Teachers overpaid?

District wants 1,459 employees to pay back money

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Almost 1,500 Seminole County school district employees, most of them teachers, received a surprise when they opened their paychecks last week.

Instead of finding a small raise they had expected in their final paycheck of the year, they found an unsigned form letter informing them that due to a calculating error they had been overpaid and would need to pay back the district.

The raise was to have been the retroactive payments based on the two percent salary increase, negotiated by the district and the union earlier this year, which was effective on Jan. 4.

"It's a slap in the face," said Debbie Carl, an English teacher at Seminole High School in Sanford.

Carl, who said she was "one of the lucky ones" will have to pay back only about $14.

"But the teacher who's class is next door to mine will have to pay back more than $900," she said. "It's a real horror story."

District officials declined to comment on the unsigned letter, though Lisa Voltoline, the district payroll coordinator, stated that the average payback would be less than $100.

The miscalculations were discovered, district officials said after an audit of payroll calculations was completed last week.

It is not clear from which department the letter came or on whom the blame should be placed for the error that caused the overpayment.

A lot is right with kids today

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

Editor's note: This is the final report in a series about juvenile crime in Seminole County.

What's right with kids today?

Much publicity and speculation has always been attached to juveniles involved in crime, a problem statistically proven on the rise in Florida.

Still, there are others who believe kids are, on "average," just midguided," Gretchen Schapker, principal of Seminole High School, said.

Schapker believes that each success breeds more successes.

The schools, she said, have taken on the responsibility of helping young people to have confidence in themselves and in what they do.

County says no to request by sheriff

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — A divided Seminole County commission voted 3-2 last week to prevent Sheriff Don Eslinger from making a $1,000 contribution to the Lake Mary Little League uniform fund.

"It was outrageous," said league president Rick Shirla. "We've never asked the county for anything and for them to turn this down, just doesn't make sense."

Shirla said the little league, which represents a total of 300 kids from Lake Mary, Longwood and Sanford, needed about $1,500 to complete their fundraising effort, after raising about $35,000 already. Shirla said about a third of the kids are from Sanford, and 40 percent of all the enrollees are minorities.

Eslinger agreed to contribute $1,000.

"I felt little league is a great deterrent to crime," said Eslinger. "Especially since we're starting up the Police Athletic League, this was right in line with that."

But commissioners Larry Furlong, Pat Warren and Dick Van Der Weide saw differently, saying the request would set a precedent for every youth sports organization in the county.

"This is going to open the door for dozens, if not hundreds of organizations that have trouble raising money," said Furlong. "If you do this, be prepared to get requests from every single

There are times when I think I should answer my phone by saying "Way Back When Information Bureau."

I got a ring the other day from a youngster who wanted to know why "Taps" was played by a bugler at military funerals. "Why?" he asked. I told him that at most military installations about the last thing you'd hear at night was "Taps" being played over a "camp-wide" public address system which meant "hit the sack" and go to sleep.

"Why did it mean that?" he asked. Because of the words that the notes of "Taps" stood for, I volunteered.

"What are the words?" he asked. I put on the old thinking cap and after an hour or so I thought I had them down in black and white. But, you know, I wasn't absolutely sure I had them right. So, I picked up the

Exclusive GOP club admits woman

JACKSONVILLE — Two Florida women have broken the gender barrier in an exclusive club for U.S. House Republicans. U.S. Rep. Ileana Ros-Lehtinen and Tillie Fowler have joined the Chowder and Marching Society, which was all male for 44 years. Admission is restricted to 25 active House members plus former club members, a Republican who's including former Presidents Nixon and Ford, former Vice President Dan Quayle and former housing secretary Jack Kemp. "Every leader of the Republican Party has come out of Chowder and Marching, and you've got a real leader in Tillie Fowler," Kemp said of the Jacksonville freshman at a fund-raiser in Jacksonville earlier this month. Ros-Lehtinen said she welcomes the end of exclusion from the power-broker elite. "I am glad that the 'good old boy' network is slowly coming undone," said the two-term Miami Republican. "Allowing women into the informal conversations and discussions which take place in Congress will help in getting different points of views understood."

Judge wants woman in mental hospital

TAMPA — A woman ruled insane for strangling her two children in 1990 was ordered back to a state mental hospital after failing to cope with life in a halfway house. Dorothy Diane Rose, 34, was acquitted by reason of insanity after she strangled her 1-year-old daughter and 2-year-old son with a bathrobe sash. She was committed to the Florida State Hospital in Chattahoochee, released a year later to a Clearwater halfway house and then to a less-restrictive halfway house in Tampa. But Miss Rose wound up in the Hillsborough County Jail last month after halfway house officials banned her for being obstinate, disobeying rules and not bathing or changing clothes regularly. Although her attorney suggested an inpatient facility for Miss Rose in Tampa, Circuit Judge M. William Graybill on Friday ordered her returned to Chattahoochee. "This court owes a duty to protect Miss Rose," the judge said. "And my opinion is she needs in-house, on-hands psychiatric evaluation and treatment." Mental health experts believed Miss Rose killed her children after snapping from the stress of an impending divorce and the threat of losing custody.

Feminists hope woman gets USF job

TAMPA — Advocates for women hope University of South Florida President Francis Borkowski's departure will bring an end to the male stranglehold on the top post at Florida's nine state universities. They plan to lobby the state Board of Regents to appoint a woman to the USF post. "I'm going to hit them hard," said state Rep. Suzanne Jacobs, D-DeLray Beach. "I'll let them know of my intense interest in a woman being appointed." All of Florida's public university presidents are male, and only one woman has ever served as president. State Education Commissioner Betty Castor said she wanted a "strong leader" for USF, regardless of gender, race or color. Women's groups were disappointed when regents recently tapped Executive Vice Chancellor Roy McTarnaghan to run the planned 10th university in Fort Myers when three women were among the five finalists. "Last time we thought folks would do the right thing," said Kate Gooderham, president of the Florida Women's Political Caucus. "We're going to make it better known that this isn't just a good-old-boy system any more." Chancellor Charles Reed said he's sensitive to the desire for a woman president and said he would "work very hard to have a representative pool of candidates," he said Friday. Borkowski, who survived a sports rape scandal at the Tampa school, resigned Friday to become chancellor of Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C.

Walkers ready to help hungry

By KELLEY MITCHELL Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Pledges are tallied and tennis shoes are ready to go for the area's Sixth Annual Central Florida Walk for the Hungry. Walkers of all ages will leave Centennial Park this afternoon at 3 p.m. and make their way through the historic streets of Sanford to raise money for the hungry. Each walk site will have both a five mile route for avid walkers as well as a shorter, one mile walk for families with small children and for senior adults. There will be four different locations this year, including Sanford, at Centennial Park, Longwood, West Orange and Church Street Station in downtown Orlando.

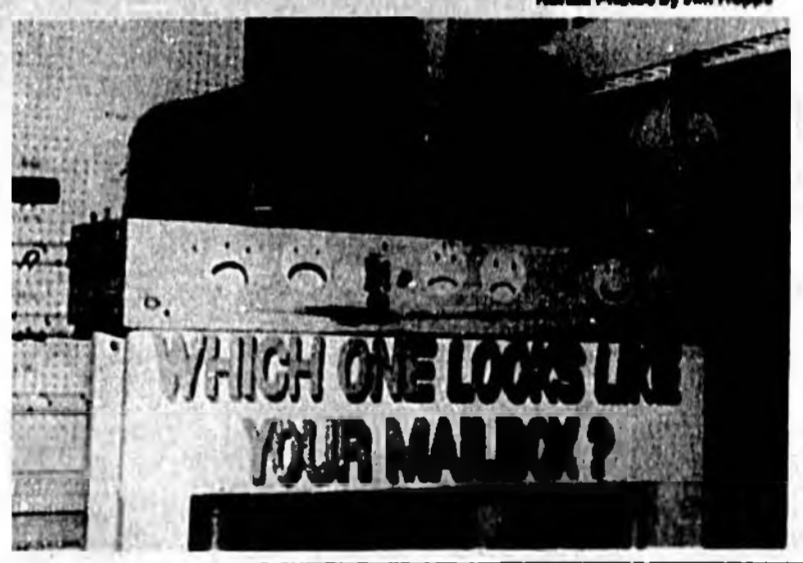

Sponsored by Church World Service, the walk raises money for Second Harvest Food Bank of Central Florida, Catholic Social Services, Christian Service Center, South Seminole Christian Sharing Center, in Longwood, and West Orange Daily Bread. Funds are also shared with people of Yugoslavia, Somalia and Hurricane Andrew victims through Church World Service. Pledges collected from those walking in the Sanford event will benefit local organizations. Twenty-five percent of the money collected will be broken down as follows: The Sanford Christian Sharing Center, on 25th Street, will receive nine percent of the pledges; Reacue Outreach Mission, on West 13th Street, Sanford, nine percent; Grace N' Grits, at Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Sanford, two percent; and Second Harvest Food Bank of Central Florida, five percent. Last year over 1,300 walkers raised more than $41,000 in Central Florida. This year, the goal is $55,000. Registration is at 2:30 p.m. at Centennial Park, on the corner of Fourth Street and Park Avenue, here in Sanford. The walk will begin precisely at 3 p.m. Sponsors of the annual walk include Red Lobster, The Olive Garden and Winn Dixie, Universal Studios Florida, Church Street Station and Florida Hospital, Cecil's Texas Style Barbecue Restaurant, Ripley's Believe It or Not Museum, Thomas Sweet Ice Cream, POA Outdoor Advertising, Talkradio 104.1 FM, WKCF TV 18, The Orlando Business Journal and Nabisco.

Cop has mixed jury; trial begins Monday

By MIKE FLORES Associated Press Writer

ORLANDO — Prosecutors of an Hispanic policeman accused of killing two blacks heaved a sigh of relief when last-minute help from a judge gave them a jury with both ethnic groups represented. The jury panel seated Friday for the manslaughter trial of William Lozano includes three whites, two Hispanics and one black. One of three alternate jurors also is Hispanic. "We're happy with the panel we selected," said prosecutor John Hogan. "Obviously, we have always tried to get a jury that was reflective of Dade County." Lozano's defense attorney Roy Black rushed to catch a plane to Miami and was unavailable for comment after the jury was sworn in Friday. Testimony begins Monday afternoon, and the trial is expected to last about three weeks. The Colombian-born Lozano, 33, a suspended Miami officer, is charged with two counts of manslaughter in the deaths of a black motorcyclist and his passenger. The shooting incident triggered three nights of racial violence in Miami in January 1989. Lozano was convicted later that year of manslaughter, but the verdict was overturned by an appeals court that ruled the Miami jury could have been influenced by widespread concerns over renewed violence. Circuit Judge W. Spencer Thomas ruled that jurors cannot be publicly identified by name or address until six months following the trial. But some of their occupations and personal background were disclosed in questioning by lawyers. Juror No. 68, is white, in her 50s, the wife of a corporate attorney and has three grown daughters.

Juror No. 132, a white male, 7-Eleven convenience store manager, in his 30s. He was in the Navy in the 1980s. His brother is a Philadelphia policeman. Juror No. 88, a Hispanic male in his 50s. Doesn't like guns or motorcycles, but respects those who serve their country, including police officers. Juror No. 310, a black female, in her 50s, is a nursing assistant for geriatric patients. Juror No. 264, Hispanic female, in her 40s, is an office administrator for a research corporation for water systems. She has a 16-year-old son, who owns a motorcycle. Juror No. 232, white female, in 40s, formerly worked as a legal secretary. At one point in the final "challenge-and-accept" phase of jury selection, it looked like an all-white, non-Hispanic jury was inevitable. Hogan had only one peremptory challenge remaining out of six awarded each side, and the only minority member (a black man) that had been considered to that point had been ruled off by the defense. But Hogan asked the judge "in the interest of justice," to grant four additional challenges. The defense objected, but the judge agreed to three more challenges apiece for each side, opening the door to the black and Hispanic jurors who had not yet been considered. Lawyers spent this week interviewing about 170 jurors, 50 of them individually, before selecting the final panel. Lozano fatally shot Clement Lloyd, 23, in the head as the motorcycle driven by Lloyd came toward him after speeding away from another officer in Miami's predominantly black Overtown district. His passenger, Allan Blanchard, 24, died of injuries resulting from the motorcycle crash.

Police said he hit his live-in girlfriend, who is three months pregnant, in the stomach.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $4,000 bond.

Sexual battery alleged

Shawn Lamar James, 22, 19 Castle Brewer Ct., Sanford, was charged with burglary to an occupied dwelling, with sexual battery and with false imprisonment by Sanford Police on Thursday.

Police said he entered the victim's 6th Street apartment early Thursday morning and woke her up and told her to remove her clothes.

She attempted to flee twice, police said, but he restrained her by choking her.

Police said she later complied and he sexually battered her. At that time, she recognized him as Shawn James.

She picked him from a photo line up, police said.

He was found a short time later at a relative's home.

Police said that after his arrest, he told them that he had not committed a crime. Instead, police said he told them the victim had left her door unlocked so he could come in for sexual purposes.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held in lieu of $25,000 bond.

From in school suspension to jail

Francisco Espinosa, 18, 190 Lazy Cir., Casselberry, was charged with possession of a controlled substance and possession of drug paraphernalia when he was arrested at Lyman High School by Longwood Police on Thursday.

Police said Espinosa, also known as Frank Woody, was supposed to be on in school suspension when an assistant principal saw him drive on campus. The assistant principal told police that he had been acting in an unusual manner.

A search of his person revealed a small bag of suspected marijuana in his hand.

A search of the car revealed two other bags with residue of the same substance in the seat where he had been sitting. There was also a pipe in that seat.

Police said that the substance in the bags tested positive as marijuana.

Espinosa was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $500 bond.

Burglary charged

Oscar Salcedo, 20, 473 Sun Lake Cir., Lake Mary, was charged with burglary and grand theft by Seminole County sheriff's officers Thursday.

Police said he entered a house on Spring Valley Rd., Altamonte Springs, through an unlocked back door.

Deputies said he removed a 27 inch television and a set of speakers, all of which are valued at $1,854, from the house.

Deputies said he told them he targeted the house because he "knew the residence had nice things."

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $5,000 bond.

Disorderly conduct alleged

Johnnie Lee McKinnin, 35, 291 Broadway, Sanford, was charged with disorderly conduct by Seminole County sheriff's officers on Friday.

Police said they responded to a call at 1100 Brandon Ave.

Police said McKinnin had been involved in the fight. Afterward, while officers were conducting interviews, McKinnin was very disruptive and loud. Deputies said he then pointed his finger and yelled at another man. After deputies separated those two, McKinnin walked up to a woman and slapped her in the back of the head.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $100 bond.

Mom claiming pregnancy bias sues after being fired

By PAT LEISNER
Associated Press Writer

TAMPA — Margaret Bonnell said her joy at being pregnant turned to rage when her boss urged her to get an abortion, then put a basket of pennies on her desk and told co-workers it was an abortion fund.

"I was outraged," said Ms. Bonnell, who was nearly 5 months pregnant. "I never considered abortion."

Two weeks later she was fired from her job as an assistant manager for a national property rental company, she said in a federal lawsuit.

"I was fired because I was pregnant," said Ms. Bonnell, holding 7-month-old Justin on her lap during an interview at the Tampa offices of her attorneys Howard Shifke and Anthony F. Gonzalez.

She said her boss, property manager Toni Henry, said her lack of production was the reason for her firing May 4, 1992.

The 30-year-old single mother alleges pregnancy discrimination in a damage suit against Boca Raton-based Altman Management Co. No dollar amount was specified in the complaint filed April 28 in U.S. District Court.

"It's all nonsense," said Charlie Coulkins, company attorney. "Supposedly getting fired for refusing to have an abortion is a ridiculous allegation."

The suit states simply Ms. Bonnell "was terminated without cause."

Coulkins wouldn't give a reason for the firing but said Friday the company has instructed him to fight the suit. He said he hasn't had a chance to look into the allegations and didn't know anything about an abortion fund.

But Ms. Bonnell, who received pay raises and letters of commendation during her two years with the company, said she is certain her pregnancy led to the dismissal.

"Toni strongly suggested abortion. I don't know if it was a personal opinion or she was hinting at what the higher-ups wanted. It was never stated if you don't get an abortion you'll be fired, but it was insinuated," Ms. Bonnell said.

"I wouldn't be useful to them anymore like I was when I was single and able to move from office to office on a day's notice."

When Ms. Henry put the wicker basket on her desk and told colleagues it was an abortion fund, Ms. Bonnell was insulted and speechless.

"I was shocked. I was 28 years old, not 18. I made sufficient money to raise a child. I had plenty of room in my apartment. And I was on my own."

"I never said anything. I let people talk about it because I didn't want to ruffle any feathers. I needed the job," she said.

Ms. Henry said Friday she was not permitted to discuss the case. "I can only tell you no comment and to contact our attorney," she said at her office at the Lakes of Northdale.

In late March 1992, Ms. Bonnell went to see a doctor because of stomach pains. She had a sonogram and discovered she was pregnant. She had Justin in October.

"As soon as I saw him on ultrasound, there was no way anybody could ever convince me to have an abortion for any amount of money," she said. She told Ms. Henry she wanted to talk about vacation and maternity leave.

"Abortion was suggested to her; she was told she should get one," said Shifke. "As soon as she talked about taking maternity leave she was gone."

Ms. Bonnell, who rides and trains polo horses, said she was out of work a year and had to farm out her polo ponies to friends.

Waterfront work continues to flow

By NICK PFEIFER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Work on developing the Waterfront Master Plan is progressing. Another gathering is planned for this week.

"We started out scheduling four meetings," said Sanford City Planner Jay Marder. "We have now had all four, but things went so well, we are setting up meeting number five."

The meeting, scheduled for this Wednesday afternoon, will again be for members of the Steering Committee. The committee met first to establish direction, then two meetings were held for public input. They were followed on April 28 by another committee meeting.

"The fourth programmed meeting ended on such a high note we must continue the work," Marder said. "We are now concentrating on a beginner project, plus working on plans to continue the lakefront planning project."

Marder is suggesting the "beginner" move might be to have a specific area of the lakefront, and possibly include the historic downtown and historic residential areas, as part of a scenic route.

"We could put up signs or banners and do it in conjunction with the city's new welcome signs that are planned," Marder said. "Of course at the present, it's just something we want to begin looking into, but that's why we call it a beginner plan."

A representative of a prominent area billboard company has contacted Mayor Betty Smith, who forwarded the call to Marder. "They want to meet with us and give a presentation on a community advertising plan," he said. "A representative will be meeting with us during this week's meeting."

In addition to the beginner plan, Wednesday's meeting is also expected to see a move toward establishing the Waterfront Steering Committee as a standing committee of the City. Discussion will center on the membership and length of terms for committee members.

"If they all agree to this," he said, "I'll be coming up with an ordinance to establish the committee and present it to the City Commission for their approval at some later date."

Marder said there are about 20 members of the committee at this time, and he expects the entire group might be approved for the standing committee appointment.

"Recognizing that there is much work ahead in order to realize our vision and dreams for the waterfront," Marder said, "the Steering Committee has decided to keep on trucking."

The meeting will be held Wednesday afternoon, beginning at 4:30 p.m., in the City Manager's conference room on the second floor of Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Avenue.

Protesters to picket Rachel's Mens Club

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

CASSELBERRY — Protesters from South Orange County will travel to Rachel's Mens Club on State Road 438 in Casselberry to draw attention to the club's sister establishment in Taft which will ask the Orange County Commission for the permits required to expand their facilities.

The group will stand outside the building, starting at 10 a.m. today to make the public and the company aware of their opposition to the adult entertainment establishment.

"We're hoping to hurt them financially," a spokesman for the group said Saturday. She said the company needs to be made aware that the community does not approve of their form of entertainment.

"If we are willing to travel all the way to Seminole County from our community down here, I think that says something," the spokesman said.

She said the group believes that an adult entertainment establishment increases the amount of drunk driving and prostitution in an area and that it decreases property values.

"We don't want a place like this to be able to expand," she said. "We're doing what we can to hurt them financially to get their attention."

George Smith, a spokesman for Rachel's, refused to comment on the protest.

"I really don't have a comment," he said Saturday.

Juvenile crime: No problem is without solution

Commenting about youth discipline problems, Seminole County school bus driver Andrew Jackson spoke for many adults.

Jackson said parents and other authority figures have simply lost control over young people. He believes they were better behaved when they were afraid of the consequences when they did something wrong.

The observation has merit. It may well be the explanation for increased crime among teenagers.

Parents are hesitant to punish their child for a wrong-doing. They are afraid the youth would respond by running away from home, reporting the incident to authorities such as HRB, or even physically attacking them.

Teachers, school bus drivers and other school personnel face the same fear of repercussion.

Courts appear to be getting more lenient with punishment for even serious youth crimes.

Embarrassment won't even work. Unless a youth is to be tried as an adult in court, names of teenage criminals are not being made public.

One possible light at the end of the tunnel is that an increasing number of people are beginning to discuss the problem and look into possible solutions.

Youth crime is more of a topic of conversation in Washington, Tallahassee, and at the local level in schools and homes.

If information pertaining to the growing youth crime problems continues to be published, more people will realize the magnitude of the problem. In the case of other major problems, individuals working together can produce amazing results.

Keep informed. Give serious consideration to the causes. No problem is without a solution.

Heartfelt thanks

Downtown Sanford merchants are frequently called to donate door prizes for almost every event happening, regardless of where it occurs in the city.

It has been my experience that they are generous, yet given limited recognition except at the event itself which is not always attended by the public at large.

I would like to give our keenly felt thanks to the businesses who either gave door prizes or helped in some way in the successful series of "Fashionscapes" sponsored by St. Lucia Festival and the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association to purchase period costumes for special events.

They are: Sanford Flower Shop (who also provides decorative flowers and plants in addition to gifts), Stairs Realty, Forever Fashions, Lois' Place, Knights Shoe Store, Kustom Krafts, First Street Gallery, Shoin Photography, Vincent Jewelers, Christo's, Soup to Nuts, Colonial Room, Styles by Rick, Betty Anne's Hair Styling, Touchton's Drugs, and Bigger and Better.

A special salute goes to the Antique Station's Dee Terranova and Granny Annie's Joe Altman for staging the interesting display from their two antique stores plus items from Delightful Finds and "I Remember That." It is the forerunner of a trend of the future.

The two were dressed in turn-of-the-century costumes and brought color and excitement to the event.

It is the generosity and involvement of the businesses, but more importantly, their cooperation and vision of what Sanford could be that will bring about the revitalization of our downtown historic district.

First-year legislator talks politics

State Representative Marvin Couch represents the 33rd District and shared some of his experiences as a neophyte member of the august body. There were 47 new members out of a total of 120 state representatives.

State Representative Couch indicated that the first few days in the state capital can be overwhelming. Particularly when one thinks of the enormous responsibility one has for the 22 constituents. Membership on several of the 12 House committees is very important. He was pleased to receive assignment to the following committees: Finance-Tax, Health Care, Community Affairs and Criminal Justice. Committee membership varies from 22-32 members.

Reporting about the Finance and Tax Committee, Couch fought against taxing "S" corporations in the same manner that "C" corporations are taxed. "S" corporations are tax exempt and 80 percent of the people in the state are employed by "S" corporations, small businesses. Taxing "S" corporations would mean that small businesses hiring several employees would be taxed at the same rate as Disney World. This would drive many small businesses out of business. This bill was defeated in the state senate.

No taxes were passed this session. However, there was an attempt to correct some of the existing inequities in funding for education statewide. Although Seminole County's contribution to the state's tax base is substantive, we rank 68th out of the 67 counties in what is received from the state. Therefore, monies allocated for education was increased $3.74 per pupil while the average per pupil increase was $2.95.

Regarding health care, Florida was the first state to pass a managed care system. The 11 Health and Rehabilitative Service Districts were designated Community Health Purchasing Alliances or CHPA. Each CHPA will develop an accountable health plan by involving doctors and insurance companies. In essence they will function like HMOs.

Medical access has also been included to insure that the 2.5 million Floridians will be able to buy into the plan. Research indicates that the majority of the 2.5 million Floridians not covered by a health plan are employed. This will give them the option of buying into the program. Preventative health care is the key to eliminating costly trips to the emergency room.

Rep. Couch is proud of the bill he introduced in the state House of Representatives and State Senator Gary Segal supported in the senate. Rep. Couch's bill dealt with the "Geneva Bubble." There is a fresh water lens that is completely surrounded by saltwater near Geneva. It is the only fresh water in over 50 percent of the county. The high incidence of growth in the area has caused concern among residents who fear the water might become contaminated. It is a natural phenomena and a water supply. The bill introduced by Couch was to create a task force to determine the impact of growth on this water supply. The task force will be comprised of 12 persons: five selected by the county commissioners and seven from state agencies. The county commissioners have already made their choices for the task force.

Couch will attend the governor's special session of the Legislature, called to introduce a 25 cent cigarette tax to fund a 21,000 prison bed request. They did fund approximately 7,000 beds already, without increasing taxes.

Doctor steps up to save children

CHICAGO — The wife of Croatian President Franjo Tudjman must regret picking a fight with a plucky pediatrician from a nearby suburb who is directing a mini-Marshall Plan from his basement to save Croatian war orphans.

Croatia may be one of the most complicated corners of the world for some politicians, but not for Miroslav Kovacevic. To this 48-year-old Croatian immigrant, who came here more than 20 years ago to study medicine, one thing remains refreshingly uncomplicated: "It's finally time that somebody said stop fighting the kids. If you want to have a war, kill each other. Leave the kids alone. We realized that these children live in horror, and they are sentenced to live in hatred," Kovacevic says. "A stranger walks into their home and shoots their mother or father and burns down the home. Now if we are to find a stranger (from the U.S.) who says I really love you, I think that is kind of neat."

If you want to have a war, kill each other. Leave the kids alone.

Kovacevic is sitting in an ornately appointed dining room in his stone mansion, part of an exclusive subdivision of suburban Oak Brook, where homes fetch seven figures and a guardhouse screens visitors. He's removed from the woe of war-torn Croatia both in comfort and distance. But last year he took a sabbatical from the suburban good life to help heal the physical and mental wounds suffered by the young victims of this war of ancient hatreds.

Kovacevic founded the non-profit Save the Children of Croatia. The idea sprang from a Christmas care package sent by his wife, Vianja, in 1991. A young boy wrote a letter back pleading not to be forgotten. "I wrote him back the same night a long, long letter, and I put $50 in it," Viana explains.

The couple knew they couldn't save all the children single-handedly, so they hunted for "sponsors" from Croatian-American and other communities across the United States (and now the world). The sponsors pledge $50 a month to essentially "adopt" a child. The response has been overwhelming, generating nearly $1 million since being launched about 15 months ago. More than 3,000 children have been matched with sponsors.

Since Croatia's ministry of social services is in virtual shambles, Kovacevic's program works largely through good detective work by trusted friends and associates. Identifying orphans sometimes involves macabre methods — such as attending funerals to ferret out the newly orphaned.

Finances were also a problem at first. Kovacevic consulted with Chicago church officials, whom he tapped as a trusted middleman for transferring money from sponsors to children, using a Croatian bank. To be sure the money is falling into the right hands, the children or their guardians are required to write monthly to their sponsors, explaining how the money is being spent.

But Kovacevic's program almost collapsed last December when Anika Tudjman, the president's wife, and others inexplicably assumed control of the Croatian bank account that controlled the fund's money. Kovacevic told us that Tudjman issued written orders to freeze the funds and to keep the account off-limits for inspection. At the time, Tudjman was an honorary chairwoman of the organization, a figurehead at most. There was only $612 in the account when it was seized. Overnight, the Save the Children of Croatia account and its activities fell under the direct control of the Croatian government.

Starting behind after college

BOSTON — The parents have assembled to offer season's greetings. It is commencement season in this city that harvests students by the tens of thousands. It arrives each May with lilacs and mortarboards and departs in June with lilies and diplomas.

These parents have come from far to sit through endless ceremonies of pomp and circumstance, culminated by doo-wop choruses of popping champagne corks. They will listen to earnest words and familiar rites of passage.

For this event their children will wear the traditional uniform of robes. They will be dressed in garments of pride.

Duly designated commencement speakers will exhort their young to, well, commence. They will tell them to begin, start fresh, change the world. At every point on the commencement compass, somebody will describe these graduates as the future, our future.

But in private these days the parents ruefully share their beliefs that a funny thing has happened on the way to the bright future. One generation's great expectations have become another generation's diminished expectations.

One parent tells me what she is giving her son for college graduation: room and board. His old room and family dog.

Another tells me what she is giving her daughter: health insurance. Actually, she says, with humor, she is thinking of collecting installments from grandparents and friends the way she once collected silver from wedding guests, a place setting at a time. Is there a gift registry for college graduates? she asks ruefully.

A third parent talks about what her boy really wants. A good job in his field. She describes it wistfully, the way a gentleman's C-scholar might long for a Phi Beta Kappa key.

These parents were not raised to be so cynical about education. But they have become conscious of a graduate generation gap — from baby boom to bust.

Two and three decades ago, they went to college to get ahead. Their children go to college to keep from falling behind.

Michael Harrington once called this the Uptoe syndrome. At a parade the second line stands on its toes to see over the heads of the first. Every line behind that has to stand on its toes just to keep the same view.

In a country more and more divided into well-off and struggling, the bottom line of this dividing line is still a college degree. But it no longer guarantees a place at the parade.

In the country at large, economists talk about the loss of consumer confidence. Here on campuses, consumers of education have also lost their confidence.

The hard cold facts of a higher education, an expanding class of graduates in a shrinking economy, are these: 1.1 million students will graduate this year. Many, even most, will be officially overqualified for the jobs they'll have trouble finding.

Some of the parents who have come to celebrate bet the mortgage quite literally on a college education for their children. Others have children who will leave owing money.

The graduates of one generation may have worked their way through college. The graduates of the next may have to work off college. Today students go to school the only way they can. Buy credits now, pay creditors later. Suddenly, it's "later."

Americans born in the 1940s and 1950s used their 20s to pay for the future — homes with children. Americans born in the 1970s may use their 20s to pay for the past — loans with interest.

These parents are not whining, but worrying that the class of 1993 is a debtor class. Young people with a past. That's why these consumers of education have lost their confidence.

Our country's optimism was based on the belief that the next generation would do better. But for a long time that belief was in turn based on a faith in education as the great, infallible yeast. This year the parents who will watch their young people coming into season — commencement season — see freshly minted adults with more to offer than offers. They worry about children who are starting...behind.

And when the champagne corks are popped across the country's quadrangles, they wonder how you keep the lively bubbles of a whole new generation from going flat.

The parents ruefully share their beliefs that a funny thing has happened on the way to the bright future.

Poll: Americans support health care reform but doubt benefit

By JEFFREY GOLD
Associated Press Writer

TRENTON, N.J. — While Americans are relatively satisfied with the health care they get, 85 percent support major reform of the system even though most believe they won't benefit, according to a new poll.

The telephone survey of 2,000 randomly selected adults found 58 percent believe reform will affect them negatively because of higher costs without improved quality or a decrease in quality for the same or more money. Twelve percent expect to gain.

Although most are at least somewhat satisfied with their current care or health insurance, two-thirds also said they would pay a little more for a national program that provides health care to every American. Fifty-six percent support "major changes" and 29 percent support an "overhaul."

The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, founded by the chairman of Johnson & Johnson, gave $184,000 to the Harvard University School of Public Health to conduct the survey.

"Any elected official looking to public opinion for a safe stand to take on health-care reform is in for a shock," said Dr. Steven A. Schroeder, the foundation's president.

"Right now, any position you take will offend some view held by a majority of Americans," he said.

The poll, conducted March 18-25, has a margin of error of plus or minus 2.5 percentage points. The unpublished survey was provided to The Associated Press.

Harvard professor Robert J. Blendon, co-director of the survey, said he expects to present the poll's findings to Hillary Rodham Clinton's task force on health care reform.

Request

youth sports organization in Seminole County.

But commissioners Bob Sturm and Daryl McLain opposed the request, saying the request was reasonable.

"I think it was very reasonable considering where the money came from and where it was going," said Sturm. "It's always possible it would be precedent-setting, but I think we should consider each request on a case-by-case basis."

Eslinger had requested permission to use the money from the $98,000 Law Enforcement Trust Fund. The coffee is filled with the proceeds of vehicles, homes and other seizures from felons. Although pegged for the sole use of the sheriff, commissioners control the fund purse-strings. But denials of sheriff's requests are rare.

Study

Florida, Arizona, Iowa, North Carolina and Oregon were awarded grants to study juvenile justice.

The Florida research study, headed by Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) program administrator Ted Tollett, will focus on a variety of topics including minority over-representation. Statistically, there are more minorities in the juvenile system than there should be based on general population figures.

The study will cross reference information on juveniles gleaned from the courts, education records, social service records and the like.

Of the 1.3 million youths between the ages of 10 and 17, living in Florida in 1992, about 80,000 were involved in the juvenile justice system. Of that number, 60,000 were in school, Tollett said.

Although many people might think the number would be higher, Tollett said juveniles account for only 12.3 percent of the total arrests made in 1992.

"There are a lot of people who probably think it would be a third or even 50 percent," Tollett said, with recent publicity focusing on juvenile crime.

Tollett said the project began when he was asked by the supreme court to do a study on racial and ethnic bias in connection with multi-cultural research he was conducting.

The initial project, partially funded by a $100,000 grant, has generated twice as much money through additional grants for the research to continue, he said.

Along with studying youths in the system, Tollett said information from adult inmates will be used to show the effects of early abuse, neglect, learning disabilities, social and economic factors.

Researchers for the project are three individuals with PhDs in sociology, psychology or criminology.

"Nobody has ever done a study like this before," Tollett added.

Although initial data will be available in a few weeks on each county, Tollett said Hillsboro County will be the focus of study where the problem of minority over-representation in the juvenile justice system is most severe. If more funding becomes available, Tollett said the study might be extended.

"I hope the study will be a long-term project," Tollett said.

Kids

Strong self-esteem helps students learn other things, Schapker said.

She said that most of the students she deals with on a daily basis are well-behaved and eager to learn.

"Once a kid learns the competencies he needs, it all kind of snowballs," she said.

Don Smith, principal of Lake Mary High School, agrees that most of the young people with whom he deals are "great kids."

With strong support from home, most of his students, he said, are "talented, focused young people, who are hard-working and achievement oriented."

"Discipline and family support help them develop strong self-esteem and everything else follows," he said.

Wolfgang Halbig, an assistant principal at Lyman High School, said that while the public always hears about the students who get into trouble, little notice is taken of the good students who make up the majority of the youths.

"We don't give the good kids the recognition they deserve," he said.

Mike Taylor, resource officer at Sanford Middle School, said that young people have a basic desire to be well-behaved and productive.

"They need to be involved in activities and they need to learn good decision-making," he said.

Taylor said that most of the students he sees are "really good kids."

Emphasis, he said, is placed on those who get into trouble.

"Very few kids are bad, but the ones who are are the ones we notice the most," he said.

Stenstrom

phone and after a couple of calls I found out that David Ogden of 2412 South Key Ave. in Sanford was usually called on to play taps at such funerals.

I got David on the horn and we went over the words. But we weren't sure.

So, he did some research on his own. He came up with something I'll wager not one veteran in 10,000 ever knew. I know I'd never heard of it. Did you know there are two verses to the one-hundredth tradition of the U.S. Army?

Here's the second verse: "Here's the second verse for our days 'neath the sun, 'neath the stars, 'neath the sky. As we go, this we know, God is night."

Everybody who reads this ought to clip it and glue it to a blank page in front of the family bible and be sure their pastor gets a copy of it. It's almost a sermon in itself.

I asked Dave if he was ever in the military service. Yep, he was a Navy veteran. Naturally, I inquired if he served at the Sanford Naval Air Station. But I found out he never spent a day in a Navy uniform here. Of course, that led me to ask how he happened to live here and for how long? The answer to that is a story almost within itself.

Dave is from Clearfield, Pa. (That's almost "splitting" distance from my wife's hometown of Indiana, Pa.). But after the service Dave lived in Lockport, N.Y. He worked for General Motors manufacturing air conditioning units and radiators. In his spare time he played baritone horn in the Bergholz, N.Y. German Band, headquartered five miles from Niagara Falls. (The baritone horn is the German version of a small tuba.)

Each year Rosie O'Grady's booked the band for a one-week engagement at downtown Orlando's "Octoberfest." The Ogdens like it as well here in Central Florida they decided to buy a house in Sanford and call it home.

Now, back to our inquisitive young caller. You now know everything there is to know about "Taps" except for who wrote the music and the lyrics. And, it wouldn't surprise me if somebody out there reading this either knows or will be contacting the Department of Defense in Washington to find out.

Got a call recently from Janet Grant that I found to be interesting. Her mother came to Sanford many years ago on one of those steam powered riverboats that carried passengers as well as cargo up and down the river from Jacksonville to Sanford. The main reason her mother chose to travel by boat was because her grandfather, Clarence E. Schutte, was an engineer on one of the steamers. After we ran the photo of the "City of Jacksonville" in last Monday's edition of the Herald several folks called to tell us that one time a riverboat sank while docked at the old St. Johns River Line warehouse on piers out over the lake.

I not only remember the incident but I've mentioned it a couple of times in the more than 125 columns I've now coaxed out of this old manual typewriter.

The vessel was "The Osceola." Its cargo had been unloaded. The steamer was being loaded with crates of fresh oranges. Remember, this was before the advent of citrus concentrate. Folks up "nawth" got their juice right out of the orange.

I don't recall what happened but suddenly "The Osceola" started sinking and it didn't stop until its keel hit the lake's bottom. For some reason the fruit began to swell. The crates burst open. Thousands of oranges covered the St. Johns. It was indeed a sight to behold.

They raised "The Osceola" and loaded it again with fruit for the trip to Jacksonville. The last fruit I saw from that mishap was floating under the U.S. 17/92 bridge heading for Jacksonville and the Atlantic Ocean.

The good Lord willing, we'll be with you next Sunday morning.

Senioritis sweeps Seminole High

SANFORD — A condition is sweeping Seminole High School.

It is not only the students at all grade levels, but also the teachers.

It is especially affecting upperclassmen.

The condition is characterized by an intense restlessness, an indifference to school work and to activities.

It also brings with it a great yearning for the end of the school year.

This condition of epidemic proportions is known commonly as Senioritis.

To combat Senioritis and to help members of the senior class through the rest of the year with fun and interest, a number of activities have been planned.

Last Tuesday, May 11, was a senior class pep rally. At the pep rally, information was handed out about upcoming activities.

There was also entertainment provided by the Seminole High School band.

Yesterday, Saturday, May 15, was the date of the Prom.

The Prom is always one of the most memorable events of a student's senior year.

On Thursday, May 20, Seminole High School will celebrate the best of the best during the annual awards night.

At the ceremony, academic excellence is recognized.

Representatives from the community, organizations, businesses, clubs and some colleges, universities and other schools officially give out scholarships and awards to deserving students.

The week of May 24 through 28 has been designated as Senior Week.

On Monday, May 24 there will be a "Senior Breakfast" for all the members of the senior class.

On Tuesday, May 25, seniors will get to eat ice cream in their Senior Park.

On Wednesday, May 26 the seniors will get to show pride in themselves, in their class and in their school during Senior Pride Day.

Finally, on Friday, May 28 there will be a Senior Picnic at the stadium after school. That activity will be the conclusion of Senior Week.

The following week, May 31 through June 7 is exam week.

On Monday, May 31, there is no school because it is Memorial Day.

On Tuesday, June 1 there is a talent show and an assembly just for the senior class.

On Wednesday, June 2 and Thursday, June 3, are the days that have been put aside for final exams.

On Tuesday, June 8 there is graduation practice at the Thomas E. Whigham stadium.

And, of course, the next day, Wednesday, June 9, is the day that Seminole High School seniors have been waiting for all year: Graduation!

Moonlight and roses dance success at Greenwood Lakes

By SARABOCCA ROSIER
Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY — On Saturday, May 8, Greenwood Lakes Middle School held its annual eighth grade graduating class "Moonlight and Roses" dance from 7 until 10 p.m.

The handsomely-attired students were dressed in a variety of fancy sequined party dresses. For the young ladies, black was the predominant shade.

The young men seemed to favor washable silk shirts and dressy black slacks.

White or off-white shirts predominated. Both long and short sleeves were popular. There were some color and printed shirts thrown in for some variety.

Most of the cars arrived at right about 7 p.m. with parents dropping the students off.

Most looked around for friends and eyed each other to see who was wearing what and to walk into the gymnasium with friends.

The gym was dimly lit with tiny lights and filled with red, white and black balloons everywhere, mostly on the floor and stage.

Dry ice and the floating balloons, plus large vases of red, white and pink roses all around certainly attested to the theme of "Moonlight and Roses."

There were just dozens and dozens of red roses and Baby's Breath at the cookie and snack stands and large bunches of white roses and Baby's Breath by the punch bowl.

There were dozens more roses by the snack tables with pizza slices, fruit trays, veggie trays, chips and dips.

The entertainment was provided by the XL106.7 Party Machine.

Refreshments were donated by Goodings, Publix, Julia Grayson of Pizzeria Uno, Pizza Hut and Domino's Pizza.

Natly-attired eighth graders prepared for the leap to high school with a graduation dance at Greenwood Lakes Middle School in Lake Mary last week.

Losing sleep impairs immune system

SAN DIEGO — Travelers, insomniacs and weekend partygoers beware: losing a few hours of sleep just once a week can impair the immune system, a researcher says.

Losing just three hours of sleep between 3 a.m. and a person's normal waking time causes a 20 percent to 30 percent decrease in the activity of natural killer cells, which help fight viruses and cancer, said Dr. Michael Irwin, a psychiatry professor at the University of California, San Diego.

Irwin recently presented his preliminary findings in Hawaii during the annual meeting of the World Federation of Sleep Research.

He plans to continue the study to determine whether people who lose a few hours sleep actually get sick more often.

Ear cleaners can cause infections

LOS ANGELES — Spoon-like bamboo ear cleaners commonly used by Asian immigrants can trigger infections of the ear canal and facial skin, doctors warn.

The cleaning devices, called mimi kaki in Japanese and kwi shi shi in Korean, are used to remove earwax and relieve ear itching. They are usually made of a bamboo strip with a carved-out spoon at one end.

But use of the devices can scratch the protective skin layer in the ear canal, "providing an entrance for organisms that can cause infection," Dr. Richard Berry of Los Angeles and Victor Collymore of Riverside said in a letter in the May issue of the Western Journal of Medicine.

The doctors reported two cases of ear canal and facial skin infections caused by the devices. The patients were a 64-year-old Japanese man and a 65-year-old Korean man who complained of pain and swelling in the ear and face. Both were treated successfully with antibiotics.

Berry and Collymore estimated that Japanese people in Southern California alone buy 6,200 to 7,000 of the ear cleaners each year.

Emphysema wrongly diagnosed

LAKEWOOD, Calif. — A study suggests that many chronic lung disease patients are wrongly diagnosed with emphysema and instead suffer "rusty plumbing," or poor air flow through small airways in the lung.

The study involved 56 consecutive chronic obstructive lung disease patients treated at Lakewood Regional Medical Center, south of Los Angeles. Doctors previously had diagnosed emphysema in 56 of the patients based on lung-function tests.

But detailed CAT scans — sophisticated, computerized X-rays — of their lungs revealed that only 10 of the 56 really had emphysema, according to the study published in May's issue of the American Review of Respiratory Disease.

HOUSE CALL

By ANTHONY J. ARCIOLA, M.D.

Help is available for incontinence

Urinary incontinence affects approximately one half of all adult women at sometime in their lives.

Urinary incontinence thought to be caused by aging in the past, is typically brought on by changes in the body, occurring from outside insults such as metabolic diseases such as diabetes or other disease of the hormonal system or by outside influences such as trauma or injuries. Changes in body chemistry brought on by pregnancy or by the use of prescription drugs can also influence urinary control.

The problem of urinary incontinence or the inability to control urination should be treated. The first step in correcting the problem is a thorough medical examination which should also include laboratory testing of the blood and the urine. Long term effects of urinary incontinence can include permanent loss of bladder function with continued incontinence or urinary retention (the total inability to empty the bladder).

Other major problems can occur secondary to incontinence. One of the most frequent and frustrating problems is breakdown of the skin of the groin area secondary to the constant wetness and subsequent fungal infection that occurs in that area. These problems if left untreated can result in serious conditions of the skin occasionally requiring surgical correction. When recognized they can be successfully treated.

Urinary incontinence can range from losing a few drops of urine during straining, coughing, laughing or sneezing, or severe frequent wetting, up to the maximum amount of incontinence where the individual is incapable of holding on to any urine that is produced, resulting in a severe social and physical disability. After the patient has seen a physician, how one goes about treating this condition is dependent on what is causing the incontinence. Medication may be the treatment of choice, correction of the underlying problem (whether it be medical or surgical) may also be the treatment of choice. This decision is dependent on the findings of the urologist and other physicians involved with the patient's case.

Treatment options include bladder training or strengthening of the muscles of urination and control, administration of medication or correction of the underlying metabolic or physical problem. Most patients who seek treatment for their incontinence can expect some degree of improvement over time when working with their physician. Bladder training although it sounds quite simple, does require practice to achieve the eventual goal which is: becoming "totally" dry. Some patients get no benefit from bladder training and other techniques need to be instituted. Surgical correction is also used to correct this common problem of men and women.

If you are incontinent or would like further information about the condition of incontinence or know someone who has difficulty with this problem, contact your physician and seek the help of your urologist. It is very important to remember that treatment "is" available.

Anthony J. Arciola, M.D. is a specialist in urology with offices at 1423 Medical Plaza Dr., Suite 101, Sanford, and 704 W. Lake Mary Blvd., Suite 115, Lake Mary. The health column is provided as a community service by the Seminole County Medical Society. Inquiries may be directed to the medical society.

New study shows unnecessary, questionable hysterectomies

By TERRI LIKENS Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO — Forty-one percent of hysterectomies in seven large health maintenance organizations weren't needed or were questionable, say researchers who suggest that managed care alone won't cure the medical cost explosion.

About 16 percent of the hysterectomies performed were clearly unnecessary, concluded a study by Rand Corp., a think tank specializing in health and defense issues. Another 25 percent were of questionable value, the researchers said in Wednesday's issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association.

Researchers reviewed 642 hysterectomies among seven HMOs serving 4 million people in five states.

Earlier studies indicated that traditional fee-for-service physicians often perform hysterectomies unnecessarily.

Hysterectomies, in which the uterus is surgically removed, are most commonly performed to treat benign uterine tumors, a purpose that lately has come into question. Hysterectomies also are done for reasons including removing malignant uterine or cervical tumors and treating uterine bleeding disorders.

Though the number of hysterectomies has been declining, more than 500,000 are still performed each year, at a cost of about $2 billion, the researchers said.

Managed care is a general term for organizing networks of doctors and hospitals to give people access to quality, cost-effective health care. The systems are intended to limit overuse of procedures such as hysterectomies. HMOs were the earliest forms of managed health care.

The Clinton administration has sounded enthusiastic about managed care as part of its efforts to reform health care.

Elizabeth McClynn, a Rand researcher and co-author of the new study, said that without constant review, managed health care will share problems with standard fee-for-service care.

"The tendency for the last decade has been to try to control costs," but without spending some money to evaluate the efforts they can backfire.

Amish rally around grieving families

FREDERICKSBURG, Ohio — The deaths of five Amish children, hit by a car as they walked home from a birthday party, unleashed a wave of sympathy and support for their families, both from members of the close-knit, deeply religious community and their non-Amish neighbors.

Hundreds of Amish from as far away as Illinois began arriving Friday evening in the heart of Ohio's Amish country to console relatives of the children. Up to 1,500 were expected to arrive before the funerals Sunday morning.

Many came by car — the distance forcing them to abandon their horse-drawn buggies. It was unclear if the Amish were driving themselves or being driven by non-Amish.

"You can't imagine how many people are offering to help with food and things like that," said Martha Miller, an Amish woman who lives nearby. "And not just the Amish — all people in this area try to help each other, especially at a time like this."

Convicted rapist gets 40 years

AUSTIN, Texas — A rape victim who asked her attacker to wear a condom tearfully thanked the jury that sentenced him to 40 years in prison and said the case shows women who try to protect themselves aren't consenting to sex.

Joel Valdez, who was sentenced Friday, had testified during his trial that Elizabeth "Xan" Wilson consented to have sex when she asked that he wear a condom. Ms. Wilson testified that the request was a desperate effort to protect herself from AIDS as he raped her at knifepoint.

"Self-defense does not equal consent," Ms. Wilson told the jury Friday as Valdez stared at the floor.

The 26-year-old artist, who agreed to disclose her name after the trial, smiled and embraced friends as the jury announced the sentence. But she cried when she got up afterward to read her statement, thanking the jurors and saying she would not live as a victim.

Clinton says military force still option

WASHINGTON — President Clinton, rejecting criticism of his strategy to stop the bloodshed in Bosnia, says his administration is not wavering but instead has put forth "a clear, strong policy."

Clinton said Friday that his threat of military force against Bosnian Serbs "is still on the table" despite opposition from European allies.

Forced to put his policy on hold, Clinton said he would continue to press the allies to support a dual policy of arming the Bosnian Muslims and limited bombing of Serb artillery.

"It has not been rejected out of hand," Clinton said, adding that some allies agree with the plan and that others "are not prepared to go that far yet."

Judge rejects teen's plea bargain

PHOENIX — A judge rejected as too lenient a plea bargain under which a 16-year-old girl would have received a 10-year prison sentence for robbing a woman of about $1 and then killing her.

Michelle Leslie Hoover of Litchfield Park had pleaded guilty to murder in the 1991 slaying of Alice Cameron, 50, of Cave Creek. Hoover said she shot the woman to prove her love to her new boyfriend, 18-year-old Alessandro Garcia, who was watching.

"My feelings for (Garcia) led me to do something I knew was wrong," she told the judge Friday. "I wish to God I could bring her back."

Maricopa County Superior Court Judge Ronald Reinstein said he believed Garcia had influenced her and that she was remorseful.

Newspaper chief Hearst Jr. dead at 85

NEW YORK — William Randolph Hearst Jr., editor in chief of the newspaper empire established by his illustrious and controversial father, has died. He was 85.

Hearst died Friday in New York, according to the San Francisco Examiner, the Hearst chain's flagship newspaper. The cause and exact location of his death were not immediately available.

A formal statement was expected today, said Phil Bronstein, the Examiner's executive editor.

"Bill Hearst's long and illustrious career in journalism extended from the brass newsrooms of the 1920s to the computerized news operations of the 1990s," said Frank A. Bennack, Jr., president and chief executive officer of the Hearst Corp., where Hearst was a director.

"Over these many years, his dedication to the company was unbounded and his counsel contributed greatly to the success that the Hearst Corporation is today. We will miss him," Bennack said.

Man holding children hostage is killed

NEUILLY-SUR-SEINE, France — A man armed with dynamite who held six nursery school children and their teacher hostage was killed this morning by police who stole into the classroom as he dozed. His captives were unharmed.

"The nightmare is over, the children are in good health ... the madman is dead, the law has triumphed," Interior Minister Charles Pasqua told reporters.

The Interior Ministry said the man was killed by members of an elite police squad who entered the classroom after he fell asleep. The man had been struggling to stay awake throughout the drama, which began Thursday.

Bosnian people make decision

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — Bosnian Serb leaders say the people must decide whether to accept a plan to end Europe's worst fighting since World War II. They get their chance in a controversial referendum.

The plebiscite was being held Saturday and today despite opposition from both the international community and Serbian-led Yugoslavia, the chief backer of Bosnian Serb war efforts which is now preaching peace.

Yugoslav legislators on Friday endorsed the U.N.-backed peace initiative, hoping to show the way for Bosnian Serbs. But a Bosnian Serb delegation observing the proceedings denounced the move as illegitimate.

Poland called place to launder money

MIKOLAJKI, Poland — This is a country where checks are unknown, credit cards a rarity and a briefcase full of cash seems a normal business tool: the perfect place to launder ill-gotten money.

Law officers and bankers agree that Poland is on its way to becoming a major launderer of money for international gangsters and domestic swindlers.

"If I had a large amount of cash from drugs ... Poland would look very attractive to me," said Swiss criminologist Gunther Arzt.

Gays banned from student council

By ELISABETH DUNNAN
Associated Press Writer

SEATTLE — A high school student congress approved a measure that would bar openly gay teens from serving in student government, but the principal says it's unlikely the new rule will ever take effect.

The amendment to the Bremerton High School constitution would bar from office students found to be practicing "immoral activities" such as sexual harassment, indecent exposure, sodomy and homosexuality. Its stated purpose is "to preserve the integrity and high moral standards that BHS is built upon."

After hours of heated debate, the measure passed Wednesday 49-47.

The 1,350-member student body votes Monday. But even if the amendment wins the required two-thirds majority, chances of it passing a review by the school administration are slim, said principal Marilee Hansen.

"Every year we deny a couple of amendments," she said in a telephone interview Friday. "I haven't talked to a staff member yet who is pleased with the measure."

Hansen said the anti-gay amendment was proposed by a group of conservative, religious students at the public school in the town of Bremerton, located just across Puget Sound from Seattle.

Among them was Mike Mercer, president of the Young Republicans Club, who addressed the congress wearing a T-shirt that read, "On a Mission from God."

"This sends a message to the school that homosexuality is wrong," he told the delegates.

On the other side were students like senior Todd McCauley, who told the congress that he is gay and made a plea for tolerance.

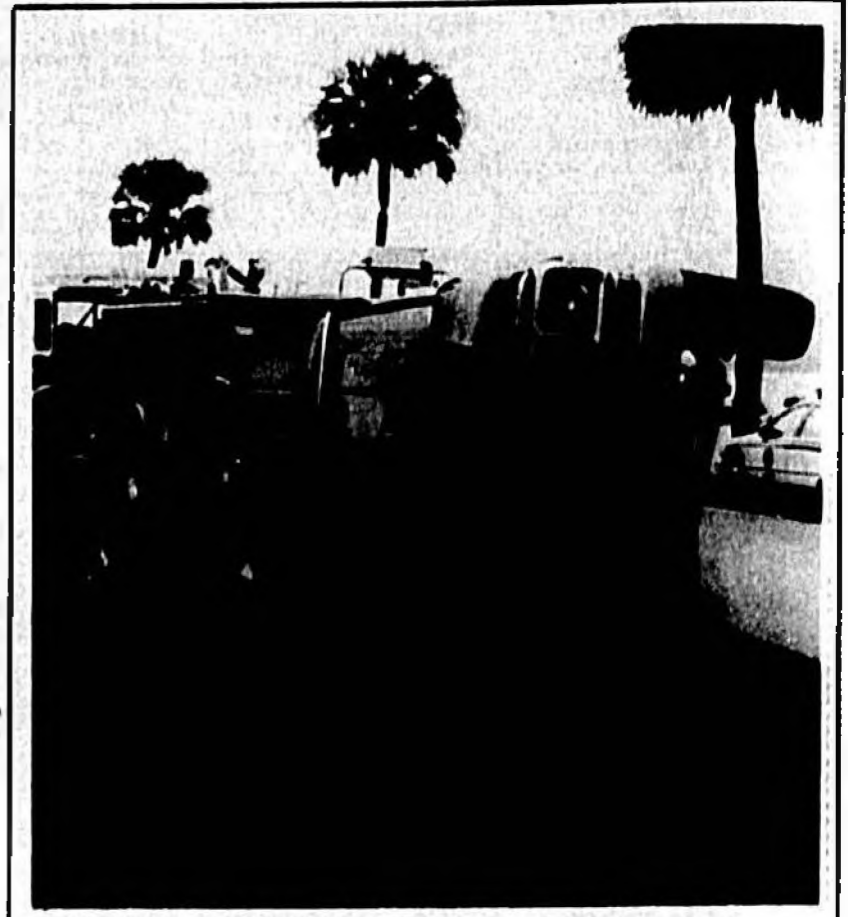

"What I do in my bedroom is no one else's business," he said. "All I do is come here for an education."

Hansen says she disagrees with the amendment and "kind of got sick to my stomach" when it passed the congress. But she said she feels strongly that the students should have the right to debate the issue.

"You have to respect the feelings of the ones who brought the amendment in," she said. "They quote from the Bible and they feel strongly about it. But the kids on the other side are very articulate as well."

The 96-member student council — which usually handles such topics as raising money for dances and after-school activities — convenes once a year as the student congress to debate school policy, Hansen said. Previous constitutional amendments have dealt with such topics as disciplinary appeals and impeaching student officers.

IN BRIEF

AROUND THE NATION

Rigby, Varitek lead Tech

GREENVILLE, S.C. — Top-seeded Georgia Tech took little time putting away Maryland, scoring all of their runs in the first inning in a 6-0 defeat of the Terrapins in the first round of the ACC Tournament.

The Yellow Jackets' Brad Rigby (12-1) allowed only two infield singles in six innings and struck out nine. Chris Myers entered the game in the seventh and Brett Binkley finished the game pitching a hitless ninth inning.

Jason Varitek ignited the Yellow Jackets (45-10) with a two-run double scoring Michael Smith and Ryan Ritter. Varitek ended the game with two doubles in three at bats and two RBIs.

Georgia Tech advances to face the winner of Sunday's meeting between Florida State and Clemson on Monday night.

Foyt hangs up helmet

INDIANAPOLIS — A.J. Foyt, tears streaming down his cheeks, made one last, slow lap Saturday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, then climbed out of the cockpit for what he said was the last time.

The 58-year-old Foyt, who had not driven in a race since finishing ninth at Indy last May, practiced several times this week, getting up to 221 mph in Saturday morning's practice session, and he said he had intended to qualify.

But just 20 minutes before the opening of time trials for the May 30 Indianapolis 500, the sobbing Foyt announced his decision to the crowd of about 200,000 spectators.

After he climbed from his No. 14 Lola and removed his helmet, Foyt strode to the microphone near the finish line and, his voice breaking with emotion, said "It's a hard decision, but there comes a time."

"If I'm going to be a successful car owner, I've got to spend 10 percent of my time with the car and not think of A.J.," Foyt said.

Florida horse wins Preakness

BALTIMORE — Prairie Bayou rebounded from a second-place finish in the Kentucky Derby by becoming the first gelding to win the Preakness in 79 years.

Sea Hero, the Kentucky Derby winner, was fifth in a field of 12 3-year-olds Saturday at Pimlico. There will be no triple crown winner for the 15th straight year.

Prairie Bayou, ridden by Mike Smith, raced the 1 3/16 miles in 1:56.35 and paid $640, $3,600 and $3,400.

He finished a half-length in front of Cherokee Run, who was seven lengths in front of El Bakan, who had finished 18th in the Derby.

Personal Hope, fourth in the Derby, finished fourth again, another neck back, on this sunny, warm Saturday.

Sea Hero finished next, 8 1/2 lengths behind the winner.

Mario leads early at Indy

INDIANAPOLIS — With speeds slower than expected, Mario Andretti led early qualifying Saturday for the May 30 Indianapolis 500.

After Stan Fox, the first person in the qualifying line, waved off an attempt after three laps over 216 mph, Andretti drove onto the historic 2 1/2-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway oval and qualified for his 28th Indy start.

His four-lap, 10-mile qualifying began with a lap of 223.964, slipped to 223.303, climbed to 224.081 and fell off to 222.316 as he came perilously close to the wall. Andretti's average of 223.414 tentatively put him in the pole position for the fourth time, and first since 1987.

Other early qualifiers were Raul Boesel of Brazil at 222.379; 1992 runnerup Scott Goodyear of Canada, 222.344; Al Unser Jr., the man who last year beat Goodyear in the closest finish in Indy history, 221.773; Canadian driver Paul Tracy, 220.708; Guerrero, 219.645; former front-row starter Scott Brayton, 219.637; 1985 winner Danny Sullivan, 219.428; and Scott Pruett, 216.794.

AROUND THE WORLD

Courier in Italian final

ROME — Jim Courier did his part to set up a dream final, Pete Sampras didn't.

Sampras and Courier, ranked No. 1 and No. 2 in the world, were seeded to meet in the first all-American final in the 50-year history of the Italian Open.

Courier, the defending champion, kept his appointment with a 6-2, 6-7 (2-7), 6-0 semifinal victory over sixth-seeded Michael Chang. But Sampras, the No. 1 seed, was eliminated by No. 4 Goran Ivanisevic 7-6 (7-4), 6-2.

Courier, who reached his fifth final of the year, will try to become the first player to win consecutive Italian Open titles since Jaroslav Drobny in 1950-51.

Seminole boys win, girls second

From Staff Reports

GAINESVILLE — Just as for "a lack of a nail ... the battle was lost," for the slip of a baton, a state championship was won at the Florida High School Activities Association's Class 3A state track meet Friday night at the Percy Beard Complex.

Not only did relays decide both the boys' and girls' team championships, both involved the Seminole Fighting Seminoles, the Tribe winning one and losing one.

According to Seminole boys' coach Ken Braman, the Tribe won its second consecutive state championships by .07 of a second, the difference between Bradenton-Southeast finishing fifth or fourth in the 4 x 400-meter relay, the final event of the meet.

Because Southeast finished fifth (and Seminole finished second), the Seminoles escaped with a 33-31 victory.

"It was a real tight finish," said Braman. "It was a great state meet. The performers were outstanding. The past few years, 20 or 21 points would have won the meet. This year, six teams scored 20 or more points."

"It was a battle all the way. The meet was in Ocala Forest's control early. And Bradenton-Southeast couldn't have had a better state meet than it had."

Individual state champions Andre Scott and Bernard Sparrow led the Tribe, Scott winning the triple jump (50 feet, 7 1/2 inches) and taking fourth in the long jump (22 feet, 11 1/2 inches) while Sparrow won the shot put (57 feet, 10 1/2 inches) and finished fourth in the discus (169 feet, 10 inches).

Scott's participation in the long jump almost cost Seminole points in the 4 x 100-meter relay. Scott was still competing in the long jump when it came time to run the 4 x 100-meter relay preliminaries, so Ansel Davis stepped in and helped the Tribe to a fourth place finish in its heat and a berth in the finals.

"With Ansel running, we went 42.3 seconds in the preliminaries and finished fourth by half a step," said Braman. "We barely qualified."

"In the finals, we ran Andre on the leadoff leg. But at the start, Andre's starting block slipped. We still ran a 42.04 out of lane one, our fastest time by .3 of a second, to finish fifth. That was a great performance for us."

Also running on the relay were Cory Wilson, Derek Swain, and Brent Deese. Running the 4 x 400-meter relay were Deese, Aswad Duval, Gary Rowe (who finished sixth in the 400-meter dash, 50.36 seconds), and Kamrh Hitchmon, who combined to run a 3:19.56 in the finals.

"That was our fastest time of the year," Braman said. "They all ran the fastest splits of their lives. That's what it took. That's how close the meet was."

"That's how close the girls' meet was as well. Jacksonville-Ribault edging Seminole 30-27 for the team title."

Again, relays were the deciding factor. In the 4 x 100-meter relay, Seminole dropped the baton and didn't score in the event (which Ribault won). In the 4 x 400-meter relay, Ribault's Juanee Brown fell to the ground several feet shy of the finish line on the last lap, then got up and managed to finish third.

Had Ribault finished fifth or lower, Seminole would have been the team champions. By the same token, a top-four finish in the 4 x 100-meter relay would have given Seminole the team title.

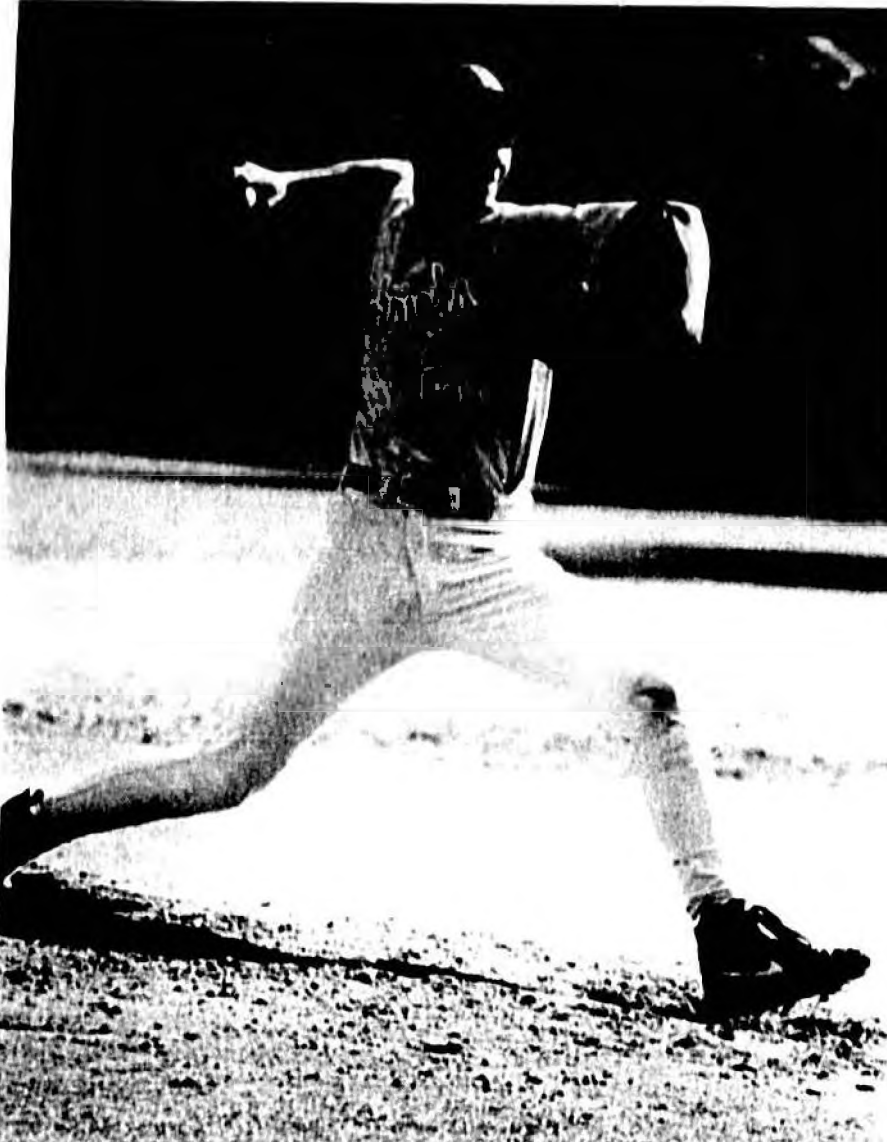

Seminole's efforts were hampered further when Kschia Lawrence suffered an injury in the preliminaries of the 300-meter low hurdles. Lawrence had the third fastest time in the event, but was unable to run in the finals.

"We had them (Ribault) on the ropes," said Seminole girls' coach Nate Perkins. "We were that close. The girls had all the confidence in the world going into the meet."

Lako Brantley's Mitch Schardt kept his team in the game with outstanding relief Friday night, holding Wellington to no runs and striking out two over four innings after entering the game in the first inning.

Lake Brantley's bid falls short

By TOM LANHAM

WEST PALM BEACH — The evening did not live up to the beginning.

Lake Brantley's Patriots fell to the home-standing Wolverines of Wellington High 5-4 Friday night in the 4A-Section III championship baseball game despite a lead-off home run from Jason Jallet.

Swinging on the very first offering from eventual winning pitcher Mark Browson, Jallet hit a sharp line drive over the center field fence to stake the Patriots to a 1-0 lead.

Browson rebounded to strike out two and pick off a runner to end the inning, but a positive tone had been set for the Patriots.

That feeling did not last long. Wellington's third batter of the evening, third baseman Billy Campbell, topped Jallet's blast with a three-run homer to left to give the Wolverines a lead they would cling to all night.

The worst part of it was that the runners ahead of Campbell reached base due to a walk and an error on a potential double play grounder.

Two batters later, Mitchell Schardt replaced Patriot starter Sean Goldstein and worked through the fourth inning, yielding no hits while striking out two.

Meanwhile, Browson stranded Patriot runners in scoring position in the third, fourth, and fifth innings, striking out a total of 12 batters on the night.

Lake Brantley did score once in the fourth as Eddie Doyle came home on a "single" by designated hitter Brent Warzocha. Warzocha stole second and third, but could get no further.

In the home half of the sixth inning, Wellington scored two valuable insurance runs on a double by Steve Prince off reliever Brett Black, who had taken over for Schardt to start the fifth. A fine diving catch by Patriot centerfielder Wess Iler started a double play to kill the rally.

Iler then led off the seventh inning, reaching base on catcher's interference. On the next pitch, first baseman Joey Harner hit a home run over the right field fence. After the celebrating died down, Browson struck out the next two batters.

The Patriots stayed alive courtesy of two Wolverine errors. Jeff Butler reached base on a sharply hit grounder misplayed by LAKE WALES — Lake Wales High School is becoming a thorn in Seminole High School's side.

For the second time this year, the Highlanders have eliminated a Tribe squad one victory short of the state tournament.

Back in February it was the boys basketball team. Friday night it was the baseball team turning the trick knocking off the defending state champions, 5-3, in the Class 3A-Section II championship game.

"This is tough to take," said Seminole head coach Mike Powers. "We had the bases loaded twice with less than two outs and only scored two runs. We just couldn't get the big hit."

Seminole (24-9) had an opportunity to get on the board immediately as the Lake Wales pitcher, Johnathon Rockness, walked three men in the opening inning. But after David Eckstein led off with a walk, he was caught stealing. Two more walks put runners on second and third with only one out, but the next two flew out ending the threat.

The Tribe finally broke through in the third inning as, with two out, Matt Diemer walked, Matt Freeman singled and Jeremy Chunet doubled to score Diemer.

The Highlanders (26-8) answered right back in the bottom of the third inning as Anthony Moore tripled to right center, his team's first hit, and Cleatus Davidson grounded out scoring Moore.

Seminole had a chance to break the game open in the fourth inning as it loaded the bases with two out on a walk to Robby Morgan and infield singles by Eckstein and Scott Ferguson. But a

Bickering starts over equal opportunity softball law

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Coaches say the likely confusion in girls' high school softball next season shows politicians should stay out of sports.

The sponsor of a bill forcing high schools to offer girls' fast-pitch softball says failure to do so before now shows why her legislation was needed.

Opponents say slow-pitch softball lets more girls take part. But fast-pitch is what universities play, and offer scholarships for.

"If you wanted to apply that to boys we'd be playing tag football and they don't suggest that," said Rep. Mary Ellen Hawkins, sponsor of the bill on equal opportunity for women in athletics.

"They would never make that argument for the boys. Right there is the problem," Hawkins said.

The bill signed by Gov. Lawton Chiles last week says schools that don't find enough interest to field a fast-pitch softball team can play slow-pitch, and coaches predict confusion over who plays who, and how schedules and playoffs will be organized.

"All the problems in Florida and you get a Legislature to initiate a bill on something like that," said Sam Budnyk, slow-pitch softball coach for 18 years at West Palm Beach Cardinal Newman High School.

In addition to lawmakers, the courts are involved. Parents filed a lawsuit against the Palm Beach County school board that may be moot because of the new law. Circuit Judge Susan Lubitz has a hearing slated Monday.

The Florida High School Activities Association doesn't have a count of which schools will play fast-pitch and slow-pitch. Its survey of schools for spring sports doesn't go out until August, spokeswoman Cecelia Jackson said.

"I think it will stay pretty much the same," predicted Wink Barnett. See Politics, Page 2B ground out on which Ferguson was just nipped at second squelched the chance.

With new found life, Lake Wales exploded in the bottom of the fourth inning. After a strike out, Rob McCollum doubled and went to third on a single by Duane Cadieu. Moore walked on four pitches to load the bases and Davidson angled through a drawn in infield to plate pinch-runner Kip Windham and Cadieu. A wild pitch scored Moore with the third run and Davidson advanced to second.

After a ground out, Rockness singled to score Davidson, chasing Chunut (7-3). A hit and an error reloaded the bases, but Todd Braden got a strike out to stop further damage.

Use your phone to find fish

Finding a place to go fishing now is as easy as picking up a telephone.

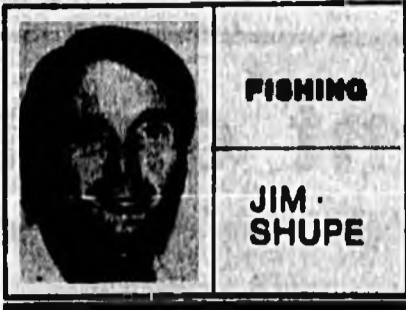

By dialing toll-free 1-800-ASK-FISH (273-3474) with a touchtone telephone, anglers can find out what bodies of water are available in a specific area, fishing regulations, locations of campgrounds, boat ramps, and access for physically-challenged persons.

The system is designed so callers can enter the letters of a city near where they want to go fishing. They then can enter their preference for what kind of fishing they want to do.

Sound Response, a Portland, Ore., company specializing in the telephone service industry, is working to establish a nationwide system that enables anglers to find their own fishing information. The system is now in place in Oregon and Florida, and will be in Arkansas and Kansas soon.

According to Doug Bean, vice president of Sound Response, the system will carry the same telephone number throughout the United States. Callers are asked to enter the area code which they are interested in, then enter specific geographic locations.

Bean said his company received a continuing annual $40,000 grant from the American Fishing Tackle Manufacturer's Association (AFTMA), funded through the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Sport Fish Restoration Program. The funds are derived from excise taxes on the sale of fishing equipment.

SHUPE'S SCOOP
I always make phone calls before my fishing trips, especially when planning to go offshore. Is the water clean? What are the seas like? What's biting, and where? All of these questions are easily answered by phone calls to tackle shops, and fishing buddies.

FISHING FORECAST
It seems as if the weather pattern is finally becoming stable, and we can look forward to some really great fishing before summer sets in.

On the freshwater scene, look for excellent bass fishing from Pussie Lake south to Lake Winder. Farm Pond 18 is producing huge bass on wild shiners, but is packed beyond capacity on the weekends.

Snook are turning on at Sebastian Inlet. In the daytime, fish the outgoing tide with live bait. At night, one-ounce jigs and a wide variety of lures will work just fine. Most of the snook are running from 10 to 15 pounds, with redfish, flounder, trout, and jack crevalle mixed in for good measure.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports good offshore action with dolphin. Scattered weedlines in 140 to 300 feet of water are producing good numbers of fish from 10 to 30 pounds.

The buoy line is slow, but sheepshead and bluefish are active inside the Port. Guide Troy Perez reports excellent redfish action on the flats of the Banana and Indian rivers.

It's mainly sheepshead and bluefish at Ponce Inlet. A live or dead shrimp will not last long on the bottom when it's fished from the north or south jetties. Trout and redfish action is hot back in Mosquito Lagoons.

New WestVolusia phone book

The West Volusia phone book, a product of United Telephone Company of Florida and Reuben H. Donnelley, is now being distributed. The book includes complete white and yellow page listings for all areas in West Volusia as well as Sanford, Lake Mary and Heathrow.

Kathy Hardman, spokesperson for the new book said, "We request that West Volusia residents recycle their out-dated phone directories in their curbside bins to help reduce the amount of trash that enters our landfills."

For recycling information in W. Volusia, phone the county Solid Waste Management department at (904) 736-5982.

Day care information

Community Coordinated Child Care for Central Florida, Inc., (4C) is now offering a guide listing all child day care, medical and special needs services for children in Seminole, Orange and Ocoola counties.

The information, underwritten by local corporate sponsors, is being offered at no charge.

The guide gives information about each child care facility including a complete description, price, location, and services available.

Phoebie Carpenter, 4C president commented, "The director is very thorough and includes information about medical services and products available for children from birth to eight years of age, as well as parent support groups and programs with special needs."

The directory is available free of charge at the Sanford 4C office, 2475 Park Avenue, the office at Seminole Community College, or at the 4C headquarters, 1812 E. Colonial Drive in Orlando. Carpenter said they will also be available through local United Way agencies.

4C is a community-based non-profit children's services coordinated agency based in Orlando and serving Sanford and a number of other area communities.

Legal clinic for low-income seniors

The Seminole County Bar Association Legal Aid Society is conducting a walk-in legal clinic for low-income Seminole County senior citizens. Applicants must be 60 years of age or older and qualify financially to receive free legal services.

The walk-in clinic is located on the Seminole Community College campus in the RSVP office, portable building 72, on Weidon Blvd. The clinic is held every Wednesday morning beginning at 9 a.m., and applicants must sign in by 10 a.m.

For further information, phone the Legal Aid main office in Longwood, at 834-1660.

NEW BUSINESSES

Home video editing

Amateur home video buffs now have an opportunity to edit their material into videos in a professional manner. Joana and Fern Loory, a husband and wife team with extensive professional experience in TV news and sports, have opened EditWorks, at 185 Wekiva Springs Road, Suite 101, Longwood.

EditWorks is equipped with do-it-yourself editing suites and other equipment amateurs can use to give their videos a polished look.

"Using our equipment, amateurs can add titles, music and narration," Loory said. "They can edit out all of the duplication, poorly focused or meaningless material, and end up with finished products that will wow an audience."

For further information on EditWorks, phone 862-3113 in Longwood.

Investment purchase

Jerry L. Youderian, a CPA from Orlando, has purchased 30,000 square feet of warehouse space located at 240 Power Court, in Sanford's I-4 Industrial Park. Jim Duke, of Duke Properties in Maitland, brokered the transaction. Duke said the selling price of the building was $342,000. "The building is divided up for multi-tenant use," Duke said. "It has five or six bays, and Youderian is purchasing it as an investment buy, so any future use or re-sale will be up to him to decide."

Duke has been very active in selling property in the Sanford area. He recently closed on an arrangement with Private Source Furniture Makers who will be moving to a 20,000 square foot building on Silver Lake Drive.

"I am also working on another major sale of an industrial complex in Sanford," he said, "but I won't be ready to make that announcement for several more weeks as soon as all of the arrangements are made."

Duke Properties is located at 2400 Maitland Center Parkway, in Maitland.

BUSINESS LEADERS

New life for vacant old building

By NICK PFEIFFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

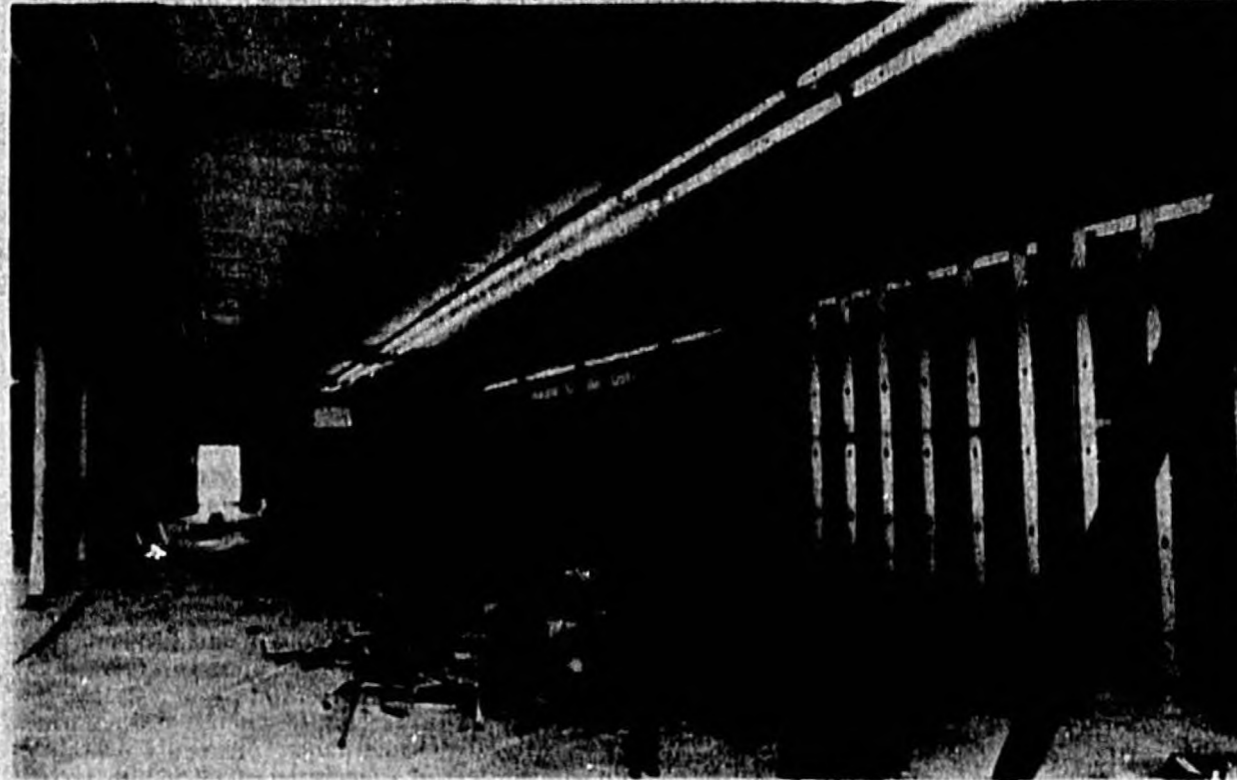

SANFORD — Vacant for a number of years, one of the longtime focal points for downtown Sanford shopping is in the process of getting a new life. The old McCrory's building at 105 E. First Street is being divided and remodeled in the interior.

The building is presently owned by three separate groups. Two Woodruff families have the western and center areas. The eastern side, toward the adjoining Colonial Room is owned by G. Andrew Speer and George A. Speer Jr.

George Speer's son, Tommy, explained some of the history of the building. "Many years ago, it was operated by the Canner family as a dry goods store," he said. "Their son, A.O. Canner, went on to become an appeals court judge in Lakeland."

The building was several separate stores actually. One of them was the old location of the Firestone store. "When Firestone moved, McCrory's took over and widened it out to what it has been recently."

Work underway at the present time includes installation of two fire walls from the front to the back of the building, somewhat like it was prior to the McCrory's occupancy. "Eventually," he said, "the building will have three front doors and three back doors when the restoration is finished."

Speer said he knows of no immediate plans for leasing any of the building. Plans for the restoration were cheered a number of weeks ago at a meeting of the Sanford

Historic Preservation Board. There is no indication of how long the present work will take. Work only includes the interior of the building at this time.

Protect kids

Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Jeanne Kingford, a resident of Lake Mary, has become local spokesperson for major efforts to promote the Project Safe Baby Campaign.

"I have children of my own," she said, "and I certainly have a full realization of how much help seat belts are in protecting the lives of our children."

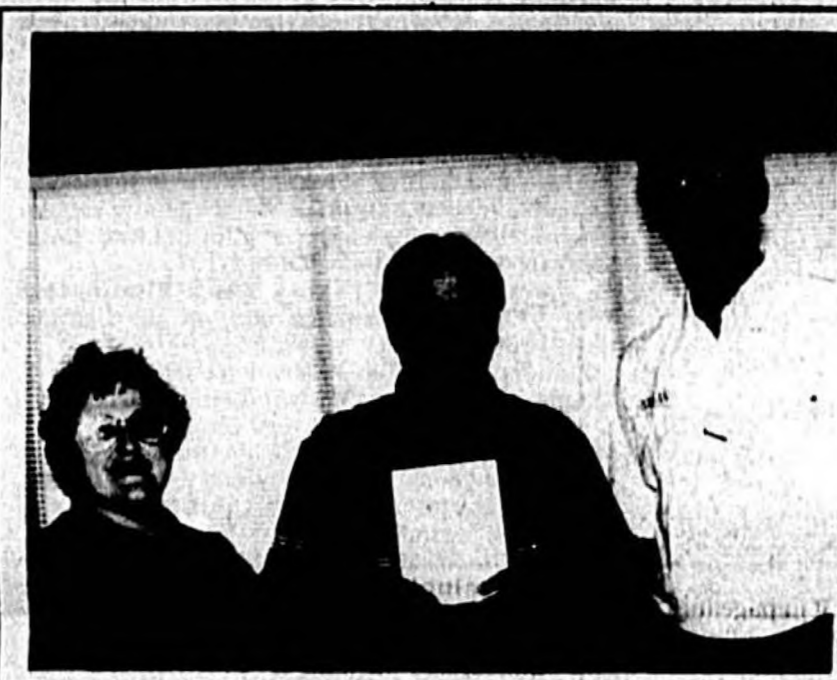

She added, "From time to time, I see people with small children who aren't using child seats, and I often wonder if I'm looking at an accident just waiting to happen."

The drive was developed by Midas Dealers in Central Florida and the Orange County Sheriff's office.

The aim of the drive is to increase awareness of the importance of using car seats, increase the correct use of car seats, and increase the availability of low-cost car seats.

"About 650 children from birth to age four are killed each year as occupants of motor vehicles," said Ralh Koransky, Orlando Midas dealer. "Child car seats save about 250 children each year. That number could double if every child in the country was buckled up correctly in a car seat."

Longwood agent is top achiever

By NICK PFEIFFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Mike Utz a local Primerica Financial Services, Inc. agent, was recently recognized for his sales achievements by being named one of the "Top 100" sales leaders nationally for Primerica Financial Services during 1992.

With the recognition, Utz has also been named a charter member of PFS's Leadership Council.

The Longwood businessman placed in the top one percent of all PFS agents in the U.S. and Canada, with his agency selling over $110 million in mutual funds, life insurance and other financial services.

"People are concentrating like never before on how they can improve their financial picture," he said. "We've seen more people already this year than at the same time last year, and they are emphasizing savings with mutual funds as the big investment vehicle."

Mike, his wife Shirley and daughter Amy reside in Longwood. His office is located at One, Douglas Place, 114 W. Orange Street, Ste. 20, in Altamonte Springs.

IN BRIEF

Kristin Hale

Florida's Favorite Pre-Teen

SANFORD — Kristin Hale, an honor student at Lakeview Middle School in Sanford, was named Florida's Favorite Pre-Teen in the state competition of America's Favorite Pageant. The competition was held at the Sheraton Hotel in Maitland May 1 and 2. She had been selected as a finalist several months earlier based on her application and grade point average.

America's Favorite Pageants stress excellence in academics as well as volunteer and community service in order to promote those skills necessary for a successful future. One third of Kristin's total score came from her application which included grade verification by her principal, James (Jim) Shupe.

Kristin is in the sixth grade, carries a 3.8 GPA, and has been an honor student throughout her school career. She has many diversified interests including ecology, involvement in school activities and organizations such as cheerleading, student council and private tutoring. She has also received several awards for her creative writing accomplishments.

Kristin has been participating in pageants to promote young ladies' academic abilities and self-confidence for several years and has won many awards, cash scholarships and honors through the pageant systems.

While in Maitland for the America's Favorite Pageant, Kristin entered several areas of competition while also competing for the Queen's crown and sash. Along with the Queen's title, she was named Miss Personality, Most Outstanding.

April McFarland

Dazzler of the Week

SANFORD — April McFarland, a tenth-grader at Seminole High School, has been selected by members of the school's Dazzler Dance Team as Dazzler of the Week.

A first year member of the dance team, April says she enjoys listening to music, hanging out with friends and dancing.

April said, "At first I wanted to be on the dance team because I thought it would be fun. Boy, was I in for a surprise! Don't get me wrong, it is a lot of fun, but it's also a lot of hard work."

She continued, "Being on the team, I have learned discipline, most of all. My goal is to continue dancing until I graduate and to also continue improving my self-discipline and my dancing skills."

Singers walk off with top awards in Atlanta

SANFORD — Once again, Seminole High School has proven itself to be a school filled with talent. At the Fiesta-Val National Championship competition held April 16 in Atlanta, Ga., the school competed with the best show choirs in the nation and emerged victorious.

The three choirs, Destiny (a mixed show choir — guys and gals), Pizazz (a female show choir), and Madrigals (a female chamber choir) were able to see their work pay off.

The groups began their quest for success in September with a number of demanding vocal/dance rehearsals which continued throughout the year. Under the direction of Bob Maguire (choral director at Seminole High School for 17 years) and Maureen Maguire (choreographer and dance team instructor), the choirs have been able to combine the best of both vocal and dance techniques.

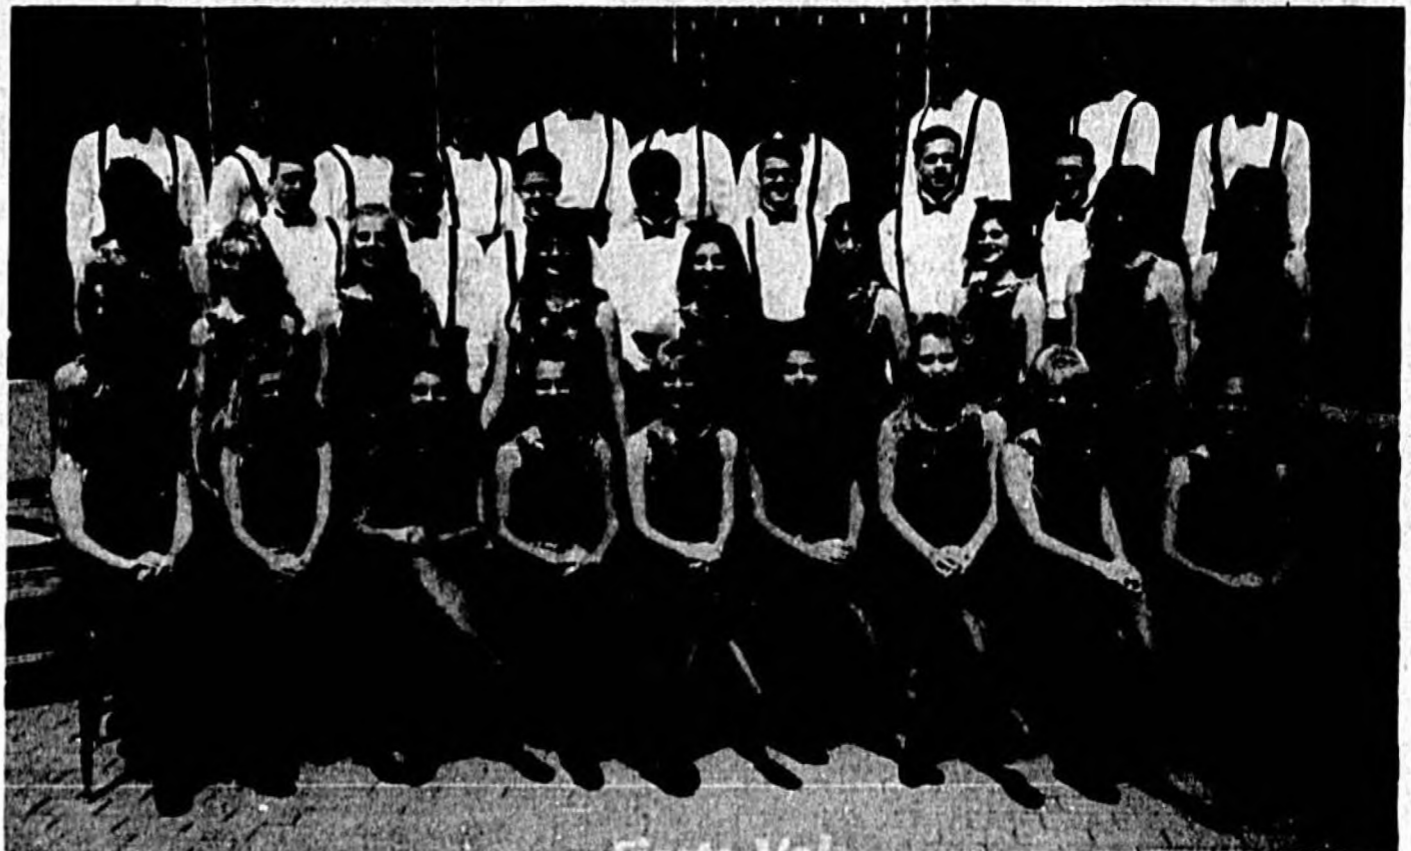

On Feb. 20, all three choirs received Superior (Division I) ratings at FVA District Festival held at Lake Brantley High School thereby earning the opportunity to compete in State Festival held on Florida State University Campus.

On April 15, 112 students and 17 chaperones boarded buses on their way to Atlanta in hopes of returning as national champions. Their aspirations were fulfilled where Madrigals received a Third Place in Chamber Choir (Open Class) and Pizazz earned a Second Place in Show Choir (Open Class).

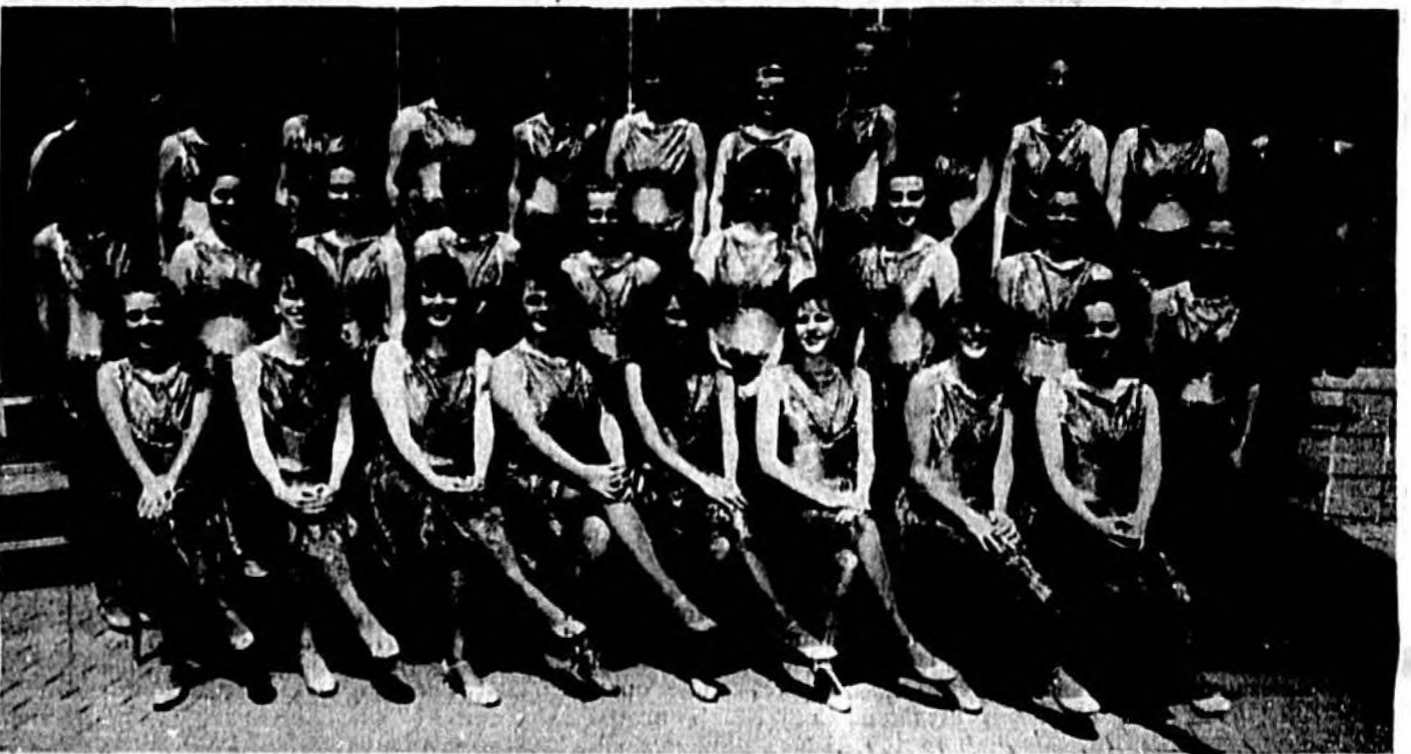

With a standing ovation, Destiny proudly accepted First Place "Best in Class" in Show Choir (Open Class), First Place "Best in Class" in Jazz Choir (Open Class), Grand National Champions in Show Choir (highest score), Grand National Champions in Jazz Choir (highest score). Axel Rodriguez received the Best Male Soloist in competition for his solo during "Bohemian Rhapsody" by the rock group Queen. A total of seven trophies and seven plaques were received by Seminole High School.

Seminole High School show choirs were also invited to premiere an original composition in Fort Lauderdale on May 15 in honor of Florida Day. The composition is written by Jaime Steril and will be part of a two-hour ceremony. They

Beauty and the beach

Sanford woman dresses up milady's feet

By ED KORGAN
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — As the cool winter days turn into warm summer fun in the sun, a lady's fancy begins thinking of summer fashions. And, perhaps, the beach.

Linda Karol Ferguson of Sanford, who worked in the dental field for over 23 years and finally experienced burnout, has decided to take on the new fashion trends by dressing up a woman's foot. Her idea was spurred on by the crocheted and plastic decoratives that were stretched on bare feet back in the 1960s and 1970s.

Ferguson's brainstorming sessions with herself was to come up with a "footel" that was more feminine and dressier that could be worn with heels, sandals or flats.

The footel had to be worn on dressy occasions as well as casual and barefoot situations. It would have to consist of some type jewelry that would enhance the outfit with which it was worn.

The final prerequisite would be that it had to be made comfortable and durable enough to be worn on the feet.

The footels are made with a seven-strand stainless steel wire with a nylon coating. The strand is then decorated with various colors of European glass beads, twists and semi-precious stones. It is a very strong piece of jewelry. The popular "lobster clasp" is used to lock the chain around the back of the foot. It is very simple to wear. The leather toe loop is put over the second toe of the foot, the jewelry design is laid across the top of the foot and the chain is clasped.

"We design and make all our jewelry or footels. When I first made them it was just a hobby. I would show my friends and they loved them. Everywhere I went people would ask me about them (footels) and where they could get them. I was asked so much about them that eventually Frank, my husband, and I decided that we would begin manufacturing them ourselves."

-Linda Karol Ferguson

The footels are made in as many as 17 different colors and because of the way it is made, it fits almost any size foot.

Ferguson said, "We design and make all our jewelry or footels. When I first made them it was just a hobby. I would show my friends and they loved them. Everywhere I went people would ask me about them and where they could get them. I was asked so much about them that eventually Frank, my husband, and I decided that we would begin manufacturing them ourselves. He left his sales career and I left the dental field. Because of the demand for the footel and the other pieces of jewelry we make, we have put our son to work for us also."

Duo visit the land of windmills, tulips, wooden clogs

Jackie Caolo is a globe-trotting gadabout these days. She "scouted out to Dallas" to spend Mother's Day with her family while also celebrating the birthday of her husband, Michael.

Before leaving for Dallas, Jackie and Dot Waller, another world traveler, spent three weeks in Holland visiting with Jackie's daughter and family, Susan and Marco Boot, Michael, 11, and Patrick, 6.

Jackie was in Holland Christmas and can't stay away from the legendary land of tulips, windmills and wooden clogs. She says the real reason she keeps returning is to "read her grandsons bedtime stories."

So when Jackie was getting homesick for the grands, she approached Dot about joining her as a traveling companion on the trip. Sure, Dot would just love to go to Holland.

SANFORD

DORIS DIETRICH

Jackie marveled at how Dot, her friend of 35 years, adapted to her family and the farm country where they live. "Dot was game for everything," Jackie extolled. "I always knew she was nice...she never complained...never bored...a very pleasant companion."

The Boots live in a 200-year-old farm house in Gasteren which is about two and one-half hours from Amsterdam. The quaint farm community consists of 150 homes with only 20 children enrolled in the elementary school. Marco is employed in the family business where packaging materials are manufactured and shipped all over the world.

Dot and Jackie arrived in Gasteren the day after Easter, a national holiday. Dot said all of the dead vegetation from winter was traditionally stacked in a large field with a bonfire set that night to burn out the old and get on with new life. At the time, tulips were beginning to burst into full bloom. "Fields as far as you could see and every color - just gorgeous," Dot said.

Although the country is remote, a rolling grocery store arrives twice weekly as well as a rolling library and a rolling post office and bank combination, all arriving weekly.

Dot told about the village baker who supplied the residents with mouth-watering freshly baked bread daily. She explained that bicycles are everywhere with many relaxing bike paths to accommodate the cyclists.

Jackie said that every year the queen celebrates her birthday in a different village. The travelers took a tour on the same boat that the queen took the week before.

The last time Jackie, a water safety instructor, was in Holland, she chanced to meet a Dutch woman having difficulty in the water. The woman was not doing very well, so Jackie took her by the hand and put her through beginning swimming paces. Incidentally, there was no

Woman admonished for not removing her hat in church

DEAR ABBY: On Easter Sunday, I wore a brand-new hat with a medium-sized brim. Midway through the service, the minister requested that we all "squeeze in" a little closer together in order to accommodate some of the people who were standing.

Suddenly I felt a sharp jab on the shoulder. It was an usher who asked, "Would you mind removing your hat?" I replied, "Yes, I would mind." Then I started to feel a little guilty and tried to get back into the spirit of worshiping. I could no longer see the minister because of the new position of the people in front of me. (Should I have asked them to remove their heads?)

At the service's conclusion, the woman seated directly behind me planted herself in the middle of the aisle and announced that I had ruined her Easter because she couldn't see the minister. I told her that everyone's vision was impaired because of the overcrowding. She loudly admonished me to consider others and stomped off.

Abby, please share with your readers the etiquette concerning women wearing hats, and also address the issue of men removing their hats indoors in cafes, elevators, etc. Sign me...

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR EASTER BONNET: A woman who has bought a new hat for Easter should not be expected to remove it during the service. (Her hair may be a mess.)

And as for the woman who accused you of ruining her Easter because she couldn't see the minister, pray the Lord give her more patience and understanding.

Regarding gentlemen: they should remove their hats indoors, in restaurants, in homes and most definitely in a theater — but never in a crowded elevator. If removing it might place an elbow in someone's eye.

DEAR ABBY: Before we know it, it will be vacation time again. May I pass on some tips on how to be the perfect houseguest? (Mine just left.) She always put her dirty dishes in the sink, kept her bathroom clean, didn't run the water forever, and hung her wet towels on the drying rack over the tub.

She didn't chatter endlessly — she wrote cards to friends while I read the newspaper. When I drove her anywhere, she paid for the parking. She took me out to dinner several times. She wore "footies" around the house that were quiet and rug-savvy. She kept her bed made, and when she left, she neatly folded extra blankets, ready for storing.

She used her own credit card for long-distance telephone calls. And when she left, I was not exhausted, nor was my house in need of maid service. Need I say more? I will welcome her back with open arms!

JEANEL ALLEN DEAR JEANEL: Your houseguest could give lessons on how to be the perfect houseguest. (Wouldn't this be a nice letter to have framed, and hung in the guest room?)

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Ferguson's inventory has been supplemented with her addition of an adjustable waist chain, a 9- or 10-inch anklet, a 7-inch bracelet, an eyeglass chain, a 19-inch necklace and an adjustable boot bracelet. They are all made with the same wire and beads used in the footels.

The footels are becoming available in many retail outlets throughout the state of Florida. As their popularity has increased many outlets in other states have begun requesting information from the footels.

Ferguson happily related, "At first we were just selling to local retail outlets, but as people began to see them we have been besieged with requests for more information about them. We have been forced to also develop a mail order business to accommodate the demand. In the not-to-distant future, we will surely have to expand."

For information regarding the footel, you can write to Karol's, P.O. Box 2988, Sanford, FL 32772-2988 or call 407-323-1931.

By Bernice Bede Osol YOUR BIRTHDAY May 16, 1993

In the year ahead, exciting new developments in your social life could be in the offing. It's very good to make lots of new friends, but don't ignore your old pals.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Even tasks that are normally easy for you shouldn't be taken for granted today. Mistakes are likely if you treat routine matters indifferently. Taurus, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Taurus' Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It might be difficult for you to keep your priorities in order today. The time you allot to frivolous activities could be drawn from time that should be allocated for duties.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Significant objectives are achievable today, provided you're not looking for a free ride. Lady Luck won't fill in the empty spaces that your motivational misses.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you want to give your friends a poor impression today, all you have to do is toot your own horn. Boasting about your accomplishments won't be well-received.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be very careful in joint ventures today, or else you could be the guy or gal who makes the biggest contribution and ends up with the smallest share.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In order to appease another today, you might make a commitment to do something you'll feel you can wiggle out of later. However, this might not be the case.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your judgment regarding a situation you feel will work out OK could be erroneous today. If you want it to work, you'll have to fix it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Try to practice moderation in all of your involvements today. Your tendencies to overindulge could be rather strong, so you might need some self-discipline to keep them in check.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't let it be said of you today that you're only capable of performing well up to a fixed point. Give finishing a project as much energy as starting it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today you might be so concerned with the big picture that you'll fail to see all of the component details. Don't

By Bernice Bede Osol YOUR BIRTHDAY May 17, 1993

A noticeable improvement in your financial position is indicated for the year ahead. However, the gains you make are likely to come about in ways that you would least suspect.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Treat serious developments soberly today, but don't let them overwhelm you. Events will be manageable, provided you don't make mountains out of molehills.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Conditions might be similar today to those that caused you a problem previously. If you think your moves through carefully, it is doubtful that you will make the same mistakes.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you're involved in an activity with friends today where expenses are shared, don't make a big deal about paying a small amount of the bill. It isn't worth it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Should you feel a need to go to others for advice today, don't pick a negative counselor. You need encouragement, not discouragement, if you hope to succeed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you have a poor attitude toward your work today, it will make things much harder than they actually are. This could also have a deleterious effect on co-workers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Avoid taking financial risks today on situations that others control. Your luck may be a bit fragile even in endeavors that you personally direct.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Disagreements with your mate should be resolved as promptly as possible today, or else the bitterness might linger and fester. Don't spoil what could be a good day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even though your assessment of others' faults might be legitimate today, it's best that you keep your criticism to yourself. Your comments won't serve a constructive purpose.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're adept at sorting things out for others today, but you may not be competent in your personal affairs, owing to inclinations to treat small but significant details indifferently.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you anticipate a poor performance from people with whom you'll be involved today, they're likely to play out the roles you scripted for them. Your projections will influence the show.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There's a possibility that you might suffer some form of inconvenience today when someone holds you to a promise you made in a weak moment. Fulfill this promise for the sake of your reputation.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) When dealing with friends today, don't give material matters priority over relationships. Make an effort to be generous to those who treat you generously.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

There are child prodigies in most activities — but not in bridge. How old are the youngest-ever bridge internationals — male and female — do you think?

In today's deal, declarer won the diamond-queen lead with the ace, drew three rounds of trumps ending in hand and played a spade. When West produced the king, declarer won with dummy's ace, played a diamond to the king and led another spade, confirming the 4-1 break.

At first glance it looks as though South needs to find East with the club jack, but declarer showed that this isn't true. At trick eight, declarer ran dummy's club 10 and claimed. The defenders were welcome to three club tricks, but whichever defender won the last trick would be endangered.

If West wins the third club trick, his forced minor-suit exit concedes a ruff-and-discard, whereas if East is on play and exits with a spade, it is away from the 10. Declarer's nine thus keeps the losers in the suit to zero.

It's a pretty example of an elimination and endplay. Not bad for an experienced player, let alone a girl who is only 16 years old. Yes, 16. The declarer was Abbey Walker, who lives in Scotford, England, and has qualified for the English Junior (under-20) team. I expect she is the youngest female international ever.

The youngest U.S. player in this year's World Junior (under-25) Championship will be Eric Greco, who is 17.

The youngest non-junior international ever is Patrick Huang, who was only 15 when he played for Taiwan in the 1958 Far East Championships.
