Scenic Board Suggests Sanford Hire 4 Gardeners

The Sanford Scenic Improvement Board is looking for a few good men (or women), four to be exact, to beautify the city and it outlined its requirements Monday.

The board's proposal for the city to hire a master gardener, gardener, junior gardener and gardener's helper is to go to the Parks and Recreation Department for review and forwarding to City Manager Frank Faison who will then send it to the city commission for approval.

The board wants the four to be full-time positions. The master gardener position will be a supervisory one; the other three will be active labor jobs, said Sara Jacobson, SIB chairman.

The proposed positions were submitted by Dr. Lurlene Sweeting, administrative assistant and project chairman for tree planning. She said the positions were carefully researched by conversing with horticultural experts at Seminole Community College and the University of Florida and by consulting the reference manual "Personnel Guide for National Parks and Recreation Areas."

The board voted 5-1 to approve the requirements with board member Jim Jernigan, director of recreation and parks, dissenting because of the wording of the educational requirements for the gardener position.

"I just can't agree with requiring a college degree for a position that may pay less than job levels within the city for certain laborer positions," he said. "I'll take this back and see what I can do with it. Otherwise the proposal has my full agreement."

All four proposed job classifications require a valid Florida chauffeur's license and range in pay from $17,891-$24,332 for master gardener to $15,634-$21,262 for gardener to an unspecified amount for junior gardener to minimum wage for the gardener's helper. The helper requires no special education or experience, according to Ms. Sweeting.

All four positions will be under the general administrative direction of the Director of Parks and Recreation.

"The people for these jobs should be good gardeners first and foremost," Miss Jacobson said.

Hazardous Waste Site Approved

By Janie Gnat
Herald Staff Writer

County residents and company officials waited nine hours, but finally heard the County Board of Adjustment approve one site for a hazardous waste transfer station and deny an alternate.

The approved site for Hazardous Waste Consultants Inc., was okayed at 3 a.m. by a 4-0 vote. By that hour board member J. W. Hickman had left the meeting, which began at 6 p.m. The site is 1½ acres on Entzinger Farms between Seaboard System Railroad and Old Sanford Oviedo Road near Winter Springs. The unapproved site that lost by a 4-0 vote is on the east line of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad and St. Gertrude Street on the northwest corner of First and Riverview Avenue on property owned by Miller Trucking Company.

As for the approved site, about 20 residents spoke against it, with more members of the overflow crowd waiting to speak who were asked not to address the group if they had no point to make that had not already been made. Residents unhappy with the decision may appeal to the County Commission.

The meeting room, County Commission chambers in the County Services Building, 1101 E. First St., Sanford, was filled to capacity. Standing was not permitted and an overflow crowd spilled into the halls and parking lot. The board had scheduled a 48-item agenda; Hazardous Waste Consultant's requests were items 42 and 43.

Hazardous waste was not the only waste, however, that riveted the public's attention to board members and hallway speakers into the early hours of the morning. After chairman Roger Perra warned those attending the hearing that two sheriff's deputies were on hand to keep the meeting orderly, the board voted 4-1 to allow effluent disposal for spray irrigation on Deer Run Golf Course, and 3-2 in favor of expansion of the Consumer wastewater and water treatment facility south of Red Bug Road and east of Winter Park.

Pat Vindett, vice president and manager of Hazardous Waste Consultants, told the board that her company is looking for a permanent site to house its transfer station. The company is operating out of trailers.

"Within a year we hope to get rid of the trailers and get a permanent building," Ms. Vindett said. In the meantime, the company plans to construct a concrete floor for the trailers, she said.

Pete Cowell, city planner for Winter Springs, said he would not object to a permanent site if the company would meet all the necessary requirements. He pointed out that the site near Winter Springs had no water to fight fires and that the city had no first response agreement with the county.

Other members of the public expressed concerns about hazardous waste contamination of ground and water.

"We are not about to contaminate the ground, not now or ever. That's why we're in this business," Ms. Vindett said.

Ginny Markley, county staff member, advised the board that the county had never

Casselberry Fights Suit On Police Bargaining

By Jim Searis
Herald Staff Writer

Cities should be able to hire or fire police officers without consulting a third party because the officers use deadly force on their jobs, according to Frank Kruppenbacher, Casselberry city attorney. Kruppenbacher was making his closing argument in a suit appealed by the city to the Florida Supreme Court.

The suit seeks to overturn a First District Court of Appeal ruling that found the city of Casselberry guilty of unfair labor practices for not letting the police union declare an impasse in contract negotiations.

Kruppenbacher also stated that this case could affect every civil service system in the state and said the appeal court's decision "places a loaded gun at the head of every (municipality) negotiator in the state" by allowing police to deal with an independent group.

Summations were delivered Friday by Kruppenbacher and Thomas Placek, attorney for the Orange County Police Benevolent Association bargaining agent for the Casselberry Police Department Union during 1981-82, when the original suit was filed. A decision is expected within the next six to eight months, according to a union representative.

Kruppenbacher said that to allow non-binding arbitration by city employees would affect every civil service system in the state. He said it would be unfair because it would allow a bargaining agent to declare an impasse and file an unfair labor practice charge without complying with collective bargaining law.

The case is an extension of a November 1981 lawsuit filed by a Casselberry police officer.

Casual Style Gets The Work Done

City Opts To Repave Roads

Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

In an atmosphere of first names, loose ties and shut-off air conditioning, the mayor of Sanford and commissioners agreed to solicit bids to resurface several of Sanford's roads and at the same time consider a novel approach to road paving. The agreement came during a workshop session at city hall Monday.

The city has about $300,000 to spend on resurfacing and commissioners hope to whittle their priority list from 14 streets to one.

The bid for the job will include an "alternative bid," said city manager Frank Faison. The alternative bid is to allow contractors with the proper machinery to submit a bid using conventional resurfacing methods and to submit a second bid using a method called scarifying.

Scarifying is scraping up the top 1½ inch of road surface, rejuvenating the old asphalt by crumbling then mixing new materials with it, and putting it back down on the street, said Bill Simmons, the city's director of engineering and planning.

While not all the streets on the priority list can be repaved that way (they're brick roads topped by a thin layer of asphalt) using scarifying could drop the overall cost or help the city get more paving for its resurfacing dollar. He said a second reason to use the method is that it prevents buildup of the road surface as layer upon layer is added over the years.

Roads on the priority list include portions of McCracken Road, Persimmon Avenue, Third Street, W. 13th Street, Ninth Street, Eighth Street, Sixth Street, 20th Street, Park Drive, Country Club Circle, Hays Drive, Pecan Avenue, and State Street. While Park Avenue is on the

Thatcher Expels 6 More

Britain Awaits Kremlin's Next Move In 'Spy War'

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Embassy reacted harshly to Britain's expulsion of six more accused KGB spies, raising fears the Kremlin would retaliate again in the escalating Anglo-Soviet "spy war."

Britain Monday ordered the expulsion of six Soviets, including two diplomats, in retaliation for the Soviet expulsion of 25 Britons. The Britons were ordered out of the Soviet Union Saturday — two days after London ordered the expulsion of 25 accused Soviet spies.

Britain denounced the expulsions of the 25 Britons as "victimization of innocent people."

"Quite clearly we could not accept this,"

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said late Monday as she arrived in Cairo for a five-day Middle East trip. "Indeed we have warned the Russians in advance that the retaliation would not go unanswered."

The Soviet Embassy in London called the six Soviet expulsions "provocative and vindictive."

"The embassy vigorously protests against this grossly vindictive measure of a highly political character, and the entire responsibility for the consequences of this action rests with the British side," an embassy spokesman said.

Diplomatic sources said the wording of the Soviet protest could be a prelude to Moscow ordering another round of expulsions.

"There is that danger," Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe said in a television interview. But he said such a retaliatory move by the Kremlin would be "unjustified" and called for an end to the dispute.

Diplomats called the so-called spy war a battle of wills between Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and Thatcher. Ironically, when Gorbachev visited London last December — before becoming Soviet leader — Thatcher said she "liked" him and "could do business with him."

The latest six Soviets expelled — effective Oct. 7 — include a first secretary and

Terror Spreads During Hunt For Fugitives

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — Farm families slept with shotguns by their beds while a space-age helicopter beamed infrared rays across a Blue Ridge Mountain wilderness early today in a search for two armed fugitives wanted for killing a state trooper.

"I'm very confident we're going to catch these people. It's just a matter of time. We're in the tallest mountain range in our part of the world," State Police Maj. Robert Barefoot said.

Heavily armed troopers and police sharpshooters kept a vigil through the night at mountain roadblocks, and sheriff's switchboards lit up with calls from residents who thought they saw the fugitives, William Richard Bray and Jimmy Rios, both 23.

"It's going to be a long night again. Most of the people in the area do have firearms and they are loaded," volunteer searcher Ed Fender said. "People are very nervous and tense, especially the ladies who are frightened at night."

A heat-detecting helicopter that can distinguish between humans and animals on the ground was brought in from Fairfax County, Va., Monday to aid the search.

The hunt had centered on treacherous Doggett Mountain for three days but the search area was widened Monday night after a woman reported seeing the fugitives fleeing her garage 16 miles away in a rural area north of Asheville.

Minutes later, a farmer in a nearby field said he heard a gunshot, felt blood on his car, then saw a stranger running into thick woods.

Police sent troopers with tracking dogs to the woods but turned up no trace of the escaped inmates.

"We have called in the dogs and the helicopters," Buncombe County Deputy Lillian Lampross said. "The dogs have run down some scents but nothing we needed."

Highway Patrol Maj. Bert Mercer said the

Later Marriage, More Living Together

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Women are waiting longer than ever to get married and the number of couples living together has tripled since 1970, the Census Bureau revealed.

In a new report on marital and living arrangements the bureau said the number of men and women in their late twenties and early thirties who have never married approximately doubled since 1970; the ratio of divorced people to married people has tripled since 1960 and the number of children living with one parent has increased by nearly 6 million since 1970.

In 1984, the Census Bureau said, the median age for a woman to get married was 23 — the highest level since 1890 when such statistics were first available. For men, the median age is 25.4. The marriage age for women began a long-term decline in 1890, reaching a low of 20.1 years in 1958. In the 1960s the median age began to increase slowly and in the eight years following 1976 jumped by 1.7 years.

At the same time, the bureau said, the number of unmarried couples living together has been growing by an average of 107,000 per year since 1970.

Louisiana Governor Anxious For Racketeering Trial To Begin

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Gov. Edwin Edwards says he is anxious for his racketeering and fraud trial to start so the public can get the "real, true facts" about the charges against him and his seven co-defendants.

Jury selection was scheduled to begin today for the trial of Edwards, returned to office last year for an unprecedented third term with the largest popular vote in the history of the state.

U.S. District Judge Marcel Livaudais Jr. said the selection process could take two or more weeks.

Despite charges in a 50-count indictment that could lead to a maximum 265-year sentence on conviction, Edwards has continued to make public appearances. He planned to keep that schedule on the days court is recessed.

Edwards and his co-defendants are charged with illegally scheming to acquire and sell state hospital permits that earned them more than $10 million.

The governor allegedly used his influence to steer permits to companies in which he secretly held stock. Holders of the permits are eligible for hefty reimbursements from the federal Medicaid program.

Edwards contends his business was legally transacted while he was out of office, between his second and third terms. He has said he is the victim of persecution by Republicans who want to damage his administration.

Elderly's Plea Falls On Deaf Ears

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission rejected a plea by retired people and a professional group Monday and dropped a 10-year-old proposal to require a 30-day trial period for the purchase of hearing aids.

On a 4-1 vote, the FTC agreed with its Bureau of Consumer Protection that an overwhelming majority of hearing aid buyers are satisfied, there are no widespread abuses in the industry and no such rule is needed.

The bureau based its conclusions on a survey it released last month. The survey was challenged as possibly misleading by the American Association of Retired Persons and the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association.

An estimated 2 million Americans, primarily elderly people, wear hearing aids. The devices can cost from $250 to $900.

The FTC proposal would have made it possible for buyers to get up to 90 percent of their money back if they were unsatisfied with their hearing aid after 30 days.

FTC Chairman James Miller said that instead of a rule, "I propose that we continue to monitor this area for unfair and deceptive practices. I am confident the commission will take swift and effective action against any that prey on the hard of hearing."

Reagan Faces Media Tonight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan was reading up for his first nationally televised news conference in three months tonight with the November summit, South Africa and trade issues expected to dominate the questioning.

Reagan, who will be quizzed at 8 p.m. in the East Room, told a White House media luncheon Monday that he did not hold a summit during his first term because the Kremlin leadership "kept dying on me."

Three Soviet leaders — Leonid Brezhnev, Yuri Andropov and Konstantin Chernenko — died in office in the past three years.

11 Americans Among 38 Hurt In Grenade Attack On Rome Cafe

ROME (UPI) — Terrorists lobbed two hand grenades into an outdoor cafe crowded with tourists enjoying the night life on Rome's famed Via Veneto. Thirty-eight people — including 11 Americans — were injured.

"I saw people wounded everywhere," one Italian witness said of the Monday night attack on the Cafe de Paris, a well-known Rome night spot. "There was a man lying on the ground with blood pouring from his chest."

No one immediately claimed responsibility for the attack. Police arrested an unidentified Moroccan man a few minutes after the explosion and held him for questioning.

Terrorists hurled two hand grenades into the popular cafe at about 11 p.m., police said. One went off, shattering glass and overturning outdoor tables packed with tourists.

The second grenade failed to detonate. Police plan to detonate it early today.

Five Americans were hospitalized. Only four were identified: Deanna and Wayne Hager of Centerville, Va.; Robert Ottinger, hometown unavailable; and Rose Kate, hometown unavailable.

Post: Rebels Holding Duarte

By United Press International

A Salvadoran rebel group has claimed responsibility for kidnapping the daughter of Salvadoran President Jose Napoleon Duarte and demanded the release of leftist political prisoners, the Washington Post reported today.

A Salvadoran official said a top Duarte aide was in Mexico City to meet with the Democratic Revolutionary Front — a coalition of leftist Salvadoran rebel groups — and negotiate the release of Ines Guadalupe Duarte Duran. But Democratic Revolutionary Front leader Ruben Zamora dismissed the report as "propaganda" and said his group knew nothing about the kidnapping.

Duarte Duran, 35, was kidnapped last Tuesday. No group publicly claimed responsibility for the kidnapping but the Salvadoran government has blamed leftist guerrillas.

The Post, in today's editions, said the Pedro Pablo Castillo Front claimed responsibility for the kidnapping and was holding Duarte Duran to press its demand for the release of leftist political prisoners.

More Motel Guests Robbed At Gunpoint

For the fourth time in about four weeks guests at a Seminole County motel have been robbed at gunpoint.

The latest incident occurred at about 5:30 p.m. Saturday at the Holiday Inn, State Road 46, west of Sanford. Guests at other motels in the area have also been robbed under similar circumstances.

In the latest case, when Sam and Carol Tisdale of Oswego, S.C. opened the door to their room a single gunman was standing in the doorway pointing a revolver at them, a sheriff's report said.

The robber took Tisdale's wallet, ordered the couple into the bathroom, ransacked Mrs. Tisdale's purse, broke the telephone and fled with $790, the report said.

In the other cases there were two robbers, but the situations were similar, according to sheriff's reports.

BATTERED WIFE

Watchman Dies Of Beating; Reward Offered

The reward offered for information leading to a conviction in connection with the brutal beating death of an Oviedo company's nightwatchman totals $1,250 and is expected to increase today.

Arthur Evans, secretary-treasurer for Nelson & Co., where Charles Collins, 62, of Chuluota, was attacked at about 11 p.m. Thursday, said the company is offering $1,000 of the reward money and this afternoon is expected to increase the reward, but Evans didn't know by how much. Oviedo city officials donated the other $250. Police Chief Wade Hancock said.

Collins, who worked for the fertilizer plant and packing house on Broadway for about six years, was alone and unarmed when attacked, possibly by two burglars, Hancock said.

Retired from the U.S. Navy, Collins was hospitalized at the U.S. Naval Center Hospital in Orlando where he died at about 7:15 p.m. Monday, Hancock said.

Collins was found by a relief watchman at about midnight Thursday. The burglars apparently took about $100 from him and a portable radio he carried. A telephone handset was the only other item determined missing from the company, Hancock said.

Evans said Collins apparently lived alone, but has three sons, one of whom lives in this area.

then 27, filed a civil suit in U. S. District Court in Orlando naming the city of Casselberry, its mayor, its Police Department, the Civil Service Board, its former and current police chiefs, five police officers and a police dispatcher as codefendants.

Moler was asking $2.1 million from the defendants for his demotion from sergeant to officer earlier that year, which he deemed improper.

His demotion was based on written and oral complaints from former squad members serving under him who said he was incompetent to lead. Moler said he felt the city's actions were improper and that he had been libeled and defamed by the demotion.

Moler then settled out of court with the city for an undisclosed amount of money.

During that same time the benevolent association, bargaining agent for Casselberry Police during 1981-1982, declared an impasse and charged the city with bad-faith bargaining by trying to exclude demotions and discharges from non-binding arbitration. A hearing officer agreed with the union, saying they (the city) were guilty of unfair labor practices. But the state Public Employee Relations Commission rejected the officer's assessment and dismissed the charges.

The union then appealed the commission's decision to the First District Court of Appeal where the unfair labor bargaining charge was reinstated. The city of Casselberry then appealed that decision to the state Supreme Court.

There is no binding arbitration allowed in Florida for labor contracts, but state law does allow non-binding arbitration for discussion of non-contract terms such as discipline, demotions and dismissal procedures for police. Since the time of the original suit Casselberry Police have agreed to abide by Civil Service Board rulings until this issue is finally resolved. The Casselberry PD is the only police department in Seminole County represented by a union.

Officer Paul James, Casselberry Police Department union representative, said the issue was brought to a head by a series of "dumb, stupid, bad decisions," made by the Civil Service Board of Casselberry.

"The board is appointed by the mayor of Casselberry and he has control over them and in effect control over the police department of Casselberry," James said. "We (police) don't feel we are being treated fairly by the board. Our problems should be dealt with by an arbitrator independent of city government."

James suggested that hiring, firing and disciplinary actions for city employees in Casselberry were the result of politics and not fair labor practices. James said that Moler's suit, while not the whole basis for the benevolent association's suit, had a bearing on the Casselberry lawsuit.

"There were a lot of things going on back then. But his (Moler's) case was definitely in the back of our minds."

He said the group, of which he is a member, will soon change its name to the Central Florida Police Benevolent Association.

Kruppenbacher argued that this case could affect every civil service board in the state. If the city of Casselberry loses, it would mean it would have to renegotiate policies relating to police discipline and would be forced to waive its constitutional rights to a civil service system.

Victim, Brother Shot And Left For Dead

Teen Rapist Gets 40-Years

The kidnapping and attempted murder of a New York brother and sister and the rape of the woman resulted in a 40-year prison sentence for a 19-year-old Apopka man.

Willie McCarty Jr., 18 at the time of the incident, should be eligible for parole in about 30 years, said Orange Circuit Judge James Stroker.

McCarty was one of a trio that kidnapped the couple Nov. 28 when they stopped to use a telephone at a laundromat in Apopka.

Two other Apopka men, Eddie Fencher and Michael Bryant, both 22, pleaded guilty in the case. Fencher was sentenced to 20 years and Bryant awaits sentencing.

Investigators said the New Yorkers were shot at separate times and left to die in different orange groves in Apopka. Both lived, however, and alerted authorities. The woman, 21, was repeatedly raped and shot in the mouth. The brother, 28, was shot in the neck. The trio was arrested while driving the victims' car.

According to court records, the three men forced the brother into the trunk of the car and drove to a wooded area. The brother then was taken out of the trunk, ordered to lie face-down on the ground and was shot in the neck with a handgun. The bullet only grazed his neck and he remained still and the gunmen drove off with his sister.

They drove to another wooded area where the woman was raped several times. The gunmen then shot her in the mouth, dumped her onto the side of a road, and drove off. The woman made her way to a nearby farm house and called authorities.

The gunshot broke her jaw, damaged several teeth and a bullet fragment lodged in her chest.

reports may have been false. "People are real jumpy out there so they thought it was the fugitives," he said.

The wiry, mustachioed fugitives were armed with a .22 rifle and a .357 revolver they took from the body of rookie highway patrolman Bobby Coggins, 27, the state police said.

Bray and Rios broke out of the Franklin County, Ark., jail Aug. 28, fled to North Carolina and shot Coggins twice in the head when he stopped their stolen pickup truck for a check, authorities said.

The fugitives were believed to be surviving on berries and apples growing in the area.

Missing from the meeting were members Brent Carl, project chairman for irrigation, and Bill Gielow, project chairman for Pick-a-Park, a committee to designate parks for clean-up.

The board, meeting at board member Juanny Mercer's home, also discussed the success of using DUI offenders, whose sentences usually include community service sentences, for weekend maintenance. Jernigan said, "The only problem with them (DUIs) is that they occasionally don't show up for work but when they do they work hard."

The SIB is undertaking a massive beautification program for Sanford City Hall. The plan calls for a variety of landscaping features such as cold-weather palms and shrubs, an irrigation system for plant beds and soil tests to remove glass and foreign matter from the beds. Landscape Designer Irving Kaufman has presented the board with a plan for the city hall improvement.

Mrs. Mercer reported that all the viburnum shrubs at city hall have been transported to Chase Park, to form a barrier around the park, and that all the stumps have been removed from the park. She also said all freeze-damaged plants are gone from the city hall area and that things are "right on track" for completion of the project by mid-October.

"I also wish to commend the city and their work crews for their cooperation and assistance," she said. "We are developing a good relationship with them."

The SIB, meeting since early February, has gained the city commission's approval since issuing a 16-page plan report in June that criticized the poor upkeep of some public areas and set out plans for their improvement. The city commission has earmarked $152,000 of the Parks and Recreation Department's 1985-1986 budget to achieve some of their goals. The commission also agreed to set aside $60,000 each year for the next five years for SIB projects.

priority list, its resurfacing was not included in the recent bid request because it is the longest stretch of road needing pavement and would be an expensive project by itself.

In other business, the commission:

- Asked the city manager to present to the commission at its next regularly scheduled meeting Monday a consent order worked out between the city and the state Department of Environmental Regulation regarding Sanford's sewer treatment situation. By comments made at the workshop, the agreement met with the approval of the mayor and commission. In the consent order, the city agrees to upgrade the city's sewerage so during flood conditions sewage will not flow into Lake Monroe along with storm drainage as it is now. In exchange, DER agrees not to push legal action against the city unless the city fails to change the piping system by 1995. The DER agreed to the distant date to allow Sanford time to change its sewage treatment method to landspreading and generate revenues by growth to pay for the expensive piping changes. Falson said. The city is planning a $30 million bond issue to change treatment methods. The repiping, a separate action, will cost $8 million to $9 million, Falson said.
- Agreed to forestall the naming of a park under construction at Academy Manor until receiving public input about who the park should be named after. Two names were brought up at the meeting: John Daniels who served on the city's airport authority, and Prof. J.M.

Crooms, for whom Crooms High School is named.

• Recommended the city draft a lease agreement for lot one at the Sanford Marina to facilitate its commercial development. Gerald Gross, Sanford architect, presented a construction plan to the commission which included six buildings on the lakefront east of Holiday Inn. The buildings, some one story, others two stories, would house retail marine businesses and offices, he said. If the city agrees to lease the property, the plans will be submitted to the Planning and Zoning Commission for the usual review and critique process.

• Discussed the concept of "first response," a tentative fire and rescue agreement between the city and Seminole County in which the closest fire station responds to an emergency whether in the city or the county.

Sanford Fire Chief Tom Hickson said while he does not oppose the idea he believes it would require more manpower and possibly funds to cover the increased number of calls the fire department would respond to. In an effort to gather more information about the good and bad aspects of "first response" the commission members agreed to contact Casselberry officials. Casselberry has such an agreement with the county.

• Approved of the emergency repairs of boat ramps at the marina, discussed a joint regional sewer agreement with the county, and asked the city's Director of Administrative Services to gather information about changing health care coverage for city employees and retired city employees. One of the companies that serves the city is changing its benefits program and the city will probably look for another carrier.

assistant air attache at the Soviet Embassy, both with diplomatic status, two embassy clerks, the director of a Soviet shipping concern and a journalist.

A Foreign Office official said all six had been named as Soviet spies by Oleg Gordievski — the KGB London spy master whose defection triggered the spy war.

The Foreign Office said it was also reducing by six, from 211 to 205, the total number of Soviets allowed to work in the country.

Britain's initial expulsion of 25 Soviets Thursday came in response to disclosures by Gordievski. Government sources said Gordievski named other KGB agents operating in Britain — in addition to the 25 expelled — but that the government, seeking to contain Soviet reaction, chose not to expel them all.

The Foreign Office official, explaining Monday's decision to expel six more accused Soviet spies, said, "Given the Soviet response to last week's expulsions it was decided their presence could no longer be tolerated."

Security sources have estimated the Soviets have about 70 KGB agents in Britain. Howe declined to say if Britain had any other names of Soviet spies.

designated any land use for hazardous waste and that although the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council had approved a corridor for the handling of hazardous waste that site was not in it. The unapproved site is in that corridor, but that site was found unacceptable because of its proximity to a day care center.

Markley said the staff would recommend approval of the site near Winter Springs if the route for transporting hazardous wastes be east and west along county road 419, that no drums containing waste be stored outside the trailers on the ground and that the request could not be transferred to another hazardous waste company.

In the Deer Run Golf Course matter, county officials produced a list of projects that use effluent in spray irrigation in their defense of such a possibility for Deer Run as a way to conserve water. Some of those projects in Seminole County include Big Cypress Golf Course in Winter Springs, the University of Central Florida, and in Orange County Grand Cypress Golf Course. Such projects that are planned but not in operation yet include Interlachen Golf Course in Winter Park and citrus irrigation in Orlando and Orange County.

Although spectators were concerned about the golf course being flooded by a daily spray operation of 500,000 gallons, Jim Bible, director of the County Department of Environmental Services, assured citizens and the board that the use of irrigation would not be dependent on how much output the sewer plants need. The 500,000 gallon

Other concerns residents of the area had concerned odor caused by the effluent, the potential for disease and possible danger to their children. Some homeowners were concerned about the limitation of perimeter spraying complaining that the golf course's irrigation system at times sprays their yards, homes, ponds and the roads.

"They will try to use the pipes in the ground but the sprinkler heads may not be compatible," said Ken Hooper, county administrator. He noted that the sprinkler heads and the height of the sprinklers may have to be changed.

"What I'm concerned about is how this is handled," said Mike Hattaway, board member. "It sounds like there are some special circumstances [for Deer Run] in regards to the amount of water and how it's placed there."

"I would be in favor of the project if it is tied closely to the Department of Environmental Regulation," Hattaway said. He added that the major concern seemed to be health hazards.

"I would feel a lot calmer if we had a person with requisite credentials and charged with protecting the health of the community" to speak to the health effects of spraying effluent, said Alan Robinson, board member. He suggested that Dr. Jorge Deju, director of the county's Department of Health and Human Services, make a report on the consequences of effluent being sprayed near the homes.

Hattaway moved to approve the request with the stipulation that DER approve soil profiles, sprinklers, how the wastewater would be applied, elevations and that any area not having the proper sprinkler or elevations would not receive any wastewater.

Robinson added to that, an approval contingent upon Deju approving soil samples and formulating a report for their next meeting on the possibility of odor, disease, toxic danger and health hazards.

If Deju is not able to express an opinion on one or more of those subjects, Robinson said the county could authorize Deju to employ peripheral professionals of his choosing to study those subjects. The report however would be due in to the board one week before their next meeting on Oct. 21.

If that is not done "that will be their way of telling us that they don't approve it," Robinson said. If Deju needs more professionals or more time that will be all right with the board "but he needs to tell us that," said Robinson.

County To Adopt Budget

County commissioners are expected to adopt a budget for the 1985-86 fiscal year at a public hearing 7 p.m. today in Room 120W of the County Services Building, 1101 E. First Street.

The $124,726,070 budget includes $1,245,253 in federal revenue sharing funds allocated to the county's general fund for a one-time only capital purchase.

The General Revenue Sharing Program has "limited federal requirements about how the money should be spent," said a legal notice on the budget. "Decisions on the use of these funds are made at the local level, by the government and people closest to local problems."

Capital Colony ...

Everyone knows that the Equal Rights Amendment fell just short of winning ratification as the 27th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. But when another proposed amendment, approved by Congress in 1978, ran out of time on Aug. 22 with the expiration of its seven-year ratification period, few people outside the District of Columbia even knew of its existence, much less its demise.

Indeed, the D.C. Representation Amendment, which won strong bipartisan support in both houses of Congress, was approved by only 16 state legislatures, far short of the 38 needed for it to become part of the Constitution.

Had the measure been ratified, the 638,000 residents of the nation's capital, who won the right to vote for president only in 1961, would have been granted — like all the states, including four with fewer people than the District — representation by two senators and as many representatives as the population entitled them to (at the moment, one). At present, Washington is represented in Congress only by a non-voting delegate.

One seemingly obvious explanation for the amendment's failure is the reluctance among Republicans, who have controlled the Senate since 1980, to effectively give Democrats two permanent additional seats in the upper chamber, since Washingtonians vote overwhelmingly Democrat without exception.

But that explanation would be incomplete at best.

In Congress and in the states, both support and opposition cut across party lines.

Indeed, Republicans were among the most active backers of equal representation.

A more decisive factor in the amendment's failure is both simple and banal: No one cared enough.

Washington city officials lobbied state legislatures strenuously, to little avail.

In California, for example, the amendment was taken up shortly after Congress approved it, but fell short by one vote in the Senate for a variety of reasons, all of them reflecting a lack of enthusiasm, or even interest, among Democrats as well as Republicans.

A similar fate awaited the amendment in most states.

The fight for some form of home rule will go on, and one option now being considered is statehood, which could be granted by simple majority votes of the House and Senate. But that seems unlikely, given the attitude of many in Congress that Washington is theirs to run.

Indeed, under present law Congress must approve every ordinance adopted by a Washington city council that, until not many years ago, was itself appointed by Congress, not elected.

Congress even decides the size and makeup of the city's budget, with all the leverage that confers.

It's ironic that, as Congress prepared to pass legislation imposing economic sanctions against South Africa for its treatment of blacks, the largely black population of the capital of the world's greatest democracy continues to be denied effective representation in the body that rules them.

Two hundred years ago they called that taxation without representation, and they were right.

President Solidly Behind Donald Regan?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan appears to be solidly behind White House chief of staff Donald Regan despite the pot shots hurled Regan's way.

There have been a series of press reports that Regan has ruffled feelings with holdover White House aides and has not impressed Republican leaders with his political abilities.

But some insiders are saying that if Regan bows out, former Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis is waiting in the wings to take his place.

Lewis was a "fair-haired boy" with the administration until he became chairman of the GOP Platform Committee at the last Republican National Convention. Then he fell into some disfavor with the White House, which felt he was not in command and had let the platform take directions that did not enhance the party or Regan's candidacy.

President Reagan had a lot of chores Wednesday evening as host at a state dinner honoring Danish Prime Minister Poul Schluter, but he did not forget to keep tabs on the Cincinnati Reds' Pete Rose.

During the dinner, aides kept reporting to him on the progress of the game in which Rose had been expected to surpass Ty Cobb's total hits.

By the end of the dinner, Reagan reported to the crowd that Rose did not get a hit in the game.

What are they going to do for an encore? In terms of getting the President and Mrs. Reagan's attention at the state dinner honoring the Danish prime minister were "Miami Vice" team Don Johnson and Philip Michael Thomas.

While other guests hovered by, Johnson had a long tete-a-tete with Reagan and then the first lady. With Mrs. Reagan, the subject was teenage drug abuse, her main interest.

Johnson reported that "Miami Vice" is a big favorite in the White House. Thomas was accompanied by his brother, George, who appeared to be doubling as a body guard.

Reagan proved he was back in form after his bout with colon cancer. The president and Mrs. Reagan led the way to the dance floor when the Marine Band struck up "Shall We Dance," and they twirled through several other numbers before saying good night.

Other guests stood by gawking. Unlike his predecessor, Lyndon B. Johnson, Reagan does not change partners. He dances only with his wife, Nancy.

LBJ danced with many of the women guests so "they could go home and tell their friends," as he put it.

The president told three college student interviewers, "Don't be the sucker generation. You are the brightest and the best and make sure that you are hearing the facts, not just somebody's opinions. And, as I say, that goes for me too. Check me out."

In the interview, Reagan told the students:

"Do you know that in Russia today, the average time spent by a Russian waiting in line to buy things is greater than the time they spend in working at their job?"

UPI dutifully checked him out and learned from a White House aide that the average Russian spends about eight hours a week, or the equivalent of one working day, in line for life's necessities.

Solidarity Birthday In Poland

Late summer is a time of milestones. Early in August we observed the fortieth anniversary of the atomic bombing of Japan, which saved the lives of millions of Japanese and Americans by ending World War II short of an invasion. That anniversary, also a thankful one, was celebrated a week later, albeit with less hoopla than the ban-the-bombers expended mourning the mission that ended the war.

At the end of the month, technically the first of September, were the angry anniversaries. Hitler sent his tanks rolling into Poland on Friday morning, Sept. 1, 1939. And now, we remember the cruel destruction of the Korean airliner, Flight 007, by the Soviet air force two years ago.

The bittersweet is somewhere between gladness and sorrow. That is the feeling of the observance of a third late-August anniversary: the founding of the Polish labor movement, Solidarity, on Aug. 30, 1980. On that day, Lech Walesa, a shipyard electrician, signed what was then considered an agreement with the Polish communist-military government to establish a free trade union. Solidarity was promised, or so it thought, the right to strike, more housing for workers, and an end to censorship.

At the time, Solidarity seemed to defy the Kremlin itself and get away with it. Despite the movement of Soviet troops in and around Poland, the much-feared and much-expected invasion did not take place until December, a year after Solidarity's birth, and then without a single Russian. General Wojciech Jaruzelski, Poland's "President," declared martial law on Dec. 13, 1981. Solidarity was shut down and its leaders looked up, except Walesa, who was put under house arrest.

In spite of the optimistic rumors to the contrary, martial law, and the accompanying economic sanctions against Solidarity's second-tier leaders — which can mean starvation behind the Iron Curtain — effectively ended Solidarity's moment in the sun. The organization itself was banned, and government-approved trade unions have been established to take up the workers' free time. There is no longer a need, in Moscow's mind, for firing squads. The eighties are not the thirties. So martial law was lifted and 650 Solidarity activists freed from prison.

Lebanon's Jews Caught In Cross Fire

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — The seizure of American hostages by Shiite Moslems in Lebanon stole the headlines in 1985, but there's another story of hostage-taking in that unhappy country that has gone untold.

While Christian and Moslem militias continue to slaughter each other and "enemy" civilians, the remnant of Beirut's centuries-old Jewish community has become the latest target of Shiite kidnapers. Seven elderly Lebanese Jews have been abducted on the street, and are believed to be held by the Hezbollah, the same fanatical Shiite group that is holding seven Americans.

The State Department has been making behind-the-scenes appeals in supposedly influential quarters for the release of the seven Lebanese, along with its continuing efforts to free the seven Americans.

Ed Kennedy Tragedy

A new book will end whatever residual presidential thoughts may be percolating in the dim brain of Edward Kennedy.

The book is by Marcia Chellis, who served as an aide to his ex-wife Joan, and it's called "Living With the Kennedys." It fills in with detail what everyone has known in a general way. The least of it is that Ted Kennedy is a callous and unconcerned user of women, a one-night-stand man, treating them like Kleenex. Of course, coast to coast, they were willing. He is not accused of rape. His behavior drove his wife into alcoholism and miscarriage.

The first time Joan Kennedy heard about the Chappaquiddick mess was when she picked up an extension phone and heard her husband discussing it with a girlfriend.

When Joan, according to her account, approached Jackie Kennedy about the philandering problem, Jackie said "Kennedy men are like that. It doesn't mean anything." Well, yes. Old Joe Kennedy took his Mistress Gloria Swanson on a transatlantic voyage along with his wife.

But "it doesn't mean anything." There you have it. All of the Kennedys, from Old Joe on down, acted within an enormous and careless indifference, secure in the cocoon of wealth and power. You can get killed around people like that.

There is worse to come. Many congressmen and senators are on the sexual merry-go-round, but Teddy is out of control, in far over his head. Like many people inside the District of Columbia Beltway, he goes in for casual serial sex, but he is also a food nut, capable of eating an entire cheesecake on the sly, or five banana splits. Of course he drinks heavily and bloats.

There was no reason whatsoever for him to attend Harvard University, and one sympathizes with his baby-like rebellion: exam cheating. It was also comically unfair to him that Joseph Kennedy Jr. died in the war, and that Jack and Bobby were shot. He never asked to be where he is.

Ted Kennedy is the nightmare youngest brother, at middle age the last child still on his mother's breast.

President?

Are you kidding? The only reason he is trying to run is that he represents the last hope of the old Camelot crowd, Arthur Schlesinger, Galbraith, Sorenson, and the untended mini-Camelots in the Cambridge area. Give Teddy another banana split.

Only it is not comedy but tragedy because Teddy is at some level a nice guy, good company, an anecdotalist, with a real sense of humor. Like Tip O'Neill he is that traditional figure, a charming Irish fraud.

Neither Tip nor Teddy really gives a damn about the black, the poor, the young, or the lame, the halt and the blind, or even Quasimodo. All their speeches along these lines are written by the usual suspects.

What Tip wants to do is play golf at Burning Tree, sing Irish songs, and distribute patronage even if his crowd has to touch down in Israel and Italy as part of the scam.

What Teddy wants to do is to drink, take the women of the afternoon out on his boat, and tell hilarious stories. Reagan genuinely likes him.

The tragedy is that life, meaning Old Joe Kennedy, forced Teddy into his present circumstance. All of Joe's kids had to be president.

Teddy would have made a wonderful bartender, a fine cabana master, an excellent captain of some marina on the Cape.

Fine. But president?

Highway Faces A Crash

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Interstate 80, a 2,800-mile superhighway that spans the entire continent from New York to San Francisco, was constructed at a cost of approximately $4 billion.

Westway, a proposed New York City highway that will cover only 4.2 miles along the Lower West Side of Manhattan, also will cost about $4 billion — and possibly twice as much.

That comparison suggests there is something very wrong with the economics of Westway, which technically is also an interstate highway and thus is eligible to receive $1.7 billion in federal funds.

Since Westway was first proposed in 1974, a considerable amount of planning, design and demolition work has been performed — but no construction has been initiated because of the growing controversy over what has become a private real estate venture masquerading as a public highway construction project.

For more than a decade, Westway has been propped up by a powerful coalition of those who would reap substantial financial benefits from its completion — building trades unions, real estate developers and construction companies.

One measure of their political influence: Since 1977, three federal agencies opposed Westway because it would require about 240 acres of Hudson River landfill and thus adversely affect fishery resources and other aquatic life.

During one week in late February, however, the Environmental Protection Agency, the Interior Department's Fish and Wildlife Service and the Commerce Department's National Marine Fisheries Service all abruptly abandoned their opposition.

Those unexplained reversals, apparently inspired by White House pressure, were immediately followed by the granting of an Army Corps of Engineers permit to begin dredging the river.

But the House of Representatives recently voted overwhelmingly to prohibit the use of any federal funds for Westway, the first time either house of Congress has rejected plans to proceed with the extravagant project.

The unexpectedly wide margin of 287 to 132 surprised both proponents and opponents of the senseless highway — but Westway advocates still have an opportunity to neutralize the House vote by convincing the Senate to support the project.

Halm Cohen, age unknown, also poor, who delivered kosher meat to the Jewish community.

— Sallim Jammous, age unknown, secretary-general of the Jewish community.

Sources told our associate Lucette Lagnado they believe it highly likely that the seven are being held by the Hezbollah either in Beirut or in the Syrian-controlled Bekaa Valley, not far from where the seven Americans are thought to be held. Reginald Bartholomew, the U.S. ambassador to Lebanon, has held discussions with the missing Jews with both Lebanese and Syrian officials, according to our sources.

Syrian President Hafez Assad was instrumental in obtaining the release of the American "TWA hostages" in July, and is believed by the State Department to have enough influence with the Shiite terrorists in the Bekaa Valley to intercede for the Jews and the remaining Americans. Whether he chooses to do so is another matter.

District Openers Are Next

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

The test run is over. This Friday is the real thing. Seminole County's football teams opened the season against non-district opposition last Friday but just the opposite will be true this week as all have district openers.

Oviedo, a 21-7 winner over Lake Brantley, and Lake Howell, a 23-13 victory over Edgewater, were the county's lone winners. Seminole lost to Astronaut (24-0), Lake Mary succumbed to Apopka (21-0) and Lyman dropped a close one to Boone (14-7).

Oviedo has a big district game Friday against Seabreeze while Lake Howell is in the same situation against West Orange. Seminole opens its district with Titusville while Lake Mary does the same with DeLand and likewise for Lyman with Mainland. Brantley opposes respected Orlando Evans.

All the district breakdown takes is some patience. The Florida High School Activities Association, in a move initiated by the 2A schools, created a new division for football this year, giving the state five levels. It may have benefitted the smaller schools but it created chaos in this county.

Whereas, all the county schools expect formerly 3A Oviedo were in one district, now the county is sliced three ways. Oviedo and Seminole are 4A-5. Lake Mary and Lyman are 5A-4. Lake Howell and Lake Brantley are 5A-5.

The one sane thing that came of this mess was the creation of the Seminole Athletic Conference (SAC), which means all the county schools will vie for the same conference title. Oviedo took early control of that race with its 21-7 victory over Lake Brantley.

Seminole has the unhealthy task of playing Titusville High after Astronaut's War Eagles. The Terrers were ranked No. 8 in the Florida Sports Writers Association's State Prep Poll before losing to Merritt Island (14-0) Friday.

Mosure said he didn't want to play the two perennial Titusville powers back to back but his hands were tied. "We had the two-year contract with Astronaut," he said. "Titusville High is a district game so we had to play it some time. If we wanted to play Lake Mary, it had to be the fourth game. There was no way around it."

Lake Mary, which bowed to Apopka (21-0), journeys to DeLand for its first district clash. It looms as very crucial since the Rams, DeLand and Mainland figure to vie for the 5A-4 title.

"Ever since I've been coaching, I've been able to get my team ready after a tough loss," Nelson said. "We'll be ready on Friday."

Lyman goes to Daytona Beach to take on Mainland and coach Bill Scott expects to see a tougher opponent than Boone as the Greyhounds try to snap a 13-game losing streak. "They might be the strongest team in the district," Coach Bill Scott said. "We scouted their jamboree and they looked great." Mainland nipped Colonial (13-12) Friday.

Coaches: Friday 13th Reruns Are Better Than Live Version

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Friday the 13th. Part September didn't get rave reviews from Dave Mosure, Harry Nelson and Fred Almon. At least the live reruns didn't. But when all three football coaches looked at the reruns of their Friday losses over the weekend, they came away feeling a lot better.

"I saw a lot of positive things," Seminole coach Mosure said about the 24-0 setback to Titusville Astronaut. "Our running backs ran real hard. Our linebacker play was good."

Mosure said he also saw a touchdown which didn't count six points. He was referring to a diving catch which tight end Eddie Banks made in the end zone just prior to halftime. It was ruled incomplete and the Tribe came away empty-handed and down, 10-0.

"In the film it looks like he caught it," Mosure said. "It's really obvious. But you aren't going to change an official's mind. When you get beat, though, you hate for something like that to happen."

"It might have been a different game with the score, 10-7, at halftime. You never know but I'm not crying."

Mosure said he was impressed with the running of Dwayne Willis, sophomore Curtis Rudolph and Willie Evans and more impressed with a fumble-less game by the trio on a sloppy night. "Willis and Rudolph really ran the ball hard," Mosure said. "Willie Evans did a great job." Evans averaged seven yards per carry in four tries.

As for his linebackers, Mosure said, "Brian Brinson is really beginning to develop as a middle linebacker. He played sideline to sideline. (Sophomore) Earnest Lewis exceeded all expectations. He was all over the field. Rick Kelly also played a real solid game."

Brinson had 9 tackles and 4 assists while Lewis had 3 tackles and 7 assists in his varsity debut. Kelly chipped in 2 and 2.

Mosure wasn't as happy with his secondary with the exception of Dexter Franklin. "We might have had the number one defense against the pass last year but we played in a conference which didn't pass."

Football

Mosure said. "Friday, Franklin (was the only one who) played up to expectations."

Offensively, Mosure said split end David Rape made two "great catches" and tight end Sonny Osborn "beat his guy all over the place." Osborn graded out at 79 percent, which Mosure said is incredible for a tight end.

Quarterback Jeff Blake started well but tailed off during the rain, finishing with 5 of 21 for 80 yard and two interceptions.

...Nelson Succumbs To Gators

Like-wise, Lake Mary's Nelson had a better outlook of his team's 21-0 loss to Apopka Monday than Friday night when he said he was engulfed to by two snap-jawed writers.

"They came after me like a couple of alligators," Nelson said about two county scribes. "I didn't even have five minutes to be alone. They were on me right away."

Much like Apopka's defense on the Rams, "We never had good field position," Nelson lamented. "What really hurt is they shut us down so much. Our offense was pathetic."

The absence of John "Battering Ram" Curry may have had something to do with that dismal offensive showing. Curry was nursing a sprained ankle and Nelson decided it was best to hold out his sophomore sensation.

"When I saw him cut, I knew he couldn't go," Nelson said. "If you don't let something like that heal, it could hobble him all year. He said he feels a lot better today (Monday)."

Nelson said "defensively we held up generally well in spots." Apopka struck on a 27-yard pass for one TD and then ground out the other two behind halfback Charles Dowdell.

"(Brett) Mollie played well enough," Nelson said about his middle linebacker. "(Rob) Reddington and Ryan Lisle weren't too bad. (Nose guard) Scott Ross threw a guy for a 10-yard loss the first play he was in."

Offensively, however, the Rams were void. Quarterback Shane Letterio completed just 4 of 16 passes for 60 yards. Slotback Ray Hartsfield could never shake loose from Earl Clayton. "That number 2 (Clayton) just blanketed Hartsfield," Nelson said.

...Almon Bemons Losing LBers

Brantley's Almon, meanwhile, took one good look at the rerun and came away with a better feeling for his Patriots after the 21-7 setback to Oviedo. "After looking at that film, we did a lot of things well," the first-year coach said. "When we had good holes, the backs would miss the hole. When we had room outside, the backs would drop the pitch. We were close on several occasions to winning that game."

Like Lake Mary, the Patriots were without an air attack. Dave Deffacco, the All-County quarterback last year, completed just 2 of 12 passes for 12 yards.

Cornelius Friendly led the Patriot ground game with 69 yards. Sixty of them, however, came on a TD dash in the second quarter.

Deffacco, though, did punt well, averaging 40 yards on three boots. That, along with the defensive work of Jason Lanham, Steve Stark, Chris Walsh, Mike Kelly and Bobby Bodoh, had Almon preparing for better times against Orlando Evans this week.

Lanham, brother of UCF quarterback Tony, collected seven tackles and two assists. Bodoh had 7 and 3. Stark was 6 and 5 with an interception. Kelly was 5 and 7. Walsh recovered a fumble.

The setback, though, proved doubly costly for Kelley and Matt Wilson. Kelley injured his shoulder and is doubtful for Friday. Wilson suffered a knee injury and may be lost for the season.

"That's three linebackers we lost," Almon said adding those two to promising Bucky Chamber who went down with a broken leg in the jamboree. "Three key people, too. I don't know what we're going to do but we'll think of something by Friday."

That's Friday ... the 20.

UPI: Giants Will Name Rosen, Craig To Posts

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Senior Editor-Sports

The San Francisco Giants are sitting on two big announcements, and may have a third three months from now.

The first is Al Rosen is their new president and general manager. The second is Roger Craig is their new manager. And the third, which would be the biggest of all, is that they may be playing in Denver next season.

Rosen, fired as president and general manager of the Houston Astros last week, and Craig, who quit as Detroit's pitching coach after the Tigers won the 1984 World Series, will be named to new posts Wednesday in a news conference in San Francisco.

Giants owner Bob Lurie will make it plain, contrary to growing speculation, that the club has not moved anywhere.

Lurie Monday declined to either confirm or deny the hiring of Rosen and Craig, who managed the San Diego Padres in 1978-79.

But UPI learned on excellent authority that Rosen will take over the Giants' top front office job, replacing Tom Haller, and Craig will succeed Jim Davenport, in his first season with the Giants.

At their recent summer meetings at St. Louis, major-league owners agreed to quickly support movement of certain franchises in the near-future instead of expanding. It is known that Marvin Davis, one of the nation's wealthiest oilmen, has been interested in purchasing either the Oakland or San Francisco franchises and moving it to Denver.

Lurie did not deny the fact he has talked with Davis.

CLIENT A SCAPEGOAT?

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Attorney Adam Renfro insisted he would prove his client is being made a scapegoat by "hero-criminal" ballplayers when the defense opens today in the cocaine trafficking case against Curtis Strong.

However, Judge Gustave Diamond warned Renfro Monday that the broad rules that enabled him to elicit headline-grabbing testimony regarding amphetamine use and distribution by such players as Willie Stargell and Bill Madlock of the Pittsburgh Pirates during cross-examination of the prosecution's witnesses would not apply once he began his own case.

"Be here tomorrow at 9:30," Renfro said Monday when asked to identify his first witnesses. "It should be very interesting..."

Diamond made his warning after granting a prosecution motion to dismiss two of the 16 felony charges against Strong, 39, a Philadelphia caterer and baseball groupie charged with selling cocaine to ballplayers in Pittsburgh between June 1980 and mid-May 1984.

Diamond then denied a defense motion for general acquittal but granted defense attorney Adam Renfro's request to postpone the opening of his case until 9:30 a.m. today.

Weathers Steals 1 To Save 17-7 Win

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Curtis Weathers switched from leading cheers to receiving them Monday night.

"As a backup player, I've always felt my role is to keep myself ready in case something happens," said Cleveland's seven-year veteran linebacker, who found himself in a starting role against the Pittsburgh Steelers Monday because of Clay Matthews' sore back.

"I play on special teams, and I give the guys vocal support from the sidelines."

Weathers earned the cheers when he intercepted a pass to set up Earnest Byner's 21-yard touchdown run with 2:37 to play to seal the Browns' 17-7 victory over their AFC Central rivals.

"I had a premonition before the play that he (Malone) was going to throw the ball at me," said Weathers. "I don't know where or who he was throwing it to, because I was all alone out there. It was the first interception of my career."

Browns head coach Marty Schottenheimer said Weathers' performance "is a victory for the role and special teams player."

"Curtis is an example of the character we have on this team," he added. "He was thrust into a situation because of an injury, and he was outstanding."

Gary Danielson, who tossed a 17-yard touchdown pass to rookie Fred Banks at 11:04 of the second quarter, said the Browns rebounded from a disappointing overtime loss to St. Louis in the opener.

BUCS GET SPRINGS

TAMPA (UPI) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers Monday signed former Dallas running back Ron Springs and Coach Leeman Bennett is hoping for leadership from the six-year veteran.

Springs, whose production dropped from 541 yards rushing and 73 receptions in 1983 to 194 yards and 46 catches last year, will be available for Tampa Bay's game Sunday at New Orleans. To make room for Springs, fourth-year running back Melvin Carver was waived.

"Initially, at least, we'll stay in a one-back offense," said Bennett, "and we'll probably use Springs to rest (All-Pro tailback) James Wilder. It's conceivable we'll switch to a two-back set, later in the year, but we haven't given it any thought or discussion."

Springs, 28, was convicted Thursday of resisting arrest at a topless nightclub in Dallas. He was given a year's probation and fined $2,000.

DUPER: HAIRLINE BREAK

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami's Pro Bowl wide receiver Mark Duper has a hairline fracture of a bone in his left leg and will be lost to the team for six weeks, Dolphins' coach Don Shula said Monday.

In another injury to a key player, Miami starting right outside linebacker Charles Bowser suffered a severely sprained ankle Sunday against Indianapolis and will be out two-to-four weeks.

The mysterious aspect of Duper's injury is that no one is quite sure when it occurred. Duper said he injured it in practice Friday, but he practiced Saturday and told coaches after practice his knee was sore.

Duper played a few plays Sunday against the Colts in Miami's 30-13 win and then left the game.

"We still can't figure out when he did it," Shula said.

Duper will be placed on injured reserve and will have to wear a splint for four weeks. Duper, a 5-foot-9, 192-pounder, caught 71 passes last year for 1,306 yards and eight touchdowns.

DICKERSON IS NO. 2

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Eric Dickerson, back on the Los Angeles Rams practice field after a 46-day contract holdout, says he will have to win back his position of starting tailback from Charles White, it was reported Tuesday.

"I saw Charles White play in college (at the University of Southern California)," Dickerson told The Los Angeles Times after Monday's practice session. "He's tough. I never carried 36 times. It's like when you don't show up, you have to win your position back. I believe I have to win my position back. But he'll have a run on his hands."

Gooden (21), Tudor (19) Continue Cy Young War

United Press International
Within the race for the National League East title, John Tudor and Dwight Gooden are waging a private war for the Cy Young Award.

Just weeks ago, it appeared certain Gooden would add the award to the Rookie of the Year honor earned last season. Now Tudor is very much in the picture, and the division title as well as Cy Young award will hinge on their performances in the stretch run.

Both recorded victories yesterday, but the Cardinals, by virtue of their double-header sweep of the Pirates, gained ground in the standings, moving a full game ahead of the Mets.

Gooden cruised to 21-4 with a two-hit, 11-strikeout performance in the Mets 9-0 thrashing of the Philadelphia Phillies at Shea Stadium, running his streak of shutout innings to 31, two-thirds of an inning short of the team record.

The 20-year-old is the first 21-game winner in the majors, and notched his seventh shutout, tying a club record. It was the 25th time in his career he has struck out at least 10 in a game.

"After the third inning I realized I had a pretty good fastball and I couldn't get the curve over, so I made some adjustments," said Gooden, who had two hits and two RBI. "I think I was trying to throw too hard with my curve instead of trying to go over the top."

Gary Carter chipped in with an RBI single and a three-run homer.

Kevin Gross, 14-10, lasted 3 1-3 innings, surrendering nine hits and six earned runs.

After a 1-8 start, Tudor improved to 19-8 with an 8-4 victory in the opener, and has supplanted Joaquin Andujar as the ace of the Cardinals staff. His string of scoreless innings was snapped at 31 by Bill Almon's grand-slam in the fourth.

"I didn't imagine this would be happening," said Tudor, who allowed eight hits, walked four and struck out two in six innings. "It's been fun. I have always felt I was a half-decent pitcher, not a really 20-game winner. But I felt I could win 14, 15, 16 games a year."

Andy Van Slyke and Terry Pendleton each knocked in two runs in the opener. Relievers Jeff Lahti and Ken Dayley and Todd Worrell finished. Worrell pitched to one batter for his second save. Pirate starter Jose DeLeon, 2-18, lasted just 1 2-3 innings.

Willie McGee singled home Vince Coleman in the eighth inning to snap a 1-1 tie in the nightcap. Pat Perry, 1-0, pitched the final 2 1-3 of hitless relief. Reliever Pat Clements, 0-2, took the loss.

Elsewhere, Houston downed Atlanta 7-2. Cincinnati topped San Francisco 7-6 in 11 innings, Montreal defeated Chicago 8-5, and San Diego beat Los Angeles 4-2.

Tim Raines
...2-run single

Gary Carter
...3-run homer

Astros 7, Braves 2
At Atlanta, Jeff Heathcock, 2-1, hurled a four-hitter for his first major-league complete game and Jose Cruz, Jerry Mumphy and Denny Walling homered to lead the Astros. Joe Johnson fell to 4-1.

Reds 7, Giants 6
At Cincinnati, Gary Redus raced home from third on Mark Davis' wild pitch with one out in the 11th to lift the Reds. Redus walked and stole second and third before scoring on the wild pitch by Davis, 5-10.

Expos 8, Cubs 5
At Montreal, Scot Thompson snapped a 5-5 tie with a sacrifice fly in the seventh and Tim Raines added a two-run single to power the Expos. Tim Burke, 9-3, worked the last 2 1-3 innings of relief for the victory. George Frazier, 7-7, took the loss.

Padres 4, Dodgers 2
At San Diego, Carmelo Martinez hit his 18th homer of the season with two on in the seventh to break a 1-1 tie and lift the Padres. The blast came off reliever Ken Howell and made a loser of Jerry Reuss, 12-10. Eric Show, 10-10, went 7 2-3 innings, and Rich Gossage finished for his 23rd save.

Tartabull's Power Show Haunts Kansas City, 5-1

United Press International
Danny Tartabull gave the Kansas City Royals a costly reminder Monday of the importance of a power-hitting shortstop.

Tartabull, the subject of trade talks between the Royals and Seattle Mariners in August, belted a two-run, second-inning homer to send the Mariners to a 5-1 victory over the Western Division-leading Royals.

The Royals, whose shortstops are barely hitting over .200 this year, were never able to complete the deal.

"I heard those rumors when I was in Calgary," said Tartabull. "I can't comment one way or another but if Kansas City thinks that highly of me, I'm flattered."

"I'd like to play for Seattle because they've given me the opportunity to play, but I can be happy anywhere."

Tartabull had impressive statistics at Calgary of the (AAA) Pacific Coast League this summer, hitting .300 with 43 homers with 110 RBI. He hit .300 with two homers and 7 RBI the previous September with the Mariners.

With just a two-game lead over the idle California Angels, the Royals had their nine-game home winning streak snapped.

A.L. Baseball

The Mariners beat the Royals for the sixth time in seven meetings this season.

Jack Perconte opened the game for Seattle with a triple and, after a walk to Phil Bradley, Danny Jackson wild-pitched Perconte home and Bradley to second. Catcher Jamie Quirk was then charged with a passed ball and the second run came home on a double-play grounder by Gorman Thomas.

Kansas City got a run back in its half of the first on a double by George Brett and a single by Hal McRae, but Tartabull belted his 10th homer in the second to move the Mariners in front, 4-1.

Seattle then chased Jackson, 13-10, with another run in the third on a walk to Davis and a double by Dave Henderson for a 5-1 lead.

Kansas City loaded the bases with none out in the ninth, but Mike Moore retired the next three batters on pop outs to end the game.

Moore scattered five hits, struck out five and walked three to improve his record to 15-8.

Indians 9, Yankees 4
At New York, Julio Franco hit a two-run triple during a six-run ninth inning and Andre Thornton ripped a pair of two-run homers to power the Indians. Brian Fisher, 4-4, took the loss. Jerry Reed, the fourth Cleveland pitcher, entered in the eighth and raised his record to 1-5.

Orioles 14, Tigers 7
At Detroit, Cal Ripken hit a pair of home runs and highlighted a six-homer attack that paced the Orioles. Tippy Martinez evened his record at 3-3. Rookie Chuck Cary fell to 0-1. The Orioles lead the majors in total home runs with 194.

Brewers 5, Red Sox 3
At Milwaukee, Cecil Cooper collected three singles and Bob Ojeda, 7-10, barked in the go-ahead run in the seventh inning to lift the Brewers. Bob McClure, 4-1, allowed three hits in 4 1-3 innings of relief and struck out three for the victory.

Twins 7, Rangers 6
At Minneapolis, Gary Gaetti's solo homer with one out in the bottom of the 11th inning lifted the Twins. Gaetti's 18th homer of the year came on a 3-0 pitch from Greg Harris, 4-4, who hurled three innings of relief. Frank Eufemia, 4-2, went one inning for the triumph.

Third to fifth were Rick Lokey, first heat winner Harry Braze and Ben Booth. Granny Tatroe won the second heat in the Kittle Key Shop machine.

Warming up for this coming Saturday's 100-lap Street Stock Championship of Florida, Casey Hawthorne took the street stock main over Bill Kinley, heat winner Junior Simmons, James Stanek and Jim Voth.

White, Parks Hurl Shutouts; Thorne Land 1 Back Of TRC

Geysers Systems' Marvin White and Tim Parks Connection's Charlie Parks each tossed shutouts while Thorne Land Clearing overcame stubborn Sunland in Sanford Men's Softball at Pinhurst Field.

Thorne stayed one game behind unbeaten TRC with a 9-6 win. The Connection gave Parks plenty of support with a 24-hit attack in its 16-0 rout of McKee Development. Geysers and White blanked Cardinal Industries, 5-0.

Thorne (4-1) used two RBI by Mike Whitten and one each by Brian Burgess, Stan Brumley and Thaad Brooks to hold off Sunland. Nick Mergo and Felix "Lag" Smith with the scoreboard advantage. White had RBI doubles, Duck Murdoch singled in a run.

Thorne scored two in the first when Danny Gracey reached on a two-out error and scored when Otis Rains reached on another miscue.

In the fourth, Thorne again worked its two-out magic for a pair of runs as Steve Martin singled, Burgess tripled and

Lovely Parable Inspires Poem Of Inspiration

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago I read a lovely parable in your column that moved me so I clipped it to save. Recently I came across a poem with the identical theme. It was obviously inspired by the parable you published. I found the poem even more beautiful than the prose and hope you find it worthy of publication in your column.

VIKKI GREENE, SANTA ROSA, CALIF. GOD'S FOOTPRINTS by Ken Brown

One night in deepest sleep, I dreamed,
Upon the beach I walked
The Lord was by my side each step

As quietly we talked,
Then on the sky my life appeared;

Each chapter was serene,
Two sets of footprints in the sand

I saw in every scene,
And then I noticed in some parts

Of discontent and strife
Just a single pair of footprints
In the worst times of my life.

"Lord, you said you'd walk by me
"In good times and in bad,
"Why then weren't you with me

Dear Abby

"When you knew my life was sad?"
"My dearest child," God whispered,
"When you suffered then, I knew;
"The single pair of footprints
"Were those times I carried you."

DEAR ABBY: I am newly married to a woman I'll call Edith. It's the second time around for both of us. Now for the problem.

When we make love, Edith makes me wear an undershirt. Why? Because I have "Gretchen" tattooed on my chest above my heart. (Gretchen was my first wife.)

Edith knew I had Gretchen on my chest when she married me, but it didn't bother her. Now, it's either cover up Gretchen or no lovemaking. I am not used to wearing anything to bed, but unless I want to go right to sleep I have to wear an undershirt.

Is there some way to remove a tattoo? I've had it since I was 20, and now I'm 41.

HENRY IN ELIZABETH, N.J.

DEAR HENRY: There are several techniques available. See a board-certified dermatologist and prepare for some more needling. A bleaching solution can be injected under the skin with a needle. (It's like being tattooed in reverse.)

DEAR ABBY: I have picked up some very helpful safety tips from your column, so I'm submitting one you may want to pass along to your readers.

The subject is grandfather clocks. This type of clock is very top-heavy, so I recommend that anyone who has one or is planning to purchase one, fasten it to the wall so it won't fall over.

Our 2-year-old daughter was opening the door to our grandfather clock when it fell on her and cut her head open. We rushed her to the hospital where she had to have 12 stitches to close the wound. Fortunately, she is young and recovered quickly, but I shudder to think how much worse it could have been.

CINDY CURTIS, HOGUAM, WASH.

DEAR CINDY: Thanks for the tip. Parents: One expects a grandfather to strike 12, but to prevent it from striking one precious child, anchor it to the wall.

Old Tymes Connection Now In Historic Sanford

Friends and customers — both new and old — of The Olde Tymes Connection, formerly located in Longwood, are delighted to discover the charming shop is now located at 108 Magnolia Mall (around the corner from The Clock) in Historic Downtown Sanford.

Margie and Bob Beine, owners, have been in the antiques and collectibles business for four years. They have lived in Sanford for 31 years and raised their family here so they are particularly pleased with the revitalization of the downtown area and proud to be a part of it.

"We appreciate the support and warm reception we have been given by the residents and the other shopkeepers," Margie said.

Associates Ruth Gaines and Nancy Frye, also Sanford residents, help with the operation of the shop.

When you are in the market for a gift, why not buy a gift that's an investment and will keep increasing in value? Give an antique or collectible. Margie says antiques don't have to be expensive and she has them from $5 up.

The Old Tymes Connection has that personal touch. If you like they'll even include the history of the item. The staff is ready to help you with your selection.

They are giving 20 percent off on all frames and prints through Sept. 30.

You'll find interesting items such as a hanging post office box from a mid 1800's country store, a dental cabinet, J.P. Coats spool cabinet desk, crocks, kitchen collectibles, occupied Japan collectibles, art deco, miscellaneous sterling and crystal, iron stone, fine porcelains and a pie safe.

In addition to antiques, Olde Tymes Connection features handcrafted signed and dated copies of pre-1860 country furniture and home decorating accessories by Phillip T. Whittington.

They also have adorable and collectible pewter miniatures starting at $2.50 each, notepaper and gift cards with hand-tatted designs.

Start a collection of Hunting Creek figures molded of composition wood and each hand-painted. They can either be hung on the wall or will stand up.

Margie says, "If we don't have what you're looking for, let us know and we'll make every effort to find it."

Old Tymes Connection is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Fridays. Master Charge and Visa cards are accepted and a layaway plan is available.

Personalized Service Is Blair Agency's Business

The folks at Blair Agency in Sanford regard their clients as "family." They are not just numbers to Steve Blair, office manager of the Blair Insurance Agency, or his mother, Genie Blair, owner and founder of the agency.

In fact, the agency's business philosophy is expressed in their motto, which appears on their letterhead — "Personalized service is our business."

That personal touch, combined with more than 30 years of experience is what makes the Blair Agency a solid insurance agency its customers can depend on.

Because it works with 18 different companies, the Blair Agency is able to shop around for the best deals, tailored to the needs of their customers.

The agency was founded by Mrs. Blair in Sanford 27 years ago and she remains actively involved in all aspects of its operation. Considered an expert in the insurance field, Mrs. Blair was for a time the only woman licensed in both real estate and insurance in the state early in her career in Sanford.

The Blair Agency with offices at 2510A Oak Ave., Sanford, sells personal injury protection insurance, but recommends liability insurance as well.

Blair said PIP, as it is commonly called, is cheaper insurance but is "self-centered protection which provides nothing for your fellow man."

Liability, which he said provides better coverage for all concerned in an accident situation, is made more affordable at the Blair Agency.

If you are having trouble getting insurance because of your driving record, talk to Blair. He said he also specializes in helping drivers who have trouble getting insurance due to too many tickets or accidents.

Steve Blair, office manager at Blair Insurance Agency.

"Let me have all the bad drivers in Sanford," he says. "I will help them out."

But drivers with tough records aren't the only ones who will benefit from Blair Agency services. Drivers with stainless histories will like the services and the savings they get at the agency, Blair said.

They will like dealing with the Blair Agency staff, which is trained and educated to give their clients the best service. And because the agency isn't a high volume agency, Blair says it treats each customer in a special way.

"If I service my accounts honestly and properly, I don't have to worry about money. Being honest is my profit in the community. You're not going to find anybody more honest from 9 to 5 than right here," he says.

Call Blair at 323-7710 or 323-3866 and compare.

Darrell and Larry Jackson of Professional Car Care install window tinting on car assisted by employee Chris Lonis (right).

Solar Window Film Will Reduce Your Energy Bill

Let Professional Car Care install window tint on your vehicle and save on energy costs. With the application of Sun Tech Solar Products reflective solar film on your windows, you can cut out 30 percent of the heat from the sun and your air-conditioner will not have to work so hard.

It screens out 97 percent of the ultra violet rays and prevents fading of upholstery and carpets. It will also shatterproof your windows.

Professional Car Care located at 711 1/2 S. French Ave., Sanford, installs only legal window tinting.

They will window tint your vehicle by appointment or if you prefer just drop it off and wait your turn. Phone 323-7272. They give a lifetime warranty on the window tinting on cars.

You can save 40 percent on your energy bills on your home or business. The solar film will also reduce the glare from the sun by 35 percent.

Sun Tech Solar Products is a participating contractor with Florida Power & Light Co.

In business at Professional Car Care with her husband Larry for five years Darrell Jackson is licensed and bonded and uses only the industry's best products. Darrell will come to your home or office to give you a free estimate.

For residential and commercial window tinting customers, they can arrange for a Florida Power & Light energy audit which can result in the power company subsidizing the cost of installation.

Having the solar film installed on your home can decrease energy bills, protect furnishings and give security, says Darrell.

With 16 years experience in the auto business, Larry offers auto detailing and Metal Gard rustproofing by Quaker State with a lifetime warranty that is transferable. Buying a new car is a big dollar investment and the time to apply

Polaroid Wins Suit Against Kodak Co.

BOSTON (UPI) — Instant photography pioneer Edwin H. Land, who founded the Polaroid Corp., says he's "thrilled" over the company's victory in a landmark lawsuit charging arch-rival Eastman Kodak Co. with patent infringement.

U.S. District Judge Rya Zobel, who heard the case without a jury, handed down the ruling Friday, but did not decide whether to award damages to Polaroid.

Financial analysts say millions of dollars could change hands as a result of the ruling, but say the decision is not likely to have a marked effect on either company.

The ruling closes a chapter in a nine-year legal battle that was touched off when Kodak introduced its SX-70 instant camera, ending Polaroid's 30-year monopoly on the product.

Although he severed all his ties with the company last spring, Land said he was very pleased with the decision.

"I'm thrilled," said Land, 76. "We worked so hard the first time around on the contents of the film and the camera and the patents on it. And we worked very hard trying to make clear to the court what the essence of every invention was."

"Even though I no longer have any economic interests, I have enormous spiritual and intellectual interests. I shared so much of the adventure with so many, many colleagues."

Polaroid spokesmen also heralded the decision, but Kodak declined comment and took no position on whether it will appeal the judge's ruling.

In the suit — one of the most involved patent infringement actions in recent history — Polaroid said Kodak violated 10 patents and asked for damages equal to three times the amount of money it lost due to Kodak's competition, a figure that has not yet been calculated.

Zobel upheld eight of the patents and ruled that Kodak infringed on seven of them, but did not issue an order on damages or on whether Kodak should be allowed to continue marketing its instant camera.

Land, who held several of the patents, left Polaroid in 1982 and sold all his remaining stock last spring.

Under Tight Security

Kidnap-Murder Suspect Arraigned

HOWELL, Mich. (UPI) — The suspect in the kidnap-slaying of a 13-year-old boy stood silent Monday at a brief jailhouse arraignment held under tight security prompted by death threats against him.

Ronald Lloyd Bailey, 26, of Livonia, Mich., who has a history of sex offenses involving boys, eluded police for four days after being released under "limited surveillance."

Bailey was captured late Saturday near Ocala, and returned Sunday night to Livingston County, where he was placed under maximum security. Rather than risk moving him to a courtroom, authorities held the arraignment in a room in the jail.

With his father at his side holding an arm around him, Bailey remained mute Monday when District Court Judge Mike Merritt asked for a plea to charges of kidnapping and murdering Shawn Moore, 13.

The judge delayed entering a plea pending competency and criminal responsibility evaluations to be held at the state's Ypsilanti facility. Prosecutor Frank Delvero requested the examinations.

"There have been some threats," State Police Sgt. Gary Mihalak said. "Like: 'have officers stay well back so they won't get hurt.'"

About a dozen reporters were allowed to observe the five-minute arraignment but were not allowed to ask questions of anyone and were permitted to leave only after the room was cleared.

Bailey was captured shortly after dark Saturday about two miles south of Ocala when Marion County Corrections Officer Marie Craven saw him crossing a road.

"I'm tired and I'm hungry," Bailey told officers, draping his arms over a fence.

He waived extradition in an appearance before Florida Circuit Judge Carven Angel, allowing his immediate return to Michigan.

More than 100 officers assisted by dogs, airplanes and a National Guard helicopter spent all day Saturday searching a pine forest after he was seen in a shed south of Ocala. A sheriff's department sought shelter from heavy rain in a shed Friday night and fled into nearby woods when the owner saw him.

A murder warrant was issued late Saturday by Livingston County District Court Magistrate Lloyd Erdman.

The body of the Brighton-area teenager was found Friday near the town of Gladwin — about 150 miles northwest of his hometown. Identification was made Saturday through fingerprints and dental records.

The youth was kidnapped Aug. 31 as he rode his bicycle near his home, with witnesses telling police he was forced into a Jeep by a man matching Bailey's description. Investigators said Bailey's 1985 silver-blue Jeep Cherokee, which was impounded by police, also matched the description of the kidnap vehicle.

The wooded area where Moore's body was found was near a cabin owned by the parents of Bailey's girlfriend. Investigators said people living in the area told them Bailey spent the Labor Day weekend at the cabin.

A Brighton police task force had questioned Bailey for six hours Wednesday before releasing him under "limited surveillance." Nine hours later he flew to Florida.

Court records indicate Bailey has a history of sex offenses involving boys, and was convicted of kidnapping a 12-year-old Livonia boy on a bicycle at knife-point in January 1976. He was sentenced to five years' probation after pleading guilty in that case.

He also has a criminal record in Florida for contributing to the delinquency of two boys and is wanted for probation violation, police said.

Moore's funeral is scheduled today morning in Brighton.

Juvenile Faces Murder Trial As Adult

TITUSVILLE (UPI) — The Brevard-Seminole State Attorney's Office will prosecute as an adult the juvenile charged with shooting dead an 8-year-old after a barroom argument with the boy's older brother.

"We have made the decision to file on the defendant as an adult," Michael Hunt, assistant state attorney, said Monday. "The seriousness of the offense at his age warrants him being treated as an adult."

Fuller Edward Watkins, 17, of Titusville, is charged with second-degree murder, shooting into an occupied dwelling, and using a firearm in commission of a felony, Hunt said.

The charges stem from the Sunday death of Stacey Lee Britt, who was shot in the head three days earlier. Watkins, whose name was released because he is charged with felonies, allegedly fired a handgun at the Britt home in Mims.

Watkins is expected to be transferred Wednesday from the Titusville detention center to the Brevard County Jail and be arraigned Thursday.

Hunt said, adding his office will ask bail be denied.

If convicted, Watkins faces up to life in prison on the murder charge and another 20 years on related charges.

Family members say Britt was in the kitchen when four shots were fired at the house. His brother, Howard, 17, was on the back porch and escaped injury, but one bullet went through a window and struck Britt in the right side of the head.

Authorities said Watkins arrived at the Britt home along with about 10 other boys following an argument in a bar over a girl.

Hunt said Watkins was not charged with first-degree murder because there is no evidence of premeditation.

"He went there to shoot at the house, not to kill any one person," Hunt said. "But he did something he knew or should have known could cause bodily harm."

Teen Charged With Killing Elderly Widow

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI) — A 16-year-old foster child was in the Pinellas County Juvenile Detention Center today, charged with first-degree murder of an elderly neighbor woman who had been confined to a wheelchair after suffering a stroke several years ago.

Police said Jean B. Riffe, a 74-year-old widow, was beaten and stabbed to death early Sunday, apparently after startling an intruder who was climbing through a window that had been broken out.

Dale Wolvington was arrested Sunday after his foster father called police and said the youth admitted killing the woman.

James McBride said the youth had been placed in his home by the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services April 28.

He said Dale failed to make it home before his 1 a.m. curfew Sunday, and when he did arrive he had blood on his knuckles.

"He said, 'I just killed somebody,'" McBride said later Sunday. "I said, 'Dale, this is serious. I'm going to call the police.' He said, 'Call the police. Get me locked up before I kill somebody else.'"

McBride said the elderly woman had had a group of young boys painting the interior of her house and doing lawn work recently, and Dale was one of them.

"She kept calling them and wanting them to work," he said.

"She was kind of an old lady, a lonely lady, and she enjoyed the kids."

HRS takes custody of children who have been neglected or abused, or who have had run-ins with the law.

HRS attorney Barbarte McPherson refused to say why the youth was in state custody, citing state privacy laws, and McBride said he did not know why.

McBride was at a loss for a reason for the youth's action.

"Dale is a real good kid, the most kind-hearted kid you ever saw," said McBride, 45-year-old father of three sons. "He was just like one of the boys, one of our own boys. I just can't understand what happened."

Employers Gripped By 'Cancer Phobia'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thousands of cancer survivors fall victim to a "disease" in the workplace, a form of discrimination by employers called "cancer phobia," the president of the American Cancer Society said.

People who beat cancer are often cheated out of work, promotions or insurance or are fired outright by employers gripped by "cancer phobia," Robert McKenna, society president, said Monday.

"If you're being treated for cancer and you get home from the hospital and find out you're fired, that can be pretty traumatic — economically.

psychologically and socially," he said. Some workers are able to hold onto or find new jobs, but are often denied health insurance, McKenna said. Others face more subtle discrimination, such as being shunned by co-workers, he said.

Job hunting also can be difficult, and teenagers looking for their first job are particularly affected, he said.

Congress is considering amending federal anti-discrimination laws covering all employers to include people with a history of cancer.

Another Satellite Lost

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — A Navy communications satellite launched from the shuttle Discovery Aug. 29 has been written off as a total loss after a week of fruitless work to revive the $85 million spacecraft.

The failure of Syncom 4 on Sept. 6 marked the first of three satellite losses in a single week. Two communications stations were destroyed Thursday when their malfunctioning French Ariane rocket had to be blown up.

Syncom 4 was insured for $84.7 million and its failure, along with the loss of the two satellites aboard the Ariane rocket, pushes satellite insurance claims to some $600 million for the past year and a half.

Post-Attack Boozing Slow Ticket To Death

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband had a heart attack last summer. He has been on Procanamide and Isosorbide daily since then. He feels fine and works full time, but goes out for drinks after work until after midnight. I worry about him drinking while taking this medication. Can you please explain the facts to both of us?

DEAR READER — I'm delighted to learn that your husband now feels fine. However, he seems intent on doing himself in by a slow and agonizing method. Alcohol may adversely react with the medicine he is taking; however, of more importance is the fact that the alcohol is poisoning his heart muscle. Several studies have conclusively shown that alcohol is toxic to the brain, liver and heart. He is clearly asking for serious trouble if he is consuming what appears to be an excessive amount of alcohol. I cannot label your husband alcoholic; only he can do that, when he is ready. Nevertheless, I can tell you that he has a drinking problem.

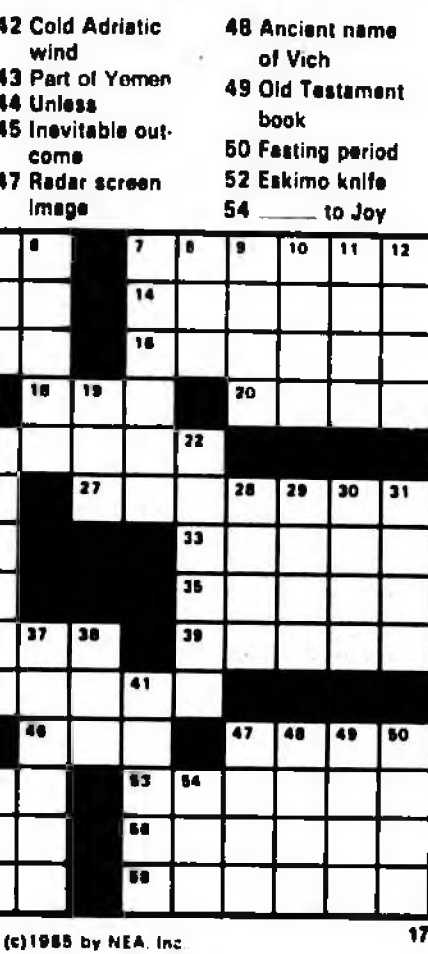

I think it's a reasonable option for you to share my answer with him. If he does not agree with my statement that his alcohol intake is dangerously high, he can get another opinion from his own physician. If he accepts the fact that he has a drinking problem, he may be motivated to stop or to reduce his liquor consumption.

Your role in this scenario is to lay low; express your opinions and concern, but don't harass him. Check with his doctor and look into resources, like Al-Anon, in your community. You may be able to help your husband by helping yourself. An organization like Al-Anon will be able to show you how to address the problem of alcohol in your family.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I wear an insulin pump. After four months with it, my glycosylated hemoglobin level dropped from 9.2 to 6.1.

DEAR READER — The fasting blood sugar test is an accurate determination of blood sugar at

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
The late Eugenio Chiaradia was one of the great players of all time. At the start of the era of the famed Italian Blue Team, he was their undisputed leader. His nickname, "The Professor," stems from his actually being a professor of philosophy. Today's deal, from the 1959 European championships, shows declarer Chiaradia at his best.

Three rounds of spades were played by the defense, the Professor trumping in with the ace of hearts. He played the king of hearts and then the 10, which was allowed to hold. A third heart went to the queen of hearts in dummy, picking up the last trump from West. Now it would seem that the contract could be made simply by playing East for the club ace, but the Professor knew better. If East had that card, he surely would have opened the bidding. So he played a diamond to the jack. When that trick had won, he played out all his trumps, leaving the diamond ace, a small diamond and the club jack in dummy. That left declarer with the lone king of diamonds and the K-7 of clubs. What about the defenders?

West did not want to blank his club ace, so he kept only one diamond. East had to keep the diamond queen guarded, so he was down to the club queen alone. Reading the situation, the Professor cashed the diamond king and exited with a low club.

East won the queen and had to give up the game-going trick to the diamond ace in dummy.
