

Talent Broadcast Is Given By Children

Students of the Sanford Grammar School were featured Saturday morning on the talent broadcast given over Station WTRR under the direction of Mrs. Eric Vihlen and sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club. Randall Robbins was master of ceremonies. South Side Primary School pupils will be on the program next Saturday.

Piano soloists Saturday were Maria Menendez, Joseph Menendez, Dede Sharon, Bobby Little and Dana Rankin. Solo vocalists were Pat Holloway, Sonny Folds, Randall Robbins, and Sue Lynn Howell, age 8. The Sunbeams, vocalists, included Ellen Vihlen, Dana Rankin, Lynette Driggers and Jeanette Harvey. Specialties were a tap dance by Sally Chase and a poem reading by Peggy Andrews.

Mrs. Eva Harkey provided piano accompaniment. Maria Menendez accompanied the singing of her brother, Joseph.

of the infernal enemy." It asked: "Who is not horrified by the hatred and the ferocity with which the enemies of God, in many countries of the world, threaten to destroy or try to uproot all that there is of divine and Christian?"

The Ecumenical Council of Chalcedon, held in 451, concerned itself primarily with christological doctrine—doctrine on the nature of Jesus Christ.

"Divided and dispersed, Christians cannot continue to lose time against the combined hosts" of their enemies, the encyclical said. It urged all Christians to unite to meet "the ferocity of the enemies of God."

It called upon all Christians to recognize the authority of the Pope of the Roman Catholic Church.

"All those, especially in Eastern countries, who because of the inequality of the times are separated from the bosom and unity of the church, should render without hesitation the due, reverent homage to this primacy, following the example of the footsteps of their fathers," said the encyclical.

Such a unity, it said, would conform with the desire of Jesus Christ in his prayers at the Last Supper that "all would be one."

The encyclical deals principally with the study by the Council of Chalcedon which resulted in the definition that Jesus Christ united the human and the divine nature in one person—"truly the Son of God and truly the Son of Man."

It appealed to those who follow monophysitism—believers in a doctrine that Christ had only one nature. There are many of these in Egypt, Syria, Ethiopia and Armenia. The encyclical pointed out and it appealed to them to recognize the doctrine as laid down by the bishops at the Council of Chalcedon by 500 bishops, all present, presided over by papal legates. The anniversary of the Council of Chalcedon is Oct. 8, and the program for its celebration, as announced by the Vatican Press Office, will include a pontifical mass in St. John's Lateran, Oct. 14 by Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian, Patriarch of the Armenians.

The program also includes the lighting of a candle on the Great Church of St. Leo the Great, Pope of the Chalcedon Council, Oct. 18; commemoration of the council, Oct. 28, and a papal mass in St. Peter's Nov. 1.

The council was held from Oct. 8 to Nov. 1, in the year 451, at Chalcedon, a city of Bithynia in Asia Minor, opposite what today is Istanbul. The delegates met in the Basilica of St. Euphemia. The

The defense attorney asked the jury why the State didn't bring in bankers to show North's financial condition if he was in need of money.

Parkhill claimed North made no move whatever to cover up any of the suspicious circumstances surrounding the death.

Perpetrating freely and shouting loudly in the packed courtroom Parkhill accused the State of "trying to railroad to prison" an innocent man.

Mrs. Albritton died at her lonely farm home near Frostproof the night of June 25-26, North, who had been in the cattle business with her husband and was helping handle the estate, was along with her at the time.

current encyclical calls upon St. Euphemia for intercession for the unity of all Christians.

The Catholic encyclopedia says the purpose of the Council of Chalcedon was to assert the orthodox Catholic doctrine against heresies of the monophysites and of eutyches, a priest and superior of a near east monastery who contended that Jesus Christ had only a divine nature.

Referring to the Kefauver crime report, he warned of the growing power of racketeers and their constant efforts to control the political life of the states. He also lashed out against taxation that takes from citizens one out of every five dollars of income and that, he argued, would lead to the economic collapse of the nation.

He noted the P. B. I. to the effect that whereas there were 15 years ago about 15,000 Communists in this country, there are now more than 500,000. He urged citizens to vote, stating that fewer than 50 percent of Americans vote in the last presidential election, compared to 83 percent for England, 80 percent for France, 76 percent for Britain, 74 percent for Italy and 60 percent for Japan.

He stated that Communism has been a successful business since the Nov. 1948 general election in which 25 people in this county voted for the U. S. Army and Navy.

He stated that the Communist Party had been identified as a "Red" party.

istic" recent remarks of Gen. James A. Van Fleet, United Nations Ground Force Commander in Korea. Van Fleet has said that his job is to fight, not to negotiate. The task of negotiating is carried out on a higher military-diplomatic level.

Said the Peiping radio: "The American invaders have tried, by sub-rattling with their naval and air 'superiority' to push a military demarcation line west into our positions north of the 38th Parallel.

"When these impudent efforts failed in the end, they set to creating one provocative incident after another to torpedo the armistice talks. As this too has proved futile they resort to openly advocating new military gambles.

"Thus the American invaders have exposed their hostility to peace to the world and have proved that every provocation since the start of negotiations was nothing but a result of their premeditated plan."

O'Connor and two other senators who served on the Crime Committee, Hunt (D-Wyo.) and Tobey (R-N.H.), are members of the commerce group.

In the final report to the Senate, the Crime Committee expressed hope that "the study of organized crime will continue."

It also strongly recommended a thorough investigation of crime conditions in the nation's capital and adjoining areas of Maryland and Virginia. The senate district of Columbia committee has put in a bid for that job and is asking $50,000 for it.

Meanwhile the House ended a three-weeks recess with a "no business" session and a prediction by its Republican leader that it will be in session until the end of November.

While senators, who had no comparable holiday, are shooting for an Oct. 1 adjournment of the entire Congress, House GOP leader Joe Martin of Massachusetts said he couldn't see it that way.

Martin said in an interview he has no doubt that Congress could sit for keeps by Oct. 1 if it really wanted to, but he questioned whether it will then be in an adjournment mood.

"I think Congress will be in session until around the first of December," he said. "Washington provides too good a forum for members to make speeches in. I don't think they are ready to go home and be unable to get back until they are."

His reference to the speech-making was, he said in reply to questions, was to some senators. Since all House members desiring to retain their seats must stand for election next year, most of them are anxious to get home and tend to their political fences. For that reason, Martin said, he expects the House to have some prolonged holidays between now and final adjournment of this session.

Only a few major legislative matters await disposition and the House, judging from its past performances when it wants to go home, could clean them up quickly.

American Husbands Are Kept In Dark By Cautious, Canny Wives

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—An American husband came home from work in the middle of the day, complaining of a headache.

"You're so thoughtless, dear," his wife grumbled. "You should know better than to be sick today. You know this is the day I'm having a bridge party for the girls."

She absent-mindedly gave him a bottle of caffeine tablets instead of aspirin. He gulped down two, and she put him to bed.

Instead of falling asleep he tossed restlessly, wide awake. And these were the sounds that soon floated in to him from the hen party in the living room:

First voice: "What do you think a wife ought to tell her husband anyway?"

Second voice: "Tell him hello. Let's play bridge."

First voice: "No, I'm serious. How much should you let a man know?"

Third voice: "Before or after marriage?"

First voice: "Before marriage."

Third voice (sneering): "Whatta ya got to tell him, dearie?"

First voice: "No, I mean after marriage. Excuse me. Who did what?"

Second voice (grimly): "Let's play bridge."

Third voice: "All I tell my husband is the time of day. But, I make him ask twice."

Second voice: "That's right—never give in to a man's whims. Now can we play bridge?"

First voice: "I mean about money, and what we do with it. How

First voice: "But about husbands. Don't you—"

Second voice: "Shut up, honey. What we know, that they don't know, won't hurt them. Please, let's play bridge!"

First voice: "We-I-I, I just don't know what to tell my husband sometimes. He keeps wanting to know where the money goes."

Third voice: "Tell him he's old enough to know he can't take it with him. A lot of famous men have been buried with mortuaries on their chests. In the old days it was kind of a sentimental gesture. You know—live and let live."

Fourth voice (the householder's wife): "Would anyone like to have a bite to eat?"

Second voice: "Why not? We aren't playing bridge. Talk, talk, talk! Just like a bunch of old women."

The husband in the next room soon after that heard three squeals of feminine delight: "Steak? Why, how thoughtful!"

Now if they can get the laws enforced they may be getting somewhere.

If you must carry around rubber gloves in the trunk compartment of your car, don't leave them hanging half way out for the public to see. In Nashville the other day someone did, as he parked his car on a downtown street. A Negro seeing what appeared to be a hand protruding from under the hood of the trunk compartment called a policeman who declared, "It looks like homicide case all right." Other policemen were called and they opened the compartment. Imagine their surprise when the rubber glove fell out!

William N. Reynolds, former president of the Reynolds Tobacco Co., who died the other day at the age of 88, left one million dollars to little Wake Forest College which you may be sure in these days of high prices and exorbitant taxes can use the money. He also left a 1,100 acre park to Forsyth county as a public amusement playground and an undisclosed sum from the residue of his estate to charity to be administered by the executors of his will. No doubt the accumulation of great wealth is sometimes a curse to society, but it is a big help when it comes back in the form of such bequests.

Mack Cleveland Jr. has been named chairman of the Crusade for Freedom in Seminole County. This is a private organization designed to spread the gospel of freedom throughout the world and to supplement the U.S. State Department's "Voice of America" program. It is a powerful weapon in the campaign for men's minds and is being advanced primarily as a means of combating to some extent at least the evils of Soviet propaganda. The idea is to fight the big lie with the truth. It will take money, time, and the concerted efforts of all of us. Everyone should give. Everyone should pledge his support. And everyone should speak a good word for the Crusade for Freedom.

New Kind Of Parley

Although far from finding mutual satisfaction in the matter, the Communist and the non-Communist delegates to the San Francisco treaty meeting found themselves seeing eye to eye on one observation: It was a new kind of international conference. It was not a meeting to talk about a treaty for Japan. It was a meeting to give formal ratification to the results of nearly a year of negotiation. It was merely a demonstration of the accomplishment which, as Russia's Andrei Gromyko bitterly commented, was already achieved.

The document which was the fruit of this labor was also a new kind of war-born treaty. It was not a treaty of reprisal and punishment against the vanquished, but one which sought to restore the defeated to a position of self-respect and friendship. It was a treaty which Japan certainly could accept sincerely with the satisfaction which seemed to be expressed by Premier Shigeru Yoshida. It was a treaty which, while it included safeguards intended to prevent Japan from developing the military tools of future conquest, ought not to contain the causes of a future urge to resort to military action out of bitterness or frustration.

The method of arriving at agreement by quiet spade work in advance of a formal conference is not really new. It has been used with great success by smaller groups of nations. But it was something new on the grand scale of the San Francisco meeting. These two steps, the peace treaty without vindictiveness and the extension of the effective device of achieving agreement by patient work behind the scenes, may prove to be significant milestones on the road to world order and peace. We hope so.

An Old Era And A New

September fifty years ago saw the assassination of President McKinley. Shot while attending the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo he died eight days later, leaving the presidency to Vice-President Theodore Roosevelt.

Few changes of administration within the same party have been as epoch-making. McKinley, easy-going and amiable, was inclined to let business do as it pleased. Roosevelt, restless and reforming, saw many evils which needed redress. He forced on an unwilling party the law that permitted the Interstate Commerce Commission to regulate railroad rates, the pure food act, the statute forbidding corporations to contribute to party campaign funds, and many others of like nature. Even more, by his earnest lectures on civic righteousness he brought a new outlook into American public life. All in all, Roosevelt's active presidency has largely caused McKinley to be forgotten.

One lesson is that more is needed for a memorable presidency than sweetness of character and acceptance of the regular party line. There are always desirable changes which could be made in our national structure, and a president should champion them if he would live up to his full duty.

Effectiveness Of Reading

The increasing use of visual aids in schools and the coming of television to popularity have caused some people to speculate that books will become decreasingly important as a means of education and entertainment. There can be little doubt that visual reading, but to predict that people will ever turn away from the pleasures to be found in books would be an exaggerated pessimism.

The great thoughts of all time are recorded in books; the scientific theories which made movies, radio and television possible were first recorded in books. The printed word, captivating the mind of the reader and moving him to action or emotion, will always be an effective way to educate, entertain and make man better spiritually.

North Convicted Of Murdering Mrs. Betty Albritton

BARTOW, Sept. 13.—(AP)—A dapper, 35-year-old undertaker was convicted here of murdering the prominent catwoman who killed him all of her $50,000 estate.

A circuit court jury yesterday made no recommendation for mercy in its verdict against A. Elwood North. The State charged the mild-mannered North beat and choked Mrs. Betty Albritton until she succumbed to a fatal heart attack.

The verdict automatically carries the death penalty. Circuit Judge Don Register said he would pronounce sentence Monday, but allowed North two weeks to file a motion for a new trial.

Occupation Held Property On Way Back To Japanese

TOKYO, Sept. 13.—(AP)—A plan under which Japanese property held by the occupation eventually will be turned back to its owners is being drafted by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's aides.

Three Western style apartment buildings with more than 100 beds are scheduled to revert to Japanese control before October 1.

Such modern office buildings at the Dai Ichi, which serves as General Ridgway's Headquarters, probably will be among the last given up.

A Japanese government official, Chief Cabinet Secretary Katano Okazaki, at a news conference today declared mere signing of the peace treaty did not settle everything—some matters will not be discussed until after the treaty takes effect.

Okazaki said: "The problem of whether GHQ (General Headquarters of the Supreme Commander of the Allied Powers) will be moved to another building or not is also a matter to be decided after the treaty becomes effective."

"I think the contest was conducted fairly and the overall program one of the most entertaining I have ever witnessed. I should like to put a bid in right now to be a judge at next year's Mrs. America contest," Kaye said.

Corey said it was made clear the judging was to be made on feet, different things—not beauty alone. "I feel sure that one judge should stand up and say anything that might discredit the beauty contest," she said.

Youth Finds A Way

By W. ROY BREG Executive Secretary Allied Youth, Inc.

There is an old adage which goes this way: "Practice what you preach." A lot of people do a lot of preaching about the alcohol problem, and a few people are doing something about it. Allied Youth consists of such a group of people. Furthermore, they are doing a constructive job.

For instance, here's a story about "Joe": After hearing the Allied Youth representative in the high school assembly speak about the fun, facts and fellowship without drinking, Joe, along with 240 other young people, met to organize a Post. Someone up front nominated Joe to head the committee. As it turned out, Joe was a tall, handsome well-liked fellow who admitted that his crowd had been doing too much drinking.

Somehow the large, sophisticated city where he lived took drinking for granted—and so had Joe until that day. Joe was not only interested, but amazed. "I never realized till now what a problem we have to face. Never until this morning did it occur to me that it wasn't perfectly all right for me to drink."

Joe became president of his Post and later was an active leader in a city-wide council of Allied Youth Posts. Allied Youth's purpose is to reach every boy and girl of high school age in the United States.

Every one of the nearly 27,000 high schools in the nation is a potential user of Allied Youth School administrators and pupils all across the country have accepted Allied Youth because it meets the demands set up by state educational requirements and every other teen-age boy and girl.

Allied Youth is... trying to erase the sense of taboo which makes that boys and girls from new families can't have to discuss drinking.

...trying to erase the picture of the alcoholic as a down-and-out bum and teach that alcoholism is a disease that can attack anyone who drinks.

...trying to build up the idea that facts about alcohol must be learned just like those of civics, religion and the music scale—because it's something we deal with every day. No one is asked to drive a car without first being shown how.

...trying to show unemotionally that it is just as much the young people's privilege to learn the facts about alcohol and choose for themselves concerning it as it is for them to choose their political party, their religion, or their career. It's just as democratic—just as important.

Everyone agrees that young people have to discuss drinking. An estimated 5,000,000 young people of teen-age use alcohol every day. If only one in a hundred gets into trouble, 50,000 young people in trouble over alcohol is a serious problem.

In fact, law enforcement agencies agree to the extent that it is illegal in the United States to sell alcoholic beverages to minors. But the newspapers bear out the fact that our teen-agers do drink.

The majority of the 16,000,000 young people of teen age are hungry for facts about alcohol. It has become to be the center of a tremendous social pressure—which Allied Youth can meet.

Allied Youth aims: (1) To establish in every high school an AY Post with its program of education and recreation on an alcohol-free way of life pattern.

Daddy And His Little Girl

The following points a valuable lesson. It is worth reading... and keeping. It is regretted that the author is unknown, otherwise he would be given credit.

Today my daughter, who is 7 years old, started to school as usual. She wore a dark blue dress with a white collar. She had on black shoes and wore blue gloves. Her cocker spaniel, whose name is Coot, sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved good-bye and started off to the hall of learning.

Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her, the girl with yellow curls, and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher, who has eyes in the back of her head, and the trees in the school yard, and about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things tremendously vital, unimportant things and then we studied spelling, reading, arithmetic—and then to bed.

She's back there now—back in the nursery sound asleep, with "Princess Elizabeth" (that's her doll) cuddled in her right arm.

You guys wouldn't hurt her, would you? You see, I'm her daddy. When her doll is broken or her finger is cut or her head gets bumped, I can fix it—but when she starts to school, when she walks across the street, then she's in your hands.

She's a nice kid. She can run like a deer and dart about like a chipmunk. She likes to ride horses and swim and hike with me on Sunday afternoons. But I can't be with her all the time; I have to work to pay for her clothes and her education. So please help me look out for her. Please drive slowly past the schools and intersections—and please remember that children run from behind parked cars.

Please don't run over my little girl.

Graziano-Robinson Fight In The Making Following Turpin's Loss

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Sept. 13—(AP)—Another million dollar fight production was in the making today—middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson versus Rocky Graziano, the golden boy of the ring.

That's not expected to come off until next year, maybe February in Chicago. Randy Turpin, the strong 23-year-old Briton, will have to wait until June for another crack at the title he held for such a short time.

Taxes and plenty of them, will keep Sugar Ray out of the ring until '52. The $240,000 he got for his tenth round T. K. O. of Turpin makes about $500,000 Robinson has earned this year.

In the works for Robinson is the Chicago battle with Rocky and then maybe a charity show—for the heart fund—in Miami a month or so later.

Any return with Randy will have to wait for June. And if they ever get together again it probably will be in London's White City Stadium during Derby Week—late May or early June.

Some of the Englishmen talk of a 100,000 crowd for such a bout. The British no doubt find it hard to believe that Randy was stopped decisively just as Americans couldn't get over the shock of Robinson's loss to Randy in London last July 10.

"Sure, I'll fight him anywhere, anytime, he's a great kid," said Robinson as he tried on his old crown for size. "Fighting is my business."

"I want to meet him again," said Randy. "The referee shouldn't have stopped it. I was perfectly keen. There were only eight seconds to go in the round and I was covering up. The doctor will confirm that."

Randy is going to take a long rest and maybe he will retire late next year if he gets another title shot.

"I want to win back the title," said Randy, "and then retire in September of 1952. I shall have it enough of it by then. After all I've been boxing since I was eight."

"He's going to have a good rest, a long rest," said Randy's brother, Dick, a former fighter himself. "I shall see to that."

Randy is going to have to shed out plenty in taxes, too. And the British tax is a lot stiffer than Uncle Sam's. He made $28,000 for his first fight with Robinson and close to $200,000 for last night's effort.

The cut over Robinson's left eye—the same place where he was lashed in the first Turpin bout—will force Sugar Ray to take things easy, even if it weren't for his tax problem.

And it was that gash which sent him out like a wounded tiger to effect the British Negro with the bull-like strength.

"After my eye got cut, it was do or die," said Robinson in his dressing room. "I didn't want to take any chances with the referee stopping the fight. When the blood started to pour out, I waded in and tried to get it over."

He did. With a frantic, relentless attack that saw him floor the bull of Leamington Spa for nine with a right to the jaw and then smash the helpless youngster with a rain of blows against the ropes. Referee Ruby Goldstein, in a crouch as he watched the tigerish assault, stepped in and ended the bout at 2:52 of the tenth.

"Turpin was dead," said Goldstein. "When I stopped the fight he started to go to Robinson's corner. He kind of fell right in my arms. I started him to his own corner. No one protested then. It's a shame he had lots of pride."

While Robinson was getting his cut patched, he said: "Turpin hurt me several times, but not in the tenth."

"I fought a better fight than I fought in London—it was better because I won."

Turpin said Robinson floored him in the tenth with a right as he was coming in.

"I heard the count clearly, and you noticed I got up well before it was finished," said Turpin who didn't have a mark on his face.

"I asked why he stopped fighting," Robinson bawled him against the ropes. Turpin denied he was helpless.

"It wasn't like that," he said. "I was saving myself. There were only eight seconds left in the round."

The pleasant youngster said he

HIS HANDS encased in his first pair of boxing gloves, Randolph Turpin, Jr., is caught in his London home by the cameraman as he dreams of the day when he will be a champion, just like his daddy. While young Randy dreams, his father, the world's middleweight champion, trains in New York for bout with Ray Robinson. (International)

Florida Gator Coach Will Use Halfback Trios

GAINESVILLE, Sept. 13—(AP)—Florida Coach Bob Woodruff says he plans to use a trio of halfbacks on both offense and defense this season.

"I (Pappa) Hall, Jack Nichols and Buford Long will see action with both platoons," he said, "and I'll use Haywood Sullivan, Billy Reddell and Rick Casares on defense, too, if it becomes necessary."

How good this combination is will be put to the test at Jacksonville Saturday night when the Gators open against the Wyoming Cowboys, who trounced Washington and Lee in this year's Gator Bowl contest.

Hall, Nichols and Long, all juniors, played most of their football last season on defense. But Sullivan, Reddell and Casares have been strictly offensive performers in the past.

Woodruff isn't at all cheerful about the chances against Wyoming. At last count, four varsity players were sidelined by injuries and another was able to work out only slightly.

Trainer Sam Lankford sees little hope that either defensive tackle Bob Cummings or defensive halfback Bob Davis will see action Saturday. And he has placed a question mark label on stellar defensive tackle Charlie Lappard, defensive center Mack Glasgow and defensive guard Bill York. York was on hand for brief service in yesterday's workout.

Reds Whip League Leading Dodgers

CINCINNATI, Sept. 13—(AP)—Lloyd Merriman's base clearing triple in the seventh inning off Carl Erskine broke a 3-3 deadlock and gave the Cincinnati Reds a 6-3 victory over the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers here last night in the final game of their season series.

Ewell Blackwell, who limited the Dodgers to two hits in the five and two-thirds innings after replacing Ken Raffensberger in the second, was credited with the victory, his 13th against 14 losses.

GRAYS LEAD TARS

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 13—(AP)—The South Atlantic League playoff finals resume tonight with Jacksonville, 3-0, in the best of seven series. Last night's game was rained out.

Montgomery manager Charley Metro planned to use his ace righthander, Kirby Elbe, in an effort to sweep the series. His opponent was slated to be Clyde Stevens.

The pennant-winning Grays ousted Charleston, three games to two, in the first series. Jacksonville fanned Macon, 5-1.

WEDNESDAY'S STARS

Batting—W. A. Lee, Cooper Braves—hammered his 17th and 18th homers, drove in five runs to lead the Braves to a 7-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Pitching—Bill Wright, Red Sox pitched four-hit ball to beat Ted Gray in a 10-inning hurling duel as the Red Sox slipped the Tigers, 5-1.

Bobo Newsom Pitches Baron's Second Win

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A four-run surge in the first inning, combined with Bobo Newsom's cagey hurling gave the Birmingham Barons their second straight triumph over Mobile in the first round of the Southern Association playoffs last night.

Memphis was rained out at Little Rock. They'll play tonight while the Barons and Bears take the night off.

The 42-year-old Newsom, who topped the league in innings pitched during the regular season, gave the Bears eight hits but tightened in the clutch spots and scored a 6-0 victory.

Actually, the first Birmingham batter won the game for the home team. Walt Rogers, who started the season with Mobile, opened the last of the first with a homer off losing pitcher Tom Laake. The Barons pushed across three more runs, the last on a double by catcher Red Mathis.

A base on balls, Dale Lynch's two-bagger and a pair of outfield flys accounted for the other two Barons scores off Frank Logue in the seventh.

The differences between British and American golf rules next year will be reduced to one—the size of the ball. The USA ball is 1.68 inches in diameter and the British ball 1.62 inches.

Preacher Row was the only Dodger hurler to go the route against the Boston Braves in the first nine meetings of the teams this season. Row did it twice, winning 4-3, and 6-1.

Golfing Gals Are Going To Hit The Ball A Lot Faster

By STERLING SLAPPEY

ATLANTA, Sept. 13—(AP)—The girls in the plush field of golfers teeing off today in the National Open Tournament can't hit the ball as far as their male counterparts, but beginning today they will hit the ball a lot faster.

In an effort to speed up golf and give it a stronger gallery appeal, the National Open Rules Committee today banned all practice strokes on putting surfaces after a hole is completed.

Tournament officials estimate that rounds over the par 36-36-72 Druid Hills course will be covered in less than three hours instead of the four to four and a half hours required by men professionals and amateurs in such tournaments as the National Open and Amateur.

As a rule star women golfers play a round in about 30 minutes less than men stars, principally because women do not take as much time sighting putts and studying approach shots.

The committee also will invoke a seldom used rule which levies two strokes against a golfer not reporting promptly for rounds. Announcement that the rule will be dusted off followed the United States Golf Association's one-hole penalty charged to Willie Turnesa earlier this week in the National Amateur.

In several other minor phases, the Open Rules Committee will attempt to speed up the four rounds of medal play over the 6,200-yard Druid Hills course.

Babe Zaharias is the favorite here to win her third open championship. Mrs. Zaharias won last September at Wichita, Kansas, with a record time of 2:01 for 72.

Francis Stubbins of Douglas, who won the open last week in her hometown of Carrollton, Ga., originally set the 2:01 record in the 1949 open at Landover, Md.

All other former open winners as well as seven former National Amateur champions and the current amateur titlist were in the field teeing off this morning in the $7,500 tournament. Besides Mrs. Zaharias and Louise Suggs, former open winners here are Patty Berg and Betty Jameson.

Amateur champions are the Babe, Louise, Patty, Betty, Beverly Hanson, Grace Lenczyk and the 1951 winner, Dot Kirby.

The field of 75 includes the best there is in women's golf," said Fred Corcoran, ladies PGA tournament director. "This is both the largest and best field for any open."

Regents Seek Aid To De-emphasize Georgia Football

ATLANTA, Sept. 13—(AP)—The Board of Regents of the Georgia University system are out to de-emphasize football and they intend to seek national aid to do it.

Regent Sandy Beaver of Gainesville yesterday offered a resolution to the board to provide athletic scholarships and thereby remove the necessity for outside grants-in-aid through the athletic associations. The board took no official action but members generally expressed themselves as being concerned over the situation.

Beaver plans to attend a national convention of state university governing bodies in Denver next month, and board members urged him to seek support from other states in a move to de-emphasize football.

Beaver said athletes should receive scholarships to become physical education teachers in the same way that honor students are given scholarships in academic subjects.

James Peterson of Sperton, who is also a state senator, said the regents should regain control of athletic associations which became private corporations several years ago.

"We all know grants in aid are wrong," said Charles Bloch of Macon. "We should go all the way and kill it or not touch it."

Francis Stubbins of Douglas said Georgia Tech and Georgia could not suspend grants for football players unless other Southern colleges followed suit.

In the first nine meetings of the Braves and Dodgers this season, Jack Robinson batted .486 with 18 hits in 37 efforts.

Ted Williams, in less than 10 full seasons with the Boston Red Sox, has driven in more than 1,200 runs.

When Clyde Sukeforth, Dodger pitching coach, played for Manchester in the New England League in 1928, Birdie Tobetta was the team's batboy.

Branch Rickey, Pittsburgh Pirates' general manager, caught and played the outfield for the New York Highlanders in 1907. In 1914 he failed as a pinch hitter in two games with the Browns.

National Amateur Tourney Finds Golfing Stars On The Sidelines

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 13—(AP)—If anyone had told you that seven Walker Cup stars would be on the sidelines after three days of competition in the 51st National Amateur Golf Championship, you'd probably have recommended a doctor.

But that's just what has happened.

Oklahoma City's Charley Coe is the only big name golfer left in the tournament. With the exception of Harold Paddock of Aurora, O., all of Coe's Walker Cup teammates, Frank Stranahan, Willie Turnesa, Bobby Knowles, Jimmy McHale, Sam Uzzetta, Dick Chapman and Bill Campbell, are on the sidelines.

There are so many strange names teeing off in today's round of sixteen, even the golf experts can't call a contestant without a program.

Yesterday, defending champion Uzzetta, usually a picture of composure, fell apart like a youngster in his first big tournament, and was eliminated, 2 and 1 by a 39-year-old Marmaronek, N. Y., father of five children. This came shortly after McHale of the host Sauer Valley country club, bowed out of the tourney.

Before the tumult and shouting was over, went Chapman, British amateur champion from Pinehurst, N. C.

Teeling off in the upper draw today will be Joe Gagliardi, conqueror of Uzzetta against Robert E. Evans, unknown from Cleveland, O.; George E. Victor, who coincidentally falls from Golf, Ill., facing Coe; Billy Picard of Charleston, S. C., son of the professional Henry Picard, against Tommy Jacobs, Jr., National Junior champ from Monticello, Calif.; and Bob Eckis of Kenmore, N. Y., playing Edward P. Martin of Egg Cambridge, Mass.

The lower half sends Jack Gerson of Pittsburgh against paddock; Laur Crannell of Dallas, winner over Chapman, against his former North Texas State Teachers College classmate, Billy Maxwell of Odessa.

Little Man With Big Problem Tries Delaying A New Ordeal

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK. —(AP)—He was just a little man with a mighty big modern problem. Sunlight flooded his room—and he wished it would be hit by lightning instead.

That would at least delay the ordeal he must face this day. "H-m-m-m," he said to himself as he studied the mirror for the tenth time.

"This suit sure does make me look older," he told himself, and made a face at his reflection. Moodily, he stroled over and leaned out the window to get a breath of fresh air. The tree outside was beginning to lose its leaves already, and again he felt the pressure upon him. How much faster the days seemed to speed nowadays!

Out of the house next door came a little golden-haired girl of three. He watched her as she toddled about the yard, sharing her lollipop with a small strange fox terrier that wandered up. Mustering, he thought to himself how lucky he was. No cars, except to keep her frock clean.

Suddenly, unreasonably jealous of her youth and freedom, he called down sharply to her: "Tell that dog to go away!"

She looked up in surprise, then waved the lollipop at him and said, "Hello."

"Tell that dog to go away," he said again, exasperated.

"Never mind why. You do as I say."

"Go away, dog," she said, obediently. The fox terrier merely wagged his tail and took another lap of the lollipop.

"Gitt!" came a shout from the window. The dog glanced up and saw a threatening figure leaning out as if to throw something. The dog shrugged philosophically, then scampered away.

"You scared him," said the little girl. And, weeping, she ran back toward her front door, crying, "Mamma, Mamma!"

Startled, he pulled back from the window.

A feminine voice, calling from the next room, brought him back to his own troubles.

"I'm about dressed. Are you ready, dear?"

"Ready? I've been ready for twenty minutes," he answered crossly. What was wrong with women anyway? Always asking a guy if he's ready—and never ready themselves.

Nervously he paced back to the mirror. He straightened his tie and gave it a vicious tug.

She came in then, gave him a quick peck-kiss on the cheek and said, "You look real nice. We'll have to hurry now, or we'll be late, dear."

A surge of rebellion swept over him and he said stubbornly, "I'm not going. You can go and tell them I'm sick."

"Well, you have got circles under your eyes," she conceded. "Didn't you sleep at all, I'm sick. I don't want to go. Besides, I won't know anybody there."

"Well, we can come home early if you want to," she said. "But you do have to go, my little man. He saw the iron determination in her eyes, but he made one last plea for escape.

"I don't want to go to kindergarten," he said, and broke into tears. "Mamma, can't I please just wait and go to college instead?"

Margaret A Good Cook But Likes Singing Better

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(AP)—President Truman credited yesterday that Margaret "Good Cook" although "I can't say that she likes to cook as well as she likes to sing."

The information was imparted by the President during a talk to a delegation representing the National Citizens Committee for United Nations Day.

The committee presented Mr. Truman with a checkbook with Mrs. Truman's own recipe—one of the recipes included in the United Nations Cookbook. The President also received a copy of the cookbook.

"I have long ago quit talking about Mama's cooking, because I have a good cook at home," the President told the group. "But she also has been a good cook out of the kitchen who is our daughter. She can cook, too. I can't say that she likes to cook as well as she likes to sing, but then she is able to do it."

"And on my advice, I have every young lady in the United States will learn to make cakes like this."

The delegation, headed by W. W. Armstrong, former member of the Atomic Energy Commission called on the President to help dramatize plans for the observance of Oct. 24 as United Nations Day.

The President issued a proclamation calling upon all citizens to help observe the occasion.

Freshman Senator Gets Hopping Mad Over Mangy Rug

By JOHN CHADWICK WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(AP) Senator Walker (R-Idaho) looked around his office when he arrived here as a newcomer to Congress last January and felt disgraced.

"I had better carpeting in my doghouse in Idaho than I have in... the Senate Office Building," he said.

Walker was hopping mad and he made no bones about it when he went before a closed meeting of the Senate Appropriations Committee on July 11. The committee today made public his testimony and that of other witnesses.

One of the other witnesses was another freshman senator, Senator Dirksen (R-Ill.) he too said he was outraged by the carpets and the furniture in his office.

Both Senators said the carpets and furniture in their offices were a sad come-down from what they found in the executive departments.

Dirksen said he had just been down to the Pentagon and "the offices there are in gilt and gold brocade."

And for a real eye-opener, Dirksen suggested committee members slip away to the Federal Reserve Board building and see what magnificence and splendor they have there.

Senator Bridges (R-NH), senior GOP member of the Appropriations Committee, said he agreed that the rugs in some senators' offices were a disgrace. "I do not blame the senators for feeling very strongly about that," he said.

Walker said he hounded capital officials until a new carpet was laid in his office.

J. Lacey Caraway, custodian of the Senate Office Building, told the Committee that about 35,000 worth of carpets a year are purchased. He said that adds up to about 15 new rugs.

But he said this year his office was requesting $15,000 for about 50 new carpets. He said he could use more but that would take care of the "worst situations."

The Committee approved the request.

Duke Leads A Dog's Life On Just $25,000

WOODSTOCK, Ill., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Duke, a six year old Labrador Retriever, appears assured of a dog's life of luxury.

The will of Duke's mistress, Mrs. Mary J. Leonard, 60, directed that her $25,000 estate be devoted entirely to keeping Duke well and happy.

Fitzale was a four-month-old pup, one of a litter which the Gooblys saved because "she was so beautiful."

"The three boys in a row were too much for the little guy," said Mrs. Goosly. "It isn't just because he cries all the time. He says he wants to go where his dog is."

Incubator Triplets Born To New Yorker

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 13.—(AP)—A 29-year-old mother of four gave birth this week to tiny triplets, three months premature.

The children, a boy and two girls, were born to Mrs. Henry Smith of Syracuse, who already has twin daughters, 3 1/2, a son, 6, and daughter 1 1/2.

The triplets were placed in an incubator without being weighed. Miss Lucille Dewey, chief nurse in the hospital's nursery, said they were "very small," possibly two to two and a half pounds each. She said that they seemed to be healthy but that it might be a week "before we can tell" whether they will live.

Mrs. Smith said she had twin five minutes, the boy first.

Mrs. Smith, who was reported in "fine" condition, said: "I was thrilled and kind of surprised, but my husband nearly fainted. Where will he keep them all?"

Her husband, 35, is employed by the New York Central Railroad. The family lives in a four-room apartment.

A MOTHER'S WISH IS FULFILLED as stricken Mrs. Frances Roig, 49, sees her daughter, Marcella Garrido, 15, married in New York's Beth Israel Hospital. Officiating is the Rev. John Shintay of the Lutheran Church, while Nurse Helen Frankel is a witness. The girl had planned a church ceremony but at the mother's request the Catholic girl married a Protestant boy in a Jewish hospital. (International)

Freedom Crusade Is In Full Swing; Cooperation Good

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 13.—(AP)—With the "Crusade for Freedom" in full swing, Harold Cole, State Chairman for Florida, expressed gratification this week over the splendid cooperation being given by both civic groups and individuals and said the cause was confident Florida would meet her quota quickly.

Up to this point De Launty, 70, had the edge in his gasoline-driven 1911 Stoddard Dayton.

Sponsoring officials figured it at one hour and 35 minutes elapsed time over Brause, 76, and his 1911 Stanley Steamer.

From the Chicago start to Detroit, De Launty was timed in 11:11. Brause in 15:16. It's about 300 miles.

Motor-minded Detroit, where the automobile was virtually born and bred, took the older rivalry to its heart.

Anything that runs on wheels is bound to be a fascination here. But on this occasion, it's the steam.

From the moment Brause and De Launty chugged and puffled into the downtown traffic whirl, they were a show, indeed.

With its top up and big headlights gleaming, De Launty's Stoddard-Dayton was really a fancy job.

So was the snooty, understated Steamer as she rolled along, now and then toasting off an explosion.

Yesteryear, a time long past and gone. Anyone with half a heart and a memory of the early century could have loved it.

De Launty and Brause were distinguished visitors. They argued and fussed, but all in good sport. The press interviewed them at length.

Of his troubles, an engine, including the tire and rim which his car flipped off, De Launty had naught to report.

"The trouble can happen to anybody, even yours," he said to a gent in a new car.

Brause admitted the explosion from the top of his head. "I know the difference out of everybody else, but not himself."

"Not an old Steamer man like me," he said. "The Stanley and I

Oldsters Race Stanley Steamers, Antique Gas Auto Cross-Country

DETROIT, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Dauntless Jack Brause and Rube De Launty tugged up a garden, steamed up, too—for another leg of their race eastward yesterday.

Gangway, here they come. Next stop, Toledo.

Their good-humored contest, involving the steam versus gasoline power issues and two museum-piece automobiles, was not much more than barely begun.

It was a long way to go yet—New York.

Hints To Housewives

By Anna Mae Sikes

Buttonholes are often to blame when a home-made dress lacks the tailor-made look, says Margaret Smith, clothing specialist in the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics. The following small details make a big difference, Miss Smith advises home dressmakers: If horizontal buttonholes are meant to march down center front stronger. Bound buttonholes begin starting 1/16th of an inch from center front.

Measure and mark a perfect line-up; all buttonholes the same distance from front edge of dress, the same distance apart, and all parallel to the waist.

But buttonhole style to work material and style of dress. Worked buttonholes are always suitable and are the best choice for a wash dress, since they are stronger. Bound buttonholes make an attractive finish for dressy rayons, wools, and silks.

If a dress fabric frays, take the precaution—before cutting buttonholes—to run four parallel rows of machine stitching, two on either side of the buttonhole line, close to the cutting line.

Then, when the hole is cut, the inner row of machine stitching on either side helps prevent fraying, while the outer row forms a guide for the width of the completed buttonhole. If a material frays badly, it is better to choose a style that does not call for buttons or buttonholes.

Whether worked or bound, for a good effect, completed buttonholes should be narrow, that is, not wider than 1/16th of an inch from the cut line. To keep the hole straight and flat, set stitches very close together when working round the buttonhole end.

If your buttonhole technique is weak, remember blanket stitch, which is easier than conventional buttonhole stitch and makes a satisfactory substitute if stitches are worked close together. A sewing machine attachment can also take over the buttonhole stitching, and is particularly good for home-dresses, children's clothes, and sturdy summer frocks.

UN Awaits Major Red Attack During Next Three Nights

Van Fleet Believes Full Moon Period Critical; Slashing Air War Continues

SEOUL, Sept. 14—(AP)—"This is the full moon," General James Van Fleet said today. "Tonight, tomorrow night and the following night are extremely critical."
"So the dopsters tell me," he added with a smile.
Van Fleet, commander of Allied ground forces in Korea, made that comment on a possible Communist offensive in an interview at a nearby air base. He was there to bid farewell to President Syngman Rhee of South Korea.
"The past-performance boys have the record book on their side," Van Fleet said, "for the enemy has always waited until he had a full moon before launching any major offensive. But there has been many full moons of the moon since last May."
President Rhee arrived in Seoul this morning and had lunch with Van Fleet. The chief executive of the Republic of Korea and the Eighth Army commander then took off in a light airplane to visit a Korean army training base.
"The training my men are receiving is wonderful. They are full of confidence in themselves and know their weapons," Rhee said.
Meanwhile United Nations doughboys wrestled a towering peak from bitterly raining Red north of the bloody battle of the hills' ground on in Eastern Korea.
On the other end of the peninsula, six Russian-type T-34 tanks and two self-powered guns were spotted west of Yoncheon. They were immediately attacked by U. N. artillery, planes and tanks.

Prime Minister Tells Japanese He Won't Rearm

Leader Advises His Country To Keep Faith With West

TOKYO, Sept. 14—(AP)—Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, the little, cigar smoking statesman who guided Japan along the road to independence, told the Japanese people today he would refuse to rearm this vanquished nation.
The 72-year-old Yoshida's stand was viewed in some quarters as indicating that he would step out of office just as soon as the historic U. S.-Japan security pact is ratified and becomes law.
He instructed his countrymen to keep faith with the Western world.
Yoshida made his remarks at a news conference only three hours after he returned from San Francisco where he saw Japan once again take its place among the nations of the world.
He spoke in the beautiful prime minister's residence behind the Diet (parliament) building.
Yoshida was asked point blank whether Japan would have to rearm after the security pact goes into effect.
Yoshida answered in almost inaudible tones.
An Associated Press Japanese reporter said he heard Yoshida say:
"That's up to Japan. But as far as I am concerned I won't carry it (the rearmament program) out."
The Japanese news agency Kyodo quoted Yoshida as saying, "I am not thinking to rearm."
Other translations varied. But the inference was clear: The Japanese government would not personally see to it that guns were put back into the hands of his fellow countrymen.
Yoshida's remarks have predicted for some time that Yoshida will resign in favor of Ichiro Hatayama, founder of the Liberal Party who was deposed recently.
Yoshida arrived in Tokyo late in the afternoon at 11:40 A. M. bringing back with him one of the softest peace treaties ever granted a conquered nation.
His arrival was carried out with the strictest security regulations, seen in Tokyo in several years. Even photographers were forced to take the lens out of their cameras as they entered the airport terminal building. Then they were forced to undergo an inspection.
American intelligence officers refused to say what the reason was for the extraordinary precautions.

France Agrees Germany May Recruit Army

Compromise Reached On Touchy Issue; Inflation Is Seen As Growing Danger

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—(AP)—France was reported today to have agreed to let Western Germany begin recruiting troops for a proposed European army before all details of that army are worked out. The first contingents may be raised by early 1952.
Officials said the Big Three foreign ministers conference, which wound up a five-day meeting today, worked out a compromise on the touchy issue.
Under it, France retreated from its former position that the European army would have to be fully organized before any German man were called up.
The French were called to have agreed instead that German troops could be placed under an interim form of international command while final arrangements were being made for the European army envisaged by French Premier Rene Pleven.
Both French and American officials told newsmen of the compromise here but said they could not be quoted by name. Earlier in the day a French government spokesman in Paris first confirmed reports that Foreign Minister Schuman had consented to the "immediate raising of German contingents" and then said the information was wrong. The confusion appeared to center largely on the issue of timing.
Officials who discussed the matter here said no timetable has been agreed to but that the hope is for sizeable German troop contributions by early next year.
Presumably they would be integrated into the Western European defense force being organized by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.
France has not retreated from its insistence that any German troops be "European" soldiers rather than the nucleus of a German army.
Meanwhile the United States, Britain and France discussed (Continued on Page Two)

Gross Found At Atlantic City Track

Apparently unconcerned by the disappearance had caused, bookmaker Harry Gross was a witness in the mass trial of 18 New York policemen, to found missing a "holiday" from his guards at the Atlantic City, N. J. track. He said he was "tired of having police following him around." Gross, purported head of a $20,000,000 gambling racket, escaped the custody of two officers while paying a visit to his wife at Atlantic Beach, N. Y. He was held on charges of interstate flight in avoiding giving testimony. At right is William Finney, a state police detective, and at left, race track Police Capt. Robert Ryder. (International)

Italy Moving To Break With Red Czechoslovakia

Diplomatic Offices Closing On Order Of Italian Govt

ROME, Sept. 14—(AP)—Italy moved closer today to an outright diplomatic break with Communist Czechoslovakia.
The situation was intensified last night when the Foreign Ministry announced Italy had called her consul general home immediately from Bratislava and ordered the consulate closed. That consulate is in Milan by tomorrow.
A firmly worded announcement by the ministry declared "a long series of offensive actions" by the Czechoslovak government "practically impossible to operate" at the Bratislava consulate.
Sources at the Palazzo Chigi, Italy's foreign ministry, told reporters that Italy would no longer put up with "this treatment of her diplomats."
They said "offensive actions" at Bratislava, capital of Slovakia, included:
1. Frequent police detention and interference with the Italian consul general himself.
2. Constant and rigid surveillance of the consulate under the guise of a police post.
3. The institution and interference with employees of the consulate.
4. Refusal of normal advice—(Continued on Page Three)

Witness Testifies Boyle Helped To Obtain RFC Loan

Democratic Chairman Got $1,671,000 For St. Louis Company

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—(AP)—A diary-keeping witness told senators today that William M. Boyle, Jr., helped arrange an RFC loan for a St. Louis printing firm early in 1949 after three previous loan applications by the company had been turned down.
John E. Toole, an official of the American Lithofold Corporation, offered this sworn testimony today before a Senate subcommittee investigating charges that Boyle, Democratic National Chairman, influenced reconstruction Finance Corporation loans.
Boyle has denied that he so arranged loans for the St. Louis printing firm although he said he did some "legal work" for it before he became Democratic National chairman.
Toole gave his testimony after the subcommittee released details by Herley Hix and Walter J. Dunham, former RFC directors, that they ever had been influenced by Boyle in a loan matter.
Both directors said in closed-door testimony yesterday that the RFC did, however, get well-paying jobs on the boards of directors of some RFC borrowers for persons recommended by Boyle.
Toole, who took a job with American Lithofold in 1948 after it borrowed $1,671,000 from the government agency which he had worked for since 1944, said he had no contact with Boyle at that time.
Boyle at that time was working at Democratic National headquarters but was not national chairman.
Toole said he attended a conference in Boyle's office presumably at Democratic National headquarters on Feb. 26, 1949. With him, Toole said, were James P. Finnegan, since ousted from his federal job as Collector of Internal Revenue at St. Louis; J. Blumler, then head of the printing firm; and Cecil Green, Washington representative for the printing firm.

Ex-Revenue Agent Is Indicted By Grand Jury For Accepting Influence Pay

Boston, Sept. 14—(AP)—Don W. Delaney, fired by President Truman as Massachusetts Collector of Internal Revenue was indicted today by a Federal grand jury on charges of accepting $1,500 from individuals to influence his official decisions.

Delaney also was charged with making false certificates certifying that tax claims totaling at least $170,000 for three individuals and one corporation had been audited in full when the said Don W. Delaney will know the said taxes had not been audited in full.
The indictment later counts on the first charge and three on a second charge of making and signing a false certificate.
Delaney collected taxes from 1941 to 1948 and was fired in July 1948. More than 40 returns appear to be in the grand jury's hands because of the $1,500 paid out before.
Delaney at one time was a CPA (Certified Public Accountant) and worked for a number of years as a collector of taxes in the Boston area.
He was indicted on charges of accepting influence pay.
Mayor Fred Dyson Declines To Run For Re-Election
Mayor Fred Dyson, whose three-year term as a city commissioner expires on Jan. 1, announced this morning that he would not run for reelection to the City Commission.
"Absolutely not," he declared when asked if he would run again.
He was elected as mayor last year by a vote of 10,000 over the American Party candidate, after his nomination for a third term as a city commissioner was defeated by Mr. Dyson, who was then chief of the mayor's office.
The chief of the mayor's office for not running again, and Mr. Dyson is the heavy demand of his constituents for a third term. He also the work of improving the city's parks and the Water Department. His constituents would be pleased to see him back in the city.
He also mentioned the city's work on the extension of the city's water supply program at the Boston Harbor and the city's work on the city's water supply program.
He declared that he has no interest in running for a third term and as a commissioner of the City Commission for four terms (1932-1948).
"Seeing the progress and growth of the city and county in recent years, he stated that he is strongly in favor of new developments, designed to add to the growth, including the proposed $10,000,000 project for a new terminal, and a channel from the St. Johns to the Indian River."
Crusade For Freedom Coming To Sanford
The Crusade for Freedom movement will be in Sanford Monday at 10 P. M. as the first night, according to Mack Cleveland, chairman of the county drive.
The movement, consisting of a sound truck and decorated truck will have a master of ceremonies, who will entertain and release two helium balloons. He also being used in Europe to carry leaflets behind the Iron Curtain.
"This is an opportunity to see and learn just how effective was the individual effort, as far as our fight against Communism by becoming a member of the Crusade for Freedom drive," Mr. Cleveland said.

Stringer Is Praised For His Work With City Recreation

Thomas Stringer, city recreation director, was highly commended by members of the Seminole County Children's Committee Monday afternoon for his organization of the summer recreation program for Sanford's youth.
Mrs. E. C. Willis, secretary of the committee, stated today: "More than 20 representatives of county organizations which are concerned with the welfare of children and youth in the county attended the meeting in the Court House."
Mr. Stringer outlined his program, pointing out its objectives and areas of success achieved in spite of the fact that funds were not received from the State Department of Education to pay his assistants for full time work.
Mrs. Roy Ray gave a short report on the Regional Conference on the Juvenile Court Act held in Titusville in August.
M. N. Cleveland, Jr., representing the American Legion, reported on the Boys' State and on the Legion-sponsored boys' baseball team.
G. A. Herrine, South Seminole Youth Center chairman, told about the young people's part in Casselberry's recent Street Lighting Celebration. She also told of their participation in the Freedom For Youth contest.
Mrs. Margaret Graham, county speech correction supervisor, reported that one Seminole County boy had been sent to the Gainesville Speech Camp this past summer.
Mrs. A. J. Peterson, chairman of the Seminole County Children's Committee, urged more study of the Seminole County Summary in Florida's Report in the White House Conference on Children and Youth last December. She also asked for the help of the Committee members in filling out the Florida Children's Commission questionnaire about child-care institutions, day nurseries, nursery schools, etc.
Attention was called to the new time of meeting for the Seminole County Children's Committee, the third Monday of the month, from 8:00 to 9:00 P. M.
It was announced that at the October meeting, Judge Douglas Stoutrom will direct a discussion of the opening of the new Juvenile Court law in the county.
Miss Ruth Reed, county supervisor of elementary schools, was asked to prepare for the November meeting a short program entitled "The Family in the Community." It was suggested that a short filmstrip on some family problem be used as part of the program.

Mother Of 4 Killed In Highway 17 Wreck

JACKSONVILLE, Sept. 14—(AP)—A four-month-old child was killed early today when he was struck by an automobile on U. S. Highway 17 a half-mile north of Imeson airport.
She was Mrs. Louise Miller, 67, of Jacksonville. Police said she and her husband, Thomas Miller, were on their way to a telephone after their car got stuck in the sand when the accident occurred. A driver had stopped to assist them and they had started across the road when another machine driven by Miss Wanda Reavis, 31, hit Mrs. Miller.
Miss Reavis was charged with manslaughter and released under $5,000 bond.

Researchers Find Older Workers Have Fewer Accidents Than Youths

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 14—(AP)—Evidence that older workers are less likely to have accidents than younger ones was offered today by three Ohio State University researchers.
Dr. S. L. Pressey and two associates said this was shown in a survey of records of a large department store and of an industrial firm each having some employees in the 60's.
They told the Second International Gerontological Congress this and other factors demonstrate the "worth of the older worker" in business and industry, especially in this time of defense effort.
They said their surveys showed that the frequency of accidents per 100 employees is "less in the older group and most in the younger."
Also, they asserted, average days of disability increase only slightly with age—from 2.2 days for men over 31 to 3.2 days for workers in their 60s.
The researchers offered this profile of the elderly worker:
"As an extra, he is available for longer periods and is more likely to win promotions. As a full time worker, he appears less likely to be discharged or leave because of dissatisfaction, or family circumstances. He is absent less and has a better attitude than the younger."
"He is less likely to have accidents and not very much more subject to illness."
They added that while older workers were laid up a little longer when they were sick, they were ill only a little more frequently than younger workers in the two firms surveyed.
At the same meeting, doctors Irving Lorge and Jacob Tuckman of Columbia University declared: "In business and industry there are significant restrictions in the hiring, upgrading and retention of older workers—men and women 45 years of age and over."
"Many reasons have been given to explain the reluctance of employers to hire older workers. It is claimed that older workers are slow, increase production costs, have a higher accident rate, are a poor investment. There is very little evidence to justify these complaints."

Sanford Negro Is Saved From Chair After Chili Row

D. Williams, Sanford Negro, who on Aug. 25 was found guilty by a jury in Circuit Court here of a charge of first degree murder in the shooting of Willie Wallace, night club proprietor of Goldsboro on Dec. 29, 1949, was saved from the electric chair by action of the State Pardon Board.
The verdict of the local jury had resulted in a death sentence. A motion picture of the scene was made by the jury.
Karl Housholder, attorney for Williams, then moved for a new trial but this was denied by Circuit Judge M. B. Smith. An appeal was made to the State Supreme Court which upheld the Circuit Court decision.
Mr. Housholder then took up the matter with the Pardon Board and with the intention of saving the Negro from the electric chair, requested them to review the case.
The shooting took place shortly after 8:00 o'clock on Dec. 29, 1949, back of the Peewee Grill on West Thirteenth Street, which was operated by Eugene Lafair, other well known as "Bucky."
State Attorney Murray Overstreet described the shooting as a cold-blooded affair in which Williams, lurking in the shadows near the building, shot Wallace as the latter was heading over to lift a case of Coca Cola to put into his car.
It was established in the trial that during the afternoon Williams had gone to the 666 Club on the Southwest Road, a place owned and operated by Wallace, had ordered a bowl of chili, and then became angry at receiving change from one dollar, claiming that he had tendered a $5 bill in payment.
The commutation of Williams yesterday was made on recommendation of the State Pardon Commission. It was pointed out that although the evidence was sufficient to support the court's judgment, there were many cases of almost identical circumstances in which the defendant got a less severe sentence.

Sanford Negro Is Charged With Crime

CORTLAND, N. Y., Sept. 14—(AP)—A 32-state alarm was out today for George Stevens, 70-year-old Negro from Sanford, Fla., wanted on a charge of first-degree manslaughter.
The indictment returned by a Cortland county grand jury accused Stevens of inflicting fatally another Negro, John Archie Gibson, 33, of Jacksonville, Fla., on Aug. 17. Gibson died two days later.
Stevens being charged Stevens with striking Gibson during a brawl at a migrant workers camp 10 miles south of here.

Mrs. M. MacNeill Appointed Teacher

On recommendation of school trustees, the County Board yesterday appointed Mrs. Malcolm MacNeill as a teacher in academic work to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Ode Hooey, teacher and football coach, every day.
The Board adopted a school calendar providing for 180 days of school attendance, and 90 days for teachers to be on duty.
Any days lost on account of storms, conventions, etc., will be added to the final month of the term, said Supt. T. W. Lawton this morning.
Holidays for pupils will be observed as follows: Oct. 15 when the Florida Education Association meets; Armistice Day celebration on Monday, Nov. 13; Thanksgiving holidays Nov. 22-23; Christmas holidays, Dec. 16 to Jan. 2, and Good Friday on Apr. 11.

Installation Slated For Legion Officers

J. Denver Cordell, garage owner, will be installed Monday night as commander of the Sanford Post No. 53, the American Legion, and Mrs. Charis Webster as president of the Auxiliary Unit, at a joint installation program at the Legion Hall.
Other Legion officers to be installed will be James P. Benton, first vice-president; George O. Sawyer, second vice-president; E. A. Johnson, Jr., third vice-president; R. W. Deane, finance officer; Capt. Earle T. Louks, historian; E. A. Henderson, chaplain; Oscar Barfield, assistant at arms; R. W. Tubb, Jr., assistant at arms; L. A. Taylor, service officer; and James MacNeill as post adjutant.
Auxiliary installations will include: Mrs. D. B. Whidden, vice-president; Mrs. Joe Givens, secretary; Mrs. G. E. Baker, treasurer; Mrs. W. J. Hammond, historian.

Former Sanfordite To Be Buried Saturday

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 3:30 P. M. at the graveside in Lake View Cemetery for Mrs. Lillian Kelly, formerly of Sanford, who died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Jennie Holts in Ontario, Calif., after a long illness.
The Rev. J. E. McKinley will officiate at the service. Mrs. Kelly was the wife of the late Duncan A. Kelly of Sanford and while living here she was active in the Methodist Church work. After moving from Sanford Mrs. Kelly resided for a number of years at her home on Cornudas Beach called "The Windweaver."
