An Alarming Situation

Altamonte Worries About The Problem Of False Alarms

Herald Staff Writer

There's an alarming situation in Altamonte Springs, and city officials, area businessmen, residents and police are trying to come to grips with the problem.

Several members of the city's corporate sector say they feel the city's current ordinance governing false alarms is too strict, carrying excessive penalties. Members of the City Commission, on the other hand, are asking for an ordinance with "teeth,"

False alarms are costly to the city, monetarily and with regard to police and community safety, as police "fly off to false alarms," said Commissioner Cheney Colardo at Tuesday night's commission meeting, "Something has to be done to ensure safety and efficiency."

Police could not estimate how much is spent in responding to false alarms, but in December, when the most recent analysis of false alarm responses was made, only three of the 93 alarms activated in the city involved actual crime related incidents.

Because of the increasing number of faise-alarm calls, the commission decided last July to charge businesses and residences for excessive false-alarm calls.

Under the law, businesses and residences that run up more than four false alarms within six months because of system malfunction or employee error are to be fined $250. for each false call in excess of three.

City Manager Jeff Etchberger says that while three businesses have exceeded the three-slarm limit, none has been fined pending possible amendments to the ordinance.

"From October to December, in the two-month trial period, we had about three outfits that got up to the fining point, but no one was fined," Etchberger told the commission Tuesday. "I have had numerous calls from the business community asking that we reconsider the ordinance."

Among those businesses exceeding the lawful amount of false alarms permitted are a department store in the Altamonte Mail, with five; a bank, with 11, and a shoe store, with 4, police say.

Police add that no residence utilizing an alarm system has exceeded the amount permitted by the ordinance. Etchberger said businessmen argue that many of the alarms are activated beyond their control, saying thunder, lightning and other natural elements trigger the electronic make the ordinance; the happier the staff would be." Etchberger presented a comprornise ordinance to the commission Tuesday night that would raise the limit of false calls permitted to five within aix months and after the sixth false call the business or residence would receive a warning. After or seven or more calls, the offender would ployees and customers often open the marked doors and set off the alarms.

The proposed ordinance also provides alarm owners a "credit system" Etchberger said. If the slarm owner had a repair service verify that the alarm was triggered by a malfunction but that the system had been repaired, no penalty would be imposed

"This (proposed) ordinance just doesn't have enough teeth in it to protect the citizens," Mayor Ray Ambrose

"I agree with Mayor Ambrose," said Commissioner Lee Constantine. "Three false alarms in six months is quite enough leeway for anyone."

Commissioners Dudley Bates and Colardo added they could not support the proposed ordinance, saying it is too lenient and does not provide for safety concerns for police answering calls for help that later prove to be false. Etchberger said one advantage of the ordinance is that many businesses are securing contracts with their respective alarm companies to repair and maintain the

"Many businesses are doing this now," he said. "It costs them money, but they call the company and have it come out and correct the problem."

Etchberger also suggested that the commission consider requiring businesses to have their alarms connected directly to an alarm company instead of to the police communications center. With such a system, if an alarm is sounded the alarm company would be responsible for checking the validity of the alarm, and if it is determined to be an emergency, police would be called.

"There would be some delay in responding to the alarm." Etchberger said, if such a system is implemented. "But we currently operate during business and daylight hours in a similar way. We call the residence or business to verify whether it is a false alarm. After normal working or daylight hours, we respond immediately."

Etchberger said he feels response rates would improve with the implementation of such a screening alarmcompany system, because if police receive fewer alarms and a higher percentage of those calls are actual emergencies, police time is being more efficiently and effectively utilized.

The commission directed Etchberger to research the possibility of such a system and discuss it with business leaders for their input. Eichberger is expected to provide additional information about the alarm-company screening alternative at a commission work session in April.

In addition, Casselberry currently is developing an ordinance that would set penalties for excessive false alarms. Casselberry Police Chief Fred McGowan said he is proposing a penalty of $50 for the fourth false call, escalating that fee by $25 for each additioinal false alarm. The proposal currently is being reviewed by City Altorney Kenneth McIntosh.

Foam Insulation Could Be Hazardous To Your Health

Turn the lights off. Close the doors. Shut the windows. Make all your stops on one trip. Weatherstrip and insulate. Conserve, conserve, conserve.

Americans have heard the call for energy conservation repeatedly over the last decade. And they've heeded the call. A considerable drop in the price of gasoline in recent weeks is just one indication that the nation has indeed embraced the idea of both saving energy and increasing dollars spent to purchase that energy.

One popular form of energy conservation in the last decade, however the addition or initial construction use of blown-in wall insulation foam containing urea formaldehyde - has come under the scrutiny of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC).

So much so, in fact, that earlier this month the CPSC proposed a ban on the use of urea formaldehyde foam insulation (UFFI) in homes and schools.

In its proposed ban, which is not expected to become effective until August, the CPSC cites a variety of health risks associated with the leakage of formaldehyde gases into living quarters.

The CPSC report indicates UFFI has caused some persons to experience symptoms such as eye, nose and throat irritation, persistent cough, respiratory distress, akin irritation, nausea, headaches and dizziness. The severity of these illnesses varies from short-term discomfort to serious impairment.

The report goes on to say that some persons have been hospitalized, primarily for respiratory problems. In some cases, chronic respiratory problems (such as asthma) have resulted from exposure to formaldehyde gas, and existing respiratory illnesses have been made worse by the exposure. Under test conditions, formaldehyde inhalation has caused cancer in laboratory animals, and formaldehyde inhalation in the home poses a cancer risk to humans.

The CPSC estimates that 500,000 homes in the United States could pose these health hazards because of UFFI.

A check with the Seminole County Health Department reveals that some local residents have experienced problems with UFFI.

Russell Miller, director of environmental health services, says his office has received inquiries from local residents concerning the insulation. "The CPSC has been bouncing around

Puppy Love

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (UPI) - Jesse Coburn and Marie Wetherbee plan to marry next month, finally tying the knot around a case of "puppy love" that persevered over seven decades.

They say it was love at first sight, that first meeting in a Gobies schoolyard in 1912, even though Coburn, now 23, was only 13 and Marie a year younger.

But fate matched Coburn away from his sweetheart, forcing him to move with his family to North Dakota. Both lived their own lives for 69 years.

"I want the insulation tested. It's just one of those things. We have a threeyear-old and a seven-year-old child in the house, and of course we're concerned about the possible effects on their health over a long period of time," he added. While the PSCS's proposed ban on UFFI won't take effect until the fall, if approved, the agency's findings have been challenged. The National Insulation Certification Institution has charged the CPSC staff

On the other hand, the United Auto Workers, along with 14 other major labor organizations, has criticized both the U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for an maldehyde problem.

UAW's health and safety director, Franklin Mirer, has written to OSHA expressing the UAW's concern. Mirer says the UAW remains convinced that current evidence on formaldehyde calls for immediate and protective action for workers who could be affected by ex-

Hattaway Reports:

It's A Stalemate On Redistricting

Herald Stall Writer

It will probably be at least two more weeks before the Florida Legislature winds up its business for 1982. And questions of reapportionment probably will be left unanswered, said State Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs,

"We (the House and Senate) are in a stalemate on redistricting," Hattaway said. The final result may be that the state Supreme Court will draw district lines for both the House and Senate, he

And congressional redistricting may go unresolved until after the November elections. Hattaway said.

He noted that the state's high court cannot provide a congressional redistricting plan. If the Legislature fails to reapportion for congressional seats, Florida's current 15 congressmen will have to run for reelection from the districts they now have. And the candidates for the four new seats Florida receives will have to run at large -

Hattaway said the House was slated Friday to pass the same plan it had originally. That plan, as it affected Seminole County, called for Hattaway's district to include much of Altamente Springs, part of Longwood, most of Lake Mary and most of Sanford.

A district for State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, would include parts of Longwood, and unincorporated Seminole, plus part of Lake County, some of Marion and part of Putnam. A new district, whose Incumbent would be State Rep. Jason Steele, R-Rockledge, would include Winter Springs, the Tuskawilla area, Oviedo, Geneva and into Brevard County.

Hattaway said the Senate passed a plan for the House on Thursday evening that is unacceptable to that body. "The House will not accept it," he said.

Hattaway said the House on Monday alleged lack of action on the for- will take up budget, finance and taxes and the Sunset (expiration) of various state insurance laws. "But we can't possibly get to those things until we get reapportionment out of the way," he said

> On state and congressional reapportionment, Hattaway said the state could well be in the same position it was in the late 1960s when three elections were held before the state elected a Legislature from districts acceptable to the Supreme Court...

He said the Senate congressional plan essentially protects the seats of U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs; U.S. Rep. Bill Chappell, D-Ocala, and U.S. Rep. Bill Nelson, D-Melbourne. "I believe the Senate plan protects those three," Hattaway said, adding that another aspect of the Senate plan creates a convressional seat for Sen. Sherrill. "Pele" Skinner, D-Lake City. "Basically Sen. Jun Scott (R-Fort Lauderdale), Senate minority leader, has drawn the congressional redistricting plan for the Senate," he said. Hattaway said the scuttlebutt around

Tallahassee has it that Senate strongman Dempsey Barron, D-Panama City, and the GOP coalition are pushing a plan to help the Republicans. One of Barron's major contentions has been that the House should agree that who were elected in 1980 should not have to run again until 1964. "It's being said that if Dempsey has to run again this year for reelection to the Senate, he will switch to Republican and those senators - including himself - run for governor," Hattaway said.

He said legislators will be in Tallahassee for at least two more weeks. "We have too many issues to settle We must deal with sales taxes, property taxes and the state budget," he added. And the Senate hasn't addressed issues such as education, transportation and law enforcement, Hattaway said.

To explain the allocation of funds from the proposed one-cent increase - from 4 to 5 cents - Hattaway said Seminole County will receive over $5 million in property-tax relief if the House plan passes. "The county will receive only $2.5 million if the Senate plan is approved," he said.

Sen. Clark Maxwell, R-Melbourne, whose district includes Seminole County, said earlier in the week that the greatest difference between the House and the Senate is not reapportionment but the proposed sales-tax increase.

He said the House bill urges but does not require property-tax relief, with most of the funds going to local government from the sales-tax increase.

Maxwell said the Senste, plan requires that $330 million be used for property-lax relief, $270 million go to the state, and $176 million be shared by county and city governments throughout the state.

Hiatal Hernia? Adjust Life Style

DEAR DR. LAMB - I had an X-ray barium swallow. The doctor said I have a sliding hernia. He also said I should not have an operation. He didn't think I would have trouble with it. But I do have a lot of beartburn and indigestion. I take aspirin four times a day for that. Will the hernia cause me any trouble if I don't have it removed? What should I do?

DEAR READER - If you are having heartburn and indigestion you would be wise to see your doctor again. Taking aspirin is one of the worst things you could do. The same applies to any of the pain-relieving medications that contain acetyl salicyclic acidor other forms of salicylates. The salicylate irritates the stomach lining. It may even cause bleeding in some normal people. No one who has any problem of acidity or heartburn should use these medicines.

That heartburn describe is often caused by a reflux of acid digestive juices from your stomach into your lower esophagus. That area is not covered with a protective mucus lining as your stomach is. In these conditions some people develop ulcers in the lower esophogus and they can bleed. That is usually the source of bleeding in people who have a hiatal hernia through the diaphragm, which is the same thing as a sliding bernia.

Of course, many people have a small hiatal hernia and have no symptoms from it at

An operation to control symptoms for hiatal hernia is seldom needed. Preventing stemach acid or neutralizing it, and a proper life style will relieve any symptoms that do occur in most patients. In addition, an operation does not always cure the reflux even if it corrects the hernia through the diaphragm. The closure mechanism at the top of the stomach may still not work effectively to prevent

DEAR DR. LAMB -Recently when I took a 100 mg tablet of placin within a few minutes my face got bright red and hurt. I felt pins and peedles in my arms and legs. This only lasted a few minutes. I was wondering if you know if this is a normal reaction or if the vitamins are bad

DEAR READER - Niacin is a general term that includes both nicotinic acid and nicotinamide. Both of these have the same vitamin action in the body but only the nicotinic acid causes vascular dilitation and flushing. That is what you are describing. It is a well known reaction to large doses of nicotinic acid.

Niacin prevents pellagra, once a common disorder in people on poor diets primarily of corn meal. Some of the amino acide tryptophan in your diet is converted to niacin. About 60 mg. of dietary tryptophan produces one milligram of niacin.

Large doses of meotime acid have been used to lower cholesterol levels. It is hardly necessary any more because of better medications available for this purpose. And large doses can be harmful. It is not true that if a little is good more is better. More can be downright

The Celtics' streak, longest in team history and third longest in NBA history, began Feb. 24, three days after their previous last loss to Seattle.

The Sixers, who won for the first time at Boston Garden in the regular season since Jan. 21, 1979, stormed to a 28-15 first-quarter lead and avenged a loss a week before at the Spectrum.

Philadelphia opened the second quarter with nine straight points and grabbed a commanding 35-15

Nate Archibald came off the bench to lead Boston with 22 points and eight assists while Kevin McHale had 19 and Robert Parish 18. Hollins added 17 and Mike Bantom 10 for the Sixers.

The victory moved Philadelphia to within 54 games of first-place Boston in the Atlantic Division. Pacers 182, Bulls 181

Less May Mean More For Abby's Monks

DEAR ABBY: I chuckled over the letter from the 68-year-old man whose doctor told him that men die young as a result of being denied sex. Your response stating that the doctor's statement was too simple was certainly correct, but probably an understatement.

In this monastery (where we don't get any at all), the last monk to die was 89; of the last five to die in the last couple of years, four were in their 80s. The fifth, who died at 67, had been a married man with children and had entered the monastery late in life after the death of his

OPEC's Gold: A Buyer's Market

The OPEC oil ministers have gone home from Venna, pledging to cut their production by 700,000 by rreis a day. As they see it, this will dry up the waldwide surplus of oil and end the wave of price-cutting that is threatening their cartel. Before the end of this year OPEC once again will be in a position to dictate uniform prices on an orderly world market.

But there is another scenario which is just as credible. Reducing OPEC production from 18.2 rtillion barrels a day to 17.5 million barrels, according to some experts, is not enough to wipe out the surplus. OPEC members faced with a prolonged decline in oil revenues will find ways to get around the Vienna agreement, exceeding their now production quotas or cutting their prices and thus undermining the strength and unity that a cartel needs to survive.

it would be risky to forecast whether OPEC will indeed be back in the driver's seat by 1983, or whether by then the last rites will have been performed over its end. Suffice it to say that OPEC may need a stronger tonic than the production cutbacks agreed upon at Vienna in order to survive.

What OPEC is counting on is that supply and demand will be coming into balance on the oil market just as the Western industrial countries come out of their recession later this year and enter a period of economic growth increasing their demand for energy. True, economic recovery will put increased demand on fuel inventories, but this does not mean customers will be flocking back to the oil market in numbers that would end OPEC's problems.

For one thing, the 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries new represent less than half of the oil production capacity of the non-Communist world. OPEC emmanded 70 percent of that production a decade ago when it began jacking up prices. Those high prices not only stimulated the development of new oil resources outside the OPEC sphere, but they also triggered a massive shift away from oil to other fuels and proved that the world can get along with a lot less oil than apyone once believed.

Japan has proved that the gross national product of a highly industrialized country can increase while its oil consumption is going down. As much may soon be shown in this country and others. While OPEC may have done major damage to the Western economies with its extortionate oil prices, it has also brought about a change in the harnessing of energy resources.

OPEC cannot throw into reverse the trend to switch from oil to more plentiful coal and natural glas for heating and industrial uses. It cannot call back the gas-guzzlers which motorists have abandoned in favor of more fuel-efficient cars. It cannot undo the investment in nuclear technology which replaces oil with uranium as power plant fuel Oil was king when the OPEC exporters decided in 1972 that $2 a barrel was too low a price. Maybe it was. But the $40 a barrel that some OPEC members were charging by 1979 was more than the king's subjects could abide and they are in revolt.

What is a barrel of oil really worth? Some economists believe $25 a barrel would be a realistic price under today's market conditions. The OPEC strategy adopted at Vienna is to try to sostain a base price of $34 a barrel by limiting production — by restoring a seller's market. It's a buyer's market right now, however, and it may remain a buyer's market for longer than the OPEC ministers would like to believe

The two houses of the Florida Legislature still haven't agreed on congressional districting, but that hasn't deterred Oriando's State Rep. Dick Batchelor in his quest for a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

He had his first campaign fund-raiser Friday with no less a personality in attendance than the Florida's first lady, Adele Graham. The party was held at the Winter Park Virginia Drive home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Swann.

You may remember that Swann was actively involved in President Jimmy Carter's campaign and in the campaigns of many other prominent Democrats over the years.

Depending upon which congressional districting plan wins, Batchelor might have to face U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte

Springs, or U.S. Rep. Billi Nelson D-Melbourne. Batchelor has served eight years in the Florida House.

Talk around this week is that Altamonte

Springs lawyer, Gary Massey, is thinking about running for the Legislature if the House plan reapportioning Seminole County is approved.

reapportioning Seminole County is approved.

The House plan creates a district running through Winter Springs, Oviedo area, Geneva and into Brevard County.

Massey is a Republican.

Winter Springs Mayor Troy Piland is also seriously eyeing that seat. Piland's term as chairman of the Seminole Democratic executive committee expires in April. He will not be seeking another term.

Democratic State Committeeman Bill Wack of the Wekiva area, has been chosen one of Florida's 17 delegates to the national party's 1962 conference to be held June 25-27 in Philadelphia.

Quite an honor, especially when you consider the others who are delegates like Lt. Gov. Wayne Mixson, Secretary of State George Firestone, state Rep. Carrie P. Meek, D-Miami; and Florida AFL-CIO president, Danny Miller. Others to represent Florida at the convention are the state's eight Democratic National Committee members and Gov. Bob Graham.

Wack, who has practiced law in Seminole County for some years, is remembered for the coup he pulled off in 1973 by capturing most of the county's delegates for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachmetts to the state's miniconvention in St. Petersburg.

If you recall the delegates at the convention named their favorite for president. Naturally the winner was Carter.

The Sanford City Commission recently lauded its city manager, W.E "Pete" Knowles for the work he had done on behalf of Sanford and other cities in the state, lobbying the Legislature. He was in Tallahamee for two weeks during the session.

When the Florida League of Cities again asked for his services for a few more days, the City Commission decided Knowles and Sanford had done its part for this year.

Russian Clouds Of Death

The State Department has submitted to Congress a detailed report on a gruesome subject, namely the use of chemical and bacteriological weapons by the Soviet Union against native peoples of Kampuchea, Laos, and Afghanistan. It states that "at a minimum," 6,310 deaths in Laos, 961 in Kampuchea, and 3,042 in Afghanistan are attributable to Soviet chemical attacks.

It's to be hoped that the report will bring to public forums the ghastly evidence of Soviet germ warfare, which has thus far been nearly totally ignored or downplayed by major U.S. press outlets, with some noble exceptions.

For many months, The Wall Street Journal has been covering and commenting on reports of "yellow rain" that falls in remote regions of Southeast Asia, mainly on the homelands of native peoples, such as the limong, who opposed communist forces in Laos. The strange mist caused breathing difficulties, akin irritations, dizziness, coughing of blood, and severe hemorrhaging. Villagers who were openly exposed to the yellow rain often died immediately. Many others suffered agonizing, prolonged illness, usually leading to death.

The chemical agents implicated in the "yellow rain" are not found in nature. They are man-made, as determined in extensive laboratory testing last year. They are directly and indirectly traceable to the Soviet Armed Forces Chemical Corps, members of which have been identified by U.S. intelligence and outside sources in Afghanistan. Soviet Soviet military aircraft, piloted by Russians, have been observed in the mountainous jungle regions of Laos, home of the anti-communist Hmong tribes. Further corroboration of Soviet involvement has come from sources in Thalland, where Thalland U.S. radio monitors have picked up conversations of Russians discussing shipment of chemical agents.

The evidence of Soviet use of chemical weapons in Southeast Asia is not new. A U.S. Army medical team in Thalland was convinced in late 1979 by the chemical evidence which at the time was inconclusive, that the Soviets were involved. The Issue has also been extensively reported on by journalist Sterling Seagrave, in his book, Yellow Ráin, and the The Reader's Digest, ABC News, and of course, the Journal.

In late September, Secretary of State Alexander Haig announced that the United States had evidence that Soviet-manufactured chemical agents had been implicated in samples of residue found on vegetation in the affected areas, Further testing, completed last November, provided grounds for Richard Burt, director of the State Department's Bureau of Politico-Military Affairs, to testify before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that "We now have a smoking gun. We have four separate pieces of evidence. Anyone who conducts his own inquiry will come to the same conclusion we have."

Still, two weeks ago the Washington Post asked, in a peevish editorial, "Where is the evidence?" Mr. Burt replied promptly, detailing chronologically the discovery, testing and release of evidence

Watch Those 'Moderates'

The role of the "moderate" — that is, liberal — Republicans has always been to protect Democratic programs and positions when the Democrats cannot do it all by themselves.

Sen. Robert Packwood is a liberal Republican who is chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, and he recently unleashed a blast at the president which about sums up the liberal Republican

The Republican Party, he complained, was losing support among blacks, women, and other monorities because of Reagan's stand against the Equal Rights Amendment, because of Reagan's policies on busing, and because of his social policies generally.

To top it all off, Packwood complained that Reagan did not seem interested in these issues and 1.2 racked conversation with irrelevant anecdotes. Some who heard Packwood thought he was implying that Reagan is senile.

Entraordinary as all this is in one sense, it nevertheless fits right in the liberal Republican mold.

Reasonably enough, Packwood and other liberal Republicans want to "broaden the base" of the Republican Party. But, inexplicably, to them that means trying to appeal to militant women and minorities with assorted grievances.

That represents a politics of illusion.

In 1900, Reagan showed them exactly how to broaden the base of the Republican Party.

He did it not by appealing to the fashionable minorities but by bringing in the support of

He did it not by appealing to the fashionable minorities but by bringing in the support of blue collar workers who had previously voted Democratic and of Southerners and Westerners who had voted for Jimmy Carter and George Wallace.

To do this, Reagan did not play the liberal Republican Packwood music. He opposed ERA, busing, quotas, and promised to lower taxes, cut back on handouts, cut regulation, and stimulate the economy.

That is the kind of thing that has broad appeal and it led to the second greatest Republican presidential landslide in history, second only to Nixon's 1972 defeat of George McGovern.

Packwood has apologized for going public with his complaints about Reagan, but he has made it plain that he takes back nothing of substance.

He therefore should be bounced as Senate campaign chairman not only because he is a loose cannon but because his sense of the Republican Party's political priorities is completely wacko. Reagan can say to Packwood and the other liberal Republicans what Everett McKinley Dirksen said to Tom Dewey at the 1948 Republican convention:

"You have led us down to defeat." The liberals cannot say the same thing to Reagan.

Sen. Jack lieinz of Pennsylvania is another example of the liberal Republican breed. Responding to pressure from the Urban League, the NAACP, militant Hispanic and women's organizations, and the Gay Rights outfit, Heinz recently played a leading role in blocking the Rev. Sam Hart for a seat on the Civil Rights Commission.

There happens to be not one single electoral vote for the Republicans in the favor of those flaky organizations. Let the Democrata have them.

Sen. Robert Stafford of Vermont is playing a similar liberal game, opposing further cuts in social programs — most of which the voters have never heard of, even though they are paying for them — trying to increase environmental spending, etc.

Sen. Lowell Weicker is in a liberal Republican class all by himself, fighting tooth and nail, conducting long fillbusters, all in the interest of preserving the absurdity of racial achool busing.

These senators and others like them, to be sure, do have different constituencies from Orrin Hatch or Malcolm Wallop: but, even so, their constituencies, mainly in the Northeast, surely do not want racial busing, racial quotas, homosexual rights, veto power for minority special interest groups, and other such litmus liberal issues.

Liquor Fighting Deregulation

WASHINGTON (NEA) — One of the tenets of the conservative faith is that business — all business — is chafing under excessive government regulation.

President Reagan and his advisers carried that bellef with them to Washington last year. Vice President George Bush was assigned to head a major task force charged with striking unneeded regulations from the books.

Surprise! The administration quickly discovered that some industries would fight tooth and nail to remain regulated.

First the trucking industry fought deregulation with the help of the Teamsters Union.

Then the radio stations fought changes in the Federal Communications Commission that would have lifted broadcasting restrictions.

Then the airlines fought to keep the Civil Aeronautics Board and what little regulation of their industry remained after the Carter years.

Now the liquor industry is fighting to keep its federal regulators on the job.

The Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms has been a target of conservatives for some years. Organizations such as the National Rifle Association have frequently criticized the bureau for overzealous administration of firearms laws.

Last summer, sensing a receptive attitude within the administration, the bureau's critics moved in for the kill.

The result was an announcement that the bureau would be abolished — for reasons that the administration insisted had nothing to do with gun control but much to do with saving federal dollars.

The plan called for firmance, ambediese

The plan called for firearms, explosives and arson investigations to be transferred to the Secret Service along with many of the employees involved in that work.

However, Treasury Department officials admit that the Secret Service will end the regular inspections of gun dealers' records that have been conducted by the bureau. Those inspections were a special sore point for the NRA.

Any remaining regulation of alcohol and tobacco is to be transferred to the Customs Service. The administration's plans would all but eliminate what it considers "outdated and trivial alcohol advertising and wholesaling regulations."

In other words, the administration has acted in the best conservative tradition to get the government off the back of the liquor industry.

But that industry is up in arms. It wants the federal regulation continued under the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. Now a Senate subcommittee is considering

Checking On Moscow's Influence

WASHINGTON — While many of their colleagues were junketing around the Caribbean last January, two Senate staff members were trekking through the bush in southwest Africa, riding on "mine-proof" vehicles and hunkering down in machine-gun nests.

The two men, Joel Lisker and Bert Milling, were checking out first hand the guerrilla warfare that has torn Namibia for 15 years.

They were gathering information and lining up witnesses for hearings this week by Sen. Jeremiah Denton's (R-Ala.) subcommittee on security and terrorism.

What led the two committee aides to forsake the comforts of Capitol Hill for the combat zone along the Angolan border was the growing concern in Congress over Soviet influence in the region. As to why the United States should worry about Russian intentions in Namibia, a top-secret CIA file on the country lists explicit reasons for concern.

Namibia, which is bigger than Texas but bas a population smaller than Houston's, contains enormous quantities of uranium, diamonds, copper and other minerals. In fact, it has both the world's largest urnaium mine and the largest diamond concession. Much of its mineral wealth is classified by the CIA as "strategic," meaning that the United States needs the minerals and doesn't have its own supply.

Though the Soviets are largely selfsufficient in these essential minerals, the CIA suspects the Kremlin wants to be able to deprive the West of these strategic minerals by controlling Namibia. Also, when coupled with Angola, Namibia would give the Soviets a strategic anchor in the South Atlantic.

That's why the United States worries about the South West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO) — and why the Marxist gnerrillas are covertly supported by the Soviet Union.

According to the CIA, the Flustians provide training, weapons and other necessities that have kept the insurgents in business over the

"Moscow remains SWAPO's main supporter," a recent secret CIA report states.

"Although there are unconfirmed reports that a SWAPO has expressed interest in reviving its old ties with Peking, the Chinese currently are not willing to do more than offer the insurgents moral support and quietly back the initiative of five Western powers to negotiate a aetitlement with South Africa."

Intelligence sources and secret reports examined by my associates Dale Van Atta and Joseph Spear detail the extent of the Kremlin's involvement with SWAPO. Here are the key bits of evidence:

—SWAPO's present leader, Sam Nujoma, is virtually a Soviet puppet. Internal SWAPOI documents indicate that Nujoma has to get Moscow's permission before dealing with his own subordinantes.

—Young Namibians are sometimes recruited into SWAPO with promises they will become doctors or teachers within six months. Instead, they are packed off to "engineering camps" — terrorist training centers in Angola and Zambia.

-The most promising recruits are sent to advanced terrorist schools in East Germany and the Soviet Union. Aeroflot flies them from Luanda, Angola, to Moscow by way of Libya; sometimes the Namibians are provided with United Nations passports. In East Germany, they are told to pass themselves off as Ugandans.

—SWAPO guerrillas are well equipped with Soviet rocket pistols, rifles and rocket launchers.

There is evidence that discipline is harsh in the guerrilla forces. One defector, who walked 150 to 200 miles to escape SWAPO's clutches, told of being forced to dig his own grave and lie in it when he was suspected of treachery. He was nearly buried alive before his fellow guerrillas finally believed his protestations of innocence. One method of public execution for defectors, the Senate staff members were told, is a dagger blow in the kidney for a slow and excruciating death.

Three former SWAPO guerrillas are scheduled to testify before Denton's committee this week.

VINCE EDWARDS ... becomes a Knight

Central Florida football coach Don Jonas has once again reached into Seminole County to supplement his gridiron

Jonas announced Friday that Vince Edwards, the free safety of Seminole's conference champion football team, will continue his defensive backfield expertise with the Knights.

"We're pleased as hell to get Vince," said Jonas last week. "We thought he was one of the best defensive backs in the area and he should fit in real well."

The 6-foot, 170-pounder was one of the primary reasons for the success of coach Dave Mosure's tenacious defense. Edwards is presently running track. He leads the county with a 50.2 quarter mile clocking.

This will be a familiar occurence for Montreal's Tim Raines. Raines (left) hustles back to first base ahead of the tag by Boston's aging great one Carl Yastrzemski. Patriot's Pitching Pulls Apopka Back To Pack

Monday, March 29, 1982-5A

Herald Sports Editor

For eight games, the Five Star Conference baseball race seemed to belong to Sonny Wise's Apopka Blue Darters. His club was an opportunistic one with just enough hitting, pitching and defense to beat you.

Using the strong right arms of Billy Green and Tommy Novak, however, Lake Brantley's Patriots have ripped off four wins and a tie to bring the Blue Darters back to the pack.

Lyman, too, is catching the pennant fever with Lake Brantley. Manager Bob McCullough's Greyhounds are tied with the Patriota with 7-3 marks, just one game in back of Apopka's 8-2 slate.

Keeping Apopka from moving into conference-clinching position was Brantley's ace of the week Billy Green. The slim righthander turned back the Darters with a five-hitter Saturday as the Patriots rallied for three runs in the last two frames for a 3-2 victory at Apopka

For the season he has three shutouts among his four wins including a no-hitter and a twohitter. Green trimmed his earned run average to a county-leading 1.81.

Clutch-hitting Scott Killam, as usual, was responsible for the first two Brantley runs. He has 14 RBI for the year to easily lead his club.

After Brian Wright singled and moved to second base on a bunt by Jimmy Robbins, Darter starter Dave Hamilton walked John Simus intentionally to face Killam.

Regardless of Hamilton's intentions, the Brantley first sacker upset them with a ringing double which scored Wright and Simas for a 2-0 lead. Killam, however, was gunned down trying to stretch his hit into a three

Catcher Joe Mincey surprised the Blue Darters with some nifty baserunning which led to the deciding run. Mincey walked and moved to second on Wright's single. The Patriots then pulled double steal and when the catcher threw the ball into left field, Mincey Italted home

Two errors by shortstop Brennan Asplen, however, gave Apopka life in the seventh. After a strike out, Clayton Morris and Darin Bruehl reached on bobbles, but Mike Justice popped up for the second out,

On the next play, though, the usually surehanded Killam fell down by fielding Gary Sackett's ground ball to load the bases with Johnson, Apopka's fifth-place hitter at bat.

Killam, nevertheless, scooped up Asplen's short throw after a ground ball to shortstop for the key fielding gern in the 3-2 victory. Brantley is off today, but hosts Spruce Creek on Wednesday.

finally squeaked past Lake Howell Saturday at Langwood.

Junior Torn Perkins squibbed a ground ball to the left of the mound with the bases loaded in the bottom of the 11th inning to score pinchrunner Rick Humphery for the 5-4 Five Star Conference victory.

The win keeps the 'Hounds' pennant chances alive. Lyman, 7-3, and Lake Brantley, 7-3, are one game in arrears of Apopka, who leads the Perkins' dribbler ruined a fine pitching performance by the senior Silver Hawk Randy Ramroth, 2-3.

He allowed nine hits in the 10 plus innings and the Hawks built him a 4-2 lead after five innings. In the fifth, however manager Bob McCullough turned to ace Kevin Brubaker and he overpowered the Silver Hawks the rest of the way to pick up his sixth victory against one netback.

Lake Howell jumped on top in the first inning when Billy Norton singled to right field to score Billy Lang, who had reached on an error and Doug Chiodini, who walked, for a 2-0 lead.

Lyman bounced back to tie the game in the second on Brent Smartt's two-run single after Tucker dropped a third strike to Mike "Duck" Sawyer allowing him to reach and Jorge Sierra got on a fleider's choice. Lee Jenkins moved them to second and third on a ground

In the Howell third, Tony Dimauro and John Hawkins ripped RBI singles to pull the Hawks ahead, 4-2, but Lyman deadlocked the game on singles by Sawyer, Sierra and Huff in the sixth and a clutch RBI base hit by Perkins which scored Todd Marriott in the seventh.

In the 11th, pinch-hitter Steve Lorenz and Kenny Brown walked. John Reich moved them up with a nice bunt and Marriott was purposely passed to load the bases for Perkins. He dribbled the ball to Ramroth's right, whose hurried throw pulled Tucker off the plate in a close play as pinch-runner Hum-

And, in one of those curve balls that life will throw now and then, the man blocking the door all 6-foot-10, 300 pounds of him - is one of Smith's very best friends.

"I have a lot of good friends in the (coaching) business," said Smith. "But I don't know if you would say that I have a lot of close, personal friends. When you know their family and go on vacations with them - that is a close, personal friend."

Such a man is John Thompson, the towering coach of the Georgetown Hoyas. Smith, naturally, would prefer not to consider any meeting between his team and Thompson's as a matchup of men.

"This is not a coaches' game," lectures the man who has guided the University of North Carolina basketball team for 21 years. "A lot of coaches say, 'I won something.' That's ridiculous. They shouldn't even say, 'we,' lt should be, 'they.' It's the players, not the coaches, who play the game."

In this instance, the players from North Carolina and Georgetown will be deciding the championship of the NCAA - facing each other on the floor of the Louisiana Superdome tonight before another crowd in excess of 61,000 and millions more tuned in on primeCollege Basketball time television, starting at 8 p.m. EST.

On that court, which appears to be no bigger than a handkerchief to those sitting in the upper reaches of the enormous building, seven-foot Georgelown freshman Pat Ewing will match muscle inside with the standout North Carolina twosome of Sam Perkins and James Worthy. And the Hoyas' Eric "Sleepy" Floyd will duel on the outside with the Tar Heels' Jimmy Rlack.

But despite the fact that Smith will remain on the sidelines making suggestions to the officials and secturing his players, he will be the focus of the same

"We always read all these stories about how coach Smith gets all this great talent and is such a great coach," said Black. "And then somewhere in there you read about how he always chokes when he gets to the Final Four. "I know he won't say it. But I know he is tired of reading about that."

"We have gotten to the Final Four before when we probably didn't deserve it," Smith said on the eve of the championship game. "And we have been besten in the first round of the tournament when we had very good tearns.

Those losses have been very disappointing. "But life will go on no matter what happens brought a team to the Final Four and this will be his fourth time in the title game. His 1968 team was defeated by UCLA in the finals, he lost seain in 1977 to Marquette and then last year to Indiana. This version of the Tar Heels, who were ranked No. 1 to start the regular season and No. 1 to end it, made it to the finals Saturday with a 68-63 victory over Houston.

In Georgetown, the Tar Heels will be facing a troublesome foe that overwhelmed opposition early in the tournament and then showed it could survive a close game when it downed Louisville in Saturday's semifinals,

Smith and Thompson often have late-night visits — either in person or on the telephone --talking about baskethall.

"John's wife knows when the phone rings between one or two o'clock in the morning that it's me," said Smith. "I imagine we will sit down sometime after the game Monday night and analyze it."

There is always the chance that the analysis will include discussions about a delay game, since North Carolina so often makes that a part of their stra'egy.

But I saw Georgetown slow it down at the end of the first half against Oregon State," Smith said. "I said first half. And they run it very well. Maybe we will both hold the bail Monday night. Then John and I would really have something to talk about, wouldn't we?"

NATIONAL REPORT: Dixie's tender spring fruit blossoms fell victim today to a rare late-March freeze that nearly wined out the multi-million dollar peach and apple crops in North Carolina and all but ensured higher supermarket prices later in the season. A cold snap overpowered spring across the nation, concentrating on the Southeast and West where up to foot-deep snows inundated the mountains. Low temperature records for this time of year were shattered in nearly a dozen today. The temperature in Roanoke, Va., Sunday plunged to 17 degrees, breaking the 1969 record of 19, and the freeze was blamed for the expose death of a 76-year-old man who wandered away from his Culpepper County home. In the West, travelers' and stockmen's advisories were issued for the Cascades and Siakiyou Mountains in Oregon — where up to a foot of new snow covered the ground - and the mountains of California, Nevada, Idaho and Utah. Frost and freeze warning went up in North and South Carolina and southeast Virginia late Sunday, North Carolina farmers reported up to a 10 percent loss in their $10 million peach crop and apple farmers said their $24 million business suffered extensive damage from temperatures in the teens Saturday night.

Student Sues To Get Back In School

Jacqueline Ann Locke had spent her entire high school career at Altamonte Christian School. She was scheduled to be graduated May 28. But two weeks ago she was expelled for alleged drug use. Now, she's suing to get back in.

Miss Locks's parents have filed a lawsuit in Circuit Court, Sanford, seeking to have their daughter reinstated so she can graduate with her classmates.

According to the suit, Miss Locke enrolled in the Christian school, operated by the Palm Springs Drive Baptlet Church, in Aug. 1978. She was expelled March 18 for supposed use of

Orange Asks Seminole For More Sewage Capacity

By JOE DOSANTIS Herald Staff Writer

Orange County's political differences in the late 1970s have come back to haunt the City of Orlando, prompting Orlando Mayer Bill Frederick to ask the Seminole County Cornmission for a big favor - one that could save Oriando $5 million to $6 million in detailed engineering studies to determine how Orange County will handle its increasing sewage treatment needs.

in a meeting Friday with Seminole County officials. Frederick told the county that Orlando is in desperate need to gain a share of the proposed $20 million fron Bridge Regional Sewage Expansion Project.

Orlando owns the Iron Bridge Plant near Oviedo. But several other governments, including Seminole County, Maitland, Winter Park, Casselberry and Winter Springs, also have shares in its capacity. In order for Orlando to gain access to a part of the proposed expansion of the plant, from its current 24-million gallon a day especity to 40 million gallons, the Seminole County Commission must agree to go along.

Specifically, Orlando is asking Seminole County to agree to the expension before Orlando spends $5 million to $6 million on detailed engineering studies, and is asking Seminole County to give up some of its capacity if the plant is expanded to help out Orange County.

Orange County did not participate in the planning and construction of the Iron Bridge Plant in the late 70s, a reluctance that Orange County officials now regret.

Orange County is under pressure from the state to stop dumping treated sewage from the east side of the county into the Little Econlockhatchee River by 1984, Although the proposed $20 million Iron Bridge project probably won't be completed by then, Frederick is asking Seminole County for some expanded capacity.

about two weeks to assemble technical information on the expansion. When that information is assembled, it will be presented before the board of commissioners in a workshop session.

"Oriando doesn't want to spend a tremendous amount of time and money before it gets a feel for how the commission and the Department of Environmental Regulations is thinking on the project," he said. "Our first phase of studying Orlando's request will be to determine if enough information is available to make a decision. Although this same type of system has been tested in Lakeland, it wasn't of this magnitude," he said.

Neiswender added that the county will be checking its legal obligations closely in the event Orlando's proposal is given a tentative approval and the city spent the money for its engineering studies, only to be eventually turned down by Seminole County.

Spread Of Cancer Linked To Stress

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) - A study of mice has linked one of the deadliest risks of cancer - new growths spreading from old ones - to stress, a Seattle researcher says. It's too soon for solid conclusions about whether humans would react the same way, said Vernon Riley, chairman of the microbiology department at Pacific Northwest Research

Foundation in Seattle. But it wouldn't hurt for doctors to start helping cancer patients - and the general public - reduce stress in their lives, said Riley, who is also a member of the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Center in Seattle.

"We're a little conservative about extrapolating from animals to humans," he said in an interview. "However, the basic biological principles are the same. This is a universal phenomenon whether it's in mice or a patient."

"We think that stress does not cause cancer, it promotes cancer," he said, provided the right physical ingredients are present,

The discovery casts serious doubt on past studies using mice because laboratory stress was ignored, Riley said at the American Cancer Society's annual writers' seminar. Emotional or anxiety-produced stress causes increased production of hormones called adrenal corticoids. These impair a body's immune system, leaving it more vulnerable to producers. In Riley's miles, higher hormone levels caused a decrease in the weight of the thymus gland, the spleen and some lymph nodes - all important in the production of disease-fighting viruses, newly transformed cancer cells or other disease

white blood cells. The number of these cells also dropped when corticusterone production rose.

Researchers only recently discovered that handling and housing methods used for lab animals over the past 30 to 40 years were stressful to the beasts because of noise and jostling. But substituting a quieter environment, lab staffers were able to reduce stress or artificially increase it by jostling animals and raising the noise level.

The problem with past studies is that stress was ignored,

"I think some of these studies in the past may be seriously flawed because these factors were not seriously controlled,

In a study reported last year in the journal Science, Riley's team said 60 percent of female mice innoculated with a cancer-causing virus developed breast cancer during a year of stress, supplied by frequent rotations on a turntable.

Only seven percent of those mice handled quietly developed breast cancer.

In another group of mice, the researchers implanted a type of tumor known to spread to lungs and intestines and gave them synthetic corticosterons. Riley said the team was skeptical any effects of stress would be seen because the turnors grew quickly whether the mice were stressed or not.

Surprisingly, however, the cancer cropped up in the lungs and intestines of 10 percent of all the mice given hormones, while metastases occurred in only 30 to 40 percent of the other minute or two" of someone else who had the virus. "It would easentially be a person-to-person contact and it (the virus) would have survived a minute or two. The virus has a short period of viability on an inanimate surface," he said in a telephone interview, Herrmann said in the case of the teenage girl cited by the professor, "It would be most likely that she already had atent herpes and exposure to the cosmetics or some chemical base may have changed the environment of the skin so it would have come out," Most Americans who suffer from herpes simplex virus have "Type 2" which infects the genitals, buttocks, thighs and stomach. Type I is closely related to "Type 1" herpes the common cold sore which infects the mouth and lips. Health officials have reported a cross-over in recent years, which they ascribe to oral sex, in which some persons now have oral herpes in genital areas and genital herpes on the mouth or lips.

In War-Torn El Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) - The U.S. backed moderate Christian Democrats claimed victory today in crucial elections to determine El Salvador's future, but two rightist parties discussed an alliance to take power.

The Christian Democrats, led by ruling junta president Jose Napoleon Duarte, led in heavy voting Sunday, but an alliance of the right raised the possibility of a government that would dash Reagan administration hopes for moderation.

Assault Charge Against Girl, 6, May Be Dropped

GAINESVILLE (UPI) - State are not willing to arbitrate, I am going to system with trained personnel as old girl as an adult for hitting a 7-year-old playmate in the nose and will seek a simple apology or a settlement with juvenile authorities.

In either case, prosecutors said Sunday, Nancy Jo Burch, a blonde, dimpled an adult because "we have faith in the first grader, will not have to go through life with a criminal record.

State Attorney Eugene Whitworth said he will drop the assault charge against Nancy Jo if her parents refuse to send the matter to a juvenile court arbitration panel. The parents' decision was expected today, he said.

If the Burches agree to the panel, the case will be transferred back to juvenile

The girl's attorney, Alan Wilhite, had jury system" and believe she would be acquitted and her record expunged.

Financial restitution also was a possibility, he said.

Wilhite declined Sunday to comment on Whitworth said prosecutors had tried to steer the case to an arbitration panel within the juvenile court system from the stick while a 13-year-old boy held her start but the parents of both girls would not agree.

treated, but instead they took us on 10day march without food or water," he said. Cabanatuan was at the end of the march. "Some could never adapt to the fish head and rice rations, and they just gave up and lay down to die," he said.

"I took every day and lived it to the fullest. If they gave us pickled granshoppers, I ate grasshoppers," he said. "There were no health measures at the camp, no spraying for mosquitoes, which spread diseases."

Moody said the lack of proper nutrition affected each man differently. "I went blind from lack of vitamins," he said. He later regained his sight.

'We were given hard kernels of dried corn, and we burned every stick of furniture in the barracks to boil them long enough to get them soft, which was several days," he said. "If you want to live, you'll eat it.

"For 11 straight months we had no water, but we had a cup of tea three times a day," he added.

There were 110 U.S. Army and Navy nurses in the Philippines who were captured by the Japanese and kept in downtown Manila. Moody said he didn't even see a woman for almost four years.

He said there were some successful escape attempts from Cabanatuan, but usually when a man escaped 10 other prisoners were executed by the Japanese. He told of a Daytona Beach man who had successfully escaped, but lived with this guilt on his conscience for 33 years. "When he was told that in his case the Japanese failed to kill 10 others, he was so relieved his whole personality changed," said Moody. Cabanatuan was used as a processing camp for prisoners being sent to Japan, Manchuria and Taiwan. There were only 501 men left alive there to be rescued when the Americans arrived in February Moody had been taken to Japan for forced labor, along with many other prisoners, when the American troops began taking over parts of the Philippines. There were 1,833 POWs in the hold of the prison ship for 33 days.

"They gave us just enough tea and a small amount of rice to keep us alive. We had to sit in the same position day after day, and if anyone died they were passed up the ladder and tossed overboard." he recalled. "We were torpedoed in the middle of the night. Our ship didn't sink, but several others did."

Moody was in a prison camp in Japan for 13 months and forced to work. On Aug. 14, 1945, American planes flew over the camp and dropped leaflets saying that if Japan did not surrender by the next day a third atomic bomb would be dropped. "We thought this was it, and the next day we kept looking at the sky," he said. "At 11 a.m. the next day a siren went off while we were at work and we were rushed on the train and back to the camp. The Japanese were bowing to the loudspeakers, and the emperor was telling them he had surrendered.

"The Japanese all wanted to surrender to us, handing over their guns," he said. "The POWs from Canada and Hong Kong wanted to take the guns and shoot the guards, but the Americans said, 'No, the war's over."

"The Japanese gave us a big basket of money to pay us for our labor, and one ding," he said.

man took it and went out and bought a bull from a larmer and we cooked it with rice. It was the first meat we had tasted in all the time we had been a prisoner."

sald Moody.
"Then 13-29s flew over and dropped parachutes with food, gum, candy, clothing and messages of encouragement. Only the Americans would do something like climb up on the roof and toss candy and chewing gum over the fence to the Japanese children. The Canadians were stuffing theirs in bags to take home," he said.

Moody was in Tokyo for the surrender

There was no hero's welcome waiting when they get back to the United States. We were treated like animals. Our clothing was taken away and we were put in rooms with bars," said Moody, "We could hear announcements over the intercom about dances for the German and Italian POWs. We were taken across the county in a train with bars on the windows and our clothing was taken away. When the train would stop at a station, the people would have banners saying, 'Welcome Home, POWs.' But we weren't allowed out to greet them."

No sooner did Moody get back to Boston than he was asked to go to Japan to testify at the war crimes trials. He was told it would take only a short while, but it was 13 months before he got back

However, he did not come back alone, he brought with him a new wife, Madeleine, who had been working for the U.S. government in Japan as a Henley said while the light poles are up at the ball diamond, all the wiring must yet be done.
