BRIEFS

St. Patrick's Day celebrations

SANFORD — There will be no formal parade for St. Patrick's Day in Sanford. There will be observances however.

Sanford Main Street is having an Irish Celebration in downtown Sanford today through Saturday. It's being called "Paint the Town Green."

Storewide green tag sales are being offered by merchants displaying a shamrock on their doors.

On Saturday, Mainstreet is holding a huge sidewalk sale downtown, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Throughout the downtown area, many stores have done an excellent job in decorating their window displays in keeping with the St. Patrick's Day event, and people throughout the city are wearing various shades of green, regardless of their heritage.

St. Patrick's Day commemorates the patron saint of Ireland, Bishop Patrick (AD 389-461) who, about AD 432, left his home in the Severn Valley, England, and introduced Christianity into Ireland.

It is considered a feast day in the Roman Catholic Church.

The day is a national holiday in Ireland and Northern Ireland, and the highlight of a week of festivities there.

Here in the United States, the event is observed with parades, the wearing of green clothing, shamrocks, and in some areas, the growing of beards.

Preserving a bit of history

A group of north Florida history buffs are working to preserve the Olustee Battlefield near Glen St. Mary. Located near the Ocala National Forest, the location was the site of the largest Civil War battle in Florida on Feb. 20, 1864. The Olustee Battlefield Citizens Support Organization is working with the state to survey the site and to fight off an effort by the U.S. Forest Service to move an 1888-era Victorian-style railroad station there. For more information, write the organization at P.O. Box 382, Glen St. Mary, Fla., 32040.

Saving historic stadium

Support to redo only baseball structure in county

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — City Commissioner Whittey Eckstein's suggestion to renovate the only baseball stadium in Seminole County is drawing support.

During the Feb. 28 meeting of the city commission, Eckstein brought up the need to either improve Sanford Memorial Stadium and take advantage of having it as a local attraction, or get rid of it through sale or demolition.

Believe me, you're just preaching to the choir. Every one of us is all in favor of it.

-Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith

In commenting to the commission, Eckstein said, "People are just looking for a facility to have their games and tournaments, and I think we are losing a bet by not promoting the use of the facility."

During this Monday's commission work session meeting, Sanford Parks and Recreation Director Mike Kirby presented commissioners with a listing of sporting events presently being held at the historic stadium, even though the lights were taken down last year, and sections of the facility have been determined to be in poor condition.

The 42 year-old baseball stadium has been

Naked man in sneakers sought

By SANDRA ELLIOTT

SANFORD — Residents of the Loch Arbor neighborhood near Mayfair County Club may be experiencing a '70s flashback with two reports earlier this week of a "streaker" in the neighborhood.

The reports have prompted stepped up patrols in the area by Seminole County Sheriff's deputies.

About 2:30 a.m. Tuesday, a resident on Vinewood Drive reported hearing a prowler outside his bedroom window. When he stepped out his front door to investigate, he saw a naked man running west of his house. The homeowner described the suspect as about six feet tall, weighing approximately 250 pounds.

On Wednesday about 1:30 a.m., another Loch Arbor resident saw a naked man wearing only sneakers run across the intersection of Forest Drive and Lake Blvd. The incidents occurred about two blocks apart.

In both instances, police called to the scene were unable to locate a suspect

'Put accountability back in government'

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Senior Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Only four people spoke to proposed changes to the Seminole County Charter at a final public hearing last night, but Charter Review Commission member Harry Kwiatkowski used the opportunity to unveil a three-pronged plan he said will make county government more answerable to the public.

"We need to give more accountability back to the public," said Kwiatkowski. "I think the county's working fine, but there's a couple of things that need touching up."

Kwiatkowski, a former county commissioner and a charter supporter, proposed making the county attorney answerable to commissioners instead of the county manager, a new commission-appointed auditor and a fiscal impact statement to be prepared prior to passage of any new "code, ordinance, procedure or jurisdictional change."

CRC chairman Fred Streetman said Kwiatkowski's proposals will

Setting the pace

Seminole High a pilot site for national program

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole High School will be setting the pace for the nation in getting a more advanced education to better prepare them for post-secondary work.

The Sanford high school has been selected as a pilot site for Pacesetter 2000, a national mathematics project established by the College Board and the National Council of Mathematics Teachers.

According to Gretchen Schapker, principal of Seminole High, there are only 12 schools nationwide that have been selected for the honor.

The school was selected after Schapker made a presentation about the educational reforms being made in Seminole County in general and, specifically, at Seminole High.

"They were very impressed," she said. "There are some good advances being made in Seminole County."

The program will be put into place at Seminole during the 1994-95 school year on a limited basis.

Lake Mary considers 210 new homes

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — A developer who wants to build over 200 homes in Lake Mary is back before commissioners tonight.

A rezoning request for the Lenmar Planned Urban Development (PUD) is up for second reading.

The land is located on the east side of Rinehart Road, approximately 2,000 feet north of Lake Mary Boulevard, and directly across Rinehart from the Siemens-Stromberg Carlson complex.

The property is just slightly less than 80 acres. Lenmar plans to build on 210 lots according to the preliminary subdivision plan.

The matter has been brought up for consideration at the City Commission and Planning and Zoning Commission since early December of last year. At practically every meeting, additional changes have been made from the original plan. Most of them deal with lot sizes, walls, buffers, water, and street and right-of-way matters.

The P&Z unanimously has recommended approval, subject to additional city staff comments.

The comments deal with setback footage for the single family homes, swimming pools, swimming pool screen enclosures and lakefront construction.

According to City Planner Matt West, the only thing lacking at this point is designation of a

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Moorman wants gag order in Potts probe

BARTOW — A public defender is seeking to stop Polk County sheriff's officials from making allegations that a Florida man jailed on a child-sex charge could be a serial killer linked to up to 15 deaths.

Polk County Public Defender Marlon Moorman filed the request Wednesday asking a judge to limit publicity to safeguard Frank Potts' rights to a fair trial on the child-sex charge. Potts has not been charged in any deaths.

Potts, 50, is charged with a serious crime. Moorman said, adding that a "wealth of highly speculative publicity being generated by the sheriff's department" probably would affect the case.

The motion is to be heard Friday by Circuit Judge Robert A. Young.

Polk Sheriff's officials said Monday that Potts was being investigated in connection with seven to 15 homicides in six states. Their comments came after special tracking dogs unearthed skeletal remains of one body and indicated there could be others buried at a remote farm Potts owns near the Alabama-Tennessee border.

Attendant suit deemed class-action

MIAMI — An appeals court judge has ruled that a suit brought by 30 flight attendants, who claim they suffer various illnesses from secondhand smoke, should be turned into a class action for about 60,000 others.

The plaintiffs, who do not smoke, are current or former employees of U.S. airlines who say they were affected by smoke from passengers' cigarettes.

They filed the suit, which seeks damages for negligence, fraud, conspiracy and misrepresentation from many American tobacco companies, in Dade Circuit Court two years ago.

Dade Judge Robert Kaye had dismissed the complaint saying the number of people represented was too large and the issues raised may not be shared by all.

But in an unanimous ruling this week, the Miami-based Third District Court of Appeal said the class is a "distinct" one whose size is not a factor.

The judges found "no merit" to the defendants' contention that the attendants' claims are "so diverse that class treatment were impractical."

"It's not the end of the road, but it's a very important step" in getting the case to trial, said Miami attorney Stan Rosenblatt, who represents the flight attendants.

The companies sued include American Brands, the American Tobacco Co., Brooke Group Ltd., Liggett Group, Loews Corp., Lorillard Inc., Philip Morris and RJR Nabisco.

Reached at home late Wednesday, the wife of Miami attorney R. Benjamin Reid, who argued the appeal for the tobacco companies, said her husband was unavailable for comment.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Judge puts youth curfew on hold

By TRACY FIELDS
Associated Press writer

MIAMI — At 16, Jordan Leonard is too young to sue on his own to stop Dade County's youth curfew, intended to fight crime by keeping minors off the streets late at night.

But that didn't stop him from fighting the law and winning at least one round. On Wednesday, a judge issued a preliminary injunction that put the month-old curfew on hold pending a trial.

"It proves that just because you're a minor and just because you're under age and you can't vote doesn't mean you can't have a say in what goes on in this country," said the Miami Beach High School junior.

Leonard is among four teen-agers named as plaintiffs in an American Civil Liberties Union lawsuit challenging the ordinance's constitutionality.

"Juveniles, like adults, have constitutional rights under the Florida Constitution," Dade Circuit Judge Norman S. Gerstein wrote in his ruling Wednesday. No trial date was immediately set.

The curfew was intended to keep youths under 17 at home between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. on weeknights and from midnight to 6 a.m. on weekends unless accompanied by parents or guardians. It includes several exceptions, such as for emergencies, travel to and from work, and school activities.

Leonard went to a county commission meeting to complain about it, without success. But there he met ACLU officials who also opposed the curfew.

"I asked if there was anything I could do, and next thing you know, I'm a plaintiff," he said.

Robyn Blumner, executive director of the ACLU of Florida, said she hoped county officials would just drop the fight.

"The writing's on the wall," she said. "The court has clearly indicated they think the ordinance is constitutionally flawed, and the county commissioners should do the right thing for their constituents and repeal it now."

But Metro-Dade Commissioner James Burke, who sponsored the ordinance, said the curfew battle would continue.

"We believe it's the right thing to do," he said. "The good thing is that we can say, if nothing else, it allows an opportunity for some people who have opposed it to propose alternatives that I keep asking for."

The curfew allowed police to detain juveniles and call their parents for a first offense. Three-time offenders would be turned over to a juvenile judge and be subject to probation and community service; their parents could be fined $500.

Governor won't say how he feels about school prayer bill

By ADAM YEOMANS
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles does not want someone telling his children how to pray, but he won't say how he feels about legislation allowing prayer in public schools.

"If you mean the ability of each one of us to speak to our supreme maker, I'm for that," Chiles said Wednesday. "If you mean the ability of someone else to tell my children what they have to speak to, then I'm not for that."

While Chiles appeared to be leaning against the legislation, he did not say whether he would oppose the bills.

"It's not one that's come to my plate yet," he said. "We've talked about a lot of other issues I'm concerned about. We'll wait and see what happens."

Chiles said he had not closely followed the school prayer debate in the House and Senate. His focus has been on issues such as health care, Everglades restoration, juvenile justice and a spending cap for state government.

After a mid-session meeting with Chiles, Senate President Pat Thomas and House Speaker Bo Johnson, reporters grilled the governor about school prayer, which has turned into one of the most emotional issues of the session.

The bills being considered would allow non-sectarian, voluntary prayer during non-compulsory assemblies, sporting events and commencement ceremonies. If a majority of students agreed to it.

Advocates said school prayer would help students build character and stay out of trouble. Opponents are concerned about separation of church and state.

Feds, state make plans for restoring imperiled Everglades

By ADAM YEOMANS
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The federal government and Florida Gov. Lawton Chiles are poised to move ahead with cleanup of the imperiled Everglades even as bickering continues over specifics of a restoration plan.

Chiles said Wednesday he was ready to proceed with some type of cleanup plan even if sugar companies and other farmers and state, federal and water management district officials did not agree on the details.

"If we wait until everybody totally agreed on everything, then the Everglades would probably long be gone," Chiles said at a meeting with legislative leaders.

The plan will be unveiled at a news conference today by Chiles, two Interior Department officials and other officials with the state Department of Environmental Protection and the South Florida Water Management District.

The federal officials — assistant interior secretaries George Frampton and Bonnie Cohen — were at the Capitol Wednesday to meet with those involved in the dispute over the Everglades cleanup.

The appearance of the two officials follows a threat last week by Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt to withhold price support loans from sugar growers in south Florida who resist efforts to clean up the River of Grass.

"We have not really been able to take a single step yet that would help the Everglades," Chiles said.

Senate votes to require Holocaust teaching in class

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Though Florida children are already taught about Nazi Germany's persecution of Jews in history class, the state Senate voted to make instruction about the Holocaust a requirement.

"This is exactly what the Legislature should not be doing — micromanaging the school systems," Department of Education spokesman Randy Lewis said Wednesday.

The legislation, which passed 38-0, would still need to be approved in the House and signed by Gov. Lawton Chiles.

"This program will enable the children of Florida to learn perhaps one of the saddest chapters in the history of the world," said Sen. Howard Forman, D-Pembroke Pines. The House Education Committee approved a similar proposal last week, but only after members agreed to pass a separate bill by Rep. Rudy Bradley, D-St. Petersburg, to require teaching about slavery.

Sen. James Hargett, D-Tampa, said Wednesday he would sponsor Bradley's bill in the Senate, and it was referred to the Education Committee.

"It is impossible to teach the history of America without a full understanding of the history of slavery," Hargett said.

Lewis, the education spokesman, said the Holocaust and slavery are covered in history classes.

In arguing for the Holocaust measure, however, Sen. Ron Silver, D-North Miami Beach, cited a 1992 Roper survey that indicated 38 percent of adults and 53 percent of high school students didn't know about the Nazis' persecution of Jews.

POLICE BRIEFS

Trespass alleged

Reginald Aldridge Doe, 19, 3046 Truman Blvd., Sanford, was arrested for trespassing on the grounds of Lakeview Middle School Monday. Doe was observed on the grounds near the basketball courts about 9:30 a.m. talking with a student. The suspect was apprehended by a Sanford Police officer but fled. He was located in the Country Lake Apartments. Initially, Doe gave the policeman another name, said he was 15-years-old and ran because he was scared, the police report stated. Then he gave his real name. The defendant had been warned about trespassing on the school property in the past and was arrested, the report said.

Charged with forged check

Anthony Vonce Harris, 23, 1509 W. 15th St., Sanford, was arrested by Sanford Police Monday and charged with uttering a forged instrument and theft after failing to repay a loan company for a check which was deemed a forgery and not honored.

Harris reportedly presented a $250 check to a loan company drawn on a woman's account but the check was returned as being a forgery. According to the police report, Harris said he would replace the check but did not. The woman on whose account the check was drawn claimed in mid-December the check was taken in a strong arm robbery and it was a forgery, the police report said.

Incidents reported to the Sheriff

A computer hard scanner valued at $300 was reported stolen from a business on Fox Valley Drive on Monday. The item was allegedly taken Feb. 22. The business manager told police shortly after the theft occurred, an employee terminated her employment with the company.

A Longwood woman residing on Parsons Road reported she has received harassing telephone calls from a Sanford man who said he wants his property back. She said she does not have his property. She claims he has threatened her.

A Pennsylvania man reported his Harley-Davidson motorcycle valued at $10,000 was taken from a motel on State Road 434 sometime Sunday night.

A Longwood woman reported her purse was stolen from her car while she was at a restaurant in the 900 block of SR 434. She told police, she did not know if the vehicle was locked.

A Lake Mary woman, who lives in an apartment on Sugarbay Way, reported her car was scratched sometime Sunday night or Monday morning. The scratch running the length of the vehicle went to the bare metal. She told police she and another woman had argued over some items Sunday.

The owner of a Longwood business on Fox Valley Drive reported someone took a floppy disc containing valuable information from the office. The suspect left a note on the CRT screen stating he had better pay his employees or else. The suspect's wife had previously worked for the company and was owed a check, according to the police incident report. The suspect was seen coming out of the office although no one saw him with the disc but he was reportedly the only one in the office during the incident time frame.

A Longwood man reported his cellular telephone stolen after leaving it on a gas pump in Heathrow. When he returned a half hour later, it was gone.

A builder reported about $2,000 worth of lumber was taken from the garage of a house under construction in Alauqua. The house is under construction on Tala Loop. There were no doors to secure the lumber.

Sometime between Friday and Monday, someone entered a home on Grove Lane in Sanford through the pet door and took jewelry, electronic equipment, games and a credit card.

A resident of Vinewood Drive, Sanford reported hearing a prowler outside his bedroom window about 2:30 a.m. Tuesday morning. When the man stepped out his front door to investigate, he told police he saw a white male about six feet tall, 250 pounds across the street west of his house running. The man was naked. The homeowner said he could not identify the suspect if he saw him again. Police searched the area but could not find the subject.

Crime last year bad—but not much worse than 1992

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — One, Two. That was the change in violent crime in Florida last year.

Someone was hurt every three minutes and 14 seconds in 1993. Two years ago, a violent crime occurred every three minutes and 16 seconds.

"These aren't just numbers," Tim Moore, commissioner of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, said Wednesday. "They represent men and women and real trauma to a lot of those victims."

Statistics FDLE released Wednesday show the total number of crimes in Florida climbed less than 1 percent last year.

But there's little chance another state will bump Florida from its top ranking when the FBI releases national statistics next month, according to Moore.

"There's quite a gap between Florida and the second state," Moore said.

The total number of arrests dropped 7.3 percent last year to 653,793. The total number of crimes climbed 0.9 percent to 1.4 million.

"We're still not good obviously, and we're not satisfied," Gov. Lawton Chiles said. He noted, however, that violent crime climbed about 10 percent a year for much of the 1980s and has increased less than 1 percent annually for the last three years.

Last year, violent crime climbed by 0.4 percent, Moore said.

And although state lawmakers have made reform of Florida's juvenile justice system the top priority for their annual session, there was no dramatic or even moderate jump in arrests of teen-agers last year.

Juvenile arrests rose less than 1 percent, climbing to 87,647 arrests.

"We had much higher increases in previous years in the middle and late '80s," Moore said.

The difference in 1993 was the level of public awareness and official attention that stemmed from the intense media reporting of attacks on foreign tourists, he said.

The number of crimes against non-residents dropped to 2.8 percent of the total number of victims, its lowest level in five years, according to the FDLE.

In the juvenile category, Moore said, the most common age group arrested for non-violent crimes dropped to 11 through 17, down from 18-24. Two-thirds of all people arrested for non-violent crimes, however, are adults.

The profile for violent criminals shows that the most common age group to be arrested was 25-34, and 83 percent of all arrests were for adults.

The Legion of honor

The week of March 14 through 20 has been officially declared Diamond Jubilee Week for the American Legion Campbell-Lossing Post 53 in Sanford. This weekend will mark the 75th anniversary of the legion.

There are many organizations which have been formed over the years to serve the needs for veterans of our nation's many wars and armed conflicts. Yet this one, active since 1918, has proven to be one of the most respected.

During interviews conducted last year for Veterans Day, several former service personnel, especially those of the Korean and Vietnam conflicts, expressed the feeling that the nation had forgotten them.

Some said they refused to join veterans organizations because most of the members were from World War II, and they felt they would not be welcomed. Wrong. The welcome mat at American Legion posts is out, and those who have since joined know their beliefs were in error.

Not only does the legion serve as a gathering place for former military personnel, but it offered its facilities for family members. The most prominent of which was the Desert Storm Support Group, which met regularly at the Sanford legion headquarters to comfort each other in that serious time of peril.

The legion also offers items pertaining to veterans rights, medical help, and other information.

This Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the Campbell-Lossing Post in Sanford is holding open house. Many events are planned, along with food and entertainment.

Of primary interest will be tours of the facility, and information regarding the many benefits of becoming a member.

Whether you are a veteran or family member of veterans, we urge you to visit the post. Enjoy the activities, but take the time to find out about the excellent work it has done, and continues to do.

Everyone needs help and support from time to time. The honorable men and women who served in our armed forces are no exception.

Join in the observance this weekend of the Diamond Jubilee. Visit the Sanford American Legion Campbell-Lossing Post 53, at 2874 S. Sanford Avenue.

If you qualify, join the post. It may be one of the most rewarding moves you will have made since you left the service.

A tax by any other name

The Seminole County Charter Advisory Committee has been seeking input from citizens on possible charter amendments to achieve a more representative government.

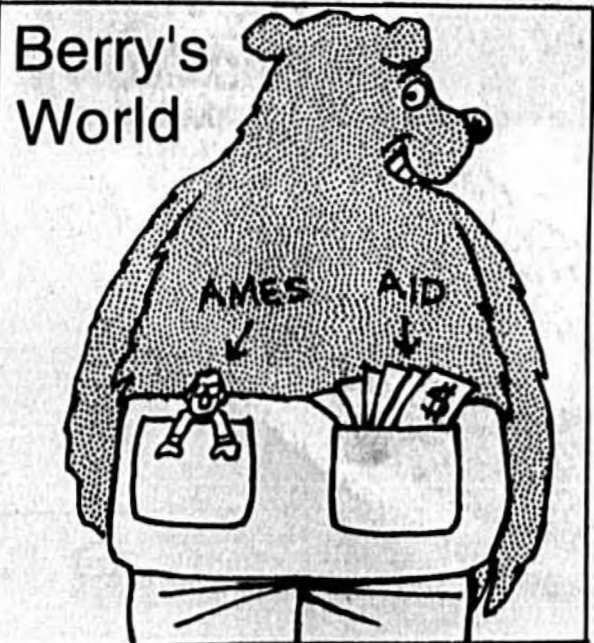

In talking to citizens, two common expressions are relayed to me in nearly every conversation, 1) "They do not trust government." 2) "They do not understand government."

From this premise, let me suggest a simple amendment; Webster defines a tax as "a compulsory levy to raise funds in support of government." Therefore all new printings of county forms and written communications shall first be edited for removal of the words "fee," "charges," "assessments" and so on. These words shall be replaced with the word "tax."

This linguistic shell game of calling taxes by another name is greatly favored by tax paid lawyers and tax paid consulting firms to make taxes more palatable.

This amendment could gain some trust and better understanding. Would there be any loss? If our government officials are honest and forthright they could only favor such an amendment to our county charter.

The trouble with Hillary's role

Only a few days ago President Clinton was telling us, apropos Whitewater, that "Nobody has even accused me of any wrongdoing." Now, Hillary Rodham Clinton has told Time and Newsweek that she would be "the first to say" that "mistakes were made" in that murky affair. Unless Ms. Rodham Clinton is making an altogether improbable (and implausible) distinction between her own behavior and her husband's, it seems clear that the White House position is getting ready to change.

Of course, neither the president nor his wife is admitting to any "wrongdoing" just yet; only "mistakes" (further softened, in one instance, to "missteps"). But you can be sure they aren't talking about spitting on the sidewalk. We are being prepared for some pretty smelly revelations.

All of which has caused many thoughtful observers to reconsider the role of Ms. Rodham Clinton in her husband's administration. She is obviously a smart woman, and a very good lawyer in her own right, and the first instinct of our liberal media, when it became apparent that Mr. Clinton was going to be the Democratic nominee for president, was to sell her to the voters as the feminist ideal: a fully equal partner in the public as well as the private aspects of Bill Clinton's life.

Mr. Clinton cheerfully went along with this, telling voters that it was a case of "Buy one, get one free." When they moved into the White House, he promptly put his wife in official charge of the major domestic initiative of his administration: health care. Beyond that, her influence was quickly perceptible in a dozen other fields, and she is now described by the media, in all seriousness, as "the second most powerful person" in Washington.

But now the fumes rising from Whitewater are causing a great many people to take a second look at Ms. Rodham Clinton. It is being pointed out that -- far from representing the feminist ideal of personal achievement -- she is where she is, and wields the power she does, only because she happens to be married to the president of the United States. She is no Margaret Thatcher, or Golda Meir, or even Nancy Kassebaum. Nobody, even in Arkansas, ever elected her to anything.

We are being prepared for some pretty smelly revelations

Of course, she isn't the first presidential spouse, by a long shot, to have enormous influence. The historical woods are full of first ladies, from Edith Wilson to Nancy Reagan, who wielded great de facto power. But the power was actually vested in their husbands.

Similarly, there have been unelected presidential confidants, such as Wilson's Colonel House and FDR's Harry Hopkins, whose allegedly huge influence was roundly criticized. Once again, however, the power remained in the presidents.

But Ms. Rodham Clinton was entrusted by her husband with an official policy role entailing the independent exercise of political judgment and power. Not even this, though, was a "first" for a presidential relative: John Kennedy made his brother Robert the attorney general of the United States -- a key post if there ever was one.

Is it Whitewater or whitewash?

Mr. President, we don't believe every Johnny (W. Dean III) Come-Lately who is now racing to be the first Republican on his block to sound a Whitewater-gate warning that there's a cancer growing on your presidency.

It's no cancer -- but let's be candid: It's more than a mere staff infection.

And that's become clear to every ordinary American. All of those White House mistakes, misdeeds and perhaps misconduct in the unraveling probe of your and Hillary's investment in the Arkansas land deal called Whitewater cannot be sloughed off as acts of well-meaning staff members, for which you are not accountable.

Which is why the old intransitive-impersonal "mistakes were made" now emanating from yet another generation of White House spokespersons has not worked, is not working, and will not work. Just look at the latest precarious polls, which show that Americans may support you on various policies -- but a majority just don't trust you.

It is imperative that you make a full and complete accounting to the American people of just what happened, and why. So far, absent a clear and unambiguous accounting from you, we have been left to find the truths for ourselves.

As of now, we know -- or think we know -- that behind the mess of Whitewater there must be some problem you and/or Mrs. Clinton fear could cause you legal damage. That seems the only plausible explanation of why, for months, your White House compounded Whitewater actions taken almost a decade ago (by your associates, your wife, or yourself) with new cover-up-styled actions taken in the White House (by your associates, your wife, or yourself).

We who are not blessed with Yale Law degrees had no trouble sensing that your White House (with counsel Bernard Nussbaum playing the lead) seemed to be acting improperly, if not illegally -- in assorted matters dating back to its earliest days in office.

First came that ham-fisted muscling of White House travel office staffers -- and the shameful misuse of the FBI to claim evidence of wrongdoing.

Then, the moment your deputy counsel and friend, Vincent Foster, was found shot dead in what has been ruled a suicide, your counsel, Nussbaum, began acting in your behalf like the heavy in a Perry Mason rerun: initially preventing investigators from questioning staff members; withholding the suicide note evidence, which turned up somehow torn into 27 pieces; slipping Whitewater files out of Foster's office. Even without Yale Law degrees, we know Whitewater files shouldn't be walking out of the office of a guy who was just shot dead.

Finally, those three briefings Deputy Treasury Secretary Roger Altman, the acting-chief regulator of savings and loans, gave to Nussbaum and your White House gang. We know it was blatantly wrong. And we remember how Democrats thought it was scandalous when S&L regulators briefed President Bush's son, Neil, on the investigation of his S&L misdeeds in Colorado.

Mr. President, you can never hope to put this matter behind you by being silent. You can't prevent revelations of the whole story from becoming public. But you can control the timing of the revelations. You can have them surface now. Or you can have them surfacing as news bulletins during the campaign of 1996.

You must address the American people. Lay out the facts on Whitewater. Level with us about mistakes, gifts, abuses -- whatever. And better yet: Do it with your partner in matrimony and in presidency playing an active role, which, after all, she did in the investment itself.

Nussbaum, in his resignation letter, insisted he was a victim of "those who do not understand, nor wish to understand the role and obligations of a lawyer, even one acting as White House counsel." But no! -- he wasn't a lawyer hired to find loopholes so a guilty client can beat the rap. He was the lawyer for the American presidency, paid by the American people.

Nussbaum never did get it. Here's hoping you do.

It's no cancer but let's be candid: It's more than a mere staff infection

Staffers running on the inside lane

WASHINGTON -- Massachusetts' Third District may be the best represented in the country. Although it is currently represented by Republican Peter Blute, it is being shadowed by the man who wants to take his job next November, Jim McGovern.

McGovern is not your typical challenger. Only 34 years old, he already has more experience on Capitol Hill than most members of Congress. His Rolodex includes powerful friends like White House senior adviser George Stephanopoulos and Communications Director Mark Gearan -- both of whom have planned campaign appearances on his behalf. Perhaps more important, he will be running with the help of his boss for the past 13 years -- Rep. Joe Moakley, D-Mass., chairman of the powerful House Rules Committee.

Two years after voters' anti-incumbency fervor elected self-proclaimed "outsiders" like Blute in a historic turnover in Congress, a collection of well-connected insiders are planning their revenge. Although this year promises another large turnover on Capitol Hill, many of those running are congressional staffers like McGovern who seek to use their intimate knowledge of Capitol Hill as a stepping stone to higher office.

Although each election cycle brings with it a new crop of staffer-candidates, rarely are there as many viable ones as this year. Besides McGovern, staffers are considered serious candidates in several upcoming elections: In Oklahoma, Democrat Dan Webber, the 28-year-old press secretary to Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., is the leading candidate to fill the seat recently vacated by Rep. Glenn English who left to take a position with an interest group. In Illinois, Republican Ray LaHood, chief of staff to House Minority Leader Robert Michel, is leading the field of candidates who want to replace his retiring boss; and in Maryland, Neil Dhillon a former staffer for Rep. Robert Matsui, D-Calif., is gearing up to run against freshman Rep. Roscoe Bartlett, R-Md. Other examples abound in both parties.

In a chamber where senior staffers often wield nearly as much power as their bosses, staffer-candidates like McGovern enjoy considerable advantages in fund raising over other challengers. In the case of McGovern, his Capitol Hill experience has already allowed him to show his clout to the voters of the third district.

His chance came last fall, when he played a pivotal role in securing $1.4 million in federal funds for the Worcester-based Massachusetts Biotechnology Research Institute. Although Blute had met with an institute representative on several occasions, he was surprised to learn that the grant had been awarded. He was even more surprised to find out who was taking credit for it in his local paper -- McGovern.

"It was a bit disconcerting," Blute now says of learning that his likely opponent next fall had already delivered a project to his district. "I would say it's certainly strange to be in meetings here in Washington and have one of the people at those meetings obviously running against you," Blute told our associate Jan Moller.

McGovern, on the other hand, is unapologetic when called an insider. "I'll take the title if you take the definition," he said. (An insider is) "someone who knows the process, and in the end can deliver. In my mind it's a waste to send someone to Capitol Hill who can't do anything."

McGovern, who remains on the Rules Committee staff -- albeit out of Moakley's Boston office -- until the end of this month, is getting plenty of help in "doing something."

McGovern is not your typical challenger operated by Kirby's department since June of last year, when a lease of the facility was foreclosed upon.

"The stadium needs to be renovated," Kirby said. "The metal structure must be repaired, electrical and plumbing systems have to be brought up to code and some roof work is necessary."

Kirby told the commissioners he has applied for two separate grants which may supply some of the funds needed for the repairs. "So far we've been rejected for one of the applications, but the other one is still pending," he said.

Kirby estimates the total cost of putting the stadium back in prime condition would be between $320,000 and $420,000. He said the lower figure would stand if it were found that no lead is found in the old paint on the facility.

"Sanford's stadium is the only baseball stadium in Seminole County," Kirby said, "and the interest is great."

Near the conclusion of Monday night's regular commission meeting, Seminole High School head baseball coach Mike Powers addressed the commissioners. "I came to this area because of my interest in baseball and especially that stadium," he said. "It has great historic value, and I believe we should do everything we can to preserve it."

Powers said he had driven by the stadium on his way to the meeting, and observed the sign dedicating the structure to the men and women who had served Seminole County in all wars.

"We have many large baseball organizations in this area," he said. "But many teams find it necessary to drive to Orlando or Kissimmee to have a good stadium."

He added, "And when they do that, they take their money with them and spend it in those cities. That certainly isn't helping us any."

Regarding obtaining financing to refurbish the stadium, Powers said there should be many ways to obtain the money. "In the long run," he said, "once it's back in shape, it could be a real money-maker for the city."

Powers said he would welcome the opportunity to work with the city in helping get the stadium back into top-flight operations.

When he urged the commissioners to give serious consideration to improving the facility, Mayor Bettye Smith responded. "Believe me, you're just preaching to the choir. Every one of us is all in favor of it. It's just a matter of financing the project."

At the mayor's request, Powers agreed to research how other areas obtained funding for the upkeep of their stadiums, and work with the city in seeking such support.

Streaker

During the late 1970s, a lad of running naked through crowded football or soccer stadiums captured international publicity. Television viewers even got a momentary glimpse of a streaker on stage during one Academy Awards presentation. The fad quickly faded.

Police are looking for the prowler who jogs in the buff. He is described as a white male about 30 years old, six feet tall, 250 pounds with short black hair.

There was no report of a naked man in the area on the overnight incident reports last night, according to Ed McDonough, the sheriff's public information officer. "Maybe he decided it was too cool last night," he quipped. The overnight low temperature in Sanford was 48.

"We will try to increase patrols in the area," he added, "but you can't put a deputy there all night waiting for this guy to show up again. We just hope somebody sees him and at least gets a description. Something a little better than a guy with no clothes on."

McDonough said Loch Arbor does not have a Neighborhood Watch program. "Maybe they will now," he added.

Tonya Harding pleads guilty, agrees to leave figure skating

By BOB BAUM
AP Sports Writer

PORTLAND, Ore. — In a quiet voice in a packed courtroom, Tonya Harding gave up her sport in exchange for staying out of prison.

Tonya Harding, national figure skating champion, became Tonya Harding, convicted felon. She pleaded guilty to conspiring to hinder prosecutors in investigating the attack on her rival, Nancy Kerrigan, and resigned from the U.S. Figure Skating Association.

"I'd just like to say I'm really sorry I interfered," she told the judge on Wednesday.

Harding will get no jail time and will not be prosecuted in any other jurisdiction. But, at age 23, her competitive career is over, and $160,000 in fines and court costs won't leave much money from her lucrative deal with the television show "Inside Edition."

As part of the agreement with prosecutors, Harding must get a psychiatric evaluation and undergo counseling.

"I am committed to seeking professional help and turning my full attention to getting my personal life in order," Harding said. "This objective is more important than my figure skating."

Harding was to have left the country this morning to skate in next week's world championships in Japan. Now, her travel is restricted to Oregon, Washington and California during three years of probation.

Without her USFSA membership, she can't compete in any amateur event and is barred from the two lucrative pro-am competitions. Promoters may not want her in ice shows, given the taint of the Kerrigan affair.

Ending Harding's competitive skating career was important to deputy district attorney Norm Frink, who watched in frustration as she maneuvered in court to avoid discipline from the U.S. Olympic Committee and the USFSA.

"I think it was a matter of justice," Frink said. "What made this case especially significant was the attempt to defraud a national institution."

Kerrigan was struck above the right knee in Detroit on Jan. 6, knocking her out of the national championships and leaving Harding free to win the title and a spot on the Olympic team.

Harding's ex-husband, Jeff Gillooly, said she was in on the plot and gave the final go-ahead to eliminate Kerrigan from the event.

In her guilty plea, Harding admitted to conspiring with Gillooly and her bodyguard Shawn Eckardt to concoct a false alibi only hours after her return from the nationals on Jan. 10.

Left unresolved is the central question: Was Harding in on the plot?

Frink insists the answer is yes. "There is obviously substantial evidence for her involvement in the conspiracy and the aiding and abetting of the assault," he said.

Judge Donald Londer ordered Harding to pay a $100,000 fine, $10,000 in prosecution expenses and contribute $50,000 to Special Olympics. She also will serve 500 hours of community service.

Asked if she suffered from any emotional or psychological problems, Harding paused, then said, "I don't know."

After the hearing, Harding thanked her family and friends, then asked reporters to "please give me my time and my space."

"Perhaps the only good thing to come of it is the realization by Tonya Harding that perhaps she has placed too much value on her goals and not enough value on herself as a person," said her attorney, Bob Weaver.

Kerrigan's father, Daniel, said at the family home in Stoneham, Mass., Wednesday night that Nancy and the family wanted more time before commenting.

Bob Fields, a neighbor of the Kerrigans, said the conviction "will get Nancy off the hook."

"There's been too much pressure on her. The newspapers built her up as a queen and now they're tearing her apart," Fields said. "I hope this puts it to rest."

William Hybl, chairman of the figure skating panel that investigated Harding, said she still could be stripped of her national skating title.

And a U.S. Olympic source, speaking on condition of anonymity, told the AP that Harding may have to return training money and mementos given to team members, such as rings.

Gillooly pleaded guilty to racketeering and faces 19 months in prison.

Charter

be taken up in the next series of meetings, when CRC members will decide which, if any, proposals will be placed on the November ballot. The next meeting will be held April 14 at 4 p.m. in the County Services Building. The public is invited, but no formal testimony will be taken.

Several CRC members have sought to place more control back in the hands of the elected county commissioners. Although commissioners select their manager, that person then takes on most of the control of county operations under the present charter. Commissioners are left to propose changes or authorize the manager to make others, but cannot involve themselves in daily functions of the county.

Commissioners can, and do, complain about problems and management often responds. If management does not, then they oust the manager like three commissioners voted to do in 1989 when Ken Hooper was forced to resign by Sandra Glenn, Jennifer Kelley and Pat Warren. Hooper's two deputies resigned in support, leaving a senior management vacuum for 17 months until Clearwater City Manager Ron Rabun began work in March 1991.

The county budget is prepared by the manager and left to commissioners to either approve it or make modifications.

Kwiatkowski, Larry Dale, Ben Tucker and other CRC members have sought greater responsiveness to the public by allowing commissioners to make written comments on annual performance reviews of department heads. The suggestion met with mixed public response during the last CRC hearing Feb. 9.

In an issue paper, Kwiatkowski outlined his reasons for the proposals. The current system isolates staff from voters, access to staff by commissioners or the public is funneled through the manager, the commission's only check and balance on the manager is termination.

Kwiatkowski explained this morning that firing a county manager shouldn't be the only recourse available to commissioners. "That's kind of throwing the baby out with the bath water," he said. A county auditor would not replace the current finance director, who serve the court clerk, but would answer to commissioners to assure staff operations are functioning as they intend.

"If staff says it's black outside, I want the commission to at least have the ability to have someone stick their head outside," Kwiatkowski said.

Kwiatkowski said he believes the county attorney should be answerable to commission first because it is they, not the county manager, who gets sued. The same attorney can respond to management legal needs as well, he said.

The county also needs to understand what the impacts of proposed changes are doing to residents and businessmen, said Kwiatkowski. A staff-proposed change to the arbor ordinance would require the trunks of replacement trees to be 2 1/2 inches in diameter, instead of the current two inches, he said. Although only a 20 percent increase in size, Kwiatkowski said the cost of the tree doubles.

Another staff proposal would create a undefined tree fund if trees are removed. The two proposals will affect homebuyers, he said. "That's going to add a few more dollars onto a monthly mortgage payment," he said.

School

Schapper said that a pair of Seminole teachers will be sent to Washington, D.C. to receive training in advanced teaching techniques, in alternative assessment methods and in techniques for improving student learning. The teachers have not been selected yet, she said, but she believes they will be selected to teach pre-calculus.

The school district will be asked to "do some minimal funding" for the program, Schapper said. She has not been given a dollar figure yet, but she said the money the school district will be asked to pay will be used to purchase materials to implement the program.

Additional money to pay for teacher training and other items will be provided by the College Board and the National Council of Mathematics teachers.

Schapper said she was just informed by the College Board on Monday that her school had been selected as a pilot school. She said she has only now begun to speak with county officials, including director of high school education, Dr. Tom Marcy, and executive director of instructional services, Dr. Marion Dailey.

"We haven't made any specific plans yet," Schapper said. "We just started working out the details."

A regional representative of the College Board is expected to be in town soon to help the district better formulate plans.

The Pacesetter program, Schapper said, is an educational reform project designed for U.S. high schools that integrates high academic standards for all students, teacher preparation designed to assist students to achieve those standards, and a variety of assessments that measure student achievement and help teachers to modify instruction to meet the learning needs of the students.

The program, she said, is based on the idea that all students can learn and can achieve educational excellence if the schools set high academic standards for all students and maintain high expectations of them.

It is the goal of the program to eliminate student tracking. It also seeks to advance educational excellence for all students.

"We are talking about bringing students who might otherwise not pursue that fourth year of math," Schapper said. "We want to show that all students can learn and succeed in school."

Other pilot programs in the country will focus their attention on other academic areas, Schapper said.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

End of weapons-grade plutonium

WASHINGTON — Russia has agreed to phase out over several years the production of weapons-grade plutonium, marking the end of such production by the world's five declared nuclear nations.

Under an agreement signed Wednesday by Russia and the United States, Russia will end the operation of its weapons plutonium-producing reactors at Tomsk in Siberia and at Krasnoyarsk in south-central Russia once replacement power sources are constructed.

The three reactors at those sites are the only remaining reactors in Russia that produce steam for heat and electricity for the populace as well as plutonium for weapons.

With their shutdown, Russia no longer would have any reactors designed specifically to produce weapons-grade plutonium. The United States for some time has not produced plutonium because of its substantial stockpiles of the material. Three other acknowledged nuclear countries also have ceased production of the weapons material.

Concern over shortage of options

WASHINGTON — U.S. officials are concerned over the shortage of options available if the Clinton administration concludes that North Korea, as is suspected, is embarked on a nuclear weapons program.

The preferred U.S. option for confronting a North Korea intent on joining the nuclear club is to persuade the U.N. Security Council to impose economic sanctions against the communist nation.

But the three Asian countries with the largest stake in the issue — China, Japan and South Korea — all have indicated varying degrees of resistance to economic sanctions, the officials said Wednesday.

All prefer to deal with North Korea diplomatically, but the United States is concerned that the time for diplomacy may be running out.

Judiciary Committee defeats effort

WASHINGTON — The House Judiciary Committee defeated an effort to let aged, harmless prisoners go free as it labored over a measure that would impose life sentences without parole on some three-time losers.

The action came the same day it was revealed that the federal judges told Congress that they oppose key portions of the Senate-passed crime bill, including mandatory minimum sentences such as that included in the "three strikes and you're out" measures.

The House committee was to continue work today on a three-strikes measure and numerous other crime bills that, if passed by the full House, would be worked out in conference with the Senate.

WORLD BRIEFS

Defense meetings begin

MOSCOW — Defense Secretary William Perry began a series of meetings with his Russian counterpart today to discuss lingering nuclear and other issues as both nations scale back their defenses.

Perry and an entourage of military and civilian aides sat down with Gen. Pavel Grachev, Russia's defense minister, in a meeting that kicked off a week-long visit by Perry to four former Soviet republics with an agenda of arms control and defense conversion.

Grachev and a group of Russian generals warmly greeted Perry and congratulated him on his recent promotion to defense secretary.

"I am very glad that this position was given to a person who knows relations with Russia quite well and will promote continued relations," Grachev said. "I'm very glad Russia is one of the first countries you visited."

Lawmakers' forensic food fight over health reform

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The term "Oxford-style debate" doesn't quite capture what transpired on the floor of the House. Democrats and Republicans staged a forensic food fight, hectoring, heckling and haranguing each other over health reform.

It was part drama, part farce, with lawmakers' blustering and bullying for nearly two hours over whose health plan posed a bigger threat to the republic.

The Republicans repeatedly played their trump card, citing chapter and verse from the 1,342-page Clinton health plan. They called it a recipe for health care rationing and an impending calamity for small business.

"We ought to quit lying to ourselves about the power of government to play King Canute and tell the waves to stop coming in," House Minority Whip Newt Gingrich said.

The debate — an experiment to get away from scripts and encourage unfettered exchanges in Congress — got personal.

Gingrich told of a daughter with a pre-existing condition, and House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt told of his son's "lethal" cancer.

And Rep. Rosa L. DeLauro, D-Conn., said she came "to this health care debate as a cancer survivor."

The Republicans fired back with barbed criticisms of the Clinton plan, especially its mandatory insurance-purchasing alliances.

Gingrich said, "I absolutely want to see that every American gets coverage," but Clinton's bill was not the way to do it.

"I know you want us to defend every word on every page of the bill. That's fine, that's a great debate technique," Gephardt said.

Four of the eight debaters had spent the day battling in the House Ways and Means health subcommittee over a modified version of the Clinton health bill.

The chairman, Rep. Pete Stark, D-Calif., infuriated Republicans there by suggesting that Rep. Nancy Johnson, R-Conn., acquired her health care expertise through "pillow talk." Johnson is married to a doctor. Stark later apologized.

He prefaced one exchange with Johnson during the debate by saying, "The gentle lady's expertise is known far and wide in the medical area."

"And I earned it on my own," Johnson said.

When Johnson hit into restricted coverage of mammograms in the Clinton plan, Stark demanded to know why she voted against more liberal benefits in his bill. "Did you say you wanted mammograms or not?" he asked.

Stark and Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., mixed it up with Rep. Thomas Bliley, R-Va., and Rep. Bill Thomas, R-Calif., while the two congresswomen from Connecticut went toe to toe.

"I won't support a plan that doesn't help small business," said DeLauro.

"Don't you go home?" asked Johnson. "Small businesses tell me they're barely surviving."

Bliley brandished a full-page newspaper ad signed by 565 economists attacking Clinton's price controls.

Stark dismissed them as "mostly second-rate economists [who] bought their own billboard because nobody else would pay any attention to them."

Bliley picked up a Democratic boast about ending pre-existing condition and asked how Clinton's plan would cure AIDS or Alzheimer's.

"You're brighter than that, Mr. Bliley," said Stark. "The gentleman is hiding behind a corn pone vernacular that does not do him justice."

Bliley said a bill backed by most House Republicans would eliminate the pre-existing condition insurance problem.

"It does not," said Waxman. Insurers could still "quadruple premiums if you get sick" under the GOP approach, charged Gephardt.

When Waxman insisted that "there is no rationing in the Clinton proposal," boos erupted from a score of Republican lawmakers on hand to cheer their side on in the sparsely filled chamber.

The Democrats' cheering section dwindled from 12 to five as the debate raged on.

Historic trial of Nazi collaborator opens

By MARILYN AUGUST
Associated Press Writer

VERSAILLES, France — Fifty years after he oversaw the execution of seven Jews in Nazi-occupied France, Paul Touvier today becomes the first, and perhaps the last, Frenchman to be tried for crimes against humanity.

The trial is a historic milestone for a nation that has struggled to come to terms with its World War II past, when the heroics of Resistance fighters coincided with outrages committed by Nazi collaborators.

Touvier, who will turn 79 on April 3, served as intelligence chief for the collaborationist Vichy regime's militia in the Lyon area, working closely with the Gestapo. He is charged with complicity in the killings of seven Jews in June 1944.

Sheltered by elements of the Roman Catholic Church during decades as a fugitive, pardoned at one point by a prime minister, Touvier now faces justice because of relentless determination by Jewish and Resistance groups.

They sought not only to hold Touvier accountable for his acts, but to document definitively the extent of Vichy's complicity in anti-Jewish activities, including roundups and deportations to Nazi concentration camps.

Touvier had been allowed to remain free during the lengthy legal proceedings leading up to the trial. But on Wednesday he turned himself in to authorities and will be lodged for the duration of the trial at a women's prison in Versailles, close to the courthouse.

During court sessions, Touvier will sit in a bulletproof glass-enclosed booth, communicating with his lawyer through an intercom system. His son, Pierre, is expected to assist the defense team.

Touvier's lawyer, Jacques Tremollet de Villers, has compared his client to the hero of Steven Spielberg's new film, "Schindler's List." He said Touvier actually saved 93 people's lives by persuading the Gestapo to settle for seven executions instead of 100 in retaliation for the assassination of a Vichy official.

For the 45 years that preceded his arrest at a Roman Catholic priory in Nice in 1989, Touvier was a fugitive, moving from convent to monastery under assumed names with his wife and two children in tow.

He surfaced briefly after Premier Georges Pompidou pardoned him in 1971 at the behest of church officials.

But Resistance groups and Jewish survivors, outraged by the pardon, came forward with evidence to bring new charges. Again, Touvier disappeared, and was not found until his arrest in 1989.

Among the many witnesses expected to testify during the trial is Premier Edouard Balladur, a presidential aide at the time of the 1971 pardon. Historians, Holocaust survivors and other government officials also are expected to testify.

Some Frenchmen who collaborated with the Nazis during World War II were tried for treason, but none for crimes against humanity arising from French complicity in roundups and deportations of Jews.

Three other Frenchmen have been charged with crimes against humanity, but two died before they were brought to trial.

Lawyers finalizing 7,000 breast implant settlements

By JAY REEVES
Associated Press Writer

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. — Women who reported health problems from silicone breast implants are on the verge of a $4.75 billion settlement with the implant makers.

Lawyer for both sides negotiated until almost midnight Wednesday in hopes of getting a final agreement to U.S. District Judge Sam Pufuter, who is presiding over 7,000 federal lawsuits that were consolidated into one package.

They planned to talk again today.

Implant manufacturers including Dow Corning Corp. already have agreed to pay 85 percent of the $4.75 billion. Knowles said attorneys for women wanted 3M to pay most of the remaining amount.

But Stan Chesley, another lawyer representing the women, said it appeared doubtful the St. Paul, Minn.-based company would agree. That could drop the total value of the settlement to between $4.1 billion and $4.2 billion, he said.

Women can join the settlement or pursue lawsuits on their own. Those who become part of the settlement would receive money through a fund, with the amount based partly on their health. Lawyers said women would receive $200,000 to $2 million each.

Some 1 million American women received implants, about 80 percent to enlarge their breasts for cosmetic reasons. Ruptured silicone implants have been blamed for problems ranging from mental fatigue to hardening of the breasts and arthritis.

Revenge can be sweet

SCC explodes against Western New England

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Sooner or later, someone was going to pay for the frustrating season being suffered by the Seminole Community College baseball team.

On Wednesday afternoon, that someone turned out to be the Western New England College Golden Bears, who came out on the short end of a 14-3 blowout at Raider Field as SCC (9-14) posted season highs in runs, hits (16), and stolen bases (seven).

The win snapped a three-game losing streak for SCC.

Also, the Raiders used the same weapon — the big inning — that so many opponents have employed against them this season, breaking open a 5-3 game with a nine-run outburst in the bottom of the eighth inning.

Larry Hardy, a freshman out of Okeechobee High School, opened the SCC eighth inning with a single to left. The next seven Raiders followed suit as Johnny Goodrich, Isaac Cruz, Ricky Eckstein, Pete Bezeredi, Nole Elizer, Demy Beamon, and Lee Logsdon hit consecutive singles before the first out was recorded.

Eckstein, a product of Seminole High School, added another single later in the inning.

Freshman right-hander Rob Morgan, another Seminole High alumnus, was the beneficiary of the Raider assault as he evened his personal record at 1-1. Morgan allowed two runs (one earned) on four hits over six innings while striking out four and walking five.

Chad Wood pitched the seventh and eighth innings for the Raiders before Linden Rice closed out the win with a scoreless ninth inning.

Hardy and Eckstein each had three singles to lead the SCC attack. Hardy scored two runs and drove in two runs while Eckstein scored twice and had one RBI. Cruz finished with two singles, one run scored, and an RBI.

Eight other Raiders had one hit

Bezeredi and Beamon (a 1982 graduate of Seminole High) each had a single, a run scored, and an RBI. Logsdon singled home a run.

Seminoles steal win from Hawks, DiTore

From Staff Reports

WINTER SPRINGS — Just because you pitch well — even to the point of outpitching your opponent — doesn't guarantee you'll walk away with a victory.

Lake Howell's Rich DiTore suffered through one of those evenings Wednesday night, arguably getting the better of a matchup with Seminole's Todd Braden yet getting tagged with the loss as Braden and the Seminoles posted a 3-1 win in a Seminole Athletic Conference contest.

While Braden (3-1) turned in a solid performance, allowing one earned run on three hits while striking out six and walking seven in a complete-game performance, DiTore was a little sharper and unluckier, giving up three runs (one earned) on four hits as he struck out 13 and walked four in six innings.

"DiTore pitched well," said Seminole coach Mike Powers. "We were fortunate that we took advantage of the few opportunities we had."

Seminole took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first inning without the benefit of a hit. Jamie King led off with a walk, stole second, and went to third on Cory Gochee's ground out. After Deon Daniels walked, the two engineered a double steal. King beating the return throw to the plate.

Lake Howell came back with its only run in the bottom of the first inning. Chris Tolliver led off with single. Huston and Mike Hernandez drew walks around a ground out to load the bases. DiTore then worked Braden for a walk to plate Tolliver.

The Tribe took advantage of a Lake Howell error to score two runs in the sixth inning. Brian Wilcox reached base on a throwing error

The only time the Lyman Greyhounds were able to do anything with Oviedo center fielder Todd Bellhorn (No. 8) was when they caught him stealing on this play to end the fifth inning. Otherwise, Bellhorn was 4-for-4 with two doubles, two runs scored, and three RBI to lead the Lions to a 9-8 come-from-behind win over Lyman.

Bellhorn's 4th hit caps 5th rally

By TONY DESORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

OVIEDO — Buckle your seatbelts, fans, we're in for one hell of a ride.

On Wednesday night, Todd Bellhorn ripped a two-run, two-out double in the bottom of the seventh inning to cap the fifth comeback of the evening and give the Oviedo Lions a 9-8 win over the Lyman Greyhounds in a Seminole Athletic Conference baseball contest at recently christened Mikler Field.

Oviedo rallied from deficits of 4-3, 5-4, and 8-6 while Lyman battled back from 3-0 and 6-5 in a game that should serve as an indicator of what the rest of the SAC season will be like.

"This game is an example of what's going to happen on every conference night," forecasted Oviedo coach Mike Ferrell, whose team improved to 8-3 overall and 2-0 in the SAC. "It's going to be like this right through the district championship game."

The Lions' game-winning rally began when Brian Hendrix struck out on a curve ball but reached first base when the ball bounced to the Oviedo dugout. When Ted Brown followed with a single, Spencer Munns came in to pinch run for Hendrix and Kiley Calapa came in to pitch for Lyman.

After Tim Slavik put down a sacrifice bunt to move the runners along, Carlos Martinez drew a walk to load the bases. Mike Riggentos then lifted a sacrifice fly to score Munns, setting the stage for Bellhorn's game-winning hit to center field.

Lyman had taken an 8-6 lead by scoring three runs in the top of the sixth inning. Kyle Gaines used his speed to create the first run, turning a single into a double, stealing third base, and scoring on Tommy Dixon's single.

Calapa and Jason Gronert also had run-scoring singles in the inning, Calapa chasing home Jason Shipley (who had walked) while Gronert brought in Dixon.

Greyhound coach Bob McCullough was philosophical about the loss, which snapped a five-game win streak.

"I thought we played well," said McCullough. "We

Reckers picks up two more wins

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — They weren't scheduled to play, but they did anyway.

The Sanford Recreation Wednesday Men's Polar Bear Softball League, which supposedly wrapped up its season last week, extended its season by three games last night at Pinehurst Park.

League-champion Reckers picked up two more wins, beating Dee's Nuts/McCabe 12-3 in the first game of the evening and Neth & Son Roofing 8-7 in the nightcap. The middle game saw Neth & Son Roofing knock off Uncle Nick's 10-6.

Reckers runs its record to 9-2 while Neth & Son Roofing moves to 7-4. Uncle Nick's falls to 5-5 while Dee's Nuts/McCabe drops to 0-10.

Boy deserves to know truth about Dad

DEAR ABBY: My daughter (I'll call her Jolene) made the mistake of marrying "Hank," a jerk who turned out to be an alcoholic drug-abuser and wife-beater. He kicked her in the stomach when she was five months pregnant. Fortunately, the baby survived, and she summoned the courage to leave him and file for divorce. Hank denied that the baby was his, and talked his new girlfriend into paying $600 for the DNA test, but it established Hank was the father.

Since this happened, we have learned that Hank has fathered - and abandoned - six other children by four different women. In divorce court, the judge ruled that $90 a week shall be with held from his paycheck for child support. Out of seven children, my grandson is the only one to get any support.

After their divorce, Jolene met and married "Stan," a wonderful young man who is the complete opposite of Hank. Stan doesn't drink or do drugs and would never raise a hand to a woman. He genuinely loves my grandson as though he were his own, and Stan's parents do too. He's already seen a lawyer about adopting the little guy.

"Todd" is too young to understand that the man he knows as Daddy is not really his father. Abby, how much should Todd be told about his birth father? And at what age?

J.B., LARGO, FLA.

DEAR J.B.: Todd should be told the truth as soon as he is old enough to understand, although he need not be told all of the details at once. I believe that children who ask questions deserve honest answers.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a large three-story department store and am concerned about a potential threat to children: the escalator! The public needs to be educated that escalators are not toys and can be very dangerous.

Parents let their kids ride and run on them unsupervised. If a child has a loose shoestring or rides with his or her foot at the side of the railing, the escalator can pull the whole foot down into it.

There are also accidents involving the elderly. Their balance is not as good as it used to be; they step on the escalator, lose their balance and fall. I have even seen them get on with walkers.

Parents who take their little ones on in strollers are also at risk.

There are always elevators available. Escalator accidents rarely happen due to a malfunction of the escalator; they happen because of negligence on the part of the passengers.

Please don't use my name or city. Sign me...
CONCERNED IN FLORIDA
DEAR CONCERNED: Thank you for the reminder. I have seen the damage that can result from an escalator accident, and it's considerable. Escalators are not harmless and should be treated with a healthy respect.

Try low fiber diet to aid digestion

MEDICINE
PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Our daughter suffers from gastroparesis and her life has not been the same for the past two years. She's nauseated and has a burning sensation 40 percent of the time. How does this disorder start and will it be a lifetime problem or will it subside as time goes on? She maintains a very bland diet.

DEAR READER: Gastroparesis means that the stomach fails to contract normally. This prevents food from entering the small intestine for proper digestion. Gastroparesis is the consequence of diabetes, stomach surgery and a variety of neurological disorders, which must be diagnosed and treated in order for the stomach problem to resolve.

The condition causes heartburn and indigestion because the stomach never completely empties and gastric acids irritate the stomach lining. Also, patients with gastroparesis are prone to bezoars, large collections of indigestible vegetable fibers that contribute to symptoms.

Treatment consists of a bland, low-fiber diet. Medicines such as Zantac - to reduce the formation of gastric acid - are helpful. Surgery may be necessary to remove large bezoars through the esophagus or from the stomach itself.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I continue to have elevated readings of blood iron serum, ranging from 123 to 218. My doctor seems unconcerned. Should I get a second opinion?

DEAR READER: An excess amount of iron in the bloodstream (more than 200 micrograms per deciliter) is the hallmark of a liver-related hemochromatosis, iron overload. The diagnosis is confirmed by liver biopsy.

Too much blood iron may be caused by non-inherited conditions, including various metabolic and renal disorders. If not treated or corrected, iron overload can lead to cirrhosis, liver cancer, diabetes, heart failure, and other complications. Therapy includes phlebotomy (blood-letting) to remove excess iron.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

It is a well-known saying in bridge that if you bid the spots off the cards, you had better know how to play the spots off as well.

In today's deal, North's four clubs was a splinter bid. It showed slam interest, spade support and a singleton (or void) in clubs. It was a debatable choice, a splinter with a singleton are rarely being right. With nothing wasted in clubs, South wasn't willing to stop short of six.

Actually, it isn't the world's worst slam, because of the secondary diamond fit. But South's declarer play wasn't up to the task.

After winning the first trick with dummy's club ace, declarer led a trump from the dummy. When East's king appeared, South smiled. He won with the ace and cashed the queen, but East discarded a club. Still alive, South ruffed a club in the dummy, played a diamond to his queen and ruffed his last club in the dummy. Now if he could just find West with four diamonds, South could discard the jack and queen of hearts before West ruffed in. However, when East followed to the second diamond, South took his best chance, attempting the heart finesse. But it lost and West scored two major suit tricks.

There is a simple way to get home - if you think of it. When East plays the spade king, South ducks. Suppose East switches to a heart. South wins with the ace, ruffs his two low clubs in the dummy, draws trumps and runs the diamonds. His 12 tricks are three spades, one heart, five diamonds, one club and two club ruffs in the dummy.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 18, 1994

Objectives you initially set for yourself are likely to be changed in the year ahead. Your new goals will be more feasible and rewarding.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You should be rather good at ironing out agreements today, yet you might not get everything you want. Be realistic regarding your expectations. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N. Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Do not let persons who are less informed than you sway you from your position on important issues today. However, you must also be prepared to learn and keep an open mind.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This might not be a favorable day to get too involved in risky, financial arrangements. Possibilities that aren't generated from gambles, however, look promising.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even in areas where significant self-interests are at stake, things will work better if you aren't aggressive. Be assertive, but also considerate.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Usually you have a surprising amount of tenacity, but today you might impede your own progress by worrying about things that will never happen. Be daring, not doubtful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today you might be tempted to once again do business with a person who did not treat you fairly in your last experience. A short memory could produce penalties.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your probabilities for success are reasonably good today, but not necessarily from your initial efforts. If repelled, stop, regroup your forces and charge again.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll not be likely to lack ambition and motivation today, yet you may not achieve the exact results to which you aspire. If this is true, your tactics might be the cause.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A bothersome financial arrangement to which you must comply can be improved upon at this time if renegotiated properly. Focus on working out new terms today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Associates might not be in harmony with your stated objectives today and conversely, you may not be in tune with theirs. Each must make compromises.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In handling a difficult assignment today your initial ideas might not be your best ones, so don't lock into a specific way of doing things. Keep an open mind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Both you and your mate could be a trifle more extravagant than usual today and leave some bruises on your budget. If you expect him/her to cut down, you must also do so.

The American Legion begins Diamond Jubilee Celebration

By Bruce Thiesen

History classes touch on World War I, that "war to end all wars." But seldom do young students take with them from those classes a true understanding of the choking mustard gas attacks, the miles of muddy trenches, the unending strands of rusted barbed wire, the bitter hand-to-hand combat, and the 116,516 American deaths.

To the veterans of World War I, their common experiences made them members of an immense fraternity. They had seen the worst of mankind. They had seen lifesaving heroics. They had acquired a viewpoint. They were changed men and women and they would quickly establish a new veterans organization — The American Legion.

From the organization's first meetings March 15-17, 1919 in Paris, to a caucus in St. Louis and ultimately the first national convention in Minneapolis in 1919, these veterans remained committed to caring for their fellow veterans, their families and the nation's children.

For 75 years The American Legion has continued to pursue the vision of the founders. American Legion efforts have given the nation the GI Bill, the Department of Veterans Affairs, and early funding for important social and medical programs.

The watchful eye of Legionnaires helped keep the problems of ionizing radiation and asbestos poisoning from languishing in a bureaucratic quagmire.

Continued pressure from The American Legion has pushed the government to deal with the issues of Agent Orange, post traumatic stress and the mysterious ailments of some Desert Storm veterans that seem to have medical experts stumped.

And Legionnaires have never stopped asking hard questions about prisoners of war and those missing in action from World War II, Korea and Vietnam.

As we celebrate the Diamond Jubilee of The American Legion, fewer than seven of the hundreds of military people who gathered in Paris and St. Louis 75 years ago remain alive.

As I reflect on the accomplishments of The American Legion it continues to amaze me that those men and women could have brought to life an organization that would become a major force in the constant evolution of American democracy.

"I thank God for today's 3.1 million Legionnaires, veterans of war-time service in the 20th century, who have recognized the need for continuing what began in Paris 75 years ago."

Their wisdom, vision and commitment reveal that they were remarkable individuals. They found it necessary to help America deal with a host of problems that had never been considered when 4 million people were plucked from society and sent away to meet the national defense needs of our nation.

They provided the leadership needed for the nation during demobilization when the special needs of many went well beyond the $60 chit for a new set of clothes granted upon separation from the military.

I thank God for today's 3.1 million Legionnaires, veterans of war-time service in the 20th century, who have recognized the need for continuing what began in Paris 75 years ago.

As The American Legion marks its 75th birthday, our members do so with tremendous pride. It is a pride that comes from knowing that the cause you believe in is right, and that the course that was set in 1919 remains true today.

The American Legion Boys State

Each year The American Legion, Campbell-Lossing Post 53 sends to Boys State outstanding high school juniors. Held in Tallahassee during the summer these young men get a first hand view of how local and state government works. Upon arrival at Boys State, boys are assigned to political parties, city and counties. The parties nominate candidates for city, county & state offices, and elections are held under the laws of the State of Florida.

Two outstanding young men of each state are then selected to attend Boys Nation in Washington, D.C..

Post 53 was proud to send ten (10) of these young men to Boys State last summer and they had an experience (their own words) "they will never forget". Our Post salutes these young men and all who have represented us in the past. Chairman of our Boys State is Francis "Bud" Tobin.

Veterans' Affairs and Rehabilitation

The American Legion is an organization of veterans serving other veterans. Post 53 has at the veterans disposal Service Officer, Jack Higgins, who is at Post 53 every Wednesday to help veterans, their widow and orphans to know what they are entitled to and to help with the necessary forms. He is also there to help if there is a problem with a V.A. clinic or the V.A. Hospital.

Also The American Legion Post 53 and Auxiliary Unit 53 each year make a trip to the V.A. Hospital in Gainesville, Fl. taking personal items and visiting with our veterans there. This year thirteen Legion and auxiliary members delivered over $600.00 in personal items that were collected throughout the year. In addition we presented checks totaling $700.00 for the purchase of television sets. (These are not furnished by the government) These yearly visits leave us with a sense of pride and helpfulness.

American Legion High School Oratorical Contest

High school students vie for college scholarships awarded by The American Legion by demonstrating their knowledge of the United States Constitution in public speaking contest on local, regional and national levels.

This year Post 53 was the location of both the local and regional contest. Post 53's entry won the local contest and placed second in the regional contest.

Post 53 Supports

Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Ex. POWS', U.S. Navy Armed Guard and WW II Merchant Marines by furnishing them with their meeting place on a weekly or monthly basis. Any veterans organization can also use our meeting rooms at no cost.

Brief History of The American Legion Campbell-Lossing Post 53

The American Legion, Campbell-Lossing Post 53 was organized on November 26th, 1919 and chartered on June 16th, 1924. The Post was named in honor of Frank A. Campbell and Arthur D. Lossing, two of the first men from Sanford killed in WW 1.

The monument honoring all of the war dead from WW 1 now sits in honor in front of our present Post home.

The first permanent home of Post 53 was the Log Cabin located on the lake front in downtown Sanford. (Now The V.F.W.) From there the Post moved to its location on 17-92 (now Sonny's Bar-B-Que). It moved to its new home at 2874 S. Sanford Ave. in June 1988.

The Post has had fifty different commanders over the last seventy five years including Ex-Sanford Postmaster Joel S. Field who held that position six times, the last being 1976-1977.

Preamble to the Constitution of The American Legion

FOR GOD AND COUNTRY
WE ASSOCIATE OURSELVES
TOGETHER FOR THE FOLLOWING PURPOSES.

To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; To maintain law and order; To foster and perpetuate a one hundred percent Americanism; To preserve the memories and incidents of our associations in the great wars; To inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; To combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; To make right the master of might; To promote peace and good-will on earth; To safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; To consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.

American Legion Scouting Sponsorship

The American Legion sponsors approximately 3000 Cub Scout, Boy Scout and Explorer unit each year to foster wholesome development of America's youth.

The American Legion Post 53 has supported these programs for many years and are fortunate enough to have two of these groups meet at our Post.

American Legion Baseball

For many years this has been one of our country's best-known and most respected amateur athletic programs. Legion ball has been the training ground for many of our major league stars. Each year about 76,000 boys experience the benefits of good sportsmanship and team play.

The American Legion, Campbell-Lossing Post 53 has sponsored this program throughout the years and the young men who have participated in this program have played and placed high in State Division Competition.

American Legion Youth Programs

The American Legion Post 53 has been a sponsor for many of our youth programs that are supervised by the City of Sanford Recreation Department.

These programs are Little League Baseball, Softball, T-Ball and Bidy Basketball and other sports programs conducted by the City of Sanford.

These youth programs are a positive character builder for our future leaders.

The American Legion Auxiliary Who Are We?

We are the wives, mothers, daughters, grand-daughters and sisters of the men who have served our nation in the great wars. We have dedicated ourselves to continued service to our veterans, our communities and our nation. Through out these United States there are units striving to care for the veterans in hospitals, helping to keep our communities clean and beautiful, educating our youth by offering scholarships for their continued education, reaching out in the community with assistance with food, clothing and shelter for the needy. We support our law enforcement agencies and reinforce the spirit of patriotism by participating in Americanism projects such as distributing flags to our new citizens and throughout the schools,

We are proud to be Americans and American Legion Auxiliary Members.

Joanne Smith, Unit 53 President

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit 53

Milestones in Legion history

- March 15-17, 1919 — The American Legion is founded in Paris by members of the American Expeditionary Force.
- May 9, 1919 — Caucus meeting in St. Louis adopts "The American Legion" as the organization's official name. The Legion's draft constitution is approved, and so is its preamble, which begins: "For God and Country, we associate ourselves together..." The preamble, with its heartfelt dedication to freedom and democracy, is still recited today at official gatherings of The American Legion.
- Sept. 16, 1919 — The U.S. Congress charters The American Legion.
- Nov. 10-12, 1919 — The American Legion convenes its first annual convention in Minneapolis.
- Aug. 9, 1921 — The U.S. Veterans Bureau, forerunner of the Veterans Administration, is created as a result of efforts by The American Legion. Today, the Legion continues to lobby for adequate funding of the Department of Veterans Affairs.
- June 15, 1923 — The first "Flag Code" is drafted during a conference called by The American Legion in Washington, D.C. The code eventually was adopted by Congress in 1942. Today, the Legion is at the forefront of efforts to gain a constitutional amendment to protect the American flag from physical desecration.
- June 23, 1935 — The first American Legion Boys State is convened in Springfield, Ill., to help youths gain an understanding of the structure and operation of American government.
- June 1, 1938 — The final round of The American Legion's first annual National High School Oratorical Contest is held in Norman, Okla.
- Sept. 19-21, 1942 — The Preamble to the Constitution of The American Legion is changed for the first and only time since its creation in 1919 — the word "War" is changed to "Wars."
- Oct. 29, 1942 — The American Legion's charter is amended to allow veterans of World War II to join the organization.
- Dec. 15, 1943 — Harry W. Colmery, past national commander of The American Legion, writes in longhand on hotel stationery the first draft of what will later become the "GI Bill of Rights," the Legion's greatest single legislative achievement. Today, the Legion is at the forefront of efforts to improve benefits for this nation's newest veterans, those who've served during Desert Shield/Desert Storm.
- June 22, 1944 — The GI Bill is signed into law by President Franklin Roosevelt.
- Dec. 28, 1950 — Korean War veterans are approved for membership in the Legion.
- July 9, 1954 — The American Legion Child Welfare Foundation is formed.
- Sept. 1, 1966 — Vietnam War veterans are approved for membership in the Legion.
- Sept. 1, 1966 — The American Legion voices great concern over the fate of POWs in Vietnam. Today, the Legion continues to press for a full accounting of POW/MIAs prior to lifting the trade embargo against Vietnam, or establishing diplomatic relations with Hanoi.
- July 21, 1983 — The American Legion announces its sponsorship of an independent study on the effects of exposure to Agent Orange on Vietnam veterans.
- Aug. 2, 1990 — The American Legion files suit against the federal government for failure to conduct a congressionally mandated study of the effects of Agent Orange on the health of Vietnam veterans.
- Oct. 11, 1990 — The "Family Support Network" is formed by The American Legion to assist the families of military personnel deployed during Operation Desert Shield/Desert Storm in the Middle East.
- Oct. 30, 1990 — Veterans of Lebanon, Grenada and Panama hostilities are approved for membership in the Legion.
- June 15, 1991 — The American Legion's first annual Junior Shooting Sports National Air Rifle Championships are conducted at the Olympic Training Center at Colorado Springs, Colo.
- Dec. 3, 1991 — Veterans of Desert Shield/Desert Storm are approved for membership in The American Legion.
- April 5, 1993 — The first class of recently discharged veterans begins training in Sterling, Va., for eventual placement in well-paying jobs in the construction industry. The landmark training and job-placement program is a joint effort by The American Legion and the Laborers' International Union of North America to assist veterans returning to an uncertain job market.
