THE KITCHEN

Cooking is an exact science; the kitchen is a laboratory and it should be as pleasant to experi-ment in that laboratory as any ment in that informatory as any other if it is properly equipped and arranged. The reason that many women dread preparations, for a meal is because they have to work with an incomplete bunch of tools, or inferior spparatus.

It is true that the kitchen does come out well. Some time try this recipe for raisin rolls, an of measurements runs from the traspoonful to the cupful, but these measurements should be powder, one-fourth cupful sugar, flour, four teaspoons of baking one-half traspcon salt and rub in two and one-half tablespoons proportionately as securate as the chemist's.
