Unusual Party Given By Mr. and Mrs. Ford

FT. MYERS, Mar. 12.—(AP)—Henry Ford, wearing a chef's starched hat, and Mrs. Ford, dressed in the conventional black and white costume of a maid, gave one of their old-fashioned dances at a unique party here last night. Mrs. Thomas Wilson, wife of the inventor, also attended dressed as a maid. A breakfast supper was served at a private dining room of an inn. The regular tables were cleared away and the guests were seated at improvised tables made of boxes. The menu consisted of onion soup, fried chicken, cakes, with fresh fruit, mince, blueberry pie, and stick candy. A three-piece orchestra played while the Fords gave an old-fashioned dance.

NOTICE SERVED BY DRY FORCES OF NEW DRIVE

Additional 500 Agents Will Be Thrown Against Violators of Prohibition Statute

WASHINGTON, Mar. 12.—(AP)—Prohibition Director Woodcock yesterday served notice upon 500 new agents, to be thrown against them in a carefully planned campaign, more strenuous than any in recent prohibition history.

At the same time he disclosed figures for enforcement during the month, showing that 10,000 gallons of alcohol and 100,000 gallons of wine and beer had been seized.

"Surely this is a record in commercial violation of prohibition," Woodcock said. "In one state alone, New York, we seized stills with an aggregate daily capacity of 50,000 gallons."

Four points stood out in the formation of the new enforcement campaign.

One was the issuance of orders to every prohibition administrator and his deputies to submit to Washington plans for dove-tailed operations involving the 500 agents.

Another was the announcement of the intended purchase of 500,000 gallons of automobile gas.

With this notification of all administrators to select their quotas of new agents from the list of 3000 eligible, having their duty by July 1, plans also were laid for sending them to school.

Lastly, Woodcock made known the creation of an "intelligence" division to study "enemy" operations.

"We want to have a definite plan of action for every section before July 1," he said. "There is no longer increased facilities unless those of a campaign to employ them. And I want some real things done up in New York, and get away from the old policy of living and opening agencies in later on a day by day basis."

Approximately 150 of the new force already have been selected and put to work, Woodcock said.

Senator Norris Demands Progressive President In Talk Before Independents

WASHINGTON, Mar. 12.—(AP)—The conference of political independents focused its attention on the 1932 presidential race in its closing hours yesterday with a demand by Senator Norris for the election of a "progressive president."

Rejecting President Hoover as a "power trust" man, the Nebraska Republican also gave notice to the Democrats that a candidate chosen on the platform offered by the political convention would be warring by the Nebraska's declaration that "we need another Roosevelt in the White House."

But he mentioned no specific candidate and conceded inability of a third party to be successful at this time.

When asked later if his reference to "another Roosevelt" meant Governor Roosevelt of New York, prominently mentioned Democratic candidate, he said:

"I never thought about that. I guess they will all think that," he added.

Norris has expressed friendship to Roosevelt previously but this year he declined to commit himself on candidates.

The Norris speech, broadcast over the Columbia radio system, opened the final discussion of the conference on public utilities which Senator Norris has projected as the dominant issue of the next campaign.

Earlier in the day, under the leadership of Senator La Follette, Republican, of Wisconsin, the conference received proposals for a five-day week, establishment of an economic council, and greater extension of federal construction and unemployment.

Senator Norris also expressed regret at the Hoover administration and accused that the industrial, financial and political leadership of the nation has broken down.

The two-day conference adjourned last night with committees appointed to carry on the work in a permanent organization with the immediate attention directed to the formulation of a legislative program for the next year.

Public utilities, tariff, unemployment, agriculture and the return to representative government were the legislative topics assigned to the committees. Senator La Follette assured that the independents in Congress were prepared to exercise their balance of power.

GOTHAM GRAFT SEEN AS LONG STANDING EVIL

New York's Municipal Scandals Have Been Running Minus Let- up For Four Years

NEW YORK, Mar. 12.—(AP)—New York City's municipal scandals, which have now reached a climax, are seen as long standing evils.

George C. Train, have been running without let-up for four years. A few days ago Maurice E. Connolly, former borough president of Queens, stepped out of the penitentiary. The scandal that jelled him was the first of the four-year series.

Connolly, his borough engineer—Frederick B. Seely—and John M. Phillips operated the Queens sewer graft. Taxpayers were swindled out of millions—millions running all the way from $2,000,000 to $15,000,000.

Phillips, now dead, was a manufacturer of sewer pipe. Seely rigged specifications so that only Phillips' pipe could be used and Phillips charged double price.

The result, Queens got excellent sewer, but thousands of small home owners were wiped out by excessive taxes. Seely and Connolly were sent to jail for a year.

The street cleaning department was another scandalous line. Early in 1928 William J. Loughhead, a stable foreman, confessed that for years it had been customary to pad payrolls. No accurate total of the pad was arrived at, but evidence before Commissioner of Accounts James Higgins showed it was large. Loughhead and two others went to jail.

Next, dirty work in the county clerk's office was exposed. Clerk had been pocketing fees. Three of them, who had profited about $50,000, got prison terms.

The City Trust company scandal followed.

Accompanied by 200, L. W. Weller, manager of the Millers Theater where Canfield will appear today and tomorrow in an expose of gambling, the former gambler entered The Herald office, asked for a few moments use of a desk, and for more than 10 minutes proceeded to perform and explain several of the more important card and dice tricks which are in use by the slick of the gambling world hourly. Tricks which were astounding in their frank deception, tricks which appeared to be impossible, yet, with the aid of 10 slender fingers which manipulated cards and dice as if by magic, were performed without a hitch, once again demonstrating the oft-heard saying that "the hand is quicker than the eye."

Canfield's most mystifying stunt was his ability to deal cards off the bottom and just below the first card of a deck. He can take a deck of cards, turn the top card face up, and deal out the entire pack apparently without moving that top card. He can deal out several hands of cards in any of a hundred winning combinations and not once fail to deal himself a hand which will throw any of them. He can throw dice from a scrapped ship as fast as 200.

Aged Indian Woman Freud By Sentence

BUFFALO, Mar. 12.—(AP)—Nancy Bowen, 65-year-old Seneca Indian, today was sentenced to imprisonment of from one to 10 years for manslaughter in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Clotilde Marchand, artist. Nancy, who freely admitted the killing, but declared it was done because she believed Mrs. Marchand was a "white witch," pleaded guilty to the charge Tuesday. The effect of the sentence was to set the aged Indian woman free immediately, the judge stipulating that the year she has been in custody should be counted as her prison sentence.

AUTO SHOW OPENED TODAY MANY ATTEN-

Wide Display Of Cars And Accessories Offered At Annual Exhibition At Hotel

Late this afternoon, but a few hours after the doors of the Mayfair Hotel had swung open, the annual Sanford Automobile Show, upwards of 1000 people had visited the decorated lobby and ballroom of the former hostelry, commencing here and questioning there, and for the most part expressing themselves as well pleased at having had the privilege of witnessing a display of automobiles and accessories which has scarcely ever before been equaled locally.

The combination of warm weather, busy and efficient salesmen who were willing and anxious to acquaint their hearers with the fine points of the automobiles displayed, and the inviting luxuriance of every article on exhibition tended to create a picture of green and prosperity which was well for the success of the show.

The visitor to the show, upon entering the main door of the building, sees before him the well-arranged Chevrolet line, featuring the White-Highlyman Co. Five of the representative cars that line are on display, headed by a sporty color job in roadster, and an one half truck, two models of a coupe complete that exhibit which under the direction of Salesmen Trawick, Thompson, Donald and Cooley.

To the right and just beyond the Chevrolet exhibit the Motor Car Company displays the first word in Franklin eight cylinder cars, one a four door and the other a coupe. Ultra-modern lines attract the eye from first and a close examination of the fittings and upholstery reveal an automobile which personates luxury and convenience. Contending the Kent display the Buick sees two Willys-Knight automobiles, sedans, one a six and the other an eight cylinder. Harry Kent, together with Salesmen May and Perkins, are on hand to point out the features of the cars.

Sid Rife, president of the Benning Motor Co., will be the smiling exhibitor one sees as he swings away from the Kent Motor Co. exhibit and again reaches the center of the room. There will see two of the more modern automobiles on the floor, a Lauxe Cadillac Sedan and a younger companion, a DeLuxe Salle Sedan, both by Cadillac. Those models, he never fails to call his listeners attention to Oakland Sedan and Pontiac Coupe which complete the picture. Ranges are clearly interpreted, one casts his glance from the priced Pontiac to the high priced Cadillac.

Edward Higgins, displaying complete line of Fords, occupies the western part of the show. Salesmen Hight, Fox, and Higgins assist Mr. Higgins in making a visitor feel at home as he becomes acquainted with the new features in Ford cars. Two additional Victoria coupe, and a classic coupe make up the Higgins line which drew all eyes.

LEA CALDWELL BONDS ON BANKING CHARGE

NASHVILLE, Mar. 12.—(AP)—Lea Caldwell, a Nashville banker, was held in $10,000 bonds on a charge of violating the national banking laws. Caldwell, 42, was arrested by federal grand jury at Greenville Saturday charged them and J. Basil Ramsey, president of the closed Holton Union National bank of Knoxville, with conspiring to violate the national banking laws and with violating them in connection with transactions of the bank. Ramsey has made $25,000 profit.

Bonds of $10,000 each were set by United States Commissioner Campbell to insure the defendants' presence in Knoxville for arraignment in federal court there on March 25.

James E. Caldwell, father of the accused banker, and W. G. Simmons of Nashville, qualified as sureties of his bond, and Jesse O. Housley, Jr., Murfreesboro capitalist, and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Smith qualified as sureties for Colonel Lea. Smith is chairman of the Tennessee arm of the Evening Tennesseean, owned by Colonel Lea.

ST. PETERSBURG, Mar. 12.—(AP)—St. Petersburg players will gather here Mar. 25-26 to compete for the American title, under the auspices of the National Shuffleboard Association.

2 Men Evade Report- ing And Photograph- ers Seeking Them

NASHVILLE, Mar. 12.—(AP)—Two men who had evaded their appearance at the federal building since early yesterday morning, Col. Lak Lea, Nashville publisher, and Rogers Caldwell, financier, surrendered last night and made bonds on charges of violating the national banking laws.

The pale-skinned technicalities in submitting to arrest.

Two true bills returned by a federal grand jury at Greenville Saturday charged them and J. Basil Ramsey, president of the closed Holton Union National bank of Knoxville, with conspiring to violate the national banking laws and with violating them in connection with transactions of the bank. Ramsey has made $25,000 profit.

DENISON GOES ON STAND TO REFUTE LIQUOR CHARGES

WASHINGTON, Mar. 12.—(AP)—Denison went on the stand today to refute charges that he was a drunkard and that he had sold liquor to his neighbors. He was held in $10,000 bonds on a charge of violating the national banking laws.

Denison took the stand in the District of Columbia supreme court after the government had ended its testimony and after Justice Peyton Gordon had denied a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal based on the contention that the government had failed to make out a case.

The defense ended its testimony yesterday after putting a number of character witnesses on the stand. Closing arguments were held off until today.

Denison testified his baggage and that of his nephew, Charles F. Lane, Jr., of St. Louis, who accompanied him on a trip to Panama in December, 1928, got "all mixed up" when they disembarked at New York.

He said he had purchased an army locker trunk in Panama and some dishes for Mrs. John Layne, of this city, whom he described as the wife of a former secretary, and his sister, Mrs. Charles E. Lane of St. Louis, and the latter's daughter.

Upon arriving in New York he said, it was bitter cold and he left hurried instructions with the transfer company to ship the army trunk to Mrs. Layne in Washington. The clothes had been placed in the trunk, he said, adding he did not know Mrs. Layne's address and did not go to his room in the base office building.

Dry agents went to the office three days after he arrived and found liquor in the trunk delivered. Denison denied at the time, he said, that the trunk was his as large as the name "R. B. Dawson" on one end. He said his trunk, a similar make, had his name on it on a paper card.

This trunk was produced in court and the defendant identified it as the one he purchased in Panama. A blood analysis performed by Denison said his trunk was found in New York by his nephew, who remained here some time after landing to wait a friend who Lane later took it with him direct to his home in St. Louis.

After communicating with the Lane family and hearing his nephew had taken the trunk west he said he wrote the boy's father, who many broken dishes were found.

St. Petersburg established the first coast-to-coast office in America.

STORY OF LINGLE SLAYING PIECED FROM WITNESSES

CHICAGO, Mar. 12.—(AP)—"Hey, Jake! Play Hy Schneider in the fourth!"

Three men in a rickshab automobile, which was being driven by the corner of Randolph street and Michigan avenue last night, shouting their "hey" to a bustling little man with a "beating form" thrust in his pocket.

"Yes," he shouted back, "I've got him." He stepped briskly down into a pedestrian subway of the Illinois Central railroad.

Hy Schneider, a gilliant gelding of the Valley Lake stable, did not finish in the money that day at the 1000-yard race track, but he was the leading favorite for a grim pay-off in the evening cavern under Chicago's business boulevard, in the shadow of the public library.

For halfway through the tunnel, there was the roar of a pistol and the little fellow dropped—and he was Jake Lingle, crime reporter for the Chicago Tribune.

And Hy Schneider, as police later reconstructed the murder, served to "spot" the finger on Lingle as the shooter in a hired assassin who never before had been a victim. That assassin, prosecutors now say, was Len V. Broderick, who goes to trial for murder soon.

By the sunny June 9 that Lingle was killed, no one could point a finger at the slayer. There was confusion as Lingle crumpled to the concrete flooring. Pedestrians milled about the body, but said little to the slaying slayer.

Patrick Campbell told police he had seen Lingle enter the west end of the subway with two men. As they approached a news stand he saw a man's shadow on the east side of Michigan avenue, one of Lingle's companions stopped for a newspaper, then ran up behind Lingle and shot him.

Just 20 feet ahead of the reporter was Dr. Joseph Springer, a former coroner's physician who knew him intimately. He uttered a cry and saw "a man" fall. At the time he did not realize it was his friend. A blond man ran past him, he said, vaulted a fence at the eastern end of the subway and disappeared.

He agreed with Campbell that the slayer was between 5 and 10 years old, about 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighed about 160 pounds, had light brown hair, blue eyes and wore a medium gray suit and a blond man crept up behind the slayer.

Marcel David told how he saw Schneider's Lingle, first a pistol at his head for a fleeting instant and press the trigger. The slayer hesitated for a second, then his weapon on the ground, and fled. Harry Komes, another witness, said he saw the slayer discard a silk glove from his left hand.

KID CANFIELD IS HERALD VISITOR; DISPLAYS TRICKS

Notorious gambler of a past decade to be at Milane two days.

A powerful sermon against the absurd futility of attempting to beat the professional card sharp or gambler who from time immemorial has lured thousands of unsuspecting victims was preached in the editorial rooms of The Sanford Herald this morning through the medium of a pair of test-flying hands and the smooth suavity of the voice of Kid Canfield, a notorious gambler of the past decade, Canfield, the man who became a reformer after a tragic poker game which ended in the death of a man who proved to be his long-absent brother; Canfield, the man who has gambled with the best of them, who has matched his wits against the late Arnold Rothstein, Gyp the Blood, Lefty Louis and a host of smaller fry among the gambling fraternity was making his first appearance in Sanford.

Accompanied by 200, L. W. The letter was accompanied by an engraved certificate which is not awarded to any hotel unless it is given certain high rating by an inspector.

Senior Class Play Is Presented Last Night Before Enthusiastic Audience

Revealing unusual ability and displaying the effect of intensive training, the senior class play, "A Full House," was presented last night in the Seminole High School auditorium before a large audience whose spontaneous applause and laughter attested its complete enjoyment.

The play, a comedy in three acts, was directed by Miss Helen Young and was produced by special arrangement with Samuel French of New York. Included in the cast was some of the best talent in the school, and the most masterly character they were every evidence of a well-learned.

The plot, developing from a series of misunderstandings which led to many embarrassing situations, offered numerous opportunities for humor. Ed Shuboles, playing the part of Parker, the English teacher, displayed much poise and histrionic ability; while Myrtle Howell, as Ottilie, played a part of a maid, also did a creditable piece of work.

Hardly any other characters were present in the play.

Celery City Bowling Team Forced Into Tie For First Place Honors

By the bare margin of 12 pins, the Celery City Bowling Team, for the past week leaders of the Orlando City Bowling League were forced into a tie for first place after they had made the Home Restaurant club at the West End Hotel. Although they won two games out of three to win the match, the loss of the final game by only 12 pins cost them the honor of the number of games won instead of the number of pins won.

The Sanford entry was in good form in the final game, and without trouble of any kind swept the match.

Paul Donald stepped well to lead the Celery City team. The last game was won by the Celery City team by a margin of 12 pins.

The Celery City team was high in the final game, and at least 12 pins were won by the Celery City team.

Loaded Pistol Found In Nirdlinger Room

NICE, Mar. 12.—(AP)—A loaded revolver was found in the apartment of a Frenchman in Nirdlinger, Philadelphia, who was shot to death Wednesday by his wife, fornicating with her. The weapon belonged to the man and it was concealed in a way that he might have access to it.

The magistrate said he decided whether to prefer charges against the 26-year-old man, killing her husband who was 35 years her senior. Police disclosed that today's disclosure of the revolver is the first in the case. business session, and numerous details in connection with the annual convention were attended to. Reports of the credential committee, roll call of honorary and state guests, presentation of honor guests, reports of each of the state officers and reports of the special committees, filled the morning session.

A special luncheon, served by members of the Children of the American Revolution, was served at the Chamber of Commerce Building. A special musical program was rendered during the luncheon.

The afternoon session was the unveiling of a tablet in memory of the Spanish soldiers who perished near Deland Springs in the nineteenth century, and who were buried in the cemetery on the river bank there. The ceremonies attending the unveiling of the marker, which was affixed to the aqueduct rock foundation of the well preserved ruins, were said to be colorful and impressive. A number of women in the costume of an early Spanish grandee, drew back the curtain to reveal the bronze marker.

A short social period followed the memorial exercises, and, following dinner, the delegates were guests of the Stetson Green Room players at a special performance of the play "Three Wise Fools".

sixth green on the green. Mr. LeRoy's approach was so close that she was forced to back up. She then took a deep trap, that proved to be her undoing, for Mrs. Speer took two putts after a three-foot spin shot which landed her in the cup, while Mr. LeRoy had to take three putts to make the score four-up.

Mrs. LeRoy remained four-up, by taking the seventh hole with a par three, while Mr. Speer took a five after missing a short putt. The wind, which had been slightly hampered play up to that point, blew a regular gust at the women prepared to drive off the tee, and as a result their first shots were sinking shortly into the rough. Before the hole, Mrs. LeRoy made a pair of strokes was necessary, halving the hole.

The eighth hole proved to be Mrs. Speer's best, two consecutive putts, while Mr. LeRoy missed the mark by inches, giving her a par four, and a four-up lead. Mrs. Speer's card for the first nine was 51, while Mrs. LeRoy took a 55.

Mrs. LeRoy was a trifle nearer her usual game at the end of the first nine, and spectators expressed the belief that she would make a quick come-back before the early-noon nine holes were played.

To bear out that belief, Mrs. LeRoy made a gallant attempt to take the tenth hole, when, after a long year were scheduled for the outstanding features of today's sessions. A representative of the national organization was expected to be present to detail plans for a nation-wide campaign of citizenship which will soon begin.

Jealousy If For Husband

St. Louis, Mar. 12.—(AP)—A woman's jealousy was the cause of a husband's death, it was learned today by a jury in a St. Louis court. The woman, Mrs. F. G. Nigh, who at midnight shot her husband, Mrs. Nigh's jealousy was the cause of the murder.

A FINE, big Six with a 100-horsepower motor and a no-horsepower motor that will show you something new in pick-up, speed, smoothness and endurance.

An entirely new Chrysler Six equal like the smart Chrysler Eight.

A new Six with a double-drop frame that crosses a very low center of gravity—giving the car a dashing effect in appearance as well as a perfection of balance that benefits both safety and performance.

In body construction, the New Chrysler Six equals its price paid as cheaply as it does in its chassis and its engine, to be a real body that combines tremendous strength with rich appointments and comfortable roominess—inside or body that really gives you as it carries you smoothly and comfortably over the miles.

There is a new Six display. You will have a look at our value standard which will see if you will get the best of value.

Public Activity

Following the appropriation by Congress, and the federal government of huge sums for building construction, it is anticipated that a boom will soon be under way such as this country has never before.

Climate conditions make it possible for the South to be the leader in this movement and get under way before the program is started in any other section. Furthermore, the construction boom is offering an investment which is being favored by the individual who is somewhat reticent for funds.

Following the gains made in construction activity in the South during the first month of the year, building and engineering contracts awarded in the month of February totaled more than $48,000,000, with $113,000,000 in new work proposed or planned, the Manufacturers Record reveals. Building and general construction awards for the first two months of 1931 aggregated more than $110,000,000.

Able from the proposed public construction, in which there are many major projects awaiting completion of plans or the award of contracts, general engineering and industrial building expansion is making a substantial showing. That advantage is being taken of low prices prevailing in the construction field is evident in the announcement last month in the construction column of the Manufacturers Record of 56 outstanding projects aggregating in value $186,000,000 and covering almost every type of work, included in these projects are building hospitals, the expansion of gas, electric, water, sewerage, waterworks, rail and bus terminals, ports, water plants and bottling plants.

Residence building lags in the South as elsewhere, remaining far below normal requirements for population growth. Present prices are an inducement to build, and those who build now will have an advantage in investment value over previous building costs, or costs which are likely to prevail at any time in the near future.

The Best Location

Recently Col. James Phelan, federal engineer, slipped into Sanford and out again almost as quickly as he had come, but while here he missed nothing which might assist him in making his report to the bureau of disabled homes, upon which will be based the decision regarding the $900,000 Florida home for disabled World War veterans.

He spent an hour in the Sanford hotel thoroughly inspecting its accommodations, position, and general suitability, and was then taken to a 200-acre tract of land two miles south of Sanford which was especially recommended to him. We doubt if he failed to grasp the desirability of this site for the location of the soldiers' home.

Sanford has considerably more to offer also, than mere buildings and land. It has mild climate, not as hot as in the southern part of the state, nor as cold as in the northern section. It is practically in the very center of population for all those Florida veterans who may come to the home or be interested in it. And the fertile agricultural background of this county affords wonderful opportunities for the families of disabled veterans to establish homes and earn their living here.

Of course, Sanford offers but one of thirty possibilities on which Col. Phelan will report, and from which the final choice will be made, and every one of these localities is making as strong a bid as possible for the honor of realizing as they do how much it will mean to the community. But surely Col. Phelan will realize the superior advantages of Sanford's advantages.

THERE ARE TIMES when the police and the parole can be used to humanitarian advantage. Illustration of this came yesterday when Governor Clegg's permission to conditionally release the father of four small children who had been rendered motherless the previous night by an automobile accident that deprived them of the care of their mother. The Herald applauds the interest the governor showed in the case and the dispatch with which he handled the matter. It was a case of emergency in which the lives of four unoffending children were affected. Had the governor been so inclined he could have sought public reaction to the parole by playing for time through the employment of red tape procedure. But he did nothing of the kind, which is to his everlasting credit. The act disclosed him as a man fearless in the discharge of a duty, which is the surest index to an individual's character. — Bradenton Herald.

TELLING THE WORLD

Some of these things have been called signs of times, or signs of our times, if you will. It is not a sign of our times, as the common folk say, but a sign of the times, as the poets say.

My dear lady, they are trying to tell you in important messages. After day we met the handsome form of Red Grant, who was over not only in his own right but also in the eyes of the world. He was over two hundred letters a day. When we were together, he was how busy the blocks of ice were that had been reported to have arrived at Athens. And what the longest run with the pigskin was that had ever been made. After all, he Grant is in possession of it all for his own private use.

What is the matter with it, anyway? Not that we know. Surely we are in a hurry. We have been told that the world is in a hurry. We have been told that the world is in a hurry. We have been told that the world is in a hurry.

"Oh, oh mamma! Nothing is happening again."

BILLIONS

MIAMI HERALD

The world now talks in terms of billions of dollars, not millions, which is too mild a figure. This is true when we take up the question of what is being done to relieve unemployment. It is estimated that the nations of the earth are spending up a building program that involves the expenditure of $11,000,000,000, of which the share of the United States is virtually two-thirds.

This is the statement of Hector J. Fox, assistant chief, foreign construction division, department of commerce. The most prominent single item of relief construction everywhere is road building. The totals for 1931 will probably reach $3,000,000,000, of which the country will spend $2,000,000,000. This expenditure is a result of the automobile industry, which has not yet found other single product. Good highways are essential in all progressive countries, and America leads.

The remaining billions will go into various other construction projects of a public character, with America far in advance of the rest of the world in expenditures.

This country does not stop to count the pennies nor the dollars. She compares in building expenditures with other nations, and she is striking form. Again it is seen in the extravagance of the recent twenty-first congress. Representative Byrns, Democrat, Tennessee, a minority member of the house committee on appropriations, declared the appropriation for the two years ending $1,500,000,000, a record for any time. He asserted this exceeded the grand total of the preceding congress by almost $1,000,000,000, but a billion dollars more or less fails to impress.

These appropriations, he said, cannot be blamed upon the increased loans to World War veterans that called for so appropriate. Money for relief legislation did not exceed $200,000,000, so that played small parts in the bill. Representative Byrns said the president is naturally conservative, but he will not be conservative, although constructive legislation should be made.

It is a billion dollar nation that is coming down some night and knocking us down on the top of our heads.
