Policewoman Fatally Shot; Explorer Scout Wounded

AURORA, Colo. (UPI) — A policewoman was fatally shot early Saturday — apparently with her own weapon — and a young Explorer Scout who saw her struggling with a traffic offender was seriously wounded, police said.

Sgt. Mike Stiers said the 26-year-old policewoman, the wife of a Denver police officer, died of gunshot wounds to the head.

Her name was withheld until her family could be notified.

A suspect, Joe Michael Ervin, 30, was arrested about an hour later and held for investigation of first-degree murder.

Stiers said the policewoman stopped a suspected drunk driver about 1 a.m., but the suspect started struggling.

Glen Spies, 19, of Aurora, was listed in serious but stable condition in Presbyterian Hospital, where the policewoman was pronounced dead at 4:05 a.m.

Stiers said officers at first believed Spies was riding with the policewoman as part of a police cadet program for Explorer Scouts interested in law enforcement.

However, it later was determined Spies was driving by, saw the woman struggling with the suspect, and stopped to help.

Spies said preliminary investigation indicated the policewoman was shot with her own weapon.

Army General To Head Force

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A decorated Army officer, a Green Beret commander who fought in Vietnam, has been selected by President Reagan to head the military's Rapid Deployment Force.

Maj. Gen. Robert Kingston, 53, was nominated by Reagan Friday to succeed Marine Lt. Gen. P.X. Kelly, who has commanded the RDF since its March 1, 1980 inception.

The decision to put an Army general in charge of the RDF, which has the power to draw from all branches of the military in event of an emergency, climaxed months of interservice wrangling.

Kingston has commanded the Army's 2nd Infantry Division, headquartered north of Seoul, South Korea, since May 1979. His nomination as head of the RDF was certain to be approved by the Republican-dominated Senate.

Pieces Of Mars Found

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists believe they may have found two pieces of Mars at the bottom of the Earth in Antarctica.

The National Science Foundation reported Friday the objects were among scores of meteorites picked up on the Antarctic ice. Meteorites generally are about 4.5 billion years old but the two in question are different.

Dr. Harry Y. McSween, a University of Tennessee geologist, told the foundation the two meteorites appear to be frozen lava that hardened 1.2 billion years ago.

Air Force Probes Drug Use

HAMPTON, Va. (UPI) — Air Force authorities have launched the second major drug-abuse investigation this year at Langley Air Force Base.

Base spokesman Capt. Mike Perini said Friday, "We have been able to confirm there are no pilots or officers involved."

Published reports Friday said up to 100 Air Force members, possibly including pilots, are being investigated at the base. About 10,000 personnel are stationed at Langley.

John Morris

in the general election — in the primaries.

"I don't think I would have had any problem," he says. "I could have beaten him."

But he didn't, and he found himself out in the cold with a big campaign debt and an ailing business. Just prior to the election, Morris borrowed $13,000 from ComBank on Oct. 17 for business operating expenses. "Just keep going," he says.

Six weeks later, he borrowed an additional $7,250.95 from ComBank to pay off his campaign debts.

The financial hole he had dug himself into suddenly began to cave in. In April 1981, Safeco filed a civil lawsuit against Mid-Florida seeking $20,292.94 in back rent and immediate repayment of the $115,540.10 loan. Morris' wife Bernadette as well as Mid-Florida vice president Robert E. Johnson and his wife Maria were included in count two of the suit as guarantors who had promised that the loan would be repaid.

Safeco also accused Morris, none of the others, of misappropriating $84,212.71 from a Safeco trust fund to his own use. Safeco took this charge to Seminole Chief Assistant State Attorney Chris Ray for possible criminal prosecution, but Ray said, "No charges have been filed and no investigation is planned." Morris denies any wrongdoing.

Things worsened on April 20 when ComBank filed a suit against Morris, claiming he had failed to pay back his two loans, although he had managed to work the $15,000 note down to $13,909.11.

Under pressure of a Safeco eviction notice, Morris closed his Sanford office in late May, relinquishing to Safeco all the files and equipment which had been put up as collateral on the loan.

With mounting debts and little cash, Morris finally had to close his Altamonte Springs office Friday. And while the Safeco suit is presently inactive, a July 15 hearing has been set before Judge Robert McGregor in which ComBank will ask for a judgment for everything Morris owes it.

"It's not quite what I had planned," Morris says, "to go from six offices to none; a political veteran to nothing."

Gives Up After Pleas From Family

Dropout Kills 2 Policemen

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — The suspect in the shooting deaths of two policemen — a 22-year-old college dropout — gave himself up to authorities Friday night near the site of the double slayings after his family went on television to urge him to surrender.

Antoine Hickman, 22, of Charleston, was charged with murder in the slayings of police Lt. Delbert J. Roush, 61, and Patrolman Eddie R. Duncan, 32, between 2 and 3 a.m. Friday.

Hickman turned himself in minutes after his mother and brother appeared on television in an effort to get him to surrender.

Hickman, a former football player and wrestler at Northfork High School who once had been shot by his brother, was picked up within six blocks of the slaying scene by investigator Ed Leonard of the Kanawha County prosecutor's office. Leonard acted on a telephone tip the suspect was ready to give himself up, Roark said.

Police Chief Harry Silverman said the officers were shot after they stopped a car to question the occupants about a complaint by a woman at a downtown bar that Hickman had bothered her.

Allen Mackie, 21, of Charleston, the driver of the car, said he got out of his car and showed identification to the police but Hickman refused to get out.

Authorities charged when Hickman did get out of the car on a second demand by police, he opened fire.

Roush, a 33-year veteran, was shot once in the chest. Duncan, a policeman of three years, was hit under the arm and in the back, and one bullet passed through his heart.

Police believe a .38-caliber, snub-nosed revolver was used.

Mackie said Hickman and the woman who made the assault complaint had only argued in the bar.

Hickman remained silent at his arraignment on two murder counts before Magistrate Ward Harshbarger Friday night. Although handcuffed, the former Marshall University student kept pulling a black hat over his face to avoid photographers at the Kanawha County Courthouse.

Supreme Court

Ex-Wives Can't Get Half Of Military Pensions; Limit On Contributions To Political Committees OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A splintered Supreme Court, ruling on a major challenge to federal election law Friday, upheld the $5,000 limit on contributions by individuals or groups to political action committees, called "PACs."

Four justices ruled the limits on how much may be given to such political committees are not violations of free speech rights or of equal protection of the law, as a California doctors' group had claimed.

Writing for the plurality, Justice Thurgood Marshall held that nothing in law limits the amount the California Medical Association or its members independently may spend to advocate their political views. Rather, he said, it limits how much they may give to political action committees, called "PACs."

"If the First Amendment rights of a contributor are not infringed by limitations on the amount he may contribute to a campaign organization which advocates the views and candidacy of a particular candidate, the rights of a contributor are similarly not impaired by limits on the amount he may give to a multicandidate political committee," Marshall wrote.

He was joined by Justices William Brennan, Byron White and John Paul Stevens in concluding there was no First Amendment violation.

Justice Harry Blackmun filed a separate opinion agreeing with the constitutional conclusion — which upheld an appeals court ruling — but for different reasons.

Also Friday, in a ruling mainly affecting women, the court ruled 6-3 that military pension benefits cannot be divided as part of a divorce settlement.

In a decision that will affect divorce settlements for military personnel nationwide, the justices struck down a California appeals court decision that had found military retirement pay is "property" subject to division when a couple divorces.

Women's groups had supported the lower-court ruling and the decision was the second high court defeat for women's rights advocates in two days. On Thursday, the court upheld male-only draft registration.

Reunion Turns Into Nightmare; 10 Killed On Bus

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (UPI) — Investigators suspect propane gas from a stove caused a fiery explosion that killed five children and five adults on a converted bus carrying 25 people to a July Fourth family reunion in Alabama. A 12-year old girl was in critical condition today.

The blazing bus, which exploded near the top of a mountain pass, rolled down the steep grade in a "ball of fire" for about a quarter of a mile before it slammed into a flatbed truck as other motorists in about 200 cars watched in horror, witnesses said.

Officials said the explosion melted the bus into giant puddles of molten metal and a blocked emergency door prevented passengers — members of seven related families — from escaping, investigators said.

"It was really devastating," said California Highway Patrol Lt. Herb Confer, one of the first officers to reach the scene of the explosion Friday morning less than 200 feet from the top of the 4,190-foot Cajon Pass on Interstate 15.

"The only thing identifiable on the bus, that I saw, was four charred skulls. One girl (was) on the side of the road — the skin of her face and left arm was just hanging off."

Fifteen members of the families aboard the bus and an elderly couple in a station wagon hit by the flatbed truck were taken to hospitals.

One 12-year-old girl was in critical, but stable, condition with burns on her face and arms.

Four others were in serious condition and two were in fair condition. Ten, including the elderly couple, were released after treatment for minor injuries.

Investigators said they believed the passengers were using a propane stove in the vehicle, a 1946 Brill bus professionally converted into a camper, when it blew up.

Witnesses said agonized screams came from the burning interior of bus and truck drivers had to hold back survivors from going back in to rescue their children.

California Highway Patrol investigators said the driver of the bus was headed up the grade near the top of the pass when he heard a loud noise and smelled smoke. He stopped the bus, and began evacuating the passengers when the bus exploded into flames.

The 42-foot burning bus lost its brakes, rolled backwards about a quarter of a mile and hit the truck before careening down the grade and a 10-foot embankment.

WANTED: Glass For Recycling

The glass packaging industry wants your glass bottles—all of them.

Last year, the industry recovered and recycled almost 2.7 billion glass containers, or 11 bottles for every man, woman and child in the country—more than 10 times the number that were recycled just a decade ago.

This year, the industry wants even more bottles, and it's willing to pay the price.

With this message in mind, the industry's trade association has unveiled a logo which symbolizes the industry's effort to promote and increase glass reclamation and recycling.

In addition, the Glass Packaging Institute (GPI) has published an informative booklet providing answers to the most frequently asked questions regarding the recycling of glass containers.

The 24-page booklet, which formally introduces the "Glass Recycles" logo, includes a compilation of all U.S. glass container manufacturing plants which engage in recycling. The listing includes the location and telephone number of each plant.

The booklet also provides recommended guidelines for establishing successful community glass container reclamation programs. Hundreds of independent recyclers throughout the nation are presently paying consumers up to one cent per pound for glass.

The Institute's members manufacture more than 85 percent of the glass containers produced in the country. Glass containers package a wide variety of familiar products, including soft drinks, beer, cosmetics, food, medicines, perfumes, toiletries, wines and liquors.

"The glass container industry wants to promote recycling in every way it can, wherever and whenever it can," said GPI President William W. Sadd.

"The booklet will help individuals and community groups protect the environment, conserve natural resources, and reduce energy consumption associated with the glass manufacturing process. Recycling can also be used as a fund-raising device for a variety of community groups."

More than 100 glass container manufacturing plants presently produce new containers in part from recycled glass. In addition, there are thousands of collection points throughout the nation that will reclaim used glass containers and return them to nearby plants. These multi-product recycling centers take clean, color-separated glass containers and crush them into small bits known as cullet, which they store and ultimately transport to glass manufacturing plants.

Although the primary components of glass—sand, soda ash and limestone—are in abundant domestic supply, cullet has long been an integral part of the glass manufacturing process because of its economic advantage over virgin raw materials.

For free copies of the booklet write: Glass Packaging Institute, Communications Department, 200 L St., N.W., Suite 815, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Foreign Aid Boosts Florida Economy

Washington, D.C. — Goods and agricultural products totaling $16,695,906 were purchased in Florida last year for the United States foreign assistance overseas programs by the Agency for International Development.

The United States furnishes assistance to about 100 countries to help improve standards of life. Most have populations plagued by disease, illiteracy, malnutrition and lack of economic opportunity. Many supply raw materials for U.S. industry and are growing U.S. export customers.

In Fiscal Year 1980 Florida farmers and food processors received $1.4 million for grain and other agricultural commodities provided in the Food for Peace program administered overseas by AID. Manufacturers and businesses received $15,295,906 for goods and commodities used in development programs.

AID spent a total of $728.8 million with U.S. suppliers from virtually every state for goods and services. Purchases of agricultural products totaled $1,252,100,000.

AID also negotiated technical service contracts totaling $10,950,588 as of Sept. 30, 1980 with Florida universities and other private institutions for research or services of development experts overseas. Technical research and service contracts across the country totaled $628,301,493.

The U.S. also benefits from assistance programs of the multinational development organizations, such as the World Bank and the United Nations Development Program. Purchases of goods and services in the United States by these organizations were approximately $500 million in 1980.

AID supports overseas programs to increase agricultural productivity, slow population growth, raise the level of education, and improve health in developing countries on the premise this is an investment in "human capital," one of the basic steps toward economic growth.

The $728.8 million spent in Fiscal Year 1980 included $300.6 million for raw materials and semi-finished products such as fats and oils, chemicals, tobacco, iron and steel, textiles, and paper products. Machinery and parts accounted for $197.9 million, transportation equipment and parts for $107.9 million, foodstuffs $68.8 million and fertilizers and feed $47.3 million.

A large segment of the U.S. support is aimed at a group of countries threatened by political and social turbulence, whose stability is considered vital for regional and world peace and U.S. security. Example: large amounts of support for Israel and Egypt while they develop stability in the Middle East.

In the past 12 years more than 5,000 manufacturers and suppliers in the 50 states and District of Columbia have received AID-financed orders totaling $9.1 billion.

In the same period more than $14.350 billion in U.S. agricultural commodities were shipped to poor nations under Food for Peace programs.

Since 1969, the first year that detailed records were kept, AID has spent $94,886,104 in Florida for manufactured goods and services.

Butterfly Quilt A Many Stitched Thing

By DORIS DIETRICH
OURSELVES Editor

Remember the old-fashioned quilting bee?

In days past, women would gather at various homes where frames were set up to complete a colorful patchwork quilt that had probably been pieced together from sewing scraps.

This gathering, although intended as a "workshop," was not lacking in socializing nor catching up on all the community news — during an era when most women were homemakers.

The times may have changed, but the idea is still almost identical.

For several years, the members of the Seminole County Extension Homemakers Clubs have made a quilt as a fund-raising project for the county council.

And this year is no different.

Members of 12 clubs in the county have finally completed a lovely work of art, which will be awarded to a winner in a drawing at the Homemakers' Holiday Showcase at the Altamonte Springs Civic Center in November.

Anne Mitchell, chairman of the project said proceeds from the quilt will be applied to a demonstration table, equipped with a mirror, for 4-H Club work, as well as council demonstrations.

Two workshops were held in March and April. Participating members were given a quilt square which they completed at home. Each square consists of two traced butterflies, quilted two and three times around the outline, and completed with a box-in-box design in the center.

The artistic creation is fashioned from 160 thread count pinacle bone-colored sheets, both on the top and bottom, with batting in-between. The seven squares wide and eight squares long, will fit a king sized bed, Mrs. Mitchell said.

After the squares were all completed they were sewed together by Elizabeth Long, Jenny Brown and Mrs.

Mitchell who hand-hemmed and bound the completed quilt.

Mrs. Mitchell said tickets for the quilt drawing can be purchased from any extension homemaker or from the Seminole County Agricultural Center, Sanford, phone 323-2500, ext. 183.

Barbara Hughes, right, Extension Home Economics Agent, and Olive Babbitt, president of the Extension Homemakers County Council, display the completed quilt.

Drive On For Spina Bifida

By SYBIL MITCHELL GANDY
Herald Staff Writer

June — a celebration of life in the sun. Thousands of Seminole County residents throng to parks and lakes with uniquely devised methods of summer fun.

Boaters and skiers have brought the marvel of water sports home while picnickers and sightseers grace area parks to hail the sunny season.

But for hundreds of others in Central Florida, June has marked an altogether different celebration of life.

Marian Veino, of Osteen, president of the Spina Bifida Association of Central Florida, has been working incessantly to raise funds for the organization's Spina Bifida Month campaign...she and other members, that is.

"We've had parties and bake sales and roadblocks and just about everything else to reach our $1,000 goal before our end-of-July deadline," Marian said.

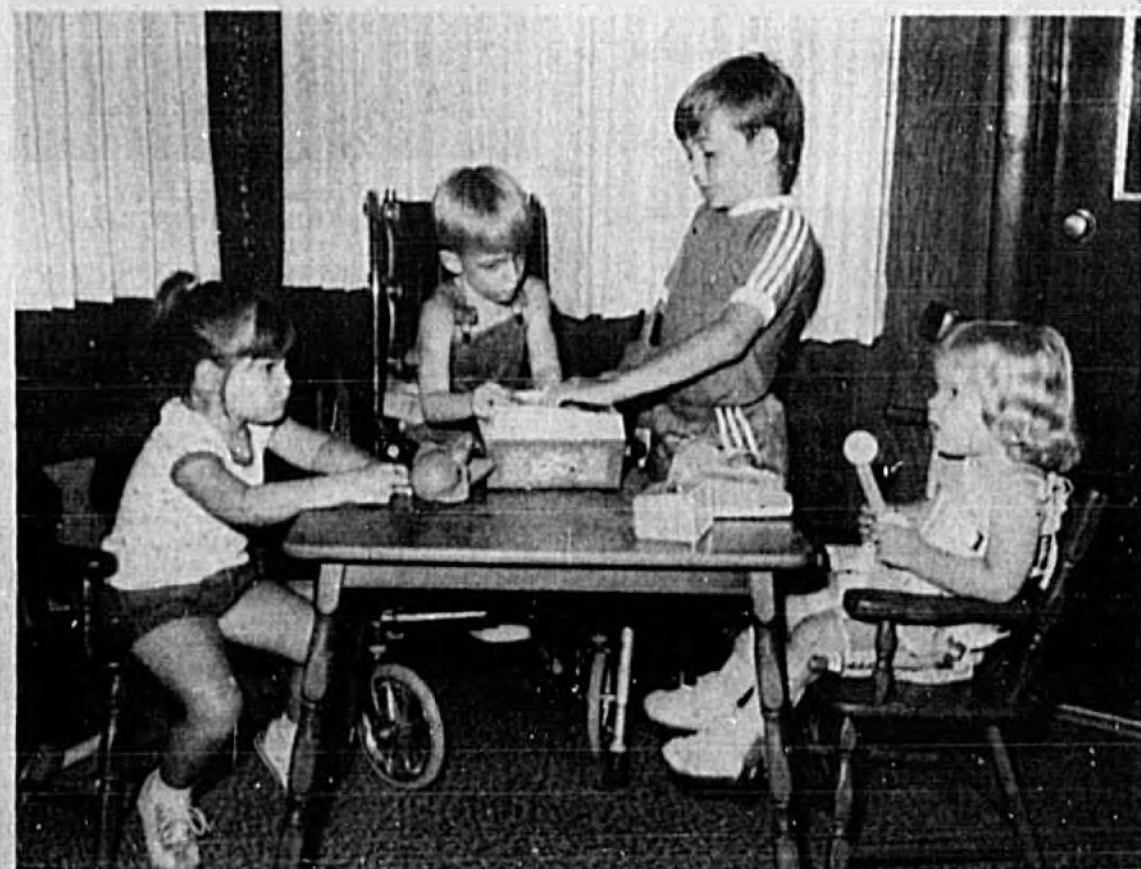

"People don't realize it, but spina bifida is the second most common birth defect in this country. The average person has usually never heard of the disease," she added.

The local SBA has over 100 members. But the organization has no way of telling how many other parents in Seminole and surrounding counties are being faced with raising a spina bifida child.

"As small as Osteen is, we know of the two cases of the birth defect occurring. But we don't have any statistics locally although the organization is a little over five years old," Mrs. Veino said.

In their month-long fund-raising and awareness campaign, SBA members set up roadblocks in downtown Sanford and the Lakefront area where over $150,000 was raised and stacks of spina bifida literature was distributed.

Mrs. Veino, who said she had never heard of the birth defect until she was told while still in the hospital that her son was a

KELLEY JOAN MULLER

Friend's Ideal Except For Habit Of KnuckleCracking

DEAR ABBY: I have recently become involved with a man whom I love very much. He is an ideal person in every way except one: He has a very irritating habit of cracking his knuckles. This would be bad enough, but he cracks his knuckles on his jaw! (He actually places his knuckles on the side of his jaw and pushes as hard as he can until they crack!)

As we have become close, he has started to ask me to let him crack his knuckles on my jaw. I have let him do it several times, but I feel somewhat uneasy about it and would like him to stop. The problem is that I am afraid he will discontinue our relationship if I am unwilling to satisfy this desire. I love him very much and don't want to lose him. Abby, what should I do?

NANCY IN SEATTLE: DEAR NANCY: Tell him firmly but lovingly that you no longer want him to crack his knuckles on your jaw, and if you lose him because of this, you are well rid of him, by cracky!

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I met Jim. I was a 25-year-old virgin and Jim was 35, handsome and new in town. We dated for a few months and he asked me to marry him. We became sexually involved, but no marriage took place. Soon after, Jim told me that he had done some professional killings for the underworld and he might have to go to prison for tax evasion. I was shocked! I couldn't believe Jim was that kind of person. As a result our relationship went down the drain. I had been in poor health and didn't realize I was pregnant until I was five months along. Jim said, "Get an abortion," but no doctor would touch me because I was too far along. Jim disappeared, so I told my family I had been raped. I had a baby boy who is the picture of Jim, but I stuck with my rape story and didn't list Jim's name on any of the documents.

Jim has come back to town and now he's telling people my baby is his. I don't care what people think. My only concern is whether Jim has any legal claim to my child. He never supported me in any way. He has money for lawyers, but I don't. Can you help me? WORRIED SICK

DEAR WORRIED: Your local Legal Aid Society exists to help people who need a lawyer and have no money. It is listed in your telephone book. Please call and make an appointment immediately. Write again and let me know how you are. I care.

You're never too young or too old to learn how to make people like you. Get Abby's new booklet of practical advice. Send $1 and a stamped (35 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Is Plastic Surgery For You?

Plastic surgery is moving into the mainstream of American life. People of all ages and income levels have begun to examine the various surgical alternatives available today and the potential benefits they can provide.

Surgical procedures such as breast reconstruction after mastectomy, burn treatment and limb reattachment have helped patients live normal lives after tragedies. Aesthetic operations often allow individuals to improve their personal appearance.

But plastic surgery is not the answer to every problem, and it is important to learn as much as possible about a particular procedure before deciding to undergo surgery.

The American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgeons (ASPRS), a 2,600 member professional organization of surgeons, recommends a prospective patient ask the plastic surgeon the following questions:

- 1) How will the procedure help me?
- 2) How is the operation performed? What steps do you follow, what type of anesthesia will be used, how long will the operation take?
- 3) Will other medical professionals be involved in the surgery?

4) How long will it take for me to recover? What steps will be followed to assure proper healing? What followup care is necessary?

5) How long must I stay in the hospital?

6) All surgical procedures leave scars. Are these very noticeable?

7) What can go wrong with the procedure? Can it be corrected?

8) How will I look after the operation and healing are completed?

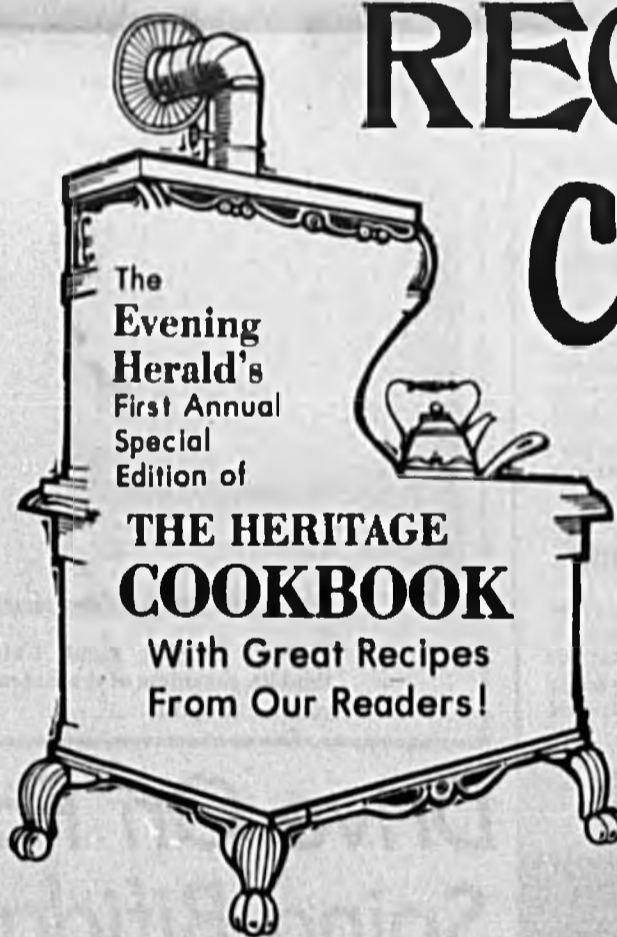

9) How much will it cost? (Include physician's fee, consulting fee and costs for hospital or other medical help.)

10) Will medical insurance cover some or all of the cost?

Plastic surgery, like all surgery, is a very complicated and detailed medical practice. It is vital that you select a well qualified plastic surgeon with a history of safe practice.

One way to help assure the surgeon's expertise is to check if they are certified by the American Board of Plastic Surgery. Names of active board-certified plastic surgeons in your area can be obtained by calling 312-641-0935, the ASPRS Patient Referral Service, or writing to the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgeons, 29 E. Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois, 60602.

HOROSCOPE

By BEHNICE BEDE OSOL
For Sunday, June 28, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY June 28, 1981
Your family and relatives could come to your aid financially if you are saddled with extra domestic responsibilities in the year ahead. This is especially true if they are Leos or Librans.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) You could be in for a pleasant surprise today when a situation you had small hopes for turns into something beneficial. Luck will play a big part. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph, which begins with your birthday. Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Others may think in small terms today, but it's not likely you will. You know how to make big ideas work and bring what you hope for into being.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Something advantageous could develop today, something helpful careerwise and financially, through an influential contact. Maintain friendly terms with big wheels.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Solutions are likely to be found today for something for which, till now, you had no answers. Your ideas will be good ones. Be prepared to act.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Joint ventures hold more promise than usual for you today. There's a chance you could luck into something that another already had going successfully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) One reason your friends will find you a desirable companion today is that you'll make a sincere effort to understand their points of view.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're a good achiever today. Whatever you set your hand or mind to, you will do well. Realistic pride won't let you settle for second best.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Try to participate in activities today that permit you to move around both mentally and physically. A challenging social sport could be just what the doctor ordered.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Stay atop situations today that you feel could be of personal benefit as well as helpful to people about whom you're concerned. They should turn out to be fortunate.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Involve yourself in diversionary activities today rather than things of a commercial nature. Business dealings could prove unfruitful.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag
Here is a repeat of yesterday's hand. In modern bidding, South would bid four notrump right over East's two spades. North would respond five diamonds to show one ace and unless East jumped right to seven diamonds to push his preempting to its most annoying height, South could bid seven clubs.

Then if East or West did bid seven diamonds, whichever partner had the first crack at seven diamonds could pass to suggest seven no trump and the other partner would bid it.

It all looks easy. But we can assure you readers that if the hand appeared in the finals of the blue-ribbon pairs, those East-West pairs who went to seven diamonds would simply wind up going down four tricks doubled for a 700 point loss.

Now, for some history. East was George Reith the auctioneer who made a successful transition to contract. West was young Howard Schenken, who became one of the four or five greatest contract bridge players of all time. North and South were Ely and Jo Culbertson and while South's seven hearts was a poor bid it happened that South thought several minutes before bidding it.

North was well aware of why South had thought so long, but the Culbertsons were a most ethical partnership. North refused to take advantage of the extra information given him and passed in spite of suspecting that there would be a trump loser at hearts.

KIT 'N' CARLYLE

YOUR BIRTHDAY June 29, 1981
Individuals you have personally helped in the past will make sincere efforts this coming year to return favors. In some instances, more may be done for you than you did for them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In dealing with those less fortunate than yourself today, give way to your compassionate instincts. Be helpful, but don't broadcast your good deeds. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N. Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be a bit more assertive today if there is someone you are interested in romantically, but haven't yet gotten to first base with. Tides are changing.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're quite competitive today, but others won't be offended by your tactics. In fact, they'll admire your methods and try to imitate them later.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The types of people with whom you associate today will have a great influence on your creativity. Select companions who are imaginative. They'll stimulate your thinking.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Things look good today regarding a business venture in which you're involved.
