Neighborhood Redevelopment Program Presented

By Brad Church Herald Staff Writer

The most comprehensive neighborhood redevelopment program ever undertaken in Sanford was presented to city officials, a few interested citizens, and representatives of Sanford's lending institutions Thursday afternoon and Friday

The target is the Goldsboro area of Sanford's west side, which has been surveyed by a group of consultants from major Florida universities, who then drew up a redevelopment plan which they presented Thursday and Friday. The program will be evaluated by the WINS Steering committee, which got details of the preliminary plan at a workshop Friday night.

The consultant team, headed by David Crane of the University of South Florida, presented two alternative plans for the area bounded by French Avenue, W. 13th Street, Olive Avenue and W. 7th Street. Both plans involve major housing rehabilitation, demolition of substandard homes not worth rehabilitating, and construction of new single-family and multifamily housing units, as well as improvements to Coastline Park.

The WINS project was announced earlier this year as a redevelopment project to be financed by a partnership of public and private funds. Costs of the two alternative plans are estimated at $12,890,430 and $23,002,275, respectively. The consultants emphasized that the program would not be a "give away" program, but would be based largely on low interest loans, with very few outright grants.

In answer to a question from Mayor Bettye Smith about how feasible the plan is on a scale of I to 10, members of the consulting team scored it 8 to 9 in feasability.

Crane said, based on his experience in planning projects in other communities, the Sanford plan is quite feasible. He said he based that opinion on the stability of the population of the neighborhood, the high percentage of owneroccupied homes, and the relatively low land and construction costs in Sanford, compared with other areas of the state.

The two plans will be evaluated by the WINS steering committee, which will recommend to the city commission which, if either, of the plans to

Longwood To Set Tax Rate

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

Longwood city commissioners will be asked Monday to set the property tax rate for the 1987-88 (iscal year at $3.61 per $1,000 assessed property valuation to accommodate the changes made on the proposed budget at the 16-hour July 21 budget worksession. The increase is needed to fund a proposed revised general budget of $4,611,894 — a jump of $332,567 from City Administrator Ron Walter's original proposal.

Waller had originally proposed the city's property tax rate remain at $2.90 per thousand even though the general fund budget would be up $184,495 over this fiscal year's total of $4,094,832.

Waller in a July 30 letter to the commissioners stated, "It is absolutely essential that the city commission agree on a proposed millage rate on Aug. 3. Florida Statutes require that each taxing authority submit a proposed millage rate to the Property Appraiser by Tuesday, Aug. 4. If we fall to provide a proposed millage rate, Longwood will suffer with the rolled-back rate of $2.627 per $1,000 assessed property valuation."

The roll-back tax rate is the rate which would have provided the same amount of property tax revenue as last year.

Waller said, "I strongly recommend that the city commission submit a proposed millage rate high enough to provide necessary services. The commission can always lower the proposed millage rate but our ability to increase the millage is extremely limited. This would delay adoption of our budget beyond Oct. 1, 1987."

Waller pointed out that the budget and property tax rate can be refined during August and September.

The proposed rate increase has resulted from increases needed by the Fire, Police. Street and other departments. Walter said. The Fire Department with a proposed budget of $999,243 and the Police Department, with a total of $1.4 million, increases account for 51 percent of the increased tax rate.

Officials: DOT About To Flub It

Errs In Interchange Choice

By Ted Carter Herald Staff Writer

the state Department of Transportation is on the verge of a costly mistake in pursuing plans for the least expensive of two interchanges planned for Lake Mary Boulevard and Interstate 4.

County engineer Bill Mc-Colium predicted a situation 20 years from now in which the planned $7.5 million infor the volume of traffic it will have to accommodate. He sald he envisions a clogged interchange similar to those at state roads 436 and 434 today.

"The DOT is shutting its eyes to what will happen 20 years hence," sald McCollum.

The state transportation agency contends there is not enough justification for the $12 million cost of the interchange land within the Lake Mary

Boulevard and 1-4 area want. The problem, they say, is that Seminole County officials say benefits are lacking to the point that imminent domain efforts would fail because the courts could not be convinced of the public necessity for condemning the more than two dozen acres of additional right of way the $12 million version would require.

What's more, they say, the Federal Highway Administration, which is paying most of the terchange is woefully inadequate cost, would probably reject spending the extra money.

The $12 million configuration includes three cloverleafs: the $7.5 million one has two.

The more expensive alternative would take 86 acres of right of way, the $7.5 million one 56 acres.

The interchange the county and development interests want would require too much land in an expensive area for buying the county and developers of land, said Wally Fish, a DOT

Lawmakers: NSC Secrecy Amounted To 'Junta'

By Joseph Mianowany

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Some members of the Iran-Contra committees say efforts by National Security Council officials to hide what they were doing from Cabinet members who opposed them was tantamount to a "junta in the government of the United States.'

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger told the congressional committees in his first day of testimony Friday he was kept in the dark on so many details of the plan to sell arms to Iran that at times he had to rely on foreign intelligence to find out what was happening in the U.S. govern-

Weinberger added that he knew nothing of the eventual scheme to divert profits from those sales to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels at a time U.S. aid was banned and was "horrifled" when he heard of it as the scandal exploded last November.

Weinberger is expected to complete his testimony Monday. and committee leaders are scheduled to then give closing statements ending the panels' scheduled public sessions.

Earlier Friday, former White House chief of staff Donald Regan completed his testimony, saying he also had not been told many of the details of the affair and had no knowledge of the fund diversion.

"It seems to me what happened in all of this is that there was, in effect, a junta in the government of the United States," said Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md.

Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawait, head of the Senate committee, agreed the operation was "a mini junta" and said former said. national security adviser John Poindexter and his aide, Lt. Col. Oliver North, "decided they were the sole repository of wisdom, truth and patriotism."

The diversion of funds to the Contras was a closely held secret that Poindexter says he hid even from President Reagan.

But the plan to sell arms to Iran was a decision made by the president, and Weinberger backed up earlier testimony from Secretary of State George Shultz, who argued that Poindexter deliberately kept information from Reagan in order

"People with their own agenda who thought this ... was a good idea knew I opposed it and knew George Shultz opposed it and didn't want the president to hear those arguments," Weinberger to push the project.

Weinberger noted that in several meetings he argued bitterly against the arms sales, stressing it was "absurd" to think the United States could make contact with moderate elements in Iran. "I don't think there are any moderates still alive in Iran," he

He also argued that trying to use the arms sales to win the release of U.S. hostages being held in the Middle East would open up the United States to the possibility of "blackmail" from

Weinberger said he thought he and Shultz had successfully killed the idea in a December 1985 meeting with the president, and he told an aide, "This baby has been strangled in the isn't it, that we would taunch on cradle."

But in the next month the idea was revived, primarily pushed by Poindexter, he said.

Weinberger said he was cut out of the information loop regarding the arms deals with Iran apparently from the time the idea surfaced in the fall of 1985, when Robert McFarlane was national security adviser.

The defense secretary said he learned at that time the United States was negotiating with Iranian elements through an intelligence report he later learned he was not supposed to receive.

Rep. Lee Hamilton, D.Ind., chairman of the House committee, said Weinberger reinforced the impressions the committees had already received from Shultz and others.

"It's really an amazing thing. a major initiative of this kind See JUNTA, page 6A/

Lake Mary Mayor Plugs For Center

By Richard Whittaker Herald Staff Writer

A center that could be enjoyed by the elderly and young altke may be in the making for Lake

Mayor Dick Fess, speaking at the Seminole Council of Mayors this week, said he is looking into ways the city can get money to bulld a combination senior citizens center and recreation facility for children. A facility for the joint use of seniors and childern, Fess said, could offer an opportunity for the two generations to interact.

He conceded there could be difficulties. "Joint use of the facility for both groups could be awfully tough to accomplish though," he said. Fess stressed the need for the city to help take care of its senior population as the impetus for the idea. "It's just something I'm very interested in," he said.

Fess said an experience from his own life has made him feet the city should offer a place for senior citizens to gather. "I saw my own grandmother deteriorate after she was told she was too old to watch kids," Fess said.

Fess cited what he termed the breakdown of the family unit as another reason for him wanting a center. He said he feels if seniors have a place to spend the day involved in worthwhile activities it might be incentive for their childern to invite them to stay in the family unit.

Lake Mary City Commissioner Charlie Webster agreed with Fess that the center could help keep families together and also possibly help defray some medical costs associated with caring for the elderly.

Webster said he thought a seniors center might give at least some of the city's elderly population added activity and social interaction. "Some senior citizens sit in a chair and wait to die," Webster said, "We've all

Abused Child's Death May Change Law

By Deane Jerdan Berald Staff Writer

The death of a comatose Longwood infant Wednesday could prompt a major change in Florida law if a homicide charge is filed against the child's father who is in prison on a related child abuse-conviction.

Dead is 26-month old Christopher Gettys. The child had been in a coma since August 1985, when he was three months old. His father, James Michael Gettys, 25, of 147 Lakeshore Drive, is serving five years, the maximum sentence the judge could impose for abusing the infant. The child had been on life support systems since shortly after his injuries.

The potential change in Florida law lies in the conflict between today's life-sustaining technology and tenet of old common law concept. That tenet, still in force in Florida, is that a person must die within a year and a day of an injury for the death to be considered caused by that injury. If death occurs after that period it is legally presumed to have been brought on by some other cause. The Gettys infant died about 23 months after he fell into a coma following mistreatment by his

Steve Plotnick, chief trial attorney for the Sanford branch of the State Attorney's Office, is considering whether to file a homicide charge against Gettys. Plotnick also said that not only will a decision have to be made whether to file a homicide charge but also whether it should be first or second degree. The difference could establish whether the related child-abuse conviction can later be introduced into evidence if the homicide case went to trial.

Kurt Erlenbach, the original prosecutor on the case but now in private practice in Altamonte Springs, said if he were still a state attorney he would file a homicide charge. He and Plotnick agreed that if a homicide charge is filed the case most likely would end up in the appeals court.

Erlenbach said that to his knowledge the year and a day rule is still in effect in Florida because no statue has been passed to supersede it. Other other states have done away with the common law provision.

If a homicide charge were filed, a circuit judge could dismiss it because of the common law provision, Erlenbach said. If dismissed, the state would probably appeal, giving the high court a chance to make a decision on the issue. That is, whether to scrap the year and a day rule and order Gettys to stand trial, thus, changing Florida law. If the case went to trial and Gettys were convicted, he, too, would probably appeal and again the appeal court would get the case and rule on the year and a day rule. Should a jury find Getty's not guilty of a murder charge the issue would become moot and would not be resolved until a similar case occurred.

"This is precisely the type of case that should challenge the common law," said Erlenbach. Plotnic said he thinks he has found some case law in another state that could help the Florida in the case.

Plotnick said that while a possible change in Florida law could be an outcome of the case. the prime consideration is whether Gettys should be held accountable for his son's death

The infant died at 6:25 a.m. in the emergency room at Holy Cross Hospital in Ft. Lauderdale. The child had been at Broward Children Hospital in the same city. He had been transferred there from Orlando Regional Medical Center in April.

Prior to his death the child was deaf, blind and unresponsive. He became that way shortly after Gettys slammed the child into his crib two or three times because the infant would not stop crying. Gettys maintained that the child was suffering from the effects of a breathing disorder that cut oxygen to the brain. Medical testimony, however, said the child was suffering from injuries not unlike whiplash.

Erlenbach said he last visited the child in February. He said the infant was bloated despite being on a low-calorie diet and was a "horrendous sight." He said the infant needed extraordinay measures often to keep him alive and had not developed any teeth. Even though doctors said the child had no chance of recovery, his mother requested that every effort be made to sustain the child's life.

An autopsy was scheduled Thursday but the results were not yet available.

Gettys was convicted in March 1986 and sentenced the following April.

Heat Deathtoll At Least 67

United Press International

A blazing heat wave blamed for at least 67 deaths showed no signs of fading today as officials forecast 100-degree temperatures for the Plains and steamy weather for the South.

For the second day in a row. the mercury was expected to climb to at least the 100degree mark today in most of the Plains states, while readings in the 90s were expected over the southern Atlantic states, the Tennessee and Mississippi valleys and across the eastern Gulf states.

Friday, temperatures hit the 100-degree mark in the Plains. Colorado, and part of the Mississippi Valley, and officials in Kansas reported the state's first heat-related death.

Forecasters today provided little solace for areas in the grip of the 15-day hot spell.

"There will be a very slight shift to the east, (with the heat wave) spreading into the Mississippi Valley," said NWS meteorologist Pete Reynolds.

He said other than the widening of the heat wave's boundaries, there was no indication that temperatures in the area will drop.

"It has been climbing up a degree or two higher everyday," he said. "It's not that much hotter, it's just the length of time that it's been there that seems to concern some people." High temperatures Friday included 106 at Aberdeen. S.D., 101 at Fargo, N.D., and 101 at Birmingham, Ala. The Aberdeen mark broke a record that had stood 44 years. The temperature hit 104 degrees at Fort Riley and broke the 100-degree mark across much of eastern Kansas.

Officials in Kansas City Friday reported the area's first heat-related death. Nursing home resident Edna Hamilton, 69, of Kansas City died of heatstroke Wednesday at St. Luke's Hospital, authorities sald.

The temperature inside the home, which lacks air conditioning, was 90 degrees Wednesday, said a spokesman for the home.

The Kansas City Salvation Army Friday opened seven cooling centers in the metropolitan area, said spokeswoman Margaret Naylor. Rides to shelters were available for free, she said.

A golf course in the St. Louis suburb of Jennings felt the

"In the beginning, people weather it, but after a while it sort of wears them down," said Roger Linsin, managing director of Norwood Hills Country Club. "I definitely can see a lull in our play. Our regular daily play is down about 30 percent. I was out checking the golf course. Just riding around and not playing. It's not comfortable."

Mark Meseke, an Army spokesman at Fort Riley, said conditions were hot enough to curtail "slightly" the physical training of soldiers at the northern Kansas installation. No heat-related problems were reported this week because commanders kept men "full of water and in the shade," he said.

Temperatures have been 100 degrees, or higher, in Valentine, Neb., every day since last Saturday. It was 104 Thursday.

"It's hot but we're surviving. We just keep on sweating and working," said Bob Kramer, a service station employee.

Temperatures were expected to be more comfortable today for residents of New England.

Perceptions Of Gorbachev Mixed, East And West

By Thomas Forrare WASHINGTON (UP!) — Americans view Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev as far more progreasive, peace-minded and even better looking than his predecessors - yet are somewhat leery of the charismatic commu-

Surveys also show that far more Americans can identify Gorbachev than can name Lt. Col. Oliver North's former secretary. Fawn Hall, or the chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, William Rehnquist.

And a small majority of Americans believe Gorbachev is seriously interested in reaching an arms control agreement.

All this comes at a time when polls overseas show many Western Europeans believe Gorbachev is more concerned about arms control than President Reagan.

"That doesn't surprise me. Gorbachev has put the United States on the defensive over who's more interested in an (arms) agreement," said Robert Dallek, a UCLA history professor who has studied U.S. perceptions of Sovjets.

"Gorbachev represents a fresh look to Americans," said Andrew Kohut, president of the Gallup polling organization. "Whether or not it's true, he seems like a man working hard to improve relations with the United States."

Since assuming power in March 1985, Gorbachev, 56, has implemented social and economic reforms in the Soviet Union. has called for a reduction in weapons worldwide and has charmed people around the globe.

In the United States, public opinion polls show Gorbachev with "favorable impression" ratings of about 50 percent - seven times the figure Nikita Khrushchev drew in 1964 and triple the figure Leonid Brezhnev garnered in 1982.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, met Gorbachev on a trip to Moscow in the summer of 1985.

"I find him bright and intelligent. He exudes great energy. And he's tough," Pell said. "He also seems sincere. He had an openness that we should take advantage of. We should test Gorbachev more and perhaps test the Soviet Union

A survey last month by Market Facts, Inc., found that more Americans, 54 percent, can identify Gorbachev as the Soviet leader than can identify Hall, 30 percent, or Rehnquist, who drew 8 percent.

"I think there is a great deal of curiosity about Gorbachev more than about any Russian leader in my memory," said Larry King, host of a nationwide radio talk show on Mutual Broadcasting System.

"There is a general liking of him. People don't see him as an ogre," said King. "He's sort of an American politician-type. He even looks like a senator. Those who oppose nuclear weapons have as strong a friend as they've ever had in the Soviet Union. This drives conservatives up the wall."

Richard Viguerie, a conservative fundraiser and activist. said: "His image with the American people is better than any of his predecessors - and incorrectly so. He's still a communist. And their goal is world conquest."

Several months after Gorbachev took office, a Louis Harris poll found that Americans by wide margins viewed Gorbachev to be "more energetic," more interested in arms control and "more attractive" than other recent Soviet leaders. Yet, it found that 62 percent did not find him more trustworthy.

Recent interviews of Americans by UPI reflected much the same sentiment.

At American Legion Post 2 in Peoria, Ill., Harry Grayson, 62, a World War II veteran and retired factory worker, said: "I think Gorbachev's image is good for the Soviet Union. But I don't trust him. That's my gut feeling."

Stansfield Turner, CIA director in the Carter administration, said: "Mr. Gorbachev is a more astute opponent than his predecessors. Number one, he is better at making his case. Number two, he is more willing to acknowledge the Soviet Union's substantial internal problems." "A combination of these factors seem to open up the possibility of easing U.S.-Soviet tensions as indicated by his apparent willing to make concessions on arms control."

Turner said. Yet. Turner added, "I don't trust him as a man, I don't think I ever trust the Russians. But as for pragmatic reasons, he might more willing to live up to the agreements."

Many Americans remain uncertain about Gorbachev.

"Yeah, I've heard of him. But I really don't know that much about him." says Denise Knight, 19, a business major at the University of Miami. "The image of the Soviets is that they aren't for peace. Maybe he can ease tensions. Then again, maybe spirit as well as the letter of arms that he has the Soviet people's agreements." that he has the Soviet people's interest at heart ... but if the new openeness in Soviet life proves to undermine economic advances, I think he'd drop it," said Dallek of UCLA.

A recent nine-nation opinion poll in Western Europe asked which nation, the United States or the Soviet Union, "does the most to stop the arms race?" Thirty-two percent said the Russians, 11 percent said the Americans and 44 percent said both tried equally hard.

34 Dead In Tornado

EDMONTON, Alberta (UPI) -A series of tornadoes cut through Edmonton like a "glant lawnmower," killing at least 34 people, injuring hundreds and trapping many victims in demolished homes. The search for victims continued today.

Officials confirmed at least 34 deaths and at least 200 people were taken to hospitals when as many as six twisters hit Friday at 4 p.m.

"At this time we can't say how many are missing," said Andrew Hume, spokesman for the Alberta Public Safety Service. At dawn police began combing the rubble of the Evergreen Mobile Home Park, where at least 24 people were killed, police said.

The mayor's office estimated the damage would run into the millions of dollars. A temporary morgue was set up at the "Happy Pizza and Steak House Restaurant" in the trailer park. said police spokesman Lori Nagy,

"If's complete and utter devastation," police public information officer Lance Beswick said afterviewing the site.

One witness said the tornadoes twisted steel beams "like licorice" and tossed automobiles hundreds of yards.

The twisters left behind a trail of rubble that a witness described as "like someone took a glant lawn mower to the whole area." The storm began southwest of the city of 650,000 at 4 p.m. and moved in a path skirting the city's southeastern perimeter, turning north along Edmonton's eastern edge.

"It was a monster that covered four acres in width. It was a swirling black mass," said Peter Kibich, who owns a small farm south of Edmonton.

When it turned north, it smashed into an industrial park. derailing two trains and throwing box cars like toys more than 100 feet. At a local waste disposal company, more than 30 garbage trucks and several cars were overturned.

...Program

If the commission adopts one of the plans, it will then set up an organization, such as a redevelopment authority, to administer the program.

The consultants' survey of the area was based on personal interviews of members of each household. The survey revealed that the community is quite stable, with about 60 percent of the residents having lived there for 10 or more years, and about the same percentage owning their homes.

About 42 percent of the area residents have household income of less than $5,000 annually, according to the survey. although the consultants said that figure may be a little low since people tend to understate their income in personal interviews, and a large number refused to answer the question about Income. More accurate figures on income will be gathered if the program is adopted and federal money is used, as anticipated.

The survey also found that almost all the homes need some repair, with as high as 50 percent needing major repairs.

The consultants call the two alternative redevelopment plans "Community Preservation and Enhancement," or Plan A, and "Community Growth and Outreach," or Plan B.

Both plans envision improvements to Coastline Park by getting rid of drainage ditches. landscaping and the construction of a swimming pool. Public Improvements would also include sewer and water service and street improvements. Both plans also include major improvements along W. 13th Street, including landscaping, leaving some commercial area and development of some professional offices.

Plan A, the less expensive of the two, proposes a combined figure of 376 new and renovated housing units. New housing units would be single-family or duplexes, with no larger units planned.

Public investment for Plan A is estimated at $3,694,000 and private investment at $9,196,430.

Plan B is more costly and has a goal of improving the neighborhood by making it attractive enough to bring in more moderate-income residents so that the income level of the area more closely approaches that of the rest of the city.

It calls for a total of 616 new or rennovated housing units. New units would include not only single-family and duplexes, but also higher density housing such as fourplexes and larger apartment buildings. The consultants pointed out that more open space is included in the plan because higher density population areas require more open posed budget is $1,006,572. The total proposed city budget, including all selfsupporting funds, is $9,072,555. Waller, whose proposed $4.3

million budget didn't call for a tax increase, will also ask the commission to set the date for another budget work session to consider the revised budget proposal incorporating the changes approved by the commission. He said the workshop is also needed to review the need for a 20 percent increase in water rates and to review the Five Year Capital Program.

Public hearings on the proposed budget are scheduled for Sept. 14 and Sept. 28.

The consultants said that plan B, although having a higher total cost, would generate a higher percentage of private investment. Plan A estimates $2.50 in private investment for every $1 of public money spent. Plan B estimates $3 of private investment for every $1 of public money, for a total private investment of $17,777,275.

The consultants said there are several funding methods for the project, including a revolving loan fund in which money for more loans would be generated by early loans being paid off. Private investment could be attracted to the area through the income tax credit provided in the new federal tax law for investment in rental housing, or various other means. Crane said. He pointed out that the expenditure of public funds and the total cost of the project could be reduced by raising income in the area so less help would be needed to enable residents to purchase new residences or improve their existing homes. Crane agreed that income enhancement would lower the costs of the project but said the study did not include methods of increasing income. He said some jobs would be created during the project by the new construction in the area and that by improving the area perhaps more

"If any good can come from such a tragedy, we just hope others can learn a lesson from it."

We hear that sometimes after writing about an event we wish had never happened.

The world it is our obligation to cover isn't always the world we'd prefer to write about. The victims of circumstance are our neighbors, too.

Still, we owe you the complete truth . . . for only through knowing the whole story can a community learn from our mistakes, recognize problems that deserve our attention, appreciate human valor worthy of all our respect.

It's our job to honestly reflect all the news around us. And it's our duty to cover developments likely to affect you, even if some of those stories are unpleasant to photograph and share.

We claim no special privilege as your designated messenger of news - the bad as well as the good.

Yet we know this: Frequently the victims of tragedy are helped most as our community comes to know of their needs through newspaper stories and even some of those unpleasant pictures showing the victims of circumstance.

As we learn through such pictures, we know where to pitch in. And that produces human reactions we can share through more pleasant pictures: Such as this one, showing a volunteer helping move a flood victim to a Red Cross shelter.

Our assignment is clear: You count on your newspaper to reflect reality. Our responsibility is just as evident. You expect us to be tactful in gathering this information.

Reasonable expectations.

We respect your feelings in the stories we write, in the pictures we print and in our personal dealings. We're determined to remain sensitive, to the humans involved in the news and the audience we serve.

We're committed to earning your continued trust. No one should expect less from a good friend.

Landing Gear Failure Blamed in Mexican Plane Crash

MEXICO CITY (UPI) - Investigators are blaming mechanical failure of landing gear for the crash of a Miami-bound cargo plane onto a busy highway that killed 54 people and injured at least 35 others, many of them

A preliminary investigation by the Federal Attorney General's Office said Friday the plane, a 35-year-old Boeing 377. was unable to raise its landing gear and had "other mechanical problems" that prevented it from properly ascending, causing it to hit a power line shortly after

Red Cross officials said the death toll from the Thursday crash rose to 54 when plane passenger Ruben Rodriguez died of severe burns and internal bleeding in a Mexico City hospital Friday. Rodriguez, 21, was the only casualty among the 10 people aboard the plane, which also carried 18 horses.

The Red Cross said another 35 people remained hospitalized, many of them with serious injuries.

Iran Issues Strike Warning

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) - Iran said today it has shifted its policy of "retaliation" in the Persian Gulf war, warning it will strike Kuwaiti oil installations if Iraqi warplanes attack Iranian facilities.

Analysts said the threat indicated Tehran wished to avoid a direct confrontation with the United States if it attacked U.S.-flagged Kuwaiti tankers in the gulf.

Tehran radio quoted Iranian President Ali Khamenei as saying Friday: "If our oil centers are hit by Iraq, its ally and supporter, which is Kuwait, should know that its oil installations in the Persian Gulf will be attacked decisively

The warning, first issued at Friday prayer ceremonies in Tehran, was repeated on Tehran radio early Saturday in a newscast monitored in Athens.

Iranians, Pilgrims Clash

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) - Iranians staging a demonstration in Saudi Arabia's holy city of Mecca clashed with pilgrims from other Moslem nations, wounding many people and setting cars on fire, a spokesman of the Saudi Interior Ministry said.

But Tehran radio monitored in Beirut said many Iranians and other people were beaten up by Saudi security men during a demonstration in Mecca against Israel, the United States and the Soviet Union by some 150,000 Iranians.

The Saudi spokesman said Iranian pilgrims began gathering outside a Mecca mosque after Friday noon prayers and "in a while joined a noisy Iranian demonstration which immediately caused a traffic jam and prevented people from leaving the mosque."

Pilgrims from other nations attempted to persuade the Iranians to disperse, but the Iranians insisted on continuing the demonstration, the spokesman said.

MIA Meeting Leaders Skeptical

HANOI, Vietnam (UPI) — Gen. John Vessey, President Reagan's special envoy, met Vietnamese leaders Saturday amid skepticism the highest level talks with Hanoi in 10 years will resolve the question of Americans missing in action from the Vietam War.

"I have no illusions," said Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach when asked about the prospects for progress in the Thach said if the Americans ask to establish an office in Hanoi to facilitate efforts to find missing Americans, then Vietnam would ask to open an office in Washington.

Thach and Vessey met for 45 minutes Saturday but no officials were available for comment on the talks. A second round is scheduled for Sunday.

On arrival at Noi Bai airport, Vessey was met by Deputy Foreign Minister Nguyen Dy Nien.

Poseidon Missile Launched; 63rd Shot From Submarine

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) - A Poscidon missile carrying a dummy warhead was successfully launched from a nuclear submarine submerged off the coast of Florida.

A spokesman for Patrick Air Force Base said the 65,000-pound solid-fuel missile was launched from the USS Ulysses S. Grant at 2 p.m. Friday as part of a routine "demonstration and shakedown operation" to make sure the sub's crew maintains proficiency with the high-tech

The 34-foot Poseidon missiles have a range of about 3,700 miles but as with all such test firings, details of the flight were not released.

It was the 83rd firing of a Poseidon missile from the Florida area since 1968 and the 63rd launch conducted by a submarine crew.

Change Of Command At Patrick

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) - Col. Lawrence L. Gooch assumes command of the Eastern Space and Missile Center at Patrick Air Force Base on Aug. 12, officials said Friday.

Gooch, 46, will replace Col. John W. Mansur, the installation's commander since June 26, 1986. An Air Force spokesman said Mansur is retiring from active service and will remain in the region as a private citizen.

Mansur, 47, has had a history of recent medical problems that are thought to have played a role in the change of command.

Gooch served as commander of the Western Space and Missile Center at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., from July 1983 to April 1986. For the past 15 months, he has served as commander of the Air Force Space and Technology Center at Kirtland Air Force Base, N.M.

Chiles Reveals Contributions

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., raised more than $700,000 in the first 2 1/2 months of this year for his 1988 re-election campaign, officials said Friday.

A campaign report filed with the Secretary of the Senate in Washington, D.C., and the Florida Elections Division in Tallahassee shows that between April 16 and June 30, Chiles campaign received $735,712 from 7,965 Floridians.

The report also shows Chiles spent $37,766.30 during the first six months of 1987.

In announcing his candidacy earlier this year. Chiles placed limits on contributions, saying he would accept no more than $100 from a contributor and would refuse all political action committee PAC money.

Gulf Crash Casualties Iden

Pentagon Friday identified the crew and : seengers aboard the Sea King helicopter that crashed in the Persian Gulf Thursday and said four of the five men recovered from the accident were injured - one of them seriously.

One man was killed and three others among the nine men aboard the SH-3G chopper, nicknamed the "Desert Duck," were missing, "whereabouts unknown," the Pentagon said. But officials said it was presumed all three of them had gone to the bottom of the gulf with the helicopter.

One of the missing was a staff officer attached to the U.S. Central Command in Tampa. Fla., Air Force Lt. Col. Horace S. Gentle, 44, of Moresville, S.C. The command directs the activi-

Lt.j.g. James F. Lazevnick, 25. of Paulsboro, N.J., the co-pilot. was identified as having died in the incident that Pentagon officials stressed was unrelated to hostilities in the gulf. The office of Rep. Roy Dyson, D-Md., said Lazevnick more recently lived in Waldorf, Md.

The chopper, which had a four-man crew, crashed while it was attempting to land Thursday on the aft helicopter deck of the USS LaSalle, the command ship of the nine-vessel Mideast task force, charged with escorting reflagged Kuwaiti tankers in the war-ravaged gulf.

The tail rotor struck the fantall of the ship while it was in a routine nose-up position preparing to set its wheels on the deck after it flew from nearby

Bahrain with passengers and cargo, Pentagon sources told United Press International.

There is a small Mideast force headquarters in Bahrain.

Although a similar accident could have happened anywhere, the incident in the gulf served as a reminder of the increased pace of Navy operations in the waterway tied to the risks involved in shepherding the tankers, one of which hit a mine on its maiden escorted northbound run to Kuwait.

The helicopter had been used to ferry members of the 10-man Pentagon media pool when it was in the gulf region last week to report on the first convoy run.

The nerve center for a command specializing in combat rescue operations has moved from Illinois to northwest Florida in a bid to consolidate Air Force special operations, officials said Friday.

The transfer of the 23rd Air Force headquarters involves more than 200 military and civilian personnel and will increase Hurlburt's $120 million payroll by $8 million in the coming fiscal year, officials said.

The 23rd Air Force has been at Scott Air Force Base near Belleville, Ill., since its formation in March 1983. Belleville is about 15 miles southeast of St. Louis, Mo.

Although the move has been under way since it was first announced in early January, it does not become official until the formal relocation ceremony scheduled for Saturday at Hurlburt Field, west of Fort Walton Beach, Fla.

The Air Force said the move was to "streamline command and control.'

quality assurance engineer in charge of project development. He said most of the $4 million additional expense of the higher priced interchange is related to the cost of the right of way.

He noted, however, that DOT would be receptive to changing its plans "if the needed right of way were provided."

McCollum reasoned that if the DOT thinks the extra right of way is expensive today, it should consider what the right of way will cost 20 years from now when all four sides of the interchange are developed with office complexes and other high-priced structures.

Traffic projections are that in 20 years the section of Lake Mary Boulevard east of I-4 will be handling 36.000 cars a day and the section of the boulevard west of the interstate would have a traffic volume of 17,000 cars daily.

Fish said the 20-year projections were based on the assumption that an expressway will have been built to 1-4 a couple mies to the north. The road east of the intertstate now accommodates about 18,000 cars a day.

That the expressway was factored into the traffic projections worries McCollum, who pridicted a "nightmare" for traffic at the interchange 20 years from now if the expressway is not built all the way to I-4. "What if the expressway isn't done in 20 ears? We've got a real mess then."

The DOT Friday sent the Federal Highway Administration the total package for the interchange, including an environmental impact report, a review of the interchange alternatives and a report on why the $7 million version is recommended. Transcripts of public hearings on the interchnage project also were sent Friday to the federal agency.

DOT project development engineer Fred Bernie said he expects the highway administration to okay the recommended interchange within the next two months. The next step will be engineering design, he said, adding he expects the engineering and right of way maps to be completed by early 1989. Construction of the approximate 20-month project according to Bernie.

Seminole County hopes to complete six miles of widening of Lake Mary Boulevard by the time the interchange opens. The widening, said McCollum, involves six- laning the boulevard from I-4 east to Rhinehart Road. a distance of about one-half mile.

to be reopened in 30 days.

Jurisdiction: Longwood.

The rest of Lake Mary Boulevard east to U.S. Highway 17-92 would be four-laned. The portion of Lake Mary Boulevard west of I-4 extending to Markham Woods Road also would be four-laned.

McCollum said the county plans to start construction of the widening from I-4 to Markham Woods Road this year and complete it by fall 1988. The rest of the work probably will not start until 1990, he sald.

The more expensive interchange alternative calls for northbound motorists on 1-4 to exit to the right, loop around the and go west on Lake Mary Boulevard, or they could exit to the right before getting to the interchange and go east on Lake Mary Boulevard. Southbound 1-4 traffic could exit to the right and go west on Lake Mary Boulevard, or go into the interchange and exit to the right. loop around and go east on Lake Mary Boulevard.

Lake Mary Boulevard traffic from the west or east could enter 1-4 going either north or south.

The alternavite endorsed by the DOT has its two cloverleafs set diagonally across the interchange. Northbound I-4 traffic would exit to the right for an east-turn on Lake Mary Boulevard and could also make a left turn there to go west. Southbound I-4 traffic would likewise exit to the right and stop at a light at Lake Mary Boulevard to turn either west or Lake Mary Boulevard traffic would be doing the looping. Going west, traffic would make a clockwise loop to the right amd get onto I-4 going south. Conversely, eastbound traffic would pass barely to the intertstate, then make a clockwise loop to head north on I-4.

From the seventh grade until she graduated from high school. Offer was a student at Crooms School. She said the junior and senior high schools at Crooms were on different sides of the school campus.

"Attending Crooms was very very interesting." Offer said. "I certainly benefited from all those years." She said she especially benefitted from the school in the areas of enrichment, such as the band and chorus.

After graduating from Crooms in 1964. Offer went on to Howard University in Washington D.C. to obtain a bachelors degree in music education. Her degree program lasted five years. "Both of my parents also attended Howard University," she said.

The only teaching job Offer could find when she got out of college was in Orange County. She started teaching second grade at Tildenville Elementary School in 1969. However, at the end of that year she said she had decided to move closer to home.

In August 1970 Offer began work as a music specialist for the Seminole County School District where she has worked ever since. During that time she has worked as a teacher, program specialist and administrator in schools all over the county. Offer said she liked moving around the school district a lot because it helped give her more experience for her

In 1973 Offer met her future husband, Ralph, an army officer stationed at the Naval Training and Equipment Center in Orlando. He is now a senior planning specialist for Martin Marietta in the same city.

Offer said she met Ralph at a wedding here in Sanford. "I was playing plano and there he was," she said. Mr. Offer said he met her over the punch bowl and they were married a couple of months later.

Mr. Offer feels his wife will make a very good principal for Goldsboro. "I think it's (becom-ing principal) super." he said. "she has worked very hard for the position and I've seen her dedication over the years." He added that he thinks Offer will do a super job as the new principal.

The Offers' have two daughters that both attend Rock Lake Middle School. Dortohy is in the sixth grade and Charlotte is in the eighth.

Offer said she wants to emphasize "excellence in education" while she's at Goldsboro.

House, Senate Face Showdown Over Federal Debt Limit Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Senate has approved a $2.8 trillion increase in the debt limit and now faces a battle with the House over the final form of a bill lawmakers hope will pump new life into efforts to balance the federal budget.

The Senate voted 54-31 in favor of its package Friday. The House passed a stripped down debt limit bill in June, and members of the two branches will begin meeting next week, probably Monday, to draw up a compromise.

They face a deadline at midnight Thursday, when the current $2.32 trillion debt ceiling drops back to $2.1

Chain Denies Anti-Israel Boycott

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's biggest grocery chain refutes $3.5 million worth of federal government charges that it joined an Arab-led boycott of larael and of businesses that deal with the Jewish state.

Safeway Stores Inc. dismissed the charges Friday as "proposterous," Safeway spokeswoman Felicia Del Campo

The Commerce Department's Office of Antiboycott Compliance accused Safeway workers in Saudi Arabia and Kuwait of refusing to deal with potential suppliers because of the Arab world's longstanding boycott against israel.

The government also claimed Friday Safeway told boycotting countries about its own and other companies' business relationships with Israel.

PTL Meets Payroll

FORT MILL, S.C. (UPI) - The debt-plagued PTL, its immediate prospects "down where the rubber hits the road," was saved by another "miracle" that allowed the television ministry to meet its $522,000 payroli.

'We're here," the Rev. Jerry Falwell, who took over PTL from disgraced founder Jim Bakker last March, exulted Friday after a surge of late contributions allowed the ministry to meet its biweekly payroll for 1,350 employees.

Falwell had told "PTL Club" show viewers this week that many PTL employees would not get paychecks unless an operating expense fund-drive goal of $1.7 million was met

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash. (UPI) - A team of divers has launched an expedition intended to salvage $1.5 million in jewels and cash encapsulated for 66 years in the iron safe of a sunken passenger ship.

The 17-member team began its effort Friday and planned to work through the weekend.

Bork's Role In 'Massacre' Questioned

By John Hanrahan WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Why

did you fire Archibald Cox?" That question, which Robert Bork was asked many times days following his firing of Cox as Watergate special prosecutor on Oct. 20, 1973, will be very much ... the public eye again in September when Bork comes up for confirmation hearings on his nomination by President Reagan to the Supreme Court.

The question still stirs strong emotions among many who were involved in that troubling episode, which critics viewed as an effort by President Nixon to thwart the investigation into the Watergate cover-up. Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., charged at the time that Nixon felt he had "a license to destroy justice in America."

As the man who did the deed for Nixon, Bork was regarded by Nixon's critics as a major villain in the affair that came to be known as the "Saturday Night Massacre."

Although Bork and his supporters have since characterized him as a reluctant participant in that episode, his critics see him as someone who behaved less than honorably in an illegal firing of Cox.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., a key member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which will consider Bork's nomination, has vowed to make the Cox firing a major area of inquiry during the hearings.

Kennedy said that Bork, in firing Cox upon orders passed through top White House aide Alexander Halg. "executed the unconscionable assignment that has become one of the darkest chapters for the rule of law in American history."

"The man who fired Archibald Cox," Kennedy continued, "does not deserve to sit on the Supreme Court of the United States.

Precipitating the chain of events that culminated in Cox's firing was Cox's refusal of Nixon's order to drop court attempts to obtain White House tape recordings of presidential con-

Bork fired Cox after Attorney publicly and privately in the General Elliot Richardson refused to do so and resigned. Then. Richardson's deputy. William Ruckelshaus, also refused to fire Cox and wrote a resignation letter, but the White House announced his firing before receiving it.

With Richardson and Ruckelshaus ousted, this left the little-known Bork, who was then the Justice Department's No. 3 man as solicitor general, next in line to be asked to fire Cox.

Bork was appointed acting attorney general and fired Cox. touching off a major political crisis and producing what Haig later termed a "firestorm" of public criticism. More than 1 million telegrams demanding Nixon's impeachment poured in to members of Congress in the 10 days following the firing.

The episode helped speed the coming of the impeachment proceedings, which forced Nixon to resign the presidency on Aug. 9.

In various forums since the firing - in a press conference and in a meeting with employees of the special prosecutor's office within a few days after the event, in press interviews over the years and in his confirmation hearing for a seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals in 1982 - Bork has defended his actions.

In that 1982 hearing, Bork, who subsequently was confirmed and has served since as an appellate judge for the District of Columbia, said that his position was different from that of Richardson and Ruckelshaus.

He said this was because they, at confirmation hearings for their Justice Department posts, had promised the Senate they would not fire Cox. Bork said that, since he was not a party to those promises, he was in a different "moral position."

Had he not fired Cox, Bork said at his confirmation hearing. and had instead resigned, "There was nobody after me in the line of succession" - which meant the White House would appoint an acting attorney gen-

Since there was no question that someone would be found to fire Cox, Bork said he decided to be the one to do it rather than risk "massive resignations from the Department of Justice."

deputies complete independence after the Cox firing, including their right to go into court to seek the White House tapes.
"Therefore," he testified, "I authorized them to do precisely

He said he had promised Cox's what they had been doing under Mr. Cox."

Bork said his action had not hampered the Watergate investigation, and had "preserved an ongoing and effective Department of Justice."

"The only thing that weighed against doing what I did." he sald, "was personal fear of the consequences, and I could not let that, I think, control my decision."

Bork's top colleagues at the time of the "Saturday Night Massacre" defend his actions. and say they do not think his firing of Cox should be an issue in considering Bork's qualifications for the Supreme Court.

Some of those who worked with Cox at the time of his firing. however, feel differently. They say the Cox firing must be heavily weighed by the Senate in determining whether to confirm Bork. They note that the firing was subsequently declared Illegal. A federal judge ruled that the regulation setting up the special prosecutor's office permitted firing of the prosecutor for serious improprieties, but that there had been no such finding in the Cox dismissal.

Cox himself takes an enigmatic position.

"I have not commented on that (the firing) and, as far as things stand now, do not intend to comment - ever." Cox said in a telephone conversation.

Cox also said he had no comment on Bork's fitness for the Supreme Court.

"I don't think it should be an issue." Bork's old boss, Richardson, said of the firing. "Robert Bork conducted himself at that time in the public interest."

Richardson said Bork believed that Nixon clearly had the right to order Cox's firing for insubordination for refusing the president's order regarding the

But, Richardson added, Bork was reluctant to stay on at the Justice Department with Richardson and Ruckelshaus having resigned on a matter of principle. He said Bork had considered firing Cox and then resigning because "he didn't want to be seen as an apparatchik" - that is. someone who was doing Nixon's bidding to save his own

"Bill Ruckelshaus and I addressed that concern and finally convinced him that he was needed in the role of acting attorney general." Richardson said. "His being on board as acting attorney general, and seeing that a new special prosecutor (Leon Jaworski) was appointed, and that the effort to obtain the tapes continued. made a significant contribution to the public interest."

Richardson said it was proper for the Senate confirmation hearings to "establish the facts" about Bork's role in the "Saturday Night Massacre," but that these facts would clearly show it was not a legitimate issue to keep him off the court.

President Promises To Break Silence On Scandal In August Speech

By Helen Thomas UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan said Friday he "hasn't heard a single word" of testimony in the Iran-Contra hearings to indicate that laws were broken.

Reagan broke his self-imposed stience on the congressional investigation into the scandal during a picture-taking session with visiting President Omar Bongo of Gabon, and told reporters that he intends to deal with the "whole affair when the hearings are over."

After almost 11 weeks of hearings and nine months of scandal clouds hanging over the White House, Reagan appeared ready to exonerate former aides of wrongdoing but sidestepped a direct question on whether he would grant pardons to ousted national security aides Lt. Col. Oliver North and Adm. John Poindexter.

Lawyers for both men have said they are targets of a special prosecutor's investigation.

"I am going to speak out on that whole subject - the subject of this whole affair - when the

"You know, I don't take questions at these photo opportunities," he said, "but when you ask a question like that, I haven't heard a single word that indicated in any of the testimony that laws

a major speech in early August and announce his plan to campaign for an increase in aid for the Nicaraguan rebels, aides said.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said that no date has been set for the address. However, it is expected to be nationally televised and delivered from the Oval Office, probably during the week starting Aug. 9 and before he departs on a 25-day California vacation on Aug.

Fitzwater also made it clear Reagan does not intend to have a news conference before the fall to clear up some of the contradictions and unanswered questions concerning his role.

"I don't know," he said when asked whether the president will address some of the key points in the hearings.

"He'il have plenty to say when the hearings are over," he said.

Fitzwater said that Reagan, who has largely kept quiet as his current and former advisers trooped to Capitol Hill, "wants to voice his opinion on some of the things that have

Some of the things he has heard have been hard to digest," Fitzwater said, "adding he feels it's important to give some of his feelings on the hearings and the whole episode." The president has watched enough to see his top advisers taking the witness stand and revealing their own views of his style of operation and his preoccupation with the fate of the hostages as well as efforts to maintain the Contras as a viable anti-Sandinista force when Congress cut off aid.

Reagan is "eager to move on," Fitzwater said, hoping that by September he will be able to focus on rosy prospects for a superpower arms agreement and domestic issues.

He has spoken out only a few times on the scandal that engulfed his presidency, and has revised his early stalements on the secret arms-for-hostages dealings. But mainly he has refused to comment, saying he will "shout from the roof top" when the hearings are over.

It has never been Reagan's intention to ease up on arms support of the Contras, despite the revelations in the scandal and the profiteering from the arms sales.

Rather than be thwarted by the byzantine disclosures, the hearings have inspired Reagan to ask for even more support for the Contras than the $105 million earmarked in the 1988 fiscal

Laszaic Leads District 14 To Section Title

By Scott Sander Herald Sports Writer

WINTER GARDEN - After Thursday night's loss to Jacksonville in the Section I Big League Baseball Tournament, District 14 Nationals manager Gene Letterio huddled his team together.

Letterio said that Anthony Laszaic would be pitching in Friday night's championship game. "That's why I haven't pitched you yet," Letterlo said to Laszaic, who suddenly had a gleam in his eyes. "If anybody deserves to pitch in this game.

Apparently, Letterio's little speech fired up Laszaic as the strong right-hander fired a three-hitter, and helped himself with a two-run homer, as the Nationals captured the sectional championship in convincing fashion as they shackled Jacksonville, 10-3, before 117 fans at Winter Garden.

"You have to give credit where credit is due, and Anthony deserves a heck of a lot of it." Letterio said. "We really came together as a team tonight. This was a really big win in a lot of ways."

After giving up a first inning homer, Laszaic retired 19 out of the final 21 batters. The University of Central Florida bound Laszaic fanned 10 while walking only two. "This was probably one of the best games that I've ever pitched," Laszaic said. "I can't tell you how pumped up I was. This win has given all of us a lot of confidence."

Letterio said that he had a feeeling that Laszaic would perform well. "At batting practice today we got all of the pitchers ready, but I had a gut feeling that Anthony would do the job," Letterio said. "Anthony stepped forward and showed that right now, he is the ace of our staff."

The victory advances the Nationals into the State Tournament which will begin in Dunedin on Monday. The Nationals opponent has not been determined as of yet.

"We needed a good all-around effort tonight."

Letterio said. "Everybody played with a lot of intensity tonight, and we proved that we can win a big game.'

After being one-hit on Thursday night, the Nationals bats came to life as they pounded out eight hits. The Martinez brothers Eric and Ernest- the offense as Eric went 2 for 3 with a three-run homer, and 3 RBI. Ernest, meanwhile, had a fine night as well as he went 2 for 4 with 2 RBI and a two-run dinger.

"I think that we are coming together, and becoming more like a family." Eric, who hit three homers in the tournament, said. "After losing yesterday, we were all fired up tonight.

Ryan Lisle, Glenn Reichle, and Mike Schmit accounted for other Nationals hits.

After committing eight errors in their first two games, the Nationals may have found the proper defensive formula as they played error-free baseball. "We made a few changes, and I think that they worked out pretty well," Letterio said. "I don't know if I'll stick with all of them. We'll just have to see how things go."

One change that Letterio made was moving

Ernest from second-base to his natrual position. third-base. "I'm a lot more comfortable over there," Ernest said. "Our defense was a lot stronger tonight, and we need to keep playing good defense if we expect to go very far.'

Letterio moved Schmit to left-field, and inserted Kelly Hysell into the lineup at second. Lisle handled the catching duties while Russ Adler and Mark Coffey split time in center.

It isn't often that the outcome of a game can basicly be dictated on the the first three pitches of the game, but after Jacksonville pitcher Travis Jolley threw only three pitches, the outcome was Lisie led off the game and slapped the first pitch into left for a single. Ernest follwed by clubbing the second pitch to center for a single. Eric then smashed the third pitch well over the right-field fence for a three-run shot. After Schmit walked, Laszaic cracked a two-run homer to left, giving the Nationals a very quick lead.

"Talk about coming out swinging." Letterio;

Beams Has Strong Desire To Succeed

By Scott Sander Herald Sports Writer

SARASOTA - When Mike Beams was playing center field for Lake Brantley's baseball team two years ago. It was evident that he had a strong desire to play professional baseball. It is a dream that most young men have, but seldom achieve.

As it turned out, Beams got his chance to play in the big leagues and he is currently in his second season with the Houston Astros in Sarasota's Gulf Coast League.

Beams said that he is truly enjoying himself. "It's a real good time," Beams, who is hitting .285 this season, said. "Last season, I didn't really know what to expect. Now I do."

season and hit .210. But this season. Beams has landed a starting job at third base, a a kid be the best at one level position that he is not accustomed to. "I like third, there higher level. is a lot of action out there," the 19-year-old Beams said. "I could practically fall asleep in center, frustrating to a player." Beams its a tough position, but I've said. "But in the long run. Its always liked challenges." Beams has looked good at the plate as he has cracked a homer and has 11 RBI so far. "I'm swinging the bat pretty well," Beams said. "You have to make a lot of adjustments as a hitter up here. The pitching is pretty Beams said that playing baseball is fun, but he still considers it to be a job. "You have to look at it that way," Beams said. "You're out there eight hours a day, and your getting paid. Of course it's a job."

Beams said that playing every day can get tedious after awhile. "It's the same routine every day," Beams said. "Don't get me wrong, I like what I'm doing, but it can kind of get you down sometimes.'

Houston manager Julio Linares, who has coached in the Astros' organization for 14 seasons, said that Beams is slowly getting better. "Mike is working hard and I'd say that he has improved since last season." Linares, who played in the Minor Leagues for 17 years, said. "He'll do anything you ask him to. He's very serious about his job."

Baseball

Beams is renting an apartment with a teammate. "It's a lot better than living in the dorms." Beams said. "You have a lot more freedom, and you're not stuck there."

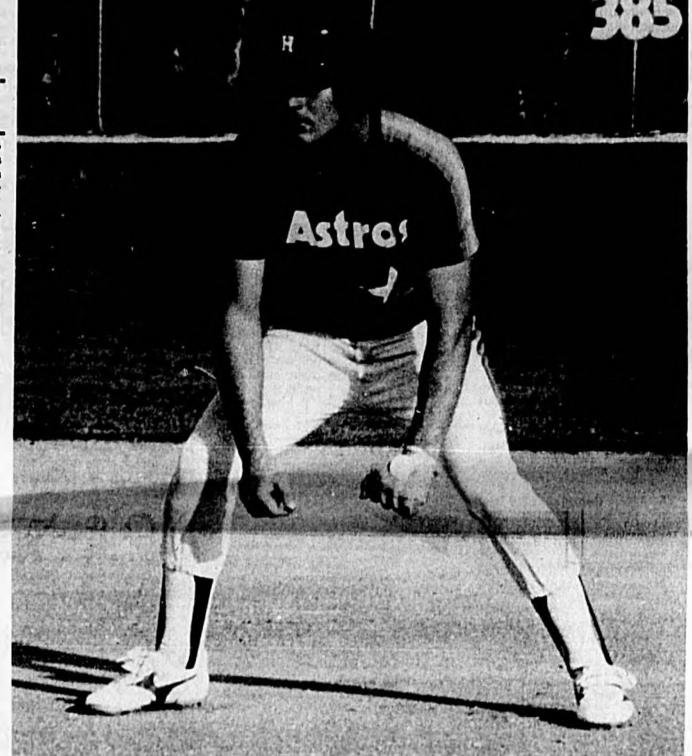

Beams went on to say that he is particularly fond of the now what to expect. Now I do." Houston organization. "They Beams played sparingly last treat their players really well." Beams said. "They have a philosophy. They would rather have than have him be the worst at a

"They won't move a player up too quickly, and that can be probably better that way. They want to make sure that you are ready.

Beams said that most of the players on his team are older than he is. "A lot of them have played at four-year colleges," Beams said. "And some of the Dominicans are in their mid 20's. I have an advantage because I am younger."

Beams was a "pull" hitter at Lake Brantley. Linares said that he is teaching Beams to use the entire field. "If Mike learns how to use the field, it will be great for him," Linares said. "He has a lot of power, and we are teaching him how to use it."

Linares went on to say that biggest problem with young players is consistency. "It's tough to keep these kids from getting upset if they have bad game," Linares said. "Once they establish their consistency, they

"All I wanted to do is make the cut." Zoeller said after firing a near perfect six-under 66 Friday with six birdies and no bogies at Colonial Country Club. "I wanted them to know I'm still around and can play once in a while. All you want is a chance to get to the weekends to see if you can choke."

Zoeller, whose best finish this year was a third place tie in the 27-year-old native of South Jan. 25 Phoenix Open and has Africa who now lives in Dallas. missed the cut in five of 16 tournaments, now has that

Ahead of Zoeller are two players looking for their first tour victory. Dodds, whose best finish was an eighth-place tie in last week's Butck Open, has sole scoring a 5-under 67 to go 9-under for the tournament. Andy Dillard, who has only one three years on the tour, was one stroke back after shooting a 69 Friday.

Zoeller, who is coupled with Memorial winner Don Pooley at 7-under, admitted his experience was an advantage, but said the of 69. leaders were still formidable.

Golf

"Those guys put their pants on the same way I do," said the 35-year-old $2 million-plus money winner. "They have their names on their bags because they deserve to be here and can play good golf."

Dodds had not playing good golf until a few weeks ago, but work on his swing boosted him last week to his first top 10 finish in two years on the tour.

"I've struggled quite a while with my game," said Dodds, a "I've been working on my swing so hard, and now that I've done that, I can work on my score. (Last week's play) carried over."

Dodds, who notched six birdies and only one bogey Friday, started the day two strokes off the lead after posting possession of the lead after a 68 Thursday on the 7,282-yard course, par.72 course, the longest of the tour.

Dillard, a 25-year-old native of top 10 finish to his credit in Tyler, Texas, started the day one stroke back after posting a 67 Thursday. He began his second round with a double-bogey on his second hole, but came back with five birdles and 11 more pars for a 3-under second round

Curtis Strange, Mike Mc-

Cullough, Jay Don Blake and Mike Bender were grouped at 6-under, three strokes off the Russ Cochran, the left-hander from Paducah, Ky., who held a one-stroke first round advantage, scored four bogeys and three birdies to go 5-under for the tournament.

JOHNBON LEADS LPGA

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. (UPI) -Chris Johnson says griping at her caddy helped her recover sufficiently from back-to-back bogeys to maintain a one-stroke lead at the halfway point of the LPGA Columbia Savings National Pro-Am.

"You don't need to show a lot of emotion out there, but you need to get rid of it some way," sald Johnson, after posting a 1-under 71 Friday at Lone Tree Country Club for a two-day total of 137. "I just crabbed at my caddy all the way up the fairway. It wasn't directed at him, I just had to get rid of my frustrations."

Johnson regained her composure with pars at the next four holes, and then dropped a sixfoot birdie putt on her last hole to end the day in a positive manner.

"I finished on an up note, so I feel good about going into tomorrow," said Johnson, who turned in a sizzling 66 at Meridian on Thursday.

Tyson Takes On Tucker

LAS VEGAS. Nev. (UPI) -Mike Tyson says there is no way he can lose tonight's heavyweight unification fight against Tony Tucker but wants others to believe differently.

Tyson has been building his opponent up in weeks leading up to the bout. As a 12-1 favorite, Tyson finds few people who think he has his hands full.

"You think he's an easy opponent?" Tyson asked a reporter. "You want to fight him?

"Tucker showed he's a champion by coming back to win the title (May 30 against Buster Douglas).

Tyson, the World Boxing council and World Boxing Association champion, is 30-0 with 27 knockouts. Tucker is 35-0 with 30 knockouts and the International Boxing Federation

At 6-foot-5 with a 81 1-2-inch is seven inch taller than Tyson with a 10 weighed 221 at Friday's weigh-in.

Tucker admitted he looked bad in winning the vacant IBF title against Douglas, who was ahead before running out of gas. Tyson stopped Pinklon Thomas in six rounds on the same card.

"Whatever Tucker looked like against Douglas, when he fights me, he's going to be hyped up." said Tyson, who at 21 is the youngest heavyweight champion in history.

Tyson, of Catskill, N.Y., doesn't think enough of Tucker to have any doubts about winn-

"I'm going to win the fight." he said. "If I do my best, it's a foregone conclusion."

Tucker, a 28-year-old Grand Rapids, Mich., native who lives in Houston, has other problems besides Tyson.

Tucker must place $540,000 of his purse in escrow after Dennis Rappaport obtained a writ of attachment. Rappaport owns 21 percent of Tucker's contract, but the fighter claims he has never done anything to aid his career.

After Tucker pays all his managerial, and promotional fees plus training expenses and taxes he will have about $80,000 left of his $1.9 million purse.

He can still get some or all of the money placed in escrow pending a hearing to determine how much Rappaport is entitled. Tyson will earn about $2.5 million. "He's an ordinary fighter," Tucker said of Tyson. "He's predictable. I'm a different fighter than all the guys he's fought. I'm versatile. He hasn't fought anybody like me." The winner will be the first man to hold all heavyweight titles since Leon Spinks in 1978. However, Michael Spinks still claims to be a champion although he was stripped of his IBF title. The bout was cut from 15 rounds to 12 Friday after heads the of three governing bodies met. WBC rules call for 12-round title bouts. WBA and IBF championship fights are 15 rounds. Afterward, the winner will be crowned in what promoter Don King calls a "thronization." King said the champion will sit on a throne and be presented with a crown, $250,000 chinchilla robe and jewel scepter.

The royal treatment doesn't impress Tyson.

"If the chinchilla and crown are worth so much. I'll give it to charity," he said.

Sanford's Tom Robare strikes a pose during the Central Florida Bodybuilding Championships in which he finished in second position in the lightweight division.

Ward Boosts Yankees

United Press International

Detroit reliever Mike Henneman knew he would eventually suffer his first majorleague loss. Gary Ward came to bat in the ninth Friday night and unexpectedly handed it to him.

Ward sliced a two-run homer with one out in the ninth inning into the right sield seats off Henneman to lift the Yankees to their fifth consecutive victory, a 6-5 triumph over Detroit.

Henneman suffered his first loss of the year after eight victories. It also was Henneman's first career defeat.

"I was trying to go to right field, that was the only way I could get it out," said Ward. "If I pulled it, it goes to second base or maybe left field for an out.

"I like a pitch down. I'm a lowball hitter, and that's what he gave me. I don't hit the ball up that well."

Henneman, who said he was told to keep the ball down, was understanding about the loss.

"Well, I knew I had to lose eventually." Henneman said, "but this is not the way I thought it would happen."

After Tom Brookens' two-run home run off Dave Righetti gave the Tigers a 5.4 lead in the eighth, pinch-hitter Henry Cotto opened the ninth with a walk off reliever Willie Hernandez, Henneman relieved and Mike Pagliarulo sacrificed.

Ward drove a 1-1 pitch to the opposite field and over the right-field wall for his 12th homer of the season and first at home since June 13, making a winner of Righetti, 6-3.

"What a clutch home run," New York Manager Lou Pintella said. "Ward has done it all year for us. He's a good RBI man, which is why I had Pagliarulo sacrifice when Cotto walked."

Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson was not as pleased about the outcome.

"Ward always hits pretty well against us," said Anderson. This was a super baseball game, too bad the bad guys won.

The Tigers had take a 5-4 lead in the eighth on Tom Brookens' eighth home run of the season, a two-run shot into the lower left-field stands.

The first place Yankees lead the Toronto Blue Jays by 2 1-2 games.

Cincinnati Walks Past Giants, 9-2

United Press International

Jeff Robinson's failure to hit the strike zone moved San Francisco farther from striking distance in the National League

Robinson walked in two runs Friday night, helping the Cincinnati Reds raise their division lead to three games with a 9-2 rout of the Glants.

"I don't know what Robinson's problem was," San Franciso Manager Roger Craig said. "Maybe it was inactivity. He hadn't pitched in three days. Maybe he was trying to guide the ball instead of just throw it. He's usually successful when they swing, but they didn't swing."

Ron Robinson, 4-3, surrendered six hits and two runs over six innings for the victory. Frank Williams and Rob Murphy combined to finish. Dave Dravecky, 5-9, took the loss. San Francisco entered the game two games behind the Reds and fell three back.

Trailing 2-1, the Reds scored three times in the sixth. Davis singled and stole second. Tracy Jones walked and Bo Diaz singled home Davis. Nick Esasky walked to load the bases and Robinson entered. He walked Dave Concepcion on four pitches then walked pinch-hitter Terry Francona on five.

"This was an important game," said Cincinnati manager Pete Rose. "Now we've got to keep the pressure on the rest of the series."

"If we win Saturday," noted Cincinnati outsielder Dave Parker, "then the pressure will really be on the Giants. What we really want to do this weekend is win all three games."

"The only problem," added Tracy Jones, "is that we've won the first game of a lot of series, but wound up losing the next two. We've got to start putting some things together."

IN BRIEF

Evans Cracks Two Records, Dominates At Long Course

CLOVIS. Calif. (UPI) - Janet Evans, a 92-pounder from Placentia, Calif., dominated the U.S. Swimming Long Course National Championships, cracking two world records and capturing two other events.

The crowd stood and roared through the final laps as she swam the 1,500 meters in 16:00.73 Friday to blast the record of 16:04.49 set by Kim Linehan of Sarasota, Fla., in Evans was not pushed in the race. Kim Brown of Boca Raton, Fla., was a distant second at 16:19.59.

That led swim star Pablo Morales of Santa Clara, Calif., and Stanford to predict great things for the 1988 U.S.

Olympic tearn. "U.S. swimming is definitely on the right direction." said Morales. "Young people are coming fast out of nowhere."

Morales fell short of expectations, taking only one first the 100-meter breaststroke in 53.74 seconds, almost a second off his own world record.

His fellow Stanford swimmer, Jay Mortenson, noted that Morales had hit the books extra hard this spring to get out of Stanford in only 3 1-2 years so he could turn his full attention to swimming through the 1988 Olympics.

LSU Probation Ends September

BATON ROUGE. La. (UPI) - The probation periods given the Louisiana State football and men's basketball teams will expire in September as scheduled, an NCAA enforcement official said Thursday.

The LSU football program's one-year probation would not be extended past the Sept. 18 expiration date and the men's basketball probationary period, which ran concurrent with the football program's, also will expire that date, said David Didion, an assistant director of enforcement. Last year, the NCAA found the men's basketball program guilty of nine violations. Some of the charges involved Coach Dale Brown's recruitment of Tito Horford, a 7-foot-1 center who was ruled ineligible to play for Houston and left

LSU before ever playing a game. As a result of the NCAA investigation, the men's basketball program will be limited to 13 grants-in-aid instead of the regular 15 for the 1987-88 academic year. The infractions were the result of the NCAA probe and subsequent one-year probation of LSU's football program. The NCAA's Committee on Infractions also had ruled no new men's basketball recruits would be allowed to sign letters of intent this spring.

Louganis Notches 42nd Title

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (UPI) - Greg Louganis changed his diving strategy from cautious to aggressive to notch his 42nd national title, a championship which had been eluding him for more than a year.

Louganis came from behind Friday in the 3-meter springboard to defeat teammates Kent Ferguson and Doug

In the women's 3-meter, 1984 Olympic silver medalist Kelly McCormick captured her eighth U.S. title by defeating Megan Neyer, 552.39-544.29. McCormick, the 1983 Pan American gold meadalist in the event, made the 1987 Pan Am team, as did Neyer.

Louganis also earned a berth on the Pan American team and his 42nd national title, a mark he had been trying to reach since last April when he was shut out of three titles at the U.S. indoor. His last national title came at the 1986 outdoor championships.

'I was beginning to think I was stuck at 41." Louganis said. "It has been a while since I've won one. I'm glad to Jolley took the loss for Jacksonville. Mike Lee, Ron Creel, and Mark Duncan all relieved Jolley.

Jacksonville scored its only runs in the bottom of the first. Afte a walk and a single put runners on first and second, LaWhit Lizzmore lined a three-run dinger to right. "It was a hanging slider," Laszaic siad. "He hit it real well."

The Nationals legthened their lead in the fourth with a five-run rally. After Lisle walked, Ernest took a high fastball over the second fence in left. Eric followed with a single off the right-field wall. Schmit then cracked a single to right, moving Eric to third. Reichle follwed with an RBI single to left. Schmit scored and Reichle went to third on a wild pickoff attempt. After Laszate drew a walk. Coffey grounded out, scoring Reichle.

'We still have got a lot of work to do," Letterio said. "But I think that this game has made us closer. It's tough to become a true team in a week or two, but we are getting there."

Linares said that he feels the GCL is the best league for a young player to play in. "When you sign a young kid, this is the place to send him," Linares said, "They will learn more here than anywhere. Mike is coming along very well.'

Beams said that he likes his life. "I've always loved baseball. When I was at Brantley, I quit the football team so I wouldn't jeopordize my baseball career." Beams said. "I took a lot of slack at that time, but I feel I made the right choice. I'm really having fun here."

Grover Rolls 656 Series, Brown

Len Grover of the Willett Oldsmobile-Cadillac league was high bowler for the week with a 656 series. Len had games of 207, 226 and 223 to comprise his series. On the same league. Ernie Brown rolled a 654 series. Excellent bowling guys. Gary Andrews, also of the Willett Oldsmobile-Cadillac league, had high game for the week with a nice 274.

High series for youth bowlers this week was a 643 rolled by Jimmy Roche. Jimmy rolled games of 215, 203 and 225. Great bowling Jimmy!

While we had numerous other 600 series it's always great when someone rolls their first 600 and on the Sea Escape league last Sunday night, Bud Harris did just that as he put together games of 215 and 224 for a 612 series. Way to go Bud.

We have over 40 entries in our Summer Tune-up Tournament which ends Aug. 16. Come on in and bowl for the cash. You bowl 4 games of no-tap and get a free game pass for $7. So it's really a good deal and only Sanford winter and summer league bowlers are eligible to bowl in it.

Over 80 bowlers enjoyed Moonlight last week and the pots are up to $150 1st game.

Moonlight starts at 9:30 p.m. tonight - be early.

Selecting Fly Reel For Ocean Fishing

United Press International

Having arranged for another fly rodding expedition to the Gulf Stream this summer, 1 covetously fondled a premiumgrade saltwater fly reel the other day. It was at a tackle show where poor folks get vicarious thrills by handling luxury stuff they can't afford.

Such was this $365 fly reel designed for the most powerful fish a fly rodder can reasonably expect to catch in the ocean. tackle busters like tarpon, sailfish, marlin, tuna and sharks.

This beauty was machined out of solid aluminum stock anodized a rich flat black with the logo and serial number engraved in white - a mechanical jewel that even smelled good. I tightened the chrome-plated Outdoors drag nut and felt the steady. undeviating resistance when I turned the spool as if a fish were running off line. Then I tested its free-wheeling precision, spinning the spool in the opposite direction and watching it revolve effortlessly, silently and seemingly interminably on its ball bearings.

It was the epitome of straightforward elegance. Its $365 price was, truth be told, moderate for its class, for some of its competitors will set you back about $500.

But, alas, it was not for me. My infrequent trips to the blue water simply do not justify such an relatively cheap but mostly adequate reels when I set out across the Atlantic continential shelf every now and then for dolphin (the fish, not the porpoise) and whatever targets of opportunity I

Popularity of marine fly rodding has been increasing for many years, as the proliferation of costly saltwater fly reels will attest. But many anglers, while going after inshore species with what amounts to heavy freshwater tackle, shy away from bigger offshore fish because they think they must part with $300 to $500 for a suitable reel.

If you are one of these, take heart. If you are hankering to sail over the horizon with a No. 12 fly rod and a supply of 8-inch streamers and fist-sized investment. I must make do with Styrofoam poppers, a fly tackle catalog or two can point you toward perhaps a half dozen models priced under $100.

Some of these reels may lack. overall strength and adequates drags for big game fish such as tarpon, sailfish and marlin, and be marginal for lesser stuff like amberjack and wahoo - but so what? The worst can happen isthat you will lose the fish and maybe some tackle.

What it boils down to is this: A: person does not take a fly rod to the open ocean to load his boat' with fish. If he did, he would take regulation troiling tackle or a net.

Rather, he goes to have fun fighting fish on light tackle. So if the fish wins more often than not, who cares? The fun is still there no matter whether the reel costs $100 or $500.

Connors, Lendl Clash In Semis

WASHINGTON (UPI) -Jimmy Connors seeks to snap a three-year, 11-match losing streak to Ivan Lendl today when the two veterans clash for the think we are going to surprise 30th time in the semilinais of the D.C. National Tennis Classic.

Jimmy Arias won his first career set from Lendl Friday night, but the world's No. 1 player won his fifth straight match from the seventh-seeded Arlas, of Jericho, N.Y., 6-3, 4-6, Meanwhile, Connors fought 104-degree afternoon court temperatures in a grueling 6-3, 2-6. 6-2 victory over Todd Witsken. of Carmel, Ind. Connors, 34, the third seed, needed two hours, 22 minutes to get past Witsken, 23, who knocked him out of last year's U.S. Open in the third round.

The other semifinal in the $293,400 Grand Prix event pits West Germany's Boris Becker, the second seed, against Brad Gilbert, the fourth seed.

The second seeded Becker, of West Germany, never lost his serve in downing No. 8 seed Jay Berger, of Plantation, Fla., 6-3, 6-2. Gilbert, of Piedmont. Calif., downed Marty Davis, 6-4, 6-4. Gilbert has won all seven matches with Davis.

It marks the first time in the 19-year history of the tournament that the top four seeds all advanced to the semifinals.

"You always get more pumped up playing one of the top guys and playing someone you have been playing since 1979," said Lendl, who has struggled in his three matches here. "I don't first game of the third set, but since the final of the 1984 Tokyo Indoor - ironically the 34-year-old Connors' last career tournament title.

But Connors has given Lendl his lumps, beating him twice in the finals of the U.S. Open and once in Davis Cup play.

"Obviously, he must be playing quite well again and I'm improving everyday." said Lendl. "It should be fun." Lendl, the Czechoslovakian who has lived in Greenwhich. Conn., since 1981, has won all five career meetings with Arias and had won 10 straight sets before the second set loss.

Lendl also had beaten Arias in straight sets in the finals of an exhibition tournament in Stow, Vermont last weekend.

Lendl, playing primarily from the baseline, breezed in the first set, not allowing any points in his first three services games, and was up a break at 4-3 in the second set before Arias posted consecutive breaks in the eighth and 10th games, winning the set with a backhand passing shot.

"That was encouraging to me. but I wanted to get the first match from him in Grand Prix," Arias said. "But he's got that bomb serve that's too tough for

Connors, energetic in the first set, was slowed by the heat beating off the hard surface in the second and third sets and had to summon all the resources left in his 34-year-old body to gain the critical break in the fifth game of the final set against the world's No. 73 player.

Amazingly, there was once a proathlete who was a sensational rookle In BOTH major league baseball AND the National Football League in THE SAME YEAR...Ace Parker came off the Duke campus in 1937 and immediately won a job as a shortstop in big league baseball...He got off to a great start, hitting a homer the first time he batted in the majors...Then, later that season, Parker left baseball to try out as a quarterback in the NFL-and all of a sudden he became one of the great quarterbacks in NFL history...He was so good, in fact, that he was elected to the pro football Hall of Fame in 1972!.

Of all the current head coaches in the National Football League, which one do you think has the best career vinning percentage?...Answer is Joe Gibbs of the Washington Redskins...Going into the 1987 season, Gibbs has won 71% of all his games, to rank first.

Here's one of the most incredible ecords in sports...The New York Yankees won the American League pennant in 1949, '50, '51, '52, '53, '55, '56, '57, '58, '60, '61, '62, '63 and '64...The won the pennant 14 TIMES in those 16 years from 1949 through 1964!

Preseason: Howell 9th Brantley 10

One thing has remained constant in Seminole County girls cross country the past four years. Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks have dominated the area and been in the top four in the state in all four seasons.

If the 1987 Pre-Season Class 4A State Rankings hold true, however. Lake Howell may not keep its string of top-four finishes going. And, if the promising Lake Brantley team comes around, Lake Howell could even be challenged for top honors in the county.

Lake Howell, 4A State Champions in 1986, lost its top three runners from last year to graduation but still returns four of its top seven and has a fine crop of junior varsity runners ready to fill in. In the preseason rankings. the Lady Silver Hawks are in the ninth position.

The graduates from last year's squad, Lisa Samocki, Martha Fonseca and Mary Fonseca, were all integral members of coach Tom Hammontree's team for four years. Samocki, who received a full athletic scholarship to Florida State University, was all-state the last two seasons.

Returning runners for the Lady Hawks include senior Bonnie Oliver and Juniors Jenny Bolt, Tammy Bolt and Michelle

Lake Brantley hopes to make its move this season with all of its top seven returning. The Lady Patriots are ranked 10th in the state in the preseason poll.

Leading the way for Brantley are Heather Camino, Kristen Longmire, Karen Kopp, Mindy Olinger and Lisa Frizzell. Lake yards last season and 19 Brantley was ranked in the state last year but did not qualify for the state meet.

Largo, which finished second Win, lose & DREW in the state last year, is odds on favorite to win it all in 1987 with fixe of its top seven returning. beading the way to Mylan Moffet. last year's state individual champion, and Jenni Soles, third in last year's meet.

Following Largo in the top five in the preseason are Brandon. Pensacola Washington. Clearwater Countryside and Boca Raton Spanish River. The second five include Palm Bay, Coral Springs Taravella. Jacksonville Wolfson, Lake Howell and Lake Brantley.

The top 10 individuals in the preseason poll are Largo's Moffat and Soles in first and second followed by Washington's Renee Cork, Brandon's Sherry Driggers, Countryside's Margaret Weber, Coral Springs' Buffy Bruns, Taravella's Mariana Valenzuela, Tampa Leto's Teresa Smith, Spanish River's Cassandra Henkiel and Coral Gables' Pllar Bretos.

The annual DeLand Full Moon Frolic eight-mile road race will be held Saturday, Aug. 8 beginning at 6:45 p.m. at the newly constructed sports complex on Marsh Road.

Entry fee is $5 before Aug. 3 without t-shirt, $8 before Aug. 3 with t-shirt, $7 after Aug. 3 without t-shirt and $10 after Aug. 3 with t-shirt. Awards will be given to the overall winners and the top three in each age group. There will also be a four-mile, half-moon race.

Several Seminole County products have excelled at the Full Moon Frolic in past years. The overall female record holder for the eight-mile run is Lake Mary High graduate Jill Buddenhagen who set the record in 1985 with a time of 53:37. The overall male record holder is John Mirth of Orlando with a

. The summer accolades continue to roll in for Seminole County athletes as three girls basketball players were selected to all-star teams at the prestigious BC Basketball Camp at Carnesville, Ga.

Lake Howell's Kelley Grider was selected to the Second Team all-star squad while Lake Howell's Tammy Lewis and Oviedo's Suzanne Hughes were Third Team selections. Grider and Lewis will be seniors this school year while Hughes will be a junior.

The invitation-only camp, which concluded last week, was composed of more than 260 campers from around the nation.

Media: LSU Will Win SEC In '87, Gators 7th

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) - There's a feeling that Alabama won't be a college football superpower in its first season of the Bill Curry era.

The more than 100 sportswriters and sportscasters attending a four-day Southeastern Conference pre-season football meeting predicted Friday the Crimson Tide, ranked No. 9 nationally last year, will wind up sixth in the 10-member SEC.

In their prediction on how the final SEC standings will stack up, the media picked Louisiana State, Auburn, Ole Miss. Georgia, and Tennessee ahead of Alabama. The four picked lower than the Crimson Tide were Florida, Kentucky, Vanderbilt and Mississippi State.

"That doesn't surprise me, although, of course, I hope they're wrong," said Curry, who switched from Georgia Tech to Alabama in January as successor to Ray Perkins when Perkins, former New York Giants coach, returned to the NFL as coach of the Tampa Bay Bucs.

There is a different attitude at Alabama at the moment. Time was when the Crimson Tide cringed at the thought of losing one or two games.

Football

Friday, senior offensive lineman Bill Condon looked at Alabama's '27 schedule and saic, "I'd say were going to win eight games, at least."

That schedule includes defending national champion Penn State, Notre Dame and three of the SEC teams - LSU. Auburn and Tennessee - picked to finish ahead of Alabama in the confer-

Even though we are inexperienced on defense and breaking in a new quarterback (to replace Mike Shula), we do have talent," said Curry. "We just have to develop it."

"Losing eight defensive starters isn't as serious as it appears," said junior safety Kermit Kendrick, one of the three returning defensive starters. "The only difference between them and their replacements is experience. The guys who will be taking their place have just as much talent."

"You don't convince football people with anything but football. Curry said.

"Who cares what you say? When I went back to Georgia Tech, I was told I'd never win - and those were my friends.

Some Alabama followers expressed displeasure when Curry, who did not have either an Alabama background or a winning record, was named Crimson Tide coach.

But Curry said that appears to have died down, at least for the moment.

"I've been received very well overall, but let's not kid ourselves," he said. "Acceptance goes with winning games."

"If the alumni loves us and we don't get the job done, we all know what is going to happen. If the alumni hates us and we get the job done we all know what is going to happen. You have to win. No one does it with his mouth."

The media also took a stab Friday at predicting which players would make the 1987 all-Southeastern Conference team. Their choices:

Offense-Quarterback Kerwin Bell of Florida: running backs Bobby Humphrey of Alabama and Lars Tate of Georgia: wide receivers Wendell Davis of LSU and J. R. Ambrose of Ole Miss: tight end Brian Kinchen of LSU: linemen Eric Andolsek of LSU. Stacy Searels of Auburn, David Williams of Florida, and Harry Galbreath of Tennessee; and center Nacho Abergamo of LSU.

Defense- Linemen Tracy Rocker and Benji Roland of Auburn and Wesley Walls of Ole Miss; outside linebackers Clifford Chariton of Florida and Aundray Bruce of Auburn; inside linebackers Jeff Herod of Ole Miss and John Brantley of Georgia: and backs Kevin Porter of Auburn, James Williams of Florida, Kermit Kendrick of Alabama and Chris Carrier of LSU.

They also predicted Joe Worley of Kentucky and Brian Shulman of Auburn would be the all-SEC placekicker and punter respectively.

Curry had a prediction of his own Friday. "Bobby Humphrey (a 187-pound junior who rushed for an Alabama-record 1.471 yards last season). In my opinion, is a legitimate Heisman candidate," said Curry. "But he says he is not interested in individual awards but in championship rings."

Gladiators Play Dynamite In Inaugural ArenaBowl

PITTSBURGH (UPI) - The Denver Dynamite play the Pittsburgh Gladiators Saturday night in ArenaBowl '87, the Arena Football League's first championship game. Denver and Pittsburgh tied for first place in the league's preview regular season with 4-2 records. Pittsburgh, which lost its last two games, was awarded the home field advantage for the championship game because of a higher total attendance for three home games during the regular season.

The Gladiators will start Mike Hohensee at quarterback. Hohensee was the starter in Pittsburgh's first two games but missed the last four after undergoing surgery for torn ligaments in his left knee. He previously played in the

U.S. Football League and the Canadian Football League. Pittsburgh won its first two games under backup Brendan Folmar, but lost the last two, including a 32-31 defeat to Denver. Folmar is bothered by a sprained left ankle.

"He was our starter, he's healthy and he's the guy we want in there." Pittsburgh Coach Joe Haering said of Hohensee. "We have no problems with Brendan. If Hohensee can't do anything and we need momemtum, we'll put Folmar in. We think Hohensee is the No. 1 quarterback in the league and Folmar is No. 2."

League officials have added an extra official on the field and two observers in the press box for the championship game as a result of Denver's victory over Pittsburgh. Haering accused Denver of free substitution, playing zone defense and blitzing a linebacker on a play that resulted in a Dynamite touchdown, all of which are illegal under league rules.

"This is a preview season and three officials have not been able to keep pace with the game," said league President Jim Foster.

Denver Coach Tim Marcum has denied his players broke the rules.

Some of the ligaments in Dallas Cowboys quarterback Danny White's right wrist disintegrated while he recuperated from a 1986 injury, but the Cowboys' trainer said it would take surgery to determine if White has any ligaments re-

White missed the last half of the 1986 season when he was sacked by New York Giants linebacker Carl Banks. Doctors later determined he also suffered several torn ligaments in the wrist.

ROCHESTER, Mich. (UPI) -Darryl Rogers called this year's crop of draft choices is the best in his three years as head coach of the Detroit Lions.

Rogers made the assessment after Lions rookles and free agents completed their fifth day of workouts at the team's Oakland University training

"We got some people who are going to help this football team and not just the No. 1 pick," Rogers said. "We got better help from the draft this year than any year I've been here.'

Rogers' first draft, in 1985, produced only two players who were on the 1986 roster. The Lions' first five draft picks in 1986 made the roster that year.

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) - John Cannon, a starting defensive end since 1983, signed a one-year contract and reported to Tampa Bay's training camp, leaving veteran linebacker Jeff Davis the only Buccaneers holdout.

Mikel Is Real Crowd Pleaser

Santi Echaniz last season complimented Mikel as being the smartest player, Jai-Alai wise, on the Orland-Seminole Jai-Alai roster. Again this year, the 5-5, 185-pounder is playing like a giant and usually is where the His forte is a "Costado" which is a low-hard-thrown ball from the front court to the front wall and back along the side wall (like a low, outside fastball in baseball). Since the first week of the season, Mikel's in-the-money percentage has stayed at a steady range of .370-.380. His record to date is 49 wins, 42 seconds and 37 shows in 340 games.

The fans get a chuckle when the see Mikel matched with Bob who is 6-7. Because of his hustle, Mikel is known as a real crowd pleaser at Orlando-Seminole and has earned nicknames from Santi such as "Watermelon" and "Big Mac."

Ricardo, tied for the lead with 52 wins for the season, has hit his stride in the past week and has been matched in some games with the feature game players. He also is getting his share of in-the-money finishes with a .463 percentage which includes 52 wins, 56 places and

69 shows in 382 games.

The 12th game feature singles is still dominated by Mendi with 11 and followed by Said and Bob with nine each. In the 13th game feature doubles, frontcourters Eduardo and Charola are tied with 13 wins and the backcourt is led by Bob and Garita with 10 each. The early game singles were spread around with only two players winning three each. Ceberio and Leque.

Urquidi raised his in themoney percentage to .429 with an increase of 46 points for the week. Ricardo leads in ITM percentage at .463 followed by Ceberio at .443 and Reyes at .435. Most wins in last week's play included Garita and Arca with 11 each and Ceberio and Leque with 10 apiece. For the season, Aguirre, Oyari and Ricardo lead in wins with 52 apiece followed by Mendi and Garita with 51 each. Reyes leads in seconds with 62 and Ricardo leads in shows with 69. There were no new additions to the injury list this past week.

Earthbound Astronaut Takes Realistic Trip Through Outer Space

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

Sanford's Greg Rebis recently spent a week lost in space. We'l, he was as close to outer space as any 11 year old can get — at the U.S. Space Camp in Huntsville, Ala.

The $525 trip to camp, where youngsters are trained as astronauts to see if they have the "right stuff" for space travel and for fun, was a Christmas' present from Greg's mom, Linda

Greg had seen a movie featuring the space camp. "But, I thought I still wouldn't want to go. But mom found a newspaper article and I read it. It sounded interesting," said Greg, who is set to enter the seventh grade at Lake View Middle School where he earns A's and B's.

A rocket buff and builder, who isn't so much interested in space travel as he is on establishing a career with NASA as aero engineer and spacecraft designer, Greg, along with 10 other youngsters at the camp worked together to simulate a space mission.

For that mission in a realistic space shuttle orbiter. Greg was the pilot. "All I had to do was help in the launch and landing. We had payload specialists who took over in 'space' with experiments in acoustic levitation and magnetic levitation and with a space telescope.

"It's not exactly like a ride. It didn't move. But you could press all the buttons and get a reaction. If you pushed the wrong button it could be fatal, almost." Greg said.

The space crew also used a space walk simulator. The simulated flight was the highlight of a week of scientific learning and adventure during which Greg said he got to try on a space suit, experiment with rockets and, study the history of the manned U.S. space program. Upon completion of the program he was awarded a space camp "wings" pin. He also came home with souvenir photos, a T-shirt, a log of his activities and his memories.

Greg, and the other 11 to 13 year olds in his group, worked with the space camp computer system and built and launched solid-fueled model rockets.

We sent up crickets in the payload bay (of the models)," Greg said. "A lot surived, but one was smashed by the G-forces (gravity)."

Every morning the young "astronauts" exercised as all earthbound astronauts must. because once they are in space their muscles deteriorate from lack of use, because of the reduction in gravity. Astronauts must be in top ... to Seminole County helps to stimulate local condition on earth. Greg said.

Many of the activities were at The Space and Rocket Center which operates the space camp and is the visitor's center for NASA's Marshall Flight Center.

Greg toured the flight center and space museum.

He got an idea of what weightlessness is like in a micro gravity simulator that simulates one-sixth gravity, "like on the moon," he said.

In the "five degrees of freedom chair." Greg got to see what it's like in space. "If you turn a nut with a wrench, you turn instead of the wrench. It's like weightlessness," he said.

The trainees also watched space-oriented films in the Spacedome Theater, which creates for the audience a sensation of being suspended in space, as the show goes on. Greg saw "Hail Columbia" and "The Dream is Alive," which feature footage shot by astronauts on several space shuttle missions.

Greg said he believes the dream of space exploration must continue, despite the explosion so the Space Shuttle Challenger and the death of its crew of seven, including civilian teacher Christa McAuliffe.

Greg was in class when the Challenger exploded on take-off Jan. 28, 1986. "People started making jokes about it and I can't stand those jokes," he said. "Some poople say it was a waste of money and everything, but I don't really think so. It shouldn't stop space travel."

As a memorial to the fallen astronauts, Greg said, at his school seven trees were planted in an arrow formation pointing toward Kennedy Space Center in Brevard County, from where the ill-fated shuttle was launched.

Even as a tot. Greg said he was fascinated with computers and space. At age two he would go to work with his father, Gregory, who was a system's analyst, who died when Greg was five.

Greg, who was born in Queens, N.Y., moved to Florida when he was five. That year he made his first trip to Kennedy Space Center, along with his mother and 9-year-old sister Katherine.

Before moving from New York, the family also made frequent visits to a planetarium, Mrs. Rebis said. They have gone to Cocoa for a closer look at a shuttle launch and also from that location once saw the Shuttle Columbia, being flown in piggyback on a 747. Greg said.

Mrs. Rebis, a guidance counselor at Sanford Middle School, Seminole High School, and Goldsboro and Idyllwilde elementary schools, said the nearness of the Kennedy Space Center

Four Family Fellowships

Mobile Restaurant Source Of VFW's Income For Charities

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 10139, Oviedo, operates a full mobile barbecue restaurant as a main source of income for its charitable endeavors. Profits from the BBQ wagon are used to support the VFW's many projects during the year.

This past year. Post 10139 provided flags for the Scout Troops at Lawton Elementary School, St. Luke's Lutheran School and Geneva Elementary School. Also, Geneva Elementary School was presented a flag and 70 classroom flags, three outdoor flags and a 6x8-foot flag were presented to Oviedo High School.

The post also gave flags to Bonneville and Oviedo Fire Departments, Chuluota Post Office, Oviedo Little League and Lake Mills Park.

The post has an emergency relief fund to help families in distress and this fund has been used several times this year. Members continue to support the new Veteran's Home being built in Ocala for veterans with no place to go. A building fund for the post's future home has also been established.

The Voice of Democracy Scholarship Program is another project of Post 10139. This program is open to all students who are American citizens in the the Meat World parking lot,

Eldercise: Age No Barrier To Excercise Benefits

By Carolyn Petersen

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) - The body's ability to benefit from excercise changes little, even into the senior years, reports a scientist in the study of exercise and aging.

"There are some changes that accompany the aging process, but there are also some parameters that don't change," Herbert deVries said in a discussion of his work at the American Corrective Therapy Association's annual conference in Portland recently.

Even people who did not exercise regularly through their younger years have not lost much by the age of 40, said deVries, who was director of the Physiology of Exercise Research at the University of Southern California for 16 years.

As people move into their mid-60s, they have lost about one-quarter of their physical abilities but still can benefit from exercise, said deVries. He has written 60 research papers on health and fitness and his college text, "Physiology of Exercise," is in its fourth printing.

Early research on aging showed that people lose about 1 percent of their physical ability per year from the age of 40 on. DeVries contends that regular exercise can reduce that loss by half.

In comparing the performance of youthful athletes with athletes aged 35 and older, deVries found about half of that 1 percent was related to the aging process, what he calls necessary loss.

The other half-percent of the performance loss was due to inactivity. That, he said, is unnecessarv loss.

Over the years, that unnecessary loss can add up to a lot. Part of the reason older people feel they can do less work is because the small loss in muscle over the years becomes a big loss in oxygen-carrying ability later. Many older people don't have enough muscle to load oxygen, deVries said.

Exercise benefits more than just muscle. Bone loss and breakdown is reduced, and joints that would become stiff instead become more flexible. Loss of standard reflexes, which can amount to 90 percent by age 75, also is reduced, he said.

Of course, a week of jogging workouts won't make an old body young again.

DeVries found older athletes need about 12 weeks to reach half of their total capacity, a feat youthful counterparts accomplished in just a week and a half. But deVries credited much of this to the difference in flexibility between the two age groups.

"The influence of flexibility used to be overlooked, but it is being viewed as more important now," he said.

Training programs have a major effect on whether the athlete will benefit. DeVries recommends working out six times a week, with three walking or jogging type workouts and three calisthenics sessions. Quick results should not be expected, however, deVries cautioned.

Deconditioned people - those who have not had any activity for several weeks - often show improvements more quickly than those who have had moderate exercise, deVries said.

Like other athletes, seniors do reach the point where performance does not improve. DeVries said he believes the training curve is shaped like an upside-down "U", and that after a point, performance deteriorates.

For maximum benefit, deVries said the best policy is, "Use it or lose it, but don't abuse it."

Mrs. Jack Torroni Bridges

Beth Freeman, Jack Bridges Repeat Vows

Mary Beth Freeman and Jack Torront Bridges, both of Sanford, were married May 2, at 5:30 p.m., at Central Baptist Church, Sanford, The Rev. Freedie Smith was the officiating clergyman for the traditional double ring ceremony. Jennifer Wells, Sanford soprano, was the soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.C. Freeman, Norfolk, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Newkirk, 203 Tangerine Drive, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Bridges of Sanford.

Given in marriage by her father and stepfather, the bride chose for her vows a formal gown of white tridescent crystalline fashioned along the bouffant silhouette. The fitted bodice featured a high neckline lavishly embellished with reembroidered sposabella lace and pearls with small covered buttons down the back. Appliqued lace motifs and pearls accented the full sheened designer sleeves. The bouffant skirt was enhanced with lace appliques and fluted ruffles from the waist in back gracefully cascaded into a scalloped cathedral train. A satin and pearl headpiece held her tiered veil of imported illusion that flowed to an extended length. She carried a bouquet of white silk roses, white daisles, greenery and baby's breath showered with white satin ribbons.

Debra Christman of Sumter, S. C., attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a formal gown of royal blue taffeta fashioned with a fitted bodice accented with blue and gold sequins and an open back. The slim floor-length skirt was highlighted with a deep slit in the back and she carried three white roses tied with royal blue ribbons.

Bridesmaids were: Patty Austin, Sanford: Sharon Baragona, Sanford; Nancy Crawford, Lake Mary; Beverly Huffman, Sanford; and Janet Sides, Bennetsville, S.C. Their gowns were identical to the honor attendant's and each carried a single white rose.

Mack N. Cleveland Jr., Sanford, served the bridegroom as best man. Ushergroomsmen were: Bryce Baker, Longwood: Vince Cloyd, Winter Park; Rick Gleeson, Heathrow: Dan Lawrence, Sanford; and John Morris, Sanford.

Ambra Christman, niece of the bride from Sumter, S.C., was the flower girl. Ring bearer was Tory Bridges, son of the bridegroom.

The reception was held at Heathrow Country Club near Lake Mary. Katie Harris, Sanford, goddaughter of the bride, registered the guests in the bride's book.

Following a honeymoon to New Orleans, San Francisco, Hollywood, Calif., and Las Vegas, the newlyweds are making their home at 100 Mayfair Court, Sanford. The bride is employed as a dental assistant in the Sanford office of Dr. Roger R. Stewart. The bridegroom is a partner in the law firm of Cleveland and

Marionettes Take Awards In Every Category At Superstar Drill Camp

The Lake Mary High School Lake Marionette Dance Corps recently participated in the Superstar Drill Team Camp held at Rollins College. Teams from all around Florida, as well as teams from other southeastern states attended the camp, held July 15-18.

The Marionettes were the largest group attending the camp, with 44 of the 64member group taking part. The girls were housed on campus and attended classes each day from 8 a.m. until 9:30 p.m.

Competition, both team and individual. was part of the program, with performances and awards on the last day of the camp. The Marionettes received awards in every category which included the Shining Star Award, Home Routine Award, Award of Excellence, the Sweepstakes Trophy, and Outstanding Officer Group. As a result of the latter award, the 1987-88 Marionette officers are invited to participate in Macy's Thanks-giving Day Parade in November.

Ten of the Marionettes were among the 27 Superstar Drill Team candidates, with Carrie Knowles and Michelle Mandeville being chosen in the final eight as Superstar Drill Team members.

Congratulations to this fine group of girls and to their director, Connie Mosure. The Marionettes of Lake Mary are a fine example of hard work paying off!

Band Camp for the Lake Mary High Schol Band, Flag Corps and Lake Marionette Dance Corps will be held Aug. 10-14 at the school. Information detailing hours, dress and other requirements is being mailed to students. Registration for students who are not already signed up will be from 7:30 until 8 a.m. on Aug. 10.

Registration and medical forms can be picked up at the school. Those who have any further questions concerning band camp should call Lake Mary High at 323-2110.

"Mood Disorders: Identification and Treatment" is the topic of a free community seminar on Aug. 11 from 7-9 p.m. at West Lake Hospital.

"A mood disorder is a prolonged emotional state which interferes with an individual's ability to function normally," said Robert W. Pollack, M.D., West Lake Hospital psychiatrist and seminar, panelist. "It can disrupt all areas of a person's life, and can range from extreme depression with suicidal thoughts to elation and agitation."

Dr. Pollack will be joined by Jeffrey A. Danziger, M.D. and Darlene Barrett, M.A. The seminar panelists are also affiliated with The Mood Disorders Clinic at Psychiatric Associates of Mid-Florida in Winter Park.

Discussion will focus on the psychological and biological causes of mood disorders, the varying symptoms, diagnostic and evaluation procedures, and treatment. The Very Best Vacations Start Before You Leave Your Home

Dear

Abby

DEAR READERS: Are you going away for a well-earned vacation? Well, if you are, make sure your vacation doesn't cost you more than you anticipated and take a few precautions before taking off.

It doesn't matter if you're going to be gone a week, a month or a weekend. An experienced burglar can steal more in one hour than you can earn in a year. So take a tip from Abby Cancel all deliveries such as newspapers and milk. And have your mall held at the post office.

If you live in a house, maintain a lived-in look around the place.

Ask a neighbor to pick up throwaway circulars, fill your trash cans with a little of his trash and park a car in your driveway occasionally. And if you're going to be gone for a couple of weeks or longer, have your lawn mowed.

Invest in a "timer" to turn your TV, radio and lights on and off at varying times. Also turn the bell down on your telephone so constant ringing won't announce to the world that nobody's home.

If you leave your car at the airport, be sure to remove any materials from your car that show your home address.

If you have an alarm system at home, test it before you leave. Have a wonderful, worry-free

"audience" to "criticize" the "overall SETTING" on stage, either favorably or unfavorably. But those "criticizing" the seats are customarily concerned about their rather than those in the "overall" theatre. 6. AERIAL not serial. It's rather the serial parts that "should be well" interconnected

3. SETTING not seating. What "is not uncommon" is for "some" of those "in" the

with one another so as to make the slory flow. AERIAL is much more to the point as regards "It being well-connected" in order "to be effective." 9. NODS not noes. "Direct expressions of opinions," favors NODS (i.e. movements of the head forward as a sign of affirmation or assent). Noes, themselves, cannot be "used" — they simply qualify appropriate words, or actions.

FUDGE not judge. Those "who're generally interested" in the taste of FUDGE, yes. The clue infers, however, that whether or not this is "good" is a matter of "opinion," but what truly measures "a good judge" is his knowledge and assessment

16. FELT not fell. Being "a professional trapeze artist," he's particularly dependent on "his" well-being as regards his career, pointing to FELT as the better answer. There's no certainty in the clue that "his accident" was in any way related to his performing on the "trapeze." ORATE not prate. ORATE (defined as: "to speak in a pompous or bombastic manner") is more apt for the fact that the "individual is intrigued with his own voice."

To prate (defined as: "to talk much and foolishly; chatter") rather indicates his overindulging in a desire to express himself. 22. INJURED not insured. The clue phrase, "if person is insured," is pointless as it's not apparent that "any" incident has occured for which there could be a claim of

"liability." INJURED makes a straightforward answer, however. REVEL not rebel. A "person who favors a very quiet life" doesn't have to rebel in a noisy, vigorous manner. He can simply refuse or, in other words, rebel against going to a function where there'll be much REVELry, for example.

MUCH not such. With "certain army recruits" already singled out as a "problem to train," such, is redundant as an answer. The "sergeant shouldn't expect MUCH difficulty with" the "others," makes a clearcut answer to the clue's context. CLUES DOWN:

1. REVOLUTION not resolution. More apt of "a REVOLUTION" benefitting "considerably" from the "support" that "a truly popular individual in the community" can generate. Resolution is too vague and needs to be qualified as to whether the "popular individual" quietly voted for it, for example, or actively promoted it.

2. HIPS not lips. The idea that this has "often been important" favors HIPS, as for some "years" in "women's fashions" they were hidden. On the other hand, "over" the "years of promoting fashion and beauty" products, "lips have" always "been

 SLAP not slip. "A SLAP" is better, since the clue implies that this is subject "to forgiveness," which is certainly not true in many a case where "a slip" occurs. 4. TRIAL not trill. More apt of "one participating in a trial (e.g. a lawyer, judge, etc.) if" his speech inflections are "carefully" controlled. By contrast, however forceful the trill, it does put a "strain" on the human "voice."

10. YELL not yelp. More apt of a YELL (defined as: "a loud outcry or shout; shriek") which could "possibly" be "a person's cry of pain." But by definition a yelp: "to cry out sharply as in pain" is such a "cry."

GONE not done. After the "child's birthday cake is done" and in evidence, the "family's" excitement could indeed reach a high point. Thus, "peace for Mother will not likely occur until it's" all GONE.

16. FARCES not forces. "Usually" being able to "control" these with concerted thinking and planning" is much more spl of FARCES (defined as: "plays intended only to be funny"). Forces is too vague for the clue phrase, "In a country," which could be nature's forces (i.e. the weather) which are essentially uncontrollable

 LITTER not letter. The "rebuke" being "understandable" is better suited to LITTER, which makes a comprehensive answer that includes a letter thrown away. Also, a letter could have been accidentally "dropped."

Unless your body is accustomed to vigorous exercise every day, constant stooping for short periods of time may throw your spine out of alignment. This may cause aches and pains because of the pressure on nerves, tissue, and bone.

Suppose you're a very busy person and when you finally get to weeding your garden. it's long and heavy work. It may take you hours to finish the job. There are other things to do, so you work harder and faster than normal, putting unusual strain on back and muscles. When you finish, you go back into the house and flop into a chair, exhausted.

The E.C. Smiths Observe Silver Anniversary

Congratulations are in order to Carol Ann and Elmer Smith who observed their 25th wedding anniversary on July 2. They were married on that date in 1962 at the First Baptist Church in Sauford.

Both Elmer and Carol Ann were born in Sanford, attended local schools and Seminole Community College. They are the owners of Central Aluminum and Screen Service and Neco Enteprises, Sanford.

Carol Ann is the daughter of B.R. and Fay Carroll and Elmer is the son of Mrs. Peggy Smith Sessions and the late Mr. L. C. Smith of Sanford. The couple have two children, Sandy Smith. a registered nurse employed at Orlando Regional Medical Center, and Cory E. Smith, 15, a junior at Seminole High School, who were hosts for the gala 25th wedding anniversary celebra-

The Smiths were honored at a gathering for 120 friends and relatives at Sanora Clubhouse in a nostalgic setting of memorabilia including wedding pictures, the bridegroom's gift to his bride in 1962, a pair of rose-shaped earrings and a pendant, a faded, but treasured garter, the bride's wedding gown and a recent portrait of the family today.

A color scheme of silver and white was used in the decor of the club. The cake, decorated by Mariles McGibbin and Myriam Garrett, featured peach-colored roses and ivy. The table centerpelces were made by Mrs. William Wight of Winter

Assisting hosts Sandy and Cory were: Mr. and Mrs. B.R. Carroll, Judy Murphy, Carol Ann's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harry

Smith, Mr. and Mrs. William Wight, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hansen, Mrs. Otto Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. John Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. Raymon Munoz.

In summing up the memorable evening. Carol Ann said she and Elmer are looking forward to the next 25 years and the changes that are coming to Sanford. She added: "Elmer and I are very proud of this gracious town of Sanford. Both of our families are long-time residents of Florida. We love it here and would not live anywhere else in the United States."

Tom and Ki Stevenson of Idyllwilde, proudly announce the addition of a daughter, Blanca Lidia Stevenson, to join their three sons, Brad, 17, Tim, 14, and Tom, 10.

The family is extremely excited over the final adoption of the little South American beauty from El Salvador whose papers became final on July 24.

Ki and Tom applied for the adoption of a little girl three years ago in May. One year ago, Flanca Lidia was assigned to them, and now a year later, she is a bona fide member of the Stevenson family.

And what a thrill for the Stevensons. They waited so long for a daughter, Ki said. She added that area adoption agencies were discouraging, so they decided to go for a foreign girl.

Although Blanca Lidia, who will be 9 in December, could speak no English when she arrived and had no schooling. now apeaks English-only and will be in the third grade at idyliwide School this fall. And Blanca Lidia was malnourished. Ki said she has grown four and one-half inches and has gained 20 pounds.

What a pleasure for the family. Ki said they have all adjusted beautifully and at the end of her first year with her new family, Blanca to completely Americanized - even her invorte food is hot dogs. "She loves sports, "

Sherry Lynn Lee of Sanford took honorable mention in Southeastern Watercolorists IV competition held at the DeLand

Museum of Art, DeLand. The winning painting, National Parks/West, utilizes the unucual subject matter of slides of the western United States which have been arranged vertically within the boundaries of the frame, thus creating paintings within a painting.

Doug and Joyce Russell of Sanford have been honored for marketing achievement and promoted to Partners as Associates of TVC Marketing and Pre-Paid Legal Services Inc. of Ada, Okla. According to Ken and Jeanadele Magner, 28 new Partners have been brought to the national headquarters of the firm from across the nation in recognition of their work.

Pre-Paid Legal Services Inc. is the forerunner of the pre-paid legal industry in America, organized in 1972 after a U.S. Supreme Court decision authorized the enterprise.

First Woman Named Urban Horticulturist At Ag Center

The Seminole County Extension Service announces that Celeste White is the new Urban Hortfculturist at the Agriculture Center. White was selected among 20 candidates and interviewed by a committee including University Horticulture Specialists, the Chairman of the Extension Advisory Committee, as well as the County Extension Director. She is the first woman to hold this position in the history of Seminole County.

White was born in Pennsylvania and was reared in the suburban area of Washington, D.C., where she earned her degree at the University of Maryland in Horticulture in 1976. She worked during and after college at local garden centers and florist shops while maintaining vegetable gardening and canning as a hobby. She then became involved in interior landscaping, performing maintenance in atriums around Washington, D.C.

White returned to school in 1980 to obtain certification to teach Vocational Horticulture. In 1982, she moved to Orlando where she continued her work in > White is also responsible for the training and supervision of the Master Gardeners. Master Gardeners are volunteers in the community receiving 50 hours of training in basic horticultural instructions. They then help the urban horticulturist in answering homeowner questions when she is out of town or unavailable. A new Master Gardener program will be started this year.

> In addition, White will be writing weekly columns on gardening tops for The Sanford Herald. She will also be helping with 4-H and other youth with consumer information and career goals in horticulture.

> White says she is very happy to be working in Seminole County and is anxious to meet the needs of the community in home horticulture.

Rainbow Futures Sponsors Benefit For Disabled

The public is invited to attend the first fund-raising event of Rainbow Futures Inc. to be held Aug. 7-8 starting at 10 a.m. each day at Sanford's Pine Crest Shopping Center.

The main attraction of the Tent Sale will be a unique robot dispensing cotton candy, covered live by Sanford's radio station WUEZ.

A live band will allow customers to listen or dance to the lilting "pop" music! Also, one can stroll into the Rainbow Game Room located on the property for cooling hand-dipped ice cream and an array of fountain drinks.

A highlight will be the drawing for a cocktall table video.

For sale will be such items as a studio couch among other furniture items, clocks, a variety of household necessities and clothing for the whole family, especially back-to-school fash-

Adopting the motto, "Helping the Disabled Help Themselves." the new organization is engaged in a membership drive urging any disabled person or their family members to join for the benefit of all.

Area clubs, organizations and church groups are asked to send representatives to the weekly meetings held at the game room Thursdays at 5:30 p.m. for the exchange of help and ideas. Call 321-8421 or 695-4885.

The story surfaces often in the business world. Two brothers entered the watermelon business. They bought a truck and loaded it with watermelons. They paid $1.00 each for the melons, drove into the city, and sold the melons for $1.00 each.

Business was booming, but they finally discovered they were making no profit. They had a meeting and decided the solution to their profit problem was to buy a bigger truck!

They were guided more by passion for the product than wisdom of profit. Often the passion to produce-to succeed at whatever cost-blinds to the reality that life is not measured by VOLUME but by VALUE; that profit in life cannot be measured by what is gained but by what is paid and what is lost in the process.

Jesus said it centuries ago: "What does it profit a man if he should gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" (Matt. 16:26) He indicates that volume is not a criterion for success. Even the volume of gaining the whole world is too small a gain to pay one's soul for.

Methodists Face Tough Issues

By David E. Anderson UPI Religion Writer

Homosexuality — a perennial and often bitterly disputed issue - will yet once again be high on the agenda when the United Methodist Church meets in General Conference next year in St. Louis.

The Issue, centered particularly on the question of whether or not homosexuals may be ordained to the ministry. sparked heated debate in a number of the denomination's regional conference meetings.

In 1984, delegates to General Conference, the 9.2 millionmember church's highest delanguage to the denomination s Book of Disciplines, or law book. prohibiting ordination of "selfavowed practicing" homosexual persons.

The meaning of the law has been and continues to be flercely contested.

In the round of meetings of the church's 72 conferences, 13 of the regional bodies asked Gener-of Discipline language without change.

Some, like South Georgia, have forwarded resolutions asking the 998 delegates who will attend the General Conference to add language that would ban ordination to those who advocate homosexuality as a lifestyle compatible with Christian teaching.

Kansas East, on the other hand, wanted language that says "we do not know" if homosexual practices are compatible with Christian teaching.

The Rocky Mountain Confercision-making body, adopted ence, which has been the center of the most intense debate and where one professed homosexual is already ordained, sent General Conference five resolutions - including a range of sometimes contradictory options including stronger efforts to exclude homosexuals and its opposite, allowing homosexuals to be ordained.

In a related area, conferences al Conference to retain the Book also expressed a great deal of concern about the issue of AIDS and how the church should respond. Four conferences - South Georgia, Detroit, Troy (New York) and Wisconsin — called for churchwide education about acquired immune deficiency syndrome and ministry to persons with AIDS while three conferences - California-Nevada, New York and Pacific Northwest - asked General Con-patients. the regional groups was the issue of South Africa and the church's proper response to efforts to oppose the white minority system of apartheld, or racial separation.

ference to include in the church's statement of social principles an affirmation of the civil and human rights of AIDS

More than two dozen conferences approved petitions that would force the church's Board of Pensions to end holding any investments in U.S. firms doing business in South Africa - a move the board began in mid-July, after the conferences had met.

The board, long a target of criticism by anti-apartheid activists, has said its investment policies have been guided by the so-called Sullivan Principles but earlier this year, the principles' author, the Rev. Leon Sullivan, said they were no longer working and urged divestment instead.

Other conferences broadened their investment concern, calling for an end to investing in companies that manufacture or Equally high on the agenda for test nuclear weapons or aid in the perpetuation of "poverty and oppression."

Six of the regional bodies, responding to what appears to be a resurgence of racism and racial violence in the United States, asked the General Conference delegates to adopt a strong statement condemning racism.

Beauty Not Always Better In Women

This was an unusual letter. even when you consider that we ministers get our share of unusual letters. What makes many of them unusual is that they have little to do with religion. No one asks about the Holy Ghost or angels or what a day in heaven will be like.

A lot of letters have to do with the unfairnesses of life and "why bad things happen to good people," to borrow the title of Rabbi Harold Kushner's bestseller. A much smaller number inquire "why good things happen to bad people."

Usually when these people write of the inequities of life they are speaking of their own unhappy, unfair situations - or, as is the case in this letter, of the unhappy situations of members of their family.

"I'm worried about my 18-year-old daughter." writes this mother, "She's homely. Like her father. She's got a wonderful personality, but the popular boys are interested only in the cute girls. Does a nice girl like Linda have to resign herself to being an old maid or getting a

George Plagenz proposal only from a ditch dig-

Saints And

Sinners

I'm not worried about Linda, and her mother shouldn't be either. If it's a ditch digger who pops the question to her, it will probably be a rich, handsome mining engineer. Adolescence is hard on girls who aren't pretty, but they often end up marrying successful, good-looking men. I've known many tycoons who married homely women. Or wish they had. What frequently gives the homely girl the advantage over the Cybill Shepherds in the marital market is that the Plain Jane doesn't spend all her time trying to be beautiful. So she has time to listen to a man tell his dreams. And time to help him

feminist. But I could be quoting a syndicated woman columnist explaining why Nancy Reagan was voted by readers of a men's magazine as the woman with whom they would most like to spend an evening. What were these men - age 60 to 75? No. they were 18 to 35. It's Mrs. Reagan who is in her 60s.

This woman writer says the new generation of men like Nancy because she is the kind of woman "most 1987 women refuse to be: She is a great wife to her husband." What's the 1987 woman like?

"She's too busy to listen, she's too busy to nurture and she's too busy to go with her man on business trips." Nancy, by contrast, "makes her husband the center of her world. Her biggest joy in life is taking wonderful care of him." Consequently - surprise.

surprise - a woman who in a few years will be pushing 70 is selected as America's No. 1 fantasy date!

At this point Linda's mother "Said like a man," sneers the - that Nancy, unlike Linda, has - overheard the conversation."

her attractiveness going for her too. But with a world of younger. prettler women for these men to choose from, I doubt that had much to do with Nancy's selec-it's a funny thing, though. Men may not put physical beauty at the top of their list of desirable feminine attributes. Still most women would rather be considered beautiful than dependable and true.

Take Tom trying to explain to a friend how he got his black

"It was like this," said Tom. "Ed was telling me about the beautiful girl he was going to marry. I told him my Clara was better than any beauty. I said beautiful girls thought only of themselves, while homely old girls like mine knew they had to do things to please a man. So they made better wives."

"Did Ed hit you for saying that?" asked Tom's friend.

"No," said Tom. "Clara did. might be inclined to point out. She was in the next room and picket outside a physician's home in Fayettevile, Ark., thanks to a court of appeals ruling that struck down a city ordinance banning all demonstrations on public property in front of private residences, according to John Whitehead. national president of The Rutherford Institute, heaquartered in Manassas, Va.

Whitehead said the court ruled the ordinance was "unconstitutionaly overbroad" since it imposed an absolute ban on all residential picketing, and therefore had the potential of "impinging significantly" on the First Amendment right to free

'We're very satisfied with the outcome," said Fayetteville at-

Pro-lifers may continue to torney David Morris, who represented the four local residents who successfully challenged the ordinance. Morris is the president of the Arkansas chapter of the Rutherford Institute, a nonprofit legal defense organization specializing in First Amendment litigation.

The ordinance, which specifically prohibited anyone from engaging in "demonstrations of any type" or picketing "before or about" any residence or dwelling place, was passed by the Fayetteville board of directors in 1985, after neighbors of Dr. William Harrison complained about picketers on the public sidewalk in front of the physician's house. The pro-liferswere there to protest Harrison's abortion practice at the Fayetteville Women's three-judge panel of the Eighth Clinic, which they had also picketed on several occasions.

Once the ordinance was passed, the pro-lifers ceased their residential picketing, but four men challenged its constitutionality. Following failed efforts to negotiate a solution with the board of directors, Morris filed sult against city officials on behalf of Dr. Dow Pursley, a professional counselor; Dr. Doty Murphy, a medical doctor; and two local pastors, the Rev. Mark Brooks and the Rev. Paul Sagan.

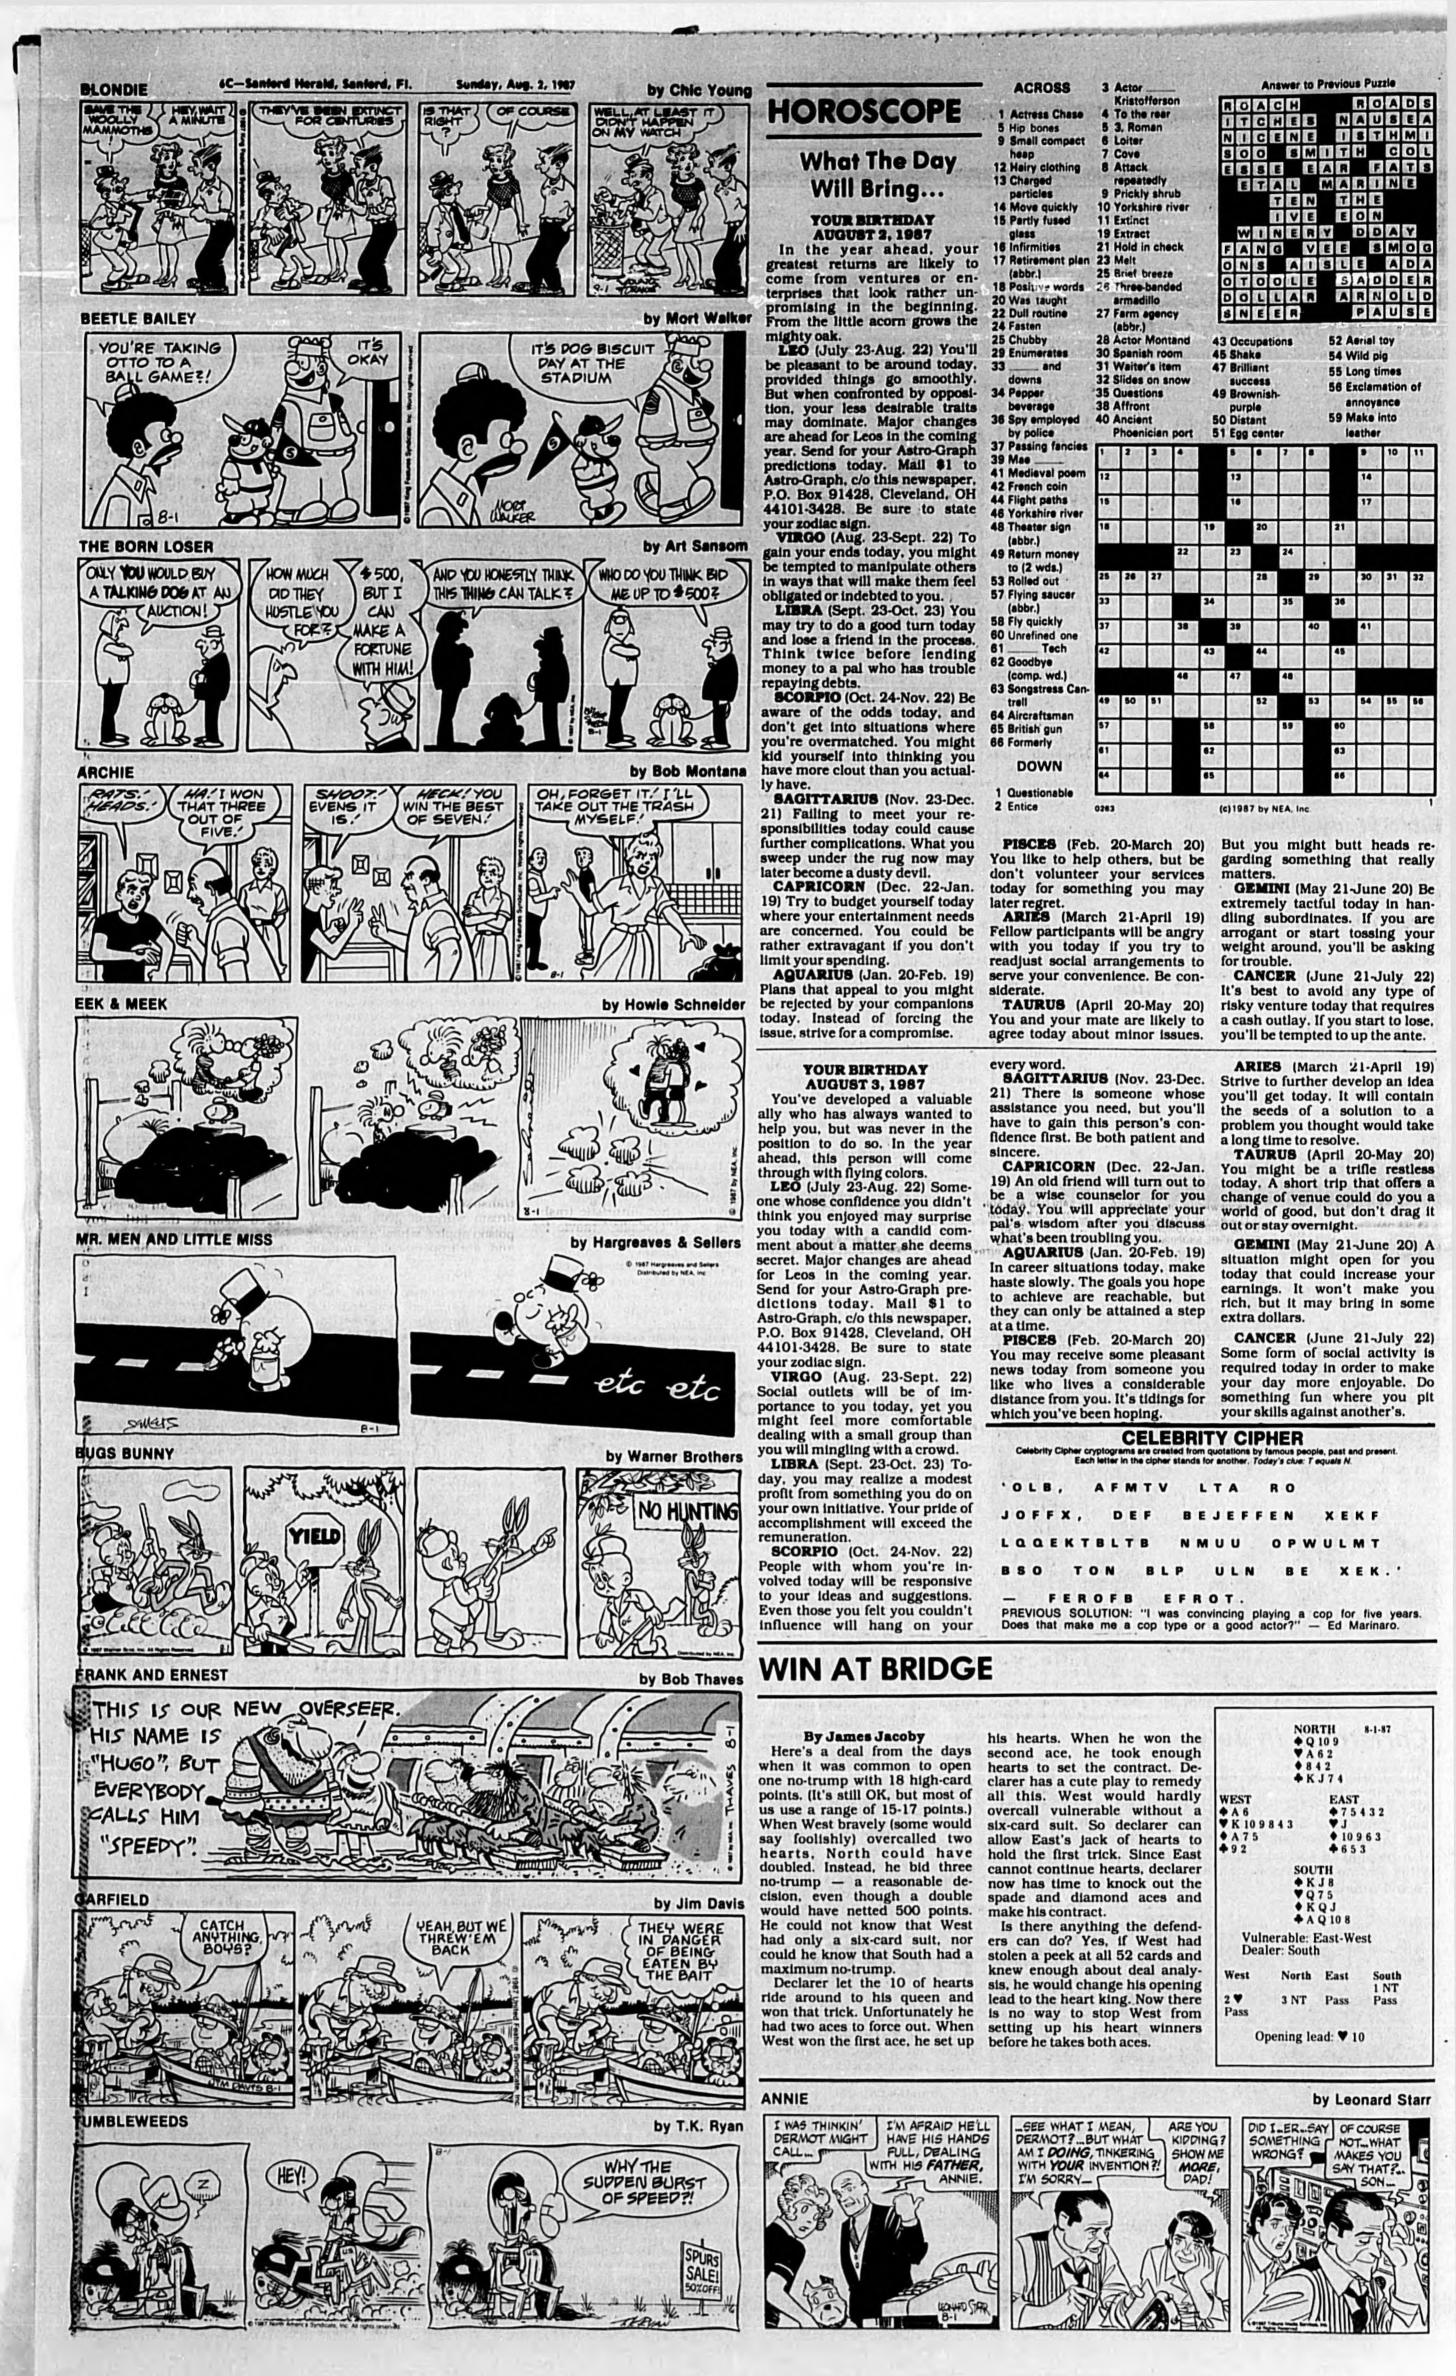

'Any law that places an absolute ban on free speech is unconstitutional, even in a residential area," Whitehead said. 'The court was correct in striking it down."

In their June 10 opinion, a

Circuit Court of Appeals stated that absolute bans on residential picketing have been overturned by the U.S. Supreme Court, although time, place and manner restrictions are permissible to protect the tranquility and privacy of a city's residents.

To demonstrate the "overbreadth" of the ordinance, the judges cited several hypothetical situations in which the law's enforcement would violate the legitimate exercise of free speech rights.

Dissatisfied with the panel's ruling, the city filed for a rehearing of the case by the entire court. Further action is pending.

'Robocop' Stripped For Action, Full Of Savvy

ROBOCOP (R) There's no getting around it: This thriller with darkly comic overtones is frequently - and explosively violent. But viewers who share the film's cynical perception of American law and order in the age of mega-corporations and advanced weaponry may notice that the violence is at the service of an exhilarating, rebellious high-tech fantasy. Sensationally directed by Dutch director Paul Verhoeven ("The Fourth Man," "Soldier of Orange") from a script by Edward Neumeler and Michael Miner, the movie comes stripped for action, yet full of savvy. The film makers have taken on a traditionally reactionary genre that favors "Rambo"-like power-of-the-gun statements. but they give the action-film cliches a satirical twist. The result, as with "Aliens," is almost a progressive action flick - in this case a delirium of action that manages to uphold the power of the human will over the machine, and (though this is debatable) over the gun. The film has a hip, futuristic trashiness - a "Godzilla" movie for the cybernetic '80s. Peter Weller ("Buckaroo Banzai") stars in the convoluted, but serviceable, story about a cop mown down by coketrafficking thugs. A security systems corporation that controls the police department (and just about everything else, including the coke trade) adapts the cop's brain functions and torso as the basis for a super-cop cyborg. The project backfires. though: Enough of the cop's memory is still present in the robot to activate his humanity and his sense of resistance. He eventually turns his computerized skills and steely physcreators/employers. Threaded throughout the movie are TV-news parody segments that the together the satirical viewpoint. Nancy Allen plays Weller's rough-and-ready cop partner. Though her part could be fleshed out, it's a measure of the film's iconoclasm

ical prowess against his corrupt

SNOW WHITE (G) Celebrating its 50th birthday with this reissue, Disney's landmark animated feature retains its stature as an authentic classic for children of all ages. You don't have to care that almost everything about "Snow White" was innovative in 1937 to realize that almost everything about it is still enchanting in 1987. And, if you're an adult, you may be surprised by how charmingly the movie taps into a lode of psychosexual (i.e., Oedipal) material. Meanwhile, you'll be transfixed by Disney's inimitable dream world of good and evil, poison apples, whistling dwarves and anthropomorphic animals. Disney's 1940 animated feature "Pinocchio" is even more beautifully drawn, and it's a richer tale. But "Snow White" is classic enough. GRADE: 4 stars.

NEW HOME VIDEO ACT OF VENGEANCE (not rated) HBO/Cannon. $79.95.

This made-for-HBO docudrama focuses on the heroic last days of United Mine Workers official-Jock Yabionski (Charles Bronson). He challenged union boss Tony Boyle (Wilford Robert DiMatteo Brimley) for the union's presidency, only to be murdered, along with his wife (Ellen Burstyn) and daughter, by Boyle's thugs.

The surprise of the movie is Bronson's creditable performance in probably the most virtuous role of his career. What gives the picture distinction is director John Mackenzie's handling of the four psychopathic types who do the killing. Mackenzie showed a stunning flair for violence and a comupt milieu in "The Long Good Friday," and he brings out a disturbing comic cretinism in his villains here. GRADE: 21/2

WISDOM (R) Warner Home Video, $79.95. Brat-packer Emilio Estevez wrote, directed and starred in this embarraseingly callow movie. Estevez's attempt to make a sta about how American society is rigged against the little guy features a protagonist so inane, that the message backfires. Glenn: 'Taxing Spotlight Must Shift'

By Ted Carter Herald Staff Writer

The National Association of Counties (NACo) convention in Indianapolis earlier this month produced a lot of talk about the time having arrived "to shift the shaft" of taxation from local governments to the federal government.

Indeed. By the convention's close, delegates adopted a resolution that said federal budget cuts have forced the majority of America's counties to raise taxes and cut back on services. The message was, "We're just about tapped out at the local level," said NACo's new president, Dade County Commissioner Harvey Ruvin.

Seminole County's representative at the gathering, County Commissioner Sandra Glenn, returned home before the delegates adopted the 300 pages of resolutions and amendments to its platform, including the shift the shaft proposal. Glenn says she understands some of the reasons why the nation's county officials are concerned that Washington is mandating more responsibility to local units of government without providing additional revenue to help implement the added programs.

After all, says Glenn, "we're all in the same choir." And yes, she adds, local programs must be supported by new revenues.

But why turn to Washington in instances when so many of the programs can be supported as enterprise or user-funded operations? Moreover, she asks, since when has the federal government been an eager distributor of money to pay for all the things it wants counties and cities to accomplish?

Perhaps it has been like a benevolent uncle in dealing with some localities, but not Seminole County, at least not in the last couple of decades, according to Glenn

In Gienn's opinion, the remedy for a county such as Seminole lies in its taxpayers sending fewer dollars to Washington — not Washington sending more dollars here. Put simply, the money no longer going to the government could be put to direct use here, whether collected through new local taxes or through user fees.

Seminole County Commissioner Sandra Glenn

Federal revenue sharing is a clear example of a locality giving more than it receives, says Glenn, who is not among those disturbed by the phasing out of the federal assistance. She concedes she likely would feel differently if the revenue sharing were based on the amount of federal taxes collected from each county.

Until about 20 years ago, when Seminole was largely an agricultural county with a relatively low percapita income level, federal revenue sharing provided a real value for what the county's taxpayers sent to Washington. But Seminote's urbanization accompanied by higher income levels brought a shift in the equation.

Counties such as Duval and Dade, which are home to depressed inner cities and high numbers of unemployed, benefited greatly from a federal revenue sharing distribution formula based on population and income levels. Seminole did not, says Glenn.

"What Seminole County taxpayers pay is being funneled to Dade and Duval. The big counties will always vote for it. But we're saying 'let us pay less and keep the difference at home."

Drawing a comparison. Glenn says that if Seminole received $390,000 in federal revenue sharing in 1968 and $1.2 million in 1966, the amount of real assistance actually decreased. "We're getting less compared to what is being put in and how far it has to be stretched."

Although the county continues to receive federal assistance in the form of community block grants funds, which total $2.4 million in the proposed fiscal 1987-88 budget, the present year's budget and the upcoming budget included no federal revenue sharing money.

But Glenn is certain Seminole County will get along fine without it. The county always looked on it as "found money, anyway," Glenn says. "It's not going to catch us in a financial bind. Other counties are in a bind because of what they used it for. We always looked on it as a one-time thing. We never used it for operating costs."

Now that the era of federal revenue sharing has ended, the three-term Republican county commissioner sees a vitally important decision ahead for the federal government in helping states, counties and cities with transportation projects.

As the government approaches the end of its three-decade old interstate highway building, a policy shift must be considered, she says.

Changing Shoe Styes, The Soviet Union Way

My friend Boris Karchov, an official with the Soviet planning agency Gospian, was here for a visit last week. He was depressed.

I was surprised. I thought that the bold new? reforms being proposed by Mikhail Gorbachev: would have excited him. Surely this "new Soviet: revolution" must be exhilirating?

"Exhilirating for whom?" he snapped. "Certainly not for me. Don't you know what that revisionist capitalist-roading traitor. I mean our esteemed Chairman, is proposing?"

I told him I wasn't sure, save for the fact that Mr. Gorbachev has called for increased reliance on market forces to allocate goods and services. "Market forces!" He fairly spat out the words.

"I'll tell you about market forces," he continued. "Look at this directive on shoes. It says that plant managers are supposed to make their own decisions about what kind of shoes to make, about how many to make, about how to make them. They are to let supply and demand determine the price."

I told Boris that that sounded sensible.

"Sensible! Hah! I'll tell you sensible. Do you know who used to be in charge of shoes for the entire Soviet Union?"
I didn't.

"I'll tell you who. It was me, Boris Karchov! It was maybe not the biggest job in the world, but it was pretty important. If it went on the feet it was in my department. I decided what shoes there would be. Me! Not some faceless mob of consumers! And now, it's over."

I noted gently that things hadn't gone very well under Boris. Shoddy workmanship, huge surpluses of shoes no one wanted and severe shortages of those they did have always plagued Soviet consumers.

A cartoon in the Soviet magazine Krokodil shows a disappointed boy holding a pair of sandals Santa has just given him. His father says, "But Santa, it's winter, so we asked for boots for our son!" Santa replies: "I know, but the only; thing available in the state store was a pair of sandals."

"I know, I know," Borts sighed, "If you think that's bad, what about the time I wrote the quotas for the total number of shoes to be made, instead of specifying pairs of shoes, and one plant produced only left shoes! But having the system make good shoes wasn't the point."

l asked what was.

"Power is the point. Think of the power I had! I could travel anywhere in the country and look at people's feet and know that I was the one who had decided what they'd wear! It was a heady experience. I can tell you!

"This hair-brained scheme of the Chairman won't last," he vowed. "It will expose for all the world to see the fundamental contradiction of the capitalist system he's trying to follow."

The fundamental contradiction of capitalism?

"It gives all power to the people. The ordinary, uneducated people. What do those people know about shoes compared with what I know about shoes? Look at your own country! Is there a government official in charge of shoes? Capitalism leaves out the bureaucracy. And where does that leave me?"

I could see Boris' point. I suggested that, with his expertise, perhaps he could make it as a capitalist-roading shoe manufacturer in the new system.

"Hah! You think there's a market for a man who knows only how to make too many of the wrong kind of shoes? This system must be stopped if the bureaucracy is to live. And the bureaucracy, my friend, will live. We will stamp out this so-called reform like..."

I didn't wait around for Boris to finish. He had taken off one of his government-issue shoes and was banging it on the table. He seemed ready for a long, hard fight.

Science Update

Treating Parkinson's Disease With Surgery

For Jose Luis Meza, the operation changed his life.

Meza's body had trembled and shaken so badly he was confined to a wheelchair. Simple tasks, like walking and writing, were often impossible.

Within two weeks of the surgery, the 35-year-old Parkinson's disease patient began to regain control of his body. He can now walk on his own, tend to his pigs on his farm outside Mexico City and even kick a soccer ball around with his young son.

"The Improvement was very dramatic," said Dr. Rene Drucker-Colin, who performed the experimental surgery on Meza last year at the La Raza Medical Center in Mexico City. "His improvement is not 100 percent. But he is much, much better."

Meza's response and that of others who have undergone the operation has raised hopes among Parkinson's disease patients worldwide that the procedure may provide the first long-term treatment for the devastating brain disease.

Parkinson's disease affects between 500,000 and I million Americans. Victims experience a progressive loss of muscle control.

resulting in a trembling and shaking or the arms and legs, stiffness and loss of balance.

Some patients benefit from taking pills containing a form of a natural chemical known as dopamine. But the pills only help some patients and often work for only a limited time.

Victims experience the death of brain cells in a part of the brain known as the substantia nigra, which produces dopamine for a part of the brain that helps control motor function known as the striatum.

The operation involves removing one of the patient's two adrenal glands that sit atop the kidneys, slicing out a dime-sized piece of tissue from the gland and grafting it onto part of the striatum known as the caudate nucleus.

Because the adrenal gland also produces dopamine, researchers believe the tissue acts like a tiny chemical factory and supplies the missing neurotransmitter.

When Drucker-Colin and his colleagues reported Meza's dramatic improvement and that of a second patient last fall, many researchers were skeptical because a similar procedure produced discouraging results previously in Sweden.

But the report has prompted researchers elsewhere to accelerate plans to offer the operations on an experimental basis to try to confirm the results. Vanderbilt University in Nashville began performing similar operations in April and plans to complete 18 to evaluate the technique's effectiveness.

The Mexican doctors have continued operating and plan to perform the procedure on a total of 20 patients before stopping so they can evaluate the operation's effective-

They also traveled to Havana, Cuba, April 26 to operate on one patient there, Drucker-Colin said.

Critics, however, have charged more studies with animals should have been done before the surgery was used on humans.

"I think going ahead with human trials is way out of line. It seems to me we've jumped the gun. It seems we've jumped the gun considerably," said A. Wallace Deckel, an assistant professor of psychiatry at New Jersey Medical School.

The patients' improvement could be temporary, and have been enhanced by all the attention they have received, critics say. They also question the response because the patients improved on both sides of their bodies even though the transplants were only on one side of the brain.

Drucker-Colin and Dr. George Allen of Vanderbilt defend proceeding with the operations, saying there was enough animal research to support moving to humans. Since the transplanted tissue is positioned near cerebral spinal fluid, the researchers speculate the fluid may be carrying dopamine to the other side of the brain, explaining the improvement on both sides of the body.

In addition to releasing dopamine, the transplants may also help the brain heal itself by releasing substances that benefit surviving brain cells.

Doctors in both Mexico City and Nashville are conducting tests to try to determine exactly how the transplants work and whether the operation does anything to halt the progression of the disease.

Quirks 'They saw the light'

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (UPI) — A single beam of light guided a private boat to four shrimpers who abandoned their sinking trawier and bobbed in the stormy Gulf of Mexico for 90 minutes.

"The thing that saved us was one of the life jackets had a small light," Oscar Valdez Jr. sald Monday. "I started waving it all around, and they saw the light."

Valdez, Gustavo Valdez, Hector Martinez and Javier Diaz were picked up by the State Flamingo, a private vessel that found them clinging together in the heavy seas shortly after midnight Sunday.

The four were aboard the 68-foot Cochise, loaded with 1,300 pounds of shrimp. It began taking on water through a hole in the wooden hull and started to sink.

"Too many tons of water hit us," Oscar Valdez said. "There was a lot of water. I think it was half full already, and it was too late."

The crew made a distress call to the Coast Guard.

"They were about 2 miles east-northeast of the (South Padre Island) jetties. Even during the time we were talking to them on the radio, they were getting ready to abandon the boat. They were going down." Coast Guard Senior Chief Jerry Cartmill sald.

'Thought Police' Prevail On Film

Most U.S. moviegoers may never get a chance to see "The Hanoi Hilton," a film depicting the torments, strengths and group loyalty of U.S. prisoners of war in North Vietnam's notorious Hoa Lo prison.

Diana West wrote in Insight magazine that "critics ruined the film's commercial prospects." Opening in some cities in May, by June it was "long gone from New York and Los Angeles, where movies usually linger in release far longer than anywhere else."

Suddenly "The Hanoi Hilton" was dead. Distributors and theaters would not touch it. West analyzed its fatal bashing. Summarizing her account:

The film enraged many reviewers. Stanley Kauffmann of the New Republic called it "filth." New York magazine's David Denby said: "Sour right-wing sophistries." L.A. Weekley said: a "boneheaded, one-sided, anti-Red cheerleading session." Daily Variety said: "Propaganda pure and simple. Pic is a slanted view ... taking right-wing potshots that do a disservice to the very human drama of the subject."

But one of the film's technical advisers. retired Air Force Col. Leo K. Thorsness, who spent six years in Hoa Lo prison said, "Everything in this film happened."

Some critics were positive. Judith Crist liked the film. Rex Reed called it "powerful" and "inspired." Bruce Williams in Playboy called it "a dynamic drama" and said: "Applauding Oliver Stone's definitive battle epic 'Platoon' was easy for anti-war liberals. who may feel stiffly challenged by writerdirector Lionel Chetwynd's poignant homage to U.S. prisoners of war." So the aging peaceniks went into action.

Chetwynd, who grew up poor in London and Montreal, interviewed more than 100 ex-POWs and spent nine years on "The Hanoi Hilton," which traces the lives of a group of POWs from 1964 until their release in 1973. He called this film "an attempt to honestly render the experience of the POWs as told to me in the best way I know how."

After first screening, producer Menachem Golan said, "This is a powerful, incredible film. It's anti-war and pro-American." Then Golan added that as powerful as the film was, It would meet powerful rejection.

Why? The comments of Michael Medved, who called it "an exceptional film" in reviewing it on public television, answers that. Medved, who had grown beyond his Yale years as a leader of the anti-war movement, found the bad reviews biased, unfair and politically based. He said: "This thought police aspect of film criticism is unbelieva-

Three things, Medved said, infuriated the "thought police": 1. The POWs survived because they were good soldiers with tremendous inner strength. 2. The North Victnamese were shown as cruel, shrewd people who exploited the POWs to manipulate U.S. opinion. 3. The anti-war movement was portrayed as naive.

The "thought police" won. This taught Chetwynd "terrible truths," he said, about people who are locked in the past, who have closed minds. They hated the film's message. So they suppressed it.

Luckily, America is changing. A younger open-minded generation is starting to take over. People who value freedom can be thankful for that.

Unflappable Fitzwater Losing Fizz Fast

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Marlin Fitzwater is still a popular White House spokesman but some of the bloom is off the bush

Transmitting President Reagan's personal feelings, he recently accused reporters of wanting to "destroy" the president in chuming up what he insisted was old ground in the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal.

It was an uncharacteristic accusation by Fitzwater and reflected the style of many of his predecessors. He is unusually unflappable.

But the job gets to them all. He appears more and more reluctant to brief reporters, and looks for ways to shorten the sessions or to cancel them. He has the briefings to once a day, one less than was held by his predecessor, Larry

Fitzwater took over with an open-door policy, but more and more his door is closed to reporters. And although the press corps has been pushing for a news conference with the president, that prospect appears very dim indeed. Fitzwater has indicated there will be no opportunity to quiz the president formally before he embarks on his summer vacation in mid-August at his California mountaintop ranch near Santa Barbara.

Reagan's advisers, not to mention himself, apparently do not want the president subjected to a barrage of questions that inevitably have arisen from the congressional Iran-Contra

So a speech in the aftermath of the hearings is on the drawing board. But a speech cannot replace interrogation. Reagan can cover the points he wants to make and avoid issues in which the response might be controversial.

When Treasury Secretary James Baker was at the White House, serving as chief of staff, he was accessible and on occasion quotable.

But at the Treasury Department he is viewed as the invisble man who does not hold news conferences. When he meets with reporters he almost always insists that he be "on background," meaning he cannot be identified as the source, but rather as an "administration official."

Some of this may be a throwback to his White House days when he spoke to reporters regularly "on background." The few times when he was on the record would be following an election when he would give his assessment of the results.

Baker swapped jobs with Treasury Secretary Donald Regan, who then became White House chief of staff. Treasury reporters say that Regan used to pop down to their press room and toss off answers to their questions, on the record.

But at the White House, Regan learned a lot of things, mainly to protect his identity as the prime spokesman for the president under the guise of "senior administration official."

In the Reagan administration, officials are "on background" more than they are willing to go on the record. Such rules are imposed on officials even when they are not opposed to being identified, and even when the reason for anonymity is obscure.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Truth About Lying

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Criminal law experts believe Lt. Coi. Oliver North, Adm. John Poindexter and other Irangate figures who were involved in what was called "the enterprise" may well face indictment for the possible violation of a myriad of federal statutes.

Among the laws that may have been broken are those that make it illegal to lie to Congress. This could cover what North and others said and didn't say in various briefings and appearances and indirectly in the preparation and dissemination of the so-called "false chronologies."
All involved have insisted they never lied under oath. North adds that he lied only out of fear that "leaks" could jeopardize the lives of the hostages or threaten critical national security operations. But experts point out there are statutes against giving false statements to Congress and those statutes do not specify that to be guilty a person has to be under oath.

Then there is the question of perjury during the actual hearings themselves. Some of the witnesses, especially Poindexter, used the phrase "I don't remember" so often that it became almost a kind of Experts point out that saying you "don't remember" is not some magic incantation that will prevent a prosecution for perjury if it can be shown that the witness should have been able to remember and in fact may have been lying in saying that · he didn't remember.

Likewise, it is clear that some testimony has directly contradicted other testimony. Some of this can be ascribed to different people remembering or interpreting the same events differently. But there are other cases where two people are so sharply at odds over a critical issue that it's clear that one of them is not telling the truth. For example: North asserts that he wrote five memos describing the diversion of arms sale profits to the contras and asking the president be briefed about it and approve the diversion. Poindexter, on the other hand, has insisted that he remembered only one such memo.

North could have problems on several other issues.

Testimony shows that the three treated $3.8 million of the diverted funds as their "profit" and that at least another $500,000 was used as seed money for private business ventures by their Stanford Technology Trading.

DICK WEST

Boring '88 President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I am most grateful to Alan Caruba for enrolling me in the "Boring Party" and I certainly intend to vote next year for its candidates for president.

At this point in the 1988 campaign, I don't know which is the more boring: all those candidates or those who insist on referring to them as "dwarfs."

I notice that the wife of one of the candidates identifies herself as a "dwarfette," but then she may be even more boring than her husband. If such a thing is possible.

Anyway, any doubts I have about Caruba, founder of "The Boring Institute," stem from his capacity as a writer rather than as a politician.

The Maplewood, N.J., resident is, as you may know, the author of "Boring Stuff," a paperback book in which he promises to reveal "the secrets of how to avoid and overcome boredom."

Frankly, I've never been so bored in my life as when I was perusing its pages. One sure way to avoid boredom is not to buy the book. And don't try to save money by waiting for the paperback.

Avoiding boredom is, of course, quite different from overcoming it. For instructions in the latter, I can hardly wait until Mark Leary of Wake Forest University completes his study.

Leary is - I hesitate to say this lest you be bored out of your skull - a psychologist. He currently is "studying why boring poeple are so boring." according to Omni maga-

I wish him every success with the project and I hope he will send me a copy when it is finished. Meanwhile, I suppose we shall have to depend on Caruba's book.

One way, it tells us, to avoid being bored is to "avoid hype." The author defines "hype" as a short form of "hyperbole," meaning "exaggeration for effect." If you find yourself, Caruba says.

"In a frenzy to have the latest hairstyle, the newest fashion, fighting for tickets for a concert or sporting event, you have become a victim of hype."

By that time, it presumably is too late to avoid being bored, especially If you have already sprung for the

Be warned, however, that cluttering up your head with a lot of knowledge may not be the answer. Caruba tells us that virtually any kind of Job can have "periods of boredom associated with it." In particular, I am thinking about air controllers, who may find boredom as mentally damaging as stress.

Although Dale Lowdermilk, founder of a national safety organization, may have spent some time In the Santa Barbara, Calif., control tower, one of his proposals for reducing the chances of midair collision is to permit only one aircraft to fly over the United States at any given time.

That suggestion surely is sagacious enough, but ask yourself this: With only one plane at a time to worry about, would not Lowdermilk and his fellow air controllers soon be reading Caruba's

Abuse Trauma Persists

By United Press International

Depression in women who were sexually abused as children resurfaces after the women become new mothers, a University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill study says.

"During the past decade, there has been rising concern that childhood sexual trauma may have profound and lasting negative consequences for some children," said Ann Evans, researcher at the university's school of nursing. "It has been suggested that some effects may be delayed until triggered by future events such as childbearing and child rearing."

The study "found that 193 of the 569 women interviewed within three months of childbirth answered 'yes' to at least one of three questions indicating childhood sexual trauma," Evans said.

These women had significantly lower scores on three standard psychological tests designed to measure depression, the study

'Women in the childhood sexual trauma group also were nearly twice as likely to be divorced or separated than others," Evans said.

Evans said despite varying incomes, education and marital status of the women, the abused group consistently scored worse on the three psychological tests.

The study was unveiled at the Family Violence Research Conference at the University of New Hampshire in Durham, N.C.

New Painkiller

Scientists in Israel have derived a potent painkiller from the Cannabis plant that lacks the undesirable effects of hashish, according to a report from Hebrew University in Jerusalem. Preparations from Cannabis, such as hashish, have been known for millenia to have painkilling properties, but doctors have been reluctant to prescribe the substance to patients because of the "high" that accompanies it.

The new compound, called HU 211, has been tested on laboratory rats, mice and pigeons with good results, according to Raphael Mechoulam, from the school's department of natural products.

He sald researchers plan to test the new drug on human volunteers

In laboratory animal tests, the new compound was found to be several times more potent than morphine as a painkiller. Its effects appeared to last for several days.

Education Department Strikes Soft Bargain

By Jack Anderson And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON - The Education Department needs some schooling in elementary contract procedures. At least that is the conclusion of its inspector general.

Failure to drive respectable bargains with contractors, and unauthorized changes changes after work has begun have cost the taxpayers a bundle, the IG auditors charged. In a recent report and in interviews with our reporter Karen Talley, they questioned the ef-fectiveness of the department's Grants and Contracts Service.

One "task order" contract, for an accounting system, for example, wound up costing $1.7 million instead of the original $168,156. according to IG auditor Charles Brennan. And even with the tenfold escalation in price, the accounting system never measured up and was scrapped within five years, Brennan

Ralph Olmo, the department's comptroller at the time, said the two cost figures could not fairly be equated. He said the $168,156 was a base figure that changed with subsequent task orders - work added after the original contract is signed — and was never intended to cover development of the complete accounting system.

That, the auditors responded, "only reinforces our basic point: that task orders were used in a haphazard and uncontrolled manner to build an ineffective system."

One problem is that the Grants and Contracts Service has failed to keep unauthorized officials from making changes after the contracts have been signed. The auditors found more than $475,000 in added costs because of extra work ordered by three Education Department offices: $178,995 by Civil Rights. $216,727 by Special Education and Rehabilitative Services, and

million of the contract of the $81.647 by Educational Research and Improvement.

The program officers who made unauthorized commitments gave the auditors two explanations for ordering the extra work: They said it was urgently needed and/or they didn't know that only the Grants and Contracts Service is empowered to arrange contract changes.

As the auditors pointed out, the unauthorized amendments to the contracts probably wound up costing the government more than if the changes and prices had been negotiated by Grants and Contracts Services officials. Even then, of course, once a contract is awarded, the department has little or no leverage on the contractor.

The auditors weren't all that pleased with the contract service's performance even when it did exercise control. They cited a $2.6 million settlement paid to a disgruntled contractor to drop his claim against the department. The dispute involved a contract option and the manner in which the contract service invoked it.

On one point at least, the auditors' criticism was more of form than substance. They questioned a contract for a stenotypist at $62.50 an hour that lacked documents to show that it was "analyzed and negotiated" before being approved. Olmo said the fee was in fact reviewed by the Grants and Contracts Service and was deemed reasonable - and our own research in the Washington, D.C., area shows that the hourly rate was not excessive.

The department plans to educate officials in the various divisions on the facts of contracting life, drilling them particularly on the point that the Grants and Contracts Office has sole authority to make changes after contracts have been signed. The auditors have also expressed the hope that better contract management would avert costly claims settlements.

Has the media gone too far for reporting on the private lives of public officials?

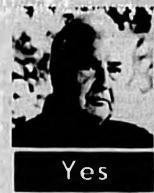

McCARTHY: I don't think they make a very good case for what they're doing. They may have a case, but they haven't made it. I think it takes a more rational explanation than the press has given for what seems to be now an open field. Where is the line to be drawn? It seems to me that it is the responsibility of the press to concern itself with that.

WATT: I believe that a person in public life must be willing to handle all questions about his private as well as public life. How he responds to that should be judged by the press and the readers. Nothing should be considered off-base. The press should feel free to ask anything and

What did you think of the Gary Hart story?

McCARTHY: The Hart case was a bit unusual in that he seemed to almost want to demonstrate an independence from conventional standards. In the case of other persons, it was a matter of their having kept it rather private and not having made such a public display, almost challenging the press to make the case against them, i think the Hart case was a marginal one. It's probably on Eugene McCarthy served more than 20 years in Congress and ran for president in 1968 and 1976.

Didn't you once joke that since public figures could no longer successfully sue for libel, duels should be allowed? McCARTHY: It was the traditional acceptance at the time the Constitution was adopted that the press could write anything that was true. But if you published things that were not true, it was actionable. There was no need to prove that the intention was good or bad. If it was laise, it was false. At the time the Constitution was adopted, duels were rather common. It may be that we could have a general rule that any institution that claims special privileges and prerogatives above those that are generally accepted have to be answerable at sunrise. What do you see as the basic issue in this

WATT: The real issue is accountability. The candidate must be accountable for his past deeds. actions and words so that he can be accountable for his future activities. In the same way the press must be accountable for the way they ask the questions and handle the answers to those questions. The problem we have in America today is that the press is an elite segment of our society. The U.S. Supreme Court said the press was not liable for libeling a public figure unless malice was used. As a practical matter, malice can seldom be established. I believe if the press libels a person, even a public official, beyond reasonable, prudent man standards, they ought to pay the financial consequences.

Ollie's Blinding Razzle-Dazzle

I don't understand the national hero worship of Ollie North. However, I have given it the college try because lots of people buying into the mania are good, solid folks, some of them my friends. So, confronted with this quandary, I tried to put myself in their shoes and see how I would react.

I tried to solve my confusion by changing issues. Since I don't support aid to the Contras, but many people think the fight in Nicaragua is politically important and ethical, I chose an issue I do believe in. What, I wondered, would have been my reaction if the issue had been the civil rights battle of the 1960s? I imagined a government ee, much like Ollie North, being grilled by the likes of Hubert Humphrey and Scoop Jackson.

"Yeah, I was out in the hall shredding the plans to send the National Guard to Oxford, Miss., while Sen. Humphrey waited for me in my office," he might testify. As I considered the prospect of ending the inexcusable conditions we'd forced blacks to live under in this country. I admit the lying. stealing and hiding didn't seem so terrible. I'm not proud of it, but there it is. As much as I might proclaim that taxpayers have a right to expect honesty and forthrightness from their public servants, I am not immune from believing the ends just might justify the means, if I believe in the ends. As I said, I'm not proud of it. But I know in my heart I would be more sympathetic if the pro-Contra crusade were mine.

But from the comments I've heard from all over the nation, I think the North supporters are divided into two distinct camps: those who favor the Contras and support North because they support the cause; and those who believe he is a courageous patriot who should be respected because he either did what he believed in or because he is a scapegoat, a good little soldier left on the battlefield when it was discovered the troops were charging the wrong

That's the picture of Ollie North I just can't understand. After days at the witness table, the picture that emerged was not of a good soldier obeying orders. He was a gleeful conspirator, his descriptions rich with the intoxication of plotting from the ground up and loving every minute of it.

It is the portrait of a man who can justify his own actions, no matter what they are. His excuse for lying to Congress was that "lives could have been jeopardized" had he been open about his activities. That argument pales when you realize that some of those lives wouldn't have been jeopardized if he hadn't helped create the danger in the first place.

North's facility at rationalization was perhaps the most amazing part of the whole amazing spectacle. Without taking a new breath, he'd go from some astonishing description of his own plotting to "I saluted smartly and charged up the hill," and so transfer the blame to his superiors.

In the U.S. military of Ollie North, the soldier not only obeys orders, he creates them. Then, when the orders are ouestioned, the soldier pitches the blame back at his commanding officers: "It's your fault for letting me!"

No. Ollie North isn't a scapegoat. He's a soldler with a lot of talent and potential run amok. The razzle-dazzle of his testimony is so fresh that we haven't had much time to reflect on his motives of actions. I think those Ollie North T-shirts will be going to the backs of our dresser drawers pretty soon, as soon as we begin to figure him

To correct our many bottlenecks and traffic problems, we need a western beltway and an eastern beltway around Sanford, Longwood, Altamonte Springs and Orlando. We need to divert the Disney World traffic along with others around Orlando, not funnel it into the I-4 corridor through Orlando.

The beltway should go north past Oviedo, cross the St. Johns River at a narrow point into Volusia County, then west past DeBary and then south Into Lake County.

This way the Disney World and other through traffic could take the beltway near DeBary and get back on 1-4 south of Orlando.

Seminole County Mothers Against Drunk Drivers is asking all citizens concerned about drunk driving to help get an Omntbus Bill passed by the Governor in special session in September. Governor Bob Martinez will be looking over a bill that will hopefully help make stricter laws for persons convicted of driving under the influence. This bill contains:

- Downgrading of the requirement for Habitual Traffic Offender designation from 15 convictions to 10 in a five year period.
- Stipulation it be unlawful to withhold adjuducation under the juvenile or youthful offender law.
- Requirement of supervisedminimum mandatory probation with treatment for convicted DUI offenders.
- Removal of exemptions when emergency personnel may draw
- Elimination of the Pre-Arrest Breath Test.
- Mandatory DUI School for conviction of reckless driving (with substance abuse involvement) and DUI school for refusal.
- Clarification of language in last year's DUI statute.

Attorneys Causing Zoo Problems

I have viewed the ongoing zoo dilemma with more than casual interest from a "having been there" position.

I believe the problems of the (Central Florida) Zoological Society were brought on by the lack of insight and leadership by attorneys who are former presidents. They enjoyed the pseudo-militaristic atmosphere surrounding the director and did not realize that they were being used. Director or dictator? Without supervision there is a thin line.

I cannot understand why these gentlemen of reputed character and wisdom interested in the zoo's welfare now would try to bring it down because the actions of the present board of directors does not suit them.

Deficit Linked To Law Loopholes For Rich

Who is to blame for the federal deficit? The Democratic Congress blames the President. The President blames Congress. Representative James Courter (R.-N.J.) blames the loopholes in the laws made by Congress.

In an article in Reader's Digest (June 1987) "Time to End Corporate Welfare" Representative Courter tells how the loopholes in our federal credit, loan and subsidy programs intended to help small, struggling businesses and family farms, allow manipulators in Congress to channel funds to large corporations.

Representative Courter gives examples calling the corporations by name. A large poultry producer with annual sales of $1.5 billion was given the status of a family farm so they had to pay only one third of their $37.5 million taxes due for 1986!

Another corporation with 85,000 acres in cotton received $11.6 million in crop subsidies. A small farm?

Most Nose Jobs Changes Are Out Of Sight

UPI Science Writer WASHINGTON - In the new hit movie "Roxanne," hero C.D. Bales, a modern-day Cyrano de Bergerac, supposedly cannot have a nose job because of an allergy to anesthesia.

Several misconceptions continue to circulate about nose jobs, or rhinoplasty, according to Beeson and Dr. Sherrell Aston. head of the public education committee of the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive

One is that the operation is performed under general anesthesia. In fact, more than 90 percent are done with a combination of sedatives and local painkillers, Aston said. A patient may complain of having experienced such an allergy, usually after receiving a member of the Novocaine family. What most often surfaces is that the patient had a local anesthetic at the dentist's office and experienced a rapid heartbeat, Aston said.

The heart speed-up was most likely due to adrenalin present in the anesthetic to constrict blood vessels and control bleeding. Aston said. In that case, another "caine" drug will be used, even though an actual allergy was

Other misconceptions:

-People think they might have to have their noses broken. Actually, any bone work amounts to making incisions and repositioning sections.

-Some think they will be swollen and brutsed months after surgery and that the whole procedure will be extremely painful. Swelling and bruises may actually disappear much sooner, Beeson sald. Aspirin or aspirin substitute the day after surgery is often enough to alleviate pain.

-Heavy bandaging might seem necessary, but often all that is required is a small bandage and splint, Becson said. This can come off after a week. The same goes for packing inside nostrils, which may remain in place only for a few

Move Over 'Hitchhiker'; Adams Writes Again

Dirk Gently's Holistic Detective does not waste words. Take the holistic Agency, by Douglas Adams, (Simon and Schuster, 247 pp., $14.95)

Douglas Adams - the man who provided us with "The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy" - now has produced what could be called a murder mystery.

His new book, "Dirk Gently's Holistic Detective Agency," has a homicide, an innocent suspect and a bit of romance, and keeps you wondering who actually pulled the trigger and why. But unlike more conventional whodunits, this one opens with a description of a place that sounds like something Salvador Dali might paint in the throes of a particularly bad hangover.

The second chapter apparently moves to another place and time in order to introduce the Electric Monk, a laborsaving device programed to hold beliefs. Chapter Three lands us in present-day London with Susan, who has been stood up, which prompts her to call Michael to say she is free for the evening.

By this point, most people will be thoroughly baffled, but few will be tempted to stop reading. This is wellwritten, entertaining confusion. And those who don't pay close attention will miss basics on which the plot is built. Adams

The authors do not adequately describe the MOVE actions that led to the confrontation and seem content to present the cult as innocent victims of official repression.

Half of the book is devoted to the trial of Ramona Africa and much of the text simply repeats the MOVE speeches members make each time they appear in

Sunning And Surfing

OSAGE BEACH, Mo. (UPI) -Midwesterners are attracted to sun and surf as much as anyone nicely with lakes, rocky shorelines and water parks.

People love the cool refreshing activities," said Mike Woody, director of operations at Whitewater, a water park near Table Rock Lake in southwest Missouri.

Lake of the Ozarks, created by the construction of Bagnell Dam on the Osage River in 1929. draws more than 2.5 million vacationers to central Missouri each summer. Along the shoreline are public parks, recreational facilities and pricey

Local residents take advantage of the two public beaches at Lake of the Ozarks to avoid tourists at the nearby resorts.

Joan Huebner recalled she and her busband and two children would go often to Public Beach No. 2 near Bagnell Dam when they lived in nearby Montreal,

"We have seen this beach when it was wall-to-wall people," said Huebner, who now lives in Parsons, Kan., and was in the area for a weekend visit.

But at that time of day, she and about 40 other people were the only ones on the tiny beach. mostly parents watching their small children wading.

The crowd changes in the mid-afternoon when the families leaveandthe teenager-to-early-20s crowd appears, said Steve Brown, 21, of Lake Ozark.

"This is the hangout," Brown said, claiming he was there "trying to pick up women." Brown and Huebner admitted they preferred an ocean beach to the lake.

that's refreshing when it's 95 degrees out,"

Don Sparks of Olathe, Kan., a Kansas City suburb, spent a weekend at the Tan-Tar-A resort else, but instead of white, sandy at Lake of the Ozarks, which is ocean beaches, they make do about 175 miles from both Kansas City and St. Louis.

"I usually don't like to swim at the state parks because the crowd gets wild. When I swim, it's more fun lying at the pool at my age." sald Sparks. 33.

"Also, the Lake of the Ozarks is a muddy lake. It's rocky. You pretty much need to wear tennis shoes."

Several smaller resorts around the lake have their own private beaches for guests, offering smooth, sandy lakefronts.

"The lay of the land and the nature of the rock here, they need to be man-made beaches," said Joel Pottinger, executive director of the Lake of the Ozarks Convention and Visitor's Bureau.

The rocky shoreline of Oklahoma's man-made lakes resembles those found in Missouri, which sometimes can create a "beach" problem.

There are no beaches at Grand Lake. They wash away." said Marlee McCormick, a spokeswoman for Shangri-La Resort and Conference Center near Afton in northeastern Oklahoma. However, a grassy area is available near the lake, in front of the lodge.

Kansas is dotted with lakes and reservoirs with beaches in 21 state parks. Of the 4.4 million people who visited Kansas parks and lakes in 1986. about 11 percent were from out of state, said Pat Sidebottom of the state's Parks and Resources Authority.

In Ohio, a chain of islands in the western end of Lake Eric is drawing increasing numbers of people, both locals and tourists. But another woman, who Lake Erie, once considered a "dead lake," has been cleaned summed it up simply: "When up in the last 20 years, prompting a resurgence in beach-going.

Minnesota has 15,000 lakes However, swimming is not the more than 10 acres in size, only activity pursued on according to the Minnesota Tourism Office. There are two dozen urban lakes, many with beaches, in the Twin Cities metropolitan area.

"There is swimming every place (in Minnesota)," said Nancy Myhre, of the Minnesota Tourism Office, "Nearly every town that has a lake in it has a
