has been the greatest baseball year in Seminole County, it's time to decide which was the greater accomplishment: the Altamonte Seniors' world championship or the Altamonte Majors' United States championship.

On the surface, it appears simple. The Seniors' 14- and 15-year-old contingent beat Ping Tung, Taiwan, 10-7, to win the World Series. The Majors' 12-year-old squad lost to Seoul, South Korea, 6-2, to finish second in the World Series.

Isn't it better to be world champion than world runnerup? In most cases, yes. But in this one, second place was just as good. How? Why? Just two words—national television.

While the Seniors were carving their niche in a suburb of Gary, Ind., the Majors were showcased by Jim Palmer, Earl Weaver and Curt Gowdy worldwide. Any luster which was lost by not winning the world championship was squared by the worldwide exposure which these youngsters will cherish forever.

Regardless, both teams will share the top shelf as the Champions of 1984. Champions are bred of champions and the same is true of these two teams. Gene Letterio, who has been putting together winners for 15 years, engineered the climb to the mountain top for his Seniors. Jerrey Thurston, another sound baseball man, was the architect behind the Majors' success.

The teams and managers had several things in common. Letterio and Thurston both thrived on fundamentals. Both teams practiced drill after drill until they could do them in their sleep. Both had great power and great pitching. Cost was no object. It something was needed to help along the development, it was acquired.

Strategy-wise, the two differed. Let-terio, who was assisted by Jerry Lisle and Neal Harris, Sr., pretty much made all the decisions. Thurston, who believes in "the more the better" theory, relied on Greg Ebbert (pitching), Jim Barfield (hitting and infield) and Rudy Callahan (outfield). Statistician Doug Hiser also threw in his two cents once in awhile.

Both plans worked perfectly. The 15-year-olds repeated Letterio's tournament knowledge while the 12-year-olds were just happy to be there and would run through walls for their coaching contingent.

There were some differences, too. The 12-year-olds, due mainly to their young age and a real push for together by Thurston, were more close-knit. They also had probably the greatest group of Little League parents ever assembled. These people never questioned a thing and let the coaches run the show. All made the trip to Williamsport. The Seniors' parents were a smaller more vocal group but were just as supportive.

The Seniors, due mainly to their maturity and adversity they encountered, travelled in different groups. They weren't as close-knit socially but probably appreciate it more now and have put a larger premium on just what they did accomplish.

Despite the differences, when these two teams took the field, they were as tight as Siamese Twins. Every move was orchestrated and every hustle directed toward one end—a championship.

For the Altamonte Springs Little League to produce two champions in one year, indeed, is incredible. Behind-the-scenes efforts of president Jim Hovis and former president John Strot were important. It was the first time two teams ever played in the World Series from the same league.

Sam Cook
Sports Editor

Throw in the Juniors (13-year-old) world runnersup two years ago and you have quite a trifecta.

The Seniors' quest was remarkable because they overcame the infamous "Altamonte 7" ruling in which they almost lost seven starters due to a minor rules infraction due to playing American Legion Baseball.

Standouts Mike Schmit, Shane Letterio, Ryan Lisle and Neal Harris were declared ineligible then reinstated. Dan Beaty, Anthony Laszale and Mark Coffey had to wait a little longer, until after the district tournament before they were reinstated.

Luckily, too, since Beaty, Laszale and Coffey played integral parts as the Seniors marched through the various preliminary tournaments. Altamonte Springs attorney Gerald Rutberg and Altamonte Springs Recreation Director Bill James flew to Williamsport to make a special plea for the final Altamonte 3. They were heard and along with some urging by District 14 Administrator Don Crawford, the 3 were finally reinstated.

But the roots of the Seniors' championship grew long before this climactic 1984 when all of the Johnny-Come-Latelies of the media jumped on the bandwagon. As some of us who have followed the program for years know, two near misses probably had as much to do with the final jewel as this year's preparation.

Once, when they were 12-year-olds, and again, when they were 13-year-olds. Letterio's juggernauts were within a whisker of beating Belmont Heights and earning a probable trip to the World Series. Both times, the ball bounced wrongly and Altamonte settled for second best. Belmont placed second in the world as 12-year-olds and won it all as 13-year-olds.

Those two disheartening trips back from Plant City and Rockledge only stoked the competitive flames of Schmit, Letterio, Lisle, Harris, Beaty and Bruce Carlson—longtime Letterio troopers. Two victories over Belmont en route to the title only made the champagne that much better.

Schmit, of course, was the key. Maybe one of the greatest Little Leaguers to ever put on a uniform, he is definitely a "gamer." He posted a 10-0 record in postseason play this year and you'd need a calculator to add up what he's done in Little League Baseball throughout the years.

It seemed every time the Seniors needed a home run to get them going or a clutch effort on the mound, the 15-year-old right-hander did the job. Laszale, a year younger, is out of the same mold. Once given a chance to pitch, he came through with several stellar efforts.

Letterio, a machine-like infielder, was the most complete player on the team. There wasn't anything he couldn't do offensively or defensively. Lisle was the leadoff man and catcher. His aggressive style set the example for the rest. Harris was the ace of the bullpen. He came on in the championship game and put out the fire with a near-perfect two innings.

When the hitting talents of Eddie Taubensee, Coffey, Beaty (a couple of clutch homers), Bill Henley (fine RBI in one game), Randy Green, Sean Flaherty and the defensive skills of Carlson, T.J. Sutton and Gib Lundquist were parlayed, it was no wonder that Letterio could call them together that one, final time in Indiana and ask, "Is there any team anywhere left to beat?"

Finally, Gene, there wasn't. Unlike the Seniors, who thrived on winning the close game and bouncing back from the losers' bracket, the Majors bludgeoned teams to death with their awesome hitting, aggressive baserunning and superb pitching.

They won 16 straight before losing the heartbreaker to South Korea. The pitching staff was impeccable. Jimmy Musselwhite proved early on that he was the ace but Aaron Iarolota, Chris Radcliff, Jerry Thurston and Jason Varitek also provided the depth a team needs to take the Williamsport ride.

Varitek was the inspirational leader behind the plate and at shortstop. He provided the spark and kept everyone on their toes. Danny Albert and Greg James were the cards. They kept the others loose with their antics. Jamie Wallace and Jeff Conklin were steady performers.

The bench was sturdy, too, with Skip Diehl, Curt Carlson, Steve Wasula, Chris Martino and Todd Heiser providing the moral support necessary. Thurston preached togetherness from the beginning and he received it every inch of the way.

Radcliff, a left-handed whiz who does all things well, made the World Series his own personal showcase with a lustrous hitting show which included a homer in the final game.

Yes, it was quite a year for baseball in Seminole County. But it wouldn't be fair to pick one over the other. Just make room for two champions on the trophy case and give them equal billing.

IN BRIEF

Lineup Changes Spur Hoosiers Past Florida In Cage Classic

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A couple of lineup changes produced two inspired performances and led to No. 10 Indiana's third championship in the third Hoosier Classic basketball tournament.

Indiana coach Bobby Knight, very unhappy with his team's play in an uninspired 77-72 win over Miami of Ohio in the first round Saturday, put sophomore Todd Meier and senior Dan Dakich in the starting lineup against Florida Sunday. Dakich scored a career-high 23 points, pulled down 10 rebounds and handed out seven assists, and Meier played a solid all-around game as Indiana whipped the previously unbeaten Gators, 80-63, in the championship game.

Steve Alford led the 8-2 Hoosiers with 27 points and was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

Everett Expects Virginia Blitz

ATLANTA (UPI) — Purdue quarterback Jim Everett expects Virginia to come at him with a blitz to try to stop the Bollemaier passing attack in today's 17th annual Peach Bowl.

"I am sure they are going to have a way of attacking our passing game," said Everett, a 6-foot-5, 211-pound junior who set a school record by throwing for 3,003 yards this season.

"We're expecting a good blitz from Virginia. That's one strategy we're expecting to see."

Virginia coach George Welsh is concerned about Everett, who led the Big Ten in total offense and is ranked fifth nationally.

"That's the guy," said Welsh. "They'll probably call 40 passes and wear down our defensive linemen."

White Needs To Be At His Best

HOUSTON (UPI) — Quarterback Kevin White feels the West Virginia offense has to be the determining factor in the Bluebonnet Bowl against Texas Christian, which means he will have to be at his best.

Both teams went through their final practice sessions Sunday and are ready for the 26th Bluebonnet Bowl matching the 7-4 Mountaineers and 8-3 Horned Frogs. Kickoff is at 8 p.m. EST Monday.

"I've seen what this team can do when they're very high emotionally," he said. "There's no doubt that's when we play our best. If we get the big plays, I believe we can win. The offense has to go out and score a lot of points. We can't sit and count on the defense to win it."

White has carried his part of the load this year. He didn't play the season opener but entered in the second quarter and guided the Mountaineers to a 30-6 win over Louisville.

Evans had a chance to pull further ahead. But Benton blocked a shot by Hightower and drove in for a layup with 1:54 left that tied the score at 43-43.

Evans went to Williams again and the 5-9 senior center dropped in another two points for a 45-43 lead with 1:33 remaining. Seminole couldn't tie it on its next trip down the floor but Evans still couldn't add to its lead as Anderson came up with a steal and fed Smith for a layup that tied it at 45-45 with 52 seconds left.

The Lady Trojans then turned the ball over with 45 seconds left and Seminole went into its four corners offense looking for the last shot. The Tribe ran the clock down to 10 seconds when Hightower almost came up with a steal against Benton but the Seminole senior whipped the ball to Smith who fired a hail Mary layup. The shot was no good with three seconds left and the game went into overtime.

Evans won the tip to start the three minute overtime period, but Benton's steal gave the ball to Seminole which immediately went into the four corners. Benton worked her way inside for a layup with 2:25 left in OT as Seminole took a 47-45 lead.

Williams came back to tie it at 47-47 when she hit a pair of free throws with 2:00 left. Seminole then looked inside to Anika Mitchell but she was called for an offensive foul and Evans took over possession with 1:40 remaining. Hightower's shot was off the mark with 1:20 left and Mitchell grabbed the rebound for Seminole and was fouled. But Mitchell missed the front end of a one and one and Williams ripped down the rebound.

Evans then took the lead with 25 seconds left when Williams grabbed an offensive rebound after a missed shot by Gloria King and swished in her followup for a 49-47 lead.

Seminole turned the ball over with 22 seconds left, however, Smith came right back with the steal. As she drove to the hoop Hightower went high in the air to applying the defense and Smith couldn't hit the layup. Seminole then sent Hightower to the line with an intentional foul and 14 seconds left. She made the first shot for a 50-47 Evans lead.

Hightower missed the second free throw but Seminole couldn't even get off a shot as it committed another turnover with five seconds left and Evans sealed the win when Patrice Mack made one of two free throws with four seconds remaining.

The final score ended up 53-47 because Seminole's Beatrice Smith was called for two technical fouls and ejected from the floor for fighting with Williams who was also whistled for a technical.

Williams was named the Most Valuable Player of the tournament as she broke the records for most points in three games (81), most field goals in one game (15) and most field goals in three games (35).

"We let her (Williams) get the ball too easily," Merthie said. "We tried to get her outside to shake her confidence but she was still able to get the ball inside. Evans was just too tough for us inside."

Along with her 28 points, Williams also grabbed 19 rebounds. Elmore added 11 points for the Lady Trojans who improved to 10-2 with the win.

Benton led the way for Seminole with 18 points while Smith had an outstanding game with 17. Smith also had seven steals and Benton had six. Anderson added six points and nine rebounds.

Benton, Smith and Anderson were all named to the all-tournament team, which was selected by tournament director Don Jonas and the media. It was the third year in a row on the team for Benton. The Seminole senior was only half speed for the title game because of an aggravated hamstring pull she suffered Friday night.

Seminole returns to Five Star Conference action Thursday when its hosts second-ranked (4A) DeLand. The Tribe and Lake Brantley are tied for the conference lead, both with 3-0 records. DeLand and Lake Mary stand at 2-1 in the Five Star.

Shopping Habits Change In Britain

By Tim Robinson
(Editor's Note: Robinson, a British author and journalist, writes on current trends in Britain.)

LONDON — Napoleon called Britain "a nation of shopkeepers," and his observation held true until recently. But more and more, as this year's Christmas season revealed, the patterns of British retail trade are changing.

The quaint little family-run establishment, the local butcher and grocer depicted in the picture books, is being increasingly replaced by the supermarket. And, in that respect, Britain is beginning to resemble America.

Consistent with that trend, moreover, is the spread of the big department stores to suburbs throughout the country, where they operate in large shopping centers and malls much like those that blight the outskirts of every U.S. city.

The phenomenon should not be exaggerated. The affluent British still prefer the personal attention they receive from their neighborhood merchants, who are still a fixture in small towns and villages.

Indian, Pakistani and Cypriot shops are also popular in heavily populated urban areas, principally because their owners are open at all hours and keep their profit margins down because of low overheads.

But, as in the United States, the huge corporations are taking over, particularly in Britain's major cities, and their modern marketing techniques, discount prices and advertising are likely to squeeze out the small tradespeople.

An example of the trend is the development of Marks and Spencer, the British R.H. Macy. Founded early in the century as a London department store, it has joined with Tesco, a purveyor of cheap goods, to open branches in shopping centers around the country.

Another London department store, Harrods, which has traditionally catered to the well-to-do, is currently striving to attract the broader middle classes with television commercials and dazzling window displays.

These gigantic enterprises are benefiting in regions like Yorkshire from the coal miners' strike, which has been driving local shops into bankruptcy. But the future of the big chains — and retail commerce in general — will depend on changes of British law governing trade.

Increasing numbers of British own cars, which means that they are no longer limited to shopping locally. Thus they can drive to shopping centers. Moreover, they want to shop on weekends. Because of archaic regulations, however, trade is limited.

Under the present rules, which are almost incomprehensibly complicated, most stores are required to close on Sundays.

They can remain open until 8 o'clock in the evening during the week, an until 9 p.m. on one day.

The stores that are permitted to function on Sunday are subject to bizarre restrictions. As a result, their owners resort to ingenious devices to circumvent the law.

For instance, it is illegal for vegetables to be sold on Sundays, but nothing prevents the sale of wrapping paper. So one grocer, arraigned for selling carrots on Sunday, argued that he had sold the wrapper and given away the carrots as a free bonus.

Similarly, church bookstalls are prohibited from selling Bibles on Sunday. Yet it is possible to buy a Bible at a railway station bookstore any day of the week, including Sunday.

Retailers constantly break the law, reckoning that their profits more than compensate for the fines they pay. But trade associations and consumer groups are beginning to protest against the irrational statutes, arguing that they are stupid, ineffective and unenforceable.

The labor unions, though, support the law requiring that stores close on Sundays. Their attitude dates back a century when they fought to get the statute passed as a measure to protect retail employees against exploitation.

Small family shopkeepers also favor stringent limits on retail operations. They fear, with considerable justification, that the big chains with their huge staffs will put them out of business if allowed to stay open on Sundays.

But a special commission appointed by the government has recommended the abolition of the old law, and it seems to be only a matter of time before Britain's retail trade becomes a seven-day-a-week proposition.

The little shops are unlikely to disappear overnight, since they still appeal to many British. However, they will certainly fade away gradually, and so will much of picturesque Britain.

Don't Accept Hearing Change As Sign Of Age

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am having difficulty understanding speech sounds. Certain words sound mumbled, particularly with my right ear. My doctor says that I have a chronic low-grade hearing problem, and that this is nothing to worry about.

Recently, I received some hearing-aid literature through the mail that described my problem as a symptom of sensorineural deafness (nerve deafness). Are there specialists or researchers who specialize in nerve deafness?

DEAR READER — Indeed there are. You should be able to get a good evaluation from any competent ear, nose and throat physician and an audiologist. The physician probably will have an audiologist carefully test your hearing.

You probably have what is called poor speech discrimination. This happens because of a loss of the higher-frequency hearing mechanism. It occurs because of changes or degeneration in the nerve cells in the cochlea (the internal ear hearing organ) or the nerve to the brain. Many of these problems can be helped with a properly fitted hearing aid. Note carefully the words "properly fitted." Such cases need to have the high-frequency sounds amplified in comparison to the lower-frequency sounds. If you simply have an overall amplification, it can cause so much distortion that you will not be satisfied with the results.

Don't buy a hearing aid from an ad received through the mail. Do get your hearing checked by a specialist before getting a hearing aid. A number of hearing disorders can be improved without a hearing aid. Some types of hearing defects can be cured by surgery. Your hearing is too important to neglect. A mistake that is often made is to just accept changes as part of getting older. If you can take advantage of measures to keep your ears and eyes functioning well, it will greatly improve the quality of life in your later years.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 20-year-old woman. I had a child a year ago. Ever since then, I've lost weight drastically, although I eat constantly. My periods are always late and my cycle just isn't the way it was. I have a lot of other problems, such as leg aches, headaches and bad mood swings. I suspect a hormone imbalance. Could this be so?

DEAR READER — You could have a postpartum depression, but if you eat constantly as you say, you should gain weight rather than lose it. You may be right that it is a hormone problem. You need to see a doctor, and I suggest that you have your pituitary gland function checked.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
When the New Year comes in, it's traditional to hug and kiss your loved ones. If you want to remember old acquaintance, you can even squeeze your bridge opponent.

That would certainly explain the hesitant diamond discard on the second hand.

A third diamond was played from dummy and trumped in the South hand, declarer watching carefully to see what East would sluff. If East let a club go, declarer would play ace of clubs and ruff a club, then play ace of spades and ruff a spade, and ruff another club, making all of dummy's clubs good.

If East sluffed a spade, declarer would go the other route: ace of spades and ruff a spade, ace of clubs and ruff a club. Then ruffing one more spade would make the remaining spades in the South hand good. The key to making 12 tricks was to attack whichever black suit East unguarded first.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JANUARY 1, 1985
This coming year will be an active one for you socially. There is a chance you will become involved with two new groups who will each awaken fresh interests.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You could be rather lucky today in situations that contain elements of chance. However, don't use this as an excuse to take foolish gambles. The Matchmaker wheel reveals your compatibility to all signs, as well as shows you what signs you are best suited to romantically. To get yours, mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Simply being in the company of people with whom you have close personal bonds will add joy to your day. Spend your time with those you love.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Make it a point today to get in touch with friends you've been thinking about lately. You are as much on their minds as they are on yours.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Even though this is a holiday, opportunities may present themselves now that could be meaningful to you financially. Act upon them.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be especially attentive today if you are exposed to some type of inspirational message. What you learn could have a profound effect upon your affairs.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something fortuitous could develop for you today that may enable you to participate in a venture another already has going.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) People you're involved with today will be extremely appreciative of your cooperative gestures. Your actions can turn acquaintances into friends.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do what you can today to be of service to others. When you step in and shoulder burdens they can't manage, your deeds will be long remembered.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Although you won't intentionally be seeking acclaim, the spotlight will be on you wherever you go today. Let your presence light up the world.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Things will work out the way you hope today if you hang in there until the final score is tallied. There's a time when tenacity pays off.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You make a marvelous social director today, so if your friends are still in a party mood after last night, make arrangements to bring them all together.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. c. 21) This is one of those unusual days where you'll be the one who will ultimately benefit the most from things you do to try to help others.
