INDUSTRIES AND PRICES RETURNING TO NORMAL RESERVE BANK STATES

Extravagance and Reckless Buying Thing Of The Past

RECESSION OF PRICES

PEOPLE ARE TIBED OF PAYING EXCESSIVE PRICES AND "GOODS BOX" IS FILLING UP.

Washington April 1.—Nationwide reports from federal reserve bank officials, made public tonight, disclose their opinion that the post-war era of "extravagance and reckless buying" by the public is nearing its end. A "hesitation if not an actual recession" of prices is noted and the federal reserve board's statement summarizes its advice as indicating a generally more hopeful view of the country's business condition than for several months.

While the price changes were shown by the board not to be universal, they were nevertheless regarded as positive and of importance as a basis for reckoning what the immediate future holds.

Relief from the high prices for the consumer will not be completely obtained until present stocks are absorbed in practically all lines, according to the board's view. Manufacturers everywhere, however, were shown to hold the view that the peak of high prices has been reached and to expect a gradual recession.

In the clothing trade particularly the board said, there was a marked tendency of the public to make old supplies last longer and to refuse to pay exorbitant prices. This phase can mean only that an awakening has come the statement said, and that many people have arrived at the conclusion that they are themselves responsible for a continuing high range of prices.

Wholesalers in the dry goods trade to some extent, have taken a "commendatory attitude" and are discouraging their customers from placing heavy fall orders. This has served to slacken demand and create a feeling that lower prices will follow.

The reports do not give encouragement concerning a price reduction in shoes.

Eastern seaboard cities reported a "piling up of commodities" on the side of the Atlantic. The exchange situation was beginning to reflect itself on the export market as well as through a general reduction by Europeans in their foreign buying it was noted.

Business and financial developments during March also were marked by confusion and lack of uniformity of opinion, reports from the several reserve districts showed. But throughout the detailed observations of these officials there was a distinctly optimistic tone. Summed up, it was:

"The outlook for the spring season both industrially and agriculturally, is excellent. But modifying factors in the situation are an inadequacy of labor supply and a shortage of various kinds of building materials as well as borrowing facilities of banks."

Officials said that the full meaning of the changed attitude of the public probably would show definite results to slowly as to be almost imperceptible. They explained that it was "a step in the right direction."

The housing situation continued acute throughout the country partly as a result of labor conditions, but more largely because thousands of families are deserting the farms for "what they believe are greater opportunities" in the cities. There was however, another reason advanced, capital is slow to engage in new building ventures, because of the "unfavorable conditions of taxation."

"Production conditions the country over" the statement continued, "give every reason for encouragement with reference to actual industrial and agricultural conditions."

Wants Papa's Estate
Palm Beach, Fla., April 2.—An examination of the mental condition of Richard Croker, Sr. former Tammany chief of New York, will be made here as result of action taken today by local counsel for Croker's two sons and daughter who seek to have a conservator appointed to manage his estate.

Petition for the examination and for the appointment of a custodian for Croker's Florida property was followed today by announcements that Mr. Croker had arranged on his own initiative for Major Ralph Greene, state health officer and former superintendent of the Florida state hospital, to make the examination. Major Greene is well known in Florida as alienist. Whether he will be accepted by the plaintiffs will be brought out later.

SUFFRAGE GOES OVER TO MONDAY

DELAWARE LEGISLATURE WILL WAIT UNTIL THAT TIME TO MAKE DECISION

Dover Delaware, April 2 (By Associated Press) Suffrage leaders announced today that they would make an effort to have the house rejection of the Anthony Amendment reconsidered next Monday declaring that Alfred Dupont, who exerts a powerful influence in Republican state politics, would support the movement. Dupont previously has been neutral.

TRAINMEN WITHDRAW ON NORFOLK

SAY RAILWAY IS UNSAFE WHEN STRIKING CLERKS ARE OUT.

Roanoke April 2 (By Associated Press) Officials of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen announced today that members would adhere to the decision to withdraw from service of the Norfolk and Western Railroad at four o'clock this afternoon. They claimed conditions on the road had been rendered unsafe by the strike of clerks and that passengers and freight traffic would be tied up by night. All the through mail trains will be operated.

Card of Thanks
Whereas, in the Providence of God, on Tuesday the 23rd, of March, our Mother, Mrs. Mary A. Zachary, was called from labor to reward, from earth to Heaven, and not being able to write a personal letter to all of our friends, we take this means of thanking one and all for the kindness shown us in and during her last illness, and the many kind words of sympathy. We feel deeply the loss, and because of the fact that she was our Mother, we appreciate more deeply the sympathy and acts of kindness shown us by so many of her friends. Again with bowed heads and broken hearts, we thank one and all.
A. D. Zachary and Family.

It is increasing in intensity and has been attended by showers and thunder storms throughout the Gulf states. The storm will advance east-northeastward and be attended by general rains in the next 36 hours in the states east of the Mississippi river and by severe local thunder and wind storms in the central valleys and the Gulf states. Paris, April 2 (By Associated Press) Major Vuilleman and Lieutenant Chalu, French aviators have arrived at Dakar after flying across the Sahara desert, a distance of three thousand miles.

John West Found Near Avon Park, Foully Slain

Avon Park, April 1.—John West, who has passed his four score years, left his home near here Thursday morning to shoot a bird and failing to return late in the afternoon a search was organized to search for him. Late Friday afternoon the body was found lying on the bank of Alligator creek, just outside of the city limits, and within 100 yards of the Flint lumber mill.

The body was so badly burned it was almost impossible to recognize it. Only after finding his match box and a small piece of clothing undurned under the body was the actual identification made. His gun was found 50 feet away from the body, hidden in a briar patch, and all of his money gone (he was supposed to have had nearly $100). Evidences of a moon-shine still were found which included several barrels and some mash.

Sheriff J. L. Distong rounded up three negroes, suspected of having some knowledge of the murder or operation of the still. Another negro who is missing is being searched for.

The coroner's inquiry was held Saturday morning, and its findings were withheld until its meeting in connection with a jury this morning. Several theories are advanced as to the cause of the crime, some believe it to have been committed by moon-shiners, while robbery is suggested by some.

Mr. West had lived here all of his life. He is survived by his widow.

Sign For The Hospital

The Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital is now enhanced by a beautiful gold leaf sign under glass and swung for the porch that tells the world just where and what this beautiful building is. The sign was made by that well known artist, C. J. Rumph who donated this fine piece of work to the hospital. His sign and the spirit in which it is given is appreciated by the board and every citizen who has the interests of this great institution at heart.

Have New Hearse

T. J. Miller & Son have a new hearse and as far as hearses go it is a beauty being finished in the very latest design of burnished silver called "molten silver" with enough dark in it to bring out the lines. The car is a Lorraine model made at Richmond Indiana and is supposed to be the last word in funeral cars. Miller & Son are well equipped to take care of all the funerals in this section of the country having two fine funeral cars with the prospects of the old car being turned into an ambulance. Like everything else on wheels hearses with the horses and other equipment have given way to the new motorized funeral cars and if one must ride in this car it will be certainly satisfactory.

FOUR MEN INDICTED FOR LEAK

IN SUPREME COURT DECISIONS WHICH INVOLVED IMPORTANT DEALS.

Washington April 2.—Indictments against four persons were returned today by the District of Columbia supreme court grand jury investigating an alleged leak in the United States supreme court's decision last November in the Southern Pacific oil lands' case.

Those indicted are Ashton F. Embrey, former secretary to Associate Justice McKenna, of the supreme court; James Harwood Graves, former assistant attorney in the department of justice; Arnette E. Moses, Washington, D. C. lawyer and E. Millard Mayer, jr., New York stock broker.

The indictments charge the four men with conspiracy to defraud the United States of its right of secrecy surrounding opinions of the supreme court prior to public announcement of the court's decision. Embrey is charged in the grand jury report with furnishing a tip on the court's decision whereby the other defendants were able to sell "short" 500 shares of Southern Pacific stock at a profit of $1,412.50.

Democrats Obtain Delay In Resolution Action

FOR CAREFUL STUDY

WOULD REPEAL MANY IMPORTANT WAR TIME MEASURES AND RESTRICTIONS.

Washington, April 2.—The republican's resolution, declaring the state of war between the United States and Germany is at an end, was favorably reported yesterday by the house foreign affairs committee by a strict party vote, 12 to 6.

Republicans said it was planned to force it through today with four hour's debate, but democrats asked for, and obtained, a delay until Monday in order to permit a careful study of the proposal, which provides also for rescinding the war powers of the president. Republican leaders said the more important wartime acts and powers which would be repealed automatically with passage of the resolution included:

Wartime prohibition, Lever food and fuel control law, with provisions against profiteering, espionage act, selective service law, authorization for loans of $10,000,000,000 to all allies complete control over all shipping, authorization for president to use armed forces to prevent interference with interstate of foreign commerce licensing the use of explosives, authorization of a system of priority shipments, authorization of an employment service in the labor department control over patents, war housing act, a moratorium protecting civil rights of men while in the service and authorization of an embargo on imports in the discretion of the president.

The trading with the enemy act would be continued until Germany agrees to the provisions of the resolution, the emergency shipping act, The Overman act, giving the president power to distribute executive powers as he desires, and the act creating the war finance corporation and the capital issues committee expire six months after a declaration of peace.

Death of F. M. Story

The passing of Mr. F. M. Story, which occurred yesterday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. M. Osteen, east of the city, removes from Orange county a man who has been prominent in the affairs of the eastern part of the county. But withal he was a genial, unassuming gentleman, who went about his daily work quietly and modestly, and did not realize the influence he exerted in the community by his personal character. Such men are assets to any place, and Mr. Story made Chulucota a good place to live. The funeral services will be held this afternoon and the remains laid to rest in the cemetery at that place. in the 10,000 Islands and dropped a copy of the Tribune, giving him the first bit of world news in eight days and the story of the search for him were forced to return here today with out the missing flyer. Two smaller planes were sent out and probably will bring the missing flyer here tomorrow—provided they can land. If there is no clearing large enough for them, the naval station at Key West probably will be asked to lend a sub-chaser, or it may be deemed feasible for a seaplane to land, and one of these may be asked for.

The flyers who drove DH-4 planes reached here from Miami at noon. They located the missing flyer Monday and returned yesterday when they exchanged signals with him. They dropped a marked copy of the Tribune. He read the article about the search for himself and pointed to it, as the searching planes flew low enough to recognize him and catch his movements.

showers locally on the 23 and 24— heaviest occurring in the north western counties and locally on the southeast coast. The need of rain is general.

Condition of Crops. The weather during the week was very favorable for farm work which was prosecuted diligently in all divisions. The soil is rather dry on uplands, where the need of moisture is pressing, but low lands are still in good condition and the germination of seed has been quite satisfactory. The work of planting corn continued, and much is now above ground, looking well. A small acreage was planted to cotton; and there seems a disposition in some sections to increase the acreage to some extent. Peanuts were largely planted, and considerable cane, although the bulk of the latter crop is in the ground and much has come up. Oats and rye are generally in good condition. Tomatoes recently set out need rain; and truck generally would be benefited. Irish potatoes have recovered very satisfactorily from the effects of the frost during the early part of the month. There is an abundance of citrus bloom; Strawberries are more plentiful. Cabbage are being shipped extensively. Ranges have improved as the result of showers.

ANDREWS WEARS 5 GOLD STRIPES

Sergeant One of Few Overseas Men Entitled to Honor.

IS DECORATED FOR VALOR

Also Wins French Bride and Says This Was Harder Task Than Winning Two Croix de Guerre and Other Battle Honors—Took Three Months of Hard Work Before He Could Take Bride to Church for Ceremony.

One of the few overseas men who is entitled to wear five gold service chevrons is Sergt. Charles E. Andrews, who returned to the United States on January 24, 1920, after spending thirty-one months and seven days in France and Germany. He is now on duty at the recruiting station in Chicago, says the Fort Sheridan Recall.

Besides five gold service stripes he brought with him one wound stripe, a victory badge decorated with five bronze battle stars and two silver ones for divisional citations, two croix de guerre, a French fourragere and what was even harder to win, according to his statements—a French bride.

"If I had it all to do over again," said Sergeant Andrews, "I'd bring my bride to America to marry her. Because it took three months of hard work before I could take her to the church, even after she had said 'Yes.'"

A Matter of State.
"In the first place, an American who married a French girl had to see the American, the Belgian and French consuls. He had to make several calls at the chamber of deputies—but I've forgotten what the calls were for now. The wedding had to be advertised in the city hall eight days before the wedding. And before the license was granted he had to visit about every public building in Paris, interviewing city officials. I'm strong for the good old country where the work is all done after the girl is won."

Sergeant Andrews was lucky enough to find a French girl who can really speak English well.

"You see, she used to teach it in the public schools," he said. "I went into a souvenir shop in Paris one day where she happened to be clerking, and got to talking to her there. She helped me pick out some souvenirs, and I—well, I sure needed some help, for I wasn't thinking much about what I was buying after I once saw her!"

Sergeant Andrews is a First division man, and was attached to the Second field signal battalion. He took part in the offensive at Cantigny, Soissons, St. Mihiel, the Argonne and the second battle of the Marne.

Armistice Day Scraggy.

"The hardest fighting I saw during the whole war was on the morning of November 11," he said. "Back in the sector where I was at the time, we did not know a thing about the armistice until two minutes of eleven, and we'd been firing just as fast as the old guns would go off all morning."

"About five minutes of eleven a French radio operator came running out of a dug-out to tell us that at eleven o'clock all firing would cease, but we laughed at him. But just two minutes before eleven we were officially notified to stop firing, and we believed it to be true for the first time."

"And when the firing did stop, what do you think happened? You would expect a lot of rejoicing, wouldn't you? Well, there wasn't. Everybody just dropped down where they were standing and went to sleep. All the celebrating that took place had to wait until we had some sleep to work up pep to celebrate with. We had all gone just about as far as we could without sleep, and even the news of an armistice couldn't seem to get through our heads, for all we realized was that we could stop firing. That was, down around Sedan, where the firing had been continuous for many hours."

About the two individual croix de guerre Sergeant Andrews had little to say. "I don't know what they are for," he said, just as every Yank who was ever decorated says when he is asked about his citations. "They both read about the same—something about maintaining communication in advance in the face of a deadly fire—you know the stock phrases they use in citations."

ICE IMPRISONS 300 "GOBS"

Jam in the St. Lawrence May Not Be Broken Before June.

Three hundred American "gobs" and thirty officers are held prisoners at Quebec—not in the citadel, but in the middle of the St. Lawrence river, surrounded by ice.

The sailors were on board eight Eagle boats and a Detroit tug and were caught in an ice jam. Now they can move only 32 feet a day—16 feet up the river with the ice when the tide comes in and 16 feet down when the tide goes out again. Ice three feet thick goes with them on each trip, but there is little probability the men will be released before June.

War Prisoners Returned.

One hundred and ninety thousand prisoners of war, including 43,110 officers, have been repatriated from French camps since January 20, according to an announcement from the French war office.

WHEN THE CLOUDS GATHER

"Birth" of Thunderstorm, as Seen by Airmen, is a Remarkable and Beautiful Spectacle.

Have you ever been in the air to watch a thunderstorm grow? asks Popular Mechanics Magazine. If you were merely on the ground looking up, then you saw only the bottom of it. The airman is the one who sees just what is happening in a thunderstorm.

A few hours before the sky was, perhaps, perfectly clear. All at once a few white patches become visible to the eye, and if they quickly begin to dot the whole sky, it is a warning sign. Each fluffy cloud represents the point where moisture rising from the earth has begun to condense. The rapid formation of the clouds means uneven heating of the surface of the earth and the presence of lots of moisture in the air. The clouds grow together, forming a continuous rolling mass of dense vapor, cutting off the flyer's view of the earth.

So far the storm has only been threatening. The clouds have spread sideways as far as they can; now they begin to grow heavier. The heated air from the earth below pushes through the heavy layer and bulges it upward. Higher and higher it is pushed while more and more moisture condenses, and this great bulging mass of vapor, sometimes three or four miles high, has become a thunder cloud. Its bulging tops are called thunder peaks or thunder heads, and they are responsible for the lightning, the heaviness of rainfall, and the hail we sometimes have in midsummer.

The energy of a thunderstorm is amazing. A single great cloud may contain billions of pounds of water vapor. The flashes of lightning from cloud to cloud are sometimes 20 miles in length, and when we stop to think that it takes a current of 15,000 volts pressure to produce a spark an inch long, we can only wonder at the immense amount of electricity involved in a single flash. Sometimes the wind from a thundercloud, or the squall, as it is called, is violent enough to level trees and small buildings, and is improperly called a tornado. There is a big difference. A tornado is a violent whirlpool of air that sweeps across the country and twists off trees and roofs in its path. The wind from a thunderstorm blows straight away from the storm and never twists.

Broadly speaking, there are three general stages in the development of a thunderstorm. There must be strong currents of moist air rising from the earth, as indicated by the appearance of the white patches of cloud. This condition must continue until the sky is covered. And lastly, the force of these upward currents must be great enough to push the clouds up into thunder heads. A thunderstorm then results.

Opportunities on the Farm.

There was a time when the idea was altogether too common, that the occupation of farming was a sort of junk pile where fate threw human discards who lacked ambition, intelligence, or perseverance enough to succeed in any other calling in life, observes the Christian Herald. Then along in the late nineties there was a "back to the land" movement, and "mossback" and "hayseed" were relegated to the columns of obsolete slang.

The farmer sees life and growth on every hand. Even in winter, in the localities where the landscape seems a symbol of death with snow and ice holding everything in its grasp, there is the hope of renewed life or resurrection as it were, typified by the stores of seed grain laid away for the next spring's planting.

Truly, on the farm there are special opportunities for observation and thought and happy is the farmer whose thoughts go deeper than the bottom of his milk pail and whose pasture fences are not the boundaries of his horizon.

Wanted the "Sweeper."

My little cousin was over to our house one day. Upon looking around the bathroom, she saw the toothbrush in the holder and remarked to my mother: "Auntie, give me one of those. I want to sweep my teeth."—Chicago American.

England's Ancient Inns.
What is the oldest English inn? The Crown of Chiddipford, for sale, dates from the fourteenth century, but The Fighting Cocks at St. Albans, claiming to date from 705, is the oldest inhabited house in England. At the Angel at Blyth, Nottingham, Richard, bishop of Durham, stayed in 1274, and his bill is still preserved.

The Mother's Sentence.
Let no day pass without some acknowledgment of your indebtedness to her. Study her outspoken wisdom; receive her opinion with respect; yield your will to hers with perfect submission. In all that she allows you to do, show by your zeal and cheerfulness that, for her sake, the employment is delightful.—Exchange.

Product of Imported Material.
Despite the fact that although the buggy whip is manufactured exclusively in this country, all of the raw material from which it is made, excepting the thread, is imported. The whalebone used in its manufacture comes from the Arctic ocean—the rest from the South Sea Islands and the rawhide which is made from the skin of the carabao, comes from the Philippine Islands, or some other place where the climate is extremely warm.

A bright young man was selling us a straw chapeau, and when we asked the price, answered "six dollars"—just like that. We mildly protested that we had formerly bought hats of that quality for from $1.00 to $1.40 and he countered with the argument "Yes—we used to get the Evening Telegram for 10 cents a week, and now we're paying 15." We pointed out that the raise in the paper was only 50 per cent while on the hat it was 300 to 400 per cent—and he didn't have no come-back. AMERICANISM

The Socialist members of the New York Assembly were put out of this body because they had uttered threats against the government and were un-American. Regardless of whether this was the proper way of dealing with them or not the fact remains that we do not want any members of any state legislature to be anything but real Americans at least in spirit if not in ancestry. We had too many of these crawling, slimy reptiles during the war for the good of the country and while the iron heel of patriotism ground out the life of most of this breed there are some of them left and some of them who are trying to break into the legislature of various states. Maybe some of them are trying to break into the Florida legislature and it would be well to search out the records of candidates for this high position and find out how they stood for America during the war when real Americans were needed. Find out if they were with us or against us. If with us how much work did they do for their country.

CONGRESSIONAL POLITICS

Further than occasional outbursts from the Sanford Herald, infrequency due to an uncertain electric service, there has been little stir in the Fourth congressional district and few people know that Forest Lake, of Sanford, has announced his candidacy to succeed Joe Sears in congress.

But Joe Earman has fired a broadside for the affable Seminole county banker and avows his intention of supporting him. This means much in at least one county of the district Palm Beach, for Joe Earman is a power with his Palm Beach Post. Joe says Forest has been crossing palms with a few of the qualified electors of his county and swapping talk with the boys in the suburban districts.

Joe Sears is still in Washington, but unless Joe gets a few pointers from Park on that ear to the ground stuff he had better come on down and repair a few panels of the fence Forest Lake and Joe Earman are tearing down.

If he doesn't hurry with these repairs we may be able to drive our dark horse through.—Palatka News. Nev mind the dark horse, Goode, get on the and wagon and boost a real progressive business man, town builder and legislator into office, our Forest Lake and your Forest Lake.

THOUGHT TOO MUCH OF THE MEN

Rear Admiral Fiske testifying before the Naval Investigation Committee had the following to say about Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, formerly a newspaper man of North Carolina:

"Mr. Daniels, Admiral Fiske said, paid too much attention to details and did not seem to interest himself in broad questions of plans and policies. The secretary was particularly solicitous regarding the welfare of enlisted men, the officer asserted, and naval officers generally felt that he attached undue importance to the comfort of the men and carried his efforts to "democratize the navy's to an extent inconsistent with discipline.

"Secretary Daniels was deeply and sincerely" interested in the welfare of the men, Admiral Fiske said, adding that he opposed Mr. Daniels' plan for the education of the enlisted men because he thought the system would take too much time from the military training of the crews."

What an awful charge to bring against our friend Secretary Daniels. He thought too much of the men and thinking too much about the enlisted man and their comfort he could not see the stiff necked, leather headed methods of the officers who from time immemorial have wanted to place the enlisted men on the lower ruins of society where they should at all times remember that an officer was a supreme being and unless they thought so would find themselves in the "brig" for some fancied insult to the majesty of the said officer. That is what the admiral no doubt thinks about Josephus Daniels who if he did not know the rules and ethics of the navy knew that the men should be taken care of in the right way for they were helpless in many matters and the officers could take care of themselves.

It is this kind of stuff that keeps the average American boy out of the navy and army and it is this kind of stuff that will cause the fathers of boys to vote against compulsory military training and until some of these stiff necks are thrown bodily out of the army and navy it will be some years before "soldering" will ever be popular with democratic young America.

We happen to know whereof we speak.

EASTER

Many have only a vague idea regarding Easter and why the day is celebrated. Easter is a paschal feast in honor of a goddess of light or Spring and was formerly celebrated in April. It is now recognized as an annual church festival, commemorating Christ's resurrection, occurring on Sunday, the second day after Good Friday, and corresponding to the Passover, or Pasch, of the Jews; also the day of this festival. In accord with the decree of Nice, Easter Day is always the first Sunday after the full moon that falls on or next after the 21st of March; if the full moon happens on Sunday, Easter is celebrated one week later. The date of the full moon is ascertained according to certain calendar rules, and may differ from that of the actual (astronomical) full moon. These rules include as preliminaries the finding of the golden number, epact and dominical letter. The date of Easter, 1913 was March 23, and may be as late as April 23, as it was in the year 1916. Easter, 1925, will fall on April 12th. The dates of all other movable feasts depend on that of Easter.

The Easter egg is given as a present at or used to celebrate Easter. The use of the Easter-egg was borrowed, by the Christians, from the pagan world, the egg being an ancient symbol of resurrection.—Plant City Courier.

SOME SECTION

Sanford celery shippers received $210,000 for the 240 cars shipped out of that section last week.—Tampa Tribune.

It makes us feel good to note that other papers from time to time comment on the wonderful crops of the Sanford section. These crops and the big prices have become such an old story that they hardly cause a ripple in the regular life of this section and we have ceased counting up what the growers are making or have made but only note the car movements. But should some of our whims friends like the Country Gentlemen get an eye-ful or an ear-ful of this great winter vegetable growing section they would drop dead and cease to talk about tourists and sand dunes and poor soil and fertilizers. This Sanford section is some section and every part of Florida has a great story to tell about fruits and vegetables and climate unsurpassed in the world.

Why worry about what some of the northern magazines or papers think about Florida. We have the goods and if our less fortunate neighbors do not choose to try out their hand in the growing of winter vegetables we should worry. Our own people are making money and the facts and figures are there to prove it.

$210,000 in one week from Celery in the Sanford section the Tribune says and it was not an especially good week either. Will the Country Gentleman please copy.

Making Starch From Potatoes. The manufacture of starch from potatoes is not a complicated process, the drying, however, being somewhat painstaking. The tubers are first cleaned, then ground. This sets the granules of starch free. The ground mass is then washed with cold water and the starch settles at the bottom. This is collected into vats, spread out on shelves and artificially heated. It dries into lumps and is then the commercial starch. The residue from this manufacture is like alcohol mash, a valuable cattle food. It may also be used as fertilizer. With characteristic wastefulness we in this country have thrown it away.

Too General Condemnation. The average man's idea of "a fallacy" is any proposition not calculated to promote the interests of his own particular line of business.

ESTATES OF DEAD MEN BRING PENNIES

Woman in Black, Auction Fiend at Morgue, Gets Most of Articles.

The estates of dead men sold for pennies at St. Paul, Minn. Behind a marble table in the county morgue the coroner disposed by auction of the pitiful fragments of property left by St. Paul's unknown dead in 1919.

When relatives or near friends of those whose bodies are brought to the morgue make no claim to their "estates" the law requires public sale. "That watch," said the coroner, and held it up, battered, worth $1 once, "stopped when its owner died. It says ten minutes to ten."

"Maybe that was his zero hour," commented a woman in black. "I bid 20 cents."

Then came the razor an old man used to slit his throat. The bidding was high, but the woman in black, confirmed auction fiend, bought it for 70 cents.

There was a knife. "A little rusty," said the coroner. "I think we found this fellow in the river."

Post cards, bits of cloth, a bottle opener, keys, a locket with a broken back—all the things that meant in their own private way much—maybe all—to some one once, were heaped on the marble slab and pawed over by the woman in black and her rival bidders, then sold by the state for copper and silver.

"Two estates left," announced the auctioneer. "I don't suppose anybody wants this."

He held up the soiled, blood-stained discharge paper of James Aiton, one-time soldier of the land.

"I'll take that. Here's a dime," snapped a bidder with two gold stripes on his sleeve. My American Legion post'll try to find his folks."

"And this," continued the coroner and carried to view a bedraggled Bible, its imitation leather puffed and swollen by moisture.

"Gimme," barked the woman in black. "I want that. I bid 15 cents."

She carried away the Bible that once was Ole Johnson's.

"He gave his heart to God at the Union Gospel mission December 2, 1914," was the fading legend on the fly-leaf.

VETERANS HOLD POST AT DOOR OF HOUSE

Visitors who throng the gallery at the house of representatives, if they only knew, could find a bit of "human interest" in two messengers at the gallery door. These are John Rowe, veteran of the Mexican war and Ex-Sergt. Emmett Scott, a hero of St. Mihiel.

Mr. John Rowe for forty years has held the post of messenger at the gallery door of the house. Mr. Rowe entered the United States army November 10, 1845. At the battle of Vera Cruz in 1847, he had his hand blown off in an artillery bombardment. Now, at the age of eighty-five he is in splendid health and fully expects to remain at his post at the capitol for many years to come. Ex-Sergt. Emmett Scott since last November has been a door messenger at the gallery of the house, while in his spare hours he is busy studying law for his future work. Mr. Scott served two and one-half years in the world war with the Fifty-fourth ammunition train. In September, 1918, he was seriously wounded in the leg by a high explosive shell at the battle of St. Mihiel. This picture shows the veterans at their post outside the gallery door.

TIPIFYED SPIRIT OF FRANCE

Elderly-Peasant Woman Proud That She Had Given Three Sons to Her Beloved Country.

"While I was in France several other boys and I were taking a Sunday afternoon hike and as we approached a little village we overtook a poor peasant woman, whose back was bent with toil and care, whose hair was gray with years of suffering, slowly hobbling along carrying a heavy pair of wooden shoes on her feet and pushing a wheelbarrow loaded with little pieces of wood that she had spent hours in gathering," says the "Flying Parson." Lieut. Belvin W. Maynard, in his article, "The Thrill of High Adventure," in Boys' Life. "One of the boys offered to push the wheelbarrow for her, but she, being so unaccustomed to such favors, looked at him in astonishment as though she thought he wished to steal her wood."

"Soon she was convinced he was friendly and allowed him to push her wheelbarrow for her. The expression of joy and happiness that beamed through the wrinkles of her careworn face I shall never forget. She insisted that we go to her home with her. We did, and there found a humble little stone building, unattractive, unfinished, and with no modern conveniences to add to its comforts. Seated in this cold, damp little hut she told us of real sacrifice. Although its floor was stone, its stove, which was the fireplace, its table, and its beds were all in one room, it was a home, and within its walls had been born and reared three stalwart and brave sons of France, who had given their lives for their country. This poor woman—I thought she must be poor—was happy and proud. Proud that she had given three sons to the cause of France. To her they could not have been born for a more noble cause. She would not have had them, die otherwise. Was she poor? Far from it. With such a spirit no one can be poor."

Grammar and Washing.

"But Mrs. Wissinger," spoke up one of the young women teachers. "If you were to take in washing, you would get $6 a day, as against we teachers' $5," and again there was laughter.

We should think, remarks the Portland Oregonian, there would also have been consternation, if the other guides of the young mind and guardians of good English, who heard the remark were not wholly off duty. The paragraph is from the Oregonian's report of a meeting at Milwaukee, Ore., between the school board and the public school teachers.

It is interesting and very pleasing to note that Milwaukee washerwomen get $6 per day. It is somewhat above the scale, we hear, in other places, though there was an interesting story in the papers the other day about the modern washerwoman's practice of going to work in her automobile.

But what we started out to say was that the particular school teacher quoted would do better, far better, on several accounts, to take up washing where no questions will be asked about her grammar. Or has the wicked reporter put words in her mouth that she did not use?

Thought Cape Ann Greenland.

Cape Ann, which furnished a bleak and barren haven for adventurous explorers, was settled temporarily only three years after the Mayflower arrived at Plymouth. Some evidence indicates that Thorwald's "Cape of the Cross," which he thought to be a projection of Greenland, was the bleak Cape Ann. Capt. John Smith landed on what is now Cape Ann, and called it Tragabigzanda. In honor of a Turkish Pochontas who did not risk her head, but who fed him while he was a prisoner. Captain Smith explored the coast within two decades before the Pilgrims came.

Reports like that of Captain Smith "angling with a hook, and crossing the sweet air from Isle to Isle" attracted many English fishing vessels. However, the early settlers seem to have sought their subsistence largely through agriculture. It was not until 1700 that the northeast corner of Massachusetts became identified particularly with fishing.

Do More Than Your Duty.

Don't be content with doing only your duty. Do more than your duty. It's the horse that finishes a neck ahead that wins the race.—Andrew Carnegie.

MEN IN AIR SERVICE GET CHANCE TO FLY

Are Given Course in Plane Mechanics and Construction.

The United States army air service has selected 194 of the enlisted men on duty at the various fields in the United States to take flying training. These men have been placed on a cadet status and now are under instruction at both Carlstrom field, Arcadia, Florida and March field, Riverside, Cal.

The cadets are given a thorough course in all branches including mechanics and the construction of airplanes in the ground schools before they take their actual flying training. The entire course covers a period of from nine months to one year during which time the cadet draws $100 per month.

During the world war the allies and even Germany used many enlisted flyers over the lines and the United States was the single exception. Many of the Americans in the Lafayette Escadrille were enlisted men and remained enlisted men until they were taken over in the American air service, whereupon they were commissioned. It is the intention of the air service to allow all enlisted men who so desire to take flying training.

The cadets, upon the completion of their training, are commissioned in the aviation section of the signal reserve corps as airplane pilots and are given the preference to either receive their discharge or return to duty as enlisted men with the privilege of wearing wings. A great majority of the cadets have signified their intention of staying in the service after the completion of their training. At the present time about 150 men are on the waiting list for flying training.

In view of the increased facilities for training, the army air service in the near future will be ready to accept candidates from civil life who desire to take a course of training for airplane pilots.

ENGINE GOES ON TOOT

Runs Away, but Halts When Thirst Looms.

Locomotive No. 624 of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad went off on a toot through Chicago, despite the eighteenth constitutional amendment. The engine was puffing along without a train hitched to it when the engineer and fireman, fearing collision with another train, jumped from it. Missing the train, the locomotive steamed on by itself, running away from an engine hastily sent in pursuit. It tore along to the outskirts of the city, where, finding it couldn't get a drink, it halted.

The pursuing engine halted the prodigal back to a roundhouse, where it was coaled, watered and forgiven.

Horse-Drawn Fire Engine a Curio.
The last horse-drawn fire engine remaining in the London fire brigade has been offered to the South Kensington Science museum.

EASY TO WIN CO-OPERATION

Main Thing to Remember is That One Must Earn What One Expects to Receive.

Getting on with others is a matter of co-operation. If you expect co-operation you must give co-operation—judiciously, systematically and with good will. You can win co-operation from a person when you help him to do what he wants to do.

Everybody has desires which are worthy and deserving of promotion. Study the desires of the person whose co-operation you wish to win and then idealize the ways by which you can aid him to realize those desires.

It all comes back to a matter of service—to what Emerson called the law of compensation and what one teacher of New Thought calls the law of giving and receiving. In the language of salesmanship the way to sell yourself to anyone is through the principle of service. "What will you have?" quoth God; "pay for it and take it—Nothing venture nothing have—Thou shalt be paid for what thou hast done; no more, no less."

In more homely language you must earn what you get in the way of friendship, favors and co-operation of any kind just as you must earn anything else worth while. And by the way, to habitually take what you do not earn, what you do not give a fair equivalent for in one way or another, is to sap the vitality of your own character and unfit yourself for a place among men and women who are not parasites.

If you are a salaried worker and want to earn more money there is only one legitimate way in which you can do it (assuming that no other employer will give you the increased pay), and that is by giving more efficient, cooperative service. This service may take the form of carrying out instructions from others or of acting on your own responsibility; in either case the object is to efficiently help your employer to realize his ideals for the business.

You cannot throw into the business machinery the monkey wrench of indifference, or positive objection to the ideals of your employer and his ways of realizing them, and expect to get your pay raised therefor. Neither can you, by such a course, render relations more pleasant and agreeable and win the co-operation which you desire in the way of increased appreciation as evidenced by a fatter pay envelope.—William E. Towne in Nautilus.

Omsk Once Cossack Center.

Feodor Dostoevsky, the Russian Dickens, wrote his famous novel, "Crime and Punishment," out of his experiences with criminals at Omsk, which was for a time the seat of government of the regime of Admiral Kolchak. In this work Dostoevsky pictures a future Russian people freed from bonds of force, but united by ties of mutual trust and kindness.

Omsk, under the Russian monarchy, was the crossroad of the routes to Central Russia, Orenburg and Turkestan. It lies along the trans-Siberian railway, running from Moscow to Vladivostok, a 5,385-mile journey. It was founded about 200 years ago and is approximately of the size of Birmingham, Ala., or Paterson, N. J.

Omsk was long a Cossack center. In the principal square stands the church of St. Nicholas, in which hangs a banner reputed to have been that of Yermak, a Cossack bandit of the Volga, who turned over the vast domain of Siberia to Ivan the Terrible, with the result that Yermak procured his own restitution to Moscow court favor.

APRIL 15-16-17

The Womans Club will put on a Spring Festival that will be bigger and better than ever. They plan this festival with two important items in mind, one to furnish Sanford people with amusement and a good time and the other to raise funds to be spent for civic purposes. Let us all join the crowds those three nights, because do you know of a better way to spend your money for pleasure than by spending it where the City will reap the benefit? And of a better place to buy that Easter outfit than the place that gives you heaps of value for your money, a place where it is more important to satisfy than to just make a sale? We try to plug and pull at all times for a bigger Sanford and one of our ways of doing this is to conduct a store that could take its place in any City many times the size of Sanford.

Remarkable Feat of Juggling.

An Indian juggler's remarkable feat is described by a writer in the Wide World Magazine. A slim young native, accompanied by a gray-bearded assistant, appeared carrying a couple of large baskets, from the first of which was produced a big python, which the young native proceeded to "charm" with his pipe. The juggler took the basket containing the python, turned it upon a large cloth, the four corners of which he knotted together with a strong, thin rope. At the end of this rope were affixed two little hollow-tendon cups, which he placed over his eyeballs in such a way that a vacuum was created. He then shut his eyes so that the lids were outside the cups.

The two sides of the rope were then passed over his ears and, rising from his squatting position, he lifted the basket containing the snake by the grip of his eyelids and the suction on his eyeballs alone. The writer says he has never heard of the feat being performed before or since.

Just a Reminder.

"The Grabeolins are spending the winter in Florida," remarked Mrs. Dubwalte, who was glancing over the society pages. "Well, what is that to us?" asked Mr. Dubwalte, fretfully. "We can't afford to spend the winter in Florida." "Probably not," answered Mrs. Dubwalte, with an air of resignation. "I just thought I'd call your attention to the fact that it is still being done."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Strange Character.

"How about Gihwitz?" "In what respect?" "His mentality?" "Oh, I wouldn't go so far as to say Gihwitz' mind is a perfect blank, but I've never heard him express an opinion on the League of Nations, and he has no idea for instance, where the railroads are."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

World's Tea Consumption.

The world's consumption of tea, exclusive of the countries in which tea is grown, is about 800,000,000 pounds a year.

Ericsson's Great Invention.

In 1838, on the first of February, the screw propeller for steamships was patented by its inventor, John Ericsson, a Swede.

Shakespeare's Greenwood.

Less than three hours' travel from dirty busy London is the forest of Arden which is hallowed in the minds of all who speak English by the fact that Shakespeare found in it the inspiration for his woodland scenes, and especially for the fantastically beautiful ones of "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The great oaks under which his fairies danced still stretch out their branches over the shadow-dappled sward.

CHILI TO HAVE PLANE FACTORY

British Firm Submits Proposals to Government, Which Are Favorably Considered.

MAKE WORK FOR MANY MEN

Peru Will Try to Solve Transportation Difficulties by Use of Airplanes—Eight Latin-American Countries Have Pilots.

Valparaiso, Chili.—Proposals to the Chilean government for the establishment of an airplane factory in Chili, by an English firm, and the organization of a postal service between the principal cities are meeting favorable reception at the hands of government officials, says the South Pacific Mail.

A detailed report on the project has been forwarded to the government finance minister by Gen. Don Pedro Dartnell, following careful study of the plans as outlined by the John Thomas Aircraft Manufacturing company. In his report the general gives detailed economic, commercial and military reasons for favoring the undertaking.

The introduction of this new branch of enterprise into Chili would undoubtedly stimulate a number of the national industries," comments the paper, "and at the same time find employment of a skilled kind for many hands, while it would also mean the introduction of not less than $2,500,000 capital.

Would Be Independent.

"The military air service would benefit by being made independent of material imported from abroad, while the establishment of an efficient postal service throughout the country would greatly help the population."

Well organized steps to incorporate aviation in the development of their resources are now being taken by eight of the South American republics. Flying is being extensively employed for military and naval purposes and it is expected that aviation to carry passengers to outlying mines and ranches will soon be developed on a large scale, as at present transportation by rail, water and pack animals is extremely slow and difficult.

According to a foreign airplane representative, Brazil has done more than any other South American country toward the development of aviation. Plans are now under way for the establishment of several mail routes and for transportation up and down the Brazilian coast some 1,000 miles, while several planes have been sold for private use.

Air Schools Established. In Uruguay and Argentina government air schools have already been established for both naval and military pupils, while along commercial lines the former all-night trip by steamer from Montevideo to Buenos Aires has been reduced to an hour and a half by the use of the airplane. Bolivia is rapidly undertaking the use of airplanes, an American ace having recently been employed by the government to set up a flying school. Machines are also being sent to Venezuela and to Colombia where they will engage in military and passenger work.

In Peru, however, airplane representatives say they have found more enthusiasm for flying than in any other South American country. Already several Peruvians have qualified as pilots, and more machines are expected to be ordered at an early date. It is expected that in Peru the many difficulties of transportation, due to the mountainous contour of the country, will be overcome through the use of the plane.

Legal Fight 30 Years Stretches Around World.

New York.—A legal fight for control of an estate which has stretched over 30 years and through the courts of New York, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Australia came up in the Brooklyn supreme court. Affidavits covering 100 typewritten pages and reading like an adventure story were filed by Mrs. Fannie S. Thurber of 540 Riverside drive. They oppose the application, made before Justice Cropsey by William H. and Dexter Thurber, brothers of Edmund Gibbs Thurber, to restrain Mrs. Thurber from collecting an annuity of $533 alleged to be the property of her husband.

Divorce in Philippines.

Manila.—It is estimated that 2,000 married couples eagerly await the outcome of a bill pending in the legislature which will amend the divorce law to provide eleven legal grounds for separation instead of one. Whipping and violence by either man or wife to make the other change his or her religion are among the contemplated grounds.

Doctor Cope, who was a member of Sir Ernest Shackleton's last antarctic expedition, will take an airplane along as part of his equipment, and an attempt will be made to fly from the expedition's base in the arctic to the North pole. The party expects to spend five years in the arctic.

NO MORE 'GROUCH'

Why Mr. Parker Has Permanently Reformed.

Something Providential in the Fact That He Should Step on That Broken Needle and Draw His Own Conclusion.

A needle in the sole of a foot is painful, but in the following story, written by a contributor in the Atlantic Monthly, it brought salvation to a man who was very much in need of it. Parker was a "sorehead"—sullen at breakfast, surly at dinner, quarrelsome in the office, crusty on the street, a bear at the party, a hog on the road, a fly in the ointment. His wife was afraid of him, his children were afraid of him, his clerks were afraid of him. He was a "grouch."

One night, about two in the morning, he rose, grumbling, to fasten a flapping shutter. On the way to the window he emitted a yelp of distress. When they turned on the lights, Parker was sitting on the floor, tugging at something embedded in the sole of his left foot. Presently he held up half of a needle! It was evident, they thought, that the other half had remained in his foot.

The family was drowsily sympathetic, but confident that the doctor would find the broken needle in the morning with a magnet. Parker, however, slept little during the remainder of the night; he feared blood poisoning.

Immediately after the breakfast he sought the family physician, who, after patient investigation, assured him that he must have stepped on an already broken needle, for there was no fragment of the steel to be found. But Parker knew that he was carrying in his body a deadly thing that undoubtedly had started upon its fatal mission. He left the office early that afternoon and went home to surprise Mrs. Parker with a display of more tenderness than she had ever observed in him since their honeymoon, which had long ago passed into total eclipse. At dinner he appeared greatly interested in the conversation of Bill and Susie about the high school party. He patted Rags, the dog, who surveyed him for some moments with an expression of undigested incredulity before retiring to the hearth to reflect upon the relationship of humanity and caninity.

All that night Parker lay awake preparing for the speedy wind-up of his terrestrial affairs, and at breakfast he bewildered the household by encouraging a conversation concerning other interests than his own. At the office curiously resigned supreme and unseated. The clerks asked one another what in the world had come over the old man; and when he went out for lunch, Parker gave a blind man a quarter and bought a War Cry of a Salvation army lassie.

The shadow never lifted. Every night when he went to sleep he bade himself good-by, for the chances of his being alive in the morning were just as remote as they would ever be. But it was not a morbid shadow. It forced him to generate more light.

Sometimes his eyes grew moist and his throat ached when he reflected upon the deeply sympathetic understanding of his wife, who studiously avoided any reference to the impending tragedy, and who, in spite of her secret sorrow, acted up to the situation in manner heroic.

The fact that Mrs. Parker, while moving the rug in her husband's room on the morning following the accident, discovered half a needle—the point driven firmly into the floor—may also have given her courage to see the terrible thing through with cheerful resignation.

Building Character.

The character of the building reflects the soul of the man. The general plan reveals the ideal of the builder. Strong characters can't be evolved from shallow natures. There must be the character stuff there to build on. No matter how rough this may be there are processes by which it may be made smooth. But you never can put a finish on things naturally inferior. The very process reveals the lack of worth on which to build. It's different with great souls. These, like great rivers, are not easily ruffled. The currents of their thought, like deep waters, refuse to become choppy with every rippling wind that passes over them. Gales and freshets are not without their influence, but they can never change the nature of things.

Wanted to Help.

There was a disagreeable grind in the left rear wheel, and we drew up at the roadside to investigate. A neighbor who was along went to a nearby fence and started to drag a log toward the car. We watched open-mouthed as he dropped it beside the wheel where we were going to take off. Being sensitive, we gently told him we had a jack for the car. "Oh, all right," said he, and reaching down with a mighty heave he lifted the car from the ground. "There," he panted, "can you get the jack under now?"—Exchange.

As It Goes.

"The first time I put a mortgage on the house it was to buy an automobile."

"Well?"

"And now I have to mortgage it to pay the cook."

BEAUTY CULTURE.

MOST women think that beauty culture consists in an amazing variety of bottles and jars and boxes, with salves and liquids to be applied externally. A few others scorn all cosmetics and pin their entire faith to plain soap and water. Whereas, the real beauty culture steers a middle course between these two extremes, and starting by making the body clean and pure within, uses a few external applications to help out the good work.

For example—cold cream alone will not make a good complexion. But neither, these days, will soap and water. An excellent digestion and a healthy body, come first, but even so, dirt will seep into the pores and soap alone will not clean it out. Air that is too cold roughens the skin, and cream of some sort must be used to soften it. Too hot sun burns the skin, and cream must be used to soothe it. A few hours' ride through a swift wind in an auto, means that the skin will dry and that dirt particles will be forced in by the rush of air. Here again cream is useful.

Exercise or exposure usually causes the pores to become unusually active resulting in a thin film of oil over the skin, and a resulting shininess. Modern standards declare that this is not beautiful, so the powder box comes into its own. Powder is as necessary as soap, almost. Indeed, it is a question whether pure powder on the skin is not better than impure dirt particles. However, powder and all other applications should be thoroughly washed off before one retires, leaving the skin free and clean for the third of the day spent in rest.

A PARTISAN.

"Now," said the honey-tongued real estate philanthropist, "here you would find an absolutely delightful villa site."

"No doubt," said the young lady who should have been across the way; "but my sympathies have always been the other way, and if you don't mind I'd rather build a neat little carranza somewhere."

Explorer Fails to Force Polar Channel

Los Angeles.—Joseph F. Bernard, explorer and former resident of Los Angeles, is returning from the North American channel, according to word just received here, after an unsuccessful effort for three years to force his way from the Pacific to the Atlantic ocean north of the American continent.

Bernard has twice defied the ice fields in a ten-ton schooner, the Teddy Bear, accompanied by only one man. On his first trip in 1908 he went to the Siberian coast and was absent for nearly five years. His assistant died on this voyage, and the explorer sailed his boat to the ice fields alone.

In 1916 he again sailed north in the Teddy Bear, this time in the hope of drifting from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

Recently David H. Hurley, a friend of Bernard here, received word that the Teddy Bear had been sighted by natives near Banksland, and that Bernard was unable to negotiate the passage between the two oceans.
