Cardinal lays off employees

SANFORD — Cardinal Industries, Inc. announced a corporate layoff of nearly 10 percent of its 12,544 employees late yesterday, including some in its Sanford plant.

The number of Sanford Cardinal employees affected was not available this morning, but corporate spokesman Robin Hepler said less than 1,000 people nationally would be laid-off or shifted to other Cardinal jobs as a result of a massive reorganization of the 34-year-old Columbus, Ohio-based company.

Hepler said the Tax Reform Act of 1986, which removed tax shelters making Cardinal's apartments profitable, led to the need to shift to more profitable enterprises such as motels, student housing and retirement villages.

Hepler said the corporation could re-hire any displaced or laid-off employees by the end of the year, when the reorganization is completed. She said the corporation began the shift several months ago.

Lotto worth $20 million

TALLAHASSEE — State lottery ticket sales have set a record for the second day in a row, and officials say the buying fever has boosted this week's Lotto jackpot to an estimated $20 million.

"Today, through 3 p.m. we sold $704,351 in tickets," Lottery Department spokesman Ed George said Tuesday, adding he expected ticket sales to top $1 million before the day ended because most tickets are bought later in the day.

"The jackpot has been bumped to $20 million" because of the booming ticket sales, George said.

He said total Lotto sales for Tuesday last week were $548,339. Totals for Monday showed $472,000 in tickets purchased, compared with $449,000 the preceding Monday.

George also said the "Cash 3" game sales also climbed because of expanded interest in the games.

Trade bill goes to Senate today

WASHINGTON — A trade reform bill derailed once by President Reagan's veto headed for almost certain final approval in the Senate today despite threats posed by a battery of Republican amendments.

With the House having cleared the legislation on a 376-45 vote last month, Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia and Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas joined forces in an effort to kill about 15 amendments and assure final passage by 6 p.m. EDT.

Under a complex agreement worked out by Byrd and Dole, however, adoption of any of the 15 amendments would nullify the evening approval time and would open the bill to any and all other amendments.

Olympic gymnastic trials today

SALT LAKE CITY — The final competition to determine the U.S. Olympic gymnastic team begins Wednesday night with Dan Hayden and Phoebe Mills leading their respective divisions.

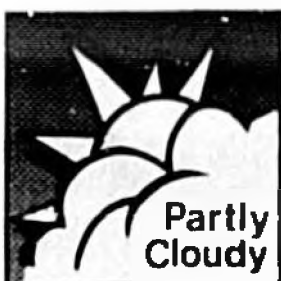

Brandi Johnson of Altamonte Springs will try to become the second athlete from that city to qualify for the 1988 Olympic Games in Seoul, South Korea. Track athlete Schowonda Williams has already qualified for the Olympics. Johnson, who trained for many years at Brown's Gymnastics in Altamonte, finished fifth in the recent U.S. Championships and hopes to make the top three in this week's competition.

Charter passes first test

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

CASSELBERRY — Seminole County Charter Advisory Committee members approved by a 10-2 vote Tuesday night their draft of a document bringing home rule to citizens of Seminole County.

Voting against the document were members Bob Webster and Harry Beckham, who often oppose county charters, saying they can be used to take powers away from cities.

Voting for the charter — a form of county constitution — were Committee Chairman Marilyn Crotty, Vice Chairman Barry Miller and members David McIntosh, Dick VanDerWeide, David Wickham, Nancy Warren, Susan Lipton, Jeff Davis, Alan Fickett and John Howell.

Not attending the final meeting were Gary Shader, Pete Knowles, Gene Duffy and Mickey Adams.

The action brought to a close a year of efforts by a group of residents favoring a charter for Seminole County, including Crotty and Shader.

"It feels good to end this phase," Crotty said. "But I'm looking forward to several months of hard work educating the voters on the charter."

Seminole County commissioners gave their nod of approval to the document last week, but reserved final opinions for review of the final document. The document will be presented to them by committee members Aug. 23 at 7 p.m.

Committee members also voted 10-2 to send county commissioners a letter urging them to pass their document without change. County commissioners have reserved the right to make changes in the wording before it is presented to voters Nov. 8. Crotty has said committee members may reverse their endorsement of the document if commissioners make substantial changes.

Charter experts have said no charter will pass without the committee's endorsement.

Committee members did make last-minute cleanups of the document. They eliminated earlier wording allowing cities to "opt in" to county ordinances they like, rather than the current state requirement requiring them to "opt out." The wording was added to pacify cities, fearful the charter could be used to gain powers over them.

All future changes to the charter must be approved by county voters, including changes. See Charter, Page 5A

Duplex damaged by fire

By WAYNE MIZE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Fire in a duplex at 1311 Pine Ave. late Tuesday morning caused extensive damage. No one was injured in the blaze.

City Fire Marshal Tom Martin is currently investigating the cause of the fire.

The entire front of the south duplex was fully engulfed by the fire and was being ventilated through the front and south side windows, according to firefighters.

Only the south side apartment of the duplex caught fire. The north side was not damaged.

The duplex was occupied by Evelena Fuller, of 26 William Clark Court, when the fire broke out. Fuller said she was asleep and was awakened by a smoke detector and ran out of the house through a rear door.

Owned by Creative Properties, the duplex was being rented by Leonard Jenkins, who was not home at the time of the fire.

There was fire damage to the kitchen, living room, hall and bathroom with heavy smoke and heat damage to the remainder of the structure, according to the fire department report.

Three fire engines responded to the fire at 11:53 a.m. and stayed on the scene until after 2 p.m.

County teachers not surprised by results of geography survey

By CAROL RUMSEY
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — America's low ranking on a recent survey of geographic knowledge comes as no surprise to Seminole County teachers and administrators.

American adults scored in the bottom third of the Gallup Poll conducted for the National Geographic Society, with 75 percent unable to locate the Persian Gulf.

Even more discouraging were the scores garnered by young Americans, ages 18-24, who finished dead last in the survey.

James Elliott, coordinator of social studies for Seminole County, acknowledges that geographic illiteracy is a problem, but one that the county is trying to address.

According to Elliott, children in kindergarten through fifth grade are exposed to basic map skills, including the four cardinal directions, the use of keys or legends, and recording data on a map by use of symbols. Elliott said fourth grade students go a step

Downtown businesses suffer water damage

By WAYNE MIZE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Many downtown businesses suffered damage when First Street flooded during a heavy rain storm Tuesday afternoon.

According to the Sanford Sewage & Treatment Plant, which keeps rainfall records, 5.3 inches of rain fell on Sanford Tuesday, most of it during a one-hour period between 3 and 4 p.m.

"We had water everywhere," said Bobbie Fallin, an employee of Touchton's Rexall Drug Store, 121 E. First St. "It was coming in the back door this time."

Ballon Magic, 108 E. First St., also reported water damage to merchandise and carpet. "We had to go out and buy a wet-vac to get it out after the rain stopped," said owner Linda Sapp. "We couldn't move things fast enough to save them."

According to Sapp, waves from passing automobiles pushed water under the two doors to the business.

"It has always been a problem and it's getting worse," said Sapp. "This time it was halfway back in the shop. It comes in right under the doors."

Hampton Garden restaurant, 112 E. First St., also sustained water damage.

"It was all over," said owner Erik Strydhorst. "I was lucky to have a stone floor so it was easy enough to get it out."

The flooding of First Street during rains was discussed at See Rain, Page 5A

Work on mall could begin by late 1989

By WAYNE MIZE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Construction is expected to begin late next year on the enclosed two-level shopping mall in northwest unincorporated Seminole County that will be surrounded by three hotels and office and retail centers.

The project will be on a 268-acre site between State Road 46 and County Road 46A with Interstate 4 bordering on the east side, it was announced at a press conference Tuesday. The entire project could take more than 6 years to complete, with the mall phase expected to be completed in 1991.

"We feel we have the strongest location," said Jerry Gershman, executive vice president for Simon & Associates. "We researched the greater Orlando area for over a year."

The project will ultimately feature an enclosed shopping mall of one million square feet, 600 hotel rooms, 800,000 square feet of office space and 1,000,000 square feet of service center. An additional 510,000 square feet of space will be filled by a peripheral retail community center.

In comparison, the Altamonte Springs Mall with its 165 retail shops and four major department stores has a total of 1.2 million square feet on 81 acres.

Locally, reaction to the announcement was mixed.

"It's like all tremendous projects like this," said Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith. "It's probably a mixed blessing. As with the positive aspects, it will also have all the negatives, with all the crowds. However, I generally look forward to something like this with optimism rather than pessimism."

Dave Farr, executive director of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, said city and county governments will need to move quickly in order to help expedite the project.

"I think that the business sector and the chamber are excited about that kind of development," said Farr. "But, we need to be pressuring our county and city governments to begin soon serious plans and actions to get some of the support systems ready for the project. For instance, the 46A interchange at 1-4."

POLICE BRIEFS

Suspected burglar captured

SANFORD — Raymond O'Neil Curry, 21, of 57 William Clark Court, was arrested by Sanford police who reportedly identified him as a burglary suspect. Curry wasn't booked for burglary, but is accused of threatening to kill the arresting officer. He was booked for threatening a witness, loitering and prowling and breach of the peace.

He was arrested at 10:04 a.m. Sunday outside the 7-Eleven on First Street.

Police reported Curry matched the description of a burglary suspect they were seeking as they responded to a burglary in progress call at 616 W. First St. When Curry saw police, he reportedly tried to flee but was captured and allegedly became loud and abusive toward police.

Curry remains jailed in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Two arrested after chase

OVIDEO — Ovidio police who picked up a Winter Park police pursuit of a car as it entered Ovidio report arresting the two occupants of the car after it was stopped.

One of the suspects, James Oliver Walwyn, 23, of Orlando, was arrested on a warrant for failing to pay a fine. His car was searched and cocaine and a machete reportedly found. Complaints of possession of cocaine and a concealed weapon were added against Walwyn. His companion, Ronald Cleus Julien, 21, of Orlando, was also accused of possession of cocaine.

The arrests were made at about 8 p.m. Tuesday at a convenience store on County Road 419.

Both are free on $2,000 bond each to appear in court Aug. 29.

Accused of carrying gun

SANFORD — Police arrested a Sanford man Tuesday night on complaints of carrying a concealed weapon and possession of an open alcohol container in a public place.

Jesse Lee Alloway, 48, of 128 Academy Ave. was approached by police as he allegedly held an open can of beer in the parking lot at Sunshine Liquor, U.S. Highway 17-92 at 11:22 p.m. A search allegedly revealed a .25-caliber pistol in his pocket.

Alloway is free on $1,000 bond to appear in court Aug. 29.

Driving under the influence

SANFORD — Arrested on a complaint of driving under the influence was James Andrew Folkes, 29, of 1605 W. 25th St. #605, who was arrested at 2:13 a.m. today after he was allegedly found passed out in a car stopped at a green light on 25th Street at Airport Boulevard.

Service station robbed

LONGWOOD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies are investigating the Tuesday robbery of the Chevron station at 2005 W. State Road 434, Longwood.

The clerk told deputies the robber entered the store, brandished a gun and threatened to kill her when she hesitated when he demanded cash. The clerk handed over an unreported amount of money.

The robber order her to lie on the floor as he fled at about 5:35 a.m.

Burglaries and thefts reported

SANFORD — Sheriff's deputies have the name of a suspect who may have stolen a diamond ring valued at $6,375 from the house of Judy Baker, of 5619 Nicholson Drive, Winter Park, on Sunday or Monday.

Deane Ketterer, of 2540 Howell Branch Road #101, Winter Park, reported to sheriff's deputies her 1980 Plymouth valued at $2,500 was stolen Monday or Tuesday.

The $1,500 boat of Mohammad Zohoumt, 214 Sorrento Circle, Winter Park, was stolen from that location Tuesday, a sheriff's report said.

Two tires, wheels and hubcaps with a combined value of $400 were stolen Tuesday from the car of Kim K. Hunter, of Broken Arrow, Okla., while it was parked at the Day's Inn, 4650 W. State Road 46, Sanford.

Sheriff's deputies report a $150 video recorder and $5 were stolen Tuesday from Rocking Horse Child Care, 398 Douglas Ave., Altamonte Springs.

A $100 radar detector was stolen Sunday or Monday from the car of David A. Larochele, of 424 Woodpark Way, Longwood, a sheriff's report said.

The purse of Ling Williams, of 609 Lake Mobile Drive, Altamonte Springs, was stolen from her house Tuesday. Williams told sheriff's deputies she recovered the purse, but $17, a $128 money order and $136 in food stamps were missing. Sheriff's deputies have the name of a possible suspect.

Bigfoot cousin exists

United Press International

BELJING (UPI) — China has its own version of the abominable snowman.

Scientists say an analysis of hair reportedly belonging to the half-man, half-ape has proven the existence of the legendary "Wildman" that roams south-western forests. Shanghai's Wen Hui Bao newspaper said Tuesday.

A team of 100 Chinese researchers headed for the mountain forests of central Hubei Province in June in an effort to solve the 3,000-year-old mystery of the rare and advanced primate whom numerous peasants in the area claimed to have seen.

Peasant witnesses speak of a man-beast at least 7 feet tall with reddish hair and long, swinging arms. A number have claimed they heard the "Wildman" emit a laugh that sounded almost human.

Nicknamed "Fei Fei" by Chinese scientists, the creature is cousin to North America's bigfoot and the legendary abominable snowman of the Himalayas.

In 1985, an exhibition in the southern city of Guangzhou featured plaster footprints, hair samples and droppings alleged to be from the "Wildman."

Man shot 4 times in alley

By WAYNE MIZE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Police are investigating the shooting of a 37-year-old man, who was found with four gunshot wounds in an alley next to a liquor store early Tuesday evening.

According to police reports, Marcel Auguste, of 806 Pecan Ave., was found by police in an alley on the west side of Sunshine Liquors, 1610 W. 13th St.

Auguste was shot four times, twice in the chest on the right and left side, once in the left arm and once in the left leg.

Fire department rescue personnel responded to the scene and assisted Rural/Metro ambulance service, which transported Auguste to the Central Florida Regional Hospital.

Auguste was listed in serious condition in intensive care this morning.

According to the police report, Auguste told police he was shot after being chased by two or three men, who shot him in front of the liquor store.

"Details are sketchy right now," said Police Chief Steven Harriett. "He (Auguste) told us he can identify the person that shot him. We are following leads and continuing the investigation."

Harriett said Auguste did not know why the men were chasing him.

Police records show that Auguste was arrested on July 30 on 13th Street for riding a bicycle at night without lights. According to the police report, Auguste rode away from officer and was also cited with resisting arrest without violence.

Felon withdraws from race

By J. Mark Barfield
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A candidate for the Republican District 34 committeeman seat has agreed under oath not to accept nomination if elected because he is a convicted felon and unable to vote and therefore unable to run for elected office.

Allan James Robertson, II, swore under oath at the Seminole County Supervisor of Elections Office Tuesday he would not accept the nomination of the office if elected.

In a letter to the supervisor's office delivered Tuesday, he said he thought he had his rights to vote and hold elected office when he swore under oath on July 15 he was a qualified voter. A spokesman with the Governor's Clemency Office in Tallahassee said Tuesday Robertson's rights have not been restored following his conviction last year for violating probation.

Sandy Goard, Seminole County elections supervisor, said she does not have authority from the state to verify candidates' information given under oath. She said she received an anonymous telephone call earlier this week questioning Robertson's ability to run for elected office, which she confirmed. Robertson then called her to tell her he would not accept nomination.

Eric Prutsman, an attorney with the state Division of Elections in Tallahassee, said the state penalty for giving false information under oath a third degree felony, is five years in prison, a $5,000 fine or both.

Robinson was sentenced to one year in the Seminole County jail on June 24, 1987 for violating his 42-month probation he received for stealing $200 from a friend in August 1984.

On June 14, 1985 Robertson was sentenced to 42 months probation after he pled guilty to a Oct. 19, 1984 charge he stole $200 from a friend in Casselberry. When he failed to return the money when confronted by the victim, the victim pressed charges.

Seminole Circuit Judge Dominick Salti withheld adjudication, instead sentencing him to the probation and requiring him to pay fees, fines and $300 in restitution to the victim. He was also required to attend drug rehabilitation programs.

By November 21, 1985, a warrant was issued for violation of probation because Robertson had not paid any funds Salti required him to pay and had not regularly attended the drug rehabilitation program. He also moved without notifying his probation officer.

Robertson was arrested in Bradenton on April 10, 1987 by Manatee County deputies.

Police chief loses auto, clothing allowance

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — The city commission, going against the advice of City Administrator Gene DeMarie, has voted 3-2 to eliminate Police Chief Greg Manning's auto allowance and stripped Manning and Capt. Terry Baker of their clothing allowance.

The city commission had provided Lt. Richard Beal, of the Altamonte Springs Police partment with a car and a clothing allowance during his 60-day appointment as Longwood's acting police chief when Chief Greg Manning was suspended with pay.

Commissioner Ted Poelking's original motion at Monday night's meeting called for eliminating from the budget the clothing allowance for all of the non-uniform police officers. Manning said, "If the commission has a problem with the clothing allowance they can take mine and Captain Baker's allowance, but not the detectives. They are five hardworking men and it would create a greater morale problem than we already have."

Poelking changed his motion to allow the detectives to retain their clothing allowances. Commissioners Hank Hardy and Lynette Dennis supported the motion.

DeMarie asked that the commission allow him the flexibility to make the determination on

Boy escapes from custody

LONGWOOD — A Longwood boy being transported from the Seminole County Juvenile Detention Center in Sanford escaped from his caretaker about 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The 16-year-old ran away when he came out of a restroom at the Chevron station State road 434 at Interstate 4, Longwood, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

The woman who had custody of the boy, Diane Anderson, 40, of Bradenton, told sheriff's deputies she had a court order to move the boy to a juvenile jail in Bradenton. She said he ran into a nearby neighborhood and she lost sight of him, the report said.

Confused waterers

By United Press International

OKLAHOMA CITY — Let's see now, watering is permitted at odd-numbered addresses on odd-numbered days, and at even-numbered addresses on even-numbered days.

That means you get to water every other day, right?

Wrong. Not when Saturday is the 31st and Monday is the 1st — two odd-numbered days in a row.

Among those who got caught in violation of Oklahoma City's odd-even watering restrictions Monday were the folks at 260 North Walker — an even-numbered address that happens to be City Hall.

DeMarie said he has a problem with eliminating the car allowance for the police chief to use his own car.

Nuclear power is a solution

The world's atmospheric scientists have done a subtle job in recent weeks of convincing us that the "greenhouse effect" explains the current heat wave. Judging by some conflicts in their evidence, we not only have a drought of water, we may have a drought of clear thinking. However a few facts are evident: There is a drought which has adversely affected our Panhandle, and devastated areas of the midwest. And — heat records have been set in dozens of cities.

Greenhouse theorists assert that man has been artificially altering the earth's atmosphere since the Industrial Revolution began in the mid-18th century by burning enormous quantities of carbon dioxide and other combustible gases in the atmosphere. The sun's rays freely penetrate the layer, but infrared rays that bounce back from the earth's surface are blocked by the atmosphere's gaseous barrier thus producing the so-called greenhouse effect.

James Hansen, the atmospheric scientist who heads NASA's Goddard Institute, heightened the debate when he told a Senate committee he is "99 percent sure" the theory is right. Some 300 scientists from 48 countries met recently in Toronto under the auspices of the Canadian government to repeat the litany. They noted that the globe's four warmest years have occurred since 1980 and called for a 20 percent reduction in fossil fuel use by the year 2005.

If that reduction is a valid goal, the problem is magnified by other scientific projections that fossil fuel use will double by the year 2000. It is possible that researchers will have succeeded in the long term goal of producing power by nuclear fusion by the year 2010, but for now nuclear power by fission methods of energy production is the only alternative. This now accounts for about 35 percent of the power production in Florida. Yet many of the scientists who warn of the greenhouse effect also voice platitudes and cliches concerning the dangers of nuclear power. It is irresponsible to deplore the methods used to produce 35 percent, while warning against the method used to produce more than 60 percent. Yes, our state uses fossil fuels to produce more than half of its power.

This is the power which led to the population explosion we have experienced during the past three decades. Growth in Central Florida is attributed to many causes, leading some to refer to our area as the "land of the mouse built." But it is more reasonable to conclude that the introduction of residential air-conditioning on a large scale in the 1950s, and automobiles in the 1960s, was the catalyst which turned the area from an "summer oven to a near paradise.

Definite threats to our planet exist in both the greenhouse effect potential and the "auspicious hole in the ozone layer. However, people have been commenting on the weather for years — it's either getting colder or hotter. Scientists such as Dr. Hansen need to offer responsible solutions along with their warnings. Research must continue and, if history is indeed an accurate projection of the future, solutions will be found. However, until an alternative is developed, increased use of nuclear power seems destined for our state.

Winner decided in Democratic oratory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Probably because there wasn't much else to get excited about, people left the Democratic National Convention talking about who gave the best speech in Atlanta.

Some said it was Jesse Jackson, who certainly did the best job of rousing the crowd with one of his patented preacher-politician excursions in creative rhetoric.

Somewhere in all those words, Jackson explained his campaign for the presidential nomination, defined his constituency in terms of his own life and delivered a "fight on" challenge to his supporters that some felt had echoes of Martin Luther King's "I have a dream" speech.

When he finished, some thought Jackson had given the Mario Cuomo speech of 1988 — an address that would overshadow all other words spoken in Atlanta, just as the New York governor's keynote dominated the 1984 convention and blunted the start of Walter Mondale's campaign.

Others had a sneaky feeling that they had heard a Jackson anthology, a patchwork quilt, to use a favorite Jackson metaphor, of the best of Jesse, 1988.

Indeed, reporter Tom Ferraro, who traveled with Jackson on the three-day bus trip from Chicago to Atlanta, said afterwards, "I liked the speech. I liked it in Chicago. I liked it in Indianapolis. I liked it in Louisville. I liked it in Nashville and I liked it in Atlanta."

As it happened, Michael Dukakis did not have to worry about a Jesse shadow. He trumped Jackson's dramatic departure through the crowd on the convention floor by making his entrance through the crowd on the convention floor.

Then he delivered an acceptance speech that floored all who had heard him try to give a speech during the long campaign for the nomination. Dukakis, whose rhetorical exertions had earned him the nicknames "Snorba the Greek" and "Zorba the Projected like a bowman's arrows one after another into the bullseye.

Clerk," suddenly discovered both passion and assertiveness in his big speech to the convention.

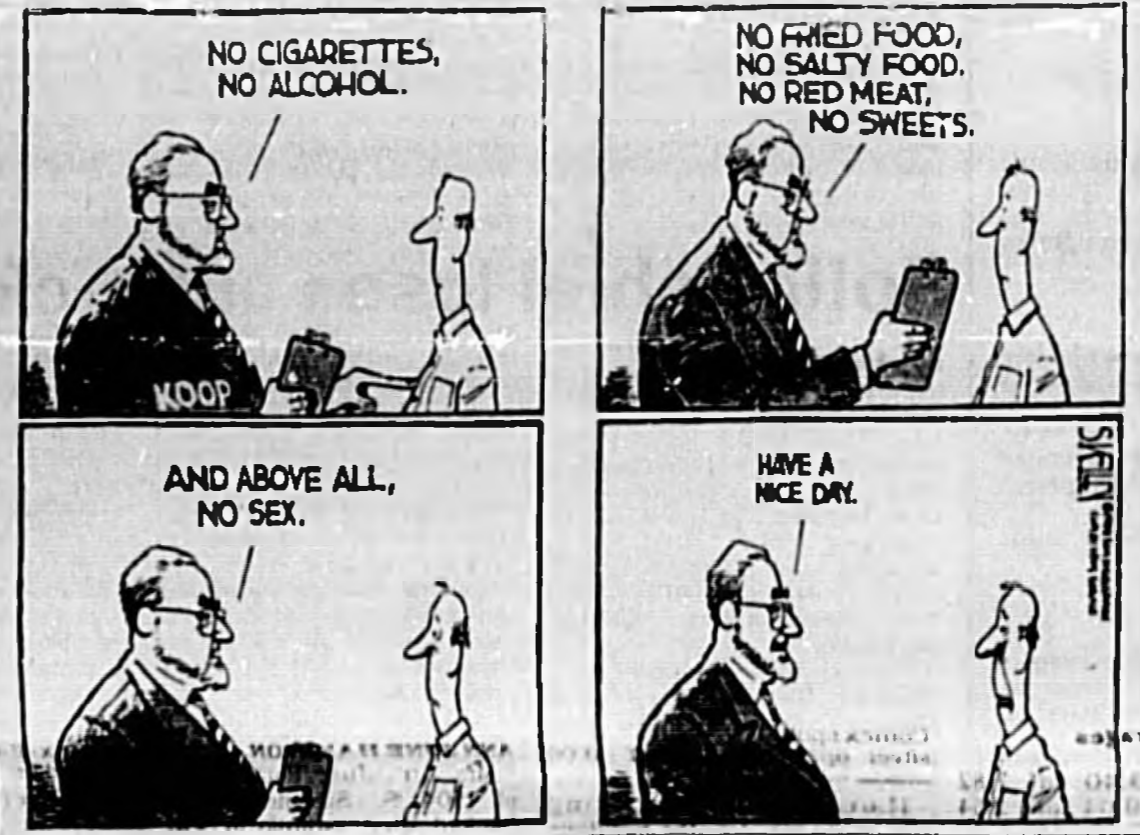

He had some sentences that like Jimmy Carter's, seemed to end without benefit of a period, but for the most part he made the most of well-written lines and, as when he declared, "Tell them the Reagan era is over," gave his audience a number of places to vent its excitement with wild applause.

Apart from telling crooks in government that they should not expect pardons from him, Dukakis had few specifics in his speech, but after all that is what got Mondale into trouble four years ago.

They rolled Professor Barbara Jordan onto the rostrum Thursday night and she seconded the nomination of Lloyd Bentsen for vice president with a speech of gem-like brevity, clarity and authority.

The ideas expressed were anything but simple, but the words were plain vanilla English, delivered with an enunciation as crisp as keystrokes through a fresh typewriter ribbon and projected like a bowman's arrows one after another into the bullseye of a distant target.

And so the winner was Barbara Jordan.

Scrutiny reveals weirdness

WASHINGTON—The canons of the Ancient and Honorable Order of Political Scribes require that the "T.S. Treatment" be accorded to any newly nominated presidential candidate. T.S. stands for Tough Scrutiny.

Michael Dukakis, having enjoyed a few days' press honeymoon since his coronation in Atlanta and having been ordered to stand inspection, is, as the ancient rituals prescribe, hereby found wanting. Specifically, the Ancient and Honorable have caucused and concluded that his recreational habits are in disrepute.

On a scale of A to F, the Massachusetts governor's idea of fun-in-the-sun grades out at W-for weird. This was amply demonstrated on his last pre-convention swing, which included a stop in Phoenix. He arrived from Texarkana early in the afternoon, when the temperature was a tasteful 108 degrees.

As all the same passengers on his chartered jet scurried for the shelter of the air-conditioned terminal to await the arrival of buses, Dukakis called out to Jack Weeks, the handsome, curly haired Welshman who good-naturedly shepherds us wayward pressmen through the daily vagaries of the campaign schedule. Weeks dutifully produced two gloves and a baseball, and there on the tarmac, with its surface temperature just below the boiling point, the governor loosened up his arm and got the kinks out of his back by tossing a couple hundred 90-foot pegs to Weeks.

Now, I realize that my beloved Cubs do the same thing in nearby Mesa many an afternoon. But they take spring training in March, not July; and they get paid for it. This was Dukakis' idea of fun. Local television cameras recorded the scene and a prominent Arizona Democrat whose name sounds something like "spruce habits" was appalled at the political damage Dukakis had done himself. "It wasn't going to be easy to carry this state," he said, "but if they see our guy doesn't know enough to come in out of the sun..."

If this were a momentary aberration on Dukakis' part, the T.S. Squad might let it pass. But the nominee has an almost daily recreational habit which cannot be overlooked in a man just one step from the White House. It is called "heavy hands walking" or "power walking," or insanity, and the implications of this disgusting practice are almost too gross for a family newspaper.

The sport, if such it be, requires strapping on a 3-pound weight to each wrist, and striding off at a brisk pace, with arms swinging, for the better part of an hour. Supposedly, it gives the old heart muscle more of a workout in less time—something the highly programmed Dukakis craves. It also makes your head ache just to watch it.

There is strong scientific evidence to suggest that Dukakis would probably be as tall as George Bush if he were not constantly dragging himself down toward dwarfism with those hand-weights. But it's his life to ruin as he wishes. What is truly unconscionable is that he has inflicted this wretched habit on his aide-de-camp, Nick Mitropoulos.

Mitropoulos is a lovely human being, perhaps the only Harvard administrator in history with enough savvy to cross the river from Cambridge and survive as the governor's patronage boss on Beacon Hill.

Mitropoulos is a man of notably fine spirit to whom God has shown favor by awarding him more than his share of flesh. It is not enough for Dukakis that Nick has left his brand-new, beautiful bride behind in Boston, Massachusetts to join the presidential marathon. No, early in the morning or late at night, Dukakis inflicts his notorious "heavy hands" fixation on his faithful friend, and takes him along for a power walk.

It has taken a toll on Mitropoulos. Though his eyes are still bright and his tongue quick with a quip, he naps at every opportunity during the day, and if you look closely, as sundown approaches, you can see a look of growing anxiety: Will Dukakis want to walk after tonight's last rally?

Of late, the governor's fixation has taken a more ominous turn, toward "press power walking." Twice in Atlanta, he enlisted reporters from the Boston Globe or the New York Times for speed-walking interviews: heavy hands for him; heavy breathing for them.

Those of us of a certain age know where this leads. It is all to reminiscent of Lyndon Johnson's penchant for punishing the press by perambulating while he spoke. When Johnson was particularly vexed at the White House press corps, he would take off at a fast clip around the White House lawn, with reporters in hot pursuit.

Doing laps with Lyndon was no laugh. He talked to no one in particular, and deliberately swallowed his words. Often, when the walk was finished, it took reporters an hour to reconstruct what he may have said.

Guy doesn't know enough to come in out of the sun.

GOP split is possible

WASHINGTON — The Republican Convention in New Orleans is predicted to be a mind-numbing experience for a fun-loving city. But the Republicans are showing signs of division that could cause sparks at the convention.

The line between moderate and conservative party factions is becoming sharper as the Reagan era closes. Vice President George Bush falls on the moderate side of that line and the arch-conservatives, who enjoyed a heyday with Reagan, see their influence waning.

While most party conservatives we interviewed agree the convention will lack excitement, some hint that the convention has the potential to become combative. If that happens, it would be a political role reversal. The Democrats have been known in the past for their past contrary conventions, but they managed to sit the differences this year in a love-fest for nominee Michael Dukakis and runner-up Jesse Jackson.

Serving as the prime butt under the saddle of the conservatives is the man chosen to deliver the keynote speech — Gov. Thomas Kean of New Jersey. Kean is pro-choice on abortion. Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., has already voiced his objections over the selection of Kean because of the abortion issue. A spokesman for Kean told our associate, Scott Sleek, that the governor is open to other points of view and that his detractors should be open to his opinions.

Open-mindedness aside, the Republicans may have been asking for trouble by picking Kean to start their convention.

"I can't think of a worse person to pick," Washington political consultant Craig Shirley told us. "Tom Kean has nothing in common with middle America or the mainstream of the Republican Party."

The moderate wing also may have taken steps to clip the conservative stronghold before the convention. It was rumored that Sen. Jesse Helms was closed out of the platform committee. But a spokesman for Helms said the ultra-conservative senator from North Carolina will not attend the convention because of previously scheduled minor surgery.

The conservatives don't need Helms around to remind them of the things they dislike about Bush. A typical tritant is Bush's endorsement of the presidential AIDS commission report, which opposed discrimination against AIDS patients in federal employment.

What serves as a natural source of disunity is Bush's choice of a running mate. If he picks Sen. Nancy Kassebaum of Kansas or Sen. John Heinz of Pennsylvania, he could further alienate the conservatives.

Former White House Chief of Staff Howard Baker has earned mixed reviews as another possible running mate. Many say he brings nothing to the ticket. His pro-choice leanings and his advocacy of the Panama Canal treaty in the 1970s are baggage the Republicans don't need.

At least two names are mentioned by conservatives as Bush's best options — Rep. Jack Kemp of New York and Rep. Henry Hyde of Illinois. Kemp is said to be a viable vice presidential pick for the same reason that Dukakis picked Lloyd Bentsen — opposites attract voters.

South Africa proposes cease-fire

GENEVA — South Africa said it has proposed an Aug. 10 cease-fire along the Namibian-Angolan border in U.S.-mediated talks with Angola and Cuba aimed at reaching a peace settlement for southwestern Africa.

As the three-day talks opened Tuesday in Geneva, South African Foreign Minister Roelof 'Pik' Botha announced in Pretoria that his country's delegation also had suggested Nov. 1 as a kickoff date for a U.N.-supervised election program leading to 1989 independence for Namibia. Namibia has been administered by Pretoria since 1915.

"This is based on a voluntary decision by the South African government to expedite and facilitate a resolution of this whole vexed and complex problem," Botha said.

IRA threatens more attacks

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — The Irish Republican Army warned civilians to stay away from British military installations during a new wave of bomb, gun and mine attacks on security forces that already has killed three people and wounded 33.

The IRA, which claimed responsibility for killing one British soldier and wounding nine in the bombing of an army barracks Monday in London, escalated the violence Tuesday with attacks that took two more lives and injured 24 people.

In Lisburn outside Belfast Tuesday, a bomb attached to the car of an off-duty police officer blew up, killing him instantly and wounding 18 people, including an infant and an 87-year-old woman.

A short distance away, police said a mob dragged an off-duty soldier from his car, then killed him with shots to his head and stomach while his wife watched.

Near Dungannon 50 miles west of Belfast, an army vehicle struck a land mine, slightly wounding six soldiers. Shots were fired at the soldiers as they climbed out of the damaged vehicle, police said.

Carlucci visits Soviet naval fleet

MOSCOW — Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci flew to the Crimea today to visit the Black Sea fleet and have lunch with President Andrei Gromyko at the site of the historic Yalta Conference.

Carlucci began the third day of his unprecedented visit by departing Moscow on an American Boeing jet for Simferopol. From there he will travel by car to Yalta and Livadia Palace to meet Gromyko for lunch.

Gromyko, 78, was the young Soviet ambassador to the United States when Soviet leader Josef Stalin met President Franklin Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill at Yalta in February 1945 to discuss a post-war settlement.

U.S. investigating slaying

JERUSALEM — Soldiers shot and killed a 19-year-old West Bank resident in the first slaying of a Palestinian in a week, and the U.S. Consulate said it is investigating the death of an elderly Palestinian-American.

Soldiers opened fire on Allah Al Din Al Akbar, 19, after they spotted him standing on a roof in Nablus Tuesday preparing to throw a large cinderblock on an army patrol, an army spokesman said. Akbar was hit in the abdomen and died.

At least 228 Palestinians and three Israelis have been killed since the Palestinian uprising against Israel's 21-year occupation of the West Bank and Gaza Strip began Dec. 9.

In Arab East Jerusalem, the U.S. Consulate said it was investigating Saturday's death of Palestinian-American Ribhi Harakat Kayed, 68.

Palestinian sources said Kayed died of a heart attack after soldiers entered his home in the West Bank village of Beitin and ordered him out into the street to erase nationalistic Palestinian slogans painted on nearby walls.

Bush says U.S. needs experienced global leadership

United Press International

Vice President George Bush, striking at a potential weak spot for White House rival Michael Dukakis, is portraying himself anew as a trained global leader running against a Democrat with little foreign policy experience and a number of bad ideas.

The Republican presidential candidate, taking advantage of fresh attention as the focus of the political season shifts to the GOP, used a speech in Chicago Tuesday to lay his foreign policy framework and, in the process, to contrast himself sharply with the Massachusetts governor.

Though he never mentioned Dukakis by name, Bush sent a series of unmistakable signals — attacking several of his opponent's policy positions and making it clear that he thinks the governor too inexperienced to lead the United States in the world arena.

"We have come to the end of the post-war era, a unique moment to determine America's place for the rest of the century," Bush told the Mid-America Committee, a business group that studies and exchanges foreign policy views.

"This new era demands from America and its elected officials firm, consistent and experienced leadership with a program that can shape the course of change," Bush said, contending that without proper guidance the United States could miss a major chance to change the world for the better.

"In the 1980s, we can move the world once again or we can be pushed along by it. It is not a time for timidity, hesitancy and on-the-job training," he added in a clear shot at Dukakis, who has little international experience.

In Boston, Dukakis was moving to counter other points of GOP criticism Tuesday, calling for state legislation to require Massachusetts judges to explain in writing when they decide to grant bail to convicted felons.

The three-term governor said his get-tough message on judicial guidelines was prompted by the case of Richard Gardner, 21, who allegedly attacked four children in Massachusetts and Rhode Island while free on $3,000 cash bail after pleading guilty June 2 to kidnapping and assaulting a 12-year-old boy.

"Once a person pleads guilty, the presumption of innocence is gone and at that point a judge ought to consider whether or not that person is a threat," Dukakis said.

He denied his proposal was made merely to avoid attacks of the sort that met his longtime defense of prison furloughs for first-degree murderers. Dukakis altered that policy after a barrage of criticism when a Massachusetts inmate on weekend leave fled to Maryland and terrorized a couple.

Despite such law enforcement incidents, Bush and his aides view Dukakis's lack of foreign policy experience as one of his softest points and hope to exploit it in the weeks ahead.

The tactic could backfire, when elected in 1980, Ronald Reagan was a former governor of California with little foreign policy experience and he since has said several times that he believes the best preparation for a president is to be governor of a state.

Jackson takes message to National Urban League

United Press International

DETROIT — Jesse Jackson, accepting an invitation George Bush rejected, chose to bring his support for the Democratic presidential ticket today to an audience full of those who support him: the National Urban League.

A speech by the civil rights advocate to the annual convention of the civil rights group was seen as a strong opportunity to rally minority leaders behind the ticket of Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis and Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

In a pre-convention warm-up Tuesday night, Jackson drew applause and laughter from 200 listeners when he not only praised the Democrats but criticized the Republicans and the man who will lead their White House battle this fall.

"George Bush at the hour of challenge, has never been there," Jackson said, noting the vice president's decision not to speak at the league's invitation.

Reviewing Bush's role in the Reagan administration, Jackson went on to declare, "When we need someone to fight a war on drugs, George Bush wasn't there. When we need someone to extend the Voting Rights Act, George Bush wasn't there. When we need someone to declare South Africa a terrorist state,

George Bush wasn't there.

In a real sense, George Bush has never been there.

Jackson, the fiery Chicago preacher who finished second in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, is describing himself as a volunteer "free agent" in the Dukakis-Bentsen campaign.

But Dukakis's failure to put him on the ticket and the handling of the announcement angered many Jackson backers, some of them among the 16,000 delegates at the Urban League convention.

Jackson's speech thus was seen as a chance to reassure supporters two days after they heard from Dukakis who made peace with Jackson at the Democratic National Convention and seems to be making progress with minorities.

In contrast to a cool reception he received at an NAACP convention last month in Washington, D.C., Dukakis drew enthusiastic applause from the Urban League Monday, particularly when he vowed to keep civil rights one of his priorities.

Jackson addressed fund-raisers for his Rainbow Coalition in Charlotte, N.C., and Detroit Tuesday, assuring supporters that Dukakis sees government as a tool for public service while Bush sees it as a tool for private interests.

Jackson's campaign swing started on an odd note Monday when he implied to a church gathering that Dukakis should win the election but never mentioned the candidate's name or that of his running mate.

Jackson explained to reporters Tuesday that he did not name Dukakis because it was a formal church setting and they preferred no political candidates' names be mentioned.

Later today, Jackson arranged to fly to Saginaw, Mich., to address a Baptist convention. He moves Saturday to Toledo, Ohio to speak to a farm convention.

Gephardt easily wins re-nomination for seventh term as representative

United Press International

Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri, who decided to seek re-election after failing in his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination, has easily won re-nomination for a seventh term in the House.

Missouri joined Kansas and Michigan in holding primary elections Tuesday in which eight of Missouri's nine congressmen sought re-election.

Gephardt and his colleagues faced only token or no opposition in their primaries, while the hot race in the Show Me State was for the 7th District seat being vacated by retiring Rep. Gene Taylor, R-Mo.

With 150 of 403 precincts reporting, Gephardt had more than 82 percent of the vote. He promised supporters in a statement from Washington, "I'm going to try to do in Congress what I wanted to do as president."

Thor Hearne, 27, a former Education Department lawyer, was leading five others in the Republican race for the right to face Gephardt. Hearne said he planned to fault the incumbent's absenteeism from Congress during the early White House campaign.

In the fight for Taylor's seat, businessman Mel Hamrick had 40 percent of the GOP vote with 114 of 403 precincts reporting, while former county Judge Max Baer led on the Democratic side.

Betty Hearnes, the wife of former two-term Gov. Warren Hearnes and the first woman to run for Missouri's highest office, easily won the Democratic nod to face Gov. John Ashcroft, who was unopposed in the GOP gubernatorial primary.

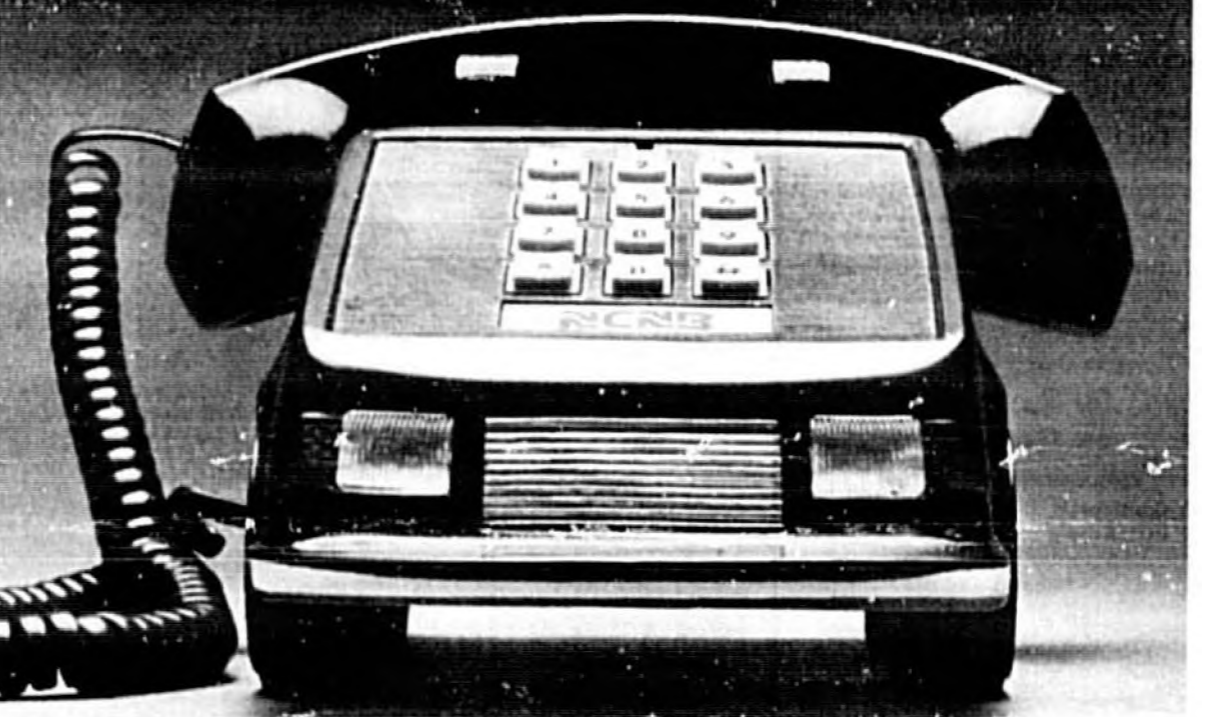

In nearby Kansas, voters decided whether Republican Rep. Jan Myers should be given a chance to serve a third term, while four other incumbent members of Congress faced no opposition.

In Michigan, officials expected only about 20 percent of the state's 6 million registered voters to cast ballots in Tuesday's primaries, which stirred little interest except in Detroit, where voters took a pre-emptive strike against future state-sanctioned gambling.

Proposal Y on the ballot was written to ban casino gambling in Detroit even if the Legislature approves it in the future. In early tallies, the vote was 52,071 or 62 percent yes to 19,433 or 38 percent no.

The campaign pitted Mayor Coleman Young against the city's equally influential religious leadership. A commission appointed by Young had recommended recruiting Las Vegas-style casinos for the city.

TREES, KIDS AND POWER LINES CAN BE A DEADLY MIX.

Ordinarily, power lines are quite harmless. But when a tree grows up close to a power line, climbing the tree could be dangerous. Especially if your child tries to reach up and touch a power line with a stick, a pole or anything.

And under certain conditions, such as wet weather, if a branch makes contact with a power line, your child could get a shock just from touching the tree trunk.

Always look up. Whether you're flying kites, picking fruit or pruning trees, installing antennas or doing any activity that puts you in possible contact with overhead lines. Don't be a victim of your own carelessness.

Study reports moderate drinking may be good for women

United Press International

BOSTON — Moderate alcohol consumption appears to sharply decrease the risk that women will suffer a heart attack or the most common type of stroke, according to the largest study of its kind.

The study, which involved more than 87,000 nurses nationwide, found middle-aged women who indulged in three to 17 drinks a week had about a 40 percent lower risk of suffering a heart attack or stroke compared with female teetotalers.

For many women moderate drinking is perfectly acceptable and may even be doing them good, said Dr. Meir J. Stampfer, an associate professor of medicine at Harvard Medical School and the lead author of the new study.

Dr. John LaRosa, chairman of the American Heart Association's nutrition council, called the protective value of drinking found in the study "impressive," while Dr. Philip Wolf, a professor of neurology at the Boston University School of Medicine, praised the quality of the research.

It's the first prospective study showing a beneficial effect in moderate alcohol consumption in reducing the risk of ischemic stroke, said Wolf, noting he had produced similar findings in a study involving both men and women.

Each year about 513,000 American women suffer heart attacks — the leading cause of death among women. About 228,500 women each year have strokes — the third leading cause of death, according to the American Heart Association.

The researchers defined moderate drinking as consuming between three and 17 drinks per week. A single bottle of beer, a glass of wine or a mixed drink was considered one drink.

But LaRosa and Wolf joined Stampfer and his colleagues in stressing that alcohol abuse is a major health problem in the United States and that the findings should not encourage women to start drinking.

I would not want to get us in the position that alcohol should be prescribed as preventative of heart attacks and strokes, said Dr. Charles H. Hennekens, whose headed the study.

The researchers noted the new study found moderate alcohol consumption while decreasing the overall risk for a stroke, about tripled the risk for a less common, but more serious, form of stroke — subarachnoid hemorrhage — in which bleeding occurs in the brain.

Stampfer also said a previous study he conducted indicated that moderate alcohol consumption may increase the risk for breast cancer for women.

The researchers speculated alcohol may reduce the risk for heart attack by increasing the blood levels of high-density lipoprotein, the so-called "good cholesterol" that helps prevent fatty buildups inside arteries.

Alcohol may decrease the risk for the most common type of stroke, known as ischemic stroke, through the same mechanism, but by reducing the likelihood that blood vessels will

Scientist finds planet around nearby star

United Press International

BALTIMORE — A small but regular wobble detected in the path of a nearby star is the best evidence to date that our sun is not the only star in the universe with planets, astronomers reported today.

"This planet would not be suitable for life as we know it," David Latham, who led a team of researchers from the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass., said in a statement.

But this discovery encourages speculation that there are many other planets around other stars, Latham said. Some of them may even have conditions suitable for the formation of life and evolution of intelligence.

Latham was to present his findings today at the General Assembly of International Astronomical Union meeting in Baltimore.

Using a spectrograph, a device that records the spectrum of light, on a reflector telescope, the astronomers detected a minute but periodic wobbling in the otherwise straight path of the star, called HD 114762, which is about 90 light years from our Sun.

The wobble, which amounts to 500 meters per second, appears to be caused by the gravitational pull of a massive planet or perhaps a small brown dwarf star, with an orbital period of 84 days, Latham said.

Researchers calculate the planet is about the same distance from the star as Mercury is from the Sun, making it extremely hot and uninhabitable for life forms found on Earth.

HD 114762 is a yellowish star about the same size as the Sun, but is about 10 billion years older and has only about one-tenth the amount of heavy metals, astronomers said. In visible to the naked eye, HD 114762 is a relatively nearby neighbor of the Sun, with both stars located on the edge of the Milky Way Galaxy, which measures about 50,000 light years across.

A light year is almost 6 trillion miles, the distance that light travels in a year at the speed of 186,000 miles per second.

HD 114762's planetary companion has not been seen directly. The researchers say distinguishing it would be comparable to someone on Earth trying to view the light of a candle standing beside a powerful searchlight on the Moon's surface.

There also is uncertainty about the planet's exact size, although the Smithsonian team estimates that it probably has a diameter comparable to Jupiter's, but a mass 10 to 20 times greater.

Don't ignore problem, child needs attention

DEAR DR. GOTT: Our 5-year-old grandson's penis is constantly erect, and has been since shortly after birth. His pediatrician says, "He'll grow out of it." His urologist did a cystoscopy and found an inflamed prostate, which he says is due to "some allergy." Our grandson is constantly trying to pull his clothing away from himself and is quite embarrassed. Should we ignore it or seek further help?

and the patient may die of cardiac standstill or insufficient heart action.

I think that your friend should be told that pacemaker-battery replacement is a standard, safe procedure. She should reconsider her position. If she has gone so far as to have a pacemaker inserted, the tough part is over and, in my opinion, she should

DEAR READER: A constantly erect penis is an embarrassing, uncomfortable — even painful — ailment that should be treated. I do not believe that your grandson's condition should be ignored. I think the pediatrician's response is callous and unprofessional. If your grandson has an inflamed prostate gland, the irritation could be a source of his uncomfortable problem. I suggest that you ask for a referral to a pediatric urologist who is more familiar with unusual childhood abnormalities and will be more understanding and helpful.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report, "The Prostate Gland." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My friend, BK has a pacemaker. She refuses to have the battery replaced and says she has led a good life. Just how does one actually die with a pacemaker?

DEAR READER: My answer depends on the type of pacemaker your friend has. Some pacemakers simply run out of electricity, leaving the patient's heart to fend on its own. Others speed up the pulse when their electrical supply is running low. In either case, when the pacemaker stops functioning, the situation reverts to the status that was present before the device was implanted. In most instances, heart block returns

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

In a tight match played early in June, the team of Bob Hamman, Bob Wolff, Seymour Deutsch, Jeff Meckstroth, Eric Rodwell and Jim Jacoby won the U.S. Bridge Team Championship. That victory gives us the right to represent the United States in the World Team Olympiad in Venice next October. One of our opponents in the June trials was Peter Boyd, and today's deal is an example of excellent defensive play on Boyd's part earlier in the year at the North American Championships.

Boyd was West, and his partner opened with a freewheeling weak two bid in spades, South bid four hearts, ending the auction. Declarer won the opening lead and played a diamond, East won the king and returned a club. When South played the king and Boyd won the ace, he could see that declarer had 10 tricks if he was allowed to trump three spades with dummy's hearts. So Peter played a low heart. Declarer won the six of hearts in dummy and trumped a diamond high. Then came the seven of hearts. But West had been watching the heart spots. He saw that South might be planning to put in the heart right, ruff another diamond, and get back to dummy with the jack of trumps to run the diamond suit. So Boyd put up the nine of hearts, spelling fints to declarer's chances. This line defense partially explains why our team felt lucky to win in June.

What the day will bring...

By Bernice Bede Osol YOUR BIRTHDAY August 4, 1988

Several old objectives will be discarded and be replaced by new ones in the year ahead. Your new goals could start you on a path you have never treaded previously.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) Everything you do today should be enacted in accordance with the rules. Departure from your usual high standards could tarnish your image. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you want others to respect your opinion today, you must be respectful of theirs. Putting down others' views will open up yours to criticism.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

Guard against inclinations to force square pegs into round holes. Don't try to hammer something together that isn't designed to fit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This might not be one of your better days for decision making. When analyzing your alternatives, you may put too much emphasis on the negative aspects.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You could be excessively demanding of yourself today. Others may be equally as demanding. Appreciate your limitations and also when to say "no."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's wise to review your family expenditures to be sure that neither you nor your mate are spending money that you shouldn't. Have pitty ready to plug any leaks.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today you're not apt to be the only one in your household who has a chip on the shoulder. It might only take a few angry remarks to get everyone uptight.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

Usually your powers of concentration are rather good, but today your attention span might not be up to par. Mental mistakes are likely.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be very careful how you manage your finances today, because poor choices could create a ripple effect that might put pressure on you in several situations at the same time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) One-to-one relationships must be handled with extreme tact today, whether they be with casual acquaintances or people with whom you're more intimate.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try not to make things harder for yourself today than they actually are. If you have a negative attitude, it will have a deleterious effect on overall conditions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Self-serving far out arrangements might capture your fancy today and draw you into a scheme that could jeopardize a friendship in the process. Don't be greedy.

Never a dull menu

Her kitchen fixins' keep the family discovering

By JANE HALE
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Variety is the catchword for our Cook of the Week, Susan Petronic of Sanford, who puts a new twist in every evening's menu.

Sanford, Petronic's birthplace, also is where she grew up and attended local schools until her graduation from Seminole High School.

Her father, the late T.B. Brown, owned and operated a service station in Sanford. He died when she was only 10. Her mother, Helen Brown, still lives in Sanford. Petronic has two older sisters and a younger sister.

"I learned to cook a little bit when I took home economics in high school and in college," Petronic said. "This gave me a good foundation in nutrition, but once I got married I just learned the rest."

Petronic admits her cooking wasn't too good when she first married, "but I just got in the kitchen and started throwing things together. I started buying cookbooks and reading them and experimenting with the recipes. I also started clipping recipes from magazines and newspapers and traded recipes with my friends," she said.

She said her family encourages her to try new recipes to avoid routine family meals and discover new favorites. Consequently, every meal fixed at the Petronics is different. "We like variety, so I guess that's why I enjoy cooking," Petronic said. "I cook from a recipe book, but change the ingredients to suit our taste, usually going to the pantry and just start throwing things in the pot. Sometimes they turn out and sometimes they don't," she continued to say.

The first dish Petronic ever remembers cooking was homemade pizza. "I put everything on it but the kitchen sink, but it just didn't taste like the ones we ordered," she laughed.

Petronic said she has never entered a cooking contest, because she said she doesn't feel confident enough to enter or to win one.

"My husband, Jack, was very instrumental in helping me in the kitchen when we first got married," she said. In fact, Jack is the breakfast cook in the Petronic family and prepares the morning meal every weekend. He fixes crepes, waffles, pancakes and other breakfast dishes with an expertise, Petronic said.

She met her husband while she was working for J.C. Penney's during her Christmas break from college. Jack also worked there as a security officer. When the two married, Jack was a Sanford police officer, but he quit shortly after. "I was scared everytime the phone rang that something had happened to Jack," Petronic said.

Jack Petronic then went to work for the Seaboard Coastline Railroad, but after driving to Lakeland for several years he opted for finding something close to home. He now works for United Telephone, where he's much happier, his wife said.

Son David, 15, is a sophomore at Seminole High School who enjoys surfing, riding his skateboard and swimming.

Daughter Jennifer, age 10 and a student at Lilyville Elementary School, enjoys swimming and playing outdoors with her friends.

Petronic herself is a fourth grade teacher at Hamilton Elementary School. "I really enjoy teaching and the children are great," Petronic said.

Teaching is a profession Petronic always wanted to do. "I remember pretending to be a school teacher back when I was a child," she said. "I would gather up all my doll babies or my younger sister and her friends and play school."

Petronic said some of the children she works with at Hamilton need someone to look up to, and she tries to fill the shoes of a good role model. "While teaching these children I try to get them to set a goal for themselves, something that they can achieve later in their life," she said.

"I try to give these children with whom I have been entrusted during the school year a lot of the love and attention that I have been blessed with. And I hope that one day one of these kids will come back and say, 'Thank you, Mrs. Petronic. You made me realize that I could make something of myself and I achieved the goal that you set for me when I was in school."

The greatest joy Petronic has in teaching is seeing a child who is struggling over a math problem finally get the right answer. "Their faces light up and beam just like a Christmas tree over when they have accomplished," she said. "This is what teaching is all about and it really makes my day complete."

Petronic said she used to spend about 50 percent of her day in the kitchen, but when she went back to work, all that changed. At one time, she baked her bread from scratch, adding ingredients her family liked to give the bread a new flavor. Her husband and children prefer homemade bread to the store-bought variety because of the preservatives in the latter type, she said.

"When I went back to work my family missed the homemade things and started to complain," Petronic said. "For the first year I nearly drove myself crazy trying to cook everything from scratch, keep house, take care of my family and grade papers, but now we are back to quick and simple, but nutritious meals on the weekends and during the summer." Petronic said she even used to make their catsup, mayonnaise, salad dressings and hamburger buns.

Petronic's main hobby is swimming. She usually does 60-80 laps daily in her backyard swimming pool. She also does needlepoint, counted cross stitch, painting, ceramics and dough art, and she enjoys giving her crafts as gifts.

"My philosophy on life," she said, "is Put Jesus first in your life because if you put Christ first in your life and have a Christ-centered life, you will have a happy and fulfilled life."

Following are some of the recipes that the Petronics enjoy:

REFRIGERATOR BRAN MUFFINS

- 1 15-ounce box wheat bran flakes cereal with raisins
- 5 cups flour
- 3 cups sugar
- 5 teaspoons baking soda
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 4 eggs beaten
- 1 quart buttermilk
- 1 cup shortening, melted
- 2 apples diced, optional
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts, optional

Combine first five ingredients in large bowl. Make a well in center of mixture. Add eggs, buttermilk and shortening. Stir just enough to moisten dry ingredients. Add optional ingredients. Cover and store in refrigerator until ready to bake, as long as 5 or 6 weeks. When ready to bake, spoon batter into greased muffin pan, filling 3/4 full. Bake at 350° F for 20 minutes. Makes 5 1/2 dozen.

MARINATED ROAST FOR GRILLING

- 4- to 5 pound roast
- 2 minced garlic cloves
- 2 tablespoons salad oil
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon rosemary
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/2 cup wine vinegar

Combine above ingredients for marinade. Let meat sit in marinade 24 hours. Turn over frequently. Keep covered in refrigerator.

Before cooking, add to marinade: 2 tablespoons ketchup 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce 1 tablespoon steak sauce (e.g., A-1, Heinz) Use to baste roast frequently as it cooks away from flame. Finished roast will have a charred appearance.

SOMETHING SPECIAL

- 1 cup flour
  - 1 stick butter (melted)
  - 3/4 cup finely chopped nuts
- Combine ingredients, spread in 9-by-11 inch pan. Bake at 350° F for 20 minutes. Cool completely. Blend. 1 8-ounce package cream cheese

Susan Petronic prepares to serve her family some fresh baked Refrigerator Bran Muffins.

- 1 cup powdered sugar
- 1 cup Cool Whip
- Spread the mixture over cooled crust
- Combine: 1 large box instant chocolate pudding 1 large box instant vanilla pudding 5 cups milk
- Spread this mixture over previous layers. Spread Cool Whip over pudding layer. Top with chocolate shavings and nuts.

CRAB QUICHE

- 9-inch pie shell
- 1 6-ounce package frozen crab, thawed
- 1 small onion
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 cup sliced mushrooms
- 4 eggs beaten
- 3/4 cup light cream
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon marjoram
- 1/4 teaspoon tarragon
- 1/2 cup grated Swiss cheese
- 1 tablespoon flour

Partially bake pie shell and let cool. Sauté onions in butter, add mushrooms. (Save slices for garnish) and saute until hot.

Combine eggs, cream, and seasonings. Fold in onions, mushrooms and crab. Pour in pie shell, sprinkle with cheese and bake at 375° F for 40 minutes, after 20 minutes top with reserved mushrooms.

SPAGHETTI MEAT SAUCE

- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 pound lean ground beef

- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 28-ounce can tomatoes cut up
- 2 16-ounce cans stewed tomatoes, cut up
- 2 6-ounce cans tomato paste
- 1/2 cup snipped fresh parsley
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon Italian herb spice
- 1/2 teaspoon oregano
- 1 bay leaf

In dutch oven, combine onion, meat and garlic. Cook till meat is browned and onion is tender. Skim off excess fat, add remaining ingredients. Simmer uncovered at least 3 hours or till sauce is thick; stirring occasionally. Remove bay leaf. Serve over spaghetti or use for following lasagna recipe.

LASAGNA

- 1 15-ounce container ricotta cheese
- 1 egg
- 1 cup parmesan cheese
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chopped fresh parsley
- 2 12-ounce mozzarella cheese
- 1 16-ounce package lasagna noodles

In large bowl, combine ricotta cheese, egg, 1 cup parmesan cheese, onion and parsley. Cover and set aside until you are ready to layer lasagna. In 13-by-9-inch pan, spread 1 1/2 cups of meat sauce, layer 1/2 of lasagna noodles, 2 cups sauce, 1/2 ricotta cheese mixture and 1/2 mozzarella cheese. Repeat twice. Top with remaining sauce, ricotta and mozzarella cheese. Bake in 350° F oven for 1 hour.

Main dishes microwave ere many stomach pangs

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Americans should try to include fish in their menus as part of a healthy heart program. But there are those who shy away from preparing fish at home, saying they don't know how to cook it or don't like the odor in the house.

Microwaving is an easy way to prepare fish and avoid the latter complaint. As when baking or broiling fish, it's better to undercook than overcook. Times must be followed closely, since the microwave cooks quickly.

SWEET-AND-SOUR WHITEFISH AND KIWI FRUIT

- 1 pound pollock or cod filets, thawed if necessary, and cut into 4 pieces
- 1/2 cup each: red and green peppers, cubed
- 1/2 cup drained and sliced water chestnuts
- 2 teaspoons vegetable oil
- 2 tablespoons each: orange juice, water and brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon white vinegar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons cornstarch
- 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
- 2 green onions, diagonally sliced, divided
- 2 kiwifruit, pared and sliced

Arrange fish in a shallow microwave safe baking dish. Microwave, covered with waxed paper, at high for 4-5 minutes (or until fish flakes when tested with a fork), rearranging fish halfway through cooking time.

In a microwave safe container, combine peppers and water chestnuts; toss to coat with oil. Microwave, covered with waxed paper, at high for 3 minutes, stirring after 2 minutes.

In a small bowl, blend orange juice, water, brown sugar, vinegar, cornstarch and ginger. Pour over vegetable mixture. Add half of green onions and microwave at high for 2-3 minutes or until mixture thickens. Stir in kiwifruit.

Spoon mixture over fish. Garnish with remaining green onions. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

Dress up packaged noodles with chopped eggs and Cheddar cheese for a quick microwave dinner.

To cut preparation time, set aside an hour or so to prepare hard-cooked eggs (hold unpeeled in the refrigerator until needed) and shred a quantity of cheese

Ocular doctors aren't all the same

DEAR ABBY: This letter concerns "Seeing Red in Jackson, Miss." who was angry that her eye doctor discontinued his care for her because she bought extended-wear contact lenses from an optician. "Seeing" chose to seek treatment for her vision needs from someone other than her original doctor; therefore, he was certainly within his legal and ethical rights to remove himself from the situation. This is not a matter of rudeness. The original doctor is in no way obligated to provide continuing care for treatment that he did not prescribe.

Abby, there is still a great deal of confusion about the "O's": optometrists, ophthalmologists and opticians. An optometrist is a doctor of optometry (O.D.) with four years of post-graduate doctoral study in measuring vision and eye health. Optometrists prescribe lenses of all kinds, vision therapy, and in more than half the states in our country, medications. The 25,000 optometrists are represented by the American Optometric Association.

An ophthalmologist is a medical doctor (M.D.) who has specialized, after medical school, in surgical and medical treatment of eye disease. Ophthalmologists are represented by the American Medical Association.

An optician manufactures and sells eyeglasses and contact lenses, requiring a prescription written by an O.D. or an M.D. Only optometrists and ophthalmologists are referred to as "eye doctors."

Complaints about the conduct of an eye doctor should be directed either to the State Board of Optometry or the State Medical Board, depending on the doctor in question.

ADVICE

BEATRICE HALPERIN, MICHEL, O.D., ERIC HALPERIN, O.I., FOREST GROVE, ORE.

DEAR DR. HALPERIN: Thank you for clarifying a somewhat clouded issue.

DEAR ABBY: The question of what to do when an artist gives you one of his paintings, and it's not to your taste, reminded me of this: I know of a good California artist who, when visiting friends to whom he had foolishly given one of his best works, looked around the house and didn't see the painting anywhere. He searched all the closets, finally found it, put it under his arm and took it home without a word!

ELIZABETH SPRANG, SANTA FE, N.M.

DEAR ABBY: Come on! You must have been joking when you wrote: "Confidential to anyone who is lucky enough to have a father: For Father's Day, sit down and write your dad a letter, telling him how much you appreciate him, and why."

Abby, if I sat down and wrote a letter to my dad telling him how much I appreciate him and why, I would be giving him a blank piece of paper.

My father is rude and disgusting, and I could tell you more. The only thing I appreciate about him is that he doesn't come to my school functions.

And if you think he's bad, you should meet my mother.

RATHER BE PARENTLESS IN INDIANA

DEAR RATHER: I'm sure you have your reasons for feeling as you do, but your miserable situation isn't going to improve unless you do something about it.

You are obviously feeling a great deal of pain and anger. Just talking about it (even to me) gives you an opportunity to air your feelings, but you need more help than I can give you in a letter.

Please talk to an understanding professional person about the anger and bitterness you feel toward your parents. Your school counselor would be a good place to start. Good luck.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Meat-filled breads rejuvenate the pot pie idea

These delicious all-in-one meals feature savory meat fillings encrusted in fresh, home-baked bread. They are perfect take-along entrees for summer picnics and meals on the go.

Delicious hot or cold, you can make these stuffed breads in a hurry with Bridgford Frozen Bread Ready-Dough. Make extra to keep on hand for quick snacks and last minute meals.

DEEP MUSHROOM BUNS

1 (one-pound) loaf Bridgford Frozen Bread Ready-Dough
1 pound lean ground beef
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 can (4 ounce) sliced mushrooms, drained
2 tablespoons dried chopped onion
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
Let bread dough thaw until pliable. Cook ground beef until well browned, drain. Add soup, mushrooms, onion and Worcestershire sauce to beef. Cut loaf of bread dough crosswise into 8 slices. Using a little flour on board and rolling pin, pat and roll dough pieces out to 5-inch diameter circles.

Place filling in centers of dough circles. Pull all dough edges up to the centers of dough circles. Pull all dough edges up to the center and pinch tightly to seal filling in. Place buns smooth sides up on a greased baking sheet. Using a sharp knife, make a large cut on top of each bun for a steam vent. Preheat oven to 375° F and bake buns for 35 minutes or until well browned. Makes 8.

CHICKEN PARTIES

1 (one-pound) loaf Bridgford Frozen Bread Ready-Dough
10-ounce canned chicken breast chunks, drained
1/2 cup condensed cream of mushroom soup

1/2 cup frozen peas and carrots
1 tablespoon minced green onion or dried chopped onion
1/2 teaspoon curry powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

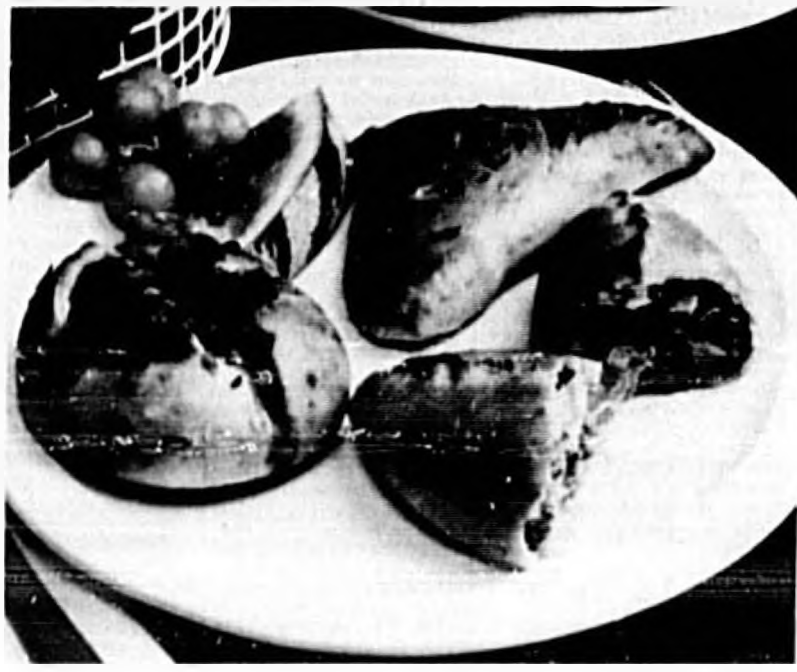

Let bread dough thaw until pliable. Combine all remaining ingredients. Cut loaf of bread dough crosswise into 8 slices. Using a little flour on board and rolling pin, pat and roll dough pieces out to 5-inch diameter circles. Place filling in lengthwise strip down centers of dough circles.

Pull dough edges up and pinch together to form a ridge across top of party. Place pasties smooth sides down on greased baking sheet. Prick several times with a fork to vent steam. Preheat oven to 375° F and bake pasties for 35 minutes or until well browned. Makes 8.

REUBEN TURNOVERS

1 (one-pound) loaf Bridgford Frozen Bread Ready-Dough
6 ounces sliced pastrami or corned beef
4 ounces sliced Swiss cheese
1/2 cup thinly sliced dill pickles
Let bread dough thaw until pliable. On a lightly floured board, roll dough out to a 12-inch square. Cut dough into nine 4-inch squares. Cut slices of meat and cheese in half diagonally to make triangles. Layer slices of meat, pickles, and cheese on half of each dough square. Fold remaining dough over filling ingredients to make turnovers.

Pinch dough edge tightly to seal and crimp edge with a fork. Slash top of turnover with a sharp knife to vent steam. Place turnovers on a greased baking sheet. Preheat oven to 375° F and bake for 35 minutes or until well browned. Makes 9.

Food safety hotline satisfies curiosity, puts lid on worries

From staff reports

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Americans have wide-ranging curiosity about the safety of foods that they buy, store, prepare and eat, as judged by the calls received by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Food and Drug Administration. And those agencies' tollfree Food Safety Hotline gives consumers in Florida, Illinois and Massachusetts the information they want.

The hotline is handling 70-80 calls per day on a wide variety of food safety issues.

Florida residents can call the hotline at 1-800-426-3758 Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. until Aug. 31. FDA and USDA then will evaluate the program to determine whether it should be expanded nationwide.

Susan Templin, supervisor of the hotline, said that hotline home economists respond to questions on such issues as food additives, pesticide residues in food, labeling of food packages, keeping food safe for consumption of such activities as picnicking and outdoor cooking, and handling food during a power outage. Many callers ask more than one question.

Despite the wide variance in questions asked, Templin said, "The overwhelming majority of concerns focus on the kinds of things consumers can handle and do in their homes. People are concerned mainly about what they can control. They want to know what they can do to protect themselves from food-borne illness."

Some callers, Templin said, are looking for reassurance—such as the woman who dumped a can of mushrooms into a casserole, then noticed the can's interior was discolored around the inside seam. When she told the hotline staff the can was not swollen, leaking or bulging—possible signs of botulism—she was told the meal was safe to eat since color change around a can's seam is not unusual. However, callers are sometimes advised, "When in doubt, throw it out."

Templin noted that the majority of calls—about 55 percent—are from people over the age of 60. Most of them, not surprisingly, are from Florida, she said. About 42 percent of callers are between the ages of 25 to 59.

Consumers who have questions about food safety after Aug. 31 can call the USDA's Meat and Poultry Hotline, which operates year-round Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 1-800-535-4555; their local FDA district office, or their county Cooperative Extension Service office.

QUICK NOODLE CASSEROLE

2 cups water
1/2 cup sliced celery
2 teaspoons instant chicken bouillon
1/2 to 3/4 teaspoon lemon pepper seasoning
1 4.5-ounce package noodles and sour cream and chives sauce
6 hard-cooked eggs, chopped (see below)
1/2 cup (1 ounce) shredded Cheddar cheese
Celery leaves (optional)

In a 1 1/2-quart casserole dish, combine water, celery, bouillon and lemon pepper seasoning. Cook on high until water boils, about 6 minutes. Stir in noodles with sauce. Continue cooking on high until noodles are tender, about 6 to 7 minutes.

Gently stir in eggs. Sprinkle with cheese. Cook on high for an additional 1-1 1/2 minutes, just until heated through. Let stand for 3 minutes to complete cooking. Garnish with celery leaves if desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 3-4 servings.

Note: To hard-cook eggs in the microwave, separate 6 eggs into 2 lightly buttered liquid measures or small bowls. Stir yolks with fork. Cover each container with plastic wrap. Cook separately on 50 or 30 percent power for 2-3 minutes for yolks, 5-6 minutes for white, stirring once or twice. Remove when slightly under-done. Let stand, covered, for 2 minutes to complete cooking.

Cool long enough to handle comfortably, then chop or chill until ready to chop.
