Altamonte Spgs. Insurance Studied

BY MARION BETHA

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Discussion concerning renewal of the city employees' health and accident insurance brought a suggestion to City Council by Mayor Lawrence Swofford yesterday that the entire insurance program be reviewed. The mayor objected to an increase in rates by the company with whom the city transferred its employees' insurance program only last year. Mayor Swofford contended that while each year impressive presentations are given by companies, the rates mushroom and the next year the city switches to another company.

In suggesting study of the insurance program for the city, Mayor Swofford cited a stumbling block in that, "I don't know if we can find three honest insurance people." He noted that a committee could be formed from among council, but then explained, "I couldn't serve... my opinion would be too biased. 'I can't even talk to them' (the insurance agents), Mayor Swofford told council, "I see through their phony statements."

Councilman Daniel Dorfman suggested the city advertise for bids on the program as they do in other issues and he, too, injected a vituperation against the insurance industry, noting, "When you talk to the insurance companies they say they are losing money... but look at their buildings... they're the richest corporations in the world."

In another action of council, expenditure of a budgeted $4,175 was authorized for portable radios for the fire department.

The total encompassed four radios at cost of $998 each. Three companies were invited to submit bids, but only one acceded to the request; Motorola Corporation.

Although apparently overwhelmed by the cost of the radios, Mayor Swofford nevertheless recommended the appropriation of funds commenting, "We're expanding... we're trying to go first class... I think we ought to buy them."

Rock Commercial Comes Under Fire

By JOHN VAN GIESON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Prudential Insurance Co. television commercials suggesting would-be policy holders can "own a piece of the rock" have come under fire from Florida Insurance Commissioner Tom O'Malley.

He entered an order Tuesday charging violations of laws prohibiting misrepresenting the terms of insurance policies and deceptive advertising.

O'Malley ordered Prudential officials to appear at a Dec. 6 hearing in Tallahassee and show cause why the company should not be ordered to cease its "own a piece of the rock" ads in Florida.

"Such advertisements encouraged viewers to buy a piece of the rock" and thereby acquire an interest in steel mills, the Empire State Building, textile companies, tire manufacturing companies and fashion design industry," O'Malley said.

Bringing the problems closer to home... if you're a "fatty" and went out and purchased a belt massager from Sears, Roebuck and Co. sometime between December 1969 and October 4 of this year... you might get the shock of your life.

The company issued a warning asking all owners of massagers with model No. 49,210 to take the units to the nearest Sears outlet for repair. They present a potential danger of serious electrical shock to their owners.

As soon as that person who insists on repeatedly mailing me an unsigned postal card out of Orlando signs his or her name, then may be I'll be able to get around and find out, as you inquire, "Is it true that the Florida Legislature voted themselves a substantial retirement to be payable after 18 years of service? Was this done at the last session?"

Wish I had said that... Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio: "It's just typical of the politics of today when both parties are trying to fool the people."

Cabinet Officials Sued

BY DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A lawsuit was filed today against two Nixon cabinet officers charging they had led land-grant university aid programs of $750 million a year which cater to big agri-business and special interest groups to the detriment of small farmers, consumers and minorities.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court here, names Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliott Richardson and other officials.

Among the many demands, the complaint seeks a permanent injunction against federal spending on the "land grant complex" of 76 universities, agricultural research, experiment stations and extension services until new operating rules are provided.

"These standards and guidelines must insure that the apparatus includes a majority membership representing legitimate spokesmen for consumers, environmentalists, independent family farmers, farm workers, minorities, small-town businessmen, rural public officials and other interests," the complaint said.

The land-grant colleges and universities, nearly all state owned and operated, were endowed by grants of land under the Morrill Act of 1862.

Casselberry OKs School Protection

By KATHY NIBLACK

CASSELBERRY — City Council made a decision this week on which area schools it would feasibly serve with fire protection should a need arise. Discussion was held on this issue last week following receipt of a letter from the county School Board requesting information on which schools could expect help from Casselberry.

City Manager Ronald Bergman presented a list of schools to the council this week for consideration. In the list, Bergman included schools which Casselberry residents attend, and schools which are included in Casselberry's mutual aid agreements. The schools he attended: Casselberry Elementary, South Seminole Middle School, Red Bug Elementary, Lyman H. Miller Elementary, Estates Elementary School. Schools included in mutual aid include Longwood Elementary, Altamonte Elementary, and Lyman H. Miller.

Council will agree to offer fire protection to any of these schools at any time.

Councilman John Zacco asked if this would be a 24-hour protection. He was answered by Councilman Harry Sambrook, who left no doubts about council intentions when he said, "We'll provide fire protection when the buildings catch on fire."

Council heard second reading of an ordinance stating the city's intention to annex 2500 feet of Red Bug Road, and authorized the preparation and posting of an ordinance to effect the annexation.

Bids were opened on the paving of Red Bug Road, Melody Lane and Lake Kathryn Circle. These bids were turned over to the city manager and city engineer for study and recommendations.

Council voted to deny a request from Club Juana that the club be allowed to remain open until 3 or 4 a.m. on New Year's Eve. City Attorney Kenneth McIntosh reported to the council that in order to grant this request, the city's alcoholic beverage ordinance would have to be changed.

Council voted this idea, and report will be forthcoming in about a week or 10 days. "There has been no report, as yet," to The Herald.

City Manager W. E. Knowles was quoted Tuesday that he had been notified officially that Sanford's water is satisfactory. "He was unavailable Wednesday to say who made the official report but Richardson said his copy was signed by E. G. Snipes, Winter Park, regional engineer of the State Department of Health.

Firemen Planning Program

DeBARY — The DeBary Volunteer Fire Department will celebrate its 20th anniversary with a special program Sunday, Oct. 15, at the firemen's recreation hall.

The purpose of the program, according to Adrian Fredeman, president of the association, is "to honor all the dedicated men and women who have made the fire department what it is today."

The program will begin at 1 p.m. with an invocation by the Chaplain for the department, Rev. Ernest B. Pugh. This will be followed by the posting of colors by the DeBary Veterans Committee. Remarks on the occasion will be tendered by Fredeman, E. Maurice Eve, fire chief, and Mrs. Rachel Pietropinto, president of the Ladies Auxiliary.

Fredeman also will present a history of the Fire Department, and will lead the presentation of awards to several people who have been instrumental in its development.

Following the program, open house will be held at the fire station until 3 p.m. This will include demonstration of the fire equipment and other activities.

"Fire Ladies" will be on duty all day to accept donations from residents served by the department. Residents are urged at this time to give their 1972 donation for fire protection.

Sanford's Water Is 'Alive' Again

By FRED VAN PELT

Snipes told The Herald this morning that the department "laboratories were so far behind" that he spent the weekend running tests. "He could not recall making tests of the Sanford samples but said if he signed the report, 'the samples must have been routine and not special,' as requested. He cited his area does not cover Sanford ("I was merely helping out"). Sanford is in the area covered by William Bottrick, also a regional engineer, who was unavailable today.

Robbins said that "this morning's worms may be a 'mistake' that was broken loose with the flushing of the water mains."

Sponsors Are Needed For Miss BPW Contest

By JANE CASSELBERRY

The response from entries in the "Little Miss BPW" contest, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Sanford, has been so good that more sponsors from businesses or individuals are needed. Anyone interested contributing to sponsor one of the little girls may contact Karen Westmark at Sanford Atlantic National Bank.

Applications have been received from 12 children 7-9 years old and more are expected before the Oct. 16 deadline. At least ten more sponsors are needed.

Entry blanks are available at merchants displaying the contest poster or at Sanford Electric. Merle Norman, or the Seminole Zoological Society office.

Judging of the entries will take place Saturday, Oct. 14, at 8 p.m. in Seminole High School auditorium.

Children under 12 will be admitted free. Kirby (Sky King) Grant will be master of ceremonies.

A picture of the little girl should be submitted with entry so that it may be displayed in the lobby of the bank.

Proceeds from the contest will go mainly to the Seminole Zoological Society's Zoo fund, with the remainder going to cover expenses and aid the BPW's continuing projects, such as the free dental clinic. Savings bonds will be presented to the first, second and third place winners. Parents of the winner will receive a free mini-vacation for two.

Repair Or Demolish? House Owners Warned

By BILL SCOTT

Sanford City Commission at a public hearing Monday night removed three dwellings from the list of 26 drawn up by the building official as being under the city code, but gave the owners 19 days to bring them up to code or demolish.

Three other owners were given 30 days and action on one was tabled after it was disclosed that the property owner was unavailable for service of a registered letter advising of the hearing.

Garfield Walker, owner of 818 Laurel Avenue, appeared before the commission to ask why his property was included on the condemnation list. During discussion it was revealed that the building inspector had not checked the inside of the structure as required. Walker said only defect in the house was new flooring needed on the porch.

It was also disclosed that two other structures, at 700 Laurel Avenue, owned by the late George DiGiovanni, and at 308 West Seventh Street, under trust of H.E. Taffer, should also be deleted from the list because "the inspector could not check inside."

Permits for repairs had been issued to houses located at 407 Myrtle Avenue and 405 Myrtle Avenue. Demolish permits were obtained for properties at 400 Myrtle Avenue and 703 Orange Avenue.

Condemnation action was postponed on a house located at 2489 Orange Avenue after it was disclosed that Elizabeth B. Smith, owner, was hospitalized and was not served as required.

Commissioner Gordon Meyer, commenting on several of the structures said he could not see how some of the houses could be brought up to city code. "We hired a building inspector to get these houses up to code and I feel we should back him up," Meyer added.

Honest Judgement Sought By Voters

It is getting more and more difficult for the American voter to achieve the kind of balanced judgement which a presidential campaign should encourage.

This one is, and now it is discovered always has been, so manipulated that some of the basic assumptions which could be counted on to help the citizen have been ignored.

Conditioned to expect a certain amount of "cloak-and-dagger derring do" as the strategists of the two great parties went about planning their campaigns, the continuing exposures of the powerful and rich GOP's invasion of their opponents (and we mean the candidates) ranks by spying is one instance.

Now there can be added to the recent Watergate affair, the revelation by the Washington Post that infiltration of the campaigns by political spying to upset rallies, mislead supporters and sap opposition strength is part of the Nixon re-election campaign.

An instance cited is that of the sabotage of the Muskie primary campaign in New Hampshire when a letter, now said to have been fabricated by a White House aide, was sent to the Manchester (NH) Union Leader in which the Senator Edmund S. Muskie of Maine then the Democratic front-runner was depicted condoning a racial slur on Americans of French-American descent as "Canucks."

It was at that time Muskie's lead started to drop. He is reacted with deep emotion, denying such a letter with the kind of disbelief that such a tactic could be employed by his opponents which any normal, honest man would have held.

Yet it was employed then and there can be no doubt that such tactics are still very much in use. Nor can the blame rest only on the GOP, although they are the ones whose hands have been caught in the cookie jar.

For instance, there is the word from the Fair Campaign Practices Committee that this year's campaigns seem to be the dirtiest in years. If this keeps up, and it surely looks as though it will, then "we will have a new high in political low blows during 1972."

and long-time foe of the war, plans disclosure of his own plan for the war's end in a public pronouncement, Tuesday.

Yet this is also the time when Nixon's special advisor on foreign affairs Dr. Henry S. Kissinger returns from an extraordinary private talk-session with the Hanoi peace negotiators in Paris. Just a coincidence?

Then there is Candidate Nixon's extraordinary promise of no federal taxes for not only this year but for the next four years if he is still in the White House.

What a crystal ball. It does get a little cloudy when it is recalled that the taxpayer who would save tax dollars if this fiscal miracle were to take place, would be spending them for the bread to eat and the meat to put on his table as the big grain combines reap in their golden harvest from the Russian wheat deal.

It is in no way to disparage the accomplishments which President Nixon has to his credit for his four years in the White House to point out that there is no excuse at all for the use of the political tactics which are now being brought to light.

Rather it is a time when the opening of channels for honest news flow is essential so that the true greatness of the American democratic government can be disclosed for all the world to see and enjoy!

Secretarial Occupational Hazards

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a secretary gets tired of hearing:

"Honey, if you want to get to the top in this job, you have to learn the right lap to sit on."

"Good heavens, I know you probably couldn't spell. But can't you take dictation easier?"

"What do you—I'm mumbiling, Miss Grant? It is impossible for a Harvard man to mumble."

"Give me a buzz the first time the boss is in a good humor, will you? I want to hit him up for a raise, and I don't want to try it when he's in a bad mood."

"I don't just want a girl Friday. I want a girl Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and sometimes weekends."

"I know it doesn't look right for an executive to borrow money from his secretary, Miss Grant. But can you let me have $20 until day after tomorrow?"

"If my wife calls, I'm in conference. It's a girl Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and sometimes weekends."

"Miss Grant, are you sure you spell sour apples the same way you spell sauerkraut?"

"You're always complaining that you never know where I am when there's an emergency in the office, Miss Grant. Hasn't it ever occurred to you, Miss Grant, that if there's an emergency, that is the precise time I don't want you to be able to reach me?"

"The trouble with secretaries is that they keep trying to act like their bosses. As soon as I started drinking a three-martini lunch, my secretary jumped from one to a two-martini lunch."

"Phoebe Grant, I think you must have fallen in love with your boss. No girl could work for a heel like him unless she loved him."

"Miss Grant, I see you have spelled the word 'sterile' with an 'uh' in it again. Really, really, really!"

"I don't see why you have trouble making both ends meet on the salary I pay you. Don't you get tired, Phoebe, of ordering all those theater tickets and anniversary roses for your boss's wife? Don't you sometimes wish they were for you instead?"

of ordering all those theater tickets and anniversary roses for your boss's wife? Don't you sometimes wish they were for you instead?"

An astute Republican politician makes another point. He argues that McGovern's constant mention of the war is a reminder to millions of voters that he has pulled out more than 500,000 U.S. troops, cut our casualties to almost nothing, stopped sending draftees to Vietnam and ended U.S. ground action in the war.

Polks do indeed indicate that the President is getting credit on these major counts. They also show that stable majorities of the American people favor the bombing, the mining of Haiphong harbor, and other U.S. efforts to prevent a North Vietnamese take-over as we withdraw.

McGovern simply declines to accept this evidence. He minimizes the President's withdrawal achievement. For instance, he never says Mr. Nixon has taken out more than half a million men. He concedes, somewhat grudgingly, that he has removed "thousands," making it sound like a mere handout.

The reason is clear enough. McGovern sees the war through the eyes of the South Dakota preacher-man, the neo-fascist, the complete hater of violence. Practical moves that only diminish war activity without ending it altogether do not impress him.

Observers follow McGovern on the trail are inevitably stirred by the genuineness of his antiwar passions. That Philadelphia speech could well have been the very best of his campaign oratory.

Nevertheless, his preoccupation with Vietnam does have its heavy political cost. McGovern by contrast often seems uninspired and even slightly disinterested when he is talking about the economy and other domestic concerns. Inadvertently, perhaps, he appears to be advertising that he really is a one-issue candidate, as his rivals always used to contend.

Political Notebook

McG's Antiwar Theme May Hurt

By BRUCE BROSSAT
Sen. George McGovern is at his campaign best when he is delivering his deeply felt, evangelistic cries against the Vietnam war. The irony is that some political advisers think he shouldn't be doing it.

In his New York appearance before the conference of major American Jewish organizations, his principal purpose was to dispel the damaging notion that he is not a strongly pro-Israelist. Still, he couldn't resist taking the end to the war drawing by far his greatest response.

Why, then, should any political expert be suggesting—as some have—that he ought to check off and talk as more about the economy, crime, trust in government, etc. One argument, consistently advanced by some of his Democratic friends, is that everyone knows where George McGovern stands on Vietnam. That his antiwar constitution is already solidly behind him, and that it is therefore a waste of valuable campaign time to keep dwelling on it.

McGovern's constant mention of the war is a reminder to millions of voters that he has pulled out more than 500,000 U.S. troops, cut our casualties to almost nothing, stopped sending draftees to Vietnam and ended U.S. ground action in the war.

Polks do indeed indicate that the President is getting credit on these major counts. They also show that stable majorities of the American people favor the bombing, the mining of Haiphong harbor, and other U.S. efforts to prevent a North Vietnamese take-over as we withdraw.

Outgoing Senate Leader Plays Governor

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Senate President Jerry Thomas may not be running for governor. He may already think he is governor.

Those were the comments of a number of political observers last week when the outgoing Senate leader took it upon himself to appoint a 10-member blue ribbon committee to study the death penalty and other criminal justice matters.

The committee may have seemed superfluous, at best, to many. After all, both Gov. Reubin Askew and House Speaker Richard Pettegrew had already appointed committees that have been studying the problem for several months.

Unlike Pettegrew's committee, which is made up only of legislators, Thomas sought to emulate Askew, who is expected to run again in 1974, and named mostly citizens to his panel.

Where Askew selected retired Supreme Court Justice Harris Drew to chair his panel, Thomas named Supreme Court Chief Justice B.K. Roberts as honorary chairman and former governor and Chief Justice Millard Caldwell as regular chairman.

The board's membership includes Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Comer, a Republican, and recently purchased the plane formerly owned by State Comptroller Fred O. Dickinson so he could "meet the people" and "carry the banner of conservatism" throughout the state—an unusual acquisition for someone who says he plans to retire from politics.

Paula Hawkins, the Matland housewife and GOP official who's running for Public Service Commission, returned a $1 contribution last week.

The contribution was listed as coming from a Santa Trafficante of Tampa on the previous week's contribution report filed with Secretary of State Richard Stone.

Apparently not knowing whether the contribution was a joke, or really had come from the reputed Florida underworld figure, Mrs. Hawkins played it safe. Next week the contribution showed up under "Expenditures—contribution refunded, $1."

Two state legislators were funding recently when the contractor who is building a new House office building refused to let them inside for a look-around.

State Reps. Vernon Holloway and George Baumgartner, both Miami Democrats, showed up unannounced at the construction site but were told by a Greenhue Construction Co. official that the firm's insurance coverage wouldn't let them come inside while the job was in progress.

Holloway and Baumgartner demanded to be let in but the official held firm.

"It's really ridiculous when the contractors won't let owners and representatives of the owners inside a building," said Baumgartner, also a contractor.

"Possibly they were trying to hide something," he said, "but we don't have any knowledge of what they were trying to hide."

Bob Brown, chief of the Bureau of Construction, said the whole thing was a regrettable mistake.

"I had been there I could have gotten them in," Brown said. "I made arrangements to take authorized people in. I could have told the contractor who they were. They showed up assuming arrangements had been made, but they hadn't."

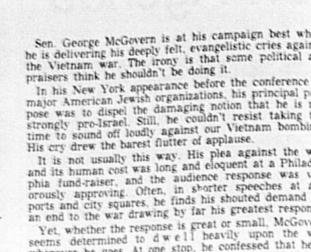

State Sen. Fred Karl, D-Daytona Beach, who chose not to run for re-election, will be back next session as a special consultant to the state Senate on executive suspensions.

Karl was chairman of the Senate Committee on Suspensions and Appointments and literally wrote the book on procedures the Senate must follow in either confirming a gubernatorial appointment or removing an official from office.

Karl is being asked to serve as a special master on suspensions by Senate President Designate Mallory Horne, D-Tallahassee. He will serve as sort of a judge who hears evidence in a suspensions case, then make a recommendation to the Senate.

The lawmaker, an unsuccessful candidate for governor in the 1966, said his Daytona Beach law firm is opening a branch office in Tallahassee which can assist with some of the suspensions work.

Await Friday Meeting County Delays Trot-Line Decision

Fish Commission as he spoke at the Seminole County commission workshop meeting Tuesday.

CAPTAIN DAVIS STARLING of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission reads a list of lakes where the ban on daylight trotline fishing exists. Starling spoke before a workshop session of Seminole County Commission Tuesday in which commercial fishermen and the county to bear both sides of the controversy between sports fishermen and commercial fishermen in regard to the ban on trotlines during daylight hours in the waters of Seminole County.

Commercial fishing interests of the county are trying to enlist the aid of the county commission in their fight to have the daylight ban removed.

Greg Drummond, county commission chairman, said that he had been in telephone contact with Dr. Earl Frye Jr., Director of the Game and Fish Commission and had been advised that no decision would be made at the hearing scheduled at the Sanford Civic Center, Friday.

Drummond suggested that the county commissioners take no stand until after the Friday meeting between the Game and Fish Commission and the commercial fishing group.

Captain Starling was asked by Drummond to identify the problem. In reply, Starling told of numerous complaints from sports fishermen and boaters that trotlines interfered with use of lakes and rivers.

"Putting a ban on trotlines during daylight hours is not a new thing," Starling remarked, "It has been done in many lakes of the state."

Attorney Roger Berry, acting on behalf of the commercial interests, noted that Stokes Fish Market alone paid out almost $300,000 last year purchasing catfish from the commercial fishermen.

In closing the hearing, Chairman Drummond requested the commissioners to request the Game and Fish Commission to render a speedy verdict after the Friday hearing, stating that the county would be represented at that meeting.

Drummond also stated that he would like to see the commercial interests endorse Binford's solution of the five day work week.

rough to get on the lakes to pull their lines.

In reply to the chairman's question, "What is your solution?" Attorney Berry stated, "We are willing to work with the Fish Commission. We have organized and are willing to police our own industry."

Tom Binford, well known sports fisherman, took the floor remarking that he thought it was a grave injustice to enforce such stringent regulations.

"Ninety-five percent of sports fishermen and boaters come out on weekends only, said Binford, "I think a five day work week for commercial fishermen would help solve the problem."

WINNING TENNIS with DAVE KORNEICH U.S.P.T.A. Professional

HIT TWO FEET ABOVE THE NET

The most difficult shots to return are those balls that are hit hard and deep in the backcourt. To return the ball successfully, you must get ready early so that you have the correct timing when meeting the ball.

I see many players (adults and juniors) trying to hit the ball so that it barely crosses the net. When hitting a flat forehand or backhand stroke, you must hit the ball approximately two feet above the net—so that you get good depth on your shots.

Line B depicts the low hit ball. Notice that the ball has landed in the forecourt. This will enable your opponent to make an easy return. Line A, however, shows a ball hit two feet above the net. This ball will land deep in the backcourt—making it more difficult for your opponent to return.

Lolich Goes Today Tigers Still Have Tough Road

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
DETROIT (AP)—Although they still were only one game from elimination, the Detroit Tigers weren't ready to be away from the challenge provided by the Oakland Athletics heading into today's fourth American League playoff game.

Trailing two games to none in the best-of-five series, the Tigers got a two-run lead from surprise starter Ike Brown and a playoff-record setting 14-strikeout performance from Joe Coleman in beating the A's 3-0 Tuesday.

Since the playoff system was adopted in 1969 when the leagues were divided into two divisions, no team has come from a 2-0 deficit and won three games and the pennant.

"We don't have the edge, but if we win tomorrow we'll have the edge going into the final game," Detroit Manager Billy Martin said.

He was to send southpaw Mickey Lolich against Oakland's Jim "Catfish" Hunter in today's game. Lolich was the loser in the 11-inning, 3-2 opening playoff game.

"No manager has an excuse for losing when he has Mickey Lolich and Woodie Fryman in that order at home," said Martin, who will send Fryman to the mound on Thursday should the Tigers win today.

Before Tuesday's game, Martin held a short team meeting. "It was no rah, rah thing," he explained, "I just said we should have won the first game, we didn't play well in the second, and now we need to reach back for that little extra."

Brown reached back for that little extra in the fourth inning, cracking a low, inside fast ball by Ken Holtzman through the box for a bases-loaded, two-run single. Detroit had led the bases on a walk to Al Kaline, a double by Will Frazier, and a walk to Willie Horton.

"No, it wasn't a bold move," Martin said of the insertion of Brown into the starting lineup at first base. "Ike is used to playing in and out."

Series All Even Blass Vs Gullett In NL Final

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates turned confidently today on reliable Steve Blass, while the Cincinnati Reds had to go with young and comparably inexperienced Don Gullett today in their showdown game for the 1972 National League pennant.

"I've got to like my chances with Blass," said Bill Virdon, manager of the Eastern Division champion Pirates.

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson spoke more cautiously about the 22-year-old Gullett, who spent most of the season wracked with hepatitis and didn't make the starting rotation until mid-August.

"I look for Gullett to pitch like he did from the second inning in the first game of the series," said Anderson.

Gullett lost 5-1 to Blass in the first game, giving up three runs in the first inning and two more in the fifth during his aximinist stint. Anderson figures that Gullett will be in control today.

Cincinnati forced the best-of-five series into the fifth and sixth games by trouncing the Pirates 7-1 Tuesday behind the two-pitching of young Ross Grimsley. The Reds stole three bases, hit and ran, and took advantage of three Pittsburgh errors.

Virdon had a right to be smug about his apparent pitching advantage for the final game. Blass won two games for Pittsburgh in last year's World Series victory over Baltimore.

Pittsburgh's problems started in the first inning when Gullett threw into center field as Johnny Bench stole second. Bobby Tolson scored on the error. In the fourth, Gene Alley dropped a pop fly along the foul line in short left field with men on base. You just bear down. You're a little lax when you don't have them on."

"We're in good shape," Oakland Manager Dick Williams said. "We're still ahead, two games to one."

"We didn't get the hit. It wasn't for lack of trying. Give Coleman credit for that. He was tough when he had to be."

"It was beautiful," Brown said of the hit. "I think it was the biggest hit of my career because it might have turned things around for us."

"I think it's pretty tough to be in the play like that because I didn't get to play much the last three weeks of the season," Brown said. "I think I only pinch hit three times."

Two more Reds' runs scored in the seventh on Joe Morgan's single, a triple by Tolson that Stennett lost in the sun, and a single by Menke that also had Stennett shading his eyes from the sun.

Stennett lost two fly balls in the eighth on a double by Dennis Menke, an infield out, an intentional walk, another stolen base, Grimsley's run-scoring single and an RBI hit by Pete Rose.

Oak Ridge Is Next For Seminole '11'

The Fighting Seminoles lost a battle last week, but their play against Lakeland Kathleen gave some indication that they're winning the war.

Sanford, 1-0 on the season, will trek to Orlando this Friday night to meet the Oak Ridge Patriots, also 1-0.

For the second consecutive week, the Seminoles will probably be playing without the services of first string quarterback Brent Carli, who missed last week's game because of a stretched knee ligament.

He was scheduled to play in today's workout, but didn't participate in any contact exercises.

According to head coach Bill Young, Carli is expected to see very little action against Oak Ridge. "We want to make sure his knee is completely healed," he said.

Young's reasons for not playing Carli much this week will be that most of the signal calling last week for the Seminoles, and did a good job despite his small size.

John McGregor has a twisted knee and will not dress for a senior end, suffered a deep cut on one of his arms during last week's game, but Brown expects him to be back in action against the Patriots.

Young was impressed by the improvement of the offensive line in last week's game. Marcellus Daniels at center, Reggie Smith and Alan Myers at guards, Larry German and Billy Hardy at tackle saw most of the action on the offensive line.

Young also praised running backs Turner Davis and Tommy Thompson. They did a good job racking up yardage for the Seminoles. The game against Kathleen was the first time since their opener with Oviedo, crew it was Gary Varner 180, 191-564 and Ed Adams 185.

U.S. Bank won four games and overcame a one-point 200-200-551 by Jim Carver of Zales in doing so. Robert Gilbo 167 led the Bankers. Jim Link 183 and Richard Williams 197 led the Plaza to a sweep of the H.I.S. Stars.

Other top games were by Min Burtische 188, Greg Hullock 195, Ed Jackson 182, Jim Brewer 198, 193, Berney Hudley 186 and Jack Kanner 198.

Local Pinpoint
Scanning the other action at Bowl America Sanford in the SHOOTING STAIRS loop it was Bonnie Link with a fine 200, 300-519, Kathy Cooper 205-503 and Tom Price 172.

Sparkers in the CREATIVE BOUTIQUE circuit came from Eve Rogers 177 and Ginny Gaudreau 183. From the GENERATION GAP league were the efforts Carolyn Street 171, Sharon Williams 180, Annette Waldstedt 178 and Kay Thomas 181. In the BALL AND CHAIN league the highs were by Jim Maloney 198, 221-562, Chuck Kelley 192, Larry Almond 179, Greg Bullock 205, 220-585 and Jim Nadler 194.

High in the JET BOWLETTES loop was Elaine Kostival's 172. Best in the HOOD SHEPHERD league were John Chapman 170, J. John 170, H. Seals 216, W. Lemox 192 and Frank Plapp 177. In the SEMINOLE MEMORIAL HOSPITAL circuit the top scorers were Bill Griffith 221, and Pat Sipeley 189. And in the DYNASTIONS MIXED league the highs came from Ira Holclaw 180, Ward Betrens 114-214, Tracey Lee 190, Ricky Sankala 190, Ward Betrens 114-214, Tracey Lee 190, Mike Link 129-312, Julie Deoroff 126, Tracey Dixon 113, Eddie Miller 118 and Ray Wolf 127-219.

Total sponsorship for the tourney, expected to take two days in the last week of February for the biddy and two days in the first weekend in March for the men's tourney, is expected to cost $800, but the parents and participants in the games are reported to be willing to raise $400 of the cost by selling programs and concessions on game Saturday.

Injured Patriots Making Changes

Any running team needs its offensive line in good health and working order if the backfield is to score. Nothing could be more apparent to Head Coach Bill Perry and his Lake Brantley Patriots as they face the almost complete decimation of their offensive forward wall.

Three days away from their first meeting with win-hungry Sanford Naval Academy, the Wishbone "T" running attack of the Patriots will have to depend on an almost completely untested line. In any event, Lake Brantley will be fielding a much smaller team for quite some time now.

Linebacker and offensive guard Frank Perry joined a growing list of Patriots unable to play. Perry, who will be right out for the season with a knee injury, has a lot of company in that line.

Salad Stars Pasta

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Busy weekends call for some all-around dishes that may be prepared in advance and will refrigerate well. Such an appealing snack that goes well with cold cuts, leftovers or serves as a meal in itself is an Easy Macaroni Carrot Salad. It takes little time to prepare. Addition of raisins and shredded carrots makes it colorful and provides a very special combination of flavors. To enjoy macaroni or any pasta at its best cook it easily tender, never to the mushy stage.

EASY MACARONI CARROT SALAD

- 3 cups elbow macaroni (12 ounces)
 - 1 1/2 tablespoons salt
 - 4 to 5 quarts boiling water
 - 3/4 cup mayonnaise
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 2 tablespoons water
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 - 1 pound carrots, shredded (about 2 cups)
 - 1/2 cup dark seedless raisins
 - Crisp lettuce leaves
- Gradually add macaroni and 1 1/2 tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender (7 to 10 minutes) or as directed on package. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water. Drain again.
- Blend mayonnaise, lemon juice, water, 1 teaspoon salt and pepper in large bowl. Add macaroni, carrots and raisins. Toss lightly until combined. Cover and chill for several hours.
- At serving time, toss lightly. If necessary, add a few tablespoons cold water. Toss again. Serve salad surrounded with lettuce leaves. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Cook spinach according to package directions; drain very well. Sauté onion in butter; add to spinach with bread crumbs and canned grated cheese from spaghetti package. Spread over spaghetti. Remove from heat. Gradually beat in egg yolks. Stir in peanuts, cool 5 minutes. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold into vegetable mixture, about 1/4 at a time. Turn into greased 1 1/2-quart souffle dish. Run spatula in a circle around top of mixture about 1 inch from edge. Bake in a 350-degree oven until puffed and brown — 50 to 55 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Protein Balance

Heart patients on low fat diets can expand their menus occasionally with a vegetarian meal, providing it has the proper balance of body-building protein.

A vegetarian meal will break up the sameness of having meat or fish as a main dish and also will help cut food costs, but it must be carefully planned to ensure a complete protein supply. This is especially so if children, pregnant women, and others with special dietary needs are involved.

A good vegetarian meal is one that contains the proper balance of amino acids from legumes (dried peas, beans, and lentils), vegetables, grain and low-fat dairy products. Just eating a combination of vegetables does not insure proper amino acid balance. Legumes eaten with grain (wheat, rice, barley, oatmeal, etc.) will provide the same amino acids you would get from meat, poultry or fish. For example, a combination of beans and rice can supply you with as much protein as a steak, but with very little fat. Soybeans contain high quality protein and they can be purchased as flour, meal or powder for mixing with breads, cakes, cookies and sauces; as well as in their natural state.

Nuts and seeds follow legumes in their ability to meet your daily protein needs. Sesame seeds contain interesting snacks, but remember that they are not low in calories.

Seeds and nuts also can be used to flavor vegetables. At the same time, increasing the protein adequacy.

Skim milk, low-fat or partially creamed cottage cheese, pot cheese, cooked or dry cereal, fruit, whole grain bread and sherbet may be included in a vegetarian meal.

Try these delicious polysaturated vegetable recipes which may be used as the main course or as a side dish if you prefer.

PEAS, RICE AND MUSHROOM PILAF
1/2 cup polysaturated oil
1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
1/2 cup chopped onions
1/4 cup diced celery
1-pound can (2 cups) canned tomatoes
1 cup uncooked rice
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 1/2 tablespoons sesame seeds
1 10-ounce package of frozen peas
Heat oil in large, deep skillet. Add mushrooms, onions and celery. Cook slowly until tender and lightly browned. Add tomatoes and water; bring to boil. Add rice and salt and pepper. When mixture boils again turn heat low. Cover and cook 25 minutes. Add peas and cook for a few more minutes. Garnish with sesame seeds and parsley. Makes 6 servings. Note: If triter cine is desired, cover may be removed for last 3 minutes of cooking.

Cut tomatoes into quarters and remove the seeds. Heat oil in small saucepan; add all the vegetables and seasonings. Stir for about twenty minutes, until vegetables are tender. Remove from heat and gently stir in yogurt. Makes two to three servings.

She Takes Mystique Out Of Cooking For Students

By TOM HOGG
AP Newsletters Writer

Anna Muffoletto, a petite, attractive brunette of Sicilian extraction, has been unraveling the mysteries of European and Asian cooking for fellow New Yorkers over the past decade.

"I believe in taking the mystique out of the kitchen and making people understand what they are cooking," said Miss Muffoletto, who formerly taught home economics at Hunter College and now runs her own cooking school, the Cordon Bleu of Gourmet Gallery, on New York's upper east side.

"After all, it is not as complicated as some of these experts try to make it sound," she went on. "In fact I can teach some of the most complicated recipes to a child."

Miss Muffoletto likes to have her students get the feel and flavor of foreign cookery first hand.

"This fall," she said, "I will take my classes on tours of Middle East spice shops, let them browse through Italian noodle and sausage factories and visit Greek bakeries and Japanese grocery stores. We will also take our noses into the cooking pots of a Greek taverna and an Italian trattoria."

Miss Muffoletto also believes there is a good deal of snobbery about the superiority of foreign wines, fine as they may be.

"I use a lot of domestic wine for both cooking and drinking," she said, "and I have found the wines of America are shaping up very well with their foreign cousins. They may not be on a par with the great imports, but they are good table wines, perfectly suited to every day dining."

Our friend also is a firm believer in the theory that you should use the same wines for cooking that you do for drinking.

There is no sense in spoiling a good dish by seasoning it with an inferior wine," she said.

Miss Muffoletto decided back in 1960 that it was time she paid a visit to the land of her Sicilian forebears.

"My first visit was just 72 years after my grandparents had left for America," she recalled. "I went to the community of Cefalu where they were born and walked along the narrow streets, inhaling the fragrance of the olive and orange trees."

Miss Muffoletto said Sicilian cooking differed considerably from the cuisine of Italy.

"It is influenced by Greek and Arab cuisines," she said, "as well as those of Italy, France and Spain. And it is not coarse or heavy as some foreigners imagine."

Fork has long been a mainstay on Sicilian dinner tables and it is fixed in many ways. Here is a recipe Miss Muffoletto brought back with her.

Trout, Chicken Good For Low-Saturated Fat Dieter

These recipes are good for the low-saturated fat dieter.

TROUT AMADINE

fish must also watch his calories but enjoys delicious food.

This way of preparing fish is elegant and easy, baked straight from the freezer in its foil packet. The fish stays moist, flaky and tender because the foil seals in all the flavors and juices.

To freeze: Clean and wash fish. Place each wet fish on a sheet of heavy duty aluminum wrap. Bring up long ends of foil and double-fold tightly against fish. Label package with contents, weight and date. Freeze.

To cook: Place each 10- or 12-ounce frozen fillet or whole fish, still wrapped in foil, in a broiling pan lined with foil. Bake 20 minutes at preheated 450-degree oven. Then turn foil back, dot with one teaspoon of polyunsaturated margarine, sprinkle with sliced almonds. Bake 10 more minutes. Serve with lime or lemon slices.

CHICKEN BROCHETTE, HAWAIIAN

Another easy, delicious foil recipe.

1 large mushroom caps
1 green pepper, cut into 8 squares
1 pound boneless chicken breast, cut into 16 even cubes
1 tablespoon polyunsaturated oil
4 chunks of unsweetened pineapple (canned or fresh)
1 tablespoon wine vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon monosodium glutamate

Mix the chicken for two or three hours in the mixture of oil, vinegar, and spices. Remove the chicken cubes and stir the cut-up vegetables in the remaining marinade. Select four sharp skewers and thread on each of the above ingredients in the following order: 1 mushroom cap, 1 piece chicken, 1 piece onion, 1 piece pineapple and 1/2 piece green pepper. Place the four brochettes wrapped completely in foil and bake in a 450-degree oven until chicken is tender. Add two tomatoes to the point of each and return, uncovered, to the oven for about five minutes or just enough to heat the tomatoes through and brown slightly, but still retain their shape.

During these five minutes, marinate the chicken with hot pineapple juice, which has been reduced by boiling to 1/2 cup. Serve at once on a hot plate garnished with watercress. Makes four servings.

United Fund Agency Help The Handicapped

By ANN SIECZKOWSKI
In this great land of ours with our own good fortune and good health, some times we almost forget that there are some who do not share our good fortune. We are reminded of course, that America is the "Land of Opportunity." And it is, in that it offers many different types of jobs to the individual. But there are several limitations, especially to the handicapped. You remember when you sought your first job — one of the first questions was if you had any previous experience. This question of experience is a meaningful one to the handicapped. Because employers seek someone who has been trained for the job. But where can a handicapped person get experience if he is not able to get a job in the first place? The answer here in this area is the Central Florida Sheltered Workshop. The main purpose of this workshop is to train the handicapped for jobs in the working world. A visit to the workshop would amaze you, especially when you see the variety of jobs which are performed by the handicapped. They are trained to concentrate on the task they are performing. This sometimes is a difficult task, but it is finally accomplished. Ten minute breaks are granted to the clients and to the staff and 30 minute breaks for lunch. This helps the clients to learn that there is a time to work and a time to rest. Different jobs vary in their rules as to when and how often an employee takes a break. In this way, they learn to adjust to a working atmosphere. And there are varying kinds of training offered at the workshop. Several of the clients have left the workshop during the past summer for work in the laundry area at Walt Disney World, some at the kitchen in one of the resort hotels, some have gone back to school, one at Mid-Florida Tech. One is attending a class in electronic assembly at SJC. Workshop sales for the month of July alone totaled $8,520.30 and in August, $10,382.24. Total sales for 1972 is $60,402.17. The Central Florida Sheltered Workshop is an agency of United Fund. For those interested in knowing more about its program or participating in the program — may address inquiries to the Central Florida Sheltered Workshop at 1800 Aaron Avenue, Orlando.

65th Year, No. 38 Price 10 Cents

By John A. Spolki
Don't get to go to the movies as much as I'd like to; and certainly don't qualify as a "critic." However, three weeks ago I arrived in Tampa much earlier than had been planned for the Gator-SMU football game, and had a little time to kill. Spent that time in the theatre (after a quick visit for a couple glass of "suds", obviously) and had the unexpected pleasure of seeing one of the most moving motion pictures ever. It starts at the Sanford Plaza today... "Billy Jack." You have to see it from the beginning, please. All I'll say about it is if you haven't looked into the mirror lately...I mean down deep into yours and your conscience...then be prepared.

Hear tell that the Rev. J.E. Connelly will be honored on October 22nd from 3-6:30 p.m. at the Allen Chapel AME Church. Appreciate the invitation being extended for me to also be able to participate. He's a credit to this area - a fine man.

Probably what scares me most about the current administration is its fervent desire to be "anti-press"...so secretive about how they conduct our business — our government. Ever hear how the connotation "Fourth Estate" came about? About 200 years ago, Edmund Burke addressed the British House of Commons and said, "In this Parliament are three estates: The Lords Spiritual, The Lords Temporal and The Commons. But in the Reporter's Gallery, yonder sits a Fourth Estate, more important by far than all. "Only the liberty of the Press, which no influence, no power, no minister, no government, which nothing but the depravity or corruption of a jury can ever destroy. It will be the Nation's most awful moment, if it will be the first grasp of tyranny. What remains if the public press is extinguished, the people enslaved, and the prince undone?" "As an advocate of society, of peace and of liberty, I conjure you to guard the liberty of the press, the great sentinel of the state, the grand defender of the public impotence. Guard it and cherish it, because whenever it ceases to flourish, there will die with it the liberty of the people and the security of the Crown."

As an added thought, to benefit from a good press the public should zealously defend press freedom even when it hurts. Freedom of the press is not a press freedom but a public freedom, a public possession and right and in many ways its stoutest weapon. To deserve its freedom the press should strive to be full, fair and factual, but a free people does not leave it to the government to decide what is full, fair and factual.

And if that's not enough...look at what's going on today in the Philippines. Eight newspapers shut-down, very few radio stations in operation — and those on the air strictly censored by the government...people like myself under arrest. Don't forget...if I can be put in jail for expressing an opinion, what makes you think that you wouldn't be arrested under similar charges, too? Keep the government honest with a vigilant press — without interference from the government!

Forensic Science Laboratory Set Up

FTU, Sheriff, Governor Cooperate In Establishing Crime Witness School

A recognized shortage of trained experts in forensic science — the profession which brings laboratory evidence to a courtroom — has resulted in the creation of an educational project to develop facilities and a BS degree program to meet this shortage at Florida Tech University. The project is the result of a cooperative venture by FTU, Governor's Council on Criminal Justice, and Seminole County sheriff's office. The program, under the direction of Dr. William W. McGee, associate professor of chemistry at FTU, has been granted $45,000 through the Governor's Council to build the lab and design a program that will lead to the BS degree from FTU. The lab will be located in a 5,000-square-foot building operated by the Sanford Airport Authority, and will contain, when finished, areas for chemical testing, ballistics tests, and other testing that is used in what has been termed forensic science. The Sanford site and the grant, itself, was made possible through the efforts of Sheriff John Polk. Dr. McGee noted that Florida Tech's program, expected to begin for students next summer, will feature a great deal of practical work, and will involve forensic experts from around the State. He added that the FTU program will be one of only "four or five" in the science being taught at U.S. universities. A qualified expert witness himself, McGee declared that the shortage of trained forensic scientists is evident in the growing number of criminal investigation labs in the country that are undermanned. McGee, "evidence at the scene of a crime has been damaged or overlooked because there was no one at the scene who was trained to find or protect it." McGee "intended" for his own project by working at the Region IV Crime Lab in Sanford, operated under Sheriff Polk. The Crime Lab is located near to the one now being redeveloped for the FTU forensic program. Polk noted the facilities of the Crime Lab will "be available" to students. The student body that will start the program next summer will consist of two main groups, McGee. A portion will be practicing law officers who wish to learn the intricacies of forensic science, while the remainder will be under-graduates enrolled fulltime at FTU. Robert Lowe, criminal justice planner for District III of the Governor's Council, praised all agencies involved in the successful pursuit of the grant, which was made available under the omnibus crime control bill and Safe Streets Act of 1968.

Plans for what representatives termed a "$100 million Eden" called "Winfield Reserve" were axed last night by the county Planning and Zoning Board. The project, being developed by Shaker, Vale, Inc. was owned by the board by Carl Gutmann, of Gutmann, Dragash and Matz, and Planning Consultant Harlan Hanson. Gutmann said the development was a zoning change from agriculture to planned unit development of the 775 acres, which has a mile of river frontage. Gutmann elucidated the concept of Winfield Reserve has never been initiated in this area; that is taking individuals from a high income bracket and establishing a community for them. Hanson explained the development was "unique" and that 1,300 living units were planned for the parcel as well as a nine-hole executive type golf course, park, stables and pasture area. The project, Hanson said, would take 10 years in development. Esthetics were cited by Hanson with the notion that the project would not be "obvious" from the road. Also planned for the project is a "high quality restaurant." The concept is of an executive type restaurant and cottages clustered around a meeting room. Executives could meet at Winfield Reserve in relative seclusion, but still have access to the many area tourist attractions, Hanson said. The residential units in the project would range from $100,000 "up", Hanson noted. These would be "woodland homes" raised on a pedestal. There would be 400 condominium units. However, it was stated there are no planned school sites. Adamant opposition to the venture came from William Bledsoe, spokesman for the Markham Woods Association, who noted disapproval to the density, the fact the area is designated as a prime county water recharge area, and the fact that the restaurant and cottages planned violate the intent to designate the Little Wekiva as a wild river. Further, he said, the project would be a "pedestal."

Wayne Albert, treasurer, said chamber membership fees in all categories would have to be increased to meet the organization's increased budget proposed for 1973. That budget of $47,000, a jump from $42,500 the preceding year, was approved. City of Sanford funds $25,000 of the total through annual contributions of $15,000 for operational and advertising and $10,000 for the Chamber industrial acquisition function. Albert said suggested membership price increases include those presently costing $30 a year to $40; memberships on a $15 would jump to $25. Other larger memberships cost would rise approximately 25 per cent, Albert said. He estimated there are 245 memberships that would pay $40; 74 memberships at $25 each; 18 memberships at $20.50 and 20 members paying $75 annual fee. The directors approved a motion by Garnett White for supporting the PUDs planned for property west of Sanford to make that "entire area residential in nature with only one "may" vote. The lone opposition was from Robert Daehn, a director and a member of the Seminole County Zoning and Planning Board. It was the zoning board that several weeks ago turned down the PUD concept for Heathrow, a Jeno Paulucci $200 million open space community located on 1,283 acres near Lake Mary Boulevard and I-4. Daehn said he must be consistent and vote against the motion since he had voted against the project during the zoning hearing. M. L. Cullum cautioned the board to consider the water recharge area in the western area while endorsing the PUDs. "It should be taken into consideration that City of Sanford may wind up without water," Cullum added. A. K. Shoemaker Jr., Chamber president assured Cullum that this concern was being investigated. Daehn said his position for voting against the motion was the same as expressed by Cullum.

This program affords a medical examination to all children on Medicaid and includes a physical examination, a hemoglobin test, vision, auditory, tuberculin, stool, urine and a test for sickle cells. Any conditions requiring correction are referred to a physician or organization who treat individuals on Medicaid funding. Fried said that for each child examined, the county health department would receive $10, of which 15 per cent would be returned to the state for computer and laboratory work. "Estimating $92 income for each two months, this program will bring in approximately $5,500,000 annually," Dr. Fried explained. He elaborated further that a pediatrician at a cost of $2,500 for 50 weeks would be hired, a nurse, for one day per week for 50 weeks, at a cost of $1,800; and a clerk for one and one-half days per week for 50 weeks at a cost of $1,000, would be required. This total expenditure equals the amount which would be realized from the programs as previously described. "The program is therefore self-sustaining and will only require authorization for the use of income for expense purposes by the Commissioners. No further extra funding is being requested," Dr. Fried said. Permission was given for the use of the funds.

Zoning Change Given Nod 'Greenbelt' Told: GO

By MARION BETHEA
"Greenbelt," a 1,435 acre PUD community with a developed worth of $100 million, received the stamp of approval last night from the county Planning and Zoning Board for recommendation to the County Commission. The community, being developed by Wilco Construction Company, will be located on the south side and fronting Lake Mary Boulevard, west of Lake Mary-Longwood Road, and east of Lake Emma Road. Site work upon the project is anticipated to commence in 1973. The board last night approved the request for rezoning the tract of land from agriculture to PUD (planned unit development). The impressive project will feature 750 acres of residential development, 140 acres commercial, 140 acres of parks, lakes and open space, 45 acres dedicated to school sites, four acres for a two civic center and 47 acres for major streets. Housing will encompass single family homes, of estate, detached and country club types, single family patio homes, and multi-family townhouses, apartments and polyplex units. The parks, lakes and open spaces will be comprised of 200 acres of central lakes, 35 acres of open space, 35 acres of neighborhood recreation, 140 acres designated for a town center park and five acres for a nature park. Earmarked for commercial use are 40 acres for community shopping and office center, 50 acres for an office park, 20 acres for a neighborhood commercial center and 30 acres for convenience stores. Douglas Talbot planner and engineer with the firm of Talbot, Werner and Associates, Virginia, told the board last night the company had met with all officials concerned with the project, such as the Lake Mary Civic League, the county school Board, and the Lake Mary Volunteer Fire Department. The representative said further that his company had met with the county engineer and integrated the plans of Wilco into the county master land use plan. Outlining the degree to which the company plans to cooperate with the county, Talbot said it is (Cont'd On Pg. 7A Col. 4)

Family Departs House Of Ordeal

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Neighbors report an Orlando family, held captive at gunpoint by a lone gunman last weekend, has apparently packed up and moved away from its small white frame house on the outskirts of Orlando. The family was held in the 16-hour ordeal by Jackson Stallings, a 17-year-old Orlando youth. Police say Stallings is charged with kidnaping for ransom one count each of assaulting a police officer with intent to commit murder, robbery, breaking and entering and the use of a firearm in a commission of a felony. Stallings is scheduled to be arraigned today following his release Tuesday from Florida Hospital, where he was treated for a bullet wound in the shoulder. He was shot by a sheriff's deputy during a scuffle which ended the hostages' ordeal last Saturday afternoon. He has been held in the Orange County Jail without bond since his hospital release. Neighbors reported seeing members of the family packing boxes and bags and lugging their belongings to an auto Monday. However, the family declined to reveal its destination to newsmen. Court officials said Stallings probably would go on trial in November. Sheriff's deputies said Stallings broke into the home just before midnight Friday night, demanding $5,000 ransom and held the family captive for 16 hours.

Pediatric Program Approved

By ANN SIECZKOWSKI
All county health departments have by State Division of Health requirement entered into a pediatric screening program, according to a report to the Board of County Commissioners by Dr. Julian Fried, health officer. This program affords a medical examination to all children on Medicaid and includes a physical examination, a hemoglobin test, vision, auditory, tuberculin, stool, urine and a test for sickle cells. Any conditions requiring correction are referred to a physician or organization who treat individuals on Medicaid funding. Fried said that for each child examined, the county health department would receive $10, of which 15 per cent would be returned to the state for computer and laboratory work.
