

Can Lake Monroe Utilities Get Sewage Disposal OK?

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

Probably the best-kept industrial expansion secret in Seminole County in recent years — one that could spell up to 350 local jobs — may hinge on whether Lake Monroe Utilities engineers can satisfy the county Division of Environmental Services and the state Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) on the utility's proposed sewage disposal expansion.

Lake Monroe Utilities is proposing an expansion from its current 75,000-gallon daily capacity to 100,000 gallons, an expansion that appears to be a key in Seminole County's landing the "mystery firm."

Lake Monroe Utilities owner Dr. James W. Hickman, is asking that his plant, located at his Interstate 4 Industrial Park, be increased for additional capacity of the 185-acre park and its 30 businesses and 23 buildings. Without the expansion, the "mystery firm" would have no sewage treatment available. Sources won't name the firm, but indicate it is one of the top 100 companies in the nation and is scouting a site behind the Holiday Inn at the intersection of I-4 and State Road 44 and that it will employ about 300 workers.

The DER has indicated to Hickman, however, that unless engineering studies can show his plant can handle the additional disposal of treated sewage on the site, his request will likely be denied.

"Until we find an acceptable solution for the DER," said Lake Monroe Utilities spokesman Greg Drummond, "landing the major industry does not look good for Seminole County at this time."

Lake Monroe Utilities is asking that it be allowed to put treated sewage into a ditch and let it flow into Lake Monroe and the St. Johns River, but the DER has indicated that won't be allowed.

The private utility company is designed to handle 100,000 gallons per day, but its current method of "living filter" and land-spreading sewage treatment are handling only 75,000 gallons per day.

A living filter is a manmade swamp that uses biodegradation to treat sewage.

Soil conditions around Hickman's plant make it difficult for the facility to increase its on-site treatment. By allowing the treated sewage to drain into the ditch and eventually Lake Monroe, the utility would realize a considerable saving over the costs of expanding its on-site disposal structures, according to county engineers.

"After we're satisfied with all the possibilities we come up with after a review with our engineers," said Drummond, "we'll go back to the DER."

"If an on-site-no-runoff solution does not appear monetarily feasible, then we'll have to back off. But we are looking at all possible solutions," he said.

According to Drummond, Lake Monroe Utilities has the lowest rates of any private, unsubsidized utility in the county. "And we haven't increased the rates since the 1970s, when the plant first opened," he said.

Should the DER turn down Lake Monroe Utilities' next proposal and the utility opts for additional on-site treatment facilities, the cost of the treatment eventually would be passed on to users of the system through increased rates.

A rate increase for Lake Monroe Utilities currently is under consideration by the state Public Service Commission staff.

"Our rates are probably in order," said Drummond.

"We haven't had an increase since the utility began in the '70s, and the investors have not received a return so far. The PSC staff contacted us about a possible increase in rates," he said.

"The PSC staff will recommend to the PSC what kind of rate increase is in order, and Lake Monroe Utilities will go along with what they feel is in order," he added.

Swindled? Official, Developer Hunting Auto Broker

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

An Altamonte Springs automobile broker expressed hope today that an Oriental auto broker from Rotterdam, the Netherlands who he said disappeared with $83,000 paid for two Mercedes Benz autos by a Seminole County commissioner and a land developer, will show up.

"He should show up," said the broker, Marc Bennett.

Bennett, saying he had done business with Kenji Watanabe for seven years prior to Watanabe's recent disappearance, said that if the man doesn't show up, "We have all been taken."

Involved in the purchase of the cars for which they say they paid a total of $87,000 are County Commissioner Barbara Christensen and Dr. James W. Hickman, a Winter Park dentist, owner of the 14 Industrial Park and numerous other properties in the county.

And Chief Assistant State Attorney Chris Ray said Mrs. Christensen filed a complaint with his Seminole County office and that the incident is under investigation.

In addition, Mrs. Christensen said she, Hickman and Bennett were scheduled to meet this morning in the Orlando law office of Hickman's lawyer, Jesse Graham, to discuss the matter.

Mrs. Christensen relates the following story:

Michael Robertson, a real estate agent who works for the Caselberry Land Co. where Mrs. Christensen is a bookkeeper, approached her about Bennett.

She said she has been investing her mother's money and saw the purchase of two Mercedes Benz vehicles through Bennett as a way to make a $8,000 to $8,000 profit.

Saying that Bennett shortly before had passed a background check by the Caselberry Masonic lodge for membership and had a high recommendation from a local banker, Mrs. Christensen said it appeared Bennett was trustworthy.

She said that in addition, Hickman's lawyer said he had known Bennett for 10 years. The banker, Mrs. Christensen said, told her Bennett had lived in Altamonte Springs five years and traveled all over the world in the import-export business.

While Mrs. Christensen had ordered two vehicles for investment purposes, Hickman had also ordered one for himself.

Mrs. Christensen said she wrote two $4,000 checks to Bennett as the down payment on a final price of $81,000 for the two cars. She said that two weeks later Bennett asked for $1,000 more for each car and a check for $55,024, the balance owed on the total price.

She said he showed her the paperwork from Victoria Auto Dealers in Rotterdam to prove that the cars had been ordered.

Mrs. Christensen said she became more confident of Bennett when a few weeks later he returned her $55,000 check.

By the time he asked for the check again in February, she said, she had suffered losses on the stock market and no longer had the cash.

At that point, knowing that Hickman had also ordered a Mercedes, Mrs. Christensen agreed to let him purchase one of the two cars she had ordered.

So Mrs. Christensen put up $30,000 for her car and Hickman put up the $33,000 for the second car. He had already posted a $4,000 deposit earlier, Mrs. Christensen said.

With the Feb. 23 delivery date at hand, Mrs. Christensen said, Bennett's son went to Rotterdam to see what the holdup in shipment was. She said she was told there was a delay in installing emission controls to meet U.S. standards.

When Bennett returned from a trip to Rotterdam early this month, Mrs. Christensen said, he told her that Watanabe and the cars or money had disappeared.

"That's when he told me (Watanabe) ran off with them and he couldn't find (him) or the cars," Mrs. Christensen said.

When Hickman contacted Victoria Auto Brokers they told him they had received an order but that it had been canceled for lack of payment.

Shuttle Heads For Touchdown

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The pilots of the space shuttle Columbia said they were ready to come home today from seven days in orbit with a blazing dash over the Southwest and a landing at a backup shuttleport in southern New Mexico.

The scheduled landing time was 2:27 p.m. EST.

Weather was the only obstacle to an on-time end of the 3.4 million mile, 115-orbit voyage of astronaut Jack Louma and Gordon Fullerton. Flight director Tommy Holloway said conditions were expected to be fair, "assuming it doesn't deteriorate any more than we expect it to."

A late report called for broken clouds at 25,000 feet and scattered clouds at lower altitudes over the Northrup Strip at White Sands Missile Range. Winds were expected to be gusting up to 40 mph at landing time, and Holloway said he would prefer lighter winds.

If conditions worsened, Holloway said the most likely option would be to wait until Tuesday to end the third test flight for the reusable rocket plane. He said a landing an hour and a half early was unlikely.

Flight director Neil Hutchinson said Sunday night that staying up an extra day was the more attractive option if the weather worsened.

The astronauts' path after firing their breaking rockets over the Pacific Ocean was to cross the California coast west of Los Angeles like a 10,400-mph fireball and then streak over 765 miles of California, Arizona and New Mexico in 15 minutes.

Tens of thousands of people were waiting for hours in the desolate military proving grounds and on its fringes to watch the spaceship swoop in for its first landing outside of California. Heavy rains at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., forced the switch to the runway marked out for 7 miles on the packed gypsum at White Sands.

The pilots began their last day in orbit when they were awakened at 5 a.m. with a country song — "Eight Days on the Road and I'm Gonna Make It Home Tonight."

"You ready?" Louma asked Brewster Shaw in Houston control.

"We're ready if you are," Shaw replied.

"Right on, we're ready," said Louma, the veteran of a 59-day Skylab flight.

White Sands' Northrup Strip, always an alternate to Edwards, is set on a vast flatland tucked between the brooding San Andres and Sacramento Mountains of southern New Mexico.

A few miles to the north, behind a high chain-link fence, is "Trinity Site" — where the country's first atomic bomb was detonated without fanfare or publicity in July 1945.

Hutchinson said the flight has demonstrated the shuttle is close to being declared ready for routine satellite launching missions beginning next November with flight No. 5.

Longwood Man To Help Dedicate Memorial

Former POW Going Back To Philippines

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Bataan Death March survivor Samuel Moody of Longwood has been invited to assist in the dedication of the American Prisoner of War Memorial as a guest of the Philippine government and the Filipino World War II veterans.

The memorial, paid for by $16,000 in donations by former American prisoners of war of the Japanese and their families, will be dedicated April 12 during the 40th anniversary observance of the fall of Bataan and the start of the infamous march. A resolution introduced by U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs, was passed in Congress proclaiming April 12 as Cabanatuan Memorial Day.

The site and the labor were provided by the Filipinos. The memorial is on the site of the Cabanatuan prisoner of war camp 60 miles north of Manila, where more than 3,000 Americans died during a 31-month period. This makes Cabanatuan the second worst POW camp in American military history, with Andersonville, the Confederate Civil War camp in Georgia, being the worst, according to Moody.

Past national commander of the American Defenders of Bataan and Corregidor and secretary of the Cabanatuan Memorial Committee,

Moody was a prisoner of the Japanese for 3 1/2 years and spent part of his imprisonment at Cabanatuan. He is also the author of a book about his POW experiences, "Reprieve from Hell."

Moody will leave for the Philippines on Thursday from Washington, D.C. and will meet with President Ferdinand Marcos on April 7 at the presidential palace.

Other survivors from this area who will travel to the Philippines for the occasion, but at their own expense, include Dominick Giantonio of Wekiva, Hyman Bernstein of Altamonte Springs, and Col. Eunice Young, a nurse from Winter Park.

They also will visit other historical sites pertaining to the war in the Philippines, including Bataan and Corregidor as well as the American Cemetery in Manila, where thousands of U.S. servicemen were buried. They will present wreaths from the Florida Air Force Association and other Central Florida veterans' groups.

Moody said that for 40 years efforts to get the U.S. government to place a memorial for American prisoners of war in the Philippines were fruitless, so the survivors launched a campaign for donations, asking $10 from each of their number.

The original plans submitted called for a memorial 26 feet across, but the Filipinos, accustomed to dealing with meters, misunderstood and built it 75 feet across instead.

With the favorable exchange rate and volunteer labor, Moody said, the memorial is actually worth $80,000. The U.S. and Philippine flags fly from staffs in the center of the circular memorial. Incorporated in the floor of the memorial are two small plaques previously placed by veterans groups.

A well has been dug so there will always be flowers and trees around the memorial, Moody said.

Moody, an Army sergeant, survived the Death March, hunger, torture and imprisonment, and while a POW his prisonship was torpedoed and his prison camp in Japan was bombed by American planes.

While at Cabanatuan he was caught trying to smuggle in some peanut oil, and with three other men was forced to stand at attention for 53 hours (a world's record that still stands in the Guinness Book of Records). The other three men died.

"I had malaria a hundred times and many men died from it. I had the will to live and the desire to come back home," said Moody.

and Corregidor for three months on half rations, he said, before they were ordered to surrender to the Japanese. By that time most everyone had lost 25 to 40 pounds and had run out of food, medicine and supplies.

"Because this was the only time our country surrendered to a foreign country we were unfairly treated and thought of as an embarrassment by some," said Moody. "We were just following orders."

Hearings Begin On Sanford Lawsuit

Court hearings on the Sanford downtown improvement lawsuit began before Circuit Judge Roger Dykes in the courthouse at Sanford today. The hearings are scheduled to last a week.

The lawsuit, filed by G. Algernon Speer, a Sanford lawyer and property owner, for himself and nine other property owners in the area asks the court to stop the city from spending money to implement plans for downtown improvements.

Speer has objected to the proposed improvements, saying they would adversely affect drainage in the area, impair deliveries to businesses and impede or delay emergency vehicles.

The suit has delayed the project for 18 months in preliminaries for the actual court battle.

Proposed improvements for which the city has budgeted funds three years in a row include rebuilding sidewalks and installing planters in the street and at corners to beautify the area. Part of the plan calls for the creation of a center esplanade or pedestrian mall on part of Magnolia Avenue.

The cost of the improvements has been estimated at $214,000, including labor. City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles has said that with inflation the actual cost probably will be much higher.

City staff members spent time last week gathering information for the city's case. Knowles said numerous color photos were taken in the downtown section, using traffic cones and emergency vehicles, in an effort to show that the planters will not impede emergency vehicles.

Representing the city in the lawsuit is City Attorney William Colbert, assisted by his partner, Kenneth McIntosh.

A Little Bull Goes A Long Way

SALINA, Kan. (UPI) — A calf that apparently became a little too bullish on America broke away from his owner, eluded police and then smashed through the window of an investment and loan company.

The year-old Hereford became spooked while it was being unloaded at Kerwood Park on Saturday, eluded police and others trying to rein it in and then bailed its way into the C.D. Investment & Loan Co., about a mile away. The calf crashed through the firm's 4-by-4-foot plate-glass window.

When the calf finally charged out of C.D. Investment, Police Officer Don Vogelberg was able to get a rope around the calf's neck. He and officers Mike Marshall and Ernie Schmidt managed to detain the animal.

Occasional Use Of Corticosterone OK

DEAR DR. LAMB — My 4-year-old son has a severe case of asthma. The attacks are usually triggered by a cold. He has had skin tests for allergies and all were negative. Our doctor has occasionally had us give him one-and-a-half tablets of Prednisone (5 mg. size) four times a day. Is this drug harmful? Does it have any permanent effect on the body?

Dr. Lamb

DEAR READER — The concern in using corticosterone in children is that regular use over an extended period of time may affect the pituitary-adrenal function and may stunt the child's growth. Intermittent dosage is not likely to do this. The occasional use during an acute attack as you have stated is not likely to be harmful in any way. It can often provide dramatic relief in such situations.

The use of corticosteroids in treating asthma is still controversial, particularly if used even in an adult as a continuous medication. Its use temporarily in acute attacks is common. Most doctors prefer to use other medicines for maintenance therapy or to prevent attacks. And if they do use it in conjunction with other medicines.

Your son's illness is fairly typical. About 65 percent of asthmatics develop symptoms before age 5 and it is twice as common in males as in females. But probably fewer than one in five have severe asthmatic symptoms later in life.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-6, Asthma, which includes a section on exercise and asthma that may be of importance to you as your boy gets older. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently I heard that the reason middle-aged women who become pregnant run a higher risk of having a baby with a birth defect, could be caused by weak sperm from an older middle-aged partner. Is this true? I am middle-aged and not yet married. I plan to marry a younger woman and have a family. What should I eat, or what vitamins should be taken to keep my sperm healthy and strong? Also could you send me a diet for a middle-aged (30-years-old) slender male?

DEAR READER — There is some truth in the story. About one in four babies born with Down syndrome are caused by abnormal chromosomes from the father's sperm. And regarding age, in recent years 90 percent of Down syndrome babies are born to mothers under 35.

Either male or female can have abnormal chromosomes in the ovum or sperm at any age. But I do not consider age 30 as middle-aged. I'm sure a lot of my readers don't either. Just eat a well-balanced diet. If you have bad eating habits you might supplement your diet with a single, all-purpose daily vitamin tablet that contains all the RDA for vitamins. Habits are important, too, particularly smoking and alcohol.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, March 31, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 31, 1982
This coming year something quite fortunate may be offered you which could better your lot in life. However, take care before bringing others into the venture. They might upset your appercat.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Although you're feeling fortunate today, don't press your luck on the domestic scene. If you become too self-serving, you can expect sparks to fly. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in each of the seasons following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
You can talk your way out of most situations today, but not workwise. The only thing that is effective there is responsible behavior.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
If you place too much emphasis on having a good time today, you could be passing up a golden opportunity to better your lot in life.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Domestic responsibilities may put a damper on your social life today. Trying to fight the situation will only make matters worse.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Be extra-careful and protective of yourself today if you have to do any running around. Drive defensively. Watch out for those cracks in the sidewalk.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
An excellent break may come your way today in your work or career. Unfortunately, one who is jealous might attempt to undermine and belittle your good fortune.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
You're not likely to handle your resources today with the same consideration and care that you do other things in your life. Losses could ensue.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Don't pretend to be, or have, more than you are today. If you do, there's a good chance you'll be challenged to prove what you present is fact.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
It's very possible today that you might be thrown together with one who is unreasonably hostile. Keep your wits. Don't let this person bring you down to his or her level.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
The wrong choice of partners today could cause all kinds of problems, from deception to arguments. This may be one of those times to go it alone.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
There is nothing wrong with your blueprint, but your methods and techniques to build your castle may leave a lot to be desired. Think before you leap.

WIN AT BRIDGE

With the North-South bidding. East was cold for five diamonds and five hearts could only be set one trick.

We can't say anything bad about the East-West bidding. When John jumped to four hearts he made it practically impossible for anyone but a real desperado to bid four spades. In fact, West did very well to find his five diamond bid.

However, West's play can well be described as an expert — or even a dub — at his worst.

West started by leading the king of clubs instead of the sensible deuce of diamonds. East played the three and Armstrong played his eight. Were clubs to break 3-3, a club continuation or a diamond shift would give John his contract with an overtrick.

West shifted to the deuce of diamonds.

South won in dummy, led a trump to his ace, cashed the ace of clubs, entered dummy by leading the five of hearts to the jack, led the jack of clubs and discarded a spade.

West was in with the queen and after something that might be described as thought led a second diamond. Curtains for the defense.

'Easter Orientale' Fashions

By DORIS DIETRICH
OURSELVES Editor

The United Methodist Women of the First United Methodist Church, Sanford, heralded spring with "Easter Orientale," a benefit luncheon and fashion show held in the church fellowship hall.

According to Nancy Terwilliger, president of the UMW, proceeds will benefit missions including the Sanford Christian Sharing Center.

Models showed fashions from Lois' Place, Sanford. Vivacious Jerri Kirk, in a frilly lace blouse and navy skirt, served as the commentator. Bart Peterson Jr. was the only male model. He showed a Catalina ensemble featuring navy swim trunks and a terry jacket. Also, he assisted the models ascending and descending the stage area.

Fashions ran the gamut from the latest in swimwear to glamorous after-five creations. As the finale, Lisa Barker modeled a swishing orchid taffeta gown, fashioned along the Southern Belle silhouette — perfect for the prom or bridal scene.

Other models were: Beth Freeman, a candidate for Miss Sanford; Kathy Gray, Leslee Gordon, Susana Huaman, Rose Speer, Myra Stapleton, Lucille Jarrell and Lisa Polgar. Also: Alicia Huaman, Bettye Smith, Pam Tucker, Bill Gielow, Patty Speer, Bonnie Albers, Lois Dycus, Pat Kader, Jennifer Cowley, Pat Shell, Nell Touchton and Lori Cox.

DOTTIE HEAD ... daytime special

Singing in the rain...Leslee Gordon.

Thumb-Sucking Natural Harmless Activity

DEAR ABBY: Tell "Going Crazy" with the thumb-sucking children not to let it bother her.

I have five children, and they were all thumb-suckers. When my oldest baby started sucking his thumb a lot, I asked my doctor what to do about it. He recommended that I paint the baby's thumb with some bitter-tasting medicine, which I immediately picked up at the drugstore. While painting my baby's thumb with that stuff, I accidentally spilled a few drops on my skirt, and would you believe it not only ate a hole in my skirt, it ate a hole in my slip, too!

I threw it out and let my kids suck their thumbs to their hearts' content. All five stopped by the time they went to school and they all have beautiful mouths.

NORTH DAKOTA NANA
DEAR ABBY: I have two children. The first one was a thumb-sucker. It didn't bother me much, but it seemed to bother a lot of other people, so I used every remedy I heard of to get her to stop. It became a real battle, and I lost. That child sucked her thumb every chance she got. She'd come home from school, hide in a closet or behind the sofa and suck her thumb. I finally gave up.

Dear Abby

The next child was also a thumb-sucker, but I made up my mind to ignore it. I don't know whether my attitude about thumb-sucking made the difference in their personalities or not, but the second child is much more loving and even-tempered.

MRS. C.
DEAR ABBY: A psychologist once told my husband that most habitual smokers, gum-chewers and compulsive overeaters were probably thumb-suckers as children. He said that the urge to put things in their mouths dies hard. My husband was a heavy smoker (before he quit), and his mother confirmed the fact that he sucked his thumb until he was nearly 10. It didn't bother his teeth, but the thumb on his left hand is flat.

LEHIGH, FLA.
DEAR ABBY: I am 74, and I sucked my thumb even after I started school. The other kids made fun of me, so I put my head on my arm and went to sleep sucking my thumb. I went home crying that day and asked my father to help me. That night before going to bed, he wrapped my thumb with black bicycle tape. The next morning I woke up sucking the other thumb. That night my father taped both thumbs before I went to bed. That did the trick!

MRS. G.B.
DEAR ABBY: A child psychologist once told me that children suck their thumbs instinctively to comfort themselves when they are tired, bored, lonely or sleepy. Trying to prevent a youngster from engaging in this natural, harmless activity by physical force or by shaming him can do emotional damage. Some children develop an overbite from constant thumb-sucking, but it's easier to fix a child's teeth than his emotions.

I agree with you, Abby. Don't nag a thumb-sucker, but do make sure an orthodontist watches his teeth and mouth development carefully. Some orthodontists make special appliances to prevent and correct malformation of the mouth.
DENTAL ASSISTANT

DEAR ABBY: Our son sucked his thumb until he was 9. While growing up he needed a lot of orthodontia. His brother, who was three years younger, never sucked his thumb and needed the exact same correction! Our thumb-sucker is now 18. He's well-adjusted, happy, popular, a top student and a fine athlete. His kid brother, I'm sorry to say, is sullen, troubled and has a lot of problems. ALL THUMBS IN SAN MATEO

DEAR ABBY: Let me tell you about a thumb-sucker I know. He's my husband. He's 31, a 6-footer, weighs 195 pounds and we've been married for nearly four years. When we were first married, just before he'd fall asleep he'd always turn his back toward me. Finally I discovered why when I woke up earlier than he and saw that sweet little boy with his thumb in his mouth!

Please don't mention where this letter came from because he still doesn't know I know.

IN BRIEF

Rain Washes Out Preps, 'Noles, Rams Rescheduled

Rain washed away most of Monday's sports action. Bobby Lundquist's Fighting Seminoles were washed out at DeLand. They will play the Bulldogs at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Conrad Park.

Don Smith's Lake Mary Rams were rained out of their big matchup against the Lyman Junior varsity. The Rams will take on Ron Baker's undefeated Greyhounds on Friday at 4 p.m. at the Westmonte Recreation Center.

Kelley Leads Suns' Victory

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Monday night's only NBA game, between Phoenix and Utah, produced an interesting matchup with the Suns battling for an NBA playoff berth and the Jazz seemingly after the league's top draft choice.

The outcome was hardly a surprise: Phoenix built up a 20-point lead, 54-34, by the second quarter, and the Suns coasted to a 113-102 victory over Utah. Rich Kelley scored a season-high 23 points to pace the Suns, who also got 20 from Truck Robinson.

The Jazz, in losing their 18th consecutive game, have the third worst record in the NBA and are now just 2½ games ahead of San Diego and 3½ ahead of Cleveland.

"This was a big game for us," said Phoenix Coach John MacLeod. "We knew the Jazz had been losing, but we also knew we'd have to play well to beat them. The last time they won at home was against us."

Utah Coach Frank Layden says he's having "a hard time" getting his players out of their slump. "They didn't come to play tonight. It's hard to motivate them when you're in last place in the (Midwest) division. You have to earn every win."

"The way we're playing, we'll get a good draft pick. So that's a plus, if there is one for this type of play," he added.

Alvan Adams and Dennis Johnson added 16 points each for Phoenix, while Kyle Macy had 12. The Suns are now 39-32 and tied with Golden State for third place in the Pacific Division.

"We're in a dogfight with Denver, Golden State and Houston for the fifth and sixth playoff spots in the Western Conference, and we're ready. This is the fun time of the season," MacLeod said.

Mark McCartney, in the sewing machine-vacuum cleaner business at John's Sew-N-Vac with his father and brother.

John's Sew-N-Vac Will Service Machine For $5

For only $5 the trained professionals at John's Sew-N-Vac at 111 S. Magnolia Ave., Sanford and 148 W. New York Ave., DeLand, will clean, oil and adjust your sewing machine or vacuum cleaner plus sharpen one pair of scissors absolutely free of charge.

For this low price they will adjust tension (top and bottom) adjust the motor belt, inspect motor wiring, oil completely, clean hook and feed assembly, check wiring to controls and machine timing on your sewing machine (a $21.50 value.)

On the vacuum cleaner they will clean, oil and adjust the agitator, wheels and height control and check the belt, bag housing, motor and brushes (a $19.50 value).

John's Sew-N-Vac is the authorized dealer for sale and service of Royal Vacuum Cleaners and White sewing machines. They also have a full line of parts of any vacuum cleaner or sewing machine.

A family business, it is owned and operated by John A. McCartney, who has more than 20 years experience in the field, and his sons, John A. III and Mark A., who have learned the trade from their father.

The McCartneys want to thank all their loyal Sanford customers who have shown confidence in them and made the business here grow in the past 1½ years.

Repairs are done right in the store and in most cases one day service can be provided. They will be glad to give you a free estimate on your sewing machine or vacuum cleaner repairs.

They repair all makes of vacuum cleaners and sewing machines and work is guaranteed.

John's Sew-N-Vac also sells new and used vacuum cleaners with well known and respected names such as Royal, Hoover, and Eureka and sewing machines such as White, Necchi, Viking, Dial and Sew and Riccar.

Trade-ins are accepted and financing is available. Trade-ins are fixed up and sold as used machines. Sewing machines are available for as low as $29.

"We service what we sell and everything is guaranteed," said John McCartney. "If anything goes wrong with a machine purchased from most discount stores it is necessary to pack it up and send it back to the factory. Should anything be wrong with the merchandise we sell, the customer can just bring it in with the warranty card and we will repair it here free of charge."

"Preventive maintenance on Vacuum cleaners and sewing machines should be done at least once a year to assure that the machines run properly and last longer," McCartney advises. "Especially in Florida where so much fine dust and sand can be damaging. Keeping them properly cleaned and oiled can prevent costly repairs."

John's Sew-N-Vac also sharpens scissors and pinking shears.

Store hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Marvin Wright, owner of Volkshop, which specializes in Volkswagen, Toyota and Datsun repairs.

Let Volkshop Check Car For Safety And Savings

When your tire is low or your gas gauge says empty, your car is giving you a clear signal that it needs attention. But in these days of self-service gas stations and the closing of the county's Motor Vehicle Inspection Stations other problems are not that simple to detect. It is the driver's responsibility to see that the car which he is driving is in safe condition for his own protection and that of others.

However, few of us have the time or expertise to detect and care for the maintenance problems our cars may have. There are many hidden maintenance needs that are not apparent until a major and costly problem develops. Many motorists neglect maintenance until it is too late.

The Volkshop at 214 Palmetto Ave., Sanford, wants to help you keep your trusty Volkswagen, Datsun or Toyota running safely and economically. Owner Marvin Wright and his experienced mechanics have an old-fashioned concern for you and your car.

They will give your car a free safety check or a free visual check up. Trained mechanics Ray Eland, Ralph Landress and Jeff Lackey will check it for oil, fan belt, transmission leaks underneath and even jack it up to check the front end.

Volkshop specializes in the repair and service of VW's, Toyotas, Datsuns and 4-6 cylinder American compacts.

Your small car will perform better if tuned up properly and save on your fuel bill.

If your Volkswagen has seen better days and you're considering investing in a new car, think twice. The tried and true VW "Bug" is no longer being manufactured, but the Volkshop can completely recondition and refurbish your VW like new for only a fraction of what a new car would cost.

That includes, tires, paint job, a new engine and brakes, according to Wright. Come into Volkshop for an estimate. Financing is available for persons with approved credit.

Volkshop also specializes in new and used parts for VWs, Toyotas and Datsuns and rebuilding engines. If you like to work on your own car on weekends, you will find Treuhaff and Bosch parts, the Continental line of belts and hoses and Castrol motor oils to help you do the job right. They also have hard to find metric hardware and Bug Pack kits for Baja Buggies.

"Our slogan is 'Honest work and fair prices,'" said Wright, a "hometown boy" with more than 21 years experience working on VWs and Toyotas.

Volkshop is conveniently located within walking distance for those living and working in downtown Sanford.

JERRY REUSS... seven solid innings Stroughter Pays Dues Grapefruit League

By United Press International
Steve Stroughter has paid his dues. Making a bid to stick in the big leagues after 11 seasons in the minors, Stroughter hit a two-run homer and a triple to spark the Seattle Mariners to a 7-4 victory over the San Diego Padres Monday.

The 29-year-old outfielder and designated hitter, raised his spring batting average to .392 as the Mariners unleashed a 14-hit attack against the Padres.

Stroughter staked the Mariners to a 2-0 lead in the first, when he homered after third baseman Manny Castillo doubled. Seattle shortstop Todd Cruz had a two-run double and scored a run to spark a three-run rally in the fourth.

Jim Essian had three singles, scoring a run and driving in a run, while Julio Cruz, Thad Bosley and Jim Malar also had two hits each for the Mariners.

Bob Studdard pitched the first five innings for Seattle to pick up the win. Veteran Rick Wise suffered the loss, giving up 10 hits and six runs in four innings.

In other games:
At Vero Beach, Fla., Jerry Reuss pitched seven innings and allowed only four hits, to lead the Dodgers to a 7-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

At Dunedin, Fla., Steve Rogers set down the Toronto Blue Jays on one hit over five innings in sparking the Expos to a 10-2 triumph.

At Winter Haven, Fla., Jim Rice lifted his spring exhibition average to .462 with three hits and Bob Ojeda tossed a five-inning shutout in pacing the Red Sox to an 8-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

At Tampa, Fla., Frank Pastore, Tom Hume and Jim Kern combined on a six-hitter in pitching the Cincinnati Reds to a 2-0 victory over the Houston Astros.

At Sarasota, Fla., Tom Paciorek singled in the winning run in the bottom of the 11th inning to give the Chicago White Sox a 3-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

At St. Petersburg, Fla., Lee Lacy had three singles, stole three bases and drove in a run to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 10-5 victory over the New York Mets.

At Tucson, Ariz., Larry Sorrensen pitched eight shutout innings and got the backing of a 14-hit attack as the Cleveland Indians downed the California Angels 8-3.

At Mesa, Ariz., Bump Wills and Larry Bowa, the two leadoff hitters in the Chicago Cubs' lineup, scored two runs each in a 5-1 victory over the Oakland A's.

At Sun City, Ariz., Mark Brouhard drove in three runs with a pair of singles and Milwaukee Brewer lefthander Mike Caldwell struggled to a victory in a 9-8 slugfest with the San Francisco Giants.

Morris Starts Off Wrong

WINTER HAVEN (UPI) — A week later and Jack Morris' performance on the mound would have started the 1982 Detroit Tiger season off on the wrong foot.

Morris, the Tigers' ace hurler who has the starting assignment for the Detroit opener next Tuesday against Toronto in Tiger Stadium, gave up seven runs and 12 hits in five innings Tuesday in Detroit's 8-0 loss to Boston.

Tiger Manager Sparky Anderson, whose team hosts the New York Yankees today in Lakeland, was not upset by Morris' poor showing.

"I call it a case of rigor mortis setting in — boredom," said Anderson. "Jack will be out there pitching opening day."

Lefthander Bob Ojeda stifled the Tigers on five hits in seven innings, then Tom Burgmeier and Mark Clear preserved the shut-out over the final two frames.

Rick Miller, Dwight Evans, Rich Gedman and Glenn Hoffman each collected two hits, and slugger Jim Rice banged three singles to bring his spring average to .462.

Morris admitted his arm felt weak and "a little stiffer than usual. When you don't have the strength you're used to, it makes you do a lot of adjustments while you're out there pitching and you don't get the ball where you want to."

Israel, The PLO: Yes, They Both Exist

"You don't exist."

This is what the Palestine Liberation Organization says about Israel. This is what Israel says about the PLO. Both have tried to prove their claims before world forums. Both have striven to destroy each other's existence on the battlefield. Yet both Israel and the PLO continue to exist.

Armed to the teeth, fearing for its very existence, each side poses a mortal danger to the other and a simmering threat to world peace. Yet how can an outside country suggest that the opponents lay down their arms when each knows its existence is threatened?

Israel's existence is not a condition that can be debated at the bargaining table. It is an irrevocable fact that no negotiation can ever challenge.

The Palestinian people also irrevocably exist, many of them in exile. Is the PLO their legitimate spokesman? The majority of Israelis say no, never. The majority of nations in the United Nations say yes, until elections are held and the Palestinians choose their own autonomous government.

This is a deadlock that, in the wake of Anwar Sadat's assassination and the almost-completed Israeli pullout from the Sinai, is straining toward a fearsome outbreak of violence, probably in Lebanon. A new war in the Middle East would have no winners, only more deaths, more nightmares of annihilation, more hardened positions.

Yossi Sarid, a member of the Labor Party in the Israeli Knesset, has made an 11th hour appeal for the United States to break the deadlock. Writing in The New York Times, Sarid calls for "an American initiative that establishes a reciprocal right of self-determination for both nations — the Jewish and the Palestinian."

He adds: "It is unlikely that such negotiations would be possible without PLO participation, and the only basis for negotiations with the PLO is mutual recognition: the Arab Palestinian nation must recognize the right to self-determination of the Jewish nation in Zion, and the Jewish nation must recognize the Arab Palestinian nation's right to self-determination."

This is a startling proposal for a member of Israel's leading opposition party. The Israeli government, under Prime Minister Menachem Begin, refuses to recognize the PLO and says that PLO recognition of Israel is impossible.

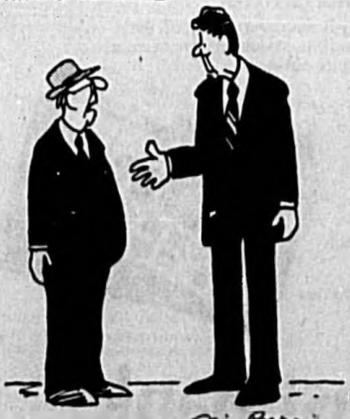

Sarid says that the key to an initiative toward simultaneous, mutual recognition of the PLO and Israel is for the United States to find a "partner" within Israel that is so "convinced of the effectiveness of an American policy" that it will "fight public opinion with all its strength to convince other Israelis of the policy's advantages."

During the Sadat peace initiative, such a partner was the "Peace Now" movement that pressured the Begin government to sign the Camp David accords. Sarid says that if America "encourages the peace process by urging both sides — Israel and the PLO — toward mutual and simultaneous recognition of the right of self-determination, it will find in Israel a fair number of partners."

Who are these partners? Sarid may be speaking for himself, or he may be launching a trial balloon for his party, which ruled Israel until Begin came to power. We hope President Reagan explores this offer of partnership for peace through mutual recognition both in Israel and among the Palestinians.

For negotiations to begin, both sides must come face to face and say, "You exist."

"What are you DOING to me?"

By SAM COOK

Seminole County's premiere track meet of the year will be held Thursday at Lake Mary High with all of the county's track teams competing.

All means the first-year Lake Mary Rams and George Austin's LA Trinity Prep powerhouse which features seniors Shannon McNulty (Lake Mary) and Tracy Johnson (Sanford).

Lyman and Seminole should battle for the top spot in both the boys' and girls' divisions, but Lake Brantley, Lake Howell and Oviedo along with the Rams and Saints have quality individuals.

The Patriots' Kevin Beaw is the top discus thrower in the state. Seminole's Tony Hardy is the best 330-yard hurdler in the state. Lyman's Lori Carroll is one of the best high jumpers. Oviedo's J.W. Yarborough was the top 100 time.

"It should be a great meet," said Ram coach Mike Gibson, who is hosting the meet after many years at Seminole. "We have the best lighting in the county, so seeing will be no problem."

At earlier meets this year at Evans High, the track is beyond the lights and visibility was a problem.

Field events kick off the extravaganza at 3:30 p.m. Running prelims are at 4:30 with the finals at 6:30 p.m.

Lake Brantley's personable basketball coach Bob Peterson handed out his awards last week at the Patriot cage banquet.

Seniors Tim Heath and Mike Gregory were tabbed as co-winners of the most valuable award. Todd Boss had the most assists with 150. Senior Bill Powers had the most points (247) and Heath had the most rebounds (184). Heath also won the best thrower with an 82 percentage.

Bob Lynch picked up the hustle award, Boss was most improved, Fred Baber was super sub and Gregory was best defensively.

Special recognition went to Hardee's Bob Nemesoff, Burger King and Harold Heath, basketball representative for the boosters club. For the junior varsity, Eric Trombo was most valuable and Mike Garriques took the hustler award.

The First Lake Mary Golf Classic will be held April 8 at the Sweetwater Country Club beginning with an 8 a.m. Shotgun Start.

The donation is $30 per entry. Net proceeds will go to the Booster Club.

The flights are made up of championship (8-4 handicap), second (8-13), third (14-20), fourth (21-over) and Calloway (no handicap).

Prizes will be given for first, second and third places for each flight and a trophy for the best low gross. Also, for longest drive, closest to pin, longest putt, most lost balls, high gross, shortest drive and best dressed.

Deadline for entry fee is 3 p.m. on April 2.

Churches Pressure Business

By MARIANNA OHE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — It is no longer surprising to see a Catholic nun tie up a major corporation's annual shareholder meeting for half an hour with a demand that the firm cut business ties with South Africa.

Religious groups including the "moral majority" bent on wiping out television sex and violence, Jews fighting the Arab boycott of Israel and Catholics and Protestants opposed to nuclear energy increasingly apply direct pressure on corporations through stock ownership, boycotts and other techniques.

Although organized religion's influence on social change has taken many forms throughout American history, direct church pressure on corporations began little more than a decade ago. It is gaining momentum, according to a report by Burson-Marsteller, the international public relations firm.

The report, entitled "Church, State and Corporation," predicts President Reagan's emphasis on private initiative, deregulation of industry and cuts in government contributions to social welfare programs will prompt religious groups to monitor corporations even more closely from now on.

Moreover the study sees a clear threat that fundamentalist groups will boycott companies sponsoring offensive television shows in the future, something they threatened to do for the first time in 1981 although confrontation was headed off through compromise.

The study offers executives an analysis of the major religious groups involved with corporations, their constituencies, the issues that concern them and their techniques. It also lists proxy resolutions proposed or filed by religious organizations in 1981 and discusses management's options in dealing with such resolutions.

Of the 158 shareholder resolutions dealing with questions of corporate social responsibility proposed in 1981, 78 were submitted by church groups, according to the Investor Responsibility Research Center in Washington.

This compares with just one in 1971, the first year for such activity by religious groups, when the Episcopal Church filed a resolution with General Motors requesting the company to cease operations in South Africa.

Of the 158 proposed in 1981, 34 were withdrawn and 134 came to vote, IRRC said. Most of the 34 were proposed by church groups and withdrawn when compromises were reached.

Of the 134 voted on, nearly two thirds got the support of more than 3 percent of the shares voted and about half had a sufficient percentage of the vote to be eligible for resubmission in 1982, according to the report.

Securities and Exchange Commission regulations require that a resolution obtain 3 percent of support in the first year, 6 percent in the second and 10 percent in the third to qualify in a succeeding year.

Resolutions bearing on South Africa were the most numerous category of church proposals, the report said, and more than half of these survived. Second most numerous were resolutions on nuclear weapons, followed by nuclear power.

Extortion Attempt Was Ill-Conceived

WASHINGTON — A federal grand jury here is investigating an apparent extortion attempt aimed at two of the nation's most colorful conservatives, Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, and Texas tycoon Nelson Bunker Hunt.

It's a bizarre case, to say the least. The suspected extortioner, who has not yet been identified, evidently had some inside knowledge of silver contracts the congressman's wife, Connie, sold in January 1979. But the mystery man — or woman — demonstrated ignorance of a crucial feature of the Hansen's financial setup. And to top it all off, the would-be profiteer had a sudden change of heart and called off the whole clumsy attempt within 10 days of its inception.

Here's what happened: In April of last year, multimillionaire Hunt got an unsigned letter, postmarked Dallas, charging that "during January, 1979, you gave an $87,000 bribe to Rep. George Hansen... to secure Rep. Hansen's support in your bid for a large silver mine in Idaho."

The writer demanded a $448,800 "loan" from

Hunt for 120 days explaining: "This money is to be used to help finance an operation that you would certainly give your full support to if we could provide you with details."

The letter instructed Hunt to wire the $448,800 to Account No. 60815 at the Cayman National Bank & Trust Co., in the British West Indies. The account was in the name of a "Gordon Warner," and the letter warned: "If we do not get it, we will give everything to the FBI."

Hunt, whose daddy didn't raise any patsies, declined to roll over. He had his attorney, Ivan Irvine, notify Hansen, and Irvine and the congressman met with Associate U.S. Attorney Rudolf Giuliani, who put the FBI to work on the case.

But even as the G-men were pulling on their gunshoes, a second letter arrived on Hunt's desk. Dated April 15 and also postmarked Dallas, it informed the tycoon that "due to a change in our plans we no longer need these funds." Also enclosed was a copy of a letter, signed by "Warner," to an official of the Cayman bank, instructing him to send any money arriving for Account No. 60815 to Placid Oil, a Hunt company.

What are the facts of the extortion letter's charges? My associate Tony Capaccio checked into them and learned that Mrs. Hansen had in fact made a profit of $87,475 when she sold $25 silver contracts in January 1979.

The $125,000 down payment on the silver was indeed wired to the broker on Jan. 16, as "Warner" stated in the letter. But it was sent by Mrs. Hansen's accountant in Pocatello, from an account she opened up in 1978 — not from Hunt as the letter charged.

And what "Warner" evidently didn't know was that since 1977 the Hansens have had a legal separation of their financial affairs, as Idaho law allows.

Mrs. Hansen said she has known Hunt since 1977, and that when the millionaire learned she was raising money to pay off her husband's campaign debts, he gave her the name of one of his commodity brokers, Les Ming of Oklahoma City. It was Ming who handled the silver transaction for Mrs.

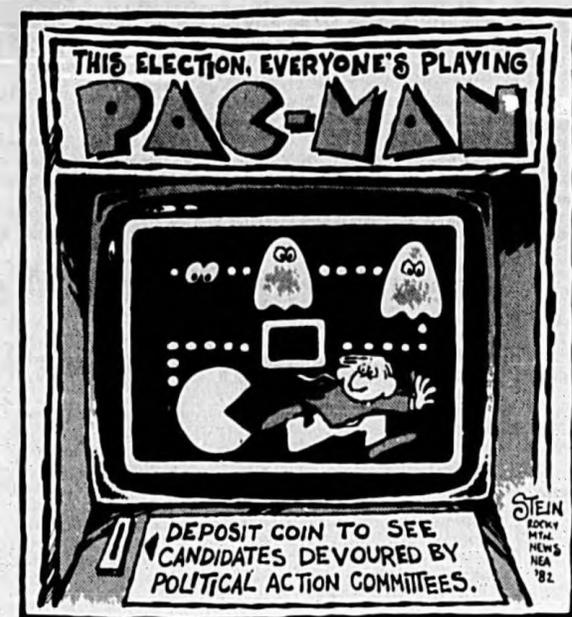

Hansen; Hunt had nothing to do with it.

As for the silver mine mentioned in the first "Warner" letter, it's not even in Hansen's congressional district. There is also no evidence that Hansen ever did anything to help the Texas entrepreneur.

Working from the letters, FBI agents have interviewed Ming and his employees as well as those of the Cargill Investors Service, which executed the silver deal. Cargill's telephone records for the period of January 1979, through June 1980, have been subpoenaed.

So far, however, the authorities haven't trapped the mouse that roared at Nelson Bunker Hunt — and then crept back into its hole.

Footnote: The two Justice Department attorneys in charge of the case, James Cole and Reid Wiegarten, were not available for comment. Mrs. Nelson Bunker Hunt answered the phone at her Dallas home. Her husband was not at home, and she refused to discuss the apparent extortion attempt. She doesn't like me, she said, because I have written critical stories about her husband.

DON GRAFF

And Now We Know

Now we know.

It's all the fault of the 6 o'clock news. That's why the economy isn't bouncing back as it has been told to do.

Or so Ronald Reagan has told us.

The president's swipe at television for misleading reporting of the nation's economic distress got a quick rise out of the media in general, as he could be certain it would. This is not the crowd to sit still when it's being told how to go about its own business.

Even so, that would be the end of the incident if it were an isolated one. But it isn't. It stumbled along right on the heels of the "trust us" interview.

If that one had been a request for greater respect of the administration's integrity and good intentions, it would not have been objectionable. It could be argued that there ought to be more of that going around. But it wasn't.

As the president amplified it, suggesting that news people in checking out stories "put themselves in our hands" sounded an awful lot like something else. It sounded like the substitution of an official information operation for independent reporting on government affairs, turning journalists in effect into agents of the government.

Don't print or broadcast it unless we OK it.

Which, in much harsher terms, is what the martial law authorities in Warsaw have laid down as standard operating procedure for a Polish press that had begun to act as if it were functioning in a free country.

So, all right. Agreed. That's going much too far. Nothing of the sort was intended here. And besides, it can't happen here.

What does frequently happen here, however, is the disinclination of political leadership to admit that when policies run into problems, part of the reason may be problems with the policies.

Instead of realistically appraising the obvious failure of policies to produce the promised results and revising or reversing where necessary (although it's also possible to go too far in that direction, and you only have to go back as far as the previous administration to find some disturbing examples), the blame is placed elsewhere.

Television is "downbeat" because it brings to public attention the distress of people who are out of work or feel the effects of the deep budget cuts in social programs.

Business is uncooperative because it is not ignoring what its own business sense tells it about the sagging economy and the impact upon limited capital resources of escalating budget deficits.

American correspondents are hampering efforts to control the spreading revolution in Central America because they are reporting that the rebels are not yielding to the counter-insurgency efforts of U.S.-supported regimes but are growing stronger.

Yet people are out of work, and not publicizing the fact does nothing to resolve the problem. The high interest rates and slack stock market that vex the administration are consequences of economic slowdown and tight money, not the doing of the businessmen who must deal with them.

And the underlying political and economic conditions that make Central America so ripe for revolution are not the invention of a press that is exposing the inadequacy of the administration's gunboat-diplomacy approach to the conflict they have produced.

The serious business here is not the developing adversary relationship between press and president — that's an old story, and he may not believe it but this president personally continues to receive remarkably respectful treatment. It is the eventual cost of looking elsewhere for the explanation of national problems than at their actual causes. The longer a government deceives itself, the more difficult it makes their resolution.

Scapgoats can be dangerous to a nation's health.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Spreading Around 'Hollanditis'

For 40 years, Westerners have used the word "Finlandization" to describe the situation in which a free nation is forced to seek an accommodation with the Soviet Union.

Walter Laquer, the noted historian, has come up with a new term which better describes the situation in Western Europe in the 1980s. It is "Hollanditis." As a writer in Commentary observes, "Hollanditis" is a crisis of the spirit afflicting nations which have the material means of defending their vital interests but choose instead to support unilateral disarmament or ignore defense issues altogether.

To be sure, this paralysis of will is a specter that haunts all of Western Europe, not simply Holland. It is to be found in the United States as well, especially among radicalized clergy. The National Council of Churches, including five Episcopal bishops, wants the United States to halt all assistance to the government of El Salvador, which would allow the Nicaraguans and Cubans to use their proxy forces to establish another communist foothold in Central America. Several Roman Catholic bishops want the United States to abandon nuclear defenses, which would give the atheistic Soviet Union free rein to conquer other nations as they have captured Poland.

One of the most curious aspects of the Western world is the extent to which prominent churchmen are prepared to surrender the West to the armed doctrine of the Soviet Union. They fear nuclear war, which is understandable. In their fear, however, they are willing to surrender the civilization that has given rise to freedom, including religious freedom. In effect, they are willing to allow the death of the spirit in an effort to prevent the destruction of the body. This is a reversal of Christian doctrine over the centuries. Christians always have believed in the idea of a just war. Churchmen rallied the Western world against the Muslim and Turkish hordes that attacked Europe from the 8th to the 15th century.

Modern man often forgets that ancient wars were just as total as in our own day. The would-be conquerors of Europe in medieval times destroyed entire towns and cities and spread havoc over the countryside, not sparing women or children.

How much better it would be if prominent churchmen used their influence to rally the spirit of those who oppose Marxist dictatorship, as Pope John Paul II is doing in providing spiritual reinforcement for the captive Polish nation. Instead of providing funds to armed revolutionaries in Africa, the World Council of Churches could be combating Fidel Castro's influence in Central America. That's not the way things are, however. The weight of many church establishments is on the side of the leftist and nihilist movements that are destroying Western civilization.

The irony in this is that the mass of ordinary churchmen subscribe to the values of Western civilization and understand the need for an active defense against Soviet aggression. The clerical hierarchies seem increasingly detached from the mood of the ordinary churchmen, but they exploit their positions of prestige and their organizations' informational and financial resources to spread Hollanditis.

Jordan's Jumper Paints Hoyas Blue

College Basketball

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — When coaches and fans gather to talk about the 1982 NCAA championship basketball game the overwhelming first thought surely will be "What a great game that was."

The North Carolina Tar Heels and Georgetown Hoyas put on a championship game Monday night that was worthy of an Academy Award, with which it had to compete for national television ratings.

Before a giant crowd in a giant building, the Tar Heels' 63-62 win over the Hoyas' set a standard by which championship games will be measured.

"I thought it was one of the great basketball games," said Tar Heels' Coach Dean Smith, who had lost in his three previous trips to the NCAA title contest. "Maybe I think that way because I was involved in it. It will be interesting to see what other people think. There was tremendous talent on the court."

That talent produced 40 minutes of excitement and intensity in which the lead changed hands 19 times. And there were plenty of oddities for future trivia experts. North Carolina literally did not have a shot go through the basket for the first eight minutes of the game, but trailed by only four points because of four goal-tending calls made on Patrick Ewing, Georgetown's 7-foot freshman center.

"I try to block everything I can," said Ewing, who scored 23 points to lead his team, but wound up committing five goal-tending violations.

James Worthy, North Carolina's 6-9 junior forward, voted the game's outstanding player, scored 18 of his career-high 28 points in the first half but Eric Floyd and Ewing each managed 10 during the first 20 minutes to allow the Hoyas to escape with a 32-31 halftime advantage. However, things were just warming up.

A three-point play by Ewing put Georgetown ahead by four, midway through the second half, but Worthy brought the Tar Heels storming back with a series of dunk shots. Ewing picked up his fourth foul with 5:32 to go and two free throws by North Carolina's Jimmy Black put the Tar Heels in front by three.

Then North Carolina's Matt Doherty, with his team leading by one, missed the front end of a one-and-one free throw with 1:19 left and Floyd's off-balance 8-foot jumper with 56 seconds to go (leaving him with 18 points) sent the Hoyas in front by a point.

North Carolina took time out with 32 seconds left and worked for what turned out to be a 15-foot jumper by Michael Jordan with 15 seconds to go and was the game winner.

Georgetown did not use a time out, hoping to catch the Tar Heels off guard. But when Fred Brown tried to pass the ball to Floyd, he wound up throwing it right into the hands of Worthy, whose steal clinched the championship. It made no difference Worthy missed two free throws with two seconds remaining.

"Floyd was open," said Brown, "but they were overplaying me. Worthy just made a great play."

Thus Smith, who was completing his 21st year of coaching at North Carolina, finally won his NCAA crown. And in doing so he defeated his good friend John Thompson, who has coached Georgetown for the last 10 years.

"I've thought about it (winning the first title), but it wasn't that big a thing," said Smith, whose team finished with a 32-2 record. "I think I was outcoached, but fortunately I had the players that played extremely well. It was important for the team to win, not me."

"I thought it was a great game," said Black, who made only one turnover despite a night-long press thrown at the Tar Heels by the Hoyas. "The audience (a Louisiana Superdome crowd announced at 61,612) probably was on the edge of their seats, too. It's the type of game you expect in a national championship."

Even Georgetown players realized they had played in a game that was special, which seemed to take some of the sting out of the loss.

"All I know," said forward Eric Smith, "is that two good teams were out there playing tonight. They happened to come out on top. In a couple of days I might be able to sit down and think about how good we played."

Worthy Credits Togetherness For MVP, 28-Point Barrage

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — It was precision teamwork that allowed James Worthy to explode for a career-high 28 points and lead North Carolina to the national championship.

And it was "natural instinct" that allowed him to seal the victory and earn Most Valuable Player honors in the NCAA Tournament.

Worthy was the game's high scorer and repeatedly ignited the crowd of 61,612 with explosive slam-dunks and crisp field goals from the outside.

"Togetherness," replied Worthy when asked to describe his feelings at the moment of victory. "We won it together."

Despite his modesty, the 6-foot-9 forward provided the decisive play all by himself with six seconds left in the game Monday night as the Tar Heels led, 63-62, and Georgetown's Fred Brown was dashing downcourt.

"I saw five seconds on the clock and it was a one-point ballgame," he said. "That's when things got really tense."

Brown passed the ball to where he thought a Georgetown player was, but Worthy leaped into the lane and intercepted the pass to crush any chance of a Georgetown triumph.

"I didn't feel like it was a real risk, just natural instinct that took me there," he said. "I was pretty surprised it was right in my chest. I thought he would try to throw over or around me."

It was Worthy's second trip to the Final Four but the junior from Gastonia, N.C., was more concerned about winning the NCAA crown for Coach Dean Smith than anything else.

"Finally we got one for the coach," said Worthy, wearing the victory net around his neck. "We wanted to do it for him. We were tired of you (the media) writing about him choking all the time."

The 21-year-old junior hit on 13 of 17 shots from the field and added two from the foul line to register his career best, but said his game-winning performance came as a complete surprise.

"I never imagined it," he said. "I didn't try to force anything; I just tried to contribute."

Worthy, who revealed his favorite book is "Athletes For Sale," said he had not decided whether to enter the NBA at the end of his third year.

"I still have a month of school left before I concern myself with that decision."

Georgetown Coach John Thompson said Worthy has a brilliant NBA career ahead of him.

"He's a big-time ballplayer," Thompson said. "When the time and the chips come down he plays hard."

Worthy, swept away by the moment, said he would need some time before he could absorb what he and his teammates had accomplished.

"It was just very emotional for us," he said. "I really don't know how I feel right now. I'm just so emotionally high."

25 Years...

Similarities Mark Tar Heel NCAA Championship Squads

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Twenty-five years separate North Carolina's two national championship basketball teams but it is a time barrier shattered by the remarkable similarities between the two Tar Heel squads.

The 1957 and 1982 North Carolina units both finished the regular season as the No. 1 rated team in the UPI poll — the only two times in school history they have accomplished that feat. The 1957 team set a school record with 21 victories and the 1982 team matched it.

The 1957 team had to fend off an intimidating 7-foot center, Will Chamberlain of Kansas, to win No. 22 in the NCAA championship game by one point, 54-53. The 1982 team also had to fend off an intimidating 7-foot center, Pat Ewing of Georgetown, to win No. 22 in the championship game Monday night, also by a single point, 63-62.

"It (the national championship) means so much to the state and to the people," said Frank McGuire, the coach of that 1957 team who was on hand at the Superdome for Monday night's triumph over Georgetown. "And I know it means a whole lot to Dean."

"Dean" is current North Carolina Coach Smith who, ironically, is a graduate of Kansas and openly admits to having cheered for the Jayhawks in that 1957 title game. It is his only NCAA championship in 21 years at North Carolina although he had taken the Tar Heels to the title game on two previous occasions.

All five North Carolina starters were brilliant against Georgetown just as they have been all season and, in particular, during tournament play. Those five starters — Matt Doherty, James Worthy, Sam Perkins, Jimmy Black and Michael Jordan — combined for 82 of the 83 points in the title game and 320 of North Carolina's 327 points in the five-game tournament.

"This team will always be remembered as the first one to win a championship for Coach Smith," said Worthy, who was voted tournament MVP. "But we won it for ourselves, too."

Montreal Expo Tim Raines runs after 150 stolen bases.

Raines Keeps 'Cool Hand' On Record 150 Stolen Bases

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Cool Hand Luke, alias Paul Newman, was sitting around the penitentiary one day when he casually announced to no one in particular, "I can eat 50 eggs."

It brought a rousing chorus of catcalls from the inmates, most claiming that it would be humanly impossible for the body to swallow 50 eggs.

Dragline, a.k.a. George Kennedy, immediately leaped to Luke's defense, saying he'd wager anything they wanted to back up his buddy's claim that he could, indeed swallow the 50 hard-boiled ovals.

When Dragline and Luke got off by themselves, though, "Drag" immediately jumped on his buddy for his overexuberance.

"Fifty eggs, Luke, come on. Why didn't you just say 35?" moaned Dragline as he subconsciously watched his money slipping through his hands. If you're familiar with the story line, you know that Cool Hand Luke did eat his 50 eggs, just barely, and Dragline and the rest of his believers ran out on the money end of it.

Sanford's Tim Raines, Montreal's base-stealing whiz, streaks to second base about as fast as Luke gobbled those eggs, and now he's in a similar position.

Syd Thrift, a former base-stealing instructor with the Kansas City Royals Baseball Academy, proclaimed early this year that Raines could steal 150 bases.

Which will be about as hard as eating 50 eggs.

Since the proclamation, Raines has been beseeched by numerous newspaper and television people as to whether he can attain that exalted level.

"I'd like to play 100 games and not really think about how many I'm going to get," he said evasively last Thursday at Winter Haven. "I just want to play it one game at a time and play it hard."

This is a different Raines than a year ago when he set a goal of 80 stolen bases. The players' strike cut short that attempt, but he did swipe 71 in 88 games.

Grapefruit League

Despite just a little over a half of a year in the big time, the former Fighting Seminole is putting on a face of a 10-year veteran.

No predictions. No goals. Just take it as it comes. He knows it will probably come pretty easily. Despite his short sojourn, he showed more than enough to win the respect of his peers. Raines batted .304, scored 81 runs, made the All-Star team and was named The Sporting News' Rookie of the Year.

While he doesn't feel 150 swipes is completely out of the picture, he does have a pretty big incentive to steal 119. Lou Brock holds the major league record of 118 stolen bases.

The night Raines dives into second base for 119, it will earn him a $100,000 bonus from the Expos. Other incentives are to play 150 games, make the All-Star team again and be voted Montreal's most valuable player.

Attainment of these incentives will swell his $200,000 base contract to a cool $350,000.

"I had two incentives last year. I got them both," Raines says about the All-Star team and rookie award. "One-hundred thousand dollars is a lot of money. I'm sure I'll think about it."

"But I'm not really worried about it from day one to the last day. If I don't do it, so what? I guess I'll just be one of those years."

But can you steal what no one else has ever stolen? And is 150 bases unrealistic?

"I don't feel it's unrealistic," Raines said. "I feel if I have a good year at the plate — you know you can't steal first base — I feel that I have a chance."

While he admits the record is on his mind, Raines also maintains he won't steal a base just to steal it.

"When we're comfortably ahead, I'll take it easy," he points out. "I'm not going to try and show up a ball club. I'd be protecting my players by not running a lot."

"If a guy is running that late in the game with a big lead, that's the time some major league clubs

Hendricks 1-Hits Butch's

John Hendricks tossed a one-hitter and struck out seven Monday to pace Jack Prosser Ford to a 9-5 win over Butch's Chevron in opening day action in the Sanford Little American League.

In other games, S&H Fabrications and Engineering dumped Seminole Petroleum 17-7.

Little American

while Krayola Kollege bombed Atlantic Bank 33-7.

Three games are on tap for today as the Sanford Little National League opens its 1982 campaign. Defending city champ First Federal tangles with Rinker at 5 p.m. at Bay Avenue Field, while pre-season favorite Poppa Jay's meets Cardinal Industries at 5 p.m. at Fort Mellon Park. Sunland Corporation plays D.A.V. at 7 p.m. at Fort Mellon.

Hendricks was the only pitcher to go the distance Monday. Butch's Chevron scored a single run without a hit in the top of the first, but Jack Prosser Ford took the lead with three runs in the bottom of the third. The three runs came with two outs. A single by David Cohen was the only hit of the inning.

Jack Prosser Ford increased its lead to 3-1 with a pair of runs in the third inning. After Butch's Chevron scored once in the top of the fourth, Jack Prosser erupted for four runs in the bottom of the inning. A bases-loaded triple by John West accounted for three of the fourth-inning runs.

S&H Fabrications and Engineering fell behind 6-1 after two innings, but scored six runs in the top of the third to take a 7-6 lead. S&H put the game out of reach with 10 runs in the top of the fifth inning.

John Wright was three for three for S&H, including a double. John Lewis had a pair of singles and Gerald Morris added a double.

John Lewis and Anton Reid combined to pitch a one-hitter for S&H. Seminole Petroleum's only hit was a second-inning single by Lewis Wade.

Like the other two winners, Krayola Kollege trailed early. After two innings Atlantic Bank was in front 6-3, but Krayola Kollege scored seven runs in the top of the third to take a 9-6 lead. Atlantic Bank scored one run in the bottom of the third, but Krayola Kollege posted seven more runs in the fourth and rounded out the scoring with 17 runs in the fifth.

Jason Heffington was four for four with two home runs and a double and drove in seven runs to lead Krayola Kollege to the win. Travis Pickens and Harrison Hampton each stroked a double and single, while Ronald Cox and Reuben Blake added doubles.

like to throw at your players. I'm not going to let that happen," Raines concluded.

While the Sanford Swiftly has left the door to 150 open, Montreal manager Jim Fanning soundly slammed it shut.

"That's asking an awful lot," said the veteran baseball man who took over in midstream and helped the Expos to their first division championship last year. "I don't know if he'll ever have the opportunity at the beginning of the season like he did last year."

"Timmy completely and totally intimidated every pitcher, catcher and umpire in the league last year. The umpires were anticipating he was going to steal. He had everything going his way," Fanning points out every year Raines is a marked man.

"They're gunnin' for him this year. They're plotting against him in spring training camps, trying to see what will work," he said.

So far, nothing has. Raines has seven steals in as many attempts.

"Their big question is, 'How are we going to stop Timmy Raines?'" observes Fanning. "They're going to use balk moves to first base. They'll throw over there again and again."

Will all the added attention slow the Montreal left fielder down?

"I don't think so. Having known Timmy for the last few years, he'll be better than last year," remarked Fanning. "He'll meet the task. He'll still be a king man on the bases."

Timmy (Raines) completely and totally intimidated every pitcher, catcher and umpire in the league last year... They're gunnin' for him this year.

Rescuers Work To Extricate Trooper's Body From Cave

LAFAYETTE, N.J. (UPI) — Workers used jackhammers today trying to free the lifeless body of a Boy Scout leader trapped three days ago in a narrow cave passage 17 feet underground.

Rescue workers managed Monday night to reach State Trooper Donald Weltner, who was trapped in the cramped 18½-by-20½-inch passage while leading a scout expedition, and place a harness around his body. But jagged rock prevented them from pulling his body along a 12-foot horizontal path to a special shaft they had drilled and through which they hoped to hoist him out.

Housing Outlook Gloomy

United Press International

President Reagan's five-point plan to help the floundering housing industry, announced just as new statistics revealed another drop in home-buying, is "too little, too late" says an industry leader.

Frederick Napolitano, president of the National Association of Home Builders, predicted the proposals would be "ineffective in stimulating new construction and creating new jobs at the time housing starts are at the lowest level since 1946."

Hope For Stroke Victims

ATLANTA (UPI) — A new form of surgery to increase blood flow to the brain is highly effective in treating and preventing strokes, says a neurosurgeon who has performed 150 of the bypass operations.

Dr. Alan Fleischer of Emory University said Monday he and his colleagues have documented the surgery — similar to heart bypass — can boost the brain's blood supply up to 25-fold. He said one of the most promising aspects of the surgery is that it can improve chances of recovery from stroke.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Fierce spring storms touched off heavy snows in the Northwest mountains and a tornado in South Dakota that sucked a man into its vortex. Forecasters predicted better conditions today for the planned space shuttle landing in New Mexico. Ten-inch rains lashed Florida and flushed out snakes that bit two people and another was killed in a head-on collision on an icy road near Nevada's Lake Tahoe. Four feet of snow fell in the Sierra Nevada near Lake Tahoe Monday, triggering two avalanches that blocked the Mount Rose Highway and up to a foot of snow covered the ground in the Cascades and Siskiyou mountains of Oregon. A blinding sandstorm pushed by 55-mph winds Monday forced officials to postpone the landing of the space shuttle in the desert at White Sands, N.M.

Have A Gripe? Meet With Mica

David Mica, U.S. Sen. Lawton Chiles' central Florida district assistant, will hold five meetings in Seminole County next week to help constituents with problems they may be having with federal agencies.

Chiles, D-Lakeland, said Mica will aid county residents with problems concerning Social Security, Medicare, veterans benefits, disability compensation and with any federal agency where communications or assistance has broken down.

The first meetings will be held on Wednesday. Mica will be in the County Commission chambers at the Seminole County Courthouse, Sanford, from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; at the Oviedo City Council chambers, 120 E. Broadway St., from 1:15 until 2 p.m.; at Casselberry City Council chambers, 195 Lake Triplett Drive, from 2:40 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.; and in the Longwood City Commission chambers, 1301 W. Warren Ave., from 4 to 5 p.m.

On Thursday, Mica will conclude his visit to the county at the Altamonte Springs City Commission chambers from 8 to 9 a.m. Chiles urges those who have problems, but who are unable to meet with Mica, to contact his office at the Federal Building, Lakeland 33001, or telephone (813) 688-6681.

Major Drug Suspects Arrested... Again

By TONI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Two Oviedo men are being held on $100,000 bond each in the Seminole County jail on charges of conspiracy in trafficking in and importation of cocaine.

Alex Lee Tindall, 62, of Old Mine Road and James Wesley Logue, 36, of 3250 Stone St., were arrested at about 4 p.m. Monday at the county jail.

The arrests stem from what police call a multi-million dollar drug ring which operated in central Florida. The ring was broken last December when Sanford police, sheriff's deputies and federal drug agents arrested 11 people in connection with the illicit drug operation, deputies said.

"The state had filed previous charges against these men and several others," according to sheriff's spokesman John Spolaki. "However, there were some problems in prosecuting." Although charges against Tindall and Logue "are related to the previous arrests, they are not the same," Spolaki said, adding that other arrests are pending in the case.

Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi dismissed conspiracy charges against three men, including Tindall after hearing arguments by the men's lawyers that the state did not allege how a conspiracy was formed and that the charges were vague.

Tindall, who is a self-employed chicken farmer, is also scheduled for trial on drug-related charges in Fargo, N.D., on April 12, Spolaki said.

Tindall was arrested Dec. 20 in Fargo on charges of illegal delivery of cocaine. He was released on the Cass County jail in that state on $100,000 bond and returned to Oviedo where he was picked up by local drug agents.

Fred J. McConeghy, 54, an Oviedo roofing contractor, who was arrested in Fargo along with Tindall, is currently awaiting sentencing in that city following his conviction on drug-related charges, police said.

THREE APOPKA SHOPS HIT

Three Apopka stores were burglarized at about 2:15 a.m. today.

Deputies said thieves broke into Classy Things, at 522 Hunt Club Blvd.; Itch to Stitch, at 524 Hunt Club Blvd.; and Great Graphics Gallery, 526 Hunt Club Blvd., prying open the rear doors of all three shops with a crowbar.

About $7 in change was stolen from Great Graphic Gallery, while nothing appeared to be missing from the other shops, deputies said.

FIRES CALLED SUSPICIOUS

While two fires in Lake Mary and Longwood this weekend are still under investigation, fire inspectors have determined they are of "suspicious origin."

According to Seminole County fire investigator, Ray Pippin, Sunday's fire which caused about $30,000 damage to Marlin Workman's home at 133 W. Floyd Ave., Lake Mary, started in the bedroom at about 4:49 a.m.

"No one was home at the time the fire was discovered," Pippin said. "About half of the house was destroyed, including two bedrooms and a bathroom. The fire appears to have started in one of the bedrooms and its origin is suspicious."

About $1,000 damage was done to the exterior of Longwood resident Sonja Stockstad's home after someone apparently used a flammable liquid and set fire to a portion of the outer wall, Pippin said.

Ms. Stockstad, 64, of 1231 Logan Dr., notified fire personnel after she heard the fire, which woke her at about 9:30 p.m. Saturday, Pippin said.

Pippin said the Longwood fire is "definitely arson" but that the investigation is not complete.

No one was injured in either incident, Pippin added.

APPLYING THE ELBOW

An unidentified man reportedly hit a Sanford department store clerk in the chest with his elbow after she asked him to leave his package with her before entering the store.

The 16-year-old clerk at TG&Y department store told Sanford police that a man came into the store at about 2 p.m. Sunday and she informed him he would need to have his package checked. The man became loud and argumentative and as he started to leave the store, hit the young clerk in the chest with his elbow, police reported.

No arrests were made.

TRUCKER IMPALED IN WRECK

A 32-year-old truck driver was listed in good condition at the Florida Hospital-Altamonte this morning and was slated for release later today after he was injured when his truck overturned in the westbound lane of Interstate 4 about a mile north of the Lake Mary Boulevard exit.

James C. Russell, of Green Cove Springs, suffered multiple cuts and scrapes and was impaled in the buttocks with the truck's air brake release knob when his truck, which was carrying sheetrock, overturned at about 5:15 a.m. pinning him inside the vehicle's cab, Herndon ambulance workers said.

"Mr. Russell was pinned inside the cab of the truck between the roof and seats for about an hour and 45 minutes," according to Dennis Boatner, Herndon paramedic assistant. "He was alert and conscious during our efforts to extricate him from the truck's panel and then transported him to Florida Hospital-Altamonte to have the device removed.

"Our investigation shows that the truck was traveling in the right-hand lane of the westbound lane of I-4 when it went off the road and struck an unoccupied parked truck on the side of the road," said John Wight, Lake Mary police department investigator. "Moderate damage was done to the parked truck and the other truck overturned and received about $30,000 damage to it."

Wight said Russell will be charged with careless driving. He added that possibly other charges could be filed pending the outcome of the investigation.

No one else was injured in the accident, Wight said.

NARCOTICS STOLEN

Someone broke into a Sanford drug store at about 10:40 p.m. Monday and stole an undetermined amount of what one pharmacist called, "a very, very addicting painkiller."

Sanford police said someone broke into the Faust's Drug Store, 407 E. 1st St., by breaking the store's front window with a hammer and a towel. Within two minutes after entering the store, the thief stole an undetermined amount of Dilaudid, a drug pharmacist says is equivalent to morphine and heroin.

Witnesses told police they saw a man run to a brown Toyota parked behind a nearby shop at about the time of the theft. Witnesses said the man got into the car, driven by another man. The two then fled in the vehicle, with lights off, west on 3rd Street, police added.

Acid Rain To Darken Florida Skies

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Florida is inheriting a problem that already plagues the industrial Northeast — acid rain — and experts say the Sunshine State's skies will darken over the next five years as the phenomenon gets increasingly worse.

No longer will Florida be able to blame its acid rain problem on clouds drifting in from the north, but rather on a 250 percent increase in coal-fired power plants in the state.

"With more than 15 coal-fired power stations now under construction or planned in Florida alone, acid rain is going to become more widespread and troublesome," said Dr. Bob G. Volk, head of a University of Florida acid rain research project.

Acid rain occurs when sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxides combine with water vapor in clouds to form weak solutions of sulfuric and nitric acid.

When it falls to the ground, it can adversely affect lakes, crops, forests and natural ecosystems. For example, fish and mollusks cannot survive in lakes with a high degree of acidity.

South Florida is less vulnerable to the problem, Volk said, because there is less heavy industry in that part of the state. Furthermore, prevailing winds help disperse pollutants away from land areas.

But in north Florida, where the problem is potentially most serious, at least six new coal-fired power plants in the 600-megawatt range are under construction or planned.

Two being built near Palatka, with a total capacity of 1,200 megawatts, will become operational in 1983, and others are planned north of Jacksonville and two more will be sited near Perry in the Tallahassee area. A relatively small 335-megawatt, coal-fired plant began operating in Gainesville in 1981.

Although new plants will have precipitators to remove particulate matter and scrubbers to remove sulfur dioxide, the equipment cannot phase out of operation," Volk said, "but there will still be an increase in harmful emissions across the northern portion of the totally prevent chemicals from reaching the air.

"The new coal-fired plants will permit some older, less efficient oil-fired plants to be state, not to mention what might drift in from other states to the north.

"The net result will be a gradual increase in the amount of acid rain in Florida, particularly over the northern three quarters of the state," he said.

Before now, Florida could blame most, if not all, of its acid rain problem — on the industrial Northeast.

But Volk said that is changing. In the past 25 years, rain over much of the state has become about 10 times more acidic than "normal" rain, UF researchers said. The main culprits are chemicals spewed into the air from the burning of coal, oil and natural gas by automobiles and power plant smokestacks.

The new coal-fired plants will permit some older, less efficient oil-fired plants to be phased out of operation, but there will still be an increase in harmful emissions across the northern portion of the state, not to mention what might drift in from other states to the north. — Dr. Bob G. Volk, UF researcher

High Court To Settle His-And-Hers Tax Flap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed Monday to consider whether a married couple can be forced to sell their home to pay off delinquent taxes owed by only one of the spouses.

The justices announced they will review next fall a ruling prohibiting the Internal Revenue Service from foreclosing on homes to satisfy one spouse's back taxes where state homestead laws give both the husband and wife property rights to their residence.

The government claims that unless the Supreme Court sets aside the ruling, federal tax collectors will be blocked from collecting valid tax debts in Alabama, Georgia, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Texas and Wyoming.

The justices agreed to hear that tax dispute at the same time they indicated they may not settle until next fall — at the earliest — a controversy over whether private schools that practice racial discrimination should enjoy tax exemptions.

The court released Monday the last list of cases it will hear arguments on this term — a list that did not include the test case involving tax exemptions for Bob Jones University, of Greenville, S.C., and the Goldsboro (N.C.) Christian School.

Although it is possible for the justices to set special arguments in a pressing case — such as last year's battle over the Iran hostage settlement — they rarely do so.

In other action Monday, the high court: — Heard debate in a closed courtroom controversy over whether the press and public can be kept out of rape trials involving teenage victims. A ruling in the case from Massachusetts is expected by July.

— Agreed to take up a Kansas case over the state's power to limit prices for natural gas already under contract before Congress began the process of deregulating gas prices.

— Refused to entertain a divorced father's arguments that he was unconstitutionally denied custody of his two daughters by an Illinois judge because of his sex.

— Stayed out of a dispute over whether the federal government can compel religious schools to make detailed reports based on their employment records.

In the delinquent tax case, the government is challenging a ruling by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that Texas' homestead law prohibits the IRS from forcing a widow and divorcee in Dallas to sell their homes to pay their husbands' tax debts.

One of the husbands died leaving $927,000 in unpaid federal wagering taxes and penalties. In the other case, the couple was divorced and the husband owed $9,000 in work-related taxes. Neither of the women owed any delinquent taxes.

The lower court concluded Texas' homestead law exempts real property from being sold to satisfy federal tax debts as long as one of the home's owners owes no back taxes and uses the home as his or her residence. Other states have similar laws.

The IRS estimates the ruling will cost the federal government $900,000 in uncollected back taxes per year in Texas alone.

Former Missionary To Vietnam Speaking At Lake Mary Church

The Rev. Walter A. Routh, former missionary to Vietnam now serving in the Philippines, will be speaking at revival services this week at Lake Mary Baptist Mission. Services will be held today through Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 11 a.m.

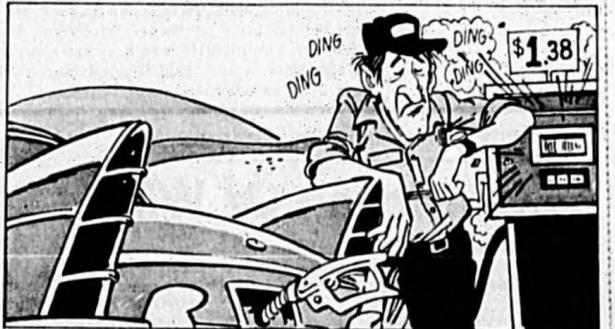

WALTER ROUTH JR.

A Sanford native, Routh serves under the Walter A. Routh Jr. Missionary Association, Inc. He and his wife, Pauline, are in the United States on a short furlough. They served with the Southern Baptist Convention Foreign Mission association. They went to the Philippines after Vietnam fell to the Communists and began working with the Vietnamese refugees there.

The Rev. Charles E. Davis, minister of music, formerly at the First Baptist Church of Sanford and now ministering at the First Baptist Church of Crestview, will be leading the gospel music throughout the week.

A nursery will be provided at all services. The church is located at 126 W. Lakeview Ave., Lake Mary.

Are you still driving a car that was built when gas was 60¢?

Until March 31, American Motors will pay you up to $800 to get rid of it.

Face it. The longer you hold onto that old gas guzzler of yours the more money you waste. The only answer to your problem is a new car. And until March 31, American Motors will help you get one. Your trade-in is now worth up to $800 on top of the dealer trade-in allowance. direct from American Motors. Even with no trade-in, we'll still give you $600. The reasoning behind our madness is simple. The older your car, the more you need a new Concord, Spirit or Eagle. And your trade-in will never be worth more than it is right now. After all, American Motors can't do anything about the price of gas. So the least we can do is help you into a new car that uses it more wisely. Dealer contribution may affect price.

House And Senate Bicker While Work Goes Undone

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The feuding House and Senate will continue their second special session today — or formally end it and immediately begin a third special session.

The complicated scenario developed after their first special session, held last week, was ruled invalid by the Florida Supreme Court because Gov. Bob Graham tried to limit it to 34 days instead of the 30 days set forth by the state Constitution.

In the meantime, the issues of congressional redistricting, legislative reapportionment, a proposed sales tax hike and a new state budget remain unresolved.

Silver Lining To Tragedy

HIGHLAND BEACH (UPI) — A Haitian tramp freighter that pounded to pieces in the surf with the loss of four lives Monday was the victim of an unexpected storm that also flooded Palm Beach county.

Although the storm brought tragedy, roused residents out of their low-lying homes and caused thousands of dollars in damage, it also raised the level of parched Lake Okeechobee, the main fresh-water reservoir for south Florida.

Making English Official

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — State Rep. Robert Melby is trying to put a constitutional amendment on the November ballot making English the state's official language following defeat of legislation that would have accomplished the same thing.

The St. Petersburg Republican launched a petition drive Monday aimed at gathering the 298,743 signatures necessary to put the matter before the voters.

A Moderate Government In El Salvador Unlikely

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Although the U.S.-backed Christian Democrats swept to a commanding lead in Sunday's election, they lacked a majority and had to bargain for an alliance with right-wing parties opposed to its plans for a moderate government.

5 Die In Train Blast

AMBAZAC, France (UPI) — Experts inspected wreckage today for evidence that terrorists caused the explosion that ripped open a passenger car on the Paris-Toulouse express train, killing five people and injuring 27.

Police were unsure whether the attack, which occurred Monday as the train cruised the French countryside at nearly 100 mph, was sabotage or an accident with illicit explosives.

Volcano Erupts; Kills 10

TUXTLA GUTIERREZ, Mexico (UPI) — A volcano dormant for centuries erupted into life and spit out a 140-mile blanket of rock and ash that killed at least 10 people, injured 200 and forced 20,000 to flee their homes.

Authorities in the southern state of Chiapas said the 7,300-foot El Chichon volcano ended its long silence in an eruption shortly after midnight Monday near the town of Picurico.

Seedling Sale

Set For Saturday

It's tree planting time again and time for the Annual Arbor Day Tree Seedling Sale sponsored by the Florida Division of Forestry and the Florida Nurserymen and Growers' Association.

The sale will be held at the Altamonte Mall Saturday from 10 a.m. until all the trees are sold. The seedlings will be selling for $1 each or $ for $5.

There will be 11 species available. Some of the better known varieties include Silver Dollar Eucalyptus, Grape Myrtle, Tabebuia and Bottlebrush. Species availability is subject to change due to weather conditions, crop failure or the like.

AREA DEATHS

HOMER MUMFORD

Homer Mumford, 64, of Osteen, died Monday at Seminole Memorial Hospital, Sanford. Born Aug. 13, 1917, in Roseville, Ohio, he came to Osteen three years ago from Ohio. He was retired as a lieutenant commander after 30 years with the U.S. Navy. He is survived by his wife, Verna; a daughter, Mrs. Christine Royer, Albany, N.Y.; a brother, Roy, Osteen; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Drusilla Tolliver, Roseville; seven grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Brisson Funeral Home-PA is in charge of arrangements.

HARLOW GOODSPEED

Harlow W. Goodspeed, 82, of 2402 S. Myrtle Ave., Sanford, died Sunday night at the home of his daughter in Casselberry. Born in Elyria, Ohio, he had lived in Sanford for the past 60 years. He was a member of the First United Methodist Church, the Ware Bible Class, the United Transportation Union, and the Penny Pinchers. He was retired from the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad as a conductor after 44 years of service.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Alice; a daughter, Mrs. Joyce Kirtley, Casselberry; four grandchildren, Bill Kirtley, Longwood, Mrs. Mary Pat Cordell, Casselberry, Mrs. Peggy Lorenz, Sunrise, Miss Pamela Kirtley, Casselberry; and three great-grandchildren. Old Hollywood, English Dark Horse Dominate Oscars

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Old Hollywood, led by Henry Fonda and Katharine Hepburn with almost a century of screen time between them, and the English dark horse "Chariots of Fire" dominated the Academy Awards.

The seriously ill Fonda, 76, and Miss Hepburn, 72, won the top acting honors for "On Golden Pond," a tribute from his peers to Fonda's lifetime of creating classic American film characters, and making Hepburn the all-time Oscar champion.

The English-made "Chariots of Fire" was a stunningly unexpected winner of the best picture Oscar, and took awards for original screenplay, costume design and a musical score.

The best picture category was predicted to be a contest between "Golden Pond" and Warren Beatty's "Reds."

Beatty — always the bridesmaid, never the bride — won the directing Oscar, his first win in 12 nominations, but lost in the other three categories in which he was nominated.

The award to Miss Hepburn was her fourth, breaking a tie with Ingrid Bergman for the performer with the most academy awards for acting. Others have more Oscars in other categories.

Miss Hepburn, who has never appeared to receive an Oscar personally since she won her first for "Morning Glory" in 1932, kept her record intact. She was appearing on stage in Washington, D.C.

Sir John Gielgud won the best supporting actor Oscar, his first, for his portrayal of a crusty valet to a rich drunk in "Arthur." Maureen Stapleton was chosen best supporting actress for her forceful performance as American radical Emma Goldman in "Reds."

HENRY FONDA
...best actor

KATHARINE HEPBURN
...best actress

In addition to Fonda and Miss Hepburn, the senior generation was represented by Gielgud, 77, and special Academy Award recipients Barbara Stanwyck, 74, and Danny Kaye, 69.

Emcee Johnny Carson quipped best actor nominee Burt Lancaster, at 68, was "newcomer of the year."

Emotional moments came from presenter Dan Aykroyd, who slipped in a forbidden tribute to his late "Saturday Night Live" partner John Belushi, and Miss Stanwyck, who said an emotional goodbye to the late William Holden.

Fonda's daughter Jane, granted a special exemption from the academy's rule against substitutes accepting awards, collected the Oscar for Fonda, who has been ill for months with a weak heart, but watched the nationally televised show at his home.

"I know that he's very, very proud and very happy," Miss Fonda said, adding he probably was saying he was lucky — "as if luck had anything to do with it."

"Dad," said Miss Fonda, waving the Oscar at the television cameras, "me and the grandchildren are coming over with it right away."

Not long afterward, Miss Fonda walked into a bedroom at her father's Bel-Air home and placed the heavy, goldplated statue in his hands before an audience that included Fonda's wife, Shirlee, his son-in-law, Tom Hayden and two of Fonda's grandchildren.

"There's no question about it — this has to be one of the high points of my life," said Fonda, sitting in a chair, grinning the Nebraska grin that has charmed moviegoers around the world since 1935.

"I'm real happy and I'm proud, and I'm particularly happy that Katharine won too."

Fonda was given a special Oscar for lifetime film achievement in 1980. He was nominated twice previously but did not win — for best actor for "Grapes of Wrath" in 1940 and as co-producer for "Twelve Angry Men" in 1957. But in 47 years in Hollywood he had never before won an acting Oscar.

New Drug Combo Works For Hodgkin's Patients

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — An Italian researcher says his team produced a near-total cure rate in a group of advanced cancer patients by alternating a standard treatment with a new combination of drugs.

The most effective known treatment for advanced cases of Hodgkin's disease is a drug combination called MOPP for the first letters of the drugs used. About 25 percent of the patients who received it failed to respond.

But Dr. Gianni Bonadonna, director of the National Tumor Institute in Milan, Italy, told an American Cancer Society seminar Monday that MOPP was significantly improved when alternated with ABVD, a combination he designed.

"This probably is going to increase the cure rate of MOPP ... so you should alternate and get the best of both regimens," Bonadonna said.

Hodgkin's disease, a cancer of the lymph nodes and spleen, affects only one in 7,000 Americans, according to the American Cancer Society. But it has been singled out because it is the most common among people 15 to 29. It is estimated it will cause 1,600 deaths in 1982, according to the American Cancer Society.

Thirty-eight patients in the Italian study received MOPP alone and 37 received ABVD and MOPP on a monthly alternation from September 1974 to August 1980. There was a complete remission in 71 percent of MOPP patients, and in 92 percent of those receiving the alternate treatment. Remissions lasted from two to eight years. The 92 percent remission rate meant only one patient relapsed.

Fifty percent of the patients on the MOPP and ABVD combination treatment suffered severe vomiting, and 10 percent had hair loss.

MOPP stands for mechlorethamine, vincristine (trade name Oncovin), procarbazine and prednisone. ABVD is doxorubicin (Adriamycin), bleomycin, vinblastine and dacarbazine.

Bonadonna said further studies will have to be done to confirm the results and suggested an independent study in a larger clinical trial. The concept of cyclic treatment is already being studied by others, including the National Cancer Institute, he said.

Tax Crusader To Address Young GOPs Thursday

Lake County Property Appraiser Ed Havill, chairman of Floridians for Tax Relief, will bring his petition drive to Seminole County Thursday.

Havill will appear at the meeting of the Seminole County Young Republicans at the Sanford Holiday Inn, Interstate 4 and State Road 46, at 8:15 p.m., Thursday. A social hour is scheduled to begin at 7:45 p.m.

Havill's proposed constitutional amendment would place a cap on license and service charges and property taxes levied by state and local governments.

He said the proposal would permit county commissions and city councils to get the same amount of revenues each year from property taxes plus a five percent increase and revenues from new construction.

The tax authority would be permitted to collect the same amount of revenue from other fees and taxes plus hike those fees by two-thirds of the consumer price index increase.

"If the taxing units want to exceed these limits, they would have to go to the voters for approval," Havill said. "This will force taxing authorities to spend tax money in as judicious a manner as they do their own," he said.

Havill started Floridians For Tax Relief in 1980 and has already collected 170,000 petition signatures, little more than half the 200,000 signatures needed to place the proposed constitutional amendment on the ballot. The remaining total number of signatures must be collected by Aug. 3, Havill said.

Havill, the first Republican to hold the Lake County property appraiser's office since the county was founded in 1887, was elected in 1976.

Court Refuses To Review 'Atkinson Vs. Atkinson'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court doesn't want to screen a real-life "Kramer vs. Kramer" case involving a divorced father who lost custody of two daughters he claims he mothered more than his ex-wife.

The justices Monday refused to take up "Atkinson vs. Atkinson." The father had argued he was unconstitutionally denied custody of his daughters — Tara, now 11, and Abigail, 9 — because of his sex.

Like actor Dustin Hoffman in the Academy Award-winning movie, Jeff Atkinson of Evanston, Ill., claimed to be the victim of "automatic preference" toward mothers in child custody conflicts.

"The ability to parent is not unique to women, yet many courts ... persist in the belief a woman is inherently better able to raise children than a man," argued Atkinson, an attorney.

Atkinson based his contention of sex discrimination on comments by state Judge Albert Porter, who awarded custody of the children to Janet Atkinson.

Said Porter, "We are dealing with two young ladies. I feel both parents are very good parents, however, I feel that they should be in the custody of the mother." The judge also said he did not know whether his decision to grant custody to the mother would have been the same "if I was dealing with two young men."

Without explanation, the Supreme Court refused to listen to Atkinson's claims he deserved custody because he had devoted more time to the girls' upbringing — changing their diapers, caring for them in illness, accompanying them on school field trips and preparing most family meals.

He and his wife, Janet, were divorced after 10 years of marriage.

Janet Atkinson disputed her ex-husband's claims the Illinois court based its custody decision on sex, asserting instead the judge correctly applied state law based on facts presented at trial.

"Giving an automatic preference to mothers in custody cases would present a substantial federal question, but that is not what happened in (this) case," she said.

In the 1979 movie "Kramer vs. Kramer," the character portrayed by Hoffman lost his custody fight in court but won back his son when the mother changed her mind about wanting to rear him.
