Library System Suffering From Growing Pains

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

There may indeed be nothing quite like a good book or two on a rainy night. But when the books are outdated, and there aren't enough of them to go around, somebody suffers.

And suffering is a fairly accurate description of the current state of affairs of the Seminole County public library system.

A big boom in the county's population in the last decade — a boom that has seen the population double since 1970 — has left the library system in the precarious position where if it doesn't catch up to the county's needs soon, it may never catch up.

Following a break in 1978 from the Orlando Public Library system, the Seminole system, like roads and drainage facilities, has fallen prey to more growth than it can handle.

In its fledgling first year of independence in 1978, the system had two facilities — one in Seminole Plaza in Casselberry and a smaller library in downtown Sanford.

The total monthly book circulation of the two facilities then was about 32,000. Today, the library still has just two facilities, but monthly book circulation has climbed to more than 120,000. In addition, the system has grown to include a Bookmobile service and a Books-by-Mail service for elderly and handicapped persons. But a detailed assessment of the system's current and future needs indicates a mammoth increase in the library's budget is necessary to meet future demands on the system.

With federal and state grant money coming under a budget-cutting act, the likelihood of increased funds for the library appears dim.

A year ago, Dallas public library system consultant Richard Waters was hired to research the county's long-range library needs. More recently, the Seminole County Commission instructed a referendum steering committee to compile a detailed needs-and-growth plan for the county system.

The steering committee's answer is a proposed $8.6 million referendum that the commission appears willing to place on the Oct. 9 primary ballot.

The $8.6 million would pay for expansion of the current Sanford library and new branch library construction in the Casselberry, Lake Mary, Forest City, Wekiwa, Oviedo, and Lake Howell-Tusawilla areas. The proposed construction would take place over a 10-year period.

County Librarian Jean Rhein says the branch facilities are the best way to serve the needs of the community and points to the fact that while services have virtually doubled in the last 3½ years, staffing and physical facilities have remained virtually the same.

"If we're not able to add and grow to catch up and keep up with the county, in another three years the library system will deteriorate so much because of an overload on present facilities that the system will be reduced to little more than checking books in and out," says Ms. Rhein.

"The referendum would allow us to pursue a very detailed plan for growth," she adds.

Ms. Rhein says the system has had many requests for a film service and increased reference facilities.

"It's a combination of more people using the system and people reading more," she says.

"This is a changing time for libraries. Public libraries are getting into the age of becoming complete information centers," she adds.

Since breaking away from Orlando in 1978, the county library system's budget growth has paled in comparison to the growing population it serves.

In 1978 the budget, composed of funds from grants, state aid and county appropriations, totaled $771,757.

The 1980-81 budget has increased to only $818,486.

Last year the Seminole system spent $3.74 per resident, compared to Orlando's $7.65. The state average is $6.

Ms. Rhein says the average state book-per-resident ratio is 1.5, while Seminole's is only .70.

In addition to ranking well below the state average in both categories, the Seminole system has been plagued with significant losses through theft and at-

Longwood Man Gets New Trial

Kelly Freed By Judge From Abscam Charge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dealing the strongest blow yet to the controversial Abscam investigation, a federal judge blasted the FBI for conducting an "unwholesome spectacle" of manufactured crime and virtue-testing.

U.S. District Judge William Bryant leveled the bluntly worded criticism Thursday as he threw out the Abscam bribery indictment and conviction of former Rep. Richard Kelly, R-Fla., declaring the FBI violated his rights by "repeated assaults" on his integrity.

Expressing a "strong sense of personal revulsion" to the FBI's conduct, the judge also granted new trials to Kelly's two co-defendants — Eugene Cluzio, a Longwood, Fla., businessman, and Stanley Weisz, a Smithtown, N.Y., accountant.

They had requested trials separate from Kelly's, but were convicted along with him.

"Law enforcement exceeds its bounds when it manufactures crime and creates criminals," Bryant declared, referring to the unprecedented FBI operation in which undercover agents posed as bribepaying Arab sheiks.

The Justice Department said in a statement it would appeal.

"We feel that Judge Bryant is seriously wrong in his decision," the statement said. "His acquittal of Mr. Kelly will be appealed vigorously in the full expectation that the original verdict will be reinstated."

Kelly, the only Republican among seven members of Congress convicted in the scandal, was filmed taking a $25,000 payoff from an FBI undercover agent.

He openly admitted taking the money, but claimed he did so as part of his own investigation of "shady" characters and argued he was a victim of FBI entrapment.

"However frail one's integrity might appear, it should not be subjected to repeated assaults," Bryant ruled.

The former Central Florida congressman has been free on bond since his conviction by a jury on Jan. 26, 1981.

Bryant said the "sole objective" of the FBI and Justice Department in Abscam was "testing the virtue of members of Congress," adding, "The hard fact is that our public servants are not recruited from the seminars and monasteries across the land."

He called Abscam an "unwholesome spectacle" of FBI agents "corrupting public officials who are free of suspicion."

A fourth person involved in the alleged plot, William Rosenberg of Lynbrook, N.Y., pleaded guilty in July 1980 to one count of conspiring to bribe Kelly.

An attorney for former Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., another convicted Abscam target who resigned from the Senate under pressure and is appealing his conviction, hailed the decision as a "significant victory."

Bryant's ruling was sharply critical of the way a paid government informant, convicted con man Mel Weinberg, "goaded" unwitting middlemen to lead Kelly to the undercover FBI agents.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., who has been investigating the Abscam operation for more than a year, said the decision "is an indication of the work we have been doing and will continue to do is on a firm foundation."

RICHARD KELLY

In a similar ruling, a federal judge in Philadelphia overturned the convictions of city council members on similar grounds, but the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals reinstated them.

U.S. District Judge John Penn is considering a similar challenge by former Rep. John Jenrette, D-S.C. The Philadelphia case is the first Abscam appeal to reach the Supreme Court. It confronts the justices a variety of major questions about the probe, focusing primarily on the issue of "entrapment" by agents.

Meanwhile, in St. Petersburg, Kelly said the FBI involvement in the Abscam episode is a serious situation for the nation.

"I think this episode is a very serious situation as far as our country is concerned," the Florida Republican said. "We need the FBI. We need to believe in the FBI."

"I'm really a bomb around here because I'm not feeling very elated," Kelly said during a news conference in his attorney's office. "I not feeling very happy."

"We still have to deal with an FBI that undertook to just simply explode the mind of the media and the people in this country, and the courts and the system of justice with a story that just wasn't true," Kelly said.

"I really don't blame anyone because the FBI is a world class intelligence gathering agency that just did a super good job of smookering everybody," he said.

Hidden cameras had taped Kelly stuffing $25,000 in $100 bills into his jacket pockets after accepting it from people who later turned out to be undercover FBI agents.

"The fact that I was putting the money in my pockets is just a very small part of an enormous mosaic," Kelly said. "They told me 'It looks like you don't trust us if you won't take the money.'"

"They offered me a loan of $15 million at a good, low interest rate and $100,000 — $25,000 in cash and several other payments — to do something that was perfectly legal."

The agents had posed as Arab officials seeking help from Kelly on immigration matters, something Kelly said he had done routinely in more than 500 instances for constituents.

Laser Wars Casselberry Has New Crime Fighter

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Casselberry police will soon be using Star Wars-like lasers to fight crime wars.

It's true. If the City Council votes Monday night to award the only bid for supplying the new firearms training system to International Laser Systems Inc., of Orlando, city police will be the first law-enforcement agency in Seminole County to use the laser.

"The system will cost about $4,995 through the Orlando company if the council approves it," says Police Chief Frederick McGowan. "They unanimously approved the program, and all that is left is to hire a company to supply it. I feel the council is being progressive and considerate in going ahead with this program to best train our officers."

The laser system, McGowan explains, offers a variety of training uses. He says he is asking for three laser cartridges, which can be fitted into the cylinder of each officer's gun; two vest targets, a silhouette target and two panel target systems with faces of "bad guys and good guys" on them.

"With the use of the laser, any office or building converts into a target shooting range," McGowan says. "The various targets and man-worn vests can be used to create life like situations with a realism and convenience that cannot be matched by other means."

McGowan says the system will "save money by

Life-Care Center: It's An Alternative

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Advances in medical science are prolonging lives, but the state of the economy, rising medical costs and crimes against the elderly are making the latter years far from golden for some.

This is causing many people to consider the relatively new concept of the total life-care center as an alternative to the hassles of maintaining their own homes or the conventional nursing home and retirement community.

Seniors in life-care retirement facilities (there are more than 40 in Florida) combine easy living with the freedom to come and go as they please.

As retirees grow older, they may be more concerned about their safety and health and what might happen to them or their spouses (if still living) if they should become ill or disabled. They find the independence of retirement facilities, combined with the availability of skilled nursing care, if needed, appealing.

Dan Smith, assistant administrator at Florida Living, a nonprofit retirement center and nursing facility in Forest City, says there is a great need for such facilities in the state and county. "We have a long waiting list," he adds.

Florida Living is owned and operated by the Seventh-day Adventist Church and opened about 12 years ago with a retirement center. The 140-bed nursing facility was added the next year and additional living units were added later in an effort to meet the demand.

Smith says the facility is small compared to high-rise facilities operated by others in Winter Park and Orlando or John Knox Village in Orange City. Florida Living has 106 residents — some married couples — living in 85 units.

Most of the residents have been at Florida Living since it opened. To be eligible for Florida Living, residents must be at least 65 years old, but the average age is 80. They must be ambulatory and able to care for themselves.

Not all life-care retirement facilities have the same financial arrangements. At Florida Living, residents either buy the use of their apartment ($29,000) for their lifetime or rent one of the 33 rental units at $368 a month, including three vegetarian meals a day and all utilities, except the telephone.

However, residents do not pay up front for nursing care. "Usually an individual buys a condominium in a life-care facility, and each step of care needed is guaranteed for life," says Smith. At Florida Living they pay only for nursing care when they need it. Some may never need skilled nursing care, or if they do, only for a short time," says Smith. "If they don't have funds, they don't pay, they go on Medicare. When and if those funds expire, their care still continues."

There is a maintenance fee of $160 that includes grounds and building maintenance and utilities. In the apartments and duplexes there are kitchens or meals are available in the

We Goofted: Here's Story On Wholesale Prices

Editor's note: An error Friday resulted in the publication of a misleading version of a United Press International story about wholesale prices. What appeared on Page 1A was only the second half of the story. What follows is the first half of that story, which was omitted.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices edged up by a scant 0.1 percent in April after two months of declines, with food-price inflation overcoming a record decline in energy prices, according to the Labor Department.

The fact that the increase in the Producer Price Index was so small was mostly the result of a 5.2 percent decline in energy costs for the month, reflecting steep drops for gasoline and home heating oil, the department said.

The anti-inflation bonus from fuels is largely responsible for the nearly flat performance of dealers' prices since the beginning of the year, an annual rate of increase for the first four months of only 0.4 percent.

The overall April price increase, if sustained for a full 12 months, would be an annual wholesale inflation rate of only 0.9 percent, department analysts said.

But food prices soared at the wholesale level, climbing 1.6 percent for the month, pulled up by the help of an extraordinary one-month jump of 13.5 percent in the price of pork.

The Producer Price Index for April was 276.9, which before seasonal adjustment, was the same as the previous month. It showed that dealers paid $279.90 for the government's sample "market basket" of goods and services that cost $100 in 1967.

Back Problems? Try Exercising

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 24 years old, 6 feet 2 and weigh 195 pounds. I like to run, play tennis and bicycle. When I was 14 years old I had a ruptured spinal disk after broadjumping on blacktop. The disk was removed (laminectomy) and I recovered rapidly and have never had any problems.

I would like to know whether there is any kind of exercise I should avoid. For example, would the repeated jarring caused by jogging be harmful? At the time of the surgery I was told to expect back problems a few years earlier. Is that to be expected?

DEAR READER — Being sensibly active may help prevent back problems. I hope you will be able to continue a good fitness program through the years to maintain a strong back and good abdominal muscles.

You need to avoid lifting with your back. More specifically, you need to know how to lift, using your legs, and to be careful not to strain your back.

Strengthen your seat muscles, too. Bumps and grinds help here. Some good exercises to strengthen those long muscles along the back will help. And you should do your set of exercises every day. I'd also like to see you develop a program of stretching.

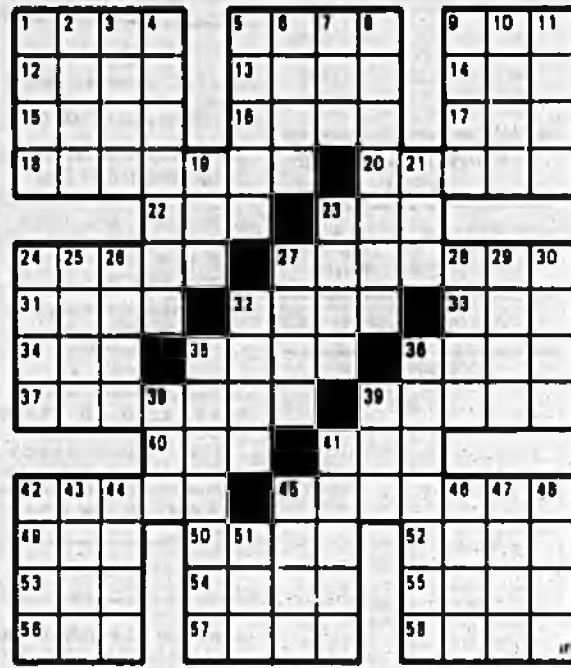

Using your muscles every day. Again, don't strain but stretch. Your present program is fine but those exercises won't strengthen your trunk muscles much. Jogging is OK and good exercise but it won't do what you need done to strengthen your trunk muscles.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 13-10, Backache and What to Do About It, which includes the program you can use.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In one of your columns concerning the long term use of cimetidine you said reports indicate that prolonged use could cause side effects such as enlarged breasts in men. After using Tagamet (cimetidine) over one year as prescribed by a doctor I have found this to be true and discontinued it use. What can be done to reverse this side effect? I used Tagamet two times a day.

DEAR READER — Despite continued use of Tagamet, breast changes in some men have returned toward normal. In others, they did not progress further. And the changes may regress if you have stopped using the medicine. In general, I do not favor stopping a medicine without your doctor's concurrence. He may wish to substitute some other medicine. In some medical conditions, simple stopping the medicine can be dangerous.

When Tagamet is used for long-term treatment the dosage should be reduced below the levels commonly used for six to eight weeks in the treatment of acute peptic ulcers. Incidentally Tagamet, like most medicines, also has other important side effects.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Things may not go as smoothly as you'd like today, but you should come out all right in the long run because you'll be resourceful when pressured. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in each of the seasons following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 488, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) People you try the hardest to please today are likely to rebuke your gestures, while those for whom you might not do as much will be very appreciative.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Basically, you're very tenacious. This quality may be put to the test today. You'll fulfill your ambitions, but it won't be easy to do so.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be expectant and hopeful today, but try to keep your expectations within realistic bounds. Impractical hopes will make you disappointed with what you attain.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you're involved in a serious business matter today, be doubly alert at all times. It may take all the skill you can muster to hammer out a good deal.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Fortunately, you understand the principles of give-and-take better than most signs. This attribute will come into play today in negotiating compromises and concessions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The Scorpio could get a bit tough today, but if the rewards are adequate you'll not buckle under. Keep before you what you hope to gain from your efforts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There will be a fine line today between being assertive or merely being rash. If you overstep it, you could cause yourself unnecessary problems.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't lose in the towel too early today if things aren't going as well as you'd like. Something quite unexpected may develop at the last minute to bail you out.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Maintaining good relationships will be far more important today than trying to get in the last word. Don't make a point and lose a pal.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Regardless of the firm or person you may be doing business with today, pass up the first price offered. A little horse-trading might yield better terms.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Even essentially simple situations could become very complicated today if handled carelessly. Take pains to what's right.

Merthie's No-Hitter Helps All Stars Improve To 17-2

Randy Merthie tossed a no-hitter and the Sanford bats were producing as the All-Stars swept four games this weekend at Sanford Memorial Stadium upping their record to 17-2.

Merthie struck out seven and walked only three while the All-Stars provided him with a seven run cushion after two innings. Ned Raines and M Haws led the Sanford attack with 2 RBI's apiece.

In the second game against Oviedo, the All-Stars played 15 runs on 15 hits—all of the Black Hawks' Tim Gammons and won handily 15-4. Levi Raines got the pitching victory giving up only four hits and got three hits to help his own cause. Earl Williams knocked three hits for Sanford and drove in four runs.

Sanford made it a clean sweep over Oviedo by scoring 12 runs on only five hits winning 12-3. Black Hawks' starter Leroy Garrison took the loss while Sanford's Frank Stein struck out 12 and walked only one in picking up the victory.

Oviedo's Killy Grayson led the hitters with a single, home run and three RBI's.

Stein got his second pitching victory of the series as he threw a three hitter at Sebring and the All-Stars cruised to a 12-3 victory.

Ned Raines had three hits and Stein had two hits, a double, triple and knocked in two runs.

The All-Stars will travel to Inverness Saturday and return home Sunday to play Inverness again.

Elks, Kiwanis Both 2-0

Second half leaders Elks and Kiwanis will both be in action in Sanford Junior League games today at Chase Park.

Kiwanis plays Knights of Columbus at 5 p.m., while Elks takes on Moose at 7:15 p.m. Kiwanis and Elks are both 2-0, while Knights of Columbus and Moose are both 0-2 in the second half.

Knights of Columbus, which is tied with Kiwanis for the first half title, has suffered a pair of upset losses to open the second half. Elks, on the other hand, has already won as many second half games as it did in the entire first half.

In the Sanford Little National League, D.A.V. plays Sunland Corporation at 5 p.m. at Fort Mellon Park, while undefeated Poppy Jay's, 12-0, plays Cardinal Industries at 7 p.m. at Fort Mellon. Hinker Materials battles First Federal of Seminole at 5 p.m. at Bay Avenue Field.

Nicklaus Conquers Colonial

FORT WORTH, Texas (UPI) — Treading over the scenic acreage that gave berth to the Ben Hogan era, Jack Nicklaus proved that his own era has not yet come to an end.

And as the major championships of summer approach at those historical old courses of Pebble Beach, Troon and Southern Hills, the man to beat will apparently be the same one that the would-be superstars of the game have had to contend with for the past 20 years.

"What this does for me," said Nicklaus, "is put me in the right frame of mind. I had been saying to myself that I had been playing good golf, even if I had not been winning."

"Now I know that what I had been telling myself was true. I wasn't kidding myself."

Nicklaus won three tournaments in 1978 and did not win again for almost two years. Suddenly he captured both the U.S. Open and PGA in 1980.

But then followed another two-year victory drought that finally ended Sunday under alternately sunny and showery skies at Colonial Country Club, where Hogan developed the skills that made him one of the most feared men ever to play competitive golf. It was Nicklaus' first win in 10 tries at Colonial, a course known locally as Hogan's Alley.

"I haven't won a golf tournament for 30 minutes," joked Nicklaus a few moments following the victory ceremony that concluded the 36th Colonial National Invitation.

Nicklaus had finished as runner-up five times since he won the PGA in Rochester, N.Y., two years ago, and in a stretch of 30 seconds late Sunday it became clear he would not finish second this time.

Nicklaus ran in a 17-foot, curling putt at the par-3 16th hole just seconds after challenger Andy North missed an 18-inch putt at the 15th. Suddenly, instead of being tied with North, Nicklaus had a two-shot lead and victory was all but assured.

Aloma's Ruler Wins Preakness

BALTIMORE (UPI) — When Aloma's Ruler won the Bahamas Stakes back on January 27 in his first race as a 3-year-old, trainer Bud Lenzini had some encouraging, even if contradictory words for owner Nathan Scherr.

"They may never beat us again," Lenzini told Scherr at the time. "I'm not going to be ridiculous about it and say we're not going to lose, but they may never beat us again."

As far as predictions go, Lenzini's has been just about perfect.

And now Aloma's Ruler, who held off a late charge from favored Linkage to score a half-length victory in Saturday's 107th running of the $275,000 Preakness, appears set for a showdown with Kentucky Derby-winner Gato del Solo in the June 9 Belmont Stakes.

"We're planning on running in the Belmont," said Lenzini Sunday from Laurel Race Course, where he trained Aloma's Ruler earlier in the day. "He's acting fine. He didn't seem to lose much weight and we'll walk him for the next three days and take it from there. He looks like he came out of the race just great."

However, most of the Preakness horses won't be there, including Linkage, who went off Saturday as the 1-3 favorite.

Herndon's Blast Sweeps Tigers Past Twins, 7-6

United Press International
When the Detroit Tigers and Minnesota Twins aren't busy trying to hit each other with a baseball, they do a pretty good job of hitting one with a bat.

The two teams crushed eight home runs between them at Tiger Stadium Sunday, with Larry Herndon's eighth-inning homer snapping a tie and lifting the Tigers to a 7-6 victory and a sweep of the four-game series.

Randy Johnson hit a two-run homer and Tom Brunansky, John Castino and Dave Engle cracked solo homers for the Twins with Alan Trammell, Mike Ivie and Chet Lemon also homering for Detroit.

"I'm finding out there are a lot of parks like this one over here in the American League," said Herndon. "It was a warm day with almost no wind. That usually makes the ball travel better here."

The two clubs hit three homers between them Saturday, with Detroit's Lance Parrish winning the game with a solo blast in the 10th. On Friday night, the Tigers also won on a home run, by Kirk Gibson in the 11th inning.

On Friday night, however, the two clubs seemed more intent on hitting each other with a baseball. Two fights, stemming from brushback pitches, erupted in that contest and Detroit pitcher Dave Rozema suffered a serious knee injury in one of the scuffles. Rozema underwent surgery Saturday and will be lost to the team for at least two months.

Sunday's game also included a beanball incident, but home plate umpire Durwood Merrill stepped in quickly before any serious trouble started. After Minnesota's Terry Felton gave up the game-winning homer to Herndon in the eighth, he threw the very next pitch over the head of Lynn Jones and was immediately ejected from the game by Merrill. Merrill then ejected Twins' manager Billy Gardner for arguing the decision.

"Merrill said at home plate before the game that if it was intentional, he'd do it," said Gardner, referring to the ejection of Felton. "I said 'if that's intentional you're in the wrong business.'"

Herndon's game-winning blast capped a game in which the two clubs took turns hitting home runs.

Angels 3, Indians 0
At Anaheim, Calif., Reggie Jackson and Fred Lynn hit home runs to back Ken Forsch's four-hitter and help the Angels complete a fourgame series sweep of the Indians. Forsch outduelled John Denny to even his record at 3-3.

Royals 5, Red Sox
At Kansas City, Mo., Dennis Leonard and Dan Quisenberry combined on a five-hitter and John Wathan hit two run-scoring singles to lead the Royals to victory. Leonard pitched the first seven innings and yielded all four hits to improve his record to 4-3. The right-hander struck out two and walked two and Quisenberry came on after a 63-minute rain delay.

White Sox 6, Brewers 1
At Chicago, Steve Kemp drove in three runs and Salome Barajas picked up his ninth save in sparking the White Sox. Kemp's two-run single highlighted a four-run seventh inning and gave the White Sox a 6-1 lead. Steve Trout, 3-3, pitched the first six innings to pick up the victory.

Rangers 2, Blue Jays 1
At Arlington, Texas, George Wright, who tripled home Texas' first run, singled in the winning run with two out in the 10th to give the Rangers their victory. Wright's single scored Dave Roberts, a .185 hitter who had walked to open the inning and made a winner of reliever Danny Darwin, 6-1.

A's 7, Yankees 6
At Oakland, Calif., Davey Lopes drove in two runs with a pair of singles to pace an 11-hit attack that carried the A's to victory. Cliff Johnson's fifth-inning RBI double drove in Ricky Henderson with what proved to be the winning run.

Orioles 5, Mariners 4
At Seattle, Rick Dempsey's one-out sacrifice fly in the top of the 10th scored pinch runner Eddie Murray and lifted the Orioles. Ken Singleton and Rich Dauer homered for Baltimore off lower Gaylord Perry, 3-3, who struck out 11.

Williams Laughs Last

Padres Cuff Reardon

United Press International
If Jeff Reardon thought things were rough with Dick Williams' ballclub last year, well, things haven't changed.

"After I left the Expos, Reardon was quoted as saying that I used him wrong when I was here, so it was good to see (Garry) Templeton get that home run off him," Williams said Sunday after Templeton and the San Diego Padres stung Reardon in a seven-run ninth inning to score an 8-2 victory over the Expos.

The victory enabled the Padres to gain a split of their four-game series in Montreal and salvaged them a 3-7 record on their road trip.

"My team showed good character today," said Williams, who was fired as Expos manager last summer. "We should have won all four of these games in this series. We gave them two victories, and it's nice to come back with two wins."

They also came back with seven runs after trailing 2-1 in the ninth. Alan Wiggins singled and Juan Bonilla walked off Woodie Fryman, 3-1. Reardon relieved and Templeton smashed his second homer of the year. It was the first homer allowed by Reardon this season.

"I never think home run when I'm batting," said Templeton. "I just wanted to hit the ball hard and I waited for a good pitch."

The Padres added four more runs before being retired. Ruppert Jones walked, stole second and third and scored on Sixto Lezcano's single. Tom Gorman relieved Reardon and walked

Phillies 6, Giants 1
At Philadelphia, Pete Rose doubled home a pair of fifth-inning runs to break a 1-1 tie and help the Phillies extend their winning streak to seven games. Mike Krutok, who served up a second-inning home run to Jack Clark, went the distance to pick up his third victory in five decisions.

Reds 3, Pirates 1
At Pittsburgh, Alex Trevino drove in two runs and Mario Soto remained unbeaten at Three Rivers Stadium in leading the Reds. Soto, 3-3, recorded his fourth straight triumph over the Pirates in Pittsburgh and raised his career mark against Pittsburgh to 6-2.

Rogers Avoids Crashes To Take Late-Model Feature

Taking an early lead enabled David Rogers to stay away from all the crashes and the wall bangers, as he led every lap to win the wild 25-lap late model feature on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

Back after spending last racing season learning to fly his own plane, Bruce Lawrence, ill-handling on old worn-out tires, lucked out as a late caution allowed the well cured rubber to cool-off, enabling him to pull a winning move on the thunder car feature leader.

Fire Dept. Battalion commander Bill Kinley experienced handling problems in the street stock heat. So he changed the tire pressure and that's all it took for him to go out and win the main.

Wayne Wells, a plumber by trade, who keeps Disney World afloat, notched his second four cylinder feature win in a row at the wheel of his potent Ford Capri.

Eddie Tovot won the pit stop contest. Demolition derby survivor was Mike King.

The late model feature started with former dirt tracker Billy Gast's machine coming apart, causing a mad scramble. Then, as the green was waved again, Jim Ownby and Jack Hackney tangled, causing Ownby to climb and ride the front stretch wall from the flag stand to the first turn, tearing the catch fence and shearing off the posts. LaRoy Porter, trying to get out of the way, got into the damp grassy area inside and slid over the cement wall, knocking the rear end out from under his car. When they finally got going, Jack Cook moved up to challenge, but a sour engine eliminated him. Following Rogers across the stripe were four pilots who drove an excellent, "heads-up" race. They were Wayne Heckle, Chris Dellarco, Jack Simmons and Duke "The Professor" Southard. Heat winners were Rogers and Howard Mark.

Suncoast pilot Brian Westcott seemed on his way to rule over the thunder car division just like he has been doing for the last few weeks, but after a caution period, Lawrence made a gutsy low-groove move and led the last five laps to win over Westcott, Don L. Burkhalter, who came all the way from last starting spot after being penalized for playing bumper tag with Westcott in the heat, Jerry Pritch and Roger Freeman. Heat winners were Burkhalter and division's point leader Tommy Patterson.

Kinley, the 1981 street stock track champion, driving his Big Wheel Bike and Mower Shop Cougar dirt-track style, outpowered the field once again, besting Lynn DiCandio, Bob Collins, Doug Howard and Orle Smith at the checker. Heat winners were Rick Loky and Rick Clauser.

After a tough four-car battle which lasted for the whole first half of the four-cylinder finale, leader David Gibbs clobbered the wall when his front suspension seemed to collapse.

Auto Racing

At the restart, Wells took over for good, with Danny Pardo, Bob Clark, rookie Stan Eads and newcomer De Roland rounding out the top five. Wells also won the first heat. Second heat winner was Mike Pritch.

Dividends Recognition Day Set

Seminole County Schools will hold a Dividends Recognition Day on May 18 at Lake Mary High School. All County School volunteers are invited to attend. There will be special awards given to the Dividends volunteers with over 200 hours of service.

Mrs. Adele Graham, wife of Gov. Bob Graham, will be the special guest for Recognition Day. There will be a special luncheon Mrs. Graham will also attend.

Winter Springs Elementary PTO will meet on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the media center. Entertainment will be provided by the Gold Pod (fifth grade) performing a musical show to include clogging.

Winter Springs T-shirt day is every Tuesday.

Red Bug Elementary has several really good aspiring artists in their midst. Amin Saudi, a second grader, received the Creadle Art Scholarship from the PTA Art Show that was held at the Altamonte Mall.

Receiving honorable mentions were James Graham, fourth grade, Albert Bott, fifth grade, and Elizabeth Wilson, first grade.

James Graham also entered the Seminole County Art Association Show in Sanford and placed second in the 11-14 age category. James received $25.

The fourth and fifth graders at Red Bug will put on a talent show for the student body Thursday. The same children will perform their acts for the PTA on May 25. It should be quite a show and members of the PTA are encouraged to attend.

Thursday the fifth graders visited the middle school which they will attend next year. This gave them a chance to get familiar with these campuses.

The Drama Club of Sterling Park Elementary will present "Oklahoma" at 7 p.m., in the media center. Wednesday. The public is invited to attend. There is a donation of 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children.

Teacher's Appreciation Day will be held on May 21. The teachers will be honored with different activities during the day.

Two Sterling Park received honorable mention in the PTA Art Show. They are June Ly and Martin Carceveis.

The "Teacher of the Year" award at Sterling Park went to Betty Stanley. Congratulations, Betty!

Rhonda Clarkson, Tusawilla Middle School, received an honorable mention in the Middle School category in the PTA Art Show.

Jackson Heights Middle School held its annual Awards Day on May 14. The ceremony was held outdoors, with Bob Rainey, principal, giving a speech. The awards were given in each grade for the academic area, elective area, and a special Citizenship award for willing and capable leaders.

Along with the children receiving awards, a Bob Cat award was given to Dr. and Mrs. Lex Wood for their involvement with the school and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Goff, PTA co-presidents this year.

Also, a Bob Cat award was presented to the Lucas Nursery for donating many plants throughout the year for special activities held at the school.

The winners of the Citizenship awards were B.J. Mason, and Kelly Roeder, sixth grade; Ahmad Battia and Dieder Crum, seventh grade; and William McLoughlin and Debra Smith, eighth grade.

The awards in Math went to B.J. Mason, sixth grade; Robert LaPorta, seventh grade; and William Davis, eighth grade.

The Algebra I award was given to Mathew Juge. The Social Studies award went to Joanna Thomson, sixth grade; Tori Hoehler, seventh grade; and Dave Wood, eighth grade.

Receiving the Language Art award were Joanna Thomson, sixth grade; Gretchen Knake, seventh grade; and Mathew Juge, eighth grade.

The Science Awards were presented to Frank Dwyer, sixth grade; Tori Hoehler, seventh grade; and Mathew Juge, eighth grade.

There were also additional awards given for the yearbook, newspaper, Ecology Club and Exceptional Education.

Brownie Troop 907, in spite of the bad weather, had a good time at their mother-daughter campout. They did have to cut the trip short and spend two days, instead of three at Lake Mills.

Last week the girls invited their mothers to their meeting to eat campers stew, which they made themselves. The mothers then made s'mores to serve.

The girls planted a tree at Lake Hodge Park and wrote thank you notes to all who donated food for their campout.

The third graders are working on their "Scouts Own Thing" badge. They are to work on an individual project they are proud of and share it with the others. Also, they taught the other Brownies a new song entitled, "Friends are like Flowers," which is part of their requirement to earn a badge.

The Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (ACLD) will meet tonight at 7:30, at Winter Springs Elementary, in the media center. The subject of the meeting will be "Resources for Summer Programs."

'Billions Of Dollars' Is A Lot Of Money

DEAR ABBY: Our politicians toss the term "billions of dollars" around so casually that it might interest your readers to know how much a billion dollars really is. To illustrate:

A man gave his wife a million dollars and told her to spend $1000 every day and come back when she ran out of money. She did so, and returned, broke, after about three years.

He then gave her a billion dollars. After spending $1000 a day, she returned — after about 2,740 years!

DEAR FELIX: Thanks for explaining in understandable terms how much a billion dollars really is.

Now let me explain it in terms of today's economy: Let's say Mohammed Khalid Ibn Jamal (not his real name) gave his wife a billion dollars and told her to go shopping on Rodeo Drive in Beverly Hills and buy whatever she wanted. She started on Monday and came back on Friday. Broke.

DEAR ABBY: When Jack and I became engaged seven months ago, I asked Jack's mother to please start making up a guest list because I had to know how many people to plan on. I am paying for the reception myself. My father is dead and my mother has all she can do to support the family.

Dear Abby

It's too late to re-order, 10 guests (on Jack's side) will have to settle for handwritten invitations or a telephone call.

CONFIDENTIAL TO TEARS ON MY PILLOW IN CLEARWATER, FLA.: Regret is the cancer of life. Although it's too late for you to give your own mother pleasure, others can profit by your "stas of omission."

There are nursing homes filled with elderly people who would so enjoy a little regular attention. Drop in with a few flowers from your garden, magazines you would have thrown away, some homemade goodies, etc. One day a week take one or two or as many as you can for a little ride. Bring the children along on occasion. Old folks love children.

Do this, at first, in reparation, and in time it will become a labor of love. True, of course, we can only have one mother, but in the family of God we are all one: He loves us, he forgives us.

Cheer up by cheering others up. It is a beautiful prescription for sleep and peace.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. Write to Abby, P.O. Box 38822, Hollywood, Calif. 90028. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

How, Where And Why?

Without realizing it, apparently, the White House and Senate Republican leaders reached their budget compromise agreement on a significant date recently. According to the Tax Foundation, a Washington, D.C.-based research organization, May 5 was "Tax Freedom Day," the day American taxpayers began working for themselves after earning enough money to pay 1982 federal, state, and local taxes.

Taxes, we should not forget, constitute the bedrock economic and political issue of this day. The centerpiece of Reaganomics is its tax relief designed to revive an exhausted economy too long burdened by increasing government costs and regulations. The fundamental budgetary conflict in Congress is between lower Republican tax levels and higher Democratic spending levels.

It is precisely the enormous unanswered tax questions in the Reagan-Senate Republican compromise that are most disturbing. The plan calls for $95 billion in new taxes during the next three years, but there is no hint of how and where. The compromise sees a saving of $40 billion in the Social Security system, but will it be through increased taxes or reduced spending? We aren't told. Finally, there is a foreseen saving of $39 billion from a three-year freeze on domestic programs, but again, the country is left to guess where these cuts might be made. Despite panic reports, there are numerous federal programs with expendable fat.

Actually, the word "cut" which some Democrats use loosely, is misleading in this budgetary context. "Savings" more accurately describe proposed GOP reductions from spending programs automatically indexed for increases. Richard Schweiker, secretary of Health and Human Resources dramatically makes this point: "Let me say that we're only reducing the growth rate (in social programs). My budget will go up $20 billion... an 8 percent increase... I have $56 billion more to spend than the Defense Department..."

The Reagan administration has hardly made a dent in government taxing and spending. Last year, while average earnings increased only 10 percent, revenues from individual income taxes rose more than 17 percent over the preceding year and Social Security taxes rose 18 percent.

Taxes collected at federal, state, and local levels now equal almost 60 percent of all wages and salaries. During the last decade, Americans increased their earnings about 146 percent, but their taxes shot up almost 160 percent, leaving them with declining buying power.

Meanwhile, one of the most under-reported of U.S. developments is how dramatically Reaganomics is working. Consider: The annualized inflation rate for the first quarter of this year was 3.6 percent contrasted with 18.5 percent for the same period of 1980. Levels in the producer price index and the consumer price index are declining in a way unmatched since 1953.

Significantly, the administration's original deficit forecast of $45 billion for fiscal 1982 is proving to be far more accurate than the estimated $100 billion-plus deficit that House Speaker Thomas O'Neill has been shouting about to justify higher taxes. Actual figures for the first half show the deficit running about the same as last year's, which came to around $7 billion.

The nation's business leaders meeting in Hot Springs, Va., pointed to an end of the recession, even though low profits and higher unemployment will linger for a while. The meaning of this has been summed up by Economist Allen Sinai of Data Resources: "We have broken the back of the 1981-1982 wage-price spiral."

Inasmuch as the higher taxes envisioned in the GOP compromise could chill the economic recovery just beginning, the continued budget deadlock in Congress, which most observers predict, could prove beneficial. Time seems to be working for Reaganomics and the president might, with delays in the budget, sand down the higher taxes and spending the Democrats have been holding out for. The administration ought not to drift away from its original emphasis on reducing spending and taxes just when surprisingly successful results are beginning to turn up.

BERRY'S WORLD

"This ought to cheer you up, Leonid — ours isn't the ONLY economy that is in a terrible mess!"

The new chairman of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee, Marvin Melzer, has a new grandson.

The baby, Matthew Jordan, was born May 7 at Florida Hospital-Orlando. His parents are Mitchell and Judy Melzer.

Friday at a special religious ceremony held at the junior Melzer's home at 1289 Alberta St., Longwood, the infant was formally named.

And Seminole Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce was on hand to pre-register Matthew as the youngest Democrat in the county. Little Matthew was welcomed home from the hospital by his sister, Sara.

Melzer, formerly a Sanford businessman and resident, now lives at the Regency Apartments in Casselberry and is a real estate salesman with Don Jackson's office in Lake Mary.

He was elected chairman of the Democratic Committee at its April meeting. Named vice chairman of the party was Lois Jackson of Lake Mary while Judith Sledge of Dunbar Hills was named secretary, and Sherry Wack of Longwood was named treasurer.

Dolores Vickers of Altamonte Springs is state committeewoman and Bill Wack of Longwood is state committeeman.

Mayor Troy Pland of Winter Springs, immediate past chairman of the Seminole County Democratic Party, will be announcing within the next few days his candidacy for the new legislative district that includes Winter Springs, and parts of Sanford, Longwood, Oviedo and Geneva and a portion of Brevard County.

Pland has been a councilman and mayor in Winter Springs for more than 10 years.

The incumbent in the district in the Florida House of Representatives is Jason Steele, R-Rockledge.

Casselberry Councilman Jim LaVigne, a Republican, has also announced his candidacy for the seat. LaVigne is completing his first two-year term on the Casselberry Council.

Not Fear, Firmness

The outbreak of fighting in the South Atlantic forces Western nations to consider the moral context of policy decisions. Indeed Western countries are considering this matter in relation to nuclear defenses against threatened aggression.

The strict pacifist view is that war is never justified. However, Western nations, with their Judeo-Christian background, long have rejected that view. Today, to be sure, pacifism is being preached by groups that in effect have revived the old "Better Red Than Dead" slogan of the 1950s. These groups are presenting a litany of the horrors of nuclear conflict in order to convince people in the West that they should not attempt to provide a nuclear deterrent to Soviet military power.

Historically, Western societies have subscribed to the doctrine of the "just war" advanced by St. Augustine. Resistance to Nazi aggression in World War II certainly fitted St. Augustine's description of a "just war." Had the pure pacifist position prevailed in the 1940s, much of the world would have been turned into an Auschwitz. The entire Jewish population of the world would have been exterminated by Hitler in global holocaust.

The London Times recently addressed the subject of the moral context of defense policy, pointing out that "the Christian sanction which legitimizes the use of force to resist aggression against one set of neighbors is that it would lead to a lesser evil, when the greater evil is that more suffering would ensue from a failure to resist that aggression." It added that "it is not therefore an exception to the rule of loving thy neighbor, so much as a part of the rule itself."

It is well to consider such matters because people become confused in the world of danger in which they live today. No sensible leader seeks war if it can be avoided in an honorable way and with security preserved. As the Times noted, "the one exception to the commandment 'Thou shalt not kill' is that which entitles people to participate in the preservation of security of their fellow men." Indeed, on a secular level, the United Nations charter recognizes the national right of self-defense.

It is right that many of the unilateral disarmers seek to deny. They would make fear the guiding basis for human action. Certainly, there is much to fear today in a world of nuclear armaments, but man has always had to live with fearful threats. The Greeks who stood firm against the Persian hordes almost half a millennium before Christ were as much threatened with extinction as modern men in a nuclear age. In classical times, entire populations were destroyed by conquerors. Fortunately for Western civilization, the ancient Greeks stood firm against the Oriental despots. Freedom survived as the basic value of Western society.

If there is a moral obligation in the Western world, it is to resist those counsels of fear that call for yielding to contemporary despots. Every legitimate effort must go into the struggle for the preservation of peace, but modern day, communist totalitarianism must understand that free nations will defend themselves in the last resort and that they will equip themselves with the nuclear defenses that are essential to security in the contemporary world.

Evidence that the West was guided by fear would do more than anything else to bring about the nuclear attacks that every thinking person wants to avoid. Peace, in short, is only to be preserved by strength.

The Budget-Strategy Fight Continues

WASHINGTON — In the battle over the budget, it's hard to keep straight who's assailing whom. President Reagan has found himself waylaid by Republican forces whom he would prefer to see attacking Democrats. But there is similar turmoil in the Democratic trenches.

The Republican budget, with its estimated $117 billion deficit and $40 billion cut in Social Security benefits, is a wide-open target. But the Democrats are too busy shooting at one another.

At the center of the shooting match is Rep. Jim Jones, D-Okla., the Budget Committee chairman. He believes that a serious recession is no time to be trying to wring partisan advantage out of the budget process. So he has been working with the Republicans on a compromise budget.

This has offended Democrats who think the party would be foolish not to seize the op-

Battle In Tennessee

KNOWVILLE (NEA)—One or two families have dominated the politics of many Southern states throughout much of this century. Among the best known are the Longs of Louisiana and the Byrds of Virginia.

To an extent, the same has been true in Tennessee, where the new generations of two powerful political families are seeking their first elective office. It happens to be the same office.

Cynthia "Cissy" Baker, 26, has impressive political bloodlines. Her father is Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker, probably the politician who is most highly respected by Tennesseans of both parties.

Her maternal grandfather was the late Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, and her paternal grandfather was Rep. Howard Baker Sr. His widow, Irene Bailey Baker, was elected to Congress to complete his final term.

Jim Cooper, 27, has a political pedigree that may be even more impressive. His father, Prentice Cooper, was a three-term governor of Tennessee. His grandfather was speaker of the Tennessee House, and his great grandfather was a powerful state senator in the past century.

Cissy Baker, like her father, is a Republican. Jim Cooper, like his father, is a Democrat. Both belong to the moderate-liberal wings of their parties.

And both want to represent Tennessee's Fourth Congressional District. They seem certain to face each other in November despite opposition in the August primaries.

The two families met once before in political battle. In 1938, Prentice Cooper was elected governor of the state over Howard Baker Sr.

Miss Baker is a television news producer who worked for a Nashville station, then for her father's 1980 presidential campaign and finally as an assignment editor for Cable News Network in Washington.

Cooper might best be described as a combination of "down home" and "Eastern establishment." He attended Groton (as did FDR), the University of North Carolina (where he made Phi Beta Kappa), Oxford (on a Rhodes scholarship) and Harvard Law School. He practiced law in Nashville before entering this race.

Both have been campaigning full time for months.

The newly redrawn Fourth District stretches 300 miles from the Republican northeast to the Alabama border and then into the Democratic center, the size of the district — it contains no fewer than five media markets — makes this more like a race for statewide office than for Congress.

Miss Baker is trying to put some distance between herself and her father. She has carefully assembled a campaign staff that has not been identified with him. At every stop she is quick to say that she is running not as Howard Baker's daughter but as Cissy Baker and expects to be judged on that basis.

Her campaign strategy, as devised by consultant Doug Bailey, is for her to live for one week in each of the district's 23 counties. Keeping with family tradition, she is traveling in the white 1983 Chrysler New Yorker that was used in her grandfather's last campaign in Illinois and her father's campaigns in Tennessee.

Cooper, despite his own political heritage and his absence from Tennessee during his student days, is attacking Miss Baker as being, in effect, a carpetbagger returned to the state to run on her father's coattails. He is fond of making that point at every campaign stop.

"Sen. Baker is a powerful man now," he says. "My father died 13 years ago and he has not run a political campaign in a quarter century. I am in this campaign on my own."

But he also admits that it is a rare campaign appearance at which people don't come up afterward to reminisce about his father.

Cooper is portraying himself as the underdog, saying that the Republicans would never let Howard Baker be embarrassed by his daughter's defeat. He claims that the GOP will spend $2 million to get her elected.

Nonsense, insists Miss Baker, who says that she will spend about $600,000 on the campaign. She has already raised and spent about $250,000; Cooper has spent only about a quarter of that amount and is in debt.

Given the size of the district and the number of media markets, money could make the difference in November. That's why, at least at this stage, most of the experts are predicting a Baker victory.

And what does Howard Baker think of his daughter's running for Congress?

"I love it," he says. "She is running a marvelous campaign, and I think she'll win in November."

Will he campaign for her? "Absolutely — if she wants me."

But is Capitol Hill ready for another Baker? "Heck, yes. It's about time. I'm afraid they're pretty much have this one all worn out."

JEFFREY HART

Judge Amos Blandin

Through the United States there certainly exist hundreds of people who lead superlative lives, but do not become nationally known, do not become celebrities, do not make it onto the seven o'clock news.

Nevertheless, they are honored locally in their community, their state, their region of the country, they make an incalculable contribution, and in important ways they are the life of this nation.

Such a man was Judge Amos Blandin, who died recently in Hanover, N.H., at age 85.

Amos Blandin, whose New Hampshire family had lived in the state since the Revolution, had an extraordinary professional career. It is at least arguable, however, that his major contribution came after his retirement. Indeed, the word retirement really did not apply to him.

He graduated from Dartmouth College in the class of 1916, and when America entered the great war he served with the Field Artillery. He then went to Harvard Law School, served with distinguished law firms, and rose to become a justice of the New Hampshire Supreme Court. Legal and academic honors were heaped upon him. He was a confidant of a succession of New Hampshire governors.

For those generations of Dartmouth men who attended the college during the years after World War II, Judge Blandin was a legendary figure, and an immense educational and moral force. In the years of his retirement, he was a tall, white-haired and craggy-faced figure, with enormous bushy white eyebrows.

A descendant of those Revolutionary ancestors of early New England, the Judge, as he was universally known, believed in and embodied the ancient and very real virtues of duty, honor, character and American patriotism. He was a man of visible rectitude, but — perhaps because as a judge he had seen so much serious crime — he never made the mistake of confusing a student caper with a serious transgression. College deans often seem to lose just that saving perspective. Some absurd prank or prattal comes to seem as dark to them as Macbeth's murders.

Even when he was serving on the bench, the legend had it, Judge Blandin was forgiving to, say, a student who had run his motorcycle over someone's petunia patch. He made the student pay damages, but he did not endow him with a criminal record. He knew that undergraduate energies are often extreme, but he had seen many perpetrators go on to major achievements after graduation.

Judge Blandin was a settled and rational American patriot. He loved our constitutional system, having been for many years one of its principal regional guardians. He worried about our destiny, believing that while Americans tended to be poker players, the Russians were chess players and working in very long range moves.

A convert to the Catholic Church while well on in life, the Judge was one of the founders of Aquinas House, the Catholic student center at Dartmouth — one of the most vital institutions at the college. There, his annual speech to the freshmen and their parents became legendary. When he was appointed to the New Hampshire Supreme Court, he often told them, he found that when the court convened the clerk intoned, "May God preserve the state of New Hampshire." Early in his tenure, he got a note from a fellow justice reading: "Please do not take that personally."

He had a keen eye for recent absurdities both in American higher education and in the nation at large; but fundamentally he was optimistic and humorous, often sardonic. "I don't know whether capital punishment discourages murder," he said recently, "but it certainly discourages that murder."

WINTER PARK — Seminole's Tony Hardy doesn't spend her Saturday afternoon's hanging over the rail at the local dog track or lounging at the Jai Alai Frotton.

At the 4A State Track Meet at Showalter Field, however, the talented Tribe senior didn't hesitate to gamble on her first attempt in the long jump.

"I always tell her to gamble on the first jump, to let everything go," said Seminole track coach Emory Blake. "That's when Tony has all her strength."

That gamble and strength — along with Hardy's splendid speed — paid off Saturday. The multi-talented senior put it all together for a leap of 19-feet 3 1/4 for the state 4A long jump title and the first track championship in the history of Seminole High School.

"And she could have gone further," said her proud coach Blake. "She hit everything just right, but came out a little sideways."

Sideways or not, Hardy's effort was the best jump in the state this year. She will compete in the State Penitentiary Friday at Showalter Field and then the prestigious Golden South Classic in two weeks.

Hardy's leap gave Seminole seven points and it added three more in the relays to finish 11th — the highest ever for a Tribe squad.

"The 'Noles would have had a few more but Hardy was disqualified in the 330 hurdles for hooking (going over the side) a hurdle. Lyman's Showanda Williams was called for a similar offense in the 110 low hurdles. Williams also false-started in the 200 dash.

Seminole set school records in both relays. In the 440 relay, Sharon Jenkins, Traci Brown, Charita Medlock and Hardy blazed to a 48.7 clocking for sixth place.

Prep Track

In the mile relay, Hardy anchored the quartet of Crystal Caldwell, Jenkins and Brown to a 3:58.5 finish for fifth place.

"Tony was the only senior and I thought it was a great accomplishment for these young girls to do so well," said Blake. Caldwell, Jenkins and Brown are sophomores while Medlock is just a freshman.

Oak Ridge, as expected, won the boys and the girls. It was the second straight title for Oak Ridge's ladies and the third straight for the boys.

Seminole's boys, meanwhile, were shut out of the scoring by a disqualification in the medley relay.

The Tribe's Torin Williams was called for bumping a runner on the third leg of the medley.

Seminole posted a 3:33 clocking which would have earned the 'Noles fifth place.

"Both Ted (Tombras, distance coach) and I were sick," said coach Hank Daviero. "I couldn't believe it. We were standing right there and Torin didn't even touch him."

Lyman's Lori Carroll finished as the state's second best in the high jump as she cleared 5 feet 5 1/2. Showanda Williams placed second in the 330 hurdles with a time of 43.5.

Seminole got its other three points with a fifth place finish in the mile relay, 3:58.5, and a sixth place in the 440 relay, 48.7.

Lake Brantley's Kathryn Hayward ran a 5:11.6 mile for sixth place in that event.

There were six records broken in the girls meet. Pam Daverio of Palm Beach Gardens hurled the discus a record 143 feet 8. The Oak Ridge 440 relay team shattered the old record by nearly a second with a time of 48.8.

Jacksonville Ribault's mile medley relay team ran a record breaking 4:03.9. Oak Ridge's mile medley team dashed to an early lead but dropped the baton, the Pioneers managed to come back and finish second in that event.

Ribault's mile relay team also set a record with a time of 3:51.0. Miami Southridge's Valerie Everett cleared 5-9 in the high jump for a state record.

One of the most outstanding individual accomplishments of the day was turned in by Miami Killian's dynamic distance runner Sharon Chiong. Chiong ran a 4:58.3 in the mile, outdistancing her closest opponent by five seconds. Then she came back and shaved six seconds off the two mile record with a phenomenal 10:33.8. Chiong's closest competition in the two mile finished 34 seconds later.

Unheard of Winter Park gave Oak Ridge some problems but the Pioneers mile relay victory gave them the championship. Winter Park's Brian Jaeger won both the mile and two mile with times of 4:09.3, and 9:14.9.

Islanders Claim Third Cup

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (UPI) — With a third Stanley Cup banner ready for their arena's rafters, the arguments have begun as to whether the New York Islanders should be afforded dynasty status.

But the Islanders, who became the first American-based team to win three straight NHL titles Sunday night with a 3-1 triumph over the Vancouver Canucks, feel there is little need for debate.

"We showed a lot of poise and everything else," said New York goalie Billy Smith. "We won the last nine games. I don't know what else we can do before we are ranked as one of the best hockey teams."

Islander general manager Bill Torrey, who built the club through wise drafting and shrewd trades, claimed the question was one he couldn't answer but made his feelings known anyway.

"All of us will leave it up to you to decide," he told the assembled media, clamoring to know how the Islanders rated themselves among the all-time great clubs. "We won all kinds of series in every possible way and that's the test. We can come from behind and we can grind it out. Everyone gets better in the league, so there's more satisfaction."

New York center Bryan Trottier, who engineered both of Mike Bossy's second-period power play goals, also declined to put his club's achievements in perspective.

"We don't compare," he said. "We just go out and have fun winning."

However, Vancouver coach Roger Neilson was quick to give the Islanders his vote of confidence. "They are by far the most powerful team in hockey right now," he said. "They're strong at all positions. Their goaltender also comes up with some saves sometimes."

The win Sunday, the Islanders' ninth in a row, completed the first sweep of a NHL final since Montreal downed Boston in 1977.

With the third successive Stanley Cup, the Islanders surpassed the mark of back-to-back titles accomplished by only two other American teams: the Detroit Red Wings twice (1936-37 and 1954-55) and the Philadelphia Flyers in 1974 and 1975.

At one point in the playoffs, the Islanders' chance of slipping champagne from Lord Stanley's mug seemed slim.

They had to battle back from a deficit late in the third period to force overtime in the fifth and deciding game of their opening round series against Pittsburgh, before John Tonelli finally gunned down the peaky Penguins.

Butch Goring and Vancouver's Stan Smyl traded goals in the opening 30 minutes before the Islander power play, which had been awesome in the series with Bossy pulling the trigger, took advantage of Vancouver's overzealousness to seize a two-goal cushion they never relinquished.

76ers, Toney Rip Celtics

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Oddly enough, the infamous Mother's Day Massacre may have been just what the Philadelphia 76ers needed to spur them within one game of the NBA championship series.

Mothers — and fathers and children, too — felt the Boston Celtics' overwhelming 121-81 win in the opener of the Eastern Conference finals on May 9 jinxed the 76ers and their psyches into a pit from which they would never recover.

But the Sixers have come full circle in just a week. They racked up a blowout of their own Sunday behind 30 points from Andrew Toney and defeated the Celtics, 119-104, to take a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

"I felt I really didn't play well in that first game," said Toney after recording a personal playoff high. "I didn't want to be too over-emotional. Now I have my concentration down."

"I think we need that 60-point loss last Sunday as a stimulant," added Caldwell Jones. "I think all 12 guys on our team really believed we were the better half despite what happened. We just got together and talked about it.

NBA Playoffs

"Everybody is contributing, not just one guy. Take Julius (Erving), for example. He's playing exceptionally well. He doesn't have to score 30 or 35 points for us to win. He's rebounding well and playing good defense."

Following the Mother's Day debacle, the Sixers evened the series in Boston Garden Wednesday night. They took the advantage Saturday behind Maurice Cheeks' last-second steal from Cedric Maxwell for a 99-97 win, and kept the momentum Sunday behind the hot shooting of Toney.

Philadelphia can clinch a berth in the finals against the Los Angeles Lakers for the second time in three years with a win in Boston Wednesday night.

"We have the same feeling in our locker room as the Sixers had on Mother's Day," coach Bill Fitch said after the Celtics' worst defeat of the season.

NATION IN BRIEF

State Department Lied To Cover Up Spy Program

NEW YORK (UPI)—The State Department defied two presidents by smuggling Nazi war criminals and collaborators into the country after World War II to gather information about the Soviet Union and send them on disastrous sabotage and assassination missions, CBS' "60 Minutes" reported.

The State Department lied to Congress, the courts and the public to cover up the ill-fated program but leaders of the Eisenhower administration — including Vice President Richard Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller — apparently knew about the Nazis and their collaborators and the cover-up, former Justice Department official John Loftis said.

AA Sabotaged Braniff?

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI)—A senior executive of Braniff International says a computer sabotage scheme directed by the office of the president of American Airlines pushed Braniff into bankruptcy.

Sam Costa, Braniff's vice president-marketing and chief spokesman, told United Press International Sunday that American used its computer system to cancel Braniff reservations and switch passengers to American flights.

Costa's comments marked the first time an official of Braniff, which filed for bankruptcy Thursday, has publicly accused American of illegal or unethical conduct. American spokesman Paul Haney said the remarks were "not worthy of a response" and Robert Crandall, president of American, was not available.

3-Day Pass To Washington

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Farmer Wayne Cryts, who raided a bankrupt grain elevator to seize his impounded soybeans, will use a special three-day release from jail to testify before a Senate committee.

Federal Judge Charles W. Baker, who said April 28 he would keep Cryts in jail until he tells who helped him raid the grain elevator, issued in Little Rock a temporary release to testify at the request of Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan. Cryts was to return to the Pope County jail in Russellville, Ark., by noon Wednesday.

Graham Defends Crusade

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Evangelist Billy Graham defends his religious crusade to the Soviet Union, but admits he should have edited out a portion of his sermon.

A Methodist minister and a Soviet dissident Sunday attacked Graham for his recent six-day trip, charging he was manipulated by Soviet officials and "undetermined" religious freedom.

Sunday, Graham said much of the criticism he received was based on his being misquoted, but he acknowledged that his sermon contained a biblical passage that told Soviet citizens to obey authorities. He said he forgot that passage was in the sermon and, in hindsight, he said he should have taken it out.

Youngest College Grad Ever

BOISE, Idaho (UPI)—The 13-year-old boy slumped in his seat at the Boise State University graduation, nervously twisted the tassels on his mortarboard and became the youngest student ever to be awarded a U.S. college degree.

The 4-foot-8 Jay Luo met reporters just before he was awarded his bachelor's degree in mathematics and a Phi Beta Kappa key, and his answers were kept to four words or less.

Asked what he liked to do, what he liked to study and similar questions, his usual answer was simply — "A lot of things." He said, yes, he liked school. He remained dead serious and didn't crack a smile.

Along I-4 Near Longwood

Woman Abducted From Rest Area

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

The search continues today for two men who abducted a woman at gunpoint Sunday near Longwood, stole her car, then released her at a service station along Lee Road, Orlando.

Ruth Allen Heuser, 44, of 2573 Fifeshire Drive, Winter Park, told deputies she was stopped at the rest area along Interstate 4 north of State Road 34, Longwood, at about 3:30 p.m., when a man carrying a small revolver came up to her and forced his way into her car.

Mrs. Heuser told deputies the man, wearing cowboy boots, brown pants and no shirt, said, "Move over, ma'am. We don't want to hurt you. We just want your car."

Mrs. Heuser said she convinced the man to drop her off at the Lee Road exit behind a service station. Before doing so, however, the bandit stole her driver's license and about $15 cash, deputies reported.

The man also told Mrs. Heuser not to notify police of the incident immediately or he would "let her," deputies said.

MILLIONAIRE WANTS LIENS REMOVED

A Winter Park millionaire builder, who is facing drug trafficking charges in what police are calling the largest marijuana operation ever in central Florida, is asking the federal courts to order the Internal Revenue Service to release his seized assets.

Robert Govern, who is currently being held in the Duval County jail in Jacksonville on $10 million bond, filed a request in the U.S. District Court in Orlando Tuesday that the court order the IRS to release more than $13 million worth of assets seized following his arrest.

Govern claims that because of the seizures and liens against his property, he is unable to secure a lawyer of his choice.

Govern was arrested in April after a federal grand jury in Jacksonville indicted him in connection with the marijuana distribution operation along with 11 others, including an Altamonte Springs man, Leon Mausser, 32.

Govern was declared indigent by a U.S. Magistrate in Jacksonville as a result of the IRS action and was appointed a defense lawyer. But, Govern claims that because he has been stripped of his money, he is unable to obtain his own defense and will be deprived of a fair trial. The trial is set for June 21.

SANFORD HOME RANSACKED

Thieves broke into a Sanford woman's home sometime between 3 and 7 p.m. Friday and stole a color television and $150 worth of coins.

Meryde F. Brown, 56, of 2011 W. 28th St., told police the culprits broke into her home after shattering a living room window.

SILVERWARE JEWELRY STOLEN

About $640 worth of silverware and jewelry was stolen from a Longwood man's home sometime between 9 a.m. May 5 and 3:15 p.m. Friday.

William M. Schummers, 70, of 289 Rodebaugh Drive, told deputies that someone broke into his home by removing the glass pane from the family room door after cutting a hole in the patio screen.

Once inside, the thieves searched the home and stole sterling silver salad forks, cocktail forks, teaspoons, and a butter knife, deputies said.

The burglars also stole 50 pairs of costume earrings, six pairs of men's cufflinks and a 1822 U.S. half dollar.

FOUND DOG GONE

Thieves stole a Sanford man's hound dog sometime between 7 and 11:30 p.m. May 9.

Keith Allen Walker, 39, of 3330 S. Sanford Ave., told police that his dog was stolen from his backyard. The dog can be identified by a two-inch tattoo, P.A.M., on the dog's stomach, police said.

MONEY STOLEN FROM OFFICE

About $1,877 was stolen from a Sanford office sometime between 5 p.m. Thursday and 8:15 a.m. Friday.

G.G. Blair, 56, of the Blair Agency, 5310-A Oak Ave., told police that someone broke into her office after forcing open the rear door and stole the money from her desk.

CUCKOO OVER COCKATOO

Martha Happ, assistant education coordinator at the Central Florida Zoo on U.S. Highway 17-92 near Sanford, shows a group of zoo volunteers the best way to handle George, a sulfur-crested cockatoo. The volunteers, called docents, act as tour guides for groups, primarily children from area schools.

Delray Does It To 'Debbie'

DELRAY BEACH (UPI)— "Debbie Does Dallas," a celebrated X-rated film, won't be doing Delray Beach.

The movie created a large-screen stir recently when a local drive-in projected it in full view of an adjacent retirement community.

Dusk brought disgust as outraged residents of the Anchorage Mobile Homes Park tumbled out of their homes to gape at the sexually explicit film showing at the Delray Drive-In Theater.

An assistant state attorney investigated; a judge declared the film obscene and ordered it seized.

Eighty-two-year-old Ona Williams said she saw parts of the film from her window on three separate nights. "I just couldn't believe my eyes," gasped the astonished octogenarian.

Another elderly woman was so overwhelmed by the sight that she fled indoors. "I didn't want anybody to see me out there looking at it," she said.

Ilsa Campbell, a Palm Beach County assistant state attorney, ordered investigators to the scene after community members raised a ruckus.

The matter was then placed in the hands of Circuit Court Judge Emery Newell. "He had to sit through the whole thing," Campbell said. "He couldn't just watch five minutes of it."

Newell decided the romping sexual exploits portrayed on the drive-in screen were not appropriate for the small, coastal community. He declared the film obscene and ordered two copies seized, putting an end to the drive-in's first X-rated film in the last eight years.

But two weeks after the controversial film was halted, the retirement community is still reeling.

"Honest to gosh!" said Mrs. Williams, a widow and retired musician. "They've got a law against letting your animals out to do this in public and they've got it on the screen for everyone to see. It's the most disgusting thing I've ever seen."

The movie screen is only about 100 yards from Mrs. Williams' window. "I couldn't see how any girl could let her body be used for a show like she did," Mrs. Williams said.

"It's a damn nuisance to me!" said the manager of a nearby park.

Dean McCormick said a film like "Debbie Does Dallas," causes groups of youths to gather in the park.

"They're trying to make this a parking lot even though we've got it (no trespassing) posted everywhere," McCormick growled.

Despite the public outcry, the film did have its fans. Though Harry Timpe wasn't one of them and spoke against the film, he says he has been plagued by phone calls from people who want "Debbie" back in Delray.

Those Warm Memories Were Worth It

WINTER PARK (UPI)— A 63-year-old Miami retiree was 46 years late on paying her tuition and room and board to Rollins College, but the debt and the "still-warm memories" of college days never slipped her mind.

The woman's memories of formal dances, football games and canoeing on Lake Virginia never faded with time. Nor did the $400 she owed Rollins since 1936. She is one who never waffles on her debts.

Last week, the woman stunned Rollins administrators with the full amount wrapped in blue stationery and an extra $300 check "in small payment for those still-warm memories."

College officials in turn surprised the ex-student by sending her a receipt and a pictorial history of the college, located in this fashionable Orlando suburb.

"I must confess I was surprised at being praised for paying a just debt and one that never left mother's nor my thoughts over the many years," Joyce wrote back. The woman did not want her full name used, scared she would look bad for not repaying the debt sooner.

Joyce had attended Rollins for "only one very good year" when her father became seriously ill. She was forced to withdraw from school because of money problems.

Over the next 40 years, she married a serviceman and took various jobs. She never returned to college, but she never forgot the debt.

Her husband died in 1974 and Joyce now lives with her 80-year-old mother. The recent sale of some orange grove property bolstered her savings and enabled her to pay off her debt.

Her father was a 1900 graduate of Rollins, who rode horseback to campus from his parents' cattle ranch in Orlando.

Mushroom Farm Poses Smelly Problem

SAWDUST, Fla. (UPI)— Marcus Edwards and his neighbors are anxiously awaiting the results of their petition to Small Claims Court for a "cease smell" order against the South's largest mushroom producer.

The petition says the mushrooms are grown in a compost mixture of chicken manure, wheat straw and other materials that frequently produces an odor that is hard to take.

"At times, it's unbearable, depending on which way the wind is blowing and what they're doing up there," says Edwards, a farmer and businessman. "When it wakes you up at 2 or 3 in the morning, you know it's bad."

"I don't mind the plant being there. I'm glad it's there. It's good for the employer and it's good for the people of this county, but I don't want to smell it."

Edwards and two neighbors, Mannie Gunn and Durwood Sharpston, filed suit earlier this month in Small Claims Court in Quincy seeking a "cease smell" order and damages.

The culprit, as they see it, is Quincy Farms, the largest mushroom-growing operation in the South, operated in this small western Gadsden County community by Butler County Mushroom Farms, Inc., of Pennsylvania.

They first went to the governor, the Department of Environmental Regulation and a grand jury about the smell. DER investigated the complaint and was unable to find any unpleasant odors, says the agency's Bill Blount, who once lived in nearby Greensboro and has a first-hand knowledge of the area.

"I don't know why they are upset," he told the Gadsden Times. "Either my sniffer is out of whack or there is no odor." Blount said he has inspected the area four times. There may be an unpleasant smell periodically, but DER "doesn't" have the time, personnel, money, etc., to put a man over there 24 hours a day, seven days a week to catch this stench."

REVOLVER RIPPED OFF
A .357 magnum revolver was stolen from an Altamonte Springs woman's car which was parked at her apartment complex.

Toni K. Sims, 38, of Apt. 34, Spanish Trace Apartments, Wynore Road, told deputies the thief entered her car sometime between 9 p.m. Wednesday and 3:30 a.m. Thursday and stole the $180 gun and holster, which were covered by a white cloth on the front seat.

POTTED POT PLANTS FOUND

A Longwood man found a box containing about 20 potted marijuana plants growing in a field which he owns.

Carl J. Copeland, 61, of 118 Shelle St., told deputies he found the plants, which average about six inches in height, growing in a field near Sandy Lane in Longwood at about 8:30 p.m. Thursday.

FRONT-END LOADER LIFTED

An Orlando man is free from the Seminole County jail today following his arrest Wednesday on charges of grand theft of a front end loader.

Terry Allen Fishery, 28, was arrested at about 9:25 p.m. after an employee of Paul-N-Howard Co. in Orlando, saw a man driving the front-end loader, which he said belongs to his company, along State Road 68 at Jessup Street in Orlando.

The loader was reportedly stolen from a construction site, deputies said.

SCREAMS SCARE WOULD BE BURGLAR

An Altamonte Springs woman's screams foiled what deputies believe to be a burglary.

Erica L. Schneider, 19, of 305 Spanish Trace Apartments, Wynore Road, told deputies that she heard her bedroom window sliding open at about 11 a.m. Wednesday, saw a gloved hand and the shadowy figure of a man behind the drapes. When Ms. Schneider screamed, however, the man fled, deputies said.

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS HOME HIT

Thieves broke into the Altamonte Springs home of Judy G. Milan, 35, of 290 Lorraine Drive, sometime between 9 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, stealing an undisclosed amount of property.

British Threaten More Military Action

Chances Of Peace In Falklands Appear Slim

By United Press International

Britain gave peace talks today at the United Nations one last chance but warned it is suspicious of Argentine intentions and may unleash its war fleet "within the course of the next week" to recapture the Falkland Islands.

British U.N. Ambassador Anthony Parsons flew back from London for further talks with Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar "in the hope of getting a settlement" on a cease-fire with Argentina.

"More than that I cannot guarantee," Parsons said.

Keeping up the military pressure, Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher reportedly gave the go-ahead for more raids on Argentine occupation forces to follow a weekend of attacks on Argentine ships and ground positions.

British jets strafed two Argentine supply ships with 30mm shells in Falkland Sound between the two main islands of East and West Falkland, forcing at least one to be abandoned.

It was not known if Parsons was bringing new ideas to the peace talks, but sources indicated Parsons' final effort will be in good faith to allay fear among Britain's Common Market allies of an impending war.

The foreign ministers of the 10-nation European alliance called another meeting today to consider London's request for extending economic sanctions against Argentina. A 30-day sanction imposed after Argentina's seizure of the 149-year-old British colony expires at midnight.

The ministers put off a decision Sunday because several states — Ireland, Italy and Denmark — fear renewed sanctions may be seen as European endorsement of military escalation in the South Atlantic.

Parsons and British Ambassador to the United States, Nicholas Henderson, briefed Mrs. Thatcher and her war Cabinet Sunday on the chances for peace.

Government sources said Thatcher sanctioned a final attempt to reach a cease-fire through the efforts of the United Nations.

But they also told the London Times that she ordered simultaneous stepped-up raids against the 9,000 Argentine troops dug on the Falklands because British ministers were "increasingly suspicious" of Argentina's willingness to negotiate.

"If we fail to achieve a peaceful settlement, then we have no other choice but to pursue the military options much more vigorously than we have up to now," said Defense Minister John

Not.

He said the U.N. talks "are still alive" though "time is not on the side of negotiations."

"It will be necessary, in my judgement, within the course of the next week, for them to come to a head one way or another," he warned.

After Britain's Sunday attacks, Argentina said the supply ship Rio Caranca "caught fire and burned." The Bahia Buen Suceso, a 32-year-old transport normally run with a crew of 100, was "damaged."

Argentina, which seized the Falklands April 2, claimed the transports were unarmed and ferrying supplies to the 1,800 British-speaking islanders — not its troops who face dwindling rations, U.S. intelligence sources said.

Customs Agents Seize $7.1 Million In Coke

MIAMI (UPI) — U.S. Customs agents seized nearly 300 pounds of cocaine on a jetliner and a freighter that arrived from Colombia during the weekend.

Agents took into custody 236 pounds of cocaine worth an estimated $7.1 million on an Avianca Airline flight that arrived Sunday from Bogota, Colombia.

The cocaine was hidden inside bales stacked on a pallet inside the jetliner. Customs officials became suspicious when no cargo manifest could be found for the shipment, a spokesman said.

Education Agency Alive And Well, But For How Long?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The way Education Secretary Terrel Bell sees it, his 2-year-old agency will likely remain open for a while longer, but it remains destined to be closed by the Reagan White House.

Bell said only one-fifth of the Senate is ready to help Reagan abolish the agency and some education groups that might back the move are now too upset with proposed spending cuts to do so.

"We're not going to introduce the bill (to close the agency) tomorrow because, as I said before, if we do, we're not going to be successful," he said in an interview. "It's going to be a while yet before we're ready to move."

The administration plans to propose abolishing the department, created by the Carter White House, and replacing it with a Foundation for Education Assistance.

That foundation would control $8.8 billion worth of programs out of a total $10 billion in 1983 federal education spending. Total education spending is now $13 billion.

Bell said he is concentrating now on winning support in the Republican-dominated Senate through individual meetings with lawmakers.

Bell said he is not ready to give up on getting the bill out before the November election. He said he will "have another good look" at the issue in June, when he hopes the 1983 budget battle will be over.

Lack Of A Deal Motivated Hinckley's Suicide Attempts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John W. Hinckley Jr.'s two suicide attempts after shooting President Reagan were motivated, in part, by his inability to obtain a plea bargaining agreement, a prosecutor contends.

Prosecutor Roger Adelman said Hinckley, whose trial enters its fourth week today, was despondent about the failure to obtain a deal with the government that could have meant a relatively soft sentence.

The government, which is trying to show that Hinckley was sane at the time of the shooting, wants to block evidence about his suicide attempts following his arrest. Adelman said if defense psychiatrists testify about Hinckley's suicide attempts, he should be able to bring out that Hinckley was "despondent among other things over his failure to plea bargain with the government."

Last May, Hinckley took an overdose of an aspirin substitute; and last November, he tried to hang himself.
