A diamond in a garbage pile

CUDJOE KEY — Jill Hatch got into a stink — literally — when her diamond ring and other jewelry accidentally went out with the trash. Mrs. Hatch had put the red velvet pouch holding the diamond-studded platinum ring, other rings, bracelets and charms into a waste basket thinking it would be a good place to hide her jewelry.

When the Hatches realized they had thrown out the garbage — jewels and all — they called the private trash hauler that collects their waste and everyone met at the dump.

The driver "tried to guess where approximately our garbage would be," Mrs. Hatch said.

The truck crew, dump workers and the Hatches waded in, and the landfill foreman narrowed the search by suggesting people check envelope addresses to get close to the Hatch home. Four hours later, the baseball-sized pouch was found.

Democrats take pro-choice plank

LAKE BUENA VISTA — A national abortion rights leader Saturday hailed Florida Democrats for a draft platform plank making it the 29th state party to advocate a woman's right to choose.

Kate Michelman, executive director of the National Abortion Rights Action League, said Florida has shown "political initiative in proposing such a strong pro-choice plank."

She said 28 other state Democratic Party platforms contained similar language, compared to just two Republican Party platforms. In Florida, the 2,300 convention delegates will vote on the proposed platform today.

The abortion resolution reads in part that "every woman has the right to make her own personal decisions regarding family planning" in consultation with family, doctors and religious leaders. It adds that Democrats "support the right of women to safe and legal abortion."

Hospital wins fight

An $8 million expansion OK'd

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Central Florida Regional Hospital will finally get an open heart surgery facility. An attempt to gain approval has been underway since 1988.

Following initial approval for the heart center by HRS in the fall of 1988, several area hospitals filed objections to the approval. Hospital Public Relations spokesperson Susan Prather explained. "They indicated we didn't need the facility, as they were already providing the services to the people of Central Florida." Both of the hospitals are in the greater Orlando area.

This past Tuesday, the Florida Supreme Court refused to hear their appeals to block the granting of a Certificate of Need, CON, for the hospital.

"The only thing remaining now," said Prather, "is for another final approval from HRS." She could not project when that might be granted.

Roy C. Vinson, the hospital's administrator, was pleased. "We may be able to break ground on the open heart facility as we conclude our current expansion project, and continue the construction straight into the new project," he said.

Vinson predicted that if all present work progresses as planned, the open heart surgery facility "... could be up and running by spring of 1993."

The construction already in progress, is the addition of a new two story section in the northeastern side of the present hospital. The $6 million project is adding a new obstetrics department and short-stay surgery facility, as well as allowing for reconfiguration of several present facilities to increase work space in several departments.

Work on the new additions are reported to be right on schedule and the facilities are expected to become fully operational by March, 1992.

When the open heart surgery area is added, Prather said, "It will be toward the south of the SANFORD — Calm waters and a cool breeze were perfect sailing conditions for the small Viking sailing ship that arrived on the shores of Lake Monroe near the New Tribe's Mission on Saturday morning.

The carved wood ship pulled close to the seawall and Miss St. Lucia, Nancy Terwilliger of Sanford, stepped onto the special platform and climbed the stairs to the start of the St. Lucia Christmas parade.

Sixty-three units made their way past the New Tribe's Mission on Seminole Boulevard toward the Sanford Civic Center.

"It wasn't easy judging them," said Dick Hofmann, director of community relations for the school board, who selected the prize winners from among the participants along with Dr. Karen Copp, chairman of the Fine Arts Department at Seminole Community College and Doris Deitrich, columnist for the Sanford Herald.

The three chose The Seminole Trace Rider's float that depicted a Christmas in Mexico as the best of the parade. Escorted by a beautiful equestrian group, the float represented a Mexican town, complete with church and Sombroeroed

Only lion at zoo dies at 22

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The only lion at the Central Florida Zoological Park, has died. Cause of death was a recurring cancer problem.

Daisy, as she was known, was one of the oldest lionesses in captivity, having reached the ripe old age of 22 years.

According to zoo spokesperson Andrea Farmer, "We believe she was donated to the zoo by Jack Hanna." Hanna, a prominent television personality, was one of the organizers of the present zoo, and served as it's first director.

Curator Fred Antonio explained, "She had undergone an operation for a cancerous growth four years ago, but apparently the cancer moved to other parts of her body." She was being worked on by special veterinarians in Gainesville when she died.

Daisy's partner, Leo, died several years ago, leaving her alone in her later days at the zoo.

Farmer said, "We are pleased that Daisy was able to make it this far in life. Hardly any lions or lionesses reach anywhere near that age out in the wild."

At the present time, there are no plans to seek any replacement for Daisy, Antonio explained. "Right now, our main focus is to match species with the various sizes of exhibit areas we have here at the zoo. While Daisy wasn't, by any means, kept in any small area, we will eventually have to build a much larger habitat for any future lions."

The curator said, "Most of the lions in the various zoos in the United States these days are the result of conservation in-breeding. Lions are transferred from zoo to zoo as they become available, at no charge."

Sanford's First Federal S&L to be auctioned in February

Federal agents seized control of thrift in April

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Seminole County and its five branches will be auctioned in February, a federal thrift manager said Friday.

On Thursday, the Resolution Trust Corp. advertised in the Wall Street Journal for bids. Don Dotson, a senior official in the regional RTC marketing department in Atlanta, said a closed-door session for prospective buyers will be held sometime in February, possibly in Sanford.

Bids will then be accepted for a 30- to 60-day period following that information session, Dotson said.

Dotson said another savings and loan or investment company may choose to buy all of the thrift or only certain branches. He said after bids are received, the assets will be sold to the bidders who will provide the highest return on takeover costs to taxpayers.

"We hope to find a buyer quickly in this competitive market so there will be no disruption in service to depositors," Dotson said. "We like to close the doors on Friday and have them open on Monday as a new bank."

The RTC, the federally-created thrift-takeover agency, assumed control of the 56-year First Federal April 5 after the institution posted assets of $182.7 million and liabilities of $198.9 million.

Dotson said he expects the six-bank chain will be popular. He said depositors have remained faithful so a purchaser will be able to open its doors with assets.

"I would think there is considerable interest in this institution," Dotson said. "It has a loyal deposit base that is important to a prospective buyer."

Eslinger to take FBI training

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sheriff Don Eslinger will attend a special three-month FBI academy course in Quantico, Va.

Eslinger confirmed Friday he will attend the invitation-only course for law enforcement officials from Jan. 5 until March 20. During that time, Maj. John Erwin will be acting sheriff, Eslinger said.

"It is quite a privilege to be invited to this," said Eslinger. "It's referred to as the 'PhD' of law enforcement administration."

Eslinger said the curricula includes law enforcement management, behavioral science, community policing and ethics.

Eslinger denied allegations from political opponents he was taking the course to bolster his election chances next year. He said he had applied to the academy on Jan. 17, 1989 at the request and sponsorship of late Sheriff John Polk. Eslinger was in charge of the City-County Investigative Bureau at the time. Polk was also a graduate of the course, which is offered free.

Eslinger said he was invited by the academy to attend the program earlier this year, but he declined.

"I am willing to forego my political aspirations for three months for this," Eslinger said.

"This is to enhance my skills plain and simple. I will be in constant communication with the department and will be able to return on a moment's notice."

"Even Eslinger realizes that a high school diploma is probably not a sufficient background to run the sheriff's department," said Republican primary opponent Harvey Morse. "I applaud him for getting this training which I hear is very excellent, but it is a three-month course. Seminole County needs someone with at least a four-year (college) education to run a multi-million department."

Eslinger has a high school degree from Warren, Mich. and has attended community college classes in Michigan and at Seminole Community College, which includes his police academy training. Morse, owner of a private investigation business, has a four-year degree in business administration from Boston University and has attended two years of law school.

Eslinger and Morse will face former Seminole County sheriff's

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Floridians willing to accept Haitians

MIAMI — Unlike President Bush, most Floridians are willing to accept Haitians seeking refuge in the United States until it is safe for them to return to their politically unstable homeland, a survey indicated.

Fifty-seven percent of Florida voters questioned on immigration issues by Mason-Dixon Opinion Research said they favored granting at least temporary asylum to Haitian boat people stranded in Immigration limbo.

Minorities were the most receptive to Haitians, with 83 percent of blacks, 64 percent of Hispanics and 51 percent of non-Hispanic whites saying Haitians should be allowed temporary entry.

The Bush administration has created a tent city at a U.S. Navy base in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, and broadened immigration interviews but still treats Haitians as returnable economic refugees rather than political exiles entitled to stay in the United States.

More at high school test positive for TB

WEST PALM BEACH — Health officials scheduled tuberculosis tests for an entire high school in Palm Beach County after 12 more students and three teachers tested positive for the disease.

Those who have been given skin tests at Forest Hill High School are classmates and teachers of a student who tested positive for TB on Dec. 2. The student has been treated and is back in school.

The student has shown symptoms of the disease and a positive skin test and sputum smear. But his sputum culture results have not come back yet, so he has not been officially diagnosed as having TB. He is on the drug regimen and is no longer contagious, officials said.

Nymphomania case couple plead guilty

MIAMI — A couple accused of running a prostitution racket out of their home have abandoned their novel nymphomania defense, pleaded guilty and promised to cooperate with a criminal investigation of their former lawyer.

In return, Kathy Willets, 33, gets three years' probation and her husband, a 41-year-old suspended Broward County deputy sheriff, will serve less than one year behind bars, said their new attorney, Robert Smoley.

Because he is now a felon, Jeffrey Willets will no longer be able to work as a law enforcement officer.

Trials may change judge elections

JACKSONVILLE — Lawsuits filed in Jacksonville and Tallahassee claim at-large elections unfairly deprive blacks of opportunities to win judgeships.

The outcome of the federal court cases could lead to dividing judicial circuits and counties throughout Florida into single-member districts for the election of judges.

Similar lawsuits have resulted in single-member districting for city council, county commission and school board elections in many Florida communities and the election of more minorities to those bodies.

A class-action suit filed on behalf of blacks in Duval County went to trial Thursday in Jacksonville and the case is expected to continue next week.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

State budget cut $500 million

Senate standoff displaces leaders

By JACQUE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — State lawmakers cut $500 million from Florida's $29 billion budget despite a partisan standoff in the Senate that cost six Republicans their committee leadership posts.

Cuts approved during the four-day special session that ended Friday evening included $262 million from schools, $143 million from health programs and social services and $91 million from courts and the prison system.

"I think it is a very responsible cut bill," Gov. Lawton Chiles said. Lawmakers were able to shift about $100 million from various trust funds to cushion slightly the $622 million tax shortfall.

"This wasn't pleasant," said House Speaker T.K. Wetherell, but he added that the cuts were easier to make knowing they could soon be modified if necessary.

"One of the advantages we had was the (regular) session coming 30 days later," Wetherell, D-Daytona Beach, said.

The two-month annual session starts Jan. 14.

The struggle in the 40-member upper chamber delayed the expected adjournment by five hours as Democratic Senate President Owen Margolis waited for the return of two Democratic senators, both attorneys, who had been excused to attend out-of-town court hearings.

The vote in the Senate was 21-19, with one Democrat joining the 18 Republicans. An hour and a half earlier the House had voted 94-19 for the package. "It looks like to me the political season has started," Chiles, a Democrat, said of the Senate battle.

Four Republicans gave up committee chairmanships rather than back the cuts and two resigned from vice chairmanships. The Democrat who voted against the cuts, Vince Bruner of Fort Walton Beach, also gave up a committee chairmanship.

Senate Republicans particularly objected to an agreement to cut $24.7 million to pay hospitals to treat "medically needy" patients who can't get Medicaid because they're employed but don't have health insurance. The cut meant losing $30 million in matching federal funds.

Budget negotiators made the elimination effective in April with the idea of finding money to restore the program in the regular legislative session starting next month, but Republicans were skeptical.

Recession culprit as tourism drops sharply

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — A national recession and higher air fares were the major culprits in a 1-million drop in Florida tourists from January through September, state officials say.

The Florida Commerce Department reported 30.9 million visitors in the first nine months of 1991. This compared to 31.9 million visiting the Sunshine State during the same period last year.

But tourist officials noted that the 1990 period set a record and that it would have been difficult to match or surpass it even without the troubled economy and the end of bargain air fares.

Florida lured 29.9 million tourists in the first nine months of 1990.

"With personal income and consumer spending down, many would-be travelers have decided to forgo this year's vacation or to spend vacation time closer to home," said Florida Commerce Secretary Greg Farmer.

Tourism leaders have been feeling the slump since the beginning of the year, and the figures confirmed lower attendance and profit margins.

The largest drop in the number of visitors was in September, historically the weakest month of the year for tourism. There was a travel reduction in both ground and air transportation, the Commerce Department reported Thursday.

Visitors coming by car totaled 15.9 million, compared with 16.1 million in the same period of 1990. The visitors traveling by plane totaled 15 million, compared with 15.7 million.

The smaller number of air visitors was attributed by Farmer to "the end of the bargain air fares that prevailed" through much of 1990. Fewer airlines are operating this year, and carriers have been more reluctant to cut profit by slashing prices.

Armed savage

After 25 years, breast cancer surgeon says patients must never say die

By TAD BARTINUS
AP Special Correspondent

FORT LAUDERDALE — He thinks of himself as "an armed savage," this doctor with a knife, whose duty it is to cut out the rogue cells and rid the body of its untidiness.

Nearly 52 years old now, Anthony A. Goodman, M.D., has been invading other human beings with his scalpel for a quarter of a century. It is the tulerum of the man, this surgical skill he carries. It has been the one continuum, through three marriages, two children, and countless personal journeys to far ends of the earth and deep recesses of the mind.

Being a surgeon is not just what Tony Goodman does, it is what he is. And now, after all these years of different kinds of cutting, he has brought all his gifts to bear in a specialty he believes is most important, both to him and his patients.

He is a breast cancer surgeon. The sterile room is cool, almost cold; Tchalkovsky plays on the radio, not too loud, not too soft; the gowned, hair-netted figures wait, checking charts and monitoring machines; the woman on the table stares at the ceiling, saying nothing.

The double doors swing open and Goodman backs in, his hands in the air in front of him. Nurse Helen Calliguri and scrub technician Dee McDonough tie his smock and briskly, efficiently, pull his gloves down over his sanitized fingers, stretch the rubber back, and fasten his sleeves around his wrists so no germs can creep up the arms. He walks, in his Dutch clogs, the four steps to the patient's head, and bends over her with a cheerful smile.

"How do you feel?" Goodman asks the 32-year-old single, childless woman who lays before him on the operating table.

In a barely audible voice, the frightened patient says she's "OK," and her doctor says, "Good. You're going to be fine, so just hold on to that thought" as he imperceptibly nods to Dr. Armando Mendez, the anesthesiologist.

If the team, each member a specialist, finds the shadow on the mammogram is a carcinoma,

Goodman and this young patient will meet again, on another day, for a lumpectomy or a mastectomy, depending on what they decide is best for her long-term survival.

"Ready?" asks the surgeon, glancing around the table. It is a rhetorical question, for in this operating theater Goodman is the conductor, they the players, and it is part of their job to be ready when he is. But still, as courtesy and reassurance, he looks at their masked faces, reading their solemn eyes.

Then, his body unknowingly tense, his neck rigid, he leans over the iodine-dyed breast, the only flesh visible among yards of sterilized green cotton sheets, and presses his knife hard into the skin. Harder. Harder. He makes a single, half-moon cut around the nipple. The operation has begun.

"She's young and single. Let's keep this scar as invisible as possible," he says.

There is little blood, because Dee McDonough is at his elbow, suctioning it away almost as quickly as it appears. Once the skin is parted, Goodman uses other instruments to dig into matter which looks, incongruously, like buttercup yellow chicken fat.

Reading the X-rays just above his head, probing deeper, studying the photos again, the surgeon abandons his tools to use his fingers to feel for the tumor. Although he cannot tell exactly where it is because it is so small, he senses that he has found it.

"Under a microscope, cancer is ugly and disordered and violates the symmetry of nature," Goodman will say later. "When you cut normal breast tissue, it looks rubbery and soft, and it feels like you are cutting a steak. When you cut cancer, it is dull, and feels like you are cutting an apple. It is like what the French say, 'It cries when you cut it.'"

Excising a section of the breast about the size of a breath mint, he lifts it onto a glass slide his nurse has waiting. Then, as she rushes it to X-ray so technicians can take a close-up photo of the alien mass, Goodman waits. Less than 10 minutes later, the lab reports back to OR: the tissue removed from the body is a match with the suspect area on the mammogram. He got it.

Suspended license leads to drug arrest

Cathy Shella Carter, 33, 725 Logan Drive, Longwood, was arrested for possession of marijuana and cocaine early Wednesday morning after a Camelberry policeman stopped her for having a suspended driver's license.

The policeman reported finding the drugs in her purse after her suspended license arrest.

Habitual traffic offenses charged

Richard D. Lyles, 32, 1134 Lake Mary Blvd., Sanford, was charged with driving with a suspended license and for committing habitual traffic offenses by Winter Springs police Wednesday.

According to arrest reports, a policeman stopped Lyles when he saw a passenger in his truck was carrying a two-year-old child without a seatbelt or child restraint seat. A computer check revealed Lyles' license had been revoked in October for 60 months for committing habitual traffic offenses.

Motorcycle driver charged

Damon Ian Ralston, 21, 1920 Lake Reservoir Lane, Sanford, was charged with driving with a suspended license by Sanford police Wednesday after the policeman reported seeing him riding a motorcycle in the parking lot of Seminole High school without eye protection.

A computer check revealed Ralston's license had been suspended in October for three months.

Warrant served

Robert Morrison Miller, 25, of 310 Rachel Ave., Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police Tuesday evening at his home. Miller was wanted on a warrant issued in Orange County involving two charges of grand theft.

Statue throwing brings arrest

James Elliott Normand, Jr., 27, of 2549 Grassy Point Dr. Apt. 113 in Lake Mary was arrested on Friday morning. He was charged with throwing a deadly missile and battery.

According to the arrest report, he went to his girlfriend's apartment, they became involved in a verbal argument and he then threw her on the bed and ripped her blouse. She ran from the apartment to her car.

He threw a statue at the car as she tried to leave. Sheriff's deputies took Normand into custody at his home and took him to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held in lieu of $4,000 bond.

Drug charges filed against trio

Thomas Bryan-Roger Mulligan, 25, of 106 Bears Cir. in Longwood; Jason McGarrett Pierce, 21, of 966 Wildflower Way in Longwood and James Edward Prescott, 23, of 966 Wildflower Ct. in Longwood, were arrested on Thursday.

They were charged with possession of drug paraphernalia and with less than 20 grams of marijuana apiece.

According to the arrest report, sheriff's officers used a search warrant to enter the home shared by Pierce and Prescott.

The search revealed about 5 grams of marijuana in the house and various smoking devices.

They were transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where each was held on $500 bond.

Aggravated battery charged

Dan Arthur Summers III, 21, of 1311 Santa Barbara Dr. in Sanford was arrested on Thursday and charged with aggravated battery.

According to the arrest report, on Tuesday, Summers III and a friend, both of whom the report said were intoxicated, became involved in a verbal argument.

The argument turned violent and Summers III hit his friend on the head with a stick. According to the report, the friend's skull was fractured by the blow.

When he returned to apologize on Thursday, police were called and he was arrested.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $4,000 bond.

Petit theft charged

John Mackey, 20, of 1010 Holly Ave. in Sanford was arrested on Thursday.

He was charged with petit theft.

Police reported that during an undercover drug operation, an officer was approached by Mackey and the officer told him he wanted to buy a $20 piece of crack cocaine. They said Mackey was suspicious and told the officer to put the money under a brick and that he would put the drugs under a brick.

He took the money, but when the officer lifted his brick there was nothing there.

Mackey refused to return the money so he was taken into custody on a theft charge.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $100 bond.

Battery charged

Willie Devise Lawrence, 31, of 36 William Clark Ct. in Sanford was arrested on Thursday.

He was charged with violating his probation on charges of battery.

According to the arrest report, he had failed to pay court costs and had failed to complete a drug and alcohol treatment program.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held without bond.

J. Stone spans music history

Area resident to be honored by Smithsonian

By NEE FLORES
Associated Press Writer

WINTER SPRINGS — Jesse Stone stands as a taproot of 20th century music.

As a performer, songwriter, arranger, big-band leader, the 90-year-old Stone has served as a mentor to singers and musicians who achieved fame and fortune.

Along the way, he also helped develop Atlantic Records, one of the giants of the business.

This grandson of Tennessee slaves has spanned the spectrum: minstrel, folk songs, primitive "race music" to dance orchestras, rhythm and blues, rock 'n' roll and jazz.

He developed his talents in a segregated, often racist, society that during the century's first half refused to intermingle the music of blacks and whites.

Stone's always been on the cutting edge, never quite achieving fame but highly respected within the core of the profession because of his enormous contributions. He's prominent in the history of Harlem's Apollo Theater and the Cotton Club.

Stone, who lives with his wife Evelyn McGee Stone in this Central Florida community, is being honored at Washington's Smithsonian Institution this month by the Rhythm and Blues Foundation.

Along with other R&B pioneers, he's part of a lecture series presenting a historical overview of the music. He and his wife, who's a singer, also were to perform in concert together at the Museum of American History's Carmichael Auditorium.

Stone's influence was instrumental in commercializing R&B, the creative basis for rock 'n' roll.

Among his compositions: the rock standards "Shake, Rattle and Roll," "Money Honey" and "Don't Let Go."

It was Jesse Stone and Bill Haley, with Stone's "Shake, Rattle and Roll," that paved the way for the acceptance among whites of what had been considered primarily "Negro music."

Elvis Presley came later, cementing the R&B-rock foundation laid by black singers and white rocker Bill Haley — many with Stone's tunes and arrangements.

Stone and his work have been linked with the top names in all phases of the business — the big bands of Duke Ellington and Jimmy Lunceford, and vocalists Ray Charles, Joe Turner, Ruth Brown, Etta Waters and others.

Stone's jazz tune, "Idaho," helped make Guy Lombardo rich and famous, selling 3 million copies in the mid-1940s. Benny Goodman and Jimmy Dorey also had a hit with it.

Last year, he wrote all but two of the songs on an Atlantic jazz album recorded by his wife.

Stone also played the piano in the small group backing up her "It's My Time."

Born in Alchinson, Kan., in

"The sounds we wanted were popular with black people mostly. So we all got in a car and took a trip down South. We went to find out what kind of music they were dancing to, how we could sell it to everybody."

— Jesse Stone

1901. Stone began performing with family members at age 4. Emulating his mother, he began singing his own made-up songs shortly afterward.

By World War II, Stone was writing and arranging for his own 18-member orchestra, which rambled around Kansas and adjoining states.

"At this time, most white bands played stock music, with set arrangements. And they all sounded alike," Stone says. "I started writing it down the way I wanted to hear it."

The black musicians played mostly by ear, and when Stone, then a teenager, wrote down new pieces or arrangements, he had to teach them to read his own music.

"We had a love of music, and that's what kept us together — learning and playing together," Stone says now. "We were good. Nobody was doing what we did, nobody. We ran into a lot of bands and we know..."

Freedom

The world, and the United States in particular, rejoices at the freedom of American journalist Terry Anderson, who during six and a half years of captivity came to personify the agonizing ordeal of Western hostages held in Lebanon.

Anderson's release is a tribute to the efforts of United Nations negotiators. But at a deeper level, it also reflects the wisdom of responding to terrorists with a firm purpose rather than making concessions to satisfy their demands.

Anderson, 44, was the longest-held hostage and the last American to gain his freedom from Islamic Jihad, his pro-Iranian Shiite kidnappers. His release ends a brutal saga that, at one time or another, kept 15 Americans in chains, left three dead and bedeviled the U.S. government.

A former chief Middle East correspondent for the Associated Press, Anderson became a symbol of the world's concern and hope. He paid a terrible price, enduring isolation and mistreatment and missing out on the birth of his daughter. His sister, Peggy Say, had circumnavigated the globe, meeting with world leaders, terrorists and spies in a dogged campaign to free him.

Anderson became the ninth hostage, including the third American, released since August. His freedom was due in part to the tireless, behind-the-scenes work carried out by U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar and his chief negotiator, Giandomenico Picco.

Perez de Cuellar has led delicate negotiations involving a complex swap of Western hostages, hundreds of Arabs held by Israel, and information about missing Israeli servicemen. In addition, the releases follow by days Washington's payment to Iran of $278 million for weaponry impounded during the 1979-80 Tehran hostage crisis.

For the most part, however, the release of the Americans indicated the Bush administration's stance against dealing with terrorists. Instead of granting concessions to gain the hostages' freedom, the administration patiently made it clear that there would be no improvement in relations with Iran, long the chief backer of the Lebanese kidnappers, until the hostage issue was resolved.

This represented a marked turnabout from the mid-1980s, when scores of foreigners were seized in Lebanon by Shiite fundamentalists backed by Iran, and Western governments unwittingly encouraged the kidnappings by offering various rewards for the hostages' release. This policy reached its extreme when the Reagan administration traded arms to Iran for the release of American prisoners.

The Bush administration, by contrast, has exploited the desire of Iran and Syria to improve their ties with the West. Because the prisoners became an obstacle to Tehran's goal of obtaining Western economic aid, steady progress was made toward their release. With other Westerners still being held in Lebanon, the hard-nosed posture should be maintained. As President Bush has properly stressed, the hostage ordeal won't be over until all of the Western captives are freed.

Berry's World

Looking ahead to 1992 elections

1992 will be an exciting year politically. The 1990 census has necessitated reapportionment.

At the congressional level states that are adversely affected may seek to hinder the process through litigation. This could create chaos because of deadline dates that must be observed. Florida statutes require that boundary lines have to be drawn before July 13, 1992.

Candidates seeking state offices and congressional seats must qualify with the State Division of Elections during the period beginning noon, July 13, 1992 and ending noon, July 17, 1992.

The timeline for the presidential primary is practically here. Each major political party is obligated to submit a list of its presidential candidates or candidates entitled to have delegates appear on the presidential primary ballot to the State Department by Dec. 31, 1991. The Democrats have a host of presidential candidates and they are expected to participate in the Democratic State Convention being held in Orlando this weekend. David Duke, who ran unsuccessfully for governor of Louisiana, is being disavowed as a potential Republican presidential candidate by the Republican party.

The State Department certifies the list of presidential primary candidates and transmits the list to Supervisors of Elections throughout the state not later than the third Tuesday in January, which will be Jan. 21, 1992. Absentee ballots must be mailed no later than Feb. 4, 1992 to adhere to the stipulation that they are received 35 days prior to the presidential primary.

SEMIOLE OPINION

Sandra Goard, supervisor of elections, has posted the 1992 voting schedule for Seminole County residents: March 10, 1992 presidential preference primary; Sept. 1, 1992 first primary election; Sept. 29, 1992 second primary election and Nov. 3, 1992, the general election.

Another emerging pattern from the general election was that persons aged 31-45 accounted for the most votes, 23,993. The next two highest voting groups were those those 63 and over, 16,795 votes and 46-55, 13,238 votes.

Voter turnout in special elections always reflects a decline when compared to the general elections. Although the overall turnout is lower, the same pattern of voter participation evolved with one exception, voters 63 and over had 6,902 votes while those 31-45 had 5,807 votes.

The Supervisor of Elections is interested in recruiting poll workers for the 1992 elections.

There are three primary requirements to qualify as a poll worker. They are to be: a registered Seminole County voter, able to read and write in English, and willing to attend a school of instruction. Goard provides the instruction which lasts three days for 1 1/2 hours per class.

Classes are conducted in Sanford, Cassiberry and Altamonte Springs. Polling places open at 6 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. Workers are expected to complete the necessary paperwork after the polls close. Each polling place must have a clerk (paid at the rate of $75 per day), three inspectors at $65 per day, and a poll deputy. Poll deputies maintain order and insure that candidates remain the required distance from the polls. If interested, call 321-1130, extension 7708 for further information.

ELLEN GOODMAN

Recovery leader red-nosed?

BOSTON — Until now, I had never regarded Christmas as a patriotic event. I associate the flags, the salutes, the pledges of allegiance with the Fourth of July, not the 25th of December.

But ever since this Christmas shopping season opened, over the dead bodies of millions of Thanksgiving turkeys, the tune I keep hearing in my head isn't "Jingle Bells" but "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

Politicians and their henchmen — the economists — are cheerleading us through the shopping days, as if we were buying war bonds instead of bangles. The lords of leading indicators insist that only consumer confidence will lead us, Rudolph-style, out of the fog of recession. They are tracking the daily retail tills like sleigh marks on the roof.

This is the implication that anyone who truly loves her country and wants it to recover from this recession will contribute this holiday season to the hundred neediest malls. We're all supposed to be buying; not just for Aunt Evelyn but for Uncle Sam.

I find this dreaming of a Patriotic Christmas more than a little bizarre. It's as if the economists came up with a '90s variation on an '80s T-shirt: When the economy gets tough, the tough should go shopping.

The theory, such as it is, goes like this. Consumers account for about two-thirds of the spending in the economy. About half of the gross profits for most retailers at your neighborhood stores come in Christmas receipts. If we buy, the manufacturers hire people to make things. These workers get money to buy other things and it's jingle bells all around.

The problem with the theory is that you need money to make it all work.

Real Americans are suffering from a bad case of New Year's nerves. There are more than eight million unemployed, 23 million on food stamps, millions are working in McJobs, and a critical mass wondering if and when they'll be out of their current sheltered workshop. One-half of all Americans expect unemployment to grow.

Even the president who was telling us in November that it was a great time to buy a house seems to have wised up. He was seen shopping at J.C. Penney over the weekend, buying socks. And that man makes $200,000 a year.

Ten years ago, the politicians told us money would trickle down. Instead it trickled away. It's no wonder we're getting a bit more tightfisted.

My own modest, personal and thoroughly unscientific poll has turned up the same, Yule results as the statisticians. The presents are going to be practical and price-conscious. Last year's cashmere is this year's denim. Last year's string of pearls is this year's popcorn stringing.

There's a bit of Frugal Chic in this Seasonal Affect Disorder. The ever trend-watchful Faith Popcorn, who labelled cooing in the '90s, has proclaimed the End of Shopping and the Beginning of Burrowing. But what's going is more easily understood as the beginning of the end of endless borrowing.

Call it un-American if you want, but some sense of the future has set in among the buy-now-pay-later population. In part this is due to the baby boom's little echoes. Children focus the mind wonderfully on Christmas future. It's also due to debt.

In the last decade we almost tripled credit card debt to $229 billion. That may seem modest compared to the national debt of some $3.7 trillion — until you realize we owe that too. In it any wonder we look skeptically at an economist talking about the economy as Tinkerbell: Clap if You Believe in America — clap your Visa card against your credit limit.

Is there a consumer crisis of confidence? Why should we be confident in a government whose major economic proposal of the week was a presidential promise that, "We're not going to do anything dumb." Swell. By keeping down with the Joneses we're way ahead of the Bushes. The administration's sense of the future is as long as a fiscal quarter.

The economy will drop unless you shop? Show your stars and stripes by spending? The beleaguered consumer isn't going to bail out the economy by going deeper into debt. Christmas isn't an economic policy and consuming isn't a nonprofit charity.

If this is a more sober season, well, it's easier to keep your eye on the highway and the horizon. Deck the halls with boughs of bills. Mark them paid Tra la la la la.

Air Force dismisses probe of contractor

WASHINGTON — Whistleblowers at McDonnell Douglas Corp. say the wings on the new C-17 supercargo plane may fall in flight, but an FBI investigation into their claims is apparently being hamstrung by the Air Force itself.

Sources close to the investigation say that the Air Force refuses to admit there may be something wrong with the C-17 Airlifters being built by McDonnell Douglas, the service's largest contractor. Without admission from the Air Force that there could be a problem, the probe will likely die.

The FBI and the Defense Criminal Investigative Service opened investigations into the plane after McDonnell Douglas employees came to them with allegations that the wings were faulty.

The FBI wired one of the whistleblowers and sent him to a meeting with a corporate official. (The recording equipment was later stashed behind a toilet for an FBI agent to retrieve.) The clandestine recording helped to confirm allegations that top McDonnell Douglas management was aware of the wing controversy.

Last month, Congress heard the allegations of the whistleblowers who testified before the House Government Operations subcommittee. They claimed the company was covering up the wing problems to prevent losing the $35 billion contract to build the planes. "The C-17 Airlifter is unsafe," David Barton Jr., a former plant manager testified. "There is absolutely no way of repairing those wings." Barton quoted a plant vice president as saying, "All of the wings are junk and should be thrown away."

Barton and another McDonnell Douglas employee claim they were fired for raising questions about the wings.

At the same hearing, Air Force Maj. Gen. John Slinkard testified that the Air Force was aware that riveting equipment used by McDonnell Douglas was outdated, and that the riveting process did not meet the company's own specifications. When asked if the plane's wings were safe, Slinkard said he didn't know.

Despite the evidence gathered by the investigators and the alarming testimony before Congress, the FBI and the Pentagon sleuths are now privately admitting that there isn't much more they can do if the Air Force does not want to pursue the case. As one source explained to our associate Jim Lynch, there isn't much of a case if the victim doesn't feel victimized.

McDonnell Douglas maintains that the wings are safe. A company spokesman said the whistleblowers' allegations are "lies" from people who have no engineering expertise. And the company says the wings are supported by internal girders, not rivets.

Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., does not intend to let the issue die. He says the C-17 case "calls into question the integrity of the entire defense procurement system." In an upcoming hearing, he plans to grill McDonnell Douglas and the Air Force. He also intends to investigate the alleged cover-up by McDonnell Douglas as well as indicators that the Air Force blocked the Justice Department probe and prevented legal action.

The wings in question went into the first eight C-17s built by McDonnell Douglas. The Air Force wants to buy a total of 120. Losing the contract would be a staggering blow to McDonnell Douglas which, along with its competitors, is already fearful about the Pentagon's shrinking budget.

ROCK BOTTOM — The economic blockade against Haiti to protest the overthrow of its democratically elected president is strangling the people. There is hardly enough food left in the capital of Port Au Prince to beg or steal.

They claimed the company was covering up the wing problems.

Shoppers, art lovers enjoy St. Lucia festivities on First Street

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Last minute Christmas shoppers were in luck on Saturday afternoon in Sanford when 37 artisans set up booths along First Street as part of the St. Lucia Festival.

"I got all kinds of handmade gifts," said Kay Gennaro of Deltona who came to Sanford to see the St. Lucia Christmas parade on Saturday morning and stayed for the festival. "There was everything here from nik-naks to quilts and sculpture."

Kay Bartholomew, president of the St. Lucia Festival, said she was pleased with the arts and crafts festival.

"It's very, very nice," she said.

In addition to the artists, singers, bands and other performers put on shows up and down First Street.

"This is great," said Marti Lynch of Sanford. "It's like some sort of renaissance thing. There are musicians, artists, sculptors...a real festival of the arts."

Danny Lentz of Sanford said he had planned to bring his children to see Santa on the steps of the old library on First Street, but the allure of the crafts kept him downtown.

"I think there are all kinds of great gifts here," he said. "And the music is great too."

In the First Street Gallery, the headquarters of the festival, traditional Christmas carols played as visitors enjoyed the paintings of Bettye and Don Reagan.

Later in the evening, there was to have been a Swedish bake-off in the gallery with contestants offering their finest examples of Swedish baked goods for the judges to select the best.

Musical entertainment was planned as well. Due to a lack of participation, a lighted boat parade on Lake Monroe was cancelled.

Today, at both 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. at the Upsala Presbyterian Church on County Road 46A in Sanford there will be a brief presentation on the history of the Swedish people in Seminole County.

"This has been a very successful festival," Bartholomew said on Saturday.

The second and third place winners in the float category were the Sanford Middle School float and the YMCA Princesses.

The winners of the music and band category were the Sanford High School Marching Seminoles in first place, followed by the Lakeview Middle School band and the Sanford Middle School band.

In the marching and dance category, the Seminole High School Dazzlers earned first place honors. The second place winners were the Digtlettes and the third place award went to the Midway Recorder Marching Band.

The Seminole Corvette Club took the top honors in the specialty category with second and third place going to Sweet Harmony and Kinder Kare.

Laine Wood, chairman of the St. Lucia Christmas parade committee, said she was pleased with the quality of the floats this year.

"I'm pleased with the efforts to upgrade the quality of the floats," she said.

Melee Dunn of Sanford was watching the parade from Ft. Mellon Park. She said she was pleased with the show put on by the City of Sanford.

"I moved to Sanford about

Allan Rumer, age 4, shows his dislike for the sirens.

eight months ago and I figured it was a small, boring town, but this is a big parade," she said. "This is better than a lot of big cities."

Wood had nothing but high praise for those who helped make the Saturday morning parade a success.

"Everyone did what they were supposed to. The workers, the participants, everyone," she said.

Wood said much of the credit for the success of the parade goes to the dedication of the volunteers who donated their time to working on the parade.

Wood's committee included Althea and Steve Parish, Carla Sweet, Sheryl Schultz, Bill Foster and Sylvia Smith.

"Mayor (Bettye) Smith, who has pneumonia, came out of her sick bed to be in this parade," Wood said. "She cancelled all her other engagements, but she is dedicated to her city and this is her city's event."

area is added, Prather said. "It will be toward the south of the area we are presently added, although the plans have not been drawn up for it yet."

The new construction has been estimated at $8 million, and will include a renovation and reorganization of the emergency room and a new magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) laboratory.

Dr. Lawrence Vallario, local invasive cardiologist and director of the hospital's cardiac catheterization laboratory, said the opening of the Heart Center will mean that local patients will be able to have their needs met in their community.

Dr. Vallario said. "The scope of the project will include the most sophisticated advancements in open heart surgical technologies. We are excited about the opportunity of becoming the premiere open heart facility for Central Florida."

Entrance tradition for Miss St. Lucia

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

According to Swedish tradition, Miss St. Lucia arrives by ship on Dec. 13 to usher in the end of the darkest part of the winter and usher in the longer days of the cold months. With a wreath of candles around her head, Miss St. Lucia ushers in the Festival of Lights.

The Sanford festival is always held near the Dec. 13 date. Last year harsh, frigid winds battered the shoreline in Sanford on the day of the festival making it impossible for her to arrive in the traditional way.

"The weather was so awful in the past," Kay Bartholomew, president of the festival said. "We were glad to be able to get her in safely this year."

Monthly prostate cancer lecture set

LONGWOOD — Sexuality and Prostate Cancer will be the topic of the lecture sponsored by the Prostate Center, with Dr. Jake Jacobo, Dr. Steven Brooks and South Seminole Community Hospital, on Wednesday. The lecture will be held at 7 p.m. in classroom 103 at the hospital's Physicians' Plaza in Longwood.

Dr. Steven K. Brooks, urologist, will be the keynote speaker. The causes, diagnosis and treatment of prostate cancer will be the topics of the monthly meetings. Patients with a history of prostate cancer as well as those desiring more information on the choices are welcome.

To register for this free lecture or for more information, call Leane at the Prostate Center at 332-7834.

OB nurses earn special certification

SANFORD — Four obstetrical nurses at HCA Central Florida Regional Hospital have earned a special certification in their field.

Cheryl Inghram of DeBary, Marta Lech of Deltona, Patty Osborne of Osteen, and Jodi Palmer of Lake Mary, all registered nurses, earned their inpatient obstetrical certification from NAACOG, the organization of obstetrical, gynecological and neonatal nursing.

The nurses were tested in October on labor and delivery, post partum and newborn nursery skills. They, along with the rest of the staff, will be using these skills when the hospital's new obstetrics unit opens in March of 1992.

Impotent Anonymous plans meeting

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — "Therapeutic Choices for the Impotent" is the topic of the next "Impotent Anonymous" meeting on Monday at 7 p.m. in the Chalmers Conference Center at Florida Hospital, 610 E. Altamonte Drive.

Urologist Michael Friedman, M.D., will be the guest speaker. For more information, call 787-2218.

Parkinson's Support Group to meet

SANFORD — A Parkinson's Support Group meets twice monthly at HCA Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford. The group will meet on Thursday from 10 to 11 a.m. in a private section of the hospital's cafeteria. The support group is open to Parkinson's patients and their families and will be led by Lois Carrig, M.A., L.M.H.C., a licensed mental health counselor.

The group will continue to meet the second and last Thursdays each month through April. Call the hospital's Social Services department, 321-4500 ext 5760, for more information.

A fond farewell

Dr. Alvarez retires from Central Florida Community Clinic

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — After nine years as a pediatrician at the Central Florida Community Clinic in Sanford, Dr. Milton Alvarez has retired.

"He is a very, very, very caring person," said Dennis Cahill, clinic director. "He will be missed."

Cahill remembered Alvarez, of Altamonte Springs, had a batch of stickers made that he would place on the child after each visit. The stickers read "Dr. Alvarez loves you."

"They would instantly forget their shots and all the other stuff," Cahill said.

Many of the clinic staff were wearing those stickers last Friday when Alvarez, joined by his wife Olga, were presented with a plaque, declaring their appreciation and fondness for the 66-year-old health care provider. Cahill said Alvarez joined the clinic staff after retiring from the staff of the University of Puerto Rico School of Medicine.

Cahill said Alvarez twice served as medical director of the community clinic and was recognized as a leading physician among his peers.

In 1989, Alvarez received the prestigious gold medal for pediatric excellence from the Pediatric Society of Puerto Rico, Cahill said. Also in 1989,

Dr. Milton Alvarez, center, who retired last week from the Central Florida Community Clinic, receives a plaque honoring him from Dr. Hector Octaviani, clinic medical director. Alvarez' wife,

Alvarez was presented with the Lois Hill Potter award by the Florida Association of Community Clinics, Cahill said. The award is given for physicians who provide outstanding service to the public, he said.

Alvarez' vacancy has been replaced by Dr. Mena Joseph, who recently completed her residency at the St. Louis University Hospital in St. Louis. The community clinic has a medical staff of two pediatricians, one family practice physician and a pharmacist, Cahill said.

Alvarez, who is out of town until Jan. 10, will assist the clinic when needed before moving to New Mexico in about a year, Cahill said.

Teen births up sharply

By THE DOVE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Teen-age births are rising at a rate that recalls the sexual revolution of the 1960s. Counselors say its because many teens today think it makes no difference what they do.

The National Center for Health Statistics said that the birth rate for women age 15-17 shot up 19 percent in two years. Altogether, 36 of every 1,000 women between those ages had a baby.

The study found the birth rate for black teen-agers — 80 per 1,000 — was nearly three times that of white teens — 28 per 1,000.

Birth rates for other age groups also rose, although not as sharply as among teens.

The last time teen-age birth rates rose sharply was in the 1960s, when changing morality cut through old prohibitions on youthful sex, said Stephanie Ventura, the demographer who wrote the agency's report.

People who counsel teens say their problems reflect adult problems.

"I think there's a feeling that people aren't valuable, they (teens) aren't valuable, and it doesn't matter what you do," said Nancy Blanks, who works with teen-agers in South Carolina, Georgia and Virginia for the Save the Children Federation.

"So many social programs are failing, and the kids are caught in the middle of this," she said. "Their parents are failing, and the kids take the brunt of this."

The report said teen-age birth rates peaked in 1972, at 39 out of 1,000 women. They fell steadily to 1986, when fewer than 31 out of 1,000 teen-age women gave birth. The next year, teen births began to rise again.

The director of the federal Centers for Disease Control, William Roper, said he was disturbed by the development.

"When young teen-agers are sexually active, they are unprepared for the consequences, and ill-prepared to take care of their own and their infant's health," he said.

He said nearly half the teen-agers who had a baby in 1989 failed to get early prenatal care.

Not For Sale

If you could buy good health, you'd put it at the top of your "must buy" list, wouldn't you? Everyone who could afford the price would always be in good health. But good health can't be purchased. No pill or bottle can guarantee it. But it can be lost very quickly.

That's why most people do whatever they can to defend themselves against illness. Because the spine plays such an important role in the body's nervous system, regular spinal examinations are recommended by doctors of chiropractic as part of your body's defense against illness. Misalignments in your spine may cause interference in your body's nervous system. This may have adverse effects on the organs and tissues it serves.

Uppermost in chiropractic examination is a check for any spinal misalignments that need correcting. Through gentle manipulation, the spine is properly aligned, removing pressure on the nerves so they can function properly again without interference.

IN BRIEF

Goldboro honor roll announced

SANFORD — The following students were named to the honor roll at Goldboro Elementary School, 1300 30th Street in Sanford.

Julia Coffman, Chris Mitchell, Neysha Natal, Terrence Adriansen, Rosemary Constantino, Amber Friedel, Angelina Garma, Jonathan Landahl, Gabriel Rodriguez, Jonathan Pratt, Joseph Woodward, Charlene Chapman and Jeff Church.

As well as Leale Potter, Clayton Alexander, Jonathan Marshall, Holly Tkachuk, Nicholas Valentin, Aaron Little, Brian Porter, Jasara Vetter, Nicholas Chapman, Naomi Gomez, Joshua Blanton, John Friedel and Sunshine Stroud.

Also Rebecca Valentin, Laura Lee, Laurica Galan, Crystal Baker and Jennifer Tripp.

To be named to the honor roll the students have to earn straight A's on their report cards.

In addition, 95 students were named to the A-B honor roll for having no grade lower than a B on their report cards.

Shoney's to help JADA Kittens

LONGWOOD — On Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, the Shoney's Restaurant, 2045 W. State Road 434 in Longwood, will be donating a portion of their earnings to help a group of Longwood musicians travel to Miami in January.

The JADA Kittens, a jazz group dedicated to giving young musicians an alternative activity to the temptations of drugs and alcohol, have been invited to perform at the International Jazz Convention in Miami.

A lack of money may prevent them from making the trip, however, so Shoney's is doing what they can to help out.

On Dec. 15, 16 and 17, the restaurant will donate 10 percent of the money they make between 5 and 9 p.m. to the JADA Kittens to help with the expenses of traveling to Miami.

The group will need $3,000 to make the trip. They are accepting donations from the community as well.

Loch Lowe announces honor rolls

LAKE MARY — The following students were named to the honor roll at Loch Lowe Preparatory School.

Tanya Wood of Sanford was named to the President's List for earning all A's on her report card.

Named to the Honors List for getting all A's and B's were Corey Bond, Shannon Williams, Angela Fiorentino, Terry Crouch, Amber Heyman, Gary Matzen, Greg Forsberg, Anita Jovic and Micah Dembinsky.

On the Honor roll with a B average were Steven Hooks, Stephanie Schmidt, Christina DellaValle, Eric Newton, Kimberly Anast, Jennifer Ricketson and Betty Weaver.

Music set at English Estates

FERN PARK — The English Estates Elementary School fourth graders will be performing music program on Tuesday, Dec. 17 at 7 p.m.

The program, called "Season's Greetings" will be presented in the school's cafeteria.

The school is located at 299 Oxford Rd. in Fern Park.

Greenwood Lakes student named winner

LAKE MARY — Greenwood Lakes Middle School eighth grader Sara Hoyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hoyer of Lake Mary, was named the winner of the school's annual 4H/Tropicana-sponsored sixth grade speech contest which was held recently at the school.

The youngster's talk was entitled "Middle School" and humorously described the pros and cons of becoming a sixth grader.

Taking second place honors was Tracy Hetrick, who gave a speech entitled "My Grandpa," which was a tribute to her late grandfather. Third place was awarded to Elizabeth Matos, whose speech offered tips on how to give a speech.

Have a Cool Yule at Geneva

GENEVA — The fourth and fifth grade members of the Musical Mustangs chorus from Geneva Elementary School in Geneva will present a rock and roll Christmas musical on Tuesday, Dec. 17 at 7 p.m. during the regular PTA evening meeting.

"Cool Yule" is a North Pole spectacular that will be entertaining for all that attend. You do not have to be a member of the PTA to go and see the show.

There is no admission charge for the show.

Geneva Elementary School is located at 275 First Street in Geneva.

Ashdown competes in scholars contest

Alicia Ashdown, a senior at Lyman High School, recently competed in the 42nd annual Wofford College Scholars Competition in Spartanburg, SC.

Ashdown, who lives in Longwood, was invited to join in the contest because she is in the top 10 percent of her class and scored at least a 1050 on the SAT.

Holiday program set at Winter Springs

WINTER SPRINGS — The Winter Springs Elementary School chorus will present a holiday program on Wednesday, Dec. 18 at 7 p.m.

The presentation will be in the school media center, 701 State Road 434 in Winter Springs.

Rams waiting for time off from class

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary High School students eagerly awaited the beginning of their Winter Vacation this week as the 1991 school year drew closer to its end.

Holiday projects continued, including a bowling marathon benefiting Muscular Dystrophy, canned food drives and toy drives.

The Chorus had its annual Winter Concert and the Band planned for its concert, which will be held next week, as well.

The Chorus Department is also looking forward to performing at the 1992 World's Fair in Seville, Spain.

The program is headed by teacher Alice Ann Nilsen and includes the renowned show choir, Odysey, and the Madrigals, which is a group made up of the school's top singers.

The school had a pep rally Friday afternoon for the wrestling, basketball and soccer teams, which have begun their 1991 winter seasons. Some of the teams will be attending competition tournaments over the vacation period.

Sophomore Sarah Capps has been chosen to represent the school at the Hugh O'Brien Leadership Conference to be held soon. Sarah is currently the Sophomore Class vice-president and is also a member of the all-girl Mystics Show Choir at LMHS.

The Junior Class is working on its primary project for the year, the 1992 Prom, which is to be held May 16 at the Stouffer Resort.

The Junior Class raised funds by cleaning the football stadium, selling gourmet coffee and sponsoring and organizing the Miss Ewe Pageant during Homecoming Week.

The Junior Class officers are president Angle Seering, vice president Joe Grein, secretary Sara Davis and treasurer Jennifer Hench.

Noles working hard for selves, others

SANFORD — Seminole High School has a new program to recognize special students.

The students who receive this recognition are being given the Straight Arrow award. The Straight Arrow awards, which are given out weekly, are given to those students who play an important part in the school and in school-related activities and don't always get noticed for these special efforts.

Teachers are given a Straight Arrow card to fill out and nominate a student they believe shows good qualities and are an all around good kid who deserves some recognition.

The senior class is selling Senior T-shirts. These shirts feature the name of each member of the Class of '92. The shirts are $12 each and can be ordered throughout the week. Seniors don't miss out. Buy a shirt.

The first Project Graduation meeting was held last Thursday night in the media center. Plans are getting underway for this year's Project Graduation for the Class of '92. Parents are asked to attend these meetings and help support this major event. All ideas and input will be greatly appreciated.

The Diversified Cooperative Training group (DCT) and Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) are in the process of collecting items for the Humane Society. The items include things such as pet food, Q-tips and paper towels.

They can be turned into any FBLA or DCT member and will definitely be put to good use.

The AAU club is selling doughnuts to raise money to buy Christmas gifts for deserving children.

Members of the student government are delivering canned food items to Channel 2 on Wednesday. The food is for the Salvation Army and many students have been giving their share of charitable items.

Little ones wish soldiers Merry Xmas

By VICKI BOGGS
Herald Staff Writer

GENEVA — The Kindergarten students at Geneva Elementary School, 275 First Street in Geneva, had a little help from their friends when they sat down to send holiday greetings to service personnel stationed overseas for the holidays.

Fifth graders, with more finely tuned writing skills, were recruited to take dictation from the smaller children who wanted to send their season's best wishes to those who are serving in the military and who might not be with their families on Christmas.

The Christmas cards, which were made on 8 1/2 by 11 sheets of paper were decorated with colorful pictures by the Kindergarten.

According to assistant principal Ines Schmook, over 120 holiday cards were put in the mail on Thursday.

"We sent them to service men and women serving on the USS Saratoga and in the 727 4th Communication Squadron," Schmook said.

Schmook said the students were very excited about their project and put a great deal of effort into the creation of the cards.

"The teachers said they really were interested in writing to the men and women who are stationed overseas," she said.

Schmook did not know if the Christmas cards would bring letters from abroad or if the students would want to become pen-pals with those who might respond.

"The big kids really enjoyed helping out the little ones on this project," she said. "And the little ones really had fun making their pictures for the fronts of the cards."

Schmook said that she got the names and addresses of the service personnel from the school district's community relations department, but that writing to those serving overseas at Christmas has been a tradition at the school for many years.

Family-based school is 'special'

SANFORD — The Page Private School, part of a chain of private schools in Central Florida and in California, offers small class sizes and extended day care for its students.

"There is a school out there for everyone," said Dr. Charaline Luna, principal. "We have a very special school."

The non-sectarian school offers academic classes for students as young as two years old. Classes are offered through the sixth grade.

The school is not affiliated with any local middle or high school.

Even the youngest students study Spanish in their classrooms. At first the foreign language classes are merely conversational, but in the third grade, they begin learning the grammatical aspects of the language as well.

The two year olds are

All students are also offered instruction in music, art and dance.

Luna said that the student to teacher ratio is about 10 to one, much smaller than in other schools, but at a level she feels is essential for learning, especially at the younger ages.

The school, she said, is family-based. Both students and their families get a great deal of individualized attention from the staff.

"Parents are free to come on campus whenever they like to look around and talk with the teachers or administration," Luna said.

There is no formal parent-teacher organization on the campus, but Luna said the parents are involved in a number of projects together dealing with both the educational aspects of the school and various community service projects.

Dr. Charaline Luna said the Page Private School, part of a chain of eight schools in California and in Central Florida, is special because it offers students a very small class size and individualized attention to both students and their families.

Errors in food stamps cost taxpayers

WASHINGTON — Mistakes, checks lost in the mail and fraud in the food stamp program cost taxpayers $1 billion last year, Agriculture Department documents reveal.

Just $84 million of that was recovered, say officials at USDA's Food and Nutrition Service.

Agency documents also show the administrative costs of running the massive federal food program doubled during the 1980s, at a time when participation in the program declined.

Since 1980, participation has increased, and a record 23.76 million Americans received help buying groceries in September.

The mistakes and fraud in 1990, when combined with the administrative costs, meant that taxpayers were spending 25 cents for every $1 in food stamp benefits, according to USDA records obtained by The Associated Press. A year earlier, the cost to taxpayers was 20 cents on the dollar, according to an analysis of the USDA figures, obtained through the Freedom of Information Act.

The documents show that while the number of people receiving food stamps actually fell from 22.4 million in 1981 to 20 million in 1980, state and federal administrative costs doubled, from $1.12 billion in 1981 to nearly $2.5 billion in 1980.

Oliver Stone's 'JFK' a 'big lie'

DES MOINES, Iowa — Oliver Stone's new movie "JFK," the story of a conspiracy in President Kennedy's assassination, is "a big lie that would make Adolf Hitler proud," said a top investigator for the Warren Commission.

David Belin said Stone deliberately overlooks evidence that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone when he killed Kennedy and a Dallas policeman.

"I didn't specifically say that Oliver Stone is an assassinator where," Belin said. "I'm saying I would lay out the facts and let a jury decide whether this is artistic license or whether it is a prostitution of the assassination by deliberately telling lies."

Stone responded that Belin was a name-calling "frustrated prosecutor."

"In spite of his bitterness, I wish he had not talked in terms of Hitler and prostitutes. The American people would be better served by a discussion of issues raised by 'JFK,'" said Stone, who has directed "Platoon" and "The Doors."

When he was 51, it was a very bad year

NEW YORK — In John Gotti's reign as "The Teflon Don" winding down? Trouble is sticking to the reputed boss of the Gambino crime family like never before as he awaits a federal racketeering trial that could jail him for life.

"If you and I were members of the Gambino family, this is a guy we would want to stay away from," said mob expert Howard Abadinsky. "He's a lightning rod and you don't want to get burnt."

The Gambino family, dubbed the nation's most powerful organized crime syndicate by federal authorities, has been splintered by betrayal and internecine struggles in 1991 while its alleged leader spent the year in jail.

"There comes a point where the head of the family has caused too many problems — he can't avoid electronic surveillance and indictment," said Ronald Goldstock, head of the New York state Organized Crime Task Force.

Government offers benefits to hostages

What could turn out to be a belated Christmas bonus awaits some of the 15 American hostages held in Lebanon whose salaries and benefits were cut off after they were kidnapped.

The State Department says letters are being mailed out, offering those who qualify up to $25,000 a year retroactive to the time they were abducted, plus federal health and insurance benefits.

The money comes from a $10 million congressional appropriation for Americans taken hostage in Lebanon, Iraq and Kuwait.

In addition, the government provided for their transportation home and medical care in military and Veterans Administration hospitals. The State Department said it had no figure on the total cost.

Libya says it will not lure scientists

ROME — Libya's foreign minister said Saturday his country will not seek to take advantage of the crisis in the Soviet Union by luring Soviet nuclear scientists to the North African country.

Foreign Minister Ibrahim Bihari, in remarks carried by the official Libyan news agency JANA, said Libya "has no nuclear program" and sees no need for one.

Bihari's comments appeared timed to head off concern that Libya would try to build a nuclear weapons program by capitalizing on the Soviet crisis.

They also come at a time of heightened tensions because of British and American charges that Libya was behind the 1988 bombing of Pan Am Flight 103 over Scotland, and French allegations of its involvement in the 1989 destruction of a French UTA jetliner over Niger.

"Libya has absolutely no intention to benefit from the Soviet nuclear scientists and it is not its policy to lure or tempt them to come here," Bihari said.

Vote for civilian state governors

LAGOS, Nigeria — More than 150,000 police were deployed Saturday as Nigerians voted for governors for the country's 30 states, a major step toward the return to civilian rule next year.

There were no immediate reports of violence.

Millions of Nigerians lined up at polling places behind photographs of the candidates of their choice. The military government of President Gen. Ibrahim Babangida rejected secret ballots as too susceptible to fraud.

Final results were not expected before Monday. No official estimate was available on the turnout or the number of registered voters.

Previous Nigerian elections have been marred by violence and vote rigging as regional, ethnic and religious groups struggled to win power, leading to military coups. Nigeria has been ruled by the military for 21 of its 31 years of independence.

North Korea offers to take Honecker

MOSCOW — North Korea offered at least temporary refuge to former East German leader Erich Honecker, who has sought haven in the Chilean Embassy. Russia renewed its threat to expel him, but extended its deadline until Monday.

Germany is seeking Honecker's return to stand trial on manslaughter charges for the extreme methods the Communists used to prevent people from fleeing the former East Germany.

Honecker, 79, who was ousted two years ago, allegedly gave shoot-to-kill orders to East German guards at the Berlin Wall and other borders. More than 200 people were killed trying to flee East Germany in the wall's nearly 30-year existence.

Stone

His first published song, while he was in high school, was "Mama Don't Allow No Music Playing Here," which came out of a real-life experience with a young woman and her mother.

At that time, "I sold my songs outright," Stone says. "I didn't know there was anything like royalties. I wrote 'em and sold 'em."

After hooking up with an undertaker-boogie agent named Frank J. Roth, Stone put together "one of the best big bands in the Midwest" and traveled through the Dakotas, Michigan, Wisconsin, Kansas and into Canada in the 1930s.

Jesse Stone and the Blue Serenaders were often patted against the big bands from the East, including those of Lunceford, Ellington, George Lee and Louis Armstrong.

By the 1930s, most of his musicians had gone on to other groups and Stone ended up in Chicago. He put together a big band there for the Morocco Club, which had been closed for six months after being bombed out by gangsters who owned a competing nightclub.

Stone changed course again. He got together (as pianist) with three female vocalists, called them the Rhythm Debs and went to work at a club owned by boxing great Joe Louis.

Duke Ellington caught the act and thought he would be good at a friend's club in Detroit," Stone says. "From there, we went to Pittsburgh and then Duke brought us out to New York's Cotton Club."

Stone got into the recording business by accident. He wrote a tune called "WPA" for a show at the Apollo, "and a bandleader went downtown and recorded it without my knowledge. When he found out I had copyrighted it, he tried to get me to sign a contract giving him recording rights."

But Stone held out, forcing the recording company, Decca Records, to negotiate to prevent a lawsuit.

When Decca asked him what he wanted, Stone laid down his terms: He wanted to write at least one tune for every black artist Decca had under recording contract. He got a one-year contract doing just that.

After that, Mills Music won a bidding competition with Decca and Stone went to Mills, which was recording Ellington and Cab Calloway, among other big artists. Stone organized a big band, recorded for Mills, and wrote the charts for others.

In the mid-1940s, he went over to National Records, where he met Herb Abramson. The two soon left and formed Atlantic Records. They struggled along until they met up with Ahmet Ertegun, a wealthy, Turkish-born, man-about-Manhattan eager to provide some badly needed financing.

"The sounds we wanted were popular with black people mostly," says Stone. "So we all got in a cab and took a trip down South. We went to find out what kind of music they were dancing to, how we could sell it to everybody."

"That's when I came up with this basic pattern: d-a-m-d-e-e-d-o-b-d-e-e, dum-dum-doo-doo, dum... This was that rock 'n' roll on some of the stuff they were dancing down there."

Music was never quite the same again, wrote Charlie Gillett in a history of Atlantic Records (now Atlantic Recording Corp.).

Atlantic soon signed up a young Philadelphia singer named Ruth Brown.

"Her first record came out. Bang! It was hit. We got a group called the Clovers. Their record came out. Bang! It was a hit," Stone says. "Everything we touched after that went over big. Sometimes we had four or five records on the chart at the same time."

"Jesse Stone did more to develop the basic rock 'n' roll sound than anybody else," Ertegun told Gillett.

Ruth Brown and Big Joe Turner became Atlantic's top solo artists and the Clovers the most popular group.

But something was missing. These were all black artists, and they weren't being played on many radio stations, particularly in the South.

As a result, records by blacks weren't major sellers among the white masses.

Even the move away from the term "rhythm and blues" to "rock 'n' roll," widely attributed to New York disc jockey Alan Freed, did not bring complete acceptance.

"So we went down to Texas and we found Bill Haley and his Comets. We gave 'Shake, Rattle and Roll' to Bill and he liked it," Stone says.

"A white man recording black music. That's when white people began to buy this stuff — they could hear it on the air," says Stone.

"We had plenty of big hits before Haley came on, but we just couldn't get them played on the white stations. Bill Haley pushed those barriers aside."

And behind that achievement — as with so many others — was Jesse Stone.

100th ANNIVERSARY OF THE KETTLE

SHARING IS CARING

The kettles don't look like this anymore.

Over the past 100 years of their existence with The Salvation Army, the appearance of the kettle has changed dramatically. Today, kettles appear in many different shapes and sizes, but one thing has never changed, the good they bring about.

Last year, in the United States alone, over seven million lives were touched by The Salvation Army. You can help make a difference for those in your community by stopping by a kettle or volunteering to ring a bell at one.

Help bring the holidays to those who would otherwise be passed by - contact your local Salvation Army for more details.

Young women tour possibilities of employment for the future

By VICKI BOGDANER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Evelyn Smith wants the students in her Life Management Skills class to leave prepared for what life will bring. The teenage girls in her class are already or are soon to be mothers, but they are in many ways, she said, still growing up. As part of the class, Smith said, the young women in her class learn about the job market and career goals. Susana Huaman teaches the Junior Achievement organization's Project Business. For the past six weeks, she has taken an hour a week to be in the classroom teaching the girls about economics through real life experiences. Her teaching experience is being subsidized by the Sanford Kiwanis Club. On Thursday, the group visited HCA Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford, to learn about a variety of jobs. "Many of the girls are already in the health care profession (with a part time job) and others are looking in that direction, so when Roy Vinson (the hospital administrator who is a member of the Sanford Kiwanis Club with Huaman) suggested we take our field trip to the hospital, I thought it was a great idea," she said. The hospital also offered Huaman an opportunity to explore other career opportunities as well. "There was someone there from the business office and the public relations office," she said. "So we could say, 'if you're interested in math, there's something here for you too'." Huaman said Junior Achievement has never offered a class to the students at Crooms. As a matter of fact, she said, the Crooms administration was not even aware that they were eligible for the classes. Huaman said she is filming much of the class to use as training material for Junior Achievement working with at risk students. Huaman said, however, that despite the fact that the young ladies are parents, they are all planning to finish school. "They are not really at risk," she said. Smith said her students are learning important skills in the class. "They are learning about the adult world," she said. "They are in that world every day with their children."

Florida Democratic Convention

Bush assailed on economy

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

LAKE BUENA VISTA — Four Democratic candidates for president attacked the Bush administration Saturday for mishandling the economy and ignoring Americans' need for health care as they campaigned for today's Florida straw ballot. "It's time to take the government back from the special interests and the privileged few and make it work for us for a change," Iowa Sen. Tom Harkin told the 2,300 state convention delegates. They also said Louisiana's David Duke, a former Ku Klux Klan member who is running for the Republican presidential nomination, is a product of the past, hidden racial divisiveness of GOP politics. "Any president who would divide this country into racial and ethnic groups should not be re-elected," said former Massachusetts Sen. Paul Tsongas. The straw poll, scheduled the same day as the first nationally televised debate of the six Democratic candidates, is the initial scorecard test of strength in the 1992 campaign. The vote is set for this morning, with NBC-TV anchorman Tom Brokaw moderating the debate tonight. Democratic National Committee Chairman Ron Brown said he opposed the straw poll of party insiders even though the state convention would generate "enthusiasm" for the campaign in the Florida, the fourth-largest state. "I don't like beauty contests. I don't like straw polls," Brown said. Even though the ballot is non-binding, the victor gets an early boost in fund-raising and momentum since the vote comes well before the Feb. 18 New Hampshire primary, said U.S. Sen. Bob Graham, D-Fla. "This is like a football game. There's going to be a score on the board after this," Graham said. "The debate is more like theater." Florida's presidential primary is set for "Super Tuesday" on March 10, when 12 states will hold their primaries. Harkin, Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, Nebraska Sen. Bob Kerrey and Tsongas addressed the delegates Saturday and planned more intimate one-on-one meetings later. Virginia Gov. Douglas Wilder and former California Gov. Jerry Brown planned to skip the event. All four candidates hammered away at President Bush and former President Reagan for what they said was promotion of a greedy, me-first decade in the 1980s that eschewed long-term investment for the fast buck. Clinton said the Republicans were more concerned with image than substance. "When there is a national recession ... a thousand points of light leaves a lot of darkness," Clinton said. "That is not funny. It is tragic." Harkin, who has a fiery stump style that brought strong response from the delegates, said Democrats should not try to become so centrist that they are identical to the GOP.

Chiles scheduled for brief appearance at convention

By BRENT KALLESTAD
Associated Press Writer

LAKE BUENA VISTA — Gov. Lawton Chiles was expected to end his longstanding feud with Democratic Party Chairman Simon Ferro today, when the governor comes to the convention he threatened to boycott. Chiles' absence was conspicuous Saturday and some delegates were concerned why the first-term governor was unable to join the rest of the party's top elected officials for the first full day. Delegate Marie Derby of Vero Beach walked through the convention crowd Saturday with a small, hand-written sign that said: "Where is our Governor?" "Why wasn't he here on the platform?" she asked. "He should have been right beside (Sen.) Bob Graham. I'm disturbed he isn't here and I can't believe he's too busy to come." Actually, Chiles had a solid reason for missing Saturday's activities as he attended graduation ceremonies for his youngest daughter in Tampa. But he has wanted Ferro out for months and said he wouldn't take part in the convention if he didn't have a larger stake in party decisions. Chiles, earlier in the year, sought to replace Ferro with former chairman Charles Whitehead, a Panama City automobile dealer. Ferro, who was Whitehead's hand-picked successor, defeated Buddy MacKay, now lieutenant governor, after the 1988 elections in which MacKay had been defeated in the U.S. Senate race. MacKay and state Reps. Bolley Johnson and Mike Abrams may have helped resolve Chiles' desire to gain more influence in the party by creating a strategic panel that will include Chiles. "He thinks this strategic planning campaign team is the right approach to keep up our momentum of 1990," Chiles spokeswoman Julie Anbender said Saturday. "It'll help unite party activists and elected officials." Graham predicted the bickering between Ferro and the governor would end with Chiles' appearance Sunday. "By the time this convention adjourns tomorrow, it'll be all settled," said Graham. "I think peace will be with us." There has also been growing speculation that Ferro has wearied from the quarrel and may be thinking of giving up the post after he completes his term next December.

WELL DONE

Former Ram receives letter

GROVE CITY, Penn. — Lake Mary High School graduate Lance Stewart recently received his third varsity football letter from Grove City College.

Stewart was named to the Presidents' Athletic Conference second team following the Wolverines' 3-6 season.

A mechanical engineering major, Stewart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart of Longwood.

Stewart

Ex-Silver Hawks honored

BETHLEHEM, Penn. — Former Lake Howell High School football players Ken Joseph and Erik Bird were honored recently for their contributions to the Lehigh University football team.

Joseph received the school's Alexander G. Hahalus Memorial Award, which is presented to the Engineers' top offensive lineman.

Bird, the placekicker for Lehigh, was honored as the team's top special teams player.

The Lehigh Engineers were 9-2 this season, the school's best record since 1980.

LOCALLY

Baseball classes scheduled

SANFORD — Wes Rinker has announced a pair of three-day baseball camps for boys and girls ages 8 through 12 that will be available during the Christmas holidays at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

The first session will meet Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 21, 23 and 24 while the second session will meet on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 26, 27 and 28.

Both sessions will meet between 8:30 and 11:30 a.m. at the stadium.

The fee for the class is $75, which includes the morning class and a snack afterwards.

For more information, call either 1-800-346-1677 or 323-1046.

Players, coaches still sought

SANFORD — Players and coaches are still being sought to participate in the Sanford Recreation Department's girls basketball leagues scheduled to begin play in January.

Girls between the ages of 10 and 15 can still register by contacting the recreation department at 330-5697. Also, anyone who is able to volunteer their time to help coach one of the teams should also contact the rec department.

Harris plans speed camp

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Lake Brantley High School track and field coach Charles Harris has scheduled a speed camp for Dec. 16-19 at Lake Brantley.

According to Harris, the camp is for any athlete of any age in any sport who wants to improve his or her foot speed. The camp, which costs $30, will meet between 4:30 and 5:30 p.m.

For more information, contact Harris at Lake Brantley, 862-1776, ext. 251.

Good enough to win

Raiders pull out thriller

By DEAN SMITH Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Before attending a Seminole Community College men's basketball game, you may want to visit a cardiologist first.

Once again Friday night, the Raiders controlled most of the game but at the end, had the fans on the edge of their seats as SCC hung on for an 81-77 victory over Broward Community College from Ft. Lauderdale at the Health and Physical Education Center.

Deon Gavin's three-pointer with 1:15 left gave the Raiders a 76-75 advantage which they held until the end.

"I'm afraid it's going to be like this all season (close games)," said Seminole head coach Bill Payne. "We played a horrible game tonight and won, that's nice. It's also nice to finally win one of these close games."

The win broke a four-game losing streak for SCC and sent the team

You may not see much of him in this picture, but Broward Community College saw plenty of Seminole Community College's Mike Merthia (No. 40), who had 18 points, nine rebounds and eight assists in SCC's 81-77 victory.

Pats, Hawks lead All-SAC football teams

From Staff Reports

WINTER PARK — Six members of the Seminole Athletic Conference champion Lake Brantley High School football team were first-team selections on the 1991 All-SAC team.

The Patriots, who finished the season 10-2 overall, were undefeated within the conference this season. As a result, Lake Brantley coach Fred Almon is the SAC Coach of the Year.

Running back David Sprinkle, this year's Sanford Herald Player of the Year and the leading rusher in Seminole County, was one of four Patriots on the SAC first-team offense. Joining him were offensive linemen Andy Becker, Chuck Evans and Mike Wells.

Lineman Seth Wepking and linebacker Daryl Bush were the Lake Brantley representatives on the SAC first team defense.

In all, 23 players from Lake Brantley were selected to the team. Five more were second-team picks while 12 were honorable mentions.

Lake Howell, which finished second in the SAC with a 3-2 conference mark, led the county with 26 selections, including a county-leading seven first team selections. Seminole, which also was 3-2 in the conference but lost to Lake Howell, had only 15 conference picks, two of which were first-team choices.

Oviedo, 2-3 in the SAC, had 21 players honored (four on the first team) while Lake Mary, also 2-3 in the conference, had 17 players picked (four on the first team). Lyman, 0-5 against the county,

Johnston, Patriots top Gainesville

From Staff Reports

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Trailing 1-0 with under 20 minutes left in the game, Mike Johnston scored a pair of late goals to give Lake Brantley a 2-1 decision over Gainesville in a boys' soccer match played Saturday afternoon at Tom Storey Field.

Lake Brantley improves to 3-4-1 on the season while the Gainesville Purple Hurricanes were 5-2 heading into a Saturday evening match at Lyman.

After a scoreless first half, Gainesville went up 1-0 on a goal with 24:47 left in the game.

It took a little more than six minutes for Johnston to net the equalizer, beating the Gainesville goalie to a cross from Jimmy Mclellid and playing it into the goal with 18:23 to play.

Johnston scored the game-winner in the 75th minute as Sean McClafferty took a ball down the flank and crossed it in to Johnston, who knocked it home.

Gainesville outshot Lake Brantley 25-20 and had a 3-2 edge in corner kicks but Patriot goalie Chris Williams was equal to the task, making 13 saves. The Purple Hurricane keeper made 14 saves.

Lake Brantley also won the junior varsity game 4-1.

Next up for the Patriots is a Seminole Athletic Conference game against Lyman at home Monday night.

Lake Howell ends slide

WINTER PARK — Kevin Yearick scored a pair of goals Saturday afternoon to help the Lake Howell Silver Hawks snap a three-game losing streak with a 4-2 win over Dr. Phillips in a boys' soccer match played at Richard L. Evans Stadium.

Lake Howell is now 2-5 while Dr. Phillips falls to 1-2.

Yearick opened the scoring when he turned a pass from Nathan Bird into a goal with just 1:30 expired.

'Noles need just a quarter

By TONY DESORMIER Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — For one quarter, the Seminole Fighting Seminoles were untouchable. Against Bishop Moore, it was enough.

After a largely forgettable first half, the host Seminoles put together a 21-7 third quarter that paved the way to a 59-41 victory over the Hornets in varsity boys' basketball action Friday night at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

"They just decided to come out and play in the third quarter," said Seminole coach Bill Klein. "There was no hustle, no effort in the first half."

"They could be all right if they played together. They have to click together themselves."

Lake Brantley girls 'ground out' soccer victory over Lake Mary

By RYAN ANDERSON
Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY — If you can't go over them, go around them.
After a fruitless first half of trying to dent the Lake Mary defense from the air, the Lake Brantley Patriots employed a ground attack to score three goals in the second half of a 3-0 win over the Rams in a Seminole Athletic Conference girls soccer game at Don T. Reynolds Stadium.
"We kept the ball on the ground in the second half and tried to keep it in the attack zone," Lake Brantley coach John Schaeffer said.

Lake Brantley broke the scoreless tie when Elena Rahona played a crossing pass to Becky Miller, who knocked the ball past Megan Coduto with 28:30 left in the game.
"The first goal was set up perfectly," Schaeffer said. "Elena got the ball into the center of the field and Becky was able to get it into the goal."
The Patriots' next score came on a corner kick from Sarah Roberts to Nicole Delahoussaye, who played it past Rahona with 14:30 left in the game. Seven minutes later, Katie Tullia made it 3-0 when she scored on an assist from Tania Torres with 7:41 left to play in the game.
The Rams weren't lacking opportunities to score, they just couldn't seem to control their shots as nine of their 13 attempts either sailed high or wide.

Lake Mary goalkeeper Jen Preston had seven saves in the first half before being replaced by Coduto, who had five saves in the second half. Lake Brantley keeper Alyssa O'Brien needed to make just four saves to post the shutout.
Depth on the roster also played a key roll in the win for Lake Brantley as Miller and Torres, both former junior varsity players, were filling in for injured varsity players.
"Becky and Tania both played very well," Schaeffer said. "We had some injuries to our starters and they came right in and filled the holes."

Lake Brantley (now 10-1 overall and 4-1 in the SAC, the only loss coming against defending state champion Lyman) and Lake Mary (6-3 overall, 2-3 in the conference) will both play again Thursday in the first round of the Burger King Invitational at Lake Mary's Don T. Reynolds Stadium.
The Patriots, who were Burger King champions three years running before Lyman interrupted the streak last year, are scheduled to play West Orange at 8:30 p.m. Thursday before Lake Mary battles Tampa Preparatory at 8:30 p.m.

All-SAC performances

Over 110 players were named to the Seminole Athletic Conference football teams last week. (Upper left) Lake Mary's Jermaine Ferguson (No. 2, with ball) was named to the first-team offense while Oviedo's Travil Jackson (tackling) was an honorable mention choice. (Upper right) Terrance Jones (No. 87) represents

'Good' fishermen are experienced ones

So you want to be a "good" fisherman. I would like to tell you how in a few words, but the answer is not simple and there aren't any short cuts.

Expert anglers have acquired their skills over an extended period of time. They have spent thousands of hours on the water, their experiences and observations giving them a wealth of knowledge that can only be gained through first-hand experience.

The easiest way to become a better angler is to go fishing as much as you can with people who are more successful than yourself. Carefully observe these people in action. Ask them questions. Look for things that they do that can make you a better angler.

Many good anglers specialize in one particular species of fish.

FISHING

and it would be advisable to go fishing with several people who are experts in catching different species of fish. You will learn many useful techniques for catching a variety of fish.

You will find that most expert anglers have several things in common. Good fishermen are very attentive to details. Every trip is well planned and all tackle and equipment is in perfect order. They plan for success.

Skilled fishermen also have instincts that are sharply honed. They observe many things that would elude the average angler. . . things to them that are "road maps" to the fish.

Skillful anglers are often intense and they concentrate totally on the task at hand — catching fish. They give 110 percent while they are on the water.

If you cannot arrange fishing trips with the experts, ask questions at fish camps and tackle shops. Most of these people are very informed, and they can give you some excellent suggestions.

SHUPE'S SCOOP
A "good" fisherman has a positive attitude. Being confident and persistent will usually result in catching more fish.

FISHING FORECAST
This is a great time of year to fish. The specks are hot in Lake Monroe and Lake Jessup. Just look for flocks of boats, and you will know that you are in the right spot. Bass fishing is good, but most of the larger fish are hitting shiners.

Sebastian Inlet has been good for snook, redfish, flounder and bluefish. Snook bite best after dark, and they are taking a wide variety of offerings ranging from one-ounce jigs and live shrimp and finger mullet. Finger mullet will also take huge flounder, redfish and bluefish.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports excellent offshore action with grouper and snapper on reefs and wrecks. A few scattered cobia have been caught on manta rays. King mackerel are thick on Pelican Flats.

Bowl America Sanford reports 11 600 series

Special to the Herald

SANFORD — Eleven different keglers put together 600-plus series last week in league action reported by Bowl America Sanford.

At the top of the list was a 695 series posted by Bob Lake Jr. in the Unprofessionals League play that included a single game score of 279. Rounding out the Unprofessionals' top three were two more 600 series. George Lasher rolling a 666 while Ken Brown put together a 630.

Judy Wilkerson was the headliner among the Seminole Mobile Radio crew, scoring a 605. She was followed by Margo Butler (531) and Claudia Benevento (512).

All three of the top men's series posted in the Sun Bank Mixed league broke the 600 barrier, led by Scott Page's effort of 636. Pat Johnson followed him with a 634 while Kit Johnson was six pins off at 628.

In the women's half of the league, Karen Kody had the top mark with a 553 series. Nita turned in a 551 performance with Margo Butler scoring a 548.

Both the men's and women's top series in the Thursday Night Mixed league came in over 600. Joetta West pacing the women with a 618 series while Tom Waddle's 619 led the men.

Rounding out the top three for the women were Debbie Leigh (531) and Carolyn Betts (488). Richard Flance rolled a 576 with Travis Boutwell scoring a 537 to back up Waddle.

Linda Stafford turned in a 572 series to highlight action in the Women's Match Point competition. She was followed by Dottie Hogan (534) and Cary Lake (525).

Bob Lake Jr. also had the high series in the Men's Handicap Classic, compiling a 666. Ron Allman was a close second at 654 with Jim Roche third with a 642.

had one first-team pick among its 11 SAC honorees.

Rounding out the first-team defense were Seminole lineman Carlo White; Lake Mary linebacker-defensive end Mike McKenna, defensive back Troy Todd and punter Chad Kesler; lineman Tarris Brown, linebacker Ken Times and defensive back Sheldon Walker from Lake Howell; Oviedo defensive end-linebacker Simon Harper and defensive back Ray Gaines; and Lyman defensive back Bobby Washington.

Completing the first-team offense were Seminole wide receiver Corey Bennett; receiver Jermaine Ferguson from Lake Mary; Oviedo quarterback Dan Hargrave and lineman James Hodges; and Lake Howell running back Pat Jorgensen, tight end Jon Taylor, lineman Dawson Brinkley and placekicker Ted Lane.

Oviedo and Seminole equaled Lake Brantley in placing five players each on the All-SAC second teams.
Defensive backs Britt Henderson and Anthony Roberts were Seminole's representatives on the second-team defense while quarterback Vashaun Williams, tight end Terrance Jones and lineman Reggie Smith were the Tribe picks on the second-team offense.

For Lake Brantley, defensive back Chuck Coc, lineman Roy Miller and linebacker-defensive end David Warren are on the second-team defense while receiver Jeff Butler and placekicker Tim Lecroix — the only two sophomores to be named to the first or second teams — were the Patriot selections on the second-team offense.

Representing Oviedo on the second-team defense are linebacker Clay Aspinwall, lineman Terrance Ribbon and punter Erik Lombard. Running back Leon Lowman and lineman Russ Meisner were the Lions named to the second-team offense.

For Lake Mary, lineman Wyatt King was named to the second-team defense. Running back Anush Collins and linemen Rich Ditucci and Ken Hoover are second-team offense selections for the Rams.

Lake Howell's only second-team pick was defensive end-linebacker Trevor Pryce.

Linebacker Brian Grayson and defensive back Mark Romagosa were second-team defense selections from Lyman while receiver Jason Green and lineman Shea Scott represent the Greyhounds on the second-team offense.

Honorable selections, by school, were:

Seminole: Sam Becker, Johnny Golden, Emory Green, Claude Hittel, Marion Knight, Matthew Parker, Richard Peterson and Shayne Stewart.

Lake Mary: Adam Cobb, Chris Davis, Titus Francis, Norman Henkel, Chris Jones, John Laird, David McGarry, Scott Perry and Bill Youngman.

home for the holidays with a 7-7 record. The men will return to the court Jan. 3 at St. Petersburg Junior College. Broward fell to 1-8.

The Raiders got off to an ice-cold start Friday night as the Seahawks broke a 2-2 tie with a 10-point run to lead 12-2 with 16:53 left before intermission.

But the Lake Mary freshman duo of Mike Merthie and Jason Hamelin, along with sophomore center Bill Freeman, keyed a 23-8 run by SCC that gave the home team a 25-20 edge with 7:47 left in the first half.

Hamelin hit three three-point field goals during the streak while Merthie added eight points and Freeman netted four. Noel Ramos came off the bench to hit the other deuce.

The Seahawks fought back to within two points, 30-28, with 6:22 remaining before halftime, but the Raiders refused to wilt and took a 48-40 lead into the lockerroom.

SCC continued to hold a slim lead through the first half of the final 20 minutes, but Broward finally tied the game at 63-63 with 10:30 left in the game.

The teams traded baskets over the next six minutes with game still tied at 73-73 with 4:50 remaining. But no one would score for the next 3:10 as both teams went cold from the floor.

The Seahawks broke the drought on a layup by Marc Farquharson with 1:40 left on the clock. Gavin came back to nail his three-pointer 25 seconds later to give the lead back to the Raiders. Broward missed a pair of free throws and Freeman scored on an offensive rebound to make the score 78-75.

After another missed free throw by Broward, Gavin hit one of two charity tosses to make the score 79-75.

The Seahawks' last gasp came with 0:03 remaining on a jumper by Joe Medina to make the score 79-77, but Brian Nason hit two free throws with 0:02 left on the clock to give SCC an insurmountable 81-77 lead.

Gavin had his biggest game in a while as he hit eight of 10 shots from the floor on his way to a team-high 20-point game. Also having a big game was Merthie, who was held scoreless in Tuesday's loss to Indian River, with 18 points, nine rebounds and eight assists.

Also having his best all-around game of the season was Freeman, who scored 10 points, grabbed 14 rebounds, blocked two shots and came up with three steals. Nason was also in double figures with 16 points, while Hamelin scored nine points and added four assists.

Farquharson had a game-high 22 points to pace a trio of players into double figures for Broward. Also in double figures were Nelsac Brown (17) and David Riley (13). Brown, who leads the state in field goal percentage, hit seven of eight shots from the floor.

The score stayed at 1-0 until a three-goal flurry near the end of the first half. First, Dr. Phillips tied the score with a goal at 34:27. Shawn Taylor then scored an unassisted goal at 38:35 to give Lake Howell a 2-1 edge. Brendon Thomas made it 3-1 with his unassisted goal just 27 seconds before halftime.

Yearick scored his second goal, this time on an assist from Matt Bird, at 48:39.

Dr. Phillips converted a penalty kick with just under 13 minutes to play for the game's final score.

Lake Howell finished the game with a 16-6 advantage in shots on goal over Dr. Phillips as well as a 6-0 edge in corner kicks. Silver Hawk goalie Manny Toro was credited with six saves while his Dr. Phillips counterpart came up with nine stops.

In the junior varsity preliminary, Lake Howell blasted Dr. Phillips 6-1.

The Silver Hawks are now off until next Wednesday, when they will play at Lake Mary in a Seminole Athletic Conference contest.

Seminole's J.J. Wiggins (No. 33, right) was one of 11 players who contributed points in the Tribe's win over Bishop Moore Friday night. Wiggins, a senior, scored six points and handed out five assists.

Tribe

Seminole went up by 10 on baskets by Wesley O'Neal and J.J. Wiggins.

After Brian Madden converted a three-point play to cut the lead to seven, 27-20, with 5:38 left in the third quarter, Seminole went on a 14-0 run over the next four minutes to turn the game into a laugher.

The final eight minutes were, to put it charitably, garbage time.

During that four minute run, the senior-laden Seminole squad showed just how tough it can be when it chooses to be. The Tribe forced turnovers or simply picked off passes on the defensive end of the court and quickly converted them into points.

Shawn Washington scored eight of his game-high 16 points during that charge.

"That's the way we need to play, pressure defense and pressure offense," said Klein. "That's the way I think you need to play the game today, anyway."

If the third quarter against Bishop Moore, admittedly smaller, slower and less athletic than Seminole, was an indication, it's a style that suits the Seminoles well. Now the trick is doing it for 32 minutes against a bigger, faster, more talented opponent.

"When we do it, we do it very well," said Klein. "Sometimes they don't do it. They've showed signs that they have the potential. They play well for little stretches, a spot here and a spot there."

"If we get it together, we can play with anybody. But we have to come out in high gear and stay in high gear."

While Demetrius Lomax was the only other Seminole to score in double figures (11 points, including a trio of three-point goals), 11 different players contributed points.

For Bishop Moore, Derek Zeto scored 10 points, including 8-for-10 from the free throw line.

As a team, the Hornets were 18-for-29 from the charity stripe. Now 4-2, Seminole heads into the Central Florida Classic this Wednesday at Seminole Community College, where the Seminoles are scheduled to play Deland at 8:30 p.m.

Longwood Civic League Woman's Club president, Eida Nichols, right, applauds Blanche Kissane on the occasion of her 96th birthday.

Surprise!

Longwood resident Blanche Kissane turned 96 years young recently. She was honored at a surprise luncheon and joint Christmas party by the Longwood Civic League Woman's Club, of which she is a member.

Kissane moved to Longwood 30 years ago. She lends about 3,000 books as the librarian for the Maxine McGrath Library, a project of the women's club and the only library in Longwood. It is not affiliated with the county system.

Nurse first for county

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — She sits alone in the front room of a small house on Sanford Avenue. Several small tables are cluttered with the photographs of her family, nieces and nephews, most of whom still live in Mississippi.

Rachel Lee came to Seminole County from Mississippi in 1940 and served as the nurse at the 13-bed infirmary at the county home from then until she retired in 1962. The county home and farm was located where the county museum now stands on 17-92.

"I have a niece that wanted me to come and live with her," she says. "But I wanted to be here in the winter."

Although the 94-year-old retired nurse still lives alone, Father Time and the infirmities of old age have taken their toll.

"My feet don't work and my hands don't work too good, either," she said. "I'm just draggin' around here with the help of a walker."

Friends, neighbors and fellow church members see to it that Lee has food and meals and a ride to church on Sundays.

"I'm the only black member of the Lutheran Church in Sanford," she says, speaking of the Redeemer Lutheran Church. She recalls when she came to Florida in 1940, catching the bus to attend Lutheran services in Orlando.

"I can still see and I have my

Tim Clabaugh is the county's natural resources officer.

By J. MARK BANFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County's natural resources officer, Tim Clabaugh is the county's chief environmental policeman.

"I think of myself as the environmental consciousness of the county," says Clabaugh, 38. "I try to understand the position of the strict environmentalist who want no growth for the most part and the private landowner and I try to balance that with the ordinances I have to enforce."

"Because the environmental community isn't screaming at me and the board (of county commissioners) isn't screaming at me and the developers aren't screaming at me, I must be balancing it all, precariously, but OK."

Clabaugh is married to Jennifer Clabaugh and though the couple have no children, they do have two dogs and five cats. Fitting for the county's environment regulator, the Clabaugh's live on 17 heavily wooded acres near South Sanford Avenue a quarter mile north of Lake Jesup.

Sanford 8th-grader sails high seas as cadet recruit

SANFORD — Cadet Nick Doyle has weathered Atlantic Ocean waves that swelled to 17 feet during a hurricane.

"I didn't get seasick," he said. He helped rescue stranded boaters from the Reel Action after a 29-hour Coast Guard search.

"It was funny how the motor was supposed to have all these technical problems. They were out of gas," he said.

And he maintains his grades in the gifted program at Sanford Middle School, where Doyle 14, is an eighth-grader.

On Nov. 9 the United States Naval Sea Cadet Corps, Lafayette Division, held their Open House at the Reserve Center in Orlando. USNSCC Lt. Wayne Herbert awarded Doyle, son of Susan Doyle, Sanford, the following awards:

• A certificate of graduation for completion of his sea cadet recruit training at RTC in Orlando. Doyle attended recruit training from June 25 through July 10, 1991 and was a member of Honor Company C003. Upon graduation of recruit training, Cadet Doyle was promoted to seaman apprentice.

• A Coast Guard shield for his advanced training Aug. 4th through the 21st, aboard the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter PT Roberts, billeted out of Mayport. While on board the PT Roberts Doyle participated in the rescue of the Reel Action. Cadet Doyle's education aboard the PT Roberts included gaining knowledge of the maintenance of deck and engine room equipment, bridge operations and an introduction to basic navigation.

The PT Roberts traveled to the Bahamas for additional rescue training through Hurricane Bob, which at that time was still classified as a tropical depression. Underway to the Bahamas Cadet Doyle was initiated to sea duty under adverse weather conditions.

Cadet Nick Doyle has participated in a rescue at sea and has traveled in an 82-foot ship through 17-foot waves in the Caribbean during the onset of Hurricane Bob. The Sanford Middle School student plans to make the Navy his career.

"(Even though waves were 15-18 feet) it was great. We saw sea turtles and barracudas. The water near the Bahamas is really, really clear," he remembered.

Cadet Doyle's plans include continuing in the U.S. Naval Sea Cadet Program.

"I plan to become an officer in the Navy someday," he said.

He is also currently expanding his comic book collection.

For more information about the Sea Cadets, for students 11 through 17, contact USNSCC Lafayette Division Commanding Officer Lt. Herbert evenings at 382-5186.

Select presents compatible with recipients' lifestyles

Any gift has the potential of becoming waste if it is not used by the receiver. However, there are some gifts that are sure not to become garbage. If you consider carefully the normal activities of recipients, you are likely to select gifts that are compatible with their lifestyles. Many of the suggestions are not unusual or exciting. However, if you intend for gifts to bring some form of satisfaction and not become a burden to receivers because they have to be displayed, stored, cleaned or dusted routinely, take a close look at this list.

Babies

Parents with babies would appreciate the following: Books, diaper service, lotion or other baby toiletries and savings bonds.

Children

Gifts for children include interesting ideas beyond the traditional selection of toys.

Try: Books, lessons (swimming, dancing, music, karate, art), educational tapes/videos/movies, new experiences including airplane ride, boat ride, bus trip, train ride, play at local theater, meals at an ethnic restaurant, trip to an amusement park or zoo, savings bond.

CONSUMER FOCUS

BARBARA HUGHES/GREGG

Individuals and families

It's sometimes difficult to think up new gift ideas for people with whom you have been exchanging gifts awhile.

Try: A supply of favorite snacks (popcorn, peanuts, pecans, etc.), home baked bread in reused coffee cans, basic household tools (hammer, screw driver, extension cords), can crusher for recycling cans, books, less toxic cleaning supplies, faucet aerator, fire extinguisher, rechargeable flashlight, restaurant gift certificates.

Don't forget to consider health care: Dental care, eye exam, physical exam.

Some other ideas include: Hot water heater blanket, light bulbs, low flow shower head, magazine subscriptions, door mat made from recycled materials, roll of postage stamps, smoke alarms, mailing address stamp, gourmet foods, subscription to local newspaper, tickets to favorite sporting event, toothbrushes and toothpaste, unscented lotion, recycled paper, a gift basket full of recycled products, wood or metal folding clothes dryer.

Especially for senior citizens

Seniors don't need knick-knacks or more cologne.

Instead, try spending time with a senior, doing something they like. Or take the person shopping for food, pay monthly premium for health care, pay for a routine prescription or health care item used with a chronic illness or disease, provide a month's supply of canned fruits or vegetables of their choice. You might provide a service: clean in hard to reach places (high windows, under beds, behind appliances), clean out the refrigerator or freezer, do laundry, freeze a meal or dish prepared the way they like it, use their recipe; maintain lawn for one month; make a household repair (e.g. leaky faucet), rake leaves, take out the garbage for the month, bring in the mail, sweep off the roof, tune-up the vehicle.

The Cooperative Extension Service is open to all regardless of race, color, creed or national origin.

Kirks attend granddaughter's debut in Washington

Susan Elizabeth Kirk was one of two Florida young women who bowed out and made her formal debut at the 42nd annual National Debutante Cotillion and Thanksgiving Ball of Washington on Friday, Nov. 29, at the Washington Hilton Hotel in Washington, D.C.

On this happy and prestigious occasion, 31 debutantes representing 25 cities and 10 states were introduced to Washington society. Each year, young women are invited to apply for the Debutante Class. Their applications are screened, after which, the names of the debs are announced.

Activities for the six days included elaborate parties, balls, brunches, tours and socializing. There was something going on every minute in a sophisticated and glittering atmosphere.

Susan, 18, a student at Lake Highland, Orlando, was escorted by Bill Lovett, also a student at Lake Highland. But, for the debs who did not have escorts, 400 bachelors from various military schools and colleges, were on hand to dance with all attending, including mothers and grandmothers.

Susan is the daughter of Nancy and William L. "Bud" Kirk, Jr. of Maitland, and the granddaughter of Jeri and Bill Kirk of Sanford, who would not have missed the festivities for the world. Other family members attending the social gala for 1300 guests were Jonathan Kirk, Susan's brother, and Beth Kirk, Susan's cousin. The family will never forget the lovely and exciting six days of gracious living, Susan said. "I had an awesome time. I loved it!"

After Jeri and Bill departed on Sunday, Nancy and Bud toured two top offices in the White House — the president's and Jim Baker's. Nancy said they watched the president land in his helicopter.

But before Jeri and Bill left the Washington scene, they, too, visited the White House and the same offices on a separate tour. Jeri said they were "very impressed" with Washington including the Vietnam Memorial. They became "all choked up" over the memorial where they spotted several local names including Terry Cordell's.

Jeri said she enjoyed the social angle, and in particular, dancing with several West Point cadets. "It's been a long time since I have seen so many handsome young men," she said.

Club celebrates season
The Sanford Woman's Club was transformed into an old-fashioned Christmas at the December meeting. Beautiful decorations throughout the quaint clubhouse heralded the holiday season.

Adding another holiday dimension to the season was the appearance of the award-winning Woman's Club Chorus, who sang a medley of Christmas songs. The chorus, directed by Mayor Bettye Smith, was made up of Phyllis Conklin, Viola Frank, Kay Hall, Tina Joseph, Fran Mitchell, Eve Rogers, Lisa Sillaway, Carol Ann Smith, Irene Brown and Sandy Moodie.

Further adding to the season's brilliance was the annual Arts and Crafts Festival, staged by members, under the direction of Viola Frank, chairman of the Arts Department.

First place winners included:

Jeanette Padgett, Jean Marcel, Irene Brown, Mary Childers, Carol Ann Smith, Tina Joseph, Audrey Rush and Sandy Moodie. These winners will go on to compete in the District VII festival at Clermont in February. Winners of that event will compete at the Florida Federation of Women's Club State Convention at Orlando in May.

President Marty Colegrove conducted the business meeting. Emy Sokol, chairman of the Epalon Sigma Omicron Chapter, announced the chapter made a $100 contribution to Hacienda Girls Ranch, Melbourne, in memory of Estelle Davis, a departed club member. As a Christmas gesture, members contributed over $343 and stocking stuffers to the ranch.

The President's Star of the Month Award was presented to Isabel Wilson for her outstanding contributions to the club and to the community.

The hostess committee included: Sandy Moodie and Retha Blankenship, co-chairman, Peggy Deere, Kay Hall, Rochelle Whitely, Nellie Coleman, Helen Marion and Carol Ann Smith.

Hostess with the mostest

Linda Keeling has been in the hostess with the mostest role lately at her beautifully decorated Wilson Place home. Christmas is in the air! Last Saturday Linda entertained at a brunch for business associates. The brunch was a preview to the Tour of Homes that day in Sanford. The idea was to meet, greet, eat and then enjoy the tour.

In a cheerful Christmas setting, guests dined in splendor on the patio surrounding the pool. The tables were covered with bright red cloths complemented with white china and red linen napkins.

Among those joining the hostess were Nancy Youranis, Mary Hilliman, Pat Beers, Lee Russell, Lavonn Volkman, Margie Adcock and Kim Smith.

Tuesday night, Linda entertained her sorority chapter, Laureate Gamma Delta of Beta Sigma Phi, composed of 17 women.

The chapter held a short business meeting followed by opening their Beta Buddy (secret pals) gifts while revealing the pals' identity.

Viola Frank prepared the delicious dinner which consisted of hot chicken salad, squash casserole, green peas, scalloped tomatoes, molded asparagus salad and banana split cake.

On Saturday night, the Lake Mary Rotary Club held a progressive dinner and Linda and her husband, Wayne, hosted the group for hors d'oeuvres.

Farewell to couple

Howard Wheelchel was recently honored at open house at the accounting firm of Wheelchel and Howard by the staff. Not too long ago, Howard retired after 30 years as head of the firm.

According to Ann Peterson, office manager, "between 300 and 350" called between the appointed hours of 3 and 8 p.m. A light buffet was served during these hours.

Ann said, "It went exceptionally well."

Last July, Vivian Howard bought out the accounting firm due to Howard's ill health. Soon, Howard and his wife, Catherine, took up residence at Bethel, N.C.

Catherine, a retired Seminole County schoolteacher, said, "We love it up there." Although the weather is very cold, Catherine said they had winterized their home and were prepared for the cold. She has done a lot of canning and they have found a delightful little church nearby. She exudes enthusiasm and joy over the move from Sanford.

By the way, their address is Love Joy Road.

Results of student survey are released

DEAR READERS: The results of the 1991 Pride questionnaire, a student self report of Seminole County students' attitudes, use and perceived availability of alcohol and other drugs, have been released.

The questionnaire was administered to 8th, 9th, 10th, and 12th grade students in Seminole County schools. The purpose was to determine the trends in student involvement with alcohol and other drugs, as well as to compare the results of students' reported use with national trends in drug use among young people.

Based on student responses, the drugs of choice for Seminole County's young people continue to be alcohol, marijuana and nicotine, as is the case for youngsters throughout the nation. The usual age of first use of these gateway drugs among our children is in middle school. This also is consistent with equivalent national data. Students report that they are most likely to use illegal substances at home or at a friend's house and least likely to use these substances at school. This aspect of the survey has broad implications for parents who cannot monitor their children's actions during work hours.

Although all use of alcohol among people under the age of 21 is illegal in Florida, this behavior is widespread among Seminole County's middle and high school students. The most popular conveyances for the alcohol are beer and wine coolers. Unfortunately, many students drink wine coolers under the false belief that these beverages are less harmful than other alcoholic beverages.

Not surprisingly, the use of

DRUG COUNSELOR

alcohol increases with grade level throughout middle and high school.

Some implications for drug prevention education both in the home and in the schools include:

- Prevention education in grades K-4 must emphasize resistance skills for gateway drugs, (alcohol, tobacco and marijuana) prior to first use.

- Continued cooperation among parents, educators and law enforcement is needed to reduce the availability of gateway drugs to young people.

- Parents must be educated to the legal and social consequences of underage use of alcohol at home.

Finally, the good news is that a comparison of the 1991 Pride Survey with the 1981 Student Use (of Drugs) Survey indicates that overall use of illegal substances by Seminole County students has declined during the past decade. While this reduction in use indicates the positive results of prevention programs, zero tolerance of the illegal use of substances by our young people remains our goal. Law enforcement, schools, parents and community services must continue to work together to further reduce the use of alcohol and other drugs by our children.

For further information on the 1991 Pride Survey results, contact the Drug Prevention office at 330-2695.

Petty to represent SHS in London

Demetria Petty, senior, will represent Seminole High School in the Lord Mayor of Westminster's New Year's Day Parade in London, England along with other cheerleaders and dancers from across the country. She will depart on Dec. 28th and return on Jan. 2nd.

Demetria is captain of the SHS varsity cheerleader squad, honor student, member of Beta Club, Mu Alpha Theta, McKnight Achievers, Tribe, Student Council, senior class representative, Who's Who among American High School Students, Pi Kappa, coach for Sanford gymnastics, dance instructor for Tajiri Arts International, and a debutante.

Demetria is an active member of St. Paul Baptist Church. She is the daughter of Eugene and Sandra Petty, Sanford. Demetria plans to attend Hampton University as a pre-med or engineering major.

Workshop sponsored

On Saturday, Dec. 7, 1991, Project Excel sponsored a Positive Action Workshop at Milwee Middle School in Longwood. Minority students from Seminole County's middle and high schools were provided the opportunity to attend sessions designed to broaden their social and cultural awareness. Facilitators for the sessions were provided through the courtesy of Pat Hitchmon and Tajiri Arts International.

Project Excel is a mentoring program sponsored by the Minority Affairs Committee of the Seminole Education Association. The Minority Affairs Committee members are Sandra Petty, Glynette Brown, Brenda Ford, Pat Hitchmon, Shirley Hunt, Ira George-Hutchens, and Gerry Merritt. It is designed to help meet many of the supportive social needs of minority students in grades K-12 within the Seminole County school system. Project Excel recognizes the importance positive experiences in the maturation process and in the selection of who we are and what we ultimately become.

The Positive Action Workshop presented on last Saturday, provided 58 of the county's finest students with the opportunity to attend sessions on building self-esteem (facilitated by Bernice Doe), speech and drama (facilitated by Cheryl Joseph), storytelling (facilitated by Levathier Whitby), sign language (facilitated by Pat McMiller), and fundamentals of Spanish (facilitated by Ingrid Nathan) from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. In addition to feeding the intellect, the students were provided with a light lunch to feed the body.

The Minority Affairs Committee expresses its gratitude to Tajiri Arts International for its beautiful closing performances and for providing such enthusiastic and dedicated facilitators for the sessions. They would like to thank Milwee Middle School for providing access to its exceptional facilities, the family members and friends who provided the students with transportation to and from the workshop, and all of its supporters who made such an effort possible. The committee would most especially like to thank each of the students for coming out and taking a chance on themselves.

Project Excel invites the community to participate in future events planned throughout the school year. For additional information on Project Excel, contact the Seminole Education Association at (407) 323-1131.

Winners announced

The Hickory Avenue Church of God Women's Day winner is once again, Bertha P. Brown. She had the most ads for the program. Bertha received the top prize of a weekend trip to the Sands Hotel in Daytona Beach. Second place went to Hulicurtin Burton; her prize is a dinner for two at Red Lobster; 3rd place winner was Betty J. Dorman, dinner at Denney's.

The youth group winners were Elgia Hollyway, a monetary prize of $20; 2nd place Earldarna Myers, $10; 3rd place Reginald Hollyway, $5. Congratulations to these winners who worked very hard and successfully for their Women's Day Observance.

Anniversary to be celebrated

The Calvary Apostolic Temple Church, 1402 West 18th St. invites the community to help them observe their First Anniversary of the Church with Pastor Paul P. Wright. The services will begin Thursday, Dec. 19 with the Rev. Elder Maurice Bennett and Grace Apostolic Temple, Sanford; Friday, Dec. 20, the Rescue Church of God with Mother Blanche Bell Weaver; Saturday, Dec. 21, the Rev. Elder Evans Bacon Jr. and the Marantha New Life Tabernacle Church, St. Petersburg. All evening services will begin at 7:30 p.m. nightly.

The Sunday service and anniversary service will be held at the Sanford Civic Center at 3 p.m. with the Rev. Elder Robert Thomas and the congregation of the Apostolic Faith Temple, New Smyrna Beach.

The First Year Anniversary Observance is open to the community. Come and fellowship with us.

FAMU alumni host reception

The Seminole County Chapter of Florida A&M University Alumni Association invites all students who presently attend FAMU to be their guests at a Get Acquainted reception to be held Dec. 21, Saturday evening, at 8 p.m. at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce, 1st St. and Sanford Ave. Come and bring a fellow FAMU'ian. Raymond Gaines is alumni president.

Chief retires

"Hail to the Chief" as he is called by his many students, friends and well-wishers, James W. "Chief" Wilson will be recognized as he retires from 40 years of labor and love as a band teacher and director at Jones High School.

This retirement recognition will be held Sunday, Dec. 22, at 4 p.m. at the James W. Wilson auditorium at Jones High School, Orlando. Mr. Wilson is a Sanfordite who has not forgotten his hometown.

By Bernice Bode Ouel YOUR BIRTHDAY Dec. 15, 1991

Some interesting developments are in the offing for you in the year ahead, but you'll have to be ready and willing to go with the flow of events. These situations will be driven by their own forces.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You might feel obligated today to pick up the tab for friends, even though it would be fairer to split the bill equally. On the other hand, don't be stingy; just be realistic. Sagittarius, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Sagittarius' Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-4288. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Guard against the inclination today to needlessly stir up still waters, especially in your household. If you start something, others will want to finish it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You may be a bit too impulsive and irritable for your own good today, and there is a chance you might blame another for something that was your doing.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There are material opportunities around you today, but they could be extremely elusive. If you hope to capitalize on favorable trends, you'll have to be alert.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your probabilities for succeeding in an important endeavor today are a toss-up. The results will be determined by what you do in the later stages.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be very careful today that you don't trip over your own shoestrings by behaving in opposition to your better judgment. If you sense something is wrong, follow your instincts.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your friends might find you a bit difficult to understand and please today. There's a possibility you'll say one thing yet mean something entirely different.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Usually, you're surprisingly persistent, once you lock your mind in on a specific objective. Today, however, you might have difficulty focusing and therefore end up with a fuzzy target.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll grasp the essence of ideas rather quickly today, but you won't necessarily see them in their entirety. This could cause you to make some erroneous assumptions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't take anything for granted in your business dealings today. Conditions are difficult to define, and you might think you have something locked down when you don't.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You might get involved with a thoughtless companion today who likes to rearrange things regardless of how much it inconveniences others. Be on guard.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) On projects that require a co-worker today, be sure to select one who is safety-conscious. Then, watch this individual closely to prevent carelessness.

By Bernice Bode Ouel YOUR BIRTHDAY Dec. 15, 1991

Bonda might be drawn more tightly together in the year ahead in several of your valued relationships. These developments could bring both opportunity and happiness into your life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You have a marvelous faculty today for managing difficult situations and people — without anyone feeling they are being manipulated or ordered about.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is a good day for you to entertain individuals you are socially obligated to or those with whom you want to discuss a serious matter in convivial surroundings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something both interesting and beneficial could be developing for you at this time, and you might get your first inkling of it today. It will involve a friend as well as yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll fare better in financial involvements today by dealing directly with the top gun. Strive to avoid middle-management.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're capable of dealing with difficult developments today, provided you set your mind to it. Be positive and tenacious, and go in expecting to come out a winner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Others may be willing to go out of their way to help you today in areas where they were reluctant to offer support in the past. Capitalize on this shift.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your greatest asset today is your ability to deal effectively with others on a one-to-one basis. Keep negotiations as simple as possible, and don't let a group or committee intervene.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Measures you take today will reflect favorably on your image, especially in the eyes of two people who are in a position to help you achieve present objectives.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone may contest your influence over a particular endeavor today, only to discover that you have yet to use all the clout you possess.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is a favorable day to make a critical change you've been contemplating that could have a positive effect on your material circumstances. If the pieces are in place, give it a go.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Because you'll be inclined to treat others in a fair and generous fashion today, those you'll be involved with will be encouraged to respond in a similar way. Mutual benefits are likely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your financial prospects look encouraging today, especially in areas where you have an expertise to offer. Price your wares wisely.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
My final hand from the World Team Championships is arguably the best-played of the year. At the time, several experts concluded that it was impossible to make seven clubs without a defensive error. But Lynn Deas, who won her third consecutive NEC Venice Cup gold medal, found the successful route at the table looking at only 26 cards, not all 52.

If you wish to test yourself, cover the East-West cards. You ruff West's diamond lead and cash dummy's club king, but West discards a diamond. How do you continue?

North's four diamonds was a splinter bid, showing a hand worth at least a four-spade raise, with a singleton or void in diamonds. Four hearts was a cue-bid, and five diamonds confirmed the void. Perhaps North should have bid seven spades (or South should have converted to that contract), but that would have ruined a great story.

After a diamond ruff and the club king, Deas cashed the A-K of hearts, being careful to discard a diamond and a spade. Declarer ruffed a heart and cashed three rounds of spades ending in the dummy. That left dummy with the last spade, two hearts and the Q-9 of clubs. Declarer held two diamonds and A-10-5 of clubs. East had two diamonds and J-8-7 of clubs.

On the heart lead, East had to ruff; otherwise declarer would ruff low and crossruff home. Deas overruffed, trumped a diamond in the dummy and led dummy's last heart. Again East had to ruff, but Deas overruffed with the club ace, played a club to dummy's queen, drawing East's final trump, and cashed the spade 10.

IN BRIEF

Stromberg parent discloses deals

HARTFORD, Conn. — United Technologies Corp. and Siemens AG are expanding their technical alliance on industrial gas turbines.

German-based Siemens will have access to UTC's Pratt & Whitney turbine technology under the new agreement announced Wednesday.

Sales and service of Siemens' gas turbines are handled by Siemens Power Corp. in Bradenton, Fla. UTC specializes in aerospace, building systems and automotive industries.

Meanwhile, another Siemens subsidiary announced the creation of two customer support centers. Siemens Stromberg-Carlson, a Boca Raton-based telecommunications company, will open the centers in Hoffman Estates, Ill., and Reston, Va.

DuPont agrees to reimbursement

TALLAHASSEE — Du Pont Co. has agreed to reimburse growers if their plants are ruined in fields previously treated with bad batches of the fungicide Benlate, state Agriculture Commissioner Bob Crawford said.

Growers will receive money for damages even if they earlier signed a release waiver that stated otherwise, Crawford said. "This is a significant show of good faith on Du Pont's part," Crawford said in a statement after meeting with Du Pont officials.

Du Pont has paid more than $105 million, mostly to ornamental foliage growers in Florida, since recalling Benlate from the market last March.

Researchers are still trying to determine why the widely used fungicide stunted and killed millions of plants, primarily shrubs and other landscape foliage.

Power plant to be built

LAKE LAND — Panda Energy Corp., a Dallas-based independent power producer, has agreed to build a $70 million power plant near Lakeland to feed electricity to 22,000 Florida Power Corp. customers in the Tampa Bay area.

The facility will burn natural gas to produce 74 megawatts when completed in April 1995. Construction is to begin in 1993 on a 10-acre parcel west of the city near the Hillsborough County border and south of Interstate 4. A staff of 20 will operate the plant.

It is the fourth power facility planned in Polk County by independent power companies. Two other complexes have been proposed by Tampa Electric Co. and Florida Power Corp.

Florida Power, based in St. Petersburg, said the project is part of a diversified approach for producing energy in the future.

Cruise line going upscale

MIAMI — Costa Cruise Lines has sold a ship based in San Juan, Puerto Rico, and is shifting another from Port Everglades to take over the Caribbean route, the company said.

Costa, which has four ships on order, is shifting to a more upscale, luxury image, and the shift in ships is part of that restructuring.

The 850-passenger Carla Costa, which has been sailing the southern Caribbean, has been sold to an undisclosed buyer and will leave the fleet Jan. 25.

The 484-passenger Costa Riviera will move Jan. 18 from Fort Lauderdale to San Juan.

Bookings on the two ships will be exchanged for similar accommodations.

The first of the new ships, the $325 million, 1,300-passenger Costa Classica, is to make its maiden voyage Jan. 25 out of Port Everglades.

Knight elects board members

MIAMI — Former Smith College President Jill K. Conway and Cable News Network President Thomas Johnson were elected to the Knight Foundation's board of trustees.

"We are pleased to add these distinguished leaders to our board," Knight Foundation Chairman Lee Hills said. "We look forward to drawing on their broad scope of experiences and knowledge as we continue to build this foundation."

Conway, now a visiting scholar at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was president of Smith from 1975-1985. She also spent 11 years at the University of Toronto, where she was a faculty member and then the vice president of internal affairs.

Johnson became president of CNN in 1990 after 13 years with The Los Angeles Times. He was publisher of the newspaper for nine years and vice chairman of the parent Times Mirror Co.

Bank hosts chamber 'After Hours'

SANFORD — They have done it many years in the past. The downtown Sanford SunBank will again host the December Business After Hours gathering of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

The event is planned for Wednesday and is open to all members of the Chamber and their guests, as a social but holiday type gathering.

Bank Vice President and

Branch Manager Bob Boyd said, "I've been here for over two years now, and I understand the bank has had the 'Chamber members in each year during December for a long long time."

The evening will be highlighted by many holiday treats. The Christmas tree and colorful holiday decorations are up for the bank customers now, but more will be added for the Chamber visitation. "The food will be special again this year as it always has been," Boyd said. He wouldn't say what it will be but promised, "It will be a great deal more than the usual treats served."

In addition to Boyd, Personal Banking Officer Jonn Turnbull is also assisting in the preparations for the event.

Because of conflicting meetings, this month's Business After Hours gathering is being held on Wednesday, Dec. 18, from 5 until 7 p.m., rather than on Thursdays as it is in other months.

The downtown SunBank is located at 200 W. First Street in Sanford.

For further information, contact the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, at 322-2212.

Businesses try to help Head Start

By VICKI BOGOMER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Students in the district's Head Start program are there because they are economically disadvantaged and need a little extra help getting ready for the rigors of education.

Being poor, they will often not have a cornucopia of gifts under the Christmas tree at home. Some will not even have the tree.

Students at several Sanford and Lake Mary schools as well as a coalition of businesses have adopted the 13 Head Start classrooms in the district.

They will throw the students a holiday party, complete with food, drink, presents and holiday cheer.

"We've had a very nice response," Ada Sires of the Head Start program said. "All the classrooms have been adopted."

Sires said the students and others have been adopting the classes for several years and look forward to hosting the parties.

"They have started coming to us requesting a classroom," she said.

The Interact and the AAU clubs at Seminole High School have each adopted a classroom at the Hopper Center in Sanford.

The Lake Mary High School Wrestletettes adopted another classroom at Hopper. The school's Marionettes adopted a classroom at Geneva Elementary School in Geneva.

Lake Mary's Debate team and the Spanish Club each adopted a classroom at Rosenwald Exceptional Education Center in Altamonte Springs. The school's choir adopted a classroom at Forest City Elementary School in Altamonte Springs.

The French Club at Lake Mary has adopted the family of a Head Start student.

"They have some very special needs," Sires said.

Another class at Hopper was adopted by students at Greenwood Lakes Middle School. The school's Home Economics Club has adopted the Head Start program at Altamonte Springs Elementary School.

The program at Lawton Elementary School has been adopted by Oviedo High School.

New chamber member

sales representative Matt Hopkins, and chamber members Francie Lundquist and Jheri Fulton. Quiet Revolution is located at 3883 Lake Emma Road in Lake Mary.

Super Food Services negotiating sale

Associated Press

ORLANDO — A grocery distributor with 825 Orlando workers is negotiating to sell its Florida division to Albertson's Inc., the companies said Thursday.

Executives at Super Food Services Inc. say they expect Albertson's to pay between $70 million and $80 million for their Orlando division, if the sale is successful. Neither company has indicated when the deal might be finalized.

Albertson's, a national grocery chain with 67 Florida stores, is Super Food's largest Florida client and accounts for 34 percent of the company's national revenues — $600 million this year.

Albertson is such a large client, Dayton, Ohio-based Super Food was virtually forced to sell its Orlando division, said Jim Young, Super Food's vice president and general manager in Orlando.

Albertson, which is based in Boise, Idaho, currently handles its own distribution in every state but Florida. Albertson's executive vice president Tom Saldin said.

"This is just a natural extension of our policy," Saldin said.

Circle K eliminating 1,500 stores

Associated Press

PHOENIX — The Circle K convenience store chain said Thursday it would shut down or sell more than 1,500 of its 3,700 stores and refurbish the remaining outlets to help the company emerge from bankruptcy court.

"We have too many stores and we need more customers," president and chief operating officer John Antiocho said.

The plan has been distributed to the chain's creditors. It must be followed by a reorganization plan filed with the U.S. Bankruptcy Court.

Circle K has been operating under court supervision since May 1990, when it filed for Chapter 11 protection from its creditors.

The announced plan calls for selling or closing 1,556 stores in 32 states in phases during the next 12 to 18 months.

Circle K, which has lost more than $1 billion over two years, already has closed 800 stores in efforts to return to profitability.

Circle K, whose main competitor is Southland Corp.'s 7-Eleven chain, has been hurt by competition from oil companies that opened stores at service stations and supermarkets that are staying open later.
