East Florida, lashed nine hours Friday night and today by a hurricane today had a death list estimated at 600 to 1,000 and property damage in excess of $125,000,000. Indications that toll will mount higher on complete survey.

"Playground of America" was a scene of desolation. Pleasure resorts were turned into temporary morgues and hospitals. Tents bearing nurses, doctors, food, medical supplies and tents are arriving in the stricken area. Public office buildings are crowded with refugees. A number injured is placed at 2,000 with 38,000 homeless. Water is knee deep in Miami and Miami Beach public utility services are closed and drinking water is served in half portions.

Water in the Miami vicinity is placed at 804 by W. Owens, general superintendent of the Florida East Coast Railway, with 100 dead at Fort Lauderdale and Moore Haven where 40 women and children were re-drowned.

City is believed washed away. Looting broke out in negro section of Miami last night. Seven suspects were nabbed and 300 special policemen were sworn in for duty. Martial law was ordered at Hollywood. Two hundred special policemen were added to the force.

Hurricane early today was reported centered 50 or 60 miles north of Pensacola where it was expected to strike today. All precautions were reported taken there. The hurricane attained a velocity of 120 miles an hour in a path from Miami north to Fort Lauderdale, roared across Florida and then passed into the Gulf.

Thousands of buildings were wrecked and the countryside is a scene of desolation. Only the brick business blocks and a school house on their original foundations, Dr. Mitchell, said and of small houses had floated blocks from their original foundations.

Responding to urgent appeals for 500 troops "as quickly as possible" from the Sheriff at Miami, Governor John W. Martin dispatched several companies of National guardsmen to the stricken area.

Pullman Company made its entire resources of equipment available, and the American Red Cross offered its full resources. Funds for storm sufferers were being raised in sister cities of Florida and all Red Cross chapters in southern cities were called on to rush supplies.

On virtually every building there were marks from the hurricane. The 18 story Meyer-Kiser building, recently completed at $1,000,000 was seriously damaged. The structure was twisted so badly that it was feared the building would be razed.

RELIEF TRAIN STOPPED NEAR MOORE HAVEN

Const Line Train, Made Up in Sanford, Gets Within Five Miles Of Its Destination; Tracks Inundated by Water

Stricken City Has Ample Supplies Now

Relief Special Leaves City Sunday Night And Reaches Flood Area 8 O'clock Today

The Atlantic Coast Line Railroad's relief train, made up in Sanford last night, was forced to stop within five miles of Moore Haven, its destination, because of inundated tracks, according to relayed messages received here by the train dispatcher's office. The train reached the inundated section at 8 o'clock this morning. Moore Haven, which is on the western shore of Lake Okechobee, is 165 miles from Sanford by railroad.

Motor boats were pressed into service at once to carry the medical, food and clothing supplies to the stricken people. The supplies were ample and volunteer workers sufficient at 10 o'clock this morning, said the message to the train dispatcher's office here.

A total of 375 homeless people had been removed by motor boat and box cars from the stricken area to Sebring up to 8 o'clock this morning, according to railroad advices. More than 150 volunteer workers from Tampa, bound for Moore Haven, were turned back at Palmdale, 16 miles north of Moore Haven. The Atlantic Coast Line wire service to Moore Haven will be re-established this afternoon, the Sanford office was advised.

The relief train included one ice car, two baggage cars, a combination car and two coaches. The special train was made up on instructions from T. R. Albright, general manager of the Atlantic Coast Line with offices in Wilmington, N. C. Radio appeals for help were received in Wilmington from the stricken area, and Mr. Albright wired T. L. Dumas, superintendent of the local division to make preparations.

Mr. Dumas, J. L. Wells, commercial agent of the railroad here, and other rail officials immediately communicated the information to City Commissioners and several prominent men of the city. The appeal for assistance and a description of the havoc wrought by the hurricane, the deaths and suffering of the people were contained in a number of relayed dispatches.

Mounting the fender of an automobile at First Street and Park Avenue in front of the Bell Cafe, Frank P. Forster, president of the First National Bank, addressed the crowd that had already gathered at the corner to hear the latest hurricane news.

"We have received word that these poor people need ice, food, clothing and medical supplies," Mr. Forster said. "I have never known anything like this in all my life in Florida. We want volunteers to canvass First Street."

Volunteers were easily obtained for the main business street, Park, Magnolia and Oak Avenues. They visited homes and stores and asked the ministers to tell their congregations of the catastrophe and the call for help.

MORE—The Florida Power & Light Company's ice department transported to the railroad station sufficient ice to fill one refrigerator car. The Pan Dandy Bread Company made a special order of 800 loaves of bread for the relief of the stricken inhabitants. The train was delayed five minutes to allow the loading of the bread from three trucks. The Phoenix Utility Company voluntarily sent three truck loads of blankets from its big power plant near Lake Monroe.

A number of retail stores were opened to allow the relief committee to obtain necessary supplies. A committee was appointed to visit wholesale houses to purchase food supplies with the first of the funds obtained. The food was sold at wholesale prices and some of it contributed by the wholesalers. Hundreds of people had gathered at the Atlantic Coast Line passenger station to see the relief train off. As the train departed, the crowd dispersed.

The hurricane lasted for about nine hours. During the night the nature of the damage done was principally to signs, shacks in the negro residential section and uprooting of trees. The combined personal property damage will probably reach the $200,000 mark.

There has been looting and cautions have been taken to preclude this. The crop damage, included in the above figures, was principally to the citrus crop but it is believed that many of the trees can be straightened and replanted. NATIONAL RED CROSS RUSHES AID TO FLORIDA

Forces Are Hastily Manned From Score of Sources to Speed to Scenes of Storm In Southern Part of State

Relief Sent After Appeal By Governor

Henry Baker Recalled From Flooded Areas In West to Supervise Work in Florida

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—The nation wide relief machinery of the American Red Cross was carrying aid today to thousands left injured and homeless in the wake of the Florida hurricane. From a score of sources, its hastily marshalled forces sped to the scene of disaster while other units at home were preparing supplies for the devastated Miami area.

The call to action came quickly after Governor John W. Martin in a telephone message from the state executive mansion at Tallahassee had made an urgent appeal for help. He authorized the national Red Cross headquarters here to take charge of all relief work.

Henry M. Baker, national director of disaster relief, was recalled from work in the flooded areas in the west, and is hastening by fast train and airplane to the scene of trouble. Besides, two officials from headquarters here are enroute to aid in the mobilization of the relief units, and Miss Pauline Marshall, of Cleveland who assisted in relief operations after the tornado in northern Ohio in 1924, again has been called into service.

While orders were being issued appeals began coming in from organization workers in Florida cities. Each told a story of disaster and suffering, reported on the work being done and asked for food, medical supplies, clothes, doctors and nurses at once. Officials as yet have not determined upon the amount of money that will be needed to care for those in distress, but it was their opinion that a large amount probably would be required as news from all quarters indicated relief workers must cope with one of the worst disasters of all time on the North American continent.

Governor Martin On Way To Storm Area

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Governor Martin left here by motor at 10:30 o'clock this morning and can be reached in care of Sheriff John Baker of Palm Beach.

The governor says he will get to Miami if he has to walk provided he can be more effective there than in Palm Beach. The St. Augustine Chamber of Commerce met this morning in called mass meeting and offered all relief possible, sending Charles E. Harris, secretary of the chamber as St. Augustine's personal representative to Miami where he will co-operate with Red Cross authorities and let St. Augustine know what is needed in the way of doctors, medical supplies, food, clothing, coffins and financial assistance.

In addition, the war secretary directed that a survey be made of available army surplus stores in the southeastern territory which could be used for relief work in connection with the Florida disaster.

Airplanes, Automobiles And Relief Trains Bring First Word From Stricken Section On Lower East Coast; Property Loss Now Estimated To Be About $150,000,000

Red Cross Establishes Relief Stations As Trains Arrive With Needed Supplies

Scores Of Refugees Leave Miami By Air Identification Of Dead Proceeds Slowly As Authorities Begin Patrol Of Streets

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Estimates ranging from 600 to 1,500 dead prevailed in the Miami disaster area this morning as first contact with the outside world was established by airplane, automobile and relief trains. The damage was estimated at $150,000,000.

In the Miami storm disaster area included Hollywood, Lauderdale, Rodlands, Moore Haven and Clewiston. Little contact with these places had been established because of continued severe winds and barred traffic. Because of continued severe winds, airplanes were reported as wary of attempting to land in storm area.

Airplanes could not locate any landing places and planes feared the rough and debris-filled water. The American Red Cross had established relief stations throughout the stricken area and the aid of nearby towns and cities was offered.

Relief trains from West Palm Beach have arrived, bringing additional physicians, trained nurses, medical supplies and essential foods.

Scores of automobiles were leaving here hourly with passengers, for the most part families with children for whose health there was concern due to the scarcity of milk and the lack of proper sanitary facilities.

Identification of the dead in the various sections was proceeding slowly as search continued for additional bodies. City Manager F. H. Wharton of Miami has ordered all persons from the city's streets unless they are in search of relatives, attempting to identify the dead or are assisting in relief work.

Profiteering has been banned under another proclamation of Wharton. It provides that no prices may be charged in excess of those prevailing September 18, the day following the storm. Violators will suffer confiscation of their supplies, a heavy fine and imprisonment.

Miami, society's winter city of pleasure, which was turned into a city of terror and suffering by the devastating force of the tropical hurricane Saturday, first came to national attention with the completion of the Florida East Coast line by Henry M. Flagler.

Flagler's Royal Palm Hotel became famous as the meeting place in Miami of northern society and was a late dispatches from the stricken city told of the uniqueness of this old structure, which of late years, had retained popularity with winter guests.

The development of Miami Beach several years ago by Carl G. Fisher, Indianapolis, started the first rush of tourists to Miami, and the city's popularity as a winter resort has of late years threatened to outstrip Palm Beach. Real estate activity in Florida in the last few years has seen the pouring of millions of dollars into development townships and subdivisions along the sixty mile coastline between Miami and West Palm Beach. A notable example of the latter, is the city of Hollywood, located miles north of Miami, which in five years sprung from mangrove swamp into a community of 15,000 persons.

Dania, mentioned in news dispatches as having sustained heavy loss, is situated two miles north of Hollywood within the corporate limits of the latter city. Fort Lauderdale, a city of 25,000 population lies 26 miles north of Miami.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. Sept. 20.—(AP)—As the hurricane broke over the devastated area of southern Florida, revised estimates placed the number of dead from the hurricane at approximately 800, with 360 actually known to have perished, hundreds injured and scores of millions of dollars in property laid in ruins.

West Palm Beach received its first injured patients today when George Stein and E. J. Sims, both of Hollywood, were rushed to a local hospital by a fast machine. They were reported in a serious condition.

Dr. W. E. Hendricks, United States Public Health director for this section, today appealed for X-ray equipment to handle more than 800 X-ray cases at Fort Lauderdale. His particular need is a rotary anode X-ray machine, electrical equipment, plaster bandages and splints for setting of fractures, he said.

Opening of schools throughout the storm area was delayed indefinitely. The few school children who were sent southward in the heart of the disaster were converted into hospitals and homes of the stricken. Services from reliable sources were being sent to Miami, but the relief train, which was expected to arrive today, was delayed because of the storm.

Pullman Company To Offer Cars To House Victims Of Hurricane

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—(AP)—The Pullman Company today put at the disposal of the Florida region stricken by storm its entire resources in equipment, supplies and personnel.

Officials here communicated with agents in Atlanta and Jacksonville and before noon a ten car train was ready to carry medical aid and supplies from Jacksonville.

The company asked The Associated Press to convey to the state of Florida and those in control in the storm swept areas that "if Pullman facilities in the southeastern territory are inadequate the resources of the whole service are available."

Sanford National Guardsmen On Duty

Co. D., 124th Infantry and the medical corps, Florida National Guard, which left Sanford late Sunday afternoon are "somewhere" in the devastated area of South Florida late today. No reports have been received here from company officers, although the instructions from the commander of the state's military forces were to proceed to Miami, where martial law is in effect.

Major R. E. Stevens, M. D., was in charge of the medical detachment and Lieut. C. L. Park of the 124th Infantry, the troops left Sanford late Sunday afternoon for Miami.
