Churches Boot Voting Machines

By Paul C. Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County elections officials are scrambling to find some new polling places for the first of this fall's elections two weeks from today because several churches used as polling places have given voting machines the boot.

Twenty-two Seminole County churches didn't like state lottery proponents on their property collecting petition signatures to place a lottery referendum on this fall's ballot. Five of the churches have refused permission to the county elections office to use their buildings for this fall's vote. A sixth church may also close its doors on voters.

County elections officials are searching to find new polling places for up to 9,000 voters for the first primary of the year, two weeks from today. The five churches which have decided to call a halt to voting at their facilities are:

- First Baptist Church, 770 Seminola Blvd., Casselberry, used for the 1,155 voters in the 52nd precinct;
- Tuakawilla United Methodist Church, 3925 Red Bug Lake Road, Casselberry, used for 1,155 voters in the 56th precinct;
- Rolling Hills Moravian Church, used for 1,250 voters in the 47th precinct;
- St. Augustine Catholic Church, 375 Sunset Drive, Casselberry, used for 1,147 voters from precinct 57, and 664 voters from precinct 77; and
- Lake Howell Bible Chapel, 2584 Lake Howell Lane, Maitland, used for 831 voters in the 90th precinct.

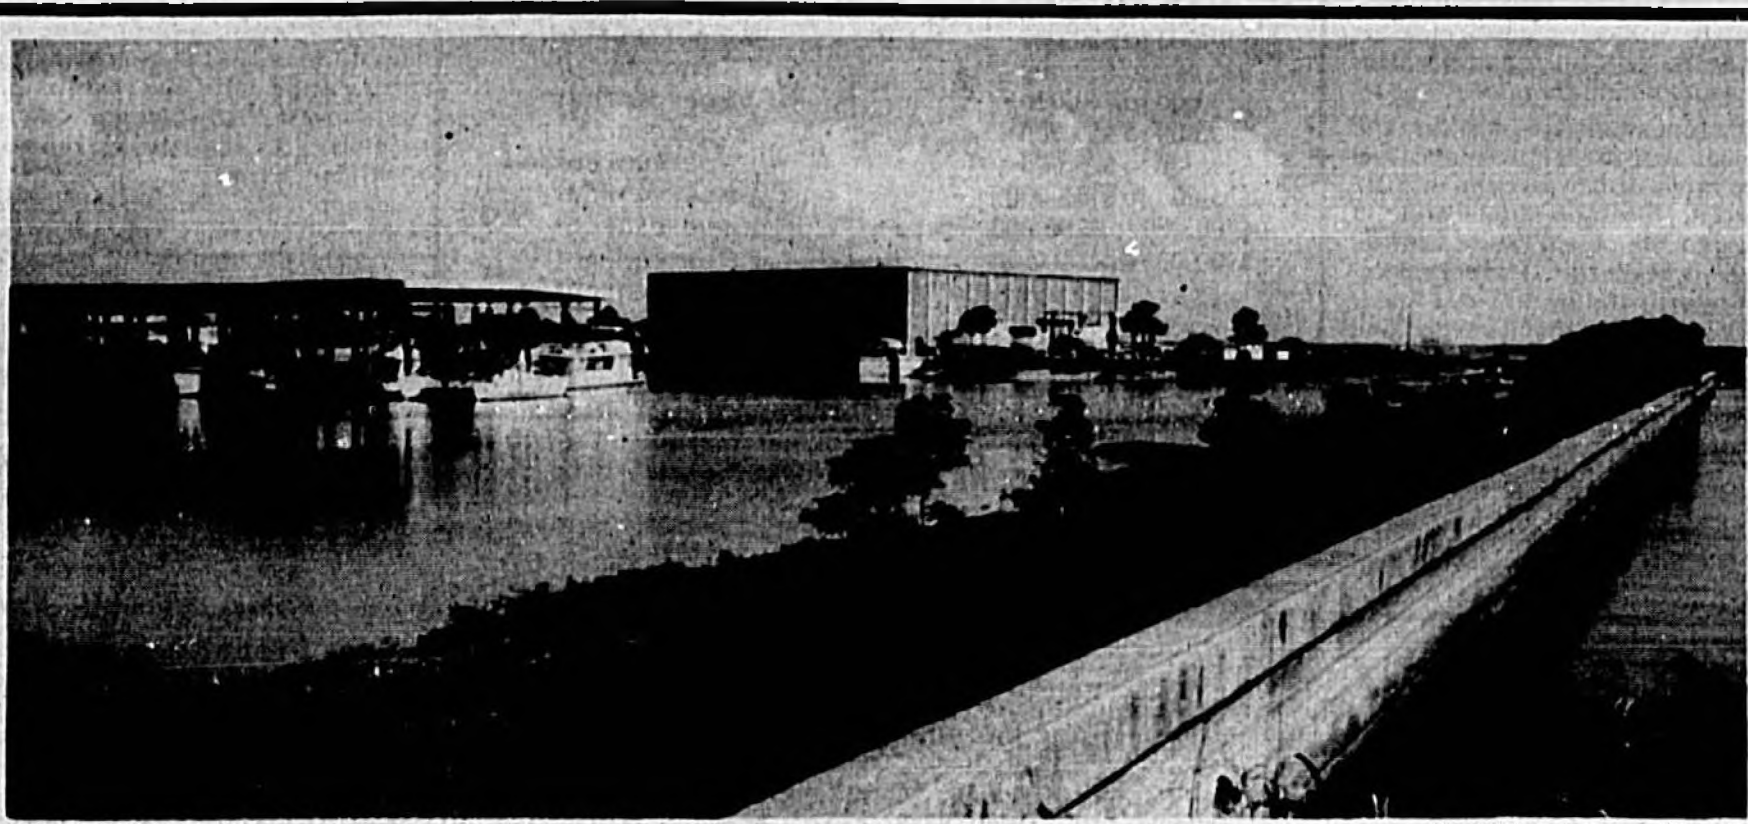

The sixth church considering discontinuing serving as a polling place is First Baptist Church of Sweetwater, according to Lee Hornbeck, church Elder. Hornbeck said the church is particularly concerned over the solicitation of voter interest on issues "the church finds itself in conflict with." He said his church is working with the county elections supervisor to fashion an agreement so the church can continue as a polling place. And while there are only two weeks left for the coming election, Hornbeck said if a solution is not worked out by then, the church will still serve as a polling place. But, Hornbeck said, "in the long term, if we can't work this out, we'll reserve the right to refuse to do so in the future."

The quandary is that state law allows solicition of voter interest on issues outside a 50-foot area from the precinct entrance. That, however, still has them on church property in this instance, Hornbeck said, and the church doesn't want soliciting on church property. Whether the county elections supervisor can legally prevent it is unknown at this time.

The elections supervisor cannot order anyone to provide a building for a voting precinct, according to Caryoin Cohen, office manager. "We go around and ask if they'll allow us to use their facility as a polling place, but we can't require them to. We pay an average of $30 to $35 a day when they're used as polling places to help offset cost of utilities, although not everyone asks to be paid."

Sanford's Marina Isle Expansion On Schedule

Development on, and just off, Sanford's marina isle is progressing, with the three lessors on the city-owned, 12-acre parcel focusing attention on enhancement of existing offerings and construction of new ones.

Forty rooms will be added at the Holiday Inn, the first phase of John Smith's One Harbour Place commercial project. It is expected to be complete by Oct. 1, and the same date is being eyed by Monroe Harbour Marina operator Chuck Volk for start-up of a 98 slip dock expansion.

Ed Welch, who operates the Holiday

Inn with Wally Schoettelkotte, said the motel addition is still in its planning stages, and is hoped to begin within the next two years. He said the rooms will be located on the two acres of grass lying between his Fitzgerald's night spot and N. Palmetto Avenue.

In addition to Fitzgerald's, the Holiday Inn operates Dock N' Shoppe, a lake-front package store which offers its patrons deli service, potables such as champagne and a wooden deck, outdoor eating area.

Taking shape just east of Dock N' Shoppe is Smith's One Harbour Place, a two story, 14,000-square-foot commercial complex. The approximately $1.3 million venture is the first of two Smith plans, with second phase efforts to be either a yacht club or second retail complex.

Grand opening for the first phase project will probably be the weekend of Oct. 25, as a follow-up to the anticipated Oct. 1 construction completion date, Smith said.

Smith, who also operates Bada Marine on the Isle, said he hopes to arrange a "party for the city and its citizens." He said open house entertainment and activities on the Isle would be offered against a backdrop of the 150 boats

Sanford Offers Olive Branch On Annexation

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

While Sanford's mayor and city attorney are contacting their Seminole County counterparts in an effort to appease territorial conflicts between the two governments, Sanford's engineering department has plans to offer city water and sewer service in some of the same areas Seminole County has targeted for like service provision.

During Monday's city commission workshop, it was agreed Mayor Bettye Smith will seek a meeting with County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm to discuss "political and philosophical" differences the governments have regarding certain annexations the county opposes.

It was also agreed City Attorney William Colbert will contact the county's attorneys in an effort to delay the county's filing its latest annexation suit against Sanford.

Additionally, city commissioners on Monday were receptive to engineers' proposal to advertise Sanford water and sewer treatment services in the "Sanford urban area," which includes unincorporated county land.

Service provisions target property owners and developers in this area who anticipate a future need for water and sewer hook-ups.

Seminole County began pre-selling water and sewer service in the southern Sanford urban area earlier this summer.

City Engineering and Planning Director Bill Simmons said Monday he expects the county will begin offering like pre-sales in the urban areas west and east of Sanford in the near future.

Pre-sales offered in the south are for services at the county's Greenwood Lakes plant, with the deadline for purchase Sept. 11.

On Monday, Simmons said Sanford's price for water and sewer service to all urban areas would be cheaper than the county's charges.

He said in addition to getting the word out regarding Sanford's ability to serve these areas, the city should also consider pre-sales to anticipated developments.

Simmons said the city's proposal "is not for the money," but in anticipation that many of these urban area parcels will eventually become part of Sanford through annexation.

City water and sewer service provision to unincorporated county land is not a new concept, according to Simmons, who said Midway, east of the city, has been receiving its water and sewer treatment from Sanford since the 1950's.

However, promoting the availability of these services and

Longwood Approves Bonds For Police Building Funding

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

A $1 million limited revenue bond issue to finance the construction and equipping of a controversial new police headquarters facility received final approval by the Longwood City Commission Monday night in spite of protests from several persons in the audience.

The commission also gave final approval for $3 million in water and sewer bonds to be purchased by Sun Bank to construct a new 600,000 gallons per day $2.5 million sewage treatment plant on Grant Street, Skylark, and pay up to $5 million to refinance the city's existing indebtedness to Freedom Savings and Loan incurred to pay for sewer treatment plant improvements and water storage facilities.

The bonds are to be purchased by Sun Bank, N.A. and the city is pledging its utilities service tax as security for the bonds.

David Gunter, who heads a group of Longwood residents who have filed suit to force the city to stop construction on the police building, asked why the facility which was supposed to cost $400,000 when it was proposed in March, 1985, was in the 5-year capital improvement plan last year as $800,000, now takes $1 million to finance.

Gunter asked where the money already spent on the police station had come from, was it budgeted and did any of it come from property tax revenues.

City Finance Director Barry Weeks explained that the $100,000 spent so far on the project was included in the 1985-86 fiscal year budget to start the police station until the loan was approved.

He added that more funds were not included because the plans did not come in on time in order to complete construction this fiscal year. Weeks said only a small percentage of the general

Cat Eating Probed

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

The Humane Society of Seminole County is planning to investigate several reports of cats being raised for food by recent immigrants in Casselberry.

The investigation has not begun because the people are allegedly difficult to work with and the Humane Society investigator is arranging for assistance during the investigation, a spokesman said.

Apparently complicating the issue is a lack of statutory law prohibiting the consumption of cats and other animals considered pets.

"There's no law in Florida saying 'thou shall not eat cats and dogs,'" said Lorraine Moore, program coordinator of the Humane Society of the United States, southern region.

She said that to her knowledge there is no such law in the United States because it is something that just is not done in our culture.

She did say, however, that other animal cruelty statutes might apply to the situation such as the method of slaughter.

Under Florida statutes cats, dogs and other pets apparently can be eaten if humanely killed, that is rendered, unconscious immediately and done so in a non-stressful manner. The only exception is animals which, under the umbrella of freedom of religion, are ritually slaughtered.

Ms. Moore said there was one report last year of a family in

Golden Age Winners Will Qualify For The National Senior Olympics

Senior athletes will be going for national recognition as well as the gold during this fall's Sanford Golden Age Games.

Top finishers in the Sanford games will be told on-site they are qualified to go head-to-head against the county's best during the first U.S. National Senior Olympics. The national games will be held in St. Louis next summer, with qualifiers attending at their own expense.

Jim Jernigan, Sanford Parks and Recreation Department Director and Sanford Golden Age Games chairman, has been named as one of 19 regional representatives on the national olympics coordinating committee.

Jernigan met with the committee for a planning session in St. Louis last week.

He said the national olympics will be based at the recently completed $13 million sports complex on the campus of Washington University. The sports complex has eight-lane track and three gymnasiums. These facilities will be used in combination with four private golf courses, tennis courts and municipal pool and diving center located in the greater St. Louis area.

Jim Jernigan

National olympics planners expect 4,000 athletes to be qualified for the St. Louis games during upcoming regional competitions, Jernigan said.

He also said future senior olympics may be expanded to invite athletes from all over the world.

This year's national games will be held June 27-July 2.

Iranian Oil Minister Seeks Soviet Backing For OPEC

MOSCOW (UPI) — Iranian Oil Minister Gholamreza Aqazadeh was in Moscow today to seek Soviet cooperation in OPEC's campaign to cut oil production and boost prices. The Iranian Embassy confirmed that Aqazadeh, who left Tehran Monday, had arrived in Moscow but made no other comment. The Kremlin also had no comment. Analysts say the cooperation of major non-member oil producers, such as the Soviet Union, is necessary for the success of the OPEC agreement to stop the world oil glut and price decline by production cuts. The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries agreed Aug. 5 to slash its production by nearly 4 million barrels to about 18.7 million barrels daily and called on non-member producers to follow suit.

Soviet-Israeli Talks End Suddenly

HELSINKI, Finland (UPI) — The first Soviet-Israeli talks in 19 years broke down after 90 minutes over the thorny issue of Jewish emigration from the Soviet Union but an Israeli official raised the hope of future discussions. "We met for an hour and a half ... (and) decided that we will not have any further meetings here in Helsinki," Ehud Gol, an Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman, said after the breakdown in talks Monday. But Gol denied the talks had failed, saying the two sides agreed to continue contacts through "proper diplomatic channels." Israel and the Soviet Union might send delegations to each others capitals for further discussions, he added.

Budget Deficit Estimates May Mean Major Trimming

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Today's estimates of the budget deficit, required under the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law, will mean major spending cuts unless Congress can reduce the red ink, says the head of the Senate Budget Committee. Congressional efforts to cut the deficit, however, may get a boost from the tax reform bill. Preliminary estimates show it will raise $11 billion next fiscal year, although it is supposed to neither lose nor gain over five years. In a letter to colleagues on the Senate budget panel, Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., said a joint report due late today from the administration's Office of Management and Budget and the Congressional Budget Office will show an average deficit of slightly below $165 billion — $20 billion over Gramm-Rudman's $144 billion maximum deficit for fiscal 1987.

Sarasota allegedly eating dogs. Investigator, however, could find no proof to back up the accusation. She said most foreign-born residents who come from cultures that do eat animals Americans consider pets usually adapt to our society's expectations and stop the practice. She acknowledged there could be a problem of enforcement if the "pets" are being killed in a humane fashion, or if their consumption is an integral part of a person's cultural heritage. "It would be up to the state attorney to decide," she said. Ms. Moore said the Humane Society has not taken the issue before the Florida Legislature because such incidents, while apparently on the increase, do not happen too often. She said she hopes the practice does not escalate. "There are enough dreadful things happening to cats and dogs without people eating them," she said. Florida's cruelty to animals statute reads: "Whoever unnecessarily overloads, overdrives, tortures, torments, deprives of necessary sustenance or shelter, or unnecessarily or cruelly beats, mutilates, or kills any animal or causes the same to be done, or carries in or upon any vehicle, or otherwise, any animal in a cruel or inhuman manner, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor of the first degree..." A misdemeanor of the first degree is punishable by a $1,000 fine and one year in jail.

Jail Administrator Rehospitalized

Seminole County jail administrator Capt. Jay Leman has been rehospitlized after having been released last week following a kidney transplant July 29. Leman, whose immune system was destroyed prior to surgery, is reported to be suffering from bacterial meningitis. He was rehospitlized Saturday afternoon and was unconscious when taken back to Florida Hospital-Orlando, Seminole County Sheriff's Chief Deputy Duane Harrell said today. Leman is reported to be doing much better today and doctors are pleased with his response to use of antibiotics to counter the infection. A sheriff's spokesman said he is in satisfactory condition today. Leman was in critical condition Monday, but Harrell said, so far Leman has shown no signs of rejecting the transplanted kidney. Early this year Leman's suffered kidney failure, the result of a hereditary health problem. Leman, 40, was recovering quickly following surgery, and even stopped by his office Friday. He had kept his hospital visitors to a minimum, Harrell said, with the hope that he would avoid any type of infection. —Susan Loden

Tax Bill Faces Problems

...Bonds

By Joseph Misnowsky
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The force that carried tax reform over one of its final hurdles, the House-Senate conference committee, was not a desire to lower rates or improve economic policy. It was simply a wish to get a popular bill — and the deals cut in that final drive could be costly.

In the flurry of horse-trading that produced the measure, Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., the rather intellectual leader of the Senate forces on the conference, had to give up a lot to Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., the head of the House team known more for being a tough, streetwise politician.

In the process, Packwood lost some valuable assets he had relied on heavily to push his radical bill through the Senate earlier this year.

Essentially, the conference committee's bill kept the most important of the symbols that Packwood had so prized — low tax rates. But in many other important areas, it resembles the bill passed by the House more than many senators care to think about.

When the Senate debated and passed its bill, Packwood's main argument was that the radical measure he guided to the floor was untouchable.

He contended time and again that no major change could be made to the bill or the entire measure would crumble.

He repeatedly stressed that the "magic" of the bill was in its low tax rates of 15 percent and 27 percent for individuals and 33 percent for businesses. Those, he said, were the "Holy Grail" of tax reform and he stressed that if they were changed even one percentage point he would drop his support for the bill.

The tactic was a good one and won him Senate passage of the bill virtually unchanged. However, when he and his fellow senators bargained with the House they cut deals. The tax possibly setting pre-sale prices for them would be a new practice, Simmons said.

Sanford currently charges for water and sewer hook-ups through impact fees levied when developers apply for building permits, he said.

Simmons said he will draw up water and sewer availability and sale proposals for the Sanford urban area and submit them to commissioners for review at their next regular session.

Prior to Simmons' presentation Monday, commissioners agreed that Mayor Smith should contact Sturm in an effort to restore peace with Seminole County over annexations it opposes.

After Monday's meeting Mayor Smith said she didn't see a conflict between her approaching Sturm in a territorial peace keeping effort and Sanford engineers' proposal to offer water and sewer service in the same area as the county.

"The steps may be related, but I don't see them at odds," Mayor Smith said. "Because we're saying lets try and work some things out, that doesn't mean let's stop all annexations."

Mayor Smith also said a meeting with Sturm "will hopefully benefit all the people in the county; it does none of us any good to be in continuous litigation. I've gotten a strong impression from my fellow commissioners they feel the same way."

The county's latest challenge of a Sanford annexation was endorsed by county commissioners on a 3-2 vote last Tuesday, following Sanford commissioners' approving the land acquisition the night before.

The 11 acre tract is attached to 230 acres of annexation city commissioners approved last fall and the county filed a yet to be resolved suit to win back.

Commissioners agreed on Monday to Colbert's proposal that he ask the county to delay filing its new suit until 30 days after the initial suits have been settled.

Colbert said a court decision on these previous challenges may come this fall.

If the request is declined, Colbert will ask the county if, after bringing the new suit, it will agree to enter a joint-motion with Sanford asking the court to stay for 30 days the filing of additional pleadings in the new suit until the previous suits are resolved.

Colbert said basic arguments for all suits are the same, and that rather than begin "a costly duplication of efforts," the court's ruling on the previous suits would play a factor in the governments' position regarding the latest annexation.

The annexations lie west of Sanford, extending the city almost to Interstate-4, with the recent annexation furthest away from the city's border. Invalidation of the prior annexations would leave this parcel completely detached from Sanford.

Annexations call for a measure of contiguity to city borders, and legal definition of the extent of this attachment is what the two governments are disputing.

Simmons said although a good part of unincorporated county land in the Sanford urban area is targeted for annexation, it is hoped these parcels, as have countless others, can be acquired by Sanford without challenge from the county.

The Sanford urban area extends from the city's borders south to Oak Avenue, east to Lake Jessup and the St. John's River and west to I-4, excluding Lake Mary and the Lake Monroe utility plant, Simmons said.

Simmons also said the city's water and sewer service offers in this area "won't be for the money" they would garner, "but because I don't want people in the (Sanford urban) area to get locked into a system that probably is not as economical or effective as the city will provide."

Sanford has an existing system it is upgrading and expanding, efforts undertaken to comply with a state mandate to revenues come from property tax.

Jimmy Ross of Longwood, another member of the group opposing construction, charged the commission has never held a public hearing on the police station.

"There is not one word in any minutes where you agreed to put it in Peppermint Park and you never voted that you would," he said, bringing derisive laughter from his supporters.

Deputy Mayor June Lormann referring to the court cost to the city brought by the suit responded, "It's not so funny. All of you will be paying. You are just making a fool of your city."

Frank Watts of 422 Wildmere Ave. said, "The way I understand it, the police station is not on property you own, if you already owned it you wouldn't be negotiating or getting the fair market value so the city can make the church an offer."

The deed given by the Episcopal Diocese for Christ Episcopal Church in 1938 to the city for a park has a reverter clause that if the property is put to some other use it will revert to the former owner. Because the park is being used for a site for the new police station the question of ownership has arisen.

City Attorney Ann Colby thinks the city has a good case based on the statute of limitations.

The commissioners voted unanimously to approve the ordinance and a resolution authorizing the Mayor Larry Goldberg to sign the agreement with Sun Bank.

Gunter said he would be at city hall Thursday morning to go over the receipts for all the bills paid on the police building.

Gunter, who ran unsuccessfully for a city commission seat, has been accused of political motives in bringing the suit against city officials.

A special meeting has been called for 7 p.m. Wednesday to approve transfer of funds from the general fund.

stop disposing treated wastewater in Lake Monroe. Funding mechanisms for these efforts are already developed, Simmons said.

In an attempt at compliance with the state edict, Sanford launched litigation against the county over the Yankee Lake site both governments targeted for wastewater projects.

Following loss of the suit last spring, the city turned to disposal of highly treated effluent on parcels it already owns.

Delays from litigation have now prompted Sanford to seek a later compliance date for finish of disposal project construction.

The state had granted Sanford until November, 1988 to comply, but now the city is asking the date be moved back until April, 1989.

On Wednesday, Sanford will present its new disposal project for review by the state Department of Environmental Regulation and the Environmental Regulatory Commission, which oversees DER operations.

The session, which will be held in Tallahassee, will primarily address transfer of grants to the new project from the litigated Yankee Lake based effort. These monies are approximately $8.25 million.

The city is also hoping to secure $550,000 in additional state money through alleviation of certain grant restraints the Yankee Lake monies were to be awarded through, Simmons said.

Longwood Teenagers Found With Bomb-Making Materials

Two Longwood teens, one 16, the other 17, allegedly had bomb-making materials taken from them by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy at about 5 a.m. Sunday. The boys were not arrested, but the case was under investigation Monday, deputies said.

Sheriff's deputy Brent Davidson, reported making contact with the boys who were in a car on Blue Lake Drive in Longwood. Davidson reported that partially hidden under a towel on the backseat of that car was 1-foot of waterproof fuse. Under a second towel he reported finding three cans of smokeless gunpowder along with a solar lighter and a cutter.

One of the boys allegedly said that he and his companion had made bombs before and they were on their way to Lake Brantley to throw bombs in the water. Deputies said that would result in a fish kill.

The second boy refused to comment on the confiscated items, a sheriff's report said.

DOG BRINGS OUT SUSPECT
A man flushed out of a camper by an Altamonte Springs police dog, reportedly told police that the camper, which was parked behind the Hilton Inn on North Lake Boulevard, he thought belonged to his grandfather.

He later also allegedly said he thought the camper belonged to his exfather-in-law. But a few minutes after the man surrendered, just before a police dog was to be ordered to attack him inside the trailer, the owner of the camper, John Mather arrived and told police he didn't know the man.

Items inside the camper had been disturbed and Mather identified as his two gold necklaces and a tie tack allegedly found in the suspect's possession.

Richard Lee Pittman, 21, of Jacksonville, was arrested at 10:50 p.m. Saturday. He has been charged with burglary to a motor vehicle and armed felony. He was allegedly armed with a buck knife. Pittman was being held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

CAUGHT WITH COKE
A man who allegedly ran when a Seminole County sheriff's deputy approached him and a companion at the corner of North and Marker streets, near Altamonte Springs, was nabbed after a foot chase by the deputy.

The man reportedly took a bottle from his pocket and discarded it as he fled. The man was caught and the bottle, which contained two pieces of crack cocaine, was recovered, a sheriff's report said.

Norman David Allen, 26, of 416 Dunbar St., Altamonte Springs, was arrested on North Street at 1:38 a.m. Sunday. He has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court Sept. 8.

THEFT DETECTED
A confidential informant tipped a Seminole County sheriff's agent to a suspect who was reportedly selling stolen radar detectors. That brought the arrest at 4:21 p.m. Saturday, at Red Bug Lake Park, Casselberry, of a 21-year-old Casselberry man.

The suspect allegedly offered to sell what he reportedly described as "hot," a radar detector for $80. The suspect was arrested for dealing in stolen property. Marijuana, another radar detector and a coathanger, described as a burglary tool, were reportedly found in his car.

Robert Jonathan Butzlaff, of 1118 Galahad Drive, has also been charged with possession of marijuana and burglary tools. He was being held in lieu of $2,000 bond.

FIGHTER STABBED
A 25-year-old man who allegedly stabbed another in the back during a fight at Barrel Pub, 696 E. State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, at about 7 p.m. Saturday, has been charged with aggravated battery and disorderly conduct.

Altamonte Springs police broke up the fight and paramedics treated the wounded man at the scene.

Let's Say Bye, Bye BIA

An election year usually brings a lot of rhetoric calling for change, but it is usually just that — rhetoric. Few proposals are specific and even fewer offer anything truly new.

Rick Lavis, a Republican candidate for the 1st Congressional District seat in Arizona being vacated by John McCain, offered one of those rare bold political ideas at a recent forum in Mesa, Ariz.

Lavis called for the abolition of the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the distribution of the annual BIA appropriation to the various Indian nations to establish their own programs for the people.

He also called for incentives for the Indians to help educate their young people and reduce reservation unemployment with BIA funds.

Lavis, a former deputy assistant secretary of the Interior for Indian Affairs, believes the day of federal paternalism toward the Indians should be eliminated. The tremendous overhead of a bureaucracy like the BIA can be eliminated and the money more efficiently used by tribal governments to further individual tribal priorities.

The Indian nations are treated as sovereign entities on most matters. Yet, the most crucial portions of their existence, the implementation of social reform, education and economic assistance have been kept in the hands of white bureaucrats in Washington. They have little sense of Indian culture or priorities. All they have is money.

With access to the BIA funds and their knowledge of their needs and desires, a big step toward eliminating poverty, unemployment and ignorance on the reservations may be at hand.

Regardless of whether Lavis wins the seat, or even his party's nomination, we commend his approach to one of the great social problems of this country.

Canyon Flights

For several months, environmentalists and air tour operators have been battling. At issue is whether or not airplanes and helicopters should be allowed to fly into or over the Grand Canyon.

Several proposals have been made which range from banning flights into certain portions of the canyon to a total ban on flights over the national park.

Everyone agrees on one thing. The Grand Canyon is a national treasure. It must be preserved for future generations.

Environmentalists argue that flights must be above a level that will not disturb visitors on the ground or the park's wildlife. Operators say it is unfair to deprive visitors of the chance to view the canyon from the air.

But how do the people of Arizona feel about the issue? According to a recent survey by the Behavior Research Center of Arizona, a majority of the people of Maricopa and Pima counties, which contain most of the state's population, favor restrictions on sightseeing flights.

Sixty percent of those surveyed said that they favor limiting flights. Another 19 percent say that all flights should be banned.

Arizona Reps. Morris Udall and John McCain have introduced a bill in Congress to ban most flights below the rim. That is tokenism and will not solve the problem.

In light of the survey, Congress should enact a tougher ban, perhaps a 9,000-foot-above-the-rim limit. Flights still would be possible, but the rights of the vast majority, as well as the non-political wildlife, would be protected.

Maryland Has Several Political 'Firsts'

By Arnold Sawicki
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Maryland got a reasonably good start in American politics.

One of the original states, its capital, Annapolis, was the site of the preliminary meeting that led to the drafting of the Constitution in Philadelphia. A few years later, Maryland had the distinction of providing the land that is now the District of Columbia for the national capital.

After that, Maryland became something of a political backwater.

It did provide one obscure Speaker of the House, George Dent, in 1797, and one very famous Chief Justice, Roger Brooke Taney, who presided over the Supreme Court from 1836 to 1864.

But Maryland, unlike neighboring Virginia, never produced a president or a major candidate for the post. In fact, the last Marylander to receive electoral votes in a presidential election was William Wirt in 1832. He got Vermont's seven votes, but Maryland's eight votes were divided between Andrew Jackson of Tennessee and Henry Clay of Kentucky.

Maryland did give the country a vice president, Spiro Agnew, but the state doesn't brag much about him.

Agnew, and his successor as governor of Maryland, Marvin Mandel, probably had the most to do with giving the state a reputation in the 1970s for corrupt politics. But even in the realm of cash-and-carry politics Maryland was not regarded as a pace-setter, as connoted by the nickname "New Jersey South," given it by contemporary students of the subject.

There is, however, an area of progressive politics in which Maryland is a leader and an example to the rest of the country.

Maryland has more women in its congressional delegation than any other state. Half of the state's eight congressional districts are represented by women, and they make up almost 20 percent of the entire 22-member female contingent in the House.

In years past, many of the women in Congress got there by succeeding deceased husbands. Rep. Beverly Byron, D-Md., won the seat that had been held by her husband, but she has been no mere caretaker, winning re-election three times on her own record.

The other Maryland women — Democratic Rep. Barbara Mikulski and Republican Reps. Marjorie Holt and Helen Bentley — got to the House entirely on their own, and like Byron probably could continue to hold their seats for the foreseeable future.

But Holt is retiring and Mikulski is running for the Democratic nomination for the Senate seat being vacated this year by Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md.

Mikulski ran against Mathias 12 years ago and lost in a campaign that developed the slogan still seen on feminist T-shirts, "A woman's place is in the House ... and the Senate." Now, she is the favorite in a primary contest that includes the outgoing governor, Harry Hughes, and one of her House colleagues, Rep. Michael Barnes.

If Mikulski wins the Democratic nomination Sept. 9, her Republican opponent probably will be Linda Chavez, a former Reagan White House aide and Civil Rights Commission official. Chavez has some opposition in the GOP primary, but like Mikulski is expected to win.

Helping Cancer Victims

By Larry Doyle
UPI Science Writer

CHICAGO (UPI) — When Denver publisher Merrill G. Hastings' wife Priscilla was diagnosed with breast cancer in 1984, he found little in the way of publications to help.

Mrs. Hastings underwent a mastectomy and chemotherapy, and her husband, retired after years in such specialty publications as Skating and Colorado magazines, started a new monthly.

"I started searching around for a layman's explanation of what living with cancer was all about," Hastings says. "Everything I touched was either very technical, medical, or it was very do-gooder type of publications from the federal government — just sort of generalized, 'Let's all pull together and see if we can overcome the big bad C.'"

"What I was looking for was day-to-day information on how to continue on with your life when somebody in your family has cancer," he says. "How to cope with it."

The first issue of Cope magazine, subtitled "Living with Cancer," was mailed out a few weeks ago. More than 200,000 issues were sent to cancer clinics, doctors, hospitals and support groups, and the response has been extraordinary, Hastings says.

"I've been in trade magazines, business magazines, and I've never seen anything like this," he says. "In my three decades, I've never seen such an explosive response to a new publication."

Hastings says the August issue and attendant publicity is bringing in 300 to 500 subscription orders a week, and drawing letters from such luminaries as Ann Jillian, an actress who underwent a double mastectomy last year. The U.S. Surgeon General, Edward C. Koop, has asked to write a column for the October issue.

An unmet need triggered this response, Hastings contends.

"My suspicion from early on was that perhaps there was a silent network, but nobody had plugged them in," he says. "But there are millions of people whose cancer affects. Three out of four families have to deal with cancer, one out of three people experience it personally."

Cope's editorial philosophy is strictly news-oriented, with 35 departments such as ethics, research, law, insurance and tobacco to keep cancer patients and their families up to date on the latest developments.

Defection Hassle

WASHINGTON (NEA) — On the same day turncoat CIA agent Edward Howard surfaced in Moscow, an article appeared in a major Soviet newspaper that renewed a major debate within the U.S. intelligence community. The two incidents are related, and it was probably no accident they happened on the same day.

You probably remember Vitaly Yurchenko. Described as a "senior KGB official," he defected at the U.S. embassy in Rome last August and then re-defected in November by walking out of a Georgetown restaurant, hailing a cab and going to the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

Yurchenko's re-defection threw the CIA into turmoil. The agency came under fire for the way it handles defectors and particularly for how it handled Yurchenko. A sharp debate ensued within the intelligence community. Had Yurchenko's defection had been real and had he had a change of heart? Or had the whole thing been a Soviet hoax designed to plant disinformation, find out about CIA debriefing methods and embarrass the agency at a time when a number of KGB operatives and officials were defecting.

The CIA's position was that — while methods of handling defectors might need overhaul — Yurchenko was a legitimate defector who simply changed his mind.

Apparently the most valuable information supplied by Yurchenko concerned Howard. Yurchenko reportedly told the CIA that one of its former agents — who he only knew by the code name "Robert" — was supplying information to the KGB.

Howard was already under suspicion. He had been trained to go to Moscow to act as the "case officer" for Soviet aviation expert A.G. Tolkaev, who had been providing valuable information on Soviet electronic weapons research. After Howard was dismissed from the agency, Tolkaev suddenly disappeared (he is believed to have been executed), and the man who was sent to Moscow instead of Howard — Paul Stombaugh, embassy political officer — was accused of espionage and expelled from Russia.

According to the CIA's official theory, the information supplied by Yurchenko "proved" he was a genuine defector. Others, both within and outside the agency, argued that most — if not all — the information volunteered by Yurchenko had been about past KGB activities and that he had bolted when pressured for information on current activities. As far as the Howard situation was concerned, many thought Howard had already given the KGB all the valuable information he had and that Yurchenko's "revelations" may have been designed to force him to run, as it is now believed that the Soviets were pressuring him to do.

Both sides agreed that Yurchenko's subsequent treatment on returning to the Soviet Union would prove whether his defection was real or faked. If he was welcomed as a hero and given his old job and privileges back, it was likely he was a plant. If he was dealt with harshly, he was probably a true defector who had a change of heart.

DON GRAFF

Welcome To New Panama

Jack Sachs' first surprise was walking into the middle of a beauty contest.

He saw no reason to object. Quite the contrary.

"See," he jokingly told a traveling companion, "when I lay something on, I do it first class."

That was early in the morning of Thursday, July 10. The two had arrived in Panama City to discover the Miss Universe Pageant in full swing at their hotel.

Sachs, a New York attorney, and his companion were representing a client in a banking transaction. They had an appointment the following morning with a Panamanian law firm.

They never kept it. The trouble began with a delay over their rooms at the hotel desk. They were finally assigned to different floors.

Then Sachs was handed a letter — left for him at the desk — that he instantly read as big trouble.

The two were told to leave Panama within eight hours. Their lives and those of their families were threatened if they did not.

Sachs took it seriously. He knows Panama well, has been there often and had been married to a Panamanian. He is fluent in Spanish. He believed the anonymous writer's warning: "You are in a country that tortures and kills people."

He booked space on the first available flight out. That wasn't until the next morning, after the letter's deadline. They would not leave the hotel until then.

About 6 that evening, there was a knock on the door and a group of men "flashing badges" pushed into Sachs' room. Luckily, Sachs' companion was on the phone with their client and alerted him that they were being arrested. They were ordered to pack their bags and check out of the hotel immediately.

A five-day nightmare then began. In the custody first of Panamanian security police, they were alternately interrogated and locked in cells. Requests to contact the U.S. Embassy and their families were denied.

"As far as I knew," says Sachs, "nobody in the world knew where we were."

Ultimately, through the efforts of Sachs' client, word got through. An embassy representative and a Panamanian attorney were allowed to see them. On Monday, July 13, a court ordered their release.

Airport Must Clamor For Funds

By Jack Anderson
And
Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — Incredible as it may seem, Federal Aviation Administration bureaucrats are willing to withhold money needed to make air travel safer in order to force airport managers to bow down to the FAA's standards on permissible aircraft noise levels.

The FAA apparently intends to make a test case out of San Francisco International Airport, which had the effrontery to set noise standards stricter than those of the federal agency. Determined to bend the airport's management to its will, the FAA has threatened to withhold $8 million in federal funds earmarked for such safety improvements at San Francisco International as improved runway lighting.

Rep. Tom Lantos, D-Calif., in a letter to FAA administrator Donald Engen, seen by our associate Lucette Lagnado, accused the agency of trying to "blackmail" the airport into relaxing its noise standards. The airport is on San Francisco Bay, just across the Bayshore Freeway from Lantos' San Mateo County constituents. His district, just south of San Francisco proper, includes some of the poshest suburbs in California. Barbecue grills and backyard swimming pools are in use virtually the year around, and the roar of big jets landing and taking off at the airport is not a welcome intrusion on the residents' gracious life style.

So under community pressure, San Francisco International set noise-level standards below the FAA's nationwide minimum.

This ruled out the Boeing 707, and led Burlington Northern Air Freight, which relies on that model, to complain to the FAA that the airport was discriminating against it. The FAA not only agreed, but decided to use its power of the purse to make the airport management knuckle under. The money it threatened to withhold was to be used for improved safety at the airport.

This bureaucratic pre-emptiveness — in an administration whose policy is to get the federal government off the backs of local communities — infuriated Lantos. In his confidential letter to Engen, he wrote:

"I wish to re-emphasize my deeply held view that it is bad public policy to attempt to blackmail the San Francisco International Airport with the threat of withholding funds because of its appropriate attempt to mitigate the horrendous problem of aircraft noise — a nightmare for tens of thousands of citizens who live nearby."

"The airport continues to be under the threat that badly needed funds — to which the airport is entitled and which are for the safety of the millions of travelers who use the facility — will be withheld unless the airport surrenders to the unacceptable demand that aircraft which do not meet noise standards be allowed to land."

What exacerbated Lantos' outrage was the fact that while the air freight company's complaint was being reviewed by the FAA, the agency's chief legal counsel, E. Tazewell Ellett — the man who will ultimately rule on the issue — was making public statements describing the airport's refusal to let Burlington Northern's 707s land as "flagrant discrimination." In a speech to the Dallas-Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, Ellett said that "we intend to stop that discrimination."

Lantos suggested that he and Engen meet to discuss the situation. Engen replied that he would be pleased to meet with the congressman — but that he would not discuss the subject Lantos wanted to bring up.

Eager Fans Keep Mets' Turnstiles Spinning

(Editor's note: This is the third in a series on the 1986 Mets. See 'Amazin' Today: The Fans.)

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets' huge lead in the National League East has ruined any chance of a tight pennant race. The Mets, however, are in the middle of an attendance race.

The Mets may reach three million in home attendance this season and join the Los Angeles Dodgers as the only teams in the league to hit that plateau.

"We have a fighting chance to make it," Mets director of marketing Drew Sheinman said.

"But we've lost (larger crowds) through the threat of bad weather."

The Mets concluded a home stand Aug. 10 with three straight sellouts against the Montreal Expos for a total of nine sellouts this season.

The Mets set a club attendance record and a New York City major league record last season when they drew more than 2.7 million at Shea, the 12th highest figure in major league history. They are ahead of that pace this season. After 51 home dates, the Mets' total attendance was 1,897,820.

Entering a six-game series against the Cardinals Aug. 14, they had 28 home dates left and would have to average 42,392 to reach three million.

N.L. Baseball

"The Mets have a good organization," said Barry Stockhamer, the Dodgers' director of ticket marketing and promotions. "If they don't do it this year they have a good chance next season."

Winning, weather and good marketing strategies are the key factors to bringing people to the ballpark.

"It's a combination of good exciting baseball and planning for a number of years, aggressive sales and planning," said the Mets' Sheinman. "Winning makes it easier, but you really have to have all the necessary ingredients lined up in advance sales, promotions, etc., to make a total success."

As for the weather Sheinman added: "The Dodgers have weather. If you knew you had a 95 percent chance of clear, sunny weather (every game), you can plan well."

Stockhamer, who has been with the Dodgers since 1969, agrees.

"With the (good) weather you have bigger advance sales,"

Stockhamer said. "You have more people in April and May."

Ironically the last obstacle on the Mets' road to three million may be their overwhelming success this season. New York could clinch the NL East by early September which may keep big crowds away until the playoffs.

"The fans will still come out. (they're) hungry for the team to win," said Sheinman, who has been the director of marketing since January. "We have plans to maximize every game left in terms of attendance."

Sheinman said the Mets have lined up a promotion called "A September to Remember" to keep the Shea packed.

"It's added promotions on top of what is scheduled," Sheinman said.

Regardless of what is planned, fans say they will keep coming.

"I think they will still come out," Anjie Boyle, a season ticket holder from Middle Village, N.Y., said. "(We) waited so long for them to win."

Another season ticket holder, T. Barry Schlatter of Long Island, agrees.

"The fans will still come out even if they clinch (early)," Schlatter said. "We finally have a pennant-winning team. (the fans will keep coming) even at the end."

Will Leonard Accept Hagler Arrangement?

BARTLETT, N.H. (UPI) — Now that undisputed middleweight champion Marvin Hagler will accept Sugar Ray Leonard's challenge for a multi-million dollar boxing extravaganza next March, it remains to be seen whether Leonard will accept Hagler's arrangement.

Hagler's co-manager Pat Petronelli announced via a statement from Hagler's summer home Monday that his fighter does not want to be accused of ducking any challenger.

However, the Hagler camp has already aroused the ire of Leonard by announcing the fight will be promoted by Top Rank, Inc., of which Bob Arum is president. Leonard said in June that he does not want Arum to promote the fight and that he would not let any part of his purse go to Arum.

"I could issue a press statement saying that we just got an arms control agreement, but that doesn't mean that we got one," said Michael G. Trainer, Leonard's attorney.

Leonard was unavailable for comment, but Trainer said negotiations have not started for the fight.

"We haven't agreed to anything. We haven't even spoken to them out of courtesy because of Marvin's problems making up his mind as to whether he wants to fight Ray Leonard or not," Trainer said. "We haven't bugged anybody. I said, 'Pat, I'll wait to hear from you.' As of now, I haven't heard from Pat. I would expect that (because) Pat's a man of his word, he said he'd call me, he'll call me."

Last month, Hagler hedged on Leonard's challenge, saying he was considering retirement and wanted to pursue a movie career.

The purse of a Hagler-Leonard bout could run to $15 million, of which $10 million would go to Hagler.

Arum was unavailable for comment but a Top Rank spokesman said Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, Nev., is a leading candidate to hold the bout.

Petronelli said Hagler initially was reluctant to fight Leonard because he believed the former champion did not deserve a title shot until he first faced a top contender.

"If he wants to get the fight going, get an agreement together, great," Trainer said. "That's good. I'm ready whenever they are."

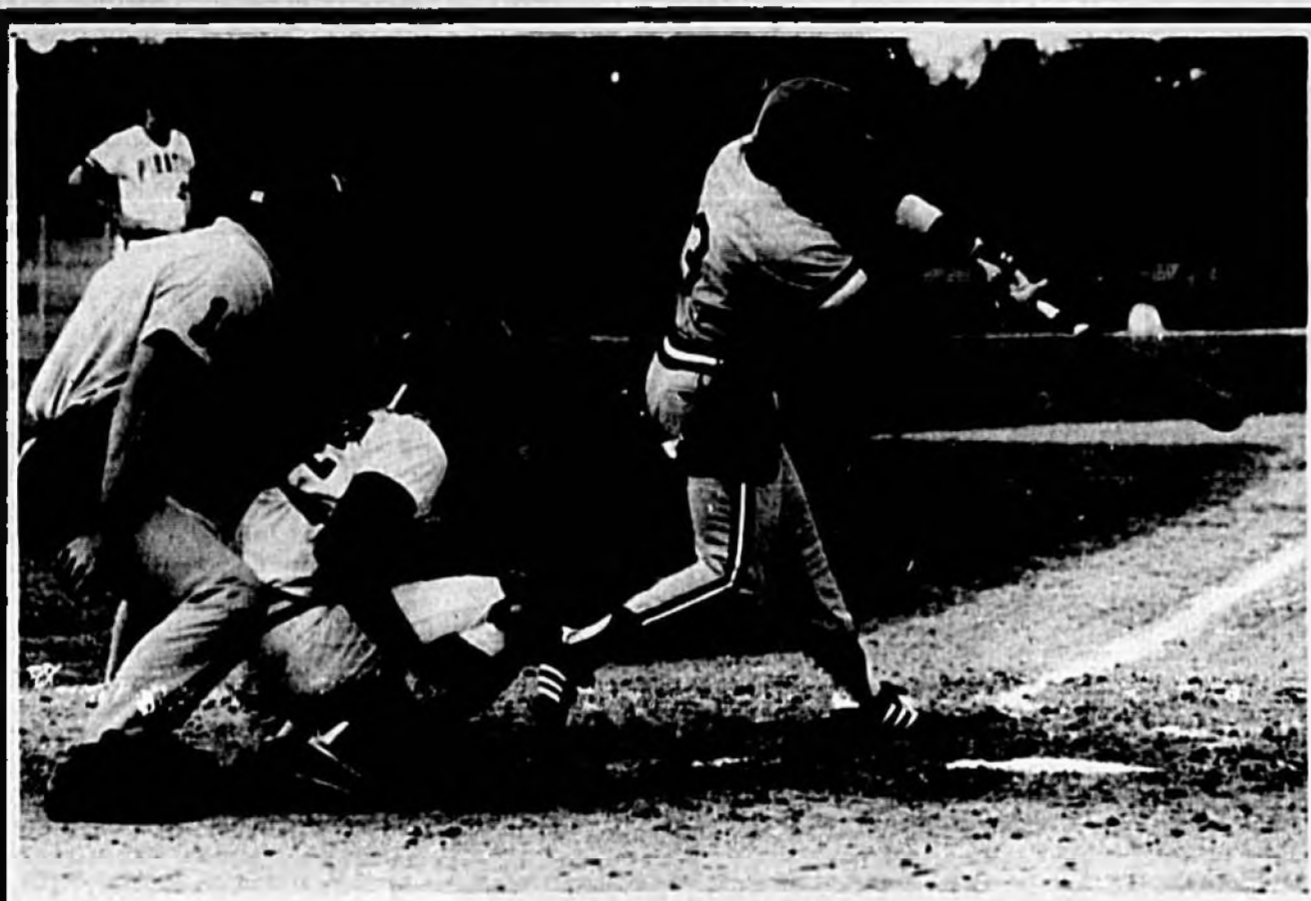

Leonard, 30, retired as undisputed welterweight and junior middleweight champion in November 1982 after undergoing surgery for a detached retina.

Hagler of Brockton, Mass., has a 62-2-2 record with 52 knockouts. He advised Petronelli that his wife, Bertha, supported his decision to fight Leonard.

Leonard of College Park, Md., has a 33-1 record. He returned to the ring in May 1984 against lightly regarded Kevin Howard. He retired moments after he won the fight by technical-knockout in the ninth round.

This spring Leonard shocked the fighting world when he said he would end his retirement a second time — but only to fight Hagler.

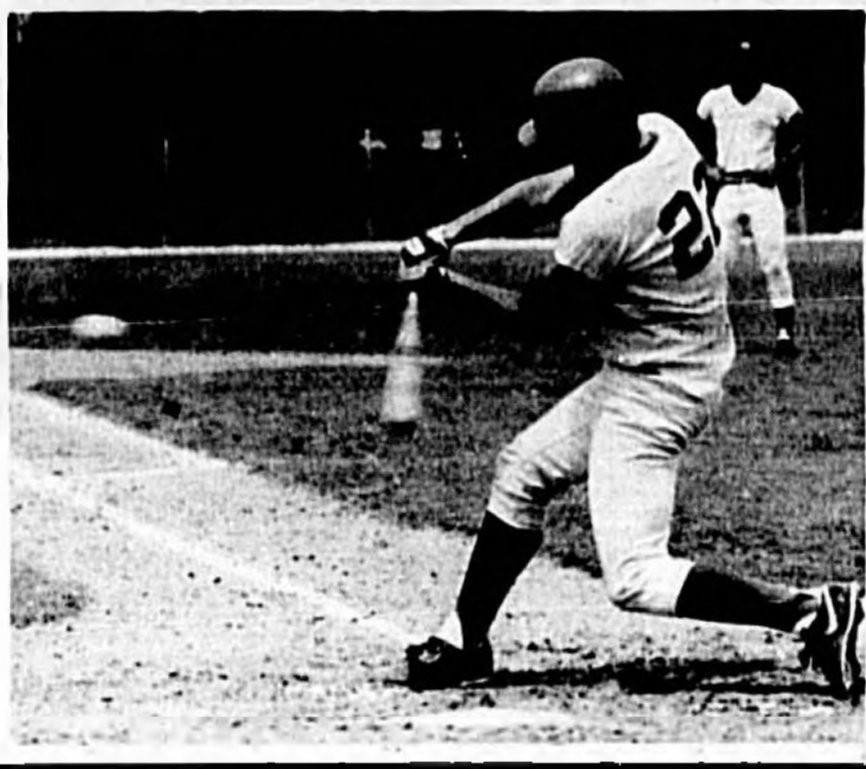

"I know I can beat Hagler, my way," Leonard said then. "I'm not going to fight Hagler his style, if you know what I'm saying. He's a big guy and I think I can outbox him, outmaneuver him and beat him scientifically."

Above, Taubensee, a catcher for the Cincinnati Reds' Gulf Coast League team in Sarasota, reaches for an inside pitch as Pittsburgh's Raoul Hernandez takes a cut. At right, Taubensee steps into a fastball. Taubensee grounded out to second base on this pitch but the Reds won anyway.

Johnson, Jackson To End 1-Year Court Sabbaticals

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

After falling one win short of the Junior College State Tournament a year ago, Seminole Community College's Lady Raiders will look to a pair of former Seminole County prep greats, who didn't play ball last season, for that added boost in 1986-87.

After one-year sabbaticals from the hardwood, former Lake Howell High star Tammy Johnson and former Lyman High standout Valerie Jackson will suit up for coach Ileana Gallagher's Lady Raiders this season. With the addition of Johnson and Jackson, along with some excellent recruits and a trio of strong returning players, Gallagher sees SCC as a contender in 1986-87.

"In the past, we've always had three or four real good players," Gallagher said. "This year, I can honestly say I've got seven. Now, it's just a matter of getting the right combination going."

Johnson, a 1984 Lake Howell graduate, was nothing short of sensational her first season with the Lady Raiders in 1984-85 when the team had one of its most successful seasons ever and went all the way to the state semifinals. Johnson, a jet-quick point guard, led the team in scoring, assists, and steals and was rewarded for her fine season by being named Junior College All-American.

Somewhere between her freshman and sophomore years at SCC, however, Johnson became disenchanted with the game of basketball.

"I had been playing basketball for about eight years straight without a break," Johnson said. "I just got burnt out and needed to get away from the game."

Johnson said the time off did her a lot of good and she is excited about returning to the Lady Raiders.

"I've been working out about every day and can't wait for the season to start again," she said. "We should have a pretty competitive team this year."

Gallagher said Johnson will have to work hard to return to the form she flashed a freshman.

"Tammy has been out of commission for a while so it will take her some time to get back in shape," Gallagher said.

Jackson, an All-County First Team selection at guard for three of her four years at Lyman, received a scholarship to attend national power Tennessee where she went as a freshman but did not play her sophomore season. While Johnson was burnt out from too much basketball, Gallagher said it was a different story for Jackson.

"I think she got a little homesick being all the way up in Tennessee," Gallagher said of Jackson. "Having her on the team will help a lot with Tammy (Johnson) coming back."

Devastating would be a good word to describe a backcourt that would include Johnson, one of the quickest players around, and Jackson, one of the best pure shooters to ever come out of Seminole County.

With that kind of a backcourt, which would also include last year's assist leader Carol King and freshman Latanya Johnson out of Lyman High.

Gallagher is looking for strong inside play from returning players Lisa Starks and Fatma LaFond, both out of Miami American High, along with top-notch recruit Paula White out of Gainesville Buchholz. White averaged 16.7 points and 17.6 rebounds per game last season at Buchholz.

The wing players who Gallagher is counting on include freshmen Teresa Newmar (Eustis High) and Stephanie Nelson (Oviedo High) along with returning player Aileen Patterson (Lake Mary grad). Gallagher will also look for strong bench support from freshman Heather Peters out of Orlando Lake Highland Prep.

NFL Happenings: Kelly, Long In — Campbell Out

United Press International

Two promising quarterbacks joined the NFL Monday and one great running back left.

Jim Kelly and Chuck Long signed contracts with the Buffalo Bills and Detroit Lions, respectively, on a day New Orleans Saints running back Earl Campbell called his last as a professional football player.

Kelly signed a 5-year, $8 million contract with the Bills, making him the highest paid player in NFL history. Kelly, who passed for 83 touchdowns in two seasons with the USFL's Houston Gamblers, is expected to take part in his first workout with the Bills Tuesday at their Fredonia state college training camp.

"All I can say is I'm finally here," Kelly said at a news conference to announce his signing. "I'm an athlete. I'm a competitor. Whatever the situation is, I'll give 100 percent."

Bills coach Hank Bullough said he was looking forward to having Kelly ready for the upcoming NFL season.

"I think he wants to win," Bullough said. "His former coaches said that Jim Kelly is a great leader. He likes to throw. He enjoys the game of football."

"Kelly is our future," Long, the Lions' No. 1 pick from Iowa and the 12th selection overall, agreed to a four-year, $1.75 million contract following a morning meeting between his agent Jack Mills and General Manager Russ Thomas in the Pontiac Silverdome.

"I'm glad to be in camp and glad to have it over with," Long said at a news conference. "I think it's going to be the start of a good, long relationship."

Long, runner-up in the 1985 Heisman Trophy balloting to Auburn's Bo Jackson, led Iowa to the Rose Bowl last year. Since starting as a sophomore in 1982, he completed 782 of 1,203 passes for 10,461 yards and 74 touchdowns.

Campbell, a former Heisman Trophy winner and the NFL's seventh all-time rushing leader, retired following a nine-year career. He was in his third year with the New Orleans Saints and was 593 yards shy of 10,000 career rushing yards.

A punishing runner at 5-foot 11 and 225 pounds, Campbell spent most of his career with Houston. He was traded to the Saints after the sixth game of the 1984 season. Campbell, 31, had arthroscopic knee surgery before that season.

"This is the best thing for me and the Saints," said Campbell.

Football

banked by Saints Coach Jim Mora and President Jim Finks.

"Pro football has done a great deal for me and I'm happy I played as long as I did. It's time this old cowboy got on with things. I've been watching myself and my body reactions and I just wasn't recovering as fast as I used to. If I can't give it my best, I might as well not do it."

Campbell won the Heisman as a senior at the University of Texas. He rushed for 4,444 yards in four seasons with the Longhorns despite missing seven games as a junior.

In other training camp news: At Orchard Park, N.Y., veteran quarterback Art Schlichter, signed as a free agent by the Buffalo Bills two months ago, was among 13 players waived by the Bills.

At Suwanee, Ga., the Atlanta Falcons cut 12 players, including seven-year linebacker Al Richardson, and placed five players on injured reserve.

At St. Louis, wide receiver Clyde Duncan, a first-round draft choice in 1984 who caught only four passes in his two-year NFL career, was released by the Cardinals. Duncan, 25, had signed a four-year contract worth a reported $1.3 million, meaning he was paid about $325,000 for every pass he caught for the Cardinals.

At Denver, the Broncos waived 11 players, including former starting wide receiver Butch Johnson and veteran tight end Mike Barber, and placed four more on injured reserve.

At Miami, the Dolphins released five players, including veteran cornerback Robert Sowell, and re-signed ninth-round draft choice Reyna Thompson.

At Green Bay, Wis., wide receiver Phillip Epps rejoined the Green Bay Packers, signing a pair of one-year contracts that left center Mark Cannon the only veteran holdout. The Packers also trimmed 15 players, including veteran linebacker George Cumby, who lost his starting job last year to rookie Brian Noble.

At Carlisle, Pa., the Washington Redskins released former USFL kicker Jim Asmus and six other players, trimming their roster to 83 players and leaving Mark Moseley a pinch to retain his kicking job for a 13th season.

Coaches Pick Sooners As UPI's Team To Beat

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fifteen straight college football national champions have failed to repeat. The UPI Board of Coaches predicts that streak will end.

The Board Monday established the national champion Oklahoma Sooners as an overwhelming No. 1 choice in its preseason ratings.

The Sooners collected 36 of 50 first-place votes and 731 points. Michigan, which closed last season ranked second to Oklahoma, began this campaign in the same spot. The Wolverines earned one first-place vote and 605 points.

Texas A&M, UCLA and Penn State rounded out the top five. Alabama was No. 6 followed by Miami (Fla.), Nebraska, Ohio

State and Tennessee.

The second 11 before Baylor, Auburn, Arkansas and Georgia, Brigham Young and Washington tied for 16th and Iowa, Louisiana State and Maryland followed.

Texas was the last team to capture consecutive national championships in 1969 and 1970. Oklahoma moved into position to match that feat after winning its last eight straight games last season, including a 25-10 Orange Bowl victory over Penn State.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Mackey Wins Rain-Delayed International; Walker DQ

ELMSFORD, N.Y. (UPI) — Cindy Mackey shot a 2-under-par 70 Monday to win the rain-delayed $200,000 MasterCard International Pro-Am, her first victory on the LPGA Tour.

Colleen Walker was disqualified from second place for turning in a wrong scorecard.

It was the second time in three tournaments Walker has been disqualified for an incorrect score. The first time was the du Maurier Classic in Toronto July 26.

Mackey finished with a 12-under-par 276 and earned $30,000 for her first triumph in 72 tournaments. She was the only player to shoot under par in all four rounds — 71-70-65-70.

Walker bogeyed the par-5 16th hole, but signed for a 5. Muffin Spencer-Devlin kept Walker's score. The error was pointed out to Walker in the post-tournament news conference and cost her $18,500 in prize money.

In the revised order of finish, rookies Jody Rosenthal (71) and Cathy Johnson (72) tied for second at 290. Lauren Howe (70) was fourth at 291.

Play had been postponed Sunday because of thunder-showers with Mackey having completed nine holes of the final round at the Knollwood Country Club.

NBA Stars Discourage Drug Use

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Basketball stars Michael Jordan, Buck Williams and Johnny Dawkins next month will take part in a program urging youngsters to stay away from drugs.

"They're going to talk to these kids about saying no to drugs, that there's nothing wrong with saying no," Lenny Simpson, the program's organizer, said Monday. "Michael Jordan didn't get where he is by loading up and getting high."

The players are scheduled to appear Sept. 9 as the highlight of "Three on Three — The War Against Drugs." The trio played college ball in the South and will travel to nine area schools.

Jordan, the dunk artist of the Chicago Bulls, played at North Carolina. Williams of the New Jersey Nets starred at Maryland. Dawkins, the top draft choice of the San Antonio Spurs, led Duke to the finals of last year's NCAA Tournament.

The appearances will climax a Sept. 4-6 basketball tournament. Proceeds will go to the local Metro Drug Commission.

Richmond Still Hottest Driver

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Tim Richmond is the hottest driver around on the NASCAR circuit, but Dale Earnhardt has been performing well enough to maintain his hold on first place in the Winston Cup standings.

Richmond finished second behind Bill Elliott Sunday at the Champion Spark Plug 400 at Michigan International Speedway, and defending Winston Cup champion Darrell Waltrip was third.

Earnhardt finished fifth and now has 2,910 points. Waltrip is in second place with 2,769 and Richmond is third with 2,755. Richmond, who has four first-place finishes and four seconds in the last nine races, made up 15 points on Earnhardt and five points on Waltrip.

Sunday marked the fifth consecutive race Waltrip and Richmond have finished ahead of Earnhardt.

Lanham, Slack Battle For QB

ORLANDO (UPI) — The University of Central Florida football team had its first practice in pads Monday, with juniors Tony Lanham and Darin Slack battling over the top spot in the quarterback position.

The Knights face three one-and-one-half hour drills a day until the end of the week.

Head Coach Gene McDowell singled out running backs Elgin Davis and Aaron Slam, along with guard David Underwood, for their offensive play.

On the defensive side, McDowell praised linebacker Mike Hittinger and defensive linemen Sylvester Bem Berry and Brian Makar for their defensive work.

The Knights open their season in Orlando Stadium against rival Bethune Cookman Sep. 6.

Stadler Captures Ford Tourney

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — Craig Stadler birdied five of his last nine holes Monday to gain the first-round lead in the 10th annual Jerry Ford Invitational golf tournament at the Country Club of the Rockies.

Stadler shot a 5-under-par 67 to grab a one-stroke lead over Steve Satterstrom and Mark O'Meara.

Defending champion Mark Pfeil was paired with former President Gerald Ford and comedian Bob Hope, and golf-great Byron Nelson. Pfeil shot an even par 72.

The team headed by course designer, Jack Nicklaus, led the best-ball competition with a 17-under-par 53.

Suns Sign 5 Draft Choices

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — The Phoenix Suns Monday announced the signing of five draft choices, including three second-round picks.

General Manager Jerry Colangelo said the five were signed based on performances in a recent summer league in Los Angeles.

They are: Joe Ward, a 6-foot 5-guard from Georgia; Rafael Addison, a 6-7 forward from Syracuse; Jeff Hornacek, a 6-4 guard from Iowa State; Kenny Gattison, a 6-8 forward from Old Dominion, and Grant Gondrezick, a 6-5 guard from Pepperdine.

USFL Files For New Trial To Raise Award

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S. Football League filed papers in federal court Monday, asking for a new trial to raise its $1 antitrust damage award against the NFL.

USFL attorney Harvey Myerson cited jury confusion in the July 29 decision. The panel concluded a three-month trial by finding the NFL guilty of monopolizing pro football but awarded the 4-year-old league just $1, which is tripled under antitrust law.

"The thrust of our motion is based on what we perceived to be, and what the country perceived to be, jury confusion," Myerson said Monday at a news conference in his law office.

Myerson said he has submitted an affidavit containing 42 news reports, which he claims supports the contention that the jury was not unanimous in its understanding of its findings and its instructions from Judge Peter Leisure.

A federal rule — 606 (B) — prohibits attorneys from obtaining affidavits from a jury to prove mistakes in its findings. However, Myerson said the rule is not valid in this case because the "jurors talked to the American public."

Joe Browne, the NFL's director of communications, cited the same federal rule in a statement, saying a jury verdict cannot be overturned because of juror statements unless great pressure is exerted on the juror outside court.

"Which did not happen in this case," Browne said.

Oral arguments for a retrial on damages will be heard Sept. 3 by Judge Peter Leisure. On Sept. 29, Myerson said he will file papers in federal court where the "USFL will apply for an injunction to break up the (NFL's) illegal monopoly."

Myerson mentioned three scenarios stemming from a possible break up of the NFL monopoly:

- forcing the NFL to relinquish one of the three major television networks,
- forcing expansion into other cities by another league,
- asking the NFL to accept expansion in cities where there are no franchises.

Buccaneers Peddle DiBernardo

TAMPA (UPI) — Free agent linebacker Rick DiBernardo was traded by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers to the St. Louis Cardinals Monday for an undisclosed draft choice.

DiBernardo, 22, had two tackles Saturday night in Atlanta's 20-17 pre-season victory against Tampa Bay. The 6-foot-3, 225-pound inside linebacker was a 4-year player at Notre Dame, with 62 career tackles.

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Mel Owens, the Rams' starting left outside linebacker the past three seasons, has re-signed with Los Angeles. It was announced Monday night.

Owens, 27, was a free agent and missed the first 23 days of training camp. He was not expected to play in Monday night's exhibition with the San Francisco 49ers.

No contract terms were disclosed.

Owens, a sixth-year pro out of Michigan, collected nine sacks for the Rams last year. He has played 48 straight games.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Wide receiver Phillip Epps signed two one-year contracts with the Green Bay Packers Monday, leaving center Mark Cannone the only veteran holdout.

Tired Ducrot Recuperates From Victory

COPPER MOUNTAIN, Colo. (UPI) — Dutch pro Maarten Ducrot, who claims he has problems cycling in the mountains, has a day to recuperate — from a victory.

Today is a rest day for Coors International Bicycle Classic participants, in preparation for Wednesday's circuit races at Estes Park, Colo.

Ducrot attacked the 11,316-foot summit of Fremont Pass with 12 miles remaining in the 81-mile Vail to Copper Mountain Road Race Monday to win the 11th stage.

"I've always had problems in the mountains," said Ducrot. "And two days ago, when I got out of a car, I felt dizzy."

Ducrot powered down the 50 mph descent to finish in 3:24:39, 11 seconds ahead of Italian Valerio Piva, and 13 seconds ahead of American amateur Todd Goulet.

New Zealand's Madonna Harris jumped two places in the overall standings of the Coors Classic by winning the 57-mile Copper Mountain Road Race.

French cyclists Bernard Hinault and Jeannie Longo extended their leads in the men's and women's overall standings.

Riding for the Centurion team, Harris caught Katrin Tobin, 24, who finished second, 38 miles into the race.

The women's race, which began in Copper Mountain, Colo., and scaled Fremont Pass twice.

Louganis Collects Fourth World Title

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Greg Louganis collected his fourth world title Monday and Michael Gross failed to win a medal in the 100-meter butterfly during the sixth day of the World Swimming Championships.

Louganis, a double Olympic champion, amassed 750.06 points in the springboard diving final. The 26-year-old was in control most of the way, withstanding the challenges of China's Tan Liangde and Li Hongping.

The American wrapped up the title with a solid 10th dive, which earned him one of his five perfect marks of 10 and a score of 93.06.

World-record holder Pablo Morales and Matt Biondi swam 1-2 for the United States in the 100 butterfly final, topping Gross. The Americans led from the start as a surprisingly listless Gross failed to find his rhythm.

Morales took the first American swimming gold in 53.54 seconds, with Biondi adding a silver to the bronze he won in the 200 freestyle Sunday in 53.67. Britain's Andy Jameson, who set a Commonwealth record of 53.67 during the morning heats, beat Gross for the first time in his career to take the bronze in 53.81. Gross, who won the 200 freestyle Sunday, was fourth in 53.87.

"I thought it would take a world record to win," said Morales, whose world mark stands at 52.84. "Michael Gross was great last night, but you just don't know about his fly until you see it."

Gross and Biondi later competed in the 4-x-200 freestyle relay. The West Germans won in 7:15.91, with East Germany second and the Americans third. The victory brought East Germany's medal total for the day to three.

Silke Hoerner of East Germany prevailed in a battle with European champion Tania Bogomilova to take the gold in the 200 breast stroke with a world-record time of 2 minutes, 27.40 seconds.

Hoerner's time was eight-tenths of a second quicker than the previous mark held by compatriot Silvia Gerasch, who was fourth.

A January state statute change allows political campaigning as close as 50 feet from polling places. Prior to the change, campaigning was restricted to 300 feet from the polls.

During the June 3 MTA referendum election — the first vote since the statute change — campaigning to get the lottery issue on the ballot was done at 44 precincts, including 22 churches used as polling places in Seminole County, and all 22 called the county elections office to complain, according to elections supervisor Sandy Goard.

Ms. Goard said 37 of 93 county polling places in the June 3 vote were churches.

"I've got to find someplace for people to vote. I hope we can get all this cleared up by the end of the week. We have to notify the voters, and advertise the poll locations," Ms. Goard continued. She said anyone with a building large enough to host elections in the precincts where a polling precinct is needed should call her office.

Ms. Goard said she has gone so far as to send an elections staff person out to drive around the precincts "looking for a building big enough" to hold elections.

She said calls and letters began to come in from churches after the June 3 vote, and the list of six churches was compiled during the process of confirming poll locations.

One church pastor wrote to Ms. Goard after the June 3 vote, and said while the church is pleased to provide a community service by allowing its use as a polling place, "certain activities of that day dismayed us greatly and place in jeopardy our future willingness to provide this vital community service."

Pastor Gregory B. Champagne of the First Baptist Church, 770 Seminola Blvd., Casselberry, which was used for the 1,155 voters in the 52nd precinct, declined to allow another vote at the church in a June 6 letter.

During the June 3 vote, Pastor Champagne wrote, "I was shocked to find someone legally soliciting on our property for an issue we strongly oppose. I would not have liked anyone soliciting without our permission but the pro-lottery group being here was intolerably unacceptable."

The 1,155 voters who cast ballots at the church will now vote at the Senior Citizen Multi-Purpose Center at 200 North Lake Triplett Drive, Casselberry.

Another church withdrawing as a voter precinct is Tuskawilla United Methodist Church, 3925 Red Bug Lake Road, Casselberry.

"Our congregation cannot, in good conscience, lose control of our property on election days... With current interpretation of the law, our church must immediately withdraw as a polling precinct," wrote Barbara Williams Riddle, church minister, in a July 30 letter.

Lewis B. Swaim, minister and chairman of the Board of Elders of Rolling Hills Moravian Church, on State Road 434, Longwood, wrote on July 14, "In view of the fact that... the election law has been amended to allow solicitations, including the gathering of signatures on petitions on polling place property, and in view of the fact that this law takes from us the authority to determine what happens on our church property, we have no choice but to deny the use of our church facility as a polling place."

The 1,250 voters in the 47th precinct which formerly voted at that church will now vote at Long Hills Baptist Church, 1255 E.E. Williamson Road, Longwood, according to Ms. Goard.

The Lake Howell church has hosted 831 90th precinct voters, who will now cast ballots at the Plantation Apartments Clubhouse, 2105 Howell Branch Road, Maitland.

Other churches have agreed to allow their buildings to be used for this fall's elections, after Ms. Goard agreed to provide a disclaimer sign reading, "Solicitation in this polling place for causes and issues is protected as a first amendment privilege, but is neither sponsored or endorsed by this facility or the governmental entity holding the election."

expected to take to Lake Monroe during that weekend's Dixie Regatta.

Smith also said full occupancy of Harbour Place's eight shops is anticipated soon after project completion and tenants already secured are a small sailboat rental agency, clothing and jewelry stores, and a Wellness health facility.

Smith is also talking with a group of Central Florida artists, who may secure a shop from which they would demonstrate their craft, in addition to offering their final products for sale.

An abundance of tropical landscaping and wooden walk-ways will surround the 14,000 square foot complex, which will be glass enclosed and covered with a wooden shingle roof, Smith said.

Second phase efforts, focused at the isle's north-east corner, will hopefully begin next spring and involve either the yacht club or an approximately 10,000-square-foot, 8500,000 commercial complex, Smith said.

Although his preference is for a yacht club, Smith said before going this route he will gauge whether businesses and private citizens, in addition to the boating community, will support the facility with membership.

Smith also said phase two efforts will include installation of two small service docks, regardless of whether the yacht club or commercial project is decided upon.

Ninety-eight new dock slips will be added to the Lake Monroe marina, nearly doubling its capacity, and the marina's eastern breakwater will be expanded by 300 feet through Volk's anticipated $1 million effort.

Volk has secured a state permit to add

36 slips to marina lake's east basin, which presently contains 76, and said he expects additional permits by summer's end to add 62 slips to the west basin, which now holds 44 boats.

There will be no dearth of berth takers, according to Volk, who said he has a list of more than 150 boats waiting for marina dockage.

In addition to the state Department of Environmental Regulation permit already received for east basin expansion, the DER has also formally approved the 300 foot breakwater extension, Volk said.

He also said he had originally hoped to install 240 new marina slips, although the figure was pared by more than half during permit reviews.

Volk has leased the marina facility from the city since 1977, and sub-leases a portion of dock space to the Rivership Romance cruise ship.

Woman's Breast-Implant Surgery Is Mostly A Bust

DEAR ABBY: I am beginning to think I am going crazy. I'm 38 years old (married) and have had three breast implant operations — now I need a fourth. I'll start at the beginning.

First, I wanted to increase the size of my breasts. Well, the plastic surgeon showed me the various sizes, and I am sure he used bigger implants than the ones I picked out because I came out looking so top-heavy. I hated myself. I could't wait until the doctor redid the operation. (By the way, he is a board-certified reconstructive plastic surgeon, has a good reputation and is not cheap.)

Disappointment No. 2: For some reason, he replaced the too-large implants with ones that were too small. I knew right away they weren't what I ordered, so I had a third operation.

This one has me looking lopsided. My left breast is about four inches higher than my right. When I told my doctor he would have to do it over again, he refused, saying, "I'm sorry, I don't think I can please you."

Now what kind of doctor is he? And what should I do about this situation? I certainly can't go around looking the way I am.

LOP-SIDED IN CALIFORNIA
DEAR LOP-SIDED: I think you should see another plastic surgeon for an evaluation, or possibly some corrective surgery, if you don't know one.

Dear Abby

Inquire at the Cosmetic Surgery Information Service, 860 Via de la Paz, Suite B2, Pacific Palisades, Calif. 90272. The national hotline is: 1-800-221-8808. In California, call 1-800-824-3042. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a receptionist in a busy beauty salon, and this is my beef: When a client who has an appointment comes into the shop, I always say, "Please have a seat; I will tell your operator that you are here."

Invariably, she says, "Oh, that's all right," and proceeds to walk straight through to be near her operator. She then finds an unoccupied shampoo chair or one under a hair dryer and engages her operator in conversation — disregarding the fact that her operator is working on another patron.

At this shop, we feel that the patron has paid for the operator's time and full attention, and it's rude and presumptuous for another person to burst in and usurp the operator's time and attention that rightfully belongs to another client. I hope you find room for this letter, Abby. Receptionists everywhere will be grateful.

DESK GIRL

DEAR DESK GIRL: Find room? I'll make room. Now a word to whom it may concern: Madame, if you see yourself in the above picture, color yourself a blushing pink, and please mend your ways.

DEAR ABBY: After reading about the woman who refused to say "thank you" to people who tell her that she would be beautiful if she lost a little weight, I want to add my 22 cents' worth.

All my life I've been skinny. Not sickly skinny — just skinny with a few curves. I find it annoying when people say, "You would be so pretty if you put on a little weight."

Well, I have tried. Believe me, I eat like a horse, but I can't put on an ounce. I have accepted myself as I am, and even considered myself lucky, so why do other people feel the need to tell me I look terrible?

Just as it hurts overweight people to hear "fat jokes," it hurts thin people to be cut down with skinny jokes. Please print this, Abby, for all the skinny people who are sick of hearing, "You are skin and bones; you would look much better if you put on a few pounds."

SKINNY MINNIE

VICTORY

Dena's Pets Offers Personalized Service

Dena's Pets are pampered and so are the people who buy them. At Dena's you get personalized service. Owner Dena Lynn Johnson, owner of Dena's Pets located in the Seminole Centre on Highway 17-92, Sanford, is always willing to go the extra mile.

For her customers' convenience, Dena is open Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and from noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

The grooming shop at Dena's is open early in the morning so that you can drop off your dog before going to work and until after 7 p.m. for pickup. Groomer Polly Smith specializes in Yorkies and Schnauzers.

Polly provides free grooming service once a week for the dogs at the Humane Society shelter.

Dena carries a full line of supplies for every type of animals, cages and airline cabs, products for maintenance, health and grooming, toys, food and vitamins.

Dena's is one of the few shops in the area that sells puppies. Her animals are grown locally and Yorkshire Terriers are her biggest seller. For those breeds not available here she will be glad to special order your choice for you.

She also carries cats (specializing in Himalayas and Persians), dwarf rabbits, guinea pigs, snakes, tarantulas, birds, and fish. Dena's has macaws, blue front amazons, African grays, love birds, cockatiels, parakeets, finches, and yellow nape Amazons. She specializes in handled birds baby formula so they will be tamer. The birds get a well rounded diet of fruits and vegetables and monkey chow biscuits.

She has many types of fish including angel fish, South African Chicklids, neons and guppies. She has a 250 gallon saltwater tank and even sells large sharks and moray eels.

Dena works closely with vets in the area and a vet checks the animals at the shop every day or two. She carries many veterinary supplies, special foods, medicines and flea sprays.

Dena opened her shop in Sanford in April and has had such an excellent response from the people here she has moved here from Casselberry. "I believe in living and shopping where you work," she explained.

She first became interested in animals when she helped out in a pet shop owned by her aunt and uncle when she was growing up. When she came to Florida, before opening her own shop, she worked in a pet shop and at the animal center at Sea World. "It is a family owned and operated shop. My father, John Johnson in West Virginia, has been a great financial and moral support to my brother T.D. Johnson and I in getting this business started. My mother Margaret McMillan also came down and worked with me to get it open."

They also have two employees, Georgia Youngblood and Shari Hayton, who are experts in the pet field and are trained in animal care, products, and customer relations.

Dena has been host to several school classes and puts on educational seminars and school programs to educate people about animals and their care.

For grooming appointments or information call 321-2957.

Z-14 Radio Will Focus On Fall Football Lineup

Under new ownership, Z-14 (WUEZ 1400) in Sanford has a new sound — adult contemporary music featuring classic hits from the 50s to today. Hours have been expanded to 5 a.m. to midnight, Monday through Friday, and Saturday and Sunday, 6 a.m. to midnight.

Program director Al Burke came here from a No. 1 rated FM station in Pennsylvania. He is revitalizing the full-service station's schedule to offer a nice blend of music along with local news, sports, and public affairs programming.

Sports fans, in addition to daily coverage of a full range of sports, will be able to tune in to Z-14 for live play-by-play reporting of all football games played this season by the University of Florida Gators, the Miami Dolphins, and Seminole High School.

Here's the lineup: Seminole High every Friday night; Florida Gators every Saturday; Miami Dolphins every Sunday (and two Mondays) with the Don Shula Show 30 minutes before each Dolphin Game.

Z-14 will present the Galen Hall Show from 7-8 p.m. every Wednesday and fans will be able to phone toll free to ask questions of the coaches.

Seminole-Orange Broadcasting took over the station on June 1. The general manager is Mitch Carroll. He is and partner with Larry Hadley and Don Unger, also of Pennsylvania.

UCF graduate Stan Lee, news director, comes to Z-14 from WUCF-FM, where he served as news director for 1 1/2 years. With extensive experience in sports coverage, he will serve as the color analyst for high school football on Z-14 this fall.

Steve Luba, Z-14 sports director, is doing play-by-play coverage of Seminole High School's 10 football games. Steve spent the past year announcing the UCF football, basketball and baseball for WUCF. His previous experience includes television work at WUFT-TV in Gainesville covering the 1984 SEC Champion Gator Football Team and radio work at WRUF AM and FM covering the Gators.

Z-14 is affiliated with Satellite Network News with news every hour on the hour between 6 and 9 am and at noon. Between 4 and 6 p.m., Stan Lee and Steve Luba handle the news and full range of sports in Seminole and southwest Volusia County and other stories from the network.

- Other new features include:
- A commute alert traffic network for traffic reports and conditions between Sanford and Orlando
- A 15-minute public affairs program called "Community Outlook" which airs at 11:45 a.m.

each Sunday. Some of the personalities who have been featured include Sanford Mayor Betty Smith, Glenn Martin, developer of the Primera project in Lake Mary; Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett; Bill Poe, executive director of SWOP; and Joan Madison, director of RSVP. Dr. Lurline Sweeting, Seminole Community College counselor, will be next Sunday's guest. Those wishing to publicize an event or be a guest on the show should contact Stan at 322-1400.

- "A Look at Business" at 5:50 p.m. each day and the 12:02 midday stock report by Ernie Oliver of Interstate Securities, Maitland.
- A swap and sell show. Tradio (back by popular request) coming up in mid-September.
- A morning wake up show beginning Sept. 15 from 6-10 a.m. Monday through Friday featuring comedy, music, information, prizes and giveaways.

"We want to give the station an identity we can be proud of and the people in the listening area can be proud of," said Al. "Try us, turn us on and we think you'll like what you hear."

Reagan May Appoint Small Business Head

By David Vesey
UPI Business Writer
WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House Chief of Staff Donald Regan Monday marked the start of the White House Conference on Small Business by telling 1,823 delegates that President Reagan soon would appoint a permanent head of the Small Business Administration.

"Right now I can't tell you who," said Regan. But he predicted the small business community would be pleased with the selection.

The announcement was greeted with cheers from the delegates attending the five-day conference. But others were unhappy that Regan — and not Reagan — represented the administration.

Administration sources identify the appointee as W. Eugene Johnston, a former Republican congressman from Greenboro, N.C.

Delegates and small business organization representatives were enthusiastic about Johnston, who served one term in the House from 1980-1982.

Johnston has longstanding ties with the business community. Is "outspoken on economic policy" and has a "tremendous amount of energy," said Terry Hill, spokesman for the National Federation of Independent Business.

Johnston would replace Charles Heatherly, who has been acting SBA administrator since April.

Delegates also said they were happy Reagan no longer is trying to abolish the SBA and fold its existing programs into the Commerce Department. Congress has strongly opposed administration efforts to disband the SBA.

There's A New Look In Nation's School Lunches

By BILL LOHMANN
UPI Feature Writer

ATLANTA (UPI) — Lunch is becoming as popular as recess in schools across America thanks to an ongoing push to make once-drab meals more like a field trip than a pop quiz in algebra.

"If you haven't been in a school lately," said Eugenia Scay, coordinator of the School Nutrition Program in the Georgia Department of Education, "you wouldn't recognize school lunches."

There are salad bars, potato bars, taco bars and all sorts of other tasty offerings that provide students with a appetizing choice instead of a plateful of heartburn.

"Many schools serve lunch more like fast-food restaurants today instead of the old take-it-or-leave-it method," said Gene Vincent, a spokesman for the Food and Nutrition Service branch of the Department of Agriculture, which oversees school lunch programs for 24 million students nationwide.

"But they keep it more nutritious than fast food by cutting down on salts, sugars and fats."

The shift in school lunches originated in 1966 with the National School Lunch Act and Child Nutrition Act that required the Department of Agriculture to set minimal nutritional requirements. However, the biggest changes did not arrive until the past decade.

Lunch planners began getting more creative — although keeping within the nutritional guidelines set by the federal government — and the result was more variety for students, who often preferred shooting green peas at each other to eating them.

The taste trend nationally is away from the old standards.

Vincent said pizza has replaced hamburgers as the overwhelming school favorite. Chicken nuggets and Mexican dishes, such as tacos and burritos, are close behind along with make-your-own salads.

Cheese, pasta and nuts are in widespread use. The traditional carton of milk is still there, but schools also are required to offer either lowfat, skim or buttermilk. Fruit juices are available in some areas.

In DeKalb County, Ga., which includes part of Atlanta, students have an alternative to the typical tray lunch: they can select from salad, potato and fruit-and-cheese bars as well as soup-and-sandwich lines.

Dot Dusenberry, the county coordinator of food services who started as a school nutritionist 19 years ago, says the changes she has witnessed have been remarkable.

"When I started, we offered virtually no choice whatsoever," said Dusenberry, who is responsible for feeding 50,000 students each day. "The child came through the line, got the tray and that was it."

"We were not nearly as concerned about overall nutrition or even teaching students something about nutrition. Of course, all this is more readily acceptable today because the public is much more aware of the necessity of good nutrition."

The new motto for lunch preparers in DeKalb schools is "Scratch and Batch," a theme typical across the nation as school kitchens improve operations with the use of computers and state-of-the-art equipment.

"We're going to prepare many more items from scratch and do more batch cooking," Dusenberry said. "More cooking in small quantities so we'll maintain the quality so when it's offered on the line it will have been just prepared."

It all sounds nice but seems awfully troublesome for kitchen workers preparing lunch for hundreds of students.

"Not really," Dusenberry said. "It offers us a challenge. We want to offer several choices and hopefully please everybody. That's the purpose of the whole thing."

In the past, very few were pleased and as a result, waste was staggering. Food many youngsters did not like — cabbage, green beans and cole slaw are prime examples — traditionally went untouched and landed in the trash heap.

Said the USDA's Vincent, "By having choices, there is less waste. I guess it's finally caught on that there's no use in giving vitamins to the garbage can."

Dusenberry said her DeKalb system, as well as others across the nation, is providing nicer lunchroom atmospheres — including colorful decorations and meal garnishes — to help make the food more appealing.

"The key is to make meals not only more nutritious but appetizing," she said.

Most school lunches run around $1, although nearly half of all students pay reduced prices or get lunch for free as a financial aid, Vincent said.

The federal government pumps $3.5 billion into the school lunch program each year, making low prices possible and keeping school kitchens out of the red. But school meal planners still have to balance tight budgets and they have learned that it's smart to run their kitchens like little restaurants.

"I think school lunch people are more aware than in the old days that the students are customers," Vincent said. "Not just kids."

Treatment Doesn't Suit The Problem

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — Several years ago I started to get severe itching after my shower; later, I began to itch at other times. Recently I had to have surgery and the doctors found that I had a very high red blood count. They removed four pints of blood. Now the polycythemia is controlled by a phlebotomy every two to four months. The surgeon thinks this is what's causing the itching, but the hematologist says it's my emphysema. What do you think?

DEAR READER — Both doctors are correct: The cause of your itching may be the polycythemia (too many red blood cells) that, in turn, is caused by emphysema. Patients with emphysema have too little oxygen in their systems. To counteract this, the bone marrow manufactures more red corpuscles — the cells that carry oxygen in the bloodstream. Although your pulmonary problem prevents oxygen from entering the lungs, your body has misinterpreted the cause of your low oxygen and is attempting to supply more corpuscles to pick up the oxygen that you are unable to breathe in. As a result, patients with emphysema frequently have polycythemia.

Treatment must be directed at correcting the oxygen abnormality, not at removing the excess blood cells that your body has been fooled into making. I'm a little surprised that your hematologist has chosen phlebotomy (blood removal) as therapy. This seems to be addressing a symptom, not a cause, of your difficulty. I have been taught that treating the emphysema, rather than the polycythemia, would be more effective. As long as your oxygen level is deficient, you will continue to make too many red blood cells.

In my view, there are at least three useful treatments for your emphysema: First, bronchodilators may be helpful. Many emphysema patients have a tendency to develop airway spasm, which can be aided by drugs that relax bronchial passageways and allow freer flow of air. Second, breathing exercises can improve the efficiency of air exchange in the lungs. Emphysema causes overinflation of the lungs. Patients can often be taught ways of more effectively emptying the lungs of stale air. These include the use of accessory muscles of respiration, including the abdomen. Third, oxygen supplements might improve the oxygen levels in your system. Low-flow oxygen, from a tank or concentrator machine, will increase the amount of oxygen you breathe and absorb; therefore, you might be able to raise your blood oxygen. This will reduce your tendency to polycythemia. I believe that you could be helped by seeing a specialist in pulmonary medicine.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Could it ever be right to pass your partner in a probable 4-1 fit when you have a 5-3 fit available? Look at the bidding of today's deal and tell me if North was not just plain crazy to pass two diamonds with only a singleton when he had three-card support for spades. Perhaps I can show method in his madness.

When North bid two clubs, he anticipated that East would bid a red suit. Then North would compete with a two-spade bid and subside if East-West continued to the three-level. But the punitive double of two clubs by East gave North an idea. Why not pass two diamonds, giving East an easy opportunity to continue in the rhythm of doubling for penalties? If North ran to two spades only after two diamonds had been doubled, the opponents might be lured into a mistake. And that is exactly what happened.

With the queen of clubs lead, declarer had no trouble making the doubled contract. True, if the defenders led three rounds of hearts ending in the East hand and then played a spade, declarer might be set a trick. That would still be a good result against a three no-trump contract that could easily be made by West. And that would no doubt have been the final contract if North had confidently bid two spades over two diamonds, since East would be reluctant to then double with only a singleton in the North-South trump suit.
