HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Sunday, May 16, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 16, 1982

This coming year, friends and alliances will play significant roles in your affairs. Look for a Scorpio in particular to be especially lucky and helpful in establishing some lasting new relationships.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Important agreements should not be entered into lightly today. Once you make a commitment, the other party will expect you to carry it through to the letter. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in each of the seasons following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Where your work or career is concerned it might prove luckier for you to proceed independently of others today. Associates may lack your capabilities.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This will be a very enjoyable day if you don't turn into work something that should be fun. Save your serious thoughts for other matters.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In ventures today that involve others, don't take any disruptive measures if all is running smoothly. Change for change's sake is a no-no.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Have the courage of your convictions today. Once you make a decision you believe to be right, don't let others less well-informed dissuade you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You could be quite lucky in getting a big return for your efforts today, but you're not likely to get anything if all you have to offer are ideas.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Competitive games should be played just for fun today. Don't let anyone entice you into making bets.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be luckier today from things others originate rather than from ventures you conceive. Get on the bandwagon.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're likely to feel more comfortable today in familiar surroundings with old friends rather than going somewhere different with a new acquaintance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Even though you may want to devote this day to your more frivolous pursuits, don't ignore business matters. You could be quite lucky.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your possibilities for success are very good today provided you don't let unexpected developments rattle you. You'll be a winner if you keep your head.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Something rather fortunate could develop today, but you'd be wise not to discuss it prematurely. Wait 'til it's on firmer ground.

For Monday, May 17, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY
MAY 17, 1982

Members of the opposite sex should prove extremely lucky for you this coming year in your business or financial affairs. Make it a point to maintain good relationships.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Treat others considerably today, but don't let yourself be used by one who knows how to play upon your emotions to get what he or she wants. Predictions of what's in store for you in each season following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your possibilities for achieving your goals are good today, but you must be mindful of details. Small mistakes will impede your progress.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Let someone with your best interests at heart proceed today in the manner he or she envisions. Your suggestions may not work as well.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're very perceptive today and it will be easy for you to spot the flaws in the behavior of friends. However, it's best to keep your observations to yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Judge associates today the same way you would like them to judge you. They'll not find excuses for your actions if you fail to excuse theirs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you find co-workers a trifle difficult today, there is a chance that the basis for the disharmony could be laid at your doorstep.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Normally you treat your duties responsibly, but today this splendid quality could desert you. You might breeze off to play when there's work to be done.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you schedule your time properly today, you'll be capable of substantial accomplishments. However, a loose agenda and last-minute efforts spell unproductiveness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In dealing with loved ones today, it will be the nice little things you do that really count. Recall this if you want to make points with those special people.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Larger financial issues will be handled prudently today, but your small extravagances could unbalance your budget. Be pennywise, as well.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Something profitable could develop today due more to the efforts of another, but you might feel you're entitled to the lion's share.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful when speaking to a sensitive friend today. There's a possibility you may inadvertently say something to wound his or her feelings.

far from the expert class. North had a rather doubtful hand for a positive response, but he did have eight high card points including an ace.

The positive response drove South crazy. Not only did he burst right into Blackwood, but after North showed an ace, South bid the slam in hearts with no idea if North held even one heart.

West had made a proper decision by not doubling. He expected to beat six hearts, but for all he knew they might run to six no-trump and find it a lay down. Not that it would have been. South would be declarer and a jack of clubs led by West would beat him several tricks.

West cashed his ace of diamonds at trick one and waited for his trump trick. There was no score since South's 100 honors made up for the 100-point penalty.

Had South bid the slam in diamonds East-West might actually have wound up with a profit. If East opened his singleton heart, West could take the first diamond and give his partner a heart ruff to beat that slam also.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

South didn't really have enough for his forcing two bid but the game was rubber bridge and the players were

World's Fair Tourists Get Look At Moonshining

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — For years Harmer McGee scurried in the backwoods and hid from the law to carry out his chosen profession — moonshining — but now the World's Fair is allowing him to operate his still legally. The only problem is he has to throw away his brew.

"I'll let you smell it. But they won't let me drink my own product, and I can't stand to watch somebody else drink it," McGee said as he passed around a jug of just-squeezed "White Lightning" among the curious tourists.

McGee's small moonshine still is in the far reaches of the fairgrounds at the Folklife Festival, far away from the shadow of the 268-foot-high Sunspire and popular exhibits of China, Canada, Egypt and Peru.

That doesn't matter. Tourists make it a point to crowd around McGee's contraption to see how moonshiners have been doing it for years.

And no one looks the part of the moonshiner more than McGee, 58, from mountainous Monteagle, Tenn.

A brown, unbuttoned polyester vest covers a flannel shirt in the 85-degree weather. His salt-and-pepper moustache is curled at the ends.

His eyes are eternally bloodshot, he has no front teeth and what teeth he does have are tobacco-stained. Wearing a pair of faded blue jeans and worn cowboy boots with rounded heels, he jumps around the moonshine still, constantly fiddling with it as he jabsbers with the tourists.

"This is the first time I've ever made it when I didn't have to look over my shoulder," McGee said. "I've been shot at and cussed at and run a lot of foot races, but I ain't never been caught."

Handsome Son's Lifestyle Tearing Parents Apart

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you, but I'm so heartbroken I don't know where else to turn.

Our handsome 19-year-old son, whom I'll call Rick, graduated from high school at 17 and went to college 200 miles from home. He came home for the Easter holiday with a 34-year-old woman he has been sleeping with for the last year, unbeknownst to us. The woman (I'll call her Lucy) is a widow with a 2-year-old child! Lucy and Rick say they are in love and want to marry.

Abby, my husband is 38 and I am 37 — just three years older than Lucy. Rick told us that she is the only woman he has ever slept with, so it is obvious that she seduced him.

My husband and I want so much for Rick at least to try dating girls his own age instead of tying himself down to a woman who's old enough to be his mother.

This is tearing us apart. How can we get our son out of Lucy's clutches?

HEARTBROKEN

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: Don't try. The more you talk against her, the more fiercely Rick will come to her defense. That's the surest way to drive them into an early marriage. Go to know Lucy better and give her a chance. Most important, try not to show your "heartbreak" and disappointment. Let nature take its course. Regardless of the outcome, it's not the end of the world. And here's a daybrightener for you: At least 96 percent of the things we worry about never happen.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My college-educated 23-year-old daughter is ruining her life, and I am helpless to stop her.

She says she is in love with a married man who plans to divorce his wife and marry her.

Abby, the man has three grown children a grandchild. And he's 54 — that's 10 years older than her father! I didn't know what to do so I rang up this man's wife. She was shocked and said she had no idea her husband was planning a divorce.

I'm so afraid my daughter will get mixed up in an ugly scandal. I can't talk any sense into her head. I tried to teach her right from wrong, but I just have failed. She lives in an apartment with two other girls and thinks that just because she supports herself, she can live her own life without any interference from me. What can I do?

A MOTHER WHO FAILED

DEAR MOTHER: A 23-year-old self-supporting woman can't be controlled by her mother or anyone else. If you tried to teach her right from wrong, you haven't failed, she has.

DEAR ABBY: I strongly disagree with your answer to "Bothered and Bewildered." There are at least three good reasons why carrying wedding gifts to the reception is practical:

- 1. Most stores charge a delivery fee for gifts under $50.
- 2. Deliveries left at the door are not "safe" these days. (Many couples arrange their own weddings and both work during the day. Parents may live elsewhere.)
- 3. Hand-delivering gifts eliminates the uncertainty as to whether:
 - a. The store sent the gift.
 - b. The gift was actually received.
 - c. The bride is a slowpoke with her "thank-you" notes.

I agree that it is a burden imposed on the bride's family, but it's still the safest way to handle the gift. The bride and groom are not obligated to open any gifts at the reception. Every reception that I have ever attended has had a table available for gifts — which is in itself a subtle reminder to those guests who still haven't bought a gift.

You say that hand-carrying a wedding gift to the reception is not an acceptable practice. I say it is a practical solution, and no one should look a gift horse in the mouth.

JANE IN SAN JOSE

DEAR ABBY: Well, excuse me! I never knew it wasn't proper etiquette to bring a gift to the reception. I would think a person would be glad to get a gift no matter how it got there.

Tari Maddox, M.K. O'Toole Repeat Vows

Tari Lynn Maddox and Michael K. O'Toole were married May 1, at 3 p.m., at Conv. United Methodist Church, Orlando. The Revs. Roger Vandergriff, Harry Bass and Jon Bekemeyer performed the candlelight and double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Maddox, Orlando. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.W. Tyre and Mrs. A.B. Maddox, all of Sanford.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ann Kelley, Orlando. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal white Chantilly and Venice lace gown fashioned along the slim silhouette with full bishop sleeves. A tier of lace cascaded down the front and the full back featured bands of lace meeting in a V above a lace flounce. A lace headpiece embellished with pearls secured her tulle veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white roses and white carnations.

Cindy Cupp of Jacksonville, attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a blue organza gown, over matching taffeta, fashioned with a ruffled drop shoulder and a bouffant skirt with the pick-up hemline accented with a bow. She carried yellow roses, white carnations and yellow bachelor buttons.

Bridesmaids were Julie Norris, Lisa Fagerstrom and Emilee Northcutt. Their gowns were identical to the honor attendant's and they carried yellow and white carnations and bachelor buttons.

Billy Spain served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Steve Maddox and Billy Maddox. Groomsmen were Bill Northcutt, Gordon Spain and Mark Bufkin.

MRS. MICHAEL K. O'TOOLE

Following the reception in the church fellowship hall, the newlyweds departed on a wedding trip to North Carolina.

They are making their home at Christina Court, Orlando, where the bride is employed as a registered nurse and the bridegroom is a fireman-paramedic.

Shower Honors Miss Baird

Miss Deana Lynn Baird was honored at a bridal shower at the home of Mrs. Finley Nash, Co-hostess was Mrs. Belle Rumphley.

The bride-to-be, lovely in a black and white sheer dress, was presented a white cymbidium orchid corsage. Her mother, Mrs. Earl Baird, wearing a colorful red and yellow sheer dress, received a yellow orchid. The mother of the groom-to-be, Mrs. O.T. Harper, was given a lavender orchid to complement her lavender sheer dress.

Tables decorated in gold and white held a lavish array of homemade delicacies including coffee ice cream punch. Guests arriving between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m. were served refreshments at poolside and recreation room tables.

Miss Baird and the prospective groom, Randy Harper, shared in opening the many lovely gifts.

Invited guests were: Misses Henry Hamm, Carl Faires, Russel Hiett, John Shadott and Leah Benner and the Misses Janet Miller and Kim Faires of Orlando; Misses Webb Harris, Ellen McCloughlin, William Dunn, Maurice Laviole and Miss Atha Jo Sanders of Casselberry; and Misses Lou Kusky, Denny Stafford and Miss Janet Berna of Sanford. Also Misses Earl Baird, Mathias Beerman, Harold Hayborn and Miss Elaine Hayborn of Winter Park; Mrs. O.T. Harper, Lakeland; Mrs. Gary Hitchcock, Fern Park; Mrs. Gene Berna, Orange City; Mrs. Betty Ann Browne, Altamonte Springs; Mrs. Marion Nichols, Lake Monroe; Mrs. Mark Foster, Valrico; and Mrs. Beverly Grisson, Daytona Beach.

Also Mrs. H.D. Vickers and Miss Janet Vickers of Haines City; Mrs. Lorraine Whiting of Geneva.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Frank I. Moore Jr., and her aunt, Mrs. Willard Sievert of Louisville, Ky., were unable to attend.

Laura Heisler

Laura Heisler Receives Leadership Scholarship

Laura Michelle Heisler of Longwood, has been named recipient of a George C. Wallace leadership scholarship to Troy State University.

The announcement was made by University President Dr. Ralph W. Adams.

Miss Heisler, the daughter of George and Roberta Pappun, is a graduating senior at Lake Highland Preparatory School where she is editor of the yearbook, vice president of the student council, co-captain of the varsity volleyball team, president of Today's Active Service Club, a member of the varsity softball team and co-chairman of the local Cerebral Palsy Telethon.

Each year the George C. Wallace scholarship is awarded to high school and junior college students who have excelled in academic and/or leadership accomplishments.

T.W. Estes Earns BS In Virginia

U.S. Air Force T-Set, Tracy E. Estes, son of Donna R. Estes of Longwood and Tracy W. Estes of Casselberry, is graduating Sunday from Christopher Newport College, Newport News, Va., with a B.S. degree in Information Science.

Estes is stationed at Langley Air Force Base, Va. and is a computer programmer.

He graduated in 1970 from Bishop Moore High School, Orlando, and attended the University of Central Florida.

Christopher Newport College is named for a captain of a ship that brought colonists to settle Jamestown, Va.

The first British monarch to visit the U.S. was George VI, who crossed the border through Canada. He visited the 1939 New York World's Fair, and lunched with President Roosevelt in Washington.

'Fantasy Cruise' Closes Club Season Of Venture

The Sanford Woman's Club was transformed into a luxury liner when the Junior Woman's Club members embarked on a "Fantasy Cruise" to bid the club year "Bon Voyage" before setting sail for a new season.

Highlighting the festive event was a fashion show featuring styles from Lois' Place in Sanford. Lois Dycus, owner, moderated the show.

Joining the models who showed casual wear, day wear, evening wear and night wear was Deanna Pittman, Miss Sanford 1982.

Dressed in sailor garb, the woman's club members served as the crew. Joan Edwards welcomed the guests and Bonnie Albers, club president, made the closing remarks.

Clymell Fort, non-finalist talent winner in the Miss Sanford Scholarship Pageant, sponsored by the Junior club in April, sang "Home," the song she presented in the recent pageant.

Approximately 40 Seminole Seniors left Thursday for a visit to the World's Fair, Knoxville, Tenn.

According to Doris Rogers, the group is sponsored by the Federation of Senior Citizens with Doris acting as director. Lila Moran and Esther Lansing, members of the Sanford Senior Citizens Club, are bus hostesses.

The return trip will feature touring several historical landmarks including Guntlingen, Tenn., and Helen, Ga., the site of a restored Alpine village.

Another trip to the World's Fair is planned in October, Mrs. Rogers said.

The Social Department of the Woman's Club of Sanford held a card party Wednesday at the clubhouse. Refreshments were served during the afternoon by the hostesses, Melba Cooper, Myra Stapleton, Teena Joseph, June Robinson, Sara Tatum and Enny Bill.

Winners were Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith, high, bridge; Mary Drew, high canasta; and Francis Wilson, screeno.

nice — very open." A real charmer with down-home wit and philosophy, Miss Sanford is a born entertainer. Calling herself career-oriented, Deanna says her goal is to "have my own TV special, that is after I finish everything else — being Miss America — college..."

Standing 5 feet, 5 inches tall and weighing 110 pounds, Deanna is a dancer — not just any dancer — but her slim body seems to bend beautifully out of joint in her interpretation of "Chorus Line," her pageant presentation. Deanna has been dancing for 17 years. She has studied voice for two years and drama for one year. She has had extensive training in New York with Ron Farella, the New York City Ballet and Phil Black and danced with Ballet Royal, Winter Park, for 12 years.

Miss Sanford attended Seminole Community College and Rollins College, Winter Park. Her interests are dancing, golf, drama, voice and people.

"Deanna is a supporter of the Florida Symphony Orchestra, Florida Ballet Guild and a Dance Masters of America.

The self-assured, self-confident beauty queen has one minor area of concern. "I have real strong convictions. I have to tone down my opinions," she admitted.

At the Miss America Pageant, the judges will be looking for more than a pretty face with a body beautiful. In the final rating, talent counts 50 percent. Intelligence figures in as well as poise. The contestant selected to wear the crown will be the cream of the American crop. And that's Deanna Pittman, Miss Sanford 1982.

Miss Sanford: 'I Plan On Becoming Miss America'

DEANNA PITMAN ...

By DORIS DIETRICH
OURSELVES Editor

With dreamy stars sparkling in their innocent, bright eyes, many little girls set their sights on wearing the Miss America crown. They dream on.

But not Deanna Pitman, the current Miss Sanford, who quipped with confidence, "I plan on becoming Miss America."

The 22-year-old beauty queen will wear the Miss Sanford crown in the Miss Florida Pageant the last week in June. She says she will emerge Miss Florida and is looking forward to representing the state in the Miss America Pageant on Sept. 8 in Atlantic City, N.J.

Calling herself a third generation Florida native, Deanna says she wants to be rich and famous. "There's nothing wrong with wanting to be rich and famous, is there?" she asks.

The Miss Florida Pageant competition is not new to Deanna. In 1978, as Miss Apopka, she was the second runner-up. "But that was four years ago. I am more mature now," she declared.

All eyes were on Deanna when she appeared at the Sanford Woman's Club during a "Fantasy Cruise" a venture of the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. In April the club sponsored the first Miss Sanford Pageant affiliated with the Miss America Pageant since 1951. The pretty brunette was talking excitedly while skinning into a short, flouncy, bare, black frock before going on stage.

"Do you really think you will win the Miss Florida Pageant?" a clubwoman asked.

"Yes, yes, yes," Deanna chanted with exhilaration. "I am looking forward to being Miss Florida."

Pageant enthusiasts will recall that several years ago, Delta Burke won a beauty pageant in Sanford that led to her winning the Miss Florida crown and on to London and Hollywood.

Delta is a very good friend, claims Deanna. In fact, the two beauties show a striking resemblance to each other. Among Deanna's other celebrity friends are Fred MacMurray and June Haver "who will be coming to the Miss Florida Pageant," she said.

Sponsored by Cardinal Industries in the Miss Sanford Pageant, Deanna says she is thrilled with Sanford. "It is such a beautiful town. The people are so supportive and so helpful," she remarked.

About the Junior Woman's Club members, "I love 'em, just love 'em," she cooed.

Deanna says she has learned more about Sanford during the past three weeks than ever before. She was a guest at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Topper Award banquet when Sanford attorney Mack Cleveland Jr. was the master of ceremonies. "She's got a lot of poise in addition to being very pretty," the former state senator said. "She seems to have a lot of sense. I was very much impressed with her."

Deanna made a sweep through downtown Sanford to thank participants in the pageant including Gifts by Nan and Merle Norman Cosmetics and Boutique, she said. "I have relatives in Sanford, the Schirards — John and Pete, Jack and Hope," she beamed.

The current Miss Sanford was born in Apopka and still lives there with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Pitman III. Her father has been in the foliage and citrus industry for over 20 years. Her Mother Hilda manages one of the three corporations, Plant Ranch, an indoor plant-scaping business.

One of six children, Deanna holds her home and family in high esteem. Speaking of the love, respect and discipline in her home, she said, "I love being home. Mom has certain house rules and I like it. My parents are so

STRESS

Are You A Racehorse Or A Turtle?

Dr. June Gordon of Sanford, should have a first-hand view of stress. The Seminole Community College counselor entered college after her six children were born and earned a doctorate from Florida State University in 1979.

Mrs. Gordon, chairman of the Central Florida Education Consortium for Women, has stress management down to a T. She teaches non-credit classes and conducts seminars on coping with stress.

"Today's Woman and Stress" was the subject of the program Mrs. Gordon presented at the May meeting of the Woman's Club of Sanford under the chairmanship of Mrs. Estelle Davis of the club's Home Life Department.

According to Mrs. Gordon, "We are under stress from the moment of conception." She explains that stress can be positive, but is usually associated with "dis-stress."

Noting that people can be compared to racehorses, who thrive under extreme stress, or turtles, who are slow and organized with no stress exertion apparent, Mrs. Gordon says people can learn to manage stress with balance including physical and mental approaches.

Mrs. Gordon cited two of the many coping mechanisms for the clubwomen.

An exercise, "Tensing Method," was appealing to the clubwomen. "This is my kind of exercise," a longtime club member commented enthusiastically.

Another mechanism Mrs. Gordon used was "Imagery." She said, "You learn to use your imagination to take you away from where you are. You control what is going on in your mind. You manage."

Mrs. Gordon liked the woman's clubbers. "I was impressed with the group. They seemed to be aggressive and a group of intelligent women," she said.

And the clubwomen were impressed with Mrs. Gordon. Kate Nash says, "Oh, she's great. She quilts and paints like Grandma Moses. She is one of the most talented gals I have ever seen — tremendously talented. It's unbelievable. I'm fascinated."

Tensing Method

The following simple exercises can help relieve tension and so-called stress:

Forehead — Wrinkle Forehead. Try to make your eyebrows touch your hairline for five seconds. Relax.

Eyes And Nose — Close your eyes as tightly as you can for five seconds. Relax.

Lips, Cheeks, & Jaw — Draw corners of your mouth back and grimace for five seconds. Relax. Feel the calmness and warmth in your face.

Hands — Extend arms in front of you, clench fists tightly for five seconds. Relax, and feel the warmth and calmness in your hands.

Forearms — Extend arms out against an invisible wall and push forward with hands for five seconds. Relax.

Upper Arms — Bend elbows. Tense biceps for five seconds. Relax, and feel the tension leave your arms.

Shoulders — Shrug shoulders up to your ears for five seconds. Relax.

Back — Arch your back off the floor or bed for five seconds. Relax. Feel the anxiety and tension disappearing.

Stomach — Tighten your stomach muscles for five seconds. Relax.

Hips, Buttocks — Tighten buttocks for five seconds. Relax.

Feet — Bend ankles toward your body as far as you can, for five seconds, relax.

Lacy Loses Grand Slam In Pirates' Win

Most baseball players usually remember the first grand slam they ever hit in the major leagues, but Lee Lacy of the Pittsburgh Pirates is more apt to recall the first one he didn't hit.

Lacy hit what appeared to be his first major-league grand slam in the eighth inning Friday night, but in the excitement of the moment he pamed Omar Moreno on the basepaths and was called out. However, his hit was credited as a three-run single and gave the Pirates an 8-7 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

"When I saw (Cesar) Cedeno go back after Lacy's ball, I stopped to see if he'd catch it and all of a sudden I saw Lee going by me," Moreno said. "I said to myself, 'Oh my God, no!' But ... at least we won."

Fights Clear Benches Twice

Tigers Topple Twins, 4-2 In Brawl Ball

United Press International: It was billed as a baseball game, but it seemed more like a hockey match.

"It was just like a hockey fight tonight," Minnesota catcher Sal Butera said Friday night, after the Detroit Tigers topped the Twins 4-2 in 11 innings, in a game marred by two bench-clearing brawls.

Kirk Gibson wrapped it up with a two-run homer in the 11th inning, his fifth hit of the game.

"It was one of the worst incidents I've ever seen," said Larry Milbourne. "... Everybody lost control. Everybody lost their heads."

The first fight occurred in the fourth. After Mark DeJohn singled, Detroit's Chet Lenow was hit on the wrist by a Pete Redfern fastball.

Lemon charged the mound, jumping on the Twins' pitcher as both benches emptied. Lemon was ejected and Redfern was forced

N.L. Roundup

Lacy tried to be philosophical about his mistake. "The main thing is the Pirates won," he said.

Lacy's game-winning hit came after loser Jim Kern, 0-3, had loaded the bases on a walk to pinch hitter Reggie Walton, a pinch single by Willie Stargell and a sacrifice-fielder's choice by Moreno. Kern fielded Moreno's bunt and turned to throw out Walton at third, but apparently decided he didn't have enough time and held on to the ball.

The victory went to Enrique Romo, 3-1, who pitched two innings of relief. Kent Tekulve finished the game and earned his fourth save.

to leave after being stepped on. The second incident occurred in the 11th, when Detroit's Enos Cabell was brushed back by a Ron Davis pitch. Cabell broke away from home plate umpire Mike Reilly and met Davis halfway between home and the mound as both benches emptied again.

"If they can't handle a ball inside that's their fault," said Davis. "Cabell stands right on the plate."

Umpire Larry Barnett placed much of the blame on Tiger Manager Sparky Anderson. "Sparky Anderson did not help me at all," said Barnett. "... Sparky was not reasonable.

He came that close to getting the game dumped (forfeited)."

The victory went to Dave Rozema, 3-0, who

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia defeated San Francisco, 1-0, Los Angeles beat New York, 4-1, Atlanta nipped St. Louis, 2-1, Montreal edged San Diego, 3-2, and Chicago topped Houston, 6-3.

In American League games, Detroit downed Minnesota, 4-2, in 11 innings, Texas beat Toronto, 4-3, in 11 innings, Milwaukee edged Chicago, 3-1, California defeated Cleveland, 5-2, Baltimore whipped Seattle, 11-4, and New York topped Oakland, 7-4. Boston at Kansas City was rained out.

Phillies 2, Giants 0: At Philadelphia, Steve Carlton, 4-5, pitched a no-hitter for 7 2/3 to lead the Phillies to their 11th triumph in the last 13 games.

Dodgers 4, Mets 1: At New York, Fernando Valenzuela, 5-3, scattered seven hits and lofted a sacrifice fly as the Dodgers snapped a four-game losing streak and broke the Mets' four-game winning streak.

Braves 2, Cardinals 1: At Atlanta, Biff Poceroba hit a solo homer with two out in the ninth inning to lift the Braves. Poceroba's first homer of the season made a winner of Gene Garber, 4-1.

Expos 8, Padres 7: At Montreal, Andre Dawson delivered a two-run single in the eighth inning to give the Expos their victory.

Cubs 6, Astros 3: At Houston, doubles by Bump Wills, Bill Buckner and Gary Woods and a triple by Larry Bowa highlighted a five-run sixth inning that carried the Cubs to their fifth victory in a row over the Astros.

PEOPLE

Puff Retains Magic; Set For TV Special

Peter, Paul and Mary first sang about "Puff the Magic Dragon" 20 years ago, but Puff is alive and well and about to have his third television special.

It's "Puff and the Incredible Mr. Nobody," to air on CBS May 17.

Peter Yarrow, the Peter in PP&M, who wrote the song with Leonard Lipton, is a producer of the show. Yarrow looks back on the "Puff" song with nostalgia, with its message about "the beauty there is in the openness and fantasy of childhood" and "how sad a day it was when we not only lost the fantasy of childhood but the idealism of the innocent."

As for rumors that it was a drug allegory, Yarrow told UPI. "When it was written we didn't even know marijuana existed. The big game then was beer."

Peter, Paul and Mary, incidentally, have been reunited and will play 35 concerts a year.

Newsman Caught Short

Television anchormen don't have to be sartorially splendid below the waist — or below the anchor booth that screens their lower half from camera range.

But newsman Chris Clark got caught with his pants off between his 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. newscasts last Tuesday at WTVF-TV in Nashville, Tenn.

Clark went home, changed into tennis shorts and sneakers, and washed his car. He lost track of time and dashed back to work just in time to slip into a jacket, shirt and tie. But he went on the air in his shorts.

During the newscast, Clark shifted in his chair and glanced at the TV monitor. What he saw was an outstretched bare leg. His.

"I saw that leg there and about died," Clark said. He added that in 16 years in the business, "I've never gotten caught at it before."

Givenchy's Mom Did It

Hubert de Givenchy may design couture clothes for Jackie Onassis, Audrey Hepburn and Princess Caroline of Monaco, but backstage at his Paris fashion shows the first one to plant a congratulatory kiss is his mother.

Givenchy told James Brady on WCBS-TV, New York's "News At Five" that his mother deserves much credit for his success. He said he began designing clothes as a little boy, stealing fabric from his mother for doll dresses.

His brother "is more interested in the airplane... like my father," Givenchy said, while he takes after his mother and has always been fascinated with fabrics and fashion magazines.

He said his mother helped him greatly in his career because "in that period, that epoch (it was) very difficult for a man to be a designer."

by saving ammunition and targets, allow the officer to use his own gun with the same trigger pull, sighting and weight as in real-life situations, and will not cost the taxpayers anything.

"The system will be paid for through the Law Enforcement Fund grant," he explains. "No money is coming directly from the city residents, but they will definitely be the ones ultimately to benefit from the program."

But how does the laser work? How do you know whether you've "killed" someone or whether you have been "killed?"

"You place the battery-operated cylinder, which allows about 100 round (firings), in the chamber where the bullets usually are," McGowan explains. "Then you can either shoot at people wearing the special vest, which gives off an audible sound if the laser beam hits the fiber optics in the vest, or shoot at the panel targets and silhouettes, which give off a flashing light when hit."

"Before this (the laser), you never got the realism of knowing whether or not you reacted correctly to surprise or anticipated situations, because you simply can't use the real thing (bullets)," he said. "This gun offers versatility."

McGowan says the only drawback to the system is that there is "no recoil or flash, as would occur when a bullet is fired."

However, he says that even this can be turned to an advantage in a training situation.

"It will allow our new officers to learn, and our other officers to work on remembering not to jerk the gun when it fires, but to squeeze the trigger and keep the subject in their sights," he says. "You can cut down on the anticipated jerking of the weapon with the laser, because there is no recoil."

And while the Casselberry police force won't be using Luke Skywalker's "laser" and they won't be battling arch-villain Darth Vader, one thing does seem to apply to both the movie performers and law enforcers — "the force" is always with them.

...Life-Care Retirement

dining room. There is a social hall, craft shop, woodworking shop, a library with books, tapes and records, and transportation.

The advantage of a life-care type of facility, says Smith, is that it is a protected environment, but the residents are still independent, they can relate to other people their age with social activities, and don't have to drive through traffic to do it. They can enjoy the things they like to do, such as gardening or crafts, and don't have the upkeep of their home. The cost is most cases is less than owning their own home, Smith adds.

Barbara Dunn Robinson, executive director of John Knox Village, says the average life span of a resident after coming into a life-care retirement facility is 14 years. "Studies have shown that life expectancy is raised from 7 to 14 years over a non-resident," she says. "The reasons are the availability of medical care, better nutrition, companionship, activities, and peace of mind." The minimum age is 62.

There are 20 residents from Seminole County among the 850 living at the non-profit facility. There are 34 cottages and a 144-unit, three-story, mid-rise facility on the 80-acre site. The mid-rise addition was completed in April 1981. The units revert back to the village on death of the resident. Endowments ranging from $18,000 to $59,000 guarantee use of the unit for life. There is also a monthly fee of $230 to $600 a month, depending on the size of the unit. In the case of a married couple, there is a set second-person fee for the spouse. This includes meals and normal nursing care.

"If they have surgery that requires recuperation time, they know they won't have to be alone in their apartment, but can convalesce in the medical center," says Mrs. Robinson, "and they know that if they have a stroke or something that requires extended care, they will get it here."

Life at the village is far from sedentary, and there are daily activities planned. "A group of our residents are going to the World's Fair this week," Mrs. Robinson says.

Seminole County Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather has proposed a $20 million "total life-care center" for Sanford on 84 acres overlooking Lake Monroe, and is seeking city approval. He proposes to finance his project through the sale of industrial revenue bonds — low-interest bonds whose earnings are tax-exempt.

The total life-care center, which includes a nursing-care facility, would be designed to attract elderly citizens who are retired or near retirement.

Feather's project would include 350 to 400 one-bed apartment units which he proposes to rent to residents. The 120-bed nursing-care facility would be included in the center. "The building would be 10 to 15 stories high.

...Library Needs Cash

trition of old books and reference material

"Our reference-section loan to theft was over $30,000 just last year," says Ms. Rhein. "Library abuse and theft are excessive across the county."

The Seminole system recently installed an electronic security system that monitors books. "The security system cuts down the abuse and at the same time saves taxpayers money," Ms. Rhein says.

Overdue books also have been a headache for the library, tying up the inventory and the staff as well. Ms. Rhein says her staff sends out about 800 overdue notices per month. The library charges 10 cents per day per overdue book, so fees are substantial.

The County Commission is currently in the process of hiring a collection agency, and Ms. Rhein says she would like to see the overdue charges be part of the agency's responsibility to collect.

Ms. Rhein says she realizes that the library and a citizens' committee supporting the referendum have a selling job to do to the public.

On a 20-year bond issue, homeowners would be assessed 33 cents per $1,000. Interest rates would be cut in half on a 10-year bond issue, raising assessments to 43 cents per $1,000. Based on a $50,000 piece of property, homeowners would pay $16.50 per year in library taxes over 20 years and $21.50 per year on a 10-year bond based on the same property taxes.

"The citizens' committee has to inform the public of the facts," says Ms. Rhein. "We have to make the public aware of the library situation, its uses and locations and what they'll be getting for their money."

"There will be people opposed to the referendum, but most of those who oppose it will be making their decision on the same basis as people who oppose school taxes because they don't have any children," she says.

"It's going to take a lot of people to go out and inform the public about the facts of the referendum," she adds.

SHS Student Goes To Washington

The Bill McCollum Intern Program is the study of the federal government in action for high school juniors in the Fifth Congressional District.

This year, five juniors sent in applications for this honor: Robert Capko, Chon Gann, Martha McIntosh, Alan Janak, and Mike Wohlgenuth. Martha McIntosh was the winner and Chon Gann was the runner-up.

Martha will travel to Washington on May 22 for a four- or five-day visit. Her trip will include: observing the House and Senate, observing committees and subcommittees, interviewing members of both portions in Congress, seeing a Congressional office at work, learning how a bill is passed, understanding the work of a caucus, seeing how lobbyists function, and visiting historical sites and viewing historical documents.

Each student filled out an application listing their extracurricular activities, community activities, and answering to some questions.

Martha is very active in school and the community. She is on the varsity swim team, is a cheerleader, a member of Interclub council, Keyettes, Fellowship of Christian Chon Gann, runner-up, is also active in school and the community. He is a student trainer (sports medicine) for the athletic department and is active on the soccer team. In the community, Chon is active in Boy Scouts and soccer.

Seminole is proud to have students like these juniors and happy that they were picked to represent SHS in Washington.

Another Molly Magee's Backer

Kudos to Nikki Thoman (and to S. Cockman, D.M. Holley, K. Helmers and D. Boos) for daring to speak up. I talked to Nikki and told her how much I enjoyed her letter.

Where are all the cons, as far as the "ladies only" programs at Molly Magee's? All we've read in the Herald are the pros, and there have been only six of us. What's the matter (those of you for or against) — are you afraid to speak up, or are your husbands (or boyfriends) intimidating you? Thank goodness I am married to a man who says to stand up for your rights, and it took me a long time to find him. Who was the "snitch" (and that is the only appropriate word)? Did she have a good time and her husband (or boyfriend) didn't like it, or did she want to go and he wouldn't let her? After all, the place was closed to the general public. I understand that all the Male Factor did was dance in bikinis. We see bikinis on the beach every summer.

I am sending a copy of Nikki's letter to City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles, along with copies of my first letter, the letter that appeared with mine and a copy of this letter.

As I said before, we like Sanford, but Sanford is growing. It is no longer just a farming area. Industries are moving in right and left. That's great; we want it and need it. The only thing is that other wants and needs are growing also. Maybe it's time to revise some city ordinances, and in the process loosen up some tight collars.

We don't like to have to go to Orlando, or other cities, for some decent food and fun entertainment. We like to stay close to home.

Out of some 150 at the first show and 150 at the second show, do you mean to tell me there are only six of us who have dared to say how we feel? And I missed both! For shame!

His Answer: Restore School Prayer

The biggest and greatest mistake the U.S. Justice Department ever made was when it listened to Madalyn Murray O'Hair and took her advice to take prayer out of our schools and let them go to hell.

Since prayer was taken out of our schools, discipline went with it. Discipline in schools, the home, and even in athletics and society has reached a low. Youth has lost all respect for parents, teachers, elders and law-enforcement agencies.

It also has our education system in such a pitiful state that it will take 20 years of hard work to bring it back to normal. We have high school graduates who can't read a newspaper or understand an employment application and are unable to fill it out properly.

The Justice Department enforced cross-busing, then gave the minority an equal stand with the majority, which has cost taxpayers billions of dollars and at the same time lowered the standard of our education system to what it is today. It is so low that a third-grader has to have a calculator to do math.

At the rate our education system is retarding, we will soon not have anyone to put the right information in the computers and they will become obsolete.

Some time ago I went to a bank and had several transactions to complete in which I was to receive some cash in return, and the cashier calculated the transaction six times and could not get the same result twice in succession. Some time at a later date I went to another bank, and the cashier calculating my transactions came up $100 short, and when I called her attention to it, she said it was right, as the computer never makes mistakes. I insisted on her rechecking her tape, and after rechecking it she found she had put in the wrong figures and that she was in error. The computers are only as right as the information put into them.

I have every reason to believe that if we put prayer back into our schools, discipline would improve, education would improve, and the crime rate of our juveniles and youth would greatly decrease.

Legislators Will Bankrupt Us All

The black-hat boys in Tallahassee called legislators, and our honorable governor, Bob Graham, were really in a dilemma trying to figure out how to squander the new one-cent sales tax. It took only five minutes for them to decide to spend it all buying votes.

The first bloc vote they bought by giving a raise to all school employees, 80,000 strong. The second bloc vote they bought by giving all state employees a raise, and I don't know how many thousands strong they are.

The black-hat boys in Tallahassee know how hungry our city and county politicians are for a few more bucks to squander. We will throw them a few crumbs, and that will buy their support.

Some of our legislators were worried about the vote-buying scheme in election year, but decided the public was too stupid to realize what they were doing. They said, "We will soothe their nerves by telling them we passed the one-cent sales tax to stick the tourist again."

Gov. Graham was worried because he promised all the voters, "If you elect me your governor, no new tax will pass my desk while I am your governor." He got around that promise by moving his desk to the North Pole.

Some of the state representatives were concerned about giving all government employees a raise while thousands of small-business people are going bankrupt. That ailment was cured in a hurry by deciding that was the small-business person's worry, not theirs, and the only worry they had was getting elected again.

What did these con men tell you they were going to do with the new one-cent sales tax? Lower your property tax, build new jails, new roads, stop crime, and give all government employees a raise. If they can do all that with a one-cent sales tax, for gosh sakes, what were they doing with the four-cent sales tax we already had?

Even the newspapers were so excited about this cure-all one-cent sales tax that they completely overlooked the $10 billion state budget these jerks approved for the coming year. That is an average of $1,000 a year for every man, woman and child in Florida.

With a $10 billion state budget, if handled by a good businessman, they could pay cash for all new schools, new jails, new roads and enough left over to slow down crime. If you don't vote out the $100-an-hour people who represent you in Tallahassee, in 10 years Florida will be bankrupt.

In Defense Of NATO's Policy Of 'First Use'

By STEPHEN A. CAMBONE
Public Research, Syndicated

The American nuclear freeze and disarmament movement received a powerful boost recently. In an article in the spring edition of Foreign Affairs, a prestigious journal of international politics, former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara called on the U.S. to renounce NATO's long-standing commitment to make "first use" of nuclear weapons in the event that NATO could not defend itself against a Soviet attack by conventional means. McNamara issued this call in the belief that such a renunciation would not only forestall a general nuclear war but would ease Western European fears about limited nuclear war on their soil, thus strengthening the alliance.

McNamara's views on this subject deserve serious consideration, since he was one of the principal architects of the "first use" policy in the late 1960s.

The "first use" policy in question is but a single feature of NATO's "flexible response" defense doctrine. This doctrine postulates that NATO must be prepared to wage war at whatever level of conflict — conventional, theater nuclear or general nuclear — the Warsaw Pact might employ when initiating an attack. By being thus prepared, NATO seeks to deter war across the entire spectrum of conflict.

Given the West's belief that neither side would wish to suffer the catastrophic damage associated with nuclear war, NATO has long anticipated that, should war come, the Warsaw Pact would attempt to gain victory by conventional means. This expectation is encouraged by the Pact's expensive efforts to maintain its historical conventional superiority over NATO.

NATO adopted the "first use" policy as a way of offsetting its conventional inferiority. Matching the pact's conventional forces on a one-for-one basis was dismissed in the 1960s by McNamara and others as being too costly. Such an effort was also thought by them to be "destabilizing" because a large conventional army could be seen by Moscow as posing an offensive threat to the security of the Soviet general nuclear war, and for that reason the U.S. and NATO should abandon the policy, to ignore the fact that no such result is inherent in the policy. A general nuclear war, or even a nuclear war limited to Europe, might result from NATO's "first use" policy only if (a) Moscow orders the Warsaw Pact to attack Western Europe and (b) Moscow believes that it can win a general or limited nuclear war.

Thus the burden of whatever consequences might follow from NATO's first use of nuclear weapons falls not on NATO, but on the Soviet Union. The renunciation of NATO's "first use" policy by the U.S. would serve no other purpose than to remove this burden from the Soviet Union. And once this burden has been removed, that is, once Moscow is no longer deterred by the prospect of nuclear war ensuing as a consequence of its aggression against NATO, the Soviet Union would be in a position to use its superior conventional forces against Western Europe in any way that it might choose.

It is true, of course, that NATO could build up its conventional forces to respond to the new threat. But one has to wonder whether a conventional arms race in Europe is preferable to the maintenance of the status quo. Such a race is likely to be as destabilizing as any other arms race. And because conventional arms are considered to be far more useful than nuclear arms, the prospect of such a race resulting in war is far more likely.

One of McNamara's objectives in making his proposal was to avoid the prospect of limited nuclear war in Europe. The prospect of a conventional war limited to Europe is no more appealing. Let us not forget that it took Western Europe the better part of a generation to recover from the last conventional war fought on its soil. Eastern Europe, some forty-three years later, still has not recovered.

Some Progress On Home Care

Q: My mother is 77 years old and in failing health. She lives with my husband and me. It is becoming more and more difficult to care for her.

We were considering placing her in a nursing home, but she wants to spend her last years at home. Of course, we want that too, but we really are in a terrible dilemma. Can you tell us where to turn?

A: Your family is not alone in facing this most difficult situation. Many caring families share your desire to keep your mother with you though you feel unable to meet her demanding health care needs. We are making some progress in finding adequate solutions to the problem.

The concept of home-based care that may prevent, delay or shorten institutionalization of older people is gaining strength and support in this nation.

In 1980 Congress eased the restrictions that apply to home health care under Medicare. This service still is subject to fairly strict guidelines, but patients who require skilled care will have greater access to in-home services of nurses, health aides, physical therapists and other health professionals as well as equipment.

In many areas, adult day health services offer working families daytime care for elderly people who cannot remain unattended. This helps keep families together. Some communities also offer homemaker services, transportation assistance and meals.

And under Medicaid, the major

U.S. Rep.
Claude Pepper

government program for nursing-home care, states will be able to substitute home health care for nursing-home care under a new exception approved by Congress.

These are important advances, but we still lack a long-term policy for caring for the elderly and the disabled. We are working to develop a coordinated system that can be tailored to the needs of patients and their families. The current system is complex, expensive and emphasizes institutional care.

In the meantime, you might want to discuss care options with your mother's physician. In many communities, home or community care organizations will make an assessment of an individual's needs and resources, suggest what kinds of care he or she might benefit from and help to get this care.

Or you might wish to get in touch with your area agency on aging, which should have a good idea of which services are available in your community.

Q: I was planning on retiring in 1983, when I will turn 62 years old. I felt that if all my bills were paid up, I could make ends meet on a fixed income.

Now I hear they're going to do away with the early retirement benefits and make you work until 65 before you're entitled to Social Security. It seems unfair to have everything explode in my face after I worked so hard, prayed and planned for peace of mind. Why?

A: You are one of many thousands of people approaching age 62 and looking forward to early retirement who are concerned about news accounts describing President Reagan's plan to slash early retirement benefits by more than 30 percent beginning in 1983.

Let me reassure you that this plan has not been enacted. I think I can safely say that it will not be enacted.

Even the Reagan administration has started backing away from its original proposal. Richard Schweiker, the secretary of health and human services, now says that the administration would support phasing this cut in over several years. As for the Congress, I have rarely in my 33 years in the House and Senate seen a proposal generate such strong opposition.

Social Security's short-term financing problems can be addressed by authorizing borrowing among the various trust funds. The long-range picture is less clear, but it is not nearly as bad as some claim. I'll explain it further in a future column.

You may wish to let your elected representatives know your views on cuts in Social Security.

Write to Rep. Pepper in care of this newspaper. The volume of mail prohibits personal replies, but questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Federal Judge Delays Execution Of Murderer

MIAMI (UPI)—Convicted robber and murderer Marvin Johnson no longer faces death in Florida's electric chair next week, because a federal judge granted him a stay of execution.

The U.S. district court judge granted the stay Friday afternoon. An attorney for Johnson had asked for a delay of the electrocution and permission to question members of the Florida Supreme Court about their decision on appeals by Johnson.

Cocaine Cache Discovered

MIAMI (UPI)—U.S. Customs inspectors have discovered $14 million worth of cocaine hidden aboard a large banana freighter docking from Colombia.

Officials said Friday that a routine search of the freighter Frigora, which had arrived from the Colombian banana port of Turbo, uncovered some 56 pounds of cocaine concealed in the vessel's smokestack area and in a rope locker.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Time Seen Running Out For Falklands Solution

United Press International

Time appeared to be running out Saturday for a peaceful solution to the Falkland Islands crisis, with British jets again pounding an Argentine airstrip and U.N. talks for a cease-fire suspended for urgent weekend consultations in London.

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher recalled U.N. Ambassador Sir Anthony Parsons and U.S. Ambassador Sir Nicholas Henderson for talks on whether Britain will pursue peace or launch an invasion, possibly as early as Sunday.

700 Arrested in Poland

WARSAW, Poland (UPI)—Poland's martial-law rulers, warning they will not tolerate challenges from the outlawed Solidarity union, have arrested nearly 700 people and interned 43 demonstrators at protests that swept 15 Polish cities.

An official government communique Friday said 636 people were arrested in the demonstrations Thursday, spurred by a call from the underground labor union to protest martial law—now in its sixth month.

Middle-Agers Can Keep On Jogging

CHICAGO (UPI) — Middle-aged joggers face little risk of feeling over during a casual run, despite a growing amount of evidence linking exercise to heart attack deaths, it was reported.

Authors of the study, published in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, said the absolute risk of death while running is very small.

Dr. Paul D. Thompson, assistant professor of medicine at Brown University Program-in-Medicine, who headed the research, estimated only one per 7,820 middle-aged joggers died annually during the six-year study period.

Only 12 men died while running or jogging between 1973-81, the study said, but it added the death rate is at least four times greater than the estimated incidence of death due to chance alone during exercise.

Welfare Cuts Prompt Refugees To Leave Florida

MIAMI (UPI) — The number of Haitian and Cuban refugees requesting resettlement out of Florida has more than tripled every day since the state announced their welfare checks were being cut off, officials said.

Florida officials, who listed 10 other states where the refugees might qualify for welfare for another 18 months, have drawn criticism from officials of those states. They charge Florida is trying to dump its refugee problem on them.

An average of 30 refugees a day were asking for resettlement out of Florida until notices were mailed May 1 telling them the May welfare check would be the last. Since then, an average of 100 refugees a day have asked for resettlement.

The United States Catholic Conference reported that 250 Cubans have shown up there this month alone.

Don Flachmeier said the number of clients has about doubled at Lutheran Ministries, where he is director. "We anticipate it will increase dramatically at the end of the month," he said.

"The people that are coming in now are the ones that are very aggressive," Flachmeier said. "The rest still have not realized what has happened."

But very few refugees who ask to be relocated will be successful, especially at moving to states where continued benefits would be likely, according to officials at federal refugee programs and voluntary agencies.

In March and April, only 130 Cubans and 37 Haitians were resettled out of Florida, a spokesman the U.S. Office of Refugee Resettlement in Washington D.C. said.

The surge in refugee interest in resettlement is hampered by difficulty in finding sponsors for Cubans and Haitians at locations throughout the country. The sponsorship of a refugee is a condition of resettlement.

"These are people nobody seems to want," said Flachmeier. "It is a sad commentary on our society."

Federal officials said many of the refugees asking for help in relocating out of Florida don't qualify for the federally funded program that pays a $500 fee to private agencies for relocation of each refugee. Federal regulations prohibit the government from paying for refugees who have been sent out of the state two times before, and have since returned to Florida.
