I have never had any respect for him since. MARGARET HOUSNER, Cranbury, N.J.

Arthur Forrest, his associate, says it doesn't sound like Lewis. He is, Forrest says, generally particularly pleasant to older people. Forrest's theory is that this is just another story made up by the Lewis-haters, of which there are many. I find no story such as you recount, which is not to say that it is untrue. Regional Agency May Regulate Water Use

Herald Staff Writer

Water usage by cities, farmers, developers and others in Seminole County may soon be regulated by a regional agency. But at least one Seminole County official objects to the plan.

WRESTLING

WITH PAIN

The St. Johns River Water Management District governing board has directed its staff to rewrite and expand its water-use rules. The board's intent is to require permits for those who use an average of more than 100,000 gallons of water per day

But Seminole County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm said he thinks such regulation should be left to local authorities. "I can say for myself that I would not like to turn over any of Seminole County's authority to an outside agency, period," Sturm said. "I think we can do a better job because we are more familiar with local needs, past, present and future.

"I see it as another layer of bureaucracy that is not needed." Members of the water management district governing board, however, feel the regulations are necessary to stop overuse or destruction of Central Florida's water resources, said district spokesman Connie Phillips. Governing board member-at-large Fran Pignone, of

"landmark action" on the part of the regulatory agency. Pignone has pushed for regional water use regulation as a tool to direct development.

The district currently enforces water regulations in the Upper St. Johns River Basin and the Oklawaha Basin, which include portions of Seminole County from Oviedo east. But the rest of Seminole County will be affected by the proposed regulatory expansion. In addition to requiring permits for those who pump more than 100,000 gallons per day, the district would regulate those who have systems that could pump a million gallons per day,

She said the regulations, if approved, would not affect homeowners or small businesses. They would affect large users, such as those involved in agriculture and municipal

To take effect, the regulations first will have to go through a public hearing process.

Sturm said the county may register an objection. It has already informed the water management district that it intends to keep issuing its own well drilling permits, he said.

Commissioner Sandra Glenn said she agrees with Sturm that whatever regulations are deemed necessary, local government should continue to have a hand in the process. Sonny Vergara, St. Johns River Water Management district executive director, said local governments should control local

"But water management isn't just a one-county problem. The real concern is what is happening to the total resource in "The St. Johns River extends 210 miles from Indian River County to Duval County, Seminole County need only look to the east to see the dire straights Volusia and Brevard counties are in as far as water resources go. "And there are parts of Seminole with the same problems." Vergara pointed to a dispute between Seminole and Orange counties over a dam.

Without a regional water management district, "how are such inter-county problems to be resolved?" he asked. Seminole County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff said agricultural interests and the cities probably will be interested in scrutinizing the district's proposals. If the regulations are within the rights of the district and seem to be beneficial they should be considered, he said.

Phillips said a permit system is a means of providing for destruction of the area's water resources. "It's the most significant thing this district has ever done."

she said. "It's a reaction to low water levels and drying river basins. The alternative is running out of water.' She said although the district has never denied anyone a water-use permit, people remain scared of such regulation. "They think we're trying to take their water away. That's not the case," she said. "In reality, no one has ever been

She said the regulations are primarily a tool to monitor water resources and are not anti-growth.

They allow for growth, she explained, because they can prevent people from coming in and then finding out they don't have enough water available for their needs.

"It lets them know in advance so they can move somewhere else," she said.

Pignone agreed that the proposed regulations are not an attempt to stop growth but a means to "get a technical handle See AGENCY, Page 2A

ROYAL ROMANCE UPDATE: Lady Diana Spencer has secretly joined Prince Charles at Sandringham, the royal family's estate in eastern England, renewing press speculation about the couple's future. Lady Diana, 19, gave reporters the slip when she traveled to Norfolk by train Wednesday to join the prince for two or three days. She was expected to accompany the prince on a pheasant shoot. Her two sisters. Lady Sarah McCorquodale, 25, and Lady Jane Fellowes, 23, were joining the group and there was further speculation the girls' parents, the Earl and Countess Spencer might also be present. Most senior members of the royal family will be gathered at Sandringham later this week fueling rumors about a "family summit" prior to an engagement announcement.

Hollywood's Finest To 'Coronate' Reagan

UPI Political Writer WASHINGTON (UPI) - Ronald Wilson Reagan, 69, Hollywood screen star, California governor, staunch conservative, becomes 40th president of the United States Tuesday repeating the same 35-word oath George Washington spoke in 1789.

The oath is one of the few similarities between the Washington and Reagan inaugurals. Washington rejected a proposal that he be crowned king, but the $8 million extrvaganza ushering' in Reagan comes as close as anything in America to a coronation. The inaugural - twice as costly as President Carter's, but paid for almost entirely by private funds — is being billed by some as having more stars and razzle-dazzle than any show ever put on in Hollywood, New York or Nashville.

Reagan — the oldest firstterm president spent more than one-third of his life living and acting in Hollywood and married two of his leading ladies. Show business is turning out in force to honor the first actor to become

But the four-day inaugural spread — filled with concerts, balls, parties and fireworks represents much more than just Hollywood comes to Washington and the return of top hat and tails formality eschewed by Carter's Georgia mafia.

It marks the launching of the most conservative government the nation has seen in nearly three decades, an end to John Kennedy's New Frontier and Lyndon Johnson's Great Society, and some say the death of Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal. Reagan and Vice Presidentelect George Bush come to office backed by what Republicans see as a sweeping mandate to slash government spending, boost the military budget and cut income taxes as much as 30 percent over three years. Reagan's landslide victory over a sitting president was viewed as a dramatic rejection not only of Carter, but a decade of high inprices and a perception by voters that the American dream was slipping away.

"When you go into the voting booth, ask yourself, 'Are you really better off than you were four years ago?" Reagan said in perhaps his most effective campaign line. The voters answered a resounding "No!" Now, 11 weeks after election day, the inauguration stands as a four-day holiday between the difficult task of assembling a cast of thousands to take over the government and the more difficult task of running it for

To Washington will come Ronald Reagan's 68,000 closest political friends to spend an estimated $10 million a day - $40 million in all - to celebrate his finest hour and do for the economy of the capital what the new president hopes to do for the nation.

Critics who have questioned the extravagance are reminded that only the $650,000 cost of the actual swearing-in ceremony at the Capitol is borne by the taxpayers - and that part of the show is controlled by a Congress under split political The $8 million the Reagan inaugural committee will spend comes from charging $100 to dance at an inaugural ball, up to $150 to see Sinatra, Carson, et al, at an inaugural gala, and other events. Then there are generous private donations, including many from big business, which is prohibited by law from contributing to campaigns. An "average" couple coming to town for one hour - it is cold in Washington in four days, staying in hotel rooms that easily cost $100 a night, eating in Washington restaurants, renting a limousine for the inaugural ball, buying the tickets necessary for various functions and souvenirs to take home to the kids will spend about $2,000 to help Reagan celebrate. the former president's closest aides will take And that is assuming they cut corners by getting their congressman to buy them a drink at their state reception and use shuttle buses to get to some events where even a limousine would be held up in traffic for

But the inauguration is not just for the fat cats. During the week there will be free concerts at various Smithsonian museums, two free fireworks displays and special exhibits all around town. And, of course, it doesn't cost anything to stand on the Capitol grounds for the swearing-in ceremony (although the first 17,000 seats are reserved for Reagan's inaugural formally opens in the rold and darkness of Saturday night outside the familiar memorial to the nation's first Republican president, Abraham Lincoln. With Reagan and Bush in attendence and Efrem Zimbalist Jr. presiding, the Army band will play a specially composed inaugural march and the Mormon Tabernacle Choir will sing patriotic and inspirational songs, including the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," while the largest fireworks display in the history of the nation's capital is hot off outside.

The Lincoln Memorial will be flanked by two fireworks portraits - one of the official naugural seal and one of Reagan and Bush. Open to the public, it is the most exWillard Scott, wacky weatherman of the "Today" show, will preside.

Tuesday night is a night for dancing. There will be eight inaugural balls - Carter had six - plus a youth disco that will cost young people only $40, as opposed to $100 for ball

Federal Agents Arrest Anti-Castro Saboteurs

MIAMI (UPI) - A Miami-based anti-Castro group has admitted that seven men arrested by federal agents aboard a boat laden with munitions were its members, en route to be trained for sabotage missions against Communist Cuba.

Secretary General Andres Nazario of the militant Cuban exile Alpha 66 organization said the six Mariel sealift refugees and one earlier exile were on a mission as "part of our Maximo Gomez plan to liberate Cuba." Nazario vowed "nothing will stop" Alpha 66 from carrying out similar sabotage missions. He said the seven were en route to a secret Alpha 66 training base "outside the U.S." when they were intercepted by federal agents.

Teachers Flunk Math Test

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) - Although 16 percent of those taking the state's first teacher certification test failed the math portion, Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington says the math standard is too low. "There is a breakdown in mathematics education in the United States," Turlington said.

Of the 477 probationary and prospective teachers who took the test last November, 101 failed to pass at least one of the four sections. Although an exact breakdown was unavailable, Turlington said he believed a majority of those taking the exam already are in classrooms under temporary certification.

FP&L Seeks Rate Boost

MIAMI (UPI) - The state's largest electric utility -Florida Power & Light Co. - has asked the Public Service Commission for a $476 million rate increase. It estimated Friday the proposed rate boost could add $12.35 a month to the average homeowner's electric bills.

FP&L provides power for more than 2 million customers in 35 of Florida's 67 counties and its customer list is growing at the rate of 100,000 a year. It notified the PSC last month that it would request a rate increase this year. The commission has eight months to act on the request. It is expected to schedule public hearings around the state starting in the spring.

Graham: Interstates Vital

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) - Because of its proximity to anti-American countries, Florida's interstate highways would be important to the national defense system in case of trouble, Gov. Bob Graham has told incoming President Ronald Reagan. Graham stressed this point in a plea to Reagan not to curtail federal funds to complete major sections of the defense-related system in Florida. "Since the Cuban missile crisis, Florida has been placed in a vulnerable position and continues to be an important national security location," he said, noting that one of the main reasons the interstate highway system was initiated in 1956 was to provide support to

More Ways To Measure Growth

If there still are any doubting Thomases who think Sanford isn't growing or going anywhere, they'd better take a closer look.

Going somewhere," or Progress and growth," can't always be measured by population, new industry, more homes and more cars. We know that's happening. But sometimes the yardstick has to be applied to measure attitudes...those attitudes which lend to the intellectual and emotional growth of a community's inhabitants.

And on that level, the city of Sanford is progressing. Of that we have no doubt.

Witness the hiring a couple of weeks ago of the city's first female firefighter and as of Thursday, the hiring of a female building inspector, the first time a woman has held either post in Sanford. And they may very well be the first women building inspector and firefighter for governmental agencies in the history of Seminole County, according to Sanford officials.

Now these are not just token positions. There's a method to Sanford's madness and some definite targets for putting women and minority members on the city payroll. And the city's well on its way to meeting that goal.

Francie Wynalda, Sanford's personnel officer, reports that as of Friday, the city had 272 employees. Of that 272, 83 are black males, 9 are black females, 140 are white males and 40 are white females. That gives women an 18 percent representation among city employees, and minority members, 33.8 percent. Not bad.

Those percentages are up slightly over 1980 when of the city's total employees minority members boasted 33.6 percent, and females 17.1

The city, according to City Manager Warren Knowles, has just about hit its goal for the femaleminority ratio of city employees, although there will be a few more hired. The goal, Knowles said, is to have the same balance of minority-female employees to the total work force as other employers in the Central Florida market. That's Progress.

Bucks For Bigots

The Ku Klux Klan has gone commercial. The well-dressed Klansman or Klanswoman, according to press accounts, can now purchase a Tshirt to supplement the traditional white sheet. And there are other Klanish items such as earrings, bumper stickers and posters offered for sale by one Klan factory. Business is reported to be brisk, proving that there are bucks in bigotry.

The Klan's foray into commerce is an interesting new development. However, none should lose sight of the Klan's old business, which it has never abandoned.

The Klan remains a collection of miserable merchants of malice.

In the fifteen years during which the Soviet Union has been equipping itself with so numerous a force, the United States has permitted its own defenses to deteriorate to the point where it can barely control American air space in peacetime. At the time when Soviet missiles and medium bombers were first introduced into Cuba, in 1962, the United States had over 1,700 interceptor aircraft and hundreds of anti-aircraft missiles deployed within the United States. Two years later, the Secretary of Defense began a reduction in the air attack. Now, 15 years after the reduction was begun, the Air Force has 148 interceptor aircraft with which to defend the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii. That is fewer aircraft than were lost by the United States during the attack on Hawaii in December 1941. In addition there are 10 Air National Guard interceptor squadrons with a total of 179 aircraft, all of which are obsolete and which can only be manned after their pilots are summoned from home or civilian jobs during an emergency. The hundreds of anti-aircraft missiles that once defended American cities have all disappeared not to be replaced. Certainly one of the first steps that must be taken is to develop a program of civil defense that will provide the American people with the greatest possible protection from nuclear attack. That may seem extravagant so long as there is peace, it will not seem so when war comes. Fixed-Income Tenants

Landlords lick their chops and chortle with glee. "When the leases are up," they say, "we'll sock it to our tenants." Face it. Anyone whose income is less than $10,000 a year will be in trouble. Senior citizens on fixed incomes will be asking themselves: "Do we continue to eat? Or do we pay the increased rents demanded by our greedy landlords?" Recently, the landlords of a Long Island, N.Y., building demanded a 40

Perhaps the most glaring example of the sorry state of affairs is fundamental: The marshals can't keep up with the criminal warrants that they are supposed to issue. measure necessary is the formidable nature of the forces that the Soviet Union has available for striking the United States from the air. There are 1400 intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) aimed at targets in the United States from protected sites in the Soviet Union. Some of those ICBMs carry as many as eight nuclear warheads, each of which can be directed at its own particular target to deliver an explosive yield equal to two million tons of TNT. There are 87 Soviet submarines that can fire a total of 1,000 ballistic missiles some from as far away as 4,000 miles. Another 68 Soviet submarines can launch cruise missiles armed with nuclear warheads. The best of those have a range of 2,000 miles and can enter U.S. airspace without eliciting timely warning from American radar. There are 160 of the new SS-20 medium range ballistic missiles which when located in eastern Siberia, as some are, can strike Alaska, its oilfields, pipeline and oil-loading ports. There are 201 Soviet heavy bombers of the kind that regularly fly out of Cuban airfields

Valencia Tonight At 7:30 P.M. ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Lyman's wrestling program has Joe Sterling's Seminole Community College Raiders seek collected district, regional and Christmas Invitational their 17th win in 18 tries Saturday night when they host championships. Nowhere, however, is there a Five Star conference tournament wrestling trophy to be found in the 'Hounds' trophy

"We've talked about it a lot," conceded Greyhound Coach Skip Pletzer. "Heck, one year we won the district and the regional, but not the conference."

And after the first round, Pletzer could not point to the point totals with pride. Seabreeze's Sandcrabs held a slight 32-30 edge on Lyman with surprising Seminole third with 20. There is a three-way deadlock for fourth - Apopka, Mainland and host Lake Brantley - with 16 points. DeLand with 15 and Lake Howell with eight complete the field. But, alas, first rounds in wrestling tournaments are misleading, since the byes are not figured in the points. The Greyhounds are heavy with byes. Number one seeds David Henley (129) and Glenn Newman (122) both had byes as did Jeff Brannen (UNL).

In tournament first rounds, the wrestler gets two points advancement and two more for a pin. However, a wrestler still gets his advancement points as soon as he gets his first win after a bye.

"The second round is the most important. You need a lot of guys in the finals," said Pletzer who expects as many as nine or more Greyhounds to be there. Seabreeze also picked up points in the last two weight classes - 223 and Unlimited. In this land of the dinosauers is where the Chavers boys roam.

Pletzer figures DeLand's dynamic duo of Andrew (UNL) and Lenny should take care of any Sandcrab hopes. Lyman piled up its 30 points on pins by Cory Stanley (135), Matt West (148), Terry Barrett (158), Alan Trawick (188) and Steve Schofield (223).

Decisions were turned in by Jo-Hoon Lee (108), Joey Lockwood (122), eric Smith (141) and Jeff Burris (170). "Lockwood and Lee did great jobs," said Pletzer about his lower weights which have been a problem this year. "Lockwood beat the third seed (Mainland's Brian Huff 17-5) in his first varsity match." Lee also posted an easy 9-0 victory. Lyman's number two seed at 101 Alan Hunzicker was upset by Lake Howell's Paul Lyman is without the services of Brian Andrew (knee), Curt Schuster (flu) and senior Chris Breen. Breen, a 188-pounder, is expected to miss two weeks.

Moving down a notch to third place, Scott Sherman's surprising Seminoles are lodged in behind the Greyhounds despite osing a number one seed at 108. Senior Willie Jones was disqualified for two full-Nelsons, locking hands once and a false start. Sophomore Vince Clark, however, picked up the slack by pinning Mainland's Willie Mitchell in a startling 36 seconds. "Williams went for the takedown and Vince just flipped him over and pancaked him down," said Sherman of the quicky. Senior Paul Breig, up two classes to 170, grabbed a quick 2-0 lead and then pinned DeLand's Charlie Wiles with an armbar. For the Tribe's third stick, Nat Woodgett picked on another Del and Bulldog, Barry Tressler, at 135 pounds. Woodgett subdued Tressler with a headlock and an arm in 3:55.

Winfield's world practically came apart. He's gotten over it by now and still feels Bob Gibson is one of the greatest pitchers he has ever seen. Trying to recall that episode Thursday, following the announcement of Gibson's election to the Hall of Fame by the Baseball Writers Association of America, Gibson wasn't able to.

"I honestly don't remember it," he said. "I'm sure if he says so, it happened, but I had no idea who that, I give it my complete attention. I did the same anybody's interested." thing when I was pitching."

the mound, winning 251 games while losing 174, striking out 3,117 batters, and compiling a spectacular 2.91 ERA. And he won the big ones, too. He won a record seven straight games in the World Series and is the only pitcher ever to win the seventh game of the World Series twice. Five times he won 20 games or more, something no other pitcher in Cardinals' history was able to do.

Years ago, I asked Gibson what he wished to be remembered for most, and he gave me a one word answer - "consistency." He used the same word Thursday, on becoming only one of 11 players ever to be elected to the Hall of Fame on the first ballot. "Probably when I'm 60, if I see some kid doing

"My legs were killing me," he said, offering the first reason. "And it was a mental thing, too. I was going through a lotta personal things. I remember one game where the other team had the bases full and I was pitching. I found myself standing on the mound thinking about my ex-wife. I knew it was

With 401 writers casting ballots, Gibson needed 301 votes, or 75 per cent of the ballots, to be elected to the Hall of Fame, and he was named by 337. Bowie Kuhn, National League President Chub Feeney and Hall of Fame President Ed Stack were on hand for Gibson's election. So was his new boss and former Cardinals' teammate, Joe Torre.

Torre has always been particularly fond of Gibson and knows him probably better than anyone else in

"Bob isn't the easiest guy in the world to understand if you don't really know him," Torre said. "I caught him in the 1965 All-Star game in Minnesota, and he struck the side out to end the game. We were in the shower together and I said, 'Nice game, Gibby.' No, I called him Bob; I didn't feel I could call him Gibby. He didn't even answer me. Mind you, it was just him and me in the shower." Dave Winfield needn't feel so bad.

The Sun Devils - the only Pacific-10 team to beat the ninthranked Bruins twice last season — needed three overtimes Friday night before posting a 78-74 triumph over UCLA. Paul Williams scored four points in the third overtime and Bryon Scott added a pair of free throws with eight seconds remaining to boost Arizona State's record to 12-2. UCLA, which lost its second straight game, fell to 8-3.

Ned Wulk, who has been coaching at Arizona State for 23 years and 30 years overall, credited the victory to his team's rebounding strength.

"Rebounding was certainly a key factor in our victory," he said. "There were five or six times in the overtime when we kept the ball alive. We tipped the ball back and gained possession. Our overall rebounding helped us a lot tonight." Arizona State, which began competition in the Pac-10 in 1979, now holds a 3-2 edge over UCLA in league play. Overall, UCLA holds a 9-4 advantage over the Sun Devils. The teams meet again at Pauley Pavilion on Feb. 14.

Wulk gave credit to UCLA for coming back in the second "We got a little over cautious," said Wulk. "We came out in

Puppets Full Theatre; But Like Under A Microscope

Herald Staff Writer

As Aladdin rubbed his magic lamp, the genie, huge and somewhat terrifying, suddenly appeared. Towering over the small figure holding the lamp, the genie had to kneel to look Aladdin in the eye and to explain to him the magical properties of the wonderful lamp.

The familiar story which has been a children's favorite for years was performed recently at the First Presbyterian Church in Sanford as a fund-raising project for the church's pre-school .

The fellowship hall was filled to overflowing with parents and youngsters. The big people sat on folding chairs while most of the small fry sat on the floor in front, their attention directed toward the stage.

For many of the children, who are full-fledged members of the television generation, it was their first look at a live production. But live may not be the proper term since only the genie was a live human being. Aladdin, the princess, the evil magician and all the other characters of the fairy tale were marionettes. Made of wood, plastic and foam, their every move and gesture was controlled by two talented showmen pulling the strings.

Vagabond Marionettes is the Atlanta-based troop who put on the performance. During the nine-month school year Tim Schmidlin, 21, and Akbar Imhotep, 28, will put Aladdin and the genie through their paces in 22 states. Sometimes working two shows a day, five days a week, the two puppeteers live out of a white van filled with half a dozen trunks which contain the 16 puppets, the lights, curtains and stage. A few personal belongings are included but it is truly a vagabond existence for the two showmen.

time, they were met by five teens who volunteered to help with the performance.

A collection of iron pipes and joints were unloaded. Resembling a plumber's shop, the pipes were connected to form a scaffold which makes the framework of the stage. Half a dozen lights were hung and their wires connected to a control panel of switches and dimmers. Curtains and painted drops were added and, out of what first seemed to be chaoes, order slowly appeared.

There were a few problems. The ceiling in the church was too low. As a result, the front of the stage, a piece of canvas painted to resemble a castle, was 18 inches too low for the opening of the stage. Improvization is a standard ingredient or the traveling puppeteers, and while Schmidlin hung the marionettes in the order would be needed, Imhotep and his volunteers folded the canvas and stapled it 18 inches higher than it normally hangs, solving the problem.

David Thomas and Ronnie Kidd, both 16, and members of the Central Baptist Church Puppeteers, helped with erecting the stage and other backstage logistics. Joining them were Jody Armstrong, 14, Todd Luce, 15, and Steve Smith, 14. Smith volunteered to operate the curtain during the show. A couple of practice openings and closings had him looking like a veteran stagehand.

As the room filled, the children drifted toward the front to sit with their friends. They intently watched the pre-show activity while their parents chatted quietly with each other. Rimski Korsakov's "Schehrazade" played from a tape provided appropriate background music.

Finally the lights dimmed, the curtain was drawn and the uppets came to life. The voices and sound effects came from a prerecorded tape while Imhotep and Schmidlin maneuvered the five-to seven-pound puppets, controlling their actions by up to a dozen strings.

This was Schmidlin's first year on tour and in addition to handling the puppets, he was dressed in costume playing the part of the genie. Interested in theater, he said he enjoys working with the miniature players even though it is tiring on the arm and chest muscles. He said it took him several weeks to learn the basics and he is still learning during each

Imhotep has been with the company for 18 months and handles the more intricate maneuvers. They will perform Alladin for a year and then return to Atlanta to learn a new show for next year. Another company based in Atlanta is working on a different number now. They will work out the ous and teach it to the road members for next year's tour.$ Schmidlin said it is fun handling the miniature actors, but the work comes in driving from town to town and setting up the stage. He is looking forward to New Orleans when they can stay in one city for three weeks. Lonliness is the biggest problem. "We go to a town, make friends, then leave," he

After the show they explained some of the special effects and showed their audience of new friends how the marionettes are controlled. Those interested were allowed backstage to see the puppets up close. With the help of their local volunteers, the stage was struck, the puppets packed away, and everything loaded back in the van, ready for another show in another town. Coming from a theatrical family, Scmidlin said he has dreams of going Hollywood someday, but for the time being he wants to stay with the marionettes.

"Theater is my life," he said, "and puppetry is theater. It is full theater but like under a microscope."

Robin says she is usually cast as a character actress.

"A character role is usually not a leading role but it can steal the show if the actor is good," she said.

Although Robin had a choice to attend other theater schools, she chose Strasberg school because of its strict discipline and of a way of teaching called "the method." "They are very strict on discipline," said Robin, "if students miss two classes, they are asked to leave. I feel you don't get that kind of disciple in college because you're too worried about homework and other things." Robin said she also chose the school because of Strasberg's way of teaching called "the method."

Strasberg uses incidents that have happened to yourself to give emotion to a character you're playing, she said. Referring to a book about Strasberg's school, Robin says the book points out this recall method might be bad if someone has to recall bad happenings in his life. "But Strasberg doesn't make students use the method, he lets them have a choice." Robin says she would rather be in plays than television.

"I don't mind doing small parts. Doing any kind of acting is better than not working at all. "If I could be a paid actress in a small theater making enough to support myself I would be satisfied," she said. "I don't want to sound egotistical, but I think I'm good, I'm confident I'll work - it may take awhile, but I feel I've got the art in me."

But Robin credits a lot of her schooling success to her

Balcony Peeping Tom Takes The Cake

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I live on the 10th floor of an apartment in Honolulu. Every day when I get home from work, I find my husband out on the balcony looking into other people's apartments through binoculars! On weekends and during the evening hours, this is the way he spends all his spare time. I told him that his peeping-torn hobby was upsetting to me, and he ought to see a psychiatrist. He says there's no harm in looking - that I am upset for nothing.

Abby, last night took the cake. He actually dragged an easy chair from the living room out on the balcony and sat spying through those binoculars for two hours! (he loves to see women undressing, or better yet, a man and woman together!) Abby, don't you think there is something seriously wrong with a grown man whose hobby is spying on other people in this manner? Or am I upset for nothing?

UPSET IN HAWAII DEAR UPSET: Your husband is a voyeur - one who habitually seeks sexual stimulation by visual means. The seriousness of his hobby can be determined by a psychiatric consultation, and I recommend it. Even if your husband does nothing but "look" it's not harmless if he spends hours at it,

DEAR ABBY: I work for an executive in a large, important firm, and as such, I telephone other businessmen in similar positions. The purpose of this letter is to express amazement at the stupidity of some of the secretaries with whom I have spoken on the telephone Example: When I telephone and say, "Is Mrs. Jones available? Mr. Long of 'X' Corp. is calling," I have been told, "One moment, please, I don't think he's come in yet." (And this is at 10:45 a.m.) Or: "He hasn't come back from lunch yet, but he won't be gone long. Nobody took him." Or would you believe, "Just a minute. I think he's in the

Elite Introduction Service To Expand

'Godmothers' Not For Underprivileged

Special to the Herald NEW YORK - The Godmothers is coming! It's already in New York, Washington, Philadelphia and Boston and, in the next two years, Abby Hirsch, who founded the dating service in New York in December '78, plans to open branches in 12 more cities. But hold onto your pumpkin. Unless you're an educated, accomplished, cultured professional you can't sign up. Not even if you can scrape up the $250 fee for "three evenings" with three different men (or women) who, it's hoped, come closest to what you say you want in a date. The Godmothers was not organized for the underprivileged. Says Ms. Hirsch, who also runs her own public relations business, "I started The Godmothers because my friends who are very interesting people had become boring. They kept lamenting the fact that there was no one around they liked going out with. Lo and behold, that applied to the men, too." So Ms. Hirsch sent out a press release about her plans for an elite introduction service and the response put her into business. Now she says, "At any given time, I have several hundred people registered."

They're men and women aged 21 to 60, but mostly in their 30s and 40s ("the men go through their 50s"); doctors, lawyers, corporation presidents, stockbrokers, two restauranteurs, some journalists, one artist, a novelist, etc. All doing well, except socially; all with the credentials to survive the screening procedure which goes like this; "First," she says, "you send us an autobiographical sketch including your last three relationships, how long they lasted, why they ran into problems, what you liked and responded to about the people and what you didn't, etc.
"In the third part, you tell us the sort of person you'd like

We study all this and try to see if you would mix easily with our other clients, and if your expectations are not too If what you say is what they like, you're invited in to say it in person. "We sit and talk for about 45 minutes, asking you to expand on what you've written," she says. "I try not to think of whom you might like during the interview because I will start to hear things I would not hear otherwise. But the moment you leave, I start going through my files." Promptness counts because The Godmothers claims it will produce your first "evening" in four weeks. "If we can't, we say here is someone pretty close, or we ask for more time," she says. "I've spent weeks trying to figure out they go out again." Thirty to 35 percent of her clients do continue some sort of relationship with one of the people we introduce them to, she says. "That's a vast difference from the world out there if you think of all the people you go out with once and never see again. Also, I have six couples who are living together, and they're not frivolous people."

Neither is the mature, New York marketing executive who is on his second three-evening round with the Godmothers. "I'm divorced and I was attracted to The Godmothers because I favor anything that suggests prescreening," he says. "you hear about all the fish in the ocean in the single world, but how much time can you spend

Of the first three minnows The Godmothers supplied him with - two schoolteachers and one clinical hypnotist - the last came closest to his specifications: "An attractive woman vitally interested in some sort of dynamic endeavor.' That worked out rather well up to a point," he says, "and then it had to go on or die and it died. I signed up again because I want to get out of the fish pond. I'm looking for permanency in a relationship. I do believe it's rougher for men being single again than women."

While he endorses The Godmothers' castings in his behalf, he has no illusions about its efficacy. "It's foolish," he says, "for any person to assume that you're home free having a third party make the selection for you. It just betters the odds a bit." Minnows it down, so to speak.

LaHaye Films Scheduled

At Central Baptist Church

A series of four films based on Family Lite Seminars conducted by Dr. and Mrs. Tim LaHaye around the world, will be shown at Central Baptist Church, 1311 Oak Ave., Sanford at 6 p.m. on Jan. 18 and 25 and Feb. 1 and 8. Open to the public, the series is called "The Spirit Controlled Temperment" and outlines the LaHayes' approach to human behavior. The films are entitled: "Why You Act the Way You Do," "Dealing with Hostility," "Overcoming Fear, Anxiety and Worry" and "Six Keys to Marital Happiness."

Dr. and Mrs. LaHaye have authored numerous books, some of which have sold more than a million copies. Rather than just delineating problems, the LaHayes offer some practical biblical answers for changing one's own behavior.

Missionary To Speak

The Rev. Angelo Nesta, a missionary to Italy, will be guest speaker Sunday, at the 10:45 a.m. service at Trinity Assembly of God, 875 Elkcam Boulevard, Deltona. Since 1965 Mr. and Mrs. Nesta have been active in church planting, Bible school teaching and evangelism. They helped establish churches in Padva, Vicenza and are now starting a new church in Venice. His father was also a missionary to Italy until his death. A special display and slide presentation will highlight the missions rally, which is open to the

Atlanta Police

ATLANTA (UPI) - Police

are trying to determine whether a 19-year-old man charged earlier this week with the attempted kidnapping of a 5-year-old black girl is connected with the slayings and disappearances of 16 Atlanta black children. Police arrested Jeffery Dwayne Scott of Atlanta Thursday after he allegedly picked up the screaming child and was carrying her in his arms when he was seen. "The guy saw me coming and panicked," said witness Willie Clayton. "He put the little girl down and took off." Only two of the 16 victims -12 dead and four missing were girls.

Police also were investigating today a rash of reported kidnappings Friday but apparently none of them were confirmed. One reportedly turned out to be a hoax but at least two other cases were being investigated.

Earlier Friday, another man who police said was impersonating a police officer was questioned in connection with the childrens cases but later apparently was ruled out as a suspect. The red-bearded young man, whose name was not released, was arrested on marijuana possession and traffic charges. Police said he had been spotted a day earlier driving a blue car with a blue flashing light and a siren. He was pursued then and eluded capture, but officers spotted him again Friday and caught

In the car they found lollipops and a fake badge, which an officer noted might be used to lure children.

BUSINESS IN BRIEF

Longwood's Anne Sullivan Named Mary Kay Director

Anne Sullivan of Longwood has earned appointment as sales director of the independent field marketing organization of Mary Kay Cosmetics Inc., it was announced by Mary Kay Ash, chairperson of the board of the Dallas-based firm.

Ms. Sullivan, who became a beauty consultant in October 1978, joins a group of almost 1,600 other directors who coordinate and aid the efforts of over 70,000 independent beauty consultants who are actively selling and demonstrating Mary Kay products throughout the United States, its territories, Canada, Australia, and Argentina.

Mary Kay Cosmetics Inc., since its founding in September 1963, has evolved from a small regional cosmetics firm to a fully-integrated manufacturer and distributor of skin care, cosmetics and hair care

Firm Names Regional Head

Sally Fausnight will be relocating from Uniontown. Ohio, to Central Florida at the end of this month to become a regional sales director for Creative Fausnight will be traveling in Florida, Georgia and Alabama bringing to Creative Expressions consultants her experience in teaching needlework and salesmanship.

A Sanford consultant, Shirley Dreifuerst, said that since Creative Expressions has grown from one consultant to over 300 consultants in Florida in two years. Fausnight's experience and knowledge "will be greatly appreciated by all consultants."

Home Builders Course Set

The Home Builders Association of Mid-Florida is sponsoring a five-week pre-apprenticeship training course in the Electrical trade. Sterchi's Net Sales Drop

Net sales of Sterchi Bros. Stores Inc., for December were $5.7 million, reflecting a $135,042 or 2.3 percent decline from sales of $5.8 million recorded last

While Sterchi's December 1945 Apped slightly, the home furnishings chain enjoyed the second largest month in its 92-year history, surpassed only by last December's performance, according to C.A. Terrell. chairman and president.

Sales for the first 10 months of the company's fiscal year were $40,298,716 or 4.18 percent below sales of $42,057,631 for the period last year. Sterchi Bros. Stores, Inc., a homefurnishings chain of 75 stores, operates in eight southeastern states. Its stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

State Jobless Rate 5.8%

The unemployment rate for Florida during the fourth quarter of 1980 averaged 5.8 percent (not seasonally adjusted), according to Donald M. Cruse, regional commissioner for the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U.S. Department of Labor, in Atlanta. The fourth quarter rate was 1.1 percentage points below the third quarter rate due to a decline in the number of job losers (persons who lost their jobs because of layoffs and terminations) and a drop in the number of new and reentrants to the labor force (persons seeking work without current work experience). The quarterly rate (not seasonally adjusted) averaged 5.2, 5.6, and 6.9 percent, respectively, during the first, second, and third quarters of 1980. The fourth quarter rate of 5.8 percent was unchanged from the fourth quarter rate in

On an annual basis, the average unemployment rate for Florida in 1980 was 5.9 percent. The 1980 annual average was slightly below the 1979 rate of 6.0 percent. Nationally, the average rate of unemployment for the fourth quarter in 1980 was 7 percent (not seasonally adjusted) - 1.2 percentage points above that for Florida. The 1980 annual average rate of 7.1 percent for the United States was also 1.2 percentage points above the Florida rate. During the year the national rate has consistently remained higher than the rate for Florida.

Brucellosis Tests Increase Testing and vaccination activities have increased substantially during the first three months of the accelerated program to eradicate the cattle disease brucellosis, Florida Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner has announced.

A quarterly report released Wednesday showed the number of cattle tested up 57 percent and calfhood vaccination up 94 percent since the eradication program was officially accelerated on Oct. 1. There is an even more dramatic increase of 71 percent among cattle tested on the farm or ranch where the area testing program is concentrating.

High Prime Hurts Housing

High mortgage and prime interest rates for the second time this year are choking off new home sales and production, setting the stage for a double dip recession in the nation's housing industry lasting far into the second quarter of 1981, according to Merrill Butler, president of the National Association of Home

In his war-end assessment of the state of the home building industry in 1980 and his predictions of what's to come in 1981, Butler said that the Federal Reserve Board's continuing attempt to control inflation by holding down the money supply through high interest rates has put housing into desperate straits.

Fourth quarter 1980 performance has been better than expected, largely due to outstanding commitments of mortgage money — about $19 billion worth in October, compared to $11 billion in the spring when the starts rate bottomed out at 906,000 units. "Tragically, we are in for a precipitous drop," Butler cautioned.

Statistical Florida

'Abstract' Book Gives Reader Concise View Of State Life

A sample of information culled at random from the 1980 book

Florida's total personal income jumped 14 percent between 1977 and 1978, the largest percentage increase from year to year since 1973. Per capita income increased 13 percent, the greatest increase it has shown in any year of the U.S. Department of Commerce annual datá series since 1948. Florida's per capita figure of $7.578 is 97 percent of the U.S. average for 1978, compared with 95 percent for the previous year.

Among other Sunbelt states, only Arizona's total personal income increased at a higher rate than Florida's, while only Oklahoma outpaced Florida in the per capita income growth

These data are among the statistics on income and wealth included in the "1980 Florida Statistical Abstract" being released by the University of Florida's Bureau of Economic and Business Research. The largest volume published since the annual "Florida

Abstract" first came out in 1967, this year's 695-page edition includes the most recent data about population, housing, industry, elections, personal income, employment, power and energy, banking and many other components of Florida life. New information from the most recent five-year economic census on manufacturers, wholesale and retail trade, and services industries is compared to 1972 census data.

A section on quality of life compares social indicators such as employment, earnings, community health, natural environment, savings and school enrollment in Florida, other Sunbelt states and other populous states. Twelve computer maps give at-a-glance information on such things as the distribution of persons 65 and older, per capital personal income, crime rates, market regions and countywide The new abstract provides some 50 more pages of statistical tables than the 1979 edition, which was the largest to that date.

It is available from the University Presses of Florida, 15 N.W.

indicates the range of information covered by the "Abstract:"

Population: Females are projected to outnumber males in Florida in all the population projection years included: 1985, 1990, 2000 and 2020. Collier and Flagler counties had the highest percentage increase in numbers of residents 65 and older between 1970 and 1979, while Hernando and Citrus counties had the greatest percentage increases in total population.

Education: Children enrolled in public kindergarten through 12th grade in the state numbered 1,367,298 in the 1978-79 school year, with 55,248 additional pupils in exceptional education and 155,795 in vocational education. Florida public high schools graduated 88,203 pupils in 1979 and these more than half continued their education in community colleges, four-year colleges or technical and trade schools. Income and Wealth: Florida's $75.5 billion total personal income in 1979 was 3.9 percent of the U.S. total. Sarasota County's $9,310 per capita personal income in 1978 was highest in the state, while Union County's $3,655 was lowest. Employment: Services, mining and miscellaneous categories led in average monthly employment in Florida in 1978 and 1979, with 693,900 persons working in this sector in 1978 and 752,800 in 1979. Retail trade was next with 662,100 employed in 1978 and 707,100 in 1979. Agriculture: Cash receipts for all farm commodities in Florida in 1978 totalled $3.2 billion. Fruits and nuts accounted for 48 percent of the $2.3 billion cash receipts reported for crops, while meat animals topped the livestock products list. Forestry: Duval County led the state in total forest products income with $407.8 million in 1977.

Construction: Building permits were issued for 98,979 singlefamily units and 74652 multifamily units in 1979, up from 1978's figures of 93,457 and 60,203, respectively. Manufacturing: Employment in manufacturing in Florida increased 4.3 percent between 1972 and 1977, with the number 15th Street, Gainesville 32603 at $11.50 for the paperback of employees descreasing between those two years in Dixie, - AREA BUSINESS SPOTLIGHT-

Gadsden, Osceola, Escambia, Putnam, Suwannee, Manatee, Orange, Leon, Hillsborough, Marion and Taylor counties.

Transportation: Drivers between the ages of 25 and 34 accounted for the largest number of reported motor vehicle accidents in Florida in 1979 - 140,874 out of the state total of 625,197. Fatalities were recorded in 3.557 accidents in the state.

Wholesale and Retail Trade: The number of wholesale durable goods businesses increased 21.02 percent between 1972 and 1977, with professional equipment and supplies topping the list. In nondurable goods, the number of frozen foods wholesale establishments increased the most.

Finance, Insurance, Real Estate: Mortgage loans in the state totaled $3.7 billion in 1978, down from $5. billion in 1977 and $6.5 billion in 1976.

Tourism and Recreation: Florida ranked second only to New York in number of foreign tourist arrivals in 1978. Health: Florida's 1979-80 total of 50,347 general hospital beds provided 5.45 beds for every thousand residents.

Government and Elections: On Feb. 9, 1980, there were

2,753,016 registered Democrats in Florida and 1,203,009 Law Enforcement: Baker and Wakulla counties led the state in percentage of cleared (solved) crimes in 1979, with 61.3 and 58.5 percent rates, respectively. Economic Indicators: The Florida unemployment rate dropped to 4.9 percent in March and 4.8 percent in April 1980, ccording to preliminary figures.

Quality of Life: Eleven percent of Florida's families were below the poverty level in 1975, compared with 20.4 percent in Mississippi and 8.3 percent in Virginia among other Sunbelt states. Eleven Sunbelt states showed a higher percentage of poverty families than Florida and only three showed a lower

Consumer

Cassettes Give Pleasant Sound

You can tape a lecture, record an interview or make musicto-go for under $40 with a portable cassette recorder. And, while such small and relatively unsophisticated machines will hardly provide concert hall sound, they can be practical and

To learn what these recorders can do, Consumer Reports engineers tested 15 models ranging in price from $40 to $60, plus one special model that lists for $130. (Most are also available at a discount.) If tone quality is a critical consideration, the engineers concluded that you may be better off buying a good onic portable radio-cassette recorder: in a blindfol lest, none of the lested models matched there ated portable radio-cassette recorder unit.

All of the recorders were surprisingly good at eliminating flutter, the wavering in pitch that stems from mechanical imperfections in the recorder. None had a problem with speed The Sony TCM757, GE 35105 and GE 35154 models offered the most favorable signal-to-noise ratio, which is important if you are planning to record low-level sounds and want to eliminate undesired noise. Overall, the Sears 21676 and the GE 35105 were judged best int tone quality. The GE 35154, the Toshiba KT 1500 and the lower-rated Craig J101 produced the lowest distortion - unwanted overtones - when recording. Anyone who has ever used a portable recorder or any other product that works on battery power knows that a battery can wear out at just the wrong time. The real question is, how much energy will be required by the recorder you buy? If the answer is a lot, you could be in for frequent and costly cell replacements. To avoid surprises, look for a recorder that has a battery or light meter. Other controls and features vary from model to model. For example, cue-review lets you switch from tape-playing to fast-forward or rewind without stopping. That makes it easier to find a specific part of the tape, as does a numerical tape For a special reprint of Consumer Union's test of computerized thermostats and another subject send 50 cents plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to CONSUMERS, P.O. Box 461, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to ask for the reprint on computerized thermostats. Pause control, tone control and jacks that allow d-c operation with a $10 adapter and cable are other useful features found on some models. The Norwood XLP can record or play cassettes eight times longer than the other recorders, which is handy for listening to recorded literature. Its cost. though, is $130. Of the three top models tested by Consumer Reports, the GE 35105 (about $43) was the cheapest, offering virtually the same performance as the top-rated Sears 21676 (about $49) and the Sony TCM757 (about $55).

Treasury Lists Bonds Schedule

Consumers may have heard varying reports concerning changes that have occurred in the Savings Bonds Program. The U.S. Treasury Department has said all the Series E Bonds they may now own are still earning interest. The Treasury Department has advised that Series E Bonds bought between May 1941 and April 1952 will earn interest for a full 40 years after their respective issue dates. No bond will stop earning interest before May 1981, at the earliest. However, it is not necessary to redeem Series E Savings Bonds which consumers presently hold. Series E Bond owners may exchange their bonds at current redemption values for current-income Series HH Bonds up to one year after the Series E Bonds have reached their final maturity. The federal income tax on the interest on Series E Bonds submitted for such an exchange need not be paid until the Series HH Bonds are cashed or reached their final maturity (10 years after purchase), whichever comes first. The accompanying chart will help in determining the of the feverish negotiations, opened champagne with his family and closest aides for a private celebration. President-elect Ronald Reagan, who discussed the crisis with the president Sunday, said as far as he knew, the agreement preserved the nation's honor. The Algerian government announced the agreement at a news conference during which a Foreign Office official read three documents totaling 20 pages that had been initialed and signed by Tehran and then flown to Algiers for initialing and signing by Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher Under the agreement, the United States pledged to "restore the financial position of Iran insofar as possible to that which existed prior to Nov. 14, 1979.' when and estimated $8 billion in Iranian assets were frozen. "In this context," the agreement continued, "the United States commits itself to ensure the mounty and tree transfer of all Iranian assets within its jurisdiction."

Carter Friday ordered the transfer of gold bullion and cash reserves to the Bank of England for immediate transfer to an escrow account held by Algeria on behalf of Iran.

One U.S. official said military spare parts that were in the pipeline when Carter froze Iranian assets were involved in the hostage deal, but he declined to elaborate.

The announcement of the long-sought agreement came with about 31 hours left in the Carter administration and capped 10 days of frantic negotiations carried on mainly through Algiers. Christopher signed the agreement, drafted in English, Farsi and French, while seated at a long table. Turning to Algerian Foreign Minister Mohammed Benhaiya, Christopher said he conveyed "the abiding appreciation of the American people for all Algeria had done to get the hostage deal concluded." It was Christopher's ninth straight day in Algiers and he said at the signing that he had gone virtually without sleep in the
