Bundy, Maingot win Longwood seats

Longwood Mayor Paul Lovstrand campaigns outside of the polling place Tuesday.

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

LONGWOOD— Longwood voters signaled a desire for change Tuesday night, electing two political newcomers to impressive victories in city commission races.

In the District 1 race, John Maingot defeated incumbent Rusty Miles 618 votes to 357 (64 percent to 36 percent), while Butch Bundy unseated incumbent Annamarie Vacca in the District 4 race 634-381 (62 percent to 38 percent).

Both winners attributed their victories to hard work on the campaign trail and direct contact with Longwood voters.

"My thanks go to the people of the city of Longwood," said Maingot moments after vote totals were posted.

"It feels great. We worked hard and took nothing for granted. I think over the past month or so I personally met 800 people at their homes. I am personally and totally committed to carrying out the promises I made to voters over the next three years."

Maingot said he sees a lot of hard work ahead for the board which will feature two new faces.

"There's so much to be tackled. One of my first priorities is to request an up to the minute briefing on where the city stands on all contracts and what plans are in the pipeline for right now and in the future. With good

Voters reject supermajority

Staff Writer

LONGWOOD— In addition to electing two new city commissioners Tuesday night, Longwood voters decided 21 ballot questions, voting "no" on some of the more controversial issues.

Electors favored "yes" votes on the first eight questions, dealing primarily with housekeeping measures and administrative issues.

By a vote of 596-369, voters said no to an amendment that would require a four-fifths supermajority for the appointment or dismissal of the city clerk and city attorney positions, leaving the current simple majority of 3-2 in place.

Voters likewise said no by a vote margin of 486-409 on the supermajority issue regarding the city administrator's position, leaving intact the simple majority of 3-2 for appointment and establishing minimum qualifications for the position. Voters also said no by a vote of 453-439 on ballot question 14, that would have required a fourth-fifths vote instead of simple 3-2 majority to dismiss the city administrator.

Longwood electors approved ballot question 17, establishing clearer criteria for the performance, review, and evaluation of the city administrator by a vote of 493-397.

School board ponders changes to field trip policy

By Bill Kerne
Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board is reviewing the method of approving out-of-state field trips.

Members of the Lake Mary High School Color Guard and parents this week asked the School Board to reverse a decision made by Raymond Gaines as school principal last year denying their request to attend a two-day event in April of 2000 in Dayton, Ohio.

Under school district policy, a principal's decision to deny an out-of-state field trip request can not be reversed by the School Board. However, several members of the Board said that it may be time for the policy to change, allowing the Board to reverse the decision at Lake Mary High School.

"All of the flexibility is in the hands of the principal, and none is with the Board," said Chairman Larry Furlong. "I would be interested in having the policy changed so there is an appeal to the School Board."

The Board this week voted 4-1 to review the policy, with Jeanne Morris in opposition.

"I'm really distressed by the message of saying we're going to review the policy," Morris said. "Either in this district we believe in school-based management or we don't, and in what we just did (Tuesday) we said that we don't."

Oviedo approves funds for sidewalks

By Bill Kerne
Staff Writer

OVIDEO — In an effort to prevent the type of accidents that have occurred recently in neighboring Central Florida counties, the Oviedo City Council on Monday agreed to share with the county the costs of a new sidewalk and traffic light near Jackson Heights Middle School.

Oviedo and Seminole County will spend up to $40,000 toward sidewalk construction on the north side of County Road 419 from Evans Street to Academy Avenue.

In addition, Oviedo will spend up to $25,000 for the installation of a traffic signal on CR 419 at Academy Avenue.

The Seminole County Commission has agreed to fund one-third of both school safety projects for Jackson Heights Middle School, and is requesting one-third funding each from the City of Oviedo and the Seminole County School Board.

Residents in the area have repeatedly asked the Council to address the need for a sidewalk and traffic light on the north side of CR 419, complaining that children were walking to school without a sidewalk.

Councilman Tom Hagood said that if the School Board does not agree to fund the remaining one-third of the cost for the sidewalk and traffic light, the city should consider covering the cost.

"I would hate to see the safety of our children jeopardized

Love match: Mother-daughter tennis team

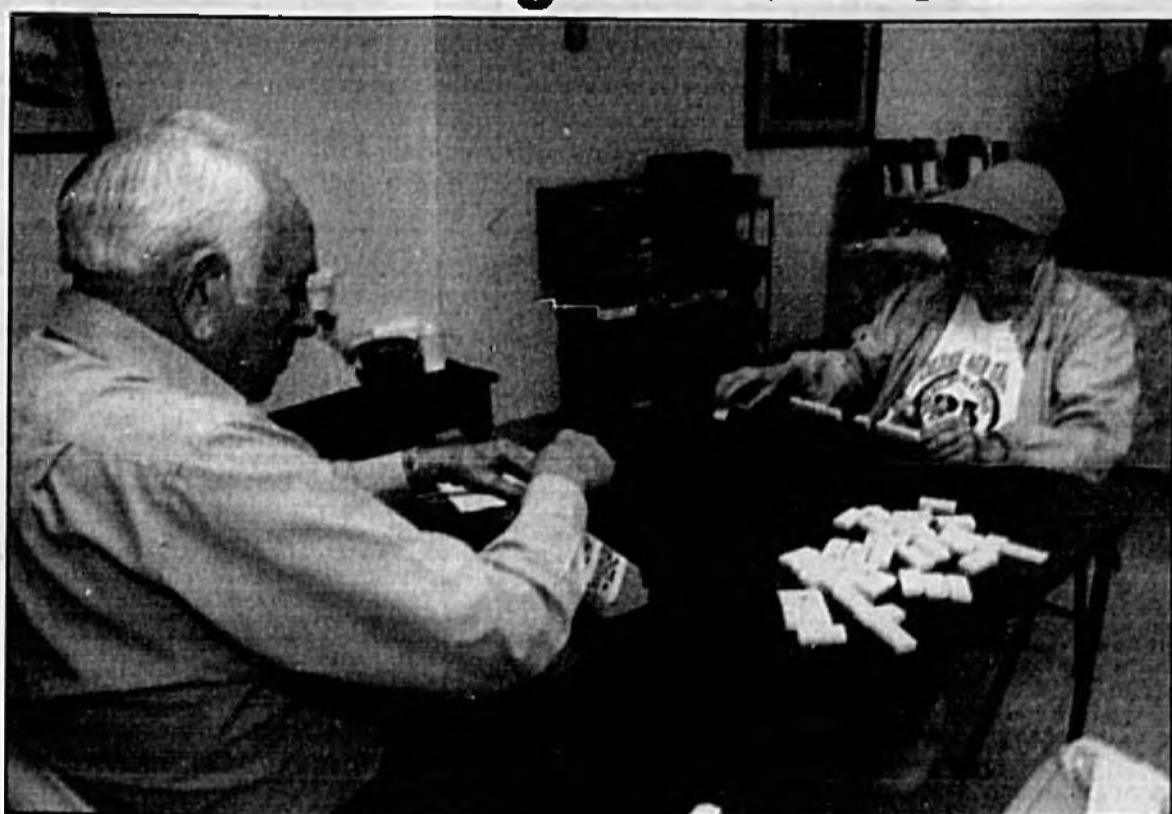

Westmark and Lewallen are first mother, daughter duo

By Russ White
Staff Writer

SANFORD — "Oh mom, can you believe this — we're tennis partners," 50-year-old Karen Westmark of Sanford told 74-year-old Phyllis Lewallen of Osteen.

"I don't know who's more excited, Karen or me," Lewallen said before their women's doubles match at noon today in the 25th annual Golden Games.

Lewallen and Westmark are not only the first mother/daughter team in the history of the Games, they're also a great-grandmother and grandmother. They've played tennis together but have never been in a tournament.

When Karen Westmark's 20-year-old daughter Miranda had her first child (Courtney) six months ago, Phyllis Lewallen was walking on air. Obviously, she hasn't stopped.

"Karen teaches tennis at Sylvan Lake Park," her mother said. "She's an ex-secretary who was out of work a few years ago when her boss lost his job. She's a very good player and a wonderful teacher for youngsters."

Lewallen, a widow who also has a 53-year-old daughter and a 35-year-old son, said that she never had time to play when her children were at home.

"I began much later in life. I've been in the Golden Age Games since 1984."

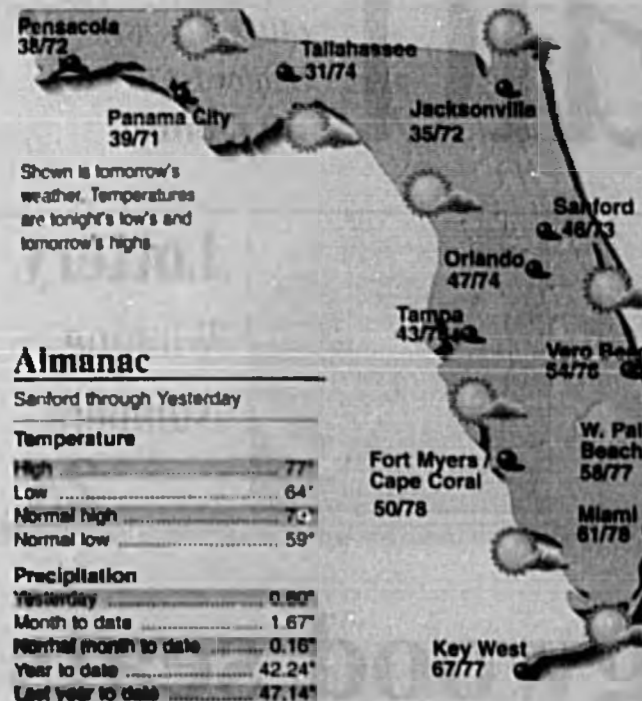

Lewallen has won 34 medals in the Games, competing in ten-

All men (and some women) should toot for a tutor

"A Tutor who tooted the flute
Tried to teach two young tooters to toot.
Said the two to the Tutor,
'Is it harder to toot, or
To tutor two tooters to toot?'"

Nice limerick, isn't it? We've all had tutors who have shaped our lives. And we've probably been tutors, too. I'm not sure if it's wiser to tutor or be tutored. The tutoring listings in the new BellSouth Yellow Pages begin on Page 1873, coming after Turbochargers and preceding Tuxedo Rentals. Tutors are available to help us with reading, writing, math, memory, spelling, studying, organizing and following directions. There are on-site tutors and traveling tutors, baby tutors, teen tutors, athletic tutors, language tutors and tutoring tutors. The Romans believed that tutelary gods watched over them. These gods watched, protected, defended and guarded. Nowadays, we think of tutors as private instructors or coaches — perhaps editors. All writers need toots from their tutors, if you read me. Tutors, of course, earn their living trying to accomplish what teachers failed to accomplish. The Braves may add tutors to the coaching staff next time they're in the World Series. It takes two or more tutors to make a team toot against the Yankees. A town tutor was asked if Sanford, so pleasant and lively, was making anything out of its track of land on Lake Monroe (Fort Mellon Park). "Yes, lots," said the tutor. "But, the key is recruiting more rooters to toot." Had Bill Clinton given a tutor a toot, there would have been fewer tooters trying to give him the boot. Shaq could use a tutor to help him shoot, Jim Gray a tutor to help him mute. The Republicans should have found a tutor for Newt. Elizabeth Dole, poor soul, asked her Bob to recruit her a tutor.

Russ White

But he already had tooted the tutor good-bye. Some tooters are hooters, others don't give a hoot or a toot. Some people get through life without tooting for a tutor. Frank Sinatra was one. He lived a life that was true, and traveled each and every highway. But through it all, when there was doubt, he ate it up and spit it out. Frank always did it his way — and not in a shy way. Most men would be wise to hire two tutors to help them toot. Men need tutors more than women, who frequently get by on intuition — that sixth sense of a tutor that allows women to put 2 and 2 together to get a man's number.

Russ White's column appears Tuesday through Sunday in the Seminole Herald.

Our View

A solution from the past can be the key to the future

As we stand ready to face a new millennium, it's worth a moment to consider where our fair city has been. More to the point, it's important to remember that while the millennium will bring many new challenges, Sanford has 122 years of history and the opportunities that face her people in the future will no doubt be similar — at least in nature, though specific details are sure to differ — to the problems our forefathers have already encountered.

Today, our city leaders are searching for way to revitalize the spirit and the economy of Sanford. A look into the archives of the city reveals that 91 years ago our city fathers were doing a very similar thing. What were the answers in 1908?

Surprisingly, not that much different than the solutions offered during the recent Millennium Summit. In fact, the editors of the Sanford Herald outlined a "Proclamation of the People of Sanford," that covered much the same ground as the Summit did 91 years later. At the heart of the solution was a need to set aside differences and unite in a spirit of cooperation to build a better community.

Because of its timeliness, that editorial, written "To the World at Large" and published on Oct. 14, 1908, deserves to be republished:

Proclamation of the People of Sanford

To the World at Large:

When it becomes necessary for the American people to throw off the yoke of temporary business depression, a wholesome respect for the welfare of mankind requires that a fitting expression be given the determination.

Whereas, The American people, by their suffrages, have elected a chief executive under whose policy it is believed that a long period of general prosperity will be inaugurated, and,

Whereas, It is believed that even those who may differ from him in theory will promote the general public interest by aiding him with their good will and cooperation, at least until events may disclose the wisdom or unwisdom thereof; and,

Whereas Sanford is the metropolis of the Great Celery Belt and the gateway to the vast St. Johns Delta, and is looked to by this splendid region as the leader to set the pace in industrial activity and breadth of spirit and enterprise;

Therefore be it Resolved, That we, the people of this favored Celery City, hereby urge the necessity of setting aside all rivalry between sections, and by combined effort seek to encourage industrial, mercantile and financial pursuits by awakening our people to a sense of their responsibility. (Emphasis added)

Let all, in this, the season of promise of bountiful crops and restored confidence in general financial conditions, unite in their efforts to promote a broad reciprocal spirit, and to bring back that degree of business activity which in past years has characterized the country in general and Orange County in particular. (Editor's note: Sanford was a part of Orange County until 1913, when the northern section of Orange County became Seminole County.) May every commercial interest tingle with activity.

While every cultivated acre is laden with plenty, every heart responds to the inspired hope of good times, every ripple of water in the St. Johns Delta breathes an invitation to our people to engage in the commerce of the world. As the happiness of one is the concern of all, we ask the cooperation of our neighbors here and all over South Florida, in all pursuits; and as this season marks the advent of a new era politically and industrially, we desire it to be known that Sanford throws open her gates, and she invites the people of the world to enter, barter, trade, sell buy and aid in inaugurating a prosperity that may extend throughout the land like a tidal wave, and to meet us in spirit of broad, patriotic good-fellowship, intent only upon the common good of our common country. (Emphasis added)

The People of Sanford
By The Herald

The cliché says "Those who fail to study history are destined to repeat it." We would add our own thoughts to that statement, noting that those who do study history should repeat some of it, especially when it works. And what works better than a spirit of unity to accomplish common goals. Sure, we're not going to agree on all the details, but we'll never become the vibrant city on the St. Johns if we can't at least agree to work together.

Therefore, the Herald is renewing its 91-year-old Proclamation of the People of Sanford and encourages all Sanford citizens to heed its message.

Your View

It's deja vu all over again when it comes to midges

To the editor:

What should we think when Bill Kerns tells us that, "Sanford, Volusia County ink pact to battle midges?"

Yogi Berra would say, "It's déjà vu all over again." I would agree. Politicians of Sanford have been leaning forward in their foxholes for a mighty assault on midges over 20 years in my memory bank. In spite of smog machines and a lighted barge, midges refuse to be "on the run." The old hotel now housing New Tribes Mission and the struggling motel still in business on the waterfront are testaments to the tenacity of midges. I also believe we don't have a School District Headquarters on the lake because of those blind little mosquitoes. I sincerely hope that midges can be controlled someday, without use of my tax dollars of course. Lots of luck, Mayor Dale!

Smith says Herald has no frame of reference for 'Best Mayor Ever' tag

To the editor:

I ignored it when it appeared to be Russ White's opinion that Larry Dale was "the best mayor ever." Now, the Oct. 31 editorial states that "The shame is that Sanford didn't have mayors like this 50 and 60 years ago." What is your basis of comparison? How many Sanford mayors have you observed?

Perhaps Sanford did have mayors as fine as or finer than Dale. I would be willing to bet that the majority of the newspaper's staff has followed only one, or perhaps two mayors. Why are you insulting the service and legacy left by many fine people who served as mayor? You have no frame of reference to compare the problems, challenges, frustrations, failures and successes that Larry Dale has faced in comparison with mayors like Andrew Carraway, Bill Stemper, David Gatchel, Lee Moore, and Betty Smith (to name just a few). How dare you!

The editorial staff of the Herald may feel that Larry Dale is a good mayor, but you need to keep in mind that when you state that he is "the best" you are making a comparison that you are not qualified to make. Please refrain from insulting the work of many fine people who gave much of themselves to Sanford when you make such sweeping statements.

Irons Family says thanks for prayers

To the editor:

We would like to express our heart felt gratitude, for all the love and sympathy that was shown to us and we felt in our hearts, from our relatives, our brothers and sisters, neighbors and friends.

We pray that God would touch every heart to let them know how much we are thankful and for every little sorrow each one felt, for whom the passing of Joshua has touched. They will remember these few words everyone.

Al and Bill attempt to mimic Clinton

The key man in the first Gore-Bradley debate was not on the stage. Bill Clinton was the hidden ticket lurking behind both candidates' answers.

Vice President Gore broached the issue first. He shared the first questioner's "disappointment and anger" at Clinton's behavior in the Monica Lewinsky matter. He did so without the questioner himself ever saying what he felt about the long-running Clinton scandal, much less mentioning the president.

"He's my friend," the VP continued, hoping to put the monstrous matter behind him. "I took an oath under the Constitution... and I interpreted that oath to mean that I ought to try to provide as much continuity and stability... as I possibly could."

The attempt here is to find honor in his Deputy Dog-like devotion to Clinton of 1998-1999, behavior that reached screech level in Gore's Impeachment Day cheerleading on the White House lawn.

That many independent voters duty and honor as divisible is a bitter, belated assessment Albert Gore, Jr. of Washington, D.C., and Nashville, Tenn., seems unwilling to swallow. Then or now. He recalls again and again his steadfast opposition to the Reagan budget cuts of 1981, his yeoman's service in the long struggle with the Newt Gingrich congress starting in 1995. He now attests that this rabid defense of Clinton as one of the country's greatest presidents of all times is simply another part of his political "perfect attendance record."

There are two problems with this Clintonesque "spin."

One, the Constitution does not require that the vice president report to the president. He is a constitutional officer in his own right with the legislative position as president of the Senate and the executive duty to succeed to the presidency should that office become vacant.

Two, there is no written or unwritten code of vice presidential conduct that requires a veep to stand on the White House lawn, just minutes after the House votes impeachment, and cheer a president as if he had been the innocent victim of a long, drawn out affair.

"No president should lie to the American people," Al Gore might have said last year and thereby put the issue of his own integrity in the matter behind him. By saying nothing back when it might have mattered, he pretty much assured that it would matter now.

One of those clearly intending to use the "Clinton" issue against Gore is former New Jersey Sen. Bill Bradley. Asked to name the key elements of presidential leadership, he started the bidding with "integrity" — not the current president's long suit.

Of course, Bradley did some "spinning" of his own in New Hampshire last Wednesday. Asked his reason for quitting the U.S. Senate in 1996, the former New York Knick said there were things he wanted to do that he could not do on Capitol Hill.

What he failed to note was the experience of his last re-election campaign. He barely defeated an unknown rival while outspending her 15-to-1, dumping more than $12 million into a race to fend off a woman with less than a million in her war chest.

What Bradley also failed to note was how he spent that last campaign back home dodging voters' questions about a recent New Jersey tax hike. Despite his presence on the Senate Finance Committee and keen interest in tax reform, Bradley took the aloof position that he didn't have to answer questions about "state" issues.

The tragic irony here is the picture of two candidates both trying to escape the legacy of Bill Clinton even as each makes a sneaky attempt at his well-practiced "spin."

She must enjoy community service, because her activities beyond school include volunteering every Wednesday at the Boys and Girls Club of Sanford, serving dinners for senior citizens at her synagogue, serving Thanksgiving dinners at the Kinneret old age residence, delivering "Meals on Wheels" through the Coalition for the Homeless, and volunteering at the Jewish Community Center Day Camp and after school program.

Additional activities include running statistics at the Golden Age Games, helping set up a Christmas party for children in the "Head Start program at elementary schools, organizing a Halloween Party for the mentally handicapped students at a local middle school, and volunteering with Habitat for Humanity building projects.

She has been active in community volunteer programs since middle school.

"I found a little niche where I can help organizations, and do my part to help them be as efficient as possible," Elissa said. "It's important to be considerate of other people and to be aware of everything going on around you."

Next year, Elissa is planning to attend Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., where she will study either marketing and advertising or psychology. Ten years from now, she envisions herself remaining active in her community.

Elissa and her family has lived in Longwood for seven years, moving to Longwood from Brooklyn, N.Y.

Throughout the six-day Young Leaders Conference, Elissa will interact with national leaders and newsmakers from the three branches of government, the media and the diplomatic corps.

The National Young Leaders Conference is sponsored by the Congressional Youth Leadership Council, a nonprofit, nonpartisan educational organization founded in 1965.

Each year, 7,000 youth nationwide participate in the 20 sessions of the National Young Leaders Conference.

Five-year renovation project planned for Lyman High

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

LONGWOOD - Lyman High School is preparing for a five-year renovation project beginning in January of 2000.

The project will be performed in four phases over the next five years, at a cost estimated at about $20 million.

Along with the building effort, Lyman will begin offering course work in the Engineering and Technology Institute, a preparatory program for post-secondary engineering study and upper level technology fields. It will open for qualified ninth graders throughout Seminole County for the 2000-2001 school year.

The first phase of Lyman High School renovations will include developing new parking and traffic patterns, building a new kitchen, renovating the current kitchen building into six classrooms, and refurbishing a classroom building. It will cost an estimated $3.9 million. Student parking will be expanded by 137 spaces to a total of 484 spaces.

A covered outdoor dining area will be developed during the kitchen renovations. In addition, the old carpeting in Classroom Building 3 will be removed, and the building will receive new paint.

Phase two, expected to start in the third year with an estimated cost of $8.6 million, will include a new auditorium with band and chorus areas. An additional 21 classrooms will be built.

Starting in the fifth year, at an estimated cost of $7 million, phase three will include the renovation of three classroom buildings, plus the gym lockers and lockers. Building three, known as the Round Building, will be demolished. In addition, a central Courtyard would be developed.

Although the school board committed to renovating Lyman High School, Kramer said there is a possibility that parts of the project could fall victim to funding problems.

"If our revenue stream decreases, you never know what could happen," Kramer said.

Phase four, at an estimated cost of $740,000, calls for renovating the vocational buildings and replacing the concession building. The school board is also looking to upgrading Lyman High School's deteriorating swimming pool. Among the possibilities, the board is looking to negotiating with Seminole County and Longwood to replace the pool. The board would like to build a community swimming pool similar to the one under construction at Seminole High School.

The renovations at Lyman High School still leave Oviedo, Seminole and Lake Mary high schools in need of improvements to their facilities, Kramer said.

Then, there are the six open-pod elementary schools suffering from overcrowding and poor air circulation. The schools include Altamonte Elementary, Forest City Elementary, Lake Orienta Elementary, Sabal Point Elementary, Sterling Park Elementary, and Winter Springs Elementary School.

Kramer said the board would like to pattern renovations after those of Idyllwild Elementary School. Construction will start in mid-July to close the classrooms at Idyllwild, which was also built as an open-pod facility. In addition, a two story building will be built for the fourth and fifth grade classes, and a Media Center will be constructed.

"This will solve the problem of open pods, and it adds classroom capacity," Kramer said. "It will make the environment more conducive to education."

2001 school year. It is designed for 800 students.

"In four or five years it will cost $11 million to build an elementary school," Kramer said.

The board is looking into an alternative to building elementary schools. For example, it would take $3.1 million per facility to construct, Primary Learning Centers that would handle 250 to 300 students can be built near overcrowded schools.

The Idyllwild renovations will cost an estimated $6 million. Work is expected to be complete in Jan., 2001. The board lacks funding to renovate the other six open-pod campuses.

Board members in June said they wanted to spend $1 million throughout the district for new desks, furniture, computers, and software.

"You have software programs that change," Kramer said. "They become obsolete, and they won't run on the hardware you have."

information we'll be able to better judge the true priorities of the city."

Miles, seeking his second term on the commission said he was surprised by the final numbers.

"There was a division there that I hadn't picked up during the campaign," he said.

"Longwood voters will now have a chance to experience what they voted for. It will be interesting to see what happens to the Department of Public Safety, the city administrator, the city attorney, and the city clerk."

Miles said he still plans to remain involved in the future of the city.

"Longwood voters made their statement and I'll live by it. That's what a democratic society is all about."

District 4 winner Butch Bundy likewise attributed his victory to hard work and addressing issues he thought were important.

"We worked hard and didn't duck issues," said Bundy when the election numbers came in.

"Winning feels wonderful. I made a game plan and stuck to it. People supported us with a lot of confidence and energy. If I had known this I would have run sooner."

Bundy was gracious in victory, thanking his opponent Vacca for the time she has given the city during the past six years.

"I applaud her for that and for running an issues oriented campaign that didn't get into personal attacks."

The new District 4 commissioner said his initial priorities will be to review the city's present and future position of sewer lines and anticipated construction.

"Our rates are among the highest in Central Florida. I want to make sure that we have an equitable billing system as one priority and I want to make sure all citizens who deal with the city receive fair treatment."

Vacca was philosophical in defeat.

"Well, I can go back to being a mom again," she said. "I plan to remain involved in the city and may actually be more affective out of office than in office. I can do what I think is necessary without worrying about who I might offend on the board."

Voter turnout for Tuesday's election ran slightly higher than the special election in April that saw commissioner Dan Anderson join the board to fill a vacancy by a resignation.

A total of 991 electors went to the polls plus their were another 41 absentee ballots sent in for a total of 1,032, representing slightly more than a 12 percent voter turnout. In the April election slightly more than 880 voters cast ballots.

Anderson ran unopposed and was automatically reelected to his first three-year term.

Maingot and Bundy are expected to sworn in this week and will join the commission in their first voting capacity at the next regular commission meeting November 15.

nis singles and doubles and the long drive golf event.

"Nothing compares to this year," she said, "having a chance to play with Karen. She called me the minute she found out that they were lowering the age from 55 to 50 for the first time. I think that's just terrific."

Jim Gunster, one of the committee officials, said that by lowering the starting age to 50; a record 1,200 have entered the Games. They go from A to Z — 62-year-old singer Bill Abbott from Winter Springs to Wanda and Alexander Zyjewski from Oviedo. Wanda is 64 and Alexander 70.

"Most of the senior games have changed to the 50-year starting age," said Gunster. "We are trying to keep in compliance. We're extremely pleased at how many newcomers have joined the competition."

Gunster said the Games offer something for everyone.

"We have a record 22 talent show contestants for Thursday night," he said. "Ten are singers.

We've got Liz Taylor and her dancing troupe from Casselberry, and The Floradorables from Williamsburg."

On Tuesday, 44 men and women took part in the cribbage tournament, run by Dave McGuire, the Cribbage King from Winter Haven."

"We need brain games just as we do body games," McGuire said.

John Kusmak, 84, was the senior cribbage player. He brought his pegs and board from Haines City and lined up against some of the best competitors in the state.

"One of the beauties of cribbage is that the women get to play against the men," McGuire said.

Who's better, he was asked. "I'm not going to tell," said McGuire, a Peg-A-Long in no hurry for controversy.

This evening, all participants in the Games, as well as their spouses, will be part of a Midweek dinner at 6:30 p.m. at the Sanford Civic Center.

For the past five years, the Color Guard has attended a national championship event hosted by Winter Guard International, a non-profit organization out of Dayton. However, according to Lake Mary High School's policy, school organizations can only make out-of-state field trips once every four years.

Gaines, who earlier this year received the promotion to director of secondary education for high schools, said that he made an exception for the Color Guard to attend the event five consecutive years.

"This is an excellent group of people, with high integrity and a strong work ethic," Gaines said.

Last year, 24 students attended the event accompanied by 30 parents.

However, Gaines said that complaints by some parents about the expense of the trip, as well as concerns about students missing classroom time, prompted the decision to only allow the trip on alternating years. The group will attend the Dayton event next year, under the decision Gaines made as Lake Mary's principal.

"I did meet with the Color Guard Director before last year, and it was understood that this would be an every-other-year trip," Gaines said.

New Lake Mary High School Principal Boyd Karnes upheld the decision by Gaines.

This would not be the first time the School Board has reversed the decision of a high school principal regarding an out-of-state field trip. In November of 1997, the Board granted the request of the Lake Howell ROTC to make a trip to Washington, D.C., despite a denial by the school principal. The Board reversed the principal's decision despite policy that prohibits the reversal.

Under school district policy, the approval of an out-of-state field trip request is at the discretion of a principal. Once a principal approves a request, the Board reviews the trip. If the principal denies a request, there is no appeals process.

"You have no idea how many decisions like this are made every year at the high school level," said Paul Hagerty, school district superintendent. "I think the last thing the Board needs to do is approve every field trip."

Members of the Color Guard said that they look forward to the trip every year.

"It is just a special feeling at the Nationals," said Erin Wright. "There is no greater feeling than the feeling of being around people who are going through the same thing you are. Our reward does not come from what we win, but from the experience. This is what brings tears to our eyes."

Students receive school credit for participation in the Color Guard program. Several Color Guard members said they are in contention for scholarships ranging from $1,000 to $2,000, and that if they do not compete in the Nationals at Dayton it will jeopardize their scholarship opportunities.

because one-third of the sidewalk does not get built," Hagood said. "I'd like to see the city make sure that this gets built. This is a high priority program, and it is a safety concern that has been brought up to us by citizens."

An Advisory Safety Committee, with input from the School Board, also recommended the need for the sidewalk and traffic light.

No date has been set for the installation of the sidewalk and traffic light.

"Once the county gets the go-ahead it will be put out by contract," said Charles Smith, director of public works for Oviedo.

Council Chairman Bob Dallari said that he would like to see the city produce a time line for completion of the project.

"I really don't care what it costs, I just want to get it done," Dallari said.

Since Sept. 30, 11 Central Florida high school children have been injured and one has been killed while walking to or from school.

There was one fatal accident at a bus stop on the Oak Ridge Road and Harcourt Avenue intersection near Dr. Phillips High School in Orlando, and there were four accidents in 1998 at that intersection.

Gabriel inked to contract extension

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - Orlando Magic General Manager John Gabriel has been signed to a four-year contract extension, RDV Sports Chief Executive Officer Bob Vander Weide has announced.

"I have truly enjoyed working closely with John over the years," said Vander Weide. "John's leadership, dedication and enthusiasm has been instrumental in managing the Magic over the years, while positioning the team for what will be a very promising future."

"In the 12 years we've been in Orlando, we've had some incredible memories," said Gabriel, who came to the Magic in 1987 to help build the original team. "This is a top-notch organization with first-class ownership and we're very excited to continue to work to bring a championship to our great fans and this city."

Gabriel enters his 18th season in the NBA, and has been with the Magic organization since its inception into the NBA 11 years ago. He was promoted to the General Manager post on April 29, 1996 after six years as the club's Vice President of Basketball Operations/Player Personnel since January of 1994. He previously served the organization as Director of Player Personnel, Director of Scouting, and Assistant Coach.

Gabriel was responsible for building the Magic roster that went to the 1995 NBA Finals, when the organization had only been in existence in the NBA for six years. Gabriel also played a key role in this past summer's relaunching of the Magic. Through off-season maneuvering, the Magic stockpiled nine first round draft selections over the next five years, while also giving Orlando significant salary cap flexibility in the coming seasons.

As General Manager, Gabriel oversees all of Orlando's Basketball Operations, while handling contract negotiations. He also oversees the Scouting Department, while conducting the team's draft responsibilities.

He has been very instrumental in the Orlando Magic draft selections over the past 10 years, while handling the 1989 NBA Expansion Draft. He was also the driving force in obtaining free agent Horace Grant in the summer of 1994 as well as the draft day trade of Chris Webber for Anfernee Hardaway and three first round draft choices on June 30, 1993.

Gabriel most recently guided the organization in the re-signing of the 1998-99 NBA Most Improved Player and Sixth Man of the Year Award winner, Darrell Armstrong. In addition, two Magic draft picks last season - Matt Harpring and Michael Doleac earned 1998-99 NBA All-Rookie honors. Gabriel was a top nominee for the NBA's Executive of the Year last season.

Over the past 10 years, Gabriel has spent countless hours on the road, evaluating prospects in the NBA, CBA, college, and international levels. He also coordinates the club's rookie/free agent camps.

Gabriel played point guard at Kutztown State University near Philadelphia, where he studied art education.

Upon graduation, Gabriel served as an art teacher and held a basketball coaching position at Harrisburg (Pa.) Trinity High School. He also ran his own landscaping business. Please see Magic, Page 2B

Seminole's volleyball season ends in regionals to Osceola

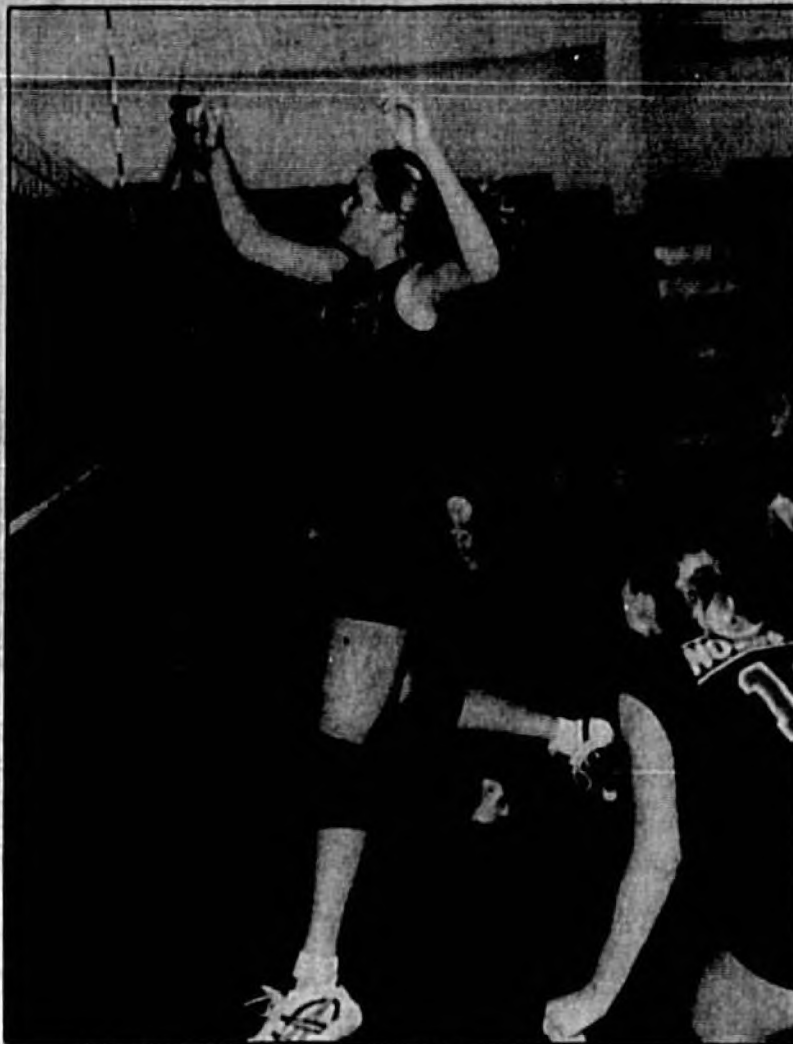

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - A tremendous season for a very young Seminole girls volleyball team came to an end Tuesday night as the local squad fell to Osceola High School from Kissimmee, 15-7 and 15-10, in the Subregional round of the FHSAA State Playoffs at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

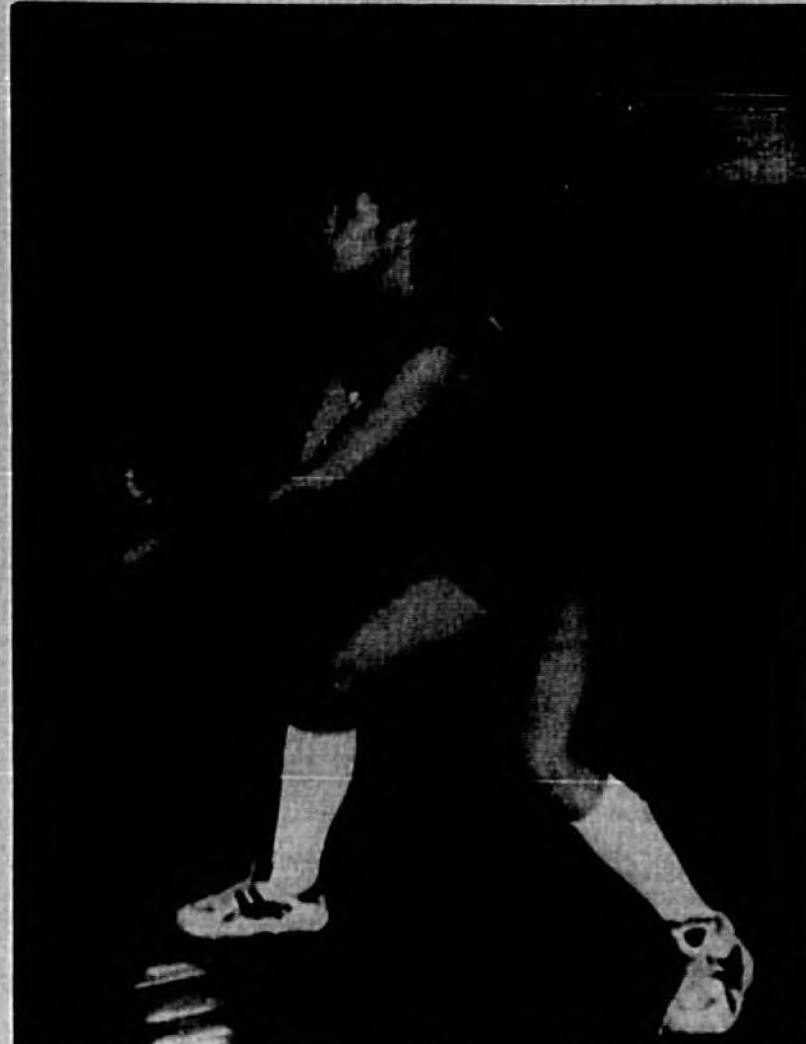

"We had our moments, but we needed to be more consistent tonight to come out on top," said Seminole head coach Beth Corso. "Our attack did well at times and had we played more consistent with our serve/receive we could have won."

"However, we had our miscues...not many, but enough to let a good little team like Osceola get us!"

Lake Brantley swim teams dominate Conference Meet

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Host Lake Brantley tuned up for next week's district swim meet by coasting to victory in both the girls and boys team meets in the Seminole Athletic Conference Swimming Championships at the Lake Brantley Community Aquatics Center last Thursday.

The Patriots boys topped Lake Mary, 573-1/2 to 447, with Winter Springs, Seminole, Oviedo, Lyman and Lake Howell rounding out the finishers.

The Lake Brantley girls won by almost as much, besting Lake Mary, 580 to 464. Winter Springs again was third ahead of Oviedo, Seminole, Lyman and Lake Howell.

"I was a little shocked at the success that we had here," said Seminole head coach Tony Ackerson. "Because we finished fifth and sixth in last year's meet and lost several top seniors, including state champion Lori Thomas."

"So we came to this meet to utilize it as a dress rehearsal for the district meet in two weeks. We've only been resting a few days, so I was thinking we'd have a few kids go some season's best times, and probably finish sixth overall in the team scores. As it turned out, we were only 1-1/2 points out of third place for the boys and another handful out of fourth for the girls. So to say that I was pleased with our effort is a serious understatement."

Dan Bishop pulled out a second place finish for the Fighting Seminoles in the 200 freestyle, the highest individual finish by a Seminole boy swimmer in two years.

Nick Crivellari had a great meet too, taking fourth and fifth in the freestyle sprints.

Corrie Seland was the top female swimmer for Seminole, placing third in the 100 butterfly. The girls 400 freestyle relay team of Seland, Lindsey Bahr, Angela Ellis and Bethany Klebaum took third in a season best time of 3:57.68.

"I was the proudest of the way our team pulled together the entire meet," said Ackerson. "They understand the huge effect that this has on individual performances, and it was great to see the way they were screaming for each other."

"Nearly everyone on the team went at least one season's best time in each event, and we had several that went lifetime best. But up and down the line, our people swam great races with very few mental errors."

SANFORD - Jenny Blowers singled in Deborah Manfredi with the winning run as the Sharks upset Donnie's Darlins in the City of Sanford Recreation and Parks Department Women's Fall Slow Pitch Softball League at Pinehurst Park Tuesday night.

Donnie's Darlins led 11-9 going into the bottom of the seventh inning before a triple by Dawn Evans and consecutive singles by Gloria Efrid, Manfredi and Camilla King made the score 11-10 with the bases loaded and no one out.

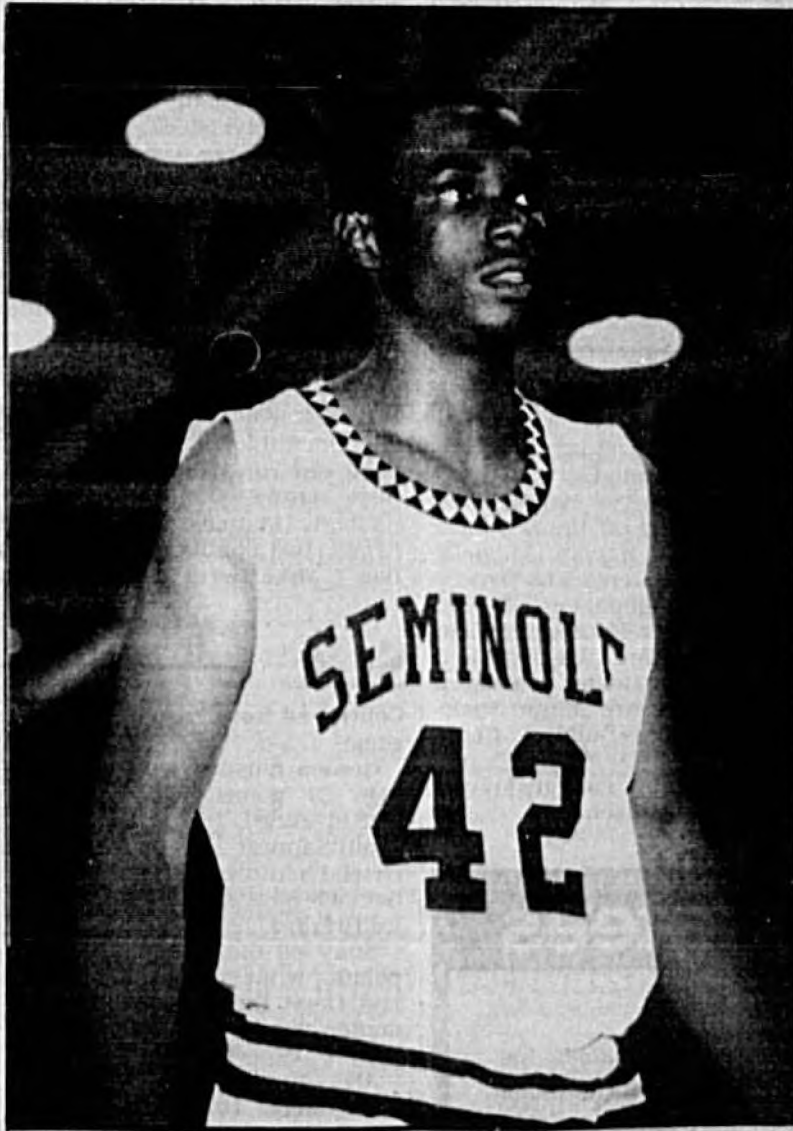

Lisa Berg forced King at second, but Efrid trotted home with the tying run and Blowers followed with her game-winning hit.

In the other games, Vaughan Incorporated scored in every inning, including eight runs in the sixth inning, to move into a tie for second place with a 17-8 thumping of Curt's Alleycats.

And league-leading Bixon Chiropractic used a seven-run third inning to clobber the Sharks 13-3.

With the Sharks and Vaughan Incorporated pulling the upsets, Bixon Chiropractic takes a two-game lead with a 4-1 record, while Curt's Alleycats, Donnie's Darlins and Vaughan Incorporated are all tied for second with 3-3 records. The Sharks just behind that pack with a 2-5 record.

Next Tuesday at Pinehurst Park, Curt's Alleycats plays the doubleheader against the Sharks at 6:30 p.m. and Bixon Chiropractic at 7:30 p.m. and Vaughan Incorporated takes on Donnie's Darlins at 8:30 p.m. Please see Women, Page 2B

Daryl Dingle scored 10 points and pulled down at least as many rebounds, but Brevard overcame a 17-point halftime deficit to spoil Seminole Community College's season opener, 77-74, Tuesday.

Brevard overcomes SCC in final minute

SANFORD - For 20 minutes they looked like world beaters.

For 39 minutes and 24 seconds they looked like game winners.

But when the final horn sounded, the Seminole Community College men's basketball team found itself on the wrong side of a 77-74 score to Brevard Community College from Cocoa in the season-opener for both teams before a large crowd at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center Tuesday night.

Behind the three-point shooting of freshman Matt Story and a relentless full-court press defense that led to lay-up after lay-up, SCC built a 17 point lead, 43-26, at intermission.

Story, a 6-foot-4 forward from Sarasota, hits four of the Raiders' six three-pointers in the first half to lead the way with 12 points as eight SCC players found the scoring column in the opening 20 minutes.

But veteran coach Don Smith of the Titans has seven players returning from a team that went 21-10 last year and they were not about to panic.

Brevard went to a full-court press of its own and forced the Raiders into several ball-handling errors and sophomore guard Joe Gordon from Palm Bay took over the scoring as the Titans started to close the gap.

BCC also took away the SCC running game, going to a soft man-to-man and packing the paint and forcing SCC to play on the perimeter.

The Titans closed to within two points as Gordon went unconscious and started scoring at will.

But Story came off the bench to score six straight points as the Raiders went back out to an eight point lead.

But a three-pointer by Gordon and a basket off an SCC turnover cut the margin back to three, 72-69, with 49-seconds left.

After the Raiders had a shot roll off the rim, Brevard called time out and set up a three-point play, which Gordon nailed to tie the game at 72-72.

Sophomore guard Lonnie Battle then drove to the basket to put SCC back on top, 74-72, but Gordon hit his fourth three-pointer of the second half to put the Titans on top for the first time in the game, 75-74.

The Raiders came down and missed two three-point tries and Gordon was fouled after a rebound.

Gordon hit both free throws to make the score 77-74 and SCC missed on a final try to tie the Lake Brantley, the highest relay finish for Seminole in the history of the SAC meet.

"As good as this was, we need to put it behind us and quickly refocus on the job at hand, which is to prepare for the district meet," said Ackerson. "But this is a great, great group of kids that have continued to do everything I've asked of them, and I like our potential to do even better in two weeks."

The district tournaments will be held on Thursday, November 11th. The Class 6A meet will return to Lake Brantley, while Seminole and the other Class 5A schools will find out this week where it will be competing.

The top three finishers in each event and the next highest three times (from finishers 4-through-6) will qualify for the State Meet starting at the Orlando Aquatics Center on International Drive on Thursday, November 18th.

HOROSCOPES

Thursday, Nov. 4, 1999

Chances are success will come to you in the year ahead through someone you've known in the past, but with whom you had lost contact. This person will bring Lady Luck in his or her wake.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) By just being in the right place at the right time with the right people today could let something fortuitous drop in your lap. However, it'll still call for your input to bring it into being. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Although sometimes you need to get off by yourself, this is not one of those days. You'll come alive when you can surround yourself with lots of people who share your interests.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There should be no trouble achieving your ambitious objectives today. This is because you'll quietly lay out a game plan, but then aggressively pursue your goal.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Beginning today, start diligently looking for a market for your wares. What you possess, be it hardware or knowledge, has a much greater value to others than you may realize.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The pursuit of an important goal today may develop and be successful in ways you would personally orchestrate if you could, and that is screened from the eyes of others.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Conditions are ripe for you to negotiate a hard fought contract you've been working on for some time now. Today's extra push may do the trick.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Because you're willing to work for what you earn, a way can be found now to generate that extra income you've been wanting. It may come through an old source.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A social situation about which you've been dubious is not going to be as difficult to manage as you had anticipated. After today, you may wonder why you ever worried.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is a good day to shore up any wearing parts or sagging couches taking place in your house. With good maintenance at this time, you'll prevent trouble later.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be at your best today when you can mingle with friends and associates and talk either shop or personal concerns. Brainstorming issues together brings good results.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Keep an eye peeled today for money making opportunities. Don't hesitate to chase down any and all leads that hold the potential of adding weight to your wallet.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It may be your lot today to take charge and manage something others may find too overwhelming. They'll sense your innate leadership abilities and will eagerly follow your lead.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Pushing kings aside

By Phillip Alder

In "The Rape of Lucrece," Shakespeare wrote, "Time's glory is to calm contending kings, / To unmask falsehood, and bring truth to light." What a great introduction for so many bridge columns!

This sort of deal defeats the less experienced player because he doesn't think before he makes a fatal move. How would you declare four spades? West leads the club jack round to your queen.

With his unappealing 4-3-3-3 hand, North makes a limit raise, showing some 11 support points with at least four trumps. South has a borderline raise, but the game bonus, like a conquerable territory to a king, is a seductive lure.

If it were a no-trump contract, East should put up the club king at trick one because his partner might have led from a suit headed by the ace-jack-10.

But against a suit contract, the lead marks declarer with the ace-queen. South led a trump at trick two. East won with the ace and returned a club. Now, with both red-suit finesses losing, declarer was destined to finish one down.

"That was unlucky," observed South.

"You speak with mendacity. I will unmask your falsehood," replied North.

He went on to explain that faced with a potential loser in each suit, declarer should have immediately led out the ace and queen of diamonds. West wins with the king and plays another club, but South wins with the ace, crosses to dummy with a heart to the ace, and discards his last club on the established diamond jack. With his loser count down to three, it is now time to get the trumps drawn as quickly as possible.

ASK DR. GOTT

Consider reasons behind bad posture

DEAR DR. GOTT: Because of bad posture, I wear a back brace. My husband tells me it's just a crutch and that I should exercise more. What's your opinion?

DEAR READER: Before giving an answer, I'd have to know the reason for your bad posture. Do you have spinal curvature, severe arthritis, osteoporosis or chronic back strain? If so, the brace is probably appropriate and should have been recommended by an orthopedic surgeon.

If, however, you simply do not stand up straight, exercises to strengthen your back muscles and improve posture might be a better option. Also, in such instances, a physical therapist would do more to help you than would a back brace. Ask your doctor about this, rather than arguing with your spouse.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 73-year-old mother experiences severe and painful swelling of her legs and feet. At first, she could control this problem with diuretic medicine. Now she cannot, and she is becoming progressively immobilized. What can we do?

DEAR READER: The first goal is to identify the cause of the swelling. This edema may be the result of a wide variety of afflictions, including heart failure, kidney disease, liver ailments, a tumor or bad veins in her legs. Once the cause has been discovered, specific treatment can be employed.

Obviously, diuretics (kidney stimulants) are often useful, but the medicines are more effective for some conditions than for others. Your mother needs a thorough examination by her family physician. A doctor should be able to pinpoint the problem and prescribe therapy.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Because of persisting abdominal discomfort, I had several blood tests performed. All were normal except one: The doctor told me that I have twice the normal amount of vitamin A in my system, but she gave me no clue about how to fix the problem. I do not take supplemental vitamins, and I eat a balanced diet, so I am confused about the cause of my vitamin overload.

DEAR READER: Vitamin A is stored in the liver. A well-nourished adult who received no vitamin A whatsoever would take about 200 days to exhaust half of this reserve. In the absence of supplemental vitamins, vitamin A toxicity would be extremely rare. (This toxicity is marked by anemia, poor appetite, dry skin, increased pressure in the brain, headache, muscle/joint pain and hair loss.)

Look to your diet as a possible source of excess vitamin A, which is prevalent in liver, whole milk products, carrots, spinach, turnip greens and palm oil.

Try cutting down on these foods — especially liver, which is also rich in cholesterol. Let your body use the vitamin A you have already stored. Have your vitamin A blood level checked in a few months. If your abdominal symptoms diminish as the vitamin level falls, fine. If not, it's back to the drawing board for your doctor. ASSN.

Monegasque cuisine draws its influence from France and Italy

When I plan our family vacations, I have to admit that I am more likely to think "camp-ground" than "hotel," and "drive" rather than "fly." So it follows that a destination like Maine is much more likely to come to mind than, say, Monaco.

I mean, when you say "Monaco," all that comes to mind (aside from Grace Kelly) is a kind of James Bond fantasy of svelte, couture-clad rich people standing at roulette tables, sipping champagne. It never occurred to me that there are 5,000 actual natives of Monaco (they are called "Monegasques") living in that country (the total population is 30,000; the entire country is about the size of New York's Central Park). And it certainly never occurred to me that these people — residents and tourists alike — have to eat. If I thought about it at all, my guess would have been that they exist solely on truffles and foie gras.

It turns out, however, that there is a native Monegasque cuisine, and that it draws its influence from the bordering countries of France and Italy. Monaco may be the world's playground, but there is some serious stuff going on in the kitchen.

This information comes to me from the Monaco Government Tourism Board, which this year celebrated the 50th anniversary of Prince Rainier's reign with, among other festivities, a press luncheon in New York. Guests were introduced to Chef Mario Muratore, an Italian-born chef who heads the kitchen at Monaco's most famous hotel, the Hotel de Paris, in the country's most famous district, Monte Carlo. Muratore — a smiling, bespectacled man who spoke to us in French through a translator — is credited with introducing traditional Monegasque cuisine to the world.

The luncheon was great, and it turns out that many of the dishes can be prepared by the home cook. The pork tenderloin dish below was adapted from one of Muratore's recipes for veal by students at the New England Culinary Institute. The turbot recipe is simple and delicious; if you can't buy European turbot (upwards of $10 or $12 a pound), stick with halibut. The fried dough is, well, fried dough, Monaco-style.

If you're thinking of a trip to Monaco, the Tourism Board can be reached at (800) 753-9696. Of course, the food is pretty good in Maine, too.

Roast Pork Tenderloin in Port Wine Sauce, with Potatoes and Carrots about 4 tablespoons olive oil
salt and pepper to taste
1 pound potatoes, scrubbed and cut into small cubes
3 tablespoon butter
1 pound carrots, scraped and sliced
1-1/2 to 2 pounds pork tenderloin handful of fresh chopped parsley

For the sauce:
1 cup port
1 cup chicken stock
2 tablespoons butter
salt and pepper to taste

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Heat about 2 tablespoons of

Paul O. Belovort for the New England Culinary Institute
Roast Pork Tenderloin in Port Wine Sauce, with Potatoes and Carrots. In this version, created by students at the New England Culinary Institute, the potatoes have been mashed and artfully formed into a button that decorates the top of the tenderloin slices.

the oil in a skillet. Sprinkle the potatoes with salt and pepper and saute them until the peel begins to brown. Set them aside in a warm place.

In another pan, melt the butter. Cook the carrots until they begin to color; they should be glazed and a little sticky with butter. Set aside in a warm place.

Season the pork with salt and pepper in a large, oven-proof saute pan. Heat just enough olive oil to cover the bottom (the remaining 2 tablespoons should do it). Sear the pork on both sides, until well browned. Bake in the oven until it reaches an internal temperature of 160 degrees for medium, 170 degrees for well done; start checking the temperature after the pork has been in the oven for 15 minutes. Remove from oven and let rest a few minutes.

While the pork is baking, make the sauce: Cook the port and chicken stock until it reaches a sauce consistency (coats the back of a spoon). Whisk in the butter and salt and pepper to taste. Add parsley to the carrots.

Slice the pork and serve with the potatoes and carrots, with sauce drizzled over. Yield: 4 servings.

— Recipe adapted from a recipe for "Roast Fillet Mignon of Veal with Potatoes, Carrots and Capers," by Chef Mario Muratore, Hotel De Paris, Monte Carlo. Adapted by Doug Bell and Justin Bustamante, students, New England Culinary Institute, Montpelier, Vt.

Roast Fillet of Turbot with Fennel and Scallions
1-1/4 pounds fennel, trimmed and cut into slices
1 pound green onions (scallions), trimmed
8 tablespoons butter
3/4 cup chicken stock
4 6-ounce fillets fresh turbot or halibut, well-coated with olive oil or melted butter
salt and pepper to taste

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Place a heatproof roasting pan on the stove top and melt the butter. Add the chicken broth, the fennel slices and the green onions. Cover and braise in oven for about 30 to 45 minutes, until vegetables are tender. When the vegetables are done, remove them from the oven and take them out of the pan with a slotted spoon, reserving the braising liquid. Keep the vegetables in a warm place.

Put the coated fish fillets in a pan just large enough to hold them; cover with aluminum foil and bake for 7 to 10 minutes, until very white and opaque. Remove from oven.

Meanwhile, reduce the braising liquid on the stove top until it has the consistency of a sauce (coats the back of a spoon).

Serve the fillets with the fennel and onion. Drizzle the sauce over all. Yield: 4 servings.

— Recipe from Mario Muratore, Executive Chef, Hotel de Paris, Monte Carlo.

Pete-De-Nonne (Fried Dough Monegasque)

2-1/4 cups water
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons unsalted butter
1-1/2 cups plus 1 tablespoon flour
6 large eggs, at room temperature
2 tablespoons orange-flower water (available in specialty markets)
4 cups vegetable oil, for frying confectioners sugar, for dusting.

Bring the water, salt, sugar and butter to a boil. When butter is melted, add the flour and mix the dough with a wooden spoon.

Transfer the dough to the bowl of an electric mixer and add the eggs, one at a time, mixing well after each addition until smooth. Add the orange-flower water and mix.

In a large, deep saucepan, heat the oil to 350 degrees. Line a large baking sheet with paper towels.

Carefully drop the batter by the tablespoon into the oil, 4 or 5 at a time. Fry about 1 or 2 minutes, or until golden brown, turning them once halfway through.

Remove with slotted spoon and drain on paper towels.

Sprinkle with confectioners sugar and serve. Yield: about 30 pieces.

Mom has plenty of troops in support of custody battle

DEAR ABBY: Since you didn't give marching orders to "In Shock and Heartbroken," whose surgeon-husband suddenly cleaned out the house and had his lawyer offer her $20,000 in exchange for custody of their children, may I offer some advice?

"In Shock," you deserve more than that jerk showed you. What kind of example is he setting for his children? More important, what kind of example will YOU set for them? I urge you to find the most aggressive, pit-bull lawyer in your area and tell him how you were cheated out of your marriage, belongings, means of support and children.

Many divorce lawyers will work for a percentage of the settlement rather than an up-front fee, especially in a case like yours. Your lawyer will file a motion to freeze hubby's accounts and hire a "forensic accountant" to track down what your husband must surely be hiding from you — and possibly the IRS as well. This was obviously planned for a long time, and it will take professionals to unravel the deception.

Hold him responsible. Stay and fight the good fight, and you'll never have to look back and say, "I wish I had," while your children grow up to be as selfish and manipulative as he is. I wish you love, luck, peace and victory in court!

STEAMING IN BOSTON

DEAR STEAMING: In fairness to me, the woman did not ask what steps she should take to proceed. She asked only if I thought she was right to stay and fight for her children.

An attorney who will take the matter on a contingency basis should be easy enough to find. Once she whispers the magic words, "surgeon" and "prominent family," the lawyer will know there is plenty of money and publicity to be had. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter about the surgeon who left his wife penniless and offered her $20,000 for custody of their children. I'm a family law attorney. You stated, "You have my respect for deciding to fight for your children against such odds, and I hope you prevail." While this is a sympathetic statement, I do not believe the woman is against such odds.

Depending on what state they live in and how long they've been married, she's probably entitled to at least one-half the community assets plus maintenance/alimony and child support, based on the parties' incomes. I would advise her to go to an attorney and file for temporary orders. Depending on the circumstances, the surgeon will be the one paying the attorney fees, plus maintenance and child support, until the court makes a final disposition of the property and a ruling on the parenting plan.

As he is a surgeon, I imagine he works long hours; and I imagine also that the wife has been the primary caretaker of the children. The odds are against him financially, and in her favor as the custodial or residential parent.

JAN YVONNE RINKER, GIG HARBOR, WASH.

DEAR JAN: Since more people are ignorant about divorce law than are knowledgeable about it, I'm sure your letter will be an eye-opener for many.

Several readers asked me to tell "In Shock and Heartbroken" that they doubted her husband's sincerity in seeking custody of their children — that he was either demanding them so he wouldn't have to pay child support, or using them as a bargaining chip. To quote "Dorothy in Maine":

"I wonder what he'd do if you said, 'Go ahead and take the kids.' His prospective new wife wouldn't be thrilled with that, I'll bet! Makes you want to spit, doesn't it? Hire a woman divorce lawyer ASAP. You'll prevail in the end."

DEAR ABBY: My husband, James Patrick Kinney, wrote the poem "The Cold Within" in the 1960s. It is gratifying to know he left something behind that others appreciate.

He submitted it to the Saturday Evening Post; however, it was rejected as "too controversial for the times."

Jim was active in the ecumenical movement. His poem was sent in to the Liguorian, a Catholic magazine. That was its first official publication to my knowledge. Since then, it has appeared in church bulletins, teaching seminars and on talk radio, listed as "Author Unknown." If that was done for legal protection, I understand. My family is always happy to see it appear, but we do think the true author should be given credit.

Jim died at 51 of a heart attack on May 23, 1973, after retiring to Sarasota, Fla.

My second marriage was to Homer Kenny, a Sarasota widower, so I became ... MRS. JAMES KINNEY-KENNY

DEAR MRS. KINNEY-KENNY: I agree that the true author should be given credit. James Kinney was a gifted poet. How sad that he died so young, because he had been insight and constructive things to say to all of us.
