

Federal Expert Outlines South's Opportunities In Export Fruits, Vegetables

Florida Grapefruit Arrive In Europe In Fine Condition And Are In Great Demand Says Sherman Speaking To Atlanta Meet

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 29.—Possibilities of developing an export trade in Southern fruits and vegetables by direct shipment to European markets from Southern ports were outlined by Wall A. Sherman of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, addressing the Southeastern Farmers Trade Conference here recently.

"There is increasing foreign demand for American grapefruit," Mr. Sherman said, "and demand for high-quality oranges. Many thousands of bushels of American peaches properly packed and shipped may be sold in Great Britain. Lettuce and celery may be marketed abroad successfully. The British market may furnish an outlet for the smaller sizes of peaches."

Florida grapefruit arrive abroad in better condition than that from any other source, Mr. Sherman declared, but any further increase in its consumption is largely dependent upon its price to the consumer. Direct shipments from ports in Florida should help in this direction. If the fruit can be retailed at $1 each, which means an auction price of from $2.43 to $2.92 per box of sizes 80's, 90's, and 12's, there are good possibilities of volume consumption. The fruit must be sold in Europe at prices within the reach of working men.

"Florida has possibilities early in the season of developing an export trade in oranges. It is possible that demand for this fruit might continue during the winter, on a limited scale, based upon the reputation of Florida oranges made during December and early January. This development depends upon shipping fruit uniformly of high quality. Quality oranges must be shipped in the popular sizes from 150's to 220's. Yellow-fleshed peaches will sell even though such varieties as Georgia Belle are preferred, but the principal requirement is to land the fruit in sound condition and with good eating qualities. Mature fruit carried at low temperatures probably will give the best results.

"The institution of direct refrigerator ships from Jacksonville to Great Britain opens up the possibility of a celery trade, not possible in past years when it was necessary to ship through the port of New York. It is suggested that trial shipments be made to responsible British commission merchants so as to determine which packages are the most satisfactory for this business and to give the British trade a demonstration of the character of celery grown in Florida.

"If the Southeast shipped as good quality lettuce as is produced there, it might be relatively easy to establish at least a limited trade of very satisfactory prices in the market where our goods would be the best on sale. The situation warrants the trial of lettuce shipments in direct ships during the months of January, February and March. It may be found desirable to experiment with shipments having the roots attached, as it is possible such might result in less wilting than would be likely to shipments of lettuce cut in the usual way."

Cousin To Alfonso Chats With Him By Atlantic Telephone

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. Infante Don Alfonso de Orleans, first cousin to the King of Spain; his wife, the Infanta Doña Beatriz; and their son, Prince Alvaro, recently held a thirty-two-minute telephone conversation with King Alfonso in Madrid from the offices of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, 67 Broad Street. Don Beatriz also talked with the Queen mother.

The royal visitors were received by Henry B. Orde, vice president of the company, and while he introduced some of the directors and managers, a call was put through the palace at Madrid. The guests were then connected to telephone reporters in the office of Hernando Diaz, executive vice-president.

Don Alfonso told the King that he had a splendid reception in the country and said he was delighted to find how such a reception is given to him.

He mentioned also the public greetings given to him by the people of Berlin and Bayreuth, which will be held in Spain.

The ball room was decorated with small evergreen trees adorned with orange colored lights making them resemble fruit trees, and in the mezzanine lobby was a profusion of potted plants and orange-colored Fall flowers. In the east door of the ball room a large paper harvest moon was placed which shone down on the dancing during the evening.

During the 15 minutes intermission entertainment was furnished by Miss Marisse Torrance, who gave an acrobatic dance, Miss Constance Meisch who presented a veil dance and Miss Julia Ritchie who gave a dance portraying charity.

Mrs. C. E. Meyers wore a green crepe gown, a fitted model with panels embroidered in beads hanging from the waistline and a shoulder corsage of bright flowers.

Mrs. R. A. Newman also wore a bouffant gown of pink taffeta with a painted hem line that was trimmed with pink and blue flowers.

Mrs. W. J. Thigpen's dress was of black chiffon trimmed with silver cloth worn over white satin and made with a longwaisted effect.

Mrs. Endor Curlett of Geneva chose a black georgette dress, a fitted model with a pink rose as the only trimming.

Miss Olyve Newman wore a longwaisted dress of white taffeta with a wide circular skirt caught up on one side with a bow of red tulle and lined with ruffles of red tulle. A collar of red tulle formed the only other ornament. She carried a fan of red ostrich feathers while slippers and hose were also in red.

Mrs. George Bishop selected a gown of pale lavender chiffon with a longwaisted effect and the skirt was caught at one side with a bow which produced a draped circular effect.
