

Acheson Plans Conference On German Issues

Major Problems Will Be Discussed With Ministers Coming Here To Sign Pact

WASHINGTON, Mar. 30—(AP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson said today major German problems will be discussed with Western European foreign ministers coming here to sign the North Atlantic Treaty.

Acheson told a news conference the talks on Germany will be highly informal. But he said he hopes they may bring further progress on problems such as formation of a German government which are already under discussion in conferences in Europe.

The Secretary's principal discussions on the German issue will be held with the foreign policy chiefs of the other two occupation powers of Western Germany—Britain's Ernest Bevin and France's Robert Schuman.

Bevin reached New York today on the liner Queen Mary.

Acheson pointed out at his conference that the British and French also have figured in some discussions on the policy of the Western Powers toward Germany.

He said they might come into the picture if the final conference between the Netherlands and Luxembourg, the Atlantic Pact is to be signed on Monday.

Acheson said that in the highly important series of talks leading up to the signing he would see Bevin tomorrow, at a house not yet announced, and also expects to meet during the day with Netherlands' Foreign Minister D. U. Stikker.

Acheson said he also intends to discuss Italy's former African colonies with some of the foreign ministers who will come here to sign the pact.

Acheson told his news conference he intends to confer again with Italy's Foreign Minister Carlo Spadolini.

The Secretary said he had a (Continued On Page 41a)

Prof. Ray E. Short To Speak On World Federation Friday

Professor Ray E. Short of Florida Southern College, executive director of the state branch of United World Federalists, will speak Friday night at 8:00 o'clock at the Sanford Women's Club on the subject, "World Government, the Path to Peace."

He was recently elected to the National Council of UWF, and has been appointed state chairman of the Florida Jaycee committee on world government.

He says his interest in world government came as an outgrowth of his study of a thesis paper on atomic energy control written by Dr. Harnel Hartz at Duke University. In order to do full time work for world peace, he has been granted leave of absence from Florida Southern College, Lakeland, where he was assistant professor of religion.

Eight months after he took the chairmanship of the state UWF organization, membership tripled and 15 new chapters were started in cities throughout Florida.

Unspecified Charges Made Against Bissell

FRANKFURT, Germany, Mar. 30—(AP)—Charges of an unspecified nature have been preferred against Maj. General Clayton L. Bissell, headquarters of the U. S. Air Force in Europe announced today.

The announcement said the charges are being investigated to determine whether they warrant a trial by court-martial.

It added the charges concern "acts allegedly committed while Bissell was military and air attaché at the United States embassy in London from May, 1946, to July, 1948. Air Force officials declined to say what the charges were.

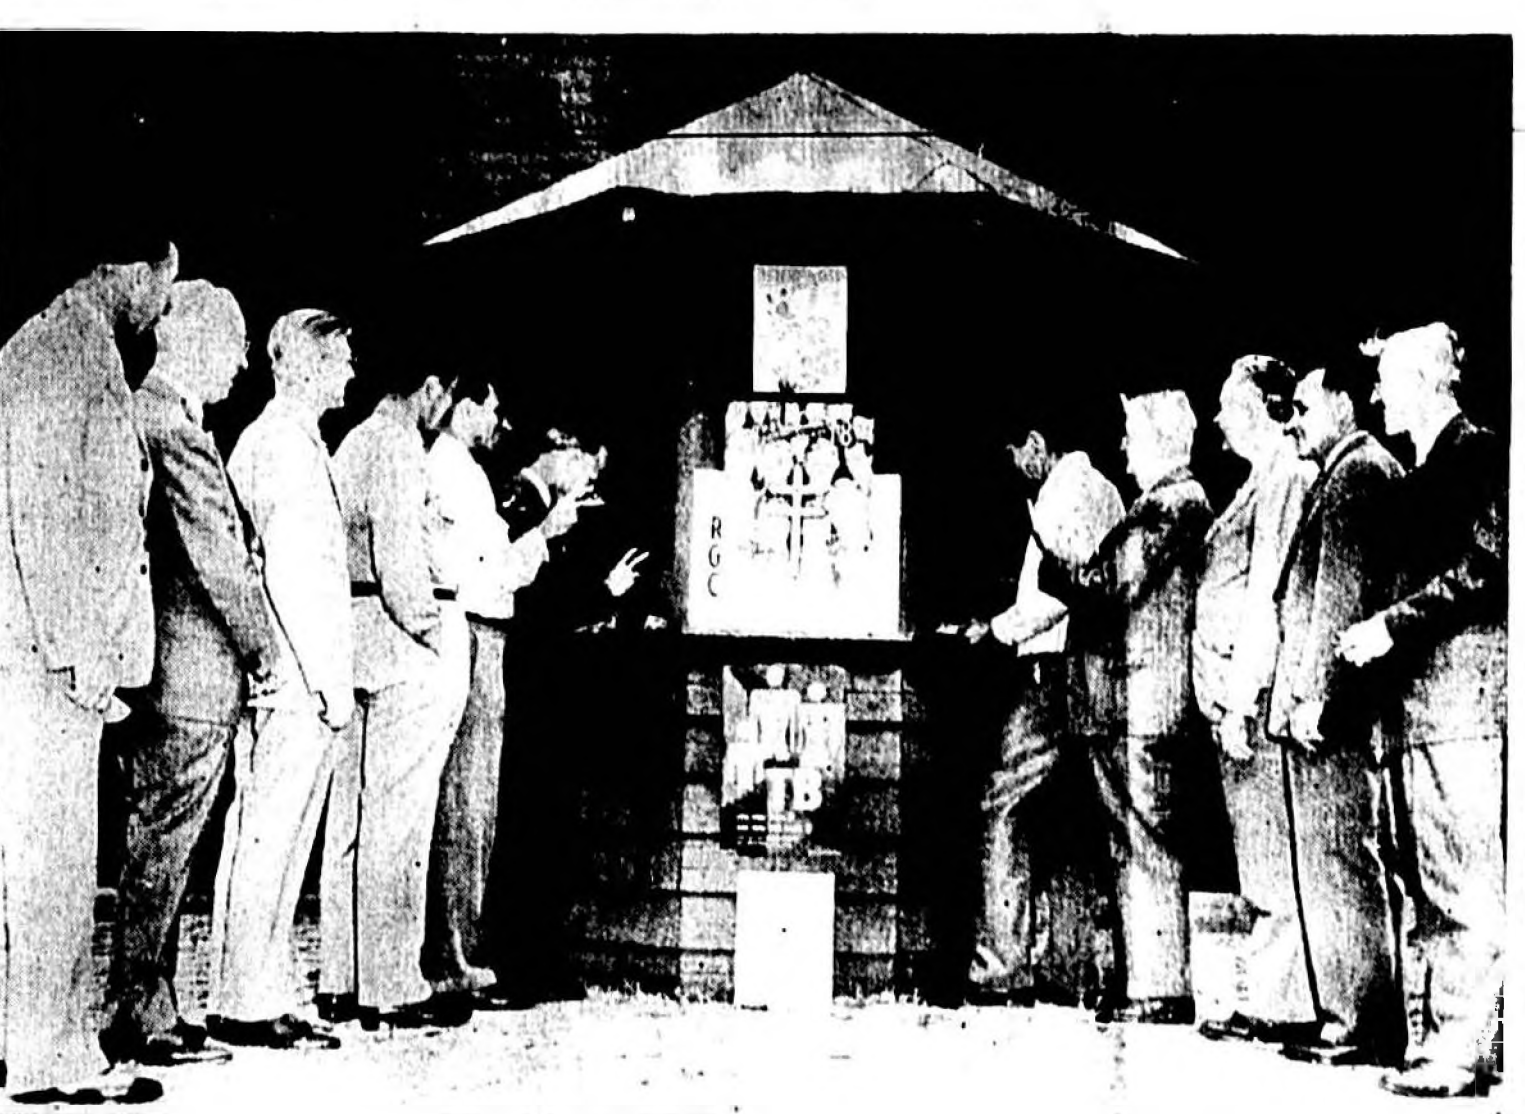

Officials would not even say what article of war Bissell is accused of violating.

The violator who pleaded guilty to driving 55 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone was Will Rogers.

Stetson Students Tell Kiwanis Of Teaching Program

Duties Of Instructors Learned By On-Job Training

Experiences of Stetson University students who are learning to teach through actual experience with classes at Seminole High School were today told by students to Kiwanis at the Tourist Center and the purpose of the program of such teaching was outlined by Dr. J. C. Park, director of the program for teachers at Stetson University.

Principal Herman E. Morris introduced the students including Miss Audrey Bach and Paul Hickson of Sanford; Bill Orr of Deland; Mrs. Alta Chance of Pensacola; and Harry Gaventa of Tampa.

Carl Higginbotham announced that Kiwanis will sponsor the 1949 Salvation Army Drive which will start Apr. 1 and which has a goal of $2,500, which has been reduced $1,000 since last year. As campaign chairman for the drive, he outlined instructions of the workers in soliciting donations.

Dr. Park reported that Stetson University has 62 students teaching all over the state. These students are each working under school teachers who guide them in the work of instructing classes. Pupils in schools are doing better work under such instruction because of the break in the monotony of the regular routine, he said. He termed Seminole High School teachers as willing and capable.

The transition from student to role of teacher is enormous, he pointed out, and while a student may be scolded as a matter of discipline, a teacher may not be asked to come back the following year.

Miss Audrey Bach declared that she is thoroughly enjoying her work as an English teacher under the guidance of Mrs. M. B. Smith. She said that she believed the program to be very beneficial, and declared that she is learning the names of pupils, calling the rolls and getting accustomed to the work of the students.

Bill Orr revealed that he is helping with athletics under the guidance of Coaches B. P. Ganas and Otis Mooney, and told of his (Continued On Page 41a)

NATIONS INCREASED
BERLIN, Mar. 30—(AP)—The Russians today announced increased food rations for German warships in the Soviet sector of Berlin—but only for those who failed or missed production quotas set for them by their Communist bosses.

The news was apparently the first in a series of Russian efforts to gain increased production from an economy plagued by the Allied winter blockade.

Rep. Peterson Is Urged To Run For Senator, Governor

WASHINGTON, Mar. 30—(AP)—Rep. Peterson (D-Fla.), who plans to retire from Congress at the end of this term, is being urged by friends to run for U. S. Senator or governor—but the answer is "No."

Peterson told a reporter that he "deeply appreciated" the thoughts of his friends, "but I'm homesick and I want to return to Florida to live—where I can walk down the streets in my shirt-sleeves with the sun beating on my back."

Peterson announced his retirement last Friday. Since then, his office has been besieged with mail from friends throughout the state. Fellow congressmen slap him on the back and say "Pete, it isn't true. You can't quit."

But Peterson has a longing to return to his home state and perhaps hang out his shingle and practice law in Lakeland.

Mrs. Peterson although a native of Virginia shares his fondness for Florida. They have lived in an apartment hotel here since (Continued On Page 41a)

Syrian Army Seizes Power In Damascus

DAMASCUS, Syria, Mar. 30—(AP)—The Syrian army seized power in Syria's capital today, arresting government leaders in a bloodless coup.

Commander Husein III Zaim, commander of the Syrian army, said the military coup was ordered because of "attacks against the army inside as well as outside the lower representatives."

Minister Louis Hash Keady reported from Damascus to Washington that President Shukri al-Kuwatli, Prime Minister Khalid Bey Azem and his entire cabinet had been arrested.

Keady reported the army took over complete control of the capital on the early morning coup (AP).

Another official said that a strike against the coup was called in the telephone company today.

Curtis was camped in the city at 6:00 A. M. local time and all was expected quiet several hours after Husein Zaim announced the seizure of power.

Zaim and the revolutionary movement was "purely local and has no foreign implications."

It was taken to mean that the new government would probably proceed with scheduled justice negotiation with Israel.

Two United Nations officials left Rhodesia yesterday for Damascus to lay the ground work for the Israeli-Syrian talks. Zaim announced that army rule over Syria would be "temporary."

He said he was negotiating with Farris Bey El Khoumri, speaker of the house of representatives and Syria's leading "elder statesman." (Continued On Page 41a)

5 Senators Offer Voluntary Health Insurance Measure

WASHINGTON, Mar. 30—(AP)—Five Senators today offered a new "voluntary health insurance bill" intended to make hospital and medical care available to all persons.

Senator Hill (D-Ala.), one of the sponsors, said the new plan, based on state and local controls, is a substitute for what he called "compulsory system" advocated by President Truman and some members of Congress.

The bill calls for the use of federal funds "to assist the states to survey, coordinate, supplement and strengthen their existing health resources."

Tornadoes Kill 2 And Injure 18 In Oklahoma Cities

CANTON AND LONGDALE ARE HARDEST HIT; SNOW SWEEPS WEST

CANTON, Okla., Mar. 30—(AP)—Tornadoes struck four times in northwestern Oklahoma today, killing two, injuring 18 and causing heavy property damage.

Canton, Longdale and Blackwell were hit. A tornado also dipped down five miles north of Find, and worked a small import.

The greatest damage was to the first two Canton, a town of 1,200, and nearby Longdale, 400. The dead were in Canton and Longdale.

In Canton the storm hit hardest in the northwest residential area and the business district, but the entire town was damaged. Streets were littered with trees, boards, bricks and wrecked autos. At least 16 residences were destroyed and more than 25 others were very heavily damaged. Nearly every business building was knocked down or damaged.

At Longdale the damage was not as great as first feared. Two business buildings were demolished and many houses damaged—but none were destroyed.

The tornado in Blackwell struck the south and southwest residential areas of that city of 12,000. Six persons were taken to hospitals in Blackwell and two were soon released. None of the others was reported in critical condition. One large home in Blackwell was damaged.

Invitations To Soil Day Program Sent To 400,000

Nearly 400,000 invitations to the Miracle Soil Conservation Day program have on Apr. 7 are going into the mails this week, because of the interest of Florida bankers in soil and water conservation. Edward Higgins, chairman of the steering committee announced today.

One of the orange-and-blue invitations, about the size of a check, is being placed in the statement of each depositor of the 1777 banks which are members of the Florida Bankers Association.

Three men worked out the plan to tell all Florida bank depositors about the logical soil conservation field day ever scheduled in the state. They are Floyd Call, secretary of the bankers association of Orlando; E. J. Folmar, chairman of the association's agricultural committee; of Hominy, and Mr. Higgins.

A complete soil and water conservation and good land use plan will be carried out on the 385-acre farm of the Fellowship Biblical College at the Municipal Airport Thursday. The plan was worked out by U. S. Conservation Service technicians assigned to the Seminole Soil Conservation District. The District is co-sponsor of the Miracle Day program with the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, the Greater Orlando Chamber of Commerce, the Orlando Sentinel-Star, the Sanford Herald, and the Bible college.

The Florida Bankers Association has been actively supporting the soil conservation district program in the State. In February, Chairman Folmar of the Agricultural Committee and Clinton L. Smith, the State conservationist at Gainesville, sent a copy of a typical soil conservation farm plan to each member bank in the association. Each banker received a conservation plan of an actual farm representative of territory his bank serves.

In his letter to the bankers, Mr. Call, at Gainesville, sent a copy of the conservation farm plan which would help "inform bankers on just how important conservation is to every community and every bank in the state."

REBILITATE TODAY: We often have lost our way trying to do things the old-fashioned way.

Governor Warren has asked the religious people of Florida to pray for the Legislature that it may have divine guidance in solving Florida's pressing tax problems.

Young men with bulging waist lines should find a hobby that will help them keep in shape. Obesity, the Diabetes Seminar in Jacksonville is told, is a primary factor in diabetes.

The medical profession has done such a sorry job, has charged so much for their services, that the sovereign people are now considering taking away their freedom.

Over in London a newspaper editor is sentenced to serve three months in prison and fined $40,000 for "sensationalism" in reporting a current murder trial.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a number of bills in the Legislature meeting next month which should go a long way toward increasing safety on the State's highways.

It takes a lot of nerve for a politician to suggest looking into the millions of dollars worth of State Welfare funds devoted to aid dependent children. They are one group who "through no fault of their own" are sometimes brought into this world and left by ungrateful parents to starve, or get along the best they can by their own efforts.

A frantic attempt to stave off mounting evidence of a depression, the Federal Reserve Board shows the cash payment requirement on all purchases on the New York Stock Exchange from 75 to 100 percent.

Claiming The Victory

"You didn't win the war, we did!" This unedifying line of talk comes from the Russian army newspaper Red Star. This time its abuse is directed not at Uncle Sam, but at John Bull.

This inspires the Russians to attack the Allies generally. The Battle of the Bulge demoralized their forces so greatly, says the Red Star, that Churchill had to appeal to Stalin for immediate aid.

Churchill may have appealed to Stalin, but the record shows that General Eisenhower succeeded in turning back the Germans with his own resources.

Every war probably has rival claimants for the honor of having done most to win it. The United States, Great Britain and France all claimed to be the chief factor in winning the first World War. Russia, which did not see the war out, put in a strong claim for the number of Germans killed, and the contribution in holding millions of German soldiers on the Eastern front instead of leaving them free to attack the Allies in the West.

Neutral observers will say, "All contributed."

Crusader For The Right

A crusade of righteousness who like the Biblical prophet was "not without honor, save in his own country" is recalled by the announcement that the personal papers of the late Judge Ben B. Lindsey have been left to the Library of Congress.

They should prove revealing as to the seamy side of Colorado politics in the first quarter of this century, and even more so as to the origins of Judge Lindsey's great contribution, the establishment of the juvenile court.

It now seems unbelievable, but before his time it was the case everywhere that delinquent children were held and tried in company with hardened criminals. It took the flaming zeal of Judge Lindsey to start the new way of doing things, a mode which has spread all over the United States.

By his refusal to compromise with evil opponents, Judge Lindsey won their unflinching opposition. Time and again it took a virtual popular revolt to re-elect him after all the tracks had been cleared for a successor. Finally his enemies beat him. They then carried their enmity further and disbanded him on flimsy charges. He moved to Los Angeles, and there was once more elected to the bench. He died in 1943. Not many Americans of his time so clearly deserved a monument as did Judge Lindsey.

Electric Farming

The school of agriculture at Purdue University is successfully operating an experimental farm where more than three hundred jobs are lifted from aching backs and performed by electricity.

This complete electrification covers many of the familiar chores of barn and house. Pulling a switch will also turn on germicidal lamps in the milk-house and ventilating fans in the storage buildings. The farmer's wife will appreciate the fact that even the milk-house equipment is washed electrically. Hogs are likely to become effete with heated brooding houses, lights, and water-warmers.

The experimenters are working to improve these processes and to add to the list with the idea of improving the quality and increasing the quantity of farm products, and at the same time lowering operating costs.

In the long run, mechanical gains for the farmer also benefit everyone else. More milk, more and better food, produced with the expenditure of less labor and money, mean not only a better life and more leisure for the farmer, but a better diet for people everywhere.

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY

While Chamber of Commerce secretaries, public officials and health authorities of the state are screaming and tearing their hair in righteous indignation over the article by Philip Wylie, "Florida Polluted Paradise" which appeared in the March 29th issue of Look Magazine, I cannot concur with their views for after reading it I feel that instead of condemning the author, we owe him a debt of gratitude for publicizing facts and arousing public opinion on a subject that needs to be spotlighted.

These aren't anything in Wylie's article that I can justly find fault with for he is simply telling in a more readable and interesting form the same story that our own health officials have been telling us in pamphlets, lectures and news releases for a long time.

If you ask me, Wylie let us off easy. If he had searched the files of the State Board of Health or the American Waterways Association, he could probably have found plenty of photographs much more obnoxious than those he used, such as I myself have been exhibited from time to time. Even the map showing polluted areas in this state published in connection with the article was officially issued by our own State Board of Health.

No one whether a native Floridian or a visitor to the state equipped with ordinary eyesight and a normal sense of smell, needs either a Board of Health or a Philip Wylie to tell them that certain areas in this state are highly and dangerously polluted. The unfortunate thing is, most every one knows it and as Wylie points out, we haven't cared or done anything about it.

The thing I cannot understand is why our public health officials are so indignant over the article when for several years they have been telling the same story to the housewife and complaining because no one would listen. Apparently, it is all right to discuss such things among ourselves, but it is all wrong to let such information get handled about elsewhere.

Speaking before the Tampa Junior Chamber of Commerce last week, Dr. A. P. Mack Special Wylie's "Florida Polluted Paradise" as a "wonderful" "eye-opening" article. He said that he had never seen anything like it in his 30 years of experience in the state. He said that he had never seen anything like it in his 30 years of experience in the state. He said that he had never seen anything like it in his 30 years of experience in the state.

THE WORLD TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

There seems to be a widespread disposition to make a mystery of why Moscow participated in the much publicized "cultural and scientific conference for world peace," held in New York City's Madison Square Garden last week. I'm sorry not to be able to support this notion of mystery, because I like mysteries, but there really is no inexplicable element involved. However, there are some highly intriguing points worth examining in connection with this big meeting which was sponsored by our home-grown "National Council of the Arts, Sciences and Professions."

To be sure, there was a clash of views in high quarters as to just what the purpose of the meeting was. The sponsors said it was aimed at fostering peace and friendship. A skeptical U. S. State Department bluntly described it as a sounding-board for Communist propaganda, a claim hotly denied by the sponsors.

In any event, warm invitations from the sponsors brought delegations from Moscow and from the Communist satellite countries. The Russians were headed by Alexander Fadeyev, the novelist, and included Dmitri Shostakovich, Russian composer, who was the stellar attraction of the group. Why did Russia accept? The answer to that is clear enough, and there are three reasons:

(1) Moscow is irrevocably committed to Communism in the United States, which is a ring-leader among the "capitalist" democracies; (2) the Russians wish to achieve this without engaging in a war for which they are not prepared, and (3) the visit of the Communist delegations did provide a fine opportunity for propaganda.

Whether the Communists will regard that propaganda as profitable remains to be seen. However, the meetings in New York, with the attendant plotting by anti-Communists, certainly received wide publicity in the press of the country.

Some observers were surprised when the final meeting last Sunday night brought an estimated 18,700 people into huge Madison Square Garden. Maybe some of these folk were there merely from

Nurse Says He Plans To Retain Economic Post

WASHINGTON, Mar. 30 (AP)—Dr. Edwin G. Nourse said today he had handed in his resignation as chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors. But he said he plans to stay on the job "as far as I've heard."

Nourse talked to reporters after a call on President Truman. He said the resignation had been in Mr. Truman's hands for at least a couple of months but he had never discussed the matter with the President.

Nourse has been at odds with his two colleagues on the council, Leon Keyserling and Dr. John D. Clark, over handling of the Administration's anti-inflation policy. However, White House informants said they regard the resignation as a routine affair in line with the practice of top government officials turning in resignations at the start of a presidential term.

Nourse, who has called recent price declines a "healthy disinflation," talked with Mr. Truman for half an hour today. He was reporting, he told newsmen later, on conditions he found in four weeks of travel in the West.

The trip did not change his mind about the country's condition, he said. "I found no sense of panic, but rather a realistic facing of local problems in lumber, shipping and other industries," he said. In Detroit, he added, there seemed to be even less uncertainty than in some other industrial centers.

"They are very confident, the labor people as well as management, that the automobile industry is going to have a good year," Nourse said he and Mr. Truman did not discuss the two-to-one council split in which Nourse is the minority voice. He is known to oppose the type of "standing anti-inflation" urged by Mr. Truman. Keyserling and Clark have testified in behalf of the Administration's stand.

He has discussed the dispute with Mr. Truman previously on several occasions, Nourse said. He also has declined to testify before the Joint Economic Committee of Congress.

Nourse admitted that he was "concerned" but the appearance of council members in support of legislation might impair the confidence of consumers in a professional, non-partisan institution. But neither he nor Mr. Truman has attempted to tell council members that they should be removed as members, he said.

There have been "no reports" of council members' resignations, Nourse said. He said he had not discussed the matter with the President.

LATEST BIG CITY NOISE ELIMINATOR

AS REVEALED BY THE CALIFORNIA CRIME COMMISSION REPORT

Newspapers And Critics

The Lynchburg News

Leland Stowe, writing critically of American newspapers, which he calls "the U. S. press," expresses the opinion that there is a surprising number of above-average American citizens (who) have little faith in the objectivity, reliability and constructive capacities of American newspapers.

That may be true. The meaning of "constructive capacities" is a little vague, but "objectivity" and "reliability" are not. Mr. Stowe, who writes as a lecturer of experience, bases his opinion on questions asked by lecture audiences, which seldom are typical, even of the above-average American. Nevertheless, Mr. Stowe may be right, perhaps "a surprising number" do lack faith in the objectivity and reliability of American newspapers.

Mr. Stowe, however, shows a surprising lack of knowledge of the function of newspapers when he writes:

"The results of the last presidential election certainly did not indicate that the majority of our newspapers were in close contact with the thinking of American voters."

Certainly the results of the election showed nothing of the sort. Mr. Stowe writes as if it is the function of newspapers, editorially and in their news columns, to get and to stay in harmony with the thought of the majority. What the election results showed was that a very large minority of the voters thought one way while the majority of the newspapers, or the newspapers with a majority of the circulation, thought another way.

So what? Does a newspaper editor have to follow public opinion? Does it follow that because the newspaper doesn't agree with the prevailing opinion of the moment it is unreliable, or does it mean that it has integrity? Would Mr. Stowe have the newspapers take a poll, learn what the prevailing opinion is and plunk enthusiastically for it?

The results of newspapers are many. They are mostly the faults of human beings, as Mr. Stowe recognizes. If they have not the confidence of readers that is unfortunate. But they aren't going to gain that confidence by getting in "close contact" with the thinking of voters and then saying "me, too."

That is the trouble with so many critics of American newspapers— which most of them concede painfully and then pass on as the best in the world—especially critics who like to be called, and when not so called to call themselves, liberal. They lack objectivity. And they lack good ideas of what an objective and reliable newspaper should be.

It is an interesting commentary on the peace conference that Monday President Truman assigned budget experts to work on a big program of supplying arms to Europe as a bulwark against Communism. This program is a follow-up of the North Atlantic Defense Treaty which Moscow charges represents a war threat.

The letters Peterson has received since his announcement have pleased him highly. A few excerpts: L. D. Reagin, Sarasota—"It is my feeling that it will be a long while if ever that this district will have a member in Congress that can or will get close to your performance and service to the people of this district. Your record has been one of untiring work and devotion to the people of the district and the state."

J. R. Bullock, West Palm Beach—"I am pleased to learn that you will get a well deserved rest, but regret the loss to Florida of an earnest and hard worker." R. J. Haynesworth, Lake Wales—"We all regret to lose a tried, true and tested public servant. On the other hand, I can fully understand your personal feelings and I am sure you are more than entitled to come back home."

B. R. Kessler, Miami—"What I am sure will do you mean by quitting Congress and leaving this state without an outstanding Congressman such as you have become. There is an old saying the congressman are only worth a dime a dozen up here but by God we have had one man, your self, that has always been worth more than a hundred cents on the dollar."

L. I. Seales, Lakeland—"You have been a most faithful energetic devotion to your duties, both as to state and government." Thomas A. McRae, St. Petersburg—"The State of Florida will sustain a great loss."

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 26—(AP)—Midweek movie highlights and sightings on the Hollywood scene.

Youth is finally being served on the screen, at least on the distaff side.

For some time I've been noting that Hollywood's stars are getting older, with few youngsters being developed to replace them. Young people, who represent the majority of the movie audience, have had to watch 30, 40 and 50-year-old film heroes and heroines.

It's not that those ages are less interesting. Few become good actors until they pass the 30 mark. But youth deserves a break.

Progress is being made in this department. Not so much in the male division. One of the few bright young actor prospects is 28-year-old Montgomery Clift.

The female list is more impressive. Among the virtual children for stardom are Elizabeth Taylor, 17; Wanda Hendrix, 20; Shelley Winters, 20; Maria Toren, 23; Ava Gardner, 25; Ann Blyth, 20; Rhonda Fleming, 25; and Coleen Gray, 22.

Interesting to note the last three are Bing Crosby's latest leading ladies. H. Hing!

Howard Hughes, like many Texans, is a tough guy to tangle with. His feud with United Artists started when he was releasing his "Outlaw" through the company. He had to agree to a lot of deals to take the picture with him when he bought RKO.

Lately Hughes has forced UA to change the ending of its big money maker, "Red River," when he claimed similarity to a sequence in "Outlaw."

Now he's trying to hold up UA's "Champion" because of alleged likenesses to his "The Set-Up." UA probably wishes he would go back to his fight with Senator Brewster.

So far none has done so, but if any movie bigwig asked me what was wrong with theater business I'd say: admission prices.

The most movie complaints I get from readers are about theater ticket costs. They claim that theaters have priced themselves into the luxury class. The two-bit and 40-cent film houses are getting as scarce as nickel beer in most parts.

Take a look at Texas, where admissions have been kept at a low

Mother Of Three Has Opera Hobby

By BETTY PROSSER
CHICAGO—Mrs. John Orndorff never has been in an opera, but she's played Carmen, Aida, Salome and other vocal camps many times before opening night.

It's her hobby. Mrs. Orndorff feels it's appropriate to dress like the heroine when she attends the opera or ballet. She has assembled enough "luscious" costumes to enable her to attend practically any performance affixed in a gown or prima ballerina as possible.

Mrs. Orndorff, once a ballet student and now the mother of three daughters, designs her own dresses and has them made at a costumer's.

"By applying various accessories, you can change them around," she said. "The idea isn't to be ridiculous. The idea is to be beautiful and in keeping with the occasion."

Mrs. Orndorff gave up her ballet lessons to marry a Chicago physician and settle down. But she never forgot the terms "my first love" and soon began designing costumes to wear to ball performances.

For "Swan Lake," she wears a white evening gown adorned with white plumes and white plumes on the other hand, she's a wicked, can-can girl with a row of shock-pink ruffles under a silky black gown.

A gold lame dress trimmed with gold cock feathers and a gold feather headpiece is her costume for "The Nutcracker." She finds Mrs. Orndorff dressed in a Christmas motif, with a small Christmas tree head ornament topped a full-skirted silvery dress.

Her wardrobe includes Japanese kimonos for "Madame Butterfly," a bare-midriff number like the one made famous by Lily Pons for "Lakme," an embroidered mandarin coat and Chinese headpiece for "Turandot," and a bright red, ruffled dress with black lace mantilla, high comb and tortoise-shell fan for "Carmen."

Her three daughters—the oldest is in college all "have taken ballet lessons for years," she said.

"I'm not ambitious for them," Mrs. Orndorff added. "I don't expect them to be ballerinas. But it's just part of their education."

Mrs. Orndorff doesn't confine her costuming and elaborate preparations to public performances. She loves parties.

Operations Vittles Under Woman's Care

AP Newsfeatures
By HERBERT F. SCHMUTT
FRANKFURT—A woman is "Commander in Chief" of the German supply end of the Berlin airlift.

A tiny office with hardly space enough for two desks, two chairs and a wardrobe is Frau Eva Hahn's "staff room" and "office" in the Berlin airport.

"Long distance calls from all 'Operations Vittles' airports keep her two telephones busy all day long."

Germany control points at Rheine and Wiesbaden airfields in the U. S. Zone, and Frankfurt, Celle and Wunstorf are the responsibility of the 35-year-old woman chief.

"I am responsible that enough food is ready at the airports to meet the needs of the Berliners," she said.

The Berlin Mayor's office, in cooperation with the American, British and French military governments, orders the foodstuffs needed for blockaded Berlin. It asks for just enough to meet the ration for a certain period and to keep a 36-day stock, Frau Hahn related.

"It's my job to transfer the orders to competent food firms, to tell them what sort of food is required and at what exact date and how the staff has to be at the airports," she explained.

"I just choose the firm, tell them the nearest way to any of the five airports, instruct my control officials at the airports on how to mix light and heavy goods in one way, and make sure that all types of food are on hand to be shipped."

The allies' plan was to have an eleven days' stock of food at the airports, a three days' stock on railway freight cars and a 30-day stock in Berlin," Frau Hahn reported.

"But we surpassed this plan by far so that rations for 66 days now are in Berlin and 10,000 tons of food are stored at Frankfurt alone," she added.

Working with a staff of three, Frau Hahn, a refugee from the Russian zone, is proud and satisfied having handled her job well, "at least my allied counterparts tell me I have," she explained.

Two hundred thousand tons of food have been ordered, distributed, changed, cancelled and re-ordered by this small German woman who lost her husband and brother during the war.

"On Mayday we have a Maypole at home and all the trimmings. On Christmas, we have our big tree and each of us has her own little tree, too."

"This Christmas I did come in buttons and bows the same, you know. And my youngest daughter," she trimmed in white gimped. "It's a lot of work, but it makes life fun."
