Good cop stories

Here are a couple of good cop stories - Sanford Police Department stories - that demand to be told.

On August 4 at 10:33 a.m. a man robbed the RW Trading Post at 1016 French Ave. in Sanford.

He fled from the scene on foot.

Commander Aaron Keith and Officer Kris Ziegler responded to the alarm.

Cmdr. Aaron Keith

The suspect, Andre Pierre Alloway, was apprehended four blocks away - less than five minutes later. Out spilled the goods he had taken from the trading post. He was identified by the owner. So was the stolen property.

Alloway, 26, was charged with robbery/armed.

On August 6 at 5:32 a.m. Officer Frank Hilton caught two men in the midst of a robbery at Crooms School of Choice.

They were apprehended on the property, lugging a television set out of a trailer.

Edward L. Tillman, 31, and Robert White, 32, were charged with burglary/grand theft.

A fine piece of police work by Officer Hilton, pride of the night shift.

Big government cover-up

On Tuesday, the Board of Seminole County Commissioners will present a resolution in recognition and appreciation to a group which has completed a sweet piece of cover-up.

Meet the members of the Central Florida Quilters Guild.

They just finished a quilt that helps celebrate Seminole County's 85th birthday in April, 1998. The quilt depicts scenes and landmarks in the county's history. It will be raffled to raise money to benefit the Seminole County Historical Society.

The quilters are: Glenda Ballentine, Kim Bi-hari, Kim Demanche, Maureen Dimmick, Janice Early, Jan Herrington, Karen Jacobs, Joanne Little, Carol McMahon, Sharon Meyer, Mary Nolan, Jeanne Simmons, Janet Smith, Kathy Stecker, Maureen White and Becky Wolary.

The Sanford Herald plans blanket coverage of the event.

Familiar theme

A caller to the Apopka Police Department was put on hold.

On came a musical tape.

The song: "Theme of the Pink Panther."

Honest elephant.

"Hello, Inspector Clouseau."

Here come the Pioneers

The Pioneers from Milwaukee, a championship 106-member member drum and bugle corps, are coming to Sanford.

They'll be practicing at Seminole Community College beginning Monday. Word is they practice 7 to 10 hours a day, working on a routine that takes approximately 10 minutes.

Another group known as the Bandettes of Canada is also practicing at the college.

Bring your umbrellas, kids.

Sign of the times

The 85 haircut at Dave's Barber Shop in Sanford is a thing of the past. Dave just upped the rate to 86. Still a bargain.

Educating future workers

State commissioner talks the ABCs of business

By MARIA OREM
Herald Staff Writer

The future of education and its role in business was the topic at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce luncheon on Friday.

About 50 people attended the session at the Marina Hotel to listen to Commissioner of Education Frank Brogan.

Sandra Glenn, chairman of the chamber, asked members to think about the many roles they play in education in the county from serving on volunteer committees to working in the school system.

"Today you are going to be educated further," Glenn said.

She complimented the Seminole County education system and said she was nothing but pleased with the results that she had seen with her own son who had been educated in the Seminole County public school system.

E. Ann McGee, president of Seminole Community College, was on hand to introduce Brogan. She offered a brief biography and told chamber members that Brogan was the speaker at her first graduation ceremony at SCC.

"When the subject of education improvement is discussed, you hear the name of Frank Brogan," she said.

Brogan complimented SCC calling it one of the finest community colleges in Florida.

"She (McGee) is recognized as one of our best because of her vision," Brogan said.

Brogan then spoke about the importance of education and its constantly changing role in society and the global economy. He called for changes stressing the need to keep what works, get rid of what doesn't, and continue to make improve-

Board didn't know, didn't go

The conspicuous absence of all Seminole County school board members at a business chamber luncheon where Florida's commissioner of education was the speaker, left business people wondering.

Before introducing Commissioner Frank Brogan, Sandra Glenn, chairman of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, pointed to the empty table at the front of the room and noted that none of the school board members was present.

"But I'm not mad or resentful because I know that they are all busy people," she said.

Glenn noted that Dr. Paul J. Hagerty, school superintendent for the county, had planned to attend but was called out of town.

When asked on Saturday about their absence from the chamber meeting, several school board members said they

Newest citizens are truly fine neighbors

By RUSS WHITE
Herald Staff Writer

Gordon and Vivienne Sweeney pledged their allegiance to America, becoming naturalized citizens on Thursday.

"I really don't know why we didn't do this sooner," said 79-year-old Gordon Sweeney. "This is a wonderful day. We're very proud to be Americans."

Many of their Sanford neighbors and friends assumed the Sweeneys were Americans - in fact, the best of Americans. Naturally, they are delighted about the Americanization of the Canadian-born couple on Thursday.

Vivienne Sweeney is from Winnipeg, Manitoba and Gordon Sweeney from Hamilton, Ontario. They met on a blind date. They were married in 1945 after he served in World War II as a Canadian Naval officer.

The couple operated Sweeney's Office Supply company in Sanford for 48 years, and raised three children here. They are most appreciative of Doris Stein, the patriotic chairman of the Pilots Club of Sanford, who helped untangle the naturalization paperwork.

"We wanted to become citizens together, but there were a series of snags," Sweeney said. The couple asked if they could be sworn in near to home in Orlando if need be, but not in Miami. Having the ceremony in Sanford was all the better.

The Sweeneys were among 250 who became citizens in the ceremonies at the Sanford Civic Center. "We have been thrilled each time that we saw as many as 400 people coming to this

Turning wood into works of art

Lake Mary artist's sculpture on display

By DAVID FRAZIER
Herald Staff Writer

Don Reagan received a lathe one Christmas from his wife Bettye. It was a peculiar gadget that turned into a handy dust collector: a lathe is a machine normally used for shaping an article of wood. For three months, Reagan never utilized the instrument. However, when he started to use the lathe, magic happened.

"Throughout his life, he never showed an inclination to do this kind of thing," said Bettye Reagan. Bettye is referring to Don's amazing ability to create wooden sculptures - sculptures that are presently being featured at The Arts on Douglas in New Smyrna Beach.

Reagan was invited by the gallery's curators to exhibit his marvelous pieces - each one carefully hand crafted. But the time it takes from the inception of a piece to its finish requires a patience few could muster. Judging the results, it's worth the wait.

Reagan starts with a block of wood. It is a solid block and usually contains a great deal of moisture. Reagan said that if you were to wait for the wood to fully dry it would take a lifetime. However, Reagan doesn't have that long. He is usually working on 25 pieces at a time.

He takes the wood and cuts it to a prototype shape. He leaves the wood thick so that after the wood cracks and shrinks there is enough of it left over to start sculpting. After Reagan forms the wood in whatever shape he desires, he applies the finish. Reagan admits that adding the finish is the hardest thing for him yet it's just as important as anything else. The finish that he uses is a transparent dye that doesn't destroy any of the natural grain of the wood. He does not use paint.

Reagan said that buying and securing the wood he needs for his sculpture is very hard. He goes up near Gainesville where it is shipped and gets it from either wood dealers or he secures the wood himself. Sometimes he makes trades for various wood as well.

Before retiring and becoming an aspiring artist, Reagan worked most of his life as a television repairman in both sales and service on Sanford Avenue. But when he started wood sculpting he became "totally hooked". To realize his full potential, Reagan got assistance from Arrowmont Craft School in Gatlinburg, Tennessee. The school ran for a two week period and different instructors from all over the world teach each time the school is offered. Reagan has taken the course seven times. The class, admits Reagan, is pretty intensive scheduled from 6 a.m. to midnight.

Reagan said that he is "no more different than an architect" when it comes to developing ideas for his art. Reagan says that he is always striving to come up with the best piece of art that he can. But his biggest inspiration is his wife Bettye, who is also an artist in her own right. Bettye's paintings have been used in the advertising of such local events as the St. Johns River Festival and A Taste of Oviedo. "We love what each other does," said Reagan. "It [art] is something we have in common." The Lake Mary couple are usually at art shows between September and April. Two of the shows they go to are usually out of state. And they have been attending these shows for over 20 years.

Next year, the Reagans are planning their own show at the Ormond Beach Memorial Museum. The show will be called "Forms and Feelings" and will be at the museum in December of 1998. You can now see some of Don Reagan's work at Arts on Douglas located at 123 Douglas Street, New Smyrna Beach. Gallery hours are Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. and by appointment. For more information, call (904) 428-1133. Prices for Reagan's work range from $475 to $4,600.

Seminole Community College serves up cultural candy in Mexican pinata

By DAVID FRAZIER
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole Community College is serving up cultural candy in a pinata of Mexican arts. This year, SCC will present a salute to the arts of Mexico in dance, theater, painting and film throughout the 1997-98 year.

In dance, SCC will present the dance company Alma Mexicana on Wednesday, September 10, at 7:30 p.m., in the Fine Arts Concert Hall. The performance is free and open to the public - reservations not required.

Folkloric ballet in Mexico is important in keeping the history of the Mexican people alive. The company Alma Mexicana is part of that tradition. With over 20 different dances in its repertoire, Alma Mexicana has been presenting many facets of the soul of Mexico in its performances since 1984. Alma Mexicana stands for "Soul of Mexico", and this group of eight couples performed numerous times on Mexican national television and at the Mexican Nations' Foundation of the Arts. The company also participates in a program for the federal government to promote the culture of dance in parks, gardens, and other nationally supported venues in Mexico; they performed often at national events at the request of the president of Mexico. Finally, Alma Mexicana was the Mexican entry in the 1996 International Day of the Dance.

Alma Mexicana's performance at SCC will be funded jointly by La Caan de Mexico de Florida, the Mexican Consulate, and the Seminole Community College Division of Arts and Sciences. The company is being brought to the Orlando area to help with Central Florida's celebration of Mexican Independence. This celebration, known in Mexico as "El Grito" (The Shout) will be held at Lake Eola on Sunday, September 14 under the auspices of the Mexican Consulate. Alma Mexicana is part of SCC's "El Proyecto de Mexico: Amistad" (The Mexican Project: Friendship). With "El Proyecto de Mexico: Amistad," SCC will spend the entire year introducing many Mexican cultural events to the community it serves.

In theater, SCC's first production is The Mirror: The Intermediate Zone by Emilio Carballido from October 9 through October 19. This production celebrates the culture of Mexico and is part of the SCC year of surrounding Mexico.

In painting, the Fine Arts Gallery will present Daniel Ponzanelli's The Third Generation from January 8 through February 5. Ponzanelli comes from a family of artists in Mexico. Included in the exhibit will also be work by Ponzanelli's father and grandfather. The opening reception will be January 8, from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m., with a gallery talk by the artist at 6 p.m.

Lastly, in keeping with the focus of the themed year, the SCC Film Series presents an exciting diversity of classic and contemporary films, either by Mexican film makers or based on Mexican culture. All films will be shown in the Fine Arts Concert Hall. There is no admission charge and reservations are not required.

The films that will be shown are Mi Familia (My Family) on October 22, with two showings at noon and 7:30 p.m. The film is in English and it is rated "R". Los Olvidados will be on October 22, with two showings at noon and 7:30 p.m. The film is presented in Spanish with English subtitles. Maria Candalaria will show November 5 with two showings at noon and 7:30 p.m. The film is presented in Spanish with English subtitles. Frida will be shown November 12 with two showings at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. The film is in Spanish with English subtitles and rated "R". Danzon will be November 19 and have two showings at noon and 7:30 p.m. The film is rated "PG-13" and presented in Spanish with English subtitles. ments where needed. He said the number one priority in literacy. Additional issues to focus on, he said are overcrowding in the classrooms and the need for safety. "There are too many schools where students can't read or right at grade level," he said. Students, he said, need to be able to graduate with skills which will enable them to compete in a global society. "The 21st century will demand higher proficiencies," he said. "You cannot survive without a viable qualified workforce with the ability to communicate."
He called for a return for basics, stressing the need for all students to be able to read, write and do math. He said the economy cannot survive with incompetent people who take from the system without giving anything back.

"All children need to be successful," he said. "Failure is not an option."

Brogan also said expectations should not be lowered when kids do badly because that is artificial. On the same token, he said good teachers need to be compensated more and unqualified teachers should not be a part of the system.

"When you peel all the layers of the onion back, it's very simple. It's still about great teachers and children hungry to learn."

Aiken wins contest

Mona Milla Walker recently gave me copies of some newspaper articles she had found about Dick Aiken which were published in July 1947.

Some of you newcomers may now know that Sanford's own Dick Aiken was on the CBS Arthur Godfrey Talent Scouts radio program and won over four other contestants. The 32 year old tenor sang "Gloria Min".

According to his wife, Ann, he had sung this song because he believe he would have won a previous state contest if he had sung it. Evidently, it worked in the Talent Scouts show!

Dick's manner of receiving an audition on the program was unusual. After he had won the top award at the Orlando Police Reserve Show, he was supposed to go to New York for an audition. However, he was a produce merchant and that was peak season for fruits and vegetables.

Through the help of Bill McBride, CBS contact man at WDBO, Dick recorded "Oh Dry Those Tears", accompanied by organist Walter Kimball, which was sent to Arthur Godfrey. He was asked to be in New York July 1 to rehearse for the July 4 show.

The week after winning, Dick was featured on three of the Arthur Godfrey morning shows which were broadcast on CBS 11:00-11:30. On his last appearance, he sang his theme song "Diane" for his own daughter of that name. If I recall correctly, Dick later had his own local radio program and used the same theme song.

While in New York, Dick had dinner with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Bach, former Sanford residents. In their wonderful old home on Long Island, Mrs. Bach was the daughter of Mrs. J. W. Mero.

When Dick moved to Sanford from Winston Salem, NC in 1934, he received voice training from Mrs. Lucille Takach before she moved to Winter Park. Then for a number of years his experience was gained as soloist at churches, public gatherings and weddings. The previous year he had spent one semester at the Rollins Conservatory of Music where he gained confidence and certain technical achievements which made his voice more full and clear.

According to the newspaper item, Dick's first love was his family which consisted of, at the time, wife Ann and children Dian, Bedford and Ann Wright whose pictures accompanied the article. I believe that there were eventually 10 children. Two of his musical sisters, Marian and Anita, also lived here and joined him in several public appearances. One of Dick's greatest joys was to have his friends and family grouped around the piano singing for hours.

Most of us remember Dick as being very generous with his talent, singing in all manner of venues through the years here in Sanford.

Portraits by

Mrs. DeForest

An article from the May 14, 1937 Sanford Herald was recently given to me, but I can't remember by whom. It is entitled "Mrs. Wight Exhibits Portraits by Mrs. DeForest at Garden Party".

The article is not complete, but it does tell the subjects of Mrs. DeForest's paintings. She worked in an unusual medium, French conte pencils.

The portraits were arranged artistically throughout the room; those exhibited in the pastel group were Miss Gail DeForest, Mrs. A. K. Powers, Miss Muriel Knox, Mrs. Arthur Zachary, Jr., Mrs. Frank Chase, Mrs. S. O. Chase, Jr., Mrs. John Galloway, Miss Jane Sharon, Mrs. Ernest Galloway, and Miss Libby Cornell.

In the vivid, striking group were Mrs. Algenon Speer, Miss Katherine Thigpen, Mrs. John Meisch, and Mrs. Jean Adams.

In the black and white group was Miss Jean Montgomery, the original of which hung in the embassy in Budapest as her father was the US Minister to Hungary. Mrs. Deane Smith was also in this group as was Mrs. DeForest's cook, Lizzie.

True grits...

What else?!

If you did not purchase a copy of Dr. Charlie Park's book, "True Grits...What Else?!" during its first printing a couple of years ago, you now have a second chance to buy one. Through Dr. Park's generosity in giving them the copyright, the Sanford Historical Society is having the book reprinted. Although it will not be available until September, you can order a copy at the pre-publication price of $10.00 through August 31. After that date, the cost will be $12.95. Order forms are located at the Sanford Museum and in several area stores.

Charles L. Park, Jr., M.D., recently retired surgeon, is a native of Sanford. He returned here to practice medicine following medical school. His wife, the former Kathryn Wiggins, is also a Sanford native.

Charlie's book is a lively compilation of family tales, stories about his and his father's medical careers, and various yarns about life in Sanford. If you are a long time Sanford resident, you will recognize many of the people he writes about and you will reminisce, along with him, about the good old days. If you are a newcomer, you will catch a glimpse of life that is no more and be thoroughly entertained.

Sanford Police Department problems

The volunteer Citizens' Advisory Board was on to it, and now a study commissioned by Sanford officials has confirmed it.

A consultants' report released this past week calls the Sanford Police Department "a troubled law enforcement agency with growing internal dissension, ineffective communications, finger pointing and overall a lack of willingness to try to come together and make things work."

Finally, it appears, Sanford has a commission willing to do something about a problem that has been a festering and oozing sore for a lot longer than most would like to admit. With the highest crime rate in the county, our officers need a strong support system from management and their city to do their job credibly. We remind our readers that the consultants found admirable performances by the many officers and employees they observed in the course of this investigation. We also commend Chief Joe Dillard for his statement that he is willing to do anything that is for the good of the department.

For all the commotion it has caused, (but were you really shocked?) we hope this report is part of a continuing proactive approach by our city government.

By exploring the options presented in the report, including plenty of input from officers and management at the police department, we think Sanford can soon boast one of the best law enforcement teams in Central Florida. Change is often foreboding; we all find some comfort in continuity even if the same old way of doing things is not the best way. We hope the PD officers and employees embrace the positive changes that are bound to come, and consider that a department stripped of dissension and strife will be one in which professionals can concentrate on making Sanford a safe and better place to live.

Road improvements?

All of the property owners at the corners of 25th Street and Laurel Avenue received notice and plans for the improvements to our intersection from the Dept. of Transportation. All of us contacted the Dept. of Transportation to discuss these plans and perhaps a more user friendly design of this street (i.e. from Laurel on to 25th Street to cut down on accidents). What bothers me as one who contacted them was their attitude:

1. This suggestion is completely out of the question and won't work. (It works elsewhere, why not here?)
2. We know what's best (we're engineers) you don't know anything. (I just look out onto this intersection five days a week, eight hours a day).
3. This barrier will prevent left turns into these businesses at this intersection. (Their attitude: Well, your customers will find their way to you through the back streets some other way).
4. It's a done deal, there is no middle ground.
5. This arrogance really bothers me, as a business and property owner impacted by their decision with no input from me.

I am also concerned with the cost of these improvements. If we try a less costly method and it works, don't we save money? If it doesn't, what have we lost?

Defending the IRS

I must rise to the defense of that much-maligned organization, the "tyrannical Internal Revenue Service." True, the IRS has an odious reputation -- not totally undeserved, one might say -- but can one truly disparage its efficiency? I think that many businesses might wish to have such a collection service.

Oh, the IRS is a bit harsh in its reluctance to listen to reasons why any one claimant should be excused from reducing one's self to penury but, hey! I know some of those deadbeats. Where do you think the Inquisition would have gotten if it had believed every cock-and-bull story it heard?

The IRS does precisely what the United States Congress has ordered it to do: rip the linings out of the pockets of the hapless multitudes of reluctant contributors. And it does its job surpassingly well. If only the Pentagon could obey its orders as well and, remember, the military is founded on the ability to obey orders, even if it literally kills its members.

No, the IRS is a monument to the can-do spirit of good old Yankee persistence and obstinate taciturnity in the face of ridicule, and I, for one, am proud of it. (Please note at tax time).

Where is government integrity?

Clinton has proved that he has about as much integrity as there is sand at the North pole and the wimpy Republicans are not far behind. The balanced budget has now become just another dream. If they could have done anything worse to produce a balanced budget, please tell me what it might have been.

We were approaching a 29 billion dollar deficit. The robust economy would have produced a balanced budget. So what do these elected geniuses do? They create more spending, produce less cuts, ignore the Medicare problem, forget about the down turn that will eventually come, and create a more difficult tax code. Then they all get together and tell us, "Hey, look what we did and we did it together!"

This was the best time in recent history for all of them to go home and stay out of mischief by doing nothing, or to take on Medicare fraud that is now at 41 BILLION a year.

The problem is...that would have been intelligent and productive. For those of you that think this balanced budget is good for you, ask yourself this question five years from now, "Am I better off now then I was five years ago?"

Where's Bob Novak on this one? He's probably closer to being senile then before. He got...sort of a capital-gains tax cut, but the rest will be even confusing to him. Anyone with any brain power who is trying to figure this one out will no doubt be brain dead in a short time.

You don't have to believe me. It will hit you when you go to fill out your taxes. Everyone is going to have to employ H&R Block this year no matter what their income may be. If you're single, or don't have children, or you are old and have a modest income, most likely you won't be affected and you're not part of the tax cut either. Actually, you may pay more. There are minor adjustments that are proper, but few.

What's interesting is that the Republicans wouldn't let Clinton screw this up by himself. They wanted to be a part of it! He lured them in, gave them nothing, to speak of, and they think this is good!

Now in the meantime, Edward Scissorhands, other wise known as Bill

Think about this, Seminole County

ERNEST HUTTON II

Ernest Hutton II is a veteran member of numerous government boards and is a civic activist in the interest of good government.

Archer, is going to make it worse by going for more cuts...after the fact. Like the Republicans haven't blundered enough. Mr. Archer, it's to late! If you are a double agent for the Democrats, it's a good idea, but not if you're a true Republican that may want to keep a majority in the House.

The one thing you have to give Clinton is that he has out-maneuvered the entire Republican Party. What will they have to run on in the next election?

Oh well, it's over...the dream of a balanced budget gone. Government cannot seem to operate on the assumption that the best way to balance the budget is to use all that additional revenue, that you didn't expect, to pay your debts. I don't like to use this scenario, but I will. Remember the old phrase, "like a drunken sailor?"

Back to the local scene...How many of the Orange County Commissioners do you believe would like to be elected by a mail in vote, as per the one penny sales tax increase that is going to voters...all to be done by mail? Interesting question? I think so! Why should such an important issue like this be decided by mail in votes? Why not go to the polls?

Orange County schools seem to have gotten a good superintendent, but he should have stayed out of politics. The school system should have concentrated on cleaning up it's act and then going directly to the voters. Instead, it has entangled the school needs into the sales tax, which is not popular...a major blunder.

This tax, as proposed, is going to make things worse. Orange County government doesn't trust itself. They know the taxpayers don't trust them...so they're going to put into affect all kinds of safe guards. In other words, they are going to appoint people, who will agree with them, who they are friendly with, to various oversight boards. All of this means nothing. Dear Mr. or Mrs. average citizen, Have you ever been appointed to one of these boards? Better yet, what about someone who opposed the idea to begin with? That's the one you should have on one of these oversight committees.

Do I sound sour on government? Sorry, but I am. Every intelligent economist must be wondering why he or she studied economics. At least, if they are going to be involved in government.

My last comments, if I hear another word about hiring another consulting firm to study anything, anywhere, for any purpose, please refund my taxes. Except, if it's to do a study on whether we would be better off if Congress was never in session and the Senate spent it's time out at sea tuna fishing.

Just think of all the kids we could have sent to college with consulting fees and SOFT MONEY!

State government...if the lottery were put up for a vote today, knowing what we now know, it wouldn't have a chance. It is up to you, our state representatives, whether or not you were in office at the time of the lottery vote, to solve the education issue. My advice is to offer as many alternatives as possible. Give families vouchers, support alternative schooling, create competition and that WILL improve the educational system in this state. BUILD MORE AND THE BEST VOCATIONAL SCHOOLS.

Give those students a fair opportunity at an alternative education geared to a vocation. It just makes sense. Have you ever tried to get something repaired by someone who didn't have the opportunity to learn his or her trade? Well, that's why they can't fix anything. We aren't giving them a school where they can learn these things. Instead, we bore them to death with classes they don't care about and then send them on their merry way, bright students in the wrong school. The result is that they remove a supporting beam in your home while trying to panel a room.

Bits and pieces: Political posturing

Some political moves are expected soon. Bob Barker's recent full page ad in a public statement that the next open Senate seat is his. The questions is...which one?

If Toni Jennings runs for governor--that's one option. Jennings' decision will be made shortly after Labor Day. Another is running for Buddy Dyer's seat if Dyer runs for a cabinet post...there are rumblings about the Commissioner of Education. The resulting dominoes could be interesting.

Larry Strickler, the ex-school board member who chose not to run for re-election in 1996, has increased his visibility in both Seminole and Orange counties. He could run for the Legislature or for an open Seminole County Commission seat. Larry Furlong has suddenly turned up in both the print and TV media. His debate with Tom Feeney before the Republican Executive Committee in late August could raise his hopes, but only if he is a clear winner.

Leo Constantine has to be looking. He's up against the B is Enough Amendment in 2000 and options might be less attractive then. He and Starks might try to split the two Senate seats--but only if Dyer runs for a cabinet post.

Jockeying continues in the county legal department. Bob McMillan was in the hot seat with his job early in the year over the county manager issue. The #3 attorney who handled telecommunications was recently abruptly fired after tangling at a CALNO meeting over school board member Larry Furlong's initiative to have taxpayers put government meetings on TV. Harland Wright's complaint to the County Commission is a fascinating read and is available from any county commissioner's aide. Just call them for your copy.

Also in legal department news is the move by some commissioners to have the sheriff's attorney create another nudity ordinance. That makes the fourth set of attorneys who will have tried. The American Center for Law and Justice (who offered to do it and defend it for free), the county staff, Ken Wright at Shuttes and Bowen, and now the sheriff's department. Don't you wish the commission would think first before firing from the hip on issues? Common sense goes a long way... and is cheaper for the taxpayers.

Speaking of costing taxpayers a bundle--Commission Chairman Randy Morris wants to establish a Seminole County Utilities Commission. At a recent work session, Morris brought forth a plan to create an agency outside of government to coordinate utilities in the county. The occasion was a consultant's report about purchasing Sanlando Utilities--yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus in their future.

Morris piggybacked off the recommendation to purchase Sanlando Utilities with a proposal to create an agency such as the OCU in Orange County.

It will be interesting to see the results. There are large areas of the county where citizens pay surcharges to cities for water and sewer service. Yankee Lake, which many feel is a white elephant, is largely unused. Some cities, like Longwood, are losing money and would love to dump the headache. Others, like Casselberry, have a cash cow and forcibly taking over with Eminent Domain actions could cost taxpayers millions of dollars in higher taxes or long term higher utility costs.

Vote

BOB GOFF

Seminole County School Board member.

But most importantly, is the idea of creating an agency, like OCU, which has little public oversight, a high paid director, a paid Board, expense accounts, and enough legal work to reward the most faithful legal firm with years and year of billings--I mean--work!

If Jim Stelling, the Seminole Republican Party chairman, campaigns for Jeb Bush for governor--then who will be assigned by the party to run Toni Jennings' campaign? What's at stake is the patronage of the Office of the Governor. To not assign someone important is to not cover your bet. The governor appoints certain judgeships, the Board of Trustees of the Seminole Community College, fills any vacancies in the School Board, and in some cases, the County Commission. The governor also decides who gets removed from office for allegations of wrongdoing. You certainly don't want a vindictive person in that role if charges start flying during campaigns.

The trick is to have both Republican candidates covered so the winning candidate feels that the Seminole Republican leadership was in their corner. Word has it Fred Streetman, will be assigned to the Jennings' campaign. The real key will be who Jennings appoints if Stelling dumps the popular Central Florida senator.

Metaphors Part 2

One of the most popular parts of this Special People column is words and their relation to the disabled community.

Some months ago we did an article called "Metaphors", and that is how we got today's title. So today's words are "Irony" and "Fate".

The two words above may seem different. When you think about it, when your plans turn out as you want, it is considered fate. When these plans turn out differently, it is irony. Irony and/or irony has to be one of the most used words in the English language. It has become a catch phrase for everything that doesn't turn out the way we hoped it would.

Compton's Encyclopedia also says that irony is a combination of circumstances or a result that is the opposite of what is or might be expected or considered appropriate. Irony is ever-present in a disabled persons life. I say this because many disabled people do achieve great things in their lives, which in turn is very ironic to the people who believe this cannot be done.

More proof that irony exists very strongly in a disabled persons life lies in the fact that a disabled person is disabled. Despite many physical problems, the disabled person survives. If you've got a positive or determined attitude, you realize that irony can be a good thing. It can make you want to prove the nay-sayers wrong.

Now let's talk a little about fate. Compton's Encyclopedia describes fate as the power or agency supposed to determine the outcome of events before they occur, or destiny. Fate has many positive and negative connotations. When something bad happens, it's fate! When something good happens, IT'S FATE!

Thanks to that great organization "Special Olympics" many fantastic disabled athletes show that they can achieve good things. Is it fate that makes a person disabled or just a challenge that some of us may face. It could in fact be a mixture of both. There is also another aspect of fate. It is whatever we make of it. In that vein, I believe any disabled person can change fate, even to a small degree.

In fact, some philosophers say that it is up to all of us, disabled or not, to continue to better ourselves and become the best person we can be. That can be accomplished through many things such as education, working to achieve your goals and trying new things. Then when you achieve your goal, that will be your fate.

Seminole County: My experience is a racial flashback

As I entered the doors to the Seminole County Sheriff's Department on May 14, 1997, it reminded me of some military experiences during my overseas tours, that I was now entering enemy territory and preparing for battle, of course with the exception that I didn't have any M60A1's or grenades, just my master.

I felt the racism as I strolled down the hallways into a little waiting room, patiently awaiting for two investigators to conduct an interview about a complaint received on me, by a white female. I continued to look down the hallways feeling this backwoods, Mississippi environment, two investigators approached me and escorted me to a room to conduct a voice stress test at my request concerning the complaint. Due to the fact that I am a black man that speaks out in Seminole County, a man that is not controlled by their system, not stereotyped by their standards, I can't give you the details about this incident, because it is turning into a nightmare. But I will tell you that facts of why it is escalating.

I volunteered to take a stress (voice) test to help clear up this complaint, but instead I'm now a criminal of the system. On that Wednesday of May the 14th, after these two investigators completed their questioning, they left the room for several minutes. I became annoyed, because I had surgery the day before I took the stress (voice) test and I was paining. Finally, the officers showed up with that victory look on their faces and I knew they were about to tell a lie, and lo and behold, they (the officers) couldn't sense that I was smart enough to realize their ignorance.

I wasn't scared because their system wants you to fear. Especially if you are black in Seminole County. But, I was somewhat aggravated. I started to look around for some black faces, other black investigators to confide in, but to no avail. I knew then that I was in the devil's hands. I knew they had finally created something on me and that I would now have to walk through the system. I got to face the worst racial county in the state, but I'm prepared. I get to go before judges who uphold a lot of this ignorance, but I'm going to win. I have got to listen to the charges read by an unjust State's Attorney Office, but I won't break.

So, now the Sheriff, the judges and State's Attorney can conjure up a win, but I will have the victory. This county suffers from the lack of good leadership. We have County Commissioners who govern like recovering addicts. A State's Attorney Office that looks for nothing but plea bargains and judges who are tired and confused. We have a county of well over 379,000 residents with the lack of minority participation in the administration and enforcement seniority. This county has increased population from 26,983 residents in 1950 to well over 379,000 at year 1996 with well over one third (1/3) of all black male population in jail, prison or on probation.

The uneducated politicians and their infidels are the only ones that benefit from this (system) regime. This hi-tech racial county is on a life supporter, waiting to be unplugged.

I found that the Sheriff has a few blacks in the capacity of Captains and Lieutenants, but it is behind the jail doors. That's where we need them at, to help watch the others. What I really love about this system is that it is losing and they cannot see it. I don't care if you live in the Deverly Hills of Lake Mary, Heathrow, or in Winter Springs, or Sanford. We are all victims in the system.

This county won't survive with the social and moral ills, the unstable government, the racial ignorance and the ungodly spirit. Even some of the law enforcement officers are tired of the system. Some of the voters are being betrayed by the system. They are tired. Some of the leaders (look in the mirror, you are aging from sin, look at me, where I am from, it is equality, and one Lord over all.)

You know, I looked at the word hate and began to realize how blessed I am and how confused this system really is. I began to see hate as being prejudiced hostility or animosity for one color or race in your system. I then was blessed to learn that you don't hate for color of one skin, but you're afraid of one's capabilities. To hate a man is very, very deep because you don't know his heart and your system's authority.

I'm glad and thankful that I'm a free man even in Seminole County, and not an employee who will fear for my job (I am retired). I am not afraid of being fired trying to save my benefits (there are none), but a free black man that knows your limitations.

Using white females to criminally seduce black males hasn't changed. Sheriff's offices and any other establishment should stop using white females to criminally seduce and stand on their own two feet. I was married to a lovely white female with three beautiful children, but I never though I'd be seduced criminally by one. Be men, find your own charges and methods and stop using people.

Students to be checked for TB

From Staff Reports
About 300 Lake Howell High School students and staff will be tested for tuberculosis Tuesday because a student there has the disease.
Seminole County Department workers will perform the injection which is administered under the skin of the forearm. The test will be followed up in 48 hours to determine whether TB is present in the individuals. Health officials noted, however, that even though a test may come up positive, that does not necessarily indicate the presence of the disease.
The student, who developed the disease last spring, has since been treated and is not currently at school.
Tuberculosis, transmitted through coughing, is a bacterial infection affecting the lungs and is only contagious when the disease is active.

Sanford to review airport budget

By MARIA OREM
Herald Staff Writer
A review of the Orlando Sanford Airport $4.3 million proposed budget and the presentation of the Explorer of the Year award will be among the topics at the Sanford City Commission meeting Monday at 7 p.m. at City Hall on N. Park Avenue. Other highlights include:

The second reading Ordinance 3351 to increase the amount of insurance coverage for taxis operating in Sanford to $100,000 for injury to any one person, $300,000 for injuries to more than one person, and $50,000 for property damage.
A request to authorize a contract for $39,000 to an accounting firm to perform a 1996 audit for the city.

A request to raise the retirement benefit rate from 3.19 percent to 3.50 percent for Sanford police officers, and from 2.62 percent to 2.78 percent for firefighters.
A request to allocate utility reserve funds for three projects, on Lake Mary Boulevard, East Lake Mary Boulevard and Airport Boulevard, totaling $197,987.

At the commission's work session at 4:30 p.m., a development group interested in building hotels on the waterfront and the airport in Sanford, will offer a summary of the corporation's qualifications and existing projects.
For information, call the city at 330-5600.

Attend

were not aware of the luncheon and that there had been some communication.
"It would have been nice if we would have been asked," said board member Bob Goff. "I am absolutely flabbergasted. This must have been an oversight on the part of the chamber staff."
Board member Larry Furlong said if he would have had notice of the meeting he would have planned to attend.
Jeanne Morris, school board vice chairman, called the incident a communication problem.
Morris, who also sits on the chamber's education committee, said that about three months ago there had been some discussion regarding Brogan's upcoming visit, however the date set at that time was Aug. 15.

"I had it on my calendar for the 15th and I even planned my vacation around it so that I could be here and attend the luncheon," she said.
Morris said she did not know of the rescheduled date until late Friday when she received the chamber's newsletter.
"By the time I found out it was too late. I was really shocked and thought that perhaps I had missed something."
In all fairness to the chamber, though, Morris said, during this time a new interim director had been brought in and perhaps the previous director had reserved a table in anticipation of the school board's attendance assuming that the board would know about it.
Board members Sandy Robinson and Barbara Kuhn could not be reached for comment.

Parks board cries foul on museum proposal

By SHARI BRODIE
Herald Staff Writer
Sometimes in Lake Mary you just have to ask whom on first and if they batted in the right order.
The Lake Mary Historical Commission wants a museum but in order to do that, the Lake Mary Seniors, who now occupy the Frank Evans Center on a daily basis, must find another place to meet.
The seniors are willing to move to the community building, which is vacant most weekday mornings and afternoons.
The historical commission and the seniors took this proposal to their city staff liaison, who reported to the city manager on a meeting that was held on June 25 to discuss the use of the Frank Evans Center.
A report of that meeting and a joint meeting of the Lake Mary Historical Commission, the Elder Affairs Commission, the city commission and city staff, in a work session held on June 19, was presented to the Lake Mary City Commission on July 10.
Everyone agrees that it is a workable plan. But all of the players involved are apparently guilty of omitting one step in the process of approval of the plan.
"We as a board are taken aback that we were not consulted," Parks and Recreation Board Chairman Laura Mylrea-Morris said in regard to the meetings and information presented to the city commission.
The parks board, with the approval of the city commission, sets the use policies of all of the city's parks and public buildings, which include the FEC (Old City Hall) and the community building (formerly the Community Improvement Assoc. building).

When the CIA sold the community building to the city, it became the parks board's responsibility to set the policies that would govern the collection of rental fees necessary for the use of the building.
Now, the seniors and a few of the civic groups currently meeting at the FEC, are asking for the use of the community building without charge. Mylrea-Morris stated Monday night that she was afraid that allowing these groups to do this would set a precedence.
"I'm afraid we've put the cart before the horse," Mylrea-Morris said regarding giving permission to the seniors to build into the community building before impact on the ordinance was investigated.
"What you are proposing is an extremely complex agreement," Mylrea-Morris said. "I'm afraid a couple of issues may not have been considered."
Mylrea-Morris said that, over the years, many groups have been denied use of the building because the wanted waiver of the fee. To stipulate that only non-profit organizations could use the building without a fee would also create a "Catch-22," she said.
"We do not have an ordinance that allows non-profits use of the community building."
Hanging in the balance is the fate of the historical commission's plans to move forward with a museum.
"We have several people in the community who have artifacts they would like to put in a museum," said historical commission chairman Jean Brooklyn but added that because there are so many people in and out of the building and so many keys out there, the historical commission cannot guarantee the safety of donated items.

Besides the senior, the AARP, the Toastmasters, the Girl Scout and several homeowners' associations use the building as meeting space.
Also, the historical commission recently sponsored a luncheon for Lake Mary Elementary teachers to show them what a resource the museum can be. "The teachers didn't realize what we had for them," said Brooklyn.
"When we can lock things up," said Mary Wolff, past historical Commission president, "people are going to bring in a lot of relics. We want a museum that will be an outstanding historic monument."
Parks and Recreation Director John Holland said that his review of the current use of the community building and the current meeting schedule at the FEC would allow for almost all of the groups to be satisfied, without impacting the income of the building.

He added that the city had already considered installing another soundproof, movable wall to the main room of the building, allowing for the addition of a third meeting room, should conflicts arise.
Mylrea-Morris said that while she concurred completely with the plans, the ordinance would have to be rewritten or amended to reflect the change in the fee structure.
Holland said that he felt that could be done in the form of a resolution, which could be prepared for review by the Parks and Recreation Board in their September meeting and their recommendation taken to the city commission at their next meeting.
The Parks and Recreation Board voted unanimously to accept the presentation of the resolution in September.

Local vet competes in wheelchair games

Special to the Herald
Jerry L. Dugan, a disabled Air Force veteran from Longwood, recently competed in the 17th National Veterans Wheelchair Games (NVWG), that was held this past month in San Diego. The field of more than 500 athletes from 40 states, Puerto Rico and Great Britain makes this the largest annual wheelchair sports event in the United States. All athletes are military veterans who use wheelchairs due to spinal cord impairment, certain neurological conditions, orthopedic amputations, or other disabilities. Dugan, 57, is a quadriplegic. He is currently receiving care at the VA medical facility in Tampa.
Dugan competed in the following events: table tennis, 9-ball and quad weightlifting.
"These annual Games give me a level playing field in which I can compete," said Dugan. "It's good to see my peers rewarded after their year of training and perseverance."

Athletes at the NVWG compete according to their ability, within three divisions-master (over age 40), open, and novice (first-time competitors in wheelchair sports). They also compete within classes according to the level of their physical ability, with three quadriplegic-level classes (IA, IB, and IC), and four paraplegic-level or amputee classes (II, III, IV, and V). Dugan competed as a Class IA in the Master Division.
The NVWG are presented by the U. S. Department of Veterans Affairs and the Paralyzed Veterans of America, and was hosted this year by the VA San Diego Healthcare System. Funded by the help of a host of corporations and service organizations, the event is a showcase for the remarkable athletic abilities and personal achievements of our nation's disabled veterans.

Da Bomb!

What's up in and out of the classrooms of Seminole County

68 - Seminele Herald, Sanford, Florida - Sunday, August 19, 1987

Da Bomb hears all...

Hey, Greenwood Lakes Middle School! I know y'all know how to do some serious writing in your writer's club. How 'bout sendin' some samples to Da Bomb so we can publish them?

Speakin' of Seminele, what's goin' on with the people who are puttin' together class schedules. Da Bomb hears that there's not much time to chill between classes since everybody's walkin' all over campus to get to their next class.

Da Bomb wants to know what Mrs. Peace over at Heathrow Elementary has planned for her art classes this year. She came up with a really cool Mayan project last year and the kids loved it.

Early reports are in: Da Bomb sez y'all made a nice choice with Mr. Momary when you named him principal over at Lyman.

Da Bomb sends congrats to Mr. Snoberger, the new head man at Winter Springs Elementary. It couldn't have happened to a cooler guy.

It's too bad that Lake Brantley is so crowded but whassup with givin'g late slips to everybody who gets caught in traffic jams gettin' to sez class? Da Bomb that place looks like roller derby between classes.

Hey Mr. Shupe at Lakeview! Da Bomb hears that the students are tired of waiting 'till 4 every day to get their bikes.

Lake Mary Elementary offers an after-school program that allows kids to study and play while they wait for

LMES after-school program pays dividends

Seven-year-old Sevic Filozofos sits with her little brother, holding his hand the entire time, talking about what it's like to stay after school.

They didn't seem to mind. In fact, none of the 60 kids that participate in Lake Mary Elementary's after-school program seemed to mind.

June Cleaver isn't around in the 90s. Parents work and can't always be with their kids the minute school ends so local schools have set up after-noon programs to keep an eye on kids until their parents get off work.

The Seminole Family YMCA ran the program for the past several years, but now the schools themselves are handling the operation.

The transition has been pulled off without a hitch.

Almost. The only problem is that help is desperately needed in the form of volunteers and permanent employees. Students at the local high schools have been volunteering their time to fulfill community service requirements but more help is needed.

The program runs from 3 p.m. - 6 p.m. every day except Wednesdays when it starts an hour earlier. It also runs from See Schools, Page 8A

A familiar face in a new place

Mr. Townsely takes over at Sabal Point

By COURTNEY LEFREW
Herald Staff Writer

He may be a tad tall for the elementary students at Sabal Point but the children and parents seem to love him.

Michael Townsely has recently transferred from Heathrow elementary, the school he started and helped build. Ironically, he is now at Sabal Point the school where he received his first teaching job.

When Townsely began his career his mind was set on health and physical education, being an administrator was not his plan.

He grew up in Minneapolis, Minnesota where he also spent his college years. He was a gym rat and playing basketball was the sport he took a liking to. At a small college of about 16,000, Townsely was able to stay close by home and play b-ball. Although before he entered college Townsely took a slight detour into the marine core for two years.

"I remember the recruiting office telling me there is a 98 percent chance I was going to Vietnam and a 95 percent chance I would end up in the infantry unit. I spent 13 months over in Vietnam," says Townsely with a smile.

In June of 1973, Townsely married his wife who taught mentally handicapped children. Teaching jobs in Minnesota were decreasing so Townsely and his new wife moved down to Florida. He got offered to be a gym teacher at Sabal Point Elementary, where he spent the next four years.

Soon Townsely decided to move to Lake Brantley High School where he became the Dean of Students.

Townsely states, "That's what really wet my appetite for administration."

In addition, to being the Dean he also was the assistant basketball coach for three years. In his last year, Town-

Entrepreneur is going forward

By MARIA OREM
Herald Staff Writer

He built a multi-million dollar company from the ground up and he was named Florida's Entrepreneur of the Year.

As founder of Software Support Inc., headquartered at Heathrow International Business Park, Joe Jacoboni is a self-made millionaire.

SSI provides telephone technical support for more than 400 computer software programs. The company employs about 300 people at its 37,500 square foot facility at Heathrow and 700 at its Houston, Texas location.

Jacoboni said he was honored to be recognized by his peers and it was quite satisfying to receive the award.

"I think I have lived every entrepreneur's dream by founding a company which turned into a billion dollar industry," he said.

Jacoboni's track record speaks for itself.

A resident of Longwood for 11 years, Jacoboni, 44, was born in Detroit, Mich. With an interest in medicine, Jacoboni enrolled in the pre-med program at a community college. After two years, though, he changed his mind, dropped medicine, and decided to get into business.

"I had a talent for sales and wanted to pursue a marketing career," he said.

At age 19, Jacoboni moved to California where he worked for a motivational speaker. Picking up on the concept and with an inclination toward independence, Jacoboni became a speaker and six years later moved to Houston, Texas where he started his own motivational speaking and sales training company.

By age 25, however, the young entrepreneur had over-expanded and was forced to close his first business venture. Jacoboni attributed this largely to his inexperience and lack of understanding of accounting practices.

On the advice of a friend, Jacoboni's next venture would be in the computer business.

Still in Houston, Jacoboni was hired as a senior account executive for Data Systems Raytheon. After he learned the business, an opportunity came up at Phillips Micon, where he marketed word processing hardware.

"This was the beginning of the PC era. Computers were just starting out," he said.

Not one to linger in any one place very long, Jacoboni was hired by Business Land, which sold computer hardware and software. While there, he served as a regional general manager, eventually transferring to Orlando.

Two companies later and still in the computer field, Jacoboni at age 38, was once again ready to go out on his own.

"I had had a taste of it earlier in my career," he said, adding "I had been successful at making other people money and I was confident because of my experience that I would be successful."

He said he took six months off and conducted his own market research. What he came up with turned out to be an innovative concept in the computer support field.

The idea was to provide third party technology for computer software and hardware. But unlike the major companies that provided support by sending out technicians, Jacoboni restricted the service to telephone support.

"Nobody was doing this then," he said. "Now several hundred companies in the industry, including companies like IBM, offer phone support."

It's another case of waiting until the entrepreneurs do something innovative and then the big guys follow.

Jacoboni said he then came up with a business plan and sold everything he owned. With an initial investment of about $75,000, he opened up an office and SSI was born.

About nine months ago, Jacoboni sold his brainchild to Matrix Marketing Inc. of Ohio, a wholly owned subsidiary of Cincinnati Bell Services Inc. with $1.57 billion in assets. He remained there in a management function until his resignation on July 29.

"It made sense at the time," he said about the sale. "With all the larger corporations getting into the business it was harder to retain a competitive edge. This was the right thing for me and the company (Matrix) to do."

"As an employee there I realized we had different philosophies and that it was time to move on."

Not wasting any time, Jacoboni has since diversified and is now involved in three companies as both an owner and marketer. He has interests in Robert Thomas Galleries in Winter park, Jacoboni Charters Inc., and Jacoboni Real Estate Inc.

Jacoboni, who said he would probably never retire, is currently looking for investment opportunities, specifically with young entrepreneurs who need venture capital.

"I plan to look for young entrepreneurs with great ideas I can invest in and that I can be a part of."

Psst Bucs, Jags, this area is rich with fans

SANFORD Nine years ago, the NBA discovered something that the NFL has missed. There is life in Central Florida.

Now let's be honest, the NFL isn't coming to Orlando. But it has gone to Tampa and Jacksonville and, if you went to either of those cities, it's as if Central Florida doesn't exist.

That's too bad since, on any Friday night or Saturday afternoon, you'd think Orlando was the football capital of the world. But the folks in Tampa and Jacksonville don't seem to understand.

Let's take a look at the Bucs first. It's been two years since there has been a sellout at Tampa Stadium, er, the uh, Houlihan's Stadium.

You'd think the Bucs would realize that only two hours away, there is an untapped fan base dying for a team.

You'd think Tony Dungy, Trent Dilfer and the boys would be sent over here to woo the Orlandoids and expand their fan base.

But they haven't. For every Buccaneer that has made the drive to Orlando to garner some fan support, there has been a Bucs' waning season and at least 1,000 appearances from the Orlando Jackals, the local roller skating team that works their butt off to fill the Orlando Arena.

The sad thing is, fans and support are exactly what the Buccaneers need. Any team that has lost at least 10 games per season for as long as the Bucs should be doing everything they can to cultivate fan interest.

Oh, yeah, there is that exhibition game in two weeks.

Against the Jets.

Some promotional appearances and some advertising in Orlando would go a long way to bringing Orlando into the fold but it hasn't been happening.

As long as the Bucs try to be Tampa's team exclusively, look for lots of empty seats and Houlihan Stadium.

Then there's Jacksonville. For two years, it's been nearly impossible to get a seat at the Gator Bowl, er, uh, Alltel Stadium.

But the Jags need to remember a few things. First of all, they barely do any marketing in Jacksonville, let alone Central Florida.

Four years ago, when Jacksonville was prostituting itself for an expansion team, season ticket holders were required to put in a down payment for the first three years of the franchise. As a result, every game has sold out and the city is looked at as an NFL Cinderella story.

However, Jacksonville isn't big enough to support a team year after year, especially when the Jags fall third in importance behind the University of Florida and Florida State. Let's see how many ticket holders renew next year if the Jags don't follow up on last year's miracle.

But on any Sunday, I-4 and I-95 are full of cars taking the two-hour drive to Jacksonville for the Jags. There is a fan base here but the Jags haven't even come close to tapping in.

Kevin Hardy spoke last spring at the Downtown Athletic Club but, as far as the Jacksonville-Orlando connection, that's about it.

It's too bad because Orlando can be had as a solid fan base for either team.

First one to Orlando gets our love.

Last Second Shot: What does Lake Brantley grad Brad Rigby need to do to get his first major league win with the Oakland A's? How many times can he pitch a great game only to get no offensive support? Rigby has been the ace of the Oakland staff for the last month and has nothing to show for it except a bunch of 3-0 losses.

Altamonte squad begins quest for Bambino gold

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — When the Altamonte Springs team takes to the field this afternoon for its opening game of the 1997 Babe Ruth Bambino World Series at Eastmonte Park, they may not recognize the place.

The field that was formerly used for the older players' leagues has been transformed into a beautiful stadium. A new scoreboard to rival the major leagues (only the Jumbotron is missing), a new press box behind home plate, new sod that looks like a golf green and new bleachers along both foul lines and in the outfield are just a few of the improvements.

The host squad hopes it can be just as bedazzling to the rest of the teams as it hopes to move up two places and keep the championship trophy right here in Seminole County.

This will be the third major tournament hosted by Eastmonte Park since Altamonte Springs joined the Babe Ruth League in 1995. In 1995 the league hosted the Bambino Division Southeastern Regional Championship and last year played host to the Southeastern Regional Championship for the Prep Division (13 year olds). In both of those tournaments the Altamonte Springs team finished third.

Making up the team that will be representing Altamonte Springs are Justin Wenger, Chris Moriera, Brent Upham, Brett Bradley, Ryan Harris, Ben Allen, Michael Blackstock, Casey Faughn, Isaiah Napoli, Ryan Colton, Jason Morro, Jonathan Venters and Phill Kelly.

The team is led by manager Mike Morro Jr. and coaches John Venters and Gregg Carnes. The team hostesses are Megan Burke, Valerie Dickson, Jackie Phillips and Jenna Smith and the batboys are Coleby Carnes and Raymond Zimmer.

Along with the Altamonte Springs squad are eight of the top teams, ages 12 and under, from across the country and they will battle for the title of national champion in the double-elimination tournament that could stretch to 17 games over the next eight days. During the 1998 games in Henderson, Kentucky, the event drew approximately 80,000 spectators.

The Babe Ruth League Opening Ceremonies will take place at noon, with former Baltimore Oriole pitcher Scott McGregor throwing out the first pitch, and then the opening game between Brooklyn, New York and South Lexington, Kentucky will begin at 1 p.m.

Altamonte Springs will then hold its own Opening Ceremonies at 3:15 p.m. with the host team's first game being played at 4:06 p.m. against Elk Grove, California.

Sunshine Network will televise the Altamonte Springs' game live starting at 4 p.m. The Sunshine Network will also broadcast on tape delay the Championship Game that will take place next Saturday (August 16th at 1 p.m. or 3:30 p.m.) Andrew Monaco and Rick Peckham are scheduled to be the commentators with a target audience of approximately 20 million households.

The final game of the opening day will be played starting at 7:30 p.m. featuring Vicksburg, Mississippi against Hendersonville, North Carolina.

Also in the tournament are teams from Williamette Valley, Oregon, White Bear Lake, Minnesota and Keene, New Hampshire.

There will be three games played on Sunday

Games are won in the off-season

LAKE MARY — Three months out of the year, high school football coaches adorn the sidelines every Friday night at high schools around the county.

Coaches parade between the goals, talk with their assistants, pat their players on the heads and pull every ounce of football knowledge they have together to win the game.

It's a tough job. High school coaches are very prominent in their communities. This leads to endless scrutiny, second guessing and phone calls by concerned parents all hours of the night.

This also leads to the coaches second guessing themselves, worrying about their players and waking during the middle of the night to jot down the new formation from their dreams.

What the public doesn't see, however, is what goes on the other nine months of the year. They also don't see what the coaches go through on a daily basis off the field in order to ensure that Friday night is a success.

Take the Lake Mary High School coaches, for example. Head football coach, (as if that wouldn't keep him busy enough with teaching and raising a family, he is also the school's athletic director) Doug Peters, has been preparing for this season since almost before the last one ended.

Head football coach, (as if that wouldn't keep him busy enough with teaching and raising a family, he is also the school's athletic director) Doug Peters, has been preparing for this season since almost before the last one ended.

Lake Mary football coach Doug Peters (far right) leads his coaching staff through weekly meetings to discuss the upcoming season. Last Sunday, the staff put together the depth chart for the coming season.

"As a football coach, these three months are what I live for," Peters said. "This is the culmination of a whole year's worth of work and obviously the most exciting time for me. I enjoy everything that goes with the job, though. From the paperwork to actually getting to be with the kids, I truly get excited about the entire program."
Peters is not alone in his endeavors. He has a staff of assistants that are as dedicated to the program as he is and just as busy. Most of his supporting staff are teachers and coach other sports as well while trying to find time for their own families.
That staff includes Steve Katz (offensive line), Scott McCaskill

(defensive line), Willie Pauldo (linebackers), Doug Pettit (defensive coordinator), Allen Tuttle (receivers) and Scott Underwood (backs). Peters works with the quarterbacks at practice.
Varsity coaches are not the only responsibility that Peters has. As head varsity coach, he is also responsible for the junior varsity and freshman coaches and programs. He must choose coaches that fit into the program and also must be available to help them and answer any of their questions throughout the season.
"I tell my coaches every year that if they are not willing to do what is needed of them, they shouldn't be a part of my staff," Peters said. "I am not a tyrant, but I want people with me who believe in the same things I do. I also want the junior varsity and freshman programs to be mirrors of the varsity so that the entire program is unified. I have an open door policy, however. I know I need help. I welcome any suggestions from anyone, especially my staff. We are a team and the only way we can be successful is to be just that...a team."

Peters also said that the other two programs are just as important as the varsity and the coaches have just as much responsibility.

Michael Burke, of Workouts Partners in Lake Mary, is using and teaching the Zone diet, a combination of foods he says are sure to guarantee health and fitness.

Lake Mary diet doctor staying in the "Zone"

LAKE MARY — IT'S AMAZING! IT WILL CHANGE YOUR LIFE! WATCH THE POUNDS MELT AWAY!

STEP RIGHT UP! It's easy to picture Michael Burke on the back of a train at a state fair 100 years ago, traveling through the midwest trying to pedal his revolutionary diet plan but that's not the case at all.

Burke doesn't even have to leave his office at Workout Partners in Lake Mary. People are flocking to him and the Zone he is promoting.

Burke has the enthusiasm of one of the fabled traveling salesmen of a century ago but he is serious and, if you give him a few minutes, it all starts to make sense.

His diet is based on the idea of maintaining a delicate balance of protein, carbohydrates and fats. Burke determines a certain amount of each that are to be balanced equally during each meal based on a 9-7-1 1/3 ratio of carbohydrates, protein and fat. He said that since he started the program several weeks ago his energy has been higher and so has his enthusiasm.

"Food is a drug for your body," he said. "You just prescribe it yourself. It's like you have a Ferrari and you fill it with bad gasoline. If you do that, you won't go anywhere."

Burke's program goes against the grain of many of the ideas that most people consider when going on a diet. For instance, Burke said that foods such as potatoes, pasta and rice are overrated.

IN THE COUNTY COURT OF THE EIGHTEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT

Remembering The Earl of Snohomish

SANFORD Earl Torgeson is stretching for a throw to first base. A shiny white baseball is in his trapper's mitt.

He's wearing his famous Earl Torgeson eye glasses.

Not many ballplayers wore glasses in the 1950s. Dom DiMaggio did. So did Walter Masterson, Bob Dillinger and Earl Torgeson.

The other day, Earl Torgeson came out of the closet. Well, a baseball card of Earl Torgeson came out. A 1951 Bowman Gum card. Almost 50 years old. The corners are soft and the colors have faded.

But Earl still has the ball in his mitt, his foot is on the bag and for sure the runner is out.

A lot of kids liked Earl Torgeson because he reminded them of Superman. Actually, actor George Reeves. With his glasses, Torgeson was more like Clark Kent but he hit like Superman in 1950 for the Boston Braves.

Torgy scored 120 runs, and led the National League in this statistic. That you could read on the back of his 1951 Bowman Gum card. He hit 30 doubles and 23 home runs. Had a .290 batting average.

If the folks who made the Earl Torgeson baseball card had enough room on the cardboard, they might have noted that he was frequently referred to in his hometown as "the Earl of Snohomish."

He was born on New Year's Day 1924 in Snohomish, Wash. He's the only major-leaguer I know of from Snohomish. I wonder if there's a plaque for him there. He played almost 15 years in the big leagues. He hit 149 home runs. I bet he broke his glasses a dozen times (no one kept stats like that).

Torgeson hit .389 in the 1948 World Series but the Braves lost to the Cleveland Indians, four games to two. The Earl of Snohomish played in five of the six games. He may have lost or broken his glasses and had to sit out a game. Either that, or he rode the bench when Gene Bearden pitched. Earl was a left-handed hitter and Bearden threw left-handed.

Just guessing, but Torgeson probably never made more than $18,000 a season. He finished in 1961 with the New York Yankees. He was 37, and played in only 22 games. He contributed two hits. His batting average was .111. He didn't get to play in the World Series.

I don't know this for a fact but my guess is that the Earl of Snohomish never asked a cent for his autograph. He probably never cursed a sportswriter or got thrown out of a game. He probably said "dang it" if his glasses got broken or he missed a pop fly when they fogged up.

Earl Torgeson's baseball card isn't one that is in much demand. That's okay. I'll be hanging on to my card. It's not for sale or trade. It's a keeper. A reminder of kinder, gentler times. Wish I still had my Earl Torgeson first baseman's mitt. It vanquished a long time ago. As did my youth.

Torgy died in 1990 but a bubblegum card remains, for which I am grateful.

Earl Torgeson batted .290, drove in 87 runs and led the National League in runs scored with 120 in 1950 for the Boston Braves.

Coaches

Hawkins. The freshmen responsibilities will be handled by Kelly Watsoncott and Larry McCorkle.

So, exactly what do all these coaches do and what goes into the program?

Starting nine months ago, Peters had quite an agenda.

After a period of rest, the potential players were given a suggestion for conditioning in the off season. No player is required to work out before practice begins, but every coach knows that it is hard on a player to do nothing for months and then attempt to run drills and hit weights in order to ready themselves for the season. Peters and his staff get with each player and lay out what they think would be best for them to do individually and on their own.

Then there are the practice fields. In order to maintain the stadium field so that it is in good condition and safe for the players on game night, practice is only held on the game field on Thursdays.

Therefore, quality practice fields are needed. Beginning at the end of the season, Peters started working on reconditioning the fields. Unfortunately, Peters doesn't believe that they are up to par yet, so the next hurdle is deciding where to put the varsity, junior varsity and freshmen squads on a daily basis so they can get in good and safe practices.

"I've been working on the practice fields since spring," Peters said. "We finally got someone out here to do the work, but I just don't know if they'll be ready when practice starts. So we have to utilize the baseball and softball fields for a short time until the fields are ready."

Equipment is the first staple for any team. Every year, something is damaged or lost and needs to be replaced. Equipment also needs to be reconditioned periodically so that it lasts. Peters takes pride in his equipment and all of it is either new or nearly new. It takes constant supervision and care to keep track of uniforms for over 100 players on three squads. And in the off season, if anything is needed, Peters and his staff are responsible for making sure that everything is in order, stocked and assigned to players before the first practice.

Also included with that huge

Back row: Tommy Ketterer, Mike Mostler, Natalie Lott, Kendra Ahearn, Casey Ahearn, Lindsay Pollicci, Hayley Monk, Casey Clark, Karen Holleran, Jennifer Vickers, Melissa Maza, Casey Henderson, Ryan Lingle. responsibility is the practice equipment. There has to be safe and appropriate practice dumbbells and such as well as enough to keep most of the players busy during the limited practice time.

While all of this is going on, Peters and his staff have to formulate a schedule for the following season including which special events such as jamborees the team is going to participate in, transportation to and from away games, bus and locker room supervision and any other scheduling concern that may arise.

Don't forget the locker rooms and weight rooms at the school. Someone has to supervise these areas as well while the players are practicing, before and after games, and even during the school day due to the equipment that is left in there. That all has to be arranged and coordinated in the off season as well as everything in place when practice starts.

Another responsibility of the coaching staff is to coordinate picture day for the players, trainers, managers and coaches. Also, every student that participates in a sport must have a physical before they begin practicing. Peters and the staff take care of these arrangements.

Then the fun begins.

About two weeks before the kids report for practice, the staff holds meetings. All of the coaches get together and talk about which returning players will be best in which positions, what is expected for the offense and defense, any problem areas are addressed and solutions are formulated and practice and game responsibilities are handed down and discussed.

Probably the most fun for the coaches is coming up with new plays and formations. In the off season, coaches attend colleges, seminars and camps in an effort to learn new game strategies. Then, when they come together before the season, they share what they have learned and figure out which plays will best benefit the team.

Practice starts approximately one month before the first game. That's when the coaching staff comes alive. All of the hard work over the past nine months is put to the test.

The work isn't over, though. Every day, the practice fields have to be lined and the game field must also be lined before the game. Students have questions, coaches have questions. Every student must have complete files including birth dates, physical records and the like. Someone watches the weight room and locker rooms. Game films have to be looked over for both Lake Mary and the next opponent and strategies are re-worked to fit the game plan.

It is a never ending, tiresome, sometimes overwhelming job. And not one of the coaches would trade their job for anything.

"I am a teacher first, and then a coach," Peters said. "I am here to help the kids and teach them a little football along the way. Sure, I want to win as much as everyone and my job is to put the team in a position to do that every week. I do that for my players and then it's up to them what they do with it. But I am more than a coach. I do this because I love football and I care about the kids."

On Friday nights, when the coaches are marching up and down the sidelines, try and think of all of the hard work they put in during the off season. Think of them in the hot sun lining the field, in the coaches office late into Sunday night and helping each and every kid who need them with any problem they may have.

They're out there because they care about their schools and their athletes. Those short three months are what they live for. Next time there is a questionable call, just know that they are truly doing their very best.

The Eagles Nest
Golf this week

LAKE MARY It isn't often that you get the chance to play one of the best - and most exclusive courses in all of Florida. Hidden back on Markham Wood Road, behind some forbidding steel gates and some no-nonsense security men, sits Alauqua Country Club.

If you haven't played it, well that's because it's totally private. That way, when resident hero Gary Player wants to play a round of golf with, say Ivan Lendl and Michael Jordan, he's not waiting for 40-handicappers to try to negotiate Alauqua's tight fairways.

If you get a chance to play Alauqua, take it. For the next couple of months, there are some opportunities.

For starters, the course will host the 21st Annual AutoClassic Monday with a 9 a.m. shotgun start.

The cost is $70 per player or $700 per foursome and also includes a party invitation for two, continental breakfast, auctions and an additional round of golf at Deer Island Golf and Lake Club. Proceeds from the event will benefit the Epilepsy Association of Central Florida. To register, call Carmen at 422-1416.

The price may be steep but it's tough to turn down an invitation to play one of the best and most well-kept courses in Central Florida if not the state.

Alauqua will also host its inaugural Match Play Member Golf Tournament over Labor Day weekend.

The format is best ball, two-man and teams will be paired in flights based on handicap, with the winners from that Saturday's pairings playing the following day to determine the winners.

Alauqua's Director of Golf, Gary Ellis said he hopes to make it an annual event.

Diet

you because that's what a lot of research says," Burke said. "When you eat a starchy food, there is a lot of glycemia. Your liver takes what it needs and the rest is just turned into fat."

It's all a matter, Burke said, of keeping a balance.

"By keeping a level balance, you get a higher efficiency of fuel in the right combination."

Burke said there are several keys to his diet. First, a person trying to get into the zone must keep their insulin spikes to a minimum. That's where his ratio of seven parts protein, nine parts of carbohydrates and one-and-a-half parts fat come into the picture. The volumes depend on a formula.

One of the best things about the diet is that snacking is okay. Burke said he often takes a cup of milk (one percent, not skim) with some almonds. The hardest part is getting away from regular dietary staples such as potatoes and rice.

Burke described a typical breakfast.

He had two egg whites and two cups of one percent milk. There was also a half cup of honey dew melon and a couple of almonds.

"You need to maintain a consistent level so if you fall off the wagon, it's no big deal," Burke said. "We're supposed to feel healthy all the time and when we feel bad, it should be an exception, not the other way around."

Even better, Burke said the diet is completely affordable. Shopping at a regular grocery store, he said the meals are cheap and can be eaten in such a way that the food can last several days.

Dieting isn't always easy but Burke said he and his clients can feel the positive effects in as early as 48 hours.

Alauqua, Glen Abbey, Sylvan Lake Park to add new programs

LAKE MARY Along with a new Director of Tennis, ALAUQUA COUNTRY CLUB is also adding some new member events to their schedule.

On the Fourth of July, Alauqua members played in a round robin tournament. They had so much fun, Stan Aranda, the new director, decided to give the event another try on Labor Day.

"Everyone seemed to have such a good time on the 4th that we decided to do it again," Aranda said. "Our goal is to keep the membership as active as possible and we're hoping that these fun events will achieve that."

The tennis round robin will run from 9 a.m. to noon and is open to men and women of all skill levels. The cost is $12 per person and includes a welcome gift and a discount for lunch at the country club.

If this even goes as well as the Fourth of July, many more mixers will be planned. These are in addition to the annual events such as the member guest and club championship.

"As long as everybody is out there having fun," Aranda said, "We'll continue to have the tournaments and such. We got about 22 people out on the Fourth and they all seemed to have a really great time. That's why we're doing them anyway, for the members."

For additional information or to register for the round robin, contact the tennis shop at 444-0169.

GLEN ABBEY RACQUET CLUB in DeBary will give free professional tennis lessons to all new members who join the tennis club before September 30.

The offer of free unlimited lessons applies to both individual and family memberships. New memberships cost $500 per year for individual and $800 for families.

"We have built an extremely popular family tennis program here at Glen Abbey," said Tennis Director, Gene Brannigan. "Our summer youth program generated even more response than we anticipated. We hope the new membership drive will open our facilities to more families and expand our youth programs."

Members have full use of club and court facilities, including six lighted courts, swimming pool, sun deck and barbecue.

Racquet Club members enjoy mens, womens, and junior tournaments, both casual and sanctioned, along with group and individual lessons.

For further information, contact the tennis shop at 688-4481.

SYLVAN LAKE PARK is sponsoring a Junior Unranked Grand Prix Circuit tennis tournament Saturday, August 16 and Sunday, August 17 at the park located at 845 Lake Markham Road in Sanford. Junior girls and boys ages 10 through 16 are invited to enter.

Entry fees of $20 per person must be received by Thursday, August 14. Every participant will receive a T-shirt and trophies will be presented to winner and runners-up in main draws and consolation.

Adult doubles round robins are also held every Monday and Wednesday evening from 7 to 10 p.m. No registration is required. Intermediate to advanced level players are welcome to participate. Cost is $3 per person and tennis balls are provided by the park.

For further information contact Sylvan Lake Park at 322-6567.

Pilot convention beckons couple to Hawaiian Islands Bowlin graduates from FHP training

Marian and Lester Rethwill have returned from a grand and glorious trip to the tropical paradise islands of Hawaii.

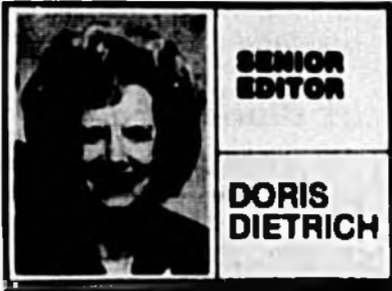

And how was the marvelous adventure?

"It was wonderful, yes, yes," Marian extolled.

Marian, president of the Pilot Club of Sanford Inc., was the club's delegate to the Pilot International Annual Convention in Honolulu which attracted over 1,400 Pilot members from all over the world.

"The convention was a good one," Marian said.

Participants were provided with many networking opportunities through business meetings and workshops. Pilot members celebrated a $25,000 grant given by the Pilot International Foundation to the Ronald and Nancy Reagan Institute for Alzheimer's research.

Those attending took part in a Pilot Walk, held in Waikiki on July 22 to support the work of the Foundation in the area of brain-related disorders. A "Good Morning America" salute was filmed during the walk. Locally, several Sanford Pilots who were unable to attend the convention took part and made contributions as "Ghost Walkers."

Founded in 1921, Pilot International is a volunteer service organization of business and professional leaders working together to improve the quality of life in communities throughout the world. The organization's service focus is helping people with brain-related disorders and disabilities.

The Pilot International Foundation awards thousands of dollars in grants and scholarships each year to further education, research and programs that benefit those affected by neurological diseases and injuries to the brain.

The Rethwills took advantage of the beauty of the country by visiting there for about two weeks mixing business with pleasure. They visited two other islands and took in all the wondrous sights afforded them.

Lester happily tagged along to accompany Marian and he had a great time.

BOWLIN GRADUATES

Randall "Randy" M. Bowlin, 23, graduated in June from the 91st Recruit Class, Florida Highway Patrol Department of Environmental Protection, Division of Law Enforcement.

Randy, born and reared in Sanford, is the son of Debbie and Henry Bowlin of Sanford. His grandparents are Mamie and U.V. Bowlin of Geneva and Jean and Ralph McLain of Sanford.

A 1992 graduate of Seminole High School, Randy received his AA degree from Seminole Community College where he also attended the Police Academy. He was third in the graduating class with a 96.8 average. He joined 112 others in January at the Florida Highway Patrol Academy, Tallahassee, to attend a 6-month class and 88 were graduated June 20. Randy had a 98.9 GPA. Randy works with the Game and Fish Commission and has always been interested in marine patrol. He feels the highway patrol on water can enhance environmental issues and decrease drug activity. He asked to be assigned to Flagler, Brevard or Volusia county, but was sent to the Keys where he has a boat, a Jeep, water and a gun.

Randy was recently home on leave where he visited his great grandmother, Louise Manning, a resident at Healthcare and Rehabilitation Center of Sanford.

It won't be long before Randy takes a bride to complete the idyllic setting at his condo in the Keys. He and Rachel Swann will be married Oct. 11.

ABWA pledges support to Home; Deese earns scholarship

The Central Florida Chapter of American Business Women's Association shared tea at two at the Good Samaritan Home on Saturday, Aug. 1, as the officers gathered for a few hours of planning.

President DeeDee Tinker of Central Florida Chapter of ABWA, and the chapter have pledged their full support to the Good Samaritan Home for 1997-98. The chapter will hold a mythical cake sale, other fund raisers, redo the residents rooms and give other supplies to the home.

The mission of ABWA is to bring together business women of diverse occupations and to provide opportunities for them to help themselves and others grow personally and professionally through leadership, education, networking support and national recognition.

Sharing in the planning as they sipped tea were: Wanda Harrison, Harry Flagle; chairman of the Good Samaritan Board of Directors; DeeDee Tinker, President of Central Florida Chapter of ABWA; Betty Jaffcoat; Thelma Mike,

DEESE RECEIVES GUILD SCHOLARSHIP

The awarding of the 1997 scholarship award is good news for the Sanford Central Florida Musician's Guild. On Saturday, August 2nd, at the monthly meeting of the guild held at St. John Baptist Church, President of the guild Charles D. Jackson and scholarship committee members Althea S. Bentley and Sylvia Stallworth, presented Byron T. Deese, a recent graduate of Seminole High School, a $500 scholarship.

Deese is the son of Barbara and Bennie Deese of Sanford. Deese plans to major in business administration at Morehouse College in Atlanta.

Deese was chosen for the scholarship because of his community, school and religious involvement throughout the Central Florida area.

"Byron was the overwhelming choice for this year's award because of his commitment to Christ, his exemplary character and his devotion to gospel music", said Charles Jackson, president of the guild. "His level of service to the church and community is second to none."

For more than four years he has been active in the award-winning Seminole High School Gospel Choir, serving as president in his senior year, while leading the choir to be a national award winner. He served as senior class council member, as a student government officer, a tribe council member, student congress member and was also a member of the homecoming court and Future Business Leaders of America.

His service in the community has him active in the Martin Luther King, Jr. celebration choir, the musicians guild and the fellowship praise and worship choir.

An ardent member of Hickory Avenue Church of God he is vice president of the church's mass choir, a youth minister and member of the Church of God district youth board and state mass choir.

The Musician's Guild scholarship is presented to youths who are active in church and community activities. Since 1994, the guild has presented $2,500 in scholarships. Because of the continued corporate sponsor support of the Wilson-Eichelberger Mortuary, the Musician's Guild has recently named the scholarship, the Eunice I. Wilson Music Scholarship. NOSTALGIA

Reminiscing. Poring over old photographs can be a memorable experience. Sometimes, the treasured old photos bring unbridled pleasure while at other times, they may generate a tear or two. But they are tears of happy and pleasant moments. In these file photos the Sanford Herald has discovered that many celebrities and esteemed personalities have been the focus of our roving photographers and we plan to share them with you from time to time. The upper left photo features a big reception which Sanford entrepreneur Jeno Paulucci hosted at his Sanford home for Hubert Humphrey (former U.S. senator and U.S. vice president) when he came to town during his campaign for United States President in 1972. LAKE MARY
MARY ROWELL

The fourth day at Girl Scout Day Camp in Seminole County was unique. Instead of learning about another country, the girls would learn about their own country and what it was like on the first Independence Day. The day was planned by Kristen Joslin as her Silver Award. The silver award is the second highest recognition a Girl Scout can earn. It is the last step of the Cadette level. To earn her silver, Kristen had to plan the crafts, games and snacks and find guests for the day. She also had to stay within a budget. One craft was leatherwork. Leather was plentiful for our forerunners. They used leather to make everything from clothes to jewelry. Dee Easterbrook from Tandy Leather came out to the camp and showed the scouts her collection of hides. Then she showed the girls how to imprint designs on leather. Each scout got to make a leather bracelet. Another craft was making a Colonial tin lantern. With no matches available, our forerunners depended on tin lanterns. The lanterns were used to light other fires. The colonial used to punch small holes in the lanterns to make a design. The scouts did the same thing. The heart design was the most popular. A special guest for the day was Ron Hardee from the Wildlife Rehabilitation Center. Ron brought a barn owl and a screech owl for the scouts to see. Watching the barn owl turn his head, one of the girls asked if it was true that owls could turn their heads all the way around. No, Ron said, but they can turn them 3/4 of the way around. The full grown screech owl weighed only 4 ounces! Many of the scouts thought it was a baby when they first saw it. Ron said that they got a lot of screech owls, mostly on rainy nights. A favorite screech owl meal is little frogs, which tend to hop out into the roadway on rainy nights. The owl swoops down for a snack and gets hit by a car. The center also gets quite a few squirrels, about 30 flying squirrels a years and as many as 200 grays. Flying squirrels, weighing a whopping 2 ounces full grown, are the most plentiful squirrel in Florida. But because they are nocturnal and keep to the trees, they are seldom seen and less likely to become car victims than grays. The Wildlife Rehabilitation Center takes in 800 to 1000 animals a year. The center has an 85 percent save rate, the highest of any organization of its kind. Once an animal has recovered from their injuries, they are released into the wild. Some animals recover, but are too crippled to return to the wild. Many times, these animals become temporary parents for young animals on the mend. Next week, Egypt and an International luncheon. CRAFTY SENIORS WELCOME ALL The new series of craft classes the Lake Mary seniors have begun are fun, economical, and environmentally sound. This week, they recycled plastic containers and newspaper to make bowls. Picking out the right shape plastic container they wanted to use, the seniors then covered them with paper mache. They will paint the bowls next week. Other recycled crafts they will work on will include making. See Rowell, Page 88

Your Birthday

Sunday, Aug. 10, 1997

Your most impressive qualities of character will be utilized and enhanced in the year ahead. Circumstances might call upon you to play a critical role in an important endeavor.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) When performing an assignment today, you might use similar methods that proved to be unproductive previously. Profit from the past, don't be penalized by it. Leo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by making $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10158. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Instead of being motivated today, you're apt to be slow getting out of the starting blocks. What could be accomplished might not even be attempted.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Your self-confidence might be at a low ebb today unless you're challenged, when provoked, you will become assertive and commanding.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone you know from experience who is a poor financial risk might feel you out for a loan today. Help out by offering assistance other than monetary.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Valued relationships must be dealt with in a tolerant manner today. Be sensitive to others' feelings so that you don't evoke their ill will.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do not leave important tasks until the last minute today, because they might remain shelved for a long time. Keep pace with events.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You will feel more at ease in social settings today where you can relax, rather than being at a stuffy gathering where you must adhere to protocol.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Peace of mind can be found in your domestic environment today. Leave the pressures of the outside world on your doorstep where they belong.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It is imperative today that you keep an open mind in all of your assessments. Having preconceived ideas could work to your detriment.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Instead of letting an old obligation prey upon your thoughts today, start taking positive measures to eliminate it. Be a victor, not a victim.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your associates might not be as enterprising or adventurous as you are today. Do not let their negative input deter your momentum.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Guard against tendencies today to create stumbling blocks where none should exist. Anticipate unproductive courses and avert them.

Count to 12, not 11

By Phillip Alder

Ralph Waldo Emerson claimed that you can never have both truth and repose.

In today's deal, you are in six hearts. West leads the diamond king. When East drops the queen, West continues with a low diamond, which you correctly ruff with dummy's heart queen. After East discards a club, how do you continue? Now, either work for the truth, trying to find the solution before reading on, or repose by reading on immediately.

North's two-diamond overall was a Michaels cue-bid, showing at least 5-3 in the majors. When South jumped to four hearts, North used Blackwood before bidding a slam that he thought might need the spade finesse. Yet that ruff to work because it was through the opening bidder.

As you have contracted for 12 tricks, there's little point in adopting a line that will generate only 11. You have
