Does Ken Starr know who he is?

RUSS WHITE

Ken Starr knew it was his best chance to get a reaction from Bill Clinton.

The press would be all over the place when the two men went face-to-face. There would be no way the president could hide.

Starr figured he'd hold out his hand, say "Hello, Mr. President," and grin the Ken Starr grin.

Nobody could possibly know how much this meant to Starr. He was proud of the job he was doing, and was well respected by those who really knew him.

It had been a tough grind for Starr and everyone else. Some were working 24 hours without rest. And now, in an hour or so, Bill Clinton would be coming to them. The president, himself.

"This is my moment," Starr told himself.

If he were nervous, it didn't show. Ken Starr had hardly broken a sweat. He was prepared. Here, president, president, president.

Sometimes, man's best plots or plans aren't sufficient.

Ken Starr did not get to hold out his hand, say "Hello, Mr. President, and grin the Ken Starr grin this particular day. The president didn't drop in as planned.

"I wish he had, I really wish he had," said Lt. Ken Starr, a 19-year veteran with the Seminole County Sheriff's Office.

Lt. Starr's meeting with Bill Clinton was supposed to come last spring when the president flew to Florida to inspect the tornado damage. Clinton did a fly over the area but did not touch down at the Seminole County Command Station.

"I asked Sheriff Don Eslinger if he would let me greet the president when he came here," 46-year-old Starr said. "I told him about wanting to see his reaction when I told him I was Ken Starr. I really wanted to meet him."

Starr said he was going to take his wife and two sons to Washington sometime soon and that maybe he would then get to meet the president (provided independent counsel Ken Starr doesn't beat him to the White House).

"I've had some fun and been kidded a lot about my name," Starr said. "People see my sheriff's office car and ask if K. Starr stands for Ken Starr. And we laugh when I say, 'yes.'"

Would the lieutenant change jobs with the other Ken Starr? "In a second," he said.

Winter Springs discusses budget

By Tony Tizzio
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

WINTER SPRINGS - By the request of the city manager, the second public hearing was held at the City of Winter at this week's meeting to adopt the final millage rate, which is the property tax rate and final budget for the fiscal year 1998-99.

Mayor Paul Partyka said that he may veto the budget because of an excess in legal fees. Partyka has ten days to veto the budget.

The city's expenses, in defense of the suit, were brought forth by Partyka. These fees can potentially be $30,000.

City Commissioner and Vice Mayor Cindy Gennell said the budget for the city represents six months of work for staff members.

"That culminates in the final budget," Gennell said.

The city's budget process involves several steps. It first goes to city staff. After the staff reviews the budget, the Commission reviews the document and incorporates changes. The Finance Director Harry Martin and City Manager Ron McLemore then prepare the final draft. All during the process, the budget constantly goes under reviews and revisions.

Police chiefs pick different beats

Whitmire: Over and out

By Russ White
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - Dennis Whitmire was an dedicated cop who moved up the ranks from patrolman to deputy chief of police, working 27 years in his hometown.

Friday was his last day on the job. He had lunch with his pals from the Sanford Police Department, shook hands and stepped away from dealing with bad guys and carrying a gun.

At 49, Whitmire has good years ahead of him and a good pension to make him comfortable. The SPD, however, is poorer for his departure. Whatever his assignment, Whitmire served with courage and intensity.

Many say Whitmire was the best traffic/homicide investigator in the county after first wanting to turn down the promotion.

Manning is back in town

LONGWOOD - Greg Manning's back in town. He's back for three or four months, which is too long for some; too little for others.

So much for Manning's retirement plans.

Less than a year after he retired as Longwood's police chief and hid himself in Shorter, Ala., Manning has been called in as acting city administrator. Some are acting as if this is a crime. Others as if he's the man.

Manning, brash as ever, says he could care less what people think. He's back because three of the five on the city commission voted him back. The other two, he says, will have to live with the decision. If they complain, so what?

"It's a give and take world," said 50-year-old Manning, who returns after the city asked city administrator W. Shelton Smith to resign. "I know Longwood and how things are divided," Manning said. "We've created the hatred. It's our biggest fault."

Hurricane relief donation

The Firefighters Charitable Foundation (FCF) announces a $20,000 matching statewide campaign to raise disaster relief funds related to Hurricane Georges. These funds will then be donated to the American Red Cross, an organization which has brought comfort and relief to millions of people whose lives have been disrupted by Hurricane Georges.

Over the past seven years, the FCF, along with its volunteers and contributors, has worked closely with American Red Cross chapters throughout Florida to provide aid to fire victims and to promote fire safety education. "Now, in the face of the terrible devastation created by Hurricane Georges, we must support the

W.H.O. student police academy

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Seminole County Police Athletic League, a Seminole County Sheriff's Office initiative, presents the W.H.O. (we have off) Program's Student Police Academy.

The academy, which will be held weekdays Thursday through Oct. 15 from 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., will include law enforcement concepts and procedures every morning and field trips in the afternoons. Bowling, the movies, skating, and KOPS vs. Kids Olympics are among the tentatively scheduled activities.

The academy will be held at Pal Place, Rosenwald School, 1098 Merritt St., Altamonte Springs. The fee, which includes field trip expenses, is $45. The program is free (not including field trip expenses) to Winwood area (Altamonte Springs) residents. Participants must supply field trip fun money and bagged lunch. Drinks and snacks will be provided.

Crowds go wild over 12th year festival

By Vicki Belluccia
HERALD STAFF WRITER

LAKE MARY — They are in with the in crowd.

The Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts has become a strong tradition in Seminole County over the last 12 years. Supporters of the arts throughout Central Florida and from across the southeastern United States have put the event on their fall calendars for many years.

Co-founder Joanne Lucas-Bourg said she believes the event is one of the premier arts events in Central Florida. Though it is not nearly as old or as established as the Winter Park Arts Festival, the Lake Mary Heathrow event is as well-known and attracts artists of equal caliber.

This year's event, on Oct. 3 and 4 will showcase the works of more than 300 world-renowned artists who produce some of the best work in a variety of media. This year's event includes exhibitors who work in media including water color, pastels (including poster artist Rae Marie), oils and acrylics, sculpture, jewelry, pottery and photography.

"There are going to be some really wonderful items," Lucas-Bourg said.

While many who come to the event are mere browsers (which is fine with all of those who exhibit at the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts) there will be plenty of options for those who want to make an investment in some of the quality pieces that will be for sale at the event.

Lucas-Bourg is quick to point out the Lake Mary Heathrow event is not a craft show. The artists who show off their work are artisans who are among the best in their chosen fields of expression. The original works exhibited at this event are some of the best produced in the art community today.

"We have world renowned artists participating in this event," Lucas-Bourg said. "These are not amateurs."

The organizers of the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts have been working on perfecting the event for more than a decade now and in the 12th annual event they think they have gotten everything right.

There will be a wide variety of foods and drink. There will be student art exhibitions featuring the work of the up and coming artists in Seminole County. Various corporate sponsors will be hosting activities for children and their parents who need a break from all the activities.

"We'll have something for everyone who walks through that gate," Lucas-Bourg promised.

The Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts has been ranked as "one of the best" art festivals in the nation by Sunshine Artist's Magazine. Surveys at past events indicate the visitors come from all over the country, especially the south-east, in order to come to the event.

This year, the event will take place in an all new location at Oval Park, just north of the AAA headquarters along International Parkway in Heathrow. The park itself has never been used for such a festival and a spokesman for property owners Pizzuti Development Inc. is excited about the prospects of hosting this prestigious event.

"We're really looking forward to having this event here," Mark Evans said. "This is going to be great."

POLICE LOG

The following reports were compiled from the Seminole County Sheriff's Office for incidents recorded Oct. 1.

Drugs:

WINTER PARK, Ash Park Loop, 3100 block, Sept. 30, 9:30 p.m. A 26-year-old man, a 25-year-old man and a 23-year-old man were arrested for possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana by Seminole County Sheriff's deputies. The deputies executed a search warrant at their residence and found a small amount of marijuana in the common living area. When they searched the individuals' rooms, they found other drugs as well in one man's possession. He was also charged with possession of various drugs, with the manufacture of GHB and with possession of steroids.

False imprisonment:

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS, Lorraine Drive, 2700 block, Sept. 30, 6:30 a.m. A 33-year-old man and a 19-year-old man were arrested by Altamonte Springs Police for false imprisonment and for simple battery. Police said the men had grabbed an adult and a juvenile female as they walked down the hallway of an apartment building. The men pushed the women into an apartment and began to kiss and fondle them against their will. The women protested and fought and finally got away from the men. In the hallway, they found a security guard who called the police.

Florida House celebrates 25 years

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - On Oct. 29, Florida House will celebrate 25 years of Florida hospitality in the nation's capitol, with a cocktail and hors d'oeuvre reception at the Harry P. Lea Gardens in Orlando, Florida. Phoenix International is the Silver Sponsor for this fund-raising event, which is further supported with financial and in-kind donations by the City of Orlando, AAA Auto Club South, and WLOQ. Among the invited guests are gubernatorial candidates Jeb Bush and Buddy McKay, Senators Bob Graham and Connie Mack, Members of the House of Representatives, State and Local Officials, Mayor Glenda Hood, and Governor and Mrs. Lawton Chiles, who are expected to make an appearance. Guests will enjoy live entertainment, which will be provided once again by the Michael Kramer Trio. Tickets are $50 per person and can be purchased by contacting Cara Warren at (407) 977-6615.

The annual reception is being organized and hosted by the Central Florida Council for Florida House.

"We are thrilled with the response and support of the corporate community as we celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Florida House and are delighted to have the renewed support of AAA and WLOQ," said Billie DiMeaglio, president of the council. "All of our sponsors play an integral role in making the fund-raising event a success, and without them, Florida House would not be able to continue providing the services and programs it currently offers to its patrons."

Founded in 1973 by Rhea Chiles, the Florida House serves as Florida's embassy in Washington, D.C. for business professionals and tourists, and is the first and only of its kind in the nation's capitol. For the business professional, the House serves as an office away from the home office with a variety of amenities including complimentary use of telephone, fax, copy machine, computer, and audio-visual equipment. The private rooms are ideal for business meetings, dinners and receptions. For the vacationing Floridian, the House provides a professional staff to assist with information regarding tours, accommodations, restaurants, attractions, historical landmarks and transportation. Corporations, families, civic clubs, youth groups, schools, churches, and Floridians of all ages visit the Florida House each year.

Florida House is a non-partisan venture and solely supported by private dollars. No state or federal funds have ever been used. Located at 2nd and East Capitol Streets, N., two blocks from the Capitol grounds, across the street from the Supreme Court, and one block from the Library of Congress, Florida House is perfectly positioned to carry out its mission of serving the people of Florida.

Local politician mulls governor's race

By Marva Hawkins

HERALD CORRESPONDENT

SANFORD - At a recent interview about the future of the Sanford area, Commissioner Velma Williams said she is most concerned at this time about the upcoming governor's race.

Williams says she feels that individuals from all walks of life have become more politically astute. As a result, an interesting trend is emerging. Some voters are supporting candidates predicated on their platform rather than whether they are the choice of the party.

"I feel that a large number of citizens from the black community can relate to this because it was just a few months ago that some changed parties to vote for an individual that they felt was the best candidate during the Seminole County Sheriff's race," Williams said.

Williams, along with other concerned democrats as individuals, are supporting candidates Jeb Bush and Frank Brogan, not the Republican party.

The citizens, along with Williams, have had the opportunity to discuss their common concerns and some strategies with the candidates of the Republican party. Williams is concerned with getting federal, state and county funds funneled into the community, mainly for Goldsboro and Georgetown. She named the most pressing programs that the Front Porch Florida Program that Bush would establish in 20 communities across Florida. The governor will identify and develop a specialized Neighborhood Action Plan.

Williams recently spoke with both candidates about the benefits offered to create an office of urban opportunity within the governor's office. This office will serve as a civic switchboard connecting federal and state funding.

"I am reminded of a specialized package of incentives and opportunities that may not otherwise be available, if it wasn't for the Front Porch 20," she said.

Williams and concerned citizens are looking forward to the help for minority business owners. These firms would be money for affordable housing, revitalization of the 13th Street area, storefront outreach vocational and basic skills programs, financial aid for college scholarships for students of our community, community outreach centers for adults and area information, to encourage municipal governments to create impact fee waivers, develop universal standardized certification with the government for minority vendors doing business, priority funding areas, talented ten program for college aid, to ensure latter funding school readiness for disadvantaged children, creating a school readiness coalition, to create and faith and families program that encourages churches in the Front Porch communities to adopt and mentor at least one welfare family, and to create a preventive health and early detection community based organization.

"I feel that we can have a strong economic base and have access to capital," Williams said.

Whitmire

small city with many of the big city problems. Cops who worked Sanford well could probably work anywhere in the country. Whitmire spend a quarter of a century being on call. Others came and left. He stayed. He was a tough team player.

For the past year, the SPD has been under a microscope. First, there was an independent study of the department's effectiveness. Chief Joe Dillard received strong support from Whitmire as he tried to rally the force. Improvement has been noted, particularly in community policing efforts.

When the SPD began to re-structure, Whitmire didn't flinch when he was told his assistant police title was to be scrapped. "Titles don't mean anything," he said. "I know what my duties are and I'll do them."

Sergeant Darrel Presley said Friday that several plans are being studied that would deal with administrative titles at the SPD. He said that the retirements of Whitmire, and Commanders Bill Hasson and Doug Bishop created a wave of new blood at the department. Each of the retirees had 25-plus years of duty.

Seminole County Chief Deputy Sheriff Steve Harriett remembers working with Whitmire as a SPD team in the early 1970s. "Dennis is the same guy he was then," Harriett said. "He hasn't changed anything. He drove himself hard. He was straight to the point. You knew what he wanted."

Harriett said he was amazed at how Whitmire plunged into his duties and into his off-duty hobbies and past times. "Once he took the traffic/homicide investigators job, Dennis really found his forte. For a duty he didn't think he would like, he excelled."

"He had been the same way when he was on motorcycle.

He had nine lives. Twice he had very serious spills but he came back," Harriett said. "He did some slot car racing as a hobby, he fished, he became a photographer and he collected baseball cards. Dennis always had to have the best equipment - the best fishing gear, the best cameras."

Whitmire's departure signifies a major change in the SPD, Harriett said. "He - like myself, Bill Hasson and others - were new to the force in the 1970s. New officers are coming in now, and they'll be good. Still, losing Dennis means losing experience, knowledge and history. He takes that with him."

Manning

Manning down, get him out of office. On one occasion, he said, nearly 80 percent of the residents voted to keep him as police chief. "I had the support from where it counted, from the people and those who worked on the force," Manning said.

Manning admits he creates controversies by opening his mouth too much. "I make some people very angry. I don't take threats or allegations lightly. I could have moved on but I wanted to go when I wanted to go. I became the first person to really retire from the city," he said.

"We had city managers come and go. A dozen of them," Manning said. "I liked Shelton Smith. But I don't think he was conditioned for what was ahead."

"What's in the temp job for Manning? Some nice paychecks, enough to help him buy a new tractor for his five-acre farm in Shorter, Ala., he said.

"You can say that I'm being bought for a tractor," he said. "A little something to go with my retirement pay."

Manning said that he worked a few weeks at a Home Depot in Shorter. "Any man would like to work in a place like that. I earned $9 an hour. When they asked me to take computer classes, I balked. Pretty soon after that, I was out of Home Depot."

As for the reporter who said Shorter was a one, red-light town, Manning said there was no red light.

"We have one-stop sign," he said. There is a dog track in town but he said most people drive 2 1/2 hours to Biloxi, Miss., to gamble.

The first thing Manning did upon getting back to Longwood, was tell the 140 city employees that he was stopping all memos and E-mail.

"We'll do things face-to-face," he said. "I believe in keeping every simple. These new machines don't do anything for me. You can take E-mail and everything like it. I want to see communication skills."

"Working here means dealing in a lot of personalities," he said. "It's always been like that. You better be able to bob and weave. Politics is a big game in Longwood. It may be a little town but it has big time politics."

Manning said his wife, Faye, wasn't all the keen on his taking the manager's job in Longwood even if it is just for awhile. "She's not fond of it," he said. "She tried to talk me out of it."

Longwood doesn't need any more controversy

Greg Manning has enemies in all the right places and he makes no secret of his intentions to attack problems facing the city head-on.

He's exactly what Longwood needs and doesn't need. We don't necessarily agree with the two city commissioners who didn't want him to be the acting city administrator. And neither do we agree with the three who insisted the former police chief get the assignment. One thing we do agree with, however, is that Manning is controversial.

Why create another war? Why not let someone less controversial come in for a few months? Someone who would do a good job without ruffling too many feathers. Surely, there is such a someone.

For nearly a quarter of a century, Manning fought the bad guys and the good guys as Longwood Police Chief. His survival ranks among the greatest feats in modern political warfare. He was the cop the city couldn't stop. The harder it tried, the longer he stayed.

In the past week as interim city administrator, Manning has already instituted changes in the city and has plans for more. The less bureaucracy the better, he says. Too many department heads and too many groups causing a lack in communication, he says. Manning's goal is to get as much done as possible in the next 120 days, the duration of his contract. He has no desire to stay beyond that time. He has no interest in a permanent position with the city and wants to be back home, in Alabama, by Christmas.

The next three or four months are going to be a challenge. Manning's the straw the causes the stir in Longwood. The biggest issue all summer was over giving away a key to the city. Now we're dealing with the city walls.

Longwood has gone through six city administrators in the past decade. Anyone who attends the city council meetings can feel the tension in City Hall as the many factions and "personalities" debate, over what is and what isn't getting done and who is to blame.

W. Shelton Smith, the city's last administrator took the fall this last time, when he was asked to resign. Smith, described by those who knew him as a "nice guy," just could not do the job, three commissioners said. Too many projects had fallen behind and he did not communicate with the commission in an effective manner, they said.

Maybe so, but Smith did not deserve to be dismissed in this manner, particularly after his most recent evaluation by one of the commissioners, who supported his dismissal, gave the former city administrator a high rating.

There is no doubt, there are problems in Longwood and some changes are long overdue. However, by trying to change too many things too quickly, Manning may be causing future headaches for the next city administrator.

Longwood needs to look deeper into the reasons why it can't function effectively and to the residents' best interests. With a little more cooperation and little less power struggling, maybe the city can work together and hold on to its next city administrator.

Freedom of the press is difficult in this society

"It is very difficult to have a free, fair, and honest press anywhere in the world...As a rule, papers are largely supported by advertising, and that immediately gives the advertisers a certain hold over the medium which they use." (Eleanor Roosevelt)

Freedom of the press and democracy go hand in hand. We cannot have democracy without freedom of press; nor can we have freedom of the press without democracy.

Do we have a "free, fair, and honest press" in Orlando? Do we have a democracy? Do the newspapers represent the people or do they represent the advertisers-the developer's, builders, lawyers and big businesses? Do politicians represent the people or are they "owned" by special interests?

Why does the press and the government "wait until disaster strikes" before doing anything? The recent wildfires in Florida could have been a lot less severe if they hadn't been underestimated and also if controlled burning would have been practiced. Why wasn't the public informed sooner about the tourist robberies and rapes which started last January? Could it be because this might give Orlando a bad name and deter tourists from visiting? Only after deadly tornadoes struck in the Orlando area did mobile home safety become a big issue. How long had the government known that portable classrooms are unsafe? When did the press become aware that our storm water systems are "broken" and that many of our FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency) maps are based on information which is from 10-40 years old, even though they are stamped with a current date? How can government allow building to continue when it cost hundreds of millions of dollars to fix our present storm water problems? How many homes will be lost from flooding as a result? Is the press aware that government "tells" consultants, hired for a study, what results they are to find? What does government have to hide when papers disappear from files? Why is enforcement weak when rules and laws are broken by builders and developers? Who runs the government and the press? Is it the people or "special interests"?

For the past four years I have "watched government in action." As a retired military wife I had not been involved in local government issues. That all changed when I saw what development was doing to my neighborhood. I started asking "why" these things were happening. In my search for the truth, I spoke to hundreds of people, went to countless meetings, read studies, visited politicians, and wrote numerous letters. I also sent everything that I had written to the press. What I discovered shocked me. At city council and county commissioner meetings our elected officials were not listening to the people--they were doing what the developers and lawyers wanted. Most decisions meant more crowded schools, inadequate roads and storm water systems. When I saw the politicians campaign contributions I figured out why this was happening. Special interests had, I believe, "bought" our children's potential and took away our quality of life. Not only was our democracy compromised, but also, was the press part of it? Why else would the truth be hidden until some revelation of disaster occurred. I even went to the editor of a local newspaper about flooding issues telling him how much the media could do to bring these important issues to light. I also told him that I believed campaign finance reform was essential to democracy. He said that campaign contributions were, "freedom of speech."

Not all politicians are bad; but what they are doing is wrong. Destroying quality of life, not admitting to the problems they have created and not fixing them is nothing short of criminal.

What is also alarming is that often the press recommends for these politicians to continue in office. We must get good, honest, intelligent people to replace those who have "sold out" to special interests. We must demand a free press and a democracy. After all, America was founded on freedom.

"The liberty of the press is essential to the security of freedom in a state." (John Adams)

Changing voting sites

Dear Mr. Hatton:
I try to read your columns because they provide an interesting view of our community affairs to a Florida "cracker" recently "transplanted" in Sanford.

In regard to changing the voting sites to schools, I would like to share my experience as a voter and former teacher (27 years-Dade County Public Schools).

When a voting precinct was moved to my school, parking became a hazardous exercise for students, parents, teachers, school bus drivers, and voters. The parking lot was not originally built to serve voters. Consequently, they either had to park blocks away or usurp teacher and bus parking spaces. Extra car traffic on voting days meant additional concern to everyone during arrival or departure time of students.

In theory, it may be good for children to observe voting, but the voting machines (or tables) set up in cafeterias or hallways negate the positive by causing extra congestion and displacement or altering of some school activities.

A far more meaningful experience has been practiced by some teachers when students use the media (newspapers, etc.) as learning tools. Students discuss and prepare to assume roles of different candidates; engage in a "mock" election; and compare their results with the actual outcome of the real election.

A personal side - My mother knew a very interesting lady in Hialeah whose last name was Hatton. I think she owned a race horse that raced at Hialeah. She would have been about the age of your grandmother. Are you related to her?

Sincerely,
Sylvia Holcomb

Man looks on appearance ; God judges the heart.

There once was a law-giver named Judge who climbed Prosecution Mountain to receive God's Rules of Law. During his sacred quest, the people below ate, drank and played naked games at a sex orgy. The people celebrated, worshipping a golden fatted calf that Errant, their leader and high priest, created for them from their bountiful possessions--gold jewelry, returns on gold investments and golden parachutes.

Errant took opinion polls of his people's whims so he could fulfill them. He drew a large oval in the dirt and placed there the idol representing the people's new-found faith and adoration. Around the calf's neck he put a sign that read, "Economy and Lust, Stupid!"

When Judge descended with the laws, Errant and his people were offended, especially about laws seven (adultery) and nine (bearing false witness). The people took sides to dispute the laws' interpretations and consequences for disobedience. Some said the laws were too strict, contrary to human needs and behaviors. Others did not believe God expected sex to be confined to marriage nor that anyone should be punished for lying about affairs between consenting adults, whether or not cigars were involved.

"Judge!" one shouted. "Exceptions must be made if an adulterer covers up lies to protect the innocent!" Another proclaimed, "There's a difference between public and private behavior!"

Errant was especially edgy because he liked adultery and often gave false testimony in quotes such as, "I never had sex with that woman." Because polls showed he was popular, Errant boldly confronted Judge: "A leader who can compartmentalize is above the law if he fibs for the good of the governed, if he's embarrassed, if he's a desirable man with sex addictions, or if he lies to maintain foreign and domestic respect."

Soberly, Judge replied, "God is no respecter of persons." He resisted the urge to say what he really was thinking "These are commandment, not suggestions, Stupid!" and "When it comes to laws, one size fits all."

Enraged, Errant demanded loopholes. He suggested adulterers should be guiltless if they got others--a secretary or staff--to cover up lies. He declared keeping silence or telling part of the truth was "legally accurate."

Judge, who knew laws could not be stretched by word parsing or hair-splitting technicalities, again cited words from the book of laws: "Who offends or causes a little one to lose faith, it would be better that a millstone were hanged about his neck and he were drowned in the sea. Who breaks a least commandment and teaches others to, he shall be least in the Kingdom of Heaven."

As Errant bit his lip in frustration, his people declared war. They attacked Judge, calling him an over-reaching smut peddler, out to smear their leader's reputation. They accused him of conspiracy. They said he did not see the big picture and was not proportional. They vowed, in spite of contrary evidence, God would judge law breakers by averaging scores or by grading on the curve.

Tears welled up in Errant's eyes. "I have sinned," he said, "but my people will fight on for me!"

Judge shook his head sadly and murmured, "Man looks on outward appearance; God judges the heart." To Errant he said, "You may hammer nails in a wall by mistake, you may be sorry and pull them out, but you leave holes. Holes must be repaired--plastered over with something suitable to fill the void."

Misunderstanding the words' meaning, Errant's followers rose up mightily against Judge and cried, "Kill the messenger! Away with God's silly laws!"

Silently, Judge dropped the tablet of laws at the feet of a judiciary committee forming nearby. His final words were a thunderous rallying cry to the people, "Who is on the Lord's side?"

After long deliberation, a timid few moved to pick up broken pieces of the Rules of Law and stood on the sidelines, with Judge. The others continued to shout, taunts and to glare defiantly.

In the end, Judge pointed to the idol still standing in the oval drawn in the dirt and said, "Let the false god be ground into gold dust and poured into the people's drinking water."

Eagerly, the people drank it up.

Preservation group labels park literature as "propaganda"

The saying on the stickers would be laughable if it weren't so patently offensive. Recently those who support commercial developments in Fort Mellon Park have begun circulating propaganda which implies that a "yes" vote on the November 3 ballot is a vote in favor of the park. This is a blatant and obvious attempt to deceive, confuse, and manipulate the voters of Sanford. It is one of the oldest of political dirty tricks. It is an attempt to get people to vote for the very thing which they are against. It is also precisely the kind of underhanded tactic we expected from some of those who are backing the commercialization of our park. When faced with the realization that they could not possibly win this referendum based solely upon the merits or total lack thereof of their case, the forces of the special interests chose to play dirty.

The Society for the Preservation of Fort Mellon Park chooses to not play that game. We choose to stick to facts and to trust the good citizens of Sanford to make the decision that is best for our town. Let's examine some of the facts and myths about this important issue.

How was approximately 6 acres on the east end of the park removed from this development proposal?

On May 27, PRA president, secretary, and treasurer Joseph Pacitti addressed a meeting of The Downtown Business Association. Present at this meeting were several members of The Society who questioned Mr. Pacitti at length and challenged the commercial development of our park. In response to this pressure Mr. Pacitti stated that he would leave the easterly 700 feet of the park free of development, cancelling (or merely postponing) his plans for two six-story long-stay hotel towers. In August Henry Sweet and Doug Groseclose met with Mayor Dale and City Manager(s) Simmons and VanderWorp to discuss the language for Ordinance 3432, the referendum ordinance. At the insistence of Groseclose and Sweet the easterly 700 feet of the park was excluded from the property description in this ordinance. Subsequently, when the city government had presented to the Planning & Zoning Commission a recommendation to rezone everything between Sanford and San Juan Avenues, 1st Street and Seminole Boulevard to Commercial Business District, it was Groseclose's testimony that convinced this body to exclude the easterly 700 feet from rezoning. So, the facts are that without the constant and vigilant efforts of the members of The Society the Mayor and his cronies would have proceeded with their plan to develop and do away with the entire park.

Guest Columnists

Doug and Debba Groseclose

What does a "yes" vote, and what does a "no" vote mean on this referendum issue?

This is simple, even though our opponents have intentionally tried to confuse the citizenry. A "yes" vote means you would like to see the ballfields and tennis courts bulldozed, the children's fishing lake filled in, and enormous buildings (larger than the Marriott Hotel and Expo Center in Orlando) built on Fort Mellon Park. A "no" vote means you want Fort Mellon Park to remain a park as it has been for 63 years. A "no" vote does not mean you are against development or progress. It means you are against the destruction of our park.

Why are you people against progress and development?

We are very much for both. We also firmly believe that this project represents neither. This project represents destroying a generations old landmark, the birthright of the people of Sanford. It represents bringing several hundred minimum wage jobs to Sanford and claiming that helps our people. It represents giving corporate welfare to a developer from Philadelphia while the drainage problems of the people in Goldsboro and north Mellonville Avenue continue to be ignored. It means risking the possibility of huge amounts of tax debt to each taxpayer while the incremental revenue realized from the increased tax value of a developed park is funneled back to the developer.

But the city has promised to put $2.3 million into enhancing the remaining park area, right?

A play on words at best. A purposeful distortion of the truth at worst. This money, which is supposed to come from the incremental revenues mentioned above will be spent to build two piers (one at each end of the hotel/convention center), the boardwalk only in front of the hotel/convention center and, to finance improvements in the infrastructure needed to support the development. In other words, this money, our tax money, will be spent on things the developer should pay for himself. In a free market a developer goes into an area, does a feasibility study, then takes his/her chances that their project will succeed. There is no feasibility study and the city is underwriting the developer with corporate welfare so heavily that his risk is minimized.

Why the purposeful deceit by those in favor of commercially developing Fort Mellon Park?

This is a package that is very hard to sell: minimum wage (or below) jobs, corporate welfare for the developer, potentially huge tax debt for every taxpayer in town, ignoring the problems of our citizens while serving every whim of an out of town businessman, and destroying most of our park forever. Desperate people do desperate things, dishonest people do dishonest things. Those who sell snake oil for a living have to resort to every trick imaginable to convince people that the snake oil will cure all their ills, all the while eyeing their victims pocketbook. Watch your pocketbooks Sanford, the snake oil salesmen have begun their pitch.

Failure of man and lack of leadership brings turmoil

From the beginning of time man has been God's idol who God greatly loved and admired, giving his authority to rule and govern his household and be honored in his surroundings for his great works. Man was given authority to rule over his family with regard to love, respect, comfort, to be faithful and consult with them. But behold, man has failed God for the second time.

Man steps are no longer ordered by the Lord; and he is delighted in his way, but rather man has lost his savior and is good for nothing, but to be trotted upon by the feet of women who are taking charge in building of the house. Man has failed God, his family and himself, causing this nation to be crippled and great turmoil upon the nation's head.

Man has placed himself in a sinful mode causing his family to scatter. He has stunk up the earth with his spineless leadership. He has lost control. Man has this world totally unbalanced with women holding up the weight. What few parents that go to school to check on their children when called upon are mostly women. Also for any court proceedings to determine a child's fate are mostly women.

Even in our religious world, women are holding up the banner in all phases. Women have had equality from the foundation of God's creation as helpmates, but man had to go and redefine that, causing more turmoil and destruction. Now we are only being sustained by God's mercy and a woman's faith. (O woman, great is thy faith: be it unto thee even as thou wilt.)

Man has failed God for the second time in his role by the seduction of his own eyes, selfishness, lust and sins that has caused him to be weaker, and now has become so dependent upon woman, he can't find his way back. How can man rule the heavenly things of God when you can't rule the earthly things. Young men are becoming lovers of themselves, carried away in their own lusts, being supported by moms and girlfriends, having no remorse or shame.

Young men plaster the streets with no intent to educate themselves for future manhood/familyhood, making it very difficult to find role models when we don't have role models.

Where I am from, man is honored for his works and role to God. He is not an admission to God. Heaven and earth may pass by, but the word of God will not change for no man. Women have proven themselves to be better leaders. Look at our homes, churches, communities and please, our government. Even though some women are out of control overall, man should be thankful for their faithfulness to God. It would be a great contribution to this country if our so called male leadership would apply godly principles to their decision making rather than the gutless, spineless, drunk, and egotistical attitude that is leading this country in great tribulations.

Often on the account of sin, God sent famines in the land because of mans moral disobedience. Moral laws have taken a back seat in this country with little or no enforcement such as men becoming lovers of themselves, with no male figures to teach them how to wear their clothing. With no self-esteem, they are becoming wiser to the world rather than the light of God and sinning against their own children.

Most men despise a woman's leadership and faith to their role in our society, but they want to dress and act as women. Even in our religious world, men's leadership is like the worlds and therefore women once again holds up the banner in our churches. A woman has proven herself as a leader, denying ungodliness to her household, teacher of good things and sober minded while yet man is constantly falling.

Man can continue to fault and complain, but until the fall of man becomes the rising of men, woe unto you. I come to see a man at variance against his father and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law, and a mans foes shall be they of his own household. Your mission is to accomplish. You are destined to lose.

Lakefront conference center

Much has been said and written about the proposed lakefront conference center and hotel complex. Fortunately, the bottom line is that the registered voters in Sanford will make the decision at the polls on Nov. 3 whether or not most of Ft. Mellon Park will be leased to a developer or all of Ft. Mellon Park will continue to be used by all citizens.

Recently a group calling themselves the "Committee To Promote Conference Center and Hotel" has been formed. Their signs of support for the project have been seen throughout Sanford.

Also, members of the Society For The Preservation Of Ft. Mellon Park have been active in the community by placing "Save Ft. Mellon Park" signs in the community.

A recent (Sept. 27) Seminole Herald article written by Maria Orem, Herald Staff Writer, quotes Lon Howell, chairman of the Committee To Promote The Conference Center, reported contributions from businesses and citizens to his groups political committee.

A list of these contributors has been obtained from Sanford City Hall as authorized by the Freedom of Information Act. These contributors are listed below: $100-Roger

Friends of Tuskawilla

For months now Winter Springs has endured an almost endless series of attacks by a single-issue group of Tuskawilla dissidents with nothing better to do than be disruptive to city progress. People like Harold Scott, Gene Lein, Elen Wicas, Tim Johnson and Wayne Nelson, appear to have nothing better to do with their lives than to continuously demand that their impetuous baseless complaints be seriously entertained. The Tuskawilla Beautification District will not become law for many months, and yet they continue to act as if it is already law, and they know better.

And then there is the mysterious web site for the "Friends of Tuskawilla" which for months now has deliberately spread malicious misinformation about Tuskawilla. The October issue of "Tuskawilla Today" observed that the backers of this web site persist in remaining unidentified while continuing their pattern of misinformation and disinformation concerning the role of the Tuskawilla Beautification District. Whose behind the web site? Who deliberately loads it up with disinformation? Could it be any of those named above? They all deny it. Why is none willing to come forward and take responsibility for what they write? Now at least the public can find out.

The web site is owned by Mr. John Becker and he resides in South Orlando.

Winter Springs budget is trash

If the commission and city accept the proposed budget as publicized on 9/24/98 you people are out of your minds. Why don't you ask the city manager what is he hiding, unless you, as elected officials, have something else up your sleeve?

It won't take too many citizens of Winter Springs to finally realize we have to dump some trash in this City. Any of you that want to take a ride in the garbage truck-I'll pay for your trip.

Oh yes, another considerable monetary procedure has approached this City due to the total lack of proper legal representation. Why don't you ask "Bobbie" or "Ronnie" why your money is being sucked down the drain? Why doesn't the "City" come forth with reality? Your legal representation SUCKS! Get out of present formalities and become once again a part of public responsibilities.

Clinton gang says no

Some of us have been sued, because we owned property that someone else wanted. If a witness lied under oath, and we lost our property, then that would not matter, so long as the lying witness had his own definition of "property rights", would it?

Some of us have been defendants in traffic court, when we have been issued citations or been involved in accidents. If a witness lied under oath, and we lost our driver's license, then that would not matter, so long as the lying witness would have been embarrassed by the truth, would it?

Some of us have even been accused of crimes, of which we were innocent. If a witness lied under oath, and we lost our freedom, then that would not matter, so long as the lying witness did not consider the truth to matter in any "material" way, would it?

Organization has seen many changes

The Center for Independent Living (CIL) has been a Central Florida mainstay for over 20 years. During that time, it has seen a lot of changes; growth, increased population, and the ADA.

We told you about their Second Annual Job Fair For Persons with Disabilities. In today's column, we will give you an overview of the CIL. Started in 1976, the CIL's mission is to "Empower individuals with the resources and skills to live an independent and self-sufficient life."

Described by many as a Cross Disability Facility, it helps people with a wide range of disabilities. CIL has many programs, services and activities for people with various kinds of disabilities, all helping the disabled lead productive lives.

Services include, but are not limited to:

Living Skills Training: Training is given on basic living skills, such as household maintenance, parenting, self-care, budgeting and meal planning. Assistance is provided by peer facilitators. Peer support, by the way, is important in many areas at CIL. Disabled persons can be aided by one-on-one or group counseling.

Transportation: This is provided to disabled individuals as well as group homes and many other areas. These vans and buses are air conditioned and equipped with wheelchair lifts. They take disabled passengers from home to work, school, shopping, education, and social events.

Deaf Services: CIL Executive Director Judith Barrett, says that this is one of the most important aspects of the center. With a multitude of service for the deaf, including social interaction, skills training and sign language interpretation service. This is sometimes needed at public meetings that might have hearing impaired people in the audience.

Other services include: information and referral, individual and family support, sign language classes and advocacy. They are also helpful to the business community. On a fee basis, they help area businesses to understand and comply with the ADA.

The ADA is the Americans with Disabilities Act. They also aid in disability awareness workshops and instruction on how to work with various kinds of disabilities and work with businesses on removing barriers in the workplace.

Don't forget the Second Annual Job Fair For Persons with Disabilities. The event will take place on October 6, from 10:00 a.m. until 12:00 noon at the Winter Park Civic Center. The Civic Center is located at 1050 West Morse Blvd., Winter Park. For more information on CIL's Job Fair, For Persons with Disabilities or any other general information, call (407) 623-1070. For the Fair, ask for someone in the Employment Department. CIL is located at 720 N. Denning Drive, Winter Park, FL 32789.

Brigadoon meets Winter Springs

Winter Springs High School took on an ambitious effort for its first musical play, Brigadoon. There will be a show Saturday night at the school auditorium at 7:30 p.m. The play is about two New Yorkers who stumble upon a strange land in Scotland and learn about the magic of love. However, Brigadoon isn't just any normal Scottish town. Check out Winter Springs and its impressive first musical.

Also, Lyman High School is performing Peter Pan, the hit musical, at 7:30 p.m. Check out some amazing special effects and a review Tuesday in the Seminole Herald.

The ideal solution for aging with dignity.

The difference is . . .

Since 1981, Alternative Living Services has been dedicated to preserving the quality of life and caring for older adults. Our work has provided insight and solutions to meeting the special needs of individuals in our assisted living residences.

At Clare Bridge, individuals with memory impairments such as Alzheimer's disease and other dementias receive specialized assistance in a safe environment. Staff are specially trained to understand and work with the behaviors associated with memory impairment.

At Woven Hearts, older adults continue to live life with choices - their choices. Residents receive individualized assistance with their unscheduled needs 24 hours a day, even as their needs change.

Your loved one can age with dignity and continue to enjoy life as a member of your family and our community at Clare Bridge or Woven Hearts, located in the beautiful Oviedo neighborhood.

Flying academy brings in business to county

By Samantha Mazzotta
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

SANFORD - It's Monday morning at Comair Aviation Academy, and Operations is abuzz with activity. Students and instructors crowd the common areas, nearly all of them laden with books and metal clipboards, some carrying headsets as they prepare to go out and fly. And among the roar of conversation and ringing telephones, several distinctly different languages can be heard.

Aspiring airline pilots from more than 58 countries can be heard here, as well as in the classrooms and computer simulators just across the parking lot, at this unique flying school located at Orlando/Sanford Airport.

"We're one of the largest (flight schools) in the U.S. and the world, and we're right here in Sanford," says Dave Doty, manager of Flying Services for Comair Academy. The accredited school is also one of the few institutions in the world where students can progress from untested beginners to full-fledged commercial airline pilots.

More than 350 full-time students work toward their commercial pilots' licenses on any given day at the academy, alongside many Central Florida residents hoping to qualify to fly private aircraft.

The school opened in 1989 as the privately-owned Airline Aviation Academy, and was taken over a few months later by Comair, a Cincinnati-based commuter airline which also operates the Delta Connection, ferrying passengers into major airports across the U.S.

Comair Academy provides jobs -- from instructors to maintenance techs to administrative personnel -- and pumps money into Sanford and Seminole County's economy, in the form of housing (for students and employees), shopping at local stores, and other activities.

The biggest employer at Sanford Airport, the academy controls 80 percent of the flying traffic.

"We've got over 500 people here at any given time," says Doty. That includes more than 850 professional students, 100 flight instructors, and a small army of administrative and maintenance personnel who keep the school and its aircraft in top running condition.

Earning a pilot's license at Comair isn't cheap. The private pilot certification course, offered through Flying Services to Central Florida residents, includes several hours of flying and classroom time costing $3,400 and taking from six weeks to six months to complete, depending on the student's schedule and dedication. Going all the way, obtaining a commercial pilot's license, is a year-long intensive course that takes the student from private pilot to instructor to multi-engine rated professional pilot.

The price tag? A mere $29,000. But consider that "it's like obtaining a master's degree, or a Ph.D.," Doty says, a professional addition to a personal achievement. And consider that the academy places 98 percent of its graduates with the airlines -- mostly at Comair Airlines, which guarantees graduates an interview.

Providing a complete program for all levels of pilots is unique, Doty says. Most flight schools provide only certain types of qualification, forcing students to move from airport to airport looking for further instruction. Comair Academy is the only school of its kind in the U.S., and probably the world, to provide the full course. It's evidenced by the large number of foreign students attending throughout the year. China East Airlines, state airline for the People's Republic of China, sends groups of candidates through the academy -- 15 currently are studying for their commercial pilots' licenses.

Stig Rasmussen of Sande, Norway, is typical of many academy students taking the full course of instruction. "I checked out other schools first," says the pilot, who is in his sixth month at the academy and has just entered the flight instructor's program. And though he considers Central Florida to be "a bit too different from home, too warm and too flat," he likes the flight school. "It's a good school, a good program."

Other students put their careers on hold for the chance to fly. A year and a half ago, Sebastian Carballo was a third-year medical student in Buenos Aires who always wanted to be a professional pilot. With his father, he began visiting flight schools around the U.S., finally picking Comair Academy.

"It's one of the best places in the world," he says enthusiastically, citing the lower cost of instruction and the completeness of the training as major factors in his decision. "Everything is like the airlines." Now, the 22-year-old is a flight instructor with the academy.

Single engine airplanes, which are used to train future pilots, account for most of the traffic at Orlando Sanford Airport. Comair Aviation offers training at its academy, which is located on site in its own facility.

progressing toward his commercial license.

Students all have access to a range of training devices, from the static display of an aircraft engine in the Learning Resource Center to the computer simulators just a few doors down the hall.

Contained within one large room, the flight simulators range from simple desktop PCs, running simple question-and-answer sessions, to larger computers built into full-size cockpit mock-ups. A simulated flight often presents many more difficulties than actual flights.

"They're much more touchy (than actual aircraft)," Doty explains. "But when a student comes out of the simulator, he flies much better, because he's able to handle a variety of conditions. The simulators build confidence."

Central Florida residents looking to become private pilots are also welcomed at the academy. Flying Services administers this branch of the school, offering flying lessons, ground school, and a discounted Discovery Flight for people who aren't sure that small airplanes are for them.

Doty says a wide range of students come through Flying Services each year, including adults and teenagers from all walks of life. "We have young groups (come in and fly) -- the Explorers, the Civil Air Patrol.

Stig Rasmussen of Sande, Norway studies for his flight instructor certification in Comair Academy's Resource Center.

We even had a flying nun," he laughs.

As he speaks, another group of new students is meeting in the main lobby of Operations, young men from Norway, Argentina, and Ireland. With three languages between them, communication should be difficult. But they are talking already, using their hands to simulate aircraft in flight. No instructors are in sight; they're just enthusiastic about flying.

Watching them, one realizes that the babble of languages throughout the complex are all about the same thing. And knowing that, it isn't difficult to understand why they've come to Sanford and Comair Academy.

There's plenty to see and to do

Special to the Herald

Kim Kitchin to perform

Image 3 recording artist Kim Kitchin will be performing at the grand opening of the Volusia County Fairgrounds and Agricultural Center Oct. 10, and the 6th annual Taste of Altamonte Oct. 12, from 6-9 p.m.

At the fairgrounds, the public is invited to view the new building and grounds from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. along with free refreshments and entertainment by Kim Kitchin and her band at 11:30 a.m. in the Tommy Lawrence Arena.

Kim will perform cuts off of her debut CD "Falling for You". Since her debut, Kim has already shared the stage with country greats Charlie Daniels, Junior Brown, Balise and the Boys, Pam Tillis and Mark Wills. She has even graced the stage at the House of Blues in Orlando. Kim will be the only performer at the fairgrounds event.

More than 30 Orlando area restaurants will be sampling their best, at A Taste of Altamonte, from ice cream and cakes to steak and fine Italian food in Cranes Roost Park located behind the Altamonte Mall.

The Volusia County Fair is scheduled to run Oct. 29 through Nov. 8, during which Kim will also perform Nov. 4. For more information call (407) 639-8797.

Tickets for Taste of Altamonte are $15 for adults and $7.50 for children 12 and under and may be purchased at the gate or in advance by calling (407) 862-5445.

Pumpkin plus

CASSELBERRY - The Community United Methodist Youth Fellowship invites the public to come and share in its annual Pumpkin Patch. Approximately 4,000 pumpkins will arrive on Wednesday, and will be on sale through Oct. 31. An additional 4,000 pumpkins will be arriving later.

In addition to the patch, a fully stocked Pumpkin Store will be available. If it looks like a pumpkin or has anything to do with pumpkins, the store will stock the item. North Carolina homemade jams, jellies and pickles will be for sale. Hand crafted items will also be on display and for sale. From time to time homemade pumpkin pies and other goodies will appear, too.

Each weekday morning, the patch will be filled with preschoolers who will have story time with Grandma Pumpkin. Some 900 children are expected to attend.

For more information call the church office at 831-3777, ext. 204. The patch is located at the Community United Methodist Church, 4921 S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry, 1/2 mile north of the State Road 436 intersection.

Fall band concert

DAYTONA BEACH - The Instrumental Music Department at Daytona Beach Community College will present the Fall Band Concert on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Theater Center, Building 8, 1200 W. International Speedway Blvd. The DBCC Community Concert Band, directed by Douglas Peterson, will be playing tunes which are enjoyed by young and old, such as "Fiddler on the Roof", "Man of La Mancha", and some most remembered Sousa marches.

Featured with the band will be the DBCC Jazz Ensemble, directed by Peter Waldelich playing ballads and blues by some of the country's foremost jazz personalities.

Tickets are $3 and can be purchased in the box office on the day of the show or on Fridays from 11:30 until 2:30 p.m., or one hour prior to curtain time. Anyone with a valid DBCC I.D. card may receive one complimentary ticket for the performance at the box office. For additional information call (904) 254-3042.

Trail events

The Florida Trail Association Central Florida Chapter will hold a meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. at Harry P. Leu Gardens, Camellia Room, 1730 N. Forest (off Corrine Drive), Orlando.

The public is invited to the monthly program meeting to hear a speaker from the Nature Conservancy.

Kim Kitchin

The public is also invited to join the Trail Association for its monthly maintenance hike Saturday at 8:30 a.m. at the Oviedo Shopping Center, in downtown Oviedo. This is a moderate hike. For more information call Wiley Dykes Sr., leader, at 671-8866.

Bach's lunch

ORLANDO - The Cathedral Church of St. Luke presents Bach's Lunch, free mini-concerts by leading local artists, each Thursday at noon. The concerts are followed by a generous luncheon buffet for $5, provided by John Michael Catering.

The October concert schedule includes: Oct. 8-Lisa Ferrigno, violin and Marsha Montgomery, dancer; Oct. 15-Michael Barr, French horn, Jenny Lockington, soprano, and Georgetta Kinschner, piano; Oct. 22-Orlando Regional Police Bagpipe Band; Oct. 29-John Almeida, trumpet and

Register makes call to the bull pen and brings in a winner

OVIEDO Don't bother looking for the name Nick Tenekedes in the Oviedo football program.

He's not on the official roster, either.

As late as halftime of Oviedo's 22-14 season-saving win over Lyman last night, Oviedo fans were wondering who that was in the number 10 jersey that was putting on perhaps the finest effort by any Seminole County quarterback this season.

Word was still trickling down that starter Kenny Starling was battling the flu and that Lions' coach Greg Register had to go to the junior varsity to find a quarterback for the Lions' last gasp at any playoff possibilities.

Tenekedes wasn't exactly new to the Oviedo varsity program.

He put on a varsity jersey for the first time in Monday's loss to Deland but didn't play.

Then, he got the call Friday morning.

His debut calling plays with the varsity didn't come on a practice field in July, it came in front of a large crowd, in a must-win situation in front of the most rabid home fans in the county.

A few hours later, as the Lions walked off the field with their first win, over a month into the season, the sophomore was being called to stand before the team during Register's post-game meeting.

He fulfilled a dream that no Hollywood producer could have scripted.

This time last week, he was a junior varsity quarterback on a 1-2 team.

Now, a week later, he had just completed a 9-13 night, throwing for 142 yards.

His teammates applauded, then the press went after him.

He was nervous, he said, as Register stood by to make sure the sophomore didn't say the wrong thing.

Soon, after he answered some questions, he noticed Oviedo students, family and friends surrounding him. They cheered the new hero who may have saved the season.

It was all too much, but it was a neat story. The kid coming off the bench for the wounded starter and playing the hero role.

Tenekedes is no Rudy. This will probably be his team next year. He clearly has the talent.

But he did what no one else on the Oviedo football team has been able to do this year and that is to just win.

Fall Classic Sanford style Hornets sting Red Raiders in final inning

Special to the Herald

SANFORD In the most memorable moment of day two of the Sanford Invitational Tournament catcher Jason Lange drove a two out pitch deep into the outfield of Rinker-Stenstrom Field to plate the winning run in a dramatic come-from-behind victory for the Orlando Hornets at Historic Sanford Memorial Stadium Friday night.

Joe McCoy had taken the mound for the Central Florida Red Raiders with the bases full and nobody out in the bottom of the seventh inning. He struck out the first two batters he faced before surrendering the game-winning hit, making the final score 6-5.

The Red Raiders led 5-0 after two innings and held that advantage until the Hornets came up with five runs in the bottom of the sixth inning.

In the other 13-and-Under game at Historic Sanford Memorial Stadium, Ormond Beach pitchers Kelley and McClung no-hit the Orlando Outlaws as the Waves won 10-3 in five innings.

In games at Apopka High School, Apopka's own Yard Dogs cruised past the Orlando Storm, 9-2. Dustin Bamberg shut down the Storm for the first five innings, only allowing a run after tripling in the sixth. And Jimmy Mojica singled, doubled, tripled and was the winning pitcher as the Osceola Twisters claimed a 6-2 victory over the Altamonte Springs Flames.

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - What a game.

The brawl that took place at Lake Brantley High School Friday night was all everyone expected it would be.

Seminole traveled to Tom Story Field and the Patriots proved to be rude hosts, handing their guests a 31-14 beating.

Despite the score, the Fighting Seminoles did not go quietly. The Tribe was just overpowered by a loaded team.

"Shhh, don't tell anyone we have weapons," Lake Brantley coach George Clayton joked.

"Actually, we are very flexible this year. We are able to take advantage of the whole offense. We have a triple threat option with the Lions get first win of season

OVIEDO There were a lot of smiles on the faces of the Oviedo football team after Friday night's 22-14 win over Lyman at John Courier Field, but the biggest one belonged to Oviedo coach Greg Register.

The Lions, defending regional qualifiers, came into the game 0-4 and without their starting quarterback, Kenny Starling.

They were getting run over in the first half by a potent Lyman attack that continued to make mistakes at the wrong times, but the Lions came back from a 14-14 tie to pull out the win on a late touchdown.

The win also kept Oviedo in the district

Lake Mary wins Homecoming in style

By Alex Kane
HERALD STAFF WRITER

LAKE MARY Lake Mary had a pleasant Homecoming as it routed Winter Springs 43-7 in a Seminole Athletic Conference contest Friday night at Don T. Reynolds Field.

Lake Mary, a Class 6A team coming off a two week rest, proved to be too much for the Class 3A Bears who playing their second game in five days.

Already leading 7-0, Lake Mary linebacker Kyle Coctia intercepted a Winter Springs pass, and returned it to the Lake Mary 36.

Lake Mary could not convert however, as Rams' quarterback Corey Cooper's pass was intercepted by Winter Springs' Llewelyn Baytopps on a failed screen. Cooper acted quickly, and tackled Baytopps, probably saving a touchdown.

Winter Springs was forced to punt after three plays, but the snap went high, and the Rams' Mike Nunziata tackled the punter.

Two plays later, the Rams scored on a 57-yard touchdown run by Justin Wright. After a missed extra point, Lake Mary led 13-0.

On Winter Springs' next possession, the team again could not start a drive, and after three plays attempted another punt. Another bad snap caused the punter to rush off a punt that his teammates eventually downed for a one-yard punt.

The Rams took over on the Winter Springs 20, and Lawrence Rudolph ran for a touchdown from 15 yards out. Jason Hadley connected with Matt Mergo to score the two-point conversion.

On its next possession, Lake Mary quarterback tossed two consecutive 30-yard passes, the first to John Dole, and the second a diving touchdown catch by Andy Britt. Going into halftime, the Rams led 28-0.

The two teams traded possessions to start the second half, but on Lake Mary's second possession, Lawrence Rudolph strong-armed his way past defenders, scoring on a 45 yard sideline blast. The extra point was good, and Lake Mary led 35-0.

Winter Springs pulled it together at least for one drive in the fourth quarter.

Bears' quarterback Brandon Blake led his team down the field, starting at his own 20 yard line.

Hansen's big play sets tone for Patriots

By Amanda Coho
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — On the first clear night in weeks, the Seminole High School Fighting Seminoles met the Patriots of Lake Brantley on visiting territory.

Lake Brantley set the tone of the whole game in the first three minutes, scoring a touchdown and kicking a field goal.

The Seminoles tried to fight back, gaining possession of the ball and getting a first down at the 45-yard line.

But Patriots defensive lineman Collin Hansen killed the drive, forcing a fumble and recovering the ball to end the threat.

Seminole did later get as close as 17-14, but the play took the momentum away from the Tribe and Lake Brantley never relented, rolling to a 31-14 triumph.

This is Hansen's junior year, and his second year as a member of the varsity. He missed his first year due to an injury, but came back strong his sophomore year.

Like so many other successful players, Hansen had no prior football experience. He did not even play Pop Warner.

"I was too big," explained Hansen.

Hansen is looking towards staying at home in the future. His plans include a trying to make it as a walk on for either the UCF or FSU football team.

"I want to stay close to home," said Hansen. He is still undecided about his major.

As expected after a thrilling win such as the one Friday night, Hansen was satisfied with his team's performance.

"Everyone stepped it up a notch. This is the Junior defensive lineman Collin Hansen made a big fumble recovery to thwart a Seminole threat as Lake Brantley beat the Fighting Seminoles, 31-14, Friday.

tone that we are going to set for the rest of the season."

Seminole came into the game in the bottom half of the top ten in the state of Florida. That prestigious rank added a slight intimidation factor to the adrenaline rush of game day.

However, for Hansen, the win meant more than defeating a ranked team.

"I think we gained respect from the other team and everyone else around," commented Hansen.

Even though Friday night's game was important in the SAC Conference, it is not a district game. Lake Brantley might have clinched the conference title, but they still have a long way to go to claim a state title.

Patriots

quarterback and two talented running backs. I firmly believe that if we can control the line, we can win."

Lake Brantley did both.

With less than two minutes burned off the clock, the Patriots were up 7-0 thanks to the first of two scores by running back Arnold Celeste.

After holding Seminole to another quick three and out, Trey Keeley kicked a field goal to put his team up 10-0.

The 'Noles put together a drive on their next possession until Lake Brantley forced a fumble and Patriot Collin Hansen recovered the ball.

Lake Brantley was unable to capitalize on the turnover, and punted in the beginning of the second quarter, giving Seminole another chance.

On their first play from scrimmage, quarterback Garrett Goldsmith found receiver Julius Francis, who went 97-yards to the end zone. Although Seminole missed the PAT, suddenly it was only down 10-6 and there was a ball game.

Lanter Bush rushed for a 44-yard touchdown on Lake Brantley's next possession and with 5:27 left in the half, the Patriots were again up by 11.

The hosts got the ball back after the Fighting Seminoles punted, but fumbled the ball on the 15 and Mitchell Pickett recovered for the Tribe.

Four plays later Goldsmith scored on a one-yard keeper and then found Willie Bennett for a two-point conversion. Seminole was again within three with the score 17-14.

That was as close as the 'Noles would get.

Lake Brantley score again before the end of the half, on an eight-yard run by Celeste, and took a 24-14 lead into the locker room.

The third quarter began with Lake Brantley on the Seminole 23. The Patriots drove all the way to the nine when the Tribe's Mike Bradley scooped up a fumble and carried it all the way to the end zone.

Unfortunately for the 'Noles, the play was called back due to a penalty and that seemed to take the wind out of Seminole's sails.

The rest of the quarter was eaten up quickly and on its first drive of the fourth period, Lake Brantley scored for the final time when Bush went 18 yards for the score.

"This was a big game for us,"

Lake Brantley quarterback Regan Russell said. "With Seminole being ranked and all everyone thought they were a really big team in the county. Now we're the big team."

While the Seminole players may feel like the season might as well be finished, after a tough loss Monday night to district foe Spruce Creek and then another loss Friday, that is far from the truth.

"We didn't play as well as we wanted to tonight, but whether it is a conference or district game we play to win every night," Seminole coach Jim Worthington said.

"But our season is far from over. We are 1-1 in the district and we have to win our three remaining games in order to have a shot at the state playoffs. We need to work on the fundamentals, get better and come out next week ready to play."

Seminole (3-2) will get a chance to win one of the three remaining Class 5A-District 3 games on Friday night when it travels to Orlando to take on Oak Ridge at 7:30 p.m.

Lake Brantley (5-0) will face Lake Mary at home on Thursday night at 7:30 p.m.

Hudson's attitude helps him become a star for Oviedo

By Amy Quantler
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

OVIEDO — A positive attitude, promotes solid play in football.

Oviedo junior Arvin Hudson has a very positive attitude, towards his team, his school, and himself.

In Friday's Oviedo-Lyman game, Hudson, proved himself to be a true athlete.

Hudson carried for 141 yards, on 16 carries. Hudson also scored a touchdown in the second quarter to put his team up 7-0.

In the third quarter, Hudson scored another touchdown in the third quarter pushing the score to 14-7, Oviedo.

"Tonight, the line worked hard, they opened holes. We worked as a team," Hudson said.

Oviedo plans to work harder in practice, and as the Lions work as a team, their record will improve.

"I really love this team, we have really good people and I could not ask to play for a better team," Hudson said.

Oviedo played well on both sides of the ball. The line blocked well, and the defense worked hard.

The momentum can be kept, through the rest of the season. "If we work hard good things will come," said Hudson.

"Last year Hudson was the junior varsity's main horse. He practices hard, and is our most physical runner," said coach Greg Register.

If he continues to improve, Hudson could dominate SAC defenses next year.

Howell

due to the fact that West Orange is not only in a different district, but also in a different conference than the Silver Hawks.

The Hawks did not seem to have it together last night.

Lake Howell coach Mike Biscaglia said that a team "cannot make the mistakes that [they] made and expect to win."

The Hawks are still in contention for a playoff berth this season, although they have had a rocky start this year.

Lake Howell fumbled on its first possession to start a long evening of football. West Orange capitalized on the mistake with a touchdown and a two-point conversion to take a quick 8-0 lead.

The Silver Hawks regrouped and put together a 57-yard touchdown drive complete with four first downs and a one-yard score by senior Christian DeJesus. The running back scored two touchdowns on the night, but the team missed both attempts at a two-point conversion.

A fumbled punt snap gave West Orange the ball on the 13-yard line and one play later the score was 15-6.

With the score 29-12 late in the first half, it appeared that West Orange and Lake Howell were going to trade touchdowns all night. Until the Hawks were robbed of a beautiful 81-yard touchdown reception by Ricky Streeter, that is. The score was called back due to an illegal motion penalty on the line of scrimmage.

Things just got worse for the Hawks in the second half.

The Warriors came out strong after the break and scored on the opening drive of the third quarter. Lake Howell was unable to do much of anything with its next possession, or any of the other possessions of the half. The Hawks did, however, block an important field goal attempt in the third quarter to keep the score down.

When the night finally ended for the Silver Hawks, no one had much to say. Biscaglia was waiting to look at game film and the players were trying to remember that the game had no effect on their standings in the conference or district.

Lake Howell will have to hit the practice field and ready themselves for a big Class 6A-District 3 match-up with DeLand. That game will take place on Friday night at 7:30 p.m. at Spec Martin Stadium.

IN BRIEF

Baseball playoffs

BOSTON — Manny Ramirez hit two home runs as the Cleveland Indians held off the Boston Red Sox, 4-3, to win Game 3 of their American League Divisional Playoff at Fenway Park Friday afternoon.

The Indians only got five hits off of Brett Saberhagen and two relievers, but four of them left the park. Jim Thome and Kenny Loften also homered for the winner's.

Charles Nagy only gave up one run on two hits and threw just 89 pitches before leaving the game after eight innings.

Mike Jackson came on to pitch the ninth inning for the Indians and gave up a double to Mo Vaughn before Nomar Garciaparra, who drove in the Red Sox' first run with a ground out, homered into the net in left-center.

The Indians now lead the Best-of-Five series 2-games-to-1 and need a win today (4:05 p.m. on FOX 35) or on Sunday in Cleveland.

The winner of the series will go to New York to take on the Yankees in the Best-of-Seven League Championship Series starting Tuesday.

The Yankees withstood a 3-plus hour rain delay to blank the Texas Rangers early Saturday morning.

Paul O'Neill hit a home run leading off the sixth inning to break a 0-0 tie. After an out, Tino Martinez reached on an infield single and Tim Lincecum doubled before rookie-sensation Shane Spencer hit his second home run of the series.

David Cone and two relievers shut down the Rangers, who only scored one run in the three games against the Yankees.

Twice Blake converted on fourth down to keep the drive alive. First, on fourth and one, Blake ran past the line for a 32-yard run. Then, on fourth and 10 from the Lake Mary 14, Blake threw a touchdown pass to Marcus Wiggins. The extra point cut the Lake Mary lead to 35-7.

The score would not remain so close, however, as Lake Mary's Wright scampered for a 70-yard touchdown run. Lawrence Rudolph ran in the two point conversion to make the score 43-7.

Winter Springs took over on its own 27, and kept the ball until time ran out.

"We did terrible," said Winter Springs coach Mick Harris. "We didn't execute at all."

Winter Springs and Lake Mary will both be in action on Thursday night. Winter Springs will duel Lyman at home while Lake Mary will face off against undefeated Lake Brantley in a road game. Both games will start at 7:30 p.m.

What's Up In The NFL..... Week No. 5

SANFORD Here we are in Week Five, and I'm still perfect for the season.

My patented LOCK OF THE WEEK is a staggering 4-0, and my overall selections have been nearly perfect. The sports books in Nevada have filed a civil suit against me claiming, again this year, that I am somehow controlling the outcome of games. Their claims are baseless, and I have instructed my attorneys to file a counter-suit for making the lines too easy for me to exploit.

Last week a number of you felt compelled to let me know that you thought I was crazy for going against KANSAS CITY (-9) in their game at Philadelphia. I told you that the Eagles would play like they hadn't played before and they did!

Thanks to my newly purchased satellite, which the Herald has yet to reimburse me for, I was able to watch the entire game. The Eagles, with Rodney Peete at the helm, took an early lead and had the opportunity to win the game outright. They covered easily and proved once again that the CRYSTAL BALL OF FOOTBALL has an uncanny knack for picking winners.

How accurate are my selections? The Steelers were a three point favorite over my beloved Seahawks last week and, for the first time this season, I made a TOO CLOSE TO CALL call on the game. Final score? The Steelers won the game by exactly three points.

Lesson to be learned? Never force a "play" just because you think it will be a great game. I heeded my own advice and laughed all the way to the bank.

Tampa Bay looked horrendous on Monday Night against Detroit, and the bleeding hasn't stopped at Tony Gaur's place. He loved the game, I liked it but didn't make a "play," and the Bucs failed him.

On the West Coast I'm often referred to as BRADY THE BAND-AID, so today I'll give Tony Gaur a special winner to patch up the wounds Dilfer so cruelly caused.

The Jaguars showed that they are not quite ready to be named A.F.C. champs just yet as they had a difficult time disposing of the Oilers last week. They'll be in the race, but need to find a way to get more production from their offense.

The Dolphins were off last week and look to improve on their perfect record as they travel to New York for a game against the New York Jets. The Bucs have an opportunity to turn the season around as they host the Giants, but if they lose this one look for them to fall to the bottom of the Division for the remainder of the season.

Let's take a look into the CRYSTAL BALL OF FOOTBALL and find some winners.

NEW YORK JETS (-3) VS. MIAMI

What in the world are the bookmakers thinking here? The Jets have no right giving up points whether they're at home or not.

I don't like Jimmy Johnson, but he has proven the Dolphins can run the ball. We all know Marino can throw it.

A spirited effort by the Jets, but the stars aren't perfectly aligned. Dolphins 24, Jets 16.

TAMPA BAY (-3) VS. NEW YORK GIANTS
The Bucs are coming off an embarrassing national television appearance, while the Giants should be ashamed to call themselves professionals.

Dunty and Dilfer win this one or one of them takes a seat. I have a lot of influence at the top of this organization. Bucs 41, Giants 13.

DALLAS (-2) AT WASHINGTON
Wake me up when this one is over. Here we have two teams going nowhere and getting worse. Cowgirls 23, Redskins 1 (Skins may find a way to score less than the League minimum.)

CHICAGO (-1) VS. DETROIT
The Bears continue to have their hearts trampled by the rest of the League. With little or no talent, they have managed to stay in games until the second half.

Today may be their lucky day as the Lions come to town in this Division game. I wouldn't bet it, but I like Chicago in this one. Bears 23, Lions 10.

NEW ENGLAND (-8) AT NEW ORLEANS.
The Saints can't get any respect as they enter this game undefeated.

The Patriots come to Bourbon Street looking to make up some ground in their Division, while Ditka fights to keep his team sober.

I love the Saints, but know they're in for a fight in this one. I can't go against the Vatican, but would advise against the bet. Saints 13, Patriots 12.

INDIANAPOLIS (-1) VS. SAN DIEGO

The poor Colts had the Saints on the run last week until they ended up in overtime. Two highly regarded rookie quarterbacks do battle at the R.C.A. Dome, and I'm going with the Volunteer. Colts 24, Chargers 14.

ARIZONA (-3) VS. OAKLAND
The Cheaters go to the desert looking for a win, and they'll find a rejuvenated Cardinals squad coming off their first win.

I don't think I've ever gone against the Raiders, they were my heroes as a child. TOO CLOSE TO CALL (Or a Raider blowout.)

DENVER (-16) VS. PHILADELPHIA

There is no way I'll take a team giving up this many points, this early in the season. The Eagles will lose, even the guy for the Sentinel knows that, but more than two touchdowns? Stay away from this game, I will. Broncos 31, Eagles 10.

KANSAS CITY (-4) VS. SEATTLE

The Seahawks again find themselves in the game of the week from a spectators point of view. Arrowhead is loud, but not loud enough to distract the BEST offense in the League and one of the better defenses. UPSET SPECIAL! UPSET SPECIAL! Seahawks 27, Chiefs 13.

GREEN BAY (-7) VS. MINNESOTA

The line may seem like it is perfectly set, but it is not. The Packers will roll in this one. The Vikings feel like they are contenders. Favre will let them know that all they are contending for is a Wild Card berth. Packers 31, Vikings 20.

Looks like a great week of football, but be careful, go with a few games and stick with them.

This week I'm going with a garbage game that will yield easy money for anyone bold enough to go with a guy that is 4-0 on the year in his LOCK category.

Take the INDIANAPOLIS COLTS (-1) OVER SAN DIEGO, and start counting your money at kickoff.

The Colts should have a decent crowd at home for cry-baby Ryan Leaf to contend with, and Manning will have the biggest day of his professional career.

Tony Gaur's medicine? Give the points and take TAMPA BAY (-3) OVER NEW YORK GIANTS, the Bucs will thrash this team like you won't believe. Ten minutes into the game it will be brutally apparent that you are on your way to an easy cover.

Keep the faxes (330-1987) and e-mails (brady32405@aol.com) coming. I answer every one.

Have an excellent day watching football, and remember, everything else can wait!

playoff race. "There's always a possibility of a tie," Register said. "We wish we were in the driver's seat like Lake Brantley, but we just have to deal with it."

Running back Alvin Hudson raced for 147 yards and two touchdowns in the biggest game of his Oviedo career, and quarterback Nick Tenekedes, who wore a varsity uniform for the first time in Monday's loss to Deland but didn't play, was 9-for-13 for 141 yards and no interceptions.

Register said he didn't have to change the playbook at all for the sophomore who replaced Starling, the starter who has had the flu all week.

"We have a system here and he followed it on the junior varsity team," Register said. "I wasn't nervous."

For Lyman, it was yet another one that got away. The Greyhounds ran all over Oviedo in the first half, but turnovers and missed opportunities kept Oviedo in the game.

The Greyhounds started off with a 10-yard, 77-yard drive that culminated in quarterback Brian Krause being gang-tackled on fourth-and-goal to kill the drive.

Lyman stopped Oviedo on three plays and reeled off a seven-play drive into field goal range, but the attempt was wide.

That opened the gate for the Lions and they responded. Tenekedes led a drive, while Larry Grayson and Hudson powered the ball downfield.

Tenekedes hit Kevin Quintero on a crossing pattern to put the ball into Lyman territory and Hudson did the rest, bursting 49 yards up the middle for a touchdown to put Lyman up 7-0.

Lyman continued to move the ball, virtually without a passing attack, and capped a 12-play drive with a Kit Kaminski one-yard run to even the score.

That's where it stood at the half, but Oviedo came out strong in the third quarter. Hudson got the bulk of the work and Tenekedes completed three passes on a 10-play drive that culminated in Hudson's second touchdown, a one-yard run.

Lyman's special team's took advantage of a fumbled snap on an Oviedo punt and Jose Gonzalez returned the fumble 51 yards to even the game at 14.

Early in the fourth quarter, Oviedo took the lead for good. The Lions recovered a fumble at the Lyman 38 and Grayson and Hudson alternated runs on the six-play drive. Grayson went in from the 11 and Oviedo missed the extra point, but Lyman was called for roughing the kicker.

The Lions capitalized and Hudson ran in a two-point conversion.

Once again, the Greyhounds suffered a loss when they could have won.

"We had the opportunities again," Baker said. "We should have come up with scores and we just need to find a way."

Lyman lost two-way standout Asa Cleveland in the fourth quarter when he was injured on a fumble recovery. He temporarily lost feeling below his neck and was carried off the field on a stretcher, but Baker said Cleveland had recovered some feeling and is expected to be okay.

The Lions host Gulf Breeze Thursday in a game scheduled last week. Gulf Breeze was set to play a Central Florida team last week when the game was canceled due to Hurricane Georges. Oviedo had an opening so the match was made for 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Lyman travels to conference foe Winter Springs at 7:30 p.m., also on Thursday.

He did it despite an attacking Lyman defense that pressured him but only nailed him once.

There were no interceptions, no stupid passes.

He also didn't make any mistakes. No fumbled snaps, no miscues on handoffs.

He played like a veteran when his team needed him.

Register, in fact, was so confident, he didn't even reduce the playbook for the new quarterback.

Neither Register nor Tenekedes wanted to discuss a quarterback controversy. They were having too much fun.

"I can't describe this," Tenekedes said. "I just always wanted to play varsity. I had a lot of help from the offensive line and I feel great."

So do a lot of Oviedo fans.

Da' Bomb!

What's up in and out of the classrooms of Seminole County

4B • Seminole Herald, Sanford, Florida • Sunday, October 4, 1998

Da' Bomb hears all...

Da Bomb sez awesome, awesome, awesome job by the Winter Springs drama department for its presentation of Brigadoon Thursday. They'll be dom' it again Saturday night so don't miss another shot.

If you don't head for Winter Springs, Da Bomb sez truck on over to Lyman tonight for Peter Pan. Principal Momary sez the special effects are great and it's worth checkin' out.

Speakin' of the Winter Springs play, Da Bomb has a question: In the play program, one of the characters wrote, "Remember, you can not light a porcupine on fire and throw it behind the barn, and expect to make licorice." Can someone explain that?

Remember to check out the Oviedo fall carnival Oct. 29-Nov. 1. Da Bomb went last year and it was great.

Da Bomb loves checkin' out sports, especially volleyball, but how come every varsity game starts either way before or way after it's supposed to? I know, I know, jayvee and freshmen, but we're just whinin' a bit.

Da Bomb sez there aren't many schools that treat their seniors as well as they do at Oviedo.

Great job by the Jackson Heights Middle Schools band at the Oviedo football game Friday. They blended in great with the high schoolers. Da Bomb sez it was one of the best halftime shows of the year.

Congrats to Lake Mary for having the homecoming ride around the field Friday night after missing it last year due to the rain. Da Bomb knows Saturday's dance should be great.

All Souls has new world of discovery

By Jeff Berlinicke
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

At All Souls Catholic School, science classes were, well, a little boring.

Compared to this school year.

All Souls set up a science laboratory for its students and the kids say that the hands-on experience this year has given them a new interest in science.

Anne Sentiff, a first-year teacher at All Souls, has been designing experiments for her students all year and the enthusiasm has been great.

"She makes it interesting and our grades have gone way up," said eighth-grader Kathy Call.

Every student in the school gets a chance to participate at least one day a week, but the eighth-graders work there every day. Thursday, they were identifying substances based on data they had learned. In two weeks they will try to match unidentified elements with the ones they already have.

Other classes are also on current projects. Seventh-graders are doing frog dissection, second-graders are learning chromatology and third-graders are doing projects involving the sun.

For the students, it's been a pleasant change.

"Last year all we ever got to do was book work," Michael Naste said.

The kids also enjoy getting to do the experiments themselves and that their teacher trusts them.

"She supervises us to make sure we're doing everything right, but she lets us do it ourselves. It's more fun than just reading out of a book and we get to learn a lot more," Angelica Medina said.

David D'Alessandro added that it will prepare him better for the future.

We learn to balance equations and that helps us with our future jobs," he said.

Along with the lab, eight computers have been added to enhance the school's technology. More changes are planned in the future as All Souls prepares to update its Early Childhood Center.

Souls prepares to update its Early Childhood Center. For now, though, the school is proud of its science lab. "The kids love it here," Sentiff said. "It's all new stuff to them. They are all working so much harder now that they have a lab."

Thumbs Up!!

Cadet Ensign Maurice Cation was named basic drill team commander for the Oviedo High NJROTC program.

Angela Snow, daughter of Herman and Judy Snow, and a graduate of Lake Mary High School, was named the recipient of the first ever Read Athletic Scholarship Award by Kent State University. The award is for student-athletes in need of summer school tuition scholarships of fifth-year aid to complete a degree.

Scott Allen Workman, of Altamonte Springs, graduated from Oklahoma State University with a B.S. in Fire Protection and Safety after the summer semester.

The Lake Brantley Dancers won first place for their home routine at the annual NCA Danz Camp at Rollins College. They were also honored with first place overall in team dance and four dancers were awarded title of All-America: Kathryn Baker, Christine Drohan, Mandy Humphrey and Dayna Wolek. Team captain Wendy Heinzelman won the Drill Down competition.

The Oviedo High Peer Counseling program, working with "Project Success" is off to a fine start thanks to seniors Frankie Stratton, Steve Foreman, John Roth, Ryan Hawk, Dusty Holloway, Greg Blanner, Jamie Kiley, Kristin Calhoun, Sarah McCleary, Danny Miller and Crystal Mauler.

Robert Petruzzelli, son of Carl and Lorrie Petruzzelli of Lake Mary, was named to the Who's Who Among American High School Students.

William R. Torrey, son of William and Kathleen Torrey of Winter Springs, was named to the position of Brigade Adjutant Officer, one of the highest positions in the chain of cadets at the United States Military Academy.

Anthony Bravo, son of Carmine Bravo of Longwood and Jeannie Cahill of Kissimmee, was named to the Dean's List at Virginia Military Institute. He was also inducted into the Phi Eta Sigma Honor Society and is a letterman on the wrestling team.

He is a graduate of Lake Mary High School.

Debbie Burr, of Sanford, has enlisted as a Peace Corps volunteer and is stationed in Paraguay. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shepard Burr of Sanford.

The Lion's Tale, the student newspaper of Oviedo High School, was honored with an All-America rating from the National Press Association for the 1997-98 school year. Earning 3,610 out of a possible 4,000 points, the paper took the award for the second straight year.

Jessica Marie Andrews, daughter of Mary Lou and Daniel Andrews of Oviedo, was named to the Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Oviedo High students Todd Spasiani, Chris Ballester, Bill Dougherty, Chris Euba, Ben Wilde, Billy Rodgers, Michelle Strobridge, Christina Callin and Rose Rodriguez recently graduated with honors from Area 7 Leadership Academy, conducted by the Marine Corps Logistic Base in Georgia. All are enrolled in the Oviedo WJROTC program.

Sanford Middle School sixth-grader Jennifer Lyn Mallin has an important message about the dangers of drugs.

Kids: Stay off drugs

By Jennifer Lyn Mallin
SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

Taking drugs is very harmful to your body. Drugs like heroin and cocaine affect your brain and your body. They make you very ill and helpless; you can't even think. Heroin and cocaine are very dangerous drugs. Prescription drugs are also very addictive.

Smoking is very bad for you. Smoking can cause lung cancer and throat cancer and liver problems. Second-hand smoke is very harmful for its

and it could make them very sick.

People should not take drugs or smoke; all they are doing is hurting themselves. Keep drugs out of the reach of children. They are very dangerous and they may think it is candy and eat it and could get very sick. It could also kill them. Keep kids off drugs and stay in school. Don't let drugs rule you. You rule them.

Be hooked on Jesus, not drugs.

Jennifer Lyn Mallin is a sixth-grader at Sanford Middle School.

Seminole ready for Romeo and Juliet

Kim Nelson (left) and Juanica Manning of Seminole High School try out for the school production of Romeo and Juliet slated for later this month.

Your Birthday

Sunday, Oct. 4, 1998

You could be exceptionally lucky with artistic and creative endeavors in the year ahead. If you have any interest in imaginative undertakings, spend some time in this realm.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In joint involvements, don't count on others to do all the spade work today. Things will turn out more to your liking if you're the designer. Libra, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send the required refund form and the required refund form and the required refund form and for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and self-addressed stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your Zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll be in an energetic and industrious mood today, but don't overdo things. Perform tasks that are physically light and leave the tougher chores for another day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today you might be in an extremely talkative mood. However, be careful not to talk about things or people in a critical manner.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is an excellent day to concentrate on domestic financial matters. Whether it be balancing the budget or shopping for household needs, you're sure to win.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Thoughtfulness and tact will generate desirable effects today, but being aggressive and pushy will not. Choose the behavior pattern that gives you the best results.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It may not be obvious but beneficial currents are working for you today. The best part is that it's happening without an ounce of effort.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Dare to be different today. Even be a dreamer if you're so inclined. Your imagination dominates your agenda and positive thoughts will help you succeed.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you want your expectations fulfilled today, you can

How do I count his tricks?

By Phillip Alder

BRIDGE

To end the week, here are some tips on how to count declarer's tricks. Especially in a no-trump contract, if declarer has a suit like K-Q-J-10-x in the dummy and doesn't attack it immediately, assume he has the ace and that five tricks are ready to go. If declarer has shown a balanced hand, dummy holds something like A-Q-10-x-x, and you are sitting over the dummy with two or three low cards, give declarer five tricks. If he has the jack or king, everything is ready to run. And if declarer is missing both those honors, he can take two finesses — with pleasing results for him. Watch partner's signals very closely. If you discard an honor, you are showing a run of touching cards headed by that honor. For example, from Q-J-10, discard the queen. (This assumes, of course, that you can afford to "waste" the honor card for a signal.)

First flight jangles nerves, imagination

By Samantha Mazzotta
OF THE HERALD STAFF

SEBASTIAN Carbajo looks nervously young for a flight instructor, and I can't help but smile as he leads me to our assigned airplane. I'm a nervous wreck, and I want to put my life into his hands. He says, "Don't worry, I'll take care of you."

Sebastian smiles and looks through the tanks at Comair Academy. We are flying a Cessna 172 Skyhawk in the air. Sebastian is the pilot, and I am the passenger. He is a professional pilot, and he is taking me on my first flight.

"You'll be flying it," he says, "you'll be flying it." I look back up. "Am I flying this aircraft?" My instructor says, "Yes, you are." I look at the controls. My instructor says, "Don't worry, I'll take care of you."

Sebastian says, "Don't worry, I'll take care of you." I look at the controls. My instructor says, "Don't worry, I'll take care of you." I look at the controls. My instructor says, "Don't worry, I'll take care of you."

We get into the airplane, next Sebastian taking the right side seat while I pull myself into the left seat and grope for the seat belt. All right, now we continue the pre-flight checks. Sebastian tells me, handing me a laminated sheet of paper with a long checklist printed on it. We move through each item quickly, and I follow his instructions. He turns on electronics, tunes the radio, sets the fuel mixture, and throttle and finally starts the aircraft, just like an auto by turning the key in the ignition. "Clear prop!" I yell out the window to warn anyone in the vicinity. I turn my wrist slightly and hold my breath as the engine coughs, the propeller turns over slowly, then catches and starts to lift. Wind created by the propeller blows back along the fuselage and under the elevators, lifting the tail of the aircraft a few inches so that the little Cessna stands poised on all three wheels, as if waiting to spring into the air.

Sebastian shows me how to push the throttle in to decrease power, then releases the brakes, and guides the airplane out of its parking space and onto the taxiway. He uses the rudder pedals to steer, not the control yoke. He gives me a little time to practice as we taxi out to the runway, but his feet remain on his own pedals to override any mistakes I might make.

We stop just shy of the end of the runway, run through a few more checks, tell the tower what we intend to do, and then roll forward and line up with the center of the Orlando Sanford Airport's broad runway for takeoff.

Throttle up to 2500," Sebastian calls, through the headphone mike, and I pull the large black knob back until the indicator on my left knee sits at 2,500 r.p.m. At the same time Sebastian releases the brakes, and the Cessna rolls gently forward, picking up speed.

We won't have to pull up on the yokes much because we set the nose a little bit high for takeoff," Sebastian tells me, putting down at the trim wheel between us. I don't notice him at first because I'm watching the runway rush toward me and under the aircraft's nose. Faster and faster. He has to tap me on the arm and show me the trim settings.

"As I look down the Cessna suddenly catches the wind and springs into the air, its nose lifting up all on its own. "Agh," I gasp as my stomach drops. There's absolutely no turning back now. We are flying.

"Pretty good, huh?" Sebastian grins. "She took off almost by herself. Look, you don't even have to touch the yoke." He hits his hands off the controls to show that the airplane could climb without assistance.

We climb to 2,000 feet, and level out, pushing the throttle down to a more sedate 1,800 r.p.m.

"Okay, we're gonna try some climbs and turns, and then descend and go back to the airport," the instructor explains. "So go ahead and turn to the northeast, and try to stay at 2,000 feet."

I take the controls, trying to relax. Hey, I know how to do this. I've seen plenty of movies, and commanded a few jet fighter missions on my trusty home computer. Unfortunately, there's no "Quit" button on this flight to save me from mistakes. I turn the yoke gently to the left, gulping as the left wing dips.

"Left yoke, left rudder," Sebastian reminds me. I press forward on the left rudder pedal as I turn. "Watch your altitude," he says. Now I'm pulling slightly back on the yoke while simultaneously turning it, pushing the rudder pedal, watching the altimeter needle tick down below 2,000 feet, and glancing outside to make sure we're not turning into another aircraft's path. "Watch your airspeed!" Now I've got another instrument to watch. "Throttle up just a bit," I release my right hand's death-like grip on the yoke and ease the throttle knob forward. The "NE" mark on the compass creeps toward and meets the center line, and I level the aircraft out.

"You did it," Sebastian grins, "good job." Suddenly, I'm having fun. Granted, I'm still very nervous, but now it's less like stark terror and more like the scary thrill of a roller coaster ride. I set the throttle and trim the nose for level flight, and follow Sebastian's instructions to call in our position to the flight control center. We make a few more turns around the shore of Lake Hartney, each one getting easier for me, then turn and descend toward the airport. By then I've gotten somewhat used to the very different feel of the aircraft and am enjoying the ride, gazing out at the Central Florida landscape below us.

Sebastian Carbajo (in the cockpit, above, and on the wing, right) is one of more than 100 Comair Academy flight instructors available to teach Central Floridians how to fly.

Lightning Stalker at planetarium

Special to the Herald

SANFORD — Seminole County resident David O. Stollings, as the Lightning Stalker Stollings live narration in the Seminole Community College Planetarium will cover 21 years of his lightning photography, all of which was taken right here in Central Florida and mostly in Seminole County. Each photo is accompanied by the Stalker's humorous, and sometimes hair-raising, account of what he went through to capture such a work of art.

The hour-long show will conclude with a seven-minute grand finale of over 100 photos in four cross-labeled projectors, computer-timed to the 1812 and William Tell overtures played over the planetarium's 400-watt surround sound system. Lightning Stalker shows will be presented on Oct. 10, 17 and 24 in the SCC Planetarium. Doors open at 8 p.m. The show begins promptly at 8:30 p.m. Admission is $3 for adults, $1 for seniors and students grades kindergarten through 12. For more information contact the SCC Planetarium at (407) 328-2109.

Medical society is reaching out in many directions

By Debra Wood, R.N.
HERALD CORRESPONDENT

SANFORD — Advocating for patient rights, mentoring high school students interested in medicine and treating people who cannot afford to pay. No, we're not talking about a Marcus Welby rerun — the Seminole County Medical Society does all this and more.

"We're real big on the patients' bill of rights. We work as advocates for patients in the managed-care system," said Dr. Peter Preganz, president of the society. "Our agenda pretty much mirrors the Florida Medical Association."

But in addition to upholding a patient's right to see a specialist, be treated in the emergency room or appeal denials, the local society has taken a special interest in encouraging and guiding youngsters with medical career aspirations. The society awards two scholarships annually to worthy and deserving students.

"We look for people interested in the sciences," Preganz said. "The county medical society is pretty active with the county school board. We have internship programs for students and teachers, especially for students who are interested in health-care professions. We allow them to shadow a practicing physician."

Peter R. Preganz, M.D.

Students who want to observe what doctors really do in the hospital and the office can apply for an internship at their high school. The society also provides physicians to perform school physicals and lecture classes.

Preganz has been president of the 150-member Seminole medical society since January. He is proud of the society's close relationship with the county health department. The two groups are working together to develop Seminole Vision, a strategic plan to meet the community's long-term medical needs.

The society's legislative agenda includes the Florida Kid Care Act, to promote indigent children's access to health care. And the society sponsors a volunteer program to treat people who cannot afford medical care.

"A physician volunteers time to take care of the indigent patients in a systematic manner for free," Preganz said. "They get seen for free in the physician's office [and have] a more traditional patient and physician relationship."

The society also offers information on physician credentials and has a grievance committee to resolve any disputes between a doctor and patient.

In addition to serving as president of the society, Preganz maintains an active anesthesiology and pain-management practice. He treats patients with chronic pain conditions, such as sore backs, sciatica, shingles, arthritis or cancer.

"We look at pain itself as a disease and not just as a manifestation of a disease," Preganz said. "We try to look at it in a multidisciplinary manner."

Preganz uses many different modalities to manage pain depending on the situation, from medications to nerve blocks to devices that interrupt the flow of painful stimuli. To increase the likelihood of successful treatment, he likes to see patients within a couple of months of the pain's onset.

"The sooner you see someone, the more benefit you can be to them," he explained. "Usually what happens, people go to see their primary physician, and if they don't respond to conventional and conservative therapy, then we start looking to get involved."

Preganz stays busy with his pain-management practice and medical society leadership responsibilities. He's very proud of the society's commitment to serving Seminole County and its volunteer program.

"We're really big on that, and we have many physician volunteers who do that," Preganz concluded. "I think [the volunteer program] often goes unrecognized in the community, and I think that [program] is important."

A support group will meet Thursday, from 7:30 until 8 p.m. in the Adult Center at St. Mary Magdalen Catholic Church, 710 Spring Lake Road, Altamonte Springs.

A support group in Lake Mary will meet Oct. 12 from 2 until 3 p.m. at Better Living for Seniors, 1097 Sand Pond Road.

The groups are free. For more information call (407) 628-0088.

Free program offered for depression screening

Special to the Herald

LAKE MARY - Thursday is National Depression Screening Day. Held each year during Mental Illness Awareness Week, the program was developed by Harvard psychiatrist, Dr. Douglas Jacobs. Last year, more than 85,000 people attended screenings at 3,000 sites nationwide. National Depression Screening Day inaugurated the concept of screening for a mental illness when it began in 1991.

Dr. Karen Zarrella

Dr. Karen Zarrella, a licensed psychologist with a practice in Lake Mary, will offer local residents the opportunity to learn about the signs and symptoms of depression/manic-depression, and to participate in a free screening.

Participants who attend the Depression Screening at Dr. Zarrella's office will hear a brief talk on the causes, symptoms, and treatments of depression / manic - depression followed by a short video. Individuals will anonymously complete a written screening test for depression and have the opportunity to discuss the results with Dr. Zarrella. Depression screening tests will be available for assessing children, adolescents, adults, and older adults.

Depression and manic-depression strike more than 17 million Americans each year, according to figures from the National Institute of Mental Health. Fewer than half of them, however, actually seek treatment even though treatment can help 80-90 percent of those affected. Common symptoms of depression include feelings of hopelessness, worthlessness, restlessness and irritability, changes in sleep and appetite, loss of energy and thoughts of death or suicide. Manic-depression includes feelings of euphoria or agitation.

"We hope that this nationwide effort to provide mental health screening for depression/manic-depression will educate the public about the signs and symptoms of these illnesses and encourage those who may be suffering to seek evaluation and treatment," said National Depression Screening Day Project Director, Dr. Douglas Jacobs.

The free program will be held at Dr. Zarrella's office, 3599 West Lake Mary Blvd., Suite B, Lake Mary (in the Driftwood Village). Those interested in participating should call (407) 330-3429 for screening times and further information.

Love Story

The Carvers have had eyes for only each other 74 years

If you think you have a love story to tell, maybe so, but try topping a love match that has endured for 74 years.

Yes, Ethel and John Carver have reached a milestone that very few ever attain. Their once thick hair may now be silver threads among the gold, the years have taken their toll, and their stride is not as wide and springy as it once was. But nothing can dim the twinkle in their sparkling, loving eyes.

In fact, Ethel and John can't remember life without each other. They were each 18 when they were married on Sept. 24, 1924, at the Rev. Roberts' parsonage in Willacoochee, Ga. And they have spent their entire married life in Sanford.

Before they exchanged their marriage vows, John ventured to Sanford in search of work. First Street did not exist and a stable stood where the Greater Sanford of Commerce is located today. The few streets around were brick. John did locate work and traveled back to Georgia for the girl of his dreams. He and his beloved have lived happily ever after in Sanford.

John went to work at the J.K. Smith Barber Shop on June 1, 1924. The shop was located in the rear of Roundhill Anderson's Drug Store where he worked for 20 years clipping the hair of Sanford's most esteemed citizens. He later bought the shop and relocated to 108 S. Park Ave. where he remained until his retirement in 1971. For those counting, John was a Sanford barber for 47 years and is considered a legend among barbers.

Ethel worked for Sanford Naval Air Station before joining the city of Sanford Water Department located at the old city hall on Fulton Street where she was a department head.

Today, the Carvers are each 92 and get around fairly well. They live independently and reflect back on their lives with enthusiasm. Ethel talked about several bustling businesses downtown including drug stores, banks, furniture stores, grocery stores, women's shops, men's stores and hardware stores.

"We had a good town," Ethel said. "It was a big, thriving place." Today, there are more cars, she said, "and this computer age is one of the biggest things."

Although Ethel is legally blind, she enjoys her reading machine and television. She enjoys listening to baseball games and the Atlanta Braves is her favorite team "Being a Georgia cracker, I pull for the Braves," she said. She also lauds baseball greats. Mark

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Brian L. Slanker

Kimberly Harris, Brian L. Slanker exchange vows

LAKE CITY - Kimberly Ann Harris and Brian Leroy Slanker, both of Lake City, were united in holy matrimony July 18, in the First United Methodist Church, Lake City. The Rev. D. Douglas Clewis was the officiating clergyman for the traditional ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Pat and Charlie Miller, Lake City, and Ronnie and Jan Harris, White Springs. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Art Harris of Sanford, and Inez Harris, Lake City, and the late Lonnie Harris.

The bridegroom is the son of Margie and Rufus Ogden and Norma Slanker and the late Leroy Slanker of Lake City. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mershon and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Slanker, all of Lake City.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a candlelight tulle ball style gown highlighted with Venise lace appliques. The fitted off-the-shoulder bodice was fashioned with a beige satin portrait neckline enhanced with Venise lace, pearls and sequins. The cascading cathedral train was accented with a beige satin bow and satin-rolled rosebuds. Her waltz-length veil of imported tulle was secured by a tiara of pearls and sequins. The bride carried a hand-tied bouquet of porcelain roses showered with crystal ribbon.

Natalie Miller of Tampa attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a full-length gown of taupe satin, fashioned along the empire silhouette, with a shimmering sheer overskirt and satin bows at the waistline. She

District officer tells Lake Mary club top 10 excuses why women aren't joiners

Ever wonder why people don't volunteer? Linda Dennis, the guest speaker at the September meeting of the Lake Mary Woman's Club, revealed to the club the top 10 excuses why women don't join the club. Linda is the continuing education chairman for District 7 of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs. She attended the meeting to talk about membership.

And the excuses are: 10. Don't have the time. 9. Not interested in the work or projects offered. 8. Afraid of getting committed to more than they bargained for. 7. Costs are too high. 6. Feel different from others in the group. 5. Don't like people in the group. 4. Feel inadequate or unskilled. 3. Institutional obstacles (work schedules, etc.). 2. Never heard of the GFWC (General Federation of Women's Clubs) or the local club. 1. Haven't been asked.

To increase membership, you have to know how to respond to these excuses, Linda said. You have to know what to say. For instance, for those who say they feel different from others in the group, you say "That's great!" The woman's club's motto is unity and diversity. If everyone felt the same, you wouldn't have the diversity. For those who say they feel inadequate or unskilled, everyone has something to offer, you just have to help them find it. Of course the easiest one to overcome is the first one. Ask more people.

There are over 6,500 federated clubs in the United States. There are also clubs in 20 countries around the world. The general trend in membership has been a reduction, although Central Florida done better than most areas. That's why the goal for the District is to increase membership. Ideally, they hope every member will bring in a new member. Membership Magic is the theme for the membership drive. Special recognition pins will be given to people who bring in a new member between now and December. There will also be a special recognition for current members who bring in 5 new members over the next two years.

Linda brought with her a brochure that is being distributed by the GFWC. It explains the history of the club and what it does. It also lists some of the many accomplishments of the GFWC. For instance, in 1899, GFWC established the national model for juvenile courts. In 1906, they supported the passage of the Pure Food and Drugs Act. In 1938, they supported the first child labor law. In 1944, they first endorsed a resolution supporting equal rights and responsibilities for women. In 1958, they supported equal pay for equal work. In 1988, they instituted a youth suicide prevention program. In addition, GFWC is responsible for the establishment of 75% of America's public libraries.

The Lake Mary Woman's Club has also published a letter to let people know what the local club does. Among other things, the Woman's Club offers support to the Audubon Society, the Hacienda Girls Ranch, Special Olympics, Safehouse of Seminole County and many more. They also provide a scholarship to Seminole Community College for a displaced homemaker every year.

As a final word to the members, Linda asked them to keep detergent in mind when they thought about membership. Using props, she told them to "Turn the Tide on membership loss and Gain new members, be Bold in your attempt to gain new members and when you get one, Cheer for them and remember we're All in this together."

The next meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 28 at the Timucuan Country Club. The Audubon Society will present a program on Birds of Prey. There will also be a Pumpkin Decorating Contest. If you're interested in becoming a member of the Lake Mary Woman's Club, call Ann Kirkendall at 302-9331.

grandparents shared during lean times when they were married.

As the Carvers begin their diamond anniversary year, they are full of hope and optimism. Ethel said the secret to a happy marriage is, "Get up and be thankful you are all right. Think of all the good things to be thankful for."

And incidentally, you had better believe the Carvers would marry each other all over again. Ethel said, "I found what I wanted. I can't remember when we weren't together."

CLUB OPENS YEAR WITH MEMBERSHIP FETE

The Sanford Woman's Club began the season with a membership luncheon on Sept. 23. The annual event was hosted by the board of managers with Viola Frank in charge.

President Bettye D. Smith made a brief presentation to members and prospective members outlining the busy club's accomplishments and goals.

Prospective members attending were: Helen Hamner, Phyllis Senkark, Maxine Eckern and Joan Elinor. The season's first general business meeting and luncheon will be held Oct. 7 at the clubhouse. The business session will begin at 10 a.m., followed by the program and luncheon at noon.

The program, "Why Can't Johnny Read," is being sponsored by the Education Department under the chairmanship of Jane Morgan.

This weekend club members are manning the gates at the Heathrow-Lake Mary Art Festival under the chairmanship of Libby Prevatt. A $1,000.00 scholarship will be presented to a deserving student from the festival association in behalf of the club.

Betty Jack, first vice president, announced the first fundraiser of the season, "Oktoberfest," will be held on Oct. 23, from 4-8 p.m., at the clubhouse. More on this later.

400 ATTEND LIONS SPAGHETTI, BINGO

According to Sam Loper, president of the Sanford Lions Club, the annual Spaghetti Dinner and Bingo attracted more than 400 hungry patrons on Sept. 26 at the Sanford

Civic Center. The newly-formed Lakeside Lions Club co-hosted the event.

"We did very well," Sam said. "We sold all the spaghetti we made."

Drawings were held for tickets to area attractions and several day cruises. Local businesses provided merchandise as bingo prizes. "A fine time was had by all," Sam said.

An added attraction this year was members of Seminole High School's USAF ROTC program bussed the tables and assisted those needing help carrying their food to the tables.

Proceeds from the event will benefit the Lions' sight program.

GRANNY'S ATTIC

Sanford Garden Club recently staged "Granny's Attic," which Fran Morton described as a large garage sale. Members cleaned out their closets and set up tables. As it turned out, at the end of the day, members surprised the club with $150 which they voluntarily donated from their profits.

"We had a real nice day," Fran said. "We made some money we weren't expecting to make."

were matching satin gloves and carried a hand-tied bouquet of mauve silk rosebuds tied with ivory ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Tasha Harris, Candice Lanier, Della Lewis and Amy Slanker. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Katie Gile, flower girl, wore a candlelight satin floor-length gown accented with beige satin rolled rosebuds and bows.

Chris Harris served the bridegroom as best man. Grooms men were Danny King, Alvin Merahon, Steve Nelson and Keith Slanker. The ring bearer was Caleb Harris.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents hosted an outdoor reception at the bridegroom's family farm off Lake Jeffery. The festivities took place under a white party tent with cathedral windows. Programs were presented by Brittney Layton and Lauren Nelson and hostesses were Annette Nelson, Sharon Lyons, June Merahon and Kirsten Slanker.

After a wedding trip to Panama City, the newlyweds are making their home in Lake City where the bride is employed as a registered nurse with Shards of Lake Shore and the bridegroom is employed as an engineering technician at ASC Geoscience Inc.

All in the family are winners when ex-spouses get along

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Kathy in Huntville, Ala.," who complained that her fiancé's ex-wife was too chummy with her fiancé and his family.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

My ex and I have a son. We're both remarried and live in close proximity. Due to joint custody, all four of us parents must communicate on the telephone as well as during drop-offs and pick-ups.

divorce, my sisters, brothers and I would have been crushed. Moreover, it would have given us multiple opportunities to play one of them against the other.

Kathy has no idea how miserable her fiancé's ex-wife could make her life. The ex-wife is trying very hard to be agreeable.

GLAD MY PARENTS STAYED CLOSE IN GEORGIA

DEAR BEEN THERE: That's practical advice from someone who's been in the trenches. I hope "Kathy in Huntville, Ala.," reads it and heads it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband was divorced from his ex-wife 15 years ago. He brought two darling little girls into our relationship.

DEAR ABBY: How can "Kathy in Huntville" resent her husband maintaining amicable contact with his ex-wife?

DEAR FRIENDS VOLUNTEER: If it's getting the job done, then I'm all for it. I have always encouraged people to read, read, read.
