Demonstrations Across Nation Focus On Abortion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cheered on by President Reagan, thousands of Americans from diverse political and religious backgrounds marched on Washington and throughout the nation to demand an end to legal abortions, while supporters of the 1973 Supreme Court decision mounted counter demonstrations in more than two dozen cities.

Reagan pledged to walk with anti-abortionists "in the long march for the right to life," but at a mid-afternoon meeting at the White House Wednesday, he told 25 anti-abortion leaders that violence against abortion clinics must end.

About 100 anti-abortion demonstrators picketed the New Mexico statehouse, singing "We shall overcome" and reading from the Bible. About 50 supporters of the law counter-picketed, carrying signs that read "legal abortion saves lives."

In St. Louis, Roman Catholic Archbishop John May offered help to "every woman ... who chooses life for her child rather than death by abortion."

Pro-choice leaders in Olympia, Washington, told a rally of about 150 supporters in the state Capitol rotunda that women will again die from unsafe, back-alley abortions if the Roe vs. Wade decision is overturned.

As Reagan and the leaders met, demonstrators — some of them carrying fetuses and pictures of aborted embryos — paraded through the nation's capital under sunny skies and spring-like temperatures to mark the 13th anniversary of the Supreme Court's Roe vs. Wade decision that legalized most abortions.

Before they stepped off, Reagan addressed a crowd — estimated by city police at a less-than-expected 36,000 people — via a special telephone hook-up.

"Our nation's affirmation of the sacredness of all human life must begin with respect for our most basic civil right, the right to life," Reagan said. "I'm proud to stand with you in the long march for the right to life."

Reagan said he will "continue to work together with members of Congress to overturn the tragedy of Roe vs. Wade."

The administration has asked the court, in a case to be decided before the end of next summer, to overturn the 1973 decision.

Police said 40 people were arrested in three incidents involving the marchers and counter-demonstrators.

After the 40-minute White House meeting, Dr. John Wilkie, president of National Right to Life,

Sanford Rebutts County's Case For Dismissal

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

The latest crossfire in the Sanford-Seminole County Yankee Lake land dispute came from City Manager Frank Faison today in the form of a 16-page rebuttal to the county's 8-page dismissal of the city's Yankee Lake settlement proposal.

And, although the rebuttal alleges "misstatement and confusion of fact" on the county's part, Faison said the county will not be sent a copy of it. The document is being sent only to city commissioners and former Yankee Lake owner Jeno Paulucci.

It will be available to the county "if they want it," the city manager said.

County Administrator Ken Hooper authored the dismissal and submitted it to County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm before sending it to Sanford on Monday.

Today, Hooper said he "probably won't respond" to the city's rebuttal. "This kind of thing back and forth won't get us anywhere," he said.

However, Mayor Betty Smith is viewing Faison's rebuttal as possible catalyst for a city-county meeting. She said the conflicting dates both sides have cited regarding implementation of the city's wastewater management program "demonstrate there is a lot of confusion surrounding what we're trying to do. Perhaps the best thing would be for the city and county commissions to work together to try and clear this up."

Faison's rebuttal will be reviewed at Monday's city commission meeting, "and that might be a good time for us to discuss arranging a meeting with the county," Mayor Smith said.

However, as matters stand, the county has refused to meet with Sanford until the city drops its Yankee Lake condemnation suit. And, according to Hooper, the county's next step "will be in front of a judge."

Sanford's waste management program is under the jurisdiction of the state Department of Environmental Regulation and Hooper said documents the DER issued the city "contradict themselves."

However, in his rebuttal, Faison contends that Hooper "appears to have misinterpreted many of the (city) wastewater documents he reviewed as he quoted some of them incorrectly and seems to have the various projects confused."

Hooper denied the allegation and produced city documents to back up his claim that Sanford "does not have the pressing need it claims" for implementation of its waste management program.

According to Faison, however, the city's DER mandated schedule "requires that we pursue immediate land acquisition, complete design (of Yankee Lake facilities) by October of 1986 and then immediately proceed with construction."

A review of the documents bears out both Hooper's and Faison's contentions regarding design, start up and completion dates for the multi-faceted Sanford project.

An example of this is contained on one of the DER grant documents. It calls for "construction to begin" in June of 1992, an April 1990 "deadline," and for the city to eliminate all overflow in Lake Monroe by 1995.

"A lot depends on how you interpret them," Hooper said.

Hooper also said Faison's not sending his rebuttal to the county "is an interesting approach. He's responding to something we submitted, but we don't get a copy of it. I don't think that's something we would do."

The county-city land dispute is scheduled for a Feb. 3 hearing. Sanford filed its "quick take" proceeding on Nov. 8; as a means of obtaining Yankee Lake for its waste management program. The action was taken two days after Paulucci agreed to sell the land to the county, for its own waste management effort.

An amicable settlement was almost reached earlier this month through private discussions between Paulucci and city and county representatives. The talks broke off, however, on

Bond Raters Tour County In Choppers

By Paul Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

Helicopters with the Channel 2 and Channel 9 insignias weren't carrying new crews when they landed behind the Seminole County School Board office Wednesday.

The choppers were rented for an hour each from the same companies that lease the aircraft to WESH-TV channel 2 and WFTV-TV channel 9. They landed at 2 p.m., and picked up representatives of Moody's Investors Service, Standard and Poor's Corporation, and the Municipal Bond Insurance Association (MBIA), all of New York, for a one hour tour of Seminole County by air. The purpose of the tour was to allow those representatives to get a bird's eye view of agricultural, industrial, commercial, and residential growth in the county.

The tour was part of a three phase presentation by the school board taking place Wednesday and today for those companies, which will eventually set a rating or "grade" on the proposed sale of $105 million in bonds by the school board to finance the growth and expansion of the school system. The better the bonds are rated, the lower the interest rate will be on the bonds. The lower the interest rate, the less it will cost the school system — and ultimately the taxpayers — to finance the issue of the bonds.

Those evaluating the county and school system include bond rating company representatives Jeffrey F. Rizzo and John Incorvalta of Moody's, Patrick McCorry and Lester Guthorn of

County To Confront Altamonte Springs With Concerns Over Redevelopment Plan

By Sarah Nunn
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Commissioners are expected to voice their concern over Altamonte Springs' community redevelopment plan to help fund road improvements when they meet with their city counterparts tonight.

The meeting to discuss the city's comprehensive land use plan, which includes the community redevelopment program, begins at 7 p.m. at Altamonte Springs City Hall.

At issue is the city's proposal which would fund road projects within its central business district over the next 20 years.

To do that, Altamonte Springs has put in place a tax increment financing system enabling it to pay off the money it borrows for the construction with property taxes.

Under such plans, authorized by the state legislature, property taxes within a designated redevelopment district are frozen at 1985 levels. Taxes above the assessed value for that year would go to pay off the 15-year debt.

The county has considered, but not yet passed, an interlocal agreement submitted by Altamonte Springs which would allow unincorporated areas in the city's designated redevelopment district to be included in the tax increment financing, but the county has criticized Altamonte's land use plan as being inconsistent with both the growth management legislation and the county's own land use plan.

In a letter to the Department of Community Affairs, endorsed by the county commission last week, Commission Chairman Bob Sturm set forth a number of concerns the county has over the Altamonte plan.

The county feels the more intense land use will affect the ability to provide services, such as water, sewer and roads, in the redevelopment district and will impact nearby residential neighborhoods, Sturm indicated in the letter.

He encouraged a joint planning effort between Altamonte and the county, calling the plan sent to the state "incomplete and not yet ready for adoption."

City Manager Phil Penland said Altamonte's plan complies with state growth management policies in that it directs development toward the city's central core and away from residential areas.

Altamonte Springs has chosen the Interstate-4/State Road 436 corridor as a redevelopment district. The area is bounded by Pineview Street, Wymore and Montgomery roads and Malland Ave.

Voyager One Day From Uranus

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Voyager 2 today closed to within a day of its historic encounter with Uranus with a rapidly increasing list of discoveries to its credit, including two more new moons and what may be raging Uranian "rain" storms.

In addition to the first clouds ever seen in the planet's atmosphere, a late series of pictures revealed well-organized spots that scientists said resembled immense storms.

"They're convective storm systems," said Garry Hunt from Imperial College in London. "They produce precipitation. Probably methane and ammonia precipitate out of these things. Certainly not a place to go and stand out in."

Hunt said a sequence of pictures of the bright, elongated clouds revealed 220-mph jet stream bands of gases in the atmosphere.

"That's a surprise, that's a delight and it clearly indicates that there are more interesting weather systems to be looked at on Uranus," Hunt said in an interview Wednesday.

The Voyager 2 television probe began its voyage seven years and 3 billion miles ago. Its grand tour took it past Jupiter in 1979 and Saturn in 1981 and it now is constantly pushing back the frontier of the solar system, exploring a region of space never before penetrated by a man-made probe.

He's Called Mastermind Of Both Airport Attacks

Warrant Seeks Nidal For Massacres

ROME (UPI) — A prosecutor today issued an international arrest warrant for Palestinian extremist leader Abu Nidal, accusing him of responsibility for the Dec. 27 massacre at Rome's main airport.

The warrant was issued by Domenico Sica, the magistrate in the Rome public prosecutor's office who is in charge of investigating the terrorist attack that killed 16 people and wounded 72 others at Rome's

Leonardo Da Vinci airport.

Three people were killed and 39 injured in a simultaneous attack at the Vienna airport but today's arrest warrant, which charged Abu Nidal with "massacre," referred only to the Rome attack.

Sica's office declined to say what evidence it had to support the charge against Sabri al-Banna, better known by his nom-de-guerre of Abu Nidal.

But legal sources said Sica presumably acted on evidence submitted by Rome anti-terrorist police and his interrogation of Mohammed Sarhan, 19, the only one of the four terrorists involved in the Rome attack to survive.

The international police organization, Interpol, will have the task of carrying out the arrest, if it can locate Nidal.

Investigators in both Rome and Vienna said earlier that surviving terrorists indicated Abu Nidal was the mastermind of both attacks.

Abu Nidal, who broke with the mainstream Palestine Liberation Organization in 1974 and opposes PLO leader Yasser Arafat, is frequently based in Libya. The United States says it has proof he is supported by Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafi.

GNP Up, But Far Less Than Predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The gross national product, reflecting a sluggish economy and a zooming trade deficit, increased just 2.3 percent in 1985, far short of the administration's goal, the government reported Wednesday.

The results prompted Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige and private economists to emphasize December's strong gains in employment, productivity, retail sales and housing starts. Baldrige said the economy's recent vigor would propel the nation's total output of goods and services to a 4 percent increase for 1986, as the White House has projected.

"We're starting off the first quarter with a good boost," he said. "The economy is in better shape today than it was a year ago."

At the same time Wednesday, the Labor Department announced the Consumer Price Index — the government's key measure of inflation — improved 0.2 percent from the previous year, the fourth straight year that inflation has been 4 percent or less.

Farmers Group Asks Court To Block New FmHA Loan Rules

BISMARCK, N.D. (UPI) — A farmers group asked a court to prevent the Farmers Home Administration from implementing a new loan repayment policy, claiming it is unconstitutional and denies farmers even a bare-bones operating budget.

Attorneys for Mid-Minnesota Legal Assistance Inc. of Minneapolis asked U.S. District Judge Bruce Van Sickle Wednesday to issue a preliminary injunction stopping the FmHA from imposing the new rules on 80,000 farmers nationwide who are delinquent on their loans.

The federal government was expected to present its case today.

Seven states — Oklahoma, Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, North Dakota and Texas — joined the request for a preliminary injunction.

Minnesota Attorney General Hubert H. Humphrey III argued the new federal rules violated the farmers' right to due process by denying them enough income to work the land they borrowed against.

Study Finds Obesity Inherited

BOSTON (UPI) — A landmark study has produced the first concrete evidence that obesity is inherited, but physicians today cautioned that the finding "does not mean you're doomed if your parents are fat."

The survey showed fat mothers and fathers produced fat children even when their babies were adopted and raised by thin couples, indicating that genetic rather than environmental influences play the deciding role in the weight of adults.

It had been widely believed childhood eating habits helped determine obesity, and the results obtained by screening 540 adult adoptees in Denmark even surprised the researchers who conducted the 13-year study. The findings were published today in The New England Journal of Medicine.

Dr. Albert J. Stunkard, director of the Obesity Research Group at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, who helped conduct the study, warned those with a hereditary tendency toward thinness can still gain weight if they overeat and said those whose parents mark them for obesity can influence the outcome by exercising and dieting.

Union Chief: Law To Cost Jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The new Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law may cause 300,000 federal workers to lose their jobs beginning in October, warned the top official of America's largest federal employees union.

Kenneth Blaylock, president of the American Federation of Government Employees, said Wednesday he expected layoffs to begin in October with the beginning of the government's 1987 fiscal year.

Blaylock, who represents 700,000 federal workers, said his union is developing "a political strategy" to make Gramm-Rudman a major issue in the 1986 elections.

Under 40 Set Mostly With GOP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Calling young adults his party's "ace in the hole" for the 1986 elections, Republican chairman Frank Fahrenkopf said a new survey shows that for the first time a majority of voters under 40 identifies with the GOP.

Fahrenkopf predicted Wednesday the GOP would break the historical jinx that has seen the president's party lose heavily in the election held in his sixth year in office.

YMCA To Launch Campaign

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County YMCA will kickoff the public part of its $500,000 capital campaign for Phase I of its building project with a luncheon at noon Monday at the Sweetwater Club, west of Longwood.

Altamonte Springs surgeon, Dr. Michael Butler, who is major gifts chairman, will report on the progress of his portion of the campaign.

Bob Reis of Century Careers is chairman of the public phase of the drive, which will run through February. The campaign will be capped with a victory dinner and a groundbreaking in late February or early March. Scott Washburn, branch director, said.

There has been $136,000 raised for the building fund so far. There will be weekly report meetings held by campaign workers to evaluate the progress during the month.

Phase I of the building project will consist of an $158,000 outdoor pool, 2,000 sq. ft. of office and reception area ($84,000), 2,000 sq. ft. of lockers, toilets and showers ($88,000), and a 2,400 sq. ft. multi-purpose room ($120,000). It also will include $50,000 worth of parking and site work.

Washburn said he expects the pool to be junior Olympic size, but that has not been definitely determined. Ray Scott and Associates of Longwood is architect for the project.

The proposed site for the building located on Longwood-Lake Mary Road south of Lake Mary High School is being purchased from The Crossings Ltd. for $47,000. It is part of the Planned Unit Development which the developer had planned to leave open space. If all contracts become final, by Feb. 15 the YMCA expects to sell its Lake Brantley property to the Seminole School Board for $225,000, according to Scott Washburn, and purchase the 7.7 acres in Lake Mary. He said approval has been obtained from the county and the new site is properly zoned.

He said the Lake Mary location is very central and part of the next big growth area in Seminole County. According to the 1985 census, the new location will be within 15 minutes driving time of 40,000 persons.

"How to serve Sanford has always been a question," Washburn said, "and we think this will be an answer since it is within 10 minutes driving time. It is also convenient to Longwood, Winter Springs and Lake Mary residents."

The YMCA had planned to build facilities on the five-acre site adjacent to Lake Brantley High School, but could not get approval from the county after residents in adjacent subdivisions protested.

The program in Seminole County began in the late '60s as an extension of the Northeast Winter Park Branch, later acquiring the Lake Brantley site where its offices have been located since 1972. Since then the 'Y' program has operated out of facilities such as school gymnasiums and lunch-rooms, churches, and hotel, high school and country club pools, Washburn said.

Last year there were 5,300 participants in the Seminole County "Y" program, Washburn said. There will be activities from infants to senior adults at the new facility. Swimming classes, karate, fitness, gymnastics and tumbling will be offered, he said.

"The building won't mean the end to community programs where the people live, it will be an added facility," Washburn said. "This is going to open up a lot of new opportunities. In the past, by not having our own building, it meant we were at the mercy of whoever we were leasing from and could get bumped out of the facility if they needed it for something."

"Now we can offer a more consistent program. Now our daytime activities are limited, but when we have our own facilities we can do whatever we want when we want to do it," Washburn added.

Washburn anticipates it will be from 3-5 years before the Seminole County YMCA launches its second phase to complete the $1 million project, which will then include a gymnasium, racquetball courts, and parking.

Directory Features Games

Southern Bell telephone directories are being delivered this week to customers in Sanford, Lake Mary, Winter Springs and surrounding areas with a cover that features Sanford's Golden Age Games.

More than 49,000 copies will be distributed, according to Larry Strickler, spokesman for Southern Bell, an increase of 5,000 over last year. Strickler said that more than 65,000 have been printed for use.

"This directory gives one the feeling of a family album," Strickler said. "Through the support of the City of Sanford, the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, the Post Cereals, the Golden Age Games have become an international event. We, at Southern Bell, are pleased to be able to recognize the groups and to salute the games, he added.

"The quantities of materials used to publish this directory are mind-boggling," Strickler said. "Included are 168,833 pounds of paper, 3,127 pounds of ink, 5,927 pounds of cover and 1,463 pounds of glue."

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Winter settled in across much of the nation today as cold but seasonable temperatures drifted eastward, while a windy storm lashed the Northwest with rain, snow and gusts of more than 80 mph. Up to 4 inches of snow was expected today in the mountains of Northern California and southern Oregon. Heavy snow was expected by tonight in the Rockies and northern Utah, where a winter storm watch was posted. Along the coast of the Pacific Northwest, the storm hurled rain and winds of up to 83 mph Wednesday night. A gust of 84 mph was clocked at Peavine Mountain, northwest of Reno, Nev. A cold front that brought winter back to much of the nation moved across the East today, bringing seasonal temperatures in the 20s and 30s.

Readings below zero were reported from North Dakota to upper Michigan. "We will return to typical frigid January weather," said National Weather Service forecaster Tony Gigg in New York City. "It will feel a lot colder when the cold front arrives." Albany, N.Y., reported 32 degrees at 1 a.m. EST, and at Burlington, Vt., it was 25. Massena, N.Y., was the coldest in the region with 15 degrees. Temperatures in advance of the front were near 70 degrees over the middle and southern Atlantic Coast region Wednesday. Officials in New York City said the warm weather has prompted a jump in the number of people using city parks.

"There has been a 25 percent increase in people using the parks," said a Parks and Recreation Department assistant, Mora Powell. Temperatures were already seasonable in Nebraska Wednesday — meaning cold. But many residents, used to a week of 60-degree readings, were unprepared for the temperatures in the 30s. "Last week I was wearing a sweater to class," said Gail Lindekugel, a student in Kearney. "Today I wore a sweater and realized it was a lot colder than I thought. I wish it would be perpetually 65 degrees."

Love Endures...And Endures

CHARLESTON, W.V. (UPI) — Love, while not blind, was certainly near-sighted for Edna Bowyer and Dave Guthrie. They couldn't find each other for 58 years after falling in love at first sight.

Edna, 78, now is the bride of Guthrie, who turns 80 Friday.

"She's as pretty today as she was the day I met her," says Dave. "The most important thing for Edna and me is that the love that was there so many years ago is just as strong today as it was then and will stay there."

The two met the late 1920s in Charleston. Edna was "the prettiest thing that ever put on a skirt," Dave recalls. She remembers him as being slim and wearing fancy clothes.

"We both fell in love with each other on first sight," says Dave. Before the romance could blossom, however, she moved away with her family. He headed west, married and was divorced soon after.

Dave returned to West Virginia in the late 1930s, couldn't find Edna and remarried — a union that lasted until his wife died 43 years later.

Edna ran away from home at 16 and married a coal miner. She returned to Charleston a few years later, a widow with two children.

"I was working in a restaurant looking for Dave," she said.

She didn't find him and married a salesman.

Dave resumed his search for Edna last October. He finally found her sister, who told him she was living in Pittsburgh.

Now he "babies" her, says Edna, now blinded by glaucoma.

"He makes my breakfast every morning," she says.

Accused Screw And Rivet Snatchers

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl. Thursday, Jan. 23, 1986-2A

An alleged thief who snatched a box of screws and rivets from a truck parked in Sanford, changed his mind and returned the goods to the vehicle, but Sanford police were watching and nabbed a 14-year-old suspect and an 18-year-old alleged to be acting as lookout.

The suspects attracted the attention of two policemen when one was spotted in a laundry and the other in bushes near Larue's Bar on 26th Street at Park Drive, Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett said.

At about 9:20 p.m. Tuesday the suspect in the bushes allegedly jumped into the 1979 Dodge truck of William E. Phillips of Sanford. He reportedly snatched a small box containing the hardware, worth $10, from the vehicle and ran toward the other suspect, but returned to the truck to put the box back, Harriett said.

Police nabbed the 14-year-old at the scene and charged him with burglary to a conveyance and petty theft.

The other suspect fled on a bicycle and was stopped by police in the 2500 block of Myrtle Ave., Harriett said.

Everett Henry Tillotson, 18, of 129 Wilbur Ave., Lake Mary, has been charged with burglary to a vehicle and resisting arrest without violence. He was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond. The boy was turned over to juvenile authorities.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS
A battery and cables worth $100 were stolen from a barn at Astor Farms, Ohio Street, Lake Monroe on Sunday or Monday, Preston Henry, Oglesby, 32, of Sanford, also reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that a rifle worth $250 was stolen from his vehicle at the farm.

Sallie Thomas, 40, of 7429 Antitlam Court, Winter Park, reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies Tuesday that a $150 skateboard was stolen from her yard.

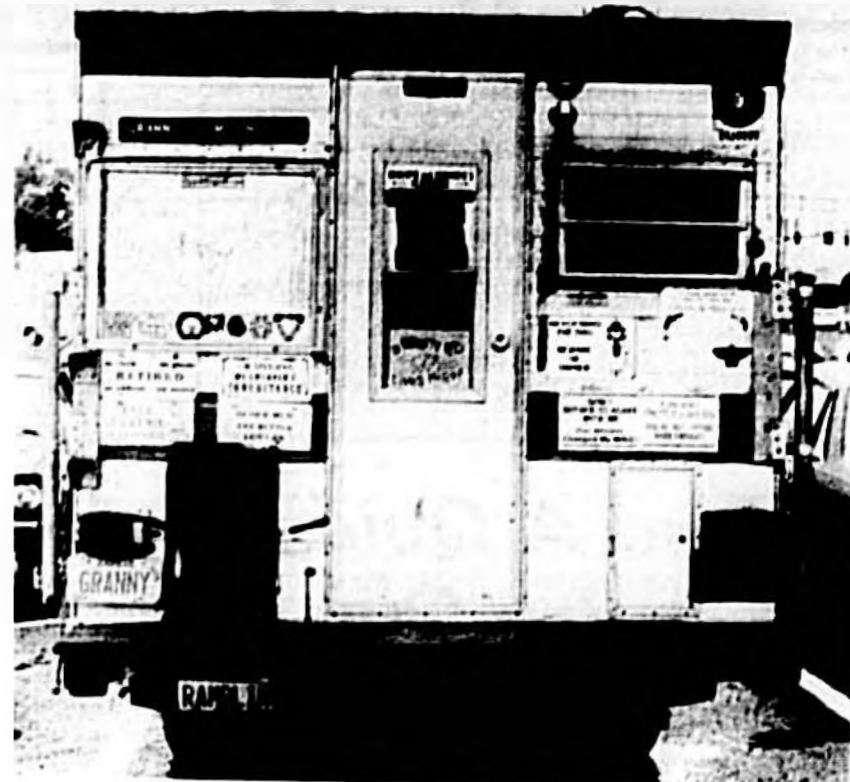

Sheriff's deputies have the name of a suspect who may have stolen nine firearms with a total value of $2,350 from the home of Jessie J. Lee, 48, of 2810 Magnolia Ave lot 11, Sanford, on Tuesday.

Two rods and reels with a combined value of $150 were stolen from the home of Raymond Whitehurst, 30, of 1210 Wynn St., Sanford, between Jan. 14 and Tuesday, a sheriff's report said.

A $1,242 stereo system belonging to Champion Rentals, 4011 U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry, was stolen from the home of James Preston Carder, 23, of 2461 Oak Drive, Longwood, on Saturday, a reported Carder filed with sheriff's deputies Tuesday said.

Manager Elfrida B. Hughes, 23, of Winter Park, reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that when she arrived to work at the Fina Station, State Road 436 at Howell Branch Road, Casselberry, at about 6:53 a.m. Tuesday she found the building and the office open. There was no sign of forced entry and deputies reported, before they arrived, Ms. Hughes had moved or disturbed all items the intruder might have touched. She named a possible suspect. About $284 cash was reported missing.

Plea Bargain Agreement

TAMPA (UPI) — Government records surrendered to defense attorneys in the public corruption case involving Hillsborough County Commission actions reveal former Commissioner Charles F. Bean III received $13,250 from 13 bribes.

Bean was named as having received a bribe when a massive federal indictment was returned last May, but was not indicted.

Records made public Tuesday disclosed Bean agreed to plead guilty to one racketeering-related count.

The plea bargain agreement was reached in April and Bean agreed to testify for the prosecution if called during the public corruption trials of nearly two dozen people, including three former commissioners, two of whom already are in federal prison on prior bribery convictions.

Bean is the second former commissioner to negotiate a plea bargain agreement in the three-year-old grand jury investigation.

Jerry Merle Bowmer negotiated a plea agreement in the earlier case and will testify if called in the current case, which is to go to trial Feb. 3.

Bean's agreement calls for no more than four years in prison, while Bowmer faces up to 20 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

The former commissioners under indictment are Fred Anderson, Joe Kotvas and Robert E. Curry. Anderson and Kotvas currently are serving eight-year sentences on 1983 bribery and extortion convictions involving zoning matters.

The 45-count indictment returned in May named 25 individuals and five businesses, alleging they acted illegally to influence official action on zoning petitions, applications for alcoholic beverage hearings, borrow pit permits, cable television franchises, road paving contracts, waste hauling franchise agreements, garbage rate increases and waste disposal records said Bean received the bribes during and after serving in office between 1978 and 1980.

Bean, 46, was appointed to the commission by former Gov. Reubin Askew in April 1978, to replace Joel Koford, who resigned to become city manager of Temple Terrace.

Bean is the second former commissioner to negotiate a plea bargain agreement in the three-year-old grand jury investigation.

Judge Overturns DUI Conviction Due To Test

A Longwood man whose DUI conviction was overturned because portions of his sobriety test was not admissible evidence will not be retried.

Seminole County Judge Fred Hitt said that without the questioned eye test there wasn't enough evidence to convict Richard M. Driver, 33, of Lake Gem Drive. Hitt dismissed the case against Driver Monday. The eye test, known as a nystagmus gaze test or NGT, was not admissible because the deputy performed it was not an expert in administering the test, Hitt ruled in December.

Driver was convicted of DUI in September following an arrest in June in Longwood. His conviction was based largely on the eye test because he refused to take a breath test and did not appear to be intoxicated, according to court records. State law requires that for a person to be convicted of DUI they must not only be intoxicated but also appear drunk.

According to proponents of the eye test, the more a person drinks the greater the involuntary jiggling of the eyes when they follow an object, such as a pen, to the side. It is reportedly a movement that cannot be controlled or felt by the subject. The more severely the eye jerks and the sooner the jiggling starts after the suspect begins to track the object the more highly intoxicated that person is, according to Sgt. Jerry Riggins, of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department. Riggins trains deputies in the use of the test.

Critics of the test, which is one of several used roadside by officers statewide to determine whether to make a DUI arrest, is that it can be influenced by a recent head injury, physical impairment or medication.

Driver still faces a charge of driving with a suspended or revoked driver license.

Sues For Millions For Pics

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A woman who quit an insurance job after discovering her name plastered on obscene pictures in a men's restroom has filed a $3 million lawsuit against the insurance firm and its senior male employees.

The woman, identified only as Jane Doe in the state suit filed Tuesday, had worked for the firm for about 10 years before the cartoons "made it oppressive to continue working in that environment," said attorney David Oestreicher II.

The pictures were clipped from a men's magazine and had the woman's name written on them. They were pasted on the walls of the men's restroom, where employees and Jane Doe's clients could see them, the attorney said.

According to the suit, the 40-year-old woman is a "native-born American Iroquois Indian and as such has a unique set of values and prides herself on her high moral character."

The Orleans Parish lawsuit seeks damages from the firm, Corroon and Black of Louisiana, and an unspecified number of unnamed supervisors and executives who allegedly knew about the "prurient and debasing" drawings.

A company spokesman refused to comment about the lawsuit, saying officials had not yet received a copy.

Oestreicher said the woman, a New Orleans resident who has a young child, left her job as a client service representative after finding out about the cartoons last month. She now is unemployed, the attorney said.

Oestreicher would not say how Jane Doe found out about the cartoons but said "everybody in the male sector of the office was well aware of these."

"Somebody knew or should have known that this condition existed and as a result when Jane Doe found out about it, it made it oppressive to continue working in that environment," the attorney said. "Her career has been compromised."

Maybe A Quid For A Pro Quo

Just before the December close of session, Congress gave the Senate a Christmas bonus by increasing $7,500 the amount of honoraria senators can keep for speech making and other appearances.

This brings the new limit to $30,040 for senators — or 40 percent of their annual $75,100 salary. The House of Representatives went along with the increase, but it did not vote an increase for itself. Members of the House still are limited to 30 percent of their annual salary — or $22,530.

The limits, however, apply only to how much money members of Congress can keep for their own personal use. There is no limit on the amount they can collect. The overage is usually given to charity — and sometimes it amounts to quite a bundle.

Top honoraria gatherers in 1984 were Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., who collected $115,929, and Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., $93,800. Totals are not in for 1985.

Traditionally, honoraria has been presented to a member of Congress for a public appearance and a speech. But more recently, they have been awarded for merely having lunch with a few corporate executives.

Common Cause — an organized lobby group that keeps track of congressional shenanigans — found that the special-interest groups tend to give their cash awards to congressmen dealing with legislation of particular concern to them — quid pro quo (if you want something done, it will cost you a couple of quid.)

Honoraria awards are demeaning and shameful. Members of Congress deserve a fair salary — but they shouldn't accept income for their personal use from special-interest groups. This sort of business comes close to out-and-out bribery. It should be phased out as quickly as possible.

Who Was Polled?

A recent New York Times poll showing that a record number of blacks and women now support President Reagan's performance is dangerously misleading because it gives the impression that blacks and women as a whole are faring very well under this administration. Supporters of the president are likely to waste no time in using these results to argue that civil rights leaders and others who oppose the administration's domestic policies and profess to speak for the poor are in fact out of touch with their own constituencies.

The poll, conducted in mid-December, said that 67 percent of women and 56 percent of blacks approved of how the president was handling his job. A similar poll in November put black approval of the president's performance at 38 percent and women's approval at 60 percent. One glaring defect in the poll is that it encourages the impression that the economic fortunes of blacks have taken a dramatic turn for the better — in less than a month's time, at that — under this administration.

But the sudden, sharp shift in black opinion — assuming there has been such a shift — may be due to the timing of the poll and the economic makeup of those surveyed. How many unemployed and marginally employed women and blacks were included in the survey? How many households headed by impoverished females were polled? The pervasive unemployment among blacks and the widespread poverty among female-headed households ought to tell us that there is something terribly misleading about a poll that tries to convince us that blacks in particular approve of the job performance of Ronald Reagan. His promise of prosperity has yet to touch those on the lower end of the economic spectrum, where a sizable segment of the black population seems permanently stuck.

Progressives Have Campaign Secret Weapon

WASHINGTON (NEA) — When Miles Rapoport made his first bid for elective office, the self-effacing 35-year-old Democrat was nobody's idea of a political giant-killer.

Rapoport was a thoughtful, issue-oriented political organizer, but he wasn't notably charismatic and he faced a seemingly insurmountable obstacle in his campaign for a seat in the lower house of Connecticut's state legislature.

The West Hartford district in which he chose to run was represented by a 10-year veteran of the legislature who had risen to assistant majority leader and was presumed to be unbeatable.

In autumn 1984, however, Rapoport defeated the incumbent by 180 votes in the Democratic primary. He then went on to beat his Republican challenger by 30 votes in the general election two months later.

The key to those two narrow victories: The Connecticut Citizen Action Group. This grassroots political organization directed by Rapoport for five years in the late 1970s and early 1980s, produced 300 volunteers who contributed thousands of hours to his campaign.

The Connecticut group is one of 25 throughout the country affiliated with Citizen Action, a Cleveland-based organization with an exceptional yet unheralded record of promoting a progressive political agenda in cities and states throughout the country during the first half of the 1980s.

Some of Citizen Action's most ambitious campaigns have dealt with toxic wastes, utility rates, health care and other issues affecting the low- and middle-income people it seeks to unify into a formidable political force.

But the organization also has played a crucial role in contests for public offices from city councils to state legislatures to Congress.

Among the 1984 winners it aided in that last category are Reps. Lane Evans of Illinois, Bob Edgar of Pennsylvania and Edward Feighan of Ohio, as well as Sens. Paul Simon of Illinois and Tom Harkin of Iowa.

All are Democrats, but that's hardly surprising given Citizen Action's "new populist" constituency and its commitment to the empowerment of those who traditionally have had little influence in society.

"The biggest problem we have in this country," says Harkin, "is that too few people hold too much economic and political power." Heather Booth, Citizen Action's co-director, says the group's goal is to "ensure that people are in control of their lives and the institutions that affect it."

The secret to Citizen Action's success is an army of 1,500 young men and women employed by its affiliated organizations for the sole purpose of conducting door-to-door solicitations five hours a night, five nights a week.

Although these canvassers are reminiscent of volunteers who visited households promoting anti-war or pro-civil rights causes, there is one very important difference — the solicitors today are paid employees of the groups whose causes they promote.

Citizen Action plans to expand those efforts in this year's elections, providing not only canvassers but technical services to candidates.

Elderly First, Now It's Aliens

By Elmer Lamm

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Colorado Gov. Richard D. Lamm, who has suggested pulling the plug on the terminally ill elderly, now says there also are far too many foreigners in the United States because immigration is "out of control."

And, he says, it is time for Congress to do something about holding back the flood of aliens who take jobs from Americans, increase crime and pose a threat to "American culture."

The Democratic governor spells out his often controversial views on the subject in a newly published book, "The Immigration Time Bomb," written with Gary Imhoff of the Washington-based Federation for American Immigration Reform.

They come as Congress wrestles for the third time with sweeping immigration legislation that died in the final days of the last two Congresses.

Sponsored by Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., in the Senate and by Reps. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., and Romano Mazzoli, D-Ky., in the House, the bill seeks to stem a growing tide of illegal aliens across U.S. borders by making it unlawful to hire them, while also proposing amnesty for many already here.

But this bill, too, is doomed to die — if Lamm is correct in his claim that the amnesty proposal spelled its downfall in the past.

That view is in conflict with its sponsors' belief that employer sanctions and legal status for many already here are the legs on which the bill stands: Take away either, and the bill falls.

The first, they say, is needed because — ironically — it is now against the law for an illegal alien to work, but not a crime to hire him.

The second is viewed as a humane means of avoiding the mass deportation and uprooting of otherwise law-abiding aliens who have lived here illegally for years and whose children may have been born on American soil.

The two key provisions represent a compromise originally proposed by the Select Commission on Immigration named by President Jimmy Carter and headed by the Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, president of the University of Notre Dame.

But Lamm, while opposing amnesty, does not suggest what should be done with those already here.

Tobacco Industry Got Help From The AMA

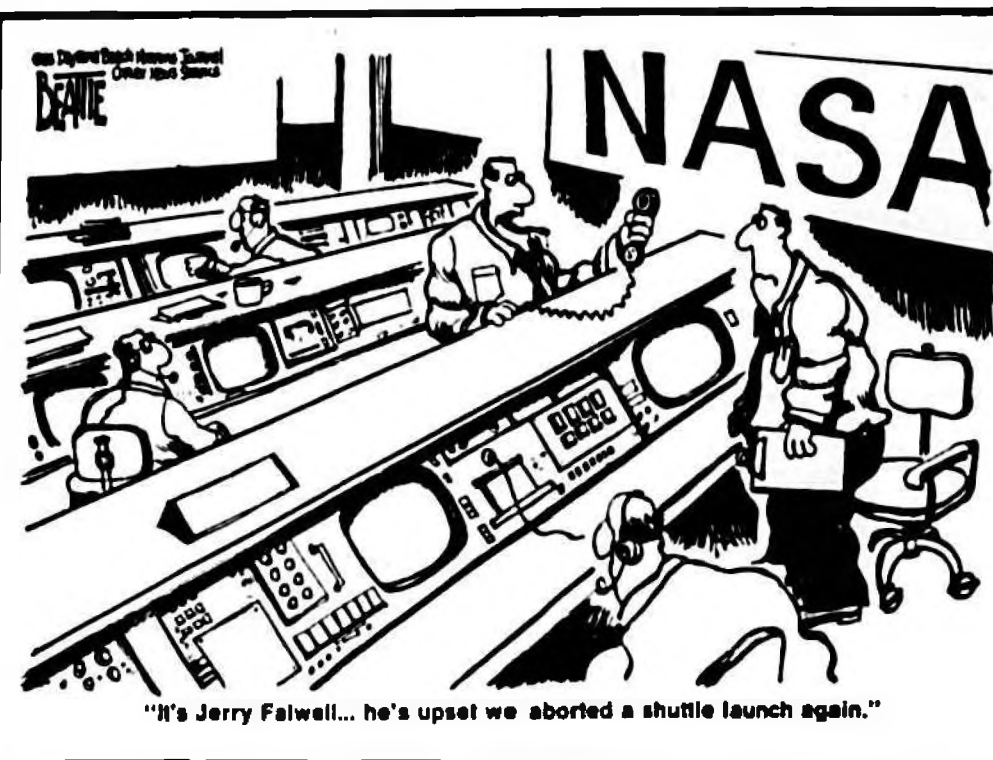

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Two of the most effective lobbying leviathans in Washington — the tobacco industry and the American Medical Association — have locked horns in an epic battle for the hearts and minds of Congress.

The AMA, belatedly waking up to the fact that smoking has been killing its patients at an undiminished rate despite the 15-year ban on television cigarette advertising, now wants to extend the prohibition to the print media and sports promotion. The tobacco industry, facing ruin if it is forbidden to advertise, is working the corridors of Congress with its usual skill, if not outright desperation.

Largely forgotten — and understandably not mentioned by the AMA in its declaration of war on the weed — is the embarrassing fact that the tobacco industry and organized medicine were as thick as thieves 22 years ago when the first mandatory restraints on cigarette advertising were being proposed.

Dr. William Hotchkiss, the AMA chairman, said the association

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Debt Is Nation's Cloud

The phrase "fragile good times" is how this commentator sums up the state of the nation in the new year.

In many ways, things seem just fine. Inflation is low. Unemployment isn't excessive. Stores are full of buyers. International tensions aren't as severe as they were a few years ago.

All that's good news, for which the American people ought to be thankful. Unfortunately, there are very worrisome problems in the background. Weak, unstable Third World nations owe American banks $630 billion. The federal deficit is extraordinarily high. The problems in Midwestern farming communities are very severe. The government has yet to come to grips with a foreign trade deficit in excess of $130 billion. Many lending institutions are dangerously exposed.

That short list of major problems doesn't begin to cover the range of severe difficulties facing the nation. These problems make for the fragility that underlies the good times on the surface.

Some of the problems in American life receive scant attention. One is the growing difficulty in obtaining certain types of insurance. As someone wrote to me recently, abuse and misuse of the law foul our courts and justice system. Doctors have been the target of so many malpractice lawsuits that some of them have given up their practices. Companies find it increasingly difficult to obtain, let alone pay for, adequate coverage. Insurance companies are being driven out of certain fields because of outrageous jury verdicts in lawsuits.

As my correspondent noted, there is a basic immorality that spawns today's litigiousness.

America's well-being at home should be very secure. Our land is rich in minerals. Unlike many nations in the world, we can grow all the food our people need and much more. The country has tremendous manpower and a strong technological base.

Our troubles come from mismanagement of these natural and human resources, a lack of discipline and restraint, a cruel readiness to impose vast debts on our children and grandchildren, and a general lack of responsibility and adherence to traditional moral standards. Overall, Americans have abused their rich heritage and failed to live within their means in an atmosphere of moderation.

America's basic problem, therefore, isn't an economic problem but a problem of character. Without discipline, the best equipped army in the world can't win. So it is with nations. Neither riches in the ground nor access to advanced technology will get a country through the battles of life. The indispensable elements are discipline, restraint, good order, and sound principles.

In the past, Americans had all these things. They may have drifted away from them, and that's why the good times are fragile. The restoration of the strength of the United States can't be achieved by any budgetary device. It can only be produced by a renewal of national character and inner leadership. That's what the United States needs most in 1986.

Physicians Discover Difference

By Jan Ziegler
UPI Science Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the 19th century, a prominent physician invented two psychiatric diseases to which he believed slaves were vulnerable.

He called one "drapetomania," and said it was a condition that caused them to run away. The other was "dysaesthesia aethiops," which he claimed caused slaves to waste and destroy everything they could handle.

This kind of blatant racism does not often occur in psychiatry nowadays, but the field's view of blacks and minorities is still sometimes distorted, psychiatrists say.

Whereas in the past, psychiatric "research" was used to support theories about the supposed inferiority of blacks, today real racial and ethnic differences are frequently ignored and can result in misdiagnosis or inferior treatment, a group of psychiatrists wrote in a special series of articles.

"Recent research suggests that blacks and other minorities are at a greater risk than whites of being misdiagnosed," said Dr. William B. Lawson, research director of Metropolitan State Hospital in Norwalk, Calif., and assistant professor-in-residence in psychiatry and human behavior at the University of California-Irvine.

Lawson and other psychiatrists wrote about the problems of blacks and psychiatry in Hospital and Community Psychiatry, a journal of the American Psychiatric Association.

Dr. Billy Jones, director of psychiatry, and Beverly Gray, research coordinator at Lincoln Medical and Mental Health Center, Bronx, N.Y., wrote that diagnosis relies "almost entirely" on observation of symptoms and behavior — yet these may be culturally related and differ from one ethnic group to another.

"The same symptoms may be expressed through a variety of behavioral actions that are determined by other factors such as culture," they wrote.

Different races metabolize medicine differently, Lawson wrote. Hispanics require less antidepressant medication than whites, and some medications are more effective for black schizophrenic and depressed patients than for whites.

wants a ban on all tobacco advertising because "physicians can't bear to watch their patients die from diseases that can be prevented."

But in 1964, the AMA was in need of sterner stuff. Dreading ineffectually, as it turned out, the enactment of Medicare with its regulation of doctors' fees, the AMA struck a deal with the tobacco lobby: In return for help fighting Medicare, the AMA would conduct its own study of tobacco and health. Six cigarette companies gladly gave the AMA a $10 million research grant on Feb. 7, 1964.

Three weeks later, the AMA announced that cigarettes should not be labeled a health hazard. It even adopted the tobacco industry's favorite argument by saying: "The economic lives of tobacco growers, processors and merchants are entwined in the industry; and local, state and federal governments are the recipients of and dependent upon many millions of dollars of tax revenue" from the tobacco industry.

Thus by official declaration, the AMA put the economic health of the tobacco industry ahead of the physical health of the medical profession's patients. That done, the medical establishment went to sleep for 22 years.

One leading cigarette company Brown & Williamson, argues the point this way: "Whether or not an adult individual becomes a cigarette smoker is a matter of personal choice made with awareness of the hazards that have been attributed to the product."

Interestingly, a confidential survey commissioned by Brown & Williamson in 1977 supports the AMA's view, not the company's. A confidential Federal Trade Commission staff report made the following points regarding the study:

— The survey "found that 15 percent of the sample and 25 percent of smokers did not believe that smokers die younger than non-smokers."

— "According to the study ... 22 percent of the population does not know that smoking increases the risk of cancer of any type. Among smokers, 32 percent of the sample did not know of the cancer risk."

— "23 percent of the sample and 38 percent of smokers believed that 'They still haven't proven that smoking causes lung cancer.'" And 38 percent of the population didn't know that smoking increases the risk of heart attack.

IN BRIEF

S. Africa Charges 11, Holds 250 In Killings Of White Policemen

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Police arrested 11 blacks for murder and held 250 for questioning during a manhunt in a ghetto near Johannesburg where two white policemen were hacked and beaten to death by black miners.

Law and Order Minister Louis le Grange vowed Wednesday there would be no mercy for the killers. "The present trend of vicious attacks on policemen cannot be tolerated," Le Grange said. "We will do everything within the law to protect ourselves and do our duty."

The two policemen were killed about 5 p.m. Tuesday when they confronted a crowd of miners heading for an outlawed meeting at Westonaria, about 50 miles from Johannesburg.

State-run television said the two officers, ages 25 and 28, radioed for help moments before they died, saying: "Hurry up boys, we are being murdered."

They were the first white policemen killed in 16 months of protests against the white-minority government and its policy of apartheid — racial segregation. Nearly 1,100 blacks have been killed in the violence, more than half of them shot by police. In addition, authorities say, five white civilians have been attacked and killed by blacks.

Hotel Fire Kills At Least 37

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — A fire, believed started by an electrical short circuit, broke out early today in a luxury hotel, killing at least 37 people and injuring 41 as it roared through the lower floors of the 10-story building, police and hospital officials said.

A fire official said it was the worst blaze ever in New Delhi.

Divisional Fire Officer J.C. Sharma said all of the more than 200 staff and guests from the Siddharth Continental Hotel had been accounted for.

The dead included a newly arrived West German diplomat and his wife. A U.S. Embassy spokesman said one of eight Americans staying at the hotel was seriously injured and another was unaccounted for.

Elections In Northern Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Voters cast ballots today in special parliamentary elections forced by Protestant politicians hoping to scuttle an agreement giving Ireland a say in governing British-ruled Northern Ireland.

Police bolstered security to guard against terrorist attacks during the voting to elect representatives to the British Parliament from 15 of the province's 17 constituencies.

Polls opened at 7 a.m. and were to remain open until 10 p.m. A total of 953,494 people were eligible to cast ballots. Results were expected late Friday.

Missile Crashes, Test 'Successful'

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (UPI) — Military officials today sought to recover the wreckage of a U.S. cruise missile that veered off course and crashed during a 1,500-mile test flight across northern Canada.

A helicopter located the wreckage late Wednesday in a rugged, wooded area at least 10 miles from its target near Canadian Forces Base Cold Lake, 150 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Despite the crash landing, military officials said all other aspects of the test were successful.

Yemen Rebels Tighten Hold

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates (UPI) — Fighting reportedly eased in the vicious 10-day civil war in South Yemen as hard-line Marxist rebels consolidated their hold on much of the country.

Radio Moscow, which is closely monitoring events in the pro-Soviet nation at the southern tip of the Red Sea, said late Wednesday "an abatement in military action has become apparent."

"Measures have begun to be taken to normalize the situation, to surmount the grave consequences of the conflict and establish normal life in the capital and other areas."

Protesters Fail To Stop Missile Test

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (UPI) — A B-52 bomber launched a U.S. cruise missile over the Arctic Wednesday on a 1,500-mile test flight across the frozen Canadian northwest. The launch was delayed for more than an hour until 10:39 a.m. EST while military officials waited for weather to improve over a military base in northern Alberta where the missile was to land. The B-52 left Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Mich., at 1:30 a.m. local time with the unarmed 22-foot-long battleship-gray missile suspended from its wing. It refueled in mid-air over the North Dakota-Manitoba border, then flew north to a Beaufort Sea rendezvous with four U.S. and Canadian support planes.

The purpose of the low-altitude missile release is to test its ability to hug terrain similar to that in Siberia. During its flight, two Canadian Forces F-18 jets were to simulate an attack on the missile to evaluate the fighters' ability to intercept Soviet missiles.

At least four peace activists from the environmental group Greenpeace were arrested by Royal Canadian Mounted Police outside Canadian Forces Base Cold Lake near where the cruise is supposed to land about 150 miles northeast of Edmonton.

The demonstrators hoped to disrupt the morning shift change at the base by blockading the entrance with a 20-foot-long protest banner. Military personnel, however, were instructed to report to work two hours early and the attempted blockade had little effect.

The flight has provoked few other protests across Canada.

Cruise missile opponents believe the weapons could upset the nuclear arms balance because their small size and ability to fly under enemy radar make them difficult to detect. The low-altitude missile, capable of carrying nuclear warheads, was to fly south along the Mackenzie River, turn east over northeastern British Columbia and head for the Primrose Lake weapons testing range near Cold Lake, where it was to parachute to a soft landing about five hours after launch.

Under a five-year U.S.-Canadian defense pact, the United States is permitted to conduct six cruise tests a year in northern Canada where the terrain is similar to Siberia's. The United States plans four tests this winter.

The tests began last year and were hailed as a success after two missiles landed on time and on target.

The test was originally scheduled for Tuesday, but mechanical problems aboard a U.S. support aircraft forced a 24-hour postponement.

The mechanical problem was discovered Monday in a modified C-135 transport plane assigned to accompany the unarmed missile, monitor its guidance system and abort the test if necessary.

Another jet from Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma was assigned to follow the cruise missile to make sure the 50-mile-wide test corridor stayed clear. Some small communities are located as close as five miles to the flight path.

Longwood To Explore 'Creative' Financing

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

Longwood City Commissioners have relented and given Parks and Recreation Director Bill Goebel permission to explore "creative" financing that might permit the city to buy property for a new community building over a period of years and negotiate for an acceptable price.

Commissioner Perry Faulkner made the suggestion Monday that Goebel attempt to negotiate a price and terms of payment for the property to determine if the commission should consider it further.

At a work session Thursday, Longwood City Commission rejected a suggestion by the Parks and Recreation Advisory Committee that the 3,780 square-foot Jessup Office Complex be purchased by the city for a community building because it was a low priority and money was not budgeted for it.

Located on a 100 by 150 ft. lot, the building is partially completed inside. There is 1,400 sq. ft. in the finished portion, which is divided up in offices, which Goebel said would be ideal for small groups and conferences and could be used right away. The rest would, if acquired by the city, be finished as one large room, he said.

Goebel said the property had been on the market for more than a year at $260,000, but recently the owner Peter Clark, a Longwood businessman, reduced the price to $220,000. The property is appraised by the county at $72,900, according to Goebel.

At the work session, Goebel recommended the city offer Clark $150,000. He also advised purchasing the adjacent 50 by 100 ft. vacant lot for a park.

Deane Plato, chairman of the Parks and Recreation Advisory Committee, presented proposed policies and procedures for the use of city parks and recreation areas, recommending the commission put together an ordinance that would define rules so that they can be better enforced by the police department.

The commissioners authorized City Attorney Gerald Kormann draft an ordinance that would cover things not now covered by state and local laws and a list of rules and regulations for governing the parks.

The commission has told City Administrator Greg Manning and his staff to develop a re-districting plan to equalize the five commission districts on the basis of population. Manning said the city has grown considerably since it was last done four years ago. He expects to have a proposal for the commission's consideration in 4-5 weeks.

In other business: The following appointments were made: Onnie Shomate and Joyce Suber were re-appointed to the City Board of Adjustment; Fred Gaines, Grace Bradford and Lynette Davis were reappointed to the Historical Commission and Sharon Wright and Ethel Goldberg, wife of Mayor Goldberg, were named for the first time.

Astronomy Student Tunes In On Jupiter's Strong Signals

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Many college students spend at least part of their time listening to the radio, but University of Florida student Tony Phillips listens to the beat of a different drummer on his radio — the planet Jupiter.

"The signals sound like the white noise you hear when you're tuning a radio, but a trained ear can distinguish static from extraterrestrial signals," said Phillips, 21, a University of Florida graduate student in astronomy.

Phillips explained in an article released Wednesday by the university that Jupiter, which is more than 1,300 times the size of Earth, sends out a wealth of radio signals.

"It spins on its axis faster than any other planet, and its rate of rotation is so fast that the planet is slightly flattened at the poles and bulges at the equator," Phillips said. "Jupiter's extraordinary size and spin is related to its strong radio transmissions."

"As it rotates, Jupiter broadcasts radio signals just as a lighthouse sends out its beam."

Phillips said studying the radiation emitted by other planets can give us an insight into what's happening inside our own planet.

"As the Earth rotates, its liquid metallic core whirls around and produces a magnetic field. Understanding this field gives us clues to what's going on deep inside of planets."

Challenger Delayed 'Til Sunday

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Running a day behind schedule, Challenger's seven-member crew, including space teacher Christa McAuliffe, packed for the trip to Florida today and final preparations for a delayed launch Sunday.

NASA announced Wednesday the shuttle's takeoff had been rescheduled for Sunday at 9:36 a.m. EST instead of Saturday afternoon as planned because of haze at an emergency landing strip in Africa and expected bad weather at the Florida shuttleport early Saturday.

Even with the delay, Challenger's countdown was scheduled to begin on time today for the 25th shuttle launching in five years.

On board will be commander Francis "Dick" Scobee, co-pilot Michael Smith, Judith Resnik, Ellison Sizuka, Ronald McNair, satellite engineer Gregory Jarvis and McAuliffe, a New Hampshire high school teacher who will become the first private citizen-astronaut to ride on the shuttle.

the nation's largest grassroots anti-abortion group, said Reagan told the leaders violence by the movement is hurting the cause.

"He did mention that if that would quit, our movement would get a lot of brownie points," Wilkie said.

Since Jan. 1, 1984, abortion and family clinics have been the target of an estimated 52 violent attacks, including bombings and arsons.

Abortion opponents in Washington marched past the White House to Capitol Hill and then stood on the steps at the Supreme Court plaza, chanting and singing.

Also at the Supreme Court, a group of 30 women satirized the anti-abortion protesters. Calling themselves "Ladies Against Women," they marched in a circle chanting: "No condom, no IUD, we believe in chastity," "Who me? I'm no queer, I have a baby every year," and "All we are saying is give sperm a chance."

In Providence, R.I., the state Planned Parenthood director, who was excommunicated from the Roman Catholic Church for supporting abortion, said she is ready to lead other Catholics in the fight for "reproductive freedom."

Word of her excommunication surfaced Wednesday.

Mary Ann Sorrentino, who has headed Planned Parenthood for nine years, criticized the Roman Catholic Church and the diocese of Providence Wednesday for "persecuting me for my personal beliefs."

"I don't see that I represent anything that Ted Kennedy hasn't represented, that Geraldine Ferraro hasn't represented along with a lot of other prominent people," Ms. Sorrentino said at a Statehouse news conference. "I don't know why the Providence diocese has singled me out."

The diocese notified Ms. Sorrentino of her excommunication by mail last summer, but the action did not become public until a Providence minister mentioned it on a cable television program about abortion.

"Your efforts have resulted in the sinful termination of human life," diocese officials said in a letter to Ms. Sorrentino. Ms. Sorrentino said hundreds of Catholics around New England have contacted her in support.

The county, however, refused the proposals and called for its continued ownership of the property as a means of creating a regional sewage treatment and disposal facility.

Standard and Poor's, and Hai Hiang and Sheelagh Flannigan of MBIA.

Representatives of Moody's met with school board representatives Wednesday morning, while Standard and Poor's and MBIA sessions were set for this morning.

Moody's morning discussion, like that of the other two firms today, centered on a look at the economic stability and make up of the county and the school system, the management of the school system, and growth in the area, according to Arnold W. Schneider, spokesman for the board's financial advisor, Arch W. Roberts & Company of Orlando.

Schneider organized the presentations, and is responsible for bringing the New Yorkers to the county for a first hand look.

"We wanted to put our best foot forward," Schneider said. A favorable impression of the school system could be important to the rating the bonds are given. The rating will be used to determine credit worthiness, and play a roll in the interest rate the board will have to pay on the $105 million bond sale.

Following Wednesday morning's session, and lunch with all three companies represented, it was time for the helicopter air tour.

"We wanted to show that we are part of the metro-Orlando growth area, and give them the best possible perspective of the county," Schneider said. He added that some officials didn't realize just how close Seminole County was to Orlando until they saw it from the air. They also viewed various schools in the system, including the $13 million expansion of Oviedo High School, in addition to looking at the growth areas of the county. Superintendent of Seminole County Schools Robert W. Hughes narrated the tour in one copter, while Schneider served as guide in the other.

Following the air tour, Guthorn commented that the flight "was good" in terms of evaluating the growth in the area. Another official added the air tour was "informative and fun."

Schneider estimated the cost of renting the helicopters was about $700, far less than the thousands it would have taken to fly an entourage of school board representatives to New York to make presentations. It also gave the companies a first hand, and decidedly favorable look at the county.

Following the flight, Superintendent of Schools Robert W. Hughes, Assistant Superintendent Benny Arnold, and Schneider took the officials on a walking tour of Hamilton Elementary, Lake Mary High School and the new Greenwood Lakes Middle School construction site. Those tours were conducted to show the bond rating companies how the school system spends its money.

Schneider said it was important to show the representatives that money is spent on expansion and upgrading, rather than repairs of run-down buildings.

Impressions by the officials at all the schools seemed to be favorable. At Hamilton, one commented, "They didn't have this when I was in school." Another said, "As far as I'm concerned, this would make a good apartment." At Lake Mary High, there were comments made about how new looking the six-year-old campus appeared. They were also impressed with the complex's booster club funded $250,000 stadium.

Rizzo said before catching his flight back to New York Wednesday night, "I am favorably impressed with what I've seen. We believe in the ability of the school board to repay its debt, and do so in a timely manner. This has been an extremely comprehensive presentation, and follow-up will be limited. We felt the district prepared its presentation very well."

The sale of the bonds is tentatively set for February 19, and the bond ratings will be announced no later than eight to ten days prior to then.

Confident Rams Squash Hawks

By Chuck Burgess
Special to the Herald

Lake Mary's Rams had one thing on their minds before hitting the mat against Lake Howell Wednesday night. Winning and winning big. They sought to reinforce their status as Seminole County's best wrestling team.

They not only reassured themselves of dual meet dominance but also reaffirmed their role as favorites in Saturday's first Seminole Athletic Conference championships by pouncing on Lake Howell's helpless Hawks, 68-8, at Lake Mary High School.

"We're looking awfully good," Ram head coach Doug Peters said. "I'm just tickled to death that we won so big. I knew we were going to win, but I didn't think our kids would look that good."

Good wasn't the word Silver

Hawk head coach Joe Corso used to describe the favorites for this weekend's first Seminole Athletic Conference Wrestling Championships at Lake Brantley.

"They were tough tonight," Corso said. "They've got a lot more experience than we do, so if one of our kids makes a wrong move he gets pinned in a second."

It took a little longer than a second for the Rams to dispose of the Silver Hawks, as they won 11 matches, tied one and lost another.

Peters and the Rams are looking past duals, though, and concentrating their sights on a goal that was set at the beginning of the season. That goal was to defend their conference championship, now the SAC title with the formation of the new conference.

"Right now we're in our prime

for the SAC tournament," Peters said. "I don't want to say we're awesome, but I think tough is a better word to describe what we are right now."

The Rams are almost a shoo-in for the title if Peters' plans go the way he anticipates. The Rams are the only undefeated dual meet team in the conference with their 8-0 record and have soundly beaten Lyman, Lake Brantley and Lake Howell — the better dual meet teams in the SAC.

"We've just got our eyes set on the SAC," Peters said. "We pretty much kept it low keyed tonight against Lake Howell. I really wasn't expecting the guys to do as well as they did. I can't say enough about how good they looked tonight."

The Rams' domination of the sport of wrestling in Central Florida this year is no fluke. Former Lake Mary coach Frank Schwartz and Peters have built the program from the ground and the Rams have easily won the Five Star Conference the past two years.

The Lake Mary grapplers began their program four years ago with only freshmen and sophomores. Still they managed a 11-3 mark for the season.

The next three years have been somewhat of a rocky time in the Ram gym as they have compiled seasons of 15-0, 14-1 and 8-0 so far this year. So the question in the minds of most conference coaches is not how to control the Rams' dominance, but can we even come close when Saturday's results are posted?

"When the season began I think everyone underestimated how good we really are," Peters said. "But after we beat Bishop Moore (35-21) people started taking note of us. We've been rolling along ever since and we still don't get the respect we deserve."

Even though the Rams are the Rodney Dangerfields of wrestling, they will not let in to the outside pressures put on them by other schools. They are ranked 10th in the state poll, but dropped off from fourth despite not losing a match.

No one was standing in the way Wednesday night except Lake Howell's tough 122-pounder Roger Hutchins and 128-pounder Dave Figler. Hutchins earned a technical pin against Wayne Clayton, 20-5, who was wrestling up two classes in order to get ready for Saturday, according to Peters.

SAC Race Will Take Better Shape Tonight

The Seminole Athletic Conference title chase can become even more cloudy or can clear up a bit tonight with a pair of big games on tap.

At Lake Brantley High, Lake Mary's conference-leading Lady Rams invades for a game against the second-place Lake Brantley Lady Patriots. Lake Mary goes in with a 3-0 SAC record but had a six-game winning streak snapped Wednesday night with a loss to Apopka. The Lady Rams are 12-3 overall. The Lady Patriots go in with a 3-1 conference record and 7-4 overall.

At Seminole High, both Seminole High's Lady Seminoles and Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks will try to keep their conference hopes going. Seminole, 9-5 overall, is 2-2 in the league. Lake Howell takes an 11-game winning streak into tonight's game. The Lady Hawks are 1-1 in the SAC.

In other games tonight, Lyman hosts DeLand in a 4A-9 district game while Oviedo travels to Orlando Bishop Moore for an Orange Belt Conference shootout.

After a pair of exciting, down-to-the-wire clashes a year ago, the Lake Mary-Lake Brantley feud has become an interesting one.

"I expect it to be a real barnburner," Lake Mary coach Bill Moore said. "We had two very exciting games last year and the girls are looking forward to playing Lake Brantley."

Lake Mary pulled out both of those close games last season, the second coming in the district semifinals. In fact, Lake Brantley has beaten Lake Mary just twice since the rivalry began.

"Lake Mary is a little quicker than we are and they play a lot of man-to-man and press a lot," Lake Brantley coach Cindy Frank said. "That's what we've been practicing for this week. If they don't come after us, that's fine. But, if they do, I hope we're ready for us."

Frank, in her first year as a head coach, was an assistant at Lake Mary High last season.

"Cindy (Frank) is doing a very good job at Brantley," Moore said. "They're very well organized and do what Cindy wants them to do."

Moore and the Lady Rams have an added incentive tonight as they are looking to put some distance between them and the rest of the conference. Lake Mary has won 20 or more games since the program started four years ago but has never won a conference title.

"This is a big game for us," Moore said. "If we win, it would give us a nice cushion. One thing we haven't done at Lake Mary is win the conference and that's one of our goals this year."

For Lake Mary, junior guard Tonya Lawson has been impressive the past three games, scoring 21, 25 and 16 points, respectively, to boost her scoring average from 13.2 to 14.9 per game. Lawson's average ranks fourth in Seminole County and she is also second in steals with a 3.9 average.

Also averaging in double figures in scoring for the Lady Rams are junior forward Cynthia Patterson (13.7) and sophomore center Teri Whyte (10.9). Whyte also ranks second in the county

Mayfair Familiarity Casts Merena As Open Favorite

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

If there is anything to the old adage, "Be It Ever So Humble, There's No Place Like Home," look for Brian Merena to be atop the leaderboard as the 26th annual Mayfair Open passes the halfway point late this afternoon.

Merena, a native of Bridgeport, Conn., moved to Sanford six years ago and immediately fell in love with the Mayfair Country Club. Or was it the other way around?

"This course was built for me," Merena proclaimed Tuesday. "I love it. It was too cold to play up north. I needed a permanent residence where I could play golf and I liked it here."

Merena, 39, attended the University of Connecticut before leaving after his junior year to try his hand on the tour. He played in Australia and Europe. Recently, he has returned from Arizona where he picked up around $15,000 in several tournaments.

Grover Todd, Mayfair's resident expert on the "Old Course," has been watching Merena roll them in for the past couple weeks and he said Merena is the man to beat in this year's Open which began this morning. The 36-hole stopover on the North Florida tour concludes Friday with the final 18 holes.

"If I had to pick anybody it would have to be Merena," Todd said Tuesday. "He's a good player, strong and seasoned. He knocks it a country mile and keeps it in play."

Todd said Merena has been shooting in the low- to mid-60s the past few days. "Merena's timing is outstanding," Todd said. "He's just got the whole package. I'd bet on him."

If history repeats, look for a score in the mid-60s for today's first round. Last year, champion Chuck Thorpe opened with a first-round 64 before closing with a 70 for a one-stroke victory.

It was a victory Chris Cookson won't soon forget. Cookson, a young pro from Winter Park, needed just to tap in an 18-inch putt to tie and send the match into sudden death. His 18-footer, however, lipped the cup and Thorpe had the victory.

Thorpe didn't return to defend his title this year, but Allen Pate, who won the championship two years ago, is in this year's field. Pate, too, was sizzling in the opening round as he fired a 63, one over the course record set in 1958 by Art Mozell.

Pate came back with a nearly impressive 65 for his second-round score and waltzed to the title by seven strokes over Wally Armstrong. Don Shirey, who was the 1983 champion, didn't figure among the leaders but he did have the best shot of the first round when he aceed the 190-yard par 3.

Shirey, along with senior tour player Walt Zembriski and Casselberry's Bob Erickson, figure to give Merena all he can handle. "They're all about equal," Todd said about the foursome. "I don't know some of these younger golfers but any one of those four could win the tournament."

Merena agreed. "Walt is a real good player. He hits it so straight it's unreal," he said. "Don Shirey is a good striker. But when Bob Erickson gets his putter working, look out. He can get it up and down from the ballwasher."

Merena, who played in the Mayfair Open in 1981 and finished fourth, said he thinks a player will have to shoot 10-under to win it. "I hope to do well," he said. "It's my home track and I've really been working hard on my game."

That's something the rest of the field has to worry about.

PRO-AM — Pate, bidding to win his second open championship in three years, tuned up by taking low pro in the pro-am Wednesday with a 66. Doug Ford Jr. and Keith Parker both had 67s.

The low pro-am team was Mayfair regular Richard Barnes and E. Kessler with a 55. Barnes, via the blind draw, was also second with Ford at 59.

Red Cleveland, left, Keith Parker and Dr. Billy Epps find something amusing before teeing up in the Mayfair Pro-Am Wednesday. Parker was in good spirits hours later as his 67 tied for second with Doug Ford Jr. behind Allen Pate's 65.

Four twosomes were tied for third at 60. There were: J. Hahn and R. O'Neil, B. Reilly and R. Mamelec along with J. Hallett and G. Miller.

Three teams were tied for fourth at 61. There were: J. Walcher and K. Holeccek, F. McGrane and G. Miller along with J. Stanley and D. Jonas.

Six teams were tied for fifth. They were: B. Staveley and R. O'Neil, D. Dick and J. Kurami, M. Ellis and J. De Ganahl, B. Loch and W. Frazer, C. Mead and J. Lucas along with K. Parker and R. Cleveland.

Johnson, Roberts Push Raiders Past St. Johns

By Sam Cook

Greg "Slim" Johnson yanked down a season-high 21 rebounds and Tony Roberts dropped in 8 of 9 free throws down the stretch as the Seminole Community College Raiders eased past St. Johns River, 86-70, in Mid-Florida Conference basketball at Palatka Wednesday night.

The Raiders improved to 18-5 overall and 4-2 in the conference. Front-running Florida Junior, however, knocked off second-place Daytona Beach, 94-85, at Jacksonville to maintain its two-game edge. FJC is 6-0. Daytona fell to 4-2.

Johnson, a 6-7 sophomore, had his own way on the board most of the night. Along with his 21 rebounds, Johnson poured in 12 of 16 field-goal attempts for a game-high 24 points. Vance Hall and Roberts each added 12

Walton Erases Disgrace, 7 Blocks Key Celtics Past Lakers

United Press International
For a player who described himself earlier this season as "a disgrace to the game," Bill Walton looked pretty good against the NBA champions last night.

"I guess you can say that I was a bit fired up out there tonight," said Walton, who came off the bench to score 11 points, pull down eight rebounds and add a season-high seven blocks to spark the Boston Celtics to their sixth straight victory, a 110-95 decision over the Los Angeles Lakers in the first meeting between the teams since the NBA finals last June.

"I like playing in the big game, and I'm having the time of my life."

The Celtics held an 88-75 lead at the start of the final quarter before Walton scored five points and blocked third shots during a 14-4 spurt. Los Angeles went 7-07 without a field goal during that period.

"He was fired up and talking about this one all week," said Celtics center Robert Parish, who had 16 points and 11 rebounds. "Big players play well in big games, and he rose to the occasion tonight."

The Celtics outrebounded the Lakers 61-50 on the way to their 18th home victory in 19 outings. The Lakers suffered their eighth loss of the season, tying the Celtics for fewest in the league.

Dennis Johnson paced the Celtics with a game-high 22 points. Larry Bird added 21, Kevin McHale 12 and Danny Ainge 11 for Boston.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who hit only 6-of-20 shots, paced the Lakers with 17 points.

Sixers 118, Suns 111
At Philadelphia, Charles

Barkley scored 29 points, and Moses Malone added 23 to enable the 76ers to win for the 16th time in their last 18 games.

Julius Erving and Maurice Cheeks each had 19 points for Philadelphia. Walter Davis scored 25 points to lead the Suns, who have lost three straight.

Hawks 131, Warriors 100

At Atlanta, Dominique Wilkins scored 25 points, and the Hawks shot 68 percent from the field, their best in nine years. Golden State led 62-61, but Atlanta led by as many as 33 points in the fourth quarter. Golden State played without rookie guard Chris Millin, whose brother remains ill in a New York hospital.

Pistons 107, Cavaliers 104

At Richfield, Ohio, Kelly Tripucka scored 7 of Detroit's last 9 points, including a decisive 3-point play with 26 seconds left, lifting the Pistons over the Cavaliers. Tripucka led Detroit with 24 points. Roy Hinson led Cleveland with 30 points.

Clippers 131, Mavericks 118

At Dallas, Marques Johnson scored 22 points, and Kurt Nimphius added 21 to spark Los Angeles past Dallas. Cedric Maxwell had 18 points for the Clippers, who won their third straight and recorded only their sixth road victory in 24 tries. Dallas was led by Derek Harper with 26 points and Mark Aguirre with 25.

Nuggets 137, Nets 124

At Denver, Alex English scored 43 points, and Calvin Natt added a season-high 30 Wednesday night to help the Nuggets snap a four-game losing streak. The game marked the return to play of Nets guard Micheal Ray Richardson, who missed 11 games while in a drug rehabilitation clinic. Playing in his home town, Richardson scored 15 points and played most of the second half.

Care-A-Lot Kids

Youths Receive Awards For Acts Of Valor

The Care Bears and Woman's Day magazine salute John Dobrenick of Tavares, and Jamie Gilmore of Eustis with an Honorable Mention for their acts of care.

John saved a two year old boy from drowning and Jamie ran for aid for her sister who was drowning.

This distinction is given to only a select number of children who entered the "Care Bears/Woman's Day Care-A-Lot Kids Campaign."

The program was a beckoning to America's youths to submit actual accounts of instances in which they expressed outstanding kindness, thoughtfulness, bravery or valor; in short, an act of care.

Thousands of children from across the nation participated. "It was heart-warming to read the many entries from young people who have gone out of their way to make others feel special," said Mariette Hartley, Emmy award winning actress and national spokesperson for the campaign. "It's about time that these terrific kids were recognized for their thoughtfulness."

The twenty five children per state being awarded an Honorable Mention will each receive the official Care-A-Lot Kid certificate, a personalized citation commemorating their Honorable Mention ranking, and a special 13-inch Care Bear.

"John and Jamie have displayed the type of caring that people should take note of. By awarding Honorable Mentions to special children like John and Jamie, we hope to bring these great kids to America's attention so that they can receive the thanks and praise which they deserve," said Jack Chojnacki, President of Those Characters From Cleveland -- creators of the Care Bears.

John and Jamie were surprised to hear that they were winners, but now that they are, they both exclaimed, "I can't wait until my Care Bear gets here!"

She Isn't Thrilled By His Taste For Frills

DEAR ABBY: The gentleman I'm dating is kind, considerate, ambitious and just about the most wonderful man to be around that I have ever met. I love him and he loves me, but there is a problem.

He has told me that he enjoys wearing silk and satin items around the house — women's items, that is. He said he also likes to dress up in women's clothes occasionally, but he has never gone out in public dressed as a woman and has no desire to. He said he was hoping I wouldn't care, but I do. I don't know how to handle this, and I'm not sure I could ever accept it. Abby, he is 100 percent man; this I know for sure.

I asked him if he would consider giving it up, or going for counseling. I offered to go with him and try to understand it. He said he has done this since he was a young boy, and he's not sure he wants to give it up as he wasn't hurting anyone.

Dear Abby

Abby, who needs help, him or me? I'm totally confused.

MIXED EMOTIONS

DEAR MIXED: If you love each other, this need not be a problem. The man is a transvestite — he enjoys dressing in women's clothes occasionally, but it does not affect his sexuality; he is "normal" as any other male. You need to learn more about it before making a judgment. (Maybe you can accept it, and maybe you can't, but I can tell you that there are many men who cross-dress at home whose wives understand their need to do so, and have no objections.) You don't indicate where you live, but if you will write to Dr. Paul Walker, Janus Information Facility, 1952 Union St., San Francisco, Calif. 94123, he can direct you to the proper counselor in the area. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. All inquiries are confidential.

DEAR ABBY: I'm going with a guy I'll call Sidney, who's divorced and has a couple of teen-aged kids who stay with him sometimes. When I stay overnight at Sidney's place, I am very self-conscious when he makes love to me with a picture of "Shirley" staring at us from the bureau. (Shirley is his ex-wife.) I told him that it bothered me to see Shirley's picture at a time like that, but he just laughed and said, "Don't be silly, she doesn't mean anything to me anymore."

Then I said, "Well, in that case, get the picture of Shirley off your bureau." So he said, "When my kids stay over, they might notice that it's gone."

I don't want to make a big deal out of this, but do you think I'm out of line to insist that he ditch the picture while I'm there?

HERE'S LOOKING AT YOU

DEAR HERE'S: You're not out of line. He is.

CONFIDENTIAL TO RE-ITERED AND BORED IN ZEPHYR HILLS, FLA.: In these days of a lagging economy and a tight labor market, opportunities for voluntary service are golden for those in their golden years. Hospitals, nursing homes, programs for the handicapped, parks and recreation departments reach out for volunteers. The older citizen, possessing the wisdom and patience of age, can help smooth out the wrinkles of community endeavor by committing his or her time and experience in the time-honored American tradition of "volunteerism." When life gets boring, the bored come to life — voluntarily.

The dogs and owners invited to the gala opening and who shared in the cake and punch refreshments were: Shirley Reilly with Seanachie, Len Stone and Della, Ron Gilbert and Bandit.

Joining these three guests were: Dee Dugan and Mandy, a Scottish terrier, Eva Matheny with Lady, a pekingese, and Major, a West Highland white terrier, and Josie Corriveau and Bobbie Jo, a German shepherd.

Child Molestation May Be Cause Of Problem

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have an 8-year-old granddaughter. When she was about 3, she started having problems. When she urinated, she would have a bad burning, and her vagina got red and sore. The doctor said she had a herpes or yeast infection and that she would have the problem all her life. All she could do was use ointment. It seems terrible to think a child would have to go through life like that. Is there anything to be done?

DEAR READER — Get your granddaughter to a urologist fast. Although occasional urinary infection or vaginal irritation may occur in children, a chronic condition may become serious, as well as be uncomfortable. If she has herpes or yeast, both afflictions are readily treatable by modern therapy.

Your question prompts me to bring up a disagreeable subject: sexual molestation of children. Doctors and other professionals are becoming increasingly dismayed by the apparent increase in the occurrence of this. Youngsters — even babies — are molested and can be sexually attacked by relatives or practically any other person. This is despicable, but it occurs. The earliest signs of sexual abuse may be a child's difficulty urinating and inflammation in the vaginal (or genital) area. Pediatricians have been encouraged by experts to become more aware of the possibilities of molestation in youngsters who have chronic urogenital problems.

While I am not suggesting that your granddaughter is in any way a victim of despicable sexual practices, I mention the topic to alert other readers that such reprehensible behavior exists.

DEAR DR. GOTT — It will be a year since I had this spell, and the symptoms still bother me. I felt fine when I went to work at 6 a.m. The first person I waited on, I got his order. But I got dizzy and had to sit down. My left side felt like it was asleep and I had no feeling in my left leg for two to three minutes.

Since then, I've been taking (Tranxene). It helps the dizziness, but my left breast burns or hurts all the time. How can I go back to work when I feel like I'm going to faint? Two doctors have told me it's stress and nerves. I've had an EKG. Should I have chest X-rays?

DEAR READER — I take for granted that you have had a complete medical examination, with blood tests. Your next step is to have a thorough neurological evaluation, which may include a brain-wave test. I doubt that routine chest X-rays are going to pinpoint your problem. Until every diagnostic avenue has been explored, I think it's unfair to assume your symptoms are necessarily due solely to stress. A neurologist may be able to put the pieces of your puzzle together.

WIN AT BRIDGE

A lot of people know that the bridge team from the United States reached the finals of the world championship in Brazil last October and defeated Austria by a wide margin. Not so well known is that the U.S. team almost lost to Brazil in the semifinals. Any of dozens of deals can decide a close match, but today's deal is especially exciting. It occurred three hands from the end of the match, when Brazil was leading by six international matchpoints. At this table, North and South represented Brazil, and South was in six clubs doubled. The king of hearts was led and ruffed, and the declarer played the queen of clubs. When West played low, the moment of truth had arrived. In such situations, there are no absolutes. It is a slightly better percentage play to try for the drop, but the primary consideration should be whether the bidding by the opponents provides any insight into the layout of the defenders' club holdings. As it happened, at the other table, East-West for Brazil played five hearts down one. So if declarer made six clubs doubled, the gain for Brazil would be significant. If declarer misguessed the clubs and was set, Brazil would lose only six international matchpoints, which would at that time have tied the match. Declarer did go up with the ace, the match was tied, and in the last two deals the U.S. picked up nine IMPs to win the cliffhanging semifinals. Most observers of the world bridge scene who were present at this event feel that this was one time when the championship was decided in the semifinal match.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

Your Birthday Jan. 24, 1986

In the year ahead, you are going to set two major goals for yourself. Although they won't be easy to achieve, you'll be victorious before your next birthday rolls around.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Although it will require extra effort and dedication on your behalf, an important career objective can be achieved today. Roll up your sleeves and get going. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll do well in situations today that contain elements of friendly competition. When you win, you'll do so with grace.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is the right day to make a change that you feel will be of benefit to your household. Use your initiative; do not wait on others.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Authorship is not important today. If you feel a companion's suggestions are better than yours, use his ideas.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Industriousness will not only give you pride of achievement today, it could also increase your earnings. Do good work and you will be amply rewarded.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It will make you feel uneasy today if a situation in which you're involved with others isn't being managed properly. Don't hang back, direct it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Give domestic matters top priority today. If there is something urgent you have left hanging, it can now be completed satisfactorily.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Possibilities for advancing the latest interest that has captured your fancy are excellent today. Move forward with the new.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Lady Luck tends to favor you today in your financial affairs. But you must play an active role and not leave everything up to her.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Much can be accomplished today if you are left to your own devices. Don't let others infringe upon your time with meaningless projects.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It looks like obstructions are about to be lifted pertaining to something you've been hoping for that must come through another person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's important at this time to maintain good relationships with enterprising friends. One pal might tie you into something that looks profitable.
