RUM RUNNERS ON DEFENSIVE, FIGHTING BACK

Counter Attack Brings State Of Guerilla Warfare Along The Atlantic Seaboard

Long Summer Job Ahead Of Officers

Blockade Comanders Assert They Intend To Push The Fight

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The rum smuggler's armada on the Atlantic is fighting back.

Mobilization of the coast guards' fleet in an attempt to drive the supply ships to sea and destroy rum has been answered by a counter-offensive.

Coast guard officers declared Friday that the situation was tantamount to guerilla warfare from the standpoint of the coast guard crews.

Assistant Secretary Andrews, the field marshal of the prohibition forces, and Rear Admiral Billard, commander of the coast guard, are in a serious mood.

Admiral Billard recognizes that the situation has developed into what almost amounts to a war to the death, and he plans to do the best job his power and facilities permit.

With evidence accumulating that land agents of the rum smugglers were ready to take long chances for the high stakes of their illicit trade, coast wardmen everywhere have been warned by headquarters to expect sudden and drastic moves from any direction and to use caution.

Admiral Billard is backing them up to their limit, they were told, and is ready to give them every legal assistance available under coast guard laws.

No Vacation. Confidential reports to headquarters and incidents involving officials and members of the coast guard within the last few days have convinced all that the summer will be no vacation trip for the outfit, but will be crowded with attacks, threats, sabotage, insults, ambushes, bribery attempts and political pressure.

Headquarters officials have been called by long distance and local telegrams in the last two days by rum agents who offered bribes; when they refused, the agents branded the officials as crooks and charged them with letting other rum boats through the lines.

In one instance, after the bribe attempt had failed, Com. Yeandle, the aide to the commander, was warned to "make himself scarce" around New York. Commander Yeandle has been active in carrying out Admiral Billard's program of mobilization.

It has been disclosed yesterday that Commander Yeandle is one of the men named in a dead list which the rum agents have drawn up.

In half a dozen instances off Long Island, when patrol boats were anchored in the darkness to await rum running craft, sudden volleys of rifle fire have broken from the shore. Some of the centers bear marks of the assaults and one guardman was slightly wounded.

Beatsman Gustafson died under circumstances said to have been similar. His patrol, chasing a rum runner, was leading the cutter past a small island when the cutter was struck by a machine gun fire from the shore. Some of the centers bear marks of the assaults and one guardman was slightly wounded.

Woman Opens Fire In Theater, One Killed

Found

A spectacular manhunt in the wooded hills of central Vermont was ended when Earl Woodward, navy deserter and ex-convict, was captured in the hayloft of an abandoned farm near Brookfield.

With him was 11-year-old Lucille Chatterton, missing since the flight of Woodward.

Walter Chatterton, father of the girl, had played the part of a good samaritan with the deserter sought refuge on the Chatterton farm at Granville.

Later Woodward decided to hide in the hills. "I'm going to live where nobody will find me. And if I can find a woman I'll take her along for company," he told Chatterton before he fled.

Minority Stockholders Ask Interstate Commerce Body To Set Aside Rail Merger

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Counsel for minority stockholders who are contesting the Van Sweringen Nickel Plate consolidation project petitioned Interstate Commerce Commission Friday for an order directing O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen and their associates of control of the Chesapeake & Ohio and Hocking Valley railroads.

The request was based upon detailed allegations of fraud and of conduct tending to "despoil Chesapeake & Ohio stockholders of their rights and property," which Thomas R. Gay, attorney for a minority committee, read into the record, but which Commissioner Mever told him would not be received under the commission's rules of procedure.

W. A. Colston, chief of counsel for the Nickel Plate interests, was instructed to refrain from arguing the motion when Mr. Gay conducted the hearing and on the merger plan, which calls for unification of the Nickel Plate, Chesapeake & Ohio Hocking Valley, Erie and Pere Marquette railroads, was continued.

U.S. AID NEEDED IN PEACE MOVE SAYS COOLIDGE

President Says America Has Weighty Responsibility In Maintaining Own Welfare And Promoting World Peace

Says World Looks To U. S. As Savior

Speaks At Opening Of Annual Oratorical Contest Held In Washington Friday

WASHINGTON, May 9.—President Coolidge, opening the national oratorical contest with an address here Friday night declared that the United States has "a weighty responsibility, not only for maintaining its own welfare, liberties and power, but for the most possible contribution toward organizing the nations and peoples in the aspirations and ways of peace."

"Here is a field for institutional development to which the thoughts of men and women everywhere are turned as they never were before," he continued.

"Although this scale is greater, yet the problems in this reality world organization are essentially the same as those to which mankind has been addressing itself from the beginning of society."

Peace With Honor. "These are the problems of assuring justice alike to the weak and the strong; of assuring peace with honor, of enthroning 'conscience' in place of authority too long usurped by more force. The same humanity that has been able to erect the rule of law and liberty in the scale of great nations and mighty federations will at last find institutions by which to place international relations upon the same sane foundations."

Recalling that he had delivered an address when a similar contest was held here a year ago, the president reminded his hearers that "there never was a time when our institutions were so universally being subjected to intimate scrutiny and close consideration as they are today."

"I urged the special importance of closely studying our institutions in order that the people might be equipped intelligently to defend them. Since that suggestion was advanced, we have literally taken a national referendum on the subject of our constitutional system, and I am glad to be able to report that the verdict was overwhelmingly in favor of sustaining that system and going on to perfect it."

Nation's Voice Heard. "The voice of the nation has been heard. It spoke with emphasis that none could possibly misunderstand. It declared for ordered liberty, for constitutional proceedings, for the maintenance of the courts, the rule of law, the security of property and the sacredness of human rights."

"Mr. Coolidge said he had been amazed to learn that the seven school children in tonight's finals were the survivors in a nation-wide competition in which the number of boys and girls taking part had reached the total of 1,400,000. Referring to the subject of the constitution—the federal Constitution—he said:

"Turning our eyes to the future, who can doubt that these students of the underlying elements in our government constitute a pledge of security for these institutions in all the years to come?"

Victims Include Some Of Most Prominent Men In Engineering Profession In South

Ship Capsizes As Landing Is Tried

Vanderbilt Instructor Among the Missing, Authorities Report

MEMPHIS, May 9.—Caught in the swirling muddy current of the Mississippi River as she attempted to stagger ashore the U. S. Government Steamer Norman of the Engineering Corporation fleet here this morning lies in 35 feet of water just below Coahoma landing, Tenn.

With her in her watery grave lie 20 of the gay excursion party that yesterday went for an outing down the river. Among the men, women and children captured in the swirling stream when the boat suddenly listed and sank are some of the best known men in the engineering profession of the South.

The trip was taken as a side issue in the first annual convention of the Mid-South Association of Engineers which opened here among the missing is Prof. E. H. McNelly of Vanderbilt University.

The steamer sank at exactly 5:10 o'clock, according to survivors, who said that there was no panic.

Tom Lea, who happened to be passing the Norman in a motor boat when she turned over, saved the lives of most of the rescued. W. W. DeBarb, of Memphis, told the Associated Press. Few persons on the vessel managed to swim ashore.

There was no explosion when the boat sank, the survivors said. Jack Cochran, engineer, having turned off the fuel oil, under boilers when the boat began to misbehave.

The first news of the accident reached Memphis when George Foster, of Memphis, who swam ashore, reached the K. R. Armistead plantation on the river near Lake Cormorant, Miss., and telephoned for help.

Immediately afterward, efforts at rescue were made here. Speed boats bearing physicians and newspaper men started for the scene.

At 11 o'clock last night, according to reports from the scene, the steamers Monitor and Chisca, both equipped with searchlights, were cruising the water as the scene endeavoring to locate bodies. Other steamers were reported on their way to aid.

The survivors were taken to a negro cabin on reaching the shore and were cared for there. It was reported they were suffering from the effects of contact with quantities of fuel oil that flowed on top of the waters about the sinking vessel.

The steamer had on board about 50 persons and of these approximately 40 tonight were huddled in a little cabin on the shore of the river near the scene of the disaster. The place is isolated and difficult to reach. Newspapermen sent to the scene were forced to make their way to Tunica, Miss., eight miles away, traveled part way on a mule back, part on boat and part in an automobile, to obtain wire facilities.

The government steamer Choctaw, which also had taken a group of excursionists down the river, started back yesterday for Memphis city hospital as soon as she had landed her passengers.

Music Is Played To Sooth Film Stars As They Work In Kleig Light, Glare

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 8.—Music in all its variations, from the soothing tones of the classic compositions to the whine and crash of the jazz band, has become an essential accompaniment to the steady clicking of the moving picture cameras in the studios and on the production lots here.

Temperamental actresses, whose best moods for the day's work may have been upset by a clumsy maid or an ill-fitting gown during the make-up period in the morning, left many directors in desperation until the innovation of "sideline" music.

In 1916, when this adjunct to temperament was introduced, the instrument was a rickety portable organ, but it served to soothe the emotions of the actress. Its deep sonatas, the directors said, drowned the actresses' memories of the maid and unpleasant gown.

Pianos were tried, but found impossible to move to the various sets about the studio, and had to be abandoned altogether when the company journeyed to location, perhaps hundreds of miles away.

With the innovation of "sideline" music, the quality of the music and the musicians began to improve. Then came the demand for unusual combinations, which usually consist of a violin, organ and cello.

The limited repertoire of the musicians past. Monotony has destroyed its usefulness. Now the musicians have a thorough knowledge of classic and popular music to fit the star's comedy antics or dampen the eyes and tears. The directors have unanimously adopted the musical "gag" as an important thread in weaving the entertainment for the silvered screen.

Civil Suits Filed. American Manufacturing Concern vs. E. F. Lane for damages of $99.

The Seminole Board of County Commissioners at its meeting this week went on record as being opposed to any plan of routing the Dixie Highway through Sanford west to Park Avenue. This is taken to mean it is said, that the board favors routing by way of the proposed lakefront boulevard to Park Avenue, thence to First Street, First Street to Sanford Avenue and Sanford Avenue to city limits as advocated by several of the civic organizations of the city.

The board's action of going on record as being opposed to any route west of Park Avenue was taken, it is stated, on account of rumors that certain members of the body were in favor of a west of Park Avenue route. The motion was made by Chairman Meisch.

A Romantic Love Story

Descendant of Barmaid and Gallant Soldier Becomes Duke of Somerset

By Milton Bronner

LONDON, Eng., May 9.—The most romantic love affair of the England of 150 years ago will have its dramatic climax shortly in the House of Lords.

Here before this stately body, the descendant of a saloonkeeper's daughter and a gallant and aristocratic soldier will take his place as Duke of Somerset.

Thus will be crowned the efforts of Brig. Gen. E. H. Seymour to establish claims to dukedom. A legal seal will be placed on a story that is far more romantic than anything novelists imagine and far more dramatic than the productions of film makers.

In 1878 Colonel Francis Compton Seymour fell violently in love with Leonora Hudson.

Seymour was an officer in the army, a member of a noble and ancient family which had intermarried with the royal family of England.

He was a son of a great dignitary of the Church of England, no less a person than the Dean of Wells. He was nephew of the then Duke of Somerset and his accession to the dukedom was not very remote.

Mother of Six. The beautiful Leonora could display no armorial escutcheons. The nearest thing approaching it was a sign that her father had on the door showing that in Woolwich he was the owner of a bar, where Leonora waited on trade.

And Leonora was no longer in her first youth. She was 28, six years older than her soldier admirer.

A barmaid who was wooed and won by Colonel Seymour.

Brig. General Seymour, grandson of the Colonel.

Whose right to the Dukedom was established after years of search.

Giving him a seat in the House of Lords.

Moreover, she was a widow who had borne six children to her husband, three of whom were living.

Her husband had been an unsuccessful saloonkeeper who had shipped for India and died there.

age, caste and wealth and the Colonel and the pretty widow were married quietly in a country church.

They had three sons, of whom the eldest was christened Francis Edward Seymour.

ed by the Committee of Privileges of the House of Lords, is descended from the eldest son of this romantic couple.

But he only established his title after one of the most searching and painstaking examinations in the history of England.

And those who had counterclaims to the dukedom attacked the old-time romance by one even more romantic.

Leonora's first husband, who went out to India in 1785, was John Hudson. He was a dweller in Paddington street in the parish of Marylebone London. Two John Hudsons.

It was claimed on behalf of Leonora that this first husband died in India in 1786 and that, on proof of this, she probated his will and took possession of his house as her own property.

But singularly enough, in that same parish, same street and same neighborhood, the taxbooks of that day showed that there was a John Hudson living there after Leonora's marriage with Colonel Seymour.

Moreover, he did not die until 1891.

If this John Hudson was the same man as Leonora's John, then her marriage with Colonel Seymour was no marriage and the children were not legitimate.

The court said that in order to attack Leonora's marriage it was necessary to believe that John Hudson returned to England and acted like the Enoch Arden of Tennyson's famous poem, living in secrecy until he died.

But the court smashed this by saying that the age of the second John Hudson, as recorded, bore no resemblance to that of the first John Hudson.

Conviction was forced that there were two men by the same name living in the same street and within a few years of each other. It was a striking coincidence and nothing more, the court ruled. The claims of General Seymour were approved.

The new Duke is 65 years old and had a distinguished career in the army, thus following in the footsteps of that Seymour who married the saloonkeeper's daughter.

Warning!

TO MY MOTHER

Seated tonight in the twilight, With only the silvery moon, And the stars that shine above me To brighten the gathering gloom,

Backward doth memory take me To years that have long since flown; Back to the days of childhood, Back to the dear old home;

Vividly, Memory paints me The scenes of those bygone days; Till my old heart leaps within me, As into the past I gaze;

I share with my sisters and brothers The pastimes and toils of each day; While at night a hush falls o'er us As father kneels down to pray;

And then came bedtime, and mother— This life cannot hold greater bliss, Than when we were warmly covered,

But O, how we loved you, mother! And O, how we love you still; And never we think of you, mother, Without a throbbing thrill.

And now, as I sit in the twilight, With only the light of the moon And the stars in heaven above me To brighten the gathering gloom,

My heart goes out to you, mother, With a rushing, tender flood, For all you have been to me, mother— The most precious gift of God.

Mother's Day

He had intended to send a telegram. He really loved his mother and often thought of her as he lay in bed at nights before the mysteries of sleep had closed his eyes in forgetfulness.

He would recall the perfect contentment of those days when he used to sit by her chair in the library while she explained the secrets of right and wrong and quietly lead him into the paths made by His footsteps.

Yes, he had really intended to send that telegram because he knew it would fill his dear old mother with a thrill of delight, but somehow everything all day long just seemed to prevent.

He just couldn't break away from them until nearly two o'clock and by the time he had grabbed a little bite to eat, he was already late for his date.

About eleven o'clock he stumbled up the stairs to his room. It had been a great day. There had been a big crowd at the beach and the girls were so full of pep.

He reached his room at the end of the hall. Leaning against the door, he turned the knob and pushed. Something fell to the floor.

Memory Gems Are Real Treasure

Many of the more successful school teachers set great store by "Memory Gems." Each morning in some school rooms there is a new "gem" on the blackboard which the children memorize during the day.

Often, too, the pupils are required to answer the roll call each morning with a quotation, thus giving a child a chance of memorizing three hundred and twenty gems in the school year—quotations that he is very likely to remember all his life.

In the days of the good old copy books, many a proverb and many a beautiful sentence was unconsciously learned as the child carefully "practiced" the copy, and then painstakingly inscribed it on the twenty lines of the copy book's page.

Perhaps you have such a notebook among your old schoolbooks. Perhaps this reference to "Memory Gems" has sent your mind back to the time when you learned "My heart leaps up when I behold a rainbow in the sky," or when you mastered, "Laugh and the world laughs with you; weep and you weep alone."

Some of those "Memory Gems" may have been learned a long time ago, and yet you know them perfectly. And it would very likely please you if in some fashion you were required to master a helpful sentence or paragraph every day.

It would be great, wouldn't it if some families had to repeat in concert: "Blessed are the happiness makers! Blessed are they that take away attractions, that remove friction, that make the courses of life smooth, and the intercourse of men gentle!"

THE FRIEND thou hast, and their adoption tried, Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel.—Shakespeare.

A SOUND CREDIT PLAN

ST. PETERSBURG TIMES

Individuals and institutions in many sections of the country are becoming concerned over what they describe as a popular tendency to go into debt for common necessities of life.

When these alarmists speak of a "popular tendency to go into debt for the common necessities of life," they are referring to the growing tendency of the millions to purchase automobiles, phonographs, furniture, radios, jewelry and good clothes on the partial or deferred payment plan.

Every preaching reformer must have his "horrible examples" and those who harangue against the "pay while you use it" plan are no

Another Happy Day. Mr. Brown and Mr. Winter. Lucky Japanese Baby. He Did Seven Hearts.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1925)

ANOTHER BRISK and happy day in the stock market. Money was cheap—if you had collateral—stocks were dear, and going up. Wheat jumped six cents when Spain sent in an order for 2,000,000 bushels.

The broker, homeward plodding his weary way, defied anybody to say this isn't a pretty good country. He even stopped in to buy something for "the little lady."

A. B. STOREY, president of the Santa Fe, another railroad, with a real railroad man running it, dropped into the Wall Street section for a few hours, and comforted inquirers about the Southwest, as the love sick gentleman in the Bible wished to be comforted with apples.

The drought in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas is definitely broken. Kansas will ship about 125,000,000 bushels of wheat, and the pessimist is a donkey.

ARE YOU one of many convinced that we should keep out the foreign element, reserving our land and opportunities for the native born?

Consider Frederick Brown, of New York. He came here from Czecho-Slovakia with his father, not long ago, bringing no wealth, except brains and character.

HOW MANY of the native born can you mention, off hand, that have made and given away a million, in a few years, adding a promise of $50,000 a year more?

Vincent Astor, very much "Native born," has sold his big New York house on Fifth Avenue at a price that would make a good single taxer shudder.

It is so, don't keep out the good men from Europe. Such men came here and built THIS NATION. There are more in Europe like them.

JAPAN'S PRINCE Regent, Hiro Hiro, tells the empire officially that his wife expects an heir. The Princess cancels all engagements. She will devote her time, before and after, to that new little "Sun or daughter of Heaven," and will think herself well rewarded for all her care when the baby smiles at her.

NO ONE will persuade her that "in justice to your own health, and looks, my dear, you must not THINK of nursing the baby." And she won't be smoking cigarettes in bed three days after it is born.

IN JAPAN if you raise your hand to a little child, frowning, and threatening, the child will laugh, knowing that you pretend. No one there ever strikes a child. That's one reason why the Japanese fight so well, when they do fight. The Japanese spirit is not broken in childhood.

THIS WILL interest millions. Dr. Jenney, of the learned Triangles Club, at the Chicago University, held thirteen hearts at bridge, bid "seven hearts," and, of course made his bid.

The extraordinary thing is that holding a perfect hand has, within a short time, happened twice at the same club, although the mathematical chances, calculated by the university mathematicians, are six hundred billions to one against it.

Don't hope for such a hand. Playing five hours a day, dealing ten hands to the hour, in the ordinary course of events, you would have to play bridge a great deal longer than three thousand years to get thirteen hearts.

You have heard, of the man who did hold just that hand, and failed to take a trick. He trumped his partner's ace, because he had to, and the partner shot him dead.

THE PRESIDENT hopes, and is determined, to cut $300,000,000 more off the nation's tax bill. That comforts the "better element," which means the richer element, and also the struggling middle class man, with only two or three millions, or even less, the man who expects to be well off in the real American sense of the word, some day.

AT PRESENT our very best element feels toward the tax gatherer as the faithful dominick hen feels toward the farmer, gathering her eggs as fast as she lays them, and giving her a door knob when she wants to set.

WE HOPE THIS BIRD CANT SWIM

JUST IN PASSING

BY R. J. HOLLY

My old friend Harry Neal of the Cowsimnee Gazette must have been eating a lot of sweet potatoes. In a front page article he heads "I Am Music" he goes on to state a lot of stuff that we never knew was music, art or literature.

That bill introduced in the legislature to have tail lights on all cows was not so ridiculous at that. Tail lights and headlights on the cattle that roam the roads at nights in those counties that allow it would be a protection to the motorist.

Orlando wants to be made a station on the new air mail route through Florida. With our aviation field here, Sanford should also be a station and if we are a station, let the world know it.

Our own High School orchestra will be on the program for broadcasting from the Winter Park station Monday night. They have arranged a fine program and Mayor Lake will tell the world about the City Substantial at the same time.

Efforts will be made to bond the state for twenty millions for good roads. This will be all right if they cut out the gasoline taxes and other taxes that we are paying now and reimburse the progressive counties for the roads they have already spent their money to build.

Property owners in Sanford who want to have nice lawns should have the city water free for sprinkling purposes. Just now we are going broke trying to keep the parkways green when the parkways belong to the city and can be torn up at any time or made into streets.

Many folks have come to me regarding the Saturday half holiday and none of them are against it. Many would like to see it tried out and see how it will work. This is only for the summer months and much of the opposition regarding paying off and other items will be dissipated when it is learned that we only want the half holiday on Saturday during the summer months.

Only one actor out of fifty thousand achieves stardom, says a report from Hollywood. This could also be said about almost any business except that of the real estate men in Florida.

It is my honest opinion that there will be more real estate sold in Sanford this summer than there was during the past winter and I believe that present results will prove it. Just now there are more folks here looking over property than there was in the winter season.

The bond issue for good roads in Seminole County went over in the usual style and the same folks voted for them and the same folks voted against them that have voted here for many years.

Value of farm lands and buildings in Seminole county increased nearly three million dollars during the five-year period ended December 31, last, it is disclosed in data compiled by the federal census bureau and made public at Tallahassee. On that date the value was fixed at $9,093,787 as compared with $6,247,345 five years ago.

The Orlando Chamber of Commerce will sell its present building for $60,000. Many years ago I advocated the Sanford Chamber of Commerce buying a good site here for a regular home but the folks could not see it and we have lost a glorious opportunity to make enough money to keep the Chamber of Commerce going for many years to come.

The trouble with so many people is that they are dead and don't know it. They were well satisfied with things as they are now and as they have been for fifty years and they do not want to bother with new ideas. They just want to rest and rest and rest.

LET THE FLAPPERS FLAP

BY MARY GARDEN

Flappers should "flap" all they wish. They should cut their hair as short as they desire.

Dress? Well, abbreviate, then until the law yells whoa—and uptick, rouge and other ingredients for youthful appearance can be dabbed on with abandon.

But if a flapper wants to marry—well, that's different—we just can't have "flapper wives."

But we do not have to reach back to the Victorian age to find the solution for all the problems now attributed to the flapper, Mary says.

For if your present day girl meets life with reckless abandon it is because she is now coming into the freedom of thought and action long denied her.

She is the greatest girl the world has ever known—and all she will have to do is to mix a little intelligent thought with her problems to become an excellent wife.

You wouldn't want to put her back in the long, sweeping dresses of years ago. They were nothing but dirt catchers, trailers for skirts.

And where do flappers get their ideas which seem so shocking to adults? Why isn't it from their married sisters?

Hip flasks, necking parties, etc., are not the inventions of the flapper. My, no—they come from the young married girl who goes to the altar rail to escape the dingy office and long hours away from a typewriter.

Probably she sees a sort of a protected freedom. She is the "flapper wife," who fails to study her problem of married life.

You can't come home, throw off your corsets, eat chocolates and keep the figure necessary to hold admiration. Nor will late hours and dissipation be tolerated by a body or mind.

Girls who marry should look their problem in the face, and solve it—just as a business man meets his daily problems—just as I meet my problems before the public.

And how am I able to hold my public?—by keeping alert and abreast of the time—my youth, my figure and my voice are constantly watched.

If I was to marry, and please remember I didn't say I had any such thought, I would meet the problems of married life in the same way—adapting myself to my new surroundings, eager to bring my happiness with me.

But flappers can't be "flapper wives." They must leave behind them at the altar rail the train of jazz and solve their new problems.

In this way they can keep their youth, and hold the admiration of their life mate.

MRS. DEEN AND MRS. BAGGETT ARE HOSTESSES AT LOVELY BRIDGE PARTY AT WOMAN'S CLUB

A beautiful party Friday afternoon was given at the Woman's Club by Mrs. John C. Deen and Mrs. Draxton B. Baggett honoring Mrs. W. H. Reitz and Mrs. J. H. Pyle, who have recently moved to Sanford from Sisterville, Va. Miss Nonie Williams who is making her home with her sister, Mrs. Deen and Miss Mary Sheldon, of Douglass, Ga., who is the guest of Mrs. W. Morton Thigpen.

The hostess and honor guests were most becomingly attired. Mrs. Deen wore an attractive lace dress trimmed apricot flat crepe gown. Mrs. Baggett was charming in a gown of peach georgette trimmed in lace; Mrs. Pyle's gown was a handsomely beaded frock of rose georgette; Miss Williams wore a becoming frock of green georgette artistically embroidered; Miss Sheldon was delightfully gowned in tan crepe with trimmings of blue and Mrs. Pyle wore a most becoming gown of ashes of roses faille. Mrs. W. M. Thigpen in a gown of lavender georgette, had charge of the taffies.

The club was a vision of loveliness the color scheme of green and yellow being delightfully carried out in the decorations. Graceful asparagus fern, interspersed with California poppies, was entwined about the balcony rails and columns great bowls of the golden poppies and Japanese sunflowers were placed about in a most artistic manner.

A group of Sanford's loveliest younger school set assisted the hostess in serving a dainty ice course at the conclusion of the party. They were: Miss Irma Smith, Miss Claire Zachary, Miss Margaret Cowan, Miss Emily Griffin, Miss Lena Bell, Hagan and Miss Carmenta Barber. Beautiful old-fashioned bouquets of straw flowers were given each guest as favors.

The prize for high score, a handsome plaque was won by Mrs. Hawkins Connelly. Mrs. James Ridge for second high score, was presented a pair of lovely pottery candle holders with candles. Mrs. Ralph Wight, for consolation, was awarded a Coty's compact.

Lake Mary

J. E. Singletary left Monday for a visit to Douglas, Georgia. Several carloads of local citizens attended the meet at Geneva on Thursday.

Mrs. Campbell, of Cleveland, Ohio, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Beckham.

At a recent meeting of Boy Scouts, Clarence Piest was elected scout master.

Rev. G. V. Albertson, Sunday school organizer of the Presbyterian Church, was a visitor last Sunday.

D. L. Thrasher of Sanford, has purchased the old Sundall home, and is erecting a new home there.

Mrs. C. J. Fortman, of Hoopston, Ill., who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Kemp left Sunday for Palatka.

Mrs. Cory Whitney, proprietor of the Everingham, Old Orchard Beach, Me., accompanied by Mrs. Cooper of Franklin, Mass., spent last week with Mrs. M. V. Evans, mother of Mrs. Whitney.

About twelve carloads of local people enjoyed a weiner roast on the shores of Lake Mary Tuesday evening. The bonfire could be seen for miles, and the blowing of horns and cheering could be heard all over the village. The occasion was to celebrate the bond issue victory in Lake Mary, which carried here by a vote of more than two to one.

Melvin Dean, a local youth, who is a Sanford High School student, was instrumental in averting a probable railroad wreck and possible loss of life by quick action in sounding the alarm when he discovered a broken rail about one-half mile from Lake Mary station. He ran to the postoffice and notified A. E. Sjöblom, who immediately telephoned the train dispatcher and notified the section foreman. The fact that the train was late undoubtedly prevented a serious accident.

Kiwanians Defeated By High School Boys In Twilight Contest

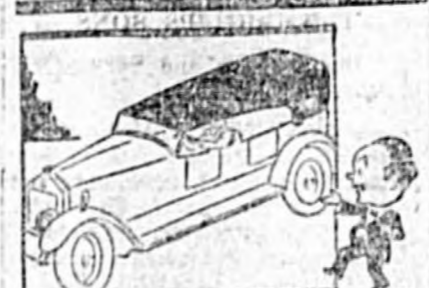

In the first "twilight" baseball game of the season, a team composed of high school players Friday afternoon defeated the Kiwanis club team by a score of 5 to 4 at the Municipal Athletic Park. The game lasted six innings beginning at 5 o'clock and Kiwanians are circulating an appeal that if another inning had been played they would have won—they don't however, explain just how they reach this conclusion.

The Kiwanis team was composed of Merriweather, lb; Steele, p; Overlin, c; Bebout, ss; Hutchison 2b.; Byrd, 3b.; Bell, rf.; Amason, cf.; McCall, lf. Players for the high school were Byrd, Higgins, Barber, Schirard, Wilson, King, Russell and Duren.

Batteries were: Kiwanians, Steele and Overlin; High School, Duren and Russell. The Kiwanians pulled a double play, Bebout to Hutchison to Merriweather.

Georgia Lady, Who Had Lost Too Much Weight, Was Advised to Take Cardui and Is Now Well.
Columbus, Ga.—Mrs. George B. Hunter, of this city, writes:
“After I married, thirteen months ago, I suffered with dreadful pains in my sides during ... My side hurt so bad it nearly killed me. I had to go to bed and stay sometimes two weeks at a time. I could not work and I just dragged around the house.
“I got very thin—I went from 126 pounds down to less than 100. My mother had long been a user of Cardui and she knew what a good medicine it was for this trouble, so she told me to get some and take it. I sent to the store after it and before I had taken the first bottle I began to improve.
“My side hurt less and I began to improve in health ... The Cardui acted as a fine tonic and I do not feel like the same person. I am so much better. I am well now. I have gained ten pounds and am still gaining. My sides do not trouble me at all.
“I wish every suffering woman knew about Cardui.” NC-160
