

Penn Republican Wages Own War Against Waste

Rep. Gross Demands Everyone Begin To Lick Platter Clean

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—If you haven't heard of Rep. Chester H. Gross, the little Republican from Manassas, Pa., the chances are you soon will, by induction at least.

He's the "lick-the-platter clean" man, who is staging a one man war on food waste—not at source, but on the home and restaurant tables and in the American garbage pails.

Until a few weeks ago, Mr. Gross observed perfect behavior so far as this House tradition is concerned. Then he got up and made a little one-minute speech. He has made half a dozen since. The theme of all of them is "lick the platter clean." While others are blustering about production and distribution of food stuffs, the gentleman from Pennsylvania has hit upon the idea of mopping up at the table.

Those are strong words, but the congressman already has the Department of Agriculture, a slew of restaurants, and some consumer and civic organizations on his side. In New York, the other day, one of the larger restaurants in the Broadway area tucked up a sign of highway billboard proportions asking customers to "lick the platter clean."

Mr. Gross is taking it all very calmly. But there's the gleam of the pioneer in his eye. While his colleagues were stamping around with pay-as-you-go and farm parity legislation, he was hacking away at "lick the platter clean" with those little one-minute, on-the-record harangues.

In view of that and the fact that most of us think only of waste-moppers as pre-war urban Franchmen, it may be surprising information that Mr. Gross is a fifth-generation farmer. Not only that, but he's the kind of farmer who can take the Agriculture Department's estimates for maximum production on his land and top them by 20 to 40 percent. At least so his friends claim.

Mr. Gross is slight in stature. He's 55 year old. He and Mrs. Gross are the parents of eight children, seven of whom are still living. Aside from his farm accomplishments and his two terms in Congress, he has held numerous township offices and has had one term in the Pennsylvania legislature.

If the nation really starts "licking the platter clean," don't forget the name of Chester H. Gross. The drive is strictly his baby.

Politics and Personalities Campaign Against Commission Rampant in Capitol as Ever For LaGuardia Cited as 'Simple'

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

● POLITICS AND PERSONALITIES (so long as they are moderately respectable ones) are supposed to be entirely out of the window for the duration of the war. As a matter of fact both of them are perfectly rampant in Washington and they are of the meanest kind. They are not entirely confined to the capital, either. They also slip over, out into the sticks.

The campaign against New York Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia for a brigadier generalship was a conspicuous example. Fiorello (Little Flower) was picked by excellent international judges as a suitability for an American administrative post in Italy as soon as the Rome government is knocked out of the conflict. He was too obvious to require any argument. It also was quite clear that it would be far simpler to wish him into such a job from a military command in Italian North Africa, say, than to pitchfork him in from an executive desk in this country. Consequently and appropriately he speedily was inducted for the commission.

But immediately the outcry was raised that his selection would be most unpopular among professional Army men, on the ground that they don't like having civilians tossed into their midst without previous training.

Now, I don't hear this complaint from educated soldiers. In the first place, the Little Flower has an admirable record left over in his favor, as an aviator, up to a major's rank, in the last war. He isn't a West Pointer, but he is a veteran, if not a professional.

The holier came, I think, from politicians, who assess him as an economic radical. Well, so he is—at least a liberal. But isn't that a post-war consideration? Then along comes the war departmental order barring Army officers from seeking civilian political positions that they never held previously—not when they remain in the service. It pretty obviously swiped Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who has numerous friends plugging for him as 1944's presidential candidate in opposition to their support of F. D. R.'s fourth term prospects.

If that does not mix politics into the situation, what could? Now we get to the mid-western governors' conference. These birds' aim is to curtail federal power. Nationally it clearly is anti-New Deal. Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio leads it. Being a Republican, he naturally isn't an internal Democratic disturber, but he evidently has a lot of Democratic sympathizers.

All politics! They are complicated with economics, though. There are Democrats who have become anti-Democratic tariff protectionists, and Republican tariff protectionists who have become Democratic free traders. As the conflict progresses, it becomes more and more difficult to tell the two post-war American philosophies apart. And what the hades is to happen to the world is a problem. The post-war puzzle is the main thing. What is going on now is secondary—as long as the United Nations come out on top.

State University Carries On With Campus Activities

Army Trainees Invited To Participate In Life Of School

GAINESVILLE, Apr. 19—(Special)—A University of Florida civilian student body reduced by army induction but maintained at a near normal level by army trainees will carry on the fests and traditions of campus life and student government under a plan outlined in an announcement by R.C. Beatty, dean of students, today.

All plans contemplated additions to the civilian student body membership to the extent that army trainees may take part in student activities. Student government, modified by a constitutional amendment recently adopted by the student at the suggestion of Florida Blue Key, honorary service fraternity will continue although more centralized and flexible than formerly.

Campus activities, supported by fees reduced as enrollment goes down when students are called to the armed forces, will be continued. Publications, freshman week, and fraternity life are among activities that are expected to go on, curtailed or modified where circumstances require, according to Beatty.

To avoid depletion of student body funds by carrying on all the usual student government functions in the face of reduced civilian enrollment, Florida Blue Key believes it has, through the amendment, accomplished "continued student government in the Florida tradition through a close knit, centralized, and efficient government working in harmony and conjunction with the administration."

Available as possible members of the student body now, according to Beatty are army trainees who, under the amended constitution, may pay student government, Beatty explained, will be determined by the War Department's policy of encouraging soldier trainees to participate in student activities, paying fees, and enjoying the same social status as civilian students.

"Officers in command here have shown a fine spirit of co-operation in recognizing the objectives of the civilian student body organization," Beatty said.

Freshman orientation week, in which more advanced students and members of the staff, and Dr. John J. Tigert, president, annually concentrate on acquainting new students just out of high schools with campus objectives, methods, and traditions, has been organized for next September under Beatty's supervision.

A consideration of freshman is anticipated, according to Beatty, high because of war-time pressures in both high schools and the University to speed up completion of high school work and entrance into the University by examination.

Publications, of which the Florida Alligator, weekly voice of the student body, is the chief unit, will be continued with staff, objectives, and budgets kept in proportion to the war-time requirements.

ments as interpreted by the Board of Student Publications student and faculty men in equal numbers. Fraternity activities will continue. If fraternity houses are to be used to house soldiers or civilian students, quarters other than fraternity houses will be provided for meeting places for fraternity groups. For the duration, interfraternity competitive activities will be curtailed or eliminated.

Dr. Tigert recently announced that fraternity houses would be incorporated into the housing plan of the University, with participation on the part of fraternities optional. Army personnel in two groups—the Air Force students and about 600 others in Officers Candidate School No. 1—now occupy most of the dormitory space on the campus.

Nazis 'Liberate' 250,000 French As Labor Corps

Laval Press Praises "Freeing" Prisoners As "Happy Result"

BERLIN, Switzerland, Apr. 19. (AP)—The German-controlled French press is hailing as a "happy result" of Chief of Government Pierre Laval's policy of revising the status of 250,000 French prisoners of war into "free laborers of Germany."

This was announced as part of the recompense to France for the conscription of a second contingent of 250,000 skilled workers under Laval's agreement with Fritz Sauckel, German manpower dictator. It is not connected with the conscription of thousands of youths for compulsory labor in France.

The "liberated" prisoners will be selected from those who have identified their willingness to work in Germany, or those whose wives and children are working in Germany, or those capable of working in mines, chemical and other heavy war industries, French press reports said.

Achille Cardinal Lienart, Bishop of Lille, was quoted in the "Courrier de Geneve" today as saying the Nazi-controlled French press misquoted him as having told French youth "to accept forced labor" and that it was "cowardly to refuse." The newspaper said the Cardinals, addressing 7,000 youths in the church at Lille on March 21, declared his speech at Roubaix on March 16 and been twisted by the press, knowing that "I was unable to publish a denial."

Lake County Fills Blood Bank Quota

Lake is the first county to pay 100% of its quota in the Central Florida Blood Bank and has also made an outstanding record in the number of persons who have made donations of blood. Lake residents have contributed $85,722 in cash to the blood bank, which has been supplemented by $23,422 from the Lake County Chamber of Commerce to make in the quota of $700.

A recent letter from Miss Mary M. Gwynn, secretary of the blood bank, said: "We want all of you who have been so interested in U.S. organization and establishment of the bank in the county to know that Lake County is the only county in the Fifth District that has not only paid up their quota but, with our proposed trips to Tavares and Leesburg which are scheduled for the near future has contributed 100% as to donors. This should be very gratifying to those of you who have pushed the work."

Moving Pictures Of Florida To Be Shown Army-Navy

Arrangements Have Been Completed For Showing In 31 Cities

JACKSONVILLE, Apr. 19. (Special)—Starting May 1, service men in Florida will be given a free pictorial tour of the state, Karl Lehmann, chairman of the motion picture committee of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, announced today.

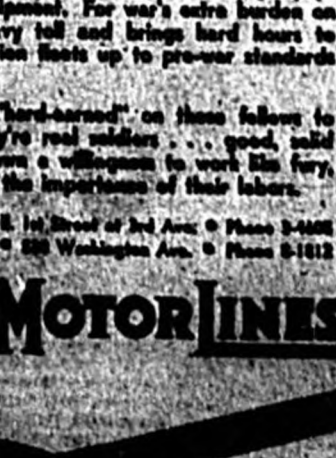

Arrangements have been completed for the showing in 31 cities and towns adjacent to military camps of the 35-m film made by Dave Newell, Lehmann said. This has been made possible through the cooperation of Florida State Theaters, who have offered the use of their facilities and operators and will pay the entire cost, Lehmann added. Showing will be made in the forenoon hours.

Local chambers of commerce will sponsor the exhibition in their communities and will make arrangements with local companies for the attendance of youths for compulsory labor in France.

Many local chambers and civic leaders have felt that the thousands of service men in Florida will be unable to see any part of our scenic attractions, Lehmann said. "We feel that by giving them an opportunity to see the best we have through the medium of this moving picture bought by the State, we will be performing a distinct service both to them and to the state as a whole. We hope that it will stimulate interest in the state and will correct any unfavorable impressions they may have formed through military restrictions." Lehmann declared.

"However," he added, "this pictorial demonstration of Florida would not have been possible without the cooperation of Florida State Theaters which agreed to take charge of the exhibition phase of the tour and to bear the necessary expenses attached."

Thanks to modern science, number is now easily treated to make it highly fire-resistant.

Electric appliances worn beyond repair are almost impossible to replace. You can avoid that.

When an appliance gives trouble, call your repair dealer. If you have no repair dealer, bring in your small appliances, including the cord and all broken parts. We'll help you locate a competent dealer repairman.

Remember it takes time to make repairs and dealers are swamped these days, but a good-as-new repaired appliance is worth waiting for.

Soldiers... ON THE TRANSPORTATION FRONT

YOU hear more and more today about the ground crews—the boys back-stage who keep them rolling... and you know these still and every successful prosecution of war and production so much depends.

Just such groups compose the maintenance forces of Florida Motor Lines. They, too, are the unsung behind-the-scenes stalwarts to whom we owe so much of our ability to "keep 'em rolling."

Yes—they are all fine performers... intelligent, hard-working, loyal... specialists as a result of years of training. These boys are in there sytling with both hands to squeeze every ounce of performance out of existing equipment—treacherous equipment. For war's extra burden on transportation takes heavy toll and brings hard hours to keep today's transportation fleets up to pre-war standards of safety and comfort.

You can help by your "hard-earned" on these fellows to do a top-up job. They're real soldiers... good, solid Americans and have shown a willingness to work this hard, when few will ever know the importance of their labors.

Talks Started With Camacho By Roosevelt

Plans For Post War Peace And Unity On Basis Of Pan Americanism Are Made

ABOARD THE ROCKWELL TRAIN, Apr. 21.—The conference which President Roosevelt and President Avila Camacho began at Monterey, Mexico, last night, continued today at the White House. The two Presidents are returning to the White House tomorrow for a formal announcement of details.

MONTEREY, Mexico, Apr. 21.—A broad program for post-war universal peace and unity patterned after Pan Americanism was made today by President Roosevelt and President Avila Camacho last night.

The two Presidents effected a historic agreement which they said would end the long and bitter struggle between the Axis and the Allies. The agreement was described as a "new chapter in the history of the Americas."

In Washington, Roosevelt's trip to Mexico was viewed as a diplomatic move to bring the United States peace proposals into line with the peace proposals of the other nations.

It was the first time since 1919 that the two Presidents had met in person. The two Presidents had met in 1919 at the Pan American conference in Havana.

Men Lose Jobs Through Speed In Production

Some War Supplies Are Made Faster Than Can Be Used

By JOHN GROVER
WASHINGTON. When Phil Murray said 650,000 war workers faced a loss of jobs because they had over-produced some kinds of war goods, he wasn't talking just to stir up a breeze. The problem is serious. Murray's statement scarcely evoked a mild ho-hum in official Washington, but some key men in the war effort are privately worried about unemployment attendance on shifts in war production emphasis.

Lessons learned in actual combat causes changes in production scheduling. If fighting shows that item A is of doubtful value in the field, and we already have stocks of item A awaiting shipment, it's likely that outstanding contracts for item A will be canceled.

There is also the factor that some easy-to-produce munitions and supplies are being turned out far in excess of available shipping and storage space. (Some ammunition, powder and automotive equipment items have been mentioned as well ahead of current and foreseeable needs.) When these contract cancellations hit plants in bustling industrial centers, it doesn't pose much of a problem. Local labor is so scarce in these critical centers that a laid-off workman can go to work as soon as he sees a personal manager in any one of a dozen neighboring plants.

Isolated Industries
It's not so simple when cancellation hits a plant isolated geographically. (Many of our new powder and munition plants were deliberately constructed miles from anywhere.) Coincident with the de-emphasis in some over-produced munitions lines, there is increased emphasis on stepping up production of others. The Joint New Year statement of WPB-War-Navy mentioned merchant ship, escort ship and plane production as points of increased emphasis, with ordnance scheduled for at least temporary de-emphasis to let the war catch up with existing supplies.

Acute Shortage
These shifts in production emphasis do not change the acute shortage of manpower and womanpower does exist, in the critical areas. It's not likely that de-emphasis in isolated production areas will cause more than local unemployment "sore spots" for six months to a year. However, thoughtful top executives expect this problem of re-conversion and re-employment in de-emphasized lines to be one of the toughest to solve in the late months of '43 and early '44. It has been suggested that the accelerated draft of married men in non-essential lines will ease urban housing to make room for displaced workers from the isolated factories shut down. It has also been urged that displaced workmen be recruited for augmented low-cost housing projects to shelter new workers in the "expansion" production lines. (This solution runs into the snag of scarce materials.)

False Rumors
Careful observers at WPB say some industrialists have put out tales of imminent layoffs about the time they were negotiating for new contracts. It was their inference that unless they got the contracts, there would be widespread suffering among large groups of workers. Getting the contracts usually cured their gloom. Some indeed, asked time concessions on their contracts because of labor shortages not long after their pre-contract predictions of impending layoffs. For similar self-serving reasons, some labor leaders have thrown their weight against scaling down production contracts. They are not too keen to see large blocs of labor displaced and forced into other industries, possibly under control of a rival labor group. But none of the men in a position to know view Murray's statement skeptically. Privately, some of them say his 650,000 figure is too low.

Morgenthau Urges More Individual Sales

WASHINGTON, Apr. 21 (AP)—Uncle Sam has asked for American bonds worth only one billion dollars more—but they were the hardest three billion to raise—to make the second war bond drive a success.
Treasury Secretary Morgenthau reported that bond sales—in the three week campaign to raise $13 billion—totaled $9,993,000,000 Saturday and of the first week. Morgenthau said subscriptions from banks through Saturday were $2,167,000,000 and from non-banking sources $7,400,000,000.

Although expressing satisfaction with progress of the campaign, Morgenthau said he would "feel a lot happier" if more bonds had been bought by individuals. Such individual subscriptions so far he said had accounted for only $105,000,000 of the total.

Peterson Warns Public Not To Lose Ration Books

The loss of many ration books is being reported daily to the Seminole Price and Rationing Board, which today issued a warning through its secretary A. B. Peterson, that people should exercise as much care with these books and coupons as if they were actual money.

At least 10 days must elapse after notifying the Board of the loss of any ration book, stamps or coupons, before replacement can be made, he said and if it is given by a hearing that the loss was due to negligence, the owner may have to wait 90 days before replacement can be made.

Parents in particular, should avoid sending small children to the store with coupons, as they lose them in many instances, he said. Lost books should first be reported to the Board and then to the police, he added.

New uniform regulations governing replacement of War Ration Books 1 and 2 have been recently issued by the OPA with a warning that it is up to the individual to do everything in his power to prevent the books from being lost, stolen or mutilated.

The new regulation also stipulates in cases where ration books are being wrongfully held by persons other than the rightful owners and to the replacement of coupon sheets which are used for rationing some commodities such as fuel oil.

Under the new regulation, the person desiring to replace a ration book or coupon sheet must apply to his local War Price and Rationing Board on Form E-194.

In case of mutilated books, the board shall determine whether it was willfully mutilated. If not, a replacement (no money) may be issued and the old book destroyed.

In case of a lost or stolen book the form must be made in duplicate and the local board must forward a copy to the enforcement section of the state or district office. It may also require the applicant to report his case to the police. The first application is filed, the applicant may return to the board, which then may examine the books and, if satisfied, may then issue the replacement. If it appears necessary, the board may require the applicant to appear at a hearing before issuing a replacement.

If the board finds the book was lost or stolen through negligence on the part of the owner, it may hold an owner of the new book for at least 90 days.

W. W. Hill, chairman of the Board, said that the OPA is interested in the new regulations and that the board is interested in the new regulations and that the board is interested in the new regulations.

Plans Made By Chamber For Campaign

The problem of farm labor is another matter with which the Chamber of Commerce is vitally concerned, Mr. Higgins added.

Other projects concerning agriculture the Chamber of Commerce is making plans for the future include better roads and highways in Seminole County, now tentatively held up on account of the war, but which must be constantly kept before the State Road Department for quick approval when labor and materials become available.

Mr. Higgins expressed himself as well pleased over the outlook for the success of the drive, pointing out that there are more men in Sanford than there has been in some time and that both farmers and labor have benefited substantially from conditions brought about by the war.

His greatest difficulty, he said, was in securing sufficient campaign workers as many former helpers are too busy now with their own work to get away and he urged all that possibly could to attend the meeting Friday and help put the drive over.

Talks Started With Camacho By Roosevelt

ation to smash the Axis powers and restore world peace.

Roosevelt's arrival in Monterrey marked his first official visit to Mexican soil. Early this year he traveled to Casablanca for a momentous conference with Prime Minister Winston Churchill of England, a conference which they said had laid the groundwork for invasion of the European continent.

After traveling through the southeast and seeing things with his own eyes, President Roosevelt said he carried the impression that a great improvement could be noted in U. S. troops of all kinds, as compared with what he had seen on his trip last summer.

He said he thought the country was turning out superior troops in better physical condition. Generally morale was very, very high and the men looked awfully fit, he declared.

The President picked up his impressions in Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Texas. He left Washington April 13.

After seeing the southwest, Roosevelt told the press, he thought Washington was lagging far behind the rest of the nation in war spirit.

He found it that way last fall, he commented, and the same thing he recalls now. The people away from the capital have a much better sense of proportion and perspective than those in Washington, he said, adding that he had not seen or heard of a single blue.

The President delved deeply into the way soldiers and marines are sternly learning to kill, in air and on land, and how the WAACs are studying for more than a hundred different jobs from which men can be released for combat.

At Port Huenzler he sat in on several open-air classes for officers candidates. At one he sat less than 100 feet from the line of fire of machine guns and mortars spitting out live and tracer ammunition into an "enemy" position.

In 1810 Florida was purchased from Spain for $5,000,000, said Mr. Wilson, and included territory extending east to the Mississippi River. Andrew Jackson was the first territorial governor. The Seminole Indian war, 1813 to 1842, cost the United States $19,000,000 and 15,000 lives, he added.

General Winfield Scott led the campaign at first but it was later taken over by Gen. Zachary Taylor. The Seminoles, confined inside a line of trees, were first imprisoned at St. Augustine and later at Ft. Moultrie, S. C. Those who were not sent to a reservation and Oklahoma, but remained in the war with the Seminoles, said all no trace was ever discovered.

Historical incidents mentioned by Mr. Wilson included the founding of St. Augustine in 1565. The early wars between the Spanish and French for possession of early colonies, the destruction of Fort Caroline and the French garrison by the Spanish, and of later retaliation by the French, efforts of the church to civilize the Indians. Other early happenings in the history of Florida were pointed out by him.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

SOME OF US HAVE LOST OR FORGOTTEN OUR INSTRUCTIONS LONG SINCE IT NEVER WAS A GOOD THING TO FOLLOW DIRECTIONS FOR A GOOD LIFE IT STILL IS A GOOD IDEA TO BE STRAIGHT AND NOT A QUITTER. If you continue in my word then are ye my disciples Indeed. John 8:31

Next Sunday is Easter. Go to church.

Most of us have our good points, but you can't always get a thick juicy steak with them.

A son of "Old Blood and Guts" Patton is reported to have been captured by the Germans in the African campaign.

The OWI insists the rubber situation is going to get worse before it gets any better. Still you can't beat walking for working up an appetite.

Adolf Hitler celebrated his 54th birthday yesterday under circumstances which even he admits render him not quite as big a dog as he used to be, but he is nevertheless, with all due apologies to our canine friends, still a dog.

We see no reason for turning Florida clocks back an hour in these critical times. We need all the daylight we can get at least until the war is over and if some times during the year we have to get up before dawn we don't believe that will hurt anyone.

Very Dull
 (Gir)—I suppose you find it rather dull in the evening.
 (Alman)—Simply nothing to do, at all. We play darts, do the crossword puzzle, drop a few beans on Hamburg, and go straight to bed.—Atlanta Two-Bells.

The St. Augustine Record came to us the other day in a two-toned job, the outside sheets were white as usual but the inside sheets were a sort of orange color which looked as if the newsprint shortage had really struck home. Well, during the Civil War they printed on wall paper.

Told of the part American newspapers have played in various war drives from scrap and rubber collection to Red Cross campaigns against War Bond sales. A National newspaper association meeting in New York heard one of its speakers say: "Hitler will not succeed in driving wedges of suspicion that will divide the American people because the people of the United States trust their newspapers." Yes, as well as they trust their politicians, their plumbers, their doctors, their lawyers, their preachers, their bankers, their agricultural middlemen, and their CIO leaders and their other odds and ends.

A democratic committeeman from Iowa says that President Roosevelt will not seek a fourth term, much less a fifth. Although there are some who are trying to push him into the race, this Iowa Democrat insists that Roosevelt does not want the job, will not take it under any circumstances. It is perfectly understandable how after 13 years in the White House President Roosevelt would want to return to his Hyde Park estate. But it is wonderful if his understudy, Vice President Wallace, the man who inevitably would be nominated to him, could carry the South, the East or the Far West.

Local business men are in a bit of a hurry to get their money out of the bank. It is said if he had a million dollars in the bank, he would get it out in a hurry. It is said that the bank is so full of money that it is overflowing. It is said that the bank is so full of money that it is overflowing.

Thin Them Out

Those who are planting Victory Gardens now perhaps for the first time in their lives are amazed at the number of little plants which emerge from the ground shortly after the seeds are buried. And even the most unskilled probably knows that they cannot grow to be strong sturdy vegetables as close together as they come up.

But how to thin them out? How much space to allow between each plant? That is the question. And so Dr. F. S. Jamison, of the State Experiment Station in Gainesville takes the bull by the horns with a newspaper release which solves this puzzling problem for many an amateur gardener. We recommend it as being essential to any well stocked pantry.

A normal mature lima bean plant requires from 12 to 15 inches in the row, writes Dr. Jamison, and if it obtains sufficient plant nutrients from the soil it must have that much space in the row and be two feet or more away from the next row. Thus, lima beans should be spaced 12 to 15 inches apart in the row, and there should be about two feet between rows. If plants are too close together in the row, surplus plants should be removed.

For the benefit of gardeners whose plants are growing too closely together, Dr. Jamison suggests thinning them so they will be the following distances apart (in inches) in the row:

Bush beans 2, lima beans 12, pole beans 15, beets 3, carrots 2, collards 8, sweet corn 12, field peas 2, cucumbers 15, eggplants 36, lettuce 12, mustard 4, okra 18, onions 3, garden peas 2, peppers 18, Irish potatoes 12, radishes 1, Summer squash 42, sweet potatoes 18, tomatoes 36, and turnips 4.

The Experiment Station horticulturist also points out that a wide variety of vegetables may still be planted in North Florida gardens this month, but most gardens in central and southern sections of the State should have been planted.

Vegetables that may be planted now in Central and Southern Florida include field peas, New Zealand spinach, sweet potatoes, okra and African squash.

Support For MacArthur

Some people seem to think there is a military cabal, alias "frame-up," against General MacArthur. That is probably untrue. But it does seem to the average civilian that the General hasn't had adequate support and materials in the perilous Pacific outpost that he guards.

He and his men have borne the brunt of a real war, and it may be truly said of them that "seldom have men done so much with so little." Now, with many signs of new aggression and danger in that area, and MacArthur giving clear warning as usual, it is hoped that he will be heeded at Washington and adequate help will be sent while there is time.

Australia, of course, must be guarded against this new threat; for if that continent fell, the whole great system of defense based on it would collapse. The Japanese have already seized such vast areas and resources that, unless they are slugged back instead of being allowed to hold what they have, there will be new encroachments of an intolerable kind.

Presidential Trimmer

April 22, 1791, saw the arrival in the world of one president whose birthday will not be celebrated. James Buchanan, the last member of the Federalist party and the only Pennsylvanian to become president, was perhaps our most disappointing chief executive.

Buchanan should have made a good president. In Congress for 10 years and in the Senate for 12, minister to Russia under Jackson and to Great Britain under Pierce, he possessed a rich knowledge of public affairs that made people look forward to his presidency with high expectation.

But few presidents have done worse. His long public service had concealed the fact that primarily he was a politician skilled at hiding his opinions and avoiding responsibility. When as president he found the South in open revolt and the country sliding into civil war, he did nothing but issue long statements as to the utter impossibility of doing anything.

Buchanan's failure conveys a lesson for 1944. Whoever is elected president should at least be vigorous and decisive. In these days a trimming politician with no ideas or force of his own might bring disaster.

Private Matthew J. Major, Army Air Forces, relates this one in Your Life magazine: A buddy of mine was assigned recently to drive a group of officers to visit another unit and, as they were to be gone all day, they took lunches which they ate in the truck. Next day, when he had a similar assignment, an officer, noting that the inside of the truck wasn't too clean, asked, "What is this—a garbage truck?" My pal replied, "Yes, sir." "What have you been hauling?" the officer wanted to know next. And, not thinking, my buddy told him, "Second Lieutenants, sir."

The days work done, the supper eaten, the countryman smokes a slow pipe over his newspaper, pausing often to stare unseeing at a page. At last he gets pen and paper and goes into the dining room, settles down at the big table where he has room for thoughts as well as elbows. "Dear Son," he writes, "Your letter came this morning. Your mother worried some, not knowing where you were, but we knew you were busy wherever they sent you. We've been busy too, which helps.

And the willows down along the stream, they're not in leaf yet, for it's a late Spring, but you can see the green in the buds. I hope you've done some plowing. The soil is good, but you must be careful not to plow too deep. It's a late Spring, but you can see the green in the buds. I hope you've done some plowing. H.G. Wells demands that war guilt and proper punishment be placed upon 250,000 German officers. That's some job. Suppose the work was allotted to ten courts martial and that each worked for six hours per day and that is about the usual court sitting: it would take each of the ten courts 13 years to clear their dockets and by that time a great many of these officers would be dead. Then consider the cost of feeding this big army of prisoners. Mr. Wells had better think up some better plan.

OVEN CANNING
Mrs. Ouida Wilson, county home demonstration agent, states today that she had received many inquiries from housewives in regard to oven canning, in which many of them are interested, due to the fact that they lack regular canning equipment.

The following news letter from Miss Isabelle S. Thurst, Florida Extension economist in food conservation, which presents findings and disadvantages of oven canning, as compiled by the U.S. Home Economics of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, was recently received by Mrs. Wilson.

"Oven canning was very popular at one time, but only for a short time. It looked like such an easy method that it had a great deal of favorable publicity before it had a thorough try-out. Many canning specialists have now found that it has a number of disadvantages.

"Oven canning has proved successful for canning some acid foods, such as berries, cherries and other small fruits. It has not been very successful for other fruits like peaches, pears and apricots because these fruits often turn dark, especially if you pack them without pre-cooking.

Another disadvantage of oven canning is that some of the liquid bubbles out of the jars and goes to waste, leaving a vacant space at the top of the jar.

"Canning in the oven takes more time than canning in a boiling-water bath—or canning in a pressure canner. Air is not as good a conductor of heat as water. So the air in the oven does not heat the jars of food as efficiently as boiling water.

"But the worst disadvantage of oven canning is that it is not safe for non-acid vegetables and that means almost all vegetables, except tomatoes. Even though the temperature of the oven is much higher than the temperature of boiling water, the food in the jar gets no hotter. When food in the jar goes above boiling temperature, the steam forces its way out. If the jars are sealed to stop the steam, the jar or seal breaks. Tin cans cannot be used in oven canning because the steam fills the jars and the steam or gas will push the lids out.

"Summary: Oven canning may be all right for small fruits, but don't can large fruits. If leaves are used in the top of the jar, the leaves and liquid have come out—and it is not safe for non-acid foods which mean

How U. S. Flyers Downed First Germans In 1918

Douglas Campbell, Tells Of Victories In Old Nieuports

NEW YORK CITY, Apr. 21 (AP)—The contrast between the air power of this war and the World War I aerial combat of World War days was recalled by Douglas Campbell, vice president of Pan American-Grace Airways, on the twenty-fifth anniversary of a sky battle that made him the pilot to shoot down an enemy plane.

Mr. Campbell, now 47 years old, gave up flying 12 years ago. Recently transferred from Lima, Peru, to New York office of the air line, he told his story of World War I fighting at a luncheon at the Hotel Commodore. He and the late Alan F. Winslow, who had served in the Lafayette Escadrille, both downed enemy planes in a battle on April 14, 1918, at Toul, France. Mr. Winslow's opponent hit the ground first and was the first German shot down by a member of the American Air Service. Mr. Winslow, however, unlike Mr. Campbell, had received his training from the French.

The two young flyers were on the alert at the home field of the famous 94th Squadron when they received a telephone call that two German planes had crossed the front lines some fifteen miles away.

"Apparently," Mr. Campbell said, "they were coming over to find out just what we were or to shoot us up."

The two men climbed into their planes and took off to engage the enemy. The ceiling, Mr. Campbell said, was only about 600 or 700 feet. They were still circling for altitude when a German plane swooped down on Mr. Winslow. Mr. Campbell turned to give his aid. "That was most fortunate," he said, with a smile, "for just at that moment a second German overhead, of whom I was not aware, made for me. I forgot about Winslow. The next thing I knew I was on the tail of my opponent and he burst into flames."

A second or two after the plane hit by Mr. Campbell had burst in flames. The German aviator later died of his injuries.

Flight Lasts 4 1/2 Minutes

The total time of the flight from our takeoff to our landing, Mr. Campbell said, was exactly four and one-half minutes.

In the next seven weeks Mr. Campbell downed five more German planes. Then he was wounded himself, a shell exploding behind his cockpit and driving a piece of shrapnel into his back. He was made a captain in August, 1919, and received the Distinguished Service Cross, Croix de Guerre and French Legion of Honor.

Members of the squadron, he said, fought in Nieuport planes with 150-horsepower Gnomes engines.

"You could hear them for miles," he said.

The planes had no radio or blind flying instruments and each had only one or two .303 Vickers machine guns ordered for it.

"The others hadn't arrived," he said.

Mr. Campbell had only fifty-one hours of flying when he went into combat, and only ten of them

AMERICAN BUSINESS is taking much more of a hit this year than it ever took in any year war. We do not yet know about business activity in other countries, but this time it is on the Atlantic coast in the United States, to guard against such an economic recession as we had pretty soon after the last world conflict.

For this thing, World War II followed so closely after No. 1 that plenty of our industrial and commercial experts have not forgotten their bitter, war-time lesson.

Previous wars have been further between. They have averaged about a generation apart, but by the time of the next threat of war, the victims of the last world conflict would be dead and forgotten, with their talents bottling up whatever warnings they caught have been inclined to hand down to their sons and grandsons.

I can remember my own father's stories of the hard times following the War Between the States, but it was a period when I was too young to pay much attention to it. Now I remember the last stress acutely. It must be true of plenty of folks who experienced it.

Besides, these earlier frictions were of comparatively small caliber. One of them certainly did not leave a couple of countries flattered out as the up-to-date variety of wire fasteners out a whole multiplicity of countries.

Well, Yankee production and merchandising realize this plenty and are doing their best to discount it in the season.

"It's not speaking of so-called 'economists' but of genuine industrialists, who take a practical view of the prospect, from the standpoint of their own pocketbooks' future. In fact, I think they may be better judges than the theorists, as to what may be coming.

One of the outlets that I have already had occasion to mention to the United States Chamber of Commerce, trying to line up all the Americas, on a new world unionistic basis—productive and commercial.

The American National Association of Manufacturers to down the same alley. The N. A. M. wants a code to enforce peace. It wants international co-operation—European as well as American.

The problem is: What will it be on an international basis? It won't be so hard inter-Americanly. But how about the United Nations generally? And how about Russia and the Chinese? And finally, how will it be with the wicked Axis powers?

Inter-America, though, is simple. We will just have, in effect, one country. The United States, naturally, will be the main thing. And Latin America, from all indications, will acquiesce readily. Canada—of course.

What's needed is a joint agreement.

There is a lot of talk about it as between the United Nations, but talk is vague on a pan-American basis. This can be framed up in 15 minutes.

We will hear about it directly following Vice President Henry Wallace's return from below the equator. It will be mainly economic but it may have its military aspects also. Its moral will count a lot, anyway. It will count in the United States as well as abroad.

It should with this hemisphere having been lined up quickly, not only against the Nazis but against Japan! It will join the Japs like nobody else.

They have the entire South American coast to reckon with.

Baker Approves Meet, Loaf Recipe "Essay On Points"

ATLANTA, Apr. 21, (Special)—The most frequent question today is "How do we eat?" To help housewives answer this important question, one progressive baker has enlisted the aid of 16 of the nation's leading food editors to help him write an "Essay On Points."

The "Essay On Points" is a book of unusual recipes which are tested, low in cost and easy on the pocket.

Here is a way to make a pound of ground meat serve six generously. It has the added attraction of individual servings which eliminates time and trouble at the table. Try it — you'll be sure to mark it as a family favorite.

1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
2 cups fine, dry bread crumbs
3 tablespoons minced onion
1 tablespoon melted fat
Pepper
1/4 teaspoon salt
Hot water to moisten
1/4 teaspoon sage or poultry seasoning

Combine meat with 1 teaspoon salt, pepper and 1/4 cup water and mix thoroughly. Divide meat into six portions and place on waxed paper. Press each portion into a 4-inch square. Combine remaining ingredients into a bread stuffing. Place a spoonful on each meat square and roll. Place rolls in greased baking pan and bake at 375 degrees for 45 minutes. Serve with sauce if desired.

Football Hero Is Safe In South American Crash

Two Members Of Crew Reported Killed In Tom Harmon Plane

WASHINGTON, Apr. 21. (AP)—The Army announced today that two members of the crew of the plane piloted by Lieut. Tom Harmon died in the crash in South America. They were Sgt. Leonard Gunnels, a gunner whose mother lives at Deatville, Ala., and Staff Sgt. James Goodwin.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., April 21. (AP)—Lieut. Tom Harmon telephoned his parents from "Somewhere in South America" Monday and reported "I'm not hurt" following his experience after the crash of an army bomber last week. "I'm as well as," the former Michigan football star said, but gave no details of his experience. When asked about other members of the plane's crew, Tom replied that he had not heard whether they were safe.

In Washington, the army said that five of the crew members of the plane piloted by Harmon, still are listed as missing. They are: Second Lieut. Edwin J. Wolf, navigator, whose father, Joseph Wolf, lives at Philadelphia. Second Lieut. Frederick O. Wieting, whose sister, Mrs. Peggy V. Hamont, lives at Lansing, Mich. Sergeant Leonard D. Gunnels, Deatville, Ala. Staff Sergeant Bernard R. Cox whose mother, Mrs. Josephine Cox, lives at Mendota, Ill. Staff Sergeant James F. Goodwin, whose father, Cecil C. Goodwin, lives at Texarkana, Tex.

Officials said the incomplete reports which have reached the war department indicated that Harmon was suffering from injured scratches and other minor injuries.

"Crew Bailed Out" An officer said the plane took off April 8 on a South American fighter but ran into storms and the crew of six was forced to bail out. Harmon made his way to the crashed plane, but found no trace of the others and finally started alone toward the coast.

Harmon wandered alone in the jungles of Dutch Guiana for four days before rescued by a party of natives and taken to a Dutch Guiana base hospital, his former football coach at the University of Michigan learned today.

He is now receiving treatment for exposure in the base hospital and other members of the crew of his twin-engine bomber are still missing. Coach Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler said he was told by the war department.

Found By Natives Crisler said he received a description of the mishap from war department officials. "They spoke of Tom's plane having 'fallen,' Crisler said, and all the crew called out somewhere over Dutch Guiana. Somehow Tom became separated from his crew members.

19 Year Sentence Is Proposed For Those Who Strike

TALLAHASSEE, Apr. 21. (AP)—A bill proposed in the Senate today would give a 19-year sentence to any person who strikes work or more employees in order to force or prevent a change in conditions of employment. The law would be effective only during the war.

The other bill would require labor unions to register with the secretary of state and give the names of their officers. It would make any union, without a responsible person, or person convicted of a felony, whose citizenship has not been restored, holding office in any labor union or labor organization.

Unions would be required to make full refund of any initiation membership dues paid if a person failed to qualify for union membership or was discharged by his employer before completing his full payment.

Quarterly statements to members of all receipts and disbursements also would be required, and state attorneys would prosecute any union officer or agent who embezzled or absconded with any union funds.

This bill would set up fine of $100 or imprisonment up to one year for violation.

Members in both Senate and House put in bills to centralize all state purchasing of supplies and equipment in the secretary of state and prohibiting department heads, or officers making purchases. Representative Frank F. Bowers offered it in the House. Senator Unruh of St. Augustine in the senate.

Florida Industrial Commission, Tallahassee, Fla., has developed over those 13 years the international Pan American League, an institution reaching via 225 chartered member groups to 33 states in the United States and most of the countries of South America. Its membership lists about 20,000 men, women and children, all dedicated to developing more cordial relations among the peoples of the western hemisphere.

Through its language institute, the league has sponsored free classes in Spanish and Portuguese. In South America, it encourages classes in English.

Through its 200 student leagues in high schools and colleges, hundreds of English text books as well as fiction have been sent to South America. Correspondence between league members in the two continents is encouraged, North Americans writing to pen pals in Spanish, and receiving their answers in English.

"The league is a movement of people, not a movement of papers," Mrs. Starns said. "After all, it is the people who make their governments in this hemisphere. Our people's governments should be the governments of the future."

Navy Wife Dovotes 13 Years To Building Pan American League

MIAMI, Fla.—Thirteen years ago, when the good neighbor policy was still a gleam in the nation's eye, the welcome mat was spread here for South America by Mrs. Clark D. Starns, wife of a retired naval captain who had been stationed in various Caribbean countries. She watched the Latin temperament through two recent revolutions, saw that little love was lost between the two continents and decided something must be done about it.

Mrs. Starns has developed over those 13 years the international Pan American League, an institution reaching via 225 chartered member groups to 33 states in the United States and most of the countries of South America. Its membership lists about 20,000 men, women and children, all dedicated to developing more cordial relations among the peoples of the western hemisphere.

EAT THESE 7 EVERY DAY AND KEEP STRONG!

As a part of a nationwide program to improve war-time diets and maintain nutrition standards in the face of changing food conditions, the U. S. Department of Agriculture today listed seven basic food groups which should be included in the daily diet of everyone.

Based on the long experience of the Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics, state and local nutrition committees and the country's food industry, the seven groups of food are as follows:

1. GREEN AND YELLOW VEGETABLES—some raw, some cooked (beans or canned).
2. ORANGES, T O MATOES, GRAPEFRUIT or raw cabbages or other greens.
3. POTATOES AND OTHER VEGETABLES AND FRUITS—raw, dried, cooked, frozen or canned.
4. MILK AND MILK PRODUCTS—fluid, evaporated, dried milk or cheese.
5. MEAT, POULTRY, FISH or EGGS or dried beans, peas, nuts or peanut butter.
6. BREAD, FLOUR and SERE A1S—natural whole grain, or enriched, or white.
7. BUTTER or FORTIFIED MARGARINE (vitamin A added).

To emphasize the importance of daily eating of these seven food groups and to illustrate to homemakers ways or preparing them so that the most food value will be retained, War-time Food Demonstrations will be held all over the country under the auspices of local Defense Councils. By this means it is hoped to introduce new foods into regional and racial diets, to check food waste and to make the best possible use of the various foods available, as well as maintaining the nutrition standards of the nation.

Bombing Raids Are Continued On Jap Bases

Doolittle Predicts Americans Will Hit Japan Itself Again In Near Future

WASHINGTON, Apr. 22. (AP) — The occupation of islands in the Ellice group in the South Pacific by United States forces was disclosed by the Navy today in a communique telling of an enemy bombing raid on American installations there, about 1,100 miles east of the Solomon.

Japan's Nagura base in the Gilbert Islands, a strategic outpost guarding the southern approaches to the great Truk bastion in the South Pacific, was heavily damaged Wednesday by Army bombers in a long-range daylight attack.

Maj. Gen. James Doolittle's prediction that American fliers will bomb Japan again "soon" was followed by news of widespread aerial blows against the Japanese in the Southwest Pacific and in Burma.

The Berlin radio reported the Japanese government in a note to the United States Feb. 17 declared its intention "to punish severely those members of the aircraft crews who, following the attack on Japanese territory, Manchukuo and on the area of Japanese military operations, have fallen into the hands of the Japanese and have been guilty of having committed cruel and inhuman acts."

Every American flier participating in such bombing raids is held as a prisoner of war. It is a military secret to disclose the names of such fliers and their activities.

Allied Fliers Wipe Out Every One Of 20 Large German Troop Transports

BERN, Switzerland, Apr. 22. (AP) — The unopposed Yugoslav guerrilla army, reinforced with planes, tanks and armored trains, is now waging a full-scale war against Axis troops in the territory adjoining Adriatic, according to a dispatch from Budapest.

The British eighth army has captured Takrouna and pushed six miles from Enfidaville in twin drives northward and the British first army has stabled ahead three miles against stubborn Axis resistance in the Sou Arada sector on the western Tunisian front.

The combined maneuvers represented a pincer movement against the Axis southern Mountain positions. The most widespread and bloodiest fighting of the campaign flared along the entire front.

Allied fliers wiped out every one of 20 large German troop transports bound for Tunisia and 10 escorting planes in a battle over the Gulf of Tunisia which lasted less than 10 minutes but was regarded as the most important stroke in the enemy supply lines since the start of the war.

The Russian army newspaper, Red Star, declared Adolf Hitler is feverishly planning "new adventures in the Soviet campaign" and dispatches said the Germans were stepping up their assaults in the Caucasus.

In the north, Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's First Army, including parachute troops, withstood a powerful German counter-attack aimed at regaining the position on Marshal Rokhman's southern front, and inflicted "considerable casualties" on the enemy.

At the German tank assault were put into the struggle later, but the British destroyed a third of them, including two Patton Mark VI Tigers.
