Sanford woman selected best of volunteers

By VICKI BOGGS
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Annie O'Neill, a volunteer with at risk students at Goldsboro Elementary School in Sanford, was named the Seminole County Dividend Volunteer of the Year.

O'Neill just can't stop teaching. After 32 and a half years in Seminole County classrooms, most of them at Longwood Elementary School, she retired three years ago. But she hasn't left her students behind.

"I was ready to retire from the paperwork, but not from teaching," she said.

O'Neill will have logged more than 3,000 volunteer hours at Goldsboro by the close of school in June.

"She's got almost perfect attendance," said Arthur McDaniel, the assistant principal at Goldsboro who nominated O'Neill for the district-wide award. "She's in her classroom every day, during and after school."

According to O'Neill, she began tutoring students at her home on an individual basis several years ago and then began working with the students in groups.

"My house could only hold so many students," she confided, "so they gave me a classroom at school to use after school."

According to McDaniel, an average of 18 students are under O'Neill's tutelage, working on both essential skills and esteem building. The students are not only from Goldsboro, but from all Sanford area schools.

Funding for O'Neill's tutorial program is being provided by Allstate, Goldsboro's business partner. "Everyone knows what a great service she's providing for these students," McDaniel said. "I was surprised when she was named...but not really."

In addition to her volunteer work, O'Neill often serves as a substitute for the regular classroom teachers.

Recently, O'Neill was honored as an outstand-

Lake Mary High students recognized for excellence

By VICKI BOGGS

LAKE MARY — Like all schools, Lake Mary High School is proud of the young people who excel in academics, in vocational areas and in community service.

Once a year, they gather the creme de la creme of the student body together to honor them for their outstanding accomplishments and to award scholarships and other honors.

Recently, the Lake Mary student body gathered with teachers and with administrators to celebrate Awards Night in the school's auditorium. "It's always very exciting to see the students receiving their awards," Don Smith, principal, said.

Smith said that while no award is any more important than another, he has always been "particularly moved" by the recognition of the honors graduates.

In that portion of the ceremony, the top fifty graduates are given the opportunity to ask the teacher who they feel has most influenced them during their high school careers to join them in the limelight.

Money 'disappeared' in Lake Mary

By MICK PFENAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary Police and city officials today are investigating the apparent disappearance of money to be deposited into the city's utility fund.

Finance Director Robert Lockridge said an error was discovered last Thursday. "It was a comparison between cash receipts and deposits," he said. "It could be a bank error, an internal accounting error, or it could have been stolen."

Lockridge said, "Police Chief Lauderdale is investigating the situation to see if there is any probable cause to declare it as an actual theft."

Mayor Randy Morris said the items missing from the Lake Mary City Hall include funds awaiting bank depositing and an amount of cash. Lockridge said the cash was less than $400, although the amount in checks was considerable higher.

Morris said, "Most of it was apparently in the form of checks, made out to the City of Lake Mary."

When the loss was discovered last Thursday, each of the City Commissioners was immediately informed of it. Morris said, "As soon as the police finish their investigation, the Chief will be giving us a full report on his findings."

Commissioner George Duryea said, "We had certain safeguards set up to avoid things like this. I guess this time they just didn't work." Duryea said he did not know if the money was stolen or merely misplaced at the present time.

Lockridge said even though the financial aspects have been well

School board will sell its contaminated land

By VICKI BOGGS
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County school district has agreed to sell the old transportation facility to a group of local investors for $400,000.

The property, located on Timocuan Way in Longwood, had recently been appraised at $490,000, but was, according to Ned Julian, the school board's attorney, "not saleable today."

Julian said that the district was better off accepting $90,000 under the fair market value for the property rather than risk not having any buyer at all.

The property is a liability in that there are toxic chemicals on the site that must, according to Department of Environmental Regulation mandates, be removed before the land may be sold.

That clean-up will take more than a year to complete, according to Richard Wells, assistant superintendent for facilities, and will cost over $175,000.

According to Wells, the clean up can be done either by the state or the school district can contract for the clean up. In either case, the state will reimburse the cost up to $175,000.

The property which is currently zoned commercial, but which the district has agreed to have rezoned for multi-family dwellings, would be a difficult one for which to find financing, Wells said.

According to Wells and Julian, the buyers have arranged for bank financing contingent upon the approval of the DER of the school district's clean up plans.

School board postpones Supt. search

By VICKI BOGGS

SANFORD — The school district has put off a meeting that would start them on the path to appointing a superintendent at the end of Supt. Bob Hughes term in November 1992.

The meeting, originally scheduled for May 16, has been postponed until June 12 at 3:30 p.m.

Dr. Wayne Blanton, president of the Florida School Boards Association, will assist the board in designing a method for the district to evaluate the performance of Hughes and the potential performance of other candidates.

Blanton is unable to attend the May meeting, but some board members have become

"We have made the necessary changes in the plans that they (DER) recommended last time we submitted a plan," Wells said.

He said he believes there would be no difficulty in gaining DER approval for the plans.

"We will have money in hand as soon as DER approves the clean up and the zoning is changed," he said. The proposed buyers are Fausto G. daSilva, Jose M. Bruno and Joaquim G. daSilva.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

School hiring freeze imposed

By VIVIEN BUCHHEIM
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Until Seminole County school district officials get a better handle on the state budget situation, Supt. Bob Hughes said he is imposing a hiring freeze on the district.

"It's probably be a couple three weeks while we analyze what we've got and what we're going to get," Hughes said. "We can not hire any new people until we know that."

Hughes said that the district can not make plans for any expansion, no matter how small, until officials know what legislators can provide in the way of money for the district during the next fiscal year.

The legislature has been called back to Tallahassee to deal with a new $150 million budgetary shortfall.

Hughes said that until the issue is resolved in Tallahassee, the district can not be sure that they will be getting the additional $12 per student that was recommended at the close of the last legislative session.

He noted that while the district did gain in the amount they will receive per student for the upcoming year under the current legislation, the amount of increase is really much smaller due to budget cutbacks during the last fiscal year.

According to Hughes the district will have to remain in a "holding pattern" until he and his staff analyze their options.

"We'll just be doing transfers over the next few weeks while we analyze the budget," Hughes said. "We'll fill positions with people already on the payroll for now."

Hughes said that there will not be any problem when it comes to filling positions at Heathrow Elementary School in Lake Mary and Partin Elementary School in Oviedo.

"We'll have this worked out by then," he said. "This is just temporary."

Hughes was planning to send a memo to every department and school in the district outlining the details of the hiring freeze today.

Poll: Floridians like Schwarzkopf

MIAMI — Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf would present a formidable challenge to Sen. Bob Graham if the Gulf War hero were to declare himself a Republican and run against the Democratic incumbent, a Florida poll showed.

The statewide poll released Tuesday by Mason-Dixon Opinion Research Inc., showed that 45 percent preferred Graham, 39 percent chose Schwarzkopf and 16 percent were undecided.

However, the poll of 843 registered voters showed Schwarzkopf already is more widely known and admired in Florida than Graham. Seventy-eight percent of those polled recognized Schwarzkopf's name and thought highly of him, compared to 58 percent for Florida's senior U.S. senator.

"The general hasn't spent a dime or an ounce of energy on politics and he performs this well in the polls," said Stan Smith, a spokesman for state Republican Chairman Van Poole. "It certainly highlights the degree to which people see him in a political context already."

A group of Tampa Bay-area Republicans recently launched a "Draft the General" campaign.

But "Stormin' Norman," who retires from the military this summer, hasn't even hinted if he plans to challenge Graham in November 1982 — or even if he wants to become a politician.

Schools won't teach creationism

TAVARES — The Lake County School Board voted 4-1 against mixing the theories of evolution and creationism in science classes, prompting one creationist to threaten a lawsuit.

The board did offer the religious right a consolation by voting to allow some creationist literature to be placed in school libraries. Creationism follows the biblical account of life's origins and relies on the premise that the universe was created by a supreme being.

The Rev. Bob Wells of Eustis, who presented the fundamentalists' plan, accused the board of "intellectual dishonesty and bigotry" and walked out of the meeting, saying his group may file a lawsuit against the schoolboard.

Board member Patricia Hart, a creationism supporter, was the lone supporter of the proposal to permit the teaching of creationism in science classes as an alternate view to the theory of evolution. However, she said she would not join in any lawsuit.

Lake County Schools Superintendent Thomas E. Sanders said the idea, which was opposed by the American Civil Liberties union and a state teachers' union, was unworkable partly because science teachers were ill-equipped to explain creation theories.

"I asked Christian ministers ... They tell me without question, they believe in creationism but they didn't believe the school system knows how to teach it," Sanders said before the vote.

Husband fatally shoots wife's friend

CHASSAHOVITZKA, Fla. — A marital dispute turned deadly when an 80-year-old man fatally shot his estranged wife's friend, authorities said.

Citrus County sheriff's officials said John Schwatka of Tampa shot Nicholas Lapanick, 65, twice in the chest during an argument Monday. Deputies arrested Schwatka on a first-degree murder charge.

Connie Schwatka, 59, left her husband earlier this year because of marital problems, sheriff's spokeswoman Gail Tierney said. She moved to a mobile home here.

About six weeks ago, she met Lapanick. The nature of their relationship was unclear Monday, but some residents in this small fishing village said the two were close and some wondered whether they were romantically involved.

Court and police records show Mrs. Schwatka has filed numerous complaints against her estranged husband in the past two months, alleging she was threatened.

"I'm really afraid what he might do," she wrote in a request for a restraining order May 2. "I'm scared."

Chiles signs third death warrant

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles signed a third death warrant for Bobby Marion Francis, who killed a police drug informant Aug. 17, 1965, in Key West.

The warrant issued Tuesday is effective from noon, June 18 through noon, June 25, but no time or date was immediately set for the execution at Florida State Prison in Starke.

Then-Gov. Bob Martinez signed a first warrant for Francis in September 1967 and the second a year later. The first scheduled execution was stayed by the Florida Supreme Court and the second by the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta.

Francis, 48, shot Titus R. Walters in the head after the victim was ordered to sit backwards on a commode, gagged and bound with tape. He did not die from the first shots so Francis shot him again in the heart.

Chiles, Cabinet approve hiring freeze, travel, purchases limits

By JACQUE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — State government will borrow trust fund dollars, delay construction projects and cut spending to deal with its latest budget shortfall under a plan presented to Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet.

As a preliminary first step, the governor and Cabinet Tuesday imposed an immediate freeze on hiring and limits on all but the most essential travel and purchases.

But before they fully implement the plan, they'll have to get the permission of the Legislature to borrow about $75 million from trust funds. Lawmakers, who just went home from their regular session a week and a half ago, will have to be called back to town for a special one-day session, Chiles said.

With fewer than 40 days left before the fiscal year ends on June 30, there's not enough time to ask agencies to bear the entire brunt of the estimated $150 million shortage, the governor said.

Chiles, who has the power to call a special legislative session on his own, said he would talk with legislative leaders again after the numbers become firmer in the next two weeks. Education Commissioner Betty Castor said she would immediately contact school boards and urge them to call lawmakers in support of a special session.

Four sisters to get together after 45 years

Associated Press

PLANT CITY — A long family search has paid off for four sisters separated by adoption 45 years ago.

The four sisters planned a reunion today at Tampa International Airport.

"Every time someone said, 'We saw someone who looked like you,' I'd question them. I'd say, 'Were they adopted?'" said Nancy Hambleton, 49, of Tampa.

In March she learned her older sister, Irene Pickard Lee, lived in Plant City, about 20 miles from her.

Lee, 60, and Hambleton were reunited through the efforts of another sister, Michal Disterheft, 48, who still lives near the Pickard family home of Berrin Harbor in southwest Michigan.

Arid Disterheft — born Patricia Ann Pickard — lives only a few miles from the youngest Pickard, Linda Lou, who was 6 weeks old when the children were separated. Linda Lou Pickard is now Cheryl Ott, 44, of Buchanan, Mich.

Husband of murder victim writes to killer

By BOB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

JACKSONVILLE — "Dear Murderer." That's how William Edward Wright began an open letter to the unknown person who fatally stabbed to death his wife last month as he listened to her screams over the telephone.

The letter, written on Mother's Day, was published in Tuesday editions of The Florida Times-Union.

Carolyn Wright, 40, was killed April 30 while talking to her husband on the telephone.

Wright immediately dialed 911 from his office, but by the time police arrived, she was dead and the killer had fled.

"Instead of having a wonderful Mother's Day with my wife and children, we will be trying to understand why she is not alive and why someone could do such a horrible thing," Wright said in the letter.

"I hope that you remember in your mind this bloody, selfish, cruel and inhuman incident forever. It is very hard for me to believe that you took the life of any human being, much less my wife."

In a telephone interview Tuesday, Wright said that "hopefully, if they have a conscience, maybe they will think about it."

Wright said he didn't write the letter with the belief that the killer would turn himself in.

"I guess it was my way of trying to get back at him in a sense," Wright said. "But I wouldn't complain if he did (turn himself in)."

The letter asks the killer to think about the murder each Mother's Day and on other special occasions.

"Remember you're a murderer. How can you live with yourself? Do you have a family? Think of yourself or someone like yourself killing them. May this incident torment your life as long as you may live," the letter said.

Police have not arrested anyone in the slaying.

Wright said that when his wife called him that day, she put the phone down for a moment to step into another room to look for something. Suddenly, he said, he heard his wife's terrified screams.

Wright said Tuesday that police have asked him not to reveal what his wife was looking for when she left the phone.

Marijuana plants seized

LONGWOOD — Agents of the City-County Investigative Bureau raided the home of a local couple Monday and reported seizing 38 marijuana plants and cultivated "pot."

Wendell August Kalch, 43, and Pamela Gay Kalch, 39, were arrested at their home and charged with cultivation of marijuana and possession of marijuana. Both were taken to the Seminole County jail.

Agents report finding 18 plants growing in the home's enclosed pool area and another 10 plants growing in the yard. Agents also report finding one plant in the couple's bedroom, dried marijuana and paraphernalia.

Church thefts bring arrests

SANFORD — Two men were arrested at a local pawn shop Monday for attempting to sell two lawn care machines stolen from the United Methodist Church.

The pawn shop clerk told police one of the men told him they were in the lawn care business and needed money, reports state. Police report the other man told them he found the equipment, a mower and edger valued at $450, in a wooded area.

Charged with grand theft and dealing in stolen property were Nicholas J. Ross, 25, Jacksonville, and Edward Goss Jr., 30, Raleigh, N.C. Both were taken to the Seminole County jail.

Man charged with DUI

LAKE MARY — Kevin Lane Robison, 22, 355 N. Second St., Lake Mary was arrested Monday night by a Florida Highway Patrol trooper and charged with drunken driving.

The trooper reported making the stop on Interstate 4 near Lake Mary Boulevard when his radar recorded Robison's vehicle was moving at 90 m.p.h. Robison was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and speeding.

Warrant arrests

The following people were arrested Monday for outstanding warrants:

• Willie George Church, 31, 83 Castle Brewer Court, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police Monday morning near 10th Street and Oleander Avenue for a warrant for failure to appear at a hearing to consider failure to pay a fine.

• James Allen Garner, 28, 550 Vihien Road, Sanford, turned himself in to authorities at the Seminole County jail Monday and was held for violation of probation on a grand theft conviction.

Dump case figure told do not burn

By J. MARK SANFORD
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Florida Division of Forestry officials stopped a Longwood businessman from burning brush on his Lake Mary property Monday, saying it was not being burned properly.

Nat Wright, a supervisor with the forestry division's Longwood office, said the burning was stopped after an inspection found the brush was not being burned according to state open burning regulations. Regulations require brush to be burned in a pit with fans blowing into it to make the fire burn hotter and with less smoke.

The site of the burning is on the Art Lane property owned by Frank Sobotka, president of JCL Landclearing Inc., Longwood. Sobotka has been fined $500 per day since Oct. 22, 1986 for operating what the county says is an illegal dump and borrow pit operation at the site. The fines have now reached $639,250.

Seminole County commissioners will consider foreclosing on the property May 28 as a payment for the fines, but county natural resource officer Tim Clabaugh has recommended against the county seizing the property. Clabaugh said a 1963 study by a former owner found traces of hazardous chemicals in the groundwater. If the county acquired the property, it would have to pay to clean it up, he said.

Sobotka sued the county in 1986, seeking three separate actions: a nullification of the fines, a financial award for damages, and to have the courts declare that the Seminole County Code Enforcement Board had no constitutional right to impose the fines. The courts have dismissed the first two actions. Tuesday, Seminole Circuit Judge C. Vernon Jr. postponed a decision on the constitutional issue until he can study the case further, said the county's attorney, Kevin Cardin.

SCC to show 'Temptation' as part of suit settlement

By VICKI BOGDANSKI
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — In February of 1990, hundreds of people stood outside a small classroom at Seminole Community College and protested the fact that only a relatively few students were allowed to see what had originally been billed as a public showing of the film "The Last Temptation of Christ."

Now, 15 months later, they will have their chance to see the movie. After spending more than $15,000 in attorney's fees, the SCC board of trustees last night agreed to show the film in the college's fine arts auditorium in order to settle a law suit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union on behalf of hundreds of community members.

Larry Dale, chairman of the board of trustees, said this morning that the proposal is identical to the one he had made to the Student Governance Association last year.

"I wasn't going to comment on this, but what the hell...we could have avoided all of this if they had just listened to me back then," he said.

"I don't believe that the college is in the business of entertaining the community so I don't believe we need to be advertising our educational film series on the radio, in newspapers and on the TV."

Last month the board rejected a settlement offer that was almost identical to the one they accepted last night.

The only difference in the proposal that they agreed to accept was that under the most recent agreement advertising for the screening will be limited to on-campus flyers, though the public will be allowed to attend the film if they find out about it.

Dick Wilson, an attorney for the ACLU, had vowed to "take (the case) all the way to the Supreme Court."

Wilson said this morning that he was "delighted" with the decision, which he called a victory for first amendment rights.

The SCC Board of Trustees, under pressure from members of the Christian community had decided not to show the film in the 375-seat auditorium. Instead they decided to show it in a small classroom with a capacity of about 75.

The Christian community has objected to the showing of the movie because the 1988 Martin Scorsese portrayal shows Jesus Christ as a weak human with self doubts and sexual urges. Proclaiming the work to be blasphemous, many fundamentalist groups boycotted Universal Studios, the company which released the movie.

The board of trustees have also agreed to pay half the attorney's fees for the ACLU group.

Dale said that he was told by their representatives that their fees were nearly $30,000. Dale said that he doesn't believe the figure is accurate.

"I can guarantee that we ain't going to pay anywhere near half of $30,000," he said. "But that's in the hands of the insurance consortium now."

Out of favor

China has ample cause to worry about losing its most-favored-nation trading status with the United States.

This arrangement, which allows Chinese goods to be exported to this country at low tariff rates, is subject to annual review by Congress.

A Chinese official warned recently that disrupting this bilateral trade relationship could have serious consequences for both countries. He also hinted there would be a worsening of conditions for millions of Chinese if President Bush fails to renew the preferential trade deal.

Despite Mr. Bush's desire to maintain close ties with Beijing, there are compelling reasons to scrap the pact.

The most important is China's horrendous treatment of dissidents.

It has been nearly two years since the Chinese military crushed the pro-democracy movement in Tiananmen Square. At least 15 student leaders, workers and businessmen have been sentenced to prison for subversive activities. Hundreds of political prisoners remain behind bars, awaiting trial. No one knows for certain how many people have been executed for expressing their beliefs.

According to Asia Watch, a New York-based human rights organization, China has increased its use of slave labor. And, in violation of U.S. laws, China continues to use army conscripts and forced labor in the production of goods shipped to this country. Asia Watch has obtained official Chinese documents calling for increased labor camp production aimed specifically at American, German and Japanese markets.

Why should Washington extend preferential treatment to the country that burlesques its people? After all, the reason China must undergo an annual review of its MFN status is because Beijing denies its people the right to emigrate freely.

There is also the matter of China's unfair trading practices.

During the 1980s, when Beijing boosted its exports to this country substantially, it slammed the door on U.S. products. In addition, China has managed to evade U.S. restrictions on dumping low-priced, government-subsidized goods on the American market. The Chinese have accomplished this by shipping their goods through third countries. No wonder China has a trade surplus of $15 billion with the United States, second in volume only to Japan.

The renewal of most-favored-nation status for China should hinge on whether Beijing embraces market-oriented reforms and treats its people humanely. Based on that standard, Congress should suspend Beijing's privileged trade status.

Sixties riot replay won't happen

In the 1960s a series of black riots came to be known as "the long hot summers."

Recently, in the Mt. Pleasant section of Washington, D.C., there was a mostly Hispanic riot. Police cars and buses were torched. Stores were vandalized while, the first day, police searched mild-mannered "contaminant."

Summer starts in a few weeks. Will there be a replay of the 1960s?

The 1968 Kerner Commission said that conditions were deteriorating for blacks, "white racism" was the cause, and federal programs were the remedy. Otherwise America would become "two nations, separate and unequal."

The Kerner report was wrong. Schools now know conditions were not deteriorating. Racism was in decline. Federal programs were already in place. America didn't become two nations, ever more unequal. Since 1968 the number of black college graduates has quintupled (to 2.1 million).

And Kerner bequeathed a wrong-headed legacy. Kernerism said to blacks, it's up to the government to solve your problems, and whatever is wrong isn't your fault.

So, just when the doors of personal opportunity opened wide, Kerner stressed external victimization and external remedy. Much black intellectual energy was unproductively diverted.

Black power was probably allowed.

Early reactions to Mt. Pleasant have been Kerneresque. Community leaders and liberal ideological ambivalence-chasers say that what is needed are programs, sensitivity, money, dialogue and Spanish-speaking policemen. The theme is painfully familiar: It's not fair, you owe us.

A week later, Mayor Sharon Pratt Dixon of Washington appeared on "Face the Nation." She is a tough-minded, impressive woman, but, alas, she sounded like John Lindsay popping out of a 1960s time machine.

Dixon was asked: What was the problem? Government wasn't giving money, she said, programs were starved, dialogue was needed. She applauded the first-day misperceived police response simply because it yielded no deaths.

Meanwhile, politicians were preparing debate Democratic legislation that has been called "a quota bill." Its theme: It isn't fair, you owe us.

Republicans, so damn pure when it comes to being against quotas, are quietly backing political quotas for congressional redistricting by race. They endorse it isn't fair-you-owe-us to gain Republican seats in suburbs.

And rest assured that somewhere a liberal activist group is preparing a report whose theme will be "America is moving toward three societies, separate and unequal."

There are, however, some differences between 1968 and 1991.

We have learned that, once the doors are open, progress for minorities comes about retail, not wholesale. Progress is personal, not political or proportional.

The Latino community is disparate, disorganized and non-political. Voting rates are low. That may be good news. No leadership may be better than misguided leadership. With little political clout, Hispanics are going to do it the old-fashioned way.

Since 1968 the number of black college graduates has quintupled.

Succession and obligations

BOSTON — If execution focuses the mind wonderfully, as we are told, so does atrial fibrillation. It focuses the national mind on J. Danforth Quayle, one (irregular) heartbeat away from the presidency.

George Bush's brush with mortality sent a nervous electrical charge through the collective cardiovascular system. President Dan Quayle? Is this a stress test? Lub-dub, lub-dub, lub-uh-lub-uh-lub-uh.

It was enough to make a reporter at the weekend briefing ask anxiously if anything was being done to give the vice president some, uh, intensive training? Her colleagues let out a chorus of twitters. How do you cram for the presidency?

It was also enough to get television reports reminding us that only 19 percent of Americans in a recent poll said they would even consider voting for Quayle for president. When the Veep was asked about this poll of no confidence, he has answered jocularly: If 81 percent approved of George and 19 percent approve of me, we have them all. Lub-uh-lub-uh-lub-uh.

By the time the president was back home in the White House, the political questions had streaked past the medical questions. Would the guy who chose Dan in the first place have the good sense to dump Dan?

Well, the short answer is no. I'm willing to bet the mortgage that we'll have Dan Quayle to kick around in the '92 election. But this is one wager that has less to do with politics or with the famed Bush loyalty than it has to do with psychology.

In order to ditch Dan, the President of the United States is going to have to admit to the man in the mirror and the people in the nation that he might be mortal. Not a likely turn of events for an almost 67-year-old binge eater.

Being Vice President of the United States is as close as you can get in a democracy to being the Dauphin or the Crown Prince. The Dauphin's most important job was to be there when the King died. This is a fact that tended to make the most loving of royal fathers occasionally ambivalent about their eldest boys.

A wise king was supposed to ready his offspring for the big day, but this, alas, also meant readying himself for Judgment Day. A wise Dauphin, in turn, was supposed to get prepared, but not to appear too eager. The waiting game seldom worked out that smoothly in the Middle Ages or in our age.

In America, the attitude of the presidents to their necessary "vices" has often been uneasy. Remember why LBJ said he hadn't chose Bobby Kennedy as his running mate: How would YOU like to have Bobby as your vice president when you were walking by an open window?

Ambition in vice presidents makes their presidents nervous. So does affection for the second-in-command. I have yet to meet many CEOs, editors, or politicians who sincerely hope that their successors will be more beloved and successful than they are.

There is at least a subconscious wish that the person chosen to fill your own shoes will come up a bit short in the toe. Presidents, too, want to be missed, to shine a bit in retrospect.

When George picked Danny, passing over other and elder contenders in a real shocker, Quayle reacted like a hyperactive Labrador puppy. He nearly jumped in Bush's lap. George had indeed chosen someone who was no competition except on the golf course. The team looked like Bush and son. Next to Quayle, as they said, Bush looked presidential.

How did a man who served in the second slot for eight years pick someone so clearly not up to Number One? When he finally got out of Reagan's shadow, I'm sure he wanted a bit of breathing room around the Rose Garden.

But hey, if you're not going to die, what difference does it make? Check the Oval Office or the Corner Office. How many people spend enough time grooming their successors?

Which brings us back to the issue of mortality. In the last 50 years, two presidents died in office, one resigned, one had a life-threatening illness, another a near-fatal wound. It is a moral obligation to think about succession.

George Bush however is more likely thinking about re-election. If replacing Quayle would remind voters of Bush's heartbeat, he won't do it. If ditching Dan means taking a long hard look at the actuarial tables when he might be out marathoning, he'll lace up his sneakers. Lub-uh-lub-uh.

Anyway, what's the worst that can happen in 1992? As the man who is now a heartbeat from the presidency once said: "If we don't succeed, we run the risk of failure." There, feel better now?

We'll have Dan Quayle to kick around in the '92 election.

Anti-Semitism still exists in Austria

VIENNA, Austria — Two anecdotal pieces of evidence speak volumes about Austria's commitment to renounce the ugly anti-Semitism of its past.

● A sculptor was obliged to put barbed wire on top of a downtown Vienna memorial to Jews who suffered in Austria in World War II. The barbed wire is supposed to keep the Viennese from defacing the statue.

● Austrian high school children play atomach-turning video games, including one in which the player is a Nazi concentration camp commandant killing and torturing Jews to earn points.

Half a million Austrians cheered when their native son, Adolf Hitler, triumphantly entered Vienna in 1938 and annexed Austria to the Third Reich. The echoes of that cheer are still heard.

There have been subtle attempts to still it, like the sculpture of the Jewish slave, Jews who were not murdered or sent to concentration camps became slaves in Vienna, the capital city, where their most menial task was to scrub the streets clean, on all fours.

A local sculptor's piece depicting that stooped humiliation was completed for the 50th anniversary of the annexation or "Anschluss." Vandals soon smeared it with paint. Viennese and tourists would use it as a park bench, a trash receptacle or a fire plug for dogs.

The sculptor came up with what he must have thought was a sensitive solution. He put bronzed barbed wire along the back of the bent-over street scrubber, so no one would be tempted to sit on him. The sculptor reasoned, "Barbed wire is the crown of thorns for the Jews." Never mind that the statue of a persecuted Jew is now wearing a symbol that has come to be associated more with Jesus Christ than with Jewish history.

The Viennese Jewish community had hoped for better treatment, but didn't necessarily expect it.

Not all the bigots are holdovers from Hitler's glory days. The underground video game industry in Austria carries more than 100 racist games. One of the most heinous is "KZ Manager." KZ is the old abbreviation Germans used for concentration camps. The hero of this game is the commandant of the Treblinka death camp. His goal is to gas as many prisoners as possible, make money from their labor, steal their gold fillings and turn their skin into lampshades.

Hitler, a native Austrian from the province, hung around in Vienna as a would-be artist and architect when he was young. It was a time of incredible Jewish success in the arts and other intellectual pursuits, and Hitler was bothered. "I began to see Jews," he wrote, "and the more I saw, the more sharply they became distinguished in my eyes from the rest of humanity. ... Gradually, I began to hate them."

The current Austrian Chancellor Franz Vranitzky believes that Austrians have not sufficiently confronted their past. Their unwillingness to do that was reflected in their knee-jerk election of Kurt Waldheim as president when he was exposed for lying about his assignment with a German army unit that engaged in war crimes during World War II.

Foremost Nazi hunter Simon Wiesenthal, 83, has made his home in Vienna. He estimates that Austrian Nazis, not including Hitler, were responsible for the deaths of 3 million Jews. But that is seldom discussed, or denounced in public in Austria. An old joke describes the political flexibility of the Austrians who rewrote history and "managed to turn Adolf Hitler into a German and Ludwig Van Beethoven into an Austrian."

The echoes of the cheer for Hitler still is heard.

MATURING MOVIEGOERS

A few years back, the movie market was dominated by teen-agers. But Hollywood has begun to rediscover adult viewers. In 1990, the over-40 movie-going audience rose 34 percent; the under-21 audience fell 4 percent.

LOS ANGELES — "F-X 2" made the office magic over the weekend, opening at No. 1. While Madonna's provocative "Truth or Dare" was in vogue.

"F-X 2" starring Bryan Brown and Brian Dennehy in a follow-up to the 1989 hit about a movie studio-employee, took in $2.5 million during the Mother's Day weekend. Exhibitor Exhibitor Co. reported Monday.

Playing on 81 screens in North America, "Truth or Dare" made an estimated $297,000. While it did not make the Top 10, the backstage documentary did debut in second. It will be shown on 400 more screens this weekend.

In second place was "Switch," a role-reversal comedy starring Ellen Barkin and Jimmy Smits. It made $3.8 million in its premiere engagement.

The Sylvester Stallone comedy "Oscar" was third with $3.3 million.

"One Good Cop," starring Michael Keaton, sold $2.1 million in tickets, good enough for fourth place.

Here are the top movie ticket sales Friday through Sunday according to Exhibitor Relations, with distributor, weekend gross, number of theater screens, average per screen, total gross and number of weeks in release.

Figures are based on a combination of actual box-

- office receipts and studio projections where actual figures are not immediately available.
1. "F-X 2." Orion, $5.5 million, 1,499 screens, $3,630 per screen, $5.5 million, one week.

Jaycees reclaim their building

By BOB FORD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The City Commission has agreed to draw up a new lease for the Jaycees Building on French Avenue. The agreement will allow the Sanford-Seminole Jaycees to regain control of the building.

The building was originally built by the Jaycees many years ago on city property at 4th Street and French Avenue. The building eventually reverted back to the city when the club almost ceased to exist. The current drive to once again obtain control over the building began in October of last year.

Jaycees President, Brent R. Adamson, said, "The big work now is the bargaining with the city. It's probably going to be give and take before both the Jaycees and the city finally agree to the wording of it, but at least they finally agreed to lease it to us."

Adamson and several other Jaycees were on hand as the city vote was taken Monday night. Adamson had supplied the commissioners with a list of activities already planned by the club through March of 1992. Adamson said he presented it so the commission "might have a better understanding of what we intend to do for our city."

The members of the organization recently became involved in the Adopt-A-Highway program and have accepted the responsibility for maintaining Highway 17-92 from 13th Street north to State Street.

The Sanford-Seminole Jaycees Chapter is listed as number 001 in the State of Florida.

Activities planned for the remainder of this month include membership night on the 18th, attendance at the State Jaycees Convention in Orlando May 24 through 26 and the monthly Law Enforcement Officer award to be given at the club meeting on May 28.

concerned that they will not have enough time to do a thorough search if they put the first step off another month.

"I'm just not comfortable with waiting until June," said board member Barbara Kuhn at Tuesday afternoon's board meeting.

Board chairman Joe Williams said that he would rather wait until the board is able to get some "expert guidance" on how an evaluation should be done before setting off on their search.

"I feel very comfortable waiting," he said. "I wonder how productive it would be to go ahead and meet on this matter without expert direction." The board did agree, however, that once the evaluation tool was in place that they should not delay in beginning their search for a qualified superintendent.

Since Hughes has placed his name into the running as a potential candidate for the position, Williams said that the search will begin with him.

"Why should we start on a nationwide search and then find that the most qualified candidate was right here in Seminole County?" Williams questioned.

The board will meet at 7 p.m. on June 12 to discuss their ideas on the candidate search using the criteria that they develop in the earlier meeting.

"It came as a complete surprise to me," she said of her most recent award. "Boy, I just was happy to keep teaching. This is a wonderful award."

O'Neill was honored yesterday at a ceremony at Lake Brantley High School. It was sponsored by the Dividends program to celebrate the thousands of hours volunteered by the hundreds of men and women in the county who give their time to the students.

O'Neill was born and raised in Seminole County and graduated from Crooms High School and received a bachelors degree from Florida A & M University, according to McDaniel.

Smith said that Lake Mary recognizes students in all areas, not just academics, because each contributes in his or her own way to the school community.

"I believe each award is important to the student who receives it and to their parents," he said. "We can't just say that the students in the academic area are the important ones."

Shuffleboard Hall of Fame reflects game's graying image

By JAMES MARTINEZ
Associated Press Writer

ST. PETERSBURG — In the small trailer that houses the National Shuffleboard Hall of Fame are dusty photographs, trophies and memorabilia that reflect the golden era of a game with a graying image.

"It seems like for some reason when you get older you sort of just gravitate to shuffleboard," said Herbert Bruns, 65, the hall's former curator.

"But my generation was at least exposed to shuffleboard when they were younger," he said. "We now have a whole generation out there that's never even heard of the game."

The hall is part of the 60-court St. Petersburg Shuffleboard Club, founded in 1924 and home to the game's national association. It claims to be the world's oldest and largest shuffleboard club.

"This is the headquarters of shuffleboard," said current hall of fame curator Willie Wolf, 71. "This is our Wimbledon."

But that kind of comparison seems out of place in a time when few new players are coming to shuffleboard and it appears to be living up to its reputation as a game enjoyed only by senior citizens.

The founding club here, for example, which in the 1950s had nearly twice as many courts and 8,000 members, now has an all-time low membership of about 400. Tournaments, where the youngest competitors are in their mid-50s, draw only a handful of spectators.

And while it's still an honor to get into the hall of fame, the biggest problem lately has been in keeping people out.

"Bums from off the street keep breaking in and making a mess," said Bruns. "Fortunately, they don't steal anything. They just like to come in and sleep."

-Herbert Bruns, 65

A heavy padlock means hall of fame visitors now can come only by appointment. But plans are to move the 80-year-old hall into a permanent building on the club grounds "to really make it an attraction," Bruns said.

All around the attic-like hall are postcards and equipment from the long-lost heydays — the leisure-paced 1920s and the 1950s when tourists flocked to St. Petersburg and made it the game's mecca.

A corner of the hall traces the modern history of the game through its unique shuffleboard cues — from those used on the decks of British cruise liners at the turn of the century to a heavy wooden 1913 model used on the first U.S. courts built on the sands of Daytona Beach.

"Tourists loved it and that's what caused the game to flourish in Florida," said Wolf, known as "Mr. Shuffleboard" for his knowledge of the game. "After people played here, they took the game to other parts of the country."

Early tourist postcards depicting shuffleboard players trace the spread of the game across the state. And a scrapbook features a yellowed newspaper page showing the late Hubert Humphrey in mid-shuffle during a 1960s campaign swing here.

Also on display in the hall are bronze medallions with red, white and blue ribbons once given at prestigious tournaments. Bruns said winners would pin them on their jackets and proudly stroll through the streets of the city.

An entire wall of the hall of fame is devoted to honoring the kings and queens of the court, whose names are spelled out in raised letters painted in gold. And in terms of the best tournament record ever, shuffleboard's Babe Ruth is a woman — 1965 inductee Mae Hall of St. Petersburg.

The shuffleboard courts at the Seniors Center in downtown Sanford can be a busy place for serious players of the game as well as for aficionados who enjoy the friendly banter as well as the recreation.

Shuffleboard is alive, doing well in Sanford

By LACY BOWEN
Herald People Editor

SANFORD — Karl Berg, 72, puts on his soft shoes and shuffles whenever he can.

The Longwood resident, past president of the Sanford Tourist and Shuffleboard Club, pushes his cue stick to move a disc over one of 16 waxed courts behind the Sanford Civic Center.

Berg said the club has about 90 members and has been around a long time.

"Oh, good gosh, it's been here way over 50 years," he said.

Berg said he travels from Longwood because Sanford has well-maintained courts.

"And Longwood doesn't have any. They ripped 'em up for a parking lot," he said.

Lake Mary currently has no public courts. The Forest maintains private courts for residents of the development, Berg said.

Sanford Senior Center Director Liz Derr said shuffleboard is becoming more popular for many reasons.

"When kids leave home, parents seem to be filling in the swimming pool for shuffleboard," she said. "It's nice to watch them play on the city courts. It's not expensive and even if you're not as agile as you once were, you can play shuffleboard."

Club members range in age from 60 to about 90, Berg said. Anyone interested is encouraged to shuffle up to three times before deciding whether to join the club.

"You better make up your mind. After the third time, you either join or you can't come back," Berg chuckled.

Dues are $10 a year, for a season that runs from September 10 until April. Club members play three times a week, and compete all over the state in tournaments.

"We have two pros, Hoppy Hopkins and Mary Boyer," Berg said.

Although many members head north for the summer, area members may still play because they have keys.

"And all new members are taught to play free," Berg added.

Shuffleboard

"I guess when you do something day in and day out your bound to get good at it over time," said Mrs. Hall, who retired from the game in 1982 after winning her 15th Masters title. "We've still got some good players ... In fact some of them are the same ones I used to play against."

Mrs. Hall, who refuses to give her age, said the best way to bring new players to the game is to give out more prize money for the top pro tournaments, instead of the $100 or $200 offered today.

Brun has his own ideas. "If President Bush put a shuffleboard court on the White House lawn, that would really get the ball rolling," he said. "People would realize it's fun, it's easy. Everybody would want to shuffle then."

JACKSONVILLE — Two of Florida's largest convenience store chains have merged into one company with 550 stores, 3,000 employees and annual sales of $480 million.

Dock's U.S.A., a French-owned company that acquired Lil' Champ Food Stores Inc. in 1986, has completed its purchase of Orange Park-based Huntley's Jiffy Food Stores Inc. The purchase price was not disclosed.

The two chains will operate as Lil' Champ Jiffy Stores Inc.

Over the next year, the company plans to open 10 to 12 new stores in Daytona Beach, Melbourne, Cocoa Beach and Tampa.

The merger involves combining accounting, management and purchasing functions, but each store will for the time keep its name because of the cost of converting all the stores to one name, said Victor Jackson, executive vice president of the combined company.

A handful of stores will be closed under the merger, said Jackson.

These will be either Lil' Champ or Jiffy stores whose locations are considered too competitive with one another and some older stations who gasoline tanks are too expensive to retrofit to meet new environmental standards.

Jiffy had more than 300 stores before the merger, while there are more than 200 Lil'

Champ stores.

The merger is not expected to affect employment for either company. Employees working at stores that are closed will be moved to other locations, he said.

Eddie Jackson, president of Lil' Champ, is the president of the new company. Louis Huntley and William T. Huntley, brothers who owned Huntley's Jiffy Food Stores, are serving as consultants for the new stores.

Junior Womens Club to salute John Polk

By MARK FREEMAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Junior Womens Club of Sanford will hold its 4th annual "Officer of the Year Salute" this Thursday evening in the Seminole Community College Concert Hall. Former Seminole County Sheriff John E. Polk will be this year's honoree.

Polk served with the Sheriff's office for approximately 22 years. According to the Womens Club committee chairperson Tina Lee, the former sheriff's son, John Polk, and his daughter Cheryl Parker will be on hand to receive the distinguished award on behalf of their father who will be unable to attend due to his illness.

The event will begin at 6 p.m. with a brief reception, followed by the presentation program scheduled for 6:30. Lee said the Junior Womens Club is issuing an invitation to the general public to attend this meeting and share in the recognition of Sheriff Polk. An estimated 100 persons are expected to be on hand for the salute to Polk.

New fragrance line for kids features Babar the elephant

By CATHERINE WILSON
AP Business Writer

MIAMI — Elephants can smell good.

Babar & Celeste Children's Fragrances, a line of fragrances for infants on up, is named for the elephant characters created by French author Jean de Brunhoff.

The Paris-made cologne, soap and bubble bath bearing the names of the cartoon elephants has generated $10 million in European sales, and Kids Scents of Miami has acquired the U.S. distribution rights.

"We're not marketing it as a sexy cologne like adult perfumes are being marketed," Kids Scents President Vivanna Neumark said Wednesday. "The kids have something that's all their own that they can associate with."

The $27 bottles of cologne, $13 bottles of bubble bath and $6 soaps went on sale this year at kid-sized counters in department stores and children's boutiques.

Four Nordstrom stores in Chicago and the San Francisco Bay area and a Sak's Fifth Avenue store in Baltimore stock the line, Neumark said.

The bottles are decorated with elephants linked trunk to tail, and the lids are shaped like Babar's crown.

"The products are very reassuring to the parents because they're all subject to very rigorous laboratory tests, and we at the same time wanted to be appealing for children," Neumark said.

Beer: 30, State Market keep records spotless

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Beer: 30 cruised and State Market Restaurant sweated one out, but the results were the same as the leaders of the Sanford Recreation Department Tuesday Night Men's Spring/Summer Slowpitch Softball League remained unbeaten with victories at Chae Park.

Beer: 30 took a quick lead and coasted to a 7-2 win over Monroe Harbour Marina. State Market Restaurant jumped out to an 18-0 lead and had to hold on for a 21-17 triumph over the Kokomo Recyclers. In the other game the Regulators evened their record with a 12-5 win over Kinco.

The standings have Beer: 30 and State Market Restaurant atop the league at 4-0 and are followed by the Regulators and Monroe Harbour Marina (both 0-2) and Kinco and the Kokomo Recyclers (both 0-4).

Next week, Beer: 30 plays Kinco at 6:30 p.m., State Market Restaurant takes on Monroe Harbour Marina at 7:30 p.m. and the Regulators take on the Kokomo Recyclers at 8:30 p.m. cyclers was a hitters' delight as the two teams combined for 38 runs, 54 hits, 11 doubles and two triples.

S.M.R. scored seven runs in the first inning and 11 runs in the second, but the Recyclers battled back with five runs in the third and seven in the fourth to cut the lead to 18-12. A five-run fifth by the Recyclers cut the advantage to three, 20-17, but they would get no closer.

Contributing to the 28-hit State Market Restaurant were Nick Brady (two doubles, two singles, run), Mike Lambert (double, three singles, four runs), Tom Gracey and Dan Gracey (three singles and three runs each) and Tolly Frank and Jim Smith (three singles and two runs each).

Also contributing were Mark Dowell (two doubles, two runs), W.L. Gracey and Chris Davis (two singles and one run each), Mic West (single, two runs) and Jim G. Smith

Pitcher George Denton contributed a pair of singles for Monroe Harbour Marina Tuesday night but it wasn't enough to keep co-league leader Beer: 30 from rolling to its fourth victory in four starts this season.

Gill survives crash, restart to win 200-lap Super Eight Series event

Special to the Herald

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Bobby Gill, minus his hood and the front end of his Vinyl Tech Chevy Lumina showing heavy damage, brought his total Super Eight Series earnings to $10,600 as he won the Mother's Day 200 Late Model event in front of another full-house crowd Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

The fastest qualifier, Gill started eighth but had to come back from last place after an early-race crash to beat the 32-car field. There were five lead changes among three drivers in the one-hour, 23-minute race.

"Even though I had a lot of catching up to do, it turned out to be a fun race," said Gill, whose victory was his fourth in a row for 200-lap events on the fast, half-banked half-mile paved oval. He won the 26th annual Florida Governor's Cup 200 and the 13th annual "Florida Cracker" 200 last year, then, against much stiffer competition, took the first two of the $275,000-plus eight-race Late Model Series.

"Because of car owner Frankie Grill and the crew, every track is a good track," answered Gill when asked if he favored the New Smyrna speed plant.

Apparent second-place finisher Lee Faulk, who led for the first 140 laps, was disqualified because his engine did not conform to the Super Eight Racing Association rules.

So the runner-up spot went to Ted Hodgdon who, although he fought an ill-handling car through the corners all night, drove the best race of his career. He did it on the same track on which he started his career by taking the Rookie of the Year honors in the Four-Cylinder division in 1986.

"I finally got to finish a race in front of the same people who watched me get started," said an elated Hodgdon, a commercial airline pilot whose grandfather flew competition airplanes with the "Barnstormers" in the 1920s.

"I could see the leaders for the whole race, so I knew I was doing good," Hodgdon added.

Now a Fayetteville, N.C. resident, Hodgdon's weekend started on a sour note when his towtruck's motor blew near Darlington at 8 a.m. But he got fellow driver Hal Goodson out of bed and talked him into coming to his rescue, enabling him to complete his trip.

Mike Thomas and Larry Raines, two feisty Georgia veterans, were third and fourth. Scoring a strong fifth-place finish was 1990 Anderson (S.C.) Speedway Champion David Smith in his Smith Motors Pontiac. A former dirt-tracker, Young Smith was third in the recent Sun-Drop 200 at Concord, N.C.

The race started right on schedule at 9 p.m. with front-row dwellers Faulk and Clay Brown running first and second followed by a tight four-car pack formed by Rich Bickle, Bary Balough, Ed Merdith and Gill.

On lap 28, the first caution flew when Brown abruptly slowed down because of a broken distributor. He was then solidly rammed by Bickle, a strong favorite in the Terminal Trucking machine formerly driven by Ernie Ivan. Balough and Gill were also involved and had to restart at the tail of the field.

The impact closed the nose opening on Bickle's mount, forcing the recent Concord Big Ten Series winner out with overheating eight laps later.

Bob Barlow was tagged as he was being lapped off turn four on lap 44. The mishap resulted in a giant multi-car pile-up which blocked the track and took out several potential winners.

Quickly moving back up the field, Balough saw his hopes of winning shattered on lap 65 when he and Jack Cook got together on the back stretch. The crash knocked both hard chargers out of the race.

Faulk remained on the point at half-way with his first cousin Ed Merdith now challenging for the top spot. Meanwhile, Raines, his car "17 feet wide," was holding off a snarling pack formed by Dick Anderson, Pete Orr, Thomas, Hodgdon and Gill.

Forty laps later, Gill passed Faulk for the lead with the caution flying again on lap 150 after Merdith and Stan Ends tangled and crashed on the backstretch.

The leaders then pitted for tires and fuel. Faulk was back in the lead on lap 157, followed by Hodgdon and Gill, who wrestled first place away from Faulk for good on lap 172 after a brief wheel-to-wheel duel.

The next Super Eight Series 200-lapper will take place on Saturday, June 29, at New Smyrna Speedway.

Other division winners were as follows: Limited Late Models — Marc Kinley (6th in a row); Florida Modifieds — Mike Fitch; Sportsman — Dave Sevelick; Mini Stocks — Bobby Sears; Bombers — John Ripley.

at Orlando SpeedWorld
ORLANDO — Ronnie Roach drove his WPOO Country Radio Camaro to a hotly-disputed win in the FASCAR-sanctioned 25-lap Late Model feature on Friday night at Orlando SpeedWorld.

Kenny Watson led the early laps until he was dropped-kicked by a flying pack of cars led by Roach and Dave McCabe. Watson subsequently tangled with Bill Pousy, sending both to the rear of the field.

Roach re-claimed the lead at the restart and held off heavy late race pressure from second and third-place finishers McCabe and Shane Russ to score his second win of the year.

Back from a bad crash the week before, Bob Ackerbloom took fourth while Watson drove like a man possessed as he came from the rear to finish fifth.

"After I got mad, I drove better than ever before," said Watson. "Maybe I should get my car owner to slap me around before the race so I'll be more aggressive."

Chuck Stanley took advantage of slick track conditions to get by Von Crews and claim his second Limited Late Model win of the season. Crews came back for second over Chuck Green. "Tank" Tucker and Dave Bavicki.

The special 25-lap Mini Stock event went to Bobby Sears for his 10th victory of 1991. Gen Van Alstine was second with Richard Newtold, Skip Honaker and Dave Lecklinter completing the top five.

Groceries are from her garden

Cook learned healthy choices from illness

By JOAN KING
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Cook of the Week Shannon Lazano, a third generation Sanfordite, has returned to Sanford after a six year absence.

Lazano, her husband Danny and their two children, Brittany, 5, and Ezekiel, 3 months plan to make Sanford their permanent home.

While living in Los Angeles, Lazano learned to cook Mexican dishes taught her by Danny, however, she prefers American cooking and was taught the basics by her grandmother.

"The first thing that granny taught me to cook was fried eggs. I had to learn not to burn them and not to break the yolks. Then I learned to prepare southern style cooking," she said.

"When I first moved to L.A. my brother Kevin was ill and he had to consume large quantities of fresh vegetables every day. We had a garden and grew lots of zucchini plus other veggies. We had so much home grown that we had to invent ways to cook it all. That's when I learned to cook a more healthy way with less grease, less frying and more roasting and baking food. The Veggie Mumbo Jumbo was one way to use up some of the things we grew and its easy to make," Lazano said.

When our cook is settled in her new home she plans to grow more fresh vegetables on a smaller scale where the garden can be a family project.

Lazano added with a grin, "It's good being back with family and friends."

VEGGIE MUMBO JUMBO

Margarine
Potatoes
Zucchini
Onions
Tomatoes (fresh)
Any other veggies may be added

Thinly slice all vegetables. Layer potato slices on bottom of baking dish then add onions, zucchini and tomatoes. Dot with 5 tablespoons of margarine, season to taste and bake at 350° until potatoes are tender. Add 1/2 to 1 cup grated cheese.

Continue to bake until cheese melts.

MUSHROOM CAKES

4 chicken breasts (skinless)
4 Tbs. margarine
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1/2 can water
1 large onion
1/2 cup grated white cheese
4 cups cooked egg noodles
Salt, pepper, garlic powder, parsley to taste

Place seasoned chicken in non stick baking pan with margarine at 325° until margarine melts. Add soup mixed with water. Place onion slices over chicken and soup. Bake 45 minutes then add cheese over all. Continue baking until cheese turns brown in spots. Remove chicken. Stir noodles into remaining soup mixture. Serve.

Shannon Lazano and her son, Zeke plan a picnic to include Apple Glaze Ham.

APPLE GLAZE HAM

Ham
8 ounces apple jelly
Cinnamon

Melt apple jelly, add cinnamon, pour over ham in non stick baking dish. Bake at 325° for 15 minutes per pound. Baste often. Glaze becomes almost candied.

Sabayon enhances ordinary dessert

By Alison Claire
NEA Food Editor

Whether it is called sabayon in French or zabaglione in Italian, this frothy, rich dessert sauce is truly worth the extra effort it takes to prepare. Usually made with white wine or Marsala, it is just as good when seasoned with orange juice.

Besides being juicy-sweet to eat, strawberries are extremely good for us. One serving of eight medium strawberries supplies 140 percent of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance of vitamin C, as well as 3 grams of dietary fiber at a paltry 50 calories.

Despite damage to a variety of fruit crops this winter and spring, strawberries promise to be in good supply as the season progresses. For example, the California harvest is expected to be a record-breaking 900 million pounds, which should also mean good prices come this summer.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE SABAYON

3 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup sifted flour
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, cooled
2 pint baskets fresh California strawberries, stemmed
1/4 cup powdered sugar
Sabayon Sauce (recipe follows)

sweetened whipped cream, for garnish.

In deep bowl, beat eggs with electric mixer at high speed for 1 minute. Gradually add sugar and vanilla; continue to beat until mixture triples in volume and is thick and pale. At low speed, mix in flour and butter, blending thoroughly. Spoon into greased and floured 8-cup bundt pan or ring mold.

Bake in 350-degree oven 20 to 25 minutes until lightly browned and springy to the touch. Cool in pan on rack. (Cake will fall.) Loosen with sharp knife and unmold onto serving plate; set aside.

Halve berries, reserving 10 or 12 whole berries for garnish. Toss halved berries with powdered sugar. Chill. Prepare Sabayon Sauce. To serve: Drizzle shortcake ring with Sabayon Sauce and garnish with whipped cream and reserved whole berries. Cut into wedges and top each serving with some of the Sabayon Sauce and sliced berries. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

SABAYON SAUCE

4 eggs
3 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup cream sherry or orange juice
1/2 cup whipping cream
In 1 1/2- or 2-quart double boiler top, mix 4 egg yolks with 3 tablespoons sugar. Beat with electric mixer on high speed 5 to 7 minutes, until mixture is pale and thick. Set top in double boiler bottom over barely simmering water. Beat at high speed while gradually stirring in cream sherry or orange juice. Beat constantly until mixture stands in soft peaks and is almost triple its original volume. Cool to room temperature. Gently fold in whipping cream, whipped stiff.

NOTE: If time is short, eliminate the Sabayon Sauce and, in its place, serve 1 cup whipping cream, whipped to form soft peaks, flavored with 2 tablespoons orange-flavored liqueur or 1 tablespoon frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed.

Graves' therapy linked to eyeball symptoms

DEAR DR. GOTT: In 1988 my doctor prescribed radioactive iodine to control my over-active thyroid. I'm presently taking Synthroid daily. Can anything be done to prevent my eyeballs from bulging?

DEAR READER: Based on the limited information you provide, I conclude that you had Graves' disease (prominent eyes associated with an overactive thyroid gland) that was treated with radioactive iodine in 1988; this was followed by an under-active thyroid condition for which you have been prescribed thyroid hormone (Synthroid).

Hyperthyroidism (thyroid overactivity) is treated in three ways: radioactive iodine (which destroys over-functioning thyroid tissue), surgery (which removes part of it) or medicine (which prevents the excess formation of thyroid hormone).

The first two methods are quite effective — but they are permanent. Also, it's often difficult for the doctor to judge how much radioactive iodine to administer or how much of the gland to remove. Thus, a major complication may be over-treatment, which leaves the patient with hypothyroidism (thyroid under-activity) that must be indefinitely treated with supplemental thyroid replacement.

To make matters worse, the eye symptoms of Graves' disease may worsen after successful treatment. The reasons for this are not precisely known and there is no test to determine which patients will experience this unpredictable, iatrogenic (physician-induced) complication.

On the other hand, therapy with medicine is not necessarily permanent; in fact, the dose of medication (such as Tapazole) can be altered to prevent increased exophthalmos (eye-bulging). This is why I never recommend surgery or radioactive iodine in patients with Graves' disease until I am sure that the exophthalmos doesn't increase after drug therapy. There are two possible reasons for your problem: Either you have post-treatment exophthalmos, as I mentioned, or your hyperthyroidism was not brought under control with the radioactive iodine.

You should have blood tests to evaluate your thyroid function. If the tests indicate your thyroid is overactive, you should stop the Synthroid and undergo further therapy for Graves' disease.

WIN AT ...

By Phillip Alder
Occasionally a defender will be dealt a selection of apparently useless low cards in one suit. But after he has signaled his length, he may make a suit-preference signal by the sequence in which he plays the remaining cards.
On today's deal, both Norths in a team game took a shot at a vulnerable three no-trump, hoping their diamond suit would be worth six tricks.
Both Wests led the heart queen. The declarer won with the king and led a diamond, the Wests ducking. However, after winning the second diamond trick, the Wests made different plays.
At the first table, West thought he knew an entryless dummy when he saw one. He continued with the heart jack, confident he would regain the lead with the spade king and cash his heart winners to defeat the contract. It was a bad shock when East couldn't beat dummy's club jack and declarer claimed 11 tricks.

At the other table, East tried to help his partner. Having dropped the diamond two on the first round to show an odd number of cards, he played the eight on the second round. This was an unnecessarily high card and suggested some useful honors in the higher-ranking suit. Here that pointed to spades. It did not show hearts, the suit his partner had led, or diamonds, the suit in which the signal was made.
Luckily for East, West was enjoying one of his more lucid moments. He spotted that key eight and switched to the spade king and another spade. The defenders collected six tricks and 13 IMPs for their team.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 16, 1991

It looks like you will finally receive the recognition you've been striving for in your chosen field. Along with the accolades in the year ahead, there could be material benefits as well.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In your rush to fulfill ambitious objectives today, your tactics could be interpreted as offensive by associates. People you trip up now will find a way to trip you up later. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Avoid involvements today with individuals who always try to impose their views on others. You won't have much patience with people who tell you what to think.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This might not be one of your better days for managing yours or another's personal resources. Be extremely careful in both areas.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may have to negotiate a delicate matter with someone who has an unyielding disposition today. You stand firm, too, because the more you give, the more this individual will demand.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You may have a tendency at this time to take on more than you can comfortably manage. Even though you feel confident, try not to overestimate your capabilities.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It could prove unwise today to bank heavily on an individual whose friendship has never really been put to the test. When the chips are down, this individual may not live up to your expectations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't count on Lady Luck to further your ambitious objectives today. Instead of rooting for you, she might bet on the other guy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec.

21) Subdue temptations to exaggerate a recent accomplishment today. Instead of arousing admiration in your peers, it might do just the opposite.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Usually, you're someone who appreciates the value of making compromises and concessions. But, you may be unreasonably unyielding today on issues you generally take in stride.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Lend a helping hand where you can today, but don't let those who are capable of taking care of themselves dump their burdens on your broad shoulders.

Chicken-rice is comfort dish meant to be shared

Chicken and rice is an almost unbeatable combination. There are probably more variations of this favorite than we have time to discuss. Each area of our country has a unique chicken-rice dish and there are variations within the area and so on.

Some recipes for this "comfort" food that would do well in the microwave I'll share. If you have some chicken-rice specials maybe you'll share them with me and I'll, in turn, share them with our readers.

This recipe comes from southeastern Georgia. It's not as involved as some I've had for Country Captain.

COUNTRY CAPTAIN

- 1 (3 1/2 lb.) cup-up fryer or six chicken breasts, skin removed
- 2 Tbs. butter or margarine
- 1 cup finely chopped onion
- 1 cup finely chopped green pepper
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 (10 1/2 ounce) can cream of mushroom soup
- 1 (14 ounce) bottle catsup
- 2 1/2 tsp. curry powder
- 1/2 tsp. thyme
- 1/2 cup currants
- 1/2 cup slivered almonds

In a 4-quart casserole, melt butter for 15-20 seconds on 100% power. Stir in onion, green pepper and garlic. Saute 2 minutes on 100% power. Add soup, seasonings and chicken. Cover. Microwave on 100% power, 10 minutes, rearranging after 5 minutes. Reduce power level to 70% and microwave 20-24 minutes, rearranging after 10 minutes. Allow to stand while preparing nuts. In a glass measure melt 2 Tbsp. butter for 15-20 seconds on 100% power. Stir in almonds. Microwave on 100% power, 1 1/2 to 2 minutes. Drain on paper towel. Stir nuts and currants into the Country Captain before serving over fluffy rice.

Several times we've published this quick and sure way to prepare rice, but in case you did not get it, here it is again.

MICROWAVE HINTS
MIDGE MYCOFF

COOKED RICE

- 1 cup long grain rice
  - 2 cups water
  - 1 tsp. butter
  - 1/4 tsp. salt
- Measure rice, salt, and fat (butter) into a 3-quart casserole. Stir in hot water. Cover and microwave on 100% power for five minutes, reduce power to 50% and microwave for 10-12 minutes; fluff with fork. Allow to stand 10 minutes (covered) and it is ready to serve, or to be used in any recipe that calls for cooked rice. Makes 4-6 servings.

MICROWAVE HINT: Use a large enough container to allow for the "bubble up" that occurs when cooking rice.

Curried dishes are typical English, which the English acquired from their long association with India. It is a characteristic to serve curried chicken or beef on rice with condiments as an accompaniment. Have the dishes assembled containing some that you would like to try.

Chutney (Major Grey's is available and good)

- Shredded coconut
- Raisins
- Chopped nuts
- Some melon slices

CURRIED CHICKEN

- 2 Tbsp. finely chopped onion
  - 2 Tbsp. finely chopped celery
  - 1/2 cup butter
  - 1/2 tsp. salt
  - 2-3 tsp. curry powder
  - 2 Tbsp. flour
  - 1 1/2 cups milk
  - 1 1/2 cups chicken stock
  - 1 cup whipping cream
  - 2 Tbsp. cooking sherry or apple juice
  - 4 cups cooked chicken, cut into bite-sized pieces
- In large glass measure, melt butter for 1 1/2 to 2 minutes on 100% power. Add onion and celery. Microwave on 100% power 2-3 minutes. Transfer to a large deep glass casserole. Stir in flour, then gradually add milk, stock and whipping cream. Microwave on 100% power, 8-10 minutes. Microwave until thick. Remove from oven and stir in salt and sherry/apple juice. Add a little of the hot mixture to curry powder, then add slowly back to mixture in casserole. Add chicken pieces to sauce. Serve over fluffy rice.

Now I know that this column would not be complete without a plain southern chicken rice dish. So — I'll submit this one for your approval. Let me know what you think!

CHICKEN & RICE STEW

- 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 lb. chicken parts
  - 1 medium onion, chopped
  - 1 1/2 cup sliced celery
  - 1 cup cubed ham
  - 1/2 cup white rice
  - 4 1/2 cups water
  - 2 Tbsp. snipped parsley
  - 1 tsp. instant chicken bouillon
  - 1 tsp. salt
  - 1/2 tsp. garlic salt
  - 1/2 tsp. pepper
  - 1 cup milk
  - 1/2 tsp. curry powder
  - 1/2 cup Half & Half
  - 2 Tbsp. white wine (optional)
- Combine chicken, onion, carrot, celery, ham, rice, water, parsley, bouillon, salt, garlic salt, curry powder, and pepper in a 3-quart casserole. Cover with lid. Microwave on 100% power (high) 40-50 minutes, or until all is tender. Remove chicken pieces to a platter to cool. Stir milk, Half & Half, and white wine into rice mixture. Cut chicken from the bone. Add to the rice mixture. Cover. Microwave on 100% power, 3-5 minutes, or until heated through.

Do you have a question or suggestion about microwave cooking. Midge Mycoff will use her column to answer. Address letters to: Midge Mycoff, Sanford Herald, 388 N. French Ave. Sanford, 32771.

Some children thank their parents for separating

DEAR ABBY: Are there any children who have wanted to thank their parents for separating?

In my recent months of separation from my husband, I've watched my children transform before my very eyes. As the tension left our home, so has it left them. The boys are no longer confused about the inconsistencies in discipline, scheduling, rules, etc. Mealtimes are now an occasion for family conversation and laughter. In former years, it was Dad's opportunity to criticize and one of the children would usually leave the table in tears.

I know there will be scars, but sometimes good things come from removing the tension from the home. And best of all, I now feel free from the guilt others are trying to put on me with comments such as, "You really should stay together for the sake of the children."

Are there other families like ours?

Bush welcomes 'The Queen,' she will stop in Florida soon

By JOAN HUGHES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Queen Elizabeth II was given a red carpet welcome at the White House Tuesday, the first stop in her American tour that will bring her to Florida later this week.

The Washington reception was complete with a 21-gun salute, a five-and-drum band and praise from President Bush, who called her "freedom's friend."

The 65-year-old queen, making her third state visit to the United States, reciprocated with praise for the former British colony. "At your kind invitation, we are here to celebrate and reaffirm that friendship," she told Bush.

Huge crowds gathered on the White House lawn to watch the queen, who wore a purple suit and matching boater. She carried a leather handbag and wore her glasses.

Before their brief remarks, the queen shook hands with Vice President Dan Quayle and Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The weather was warm and muggy, but a Buckingham Palace spokesman said the queen "is used to traveling in hot countries," such as former colonies in Africa and Asia.

"Besides, there has been a heat wave in London," the spokesman said.

But Bush took note of the heat later in the day, opting to skip his prepared speech after the queen presented him with the Churchill Award.

"If I gave it (the speech) we would all melt," he said. The award is from an American foundation set up in honor of Winston Churchill.

The queen also planted a small-leaf Linden tree to replace one of the two that her father placed on the White House grounds in 1937. One Linden blew down last year.

Bush and the queen spoke on the South Lawn, facing the White House with their backs to the Washington Monument. Crowds of tourists strained to get a glimpse of the queen as she stood on a red-carpet podium with the president.

Women's Money

The world's five richest women

(With an illustration)

- Queen Elizabeth II
- Johanna Quandt
- Imelda Marcos
- Anna Cox Chambers
- Barbara Cox Anthony

The five richest women in the world each inherited their wealth. Queen Elizabeth was the chief heir to the British throne. The richest woman, Johanna Quandt, inherited Germany's BMW automobile fortune. Now a widow, Imelda Marcos fled the Philippines with her husband after his regime was overthrown. The Cox sisters are heirs to a U.S. media fortune.

The only snafu was a balky public address system that made Bush's remarks difficult to hear at times.

Bush said the royal visit came at a time when the two countries were celebrating their victory in the Persian Gulf. "Like Monty and Ike and Churchill and FDR, we linked hands and hearts in the Gulf to do what was right and good," he said.

Addressing the queen, Bush said, "You have been freedom's friend for as long as we remember, back to World War II when at 18 you joined the war against fascism. It was then that America began to know you as one of us, came to love you."

The queen and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, left London earlier in the day on a private British Airways Concorde jet. They were to have lunch at the White House before laying a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in nearby Arlington National Cemetery.

A state dinner was scheduled in her honor at the White House Wednesday night.

On Thursday, she was to become the first British monarch to address a joint session of Congress. Her speech was expected to highlight Anglo-American friendship in the wake of the Persian Gulf War, and express congratulations to Bush for leadership during the crisis.

The visit will include some simple pleasures as well.

You have been freedom's friend for as long as we remember, back to World War II when at 18 you joined the war against fascism. It was then that America began to know you as one of us, came to love you.

-President Bush
