Arraignment Set In Kirkland Case

By MARION BETHEA

Orlando attorney Edward Kirkland will be arraigned in Circuit Court on Aug. 13 at 3 p.m. on morals charges arising from an alleged incident occurring on Jan. 12, 1970 at the Regency Apartments.

Kirkland faces charges on three counts: criminal conduct against nature in the incident involving a female under 14 years of age; lewd and lascivious conduct in the same incident and lewd and lascivious conduct by committing an act in the presence of the minor female, with another female. The amended information upon the last count was filed on Aug. 6.

The case has been the object of much legal maneuvering in recent months, and no trial date has been set, although it had been previously speculated that it would be sometime this fall.

A motion to dismiss in the case was filed on May 3, 1970 as well as a motion for a continuance. On July 8, a petition for a re-hearing in a writ of certiorari was filed in the Florida Supreme Court, which was later denied.

Harlan Blackburn was acquitted of charges in the same incident on June 5.

Faircloth Here Wednesday Cabinet Members Invited To Area

By BILL SCOTT

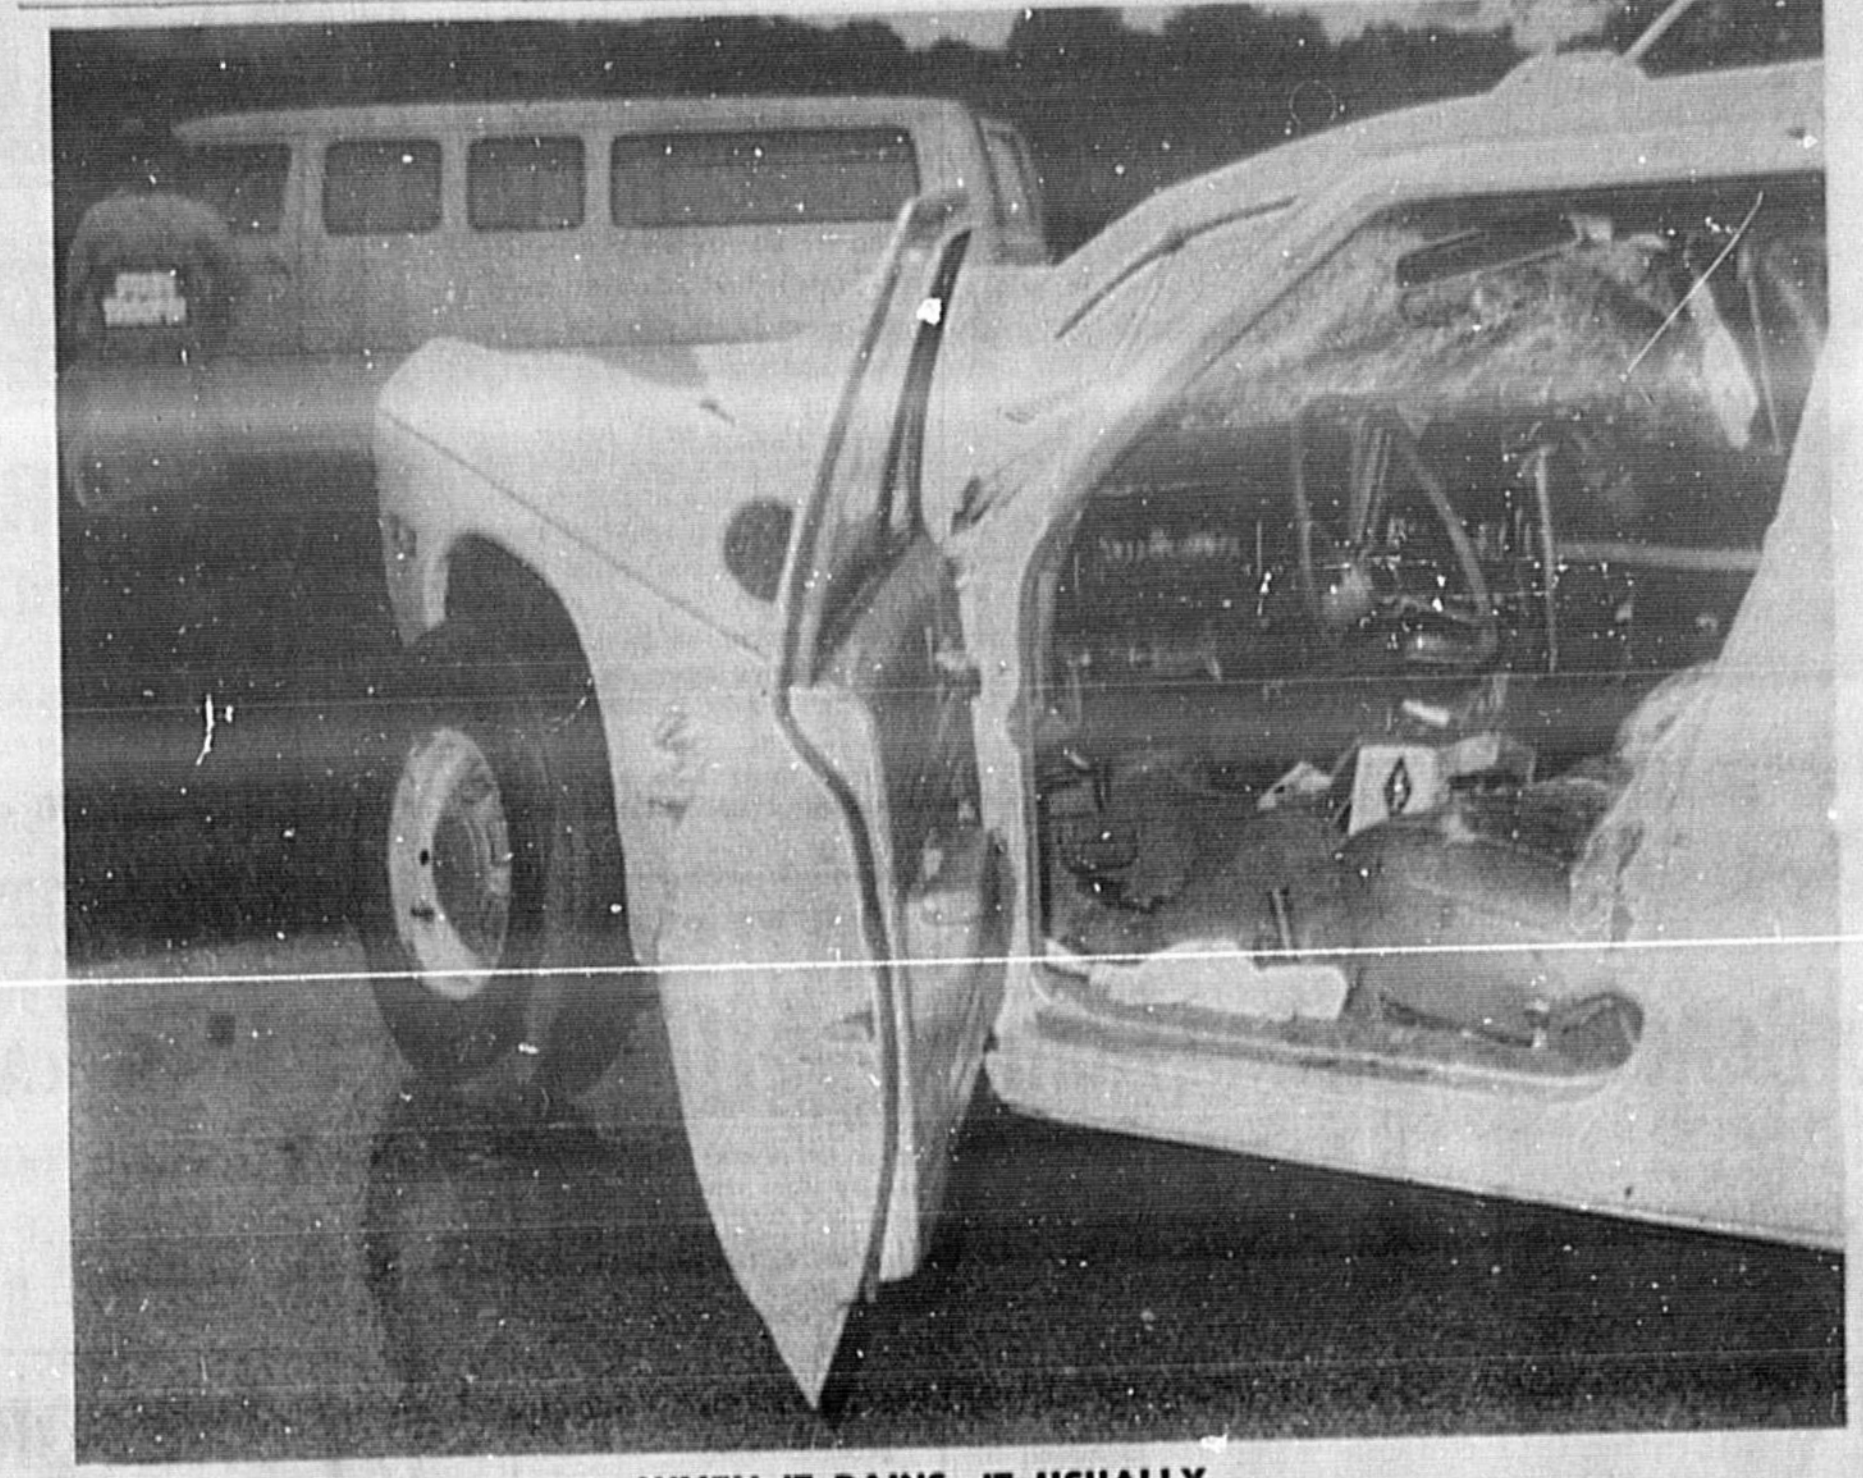

Sanford and Seminole County officials dedicated to bringing the proposed State Police Academy to the Sanford Airport met this morning for a planning breakfast at Holiday Inn to formulate plans to invite State Cabinet members to visit the city during the present political campaign in which all cabinet members are seeking reelection.

Mayor Lee P. Moore opened the session with a breakdown on what occurred last Tuesday at Tallahassee, when a Seminole contingent actively sought the establishment of the police training school on the airport property in a former Navy barracks, building 310.

This morning plans were made with interested citizens to invite cabinet members to Sanford to talk to the electorate and tour the airport facility at the same time.

Attorney Tom Freeman revealed that Atty. Gen. Earl Faircloth, cabinet member, now seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, would be here Wednesday for a breakfast session with local supporters and would be available then for an airport tour.

Marina On City's Schedule

Sanford City Commission will meet tonight and among the agenda items scheduled to be considered is a review of a request to sublease marina facilities.

At this time the city's governing body is also expected to consider what action it intends to take regarding the suit filed Friday before the courts by Monroe Harbours Inc., lessee of the marina docking facilities.

City, which owns the docks, has leased the contract to Monroe Harbours, Inc., under a lease agreement, which is now being brought before the courts to determine whether city or the lessee is bound under the lease to repair the 102 unken and damaged docks.

Monroe Harbours, Inc., contends the city is liable and has gone to court for a legal opinion backing up their contention. The lessee's action followed a letter from the commission informing that Monroe Harbours was in default of the lease by failing to properly maintain the facility.

Meanwhile, a boat firm is seeking to sublet a portion of the docking slips on larger craft can be located at the marina to show to prospective buyers.

Also scheduled to be considered tonight is a request of Dynamic Developers to connect a tourist housing facility being built out of the city limits to city water and sewage systems.

Controversy Continues Landfill Is On County's Agenda

Tomorrow's meeting of the County Commission will again see the controversy emanating from the intended use of Ocala Air Field as the county's sanitary landfill. The county's consulting engineer B. C. Conklin is scheduled to give a report upon soil borings in the area, and the pollution aspect.

At a meeting of the commission on July 29, attorney James Sewell, representing contiguous property owners, told the board that the landfill would be a hazard to the ecology of Lake Harney and the St. Johns. In rebuttal the county's consulting engineer firm Clark, Dietz and Associates said that there would be no pollution in the area, and ecological problems could be effectively handled by the county.

Paul Porter, representing the firm, said that studies conducted by the State Board of Health indicated no pollution, and a hydrologist with the U.S. Geological Survey mentioned that there would be no pollution of the artesian aquifer. However, Porter said that two weeks would be needed for a final report, and although reportedly all reports have not been received by the commission, Conklin will have his report finalized.

Mrs. Margaret Cammack, Geneva real estate broker has been initiating a fund raising effort for a legal battle, and at last report, the total was slightly over $300. Another resident of the area, Thomas Tuck, has circulated a petition asking that the county's present land fill operations be expanded for the next five years and that the feasibility of a centrally located incinerator be considered. Tuck also contends that the site should be preserved for an industrial complex and airport with its proximity to the proposed Sanford-Titusville Canal. He further maintains that a lease purchase of equipment by the county for the landfill would encompass an expenditure of $158,751 as opposed to the present cost of subletting to private individuals in the amount of $78,271 in 1970.

A report will also be given tomorrow by Planning and Zoning upon the acquisition of county parks as it relates to their compatibility with the county's comprehensive land-use plan. Sites proposed are the Wekiva-St. Johns Island Pond-Buck Lake, Sand Lake, Lake Howell, Big Tree and Lake Monroe Park. Deadline is Sept. 8 for the county to adopt a resolution on the parks to be placed on the ballot in the November elections for public referendum.

Public hearings will be held upon extension of water service area for Southern States Utilities, change in zoning from A-1 to R-1A in Highland Pines, consideration of adoption of lot sizes and set backs R-1, R-2, R-1A, R-1AA, R-1C in County Estates zoning district.

Also scheduled is a bid opening on a compact sedan for use by the county planner.

Board To Discuss Modifying Plans

A special 8:30 a.m. school board meeting has been set for Tuesday at the school administration building to discuss the modification of the board's 1970-71 school desegregation plan as it affects two South Seminole elementary schools.

Andrew Bracken, school administrative aide, said the board would be asked to consider changing the approved plan which imposed attendance zones around Jackson Heights and Oviedo.

Board will have to approve the proposed change and then a request will have to be submitted to the Justice Department and U. S. District Court Judge George Young at Orlando.

Judge Young, who approved the board's mix plan a week ago, will be asked to allow the board to modify its plan to effect the changes, allowing that the black-white pupil ratio will not be adversely affected. Bracken reported all county school parents hopefully would be notified by letter sometime this week of the school their child has been assigned under the new board plan.

Envelopes are being readied today and Bracken has been hard at work getting all available information together so parents can be told as soon as possible what school their child has been assigned.

Publicity Advisory Proposes Financial Aid Beverage Permit Sought

The County Publicity Advisory Committee has suggested that a recommendation be made to the County Commission relative to expenditure of funds, not to exceed $100 for the professional type proposal presented to the state cabinet members on location of the State Police Academy at the Sanford Airport. Total cost of the proposal is estimated at $500, and it is recommended by the committee that the county pay one half the cost from its current public funds as a special project.

It is felt that inasmuch as City of Sanford officials and Sheriff John Polk are actively attempting to have the state locate the academy at a site at the Sanford Airport that a professional type proposal would be germane to the issue, and that the attempt to have this governmental facility could be an asset to the county and beneficial to the citizens of Florida as a central location and financial consideration. The proposal is being prepared through the Sanford Industrial Commission.

Application for a beverage permit by the Pizza Hut on Highway 17-92 will be among items to be discussed tonight at the regular meeting of Casselberry City Council at 7:30 p.m. Also on an agenda will be the fire ordinance, an agreement with Altamonte Springs for use of jail, probationary appointment of Mrs. Lucille Kogol as bookkeeper, resignation of a reserve policeman, and promotion of James Thompson from radio operator to patrolman.

'Son Of A Gun'

MIAMI (AP) - Morning after morning, precisely at 8:30, the wall of an ambulance siren split the sleepy quiet of an interstate expressway exit ramp here.

Mrs. E. L. Fleming, whose home faces the ramp, became suspicious of the regularity of the emergency calls apparently plaguing her neighborhood. She called the ambulance company.

"The ambulance company told me that a night shift ambulance driver who lived a few blocks away from me would sound his siren so his wife would know he was coming home and put the eggs on," she said.

"The siren doesn't sound quite so frequently anymore."

Company Requests Franchise

By Marion Belta
NORTH ORLANDO - A representative of Florida Public Utilities has appeared before Village Council to request a natural gas franchise. The company is currently serving Seminole Junior College and has franchises in Casselberry and Altamonte and is applying for one in Longwood. It was stated that natural gas would mean lower rates to customers and that rates are regulated by the Florida Public Utilities Commission. A representative of Suburban Propane Company rebuffed the natural gas proposal with the statement that they were the present supplier of gas in the village, serving since its inception. An article in the Wall Street Journal was cited recently that stated that a national shortage of natural gas is being experienced.

Auction To Benefit Samaritan Home

By CHARNEE LEONE
An art auction will be held this fall to benefit the Good Samaritan Home, said Robert E. Daehn, chairman of the drive to rebuild the home for the aged. The auction, set for Sunday, November 15, will coincide with the Christmas buying season, said Daehn, so that area residents may take the opportunity to buy gifts for friends as well as family. The art will be furnished by Sarja Galleries of Winter Park. The admission to the showing at the Civic Center in Sanford will be free, said the chairman. "I believe the home for the aged gallery showing, and then the auction. Light refreshments will be served also," he stated. Originals, etchings and limited edition prints will be available for the auction. Everything will be framed. The building fund includes $40,000 now, said Daehn. The digging for the footings so the foundation may be laid is under way by the Shoemaker Construction Company, general contractor for the building on Mulberry Avenue, Sanford. "Our secret friend from Orange City has increased his bank deposit contribution from $2,500 to $4,000," said Daehn de-lightedly.

AREA DEATHS

Prior to his entering the law profession in 1927 as a graduate of Cumberland University, Mr. Lake resided in Sanford and was employed in his uncle's Seminole County Bank. He made a brief appearance here as an attorney in September, 1929, when he and his father-in-law were among the defense attorneys on behalf of Forrest Lake, bank president and former mayor of Sanford, charged with bank and city irregularities and later found guilty. During his residences in Tampa, Lake specialized in criminal and family law. He was especially proud of the fact that none of the clients he defended in numerous criminal cases ever received the death penalty. His widow, daughter, son, two sisters, and brother, Edmond Lake, West Palm Beach, survive.

Segregation . . . Will It Die?

By JOHN VAN GIESON
Associated Press Writer
By most accounts, school segregation, an old Florida institution mortally wounded for the past 16 years, will finally die during the 1970-71 school year. But, like a chicken with its head chopped off, the body will writhe in amazingly lifelike spasms. Some 32 of the state's 67 county school systems are undergoing court proceedings of various kinds and will be subject to decisions between now and the opening of most schools on Sept. 8, and, in all possibilities, appeals and new proceedings thereafter. And it is predictable, too, that whites will vacate some schools in which their children are the minority race, that some systems will attempt to dodge desegregation by classroom segregation and that violence will erupt between white and black youngsters unprepared to cope with the frustrations of the experience. Statistically, the picture in the year the federal government has vowed to end dual school systems in the South looks like this: There will be no more than 38 all-black schools in Florida. Last year 193 of 1,949 schools were all-black. On May 17, 1964, the date of the U.S. Supreme Court's original desegregation order, black children attended 472 schools and another 919 were reserved for whites only. More than 99 per cent of an expected 349,000 black children will have at least some white schoolmates, and about 90 per cent of some 12 million white children will attend school with at least some blacks. With the ratio of white to black children holding fairly steady at 75:25 in recent years, the percentage of blacks in desegregated schools has climbed from 53.4 in 1968-69 to 72.8 last year. The percentage of whites in desegregated schools went from 76.4 to 81.1 in the same period.

Proposal To Repeal All Laws On Pornography

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - The President's Commission on Obscenity and Pornography has outlined tentative recommendations calling for repeal of all laws prohibiting adult Americans from purchasing or possessing pornographic films, books and other material. But the commission said in a preliminary report that local state and federal laws should protect children from exposure to smut, and that adults should be protected from unsolicited exposure through public displays or unsolicited mail advertisements.

New Approach To 'Law And Order' In Order

Editorial Comment

"Law and Order" is an issue which has been emphasized by reformers, adopted by politicians and interpreted by professionals to the point that a clear understanding is hard to achieve.

Yet that is just what these critical times demand. Distortion is the easiest avoided if the issue is returned to its place as a basic and elemental responsibility of government.

Law is the thread which hold the fabric of civilization together. Order is the application of law by means of enforcement by police and even justice through the operation of our courts.

Viewed from these over-simplified approaches, the question which now is posed by both the law enforcement and the judicial establishments becomes urgent and alarming.

How can the law enforcement machinery and the judicial machinery, which is the only defense which such areas as Central Florida where drastic change is taking place, be brought to a point where this basic concept of law and order can be made a reality? The threat to our homes, our institutions, our society in its every aspect is grave. Forcible crimes are on the increase. Drug abuse is making its evil way into the normal way of life to the point where it could be accepted as "normal."

Organized crime is here. Breakdown of moralities is as near as exposes on our beaches and in our parks have bantered. Law enforcement agencies are not only aware of these menaces but the professionals who direct such affairs in cities and counties know what is needed.

This is: Enough aroused public support and understanding of the work which our law enforcement agencies are doing to persuade the governmental officials who hold the pursestrings that penny-pinching now is not only stupid but would be fatal.

In both Seminole and Orange counties there is the spectacle of the sheriff's budget request being cut. Our interest is, of course, primarily in Seminole, but it should be remembered that we are close neighbors, that crime does not respect artificial boundaries and flourishes wherever allowed.

When John E. Polk, Sheriff of Seminole County, writes the Seminole County Commissioners and says that he is taking his budget request to Tallahassee for review by the State Board of Administration as the reduced amount allowed by the commissioners would not allow "adequate law enforcement" we believe he is justified.

Such a move by such a responsible law enforcement official is another indication that the whole matter of proper law enforcement needs hard-headed review. Crime is up-dated. So must the crime detection forces be better manned and better equipped.

Such out-grown arrangements as the offices of constable and justice-of-the-peace need to be taken out of the picture. Of course this is difficult. Of course they're traditional. Of course they have served a purpose. But that has been wiped out by the hand of progress. "Law and Order" does involve another entire profession. That is the administration of law which is the province of lawyer and judge. That the judicial machinery should be overhauled and up-dated is no longer questionable.

But this is even more complicated than bringing the police functions into tune with the challenging 70s. In considering the overall issue, however, it should be given a very high place in citizen thinking.

But the immediate challenge is not in the cumbersome and professionally delicate arena of courts. It is in the crime attack. It is in the viciousness of its new infiltrations. It is the need to arm our law enforcement people with the best, not the least, facilities.

Our safety is, in fact, at stake!

Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., says his GOP Senate primary opponent's effort to get Florida Democrats to switch to the Republican side of the political ballot "was less than mediocre."

"Actually, we've been getting switchovers all along," Cramer said Sunday. "I thought G. Harold Carswell's effort would be some help, but our survey shows it to be only about 25 per cent as Republicans, there has been no substantial switch on voting rolls. Last Friday Carswell claimed success and said 2,000 Palm Beach County Democrats had switched, Cramer said, but added that the county elections supervisor reported only 500 persons had made the change.

"Many of them," Cramer said, "came over for Cramer. Once again my opponent has proven to be only about 25 per cent factual in his claims." The congressman said he is the only Republican in the race who has proven he can attract the Democratic votes needed to win in November.

"My opponent has never even won an election," Cramer said. "On the other hand, I have won consistently in a district which has always had a Democratic majority."

Meanwhile Democratic Sen. West Palm Beach Sunday the state AFL-CIO leadership has not involved the working man in the decision to endorse candidates for state and national offices.

"I am distressed and dismayed that Florida's union leaders have endorsed a Democratic Senate candidate prior to qualifying time and without hearing the views of other candidates," Daves said, referring to the AFL-CIO endorsement of House Speaker Fred Schultz.

The 41-year-old West Palm Beach attorney said a working man's rally held in his hometown Saturday night was advertised as open to all candidates, but "only union-screened candidates were allowed to speak."

Daves said he was not allotted official space to display campaign literature.

Chicken Dinner Circuit

Each Of Governor's Running Mates On His Own

By RICH OPPEL Associated Press Writer TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida's lieutenant governor candidates are stumping Florida largely independent of their bosses, one obvious result of squeezing the primary campaign into six short weeks.

A survey by The Associated Press showed that each of the seven running mates has been hitting the chicken dinner circuit on his own.

And most of them are doing so in a planned strategy to capitalize on exposure in those areas where the gubernatorial candidates won't make before Sept. 8.

For some, the strategy has been assigned: Keeping minor party officials happy, organizing a specific territory or, in the case of one, serving as an "ambassador" to local government.

The 1970 campaign will shape the future political role of the lieutenant governor candidate, a post recreated in 1968 since the last general election after a 73-year absence.

Two distinct pressures are felt in those areas where the candidate may not be able to make it, said North Miami Mayor Eliot Glensdanner, running mate to Jack Matthews of Jacksonville, a Democrat.

Party primaries were moved back from May to September, with the post-qualifying period shortened by several weeks, and the general election campaign reduced by almost four months.

"My role, naturally, is to cover those areas where the candidate may not be able to make it," said North Miami Mayor Eliot Glensdanner, running mate to Jack Matthews of Jacksonville, a Democrat.

Glensdanner also said he has assumed the tasks for helping to organize Dade and Broward counties for Matthews, and join his boss for interviews at news papers.

He also is functioning as "an ambassador to local government," a role Glensdanner said he would plan to carry into the administration, if elected.

Gubernatorial candidate Earl Faircloth's press aide, Dick Knight, said running mate George Tapper's itinerary is cut out with the same thing in mind. They are Democrats.

"When the attorney general is campaigning in South Florida, Tapper's itinerary would be to carry the Faircloth name into the opposite end of the state."

One running mate has drawn a regional stumping assignment. Democratic Dade County Mayor Chuck Hall's choice for lieutenant governor.

We read the other day that some editors were taking the Women's Liberation more to heart than most.

Full Cooperation A yellow slip of paper, three by five inches, is the best proof we've seen lately that Washington is trying to save the taxpayers' money.

The printed memo, dated and signed in ink, says: "To speed our reply, we are using this informal way of giving you the information you requested. Your inquiry was welcomed and received careful attention. A formal letter would have taken longer. We feel that a prompt response is more important to you and hope that you agree. Thank you."

We not only agree; we applaud. And we hope other branches of the federal government will follow this good example set by the Census Bureau. The expenses wiped out by the printed missive are obvious in man-hours and woman-hours unspent in dictating a letter, transcribing it and filing copies, not to mention the cost of a typewriter, letterhead, carbon paper, typist's desk and office space for all these—Miami (Fla.) ### Cities Err On Census Protests

By BRUCE HOSSAT, — WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Census Bureau has tried a series of gambits in efforts to deal with the complaints.

In a few instances, they made total recounts. They came out even lower than the first count, which showed population declines.

In some instances, they politely but firmly, they explained in detail to city authorities exactly where and how they had counted, and in effect challenged the complainants to show they were guilty of any important overights.

The most telling thing, however, has been to demonstrate that data long accepted as a clear guide to population growth can be very deceptive.

When city fathers look at new home and site construction, sewer, power and water connections, retail sales, automobile registrations, voter registration, and such indicators, they think they have proof of growth. What they have in fact, is largely proof of affluence.

Growth in housing is not inconsistent with declining population. Census figures show the average number of persons per household slid from 3.3 in 1960 to 3.1 in 1970. Contributing was a birth rate drop in the 1960s. Average number of persons under 18 per household was 1.21 in 1960, 1.14 in 1970.

Domestic Comment:

Conglomerate Resists Reform

By RAY CROMLEY, — WASHINGTON (NEA) — There is much talk these days about reorganization in the Pentagon. A blue ribbon group has issued a report suggesting radical changes.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird is known to favor a major overhaul. The reforms, it's promised, would reduce costs, improve management and insure a more effective defense.

Anyone who has ever watched the Pentagon from within or without knows there is something wrong with the way it operates.

Things had gone fine so long as the economy was booming. But the slowdown brought crises. Bad decisions began to be made. The rule-of-thumb managing, savings, better management.

The Pentagon, of course, is a conglomerate. Like the unhappy enterprises mentioned above, over the years its top men have believed that things would work right if only they could centralize decisions, prevent competition (interservice rivalry), root out overlap and gain uniformity. On paper, this sounds fine.

The situation is like that in some conglomerates which have flourished during the past decade, only to fumble in the last year or two. The conglomerate would find a smaller company that looked promising.

Hal Boyle Says: Dope On Double-Talking NEW YORK (AP) — The class in double talk is now in session.

You remember, students, what double talk is: the saying of one thing when you are actually thinking just the opposite.

This may sound like hypocrisy, and of course it is. But double talk is essential in any civilization. Without it language would disintegrate into grunt-and-sign talk.

For the benefit of newcomers here are a few examples of double talk—in each case the spoken remark is followed by what the speaker really thought:

Florida Weekend Fatalities

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A two-year-old Sarasota boy playing near his home was struck and killed Sunday evening, becoming Florida's 15th traffic fatality for the weekend.

The Florida Highway Patrol said little Robert W. Pullen was crossing Lockwood Ridge Road near his home when he was fatally injured by a passing vehicle.

John Sutton, a 27-year-old sailor stationed at the Jacksonville Naval Air Station, and Maybelle Royford, 59, also of Jacksonville, were killed Sunday when their auto collided during a driving rain on State Road 21 outside of Middleburg.

Pauline Ellis, 32, of Cocoa died Saturday, officers said, when she apparently lost control of her car on Lake Drive and skidded into a power pole.

Fifty-seven-year-old Ellen Dillman of Clearwater was killed when she stepped into the path of a car on State Road 60 in Clearwater, officers said.

Mrs. John Mantalis, 49, of St. Augustine, was killed Sunday when she struck a wall at an intersection on A1A in St. Augustine.

Police said 39-year-old Orville Pruitt of Eau Gallie died Sunday after his auto struck a roadside embankment two miles east of Melbourne.

Askew Offers Challenge To His Three Opponents Appropriations Act, he said. "I know the intent of the Legislature because I was the member of the Senate who drafted the amending amendment which passed in that body and is now law."

Askew has proposed a corporate income tax. In the Republican ranks, State Sen. L. A. "Skip" Bafalis said his first official act—if elected governor—would be to move immediately to enforce state law prohibiting use of state and county funds to fund students for the purpose of racial balance.

1954 WAS THE YEAR for the South High School All-Stars as they bombed the North Squad. ### Old Memories

All-Star Tilt Featured Local Boys

The recent North-South High School all-star game in Gainesville brought back old memories to a pair of Sanford residents. Memories of a day in 1954, August 12 to be exact. The site was Florida Field; the event was the sixth annual Florida High School All-Star Football game between the North and the South.

On the field were a pair of individuals who didn't even know each other. One of the backs for the North squad was Dan Pelham, a 6-foot-3, 195-pounder. He went on to become a coach and is currently in an administrative position at Sanford Junior High.

On the South team, also a back, was Ronald (Lefty) Renaud. Lefty went on to play professional baseball with teams such as Atlanta Rouge and the Atlanta Crackers before settling down in Sanford.

A pair of future All-Americans were in the game: Ed Seares and Wathon Bailey. Charley Mitchell later to become an

How To Drive Talladega... And Come In First Place

TALLADEGA is a real challenge to race car drivers. Read how it's all done in a story written by driver Buddy Baker (just below picture). Baker hopes to be a winner at the next Talladega 500.

As I go down the back straight (H) to (I) I check all the gauges. You've had the biggest load on the car through the turns there and you want to see just how things are going. You want to know that everything is all OK.

Then I check the oil pressure about 30 yards or so (J) before I go into the corner — but on the backstretch you check every gauge.

Going into the corner you let the car go in a liquid motion effect. Keep the suspension free. Don't snatch the car around. That's 20-30 hundredths of a second every time you move that wheel. You have to be especially smooth on a big track; those laps are long and every move costs you time.

You hug that wall tight and avoid the crosswind as you go down that long, long back straight.

Turns 3 and 4 are lots smoother. You don't take as tight a line but the quickest way is to get in at the bottom. (K) This is the best corner in racing. You can go through wide open. (L) to (M).

Now (N), you're out of the corner, almost in the chute. There's a bump. You get set for the straight and as you go over that bump you move over a lap. You go above the bump if in traffic (higher than the rest of the turn). If you bump and scrub you could get into left front (O) trouble. Whenever you scrub you're out of your future lap times.

Along here (O) you're right on the wall. You can see all the way down that front straight and you set up your line for (P) — like looking from home plate to second base. You pick the line that's quickest, and straightest. Of course when you're in traffic you take any line you can.

The perfect lap is the way you can catch up. A caution flag may back up on the field, or you may be able to luck out when you go through traffic, but the surest way to close ground is to turn that perfect lap. If you hope the guy ahead got messed up somewhere, if he didn't just pray for a caution, or hope that your pit stop will be better than his.

Hope to see you at Talladega. Look for me in "Cotton Owens" red Daytona with the big orange No. 6. With a little bit of luck maybe I'll win this time. Sure hope so.

Prep Pad Popping Season Is Just Around The Corner

By GARY TAYLOR
 Prep pad popping is almost here. The fighting Seminoles will be holding their first prep season next week. Next Monday, August 17, all boys interested in playing football will meet in the Seminole High gym at 5 p.m. This includes both varsity and junior varsity players.

Head football coach and athletic director Tom Perrin told The Herald "all varsity players will be expected to be there ... August 17." Doctors will be their to give physicals. There is a possibility that invitation to all football players who would have played for the Crooms Panthers to attend. This is a coaching staff at Seminole.

Once again the Seminoles will compete in a pre-season jamboree. On September 4, the team will take on the winner of a four-way jamboree featuring Seminole, Lakeview, Bishop Moore and Ocoee.

September 18 marks the opening of the 1979 season when the Tribe takes on Oviedo in an intra-county battle. This game will be played in Sanford at the Sanford Municipal Stadium. On September 25 they will take on John I. Leonard High School of Lake Worth in Sanford.

October 2 is an open date, previously scheduled for the Seminoles to meet Crooms. The local eleven will host Crooms Beach on October 9 and Evans on October 16.

The first road trip comes October 23 when they travel to Daytona Seabreeze. On October 30 they will be home against Cocoa High School. Then it's on the road to Lyman November 6 and Ocala Forest High November 13.

The Tribe is expected to be the roughest part of all.

Mincher Shines A's Sweep Pair

By DICK COUCH
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 When Alex Johnson and Don Mincher came marching home, the California Angels and Oakland Athletics each did an abrupt about-face ... and headed back into the American League's West Division title chase on the double.

Johnson, back from a two-week military reserve hitch, smacked a home run and three singles Sunday as the Angels took a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 5-0 and 6-3.

Mincher, a former Minnesota slugger, socked two homers, a double and two singles against his old teammates, delivering six runs in Oakland's 3-0, 4-3 Twin killers.

The two sweeps cut the Twins' lead in the West to seven games over the runner-up Angels, and eight over the third-place A's.

Elsewhere in the AL, Baltimore and New York divided 11-inning struggles, the Yankees taking a 1-0 lead.

By BOB GREEN

 AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Frank Beard took a look ahead to his PGA National Championship after picking off the $30,000 first prize in the American Golf Classic.

"No," I won't be overly glad," Beard said. "I've never won a consecutive tournament. I've come close, but I've never won."

"Actually, I'll go to the PGA just like this week never happened. I know I've recently made it, and I know everything will be right at home. Actually, it was my mother who urged me to come."

The Indians bounced back to earn the split as Tony Horton drilled a two-run homer and Yada Pinson doubled home two more runs.

Yastrzemski beat out an infield single with two out in the eighth inning and the Red Sox straddled Mickey Lolich for six more hits in succession for a commanding 5-0 jump. Ray Culp blanketed the Tigers with all the eighth and received ninth-inning relief help from Gary Wagner.

Bradshaw Shines in Pro Debut

By BEN THOMAS
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 Golden-haired Terry Bradshaw, pro football's No. 1 rookie, has had his baptism of fire in the play-for-pay ranks. Individually, he was a winner, all though his team, the Pittsburgh Steelers, lost.

"What an arm," said Coach Don Shula, whose Miami Dolphins beat the Steelers 16-10.

It was one of the 10 exhibition games—first this season—in the National Football League. Collectively, the games Saturday attracted 459,074, more than twice the crowd for a 141-11 rookie after posting a 14-1 record in 13 games. Bradshaw, who was drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers last year, threw 19 passes, completing nine for 23 yards.

"Considering it was his first professional game," Terry said, "I had a pretty good day. We had great hopes for Terry and we do think things are getting better with the Pittsburgh Steelers."

Bradshaw—called "The Brash"—directed the Steelers on their only touchdown drive, something which veterans Kris and Terry Hanratty couldn't accomplish. Bradshaw was named wide receiver captain of the team.

 American Conference: PITTSBURGH

PROSPECTUS — Tip to old AFL teams: Don't let that 1-13 record of Steelers hurt you. They weren't that much better in practice. Equally important, Chuck Noll knows the league as assistant AFL assistant coach. He's had year now to install his ideas.

Jefferson

Not

OFFENSE
 PASSING — Glamour boy of 79 rookies is Terry Bradshaw. Second rated about everything but his IQ. But he's not going to start earning his big contract immediately. Terry Hanratty has last year for a head start; Notre Dame showed flashes till he got hitized once too often. But don't be surprised if Kent Nix squeaks ahead of both.

RECEIVING — Should be the best department on offense. Roy Jefferson, found his niche and emerged as all league wide receiver. In practice, converted from defense, can keep up with him. And the big revelation will be J. R. Wilburn, a tough cookie, shifted to tight end. He'll be like Jerry Smith of Skins—catch a bundle. Rating—B-plus.

RUNNING — Nothing spectacular, but guys like Earl Gros, Dick Hoak (still around), Warren Bankston (churn out the yards. Don McCall can provide an extra dash on the field. Steve McNair, converted from defense, who played couple years in Canada. A real breakthrough would be an asset. It could be ex-Colt Preston Parker. Rating—B-minus.

LINE — It was spotty to start with, and then Larry Gagner cracked himself up in auto crash and left gaping hole at guard. Hard to tell what final alignment will be. Chuck Noll is being scoring around for help. Meanwhile, he still has tackle Mike Hagertry, John Brown, guard Bruce Van Dyke, centers Ray Mansfield and Jon Kolb (who could be shifted). Rating—C-minus.

DEFENSE
 LINE — What a contrast! The one area where Steelers scare people—starting with Mean Joe Greene, who's sure to be all-pro some day, if not in '79. No complacency on part of Chuck Hinton, Ben McGee, Lloyd Yoss (the other starters) became breathing hard on their shoulders are soph Clarence Washington, L. C. Greenwood. Rating—A-minus.

LINEBACKING — Sure of class on the right side, where Andy Russell patrols with flashes of brilliance. But Noll's got to do it with glue elsewhere. Chuck Allen, who remembers from his days as a Charger aide, is Noll's big hope to deliver in middle—the way he traded Ray May. Carl Greenawald, a West Virginia rooster hopeful. The left side is open country. Rating—B-minus.

SECONDARY — Lots of juggling in store here, but Picked up John Rowser (Green Bay), Ode Austin (Baltimore) since last season. Got rid of Paul Martha, who never quite made it in six seasons. Still stuck with a lot of no-nobles who've been around for several years, on several teams. Rating—C.

KICKING — Bobby Walden will suffice as punter, but it's imperative they look beyond Gene Mingo for placekicking consistency. Rating—B-minus.

PREDICTION
 Fourth in Central Division. But they'll definitely win more than one game this time out. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Dear Abby:

DEAR ABBY: I cannot remain silent after reading about that 47-year-old man making a play for his 88-year-old sister-in-law. This man needs help all right. What he needs is a woman who is ready, willing and able. I'd guess that his wife is able, but she is neither ready nor willing. The fact that she objects to his affections is an 88-year-old woman is perhaps unusual, but it sets no precedent.

And I'll tell you something else, too. Eighty-eight-year-old Mamma may not be as dismayed by his attentions as is her daughter. I was a good man at 67, and still lack a lot of being dead 31 78, and I resent your inferring that a 67-year-old man is a doddering old dodo.

Your answer, "Speak to the man as you would to a naughty boy," is a good one. Dear Abby, just wait until you are 67 and see if you want some patronizing person talking to you as if you are a 20-year-old "naughty girl." Very truly yours,

STILL ALIVE AT 79
DEAR ALIVE: Thanks for writing. I am aware that cupid doesn't work with a calendar, and I know that a 67-year-old man (or woman) can have a lively interest in romance. But when a man that age tries to take improper liberties with his 88-year-old sister-in-law, I say, he is neither healthy nor normal, and this bird needs help—and watching!

DEAR ABBY: I am a hair-dresser in one of the better shops in town. The tips here run a dollar for a shampoo and set, so you know our clientele isn't exactly cheap. We have a money-hungry operator here I'll call "Susie" who talks her customers in to "conditioners," treatments and color, whether they need it or not. She brags that she sells her customers haircuts, then a perm, followed by another haircut (cutting all the perm off), followed by another perm, and so on. She pulls every trick in the book to run up the customer's bill. She makes the rest of us look like a bunch of pikers.

Now Susie has a new one. She has a piggy bank in her booth with a sign over it, "SEND SUSIE TO JAMAICA." We think this is pretty crummy. What do you think?

DEAR ABBY: How important are table manners? I am married to a very fine young man who is kind and loving, but Abby, his table manners are unbelievable! We've been married only 4 months, and I admit I noticed this before we were married, but I thought I could change him later.

He eats like an animal. He piles so much food on his plate that it slips over the edges, and soon it's all over the tablecloth. He fills his mouth half, chews with his mouth half open, and he eats like someone is going to take the food away from him. He doesn't use a napkin. He wipes his mouth with his hand.

Naturally, I don't invite anyone for dinner. Is there a book that tells how to eat properly? I hate to nag him, and little hints like, "Please slow up, Honey," or, "Please close your mouth when you chew, Darling," don't seem to get thru to him. Except for this one fault, he's a wonderful man.

DEAR ABBY: There are books to teach one which fork to use, but your husband needs more than that. With all the love and kindness you can muster, give him a palatable eating lesson, and teach him everything he needs to know. And if he's a "wonderful" as you say he is, he'll thank you for it.

Now Susie has a new one. She has a piggy bank in her booth with a sign over it, "SEND SUSIE TO JAMAICA." We think this is pretty crummy. What do you think?

DEAR ABBY: How important are table manners? I am married to a very fine young man who is kind and loving, but Abby, his table manners are unbelievable! We've been married only 4 months, and I admit I noticed this before we were married, but I thought I could change him later.

He eats like an animal. He piles so much food on his plate that it slips over the edges, and soon it's all over the tablecloth. He fills his mouth half, chews with his mouth half open, and he eats like someone is going to take the food away from him. He doesn't use a napkin. He wipes his mouth with his hand.

Naturally, I don't invite anyone for dinner. Is there a book that tells how to eat properly? I hate to nag him, and little hints like, "Please slow up, Honey," or, "Please close your mouth when you chew, Darling," don't seem to get thru to him. Except for this one fault, he's a wonderful man.

DEAR ABBY: There are books to teach one which fork to use, but your husband needs more than that. With all the love and kindness you can muster, give him a palatable eating lesson, and teach him everything he needs to know. And if he's a "wonderful" as you say he is, he'll thank you for it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a hair-dresser in one of the better shops in town. The tips here run a dollar for a shampoo and set, so you know our clientele isn't exactly cheap. We have a money-hungry operator here I'll call "Susie" who talks her customers in to "conditioners," treatments and color, whether they need it or not. She brags that she sells her customers haircuts, then a perm, followed by another haircut (cutting all the perm off), followed by another perm, and so on. She pulls every trick in the book to run up the customer's bill. She makes the rest of us look like a bunch of pikers.

Vacationing Parisians Are Frustrated Over Booming Prices

By ALINE MOSSY

PARIS (UPI)—Parisians are vanishing from the liveliest city of the West for their annual August vacation migration in a mad dash for freedom over booming prices, the new long skirts and Mania.

"Hush tests, peace plan for Vietnam and the Middle East, that is Gaullist grandeur," scoffs one taxi driver about to take off for his holiday in Spain. "We have but enough highways, or telephones. We must modernize."

One cartoon in the newspaper Le Figaro shows Marianne, the symbol of France, wading in the Mediterranean while reading a list of increases in gas, electricity and rent. The French will suffer upon their return in September.

In another cartoon President Georges Pompidou is forced to stay home to quell Maoist activity across France. The "gauchists" are giving a hot August to the city by doubling yachts and cars with slogans and red paint.

Some improvements

As the last Peugeot vanishes from the side roads to the south, Paris is being taken over by French and foreign tourists. To some the city appears improved in recent years, although not enough to satisfy all the natives.

A half million new apartments built since 1965 dot the suburbs. An office-factory complex has blossomed on the western edge of the city, causing one Frenchman to complain, "Do they always have to copy New York?"

An express boulevard rings Paris; its next link goes under the lakes of the Bois de Boulogne (woods). It still costs $100 to get a new telephone but at last you can direct dial all over Europe. Twelve new underground parking lots are in impeccable taste as to not scare the city parking meters are forbidden as eyesores and only a white letter "P" on a blue sign identify the discreet sites.

Cleanup Program

A third airport north of Paris opens in 1972 and the subway stop at the Louvre Museum displays works of art instead of dreary walls. Paris sparkles now that the hazy scrubbing program is finished, with only the new yellow look of Notre Dame causing disapproval.

"It looks like a gothic imitation in California," moans a French woman.

Tourism, crushed by the 1968 student revolution, improved this summer. But the big spenders are fewer.

"We've half emptied the canidier a waiter at the luxurious Hotel George V. He blames poor business on American staying home to count their stock market losses.

To lure back visitors, the government offers for the first time a "sound and light" outdoor spectacle in English as well as French at Les Invalides, the 17th century military hospital complex housing Napoleon's tomb. As August but there's still the lack of Communist dissent that prompted an uproar in the French Communist party.

The most talked about film is one virtually nobody has seen. "Footstock," the American Fearful it would arouse the passions of the French-Algerian war, the Italian-made "Battelle d'Alger" is banned despite an expensive and sad city that no longer is a center of art and culture.

But at least there is one bargain in town, clothes. Shops are practically giving them away. Who will wear such dresses now that the yankbook? Paris designers have abolished the leg?

Millage Increase Seen

By MARION BETHA

County Commissioners must decide today whether or not to increase millage, to be included in the 1970-71 budget, to fund the new Court House and Jail addition. An increase of one mill would be levied. Commissioners next year, day with fiscal agent Kirk Gundy, County Attorney Harold Johnson, Attorney William Hutchison, architects John Burton and Karl Gutman, and Clerk of the Court Arthur Beckwith, relative to discussion of the funding and bond issue.

It was learned that the county is short $1.5 million to complete the total project of the court house and jail addition. Discussion was held upon deferral of the jail for the present, which would still leave a shortage of $500,000. The total revenue was presented as $3,836,000. This includes $513,000 cash on hand, $250,000 from 3 mills on $14,000,000, interest on time deposits $128,000 and certificate sales $3,818,000.

By law the county is empowered to spend only 95 per cent of budgeted moneys during the fiscal year and has a 5 per cent carry-over. In the figures presented this amounts to $1,145,125. The above expenses do not include an estimated $60,000 by Attorney for equipment.

The commission must make its decision today as the one mill increase in taxes due to advertising of the budget during the time required by law. Public hearing on the budget will be on Aug. 25.

Hospital Rates Up; So Are All Salaries

By HILL SCOTT

Seminole Memorial Hospital daily room rents will rise Oct. 1 from $2 to $4, depending on the type of hospital accommodation to fund a $15 monthly across the board pay increase for hospital employees.

This was approved last night during the regular monthly hospital trustee meeting, after it was brought out by Robert Bessner, administrator, that new minimum wage requirements would automatically mean a $30 monthly increase in February for these same employees who come under the federal wage and hour law.

Rooms rents will increase in the following manner: Ward rates now at $22 will increase to $25 a day; semi-private rooms now at $30 will move to $34 a day; small private rooms will increase from $32 to $36 per day and large private rooms will increase by $2 from $38 to $40 a day.

School Board Offers Changes In Zoning

Seminole County Education Board at an early morning meeting today approved an administration backed modification of the original school board desegregation, which had already been approved by the U. S. District Court which will pair two South Seminole elementary schools.

Board approval of a recommendation of School Supt. John Angel and Andrew Bracken, administrative aide, a request to change the zoning concept of the two schools in favor of making Jackson Heights, formerly an elementary black school, into a sixth grade only facility and turning Lawton Elementary into a kindergarten through fifth grade school.

The action by the board will put 194 whites and 98 black sixth graders into the 206 capacity school, while at the same time allowing 343 whites and 170 black 1-5 graders in the Lawton 568 capacity school.

Angel said this modification would mean a better educational concept, but this was not the feeling of S. T. Muller, Jackson Heights school principal, who said he "muttered" over the change to the middle school program.

The principal went on to mention the discipline problems encountered last year at the school and stressed "we won't have them this year."

A female Jackson Heights teacher, who did not give her name, said the problems of school discipline arose after the school was integrated and was caused by the white students. Supt. John Angel said he did not understand Muller's concern over the change to an all sixth grade.

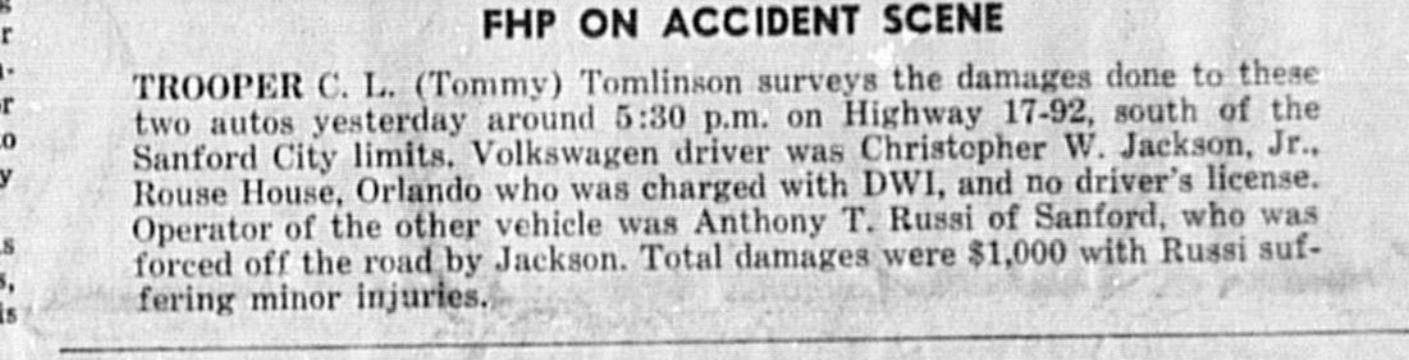

Both Sides

Ruth Higgins, member of a black neighborhood improvement group, accused the school board of "taking out of both sides of its mouth and putting your foot in the middle."

She intimated the board already knew of the impending change of the school from a 1-5 grade to all sixth grade, but before she could proceed with her argument, John Evans, board chairman, rapped the woman "out of order" and accused her of making discriminatory remarks - this program for Osceola has been systematically planned and verified, it is operationally correct and factually sound . . . as long as I'm here, I will carry on 'til my last day, my responsibilities to the public. There is no basis in fact to abandon Osceola. . . I await factual information . . . if the engineers present it then I'll be impressed."

Alexander continued his statement to Mrs. Cammack by saying "If you think I'll sit on my hands 'til next January you're badly mistaken. I'll meet any responsibilities head-on."

(A report follows tomorrow in The Herald which was given by engineer Paul Portee upon the Osceola site)

FHP ON ACCIDENT SCENE

TROOPER C. L. (Tommy) Tomlinson surveys the damages done to these two autos yesterday around 5:30 p.m. on Highway 17-92, south of the Sanford City limits. Volkswagen driver was Christopher W. Jackson, Jr., Rouse House, Orlando who was charged with DWI, and no driver's license. Operator of the other vehicle was Anthony T. Russel of Sanford, who was forced off the road by Jackson. Total damages were $1,000 with Russel suffering minor injuries.

Tempers Flare Over Air Field

Tempers flared this morning at a meeting of the County Planning and Zoning Commission as a feasible land spread area.

She went on to question the county's opinion in a previous proposal, which she made, of utilizing the railroad for disposal problems. Mrs. Cammack said that she had talked with a representative of the FAA and "Red" Cleveland as to re-activation of the site as an airport, and received no opposition from either.

Continuing, she said that Thomas Tuck had also received interest from several parties in sale of the property, and concluded that even the county Planning and Zoning Commission had rejected the site as not being in the highest and best use of the property. Mrs. Cammack said the commission was proposing "a lame duck commission" and appealed to the taxpayers to remember their decision when they went to the polls.

Alexander, obviously irate, castigated Mrs. Cammack for misinformation, half truths, and her political announcement. He argued, John Evans, board chairman, rapped the woman "out of order" and accused her of making discriminatory remarks - this program for Osceola has been systematically planned and verified, it is operationally correct and factually sound . . . as long as I'm here, I will carry on 'til my last day, my responsibilities to the public. There is no basis in fact to abandon Osceola. . . I await factual information . . . if the engineers present it then I'll be impressed."

Alexander continued his statement to Mrs. Cammack by saying "If you think I'll sit on my hands 'til next January you're badly mistaken. I'll meet any responsibilities head-on."

(A report follows tomorrow in The Herald which was given by engineer Paul Portee upon the Osceola site)

Oviedo Discusses Paving

Oviedo City Council held a continued meeting Monday night to discuss paving and stabilizing of Pine Street from Graham Avenue to Lake Jessup Avenue, 1,238 feet.

Orange Paving Company submitted the low bid of $2,467,000, and other bids submitted were from Scott Paving for $4,508 and Seminole Enterprises for $3,700.

The council has written a letter asking Seminole Board of Public Instruction to participate 50-50 in the cost of the paving because the street to be paved leads directly into the parking lot paved by the board at Oviedo High School.

When contacted today, Superintendent John Angel's office revealed that the letter had been received, but because of more "pressing matters" no action would be taken at this time.
