Rent-a-Santa continues

SANFORD — The Rent-a-Santa project is continuing. It is being conducted for the 17th consecutive year by the Sanford Rotaract Club. Teams or club members have been set up to deliver Santa to homes or businesses for special appearances or parties.

Santa can be rented through this Thursday. All proceeds go to the Thomas Whigham educational scholarship fund.

To arrange for a special visit, or for further information, phone the "Santa Hotline" at 330-0386.

Economic output grew

WASHINGTON — The nation's economic output grew at a 3.4 percent annual rate during the July-September quarter, the best showing in nearly four years but not quite as strong as earlier estimates, the government said today.

Meanwhile, in a good sign for the economy next year, the Commerce Department said businesses plan to increase their investment spending on new equipment and buildings by 5.3 percent in 1993. If realized, that would be the biggest increase in four years.

Even with the department's downward revision to its reckoning of the gross domestic product, the economy in the third quarter still was clearly accelerating its recovery from the 1990-91 recession.

It had grown at a seasonally and inflation-adjusted 1.5 percent rate in the second quarter and a 2.9 percent rate in the first.

In advance of today's report, most economists were expecting the GDP increase to hold at last month's estimate of 3.9 percent or perhaps be revised down a tick to 3.8 percent.

Separately, the department said insurance company losses because of hurricanes Andrew and Iniki pushed overall, after-tax corporate profits down by 4.5 percent in the third quarter to $222.2 billion.

Arrest: Child abuse

Cops: Sleeping tot in truck sold for drug money

By MOK PFEFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The mother-in-law of a woman charged with child abuse for selling her husband's pickup truck with her sleeping 2-year-old child in it said this morning the family will not bail the woman out for Christmas.

Arthur Donald Van Tine's mother, who shares custody of the child, said her son had not changed his mind regarding bail for his wife, Cheryl Ann.

When she's not using cocaine, she's a hell of a cook; she's a hell of a mother. She cares for the baby more than anything you can imagine.

-Arthur Donald Van Tine

"We've gone through this too many times," she said, "and anyone who goes her bail will have to answer to us."

Cheryl Ann Van Tine, 35, whose address was listed as 701 Upcala Road, Sanford, is in the John E. Polk Correctional Facility under $2,000 bond.

"She had no idea where the baby was," said sheriff's spokesman George Froehel. "She has a crack cocaine problem. Apparently, she was selling the truck for money to obtain crack cocaine."

The buyer in the middle-of-the-night transaction over the weekend drove around in the truck for hours before a family friend recognized the City Commission candidates Bill Kirchner, left, and incumbent Lon Howell, greeted voters at the Sanford Civic Center this morning. Poll workers said voting was relatively active, considering it was a one candidate election. The run-off election will decide who will serve as the District 1 Sanford city commissioner for the next four years. By 6 a.m. this morning, 75 persons had cast their votes, compared to 97 during the first hour in the Dec. 8 city election. The polling place will be open until 7 p.m. this evening.

Lake Mary Fire Department sued

By GEORGE DUNCAN
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary Fire Department is being sued by a Seminole County woman who claims it is to blame for her injuries suffered in a collision with a fire truck.

Elmer and Sheri Glisson seek more than $15,000 from the fire department as a result of a May 23, 1991 accident.

The Glissons claim that an employee of the fire department was driving a fire truck in a careless and negligent manner, resulting in the accident with Mrs. Glisson.

As a result, the suit claims that Mrs. Glisson suffered bodily injuries, pain and suffering, mental anguish, and the "loss of capacity for enjoyment of life." The suit also claims that the injuries are permanent.

Malland attorney John McElyea is representing the Glissons. He has asked for a jury trial on the matter.

McElyea was out of his office and unavailable for comment this morning.

Architect included on panel mulling need for 7th school

By VICKI BOESCHNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Larry Strickler, newly-elected to the Seminole County School Board hasn't been sitting back quietly waiting to be told what to do.

He's been making demands of his fellow board members to think about what they are doing before they spend money on another high school.

Strickler has been questioning the necessity of building a seventh high school since the fall election campaign and a panel has now been formed to look into the matter.

The board has put on hold their plans to build the school on land they are purchasing on State Road 434 in Winter Springs. The commitments have already been made to purchase the 58-acre piece of property for $2 million, but no contract has been signed with the architects at Schenkel and Schults of Orlando who were ready to begin designing the new facility.

The panel, comprised of representatives of the district administration, parents, school administrators, architects, and Strickler, will meet to see if they can find alternatives to spending an estimated $50 million to build a new school.

The committee members, who were appointed by Supt. Paul

Longwood officials spar over flooding complaints

By GEORGE DUNCAN
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Complaints by citizens about flooding brought a wave of criticism at City Administrator Jim McFellin Monday and a heated exchange between him and Commissioner Steve Miller.

Miller said he had brought several complaints to McFellin, who was basically unresponsive. Miller was often applauded by a number of residents from Wildmere Manor, who also expressed their disagreements with McFellin.

"Angrily, McFellin said he had never been in a city where there was such an adversarial atmosphere.

"You went through seven city administrators in seven years and I can see why," he said.

The issue was touched off by a letter from several Wildmere Manor residents requesting help with the drainage problems in and around the subdivision. The letter stated flooding in the area was getting greater every year yet both the city and county were lackadaisical in their responses.

After he had presented the issue to McFellin, Miller said, the city administrator told him, among other things, that "you don't know how government works."

Miller also criticized McFellin for paying for three positions out of the Stormwater drainage fund without using the employees full-time on drainage problems.

Miller wanted the commissioner to eliminate the three positions and

First flight out

The Skybus charter inaugurated service from the Central Florida Regional Airport in Sanford Tuesday with a 7:30 a.m. flight to Newark. Flights to Fort Lauderdale will also be offered by the Fort Lauderdale-based company. Until Christmas, the firm has lowered rates to $19 for a one-way trip to Newark. In January, Skybus officials said they will add a second flight into the Sanford airport. Skybus officials said they are optimistic about the success of their service to and from Sanford.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

14-year-old boy gets life

FORT LAUDERDALE — A 14-year-old boy convicted of first-degree murder for helping kill his father so he could live with the father's former male lover was sentenced Monday to life in prison.

Broward Circuit Judge John Fruscante's sentence for Elec Trubilla, who said his father was "always hollering at me," means Trubilla won't be eligible for parole until he's 39.

Under state law, those convicted of first-degree murder face either death in Florida's electric chair or life in prison without parole for 25 years. The death penalty was barred in Trubilla's case because of the high school freshman's age.

An evaluation will be carried out on Trubilla, who was tried as an adult, to determine which prison he will be sent to begin serving his sentence, according to state Department of Corrections spokesman Bob Macmaster.

Trubilla's 40-year-old father, Allen, was found dead in his bathroom in August. He had been stabbed 45 times and beaten so badly with an iron skillet that the skillet shattered.

Elec Trubilla confessed to police that he had helped his father's former lover and roommate, William Strauser, kill the elder Trubilla.

The son said he did it so he and Strauser, 31, could live together.

Yankees play Santa to needy kids

HOMESTEAD — The New York Yankees may have won some new fans Monday as part of the effort to provide holiday gifts to needy children in hurricane-ravaged south Dade County. A truck sent by Yankees' principal owner George Steinbrenner provided some 500 bags of Yankees paraphernalia to be handed out by the Salvation Army. The bags contained Yankees' caps, towels, sports drinking cups, Yankees' rings, and other items including baseball cards.

"Even if you're not a Yankee fan, it's a nice thing to get, eh?" said Salvation Army Maj. James Worthy.

The Salvation Army gift driveout that began Monday highlights a variety of donations to children and families in the area hardest hit Aug. 24 by Hurricane Andrew. Churches, schools, corporations and agencies scheduled gift distributions and holiday parties for hurricane victims this month.

Some 20,000 children will receive gifts over the four days before Christmas at a center set up by the Salvation Army. Worthy said. The property for the site was bought with the aid of Texas billionaire Ross Perot, Worthy said, and help has also come from the We Will Rebuild committee coordinating private relief efforts and from the Knight Foundation.

Chase kills innocent couple

PORT LAUDERDALE — A high-speed chase that ended in the deaths of an innocent couple did not violate department guidelines, a police official said.

Two suspected burglars trying to elude a pursuing squad car early Sunday slammed into the car of Sandra A. Roberts, 50, and David Larson, 53, both of Fort Lauderdale, who were on their way to breakfast. They died immediately.

The burglary suspects, Dean Culme of Sunrise and Steven Andrew Hall of Plantation, were slightly injured in the accident.

Sunday's crash was the latest in a rash of accidents in Florida that happened during police chases. The accidents have led to a debate over high-speed chases.

Fort Lauderdale officer Thomas Farrey pursued the burglars after a witness spotted the pair leaving a burglarized shop and called police, officials said.

"The observed department guidelines" for high-speed chases, police Capt. Bruce Roberts said Monday, "is an ordinary action against her is planned, he said.

Florida man arrested for bribery

BATON ROUGE, La. — A Florida man was arrested Monday for trying to bribe state officials to let him place illegal electronic gaming devices in Louisiana bingo halls. Attorney General Richard Lynch said.

William T. Higgs, 57, of South Naples was booked with one count of public bribery and one count of corrupt influencing of a public official.

Higgs, owner of Power Holding Corp., was jailed in the East Baton Rouge Parish Prison. Bond had not been set, officials said.

"This is the type of conduct the people feared would occur when we legalized gaming and we want to send a strong warning they get Louisiana or suffer the same fate as Mr. Higgs," Lynch said at a news conference attended by State Police officials.

Higgs offered $85,000 to an undercover agent who said he could get a written legal opinion from Lynch that the laws and pull tab machines met state specifications for electronic gaming devices, Lynch said.

The arrest in a local hotel ended a three-month investigation by the attorney general's office and State Police, which regulates gaming.

Regulators eliminate GTE fee for touch-tone service

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — State utility regulators have lowered long-distance rates for GTE Florida customers by about 30 percent and eliminated a 50-cent charge for touch-tone calls.

The Public Service Commission also voted Monday to increase the charge for directory assistance calls from 25 cents to 35 cents. GTE had requested an increase to 40 cents. The first three calls, however, will remain free.

With 1.5 million telephone customers in Florida, Hillsborough, Sarasota, Manatee, Pasco and Polk counties, GTE is the second largest telephone company in Florida.

GTE had sought a $60 million a year rate increase, down from an original request for $112 million. But the PSC decided last week that GTE should lower its annual revenue of $644 million by some $14.5 million.

Monday the regulators decided how to change rates to achieve that reduction.

Some 80 percent of GTE's residential customers and 90 percent of the company's business customers have touch-tone programs. Most residential customers pay 50 cents a month extra for the touch-tone service, although some get it free as an inducement to buy other services. Business pay an extra $1 a month for touch-tone.

Touch-tone will be eliminated started Jan. 6, the PSC decided Monday.

That would lower the highest local service bill levied by GTE from $11.63 to $11.13.

"Otherwise, there's not going to be a difference in their local service," said Bev DeMello, a PSC spokeswoman.

The regulators also lowered by about 30 percent the rates GTE charges for long-distance calls it carries in its area, according to DeMello.

DeMello said the commission changed the status of calls between North Fort Richey and Clearwater, Zephyrhills and Tampa, Mulberry and Tampa, and Mulberry and Plant City. Those calls, which have been long-distance calls, will be local calls starting Jan. 6.

GTE spokeswoman Tommy Lindsey said the company was still disappointed with the PSC's decision last week to lower the utility's revenues, but thought the long-distance rate reductions approved Monday were a "step in the right direction."

Reporter quits in dispute

By Associated Press

STUART — A court reporter whose battle to protect a source may soon be decided by the U.S. Supreme Court in a closely watched media case left his newspaper Monday in a dispute over legal representation.

Tim Roche, a court reporter in Martin County for The Stuart News and the Post St. Lucie News, resigned after he was told the newspaper would not allow him to replace the newspaper's law firm that had represented him for the past two years, News officials said Monday.

Roche said last week that Anne Noble, a former attorney for the firm, had agreed to take his case without pay.

His appeal is being watched as a possible major test of whether freedom of the press allows a reporter to protect news sources.

A follow-up news story about a highly publicized child abuse case landed Roche in trouble in June 1990. His story reported how a judge had finally severed all parental rights of a mother, who was convicted of failing to report abuse in the death of a child, for which her husband served a sentence for aggravated child abuse, and was found neglecting another.

Though news of the action circulated widely, Roche quoted from a sealed court document, prompting a judge to demand to know his source.

Thomas E. Weber Jr., editor and president of the News, noted Monday that Roche says he was fired, but added the decision to leave was Roche's.

"He had a choice," Weber said. "He could stick with the (company's law) firm and stay or go with someone else and be on his own."

Roche, 24, who has worked for the News for almost four years, was called Monday night for comment, but has made a practice of not talking about the case and was not available.

As his colleagues watched Roche cleaned out his desk and left the newspaper in Stuart, where he had worked nearly four years and established a reputation for aggressive news coverage.

His lawyer said Monday he plans to apply for unemployment compensation.

"Four days before Christmas, I think it's disgraceful," Roche's attorney, Anne R. Noble, told The St. Petersburg Times.

Noble recently moved to St. Petersburg to join the law firm of Ralshert and Anderson, which represents the Times.

"We are talking about a period of time when this young man, who wants to stand up for his principles, deserves support and does not deserve to be fired from his job and I think it's disgraceful," Noble said. "He was fired for refusing to fire me as his attorney."

Bruce W. Sanford, of the Washington law firm of Baker & Hostetler, had been the Scripps Howard group's choice for lead attorney, but declined to comment. The News is owned by Scripps Howard.

Stop brings arrest

Kenneth Roswald VanCleve, 20, 2517 Princeton, Sanford, was arrested by Florida Highway Patrol troopers Sunday on Interstate 4. Officers said they saw VanCleve's car speeding on I-4 near Altamonte Springs, and apprehended him near Longwood. Following a check of his vehicle, he was charged with possession of over 20 grams of cannabis, possession of cannabis with intent to distribute, and reckless driving. A second man in the vehicle, from Lake Mary, was not charged.

Store people threatened

Sanford police arrested David Tyrone Gaymon, 38, of Shenandoah Village, Sanford, at the WalMart Plaza, highway 17-92, on Saturday. Police report Gaymon was seen acting suspiciously by store employees. They said when he was approached by store personnel, Gaymon threatened them and fled. He was apprehended by police and charged with aggravated battery.

Longwood traffic stop

Robert Sweat, Jr., 34, 323 Turtle Trail, Lake Mary, was arrested Friday following a traffic stop on highway 17-92. He was charged with driving with a suspended license, unlawful speed, attached decal not assigned, and no vehicle insurance.

Crash brings arrest

Florida Highway patrol troopers arrested Mark Steven Barboza, 35, 136 Hazel Blvd., Sanford, following a two car collision at highway 17-92 and S.R. 419 Friday. Barboza was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, and driving with a suspended license.

Warrants served:

• Carlos Rosario, 32, 301 Collins Drive, Sanford, was arrested following a traffic stop at 12th Street and Olive Ave. Saturday. He was wanted on a warrant charging him with violation of parole, on a conviction of carrying a concealed weapon.

• Kathryn A. Patterson, 40, of Winter Springs was arrested by Longwood police Friday, following a traffic stop on Warren Ave. She was wanted on two warrants charging her with obtaining property with a worthless check.

• Retha Lanell Hall, 22, 1506 Elliott, Sanford, turned herself in to Sheriff's deputies Saturday. She was wanted on a warrant charging her with unemployment compensation fraud.

Domestic violence cases:

• Ricky Wayne Berkeley, 33, and his brother, Larry Eugene Berkeley were both arrested and charged with battery, domestic violence, by Sanford police Sunday. Police said they were involved in an altercation at their residence, 2845 Sanford Avenue.

• Timothy Eugene Thomas, 22, 2019 McCarthy Ave. Sanford, and Dietra Evette Williams, 20, #11 Lake Monroe Terrace, were both charged with aggravated battery, domestic violence, by Sanford police. They were arrested Sunday, following a dispute reported near 315 Poplar Street in Sanford.

Incidents reported to the Sheriff:

• A riding lawnmower, valued at $1,700, was reportedly stolen Saturday from a garage at 3230 Ohio Street, southeast of Sanford.

• $1,480 in tools were reportedly taken Saturday from a garage shed at the home of Robert Walker, 3105 Mellonville Ave.

• Organ speakers and other electronic equipment valued at $630 were reported stolen Saturday from the Sanford Seventh-Day Adventist Church, 8618 C.R. 427.

• $2,100 in jewelry was reportedly taken Friday from the home of Linda Kaufman, 911 Shriver Circle, Lake Mary.

• An air conditioner, stove, washing machine and other items valued at over $4,000 were reportedly taken Saturday from a home at 646 Bright View Drive near Lake Mary, owned by Ruth Gledhill-Holmes. A refrigerator, also apparently taken during the burglary, was located outside the home.

Incidents reported to Sanford police:

• Two VCRs and a lady's watch were reportedly stolen Sunday from the home of Glenda Chitty, 112 Jeasmine Ave.

• Seven rare comic books, valued at $1,065 were reportedly stolen Saturday from Comics of Central Florida, 2821 S. Orlando Drive, owned by Kerry Hicks.

Mall Santa charged with fondling girl

By The Associated Press

MIAMI — A man who played Santa Claus at a shopping mall was in custody Monday on charges of fondling a 5-year-old girl who sat on his lap to ask for presents.

Police said Pablo Garcia, 32, confessed after he was arrested and charged with lewd and leucivious assault on a child. He was being held in the Dade County Jail on Monday in lieu of $50,000 bond.

The alleged assault occurred Saturday at the Dadeland mall in South Dade County, said Metro-Dade police detective Bill Kinnebrew.

After her visit with Santa Claus, the 5-year-old's mother asked her daughter what she had asked Santa to bring her for Christmas.

After responding, the girl asked her mother, "Why was Santa touching me here?" referring to her vaginal area. Kinnebrew said.

The girl's mother and father went back to confront Garcia. A fight nearly broke out between them, but the mall's Christmas elf characters intervened. Kinnebrew said.

Will new school study be valid?

The make-up of the committee selected by Supt. Paul Hagerty to look at the alternatives to building a seventh high school in the district should be questioned.

Most notably, J. Thomas Chandler, a vice president with Schenkel and Schultz—the Orlando architectural firm that has been selected to design a new school if it is built—was assigned to take part in the committee meetings.

Though Schenkel and Schultz has not signed any contractual agreements to design the school with the district, they will do so if the board decides after hearing from the committee next month that a new school is their best option.

District staff members have already recommended to the board that they believe a new high school is the best solution to the problem of overcrowded classrooms.

Only board member Larry Strickler, who sits on the committee, has publicly stated that he believes the district needs to explore other options before committing the millions of dollars it will need to build another high school.

We do not believe that anyone who has a vested interest in building a new facility will be able to look impartially at all options and make a valid recommendation to the board.

It would have been better if Supt. Hagerty had appointed more parents and community members, perhaps even some students, to the committee.

We believe the school board needs to keep in mind the composition of the committee when they are reviewing the recommendations.

The school board must make a decision that is both fiscally sound and in the best interest of the students in Seminole County.

Christmas almost stolen

Christmas is the Christian holiday celebrating the birth of Christ. People recognize Christmas by giving to their families and to families less fortunate than their own. Unfortunately, at present so kindly give to anyone in need, others find the season a time of taking from the less fortunate and giving to themselves.

For this holiday season many people at Wilson Elementary School in Seminole County worked overtime. They made a Christmas Angel Tree for the underprivileged children attending the school and were also able to put together a "Santa's Clothing Store." This clothing store consisted of women's, men's, boy's and girl's clothing, toys and personal hygiene items. All these items were graciously donated by many companies and generous parents in the Sanford/Lake Mary area. Parents were called and plans were set for the opening of "Santa's Clothing Store." All items were given to families in need, with nothing more expected than to have a Merry Christmas, as they finished their shopping.

Unfortunately, these plans almost came to a halt as a few greedy souls stole some of these items. One assistant came to school in tears on Tuesday because gifts for 14 children were taken out of her car the previous night. Other donated gifts were stolen at the drop-off point before they were collected. By the grace of the hardworking police department, many items were recovered. Many parents also donated more gifts to make up for what was taken.

With the birth of Christ closing in, I can't help but wonder what Christ's reaction would be to this uncalld-for thievery. As we all know, the symbol of Christ means love and forgiveness to all sinners. Therefore the staff of Wilson, and I, and everybody else should forgive these Christmas grinchers for the action they took to try and destroy Christmas for many innocent children. Everyone should always remember though, that Christmas does not mean buying gifts; Christmas is with us every day of the year as long as we love and respect our fellow man.

U.S. can't back away from Somalia

This time it is Somalia. But the story remains the same. An African nation torn asunder by civil war and man-made famine. Millions of civilians facing death from either bullets or starvation.

American forces have descended upon Mogadishu, bearing food stuffs and medicines for a suffering people, and back home there are vexing questions about just how far the United States should go.

Should our mission end when Somali bellies are full? Or should we stay until the warring clans are disarmed, the rule of law restored and a provisional government established?

If we simply dole out food to starving Somalis, but leave unchanged the conditions that precipitated the famine in the first place, we really will not help the suffering masses.

We merely will give them a temporary reprieve from hardship. As soon as the last flotilla of Marines leaves the horn of Africa, the bloodletting and famine will resume.

We can do better than this. In this post-Cold War era, with the United States no longer preoccupied with containing the Soviet bear, it seems abundantly possible for America to play a leading role in demilitarizing sub-Saharan Africa and planting the seeds of democracy and free enterprise.

Somalia should be the test case for this new Africa Doctrine.

Much of sub-Saharan Africa remains as poor today as 30 years ago, when most of the nations won independence from their colonial rulers. If plotted on a graph, the change of the African standard of living over the last three decades would resemble a bell-shaped curve.

The 1960s were a period of economic growth with living standards improving for the mass of Africans. The 1970s were a period of stagnation, with no improvements in quality of life. The 1980s actually saw a decline of living standards, by as much as 30 percent in nations such as Somalia.

This time it is Somalia. But the story remains the same.

This seeming aberration may be explained by steadily growing militarism in sub-Saharan Africa. The story of the last 20 years on the continent has been one of civil wars, coup d'etats, ethnic strife and general political instability. The cost of such military destabilization is estimated at as much as 50 percent of gross domestic product for nations such as Somalia.

As this is written, civil and guerrilla wars continue in Chad, Liberia and Sudan (the next Somalia). Warring factions in Angola, Mozambique and Ethiopia have set down their arms, but they could resume longstanding hostilities at any time. Elsewhere in sub-Saharan Africa, such nations as Zambia, Kenya, Zaire, Gabon and Ivory Coast appear ripe for conflict. And only the most hopeful discount a future civil war in South Africa, when whites eventually cede power to the black majority.

Now that the Cold War is over, the United States cannot back away from Somalia and other client states and leave them to fend for themselves. We have an obligation to help our former African allies beat their swords into plowshares.

That is what the U.S.-led multinational effort in Somalia should be about.

DO YOU REALLY THINK AMERICANS CAN BEGIN TO COMPREHEND THE FLIGHT OF SOMALIANS?

OF COURSE. NOW LET'S ORDER, I'M STARVING.

Evolution in environmentalism

The road from last summer's Earth Summit in Rio de Janeiro is more important than the road leading to it. There is much work to be done in implementing, and possibly strengthening, the agreements reached there. But as valuable as they are, Rio's real challenge is one that needs to take hold in our everyday understanding of the world and how we go about our affairs.

Sustainable development is the encompassing idea for this broader process. It's been discussed and debated for at least two decades. But sustainable development is hardly a household term. It should be. And if what was begun at Rio proves, sustainable development will become part of the dialogue that shapes the future.

Sustainable development is a comprehensive term that really means reduced economic growth. It points out a seemingly sensible idea. Meeting today's economic needs should not so abuse the environment or consume natural resources that our children and those who come after them will have less. It is a traditionalist in the concept that we are collectively responsible for passing on to the next generation opportunities at least equal to those given to us.

In innumerable ways, many people already are choosing to put the idea into practice even if they've never heard the words sustainable development. The business investment in new processes to eliminate, and-of-the-pipeline waste streams is a choice for sustainable development. So is the decision of the shopper who buys a product offered without unnecessary packaging and then recycles what's left over.

No one need look far to understand why these choices, multiplied many-fold, need to become common. The global examples are good illustrations. The people and governments of nations that are cutting down their own forests at the rate of 48 million acres every year know the practice cannot be sustained. Neither can the overconsumptive habits of the developed nations. The list of examples is long enough at the same time the world's population is burgeoning the need for economic development is acute and environmental damage is assuming global proportions.

There are two things sustainable development is not. It is neither government edict nor an agreement to avoid confronting. It is neither a political slogan nor a bandwagon. It is a real choice. It is the very essence of democratic participation.

In a world increasingly defined by international cooperation, building environmental safeguards into free trade agreements is a natural building block of sustainable development. To stimulate our own economy, the choices made for international development can give a high priority to projects that foster sustainable development. The same priority can be applied to allocating limited foreign assistance funds, whether through direct aid or in support of the World Bank. Ending environmentally destructive subsidies, adjusting the price of goods to reflect their full environmental costs, reorienting energy policy toward alternatives and renewables—these are choices for sustainable development at the heart of the current debate to chart the nation's agenda.

Sustainable development also represents a significant evolution in environmentalism. Retreating to a bygone era of imagined harmony in all the natural world is not a realistic option for coping with modern, crowded, complex and too often poor societies. Advancing scientific and technological innovation in joint service to the environment and economic growth is the spark that can give sustainable development its true potential.

The Earth Summit "set in motion some very large but slow moving wheels," Mohamed El-Ashry, the World Bank's director of environment, told a recent conference considering the road from Rio. One of them is a global climate change convention that could be strengthened by adding incentives to reduce greenhouse gas emissions. Another is an agreement to protect biological diversity that the United States has not signed, but can under the new leadership soon to enter the White House.

Sustainable development is the path these large, slow moving wheels point us on. In a world seeking direction after passing through an era of Cold War, it is the road ready to be taken, the journey that awaits.

SARAH OVERSTREET

Tragedies mark the holidays

Christmas has traditionally been the time of year when we are most exposed to the needs of others and generally respond with empathy and generosity.

But this Christmas my empathy seems almost frozen. A radio reading of "The Little Match Girl" starts to cause its usual tears, but I feel almost guilty at so much emotion for a piece of fiction, and stop.

For months, CNN has brought me Somali children starving to death in very silence, too weak even to mewl. I've watched Bosnian adults keen for their dead and heard their stories of torture, of relatives herded onto buses and shot to death, and I've listened to aid workers' warnings that winter will kill more people unless the rest of us do something.

My mind directs my hands to send money to one organization that feeds the starving and another that sponsors Third World children. But my heart is largely out of gear. Only momentarily, from time to time, does it engage and grab my throat: A piece of videotape shows a single, tiny Somali boy lying in the dirt, his mouth open in a wordless cry, his legs slowly trying to kick at the swarm of flies on his genitals. A radio report brings a small Croatian boy talking softly, a translator saying that the only thing he wants for Christmas is that his mother somehow restore the watch stolen from him, a watch given to him by his father who has just been killed. She could not buy it back even if she knew where it was; she has no money, no possessions, no home.

But my increasing ability to detach scares me. On one hand, I know that if we hadn't been bombarded with the terrible images from Somalia our government would not be responding now, yet there is a tendency to become desensitized at too much exposure. I remember the first time I saw films of Nazi concentration camps. It was a pivotal moment for me, my first complete realization of the cruelty humans are capable of toward each other. Over the years I have become less emotionally affected by these scenes, yet I am always impressed mentally. I'd like to believe that for emotional survival the brain transfers the knowledge to a different storage bin, without a loss of conscience.

Then I pick up a local newspaper and read the man-on-the-street comments of people asked what they think of Operation Restore Hope. I am stunned to learn that almost all of them say we should not be going to Somalia. Some say we have problems of our own here at home and we should be taking care of those; a few talk about how unfair it is to take soldiers away from their families at Christmas.

The article comes up at a business meeting I attend the next day, and others say they are just as dazed at the isolationism of those interviewed. One woman wonders if those people would have had the same reaction to details of Nazi atrocities against the Jews, had we been able to read about them at the time. Others ask how we can call ourselves decent people and then stand by and watch innocent people being starved, tortured and killed by groups of thugs just because they don't live within our borders.

We talk about how many of our brothers' keepers we can afford to be, how many times we may be called upon in the present world climate to keep them, and how much we can intervene in the business of other governments to make sure the tragedies we cure won't recur. We reach no definite consensus, but I am reassured by the passion with which at least these people still regard the well-being of others all over the world.

But my increasing ability to detach scares me.

Hagerty, are Dr. Marion Dalley, the district's assistant superintendent for instructional services; Darvin Boothe, principal of Lake Brantley High School; parent Mae Claire Branton; J. Thomas Chandler, a vice president at Schenkel and Schultz; parent Linda Howell; Carlton Henley, principal of Lyman High School; Willie Holt, district director of middle schools; Diane Kramer, district facilities planner; parent Pat Southward and Strickler.

Strickler said he was aware that a representative of the architectural firm that would work on the new school if the board chooses to have it built had been assigned to serve on the committee, but said he chose not to oppose the appointment.

"I was stirring things up enough as it was," said Strickler. "I didn't see any reason to stir things up even more."

Vice chairman Sandy Robinson said that she sees no conflict.

"He will be designing a high school for us when (the next) one is built," Robinson said. "So it is to his advantage to be sitting on a committee that is looking at alternatives."

While Seminole High may be under capacity, other schools—Lake Howell and Lyman high schools in particular, are overcrowded. Lake Mary High School is at capacity.

Still, Strickler believes that there are alternatives to building a new school. Among the options that the committee will consider are increasing the capacity of the six existing schools to 3,000, adding a seventh period to the school day, flexible scheduling and a modified school calendar (year-round education).

"Before we commit those millions of dollars to building a new school that we might not really need," Strickler said, "I think we should look to see if other alternatives might not make more sense."

Other board members, including chairman Jeanne Morris, believe that the new school should be built.

"I'd rather do it now than to reach the point where we have to put the students on double sessions while we build the school," Morris said.

Other district officials agree and have said that the new school is necessary to accommodate present and future growth in eastern Seminole County.

The panel that will look at the alternatives will only meet a few times between now and the time they make their presentation to the board during a work session on Jan. 14, but Strickler believes that will give them enough time to be able to look at all the alternatives and be able to make a recommendation to the board.

Citizens in Longwood Monday night protested flooding.

"admonish" the city administrator.

McFellin fired back that although Miller's statements were generally correct they were "totally out of context" and designed "specifically to embarrass me."

McFellin said the city would have to work with the county on the problems because the county controls the land where major work needs to be done.

Mayor Paul Lovstrand also questioned why three employee slots were paid for by storm water funds when the employees did not work full time on flooding and drainage problems.

McFellin said those employees helped other departments when needed as employees of other departments helped them if necessary.

It was not the first time that McFellin has clashed with either Lovstrand or Miller. There have been other disagreements at meetings but this was the most heated.

Commissioner Fred Pearl said McFellin was a fine city administrator. He said hiring McFellin, who has been on the job for seven months, was one of the best decisions made by the former council.

Pearl and Commissioner Harvey Smerilson said the commission may want to change the bookkeeping and accounting methods in the Storm Water fund. Such an issue can be reviewed at a later time, they said.

Although noting a long-term solution must be worked out with the county to prevent further flooding at Wildmere, commissioners told McFellin to send employees to the subdivision to do all they could to help the drainage problem there.

truck, bought it back and returned the child to his father.

The father called the Seminole County sheriff's department and had his wife arrested.

"When she hits that doggone stuff, it's all over," said Arthur Donald Van Tine, the woman's husband. "Nothing means anything. That's what that stuff does for you."

Van Tine, carrying his son in his arms, attended his wife's initial court appearance yesterday in the county jail. He said he would post bail for his wife because he fears state child welfare workers would remove the boy from his home if Mrs. Van Tine returns to it.

The toddler "just wants to know where his mommy is all the time," Van Tine said Monday. "I just say she's on vacation."

Van Tine was out of town Saturday evening when his wife decided to drive to a mall, take her son to see Santa Claus and buy the boy some clothes and shoes, she told officers.

Sometime later that night, she sold the 1986 Ford Ranger pickup to a man for $40. The man drove around in the truck with the toddler inside sleeping on the floor until Ronald Bradley of Sanford saw him about 4 a.m. Sunday, according to Prochel and arrest reports.

Bradley recognized the truck as belonging to Van Tine, saw the child inside and confronted the man, who demanded to be reimbursed the $50 he had paid for the truck. Bradley borrowed some of his mother's rent money to pay the man.

The toddler was unharmed except for several mosquito bites. The arrest report said he had bites all over his body, which were not there before the incident.

The Van Tines have separated several times because of her drug problems, the husband said. She was hospitalized for drug treatment a year ago.

When his wife isn't using cocaine, she's an ideal parent, her husband said.

"There can't be a better mother than her," he said. "She's a hell of a cook; she's a hell of a mother. She cares for the baby more than anything you can imagine."

Get That Holiday Glow At Illusions Hair Design

You can put that summer glow in your face or give it to someone as a Christmas gift this season with a gift certificate for one year of unlimited tanning at Illusions Hair Design and Tanning Center.

Illusions is the "new kid on the block", having just opened months ago at 2435 S. French Ave., Sanford (17-92 in the Sobik Building). But owner Kelly Morgan is no stranger to Sanford, having been born and raised here. She has thirteen years experience in the field of cosmetology.

Illusions offers a variety of services for your personal hair care needs. Specializing in cuts, clipper cuts, color and highlighting, they also offer nail care services, such as acrylic nails, tips with overlay, manicures and pedicures. Kelly takes pride in that personal touch. She only offers the finest hair care products, Maxtrix and RedKen. For the holidays, Illusions is offering Matrix, RedKen and Tressa perms for $30 and up.

Illusions Hair Design and Tanning Center is open M-Sat. 9 AM - 7 PM early morning and late evening appointment available.

Call 321-6062 for more information or to make an appointment.

The unlimited tanning for one year offer is limited to the first fifteen people who respond to this Business Review story. Illusions is also offering a 99¢ one-time trial offer and one month unlimited tanning for $40.

"The Best Bar-B-Que In Florida"

Leroy Pendleton has been with Trish Thompson from the beginning of the BBQ Rib Ranch.

Bar-B-Que and the art of cooking it is an individual as personality. And, of course, everyone thinks that their BBQ is the very best. Trish Thompson is no exception.

As the owner of BBQ Rib Ranch, Trish doesn't actually do the BBQing. She has specially trained chefs that do that for her. Leroy Pendleton was trained by a Tennessee southern BBQ chef when the Rib Ranch opened eleven years ago. Leroy was Trish's second employee. The first, Miss Miriam, still makes the homemade desserts served at the Rib Ranch.

Trish's husband is a self proclaimed BBQ connoisseur and he didn't think anyone had BBQ to meet his challenge. So Trish decided to open the BBQ Rib Ranch in September 1981. So does hubby think it's the best? YONK, YONK! There are also plenty of people in the Central Florida area that agree with him. There is even a newly formed chapter of the Seminole County Pigsties. They all eat at the Rib Ranch and PIG OUT!

The Rib Ranch is open seven days a week, with daily specials "almost everyday". The menu includes pork, beef, pork ribs, and chicken, black-eyed peas, collard greens, baked beans, white bread, deep fried corn nuggets, cracklin' corn bread, fries and onion rings.

There is catering available; picnic style. Whole cooked hogs with side dishes are available, although most people just order everything they need and pick it up. The Rib Ranch is offering "The BBQ Feast" just in time for Christmas. Tired of turkey, think of Rib Ranch for your holiday meals or parties. Just $19.95.

The biggest party the Rib Ranch has ever catered was the Taste of Lake Mary. Fifteen hundred people sampled the "best BBQ in Florida". The BBQ Rib Ranch has been the only Sanford restaurant to participate in the Taste of Lake Mary since it started.

During this holiday season, Trish and the staff of the BBQ Rib Ranch would like to take the time to say how much they appreciate their customers. "They are the best people in the world." The emphasis at the Rib Ranch, because it is family owned, is a family-oriented atmosphere. From manager Dottie Kellog, waitresses Nita Ramer and Kathy Morrison, head chef Leroy Pendleton, assistant chef, Johnny Cooper, cook Miss Miriam, to assistant cooks Milton Peoples and Mark Jenkins, the staff will try to show how much they care about their customers.

The BBQ Rib Ranch is open 11:00 AM to 8:00 PM Sunday through Thursday and 11:00 AM to 9:00 PM on Friday. The Rib Ranch is located at 2545 South French Avenue. If you are not sure just where that is, head north or south on Highway 17-92, depending on what direction you're coming from, and roll down your window and inhale until you smell that heavenly aroma of wood smoke. If that doesn't get you there, call 321-0090 for directions, or catering information.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Alphonso Ford scored 38 points to lead Mississippi Valley State to an 85-81 upset win over South Florida in the first round of the UAB Invitational on Monday.

Jesse Salters led the Bulls with 30 points and 10 rebounds.

Mississippi Valley plays Alabama-Birmingham in the championship game Tuesday night.

Earlier Monday, the host Blazers posted a 97-69 win over Nicholls State, which will meet South Florida in the consolation game.

County teams shine

David vs. Goliath in King finals

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY — This year's championship game of the Burger King Classic girls' soccer tournament has an interesting twist.

In one corner, we have the Lyman Greyhounds, winners of 46 consecutive games, two consecutive Class 4A state championships and champions of the last two Burger King Classics. In the other corner, we have the Daytona Beach-Seabreeze Sanderabs, who have been playing girls' soccer for just three years.

The two meet 8 p.m. tonight at Lake Mary High School's Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

"This is a good opportunity for us," said Lyman coach Gary Barnett. "It's always good to see different teams that show you something different, that play a different style. That makes us adjust, which is very good for us in the long run."

"While very few teams play the way Seabreeze does, we have to make the adjustments mentally to meet the challenge. And if we get used to making adjustments, if we can make adjustments to meet this challenge successfully, then we can make adjustments to meet other challenges down the road."

Barnett said that Seabreeze's style of playing combinations with short passes will test Lyman's patience on defense.

"They play combinations, a short-passing game with some people who can score some goals," Barnett explained. "It should make for an interesting game."

"We're going to have to be very patient and composed. If not, they can give us some real trouble. They have some people who are dangerous. We will have to be consistent on defense and seize our opportunities on offense."

Lyman advanced to the championship game with a 4-1 victory over Lake Brantley Monday night. Seabreeze rallied for a 2-1 decision over Lake Mary to earn its berth in the finals.

In other games Monday, Tampa-Berkley Prep defeated Deltona 3-1. Lake Howell ripped Tampa Preparatory 6-1. Winter Park blanked Boone 7-0 and Fort Lauderdale-St. Thomas Aquinas edged Bishop Moore 2-1.

Play at Don T. Reynolds Stadium begins at 1 p.m. this afternoon, when Lake Howell and Tampa-Berkley Prep play in the finals of the first round losers' bracket. Winter Park and St. Thomas will meet in the fifth-place game at 4 p.m. before Lake Mary and Lake Brantley tangle in the third place game at 6 p.m.

On Monday night, Lyman used Danielle Garrett's hat trick and a goal and two assists from Danya Harris to knock off Lake Brantley.

Harris's goal came on a penalty kick at 11:30 after Garrett was taken down in the Lake Brantley penalty area by a Patriot defender. Not only did the foul lead to the penalty kick, because Garrett had a "clear scoring opportunity" when she was fouled, the defender received a red card and was ejected.

Lions stay alive

From Staff Reports

OVIEDO — Host Oviedo saved some face for Seminole county in the Central Florida Classic as the Lions became the only remaining county live left in the Oviedo High School hall of the bracket.

The Lions got off to a fast start in their consolation bracket game but had to hold off a determined comeback effort by Lake Howell in posting a 48-42 triumph over the Silver Hawks.

But Lake Mary was not as successful in its survival contest as it got off to a thoroughly lousy start and never really recovered in getting bashed by University 60-30. The Rams were held to two points in the opening stanza and only 11 points in the opening half.

In winners' bracket action Monday night, South Dade and Gainesville-P.K. Yonge advanced to the semifinals with high scoring victories. South Dade hammered Winter Park 73-43, while P.K. Yonge outscored Titusville 73-66.

In games played at Seminole Community College, Seabreeze eliminated Lyman 48-46 and Seminole nipped Stuart-Martin County 63-61 in consolation games and Largo clobbered Edgewater 87-70 and Lake Brantley trimmed Moore County, 71-54-48.

There will be four games played at Oviedo High School today, with Winter Park challenging Titusville at 4 p.m. and Edgewater taking on Moore County at 5:30 p.m. with the winners advancing to the fifth place game Wednesday. At 7 p.m., the first winners' bracket game will pit South Dade against P.K. Yonge at 7 p.m., and Largo and Lake Brantley battling at 8:30 p.m.

The losers will play in the third place game at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday with the winners squaring off in the championship game at 7 p.m.

In Monday's play, Oviedo jumped out to a 20-6 lead after the first period, only to have Lake Howell start nipping away at the lead and getting within 40-38 after the third SANFORD — Charity may begin at home, but the Lake Brantley boys' basketball team took advantage of some "free" points to earn a spot in the semifinals of the Central Florida Classic.

The Patriots hit 10 of 15 free throws in the fourth quarter to hold off Moore County, Tennessee, 54-48, Monday night at Seminole Community College's Health and Physical Education Center and earn a spot opposite Largo in the 8:30 p.m. semifinal at Oviedo High School.

Adrian Lazar paced the Patriots with 16 points, while Eric Skelton added 14.

In other games at SCC, Seminole figured out a way to shake off the second half scoring blues...get a big enough lead in the first so that your opponents can't come back. Arrow Force One took a 39-23 lead early in the third period, but needed a pair of clutch free throws by Ronnie McCarrell late in the game to hold off Stuart-Martin County 63-61.

The win was a sweet one for new Seminole head See SCC, Page 2B

'Hounds extend streak at Lady Cat Tournament

From Staff Reports

OCALA — Sophomore shooting guard Kate Brown scored a career-high 23 points Monday evening to lead the Lyman Greyhounds to a 65-44 win over Wildwood in the first round of the Ocala-Forest Lady Cat Basketball Tournament.

Lyman, which has won eight games in a row, plays Keystone Heights today at 6 p.m. in the semifinals. Keystone Heights was ranked ninth in last week's Florida

Sports Writers Association Class 2A state poll.

Brown also had eight rebounds, seven steals and six assists for the Greyhounds (11-1).

"It was a good win," said Lyman coach Steve Carmichael. "We feel that Wildwood has a good ball club. The game was much better played than the score indicates. We had a good, solid fourth quarter to turn the game into a blowout."

Lyman jumped out to a 14-5 lead after one quarter, then stretched the advantage to 32-21 by halftime.

Leading 44-31 after three quarters, the Greyhounds hammered Wildwood 21-12 in the final period.

Felicia Kiep and Latisha Smith also turned in solid efforts for the Greyhounds. Kiep contributing 13 points and 12 rebounds while Smith had 14 points and 11 rebounds.

Lyman's game with Keystone Heights this evening is a rematch of last year's semifinal contest between the two teams.

"They beat us last year by a three," recalled Carmichael. "Our girls are looking forward to playing them again."

Antibiotics help asthma sufferers

DEAR DR. GOTT: For the past five years I've suffered from severe bronchial asthma and emphysema. I use Proventil in my breathing machine and also have an oxygen machine at home. Cephalixin and doxycycline upset my stomach, and I'd like your opinion on the best antibiotic to take.

DEAR READER: Asthma is often complicated (and may even be triggered by) low-grade bronchial infection. Thus, antibiotics frequently relieve the breathing difficulty caused by asthma. Of course, other drugs are used, too, such as Proventil and prednisone.

If you experience stomach distress from the antibiotics cephalixin and doxycycline, your doctor might want to try ampicillin, amoxicillin or plain penicillin. Because allergies may also contribute to asthma, I am sending you a free copy of my newest Health Report "Allergies." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91888, Cleveland, OH 44101-3368. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: To comment on the individual with annoying athlete's foot, the folk remedy of a green, unhulled black walnut really works. Simply cut the casing open, exposing the juice. Apply to the affected area generously.

DEAR READER: Great. Now please tell me where the average city dweller is going to find green, unhulled black walnuts. C'mon, give me a break. What good is a remedy if the ingredients are difficult to obtain? I appreciate your taking the time to write but, I'm afraid, your suggestion isn't going to help the majority of my readers, especially those who don't have black walnut trees growing in their yards.

By Phillip Alder
Thomas Pickering once said: "In archaeology you uncover the unknown. In diplomacy you cover the known." He might have gone on to add that, as a declarer in bridge, you cover the unknown. It is important not to make it easy for the defenders to read your hand. Today's deal is a good example. Against your contract of four spades, West leads the heart jack. How should you plan the play? East opened with a classic weak two-bid in hearts. South's sequence, a take-out double followed by three spades, showed a hand too strong to overcall with two or three spades. Even so, he was cautious in not jumping to four spades. West led the heart jack: two, ace, three. Knowing his partner had led a singleton, East returned the heart four, his lowest card being a suit-preference signal for clubs. West ruffed South's heart club, cashed the club ace and led a second club to his partner's king; one down. Now suppose South drops the heart king under East's ace at trick one. What conclusion will East draw? Probably that it is South, not West, who has the singleton. Looking at the club queen in the dummy, East is unlikely to lead that suit. He is almost certain to switch to the diamond nine. That is all the help South needs. He wins with the diamond ace, draws two rounds of trumps, unblocks the K-Q of diamonds, crosses to dummy with a spade and discards a loser on the diamond jack. Always play the card you are known to hold. It keeps the unknown card(s) unknown.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Dec. 23, 1993

In the year ahead you might be endowed with more drive and tenacity than you previously experienced. In situations where you were once content to be a follower you will now strive to be a leader.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Ventures or endeavors you undertake now could have promising, long range effects. Plan tomorrow with great care. What you envision is reachable. Capricorn, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Capricorn's Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) New life can now inspire an enterprise that looked like a lost cause. You believed in it previously and soon you may believe in it again.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Contacts you make now can do a great deal to advance your personal interests. It looks like you'll become involved with a new crowd who are doers rather than dillards.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You've entered into a promising cycle that will last for the next few weeks; you can advance your status in life if you apply yourself. Set realistic objectives and pursue them.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Beginning today, experiences you gain could help broaden your outlook and perspective. A happier and wiser you may result from your new slant on life.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might be invited to join an endeavor at this time with someone you know and trust. The foundation already has been established, but you can still make effective contributions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Partnerships which you enter in this cycle could be beneficial for both you and your allies. There is strength, as well as opportunity, in these unions.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) There are indications you might be given a larger range of responsibility where your work or career is concerned. Perform to the best of your ability, because rewards will be proportionate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Happy changes could now be available to you regarding your social life and popularity. Present relationships may also become more meaningful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Influences that affect your home and family life could undergo constructive changes in this time frame. Harmony will replace discord.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Listen carefully to ideas or proposals brought to you by others, because they might provide you with constructive elements that you can incorporate into your immediate plans.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your chart indicates a marked improvement in your financial trends. Be alert, because profitable new channels or situations might open up for you over the coming weeks.
