Measles Vaccination Mandatory Next Fall

Herald Staff Writer

Most Seminole County high school students who declined voluntary vaccination this week against Red Measles will unable to escape the needle next fall.

That was the word today from Marion Snell, consultant coordinator of health education and health services for the county's school district. Mrs. Snell said she received word Friday from the county health department that beginning next fall, high school students must be vaccinated against measles, unless they can show they were vaccinated after 1969, or that they have had measles. Florida health officials have become concerned over the dramatic increase of measles cases reported throughout the state at the high school level. Hence, an effort to this week immunize as many high school students as possible against measles on a voluntary basis.

"We have had a 400-percent increase in measles cases this year in Florida, compared with the same time last year," said Tom Cook, area immunization coordinator for the state department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS). Approximately 926 students at Lake Brantley and Lake Howell high schools rolled up their sleeves this morning to be voluntarily immunized against red measles. As a preventative measure against an outbreak, HRS sponsoring the voluntary immunization program this week for students in grades 9 through 12 in Seminole County.

"The compulsory immunization guidelines from the state Department of Education pertain to all children to be enrolled and admitted to grades 10 through 12 in the 1979-80 school year." "Students must either have proof of immunization certifying they were previously vaccinated with live measles virus vaccine or previously infected with natural measles, Mrs. Snell said. Students who were vaccinated prior to or in 1969 would be required to be vaccinated again since that particular vaccine did not provide a lasting immunity, Mrs. Snell noted. The HRS is sponsoring a three-day vaccination program beginning today for approximately 11,500 students in grades 9 through 12 in Seminole County, but by Friday, only about 1,700 students had signed up. The schools and the number volunteering are: 63, Crooms; 760, Lake Brantley; 166, Lake Howell; 260,

Lyman; 160, Oviedo; and 291, Seminole. "All these schools tell me students are still bringing in their consent of immunization form," Mrs. Snell said. "They expect to get them up until the day of immunization."

Students were immunized free of charge from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. today at Lake Howell and Lake Brantley high schools. The vaccination program will be held the same time at Lyman and Seminole high schools and Wednesday at Oviedo and Crooms high Referring to the 1,700 students who are participating in the program, Mrs. Snell said: "I would say that is a pretty good turnout because we don't know how many have been immunized since 1969 or how many have been taken to their private physicians."

Florida Gas Dealers Won't Strike

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) - Florida's gasoline service station operators probably won't honor a proposed nationwide strike this weekend because they are caught in the middle of a three-way squeeze.

The situation received a bitter and full scale review at a closed door meeting Saturday of the executive board of the Allied Gasoline Retailers Association of Florida. Consumers blame the service station operators for sharply increasing gasoline prices but in truth, the operators said, the big oil companies are getting the money while federal government regulations keep the station operators' profits pegged to 1973 levels despite

After the meeting, the board announced it had voted nanimously against joining the proposed four-day shutdown of gasoline service stations starting Thursday. The announcement said the dealers were putting "the interest of the Florida economy and motorists" ahead of their own problems. The association represents about 10 percent of Florida's 9,400 gasoline retail outlets, but many other dealers look to it for leadership.

However, the group's leaders warned that operators are being forced to the wall by rising costs and they could "not rule out the possibility of a strike in the future." David Woodward, president of the association, said in a matement, "The dealers' plight is desperate, but we have to consider the impact service station closings would have on Florida's tourist-based economy."

He appealed to Florida motorists for understanding. "The public must realize that the dealer stands with the nsumer as a victim of major oil company price gouging," Woodward said. "Oil companies resp hundreds of milities in increased profits each quester while sisting costs and other overhead continue to squeeze dealers out

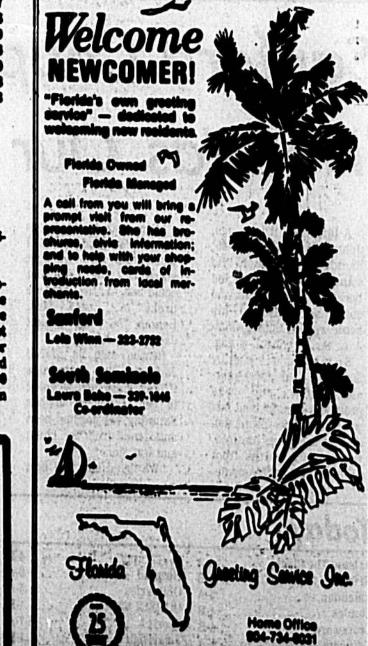

Art Lairson, association vice president, said support for national shutdown appeared to be limited to the acksonville area. He had predicted ahead of the meeting hat a strike would be voted down. "You got a lot of stations scared to death about these oil companies. They're afraid they're going to pull their leases. It might be a chance for these oil companies to run heir stations by themselves," said Lairson. Woodward cautioned, "We don't want our action to be

"We can't suffer economically much longer. The retail isalers want relief from the DOE (federal Department of Energy) and we do not rule out the possibility of a strike in He noted that while the wholesale prices dealers pay for passine have tripled, "we are still restricted by a gross profit margin set in 1973 and the DOE is unwilling to recognise that rising costs are forcing hundreds of dealers Under DOE regulations, gasoline price controls are based on what dealers charged for gasoline on May 15, 1973. To that base price, the dealer may pass on to his customers any price increases from the oil companies and up to 3 cents a gallon for non-product costs, such as rent increases and hikes in utility rates.

Association members have urged without success that the DOE allow dealers to increase prices another 3.2 cents a gallon to cover additional nonproduct costs, claiming he 3 cents a gallon allowance is inadequate.

WARNING

Children at Sanford's Kiddle Korner day care center are enjoying their music lesson as friends and officers of the Community Coordinated Child Care (4C) program of Central Florida tour the facility. Kiddle Korner is one of 24 approved 4C centers in Seminole County where 4C contracts day care for the children of single working mothers. Mrs. Phoebe Carpenter, 4C executive director, warned 180 of 400 children in the state subsidized program will be dropped from the program on July 1 if proposals of the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) are approved by the Legislature.

Survey Reveals Delegates In Ohio Waiting For Kennedy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) - Almost two-thirds of the Ohio delegates who helped put President Carter over the top at the 1976 Democratic National Convention now either are on the fence, opposed to Carter, or seeking a fresh nominee in 1980. A survey by United Press International shows that only 38 percent of Carter's Ohio slate from the 1976 nominating convention is solidly in his corner for next year. Another 19 percent are now opposed to or leaning away from his renomination, and 43 percent are either undecided or will back the president only if no one else is Almost half of all these groups mention, without prompting, Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusttes as the candidate they are awaiting.

A Better Reason To Go To Jail LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Gloria Washington, fired from her job as a U.S. Postal Service worker in January, went berserk at Los Angeles International Airport, wounding two bystanders with gunfire and slamming an 18-inch copper pipe against the heads of three others, including a 2-year-old boy, before being subdued. The five injured in Sunday's attack were treated at Daniel Freeman Hospital in Inglewood and released. Police spokesman Charles Kennedy said the woman had been fired from her job with the postal service after working there for 12 years. She allegedly hit her boss over the head with a pipe when he told her she had been fired. She was charged with assault in that attack. "She made a statement to the effect that if she was going to go to jail she was going for a better reason than just hitting her boss," Kennedy said.

Dole In Kansas To Announce

RUSSELL. Kan. (UPI) - Sen. Robert Dole, the tarttongued partisan who ran for vice president in 1976, today became the Republican party's seventh official candidate for the White House.

The conservative two-term senator announced his candidacy in his tiny hometown of Russell, in the heart of Kansas, where he made a dramatic first campaign stop in 1976, choking up when he recalled how his neighbors helped him recover from crippling World War II wounds. Dole, who was chairman of the Republican National Committee when the Watergate break-in occurred, said in prepared remarks he was running because, "our economic position, our defense position and our prestige are being rapidly eroded around the world."

White Trial In Final Week

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The trial of former city :Supervisor Dan White for the murders of Mayor George Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk draws to a close this week and jurors are faced with conflicting testimony on White's mental state at the time of the shootings.

Rugs Worth $6,000 Stolen From Church

Two antique oriental rugs from the Episcopal Church at 401 Park Ave., Sanford, were reported stolen Saturday, police said. Police said the thief or thieves entered the church through the unlocked front door. Value of the items taken was placed at $6,000.

HOUSE BURGLARIZED

A burglar entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Fowler, 1201 Palmetto Ave., Sanford early Monday morning while the couple was asleep in a nearby room, police said. Police said the burglar removed a purse, wallet and other items with a total value of $500 from the home. The thief entered the residence through an unlocked front door, police said. NECKLACE LOST A necklace valued at $2,500 was reported lost somewhere in the Sanford downtown area, according to Seminole County deputies. Shirley Huaman, of 105 N. Virginia Ave., Sanford, told deputies she lost the necklace Wednesday afternoon somewhere between Touchton's Drug Store on First Street and Magnolia Avenue and Knight's Shoes, 208 E. First St. The necklace is described as having a 16-inch chain of white gold with a 1 1/2 carat diamond pear shaped pendant.

Keitt's two sons were found dead in a bathtub at 100 Monroe Terrace on March 8. Police said Miss Keitt told them she was in the kitchen preparing dinner at the time her sons drowned.

The preliminary hearing for a 42-year-old North Carolina man charged with kidnapping a Seminole County man Thursday night has been set for 2 p.m. Tuesday in circuit court. Marvin Haywood McAdams of Graham, N.C., was arrested Thursday at the Deltona Inn. Volusia County. Officials found McAdams after they confiscated a truck said to have been used in a planned marijuana drop. Seminole County Sheriff's deputies said a license check made on the large truck that was found near the former Osceola airstrip, now a county landfill, led police to McAdams. Police said the kidnap victim apparently walked into a Thelma Brooks. 31, of 165 Bethune Circle, Sanford, is scheduled planned marijuana drop at the airstrip and was held at gunpoint

GARDEN TOOLS STOLEN

Approximately $1,585 worth of garden tools were stolen from a workshop and maintenance building in Maitland, according to Seminole County deputies.

Coley M. Smith of 2755 Howell Branch Road, Maitland, told deputies the burglary occurred sometime between Thursday night and Friday morning. The tools that were stolen include an electric sander, electric drill and a tool box of mechanic's tools,

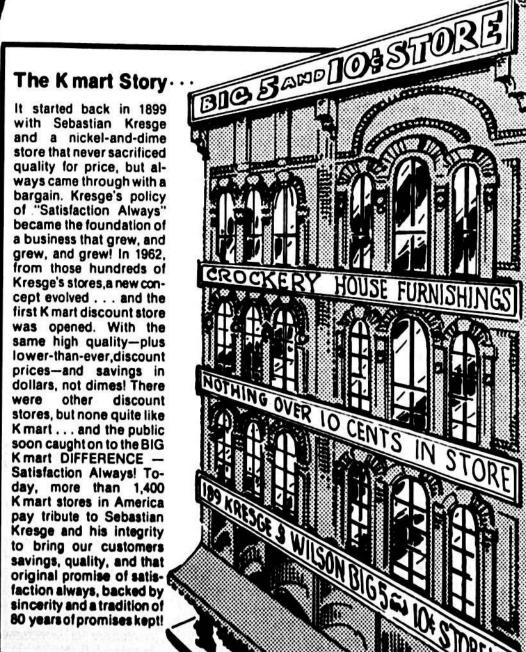

The incident occurred at the Slovak Gardens, Inc., located at Smith's home, deputies say. Entry was gained by jimmying the door latches on the storage room and workshop doors.

Britain Starts Long Road Back

Britain's general election was nothing if not a referendum on Margaret Thatcher's bold claim that her country's descent into socialism can and should be not merely slowed, or even halted, but reversed. That this utterly sensible view could cast Britain's new prime minister as something of a radical speaks volumes about how far Britons have slid down the socialist road.

In the event, Mrs. Thatcher's Conservative party won a comfortable majority in the House of Commons and so should rule for the full five-year life of the new Parliament. And surely Mrs. Thatcher's margin of victory over the opposition Labor party will do nothing to dilute her determination to cut taxes, restore a greater measure of freedom to the economy, rein in a meddlesome bureaucracy, halt the deterioration in Britain's military strength, and, most radical of all, whittle down the power of the fractious trade unions.

A lesser leader would shrink from the enormity of the task. Mrs. Thatcher is not one to shrink. After an earful of her views on the need to measure up to the challenge of Soviet militarism, the Russians dubbed her "the Iron Lady." it's a sobriquet in which she takes perverse, and justifiable, pride.

The fact is that Margaret Thatcher possesses the purest conservative principles of any Tory leader in at least 20 years. By all appearances, she will need both her principles and the toughness required to stand by them in the difficult years

Certainly Mrs. Thatcher's diagnosis of Britain's decline is correct. Too much government, too much taxation, and the overwhelming power of the irresponsible trade unions have combined to sap the vitality of Britain's economy. The predictable result is that Britain, a country that must export, has seen its industries grow less and less competitive with their rivals in Western Europe, Japan, and the United States.

Economic growth has been reduced to less than 1 percent a year and the sluggish rate of capital formation promises continued stagnation. Mrs. Thatcher's straightforward prescription for reviving Britain is as correct in theory as her grasp with Senate Majority Whip Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa of the country's underlying ills. Yet the great question mark even now hanging organized the Senate lunch group and began over the new prime minister and her government is drafting speakers from the administration for whether fundamental reforms can be implemented their cram course. without plunging Britain into new bouts of social.

Once the debate actually gets under way labor, and economic turmoil. Notwithstanding those three senators plus Foriegn Relations Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, will be Mrs. Thatcher's margin in Commons, the trade serving as the key advocates of the new SALT unions must be seduced, not coerced, into accepting new policies that ultimately will benefit all Hart, at 41, is nearing the end of his first Senate term. He is probably best known as Britons. As every recent British prime minister can attest, this is no easy chore. George McGovern's 1972 campaign manager, but the identification is deceptive. Hart is no The hope of course is that Mrs. Thatcher's knee-jerk liberal, on national security issues or shrewdly practical instincts will temper her policies just enough to move Britain in the right direction without triggering a destructive all out war with the unions. If Margarat Thatcher can accomplish this, she will stand a good chance of keeping her party in power long enough to propel Britain into a new and more promising era.

Well, the worst has not happened in Britain.

Bundy Challenges Evidence At Hearing TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) - Much of the evidence involved in the sensational Florida State University coed murders case is expected to unfold in a pre-trial hearing

for accused slayer Theodore Bundy, which gets underway

The enigmatic Bundy, 32, has petitioned Circuit Judge Edward Cowart to close the hearings. He has challenged so much of the state's evidence that he fears testimony at the hearing will prejudice potential jurors for the June 11

Court sources say the hearing could last two or three weeks. The trial could be delayed if the judge rejects any substantial part of Bundy's pre-trial motions and he ap-

At least one police officer connected with the investigation has said privately this is the centerpiece of the state's case - the only hard piece of evidence linking Bundy to the victims.

Dr. Richard Souvion, a Coral Gables dentist, called in to compare impressions of Bundy's teeth with bite marks on one of the victims, told a medical examiners' seminar last November that "in my opinion, there is no one in the world except the suspect who could have made that bite." The defense claims the science of comparing teeth impressions with bite marks on tissue from a human body is not perfected enough to be reliable.

Betting Is His Tonic

NEW YORK (UPI) — His name is Maxie and although he was on the job as usual Sunday, waiting on customers in the restaurant where he works, his heart was in Montreal and his mind on the New York Rangers. He had put a small bundle on them.

Maxie is a bettor, a compulsive one, the kind some bookmakers privately ridicule and call "degenerates" behind their backs. But like so many others caught up in this same addiction, Maxie doesn't care what he's called so long as he can have "action," and right now there can be no greater action for him than what he's finding in the Stalney Cup final between the Canadiens and

It's like a tonic to him, the excitement, the anticipation, the rewarded with money. At the moment, he's hooked by hockey, as so many others are in this city due primarily to the inspired performance of the Rangers, who were only the fifth best club in Maxie didn't have a whole lot of time to shmooze or make small talk Sunday, what with it being Mother's Day and his being kept on the move by the steady, heavy flow of customers in the place, but he made sure to find time to call his bookmaker and bet on the Rangers before the game began.

He took their surprisingly easy 4-1 win over the Canadiens with times that amount. Never once the whole day did he ever bring out the wrong order to one of his customers.

"I'm going all the way with the Rangers," he announced firmly when he heard the first game result on the pocket radio he put his Cup the last three years, but this is different, altogether different. Everybody on this team is a worker. Nobody stands around. You know what they say: if you wanna get a job done, always give it to

Six months ago, Maxie didn't know the difference between a backcheck and a faceoff; today he's suddenly a hockey expert. Things like that don't concern him much, though. The important again a year later when Willis Reed, hobbling on a bad knee, lifted came from 14 games back to take it all, but not since the Mets captivated an entire city by upsetting the Orioles to win the world championship in 1969 has New York's populace been so enraptured with a team of any kind as it is now with the underdog

You hear people talking about them everywhere you go, in the stores, in the streets, in the subways.

Take Tony's Bar in the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn. It's a neighborhood place that still gets only 50 cents for a mug of beer. You get a shot of good whiskey for 70 cents and the place is like a League of Nations with customers of almost every conceivable

Two of the regulars there are Tommy and Rabbit, and like Maxie, they like to bet on games. Both lost their shirts on the Philadelphia Flyers when the Rangers beat them in the quarterfinals and Tommy and Rabbit were so impressed by the way the Rangers did it, they came up with more money somehow and married, so he just took off. He really caught the Ranger fever. "Remember when the Bruins were leading the Canadiens 3-1 in the final game of their playoff last week? Rabbit had the Bruins and he was so excited when they were ahead in the final period that he told the bartender, 'Buy everybody in the place a drink.' Well, you know what happened. The Canadiens tied it up and won

"Poor Rabbit," his buddy laughed. "He said to me, 'Can you loan me some money to pay my bar bill? I need six bucks.' Sure, I gave it to him. Rabbit is good with me anytime. Just wait'll these playoffs are over. He'll be in great shape. I know he went heavy on the Rangers and they're gonna win it all."

Public Hearing Eyed In Hospital Issue

By GEOFFREY POUNDS

Herald Staff Writer The Seminole Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees Monday agreed to call a special public hearing for discussion on the alternatives for expanding or relocating the facility. The date of the hearing will be set at the regular meeting of the hospital board on May 22. The decision to hold a public hearing came after a two-hour special session of the board's building and finance committee during which a consultant's report detailing the expansion alternatives was reviewed. Meanwhile, at Monday's workshop session, the trustees' only black member, Freddie Mobley, said a survey he conducted over the past three weeks of a socio-economic cross-section of the black community indicates blacks prefer seeing the hospital

He said the people he interviewed told him they consider th treatment blacks now get at SMH is "second-class." At the same time, trustees were given position papers by op-

Administration could be obtained, it would be less costly to build a new hospital than to renovate the existing hospital on First The report stated that if FmHA loan money could not be obtained, the renovation alternative would be preferred from a financial standpoint. Renovation would be financed by use of tax-exempt bonds.

However, during Monday's meeting a representative from the consulting firm and one of the board members suggested the relocation alternative should be explored even if it were the more

He said that there would be a cost difference of about $1.5 million between relocation and renovation if both alternatives had to be based on conventional financing. The renovation would cost about $16 million and the relocation would cost about $17.3 million.

He said the demographics of the county indicate from a competitive area of the county. "Clearly, renovation is not the best alternative on qualitative grounds," Lathrop said.

Philip Lathrop of Atlanta, one of the consultants who helped Committee chairman Allan E. Keen said the difference between relocation and renovation was "surprisingly small." Given the fact that a new facility could be built for $1.5 million more than it would cost to renovate the existing hospital, even if low-interest FmHA money could not be obtained. Keen said the non-financial aspects should be examined more closely.

"We have to look to the future to see what this hospital should be doing for all the people of Seminole County," he said. "We need to be far-sighted and not make a short-term decision. Keen also suggested that the possibility of relocation could be explored using a combination of funding sources, including FmHA and tax exempt bonds.

Hospital Administrator Charles Bentley, who previously endorsed the recommendation to move the hospital, said part of the marketing standpoint it would be better to relocate to a more cost difference between renovation and relocation under any financing plan, would be offset by the loss of revenue incurred if

Doctors Split On Move

Physicians at Seminole Memorial lospital have lined up by a slim margin in favor of building a new facility rather than renovating existing building.

By a 57 percent to 43 percent margin, the city of Sanford. Letters sent to the hospital board of trustees indicate that all 41 staff physicians have taken a position one way

"We strongly recommend that the Board of Trustees of the Seminole Memorial Hospital decline the relocation of this hospital and construction of an entirely new facility. We further believe that it is extremely unrealistic to consider the expenditure of 16 to 21 million dollars in the refurbishing, enlargement, and code conformance of the present facility as has been suggested," said a letter signed by 18 doctors opposing a move. Those opposed also wrote: "A much more realistic approach must be taken that will provide the essentials at a cost factor far, far below that which has been projected. We are not architects or hospital designers, however, in discussion with professionals in this area, it would appear that a gross figure in the neighborhood of 6 to 8 million dollars would be much more than sufficient. "It is further apparent that our hospital has been allowed to deteriorate and that maintenance is at its lowest since this hospital has been constructed. We urge the Board of Trustees of the Seminole Memorial Hospital to take a positive step immediately towards this much needed

However, 23 doctors submitted counter-letter to the board expressing their preference for a new hospital. Those in favor of relocation wrote: "We feel that the selection of a new hospital and a new location generally south and west of the Sanford city limits near Lake Mary Boulevard and Interstate 4 would be much the preferable option and strongly urge that this alternative be actively and urgently pursued as rapidly as possible.' In making their recommendation, the 23 doctors favoring relocation listed the following reasons: "1) A new hospital and a new site could be located nearer the center of the service and growth area.

2) Construction of a new hospital would not disrupt care in the present facility for the projected four plus years as the renovation of the present facility would. 3) A new hospital could be built on a much larger site and would not be suggest the service to all patients could be improved," he said. Caldwell said the emergency room etients sometimes wait up to four hours to receive care, according to first-hand accounts he has received. But he said he doesn't see how a relocation of the hospital would improve the situation. "What it (relocation) might do is create a real transportation problem. Some of the people downtown might have trouble receiving services if the hospital is moved," he said. Although he did not specify the number of people he talked to, Mobley said a poll he conducted the past few weeks indicated that "almost to a person" the black community would like to see the hospital "They feel they are accorded secondclass treatment here," Mobley said. He said his discussions with members of he black community included talks with those "from the working class to the inelligentsia."
