Chamber goes out of town

LAKE MARY — The Greater Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce will hold a Business After Hours event this Tuesday. The gathering will take place in Altamonte Springs.

The location for the event is Special Editions Publishing, located at 765 Douglas Avenue. Chamber Executive Director Diane Parker explained, "The owner, Al Sciuto, has been a member of the Lake Mary Chamber for about six years, and for the past three, he has been publishing our annual Chamber directory."

Parker said, "Although his business is in Altamonte Springs, he has invited us to hold this month's After Hours gathering at his business."

The event is considered as "an evening of networking" by the Chamber. "Bring your business cards and join us," Parker added.

The Business After Hours gathering is scheduled for 5:30 until 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. For further information, call the Greater Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce office at 333-4748.

Is it Ocklawaha? or Oklawaha?

OKLAWAHA — Or is it Ocklawaha? Somewhere over the decades, the "c" was lost in the town's name. Some residents who didn't forget want it back.

Purists searching county records and newspapers found the "c" in an 1890 Atlantic Coast Line Railroad schedule, an 1896 Florida State Gazetteer, an 1892 map and other documents.

Fourteen pieces of evidence convinced county commissioners who voted in November to restore the "c" — the first step toward state and federal recognition of the spelling.

The town, 50 miles northwest of Orlando, is best known as the site where Ma Barker and her son Fred died in a 1935 shootout with FBI agents.

Three spring breakers critical

WEST PALM BEACH — Three young people visiting Florida on spring break were critically poisoned by carbon monoxide fumes seeping into their hotel room from a faulty boiler.

A housekeeper discovered the unconscious victims at a Holiday Inn Friday, and police and paramedics thought they were suffering from severe sunburn or drug overdoses until an officer collapsed and began vomiting.

The victims, all from Massachusetts, were listed in critical condition at hospitals Saturday.

Spring Fling a success

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The court yard of Sanford Middle School's still sparkling new campus on French Avenue in Sanford was transformed into an eclectic market.

The first, and possibly annual, Spring Fling seemed successful to those in attendance.

Crafters, selling everything from quilted wall hangings to chocolate brownies to scrimshaw earrings did a brisk business.

"The prices are really reasonable," said Martha Jameson of Sanford whose son will attend the school next year.

She said that she had come to the school's first Spring Fling to take advantage of the opportunity to tour the school.

"It's a beautiful school," she noted.

Principal Dan Pelham stood behind the line in the school's cafeteria, serving fine barbecued chickens that were being barbecued outside on a large grill.

"We're doing pretty well," he said of the numbers of diners that had come through the line to eat.

The barbecue chicken dinners, prepared by the fathers in the Parent Teacher Student Association (PTSA), sold for $4 apiece and the money will be used to finance a variety of different PTSA projects.

Potpourri of the early years

Today, let's deal with some questions you old timers have put to me from time to time.

I get some by mail, more by telephone and most from you folks I bump into at the supermarket and drugstore. For example, one fellow asked if it were true that at one time the late George DeCottes, a Sanford lawyer, city attorney and state's attorney, once outranked J.C. Hutchison as officers in the Florida National Guard's 124th Infantry.

Yes, at one time he did. DeCottes became a major and commanding officer of the 124th's first battalion. At that time Hutchison was a captain and was commanding officer of Company "D" — a machine gun unit and a part of the first battalion. DeCottes became a lieutenant colonel and was named executive officer of the entire regiment. But Hutchison went on to become a lieutenant general during World War II. He was the allied general who accepted the surrender of the Japanese forces in the

Woman's Club attracts tasteful

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — Not long after the doors opened on the first Taste of Sanford Saturday evening, a steady flow of patrons began filing through the doors of the Sanford Woman's Club.

Eager to sample the culinary delights of the Sanford community, they lined up with Styrofoam plates and plastic forks, for everything from stuffed shells to lemon meringue pie.

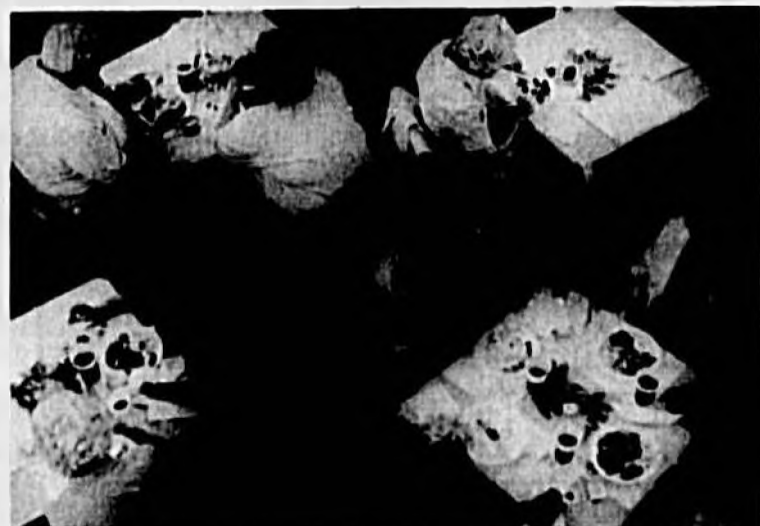

"There's everything here," Jean Metts, first vice president in charge of the event, said. "We have a good cross-section of the community represented here on these tables."

In addition to food prepared by members of the club, there were specialty dishes prepared by Park Avenue Catering, Bucks Catering, the Golden Lamb Restaurant, Popeye's Chicken and Pizza Hut.

Don Major, owner of Park Avenue Catering, said that he and his wife Lois decided to take part in the Taste of Sanford because they wanted to give something back to the community.

"The community has given so much to us," he said. "They've really supported us. We just wanted to put something back in."

Sitting at tables covered in flowing pink tablecloths with centerpieces of greenery surrounding diminutive candles, Sanfordites enjoyed their meals from overflowing plates.

food. "There was so much, but we had a little of everything," she said.

Marcia Lanz of Sanford stopped briefly as she left the line of homemade items and approached the first table set up by one of the caterers.

"It all looks so good," she sighed. "I'm going to have to come back for a second trip...and a third one."

Louise Hayes of Sanford said she "always goes where there's food." The spread at this event, she noted, was "exceptionally good."

Metts said that she expected that more than 300 people would make their way through the lines before the event was finished.

The Woman's Club will be using the money raised from ticket sales to the Taste of Sanford to help meet operating expenses at the club house. Metts said the club takes on many philanthropic causes throughout the year.

"I think the best part of the Taste of Sanford is that we can all come together as a community and sample different kinds of foods," she said.

Lake Mary's master plan being fixed

By NICK PPEWAUP
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The City of Lake Mary must revise its Comprehensive Plan. The work however, is not expected to be a major task nor will it take long.

The Florida Department of Community Affairs notified Lake Mary early last week that the city's Comprehensive Plan was "Not in compliance." It took several days after the notification before the City actually received specific information regarding those areas of the plan that were not accepted.

Lake Mary's Associate City Planner Mark Reggenin explained, "They filed objections to three points of our plan," he said. "They included the level of service for traffic circulation, level of service for drainage, and the protection of natural resources."

He projected, "The level of service problems will only require a slight change of wording in our plan."

The Flag Man's funeral Monday

SANFORD — Irving J. Leary, of Sanford, who received a commendation from President Bush for volunteer work that earned him the nickname the Flag Man, died Friday. He was 84.

Leary, also affectionately known as Earry, participated in patriotic programs at schools and elsewhere and conducted flag dedication ceremonies during which he would present a poem he wrote entitled "I Am Your Flag."

He received a Presidential Award from President George Bush in recognition of his poem and the lives he touched with it.

Leary was born Jan. 17, 1908, in Fall River, Mass. and moved to Sanford in 1958. He was a retired chef and a Catholic.

His survivors include his wife Mary, of Sanford. He was a member of the American Legion, Chapter 53, D.A.V., Chapter 30, and the V.F.W.

Philip- pines and paved the way for General Douglas McArthur's famous "return."

In the photo of the 1928 Sanford High School baseball team The Herald ran recently, in addition to Walter "Red" Barber being pictured as a member of that group, we wrote that Algernon Speer was also on the team but not in the photo. My caller wanted to know if that was the same Algernon Speer who is a Sanford attorney.

The answer is yes. Speer not only played baseball at Sanford High but also played football, too.

Another caller wanted to know if a fellow named Hugh Whelchel was once a Sanford High football coach.

The answer is yes. Hugh Whelchel did coach the Sanford grid team a year or two. Hugh was an all-southern lineman at the University of Georgia. For many years Hugh was a produce broker. And, I must tell you that he was one of the nicest men I ever met. And, I'm certain that all of you old timers who knew him would unanimously agree.

Another caller recalled that I recently wrote about Ed and Walter Routh, the brothers who once had a bakery in downtown Sanford and produced a product called "Sun Maid" bread. He said he knew one of them was married to Sybil Routh — a long time schoolteacher at Sanford Grammar School.

Sybil Routh, a sixth grade teacher, was married to Ed Routh. Ed's brother, Walter A. Routh, was married to the former Hazel Packard. Ed and Sybil have a son, Joe, and a daughter, Chloe. The Walter Rouths had a son, Walter, Jr., and a daughter, Hazel.

At the supermarket the other day I was asked if I remembered the name of a Sanford ballplayer who used what we called in those days a "bottle" bat. I told him I did. "Well, tell me," the fellow said, "I've been beating my head up against a wall trying to remember his name."

His name was Pete Schirard. Pete was a catcher I believe in high school and went on to play for one of the Sanford team in the Central Florida League during the Depression days of the 1930's. Pete was one of the few ballplayers I can recall who used the bottle bat. It was called a bottle bat because it was shaped like a bottle.

Someone recently asked me if I knew some of the girls who played on Seminole High School's first basketball team.

Remember this was the first year the local high school was called "Seminole." It was 1927.

Well, I didn't know right offhand but a check into some of the old yearbooks revealed the answer. I was somewhat surprised to learn that among the young ladies on that team were Gladys Stepper (later Mrs. Herman Morris), Margaret Wright, Martha Wallace, Mary Kinlaw, Russell Lee Wheeler and Dalay Betts (later Mrs. Vivian Speer). And, finally, there was Rebecca Stevens.

A few of us old timers got together the other day and began trying to remember some of the Sanford men who played in the old City Softball League that operated under the direction of E. H. Cullum. This was during the Depression days of the 1930s. We came up with such names as Johnny Hodge, Earl Evans, Denver Cordell, Cecil Rines, Johnny Matthews, Carlisle Swifton and his brother Lawrence (former mayor of Altamonte Springs), Roy Harrison, Bookie Bach, John Higgins and Floyd Palmer. If you know of others let me know.

We then turned to old baseball players and we came up with names that brought back such fond memories.

There was Eddie Rawson, Alan Hunter, Pop Wallace, Bill Strickland, Ben Cantwell, Roy Britt, Sid Rive and brothers Clyde and Bert Chapman.

Clyde was a left-handed hurler while Bert was a catcher. Bert made his way to the majors with the Boston Red Sox. Remember the year, 1927, when Babe Ruth hit his 60 home runs? Well, Bert was behind the plate when the Babe blasted his 59th circuit blow.

More old time players who performed at old Municipal Stadium where the Seminole County School Board is now headquartered included Bob Overstreet, Tige Minor, Shaw Buck, Lyle Buck, Ray Goolsby, Wally McCormick, Jack Peters, Alan Mobley, Olin Hutto, Red Martin, and Jim Mahaffey (who also went on to the majors).

And there were Johnny "Black Cat" Culbreath, Prof. Reed, Sporry Malby, "Old Fat" Atkinson, Carl Rodriguez, Cal Dennis, Bob Pittman, Al Rogero, Eddie Moore, Rabbit Bomber, Paul Bonner, Pete Schirard, and brothers Lee and Paul Mansfield.

Some of you old timers from major league cities might be interested to know that Stan Musial broke into professional baseball with the Daytona Beach Islanders and played in Sanford on numerous occasions.

We're sure there are others not mentioned here and if you can think of their names please give us a call.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Seniors due Medicare refund

Associated Press

Floridians on Social Security who were double-billed for Medicare premiums in February and March are due at least a $60 refund, officials say.

But it may be awhile before the check is in the mail.

The problem occurred after lawmakers voted in December to cut a state program covering Medicare premiums. The program also pays for health-care items such as prescriptions, eyeglasses and hearing aids.

About 10,000 to 15,000 Floridians were canceled out of the program, said Marilyn Schlott, a Medicaid program administrator for the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

The majority were supposed to be immediately enrolled in the Qualified Medicare Beneficiary program, which covers premiums, co-insurance and some Medicare deductibles, she said.

I'm sure there are going to be cases where it will be a few months before the problem is corrected.

-Marilyn Schlott, Medicaid program

But for at least 5,000 people the premium charge — about $30 a month — was deducted from their monthly Social Security check while Medicaid's program was simultaneously picking up the tab, Schlott said.

"I'm sure there are going to be cases where it will be a few months before the problem is corrected," she said.

The error occurred partly because HRS districts are converting to a new computer system and partly because of a delay in transferring information between agencies, Schlott said.

Tapes with information on who is eligible for various programs, generated by the Health Care Financing Administration in Baltimore, are sent monthly to state agencies for updating.

When lawmakers reduced the income limit for those eligible for coverage from $552 to $497 for an individual and from $740 to $666 for couples effective Feb. 1, HRS added that information on one month's tape before sending it to the Social Security Administration. But enrollment in the Medicaid program, which was supposed to occur simultaneously, was added on another month's tape, Schlott said.

The Social Security Administration, meanwhile, began deducting payments. If Social Security sees a state isn't paying Medicare premiums, it automatically deducts them from the checks so that an individual does not lose coverage, she said.

Atlantis blastoff Monday

By MARCIA DUNN
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — It's considered an environmentally correct quest — a space shuttle mission devoted almost entirely to studying the home planet.

Atlantis is scheduled to blast off at 8:01 a.m. EST Monday with a dozen instruments that are expected to provide the most comprehensive look at the atmosphere yet.

"This isn't just going off to study a planet or look at another star," said biomedical engineer Byron Lichtenberg, one of the flight's seven astronauts. "We're studying our star, our sun. We're studying our Earth, our atmosphere, and if you don't want to get bad sunburns, listen up!"

The countdown for NASA's 46th shuttle flight was on track Saturday, but weather was a concern.

Meteorologists said there was a 40 percent chance, at best, that conditions would be favorable Monday morning. A front moving toward Florida was expected to bring low, thick clouds and rain, possibly even thunderstorms.

"It looks like we're going to have a very tough day on Monday trying to get off the ground," said shuttle weather officer Ed Prisciak.

Locked in Atlantis' cargo bay are 12 scientific instruments to study the atmosphere and solar energy, including an electron beam gun that will fire streams of electrons into the atmosphere to create artificial auroras. The colorful splashes will be visible only in the southernmost latitudes.

There's also an ultraviolet telescope for observing galaxies.

The eight-day flight is the first of 10 atmospheric laboratory, or Atlas, missions planned by NASA over an 11-year solar cycle, the period from one peak solar activity to the next.

The instruments come from five countries, including Belgium, homeland of one astronaut on board, Dirk Fritout.

Bill and Billy Coody of Lake Mary were among several hundred people who turned out to hear the Symphony Safari on Saturday at the Central Florida Zoo in Sanford.

Concert surprises, pleases

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Several hundred people lounged on lounge chairs, on blankets and on beds of leaves and moss in the cozy county park just outside the Central Florida Zoo on Saturday afternoon. The Symphony Safari soothed music animal lovers from around the area.

The Florida Symphony Orchestra, in white jackets and formal black tie performed under the spacious pavilion in the picnic area. A lazy breeze sent leaves dancing noisily to the ground around them.

As the zoo residents went about their business just out of earshot, the orchestra played music dedicated to the creatures.

From Whitcomb's Circus Salute to Bizet's Torcador's Song from Carmen, the music ranged from the silly to the sublime.

Each concert performance, one at 1 p.m. and the other at 2:30 p.m., drew a comfortably-sized, and back crowd ranging from infants noozing in their strollers to elderly couples holding hands under the massive oaks.

"I think it's kinda neat," said Jason Masters, 11, of Orlando. "I thought it was going to be classical symphony stuff."

His mother, Joanna Smith-Masters, said she had to "drag the kid kicking and screaming" to the concert.

"Please don't tell him that he heard opera," she said. "He'd be mortified."

Andrea Farmer, marketing director for the zoo, scurried about the concert area counting heads and smiling broadly.

"I'm really happy with the turnout," she said. "The zoo is doing pretty well today too."

Florida's prison officials warn of gridlock soon

By JACKIE MALLIPAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The revolving door at Florida's prisons could get stuck in a few years as cells fill up with violent and career criminals serving sentences of mandatory length. That warning comes from corrections and law officials, who fear the continuing push to lock up prisoners, combined with stiffer sentences, eventually could cause gridlock.

One of the forces governing Florida's flow of prisoners is the federal government, which has said the state cannot imprison more than 133 percent of the design capacity of its prison system. To abide by that, the state pushes prisoners out the back door in order to let more in the front.

"We have to let one prisoner out to let one prisoner in," said Harry Singletary Jr., secretary of the state Department of Corrections. But as more and more sentences are exempted by law from early release, Singletary and others see gridlock just two or three years away.

Richard Stevens, an analyst with the Legislature's Division of Economic and Demographic Research, said he hoped the state would have the foresight to avoid gridlock, which could result in the federal government taking over management of the state prison system.

The system has 54,000 beds, and its inmates serve about 30 percent of their sentences.

SANFORD — Two candidates have filed papers with the Supervisor of Elections office declaring their candidacies for the District 4 school board seat currently held by Joe Williams.

Donald MacCuish of 1189 Lady Susan Dr. in Casselberry and Robert S. Kilcourse, Jr. of 830 Brookside Road in Maitland will be campaigning for the seat that Williams has occupied for 11 years.

MacCuish, 46, is a textbook consultant with Harcourt, Brace and Jovanovich in Orlando. Until recently, he was employed as a researcher in human factors and educational issues at the University of Central Florida.

He said on Friday that he is entering the race for the school board because he believes there is a need for change in the way that the district does business.

"We need to involve parents in a leadership role in the schools," he said.

He noted that the change from an elected to an appointed superintendent has significantly altered the role of the school board from an advisory group to the superintendent to a role of a "real policy-making body."

MacCuish, who filed papers on Thursday said that he has not yet developed a campaign strategy.

Kilcourse, 40, a dentist with an office in Orlando, said he has lived in Seminole County for 14 years and he's "fed up with the good ol' boy network that's spending my money."

Though he is single, Kilcourse said he has watched his girlfriend's daughter grow up in the school system. He said that he has attended "countless" school board meetings and watched as the school board "tried to force a $500 million bond on us."

His background is in medicine. Kilcourse said, but he grew up around education with a father who taught at the U.S. Naval Academy and a mother who was a high school teacher.

"I've sat back and watched long enough," he said. "I've got to do something now."

Williams has not yet announced his candidacy for the school board.

Two added to Lake Mary Historical Commission

LAKE MARY — Two persons were appointed to the Lake Mary Historical Commission Thursday night. The additions bring the membership to 21.

The City Commission recently approved the two additional appointments to the 19 member commission.

Commissioner George Duryea nominated Sheri Brodie for membership while Commissioner David Meador nominated DeLore Lash.

Both persons were approved by a unanimous vote of the Commission.

Brodie has been a resident of Lake Mary since 1972, and lives with her husband and two children at 118 W. Alma Avenue. She was selected following submission of a City form several months ago, stating her interest in being part of this particular Commission.

Lash, who resides at 213 S. Country Club Road, is also a long-time resident of Lake Mary, and has been active in real estate as well as social service work.

The Lake Mary Historical Commission meets on the first Monday of each month, and provides input to the City regarding matters that pertain to the historical district and structures in Lake Mary.

The City of Lake Mary has a great deal of historical homes and areas, having been among the earlier settlements. It was not officially incorporated however, until 1973.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED REDISTRICTING OF CITY OF SANFORD

This notice is being provided by counsel for Plaintiffs in Delattibeaudiere v. City of Sanford, CIV No. 83-739-CIV-ORL-17, a class action brought by black residents of Sanford to challenge at-large city-wide voting for members of the City of Sanford Commission on September 19, 1983. As part of this case, the United States District Court for the Middle District of Florida, Orlando Division, entered a Final Judgment on April 17, 1984 establishing four single member districts in the City of Sanford. The existing four districts were designed to comply with the requirements of the Voting Rights Act. See "Existing Districts".

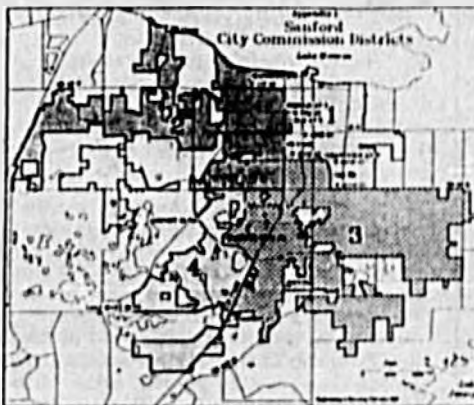

It is now proposed that district boundaries be altered based on growth in the city as documented in the 1990 Census. In order to insure equal population among the districts, the district boundaries have been revised in consultation with the City of Sanford. See "Proposed Districts".

It is the opinion of Plaintiffs' counsel that these proposed districts comply with the Voting Rights Act. A chart comparing Demographic Data Reflecting Population and Voter Registration in the City of Sanford based on 1980 and 1990 Census Data is provided.

A detailed description of district boundaries, revised election and schedule for new elections is available for public review at 315 Magnolia Avenue, Sanford, Florida, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m.

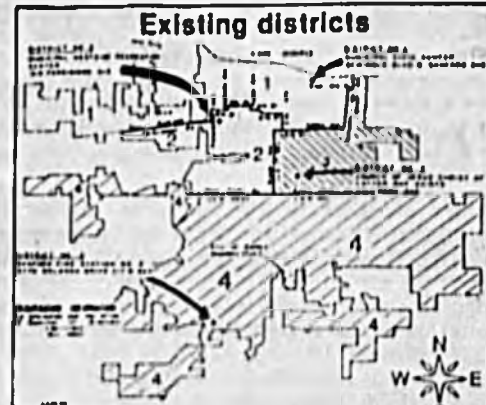

Comments, suggestions, objections and/or requests for more information or documents can be obtained by writing Tobe Lev, Esquire at 315 Magnolia Avenue, Sanford, Florida 32771, by March 27, 1992. Do not telephone Mr. Lev.

It is not necessary for you to do anything at all if you have no comments, questions or objections.

What deficit?

Despite professions of concern about the mounting federal deficit, some lawmakers continue to demonstrate a disarming lack of fiscal restraint.

A case in point: The House Select Committee on Children, Youth and Families recently voted to increase its own operating budget for next year by a whopping 41 percent over the current level. That constitutes an increase that is 10 times the rate of inflation.

There might be some justification for the committee's action if the increase would work to the benefit of children, youth and families. But in fact the sole beneficiaries of the bigger budget are the select committee members and their staffs.

The panel's Democratic majority, led by chairwoman Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., unanimously approved a 60 percent increase for majority staff salaries, a 100 percent increase in the travel budget for committee members and staff, and a 167 percent increase in funds to cover travel expenses for witnesses who attend hearings at the Capitol.

This did not go over well with the committee's Republican minority, which unanimously opposed the huge increases. The GOP members proposed instead that the committee's funding not exceed the current level, after adjusting for inflation.

"I don't know of a single company or family that will have a budget increase of 41 percent," said Rep. Frank Wolf, R-Va., the ranking minority member. "How can Congress justify such an outrageous spending increase during these tough economic times, when people are out of work, businesses and families are forced to cut back and every facet of society is feeling the pinch?"

Wolf is right on the mark. With next year's deficit projected to soar to a record $399 billion, it is disturbing that any congressional committee should seek such a substantial boost in its operating budget. As a gesture of fiscal restraint, the House Committee on Administration, which has the final vote on every proposed committee budget, should overrule the extravagant spending plans of the Select Committee on Children, Youth and Families.

What free trade means

To believe opponents, like the AFL-CIO, the proposed North American Free Trade Agreement will send American jobs and industry fleeing south of the border.

To believe proponents, like the Bush administration, NAFTA will give the U.S. economy a much-needed boost, opening Mexico's market of 84 million people to U.S. investment, exports and know-how.

The value of a new study by the Institute for International Economics, a non-profit research institution, is in its impartiality. It lacks both the Bush administration's political investment in NAFTA, and the AFL-CIO's protectionist hostility to it.

The institute's conclusions are that, by 1996, NAFTA will create 800,000 new jobs in Mexico and 130,000 new jobs in the United States, and lead to an improvement of about $10 billion annually in the U.S. trade balance.

Yes, there will be an adjustment period, argue the authors, economists Gary Hufbauer and Jeffrey Schott, during which 112,000 U.S. workers could be dislocated because of increased imports. In California, Mexican fruit and vegetables are expected to make "major inroads."

By 1996, however, they forecast a gain of 242,000 U.S. jobs related to exports to Mexico, for a net gain of 130,000 jobs.

For California and San Diego, the good news lies not just in job creation and the increase in exports to Mexico. It also is found in those estimated 600,000 new jobs created in Mexico.

The solution to the problem of illegal immigration lies in Mexico's economic growth. Those 600,000 new jobs to be created by 1996 are a start toward turning Mexico into what economists believe will be America's largest trading partner early in the next century, moving ahead of both Japan and Canada. A growing economy and a rising standard of living will keep Mexicans at home.

Properly crafted, says the institute, NAFTA will become a landmark agreement, demonstrating that "a middle-income nation (Mexico) can join economically with two high-income nations (the United States and Canada) to the mutual benefit of all three countries in terms of jobs and competitiveness."

Minimum mandatory terms needed

Steven D. Harriett, Chief of Police of Seminole County and Norman Wolfinger, State Attorney, 18th Judicial Circuit have a critical concern about legislation pending in the state legislature that might be voted into law.

The legislation in question is Committee Substitute Bill 1088 (CSSB 1088). This legislation if enacted would remove minimum mandatory sentences. Minimum mandatory sentences of three years are given people found guilty of drug trafficking, aggravated assault and battery upon persons 65 years of age or older, and for persons engaged in criminal activity using a weapon.

The Seminole County grand jury in May 1990 issued a report about the cost of a criminal in residence in the community as opposed to being incarcerated. The cost was $1,180 while in the community and $34.00 per day in prison.

Wolfinger has been actively campaigning against the pending legislation, because career criminals would be walking in and out of prison continually. Arrest rates would escalate. Last year admissions to state prisons declined because of the 1988 Career Criminal Act which specified minimum mandatory sentences.

The criminal justice system is comprised of: law enforcement agencies, prosecutors, the judiciary and the Corrections Department. The Corrections Department believes that too many career criminals are being placed in prison and occupying too much bed space. Eliminating the minimum mandatory act would return the career criminals to the community speedily. During the past two years not a single bed has been added to the prison system. There actually are 3,100 beds in state prison which are not filled so space is not the problem, rather, the Corrections Department does not want to spend the money.

SEMINOLE OPINION

Wolfinger wonders why the statewide criminal justice estimating conference has not been convened to assess the status of prison population prior to proposing this radical change.

Wolfinger addressed a letter to the legislature March 3, 1992 drawing an analogy between the impact of CSSB 1088 and remedying educational problems by "eliminating grades nine through twelve."

State legislators associated with this bill are Representatives Elvin L. Martinez and Willie Logan Jr. Senator "Rick" Dantzler of Polk County is the chairman of the committee considering the bill. Wolfinger has been in repeated contact with Senator Dantzler and other lawmakers.

Chief Steven Harriett supports Wolfinger's advocacy against the bill one hundred percent. He is amazed that legislators would be actively involved in promoting this bill that would shorten the sentences of habitual criminals. Many criminals have little respect for the law and find ways of circumventing it. Drug dealers have adopted the practice of not transporting 28 grams of cocaine, since this currently produces a mandatory three year sentence.

Florida Statute 784.08 decrees that a conviction of aggravated assault or battery on a person 65 years of age or older carries a mandatory sentence of three calendar years, a fine of not more than $10,000, an obligation to make restitution to the victim and to perform 500 hours of community service.

Harriett concluded that crime and its attendant symptoms appear to be more blatant in depressed economic areas. However, a recent release from the Sheriff's Office alerted residents of Heathrow of the need to secure their homes against burglary.

The real culprit creating crime is the breakdown in the family as an institution. The family has traditionally taught children to respect themselves, their elders, teachers, ministers and law. The breakdown in stable family situations has created a breakdown in society and proper values are not being transmitted to many youth.

Truth is regional flavor gone

BOSTON — One of the side effects of the primary season is that for a few precious weeks every four years, the United States is divided into its 50 parts. We experience a resurgence of states' rights — the rights of states to be themselves and different from each other.

The South rises again. The Rust Belt re-emerges. Texans in ten-gallon hats tell the teevee folk just how big they think. And candidates talk of home turf and neutral ground.

In just this past week, an Illinois party chair told a reporter, "This isn't Colorado where people are looking at mountains and streams every day." A Florida campaign manager explained that outsiders don't "understand" her state. And assorted people were quoted describing their state as "unique," "different," and "special."

This attack of state-ism or regionalism will eventually subside. But not before it raises all sorts of flags. Is geography destiny? Does where we live still determine how we live and even think? Or is it only the local color of our national and personal identities?

As a native New Englander, I like a certain accent in my life. While I don't park my car in Havahad yahd — towing fees in Cambridge are astronomical — the everyday concerns of how I dress (warmly) and where I spend my days (indoors) are affected by my location on the national weather chart. My attitude may be equally affected by the economic map: gloomy.

But increasingly, regional identity is like regional cooking. It exists but it's harder to find. It's less likely to be cooked as daily fare for the natives than as special treats for the tourists. They serve grits in the South and coffee before dinner in the Midwest but today it's easier to get a McNugget in Boston than a pot of baked beans.

In the last 50 years, America has become both homogenized and subdivided. Walk into any mall and you see the same brand names. Where there's a Gap, there's a uniform America. We have become a mass market, an 800 number, a network television show.

In a crisis, we get the same news at the same time from the same network anchors. We are expected to respond to the same anthems, star-spangled banners and yellow ribbons.

But we are increasingly stratified and clustered in small "communities" that have no geographic roots at all. The medical "community" has no borders, nor does the arts "community" nor the educational "community."

Americans, who move 12 times in an average life, may identify more with their professional peers than their next-door neighbors. Those who catch a computer virus may have more in common than people who catch the flu from each other.

At the other end of the spectrum, America has become a loose collection of individuals. The media not only broadcasts, it also narrowcasts to us. The national audience these days is divided into 100 different cable channels according to a hundred different special interests from opera to animals.

Advertisers talk more about markets than about cities with names. They pick and choose the right zip codes from coast to coast to create a consumer neighborhood out of strangers.

This restructuring of America from 50 states to hundreds of markets and more "communities of choice" is a by-product of the data collectors. On polls and in graphs we are increasingly divided by race, gender, ethnicity, education, income, religion. A fourth-generation American may carry more hyphens in his name than his immigrant ancestor.

This polarizing process creates a generic American at one end and millions of individuals at the other. But in this shifting terrain the states and the regions have lost much of their meaning in our lives. Our sense of place has no place to go.

So for a few more weeks, we'll be hearing the politics of state, and the primacy of region. But there is less here than meets the map.

Today politics are no more or less rooted than George Bush's hometown. The down-home flavor of a presidential election in the 1990s is about as real as Kentucky Fried Chicken.

Irate bouncers check on GAO

WASHINGTON — Members of Congress who paid no penalty at the House bank for their bounced checks may pay a higher price in November when they are bounced out of office by the "rubbergate" scandal. High-level officials at the General Accounting Office, which exposed the scandal, are bracing themselves for the rebound. Some fully expect a shoot-the-messenger response from Congress.

Before the lawmakers rushed to their press conferences to confess that they were check bouncers, the GAO was inundated with requests for information about the names and numbers on the list of check kites. Lawmakers sent their staffers through back channels to beg the GAO for early copies of the political death list. Those back channels were already clogged by reporters, and by challengers trying to get the goods on congressional incumbents.

GAO officials began complaining to their bosses about how "naughty and arrogant" some of the congressional staffers became in their desperation.

Until the list was officially turned over to Congress 10 days ago, only a half-dozen top GAO officials had access to it — a burden that one official said was "driving us crazy." The names were in the agency's vault along with the most sensitive classified information currently under review by the GAO.

It was worse than guarding the crown jewels, a GAO source told us, because at least the crown jewels are worth keeping. The check-bouncers' list was not a secret the GAO relished knowing. For a watchdog agency to possess such embarrassing information about the people who hold its purse strings is too dangerous.

"They are going to go after us and cut our budget," one GAO source predicted. "They may even require a sizable reduction of staff. They're going to shoot the messenger on this one."

The messenger has been in this uncomfortable position before. In recent years, the GAO has tackled sensitive investigations that have made its bosses look bad. All things considered, a lawmaker who asks the GAO to look into something would rather have the investigation end with blame being placed on the administration, or at the very least with the other political party.

The GAO can't comply, although it has been known to give a heads-up to a member of Congress who asks for an investigation when the audit isn't going the way the lawmaker expected.

Adding to the angst at the GAO this time around is the fact that some people on the rubber-check list serve on the committees that determine the GAO's budget. The agency was in hot water with its overlords in the Senate even before the rubbergate scandal broke in the House.

Over in the Senate, the GAO has been tiptoeing around Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev. He is chairman of the appropriations subcommittee that manages the GAO's budget, and he is on the warpath. Last year the GAO reviewed the fees that ranchers pay to graze livestock on federal land and concluded that those fees don't come anywhere near covering the government's cost of managing the land.

Although the GAO was careful not to recommend raising the fees, other senators began agitating for a huge increase. The bill didn't go over well with cattle grazers in Reid's home state, and he has been fighting the fee increases ever since.

Lawmakers sent their staffers through back channels to beg the GAO.

Not much work was expected in changing the protection of natural resources section either. Reggentin said. "When that plan was written, there was no input from the city's Wetlands Ordinance, but we'll be adding that now, and should not have any problem."

The firm of Hennigar and Ray had been hired by the City of Lake Mary, at a cost of $84,000, to take care of the preparation of the Comprehensive Plan and the Land Development Regulations.

"We sent them a letter concerning the changes on Friday," said City Planner Matt West.

"They said all of the changes should be done within a week, and have it back to us very shortly for Commission approval before we send it to the DCA again."

Reggentin said he had been in contact with the DCA. "I explained the changes we will be making," he said, "and they indicated they would accept it."

Plans for making the changes to the Comprehensive Plan were presented during the Lake Mary City Commission meeting last Thursday. "We would have two alternatives," Reggentin said, "either respond to their request for changes and file a compliance agreement, or challenge what they say and go to court."

The City Commission voted unanimously to the changes made, and expects to be able to approve them at one of the April Commission meetings.

State Attorney Office's wins praise for victim-witness unit

By J. MARK SARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — State Attorney Norm Wolfinger's Victim and Witness Services Division begun six years ago has received national recognition.

The Public Employees Roundtable, an organization of associations representing more than 950,000 active and retired public employees, has named the program a winner of the 1992 State Public Service Excellence Award. The victim and witness program was selected from state and regional government programs throughout the United States.

"This is quite an achievement," said Wolfinger. "It's gratifying to see our little office get this kind of attention. I can't say enough about the people in the program."

"We were all pretty much in shock when we heard about it," said Linda Kuhn, coordinator of the Sanford program office. "It's an extreme honor for all of us. Ours is a real team effort."

Among the 27 staff and 26 currently-active volunteers in the Seminole and Brevard County offices, a staff of eight is in the Seminole County office in Sanford. The program's director, Beth Rossman-Otto, is located in the Titusville office.

In Sanford, Kuhn is coordinator, Barbara Beck, Marge McConnon and Lori Kennedy staff the witness center, Beth Bridges is the Sexual Assault Victim Services advocate, Sharlee Johnson and Joan Shannon are victim advocates and Ann Latham is secretary. Kuhn said there are currently no volunteers working at the Sanford office.

The PER excellence awards are a tribute to the employees that provide service to the public, according to information from the PER. The criteria used for the federal, state, county and city awards are those programs that result in improvements to productivity or service, accomplishments that improve the quality of life of the public and programs that have increased cost-effectiveness.

The four top governmental award recipients were selected from more than 300 nominations received from throughout the country.

Wolfinger said criminal prosecution should be a two-pronged effort.

"One is the prosecution of criminals," said Wolfinger. "The other, which unfortunately is often overlooked, is the vigilant effort for the victim and trying to get their lives back together. When you have a victim that feels that knows they are being supported, they make a better witness at the trial and you have a higher prosecution rate."

Kuhn said every case filed with the State Attorney's Office is reviewed by victim and witness staff. Every crime victim is offered a range of services from support groups to counseling recommendations. Victims are notified of trials and are assisted in seeking restitution and other relief.

"Our ultimate goal is for the victim to step away and feel like the system served them," Kuhn said.

United Way administrators outline financial changes

By MELANIE THRLEKELD
Associated Press Writer

INDIANAPOLIS — Regional United Way officials expressed confidence in the charity organization Saturday after meeting with its national leaders to discuss a probe triggered by reports of questionable financial practices.

Bill Akers, United Way of America chairman, and Kenneth Dam, the group's interim president, met privately with representatives of some of United Way's largest chapters at the group's annual Volunteer Leaders Conference.

Many local chapters decided to withhold dues until the national organization completed an investigation of its internal financial operations that was triggered by former United Way President William Aramony's resignation earlier this month.

Aramony quit after it was reported that he received a compensation package of $463,000, including benefits and an annual salary of nearly $400,000.

Questions were also raised about various spinoff businesses created by United Way, including one run by Aramony's son.

"They're doing the right kind of things, and they're trying to expedite the process," United Way volunteer Art Maurer of Rochester, New York, said after Saturday's meeting.

Akers and Dam told the regional representatives they have demanded an accounting of United Way's involvement with all spinoff corporations, said Dan MacDonald, president of United Way of Central Indiana.

They also said they are investigating the connections of United Way members to other groups and companies and are also looking into United Way employees' travel expenses, MacDonald said.

The organization is also asking its local chapters what its national priorities should be, said Aramony's attorney, Robert A. W. W. He was a vice president of corporate communications.

Not all of the 1,200 people who attended the conference were satisfied.

Some complained that the national Board of Governors was out of touch with the local organizations and should have shared some of the blame for Aramony's salary.

"Mr. Aramony is catching the brunt of it, but I don't think it's completely fair to him either, said Mac Mascoll, United Way volunteer in Fort Pierce, Fla. "He didn't set his salary. The United Way board had to approve a lot of these things he was doing."

Murder-suicide seen in 6 deaths

By ED SCHAFER
Associated Press Writer

SULLIVAN, Mo. — A county commissioner believed to be struggling with depression apparently shot and killed his wife, two children and two grandchildren, then committed suicide, authorities said Saturday.

Neil Schatz, 55, and his relatives, including an infant grandson, died from the blasts of a 12-gauge shotgun after a family gathering at his rural farmhouse Friday. His mother and another family member found the bodies Saturday morning.

"He was a highly respected man; I guess something just snapped," said Franklin County Sheriff Gary Toelke. "Right now, we're treating it as a murder-suicide."

Schatz was found shot in the head in the basement of the home outside Sullivan, a town of 5,500 about 60 miles southwest of St. Louis. The other five bodies were found in bedrooms, Toelke said.

"Everybody is shocked," said Mark Vincent, county counselor. "Shock, dismay, unbelief... what more can you say?"

Schatz's mother, who lives next door, went to the home about 7:30 a.m. Saturday, but left when no one came to the door, Toelke said. She returned about an hour later with another family member and found the bodies.

Relatives told Toelke that Schatz had seemed depressed recently. Capt. Don Jones of the Franklin County sheriff's department also said he was taking medication for a heart ailment.

"I don't know the seriousness or nature of that because we have not been able to contact his doctor," Jones said.

The owner of Schatz Construction Co. had lost a close election last fall as the Republican candidate for a seat in the Missouri House. Some neighbors speculated that he may have been depressed over the loss.

Bill Clinton

Bush and Clinton: generations, styles and worlds apart

By JILL LAWRENCE
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON — It would be hard to find two men more different from each other than the presidential candidates moving toward a head-on collision in November.

The contest between President Bush and Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton would be the first pitting a Baby Boomer against a stalwart of an earlier, more established political generation.

Bush is 67, a World War II veteran and a grandfather 12 times over. Clinton, at 45, has a young daughter, a lawyer wife and an anti-war past he shares with many who came of age in the Vietnam era.

The generation gap is far from the only gap.

Though they both ended up at Yale, Bush got there from a wealthy background and Clinton from near-poverty. And Bush has a resume full of foreign policy experience, compared to Clinton's 11 years spent dealing with the problems of a poor Southern state.

From a style standpoint, the two are also opposites. The president is lampooned for being inarticulate, the governor for having an instant 10-point answer to every question he's asked.

In some ways, the stage is set for a typical liberal-conservative shootout. Bush is anti-abortion rights and anti-gun control, and on Friday as much as vetoed before it even got to him a Democratic bill under which the middle class would get a modest tax cut while the wealthy would pay more.

Clinton, a champion of what he calls "the forgotten middle class," supports a tax cut for that group and choice on abortion. He favors defense cuts about twice what Bush is planning and health care reforms more sweeping than the president's modest plan to help families pay for insurance.

But the Arkansas governor also holds some positions near the middle of the road. He's for capital punishment and welfare programs and supported the Persian Gulf War. He also recommends business tax incentives and a capital gains tax cut, although a narrower one than Bush has proposed.

Before Election Day, Bush will no doubt cite the national surveys that show Arkansas lagging in teacher pay, worker safety and environmental protection, and Clinton will counter with federal statistics that undermine Bush's record.

For now, though, both are working hard to seem like outsiders agitating for change, the better to cope with an angry mood among primary voters that has ended the careers of several congressional incumbents already this year.

"This may well be a time when the public decides that anything is better than the status quo. So you don't want to emphasize stability, certainty, continuation," said newsletter publisher Stuart Rothenberg.

Bush depicted himself Friday as a zealous reformer stymied by a Democratic Congress — in keeping with a White House decision to ignore Clinton, who still faces primary opposition from former California Gov. Jerry Brown.

"If the Democratic leadership that runs the status quo Congress will not help us change America, we have to change it without them," Bush told a group of Republicans. "Change is nothing to fear."

Clinton is talking about the 1980s vs. the 1990s, new leadership and new covenants. He suggests he's a threat to the status quo and that's why his character has been under siege.

"Because I have been a change agent ... the people who have run against me attack me personally," he said last Sunday. "And guess what — I win. Because I stand up for ordinary people and real change."

Clinton and Bush are attracting about even percentages in head-to-head opinion polls. That means Clinton is viewed as an acceptable risk — a perception analysts say Bush will have to try to change.

The ammunition is readily available in primary-season allegations that Clinton manipulated a deferment to avoid Vietnam service and engaged in a 12-year extramarital affair. He has denied both charges.

Analysts of both parties say Bush will use an oblique approach: He'll stress his family and conservative values, some of Clinton's more liberal positions and the Arkansas governor's youth and limited experience.

"They're very well-known, they're out there," GOP pollster Bill McInturff said of the concerns simmering below Clinton's impressive vote totals. "Bush can whack him in a socially acceptable manner. He doesn't have to do it directly."

Clinton is not expected to sit still if Bush tries to define him as an ultraliberal with serious character flaws. "He's proven he knows how to fight back," said Mark Mellman, a Democratic pollster.

Tax bill died amidst politicking

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Congress is back to square one on tax relief and has no appetite for quickly restarting a process that culminated in President Bush's veto and a spasm of bitter partisan name-calling.

Now, with both sides assessing how they can score their next points, the economic and political ground beneath them may be shifting.

Only moments after Congress approved the Democratic $77.5 billion tax bill Friday, Bush used the White House to deliver a campaign speech in which he said, "The Democrats in Congress cannot resist their natural impulse to raise taxes."

He immediately signed a message saying he would veto the bill, which would have slashed taxes for 78 million middle-income couples and individuals and raised them for the 1 million richest Americans.

Minutes later, Congress' top Democrats fired back, holding a news conference. "The reason he's going down in the polls is the American people know he's playing politics. ... He's candidate Bush, not President Bush," said Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell.

When the rhetoric faded, the two sides stared at the same question they have faced for months: How to handle a feeble election-year economy.

But two new elements have been added in recent days.

For one, the economy has begun showing signs of recovery, making the rationale for a quick-jolt stimulus package questionable.

This is tempered, for now, by the fact that unemployment remains high — 7.3 percent last month, its highest level since 1985.

"Our scorecard is how many people are out of work and still hurting," one House Democratic strategist said Friday.

Nonetheless, if the economy eases out of its doldrums over the next few months, some wind could be taken out of the issue.

The second change is Patrick Buchanan's fading challenge to Bush for the Republican presidential nomination.

With Bush no longer seriously worried about protecting his conservative flank, Democrats will watch closely for signs that he might trade some tax increases for tax cuts, such as a reduction in the capital gains tax he wants so badly.

For now, Bush is showing no such signs. "I ask the Democratic leadership to put aside once and for all the idea of a tax increase," he said Friday. "Stop holding the American economy hostage in a partisan game."

Because of that persistence, Democratic plans for a new tax bill are on hold.

Lining up support for a bill that raises taxes — even on the rich — is always tough because no one facing re-election likes to be branded a fan of tax increases. But with lawmakers distracted and worried by the House bank affair, getting that support would be so hard that leaders are reluctant to seek it if a veto looms.

In this atmosphere, Democrats would prefer to bargain with the president, but they say nothing seems imminent.

Sheriff's Investigators study two cab holdups

By J. MARK BANFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Seminole County sheriff's investigators don't think there's a connection between two Yellow Cab driver holdups and cab thefts near Longwood Wednesday.

Despite some similarities between the two crimes, sheriff's spokesman George Proemel said investigators don't believe the same person committed both holdups.

The first holdup was reported at 7 a.m. by Yellow Cab cabbie Eugene Lindsey of Orlando, according to reports. Lindsey reported he picked up a man standing in front of a Marker Street address near Altamonte Springs and drove the man to a Howard Street address near Longwood.

Once there, Lindsey reported the man, who was riding in the back seat, grabbed him around the neck and held a sharp object to his throat. Lindsey reported the man demanded his money, then forced him from the cab and drove off.

The second robbery and theft was reported at about 11:30 p.m. by James Few, a Yellow Cab driver from Winter Park. Few told deputies he picked up a fare on Brentwood Lane near Altamonte Springs. Few said the man, who sat in the back seat, didn't give him an address, but instead gave him directions to Dog Track Road, then west of Grant Street, a dirt road, where they stopped.

After stopping, Few reported the man grabbed him around the neck and held something he believed was a gun to his head, although Few said he never saw the object. The man demanded his wallet and fares, then forced him from the cab before driving off.

No arrests have been made and the cabs have not been recovered.

Warehouse project nearly ready

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Stoller Properties Inc. president Bill Stoller says slow economic times have not deterred interest in his new warehouse project at Northstar Business Park.

Stoller said the 29,000-square-foot facility will be ready for occupancy April 1. About 40 percent of the multi-bay facility is leased, he said.

"We've had to turn people away from Northstar park," which is along West on S.R. 46, Stoller said. "We need more space for that type of product. We feel very comfortable with our decision to build. I wouldn't build 129,000 square feet."

Stoller said the facility, located on Central Park Drive, can provide warehouse and office space for up to 10 tenants. It is located across from a similar five-space building which Stoller said has been fully occupied since 1989.

Stoller would not disclose the lease rates, but said the facility is attractive to N.Y.S.E. businesses and smaller, "upscale" clients. "Some are downsizing their requirements and others are growing, but this is not for companies on the edge looking for the cheapest thing they can find," Stoller said.

Stoller said each space offers an entrance and deckhigh loading dock. Each space is also protected by sprinkler systems. The site is fully landscaped.

Stoller said the facility cost about $1 million to develop and construct. Financing was arranged through Sun Bank.

Cabinet makers open new shop in Sanford

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — As economic indicators increase, so do the expectations of Jeff Clack and his partners in a new cabinet shop west of Sanford that they've matched their venture with an economic recovery.

"We're hoping the times are right," said Clack, of J & J Millwork. "We're hoping the economy has turned around and there will be more businesses opening up that will need our product."

Clack is a partner and general manager of J & J, located at 610 Hickman Circle in the I-4 North Industrial Park at Interstate 4 and State Road 46. The company makes custom cabinets for offices. The company employs six Seminole County experienced cabinet makers. Clack said J & J began operations this month with a contract for a dentist's office.

The 5,400-square-foot location was found with assistance from the Economic Development Commission of Mid-Florida. Clack said the location close to an I-4 interchange was ideal and the lease rate was reasonable.

Clack said his partners are Ted Kiger and Gerald DiBarotolo, who have a background in construction.

Clack said he has 20 years experience in cabinet construction, including several years as shop foreman and general manager of several other cabinet shops.

"I was making all this money for somebody else all those years," said Clack. "I decided to go out on my own and make it for myself."

Fewer jobs available to unemployed in area

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The number of persons applying for employment at the Sanford office of Job Services of Florida, has been steadily increasing. Placements however, have been going down.

The Sanford office of Job Services is located at 2460 S. Park Avenue.

The number of persons seeking help in finding jobs has almost doubled in the past two years in Sanford.

According to statistics released for just the Sanford area alone by Job Services, there were 6,002 individuals registering for jobs in the time period ending in Jan. 1990. The number for the following year was 6,487, and in the year ending Jan. 1992, there were 11,119 persons registered.

Sylvester Chang, who serves on the Employment Advisory Committee of Job Services of Florida said, "People keep saying the recession is ending and that jobs are increasing, but that is certainly not the case judging from these figures."

Of the over 8,000 persons who registered in the 1990-91 time period, 13.16 percent were actually placed in jobs. For the 1991-92 period, the percentage of job placements dropped to 8.53 percent.

The number of openings received from employers in the Sanford area increased from 1990 to 1991 from 1,737 to 1,817, but the number of openings that were filled dropped by 32.1 percent last year.

"The reason individuals placed and openings filled are broken down into separate categories," Chang explained. "is because many times, we find a job is available. Job Services tries to fill it, only to have the person rejected for one reason or another."

"One area where we have seen an increase recently," he said, "is in veterans." The Sanford area showed an increase of veterans registering for jobs through Job Services from 934 two years ago, to 1,714 last year. Of the 1,714 vets, only 8.08 percent, or 154, were able to be helped.

Homebuilding new materials draw interest

Associated Press

ORLANDO — The walls of a three-bedroom prototype house were built from raw earth dug from a nearby clay and sand pit and compacted into rock-hard blocks about the size of cereal boxes.

The model $55,000 home, built near Crystal River, is drawing interest from developers of low-cost housing because of its earth blocks. The dense, 26-pound blocks are made by portable diesel-powered machines patented by Terra Block Worldwide, an Orlando company founded by Bob Gross. The prototype home is the first of thousands the company hopes to build nationally through franchises with developers.

Terra Block plans a public stock offering to raise money for expansion.

"We've had an unbelievable positive response" to the model 1,105-square-foot home, said Gross.

The blocks can be dry-stacked without mortar or bonding agents, forming stable, foot-thick walls that help insulate the home against temperature swings, Gross said.

Rams keep busy with big activities

LAKE MARY — Students at Lake Mary High School have had a week full of activities, including Prom Promise and the annual Talent Show, but this week, they will face the third quarter's exams before they can enjoy a four-day weekend.

This week marked the kick-off for the school's Prom Promise program, sponsored by Nationwide Insurance and coordinated by the administration and a student Prom Promise committee.

On Monday, students began signing the agreements at lunch in which they promised to stay drug and alcohol free on Prom Night, which will be May 16.

In return for signing the agreement, students receive a pen and a keychain and a card which they can use for discounts at many area businesses. They also get to sign a wall-size poster proclaiming, "WE MADE THE PROMISE." On Tuesday, students had the chance to see teachers' prom pictures and guess which teacher was in the picture.

On Wednesday, Band-Aid Day, students wore band-aids around their right index fingers to show both their support for the program and to symbolize how many people are hurt by drugs and alcohol.

During lunch on Thursday, drama students performed skits about bad Prom nights as a result of drugs and alcohol and the Channel 6 TV News team came to school to interview students and tape the activities. This week, the activities will continue, including a wrecked car display and an essay contest.

Noles work hard as quarter ends

The Seminole High School media center was especially busy this week with many students working on research papers or term papers.

Every computer and typewriter was being used continuously. This assignment, mainly given by English teachers, is a major, major part of this nine weeks' grade.

Nine weeks tests are coming up this week on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Yes, on top of all that work, now there's exams to study for. Many students have been taking advantage of the extra help available in tutoring sessions after school.

We have many great athletes amongst us at Seminole. This year our baseball team is doing an outstanding job at keeping their winning streaks alive.

This undefeated team works very hard at each practice and every game. Their secret — team work!

Also, our track teams have been setting many personal and state records. Both the girls and boys track teams practice everyday after school.

The workouts are very hard and exhausting, but pay off in the end as they bring on one win after the other. Keep up the good work! You're right on track!

Tickets are now being sold for Spring Fest '92. This is Seminole's annual event used as a fundraiser for all clubs and all teams.

The day begins at 9 a.m. with various booths set up around the courtyard filled with flea market items, arts and crafts, and baked goods.

Fred Tombros, left, assistant principal at Lake Mary High School, invited the Grim Reaper to the school to graphically illustrate the fact that one person is killed in an alcohol-related accident every 24 minutes.

Fred and Ted's Prom Adventure

By VICKI DeBORNIER Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Fred and Ted Tombros don't get much of an opportunity to work together.

Fred is an assistant principal at Lake Mary High School and his brother Ted sells insurance for Nationwide at his agency in Altamonte Springs.

Prom Promise, a program to keep youngsters alcohol and drug free on prom night has brought the two together to help save the lives of teenagers on what will be a very special night if it is not marred by a drug or alcohol related tragedy.

"This is a very important project," Fred said. "We are committed to making sure our students learn the importance of not using drugs and alcohol on prom night."

While the Lake Mary High School leadership class, which is comprised mostly of members of the student government, is doing much of the organization, it is the work of the Tombros brothers that is making much of this possible.

"We just both think this is a good message to get out to the kids," Fred said.

Lake Mary High School is the only Seminole County school taking part in the Prom Promise campaign this year. Seminole High School believes that their Project Graduation and continuing anti-drug education programs would suffice.

"We just thought that what ever little bit we could do to get the point across about not using drugs or alcohol," said Fred of Lake Mary's decision to take part in the program.

The school offered a variety of activities for the students to get them to sign up for the Prom Promise program and to pledge to be drug- and alcohol-free on prom night.

There were plays, skits and, on Friday, the Grim Reaper visited the school to graphically illustrate that someone dies every 24 minutes in an alcohol-related accident.

"The students got a lot of their ideas from a book put out by Nationwide," said Fred.

The school is eligible for cash prizes from Nationwide based on their promotional activities in this event, but he said that's not the point.

"This is an educational experience," he said.

Health warning: beware of duckies

Associated Press

ATLANTA — Those fuzzy chicks and ducklings popular in Easter baskets can spread deadly salmonella to children, federal health officials said.

Researchers at the federal Centers for Disease Control have long suspected live poultry could pass salmonella to people, but its study published Thursday was the first to prove it, said Dr. Eric Mintz, a CDC expert in preventive medicine.

Ducklings and chicks should not be kept as household pets for infants and young children, the CDC said.

The risk can be reduced if the pets are kept outside and people wash carefully after handling them, Mintz said.

"But you can't stop kids from putting their hands in their mouths, and getting them to wash their hands each time is quite a task," he said.

The danger is in the feces of the poultry. Chicks and ducklings often lose control of their bowels when picked up.

Ducklings and chicks are the latest pets the CDC has linked to salmonella's spread. The list also includes turtles and iguanas.

Salmonella, a potentially fatal type of food poisoning characterized by diarrhea and vomiting, is most often transmitted by eating poorly cooked eggs or poultry.

SANFORD — Hundreds of people from Seminole County corporations and communities will be taking strides against birth defects in the March of Dimes WalkAmerica 1992 on April 25.

Walkers will meet at 7:30 a.m. at Seminole Community College, outside the Health Building, to stroll the scenic new 10 mile route that winds through Lake Mary and parts of Seminole County.

Walkers are asked to pick up a sponsor sheet, available through Fay Manning, chairman of the Seminole County chapter, at the Environmental Services Building, 3000 A Southgate Dr., Sanford, to raise donations for the fight against birth defects. At the time of registration, the sponsor sheets will be collected. If a walker decides not to go for sponsors, a minimum donation of $10 will be asked.

Many participants will be walking with their companies, over 45 Seminole County corporate teams, of five or more walkers, have already signed up for a total of more than 1,000 walkers. ## Study shows women with heart disease improperly diagnosed

By PAUL RAEBURN
AP Science Editor

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Women have a higher death rate from heart attacks than men, and a new study blames misdiagnosis.

The study, by Jasenka Demirovic of the University of Miami, found that 27 percent of men hospitalized with a heart attack undergo a standard diagnostic test called angiography, but only 15 percent of women get it.

The test involves injecting dye into the coronary arteries — which supply blood to the heart — to produce an X-ray of the extent of blockage in the vessels.

"There were a number of studies saying women were under-treated," Demirovic said Thursday at the American Heart Association's annual meeting on heart disease epidemiology. "But now more reports are coming out that women are under-diagnosed rather than under-treated."

According to the heart association, women who have heart attacks are twice as likely as men to die within the first few weeks after the attack.

The association says 39 percent of women die in the first year after a heart attack compared with 31 percent of men. And during the four years following a heart attack, women have a 20 percent chance of a second one, compared with 15 percent for men.

Demirovic and her colleagues examined 1,610 heart attack patients in Minnesota in 1980 and 1985. The group consisted of 1,177 men and 442 women.

One of Demirovic's colleagues, Dr. Russell V. Luepker of the University of Minnesota, said less use of angiography in women means they are less likely to undergo heart bypass surgery or angioplasty, in which a balloon is threaded into clogged arteries and inflated to help clear them.

Part of the problem is that doctors are simply not as quick to look for heart disease in women, because it is less common, he said.

"The medical profession's suspicion level is based on it being primarily a male disease," Luepker said. "They tend to rule it out more easily in women."

"It's analogous in some ways to the fact that breast cancer is poorly detected in men," even though men can get it, he said.

The situation is gradually changing, Luepker said. "The medical community is being made aware and more sensitive to the diagnosis."

Dr. Stephen P. Fortmann of Stanford University praised the study. "They collected the data well," he said.

The findings are puzzling, however, and more research is needed, he said.

"There aren't a lot of studies on this," he said. "It needs to be looked at more. I think it's too glib to say that physicians discriminate against women."

Winters awarded distinction

Gene splicers find promising treatment for cystic fibrosis

By DANIEL G. HANEY
AP Science Writer

BOSTON — An aerosol spray made from genetically engineered proteins helps clear the infected mucus that clogs and eventually destroys the lungs of cystic fibrosis patients, according to a study.

"It's not a cure, but there is no question it works," said Dr. Ronald G. Crystal, who directed the study reported in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Trouble breathing is a key problem of cystic fibrosis, which fills the lungs with thick mucus.

Doctors say the new treatment is the first medicine to break up the mucus.

About 50,000 Americans have the inherited disease, which is often fatal by age 30. Until now, it mainly has been treated with antibiotics to prevent infections and by pounding on patients' chests to loosen the mucus.

The new medicine, called deoxyribonuclease, or DNase, is made by Genentech Inc., which plans to seek approval to sell it early next year. Until then, it will be available only for limited studies.

Crystal directed the initial study on 18 patients. DNase is now being tested on 900 people at 50 hospitals around the country.

"This is very exciting," commented Dr. Robert Beall of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. "There was a very significant improvement in pulmonary function. We think this could have an impact on the disease."

The new treatment is a natural human protein, produced in quantity by gene splicing, that breaks down the genetic material DNA.

In people with cystic fibrosis, the cells lining the lungs absorb too much water. This dries out the mucus, making it thick and hard to cough up. Bacteria grow in the mucus.

White blood cells fight the infection. When these cells die, they release their DNA into the mucus. This makes the mucus even thicker and more stringy, severely hindering breathing. Eventually the lungs are destroyed.

DNase attacks the leftover DNA, thinning the mucus.

In the study, patients saw a 10 percent to 20 percent improvement in their lung function with no apparent side effects.

FOR BETTER HEALTH

DR. A.W. WOODALL — CHIROPRACTOR—

Getting The Support You Need

You may not realize it, but the mattress and pillow you sleep on, your choice of couch and chairs, even the way you drive a car can directly affect your back.

Improper support is one of the major causes of pain and discomfort in your neck and spinal column. If this has thrown your spine out of alignment, you may be suffering from persistent aches and pains in your back and other parts of your body.

A spine out of alignment may interfere with the proper functioning of your nervous system. All of your body's nervous systems are connected to the brain, which sends impulses through the spinal column in a complex network that extends to all of your body's organs and cells. Interference with nerve supply can not only affect your back but other parts of your body as well.

If you are feeling any pain or discomfort now in your back or in other parts of your body, you may be able to benefit from a chiropractic examination and treatment.

Flotilla sponsors safe-boat course

SANFORD — A new series of classes on safe boating will be offered starting April 2nd. The six-week long series will be held at Hidden Harbour Marina.

The courses are sponsored by the Seminole County Florida of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary and are offered four times each year.

The Flotilla's Public Affairs Officer, Byron Rambo explained, "This series is designed for the beginners and novice boaters, as a refresher course for experience boaters, or to fulfill requirements for persons who have to take the test following a boating accident, the influence of alcohol, citation or insurance requirements."

Classes will be held on Monday and Thursday nights beginning at 7 p.m. Rambo commented, "One of the classes will be a practical on-the-water demonstration, probably early in the course."

"We have six volunteer instructors," Rambo said, "each of them certified for this course and each teaching a different aspect of boating. Rambo's specialty is navigation."

The class size is limited to 30 persons, and advance reservations are required and recommended. While there is no charge for the course, there is a $25 fee to cover books and materials.

The classes will be held at Harbour Marina, 1370 Canalway Street, at the Port of Sanford. For registration or further information, please call 986-7557.

EMS Academy nearing move to its new home

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County Emergency Medical Services Academy will begin operations at its new home at Central Florida Regional Airport April 1.

After about six years at a former fire station near Altamonte Springs, the 2,300-square-foot structure on Carrier Avenue will provide more room, said Frank Kirk, EMS director. The former facility, which the training program had outgrown, will be demolished for a county softball complex at the site of the former Sandalco garbage transfer station.

Kirk said the location of the facility is ideal because of its close proximity to the future expressway, said Kirk. The expressway will allow students and employees to travel there quickly from fire stations and clinics throughout the county.

The county will pay about $15,000 annually for the airport facility during the three-year term of the lease. Should the county renew the lease, the rent will increase by 10 percent during the first year of the renewal and 1 percent during the second year of the renewal, according to the terms of the contract. Electricity will be provided under the terms of the lease.

Kirk said the lease agreement represents a good deal for the county because it was paying a similar amount for upkeep and utilities at the former facility.

Kirk said the facility will hold the required annual refresher courses for all county firefighters and paramedics. Although the Sandalco facility did provide certification training for paramedics under an agreement with Seminole Community College, those courses will be held only on campus, Kirk said.

Seminole County training has been recognized throughout the state as a model program and the county often takes on students from surrounding counties, Kirk said.

Lake Jesup condemnation case tied to road widening

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The widening of Lake Mary Boulevard between County Road 15 and U.S. Highway 17-92 next year will advance the Spring Hammock acquisition process.

Seminole County commissioners will decide Tuesday whether to condemn about 53 acres located at the southwest shore of Lake Jesup. The property is owned by the Lefler family, which includes former Seminole County Circuit Judge Kenneth Lefler, said Frank Van Pelt III, county project engineer. The county will offer $624,500 for the property, said Van Pelt.

The 53 acres is located in the dense wooded areas west of Lake Jesup, known as Spring Hammock. The county and the state have purchased about 80 percent of the 1,500-acre natural area has passed into public ownership. A county lands committee is scheduled to recommend commissioners give acquisition of 10 other Spring Hammock parcels as the top priority under a land preservation program.

Van Pelt said the county will purchase the property to compensate for 16 acres of wetlands along Lake Mary Boulevard that will be filled for the additional two lanes. The largest wetland area that will be disturbed is located north of the road between an Florida Power and Light Co. substation and Alt Lane, said Van Pelt.

Van Pelt said the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation required the county to preserve a minimum of 10 acres of wetlands to compensate for the 16-acre loss. The remaining 13 acres will be saved as "credit" for future wetlands destruction to said.

The St. Johns River Water Management District has OK'd a county plan to create a 2.2-acre vegetated marsh around the drainage areas needed for the road project to compensate for the lost natural wetlands, said Van Pelt.

Marina rent problems discussed

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Holiday Inn at Monroe Harbour Marina is behind on paying property rental. The City of Sanford plans to discuss what to do about it on Monday.

Although the Holiday Inn corporation owns the building, all of the facilities on the marina are located on city owned property, and thus lease the land.

During a previous City Commission workshop meeting, Commissioner Lon Howell questioned how far behind the rent payment is at present, and what approach the City might take to obtain the arrears.

"I'm tired of playing around with this,"

Howell said. "This has been the same game ever since I've been on the Commission, and I think it's time we did something about it, even if it means filing a foreclosure on it."

The figures have now been prepared, and are on the agenda for discussion during Monday night's workshop meeting of the Sanford City Commission.

According to a statement prepared by the city Finance Department, the amount due not only includes current rental, but lack of payments and interest on an agreement for payment of back rent, made in January of 1990.

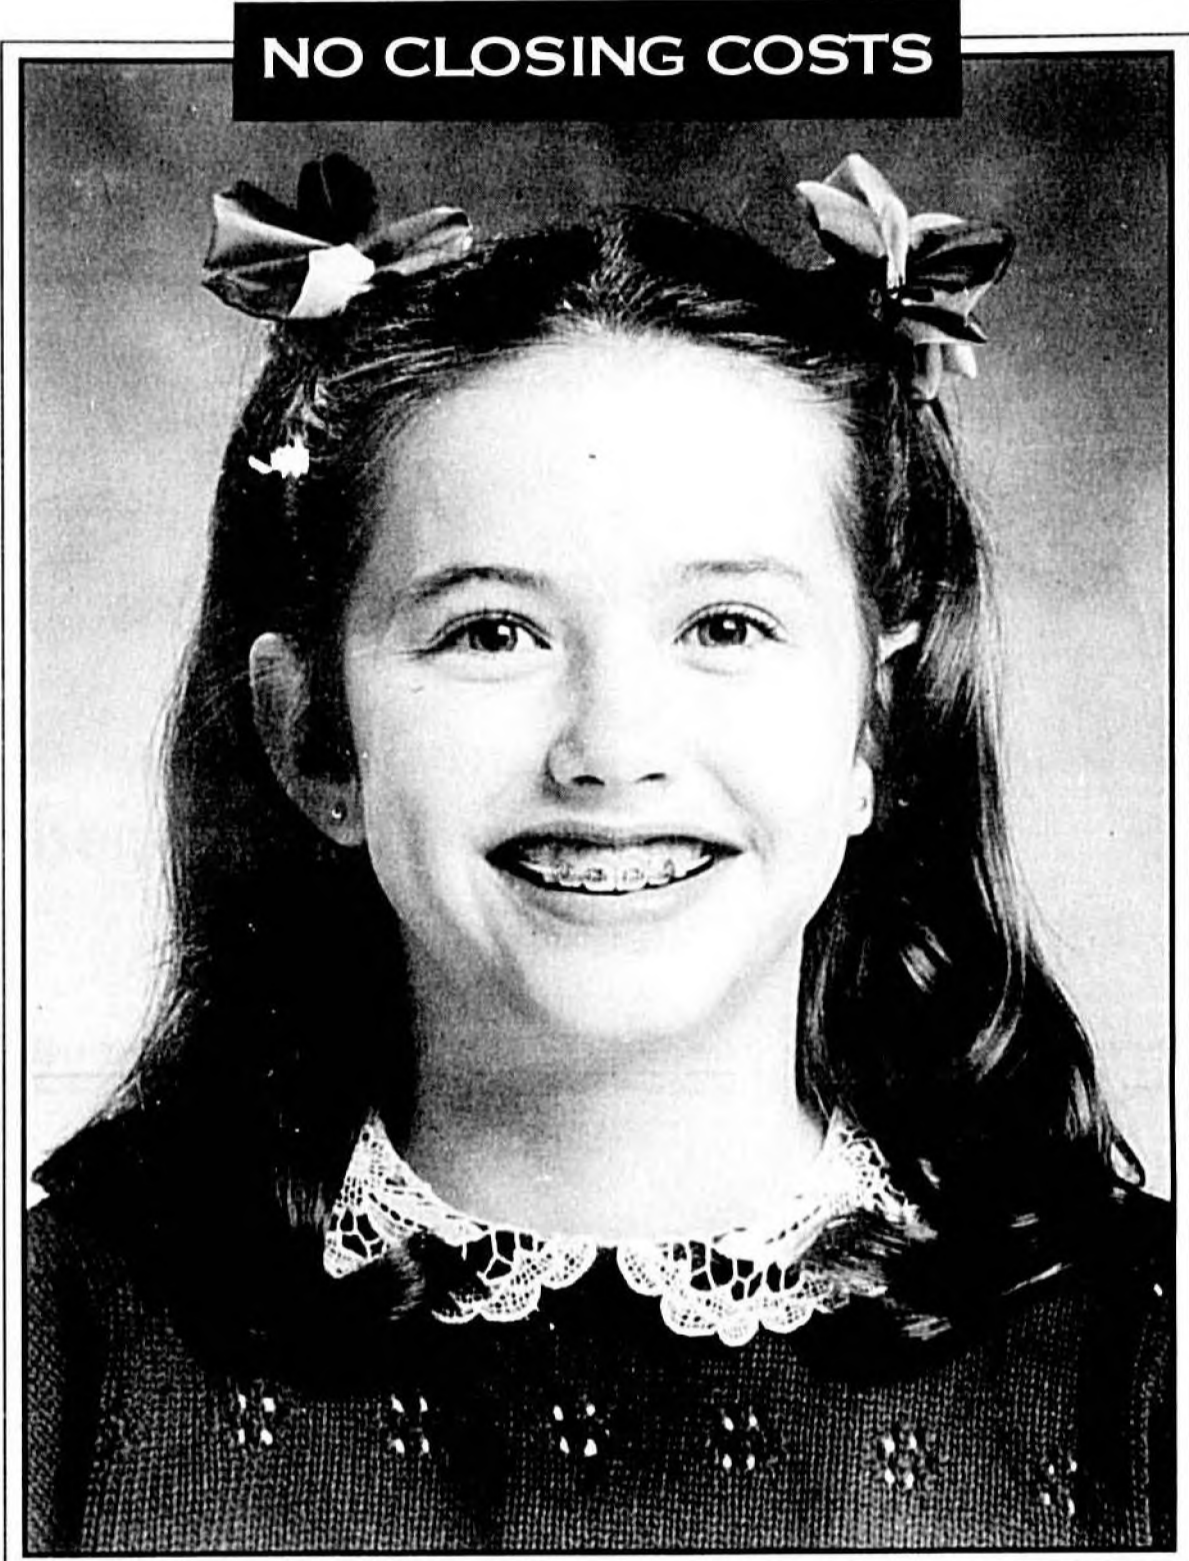

The total amount past due at the present time is $40,653. It includes a payment of $25,000 due to have been paid on April 30th, 1991 as part of a pay-off of an earlier arrearage. Finance Director Carolyn Small commented, "If no payment is made by April 30th of this year, that amount will climb to $50,000."

Additional money due to the city includes $8,205 interest from the earlier loan and $7,337 for 1992 arrearage.

"As of right now," she observed, "The Holiday Inn is two months behind on current payments, and a year behind on arrears."

According to the city budget, $74,784 was projected as revenue coming in from the Holiday Inn during fiscal year 1992. In the status report, the amount received to date is zero.

Weger continues record march

DeLAND — Lake Mary High School graduate Wes Weger, the shortstop and team captain of the 1992 Stetson University baseball team, is continuing his assault on several Hatter career batting records.

Weger, a senior, entered the season with highest career batting average (.343) and has maintained that average through the season's first 23 games, hitting .349.

He has collected 30 hits so far this year, boosting his career total to 249, second on Stetson's all-time list. 27 hits behind career leader and 1991 graduate Mike Sempeles.

Weger also has 43 career doubles (tied for fifth on the all-time list), 13 triples (tied for third) and 345 career total bases (third).

Barring injury, Weger should set new Stetson records in all these categories before completing his Hatter career.

In 1990-91, Weger was the team's leading hitter (.380) and was named the team's most valuable player for the second straight season. He also set a team record for most hits in a season (87) and was named to the all-conference team for the third straight year.

AROUND THE STATE

Vicario wins Lipton

KEY BISCAYNE — Arantxa Sanchez Vicario lured Gabriela Sabatini into a duel from the baseline and then withstood the Argentine's late charges for a 6-1, 6-4 victory Saturday in the final of the International Players Championships.

The fifth-ranked Sanchez Vicario's steady groundstrokes and occasional lethal drop shots defused the aggressiveness Sabatini had shown in earlier matches.

The third-ranked Sabatini, who has a home on Key Biscayne, clearly enjoyed a home-court advantage in the all-Latin women's matchup.

AROUND THE NATION

BOISE, Idaho — Sam Casell scored 14 of his 19 points in the second half as No. 20 Florida State overcame an 11-point deficit to beat No. 22 Georgetown 78-68 Saturday in the second round of the West Regional.

Doug Edwards scored 11 of his 15 points in the second half and grabbed 16 rebounds for the Seminoles, who used their full-court trapping defense to unnerv the Hoyas (22-10) after shooting 28 percent in the first half.

Florida State fell behind 32-23 at the half using a diamond-and-one defense designed to stop Georgetown star Alonzo Mourning. Mourning scored 13 of his 14 points in the second half and managed three rebounds before fouling out with 2:05 remaining, but Florida State had already taken command.

Rodney Doherty scored 12 points for Florida State, which played without starting point guard Charlie Ward, who suffered a dislocated left shoulder in a first-round victory over Montana.

Jocoy Brown scored 16 points and Irvine Church added 14 for Georgetown, which lost both of its games against Atlantic Coast Conference teams this year.

Lyman ends Tribe streak

By BILL KERNS
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Streaks live and die by inches. Lyman shortstop Chad Siemer threw out Anthony Roberts, who was 2-for-3 with an RBI in the game, on a close play at home plate in the bottom of the seventh inning as the Greyhounds ended Seminole's 18-game winning streak 3-2 Friday afternoon at Seminole Field.

Despite the loss, Seminole still leads the Seminole Athletic Conference with a 5-1 mark. Second-place Oviedo dropped a 6-5 decision to Lake Brantley later Friday to fall to 4-2 in the SAC.

"It was a great win," said Seminole head coach Mike Fowers. "It's been a whole lot of fun. When we're 18-0, everybody is out to knock us out. And we just got knocked off for the first time today."

"We play Seabreeze next Wednesday (starting at 7 p.m. at Seabreeze). We'll have two short practices since it's exam week, and we'll do a good job."

The win, which improves Lyman to 8-9 overall, was the Greyhounds' first in Seminole Athletic Conference play this season.

Lyman's Kevin Stuckey proved the adage that good pitching beats even red-hot hitting, holding Seminole to three hits in improving to 3-1. Relying on a stellar defensive effort, Stuckey struck out only two. Twelve of his outs were on the ground. Catcher Doug Porter highlighted Lyman's defense by nailing two baserunners.

"I wasn't feeling too great the first couple of innings," said Stuckey. "After the third, I started throwing strikes. We played excellent defense. I knew we could beat them. Once we started playing together, we played well. I tried to throw strikes in the seventh. The last thing I wanted to do was walk any one."

After Seminole jumped on top in the first inning when Stuckey walked the bases loaded and Roberts scored Scott Ferguson with a ground ball, Stuckey walked only one other batter.

The three Lyman runs came in the third inning off Todd Braden, now 6-1 on the season. Porter singled and scored on a throwing error. With the bases loaded, Chad Beland's bloop single scored Sol Henk before Will Ramirez drove in Nakia Roberts. Seminole came back with one run in their third inning when Ferguson singled and scored on Jeremy Chumal's sacrifice fly. Only three Seminole batters reached base safely after the third.

Matt Freeman kept Seminole's hopes alive by relieving Braden with two runners on base and one out in the fourth inning and stopping the rally. After retiring the side in order in the fifth and sixth innings, he allowed two harmless hits in the seventh by Roberts and Siemer.

"I just tried to throw strikes over the plate, since I haven't pitched much this season," said Freeman. "The defense did a heck of a job. We came out a little lazy, but once we got behind we didn't give up. Hopefully, this will teach us a lesson."

Roberts led off Seminole's seventh inning with a bunt single and advanced to second on a delayed steal. Tony Duncan's grounder sent him to third, and he tried to score on Denny Beamon's grounder to Siemer.

"We were lucky to get the ground ball," said Lyman head coach Bob McCollough. "We haven't been getting those kind of breaks. Our pitching has been keeping it close and we're waiting for the hitting to come around. We're capable of playing better ball than we've been playing. That was about as good as we can play."

Opening Day

The Sanford Recreation Department held its Opening Day ceremonies for the Little Major Leagues at Ft. Mellon Park Saturday morning. Among the activities were introducing each player as he ran through a rainbow of balloons and paying respects to the flag. The season is set to open Monday night.

"Loose" Patriots escape Oviedo

By RYAN ANDERSON
Herald Correspondent

ALFAMONTE SPRINGS — You can't stop what you can't see.

The Lake Brantley Patriots used this philosophy to near perfection Friday night, beating the Oviedo High School Lions 6-5 in a Seminole Athletic Conference baseball game.

The Patriots started the "phantom ball" in their pregame warm ups. Minus the baseball, the Patriots proceeded to loosen up, going through their regular motions and drills.

"The kids wanted to do it tonight, so we thought we would just throw it in there," said Lake Brantley coach Mike Smith. "They've been wanting to do something like that for a while. We do it every now and then."

"We just didn't want to feel real tight about this ball game tonight. We felt like we had to beat Oviedo, not only for our conference but also for our district seeding. We needed to win this one and with Lyman

Silver Hawk boys soar at Lake Mary

By TONY DeSORMIER

LAKE MARY — Suddenly, the Lake Howell Silver Hawks have everyone's undivided attention.

On Friday night at Lake Mary High School's Don T. Reynolds Stadium, the Silver Hawks used impressive depth to win the boys' title of the 11th annual Lake Mary Invitational track meet.

Lake Howell outscored runner-up Lake Mary 91-5-69. They were followed by Lyman (60), Titusville (54), Lake Brantley (52.5), Haines City (43), Titusville-Astronaut (42) and Oviedo (20).

In the girls' standings, Titusville-Astronaut easily outdistanced second-place Lake Mary 89-43. Rounding out the standings were Lake Howell (58), Lyman and Titusville (both with 55), Oviedo (52), Lake Brantley (30) and Haines City (8).

For the Lake Howell boys, it was their second win in the last eight days. On Friday, March 13, they won their own meet. They followed that up with a very strong second-place showing at the Seminole Relays this past Tuesday.

"It's a double-bladed sword," said Lake Howell coach Buddy Garrison, who guided the Silver Hawks to the 4A-District 9 championship last season. "It's nice to be having this kind of success. But the other side of the coin is that now everybody's looking to knock us off."

Lake Howell rips Rams, back in hunt

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

WINTER PARK — Maybe they're not out of the Seminole Athletic Conference race after all.

After a loss to Seminole a week ago Lake Howell High School varsity baseball coach Birto Benjamin said he hoped his team could win a couple of non-conference games to build confidence and momentum for the rest of the SAC schedule.

But when the Silver Hawks lost those games to Bishop Moore and Oseola to fall to 3-10, not many people had much hope left for Lake Howell.

Hope has been restored, however, as the Silver Hawks handled Lyman Wednesday night then hammered Lake Mary 11-1 in five innings Friday to give Lake Howell a 5-10 record overall, but, more importantly, a 2-3 record in the conference.

"Hopefully we've found it (what it takes to win)," said Benjamin after the surprisingly easy win over the Rams. "We've gotten good, consistent pitching the last two games and offensively we're just trying to put the bat on the ball."

The Silver Hawks definitely put the bat on the ball as Jason Schwegereth opened the bottom of the first inning by depositing a Dave Hudick offering over the scoreboard in left. The homer was just one of the 13 hits for Lake Howell on the day.

The Silver Hawks made short work of Hudick.

Following Schwegereth's homer, Rob Stanton walked, Rich DiToro was hit by a pitch and Mike Hernandez reached on a hunt getting up to run against us." They're

Lake Howell only won three events Friday night, but two came consecutively in the middle of the meet. First, Jason LaFlamme won the 330-yard intermediate hurdles in 41.5 while teammates David Hill and Dusty Nettles finished third and fourth, respectively.

That was followed by the foursome of Chris Gooline, Maurice Smith, Anthony Starks and Aljann Smith winning the 880 relay in 1:34.8, over two seconds faster than runner-up Lyman.

"That was the turning point right there," said Garrison.

As far as Lake Mary girls' coach Mike Gibson was concerned, the meet was a complete success.

"The girls competed very well," said Gibson, who was also the meet director. "We can't coach them when we're running a meet like this, so they have to go out and compete on their own. And they all did an excellent job of doing what they had to do."

Lake Mary's sole victory came in the 880-yard run, where Heather Bonck won with a time of 2:35.2

The meet's individual high point honors went to Titusville leaper Natalie Beckford and Lake Mary distance runner D.J. Lewis. Beckford won the girls' long jump (16 feet, 11 1/2 inches), triple jump (34 feet, 2 1/2 inches) and 110-yard high hurdles (18.18). Lewis was first in the boys' mile (4:32.9) and two-mile (9:49.8) and anchored Lake Mary's winning two-mile relay (8:31.7).

Maria Mims of Ovidio set a record for the girls in the shot put with a heave of 40 feet, 8 inches while Lake Howell's Kelly Kobu improved the standard in the girls' discus to 135 feet, 7 inches.

single. Mervyn Melendez then singled to score two runs before Erik Welner doubled off the 350-foot sign in left center to score two more, chasing Hudick. Joel Read greeted reliever Chad Keasler with a single before Welner scored a grounder by Paul Giambalvo.

The score remained 6-0 until the top of the sixth when Lake Mary scored its only run. Chad Ebbert led off with an infield single, advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt by Chris Barfield and scored on Matt Green's double into the left field corner.

The Silver Hawks answered in the bottom of the fourth when Stanton and Hernandez both singled and scored on Bobby Andino's bloop double.

The game came to a surprising end in the bottom of the fifth. With two out Schwegereth walked, Stanton reached on catcher's interference.

DiTore then hit a grounder over the mound that looked like a out as the Rams' Jason Rasmussen was positioned right behind the second base bag. But the ball hit the base and bounded over Rasmussen's head with Schwegereth scoring, Stanton going to third and DiTore winding up on second.

Hernandez then got his third hit of the day, a ringing double into the left field corner to score the game ending runs.

While the offense was outstanding for Lake Howell, no one was forgetting the pitching performance of junior right hander John Cromwell, who scattered five hits, struck out five and walked none in claiming his first decision of the year.

Lake Howell will next play Thursday morning, when they will conclude the game with Lake Brantley that was suspended because of the bad weather two weeks ago. The game will begin at 11 a.m. at Lake Howell in the top of the fifth inning.

Lake Mary fell to 8-9 overall and 1-4 in the conference. The Rams were scheduled to play at Deltona Saturday afternoon.

winning tonight, we need to win every game we can."

The Patriots jumped ahead in the first inning when Gary Czachowski drilled a double into center field that drove in Jeff Butler.

Butler, who singled in his first at bat, accounted for all but two of the Patriots runs, nailing two two-run home runs over the right field wall in two consecutive at bats.

"Butler played in it for us," said Smith. "He was the guy tonight. He is gradually moving into it to where he'll be one of the better players in this league."

Butler, a sophomore, was second team all-conference last season.

For the Lions, Kevin Twiggs had the lone homer with Matt Pipkin, Louie Trager, Rick Werner and Todd Bellhorn each having RBI.

Todd Bellhorn started on the mound for Oviedo working 2½ innings before Lee Reynolds came in to finish the third. Rick Jordan came in for Oviedo in the fourth and struck out the bottom of the Patriots line up. But when the top of the order came up in the fifth, he walked Randy Stegall, setting up Butler's second round tripper.

Kevin Morro started for the Patriots, pitching 4½ innings before Frank Hamner came in to close.

The Patriots' next conference opponent is Lake Howell, who they will play Thursday and Friday.

"Lake Howell plays us real well," said Smith. "As a matter of fact, we're tied at 3-3 in the fifth inning when we go over there Thursday (to complete a game suspended from March 6).

Despite oddities, hard-fighting cobia are an angler's favorite

If I had to pick one fish that was a real oddball species, it would have to be the cobia. At first glance, the cobia appears to be a cross between a catfish and a shark. In fact, in the water, the average angler often mistakes cobia for sharks.

Not only are cobia a strange looking fish, they are also totally unafraid of boats and fishermen. It is not uncommon for cobia to follow a bait or lure right up to the boat and smack it only inches away!

Although the cobia may be a little odd, it is a very popular gamefish. What the cobia lacks in looks or intelligence, it more than makes up for in fighting ability and table quality. Cobia are real bruisers when hooked, and put up a terrific fight. Their flesh is firm and white, and cobia cooked on the grill is a delicacy that would please the most discriminating of gourmets.

FISHING

Cobia are fond of "structure," and will often be found around sea buoys, swimming manta rays, huge pods of baitfish, or even large vessels that have been anchored at sea.

They are an exciting fish to catch, because it is a visual experience. You can actually see the fish in the water, make your cast and see the cobia hit the bait or lure. The sight of a huge cobia swimming about can unnerve the most experienced angler.

Cobia are eager eaters and will usually hit jigs with enthusiasm. Live bait, however, is an offering that will never be refused. Mullet and pinfish are the two top baits used in our area. In Texas, anglers use catfish, and out of Jacksonville, fishermen use live eels for bait. Obviously cobia are not finicky eaters and they will attack a variety of offerings.

Some cobia are currently being caught out of New Smyrna and Port Canaveral, but call some local tackle shops before planning a trip. These fish are migrating north up the coast, and they can cover a lot of ground before your fishing trip.

SHUPE'S SCOOP
Cobia are not a very bright fish and when hooked, will often swim up to the boat early in the fight. Never make the mistake of gaffing a "green" cobia. A good-sized cobia will destroy a boat interior if it is not subdued firmly and quickly. I always play a cobia until I am certain that it is reasonably tired.

FISHING FORECAST
Steve Guard at the Osteen Bridge Fish Camp reports hot speck fishing around reefs and lily pads in the shallows. Small jigs and Missouri minnows are bringing home the big stringers. With base bedding, don't expect to catch a lot of fish.

Sebastian Inlet has been crowded with fish — snook, flounder, big trout, bluefish, jack crevalle and redfish (season closed). Jigs are the best all-around action with all species. The outgoing tide provides fast action as bait gets funneled out the inlet into the ocean.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports scattered cobia action with "free-swimming" cobia south of the Port. Some cobia have also been reported south of New Smyrna.

Offshore action has been very spotty, but some good grouper and snapper are being taken on reefs and wrecks. Bluefish, flounder and sheepshead are active inside the Port, while trout and redfish are reported as good on the flats of the Banana and Indian rivers.

Make certain to obtain an accurate marine forecast before planning a trip to Ponce Inlet. High winds can whip up some big seas at this popular fishing spot. Plenty of bluefish and sheepshead are being caught from the north jetties. A few flounder and good catches of bluefish are coming from the south jetties. Live or dead shrimp is the best bait.

SANFORD — They are 22 boys, all different, the youngest 4, the oldest 18. But all their differences melt when their voices rise united in song.

The Seminole Community Boys Glee Club was the brainchild of Seminole County Teacher of the Year, Pat Hitchmon, a busy lady whose love and devotion to children is demonstrated repeatedly in the community.

Hitchmon felt that forming a group of talented singers would help improve their lives, giving them an opportunity to showcase their talents. The first of its kind in Sanford, boys from the three Boys and Girls Clubs centers, from Tajiri Arts, from the Altamonte, Midway and Westside boys clubs and from Seminole and Oviedo high schools, were chosen carefully to formulate this great group.

The first production, "In the Spirit of Passing the Torch From One Generation to the Next," was presented to a standing room only audience during the youth program for the observance of the City of Sanford's Martin Luther King 1992 Celebration in January.

That performance proved to be a positive portrait, focusing on the black male students who have a great deal of talent in the performing arts, music and drama. This glee club enhances each young man's self-esteem says a member of the glee club, Ernest Whitby Jr.

"It has indeed made a difference in my life. I am happy that through song I am able to share the word about Christ," Whitby Jr. said.

The glee club will fulfill engagements in many places this year.

"Being in the club takes me to different places of travel. I am looking forward to the trips to Don Miller, Lorraine Offer, the Rev. Stamper and Pat Hitchmon.

Bartow, Florida, and Brunswick, Georgia, later this spring," Whitby Jr. said.

Whitby's dad, Ernest Sr., says he is proud that his son has the opportunity to share in such a great experience.

"It has developed a positive image for young men. I've assured my son that he will have my support in this worthwhile endeavor," Whitby Sr.

Patrons could have been to Broadway

By DORIS DIETRICH
Herald Columnist

Patrons attending the Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole performance last weekend may have thought they detoured, via Lake Mary High School, to Broadway.

The two shows, Saturday night and Sunday afternoon, attracted a large number of Ballet Guild fans who rewarded the 60 diversified dancers with a standing ovation at both performances.

Conceived, written and produced by Miriam Doktor, Valerie Weld, Elsa Caskey and Linda Herod, "The Life and Times of Lilly Chantilly" was a highly entertaining performance filled with charm, humor and unbridled talent. Classical ballet did a side step to singing, to dancing and jazz in the musical comedy extravaganza.

As patrons entered the lobby of the auditorium, they were approached by beautiful, but somber, grief-stricken women, impeccably clad in black attire, who handed out the funeral programs while dabbing at a tear or two.

The show opened at Lilly's funeral when mourner-dancers drifted on stage to express their grief while the legendary Lilly, played by Linda Zern wearing a white, fur-trimmed peignor set, sat in her lighted, elevated dressing room offstage at a corner of the auditorium. Between dance numbers, lovely and dramatic Lilly engaged in lively pantomime to narration including a firm, but gentle male voice of which she was unsure whether it was God or the devil speaking from above. But the voice kept repeating he was her Final Review Exit Director.

As Lilly looked through a memory book, her life unfolded from her early beginnings as a small child to glamour and stardom in Atlantic City, New York, Hollywood and the Swiss Alps.

The story started out with Lilly (played by 6-year-old Lacy Nobles) leading her friend, Freddy (Adam Zern), in dancing at Miss Marley's Saturday Morning Social and Dance Club. Her Aunt Margaret, played in several scenes by Jolane Meinke Brown, was her childhood companion. Later, as Lilly grew up, her role as a charming teen-ager was enacted by Natalie Weld with Jacob Twilleager as Freddy in a colorful dance-prance with bathing beauties of the era, "At The Seashore."

As the show moved on, Lilly won "The Miss American Cheese Contest" and was on her way at Union Central Station in a lively number, "Goodbye Broadway," as she departed for Hollywood. Fred (Scottie Whigham) was still hanging around while the popular Lilly (Amy Simmons) was on her way to the top.

Dances and narration explained Lilly's fame and her leading roles in Hollywood as well as her life while on U.S.O. and other tours. In the Tarzan segment, Lilly was danced by Star! Shannon while Tarzan/Arnold Bunsenbuilder was played by Richard Ferguson.

The fast-paced show featured Sandra Orwig as Sheila/Lilly in "Sheila, Princess of the Nile," and a cast of slave girls, fan slaves and legions.

"Just Past Noon" was a rip-roaring western number complete with a sheriff, outlaw, saloon girls and the town folk.

As time passed, it was inevitable that Lilly the star (Sandra Orwig) and Fred, the big director (Foreman Heard) would meet back at the seashore for a romantic interlude. They expressed their love for each other and matrimony was the next step.

But Fred died in a plane crash before the trip to the altar. However, a manuscript he was writing was passed on to Lilly. Sandra Orwig danced the role of Lilly at a high-stepping awards presentation in typical Las Vegas style.

The narration continued with Lilly (Linda Zern) pondering her fate in her dressing room. She wanted to be with Fred. He finally got the

'The shadow knows' after seeing hospital employees

SANFORD — Roy Vinson, administrator of Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford, loves to have students shadowing his employees and even himself as they go through their day at the hospital.

"I love the opportunity that the job shadowing program gives the students to see what their dream job is really like," he said.

Many of the shadows come to the hospital from Lake Mary High School, where occupational specialist Sandy Davis helps pair youngsters and businesses for a day of observation in the career they have chosen.

"Sometimes students have an idealized vision of what a job may be, but after spending a day on the job they might change their mind," she said. "Or it could reinforce in their minds that they've made the perfect choice."

Vinson said that when he got out of high school and entered the military during the Viet Nam War, he had no idea what he wanted to do. He wound up working in a medical laboratory.

"When I first walked into the lab," he said, "I had no idea what they did in there."

He said that he wishes he had had an opportunity in high school to look over someone's shoulder to see what the work world was really like.

His son Richard, a senior at Lake Mary High School, said that though he "grew up" in and around the hospitals where his father has served as an administrator, he was still pleased with the chance to shadow the lab employees for a day.

"I know I want to work in a lab," he said, "but I don't know which one. There are lots of choices. I think Lake Mary has a great job shadowing program."

The younger Vinson said he spent his day of shadowing last week working in several different labs in the hospital. Some of it, he said, seemed like drudgery, but it is an essential part of the job that one rarely thinks about.

"It's a lot of work," he said, noting that he had not changed

Twins are not a single unit

DEAR ABBY: Being a twin, maybe you can help me with this problem. My twin daughters are almost 4 years old. Every year for Christmas my husband's sister has given the twins a single gift for them to share.

This wouldn't be a problem if it were a gift that could be enjoyed by both children at the same time, because I've had no difficulty teaching them to share. However, this year, they sent a single stuffed animal. Are twins supposed to take turns holding it while they go to sleep?

We are trying very hard to raise our daughters as individuals and want our relatives to treat them as such. Please print this to remind people that twins are not a single unit; they are individuals who just happen to be born at the same time.

FRUSTRATED MOTHER OF TWINS

DEAR FRUSTRATED: On behalf of all the twins who have lived the twin-gift experience, thank you for a valuable letter. I offer another suggestion: Do not buy twins identical gifts in an effort to be evenhanded. If one of the twins loses a doll or a mitten, it's good to know whose is missing. (Labels on children's clothing are also a good idea.)

ADVICE
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Is it wrong for a person to want to open his own mail? I am a 57-year-old man, married to the same woman for 35 years.

My wife opens letters that come to our house addressed to me. When I complain, she insists that it is her "right" to open my mail; then she says, "If you have nothing to hide, why should you care if I open your mail?"

Abby, I have never given my wife any reason to believe I fool around. I am home every night, do not frequent bars, and I have nothing to hide. I do attend seminars out of town for the company I work for, but I am gone only two or three nights, once a year. Please answer this in your column, but do not use my name. Initials or city. Thank you.

STRAIGHT ARROW

DEAR STRAIGHT ARROW: Opening mail addressed to another — spouse or not — without permission is inexcusable. Everyone, married or single, has a right to his or her privacy. And you have every right to insist upon yours.

The following sample letter to a delinquent account representative could help keep you from getting a bad credit history that was discussed in earlier columns this month. Boys

Hitchmon says she feels good about the joy the boys feel from their performances. Last Sunday, the boys sang for the 'Race Relations Sunday Worship Service' at the St. Paul Presbyterian Church, Orlando, where the Rev. Bryan Stamper is pastor. George Jennings Jr. one of the members of the boys club, excitedly said that his experience with the group has made his life different.

"I love to sing, and I am grateful for the chance to show my talent," he said. Jennings said some of the old songs let him know what was sung by the church a long time ago.

"That was when my great-grandfather, who was a preacher, sang these songs. One day I hope to become an accomplished musician," Jennings said.

The boys who are members of the glee club are: Willie Peterson, Donte Hayes, Travis Hampton, Robert Coleman, Abner Jackson, Cory Jones, Nathaniel Phillip, James Gibson, Tyrone Gibson, Robert Johnson, Eric Jamison, Eric Manor, Reginae Doe, Tracy Doe, Nicholas Garden, Arthur Bradley, Kevin Stallworth, Quantion Williams, George Jennings, Ernest Whitby, Jarvis Peters and Troy Chapman.

The Martin Luther King City of Sanford Steering Committee worked to keep the dream alive by proudly assuming the sponsorship of the first production of the Seminole Community Boys Glee Club. Don Miller, of the West Sanford Branch of the Boys and Girls Club of Central Florida, Inc., heads the glee club activities along with Hitchmon. Mrs. Lorraine Offer is musician for the boys.

his career plans as a result of his shadowing.

He said that he hopes to follow the same path that his father has taken. He plans to serve in the military reserves, earn an associates degree in lab sciences and begin employment in the hospital in the labs. He said he wants to work his way into administration after earning a business degree in college.

"I think that if you don't start at the bottom, you don't see the employees and the patients as people when you get into administration," he said.

Davis said that she has seen many shadows to the hospital where they have received "royal treatment" from Vinson and his staff.

"I think this is a great opportunity for the students to get a real look at what hospital work is really like. It's not a tour of the hospital. It's a day in the life of the employees."

Both father and son are glad for the opportunity to have the job shadowing program in place.

"And I don't want kids to have to go through the learning process the hard way," Roy Vinson said. "That time in their life is difficult enough."

YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 22, 1992

A joint endeavor with an outsider could work out rather well for you in the year ahead. However, the same might not be true in a collective venture with a close friend.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Someone you're closely associated with may not want you probing too deeply into this individual's affairs today. Be sure to maintain a discreet distance.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There is a possibility you might lock horns today with an individual whose objectives are usually opposed to yours. Handle this individual with kid gloves.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't be too assertive today in situations where you are an equal to those involved and not their superior. Arrogance could cause sparks to fly quicker than you think.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Commercial arrangements where everyone profits in some manner should work out well today. However, involvements where you or the other guy tries to grab more could fall flat.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In your haste to get a matter resolved today, you might move too fast for your own good. You may cure an immediate problem but create bigger ones for yourself further down the line.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you walk around with a chip on your shoulder today, sooner or later you will encounter someone who is prepared to knock it off. Make it a point to smile instead of sneer.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Avoid taking financial risks today on situations about which you know little. What looks like a good deal to you might be a lemon to an expert.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you meet with opposition today, try not to overreact. Don't wheel up your cannons where a pop gun would suffice. Temper your temper with good judgment.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're likely to have an abundance of energy today, but it might not be constructively channeled. Don't let your impulsiveness complicate simple situations.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your friends might want you to participate in an expensive activity today of which you're not overly fond. If you agree to take part under duress, you're not apt to have a good time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

Your standing with certain associates might be much more fragile than you think today. If you try to boss them around, this could become evident.

FISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do not get too closely involved today with an individual for whom you have hard feelings. It won't take much to light your fuse.

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 23, 1992

Don't overlook any opportunities in the year ahead to add to your bank of knowledge. The more you know and the greater expertise you possess, the better your chances are for a profitable cycle.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're good at conceptualizing today, but you might assign the implementation of your plans to those who aren't qualified to carry them out. Your good ideas could count for nothing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your probabilities for putting a profitable business arrangement together today are rather iffy, because you may delegate important elements to chance.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try not to put yourself in a position today that allows another to make decisions for you that you should be making for yourself. This individual's judgment is not as good as yours.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Do not discuss important career matters with associates prematurely today. There's a chance someone you talk to might use your ideas and take credit for them along the way.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Resist the inclination today to jump into speculative involvements you haven't thoroughly explored. They could be comprised of sizzle rather than substance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Keep your personal objectives in focus at all times today and, above all, don't rely on individuals who have proven to be ineffective allies in the past.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's very important that you are able to distinguish between legitimate optimism and wishful expectation today. Hanging your hopes on the latter could lead to disappointment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you are anticipating some gains today, expect them to come through a logical sequence of development. Don't look for the tooth fairy to accelerate the process.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) How you handle yourself in public will be closely scrutinized by your peers today. Focus on social amities and, above all, don't be a braggart.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Charly should begin at home today. This doesn't mean you should be indifferent to the needs of others but that you should keep your priorities in order and take care of those who depend on you first.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you have commercial dealings with a friend today, be sure what is expected of each party is clearly spelled out in advance. A misunderstanding is likely without a solid game plan.

FISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Conditions look promising today for a partnership. However, you might lose this advantage through the poor judgment of either you or your ally.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

A friend of mine says that most bridge players have egos the size of planets. Few would argue. But not all champions are larger than life. One of the world's best players is also one of the quietest and most modest: Michel Perron of Paris. He has many titles to his name, but the most prestigious is the 1980 World Team Olympiad.

Perron played today's hand during a promotional tour of the Caribbean in 1984 organized by Jaime Ortiz-Patino, who was then president of the World Bridge Federation.

Cover the East-West cards. Against your contract of five hearts, West leads the club six.

East's three no-trump showed a solid seven-card minor with no side ace or king. North might have doubled five clubs for a sure profit (of 300 points), but, expecting his partner to be void in clubs, he went for the vulnerable game bonus.

Perron ruffed the club lead and drew trumps in two rounds. He played a spade to dummy's king, ruffed another club and ran the spades, discarding a diamond. Now the last club was ruffed, eliminating that suit.

As West was marked with the diamond ace, things didn't look too good. But East was known to have started with 2-2-2-7 distribution. If he had two low diamonds, declarer could exit with a low diamond. Because of dummy's 10, West would have to win with the jack and concede a trick to declarer's diamond king. But if East had the jack or queen doubleton, this wouldn't work. As there are six honor doubletons to three low doubletons, Perron exited with the diamond king. The defenders had no ripoise.
