

Ninth Inning Rally Gives Reds 5 to 4 Win Over Locals

Lookouts Lead For Five Innings But Lose Contest

Schneider Allows One Hit In 8 Innings; Rice Doubles Off Hudson To Score Winning Runs For DeLand

After Sanford held a 4 to 1 lead for five innings, the DeLand Reds staged another ninth inning rally at Conrad Park last night to nose out the Lookouts by a score of 5 to 4.

Outfit 6 to 2 the Reds took advantage of breaks in the ninth frame to put four runs across the platter and with the lone run scored in the second inning gave them the winning margin.

After the DeLand crew scored one in the second, the localites retaliated with four in the fourth and held the Reds scoreless until the fatal ninth. Schneider, on the hill for the locals for eight innings allowed only a single hit but gave up nine free passes while striking out five batters. Hudson who relieved Schneider allowed one hit in the ninth and with three walks accounted for the DeLand tallies.

The Reds were forced to use Harper, Wolfberger, and Porter on the mound and between them gave up six hits to the Lookout batters.

Langston and Adz lead the hitting attack with two hits each, including a two-base clout each. Rice pounded out a double bager for the Reds in the ninth which drove in the winning runs.

The Lookouts journey to Orlando tonight and play the Senators on Tinker Field at 8:15 o'clock. Tomorrow the Senators visit Sanford for a double-header with the Lookouts and "Orlando Day" as planned by the officials of the Seminole Baseball Association.

Living Room Table Found To Be Alive
PAHOKEE, July 20.—(AP)—J. R. Miller has a living table in his living room.
Two days after Miller had purchased the occasional table at Ocala he discovered leaves sprouting from the legs.
The sprouts, some two inches long, pushed their way through varnish.
Now Miller is considering placing the legs in water and exhibiting the table as a shrub.

ABLE VERSE FOR TODAY

Be strong, and quit yourselves like men.—1 Sam. 4:9.

One good thing about the Celery Marketing Pact. It was good for the birds anyway.

Daytona Beach is reported as having been allotted a $500,000 fire insurance project.

Priming the pump is more than a phrase. It works, says the Sarasota Herald Tribune. If we just don't lose the primer.

A debutant at an Atlantic beach resort came forth the other day in a fur-lined bathing suit. Her idea was probably to give the sand fleas a treat.

Yes, we saw in the paper where a young fellow was struck by lightning over in Ocala the other day, but that doesn't mean you should scream your head off every time it thunders.

A new Czechoslovakian situation is developing. Explicit instructions are already said to have been given by Hitler to Goering, Goebbels and his other gangsters.

About the smallest thing a subscriber to a newspaper can do, is to stop his subscription when something appears in it that displeases him.—Key West Citizen. Do you have that kind down there too?

What this country needs is not another Inauguration, of course, but someone with enough initiative, enterprise, and intelligence to point the way in developing new industries and putting several million men back to work in private enterprise.

King George and Queen Elizabeth are said to be taking a hundred trunks with them on their little jaunt to France. Which leads us to wonder just how many of these modern hats, bathing suits, and other things, the girls are wearing these days could be crowded into a hundred trunks.

Likely Democratic nominees for the U. S. Senate from Missouri: Senator Bennett Clark; incumbent and son of Champ Clark, who was slated for the presidential nomination in 1912. If Bennett Clark is re-elected this year he stands a strong chance of being the presidential nominee of his party in 1940.

Jay Morgan, vice president of the United States Sugar Corporation, calls the Florida Everglades "terra of diamonds," and says that all that is needed for this state is to assist greatly in relieving the unemployment problem of the whole nation in to protect Florida from the "poisonous production" of foreign countries.

By way of the Palatka News comes the information that government taxes took only 5 cents out of every dollar earned in this country in 1930, only 12 cents out of every dollar earned in 1932, but by 1933 it would take 31 cents out of every dollar earned to defray the expenses of government. May be that's why they call them the "good old days."

The probability of higher income taxes for the "little fellows" is seen by Secretary McLaughlin who has assigned a number of Treasury experts to the study of this problem. "If the tax is raised, it will be a disaster," says one of the experts.

The Old Side-Wheeler

It is interesting to note that summer cruises of old time showboat fame are being enjoyed on the Mississippi River this summer for the first time in many years. Holiday crowds from Chicago take the train to Clinton, Iowa, where they catch an old-fashioned Mississippi steamboat for the two-day run to La Crosse, Wis.

From comfortable accommodations on board, the inland voyagers pass many interesting little villages and historic spots. By Savanna, Dubuque, McGregor, Prairie du Chien, they go to Battle Island where Chief Black Hawk and his braves fought a bloody battle with the white man. La Crosse is reached the second afternoon in time for the train back to Chicago.

The popularity of these cruises this summer attests the pleasure of river routes and prospects for the return of a more leisurely mode of travel. In a world where so many people figure their miles down to the last split second so that they can cover just as much distance as possible and still get under the wire in time for work, it is encouraging to note that the old-fashioned steamboat is coming back.

All of which leads us to wonder if it is not even yet within the realm of possibility that passenger service on the St. Johns River may some day be resumed. Surely among the millions of people who come to Florida every year there are many who would enjoy the rest and relaxation of the trip, to say nothing of the beauties of the scenery.

While we can see the advantages in flying around the world in less than four days, there is something to be said for the toot-toot of the old side-wheeler and its comfortable chair on the deck in the sun where a fellow can watch the moss hung oaks on the shore and let the world go by.

One Day Not Enough

The suggestion that one day in every year be set aside as Citizens' Day when each citizen in the nation might discharge his obligations to the government, such as paying all his taxes, filling all government reports and whatnot, for the entire year, is met with the objection from the Baltimore Sun that the average citizen could not begin to meet all the requirements of government in one day.

It would be literally impossible to figure out and pay all in one day for a whole year, even your direct taxes, much less the innumerable indirect taxes, a few of which are as follows:

- The cigar tax for a year. The theatre tax for a year. The excise tax on liquor. The gasoline tax. The tax on playing cards. The automobile purchase tax. The tax on stock transfers. The tax on cigars. The tax on cosmetics. The tax on smoking tobacco. The state tax on gasoline. The state tax on cosmetics. The state tax on property transfers. The floor tax on liquor. The import duty on beer, wine and liquor. The import duty on silk. The import duty on wool, woolen cloth and suits. The import duty on shoes and leather. The tax on oleomargarine. The liquor dealer's license tax. The tax on safe-deposit boxes. The tax on club dues. The tax on telegrams. The tax on long-distance telephone calls. The old-age pension tax. The unemployment-insurance tax. The tax on opiates and narcotics used in medicines. The inspection taxes on meat and other foods. That part of postage which is used to pay for carrying congressmen's letters free. The tax on taxes, such as this year's income tax on that part of your income which you paid last year to the government.

It just couldn't be done. "All of these," The Evening Sun concludes, "the average citizen pays directly or indirectly, but none of them can he pay on any one day simply because nobody can calculate the amount. Hence it is impossible for the citizen to do his full duty, or more than a small part of the paying he has to do, on a single occasion. If the payment of taxes is to be the criterion, then every day is Citizens' Day."

MAPLE-LEAF EMBLEM... Because they once played an important military role for British soldiers in the War of 1812, maple leaves were selected as the national emblem of Canada. When the English were fighting the French in the north woods, their scarlet jackets made an easy target for the enemy. Consequently, they all their tunics and inserted sprays of maple leaves to camouflage themselves, enabling them to advance under concealment. Fifty years later the British Government placed the device of three maple leaves of the regimental color of a Canadian corps called the Prince of Wales regiment. The three Maple Leaves appear on the arms of the provinces of Quebec and Ontario, as well as that of the Dominion of Canada, and it was the badge of the Canadian Forces during the World War.

Founder Says National Program Strengthened At Convention

By DR. FRANCIS E. TOWNSEND The Third Townsended National Convention has now passed into history and after a fortnight of rest and contemplation we can begin to evaluate more accurately all that was done during its sessions and get our impressions of the great event in order. As a day we conclude with important action, inspiring talks the expression of valuable opinions and the consideration and adoption of important policies, many of the time away from the sessions with a somewhat confused impression of what was done. I am sure we were all in agreement that the convention was necessarily swift as much had to be accomplished in a limited time, and the dispatch with which many matters were handled and decisions reached did not give any impression of the measure of thought which preceded such action. But no one who was closely observing the proceedings and took note of the utter precision with which the delegates responded to the call for competent committeemen and stevedores to help direct the convention could long doubt that there are among us many able persons in whose capable hands these important functions were being placed. On the second day, Tuesday, June 21, committees necessary to do the initial work were named and the personnel selected for each of them with judgment and care. Each of these committees immediately went into executive session, chose their chairmen and secretary, and proceeded to do the job which it had been assigned. The major objectives of the convention having been outlined and stated in the convention program—and the number of these objectives kept within reasonable limits—it took but a brief time for these committees to get down to business. Excellent and inspirational addresses, music and singing provided interest, diversion and much of occasional valuable talk while the delegates were waiting to consider and act upon the reports of the committees which required some time to formulate. During this time, opportunities were also afforded for the delegates to get acquainted and profit by an exchange of ideas regarding important proposed policies. One very gratifying thing soon became apparent as this exchange of ideas took place. It was noticeable almost from the start that a vast majority of the delegates were determined that there should be no revolutionary and radical departure from those policies of the organization which have been the outgrowth of our experience during these past eventful years. This organization being an entirely new politico-educational Movement, and the first of its kind in America, its growth and development has necessarily been of a pioneering character. Much of the time we have had to feel our way and, of course, in so doing we made mistakes and had to give considerable effort to correcting blunders. No precedents were available to guide us. This being so, it was considered altogether possible that an effort might be made by certain groups of delegates to organize a revolt against national policies and the national executive organization. Such fears were soon seen to be groundless as the delegates got down to real business. Many new and valuable suggestions were referred to, and considered by the committees, and acted upon with dispatch, but the prevailing note throughout the entire convention was one of confidence in the general policies of the organization and in the integrity, loyalty and ability of those upon whom executive responsibility has been placed. The unanimity and enthusiasm with which this spirit of faith was exhibited whenever the delegates were called upon to vote, that it was so spontaneous and sincere, that it brought tears to the eyes of many of us who could not but feel a very real and deep gratitude that we had been deemed worthy of it. We came away from the convention with gladness in our hearts, and filled with hope and courage, with our faith in the early realization of our national program as strengthened that we are quite ready to move mountains of disbelief and opposition as they may rise before us during the busy year to come.

World War Plane Almost Cause Of Death For Hughes

A World war plane almost got Howard Hughes once, and this is the first time the story ever has appeared in print.

It happened 10 years ago when "Hell's Angels" was being made. Hughes dared Ben Lyon, playing an aviator, to fly one of the French "Jennies" resurrected for the picture. Lyon, refusing, egged Hughes into taking up the old crate.

Hughes got the tricky thing into the air, tried to make a turn at 200 feet and did a nose dive. He wrecked the ship and came out sorely bruised.

His press agent thought it would make a swell story but Hughes put his foot down. "Nobody knows me," he said, "so what difference does it make?"

Some say it was "Hell's Angels," his big movie success, that turned Hughes' thoughts to aviation.

But the fact is that at the age of 14 he had been aloft in a battered old plane that was carrying passengers at $5 a head.

The "Hell's Angels" crack-up was the first of three plane mishaps from which Hughes emerged unscathed.

By 1931, Hughes had tired of pictures, formed his own company and started building his own speed ships. Quiet, enormously thorough in preparation, he insisted on quality, spent freely to get it. He did his own testing, had perfect confidence in his own judgment and ability.

To gain experience, he even flew as an American Airways co-pilot. He had to handle baggage and look out for the passengers' needs—but he also had a good chance to learn how to run a big transport plane.

In 1934, he won his first trophy, in a sportsman pilots' race at Miami.

A year later he flouted the Friday-the 13th jinx to set a new record for land planes at Santa Ana, Calif., and had another narrow escape. About to land, his motor choked and he crashed into a beet field before he could lower his retractable landing gear.

The propeller crumpled and as his sides rushed up Hughes stepped out saying: "Well, do better—we'll fix her up and try again."

His try was good for 352 miles an hour.

Other records included a hop from Chicago to Los Angeles in 8 hours, 10 minutes, 25 seconds, on a $50 bet, and one from Miami to New York in 4 hours, 21 minutes, 23 seconds.

During the record transcontinental hop in 1937 on which Hughes' fame chiefly rested before his round-the-world flight, he met and conquered his third great emergency.

Flying high for speed, his oxygen mask failed and things started to go black. Coolly, Hughes bit through the oxygen tube and sucked the gas to bring himself to time, 7 hours, 23 minutes.

A heavy eater, light drinker, non-smoker and excellent golf player, Hughes really is high strung despite his calm, aloof manner. But in the air his nervous energy turns to his beloved gadgets. Cool, detached, he records every variation in instruments that show how his devices are working. From around the world he brought back 40 pages of such notes.

In flying, as in picture making, Hughes took few into his confidence. When he started out, he rarely kept anyone concerned waiting.

Joe Nikrent, official timer at Los Angeles, who has clocked him many times, says his take-offs are always the same.

"He wouldn't say when he would be ready, and we just had to sense it. He woke me from a sound sleep in January, 1937, and said, 'Come on, Joe, I'm going.'"

"When I got to the airfield, he said, 'Hello Joe.' A few minutes later he said, 'Goodbye, Joe,' and was in the air 15 minutes after I got to the field.

"He just figured things out for himself and kept the decision to himself until he was ready to act."

That's how it happened that the public wasn't even Hughes planned a round-the-world flight until he was over the Atlantic. Yet it developed the Hughes had been planning the flight for one year.

"He just likes to do things with the least fuss and bother possible. He decided on his own achievements."

"Any one of the airline pilots of this nation, any one of the trained army or navy aviators and pilots of our country, could do what he has done."

YOUNG HEAD WITH OLD IDEAS sits on Yugoslavian King Peter (center), 15, who showed keen interest in a fighting plane shown at an aeronautical display in Belgrade.

IN PALESTINE, THE HOLY LAND—"Holy" to Moslems, Jews and Christians who for centuries have lived there, each group retaining its own customs—is Tel Aviv, a street of which is shown above. Tel Aviv, all-Jewish city, has been established about 26 years, has a population close to 125,000, and is near Jaffa. Tel Aviv figures inevitably in stories of Jewish-Arab disturbances which spring from the plan for a Jewish national home in Palestine to shelter Jewish refugees, and from the Arabs' deep-rooted conviction that Palestine is their own land.

Hayhurst was one of four—among the 1,000 expert military marksmen—to get a perfect score in 300-yard event. Deliberate shooting without movement was another event.

That's how it happened that the public wasn't even Hughes planned a round-the-world flight until he was over the Atlantic. Yet it developed the Hughes had been planning the flight for one year.

"He just likes to do things with the least fuss and bother possible. He decided on his own achievements."

Growers Aligned For And Against Marketing Pact

from this season's crop in the Sanford district was 112 crates per acre," Mr. Leffler continued. "This is low, from the yield per acre in any other section; the yield was reduced by the government potatoes."

"I do not see how we can continue to farm with these low yields. The cost per acre is greatly increased on a small yield and it is a question whether the extra money received by stopping shipments will pay the increased cost of a short crop," Mr. Leffler said.

Mr. Leffler continued that one reason the program should not be in force was because it was not applicable to all marketing sections. "Records show," he said, "that last year while we were in the market, shipments were moving unobstructed from a hot producing area. They were enjoying what market there was while we had discontinued shipping."

Mr. Leffler also stated that an organization is set up in the future, there is very strong feeling in those in the employ of the organization to continue it, and it is very reasonable so because it means their jobs and they are anxious to hold their jobs. He also stated that the group that is active in fostering the continuance of the agreement.

The matter shown in the world market is a dispute which is expected under very extreme circumstances to become a stop action with all the growers. If this is the case, they will have some other alternatives, Mr. Leffler concluded.

Mr. Szymes, who was recently named president of the Florida Citrus Association, declared that control last season had saved growers at least $500,000 according to the figures of C. L. Todd, economist of the Department of Agriculture at Washington. "Control," Mr. Szymes asserted, "levelled peak shipments and tends to keep the market steady. It is infinitely preferable." Mr. Szymes emphasized, "that the movement is supported by those who will profit most by uncontrolled shipments."

Mr. Chapman pointed to the cooperation between the producing sections in the state that the agreement tended to promote and declared that farmers must feel that the Control Committee did not try to force them to something against their will but was trying to assist in solving the marketing problem. He said that those who were not satisfied with the personnel of the committee had a chance to change this when they again voted for nominees who are approved by the Secretary of Agriculture. The members of the Committee were named in this manner last year.

Imperial Valley Grows Huge Sugar Beet Crop

BEAUFORT, July 21.—(AP) Imperial Valley farmers, thwarted by plant disease in their first attempt to raise sugar beets, will dig up a 120,000 acre crop this year.

Six thousand acres of Imperial Valley, the largest irrigated area in the nation, are now under sugar beet cultivation.

The Valley's farmers attempted to raise sugar beets ten years ago but lost the crop through disease. Through experimental work, a beet was obtained that is resistant to the disease which wiped out the earlier crop.

Construction of the new Pan American building to house the Imperial Valley at the coming Pan American Exposition in Tampa, Fla., will begin this week, local officials announce.

Rebels Begin Attack, Japs Lag In China

is stalled in a drive toward Hankow.

From their precarious positions along the south bank of Yangtze, Japanese tried another bombing attack in the Klukiang sector, 180 miles down the river from Hankow.

Chinese accounts said more than 300 bombs were dropped and that 30 persons were killed and many injured.

A Japanese spokesman admitted that China's Lion III ships, below Hankow, still were active, but told of other military successes. He said 17 Chinese gunners were damaged or destroyed in yesterday's raid on Hankow and that two Chinese Yangtze River vessels had been sunk.

In the Shanghai area, Chinese reported formation of a new force against Japanese occupied railroads and communication lines.

Sombrero Useful But Has Comic Aspects

MEXICO, July 21.—(AP)—The Mexican sombrero is an institution here, but it may be a joke as well. If cartoonists desire to make a man look ridiculous, they put a big sombrero on him. Yet the sombrero, or hat, may sometimes cost as much as $300. Some are made of finest felt, adorned with gold, silver and copper, and a few with precious stones.

The big hat has practical advantages since it provides plenty of protection from the sun, spares the eyes from glare, and prevents hunting accidents. In the United States a hunter might mistake a moving object in the woods for a deer, but the Mexican sombrero never has been taken for anything—but a sombrero.

The revolver was invented by Colt in 1835.

general manager of Imperial Airways and inventor of the unique plane, watched the takeoff. Arrangement of the lever release gears joining the two craft is a secret.

Mayo designed the plane to eliminate dangers of heavily laden long distance craft taking off under their own power. Launched from the back of the Maia, the Mercury has a longer flying range than the Caledonia, flying boat which crossed the Atlantic on trial pins last Summer. It also consumes less fuel. The Mercury has a maximum speed of over 210 miles an hour and a 4000 mile cruising range. The distance to Botwood is only 1995 miles.

Cloths Blown From Tables By Airplanes

TULSA, Okla. July 21.—(AP)—Assertions that airplanes flew so low over their restaurant that tablecloths were blown from the tables were contained in a recent claim two women made for $4,300 damages.

The petition contended the planes, landing and taking off from the municipal port, damaged trees, radio aerials and shrubs because of their low flying. The city was asked to stop the planes from "trespassing" on property the two women own. The claim was denied.

Farmer Gets More Per Acre For Cattle

ZENDA, Kans. July 21.—(AP)—Clarence Beat, farmer, thinks he has discovered a way his cattle can "eat their cake and have it too."

The way, he said, is to contour furrow the range land. He plans deep ditches at intervals across the range on a level line, so that rain and snow water catch there and penetrate the soil instead of running off.

"After constructing furrows on a 78-acre pasture, the height of the grass increased even though more cattle used it for grazing," Beat said.

Protesting a proposed tax of 1c on each package of cigarettes, St. Petersburg merchants urged city officials to avoid such a nuisance levy by placing a flat excise tax of ten cents on each utility meter and on all telephones, pointing out that such a tax would raise an equal amount of money and be a burden of no one.

Russia-Japan Tension Grows In Far East

Friction Over Border Dispute Increases; Soviet Refuses To Withdraw Forces

English King, Queen Return

Japanese Capture Of Kiukiang Predicted; Insurgents Advance

By Associated Press
CALAIS, France, July 22.—King George and Queen Elizabeth today ended their four day visit of state to France, sailing for Dover at 5:35 P. M. aboard the yacht Enchantress.

Sharp words between Soviet Russia and Japan threatened the uneasy peace of those rivals in the Far East today but a hopeful new omen for friendship in western Europe came from the state visit to France of King George VI of Britain.

Friction between Japan and Russia arose from demands of Japan and Manchoukuo that Russian forces be withdrawn from near Changkufeng, which they declared was Manchoukuo soil. Russia refused, contending treaty maps proved area was that have stemmed from the within Russia.

The incident repeats crises long, ill-defined border between Russian Siberia and Manchoukuo since Japan's conquest of China's Manchurian provinces in 1931-1933 brought her armies back to face with those of Russia.

Foreign observers in Moscow expressed a belief the incident would be solved peacefully.

Cautious optimism prevailed in French diplomatic circles as King George and Queen Elizabeth left Paris for home after four days of pageantry in France, signaling the close bonds between the two great democracies. The better feeling was based on report that Dictator Hitler of Germany had offered to work out a compromise settlement of "outstanding questions."

The war map in China remained unchanged but foreign observers predicted Japanese soon would capture Kiukiang.

Insurgent dispatches from eastern Spain said government troops had been driven from the mountains as insurgents continued the drive toward Valencia.

Winona Campers Qualifying For Rifling Medals

A large number of boys at the YMCA Camp on Lake Winona are taking lessons in rifling from Lieut. C. B. Schirard and are seeking to qualify for medals before the close of the camp tomorrow.

Mr. Schirard stated that the boys had taken interest in the classes and that he expected the boys to have completed the required 10 qualifying targets before the camp closes.

For the pro-marshman medal the boys must make a score of twenty points out of a possible 50 on 10 consecutive single bull's eye targets from a distance of 50 feet and in a prone position.

In this group Billy Gray is the only one who has qualified. Judson West has two of the targets, Fred Wright, six; Jere Dornay, six; Alfred Green, one; Jack O'Brien, two; Jack Hillman, one; Billy Halstead, six; Neal Smith, one; and Donald Domingue, two.

In the next group which requires a score of 35 points of a possible 50 for the marksmen medal, Billy Gray has six qualifying targets and David Beach has five. Those making the medal of marksmen this year are Donald Jones with the required 10 targets and Ray Fox with seven.

David Higgs and John Morgan are trying for the possible 500 points which requires a score of 50 on 100 targets on each of the 10

Simpson Declares Marine Studios To Attract Tourists

Gigantic Aquarium Is Scientific And Educational Project

The recently opened Marine Studios near St. Augustine were characterized Friday by T. E. Simpson, president of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, as "wonderful educational and an excellent attraction for tourists."

Visiting the studios recently, Mr. Simpson declared he was impressed by the vastness and uniqueness of the project. It is another in the growing list of Florida's tourist attractions, he said.

The studios, he explained, are the only ones in the world where marine life can be observed in its native state.

In the gigantic aquarium are numerous species of ocean life just as they appear in the waters of the sea. Most aquaria segregate the different species; therefore, marine life can not be observed as it actually is. However in the Marine Studios project porpoises, snarks, huge sea turtles, and fish of all kinds and descriptions can be seen mingling together.

Mr. Simpson pointed out that in addition to the educational advantages of the project to the State, and the benefit to the State of Florida as a tourist attraction, the studios will serve to provide scientific of marine life with exceptional opportunities to study the life of the sea minus many of the hazards usually accompanying such undertakings.

Declaring that with an initial investment of $500,000 in the project, Mr. Simpson said the management would double the number of exhibits, over within the next few years. The day he visited the studios, he asserted, the weather was rainy and unpleasant yet about 200 persons were there at the time. If this is any indication of the interest in the studios, he added, during the tourist season nearly 2000 people per day should be admitted.

Families Flee Homes Before Forest Fires

Vancouver Island Ordered Evacuated As Precaution Against Devouring Flames

SEATTLE, July 22.—(AP)—A family of five fled today before the great forest fire on Vancouver Island, abandoning their home in the small settlement of Broadmeads and Tong Creek. A police constable reported the settlements were in no immediate danger and that the evacuation was ordered as precautionary measure. He said the dangerous 30,000 acre blaze had approached to within two or three miles of the villages.

Sabotage in British Columbia and incendiaries in Washington state and Oregon were considered the chief obstacles to a successful fight against the devouring flames in the Pacific north-west states.

Flames of fires raged across the northwest, which in some spots was almost smothered.

Revolving heat, caused three deaths. Wind blew the flames out of control in some places and tried fighters said they would be lucky if they made headway against the flames.

Fanned by a northwest wind, flames from Vancouver Island's 50,000 acre forest fire swept through Fisher Landing, B. C., a fishing resort, destroying the hotel, which had been evacuated three days previously, and half a dozen other buildings.

British Columbia officials reported they found 1000 feet of fire hose slit with knives, near the Vancouver Island conflagration. They also said sugar had been poured into gasoline to disable firefighting pumps.

Incendiaries previously had been reported by Washington State authorities. They said men had been seen setting fires, and that some of them apparently were motivated by the desire to get jobs fighting the flames.

Forestry officials also announced 200 men sent from and sent points to fight the Vancouver Island blaze would be returned to "inexperienced."

German Flying Boat Ends Hop In New York

2,397 Mile Trip From Azores Is Made In Less Than 18 Hours

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., July 22.—(AP)—Germany's 19 ton catapult flying boat, Nordmeer, alighted here this morning after a non-stop flight of 2,397 miles across the Atlantic from the Azores in 17 hours and 42 minutes.

It had been tossed into the air at a speed of about 110 miles per hour yesterday by the mother ship at Horta, Azores.

The flight is part of a series of tests to be made prior to regular commercial service across the Atlantic by way of the Azores.

The German flying boat landed near the British trans-Atlantic pick-a-back plane Mercury which reached here late yesterday after a flight from Ireland with one stop at Montreal.

Lex Green Is Speaker At Picnic Of Townsend Clubs Headquarters Of Mather May Make Furniture Firm Head Is Negotiating For Purchase Of Arcade

The time Lex Green arrived to drive the money changes from the temple, Rep. Lex Green told Townsend clubs who gathered from nearby central Florida cities to participate in the Townsend picnic Thursday at the headquarters of the local club, Arthur A. Kirchhoff.

"We are living in the Golden Age," the congressman reported, adding that the wealth at present is held by about 2 percent of the population. He said the keys to the funds of the money changers are in the hands of the common people and that they will succeed in bringing lasting prosperity to the United States by means of the Townsend Plan which he predicts will be enacted by March, 1939.

Mather May Make Furniture Firm Head Is Negotiating For Purchase Of Arcade

At present the economy is expanding at the Orange County Building and Loan Association.

Mr. Mather asked a clear statement of policy on the part of Washington officials. He said that small business men were caught in the conservative-liberal conflict between different branches of the government.

Mr. Mather stated that the purchase of the Arcade for several months had added a letter to city commissioners which was read at their last meeting suggesting that city commissioners on the property be advised. The Commissioner named Mr. Mather that city laws on the property were in line with that of the county and that no further reduction in the assignment could be made.

Mr. Mather, along with several business associates, visited the building several times during the present week and declared that upon completion of the deal Sanford would become Florida headquarters for the firm.

Mr. Mather assured present tenants of the building that as soon as title to the property had been found satisfactory and it was determined that both city and county taxes had been paid in full, the property would be taken over by his concern.

The Orange County Building and Loan Association recently settled all taxes on the property with both the county and city. The county had charged $17,208.89 against the property, not including interest and penalties. That was settled upon payment of $1 and costs, amounting to $99.91, under the Murphy Act.
