

Agrees Road Work Needed Lake Looks On SR 46

By FRED VAN PELT

Second step toward improving and ultimately four-laning State Road 46 between U. S. 441 at Mount Dora on the west and U. S. 1 at Mims on the east is being considered by Lake County and the Florida Department of Transportation at the instigation of Sidney Vihlen Jr., Seminole County Commissioner.

The proposal was reviewed in a discussion between Vihlen and J. M. Hoskinson, chairman of the Lake County Commission, both of whom are members of the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council.

Lake County does not have a four-lane right-of-way plan for SR 46 in its five-year program. The first step is about to be realized in Seminole County. The DOT is evaluating the low bid of $26,629 by J. W. Benedict also was quoted by Vihlen that the Lake County project should be going to coincide with the Seminole building plan, which should be completed within the next six months.

Vihlen shortly will call on the Sanford Chamber, DOT and Lake County officials for a meeting to discuss the inclusion of four-lane right-of-way for Lake's SR 46 project in its five-year program. Benedict and Hoskinson were agreed "now is the time to act" in the matter of obtaining right-of-way.

Vihlen said also he is considering broaching to Orange County that it build a stretch of road connecting the "road to nowhere" with the "bridge to nowhere."

State Road 43 proceeds south from SR 46 in Lake County and stops at the Orange County line. It has no outlets except at SR 46 and it has no homes facing it. The "bridge to nowhere" crosses the Wekiva River in southwest Seminole, at the Orange County line, but there is no connecting road in Orange County.

Benedict explained some years ago that Orange County engaged in supplying funds for building a connecting road.

1 Killed, Six Hurt In Traffic Mishap

By GARY TAYLOR

One person is dead and another in serious condition following a three-car accident on SR 436 south of Casselberry yesterday afternoon. Raymond Edson White, 16, of 7732 Grevellea Drive, Orlando, was killed in the accident.

The death car, a 1966 Chevy II driven by Daniel Gary Sullivan, 23, of Orlando, was attempting to pass a 1969 Dodge Dart Swinger, driven by David Randall Sweat, 19, also of Orlando. The Chevy II ran off the road and came back on striking the right front of the Dodge, causing both drivers to lose control of their vehicles.

The Dodge rolled over twice and came to rest in the median. All five occupants of the death car were thrown out and the car rolled 1 1/2 times into the path of the third vehicle involved. The car came to a stop with the deceased underneath.

Robert J. Berry, 49, of Maitland, his wife, Etta Mae, 43, and a daughter, Karen 12, were not injured as Berry cut to the right and went into a ditch to avoid contact with the death car. Damage to Berry's Dodge Charger was estimated at $500.

Sullivan is in the intensive care unit of Florida Hospital in "serious" condition. Julia Pearce, 15, also a passenger in the death car, is in "satisfactory" condition. Nick White, 18, brother of the deceased, and Delbert Wallace, 20, also were passengers in the Chevy II and were treated and released at Florida Hospital.

Sweat and one of his passengers, Eric Sands, 18, of Orlando, were not injured, while another passenger, Lee Brockel 19, suffered minor injuries.

A witness told authorities that the two cars apparently were drag racing or attempting to drag race at the time of the accident. Both cars were "totaled."

Troopers Robert Lovering and C. L. (Tommy) Tomlinson are investigating the accident. According to Tomlinson, both Sullivan and Sweat have been charged with reckless driving.

Burglary Hamper Proposed

By ANN SIECZKOWSKI

Through the cooperation of the Police and Sheriff's departments with SISTER, Inc., of Sanford, "Operation Identification" will become a reality in Seminole.

"Operation Identification" was first brought to public attention by the March issue of "Better Homes and Gardens" and was publicized in August Reader's Digest and more recently in "Parade".

This program is reputedly an effective method of drastically reducing the number of thefts by breaking and entering.

According to Reader's Digest, "Thousands of households are in more than 40 California communities have been dramatically reducing burglaries through a simple idea which not only discourages, theft, but aids police in identifying and recovering stolen property."

"This is accomplished by having driver's license numbers engraved on valuables most frequently stolen from homes — items such as TV sets, radios, hi-fi's, tape recorders, cameras, tools, jewelry, musical instruments, bicycles, and many others which can be decided by the individual."

"If stolen, these items are really too "hot" to handle because the license can readily be used by authorities to trace the owner. Each home owner places a small blue and yellow sticker on his front door which notifies would-be thieves of these facts."

"Operation Identification" began in Monterey Park (population 50,000), in 1963, only six burglaries have occurred there among the participants and only one license engraved object has been stolen.

The city's unlicensed residents have suffered more than 1,000 burglaries!

Because Florida license numbers change each year, SISTER has proposed that automobile

Schools Open Tuesday Student Record Is Seen

By BILL SCOTT

Approximately 22,500 pupils are expected to throng the 30 Seminole County schools when the systems opens tomorrow for the first time in the year when the first day crowd will be expanded by another 1,000 students.

Teague's figures include all students from kindergarten through 12th grade.

Teague Middle and Forest City Elementary are supposed to open for the first time Tuesday to admit pupils in the Sand Lake Road area.

Forest City should have no problems meeting the opening but even the most optimistic have expressed wonderment over the continued insistence from school officials that Teague Middle School for grades 6-8 also will be completed in time for Tuesday classes.

Some 1,000 teachers and other school personnel also are expected to "greet" the vacationing young as they troop back to begin another nine months of the "three R's."

A relief for many teachers and parents, not to mention pupils, is the decision by the School Board to do away with double sessions at all county schools this year.

Teague says it is still too early to "estimate" what the Walt Disney World opening will have on the school system but he noted there has been increases in persons moving into all county parts, including Sanford, which until this year has not experienced the influx that has been felt in South Seminole for years.

New wrinkles in the curriculum this year is the expanded vocational courses which have been included at county high schools, industrial electronics has been added at Orviso High.

The city's unlicensed residents have suffered more than 1,000 burglaries!

Because Florida license numbers change each year, SISTER has proposed that automobile

Two State Troopers Honored By Jaycees

Two Florida Highway Patrol troopers have been recognized for professional excellence by the Sanford-Seminole Jaycees. The local Jaycee chapter named dual winners of their "Law Enforcement Officer of the Month" award for September, C. E. (Eddie) DePuy and C. L. (Tommy) Tomlinson were presented the awards in DePuy's room at Seminole Memorial Hospital, where he is recovering from surgery.

The two troopers were recognized for service above and beyond the call of duty during the early morning hours of August 28. It was just after 1 a.m. on that morning that Trooper John Greene wrecked his car at the Lake Mary exit of Interstate 4. DePuy was right behind him, and Tomlinson was not far behind as he came on the interstate at SR 46.

Greene wrecked his car at the Lake Mary exit and DePuy overtook the accident and had to turn around. Both Tomlinson and DePuy arrived at almost the same time from opposite directions.

But DePuy injured his knee as he leaped over a guard rail originated in Daytona.

Nixon: 'Prosperity Without' A War

THURMONT, Md.—(AP)—New prosperity without war and without inflation.

In a message prepared for broadcast from his Camp David retreat, "Nixon acknowledged "there have been complaints; there have been suggestions; there have been criticisms by special-interest groups."

"But the most heartening reaction," to the freeze, Nixon said, "was the surge of national confidence, the reaffirmation of our competitive spirit, the willingness to make personal sacrifice in pursuit of worthy goals by the man in the street, the worker on the job and the homemaker trying to balance the family budget."

Administration officials have steadfastly maintained that the 90-day freeze has strong support from workers, despite sharp criticism of the action from many labor leaders.

"The President cited as 'typical' a letter he said was from a Texas state employee whose wife is a teacher.

He quoted the letter as saying: "We were both due for salary increases in September ... but we will survive ... I've heard the young people using a phrase that might fit: Right sharp criticism of the action."

School lunch tickets will be available in the dining area Tuesday from 7:15 until 8 a. m.

Other new school wrinkles this term will include dress codes for all 36 schools. Middle and high schools will have separate dress codes but each elementary school arranged separate codes after forming committees of parents, students and teachers on formulations to go to the Lyman North gym at the same time.

Following a general assembly program at both campuses, the students will receive their schedules and then proceed to their first period classes. Classes are scheduled for the entire day with students being released at 2:30 p. m. Lunch will be available on campus at a cost of 45 cents. Students may not leave the campus for lunch.

Students and parents are urged to consult their local newspaper for bus routes in order to determine which bus they will ride.

Ryan Bemoans Troubles Firm Is Looking At Port

By BILL SCOTT

Negotiations for the leasing of a Port of Sanford facility to Atlantic Rebar, Inc., a steel firm from Pompano Beach as near completion.

This was disclosed by Seminole County Port Authority (SCOPE) administrator James Ryan to The Herald.

Officials from the firm were in town Thursday to finalize the proposal that would mean employment for 20-25 local persons, Ryan added.

The administrator said Atlantic Rebar had a pre-engineered metal building ready to go to the port for installation. Only requirement for SCOPE would be the improvement of land and the erection of the structure. The steel firm would also want some consideration in the lease payments.

Further 'Freeze' Control Is Urged

By MARGARET SCHERF

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chairman of the Senate House Economic Committee has suggested the Nixon administration's 90-day freeze be followed by wage-price controls based on productivity.

Under the plan advocated by Sen. William Proxmire in an interview Sunday, an industry whose productivity increased at the current average rate of 4 per cent a year could raise wages by 5 per cent and prices by 1 per cent.

A board made up of representatives from organized labor, business and government would determine productivity rates of major industries and require that wage and price increases be based on those figures.

Proxmire projected such a program would create 1.5 million new jobs and find work for 1 million now unemployed.

Oviedo Election Tomorrow

Unopposed for council seats are Ray Beasley, Group 1, mayor of Oviedo; Budney, fruit company, and Johnnie Conley, Group II, running for the seat vacated by Edward Kassel.

They will be seated at the regular October council meeting and will serve for two years.

Polls will be open in City Hall 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.

Area Deaths

Charles S. Morrison, 79, Expires

Charles (Charlie) S. Morrison, 79, of 2860 Hiawatha Ave., died at 3 a. m. today at Seminole Memorial Hospital. Born in Troy, N.Y., he came to Sanford in 1929 from Tampa to manage the Biltz Theater. He was in the theater business for 22 years but retired in order to settle in Sanford with his family. For several years he served as public relations man for the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Active for his age, up until a few years ago he played tennis and even held the city championship. He was a member of First Presbyterian Church, where he had sung in the choir. He is survived by his wife, Laura B. Morrison; son, Dr. Jack C. Morrison; daughter, Mrs. Eleanor McInerney; grandchildren, Mrs. Cynthia Jarrell, Casselberry; Mrs. David Lee, John G. David, 45, of 219 W. 16th St., Sanford, died Saturday afternoon. He lived in Sanford for the past 40 years and was a member of First Baptist Church. He was a veteran of World War II, employed by the Sanford Post Office as a clerk for the past 26 years.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Arlys Sanford; a son, Brent, Sanford; daughter, Mrs. Brenda Blackman, Miami; five sisters, Mrs. Eris Jackson of Sanford; Mrs. Flossie Vining, Mrs. Jewel Lewis, both of Orlando; Mrs. Emy Snodgrass, and Mrs. Oubie Bender, Enterprise. Burial will be in charge of arrangements.

Askew Is Wooed By Demo Hopefuls

TALLHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Gov. Rabin Askew is being wooed by potential Democratic presidential candidates, but he will stay politically neutral, at least until after Florida's March 14 primary.

"He told us absolutely he was not going to get involved in this primary," said Clarence Martin, Southern States' campaign coordinator for U. S. Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

"I honestly do God believe it. His words to Sen. Bayh and myself were that he was not going to be another Claude Kirk and I know he really meant it.

"There are some guys whom I might smile at if they told me that, but this guy I really believe," added Martin.

There seems to be little doubt that each of the Democratic candidates would welcome Democratic presidential candidates, but he will stay politically neutral, at least until after Florida's March 14 primary.

"We'd love to have his support, anybody would," said Bill Raskin, chief strategist for U. S. Sen. Henry "Scoop" Jackson, D-Wash.

The first call from an agent for a Democratic candidate came last Nov. 4, only a few hours after Askew's own election as Florida governor.

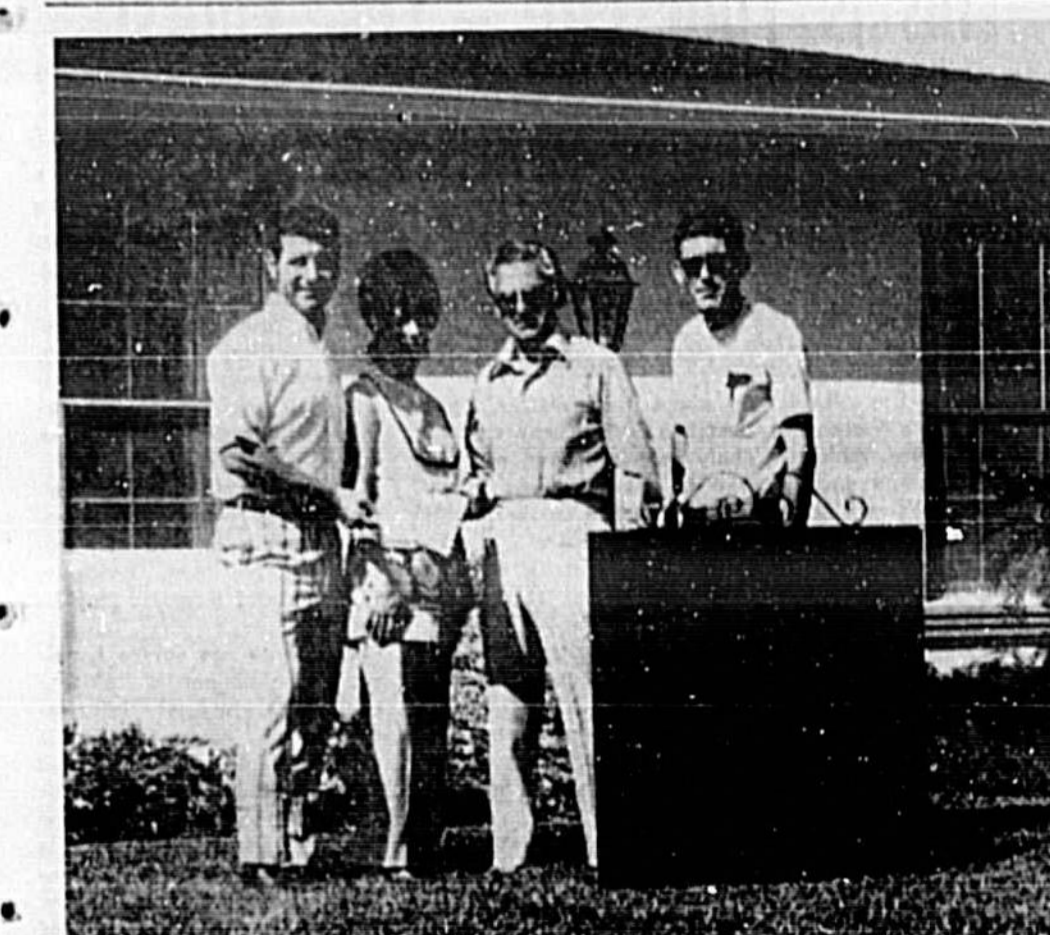

Campaign leaders for U. S. Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, were holding a meeting for potential Florida supporters at a Miami hotel and wanted Askew to attend.

"Absolutely not. He wasn't going to go near them," says a politician then involved in the Askew campaign. "The only way he was going to see them was if they came to him. We were to politely beg off."

Since last November Florida's presidential primary has become a reality and Askew has emerged as an increasingly heard voice among the South's "new voice." He is no longer a little-known state senator from the conservative Panhandle.

Shortly after Askew delivered his Aug. 28 speech on busing before a new college graduates at Gainesville, Muskie's Washington office called to request a copy of the text.

The governor stated his opposition to "massive busing," but said laws must be observed, courts must be obeyed, schools maintained and "emotions of the hour" controlled.

Observers Speculating About Kirk's Comeback

TALLHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—As former Gov. Claude Kirk crosses the country in search of support for an anti-busing crusade, observers here speculate that he may be making a political comeback.

Kirk, chairman of the Parents Against Forced Busing organization, was in California last week drumming up support for the battle against busing and not available to answer the question: "What is Claude Kirk up to?"

But a Democratic insider in the area said that U. S. Sen. Ed Gurney, R-Winter Park, would drop out of politics at the end of his term in 1974 and Kirk would run in his place.

"The word is from Republican circles, not necessarily authoritarian Republican circles, that Gurney isn't going to run again," said the Democratic gadfly. "Maybe Claude's looking at that. Maybe he knows something."

Another observer suggested Kirk would challenge seemingly invincible U.S. Rep. Paul Rogers, D-West Palm Beach, in the 1972 election.

Arts-Crafts Carnival Slated At Maitland

By MARILYN GORDON

MAITLAND—An arts and crafts "Do-It-Yourself" carnival will be held at the Maitland Art Center, 231 Packwood Avenue, Sept. 18, 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Over 25 different forms of creativity are planned. Admission to the grounds will be free with strip tickets to be sold for participation in the various activities.

One feature will be a booth for men only. Frank Harvey will instruct in the decoration of animal and Mayan masks made from palm fronds.

Other types of do-it-yourself arts and craft to be offered include on the spot macrame, pottery, creative writing, "cube" portrait drawings, awareness of animals through stichery, hand puppets, cartooning, paper flower garden, mini-jewelry, tie dye, palm reading and more.

There will be a special "moon party," "flying saucer food" served all day, photographers (who will take singles, doubles and families), palm reading, portraitist and cartoonist, as well as music and the usual carnival setting with balloons.

For adults and young people alike, there will be a gallery exhibit of instructors and student's work and an opportunity to register for the many 10 week classes, which will begin the week of Sept. 27.

The Maitland Art Center will be open daily from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. and on Sundays from 1 to 5 p. m. for class registration and gallery exhibit.

Free Boating Safety Class Opens Sept. 13

Each year across the nation, hundreds of lives are lost on the water. The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary offers free boating safety courses to the public.

Auxiliary courses are taught by experienced boatmen. Instructors have been trained in all the latest techniques, and since they are boatmen, they understand their students.

Today boating is a family sport. The wife and children no longer stay at home while the head of the family is out enjoying the water. For this reason, the Auxiliary believes it's wise for the women and children, as well, to learn boating safety. Everyone is welcome at Coast Guard Auxiliary boating courses.

Color movies, slides, free literature and practical demonstrations are available for your training at the next Coast Guard Auxiliary course, sponsored by 41 Flotilla, starting Monday, Sept. 13, at Coast Guard Building, west of Sanford Zoo, on the lakefront, 7:30 p. m.

Labor Day: Testing Time For Workers

Labor Day, 1971, could well become a landmark date in the 82-year-old history of this national holiday.

Originally intended to be celebrated with a parade and festivities, in accordance with an 1889 request from Peter J. McGuire, founder of the carpenter union in New York City, it has become a rallying point for the forces of labor.

This year, however, it takes place in the unrest which has shaken the economic fabric of the nation, indeed of the world, following President Nixon's momentous announcement of a change in direction of the national economy.

Sharp words from the leaders of unionized labor and unwise reports from administration spokesmen would let those who want to so interpret this move as either of two things:

1. The end of the historic free enterprise system and the entrance of governmental controls which will never be relinquished.
2. The appearance of a policy which would favor big business interests and militate against the economic well-being of the rank-and-file.

What needs to be remembered, however, is that what is taking place is a struggle which involves big labor, big business and big government. The federal government, not at all incidentally, is the largest employer of all.

For while we may stand aghast at the growth of big labor and the gradual but persistent change in labor's aims; or we view with alarm big business which seems at times to be busily destroying itself while unaware of it; we should become keenly conscious that it is bureaucracy — within and without government — which has choked up the biggest gains since WW II.

On this Labor Day, however, it is time for Labor to think hard and to think straight about what part labor has played and is playing in shaping the destiny of their land.

If the lot of the worker is to be viewed, then it can only be observed that the admittedly extraordinarily high wages, now accepted as normal, have little real bearing on real wages. For this is what the dollar in the pay envelope will buy.

Not how many greenbacks, but how many loaves of bread or suits of clothes are in the pay envelope. Inflation is the thief. Thus it is only common sense that labor does nothing to make this thievery easier or more certain or unlikely to bring retribution.

One aspect of the role of labor is inextricably entwined with the very dangerous and very threatening state of affairs in the imbalance in export trade.

This cannot be laid entirely at the door of American labor's insistence on proper wages for all workers and the resultant higher cost of production than American exporter has to face. Yet this is a recognized factor and one which must be solved.

The 90-day freeze of wage-price-rients will end in November. This will be the time when the chips will be down. That it will come to a shattering halt and stop, cannot be predicted for some adjustment and handling which will test the patriotism, the devotion and the true commitment of every one concerned.

Big government will be at work trying to prepare machinery to handle the complexities which will be laid on it for their actions which will be carefully scrutinized by the other major factors.

Above all, however, Big Labor will be at a time when history may well record this period as not only as of landmark proportions for the American workingman and his leaders stands revealed in its might.

Construction, particularly housing construction, in postwar years has been an effective gauge of the state of the national economy.

So the government, seeking to stimulate the industry — and hopefully the business community, has moved to make more money available for some mortgages.

There is room for reasonable doubt on the potential impact. Does a flurry of housing starts give impetus to an economic surge? Is it indeed highly visible evidence of a healthy business atmosphere?

Figures released by the Commerce Department for July tend to dispute both assumptions.

The July total of private housing starts indicated that construction for the year will reach 2,180,000 dwelling units, highest since the record of 2,120,000 in 1950.

The rate for the first six months of this year was up 18 per cent from the corresponding period in 1970.

Obviously the building activity has stirred hope that a revitalization of the entire economy, while lagging, cannot be far behind.

This week's actions by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and by the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp., reducing the reserve requirements of savings and loan associations and cutting interest rates to associations on funds for FHA and VA mortgages, is designed to maintain the construction pace.

Interest rates have been creeping upward, threatening to put a damper on the building surge. And interest rates were not included in President Nixon's recent order freezing wages, prices and rents.

By promoting a more cooperative spirit in acceptance of the tough campaign against inflation and by nurturing the hint of new economic vitality promised by the building surge, the government is covering all bases in the drive to achieve its dual goal.

Medical histories are on file. Depending on the range of benefit and services we have sought, and the types of jobs we have tried to qualify for, those histories may be incredibly detailed.

That properly worries Professor Miller, for one thing, is this trend toward centralizing all this immense information in just a few key data banks.

Drawn together, this information may provide very complex profiles of tens of millions of Americans. Obviously, highly useful purposes may be served.

But there are severe handi-caps. The danger of putting confidential medical information in the wrong hands is clear. Much financial and other personal data may be subject to varying interpretations, depending on who is using it. The Internal Revenue Service has a right to know your income. In the hands of a business firm, however, that figure can be used for a sales approach you may not welcome.

The selling of personal data (even universities do it) has become a very common practice today. Confidences about your personal attitudes given to a job interviewer or some other legitimate interviewer may be used by some company to get at you subtly.

up about the matter, even though its dimensions are only dimly perceived. And one who is laboring hard to put the public glare on the issue is Prof. Arthur Miller of the celebrated University of Michigan Law School at Ann Arbor.

Miller has written an intricately woven book on the subject, "The Assault on Privacy." He observes that Americans can hardly move about these days without being taped.

File a tax return, apply for government benefits, seek life insurance or a credit card, try for a home mortgage, fly on a commercial airline, stay in a chain hotel, and you most likely will be leaving your electronic tracks in a computer's memory bank somewhere.

We have not reached the point where all our life records are packed onto one long reel of tape. But we seem to be moving that way.

In most cases, our job, financial, credit and perhaps

WASHINGTON (NEA) — We haven't done it yet, but we now have the capability of storing a 12-page dossier on every man, woman and child among the 210 million Americans on a single, 4,800-foot reel of magnetic tape.

The kinds of electronic sensors dropped by U.S. aircraft over the Ho Chi Minh trail to detect North Vietnamese trucks and other vehicles can be adapted for what might be called "personal tracking."

Some are already being used in individual cases to warn of impending heart attacks. They could as well be employed to track our movements, locate us, measure our emotions and thoughts.

We hear a lot about the perils of wire-tapping. But the potential danger is much greater than most civil libertarians ever discuss.

Today we can dispatch computerized information almost instantaneously anywhere in the world. Millions of bits of personal data travel over leased wire circuits. These lines can be taped, and vast storehouses of information placed in unguarded hands.

These realities and prospects give you some idea how far the invasion of privacy has gone in this country — and how much farther it may go.

Blanked By Evans, Oak Ridge Of Metro Oviedo Stopped Twice

By LARRY NEELY
HERALD SPORTS WRITER
ANOPIKA — The first three quarters came as no surprise to most in the Orange Belt versus Metro Inter-conference jamboree at Anopka Friday night. When the host Blue Darters dealt Oak Ridge a 6-0 "streaked kitty" in the finale everyone stood up in shock.

The rest of the jamboree saw the clock being ticked away in the first period, followed by Evans dumping the host Blue Darters 13-0 and in the third frame Evans gained the upper hand by stumping Oviedo 20-0.

Against Oak Ridge in the initial frame the Lions tried, but could get nowhere against the tight defense of the Metro opponent. With the Pioneers in possession James Clements cut loose with a 63-yard scramble to put Oak Ridge out in front with a fourth and one situation. Mark LaMoyn netted five yards on a run. Clements was out of the action for the rest of the evening when the following play he managed two yards against the Lions, but when he was tackled he landed hard with his mid-section on a point-up football sending him to the hospital.

Donald Hill scrambled in from the right and Oak Ridge was out in front 15-0 after a missed PAT.

The clock was ticking away on Oviedo. Alan Daniel broke away for an 18 yard gain from his own 28 yard line due to a penalty interrupted the Lion effort and left them sitting on their own 32 yard line due to all of the final period. They drove into Oak Ridge territory twice before Jim Odum of Anopka recovered a fumble which set the stage for Leonard Stump's said after the jamboree "I'm not really too disappointed with the job for use. We had some weaknesses, but that's what the jamboree is for, to find these things out."

Lion grid fast can expect some changes to be made in the offensive and defensive line-ups before Oviedo opens its season against Sanford Seminoles Sept. 17. The passing game will have to be refined before Oviedo can exhibit a balanced offense.

Big 'D' Name Of The Game In Pre-Season Grid Action

WINTER GARDEN — Defense was the name of the game Friday night as the Lakeview Devil Devils played host to a four-team jamboree, featuring Sanford, Ocoee and Bishop Moore.

Sanford was the only Class AAAA team in the jamboree. The first half was scoreless as Bishop Moore battled Ocoee to a 0-0 tie and Sanford did the same with Lakeview. Sanford got rolling in the third period as they blanked Ocoee 13-0. Bishop Moore, defending Class AAA state champion, finally put some points on the board in the final period as they shutout Lakeview, 7-0.

There may not have been any scoring in the first half, but Ocoee and Lakeview weren't complaining. Both teams were not matched with much larger schools and many considered it a mark in the victory column as they fought to the scoreless ties.

Sanford wasn't too impressive in the second quarter, but looked a little better when things started rolling in the third quarter.

Sanford was the only team to score an offensive touchdown. Ronnie Howell connected with Nick Brady for a 19 yard aerial and Sanford's second touchdown against Ocoee.

The local event's first score came on a bad snap as Ocoee was punting, deep in their own territory. Ted Bennett recovered for the score. Sanford blocked another punt a few minutes later, but the apparent touchdown was nullified by a penalty. Bishop Moore's only score came on a punt return by Art Foreman. It was all they needed as their defense held strong.

Not too many people are aware of the performance of the Fighting Seminoles Friday night. Many remember last year's unimpressive jamboree showing. After all, that's what jamborees are for.

The Seminoles will open the season at home Sept. 17 when they host the Oviedo Lions. Coach Stump is looking to pull a major upset. Stump has formerly been the coach and athletic director at Seminole High.

Domestic Commentary

By RAY McHUGH

WASHINGTON — Government moves to prevent any sag in a booming housing market indicate President Nixon has embarked on an economic program that will continue well beyond the 90-day wage-price freeze. Treasury Secretary John Connally already has said it is "highly unlikely" that all government controls will be removed on Nov. 13.

Housing was the one bright spot in the domestic economic scene, B.F. (before the freeze). Mortgage sales averaged $3 billion a month the first half of 1971. But the demand was beginning to wane as interest rates began to edge upward again. After rates at high as nine per cent in the "tight money" days of 1969-70, the jam broke late last year. Rates tumbled into six point five to seven per cent range. Since June they have begun to climb. Some parts of the country now report seven point four per cent interest.

President Nixon has not frozen interest rates. Nor has he turned to the Federal Reserve Board to pump funds into the nation's demand-deposit requirements for savings and loan institutions, they releasing an estimated $800 million for home mortgages.

At the same time, the Federal Home Loan Insurance Corp. has made an extra $300 million available to buy Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration mortgages, and has cut its handling charges, reducing the cost of a $20,000 mortgage by $600.

The two moves are expected to ease interest rates back to seven per cent and get the home mortgage back to the $3 billion a month pace.

Booies also are in sight for the home building and trades industries, home appliances and furnishings. The post-World War II baby crop guarantees plenty of would-be purchasers.

The Commerce Department predicts 2,040,000 housing starts this year, up 39 per cent over 1970.

If Mr. Nixon can combine a high level of housing activity with a marked increase in automobile sales, government officials say, he may be able to loosen wage-price controls by late fall or early winter. But the emphasis is on the word "loosen."

Normal stimuli provided by housing and automobiles are important in administration planning. Although prices are frozen, there is no early sign that the public is ready to dig into record savings and embark on a general buying spree. For $60 there will be a "wait and see" attitude unless other nongovernment incentives come into play.

'Hounds' On Short End Of Kissimmee Jamboree

KISSIMMEE — Lyman got a five yard plunge to make up most of the deficit. The Hounds got a kick up between the uprights but a 15 yard penalty nullified the PAT and Lyman coach's make their second PAT effort and were one point back, with the time running out on Lyman.

Kissimmee struck paydirt again and were out in front 14-4 when Lyman's signal caller Bruce Rose snared his team-mate's pass and Lyman's offense toward the Kissimmee goal line. Rose connected to his prime target, Junior Ron Smith, who beat his way into the Kowboys' end for the score. Rose added a touch of glory to the drive by running the two point conversion to knot the game at 14-4.

The Lyman threat from the Jones one foot line was the close, without team came to crossing their opponent's goal line. In fact, the vast majority of the remainder of the quarter long contest was played in a back and forth effort from the Lyman end.

The second match of the evening saw Calvin Brown of Kissimmee work wonders against the Winter Park defense. The Kowboys got a slow start fumbling on the first play after the kickoff, but Winter Park stalled and Kissimmee took over and moved swiftly toward the Winter Park goal line. Brown's running efforts got Kissimmee to the five yard line where quarterback Warren Lewis hit Scott Shumaker for paydirt.

The Greyhounds took the Kissimmee punt in the third period, but could move nowhere. Brown hauled in the Hound punt near his own 40 yard line and scampered five yards short of the Lyman goal. Two plays later Brown sent the remaining distance to put the Kowboys out in front, 6-0. The PAT left the score at 7-0.

Bobby Franklin climaxed the evening Greyhound drive with a slow start in pre-season practice due to a drastic change in personnel, but Greyhound Head Coach Dick Copeland is sure his gridders will be ready when the season's opener comes Sept. 17 with Colonial.

The host Kissimmee Kowboys ran away with the prizes at the jamboree surging past the Winter Park Wildcats 7-0 and edging Lyman 21-14. Jones and Lyman opened the jamboree with a scoreless tie and Jones ended the affair with an 8-0 blanking of Winter Park. The Kowboys were the only Class AAAA team in the pairings, holding from the Orange Belt Conference, while the remaining three teams were Class AAAA from the State Conference.

The Greyhounds kicked off to Jones in the opening frame, but jumped on a loose ball and appeared to be on their way. The Lyman surge moved to the Jones 10 on the fumble recovery, but were thrown for a loss while on the one foot line on third down.

Don Oakley Says: Labor Role: Nation's Welfare

By DON OAKLEY
NEA Editorialist
Labor Day this year finds Americans in an uncertain limbo and yet, paradoxically, more buoyantly optimistic than in many a day.

It has been only three weeks since President Nixon startled the nation with the announcement of an array of extraordinary measures designed to stop inflation and strengthen the economy, far too short a time to be able to judge how successful the program will be or will not be.

Thus on the day set aside to honor the American workingman (a term which in the broad sense includes all of us) and the nation created by the sweat and dreams of present and past generations, millions of Americans are suspended between uncertainty and expectancy.

For businessmen, the case is the other way around, but the frustrations and the satisfactions are similar.

They cannot raise prices, but for the time being at least, their material and labor costs will not go up and up.

For all of us, it is a time of confusion, with the answers to many questions still being groped for.

Yet if there is confusion in the present and uncertainty about the future, there has already come an end to a sense of floundering or indirection, the feeling that the nation was drifting farther and farther off its economic course.

Minus 13 Years And Counting

By JUNATHAN BEATY
 Copley News Service

LOS ANGELES — A red light begins to flash on the central control console followed by a blinking hopscotch of amber, yellow and blue moving across the face of the operator's display board.

The uniformed guard sits up as an insistent ping calls his attention to the console. A few feet away, a teletype machine begins chattering at 32 words per minute.

ATTENTION, ATTENTION, SECURITY BREACH. DOOR 822 OPENED AT 0115 PLUS 47 SECONDS. THIS IS AN UNAUTHORIZED INTRUSION. UNLESS COUNTER-MANDED SEQUENCE 4 WILL BE EFFECTED IN 30 SECONDS. SEQUENCE 3 IN EFFECT 0115 PLUS 40 SECONDS.

The guard reaches over and flips a switch to silence the ping and he depresses a small button that will notify security guards in nearby buildings that his building has been violated.

The teletype message has confirmed what his console board already shows — a late night intruder has opened the west hall, eighth-floor fire escape door. Sequence three, which activates a moment after the door opens, has already shot home secondary door bolts on all exit doors on floors seven, eight and nine so they cannot be opened with a key.

Sequence four activated a silent alarm in the police department.

As the guard jangles for a warden to admit the police, he wonders if the guard in the bank building across the mall has spotted anything.

He need not have wondered. The bank guard had been alerted two full minutes before his own building intrusion light winked on, by the ping of his own surveillance equipment.

On top of the small console in the bank guard's office, a closed circuit television screen flickered to life.

Although this scenario is fiction, the electronic machinery which starts in it is not.

We don't have to wait for the year 2000 for such sophisticated surveillance techniques to come of age. They are already here and on the market.

The little black boxes that perform such wonders are now being offered for sale, lease or hire complete with the uniformed guard by the Los Angeles-based Western Bureau of Investigation.

The surveillance machines are the brainchild of a smiling, white-haired man named Virgil Turcotte, the president and major stockholder of WBI.

WBI is one of the larger security firms on the West Coast, employing uniformed guards, detectives and undercover men to protect major retailers.

Turcotte, who says he went into the security field before World War II because there seemed to be such an opportunity for a "scientific approach," has done well through the years in the security field. His company now does $2 1/2 million a year in business. And that approach appears to be the motivation behind the move into computer surveillance by WBI.

Women Can Be Free, Feminine Also

By HELEN HENNESSY
 NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—There may be some men who agree with Nietzsche that "woman was God's second mistake." And feeling that way one couldn't expect them to want us to be "liberated." But menfolk of this bent are in the minority. And it must have come as a shock to the leaders of the humorless, militant crusade for Women's Lib to find that the majority of their critics are women.

Washington model, Judy Black, who believes that women and men must work together for human rights for everyone started her own countergroup to NOW and calls it TWO. It's growing by leaps and bounds.

The younger girls in Women's Lib are disagreeing with the pioneers of the movement in their belief that the way to liberation is to hold political office.

And now, "New Woman," a newcomer to the magazine field, is aimed, according to its editor-publisher Margaret Harold, at the thinking woman and takes the position that women are largely to blame for much of their own limited opportunities in business. It also expresses concern over the degree to which men are blamed for the "shadows that exist in some women's lives."

The magazine asserts that it would "certainly be improper to suggest that men be blamed—even if marriage were a prison and women its prisoners—when so many women have tried so hard to maneuver men into marriage and when so many men have tried so hard to avoid anything resembling a permanent attachment." It allows that there are economic and social factors that have prevented some women into their quest for marriage but then asks, "Why are men being accused? For accommodating them?"

So it would seem that feminine opposition to the militant "male chauvinist pig," is reacting in its curly head in many quarters.

A spokesman (or should it be spokeswoman?) for the new publication takes this position: "It can hardly be disputed that women in the past really have followed like woolly sheep and worked only until they got married or had babies. And even though it is true that many ambitious women have been unfairly victimized by being lumped into an all-women-are-alike category, it is also true that countless other women achievers have managed to snag attention despite the antiwomen

MISS SUSAN ALVINA WHITE

In Candlelight, Double Ring Rites ... Miss Ostrow Bride Of M. D. Schwabel

Miss Joan Patricia Ostrow became the bride of Martin David Schwabel, Aug. 2, 1971, at 5 p.m., at Temple of Liberal Judaism, Orlando.

Rabbi Larry Halpern was the officiating clergyman at the candlelight, double ring ceremony.

Lloyd Caldwell was the organist and Mrs. Mildren Wachsmann was the soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen A. Ostrow, Winter Park, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George Schwabel, Youngstown, Ohio.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a bouffant gown of candlelight satin fashioned with long tapered sleeves and rolled neckline adorned with Alencon lace and seed pearls.

Her cathedral train was of Brussels Rosepoint lace secured to a Juliet cap. She carried a white confirmation Bible covered with archdiocese.

Miss Robin Ostrow served her sister as maid of honor. She wore a pale blue organza gown with a deep blue midriff and a short blue tulle veil and carried a bouquet of white roses and blue cornflowers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Michael Shapiro, Bryan, Texas; and Mrs. Frederick Wachsmann, Caselberry, their gowns were identical to the honor attendant and they carried multi-colored old-fashioned nosegays.

Mortley B. Schwabel, Youngstown, Ohio, served his brother as best man. Ushers were Michael Shapiro, Bryan; Frederick Wachsmann, Caselberry; Richard Abel, Miami; and John Ostrow, brother of the bride, Miami.

Flower girls were Misses Miriam Shapiro and Catherine Shapiro, Bryan.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ostrow selected a floor-length, long sleeved blue raw silk gown embellished with gold bead trim. Her accessories were blue and gold and her corsage was of white orchids.

Mrs. Schwabel, mother of the bridegroom, was crowned in a floor length blue chiffon creation with beaded neckline and cuffs. Matching accents and a white orchid corsage completed her attire.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a dinner-dance reception at Orlando's Robert Meyer Inn. The bride's chosen colors were carried out in the decor and floral arrangements.

Miss Joan Schwabel registered the guests in the bride's book.

For her going-away outfit, the bride wore a yellow crepe pant suit trimmed with white beads and the orchid corsage

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a professor of theology who has been fascinated with your column for many years. How do you arrive at your answers? Do you think you have some special divinely inspired power that directs you to guide others? Or do you follow a certain philosophy of life? And if so, whose?

Your answers are so direct to the point, I sometimes wonder if it is just a matter of common sense. Yet so few people have it. And finally, Abby, how long did it take you to write today's column? F. M. F., PhD

DEAR F. M. F.: I think my answers are simply common sense in a capsule. And it took me about 1 hour and 33 years to write today's column.

DEAR ABBY: I was recently hired to give physical therapy to a partially paralyzed child to help him in his muscular development.

My problem is I failed to complete my last year of a course in physical therapy, so although I am very well trained, I do not have a degree. I do not want to go back to school to receive a degree, but I am sure that my professional skills are very effective and easy to learn.

Jim: There is nothing difficult about limit setting. Basically, when you get around to talking your partner, the single raise shows support for his suit, but good support to three others very good support and is a strong invitation to game, but not an absolute force. While a jump to game is a bid of game.

Oswald: "You and Bobby Wolf employed limit raises in winning the world's championship. Nearly all experts use them. They are made them part of JACOBY MODERN bidding, since they are very effective and easy to learn."

Jim: There is nothing difficult about limit setting. Basically, when you get around to talking your partner, the single raise shows support for his suit, but good support to three others very good support and is a strong invitation to game, but not an absolute force. While a jump to game is a bid of game.

Oswald: "North's jump to three spades is one of those limit jump raises. He has 11, of spades and wants to encourage a bid of game without absolutely committing the hand to that high a contract."

Jim: "If the jump to three were a force, North would have bid just two spades. South would pass and the hand would play there."

Oswald: "South should have no trouble making four spades. The defense starts with two club tricks and East shifts to a trump. South wins in dummy and can accomplish much if you apply yourself seriously. Keep promises made to mate last week. Don't let anyone interfere in your private life."

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can make progress now if you use the excellent ideas you have and contact hewigs you have not seen in a long time. Improve certain deals you have going with others. Show you are a clever person.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have many duties to take care of and can accomplish much if you apply yourself seriously. Keep promises made to mate last week. Don't let anyone interfere in your private life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Listening to what others say and being willing to help them with their aims and plans profits you also now. Come to a real understanding with associates and mutual aims take on a new luster. Show devotion to family this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can delve into all that hand, both for reaching for food and also for drinking.

In the latter respect, she would close her kitchen into the liquid, dip her right hand in the liquid, then shake it and suck her knuckles to obtain the water, milk or soda pop that we give her.

But another possibility may be to use their right hand prior to birth.

In the mother's womb, the baby is generally free to employ both hands till about the last month of pregnancy.

Then its head settles into the pelvis of its mother and in most cases, the left arm is on the right side, and the right arm is on the left side.

So the far greater prevalence of right-handed folks may simply be an evidence of natural efficiency.

My dentist, Dr. Daniel R. Crane, brought home a young female gibbon after his military stint in Southeast Asia.

She always preferred her right hand, both for reaching for food and also for drinking.

Worry Clinic By Dr. Crane

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

CASE 1535: My brother John, former Harvard economist and now head of the social sciences division at Iowa Wesleyan, is left-handed.

At a family gathering on my mother's third birthday, he asked: "What makes one person left-handed while most others use their right hand by preference?"

"Since none of our parents or grandparents was left-handed, how does it happen that I am so unique in this respect?"

South lefthanders in baseball are popularly referred to as "south paw pitchers."

And they often maintain a premium salary.

Even before King Saur was anointed as the first king of Israel, about 1,000 B.C. the tribe of Benjamin numbered 26,000 men who drew the sword.

"Among all these people," states the book of Judges 20:16, "there were 700 chosen men left-handed, every one could fight with either an air breath and one miss."

The actual percentage of lefties in our population has been estimated at about five percent, or one out of every 20.

Some baseball lefties may become ambidextrous and thus bat from either side of the plate, as was true of Mickey Mantle.

Jatoko did considerable research on handedness and found that exercise of the left hand and arm has a greater effect on brain action than does the right hand.

This result was true both for left-handed as well as right-handed.

So the far greater prevalence of right-handed folks may simply be an evidence of natural efficiency.

My dentist, Dr. Daniel R. Crane, brought home a young female gibbon after his military

DEAR POLLY — I think I have help for Mrs. E. L. B. who wants to come here to clean her shoes. I used to wear such shoes for school proms and when I made my debut. They were so dirty after wearing and dancing in them. I cleaned mine with a cloth dipped in lighter fluid. This worked so I could wear them again. I remember having pink, light blue, green and white. I got of nothing that can be done before they are worn to prevent spotting. — MRS. W. J. M.

DEAR POLLY — The first time I wore a pair of pale turquoise peau de soie pumps I stepped in some mud, so they were a mess. I took them to the shop where they were dyed to see if anything could be done. They cleaned mine, and then dyed them. I was then advised that if such shoes had had two coats of dye they could be cleaned without having to be redyed. For average soil (not mud as I had), this shop suggested using an art glass cleaner or cleaning fluid. When using cleaning fluid or lighter fluid work with care and don't let it get on your skin. Rubbing lighter fluid until dry or a "ring" may be left. Try any remedy on the heel first to test its effect on the color and material. — POLLY

Education Crisis

Parochial School Help Sought

By PAUL CORCORAN
Copy News Service
President Nixon's declaration of support for parochial and private schools at a time for them of deep financial crisis had been followed by a series of proposals at both the federal and state levels to keep these schools open.

parochial or private institutions, without violating the First Amendment of the Constitution.
Further, there is a question in the minds of some educators, such as California State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riley, about helping parochial schools when public schools also are hurting.

This point was made by President Nixon in his remarks before the Knights of Columbus, an organization of Catholics. He said private and parochial schools were closing at the rate of one a day, a trend that he stated had to be reversed.

SIX YEARS of hard work have paid off. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Redmon stand back and admire the fruits of their labor. Often people will stop their car, get out and touch the grass. It looks like carpet.

Yard Care Pair's Way Of Life

By MARILYN GORDON
CASSELBERRY — Through-out Seminole County there are many beautiful lawns, some of them a yard or more wide, but none attract more attention than that of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Redmon, 861 Debb Drive.

Without fail cars slow down when driving by, pedestrians linger a bit longer when passing that corner.
Eleven years ago when the Redmons moved in they dug up the yard completely and by hand, breaking two shovels in the process. It became a family project and took six months, finishing Easter Sunday.

City Aide Finds Job 'Most Fascinating'

By DONNA ESTES
"Work in municipal government is fascinating. It is the most fascinating work in the world. Something different happens every day."
This is the view of Donald Bundy, Altamonte Springs public works director, after four years with the city. Bundy worked all over the southeast United States in construction jobs, helping to build sewer and water plants, office buildings, busier plants and "you name it and I've built it," he said.

At Georgia Tech, served two hitchhikes in the U.S. Navy and tried his hand at general contracting for a period.
But his favorite work has been with Altamonte Springs. No one could doubt Bundy's importance there. With 25 employees, under his direct control as well as management of the sanitation, garbage and trash departments, sewer and water systems, parks, streets and new construction, every item to do with any of these municipal functions originates at his desk.

JOSEPH TURANCHIK is the city of Altamonte Springs' first full time building inspector. With new construction continuing at such a rapid rate employment of a full time person with inspection responsibilities was necessary. Turanchik is married, a resident of Apopka and has been with the city in the post for the past five months. (Donna Estes Photo)

2 Industries Seek Sanford Locations

By BILL SCOTT
Two industries desire to move their respective operations from Miami and Jacksonville to a 180-acre-plus industrial park at the Interstate 4-SR 46 intersection.

While not naming the two industrial firms seeking to locate plants here, Dr. Hickman did disclose platting of the proposed acreage is now before the Seminole County Commission for approval.
