INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION INSPECTOR HERE ON INVESTIGATION

Kapp Reported To Have Suicided

EBBERT COMES BACK

INSPECTOR WENT CAREFULLY INTO THE ENTIRE SITUATION OF CAR SHORTAGE.

J. B. Battle an inspector of the Interstate Commerce Commission of Washington was in the city several days of this week being called here by the action of J. D. Hood and the Truck Growers Association on account of the difficulty in obtaining refrigerators and the prompt placing of the same for the growers in this section of the state.

There is a car shortage in every part of the United States at this time made more acute by the big trade in every part of the country and the fact that during war times no new cars were built, no new engine engines were built and with little equipment for the railroads who have just taken their property back it was beyond human endeavor to keep the rolling stock moving in sufficient quantities to suit the shippers.

The principal kick of the Sanford growers was that when they ordered a refrigerator car for a certain date and were told they could have it placed and started cutting their perishable crop the car was not forthcoming making a dead loss to the grower and they wanted definite information from the Amour Car Line and the railroads as to whether they could depend upon a car for a certain date or not.

Mr. Battle went carefully over the ground here and stated that he thought Sanford was faring equally as well if not better than the rest of the country and he will straighten out the tangle about the cars before he leaves here and if cars are not available the railroad officials and refrigerator people will tell the growers just what they can or cannot do.

LAKE MONROE SCHOOLS GET BIG RESULTS

SCHOOL RECEIVED GREAT BUNCH OF PRIZES AND MUCH GOOD ADVERTISING

The Lake Monroe school has shed a lustre on the school system of Seminole County in a manner that will warm the hearts of all those who are interested in the building up of the school in this state. In the past few years Lake Monroe schools have attained a marvelous growth and from the little red school house it has grown into a mammoth brick building that would grace any city five times as large and under the able leadership of J. Tilden Jacobs and Mrs. Jacobs the school has attained a proficiency that has attracted the attention of school authorities in many parts of the state. The school exhibit at the Sub Tropical Fair at Orlando did much toward attracting the attention of the many visitors to the marvelous growth of the Lake Monroe school and the many rare attainments of teachers and scholars. The following prizes were awarded Lake Monroe Schools which in themselves show the broad scope of the school and the untiring devotion and zeal displayed by the teachers in making this school one of worth while schools of the state in teaching the children useful vocations as well as following the regular curriculum:

- Best Public School out of Orange county, $10.00
- Best general exhibit of two and three teacher schools, $5.00.
- Three teacher schools, $5.00.
- For wheel teaching circle and granthier tree teaching.
- For Agriculture methods and plans.
- For six and eight year old girls in fancy work club.
- Boy received first prize for manual training on articles made with their knives.

Best collection corn fodder, $2.00.

Best collection parsley, $1.00.

Best Beets, $1.00.

Best radishes, $1.00.

Best Rhode Island Eggs, $1.00.

FLETCHER WILL OPEN CAMPAIGN

Speaks at Live Oak Saturday place

Where He Opened Two Battles.

Washington, March 17.—Senator Fletcher has arranged to leave here tomorrow to open his campaign at Live Oak Saturday. He opened his first campaign there 12 years ago and again six years ago. His secretary, William L. Hill, of Gainesville, will remain in the senator's Washington office while Fletcher is campaigning.

Bolivia Expresses Regrets

SORRY THEY ATTACKED THE PERUVIANS LEGATION LAST SUNDAY.

Lima Peru, March 18 (By Associated Press) The Bolivian president through his aide-de-camp has expressed regret at the attack on the Peruvian legation Sunday. Peru demanded compensation damage.

Weather And Crop Conditions In Florida For The Week Ending March 16, 1920

Temperature. The week was cooler than the normal by 2 degrees to 4 degrees except in the extreme south, where the temperature was about the normal. There was no frost of moment in any division.

Precipitation. The rainfall was light, and fairly well distributed—heaviest, however, in the extreme northern counties, where at the several stations approximated 1 inch. Moisture is needed in all divisions—especially in the southern. Some stations report no rain during the week.

Conditions of Crops. The week was favorable for general farm work which was prosecuted diligently. A large acreage was planted to corn in the central and northern divisions much of which was a replanting in the central division. A large portion of the Irish potato crop was replanted in northern counties, especially in St. Johns County. There, however a good portion of the land had been replanted before the cold of the last two weeks, and as plants were not above ground they escaped. They are now "coming up", and the prospect is fairly encouraging. Tomatoes are being set out in general and portions of the southern division. The planting of corn is general in central counties, and becoming so in northern counties; peanuts also, were planted extensively. Cane is doing well. Strawberry and citrus blooms now seen—much delayed as result of recent frosts. Some damage here and there—resulted to citrus bloom and tender growth by recent cold; berry bloom was killed. Wherever protection was given all crops escaped. Ranges are poor.

A. J. MITCHELL.

Trouble In Peru

Lima, Peru, March 17.—The Peruvian foreign office announces that communication was established this morning with the Peruvian legation at LaPaz, Bolivia, which was attacked yesterday by the Bolivians. The minister reported that the mob attacked and burned the offices of La Razon, an organ unfavorable to former President Monte. The dispatch from the minister added that the situation was becoming tranquil.

COLBY UP TODAY IN SEN. MEET

NEW SECRETARY OF STATE BEING INVESTIGATED BY THE SENATE COMMITTEE.

Washington March 18 (By Associated Press) Bainbridge Colby has been called before the Senate Committee considering his nomination as Secretary of State today. The meeting is behind closed doors. Colby's statement is expected to determine whether there will be a long Senate investigation of his nomination.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY COMMITTEE MEETS

Assessment of Candidates Was Only Business of Importance

The Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee was called to meet at the court house Saturday morning at ten o'clock being called by Chairman C. H. Dingee. The assessment of candidates and arrangements for the campaign were about the only matters of importance to come before the committee and after a conference with the candidates present regarding the various salaries it was decided to make the committee assessment two percent which under the old assessment makes it amount to about one per cent of the real salaries as they are now. It was also decided to have a big rally here one day during the campaign for the state candidates and the committee secretary will invite them to come on that date to be announced later.

Field Artillery Unit Here

A unit of the U. S. Field Artillery known in the army as Light Artillery camped here last night and left this morning for Jacksonville. They are making a trip through the south and have headquarters at Fayetteville, N. C., where they are heading now. The unit had two caterpillar tractors to draw the gun and also had a big army truck and a small car for the transportation of the officers. The gun was the American type of the French famous 75 and was some good looking piece of artillery said to be better in many ways than the original 75.

HOME TOWN WELCOMES MARINE HERO

PORTSMOUTH WELCOMES BRIGADIER GENERAL NEVILLE HERO OF BELLEAU WOODS.

Portsmouth Va. March 18 (By Associated Press) The city today welcomed Brigadier General Neville commander of the marines at Belleau Wood who is a native of Portsmouth. A silver service given by the city was a feature of the celebration which ends tonight when the general presents the French war cross to relatives of the men who died in the war.

Private Yacht Aground

Jacksonville March 17.—The auxiliary schooner-yacht Miskery, Captain Waama, with Irwin Cox, owner of New York City, and party aboard went ashore late last night just south of the south jetty at Mayport, the entrance to the St. John's river, during a gale. It was with great difficulty that the passengers and members of the crew were rescued by the pilot boat Meta at 7 o'clock this morning. They were all clinging to the rigging of the craft with heavy seas washing over them. They were transferred to the pilot boat by the use of life lines and were taken to Mayport, where they are at a hotel.

In the party, besides Mr. Cox, were Mrs. Cox and Mr. and Mrs. George Bullard of New York. They had been since January at Nassau, and were en route to New York via this port, when the craft was wrecked. The Miskery was of the auxiliary schooner type yacht, 65 feet overall, and was manned by the master and four men. She will probably be a total loss.

RECRUITERS OF LABOR IS STOPPED

MUST NOW GET PERMIT FROM FEDERAL DIRECTOR

The following letter is of importance Jacksonville, Mar. 15, 1920. TO THE EMPLOYERS OF LABOR IN FLORIDA:

In assuming the duties of Director for Florida of the United States Employment Bureau with headquarters in Jacksonville, it will be the purpose and aim of the bureau to furnish you, at no expense whatever, such help as you may require.

The Jacksonville office will be in charge of Mr. Phil N. Huffman, assistant director, with offices at 120 West Bay Street, who has had valuable experience as employment director of the War Camp Community Service. We trust that you will avail yourself of the opportunity to use this service as the needs of your business require, as the office is being re-established in Florida for the purpose of supplying the needs of employers, and at the same time finding situations for the unemployed workers of the State, whether it be skilled, unskilled, farm help, clerical professional or domestic labor, male or female.

Under the new regulations no recruiting of labor by either private agencies or firms operating outside the State will be permitted, unless credentials are first obtained from the Federal Director, and reports furnished this office as to number of men required, and afterwards a report as to the number required.

The office of Federal Director will be conducted in conjunction with the regular inspection work of the state of Florida, the present labor inspector supervising the branch offices of the employment bureau in all cities.

Applications for help should be addressed to U. S. Employment Bureau, 120 West Bay Street, Room 5, Jacksonville, Florida.

Very truly yours,
J. C. PRIVETT,
Federal Director for Florida, U. S. Employment Bureau.
Assistant Director,
By Phil N. Huffman

OUR NAVY'S SHORTCOMINGS WERE AIRED

SIMS MISHAPS WILL SOON BE FINISHED BY THE COMMITTEE.

Washington March 18 (By Associated Press) Concluding the long arraignment of the Navy Department conducted during the war Admiral Sims laid before the Senate investigation-committee the summary of his charges declaring the navy was not ready at the beginning of the war and violated the fundamental principles in attempting to formulate war plans without sufficient knowledge of the situation and failed to support him properly in the beginning. The cross examination will probably begin Friday.

For County Commissioner

I hereby announce my candidacy for the position of County Commissioner of the 1st district of Seminole County and promise that if elected to do my duty as the servant of the people not only of my own district but of the entire county.

FLYING BOAT WILL REMAIN

The Sea Gull Will Carry Passengers For Next Few Days For Next Few Days For Next Few Days

The Curtis Flying Boat, the Sea Gull, owned by C. D. Griff that has been here for the past few days at the wharf of John Russell comes down town every day and lands at the Clyde Line where it takes passengers for a spin over Lake Monroe. This flying boat is the greatest thing that has come to Sanford in many a day and combines all the pleasures of a sail on the air or on the water and can land anywhere on the lakes or rivers. This appeals to the average passenger and many people are intending to take a spin over the lake while the Sea Gull is here. You can see the flying boat at the Clyde Line dock in the mornings and the afternoons and Mr. Griff states that he will be here all this week.

Constantinople Occupied

Constantinople March 17.—Constantinople was occupied this afternoon by allied forces under Gen. Sir George E. Milne, of the British army. This long looked for military demonstration by the allies against Turkey was marred by only one untoward incident, a serious clash near the war office where the Turks resisted the allied soldiers.

Raising Revenue Big Job

TAKING TAX OFF DIVIDENDS MADE HOLE IN TREASURY

Washington March 18 (By Associated Press) Treasury officials of the House Ways and Means Committee present their views on the raising of revenues to meet the losses as the result of the Supreme Court's decision on stock dividends being untaxable. Chairman Fordney's plan being for a flat tax on all profits with the same percentage large and small incomes and repeat the two thousand dollars exemption. The provision is opposed by the Democratic committee.

Cecilian Recital

The fourth of a series of recitals planned by the young piano students of the Cecilian Music Club for this season was given in the studio of Mrs. Munson on last Saturday, afternoon March 13th at 4:00 p. m. A very large audience evidenced a growing interest in these recitals.

The piano selections were excellently rendered.

Miss Irene McCaigue added greatly to the program's interest in her selection of songs and readings.

Miss McCaigue is a vocal pupil of the famous instructor Oscar Saenger. Her voice is Mezzo Soprano, beautifully trained; added to this is nature's gift in rare quality of sweetness and velvety richness. Here truly is the voice of the Soul and whether she reads or sings the appeal is certain. Miss Mildred Kennedy, a promising young piano student was accompanist.

SITUATION IS BETTER

NEW REGIME GIVES UP BUT RADICALS TRYING TO TAKE CHARGE OF GOVERNMENT.

And undated Associated Press despatch says that Germany has cast off the reactionary regime but advises indicate that Germany is facing another extreme peril in the wave of Radicalism. An Amsterdam despatch from the Exchange Telegraph to London says Kapp has been ousted as the head of the revolution and it is rumored that he has committed suicide, quoting from the telephone message, from Berlin. Other reports say Kapp has fled from Berlin and his forces are leaving and the presence of Gustav Noske who came from Stuttgart by airplane indicates that the Constitutional government intends to assume control immediately. The Proletarian dictatorship have been set up at Dortmund, Gera, Halle, Ohligs, Unna and Gelsenkirchs, the reports say and Leipzig workers have driven the government troops from the city.

Stuttgart March 18 (By Associated Press) German national Assembly here in meeting today. The military occupied all approaches to the hall. There were no disorders.

London March 18 (By Associated Press) Amsterdam Exchange Telegraph correspondent says that Ebbert has arrived in Berlin and the reactionary armed forces have departed.

Paris March 18 (By Associated Press) Official Berlin advices say the crowds are in an ugly mood, the military panicky and many Baltic troops have joined the Independent socialists who are reported to have twelve thousand men at their command.

PREPARED FOR TEST OF TREATY

SENATE LEADERS READY TO DO SOMETHING DEFINITE TODAY ON TREATY

Washington, March 18 (By Associated Press) The Senate leaders are prepared today for the final test of the peace treaty and the remaining reservations will be disposed of before the adjournment if the night sessions are necessary and the possibility is found for the ending of the lobby fight. The efforts of W. J. Bryan to persuade the Democrats to compromise has added an uncertainty to the outcome.

MINNESOTA REPUBLICANS CONVENTION

SEND UNINSTRUCTED DELEGATES TO THE STATE CONVENTION

St. Paul March 18 (By Associated Press) Fifty Minnesota county Republican conventions elected uninstructed delegates to the state convention yesterday. Twenty-seven were instructed for Wood, five for Lowden and two for Johnson.

Weather Report

EX-CONGRESSMAN HAINES

olve our social and industrial problems, we will be ripped assunder from within.

"Bolshevism in Russia will not rest there. Even now we learn that it has a foothold in several of the European states and the arrest of Bolshevik leaders in the United States and transportation of a number of them does not lessen the strength of their movement here.

"Nicholas Lenin, the Russian Bolshevik Premier proclaims that 'Russia's revolution is not a domestic revolution, but essentially a world's revolution. The Bolshevik movement will sweep civilization. We shall shrink from no measure necessary for spreading our revolution in the world.'

"The American people will not need warnings. The newspapers tell of the dangers which confront us as a people and a nation, yet we remain passive, inactive, and take no steps to face the inevitable. I will now quote from but one newspaper, the New York Times: 'It is not pleasing it is even disquieting, to note not only that the present leaders of the Russian revolution have admirers in this city, but that those admirers have openly organized for the clearly proclaimed purpose of propagating in the United States the ideas that underlie and energize the Bolshevik activities. These energies are explicitly subversive of law and order, and, if successfully carried out, they would make life intolerable or impossible for the now dominant majority of American citizens. They are the avowed foes of our institution'

"We feel no imminent danger from these radicals, but militant socialism may be considered the first and the I. W. W. class as the second degree in the society of the Bolshevik, and we have socialism everywhere, more open, more pronounced in the larger cities, but everywhere. On the farms, in the workshops, in factories and all industrial institutions, among railway and government employees, mercantile houses, banks, counting rooms, even in circles of prosperous business men, every spot and place where labor finds employment, and a majority of all of these are native born Americans.

Such a condition of affairs appears inconceivable, yet to those who have investigated the causes which have brought about the changes from our old time American ideas and principles, to those which we now find prevailing to an alarming degree in all parts of the country, it is not surprising. A thousand or more earnest intelligent, convincing speakers proclaiming the doctrines of socialism during the past several years, books, pamphlets, newspapers and other propaganda work with the belief has brought undreamed of results, that are filling the minds of millions of our people that our system of government is faulty and that the new order of things will correct all the evils prevalent, the rich oppressing the poor, class distinction, monopolies, trusts, profiteering, unjust laws, high and unwarranted taxation, the increased prices of all necessities which profit the few, and distress and rob the masses; and that unfolding of grievances most numerous. They reason with logic, illustrate graphically and vividly portray evils many of which really exist.

"Now add the millions who do not believe in prohibition to this well organized force of socialists, and those organizations which will act with them, and again add the millions who believe that light wine and beer is not injurious, and that they are being deprived of their civil rights and personal liberty, and that an unjust law has been forced upon them by a minority of people, and that the sovereign states in which they live have been deprived of self government in internal affairs, and we find that distasteful laws breed antagonism and, then, rebellion against them. We must make no mistake in this, the force of arms will never bring prohibition any more than that morality can be brought about by legislation.

"Was Samuel Gompers, the chief of the Federation of Labor wrong when, with his finger upon their pulses, he said that to deprive the people of the use of light wines and beer would foment a revolution?"

"The American Patriots have given diligent energy in its efforts to learn true sentiments of all classes of people, the country over, and from this through and impartial investigation have reached the conclusion that there can be no real enforcement of the prohibition law: that the people will continue to disrespect even our Constitution, that the more the law is enforced, the more enemies to our government will there be to contend with: that eventually there will be force against force, as the malcontents will organize, and in the end we will undergo a civil war.

"Bold talk. Well it is needed, because there is no use heating about the bush if we mean to retain our great heritage.

"The American Patriots are constitutionalists, organized to defend law and order, but when the patriotic Americans cry out that the present prohibition law must not stand, we can but believe that the prohibition question will yet lead us into serious difficulties.

"May I add that I am personally strenuously against all forms of spirituous liquors and hope never to see an open saloon again, but I believe that a modification of the law so that beer can be drunk by those who desire to use it, would be a wise and politic act, and that the prohibitionists should favor it, unless they are willing to pay the cost no matter how great, but they should understand that it will indeed be GREAT."

Big Membership in New Order
Veterans of the A. E. S. (America's Energetic Slackers), 200,000 strong, in full civilian uniform, are at large in various countries of the world. Many of these men who preferred being a fugitive instead of a soldier fighting for country are in the United States. The war is not over for them. For many years there will be slacker colonies in the jails of the country. Uncle Sam has decided that these draft evaders shall pay the price of ducking the call to arms.

In the Home Sector, Edwin G. Burrows says: "The selective service act is still on the job. A mopping-up detail from the department of justice is busy cleaning out the dugouts where the slackers have taken refuge. Every little while an event like the recent arrest of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the human hyphen who motored about the country for two years trying to get away from his war record, shows that the country has not forgotten those who failed her when she called for men.

"There were over 200,000 slackers altogether in the United States. The reports of delinquents sent in by the local draft boards included many errors, but the department of justice has sifted out about 175,000 genuine cases of draft evasion. In addition to these, there is the goodly fellowship of those who slacked over in Canada or Mexico when the selective service act was passed without sending regrets to the draft boards. There is no record of them and their number can only be guessed, but government investigators place it as high as 50,000."

10 pounds into 100-pounds merely by taking a short trip through France, Switzerland and Italy, says a Swiss correspondent of the Daily Graphic. He gives this formula:

"Take a 10 pound banknote into France, and change it for 420 silver francs. With these enter Switzerland, where they will buy 2,100 Italian paper lire, then pass into Italy and cash into Italian silver lire. You now have 2,100 Italian silver lire. Take these back into Switzerland, and you have 2,100 Swiss francs, as the silver lire are accepted here as equal in value to Swiss francs. Now buy French paper money, and you will receive 4,200 French francs. Return to France, where you buy English notes, and you get 100 pound—more or less.

Practically, it is not so easy, as silver coin is rare on the continent and there is the French prohibition to carry more than 1,000 francs out of the country.

Solitudes of the Earth.

The Bushmanland desert, in southwest Africa, is but little known. A few nomads—some of European and some of mixed descent—hang on its fringe. Here and there mat-house villages, whose dwellers depend on the sparse bounty of the sky, will perhaps be found for a season. Otherwise it is a barren desert of 50,000 square miles.

MRS. W. ASTOR CHANLER

Mrs. William Astor Chanler, who besides being a leader in New York society is a sculptor of some note, has been working in her relief work since the outbreak of the war, and is now abroad for the third time on missions connected with the French Heroes Lafayette Memorial Fund, Inc., and Federation of American Agencies for Relief in France.

NO GROUCHES WHEN THESE YOUNG MOVIE STARS ARE PRESENT

Doris May and Douglas MacLean Spread Gospel of Joy At Ince Studio. At The Princess Today And Tomorrow

Doris May and Douglas MacLean, recent acquisitions to the ranks of motion picture stars, are "the life of the party" out at the big Ince studio these tumultuous days. Miss May is only seventeen years old, and Mr. MacLean is a youth in his early twenties. Happiness is their middle name. They fairly radiate the joy of life and oldtimers on the Ince lot say their presence is as good as a youth-bringing injection as good as a youth-bringing injection on Dr. Voronoff's famous "monkey-serum"

Mr. MacLean insisted upon his dressing room being papered with a blue bird design and amuses himself and others between scenes by playing the ukelele and singing popular airs in a most jaxful manner. He was once a member of a college glee club and possesses a pleasant voice. Butterflies adorn the walls of Miss May's private room at the Ince studio. She breezes in every morning with a big bouquet of beautiful California flowers and presents everybody with one for their buttonholes.

High spirits and wholesome fun are the chief ingredients of "What's Your Husband Doing?" the new screen farce in which this delightful pair are featured. It is a picturization of a well known Broadway farce and will be shown at the Princess today and tomorrow. The film was produced by Thomas H. Ince for Paramount-Artcraft. One more reel also.

Maryland an Old State.
"Maryland, My Maryland," was one of the thirteen original states. In 1632 Cecilus Calvert, second Lord Baltimore, received from Charles I a charter conferring on him possession of the territory now forming the states of Maryland and Delaware. Thus he became a sort of feudal lord, in supreme authority over the colony. Maryland had a long list of proprietary and royal governors before it was organized as a state in 1777.

No Safety in Seclusion.
A good old lady in a town not far from here plausibly thanked Providence each day of her life that she was not exposed to the perils that missionaries in savage countries incurred. As she was taking her placid morning walk one day a branch broke from an elm tree and fell upon her, injuring her so badly that her death resulted not long afterward. Yet none could have lived a more sheltered and secluded life than she.

Curtain At 8:15. No one Seated During The Prologue
An Epoch-making event in the annals of American amusements is the presentation by Richard Walton Tully of the virile-compelling-accomplished American actor, Guy Bates Post, in the iridescent bubble of modern humanity, "The Masquerader." This dramatic masterpiece by John Hunter Booth, taken from the widely read novel of Katherine Cecil Thurston, intimately illustrates the lives of two men who met in the fog and traded identities and living quarters.
The dual characterization offers Mr. Post a wonderful opportunity and the contrasted characters are impersonated by him with all the art of a genius mind. His drug fiend is a pitiful wretch; his Loder, the "man," the mental and moral antithesis of the other.
More intensely and artistically interesting than Jeckyl and Hyde—more massive in presentation than any modern play, and yet, so deftly done, its ponderous scenes move with the smooth rapidity of an uninterrupted panorama, and that is what this wonderful play is—A LIVING MOVING, TALKING PANORAMIC REFLEX OF THE WARP AND WOOF OF HUMANITY.
The most Ponderous of all Modern Plays pulsating with the element that comprises "Life" presented in

According to the Sanford Herald the city has passed a mosquito ordinance, which is a good thing and should be done in every city in the state where troubled with the pests.

AS PROHIBITION GOES MARCHING ON.

"Prohibition closed 177,790 saloons in this country and the news columns of the daily papers bear witness almost daily to the wide-spread effect of banishing the saloon," says Capper's Weekly.

"Last week two branches of Chicago's criminal court were closed for lack of cases and these judges were transferred to the civil courts. Chief Justice Olson reported the number of criminal cases had decreased constantly since prohibition became effective.

"The same day's news chronicled the resignation of Police Judge Little at Mineola, N. Y., because prohibition prevented him 'from making a living' since July last year he had not had a single case of drunkenness and only a few minor assaults cases.

THIS IS WHAT WE HAVE TO MEET

For the past two weeks we have been scouring and hunting the woods over for some print paper. We have contracts for several tons which are past time of arrival in Lakeland even, but as far as we can learn this paper has not left the mill. The following letter is a sample of what we get and what other newspapers are up against:

Richmond, Va., Mar. 16, 19 Lakeland Star, Lakeland, Fla. Gentlemen:

We are in receipt of your telegram in regard to newspaper and regret to say there is no chance of getting any newspaper from us at present as we do not have a sheet, and cannot see our way clear to getting any very soon.

Yours truly, VIRGINIA PAPER CO. The above sized type is also the style that the Star will have to resort to, beginning this week, possibly tomorrow. We would ask our advertisers and everyone who has news of any kind to bear the paper shortage in mind and to not get peeved if special articles, contributions or even advertising are turned down. Like other newspapers, advertisers will have to take their turn first come, first served.—Lakeland Star.

FREE RANGE AND THE FARMER

As was recently said in an editorial in the Dade City Banner: Free range has discouraged the farmer, the grower, the trucker, and the man who would raise the best stock. It has kept thousands of would-be settlers away, and is the greatest hindrance to progress in Florida today. Free range has been the cause of much lawlessness. It incites quarrels, theft and murders. For it fires are being continually started, destroying millions of dollars worth of timber and naval stores, and destroying humus and plant food of almost incalculable value, to say nothing of fences, buildings and other property.

The law-makers of any State will enact such laws as they believe will be the most favorable for the progress and development of the State and to the best interests of their constituents, provided the people representing progressive interests use as much pressure as those representing adverse interests. No argument is necessary to show that a no-fence law will greatly promote the development and prosperity of Florida, but the people who would by such a law have so far failed to bring sufficient pressure to bear upon our lawmakers. Therefore it seems to us that the most important thing is to arouse the people in general to the necessity of bringing this pressure to bear.

The total value of the range cattle in Florida, as shown by the last Year Book, 1915-6 was $11,309,481.00. At the same period the total value of farm-raised livestock of all kinds was $18,560,361.00, and poultry and poultry products to the value of $4,559,876.00, making a grand total of $23,120,237.00, being more than double the value of all the range cattle.

Therefore, even with no further argument, it is clear that laws favoring this greater value should be enacted, and would be enacted, if those owning the property wield their influence.

At the end of 1918, the total value of all livestock, including cattle, horses, mules and hogs, reached a total of $76,000,000.00, an increase of $9 more than $46, 000,000.00—nearly all this increase being in the farm-raised animals. The number of hogs increased from 983,000 head in 1916 valued at $3,362,000.00 to 3,000,000 head in 1918, valued at $21,000,000.00, an increase of nearly $18,000,000.00 in that item alone. The increase in the value of horses and mules for the same period was $8,500,000.00. The remaining increase consisted chiefly of the better grades of cattle imported from other States and maintained in connection with cultivated land. The figures for 1919 will show a corresponding increase in favor of the farm-raised animals. It is safe to say that at the end of 1918 the total value of all the range raised cattle would not exceed one-fifth of the said $76,000,000.00. So even if there were nothing further to be said, excepting as to relative values, there are super-abundant reasons for a no-fence law.

However, we could safely waive all the above argument and pin our faith entirely on the relative merit of encouraging range stock development, or encouraging agriculture. As the average rate of increase in range cattle is only one-half each two years from a cow, it is clear that the total revenue derived from range cattle cannot exceed 50 per cent of the total value on hand, which would place the maximum income at less than $8,000,000.00 a year from sale of range cattle. Compare this with the $115,000,000.00 total crop value in the State for 1918.

While the sight of range cattle and range hogs is offensive to the prospective homeseekers and discouraging to the development of the State, it is quite the contrary as to growing crops, fruit and well-kept stock farms. The more groves and fields and stock farms in evidence, the more it attracts both homeseeker and tourist.

Everyone knows that the free range must go. Why prolong this fertile field for such tragedies as recently occurred in Polk county? The possible profits to be realized from range stock are indeed very small comparatively, and for every dollar made from range cattle or hogs it is safe to say that a greater loss is suffered by someone whose property has been destroyed. Far greater profits can be realized through raising of farm-reared cattle and hogs. The increased value of farm-rearing over range-rearing is emphasized in the matter of the milk cow. A heifer from a good Jersey sire and a native cow, when fresh, sells at a price ten times greater than if from the same cow and a native sire.

In conclusion, we repeat that it will not be enough simply to convince our law-makers of these facts. They already know them, at least in a general way. The thing we must do is to get busy and make our legislators see that we are determined to have this law.

"A FIGHTING EDITOR"

Secretary Daniels, in a recent issue of the Editor and Publisher, says that when an editor of a daily newspaper, he never considered that he was making a success, unless at least two-fifths of his subscribers "hated his paper like sin."

As a newspaper editor, Secretary Daniels was a fearless leader, as he has been since assuming the duties of official head of the naval forces of America. And it is this attribute with his discriminating intelligence and splendid human qualities, which have made him one of the greatest men of the age.

Mr. Daniels started newspaper work as a mere lad, and before he had reached the age of 21, was owner of a newspaper in Wilson, N. C. His rise was rapid and as editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, which he now owns, he was one of the powers in his state, and an important factor in national politics.

Mr. Daniels believes that the newspaper calling is the greatest in the world and that the mission of an editor is a high one.

Of his own newspaper policy, he declares he always tried to take a decided stand on every question, and to fight fair. He made enemies, but his influence for good was wide.

He says: "You cannot run a newspaper successfully without the paper having a heart and soul, and that means that you must put your own personality into it. You can't sit on the fence—you have to take sides. I always tried to get into every fight I fought hard, but I fought fair. Unless two-fifths of my readers hate my paper like sin, I feel that I have fallen down in making my paper interesting. The other three-fifths of your readers will swear by the paper and work for it, while two-fifths that don't like it continue to take it to see what you are saying about them and their party."

"The paper which lets its advertisers direct its policy is doomed. They will admire you more and be more willing to patronize you if you will tell them frankly and bluntly that you are selling space and not influence."

"The editorial page is the soul of the paper, and the editor must never forget his responsibility to his readers, nor must he ever violate their faith or betray their confidence."—Pensacola Journal.

IMPROBABILITY OF A FARMER'S STRIKE

There doesn't seem to be anything a farmer can gain by striking. The old slogan, "shorter hours and more pay," is something that doesn't appeal to a farmer for the simple reason that he knows the longer the hours the more the profit and as for pay—doesn't he pay himself? The possibility of a farmer striking for a shadowy something, void and without form, is a long way in the future, and then only when he has seen the dawn of a method of cooperation more appealing to him than anything yet presented. Each farm is a kingdom, self-governed, and each farm home a castle: The whole constitutes a unit, and if the farm be self-supporting there wouldn't seem to be need of a strike.—Unless something should arrive to strike for—which is not yet.

The man who quits a ten-hour job on the farm for eight-hour work in an unhealthy factory makes no physical gain. The farm laborer who quits for city life also makes a foolish choice. In these days of farm loans, any ambitious and industrious man can become an independent farm owner. As for the abuse of middleman's profits, the farmers can largely break them down by cooperative marketing. There are many signs among the farmers of Florida that they will have gone far toward removing this tax in the next five years. This is one method of cooperation that should appeal to the farmer, and it has appealed to him as evidenced by adding of new growers' associations and the strengthening of the old ones. Willy-nilly marketing has been the farmer's worst enemy and can only be downed by cooperative marketing.—Florida Grower.

AND THEY ALL "STOOD PAT"

While Mr. James Corbett, Who Had Manipulated the Deck, Sat Apart and Laughed.

In a club much frequented by men of the theatrical business, a poker game which began as a mere pastime grew, by degrees, to an undesirable intensiveness. The chaps who usually "sat in" were all friends and fellow-laborers in a none-too-lucrative occupation. They agreed among themselves that there must be no more raising of the limit and no more reckless betting. The game must be one for amusement only. On the night when this agreement was solemnly concluded, they sat down and sent for the cards. Jim Corbett brought them. "I'll just sit and look on for a while," he said. "May take a hand a little later."

One man took the cards out of the box and threw around for a deal. The dealer shuffled them and passed them for the cut. Then he dealt a hand while the banker was giving each man his checks. The first man after the deal bet the limit. Every man of the seven around the table came in, each "litting" the pot for the limit.

"Say," said Corbett, "I thought you fellows were going to play light. That's a fine way to start out." This evoked not even a response from the players. Each was sitting tight and covertly eyeing his neighbors. The dealer asked the first man how many cards he wanted. He stood pat. And after him the next and finally all seven. It was at that moment that some one observed Mr. Corbett apparently about to choke in his secluded corner. Corbett had combined 25 per cent of four separate decks, so that the 52 cards he had handed the players were all spades. Each man had a pat flush when the betting began.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

LESSON IN FRANKLIN'S LIFE

Great American Statesman and Patriot of Rose to Immortal Fame From Humble Beginnings.

On the 17th of January, in 1706, Benjamin Franklin was born at Boston. His father was a soap and candle-maker, his mother, the daughter of a Quaker poet of Nantucket. When Benjamin was ten he was taken from school and set to work in his father's factory. He never again attended a regular school, yet he became a scholar. He was inept and unhappy at his first occupation, so his father apprenticed him to his brother to learn the trade of a printer. When he was seventeen he ran away from his brother and opened a printing office in Philadelphia. He pursued the career of printer and publisher until 1736, when he was made clerk of the Pennsylvania assembly. This was the beginning of his public career, and he rose steadily until he became one of the most striking figures in America. In France, when he was sent there as ambassador after the Revolutionary war, he became as widely known and loved as in his own country.

He Got the Job.

The colonel of a negro regiment in France charged the adjutant with selecting a suitable soldier to serve as orderly at his billet. The adjutant combed the command for the proper man and finally found one who had been an elevator boy in a hotel—a smiling, gracious darky, neat and respectful.

When the man reported the colonel impressed upon him the necessity for tact.

"Do you know just what I mean by tact?" he asked.

"Yes, sah. W'en it comes to tae' I'se right on de spot. Why, cunnel, ju' las' week I went into the bathhouse near mah billet, an' foun' one of de madam-selles there. I jest stepped back an' says, 'Pardon, monsieur!' Now, dat warn't tae' den I don't know what is."—The Home Sector.

Not at Home.

I was busy cleaning my gas stove when the door bell rang. I was just about to open the door when I saw it was our pastor. So I stood back behind the door and told my little son, Louis, to open the door and tell him I was at the store.

But he pushed the door so far back that my toes stuck out from under the door, and when Louis told him I was out, he laughed and said: "All right, sonny, but the next time your mamma goes out, tell her to take her feet with her."

"I have a chain on the door now.—Exchange.

Coral's Varying Colors.

Genuine coral may be red, pink, white, blue, yellow, green or black, the last being the rarest and most highly prized. The next valuable is the red coral, which is susceptible to a high polish and is most in use for jewelry, being the coral of commerce. Corals are roughly classed under two heads, the horny corals and the lime or stone corals. To the former belong the red and black forams and the white to the latter. Red coral is chiefly found in the Mediterranean. The corals found on the Atlantic coast of Florida are the lime, or stone corals, which are the reef-building forms.

Good Reason.

"You needn't be alarmed about women running for office, now so many of them can vote." "I'm not. They couldn't do it in the present style of dress."

Preparing For Opening Of Baseball Season

Quite a number of our baseball fans met with Tom Paige at the City-Hall last night to perfect arrangements for the big doings this season. Committees were appointed and everything is starting off nicely.

April 20 was agreed upon as beginning of practice season in Bartow and the first one of the league will be played in Bartow, May 10, with Bartow at the bat. Tom has 21 men to be under the management of a catcher from a major league. He has four of his old players back and says they are going after the pennant this year.—Bartow Record.

Two Beautiful Windows

Yowell & Co., have two of the nicest windows displays this week that this store has arranged in some time and that is saying something for the Yowell windows lend themselves to a fine window advertising. The west window is a St. Patrick's Day window with a beautiful display of real Irish Linens enhanced by green ribbons and here the shoppers can see everything in fine linens. This store is making a run of Irish linens as a distinct honor to the patron saint and also to induce people to take advantage of the wonderful bargains in linens. The east window is a dream in all kinds of wearing apparel for men and women and is aptly termed the "Honey-moon Window". Here everything for the bride is displayed and honestly, Pauline, some of the stuff is unknown to bachelors and has caused considerable speculation among them. The ladies however are raving over the dainty lingerie "and everything" and the windows are just as beautiful and sweet as the well trained hands of Mrs. Harvard could make them and this lady has gained quite a reputation as a real window dresser and the Yowell windows show her handiwork each week.

Seals Now Selling For "La La Lucille" Which Comes To the Princess Tomorrow.

At the Princess tomorrow night, theatergoers will have an opportunity of seeing "La La Lucille," the smartest musical play of recent years, fresh from its long run in New York and with a notable cast. Exquisitely produced, reflecting the last word in modish costumes, it has an appeal far out of the ordinary. The author is Fred Jackson, who wrote "The Velvet Lady," "The Naughty Wife" and "A Pull House." The composer is George Gershwin. The lyrics by Arthur Jackson and B. G. de Silva. The story chiefly concerns a devil young couple who must be divorced to inherit a considerable fortune. The music is of a thoroughly musicianly character and of the popular sort that makes the foot tap and sets one a whistling. Some of the catchy numbers are "When You Live in a Furnished Flat," "Money, Money, Money," "The Love of a Wife," "It Seldom Comes True," and "Our Little Kitchenette." An unusually fine company of farceurs has been assembled for the interpretation of "La La Lucille". The principal comedian is Neil Pratt, quite inimitable in his farce methods who has contributed so much to many of the notable successes of the past few seasons. Then there is Julia Gifford, Leila Tarsanen, Rene MacKenzie, Marion Langdon, Frederic Hampton, Howard Sloat, Bert J. Norton, Paul Hamlin, Robert Livingston and the prettiest, daintiest singing and dancing girls on the stage. Seats on sale at Bowers & Roumillat.

"Horse and horse" is a term that describes the state of equality of two persons in throwing dice. It is applied specifically to dice throwing and where the contestants have each one winning cast to their credit.

Educate Hotel Employees.
Arithmetic, bookkeeping, geography, hotel legislation, commercial correspondence, stenography, typewriting, ironing, cooking, linen mending, sewing and washing are some of the subjects taken at the school for women hotel employees in Besancon, France, which is releasing each week 10 women ready to fill positions in hotels ranging from cashier to chambermaid.

MORE OR LESS A MYSTERY

Few Seem to Know the Real Facts Concerning the So-Called Monkey of Mons.

Are you acquainted with the monkey of Mons?

An army officer brought home from Belgium a replica—a tiny silver figure with one clawish hand posed reflectively against its chin and with a look of introspection in its deepest eyes. In showing it to a friend, he mentioned that, like a number of officers who had been to Mons, he carried the thing as a mascot. The friend told a woman about it, and she, being unacquainted with the monkey of Mons, asked a soldier who had been there.

"Never heard of it, but you can't judge by me, as I was only in Mons a couple of days—got great coal mines there, though."

Another soldier who had been to Mons long enough to go sightseeing was impressed mainly by the cathedral of St. Waldrup—"built in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries; Gothic architecture, and—the monkey must have been there, of course, but—"

Then the woman extended her inquiry to a private who had hobbled around Mons for two hours while waiting to get away.

"Sure I saw it! Bronze statue in a street—or maybe it was one of those gargyle things on the church wall, but, anyhow, I saw it—at least it looked like a monkey, though I wouldn't be willing to swear to it."

Which is the way of this cry:

"Are you acquainted with the monkey of Mons?"—Washington Star

TO PRESERVE OLD LANDMARK

Creation of National Monument Area Assures Security to Posterity of Famous Mullan Tree.

The Mullan tree, landmark of the old Mullan trail, the first highway connecting Montana and Idaho with the coast, will be preserved to posterity through the creation of a national monument area by the president.

On July 4, 1861, Capt. John Mullan, leader of the party having charge of the survey and construction of the Mullan trail from Walla Walla, Wash., to Fort Benton, Mont., closed his work at the connecting point of the roads from the east and west, at the head of the Fourth of July canon, between Wallace, Idaho, and Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. There he marked appropriately a huge white-pine tree, which since that time has been known as the Mullan tree. Tourists seeking souvenirs of their jaunt along the Yellowstone trail have damaged the ancient tree so much that forest service officers have found it necessary to take steps to protect it, and, to accomplish this, have submitted a petition proposing that a national monument area be created, which has been approved.

Burmese All Fond of Tobacco.
It is commonly asserted that the Burmese all smoke, and that Burmese babies cry for a cigar instead of crying for the moon. This is not so. But it is quite common to see a lot of little boys and girls in the street making mud-pies and puffing away at big cigars with equal enthusiasm.

ROY BOWERS—L. P. McCULLER

When these two men say that they are going to lend all the support they possibly can to the Base Ball proposition this year that means a whole lot because both these men cover a lot of territory.

SO DO WE

cover a lot of territory when we say that you can look a long, long time, and then look some more before you will find anything nicer than the new Spring Clothes coming into our place every day at the same price we are asking for them. But we mean to cover a lot of territory in saying this because its a fact.

We played in luck by purchasing several dozen suits a good while back, and got them bought at the right price and we are going to pass this good luck along to you. This particular lot won't last long. Better come early

Will Winter In Sanford

After a few weeks stay with relatives in Newark N. J. Mrs. F. R. Mitchell and sons Russell, George and Edward arrived here from Fall River Mass to join Mr. Mitchell who has been in Sanford for some time.

Mrs. Mitchell is the sister of Mrs. C. H. Smith and the family will be at home with Mr. and Mrs. Smith for the present.

The following is a clipping from the Fall River Evening News: Frederick R. Mitchell, who has lived in Swansea for the past four years and who for some time past has been head farmer for the Massachusetts School for the Feeble Minded at Waverly, has resigned that position having secured employment with the Atlantic Coast Line Railway Co. He will be located at Sanford, Fla. and left for that place some time ago. Mrs. Mitchell will leave shortly to join her husband.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell will be greatly missed as they have a large circle of friends here. Mrs. Mitchell has been a faithful worker in church and Sunday school circles and their three sons, George, Edward and Russell, take with them reward pins for three years of perfect Sunday school attendance.

Living Creatures That Are Immortal.

In the Protospongiae, Wilmann and others have pointed out, the recuperative processes are so perfect that natural death need never occur; the stable mortal parts of the colloidal substratum can be reduced and restored piecemeal, and the creature never grows old. It is probable that the same is true of a simple animal like the freshwater hydra, which may also be credited with immortality.—New York Herald.

Common Sense is Scarce

While the average man and woman are supposed to possess common sense as a matter of fact not one person in a thousand is gifted with it. In order to do things aptly and opportunely, only a little common sense is required. Common sense is so potent that it is able to work miracles where great talents or brilliant genius will fail to accomplish anything. Common sense has done more for humanity than all the genius of the world. Common sense is learned from contact with the world, no one has it to start with. A genius is born, but a man with common sense is made.—Arkansas Thomas Cut.

MADE GARLIC LIKE FLOWERS

Yes, Verily, It Must Have Had Powerful Kick.

Who he is and what he had to drink are unknown.

This much is known: The man, dressed as Adam was supposed to have been, whom Patrolman James Bray of Oakland, Cal., excavated from a garden of garlic at Fifth and Chester streets one night, knew how to dig and how to snore.

Under the influence of strong drink, the man had entered the garlic patch, divested himself of his clothing, folded everything in a neat pile and then had dug a hole deep enough to hold him.

He heaped the dirt about himself until he was firmly packed in with the exception of his head.

Then he went to sleep.

The man's snores directed Bray's attention his way. Bray all but stumbled over the man's head. A few minutes' further digging and he had freed the man.

At the hospital it was said he would live. Bray holds to the theory that the man thought he was sunning himself at the seashore—he was that happy.

RAID BIGGEST STILLS

Alabama Moonshine Establishment Found in Full Blast.

The largest "moonshine" establishment ever found in Alabama, composed of seven stills, ranging in capacity from 125 to 250 gallons, was discovered and destroyed by prohibition officers in the hills near Pelham, 20 miles south of Birmingham. The raiding officers destroyed 13,500 gallons of mash and arrested five men.

The stills were in full blast when the raiders ran upon them. The officers said it was from this "plant" that Birmingham's supply of corn liquor has been coming. It brings $25 a gallon here now.

Depressing Personality.

"There comes Bithershy."

"I see him. Let's avoid him."

"Why?"

"He's the worst crepe hanger I know. Every time he hears me start to talk about laying a new motor car or taking a little trip to Florida or Cuba he wants to tell me how many babies die every day in Europe."

Birmingham Age-Herald.

Boy Scouts' Equipment.

Chief Sea Scout James A. Wilder of Honolulu has aroused the Boy Scouts of America until 30 sea scout centers have already acquired training ships, 10 cities now have shipping boards, and 63 others are following suit. It is probable that training ships for this branch of scouting will soon be sailing the oceans and rivers of America.

FIRST TO TEACH PHILOSOPHY

Honor is Accorded Thales, Who Established a School, Which Exerted Wide Influence.

The first school of philosophy was established in Miletus (Asia Minor) by Thales, one of the wise men, and was quite a remarkable institution, exerting an influence for more than a century.

Thales seems to have given himself more entirely to this school than to any of his other undertakings. There is a legend that he never married, and when his mother pressed him to do so he said: "It is not yet time." After his youth was passed she again urged him to marry and he said: "It is no longer time."

Many of the subjects taught in his school, such as astronomy, geometry and geography, show the influence of Egypt and Phoenicia; but the philosophy was probably an original product, for while some of the sciences were somewhat advanced, the philosophy was apparently a first attempt at an explanation of the origin of the world. It originated a movement which culminated more than a century later in the idealism of Plato.

We may perhaps understand something of the attitude of the common people toward Thales' school of philosophy from the story of the old woman who laughed when the master fell backward into a ditch after gazing too long at the stars. The old woman not only laughed, but she is said to have called after him: "If you cannot see what is under your feet, how can you understand what is in heaven?"

The geography and astronomy taught in his school were very primitive: The earth was flat, the sun circled around it horizontally, being concealed at night by high hills. One writer of the time describes the world in the following poetical way: "God makes a mantle, large and fair and embroidered on it earth and ocean and ocean's dwellings."

DIFFERENT KINDS OF SPEED

Aviator and Motorist Didn't Have the Same Kind of Comparison as They Traveled.

The motorist was taking an aviator friend, recently returned from the army air service, out for a spin. Thinking of the 125-mile-an-hour speed to which the aviator was accustomed, the motorist felt that it was incumbent upon him to "let 'er out." His friend, he felt, would feel badly ambling along at the land rate folks are used to traveling. So he cut loose and the car was zipping along at something like 50 miles an hour.

Then the motorist felt a hand laid upon his arm.

"Going pretty fast, aren't you?" remarked the aviator, a trifle uneasily.

After the motorist had slowed down he asked: "Why, I thought the best speed I could make would seem slow to you. How is it that it appeared so fast?"

"You see, in the air, even at our greatest speed, we seem more or less stationary unless we look below us and see objects flitting past," explained the aviator. "You know speed can only be reckoned visually—by things one is leaving behind. Now, the gull you were moving a few minutes ago looked mighty fast, uncomfortably fast I might say, to me. I kept noticing things we are leaving behind."

"Well, I'll be darned," said the motorist. "I never thought of it in that way before."

And the hand of the speed clock jiggled back to the 25-mile mark.—Kansas City Star.

If It Only Were!

The late Elin Wheeler Wilcox, though the most popular poet of modern times, steadfastly refused to enter New York society. The most exclusive Fifth-avenue portals were open to her, but Mrs. Wilcox passed them indifferently by.

A New York magazine editor once sought her out with an invitation to a Fifth-avenue dinner party.

"I'm sorry," she said, "but I can't go."

"Oh," said the editor, "you must accept this invitation!"

"Why must I?" said the poet.

"Our host," the editor answered, "is rich—rich—a multimillionaire. You must accept."

"Well, I would," said Mrs. Wilcox, with a smile, "if it were catching!"

He Was No Molluscoid.

A neighbor's son was entertaining about twenty of his little boy and girl friends at his birthday party. The children were supposed to return to their respective homes at eight o'clock in the evening; however, they were having such a good time when the going home hour arrived, its passing still found them hard at it. The mother of the little host suggested to him the advisability of intimating to his little friends the fateness of the hour. This is how he did it:

"Say, it's nine o'clock; I'm getting sleepy, and you kids have got to go home!"

"What's that? Go home this early?" said one of his indignant little guests. "I thought this was to be an all-night affair!"

Some Did.

"So, you've been in the army, eh?" asked the old gentleman kindly. "And tell me, did you do much shooting while you were over there?"

"I won $30 the first day I landed in France," answered the gambler, proudly.—Home Sector.

QUITE EQUAL TO OCCASION

Female "Heckler," Who Tackled Lady Astor Got a Good Deal of a Surprise.

"Lady Astor," said a New York clubman, "brought more popularity to the Astor name during her election fight in England than either the old viscount, William Waldorf, or the new viscount, Major Waldorf, ever succeeded in doing."

"She's a clever woman, a witty woman, and we Americans may be proud of her though she has deserted us."

"On the election platform she gave many a striking proof of her ready wit. Thus one evening a sour-visaged female rose in the audience and asked with a kind of prim irony:

"If Viscountess Astor is elected to parliament, will she work to make divorce as easy for us in England as it is in America?"

"This was a mean blow, a foul blow, a blow below the belt, so to speak, for Lady Astor, through no fault of her own, is a divorced woman. She countered brilliantly, however, and the blow didn't land. Looking at her, questioner in a commiserating way, she said:

"I'm sorry, madam, you are in trouble."

"And the house roared with laughter."

HAVE PUT UP BRAVE FIGHT

Sumatra Natives for Centuries Carried on Warfare With Their Conquerors, the Dutch.

Sumatra's war-declimated population amounts to less than 3,500,000 most of which is not available for labor, the island, therefore, barely beginning to attract attention, despite its riches in natural resources. Sumatra is immense in area and between its different sections there is little inland communication, that which exists being of a treacherous and warlike character. Much of the island remains unexplored. Other parts such as the whole of Achin, are still in a state of warfare, which seems destined to end only with the eventual extermination of the resisting tribes.

The first hostilities of the Achinese date back to 1520, but for the last forty years fighting has been continuous, costing more than 200,000 lives in the Achinese war alone. A guerrilla warfare of surprises and ambushes has been going on in the jungles, the determined resistance of the Achinese continuing undaunted, although their government has been deposed, and all their towns and strategic positions occupied by Dutch troops.

Inside Information.

"Every little day," said the Slanester, "a wise guy gets hep to some new idea."

"Just—ah—what do you wish to convey?" the Social Scamp inquired.

"Ever notice how some of these baby vamps mask their ears with scallops of hair?"

"I can't say as I have, old dear."

"Well, the hair comes down over the listeners' like part of a waterfall, and is tucked up underneath or in the back."

"My word!"

"I've just found out how they do it."

"How do they do it, tell me."

"They make the bay windows stand out by stuffing little gobs of false hair inside."

"How did you learn that?"

"I know a lady who helps to sweep out a department store mornings."

"My word!"

"And she says the gobs fall out and clog up the vacuum cleaners."—Youngstown Telegram.

Baby's New Papa.

While on a train a woman sat opposite me accompanied by a chubby youngster that was just learning to toddle around. At one of the stations the woman requested me to watch the child while she sent a telegram. The conductor assured her there would be plenty of time.

Imagine my consternation when the train pulled out and the woman did not return! With the now screaming child in my arms and beads of perspiration trickling down my desperate countenance, I searched the entire train in a vain endeavor to find "mammy."

At the station just ninety miles farther, the overjoyed conductor came running into my coach with a telegram from mammy addressed to baby's new "papa." And at the next stop, baby's uncles, aunts, and cousins were there to receive it.—Chicago Tribune.

Spreading Joy.

The joy you give others will return to you with interest. To be sure you do not help others for returns. That would be mercenary and where it is practiced men soon learn to read the motives that prompt it. The result is a lonesome man in a short time. You will give your joy for the joy it gives you to give it. You feel rewarded a hundredfold in knowing you have helped somebody. Their grateful hearts respond with overflowing gladness and gratitude. It's no wonder you're glad. Yet it's merely the action of the old law that rewards the altruistic spirit with blessings.

What Did He Mean?

She—Promise me that when we marry we shall live somewhere near mother, so that she can slip over.

He—Well, we might take that house on the edge of the cliff, and then I should love her to slip over.—London Opinion.

Guy Bates Post's Advance Sale Opens At Estes Pharmacy Today

A Word of Warning A Word of Thanks

In all the history of amusements in Orlando, there has never been such a demand for seats as has been made for America's leading actor—Guy Bates Post—who will be seen at the Phillips Monday March 22.

Mail orders have been received from points miles away, as well as from thousands within the limits of the city.

There still remains good seats, at any of the various prices, for my performance—but the quantity is limited—and I earnestly suggest to all who have not made reservation by mail "be at Estes Pharmacy early tomorrow or you may be disappointed in getting the exact location you desire."

Seldom, if ever, do the amusement lovers of the South have an opportunity to witness an amusement organization of the high quality of excellence that is being brought to our midst by Mr. Post. Seldom does any city enjoy the privilege of witnessing the exact company, complete production, triple cast equipment that has toured and triumphed in two continents.

The reception accorded this American star in every city visited has really been epoch-making event in amusements and I desire to personally thank and congratulate the lovers of "the best in amusements" in this city and vicinity, who have so readily responded for their show of appreciation. I am proud to say all indications point to Orlando receiving Mr. Post in a manner that will be second to no city visited by our foremost American star.

Mail orders will still be received, in order to accommodate out-of-the-city patrons. Please enclose stamped envelope for safe return of seats, and add 10 per cent war tax to price. Be certain to designate your first and second choice of performances.

Respectfully, W. J. MELVIN,

Manager Phillips Theatre Orlando.

IMPORTANT.—Curtain at 8:15 prompt. Mr. Post makes it an unbreakable rule that no one be seated during the prologue in order that those already seated may fully enjoy the beauty of the scene.

$15 CONSCIENCE MONEY

Returned by Man Who Found It but Did Not Answer "Ad."

Fifteen dollars which Miss Conno Frank of Racine, Wis., lost August 22, 1915, was returned to her recently by the man who found it but failed to answer an advertisement relative to the loss.

A newspaper publisher received from a man who signed the letter "Conscience," a letter stating that he had found a pocketbook containing a sum of money, but that being in financial straits did not return it, although he read an advertisement of the loss. He requested the publisher to obtain the name and residence of the loser, as he wished to return the money as he saved considerable money during the year, because of large wages received.

He urged quick action, as he wished to clear his conscience before Christmas day, which was accomplished.

MEET AFTER SIXTY YEARS

Negro Brothers, Sold into Slavery When Pickaninnies, Hold Reunion.

On Christmas eve, 1850, three negro babies were offered for sale on a slave block at New Orleans. Two were purchased by a Louisianian and the other by a Tennessean.

Time passed, emancipation came, but the negroes remained with their masters and learned to read and write a little. In this way they learned of the whereabouts of their mother who, too, had remained with her old master.

Recently three negroes, bent with age, their white, kinky locks like snow, met in Louisville, Ky. George craved delightedly at his brothers, Phil and Charley, who answered, "Do great day's cum." They went from Louisville to Lettfield, where their mother, 100 years old, lives.

Post Office Nerves. According to the testimony of some hospital authorities, "post office nerves" are due partly to the frequent changes from day to night duty, with consequent irregularities of meals and sleep, partly to the changes of work whereby the same clerk may be standing all day for another, with diverse occupations, each needing special knowledge. Hence, in the opinion of some medical men, mechanical routine is less wearing than frequent change. Is it so?
