

BUSINESS HAS ALL SIGNS OF RENEWED LIFE

Statistical Figures And Confidence Are Both Disclosed As Having Improved

NEW YORK, July 5.—(A.P.)—Still far from prosperity levels, most lines of business enter the last half of the year in stronger positions both from the statistical standpoint and from the less tangible aspect of confidence.

Here's a bird's-eye view of progress taken from reports of the Conference of Statisticians in industry and other sources:

Public utilities—Despite agitation for rate cuts in many parts of the nation, increased sales of power seemed likely to improve earnings. Especially noteworthy is the fact that the increase in electric output has been in wholesale industrial power, indicating increased factory work.

Automobiles—New car registrations in May, 1933, in 11 states gained 40 per cent over registrations in May, 1932. Continued increase in retail sales indicate that the usual summer slump will be of minimum proportions.

Building and construction—Unusually gains in private building, an outgrowth from public construction, indicate private building is off to a start in its own right, forming a somewhat unexpected addition to the federal program.

Textiles—The biggest backlog at mills in May, 1933, Gross output at spinning mills in May was 15 per cent over the same month in 1932.

Woolens—Activity in the textile industry in May approximated 1932, while preliminary figures showed activity in June exceeding this year. Employment in woolen and worsted textiles advanced at a greater rate than in other branches.

Hides and furs—Prices of these staples have advanced more than in most lines. Hides production for May and June is expected to show gains over last year.

Food—Wholesale prices for the first half of year were lower than the same period last year, while in recent months were expected to improve the situation measurably, especially since current months are running ahead of last year.

Retail trade—Dollar value of department store sales increased more than elsewhere in May, and department store managers are predicting orders heavily.

Manufacturing—The number of manufacturing plants in May increased 1.5 per cent in May over the same month in 1932. The total number of plants in 1933 is 197,131.

Leaves—A small party of local residents who were aboard the five-storied "Oceana" returned to Sanford this morning at about 9:30 o'clock with the report of an enjoyable trip, which was marred only by the return voyage.

Efforts Made To Thwart Kidnaping Of Factor's Son

CHICAGO, July 5.—Efforts were made today to prevent the John Factor abduction from becoming a double kidnaping. It was learned that whenever Jerome Factor, 19-year-old son of the missing international speculator leaves his hotel headquarters for the home of his mother he is attended by two body guards. This has led to the suggestion that the kidnapers of the father may have found the former barber an unsatisfactory hostage and might attempt to exchange his son for him. The boy himself was kidnaped last spring but said he did not believe the same men are responsible for his father's abduction.

NATIONAL GUARD TROOPS CALLED TO QUELL RIOTING

Action Taken Following Disturbance At Convict Prison Camp

TAMPA, July 5.—National guard troops from Tampa were ordered to Brooksville last night to quell a prison riot after escape of five convicts Monday night. Informed remaining prisoners were refused to work and responded to commands by setting fire to sweat boxes.

Maj. T. Byrd Sparkman and Capt. Ray V. B. Rood, commanding a truck and accompanied by reports from Brooksville at 10 o'clock indicated order had been restored.

The trouble started at the camp located in the Toole Lake section, about eight miles southwest of Brooksville, after five convicts escaped from the camp Monday night. The entire camp was thrown in an uproar and the remaining 55 prisoners refused to obey orders yesterday.

Agitators in the camp taunted the guards and encouraged their companions to all on the ground and refuse to work. Most of them would not budge and when solitary confinement was threatened, a group of prisoners burned several sweat boxes.

Two of the fugitives were captured during the day but that did not curb the disorder. Sheriff Nell P. Law, of Hernando county, and two deputies, Nell Kinneer and S. S. Moody, augmented prison camp guards and succeeded in keeping peace during the day. Sheriff Charles B. Dean, of Citrus county, also helped patrol the camp.

The Toole Lake prison camp was established only about two weeks ago, the convicts being moved there from Homestead where they had been working on roads. No trouble had developed (Continued On Page Two)

QUIET FOURTH SPENT ON SHIP BY ROOSEVELT

President Enjoys His Last Day Of Vacation With Family In Quiet Observance

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt concluded his vacation at sea yesterday on the cool, quiet waters of Chesapeake bay, observing the anniversary of American independence at a family luncheon aboard the cruiser Indianapolis.

Refreshed and lanced by his two weeks on the ocean, Mr. Roosevelt arranged for a departure after sundown last night for the capital to take over the campaign for national recovery.

He noted attentively the reports from the dead-ended London economic conference throughout the day and appeared hopeful of progress there but his chief interest, nevertheless, was in the national back to work movement he has ordered to begin this month.

Louis M. Howe and Marvin H. McIntyre of his secretarial staff were with Mr. Roosevelt. Mrs. Roosevelt and several friends arrived at noon and set out for the Indianapolis aboard a submarine chaser to have luncheon with the President.

The choppy seas, which Monday almost prevented a cabinet meeting, had quieted yesterday and Mrs. Roosevelt started on the four-mile run to the Indianapolis in the gray of holiday visitors at the wharf.

Just before Mrs. Roosevelt and her guests boarded the submarine chaser the guns of the Indianapolis boomed the national salute of 48 guns at noon in observance of the Fourth of July.

With Mrs. Roosevelt were Miss Marguerite Lahand, personal secretary to the President, Miss Malvina Thompson, her personal secretary, and Miss Lorenz Hlicko, of New York.

Luncheon was served in the admiral's quarters on the Indianapolis which have been occupied by the President. The Indianapolis, newest of the warships of the American fleet, is to be the cruiser flagship and there is every likelihood that Mr. Roosevelt will use this trim fighting vessel for later trips he has in mind to Cuba, Puerto Rico, Panama and the Pacific coast.

Annapolis, one of America's oldest towns and the home of the naval academy, was the mecca for hundreds of holiday tourists who lined the docks to take a look through field glasses at the Indianapolis, anchored out in the bay.

America's Fourth of July festivity takes human toll

(By The Associated Press) America paid a greater price in loss of lives in the annual celebration of its independence, than it did in the initial stirrings of the revolution. It was revealed in a survey today which showed, however, a sharp decrease in fire-works fatalities.

A total of at least 185 persons perished during the holidays compared with a total loss of seven men at Lexington and 93 at Concord in April of 1775.

Fire-works fatalities totaled seven compared with 10 last year. Motor car mishaps killed 52. Fifty-eight died by other causes.

Reductions In Veterans' Pensions An Economical Move Revealed In Report

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(AP)—Upon cutting expenditures for veterans the Roosevelt administration has depended largely to reduce the cost of government, but Congress amended the legislation and lessened the severity of the cuts first ordered. Here in brief is the net result.

The appropriation for veterans during the fiscal year begun this month is $581,988,000. Last year it was $227,949,000. Between $30,000 and $200,000 extra among them—887,000 World War veterans who have become partially disabled since the war and cannot attribute their condition to service, have received their last government checks. Last year the latter group drew $83,000,000.

The veterans' administration is undertaking to re-rate 353,000 disabled veterans whose condition is attributable to war duty. The funds to pay them have been cut from $201,899,000 in 1933, to an estimated $118,272,000 for 1934. Of this group, 150,000 cases are "presumptive," meaning there is no evidence that war caused their troubles but laws have given them the "right to claim" so special reviewing boards will be set up to decide in each case whether the claim is to remain in force or (Continued On Page Two)

MAYO PROMISES RIGID ENFORCING OF ARSENIC LAW

Says Action Of Legislature Allowed Him No Other Course

WINTER HAVEN, July 5.—Strict enforcement of the arsenic spray law during the coming season was promised yesterday by Nathan Mayo, commissioner of agriculture, on a visit here after having attended a meeting of the newly organized Florida Grapefruit Shippers Association in Lakeland.

Mayo appeared at the meeting on invitation to explain his stand on enforcement of the arsenic law. The meeting was attended, also, by Gen. A. H. Blumling, secretary, who presided; J. A. Salvey, Winter Haven Senator; J. S. Taylor, Largo, and Mr. Fowler, of Lakeland.

"I want it plainly understood," Mayo said, "that the present legislation, is not changing a word or one iota of the arsenic law, save one only one course to follow—that of enforcing the present law which I shall do to the best of my ability and in the best of my belief." (Continued On Page Three)

Local Residents Win Pardon Board Pleas

Three residents of this county were successful in their pleadings before the State Pardon Board, according to reports received here today from Tallahassee.

Ray White, white youth who was sentenced to five years at Rialford after he was found guilty of manslaughter here in 1931, was granted a conditional pardon.

E. A. "Lennie" Hartley, white resident of Longwood, who was sentenced to three months in the county jail in 1931 for the unlawful possession of a still, was given a conditional pardon.

James Hall, negro, was paroled from the custody of his mother. He was sent up in 1924 and given 10 years at Rialford for robbery.

Board Of County Commissioners Has Regular Session On Monday Morning

The Board of County Commissioners met in regular session at the Court House Monday morning with all members present and a variety of matters presented them. The annual report of Alex R. Johnson and C. R. Dawson, county vocational agriculture workers, were read and accepted.

REPORT CALLS FOR BIG SLASH IN LIGHT RATES

General Reduction Of 30 Percent Recommended At Meeting Of Commissioners

A general reduction of approximately 30 percent of the present rates charged Sanford electric consumers by the Florida Power and Light Co., has been recommended by a special committee which had been appointed by the Sanford City Commission some weeks ago.

Reporting their findings at a meeting in the City Hall Monday night, the committee, composed of F. T. Williams, W. M. Haynes, F. L. Miller, George D. Bishop, and S. O. Shubolter, declared that "We find the rates now charged are excessive and not in keeping with the times, neither are they in line with rates charged in other localities."

The committee report was rendered by Mr. Williams, as chairman of the group. He stated that the committee had investigated conditions entering into the costs of manufacturing and distributing electrical service in other Florida cities, as well as cities in Georgia and neighboring states. The rates now in effect in these cities also were studied, he said.

The committee had therefore come to an agreement on certain schedules, including General Lighting, Combination, Cooking, Heating, and Refrigeration, small and large power rates, and the agreement is a recommendation that an approximate 30 percent general reduction be placed into effect. Mr. Williams stated that in the opinion of the committee, the rates recommended are reasonable and fair in view of general conditions.

During a discussion of his report it was brought out that the committee report calls for a considerable reduction in minimum charges, flat rates and guarantee, and that the proposed schedule will not permit the charging of the 10 percent penalty or discount which has been the subject of recent litigation with the power company.

Instead, the committee, under terms of the proposed schedule, must allow a discount of 10 percent when bills are paid by customers within 10 days of presentation.

S. R. Dighton, who had offered his services as associate counsel to F. R. Wilson in any matters involving the City's cooperation in suits against the power company, told the Commissioners that with the filing of the report, the next logical step is to have the new schedule of rates incorporated in an ordinance.

He suggested that he and Attorney Wilson be authorized to draft such an ordinance and present it at next Monday night's meeting of the Commission when the report in its final form could be carefully examined and discussed.

Mayor V. A. Speer was in agreement with this suggestion, expressing himself as of the opinion that any discussion of rates should be postponed until they were in the form of an ordinance containing provisions of enforcement and other matters not necessary by the committee.

Commissioner T. L. Dumas first suggested that the ordinance not be drawn until the Commissioners had been given sufficient time to study the proposed rates, but he waived his objection when it was told that copies of the schedule would be presented each of the Commissioners today.

Upon motion of Commissioner J. J. Lehman, the committee report was accepted and Attorney Wilson and Dighton were directed to draft the new ordinance and present it at the next meeting of the Commission.

Commissioner Dumas suggested, and it was unanimously accepted that the "Spendid and meritorious work of this committee" be made a matter of record and included in the next report.

Mrs. Harkey Catches 100-Pound Jew Fish

It's generally a man who claims honors as a fisherman, but today a woman, Mrs. Bill Harkey, of Sanford, makes the claim of being the first person to land a Jew fish in Canaveral Harbor this season.

Mrs. Harkey one of several persons in a party which spent the day in the harbor on last Friday, landed a 100-pound Jew fish, while 12, other members of the party hooked Jew fish which were estimated as weighing between 300 and 400 pounds each. Mrs. Harkey hooked the fish and after a short struggle, landed it. Others in the party were Bill Harkey, Mrs. Lourine Beal, Verne Messinger, E. Kinlaw, and Miss Mattie Campbell of Oviedo.

Impression Prevails In American Quarters That Conference Will Adjourn

LONDON, July 5.—(A.P.)—The United States delegation now favors a recess of the World's Economic Conference, an American spokesman said this evening. The announcement was made after a meeting of Secretary of State Hays, Assistant Secretary of State Moley, and Senator Pittman with British Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, chairman of the conference, and other conference leaders. It was expected that the steering committee meeting tomorrow will recommend a recess of the recessive in a plenary session.

LONDON, July 5.—(A.P.)—After American delegation had been in telephonic conversation with Washington today the impression prevailed in important American quarters that the major part of the economic conference would recess this week leaving committees to carry on the technical work, possibly at Geneva.

In some delegation quarters it is believed the movement for recess could be blocked in a plenary session of the parley, but there is no point in trying to continue full the conference until the world monetary situation became easier.

The steering committee is scheduled to meet tomorrow morning to set on the proposal to adjourn, submitted yesterday by Honorable Charles, prime minister of Holland.

The American delegation last night received another message from Roosevelt. They are opposed to total adjournment.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today talked over the telephone with Chairman Hull of the American delegation at London conference in endeavor to keep parley at work, but he stood firm against immediate stabilization of American currency. After the conversation the President is said to have every confidence that conference will proceed. He will not comment on the conversation preferring to let actions at London speak for themselves.

At the White House it was explained quite emphatically why the President will not consider immediate stabilization of the dollar, as demanded by the gold bloc nations. In an official source that knows, he is described as feeling that any stabilization agreement would require that the United States establish a stabilization fund and morally bind this country to export gold if necessary to back up the agreement. He is not ready to export gold or enter any agreement morally obligating the country to export gold.

Ending of the conference in view of the intense bitterness aroused by the President's stabilization message Monday was proposed in a small steering committee meeting yesterday morning.

The large committee was called last evening to make a final recommendation of adjournment in the full conference but on the call of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, head of the American delegation, the large group was adjourned on the 10 A. M. Thursday.

"I move that we adjourn the steering committee until tomorrow morning," said Mr. Hull after the meeting, "but Mr. Chamberlain (Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer) got up and suggested one more day, so we adjourned until Thursday morning."

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

SEEK THINGS ABOVE: Set your affections on things above, not on things on the earth. Colossians 3:2.

ALL-NIGHT WAGON-LUNCH

On swivel chairs a comas twirl around,
A fearful thing of shadow shapes and night;
Here twisted faces look as if the ground
Has momentarily disgorged them back to light.
Each coffee cup invites with heaven's brew
Inferno's men who come to claim the boon;
One slinks in late from some dark rendezvous,
Another, furtive-eyed, arrives to, soon.
A wastrel moon turns pale against the sky;
The knives of dawn begin to scar the East;
Red whips attack the nerves of those who try
To gather respite from a hurried feast;
Collapsing, they dread a day
Conspiring 'tween nothing out of doors
Thee, O sun.
By Elias Lieberman

thing which is worrying the professors right now is that it may not be necessary to do some of their theories into practice.

thing Mr. Roosevelt's point of view is that currency stabilization is a thing that should be done long ago.

The last remnant of respectability in Hollywood has disappeared. No matter what evils one might have cited in the past as indicative of depravity in the movie colony, no matter what escapades might lead the stars into the gutter, one always encountered the argument that "Well, there's a young man and a young woman, and Mary," and up to now there has been no rebuttal to this argument. But now it seems even they are going to be divorced. It is apparent that no one can remain in the movies and stay married long.

There's another thing about these world conferences which doesn't lend much to their chances of success. Unless a speaker happens to be a member of their own delegation the members probably won't be able to understand what he is saying. Some of the Americans, for instance, can understand a little of what the English delegates are saying, but not a word of the German, French, or any of the rest. Most of the Germans can understand a little French and the French a little German, but none of them can understand either Chinese or Japanese. Imagine what Tallahassee would be like if the representatives from each county spoke a different language.

Among the reasons advanced for the belief in the unconstitutionality of the Fitch bill are included opinions that the title of the act embraces more than one subject, that the real subject of the act is not included in the title, that the title is misleading and deceptive, and the act violates constitutional requirements for uniform and equal form of taxation, that the act grants undue discrimination in favor of certain taxpayers, that the act exempts from taxation certain lands not entitled to exemption, that the act violates constitutional provisions which guarantee equal protection under the law, that it deprives schools of certain monies by allowing payment of back taxes with bonds instead of money. There are others but that would be enough to show that there is something wrong with the law.

Ourself, First, Last, And Always

In the joint statement of President Roosevelt and Premier Macdonald issued a few months ago immediately after their conference in Washington, it was stated that "the World Economic Conference MUST succeed." Later in his address to the nations of the world, President Roosevelt said, "The World Economic Conference will meet soon and must come to its conclusions quickly. The world cannot await deliberations long drawn out. The Conference must establish order in place of the present chaos by a stabilization of currencies, by freeing the flow of world trade and by international action to raise price levels. It must, in short, supplement individual domestic programs for economic recovery by wise and colorful international action."

"Common sense points out," our President continued, "that if any strong nation refuses to join with genuine sincerity in these concerted efforts for political and economic peace, the one at Geneva and the other at London, progress can be obstructed and ultimately blocked. In such event, the civilized world, seeking both forms of peace, will know where the responsibility for failure lies. I urge that no nation assume such a responsibility, and that all the nations joined in these great conferences translate their professed policies into action. This is the only way to political and economic peace."

There is a marked contrast between the lofty ideals and purposes expressed in these lines and the conduct of the American delegation in London, and in fact, between them and the statements of the President himself during the past few days. What once was "The World Economic Conference MUST succeed," now becomes "The World Economic Conference MUST fail." Nothing must be allowed to interfere with the domestic program of the American nation. Since the first statement was issued prices in this country have started rising. Security values have added over $16,000,000,000 to the purchasing power of this country. We are on the upgrade.

So the World Economic Conference is junked. Secretary Hull, chairman of the delegation, vigorous opponent of the Hawley-Smoot tariff law, and consistent advocate of low tariffs, proposed in the opening days of the conference that all nations reduce their tariffs horizontally by ten percent. That was a reasonable proposal. It was by no means sufficient, but it was good for a starter, and it was fair to all nations alike. But the words were scarcely out of Chairman Hull's mouth before other members of the American delegation rejected his proposal. They announced to the press, "That's just his idea. The American delegation would never stand for such a thing as that!"

A few days later, Senator Pittman, ardent lover of old silver, brought forth a proposal for the stabilization of currencies, including an early return to the international gold standard supplemented by a silver lining, should a nation so desire. That was a reasonable recommendation, being a leading item of the Conference's Agenda. The silver clause, of course, was just a sop to the silver interests, but could have done little real harm, and the proposal, as a whole, seemed quite in harmony with President Roosevelt's own words, that "the Conference must establish order in the place of the present chaos by a stabilization of currencies."

But Senator Pittman had scarcely taken his seat before President Moley of the President's "Brain Trust" was on his way to Europe bringing with him a new-fangled idea for a "managed currency." Now a managed currency is simply one which is based on paper money having no gold or other metallic backing and is managed by the individual governments to suit the conveniences of the moment. If prices are too low, the government just issues more paper and makes them higher. If prices are too high, the government would be supposed to contract its currency and thus make them lower. Now whatever may be said in favor of such a beautiful theory, the fact remains that currencies so managed could not possibly be stable with respect to each other.

So the Conference which "must succeed," must inevitably fail. The President, though he may yet change his mind, appears to have made his choice. The way of America lies not with international co-operation, but with economic isolation. We are not so much interested in the welfare of other peoples, as we are in the welfare of our own. We believe that America can prosper in the midst of an impoverished world. We have some experiments with which we will try to show that American ingenuity and American resources can defy the natural economic laws of the universe and get away with it.

Where others have failed, America may succeed.

Missed Again

The first hurricane of the season has made its circuitous way from a point where it was first reported on June 27 in the extreme southeastern Caribbean Sea across the vast expanse of water, after inflicting property damage of about $3,000,000 on the island of Trinidad, curving from the Grand Cayman area and racing across Pinar del Rio Province in Western Cuba, heading towards Florida and then veering from this state to head towards Texas and Louisiana.

The course of the storm was plotted daily by the Weather Bureau and as accurate reports as possible were issued to warn ships and lands lying in its path. The progress of a hurricane, possessing as it does great destructive potentialities, is a matter of no little interest to those who might be affected.

It is for this reason that newspapers give considerable space to stories relating to these tropical disturbances. In the first place the public should be kept informed so as to be prepared for any contingency. In the second place reading about a storm that is as fickle as a Hollywood actress has much appeal.

Because so much publicity is given to hurricanes, a condition made possible by the increased facilities of the Weather Bureau and newspapers, many people are heard to say that "we didn't need to have so many storms." The fact is that we had just as many storms as we do now, except that ten or fifteen years ago only the hurricanes which actually hit some center of population were ever reported. Scores of them, which zigzagged around at sea, were never heard about.

Far from being disapproving of the prominence which newspapers give to hurricanes, people should be very thankful, for they can have the assurance that they will not be caught unprepared and will have plenty of time to do whatever is necessary to protect one's life and property.

U. S. Delegation In London Now Favors Recess Of Parley

"Yes, that's our position," when asked directly if the Americans were opposed to adjournment.

"We really don't know what to expect," he added when inquiry was made if he expected further instructions from Washington.

"We moved adjournment of the steering committee to give all parties more time to consider the matter."

By mid-day, important quarters in virtually all delegations, including the American, felt nothing could save the great world parley, but during the afternoon a vigorous movement was started in the United States group to get the large steering committee meeting postponed before it could act on adjournment.

At the earlier meeting of the small steering committee representatives of the European gold bloc nations proposed adjournment in view of the President's refusal of stabilization demands. A deadlock resulted when American and British opposition arose.

Dr. Hendryk Collin, Dutch premier, offered the motion, acting on behalf of France, Belgium, Holland, Italy, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Switzerland.

Many delegates left yesterday evening's meeting in a gloomy frame of mind, expressing the opinion that it was a coup de grace merely to put it over to Thursday.

Several Americans were anything but hopeful, although others declared they must try to carry on the work, recalling Mr. Roosevelt's assertion that the conference "must not fail."

Reliable sources close to the American group said some United States delegates were willing to let the great Congress of Nations die, feeling continuance hopeless, but others insisted a collapse must be averted until the entire situation is laid before the President.

Meantime continental delegations were bitter and unmerciful. An indication of the state of tension on the continent, bank withdrawals started in Czechoslovakia merely because that country did not sign the gold bloc declaration of determination to maintain stable currency while her neighbor, Poland did.

The Czechoslovakian delegation complained that they were not invited to join in the declaration and a statement was issued asserting that nation's currency had been free from fluctuation since 1923 and no change was contemplated. The American delegation still long exposed to the weather and the lenses rather large, but unbroken.

Byron Squires is spending the summer at Fellsmere on the East Coast.

Ed Cameron, of Moore's Station, is riding a young new horse. Mrs. J. C. Hillworth, of Cameron City, spent Sunday with Mrs. W. W. Dresser while the men of the household went off on a long hike.

The Social Service Department of the Missionary Society of the First Methodist Church entertained at the home of Mrs. M. A. Miot on the Heights Tuesday afternoon. Among those taking part on the program, which was based on the nation's celebration, were: Mrs. L. H. Phillips, Miss Mary Gaines, and Miss Mabel Cowan. The hostess, assisted by Miss Maud Miot and Miss Ruth Roberts, served delicious refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. James McComb have arrived home from New York where they have been for the past two months and have taken comfortable quarters at the Perkins home on Magnolia Avenue. Mr. McComb is the editor of the Florida Grower News and is making himself famous among the growers for his fearless fight in their behalf.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Frank and Master Richard have gone to Sarasota where Mr. Frank has accepted a position with the Sarasota-Palmer Co. and will have charge of their immense garden project.

Burton Perkins will leave on Sunday for his old home in Virginia where he will spend several weeks recuperating for the benefit of his shattered health.

James and Owen Higgins have returned home for the summer vacation. They have been attending school in Baltimore.

While some delegates insisted this meant that the resolution of Senator Key Pittman for return to a modified gold standard must be withdrawn, the senator said he had no instructions to do so and he guessed "some people got excited."

At the small steering committee meeting Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Walter Runciman, chairman of the British board of trade, and James M. Cox, of the American group were opposed to the adjournment idea, with the British premier exercising to the utmost his famed powers of conciliation.

Reductions In Vet Pensions As Saving Shown In Report

In re-arranging those definitely of the service-connected class, and the remaining presumptives, new schedules of disability percentage and payment go into effect. A man judged 10 percent disabled will get $9 a month or up, depending on conditions. If 100 percent disabled, from $90 up, the ratings running in multiples of 10. Previously they ran 10, 25, 50, 75, and 100 percent. For the service-connected the re-rating is to be effective from July 1, and will be accomplished as quickly as possible. They are expected to be reduced an average of 18 percent.

As for presumptive cases, until Oct. 31, or until an earlier board decision, each man will be cut 25 percent. After determination, those remaining on the rolls are expected to get, on the average, 18 percent less than up to this year.

Officials here, however, expressed no surprise at the outbreak, saying there was some 50 or 60 white prisoners at the camp, described as "a collection of bad actors."

Prison bureau attaches also said that every year, after the announcement of the pardon board's action on clemency pleas, there is "always some sort of trouble" among those whose pleas were turned down.

It was explained however that there was no report of the Brookville trouble made to the bureau last night and it was known there if the current disturbance was caused by this type of prisoners.

Heretofore, any former soldier falling ill could go to a government hospital. That is no longer possible. The veterans' hospitals will care only for those suffering disabilities which originated in service plus all they can of the others who are destitute.

The 6014 emergency retired officers receiving payments aggregating $11,000,000 in 1933 will be reduced this month to approximately 2500 for whom $3,000,000 is allotted.

My reason for liking Luckies is strictly personal

After all—since I smoke quite a number of cigarettes each day—don't you think it's just as well that I lean in the right direction? Perhaps you'd call my reason for liking "Toasting" the assurance of purity it gives me—for Luckies come in rather close personal contact with me, you know. Just knowing that each puff of Lucky smoke I draw in is pure—it makes the assurance of fragrant toasted tobacco that much greater. Certainly, purity never hurt anyone! And besides — "Luckies Please!"

Chairman Fletcher, of the banking investigating committee, which resumes hearings Thursday, already has predicted new proposals would be made to plug up leaks in the income tax laws, and possibly strengthen the securities act, provided supervision of stock and bond pools and control of speculation.

Other committees on both sides of the capital are scrutinizing, or will do so, the tax question, bank subsidies, the handling of bankruptcy cases by courts, racketeering, conditions on the Mississippi flood control project, relief for municipalities which have defaulted on their loans, and revision of the civil service laws, recently catapulted into the spotlight by patronage controversies.

By far, the judiciary committees of both houses will be the busiest during the adjournment. The Senate judiciary subcommittee are investigating the bankruptcy question from both the federal court administrative and insolvent city angles, as well as the delay by the Hoover justice department in presenting Joseph W. Hartman for alleged falsification of records of the New York bank leaving his name.

The subcommittee on bankruptcy subcommittee will investigate the handling of bankruptcies and equity receiverships by the courts in New York and Chicago, and impeachment charges against Federal Judge James A. L. Well of Massachusetts.

Senate Finance and House ways and means committees are also busy on proposed change in the tax laws, while the Senate committee are looking into the rubber and changes of unfair treatment of negroes on Mississippi flood control labor camps.

A special Senate committee had an investigation on the job with public business to be held later. It is expected to be the policy of the committee to get all and every part of transportation. A House committee later on will attempt to find out what's wrong, if anything, with Uncle Sam's merit system "move".

COMMITTEES OF CONGRESS WORK ON LEGISLATION

Getting Set For Resumption Of Activities At Fall Term

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—A dozen committees of the Senate and the House are already at work in preparation for the resumption of activities in the fall to round out new legislation for the first regular Roosevelt Congress.

Despite that the extra session swept the administration state clean of all major bills, leaders are certain there will be plenty of material to start off the January meeting.

Of utmost importance, in the opinion of Congressional chieftains, is the Senate's current and job-making legislation on stock and bond banking and foreign loan transactions.

Chairman Fletcher, of the banking investigating committee, which resumes hearings Thursday, already has predicted new proposals would be made to plug up leaks in the income tax laws, and possibly strengthen the securities act, provided supervision of stock and bond pools and control of speculation.

Other committees on both sides of the capital are scrutinizing, or will do so, the tax question, bank subsidies, the handling of bankruptcy cases by courts, racketeering, conditions on the Mississippi flood control project, relief for municipalities which have defaulted on their loans, and revision of the civil service laws, recently catapulted into the spotlight by patronage controversies.

Mayor Promises Rigid Enforcing Of Arsenic Law

Our depleted finances will permit. "Our inspection department was cut 12 percent in appropriations this year, but we shall do our utmost to maintain the inspection work at as high a standard as heretofore. The inspection will be resumed Sept. 1."

Mayor declared reports of the die arsenic by grocers and shippers this year had been exaggerated, as not more than 1 percent of folk county owners had been guilty of spraying with it, and one of the most pronounced offenders in the past has not sprayed a tree this year.

The commissioner said 110 groves have been found to have been sprayed, representing only eight percent, most of whom are new offenders. He said most of the former offenders are returning from violating the law, although still declaring themselves to be in favor of the use of arsenic.

The entire inspection crew is now in Polk county and will complete a thorough check of that county, Mayo declared. Arsenated groves are confined to portions of Polk and Highlands, and small groves of Hillsborough and Lake counties, the commissioner said.

Charles H. Russell, assistant and battery, charged with assault and battery against David Lee Jackson, arrested last week against Fannie Mae Warren, and intoxication against Willie Hart, were ordered to appear in court.

The case of Oliver Robinson, charged with reckless driving was referred to court.

Russell Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wallace, of this city, has returned from Chester, S. C. where he spent about eight months attending school.
