Dog's tale no longer mystery

FORT COLLINS, Colo. — The cross-country odyssey of Buddy the mutt isn't such a mystery after all.

The dog made headlines and earned himself a spot on David Letterman's show after he turned up in Colorado just three days after he disappeared from his home in Central Islip, N.Y., 1,600 miles away.

The mystery was solved last week, when Joseph VanWart, Robert White and John O'Brien said they were heading West in a car and found Buddy at a gas station near his home, nosing through the trash with a bagel in his mouth.

"We called it over — the next thing we knew it was in the car," VanWart said. "We thought, 'OK, that'll save it from getting hit by a car.'"

And off they went, through New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia. Somewhere in the Appalachians, they stopped for food. That's when they discovered Buddy had tags.

"We got worried — we were wondering after we picked up the dog, did he belong to a little boy," VanWart said. They decided they would find Buddy's owners when they reached their destination.

On March 14, they pulled into Fort Collins, stopping at the home of O'Brien's uncle and letting Buddy free to run around. He was gone the next morning.

Someone had taken him to a humane society, where workers tracked down Buddy's owner, Brian Harrington, through his tags. A few days later, Buddy was on a plane home to New York.

Rooster man whipped

DUBLIN, Va. — It was a tradition at the truck plant: An employee would dress up as a rooster, sneak up behind tardy workers and surprise them with a flap of feathers and a loud crow.

Funny? Not to Marshall Lineberry.

Grumpy from back pain, the 50-year-old assembly line worker responded to the buffoonery by throttling the "rooster."

A judge ruled that the bird had it coming.

"It certainly should not have been unexpected," Pulaski Circuit Judge Colin Gibb said.

It all began 15 months ago when Lineberry showed up late for his 6 a.m. shift at Volvo GM Heavy Truck Corp.

The rooster sneaked up behind him and let out his "cock-a-doodle-do!" Lineberry turned around, jumped on top of the rooster and began choking it. He had to be pulled off by two people, according to a Virginia Employment Commission report.

Volvo GM suspended Lineberry for three months for violating Shop Rule No. J95, which prohibits fighting on the floor, a foul apparently applicable to fowl.

Lineberry, an 18-year employee of the plant who made more than $15 an hour, applied for unemployment benefits. The employment commission denied his claim. Lineberry sued.

Device can detect weapons, drugs, contraband in schools

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — It looks like a prop from a James Bond film.

But that isn't 007 sneaking through the hallways of Seminole County schools. It's Wolfgang Halbig, the district's security coordinator.

In his hand is a small black box, no bigger than a transistor radio with a long antenna. It emits a series of beeps and chirps that help him hone in on what he is looking for.

Halbig has been trying out the new detection device, the Quadro 250-G, in an effort to cut down on the presence of weapons, drugs and other contraband in the schools.

OVIEDO — Many children inherit special things from their parents — their looks, their mannerisms, their money! John Card is able to pass along something priceless to his daughters: a sense of their heritage.

Jennifer and Jacqueline Card will travel with their parents to Philadelphia, and on July 4 tap the Liberty Bell outside of Independence Hall. This momentous honor is reserved for the children of members of the Descendants of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence (DSDI), in a ceremony sponsored by the Sons of the American Revolution.

The $83 million dream

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Some want to buy a dream house...or two.

Some want to put the kids through college.

And some are just not decided.

It seems that just about everybody was out buying tickets for the Florida Lotto on Saturday, in hopes of winning $83 million in Saturday evening's drawing.

In some stores, lines were long, clogging the registers and setting clerks' nerves on edge. In other stores, there were no long lines, but there was a steady stream of hopefuls buying a ticket or two.

Lauraleigh Keene bought 13 Lotto tickets in hopes of being the big winner.

"It's my lucky number," she said of number of tickets she purchased. "I just know I'm going to win something."

Keene said she has no particular plans for the money if she should win the largest jackpot in the Florida Lottery's Lotto game in more than two years.

"I dunno," she shrugged. "Maybe I'll buy a house for me and another □ See Lottery, Page 5A

Sheriff's office opens doors to public

SANFORD — The crowd appeared small throughout the morning at the Seminole County sheriff's office on 28th Street, but there was a steady stream of the curious and the appreciative who filtered through the grounds to see how the department is run.

The annual open house is a chance for the sheriff's office to show off what it has and what it does to protect and serve the public.

"I like coming out here to see the new toys and gizmos they have," said Marcella Davis who was attending the open house with her son Dontay, 7. "And I like to come out here to thank them for all the good things they do for us."

Davis said the sheriff's deputies assigned to her neighborhood talk to the children and reinforce the positive lessons they get at home.

"We got to all work together to raise up these children right," she said. "I like that the deputies want to work with us to help raise up these kids to be good."

Dontay Davis said he thought the deputies were "cool dudes," and that he might one day like to □ See Tour, Page 5A

Looking back in time

The Dark Ages proved to be a colorful subject for the students in William Bovell's (right) sixth grade social studies class, at Lakeview Middle School. Each student could select a project, to present what they had learned about the Middle Ages, including the creation of shields bearing coats of arms, similar to those knights would have carried into battle. They also studied weapons or created miniature dioramas of scenes from the Middle Ages. Students Teana Nelson (from left), Candace Sheppard and Justin Cleveland looked at the shadow box that showed how a joust was used to entertain the crowds long ago. Class members also traveled to Medieval Times in Kissimmee.

Embattled hospital scrambles

TAMPA — As a troubled hospital reeled under a state order virtually shutting down its operating rooms, a man whose foot was wrongly amputated there rolled his wheelchair and softly praised the clamp down.

"I think it's a good thing," Willie King said of the ban on elective surgeries at University Community Hospital.

For it to be lifted, all 326 of the hospital's surgeons and surgical staffers must be retrained in new safety procedures. A hospital spokesman said daylong training sessions were under way and he expected it to be completed over the weekend.

"Hopefully, it will bring some kind of solution," said King. The 51-year-old diabetic lost a foot in a botched amputation at the hospital on Feb. 20, and doctors at another hospital could not save his remaining diseased foot.

Now a paraplegic, he showed up in a drizzly rain with both stumps covered in tan socks for a "walkathon" in his honor Saturday to raise awareness of medical mistakes. "People need to know what's going on," said King, who reached an undisclosed settlement with the hospital and has hopes of getting artificial limbs. "I'm just trying to get back on my feet and walk again."

King's case was the first to focus national scrutiny on the hospital. Eleven days later, 77-year-old Leo Alfonso died after he was mistakenly taken off a life-supporting ventilator by an unsupervised technician. That case is still under a criminal investigation.

Other snafus in the last three months have included an arthroscopic surgery on the wrong knee and a woman who claimed she was partially sterilized without her consent.

Man who bragged is imprisoned

JACKSONVILLE — A man's boisterous claims at a bar that he got a light sentence for DUI vehicular manslaughter landed him in prison for 10 years.

Shelton Carlisle sipped beer and bragged about how he got drunk, drove a car off a bridge and killed two people in 1992. He spent two years in prison and was under house arrest after pleading guilty to two counts of vehicular manslaughter.

His bravado that February night at Nick's Lounge got him busted.

Patrons were offended by his bragging. A few were so incensed they got up from their stools and complained to bouncer Robert Sperton.

"Someone who kills someone like that shouldn't be in a bar. Period," Sperton said.

Friday, Carlisle cried when Circuit Judge Aaron Bowden handed him a 10-year prison term for violating probation.

"He wanted to apologize to the family, the court. Quite frankly, nobody was really interested in his apology at that point," said Assistant State Attorney Lance Day.

On Aug. 30, 1992, Carlisle drove off a bridge on U.S. 17 into the Nassau River. His girlfriend, Brenda Somellian, and friend, Mark Mattox, drowned. Carlisle's blood-alcohol level was .10, the level the state used then to determine intoxication. (Now it's 0.08)

In December 1992, Carlisle pleaded guilty to two counts of vehicular manslaughter and was sentenced to two years in jail, two years house arrest and 10 years probation. After he finished his jail sentence, Carlisle was allowed to leave home only to go to work.

But he and a friend went out for a few beers. Sperton said Carlisle had at least two Budweisers that night at Nick's Lounge.

Florida Jews get hit with matzo prices

While New Yorkers pay about $3.95 a box for any one of the leading brands of matzo, Jewish people in South Florida are getting socked for about $10 at grocery stores for this year's Passover holiday.

"Hmmm, $2 a pound for flour and water. That's a lot of bread," said Rabbi Norman Lipson, president of the South Broward Board of Rabbis.

Spokesmen for South Florida's three big chain supermarkets — Albertson's, Winn Dixie and Publix — say they are not making a profit on matzo.

"Actually, we're selling them at cost. That's what the manufacturers and distributors are charging," said Terry Walsh, a spokesman for Winn Dixie. "We're sure not making any money on matzo."

It could be worse. If you lived in California, you'd be paying $12.99 a box.

For the uninitiated, matzo, or matzoh, is unleavened bread made from flour and water.

Jews eat matzo throughout Passover, the eight-day holiday that begins at sundown next Friday and commemorates the escape of the ancient Hebrews from slavery in Egypt. When the Hebrews fled Egypt, they didn't have time to wait for their bread to rise, so they made flat, unleavened bread instead.

It has now become a symbolic food and must be made from the same 4,000-year-old recipe.

The wide discrepancy in price still remain murky.

County's action affects Lake Mary's

By NICK PPRIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary City Commission was on the verge of approving three new ordinances pertaining to signage Thursday night. At the last minute however, all three ordinances were placed on hold.

Mayor Lowry Rockett explained that Seminole County had voted not to enforce certain county-wide sign ordinances. "And with other changes in the county's ordinances," he said, "it may bring about radical changes in the ordinances the city has had since the mid 1980s."

Rockett suggested the city consider delaying action on its proposed sign ordinances until the county has determined which direction it will follow.

"But we've been putting this off long enough," commented Commissioner Gary Bender. "It's time someone took some action, so that everyone will know what will happen. The city should urge the county to begin enforcement. If we keep leaving everything floating, nothing will happen."

"This is strictly regarding billboards," Rockett commented. "And from what I understand, this shift in the county planning wouldn't necessarily be in the best interests of what the city (Lake Mary) is planning."

Commissioner David Meador suggested the members of the commission and city staff conduct a review of the county's decisions before continuing to move in any direction on the plans.

Following additional discussion, Mayor Rockett suggested obtaining the county report on the billboard ordinances, and after each member of the commission had time to review it, they should relay their feelings to the city manager.

The three proposed sign regulations were each set for approval on second and final reading, and would have become effective immediately.

They involved establishing provisions and regulations for the fabrication, erection and use of signs and other outdoor advertising displays within the city; repealing restrictions on the message of ground signs within the Lake Mary Boulevard gateway corridor and repealing provisions and regulations for banner signs within the Lake Mary Boulevard gateway corridor.

Separate requirements have been determined to be necessary for the corridor and remainder of the city, because the corridor has been considered one of the main entrance areas of the city, and as such, requires separate guidelines.

Nothing further on the three proposed ordinances is expected until the county finalizes its plans. After that, it is expected Lake Mary will re-examine its plans, and bring them back for future commission consideration, discussion, and possible approval.

Zoo scrambles to tint 6,000 Easter eggs for hunt

By NICK PPRIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — During this week, many people will spend some time boiling then coloring eggs for Easter. If the task seems to be a chore, consider Andrea Farmer. She will be involved in preparing over 6,000 Easter eggs.

It's part of the annual Easter egg hunt scheduled for Saturday at the Central Florida Zoological Park. Farmer is director of marketing, and along with possibly a dozen volunteers, (and E. Bunny) will be handling the egg preparation. The work is expected to get underway Thursday at noon.

This year, as in past years, the eggs will be obtained from Bronson Farms in Sorrento.

This will be the 17th consecutive year for the Easter egg hunt. Children from toddlers through three will begin the first hunt at 10:30 Saturday morning. At 11 a.m., the 4-6 year olds will be in action, and children 7-10 will conduct the final hunt beginning at 11:30.

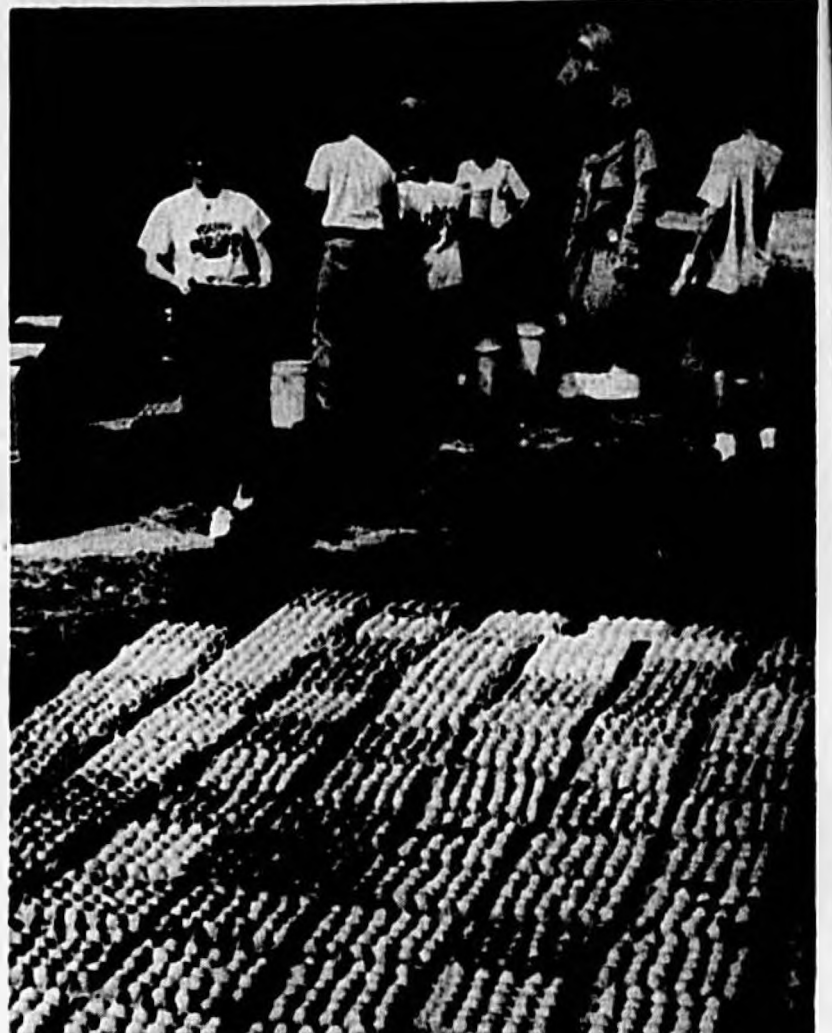

Children will also have the opportunity to meet the Easter bunny, receive free posters, have their faces painted, and find specially marked prize eggs.

Farmer said she expects over 1,000 youngsters plus members of their families to attend. As a result, parking is recommended at the Port of Sanford. There will be a free shuttle bus, courtesy of LYNX, to the zoo.

Visitors are encouraged to arrive at the Port of Sanford by 9:30, and bring baskets or bags in which to carry collected eggs. The Port of Sanford is located on Orange Avenue along Lake Monroe, just minutes west of the zoo.

Admission, which includes the Easter egg hunt will be normal zoo prices of $5 for adults, $2 for children ages 3-12, $3 for seniors 60 and over, and free for children 2 and under as well as for Zoological Society members. The Central Florida Zoo is located at 3755 N. Highway 17-92, just east of exit 52 from Interstate-4.

For additional information, phone 323-4450, ext. 149.

Last year, volunteers at the Central Florida Zoo prepared close to 6,000 eggs for the Easter egg hunt. Left, Cindy Baker from Arnold Palmer Hospital for Children and Women assisted in the preparation. This year, over 6,000 eggs will be boiled and colored during this coming week.

Presbyterian Church: The first 100 years

By MARGARET WESLEY
Herald Correspondent

Part 4 of 4 parts

LAKE MARY — The Rev. John W. Pilley served as minister of the First Presbyterian Church through April 1964. He was followed by the Rev. Atlee Foster Stevens.

The Rev. Stevens holds a bachelor's degree in philosophy from Stetson University, DeLand, a master's degree in divinity and theology from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, master's degree in philosophy from Florida State University, Tallahassee. He has one year of post-graduate work at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland.

In addition to pastoring the Lake Mary church, he was a part-time instructor at Seminole Community College where he taught "Introduction to Philosophy," "Deductive Logic," "Literature of the Old Testament," "Literature of the New Testament," and "World Religions." He is a Pi Kappa Alpha. He has served on various presbytery committees and is a member of the Permanent Judicial Committee. Rev. Stevens also served as an alternate commissioner to the General Assembly in 1989 and as a commissioner in 1990.

Rev. Stevens' wife, Nanerie, holds a bachelor of science degree in social work and elementary education, Florida State University at Tallahassee, and attended the Carver School of Missions. She taught for several years.

Rev. and Mrs. Stevens have a son, Cameron, a daughter, Nanette, and a granddaughter, Megan. Also a part of their family is Angus McTavish McDog, and Toshiba the cat.

Part of the sanctuary was destroyed by fire in November, 1972. When it was reconstructed, the seating was reversed with the podium and chairs at the north end of the sanctuary, a much more satisfactory arrangement. Services were resumed in the sanctuary in July 1973.

Perhaps the greatest event during this period was the joining of the congregation of the Covenant Presbyterian Church of the Lake Mary.

Mrs. Harriet Durand, one of its most faithful members, tells the story of her church:

"Sixty-five people met at the Good Shepherd Lutheran church in Sanford on March 17, 1963 to show interest in organizing another Presbyterian church in the area. The first service of Church of the Covenant was held at the Pinecrest school.

"At a Service of Organization held at the First Presbyterian Church in Sanford, Dr. Howard D. Gress moderated as Rev. Thomas Makin was installed as co-pastor with Bear Lake Presbyterian Church.

"The first service in the new church building on South U.S. Hwy. 17-92 consisting of trailers was on Dec. 1, 1963 with Arthur DeYoung, PC student officiating. Arthur is the son of the late Jean DeYoung.

"On Oct. 31, 1965, Rev. Thomas Makin was called as full-time minister. He began his service on Jan. 1, 1966.

"On October of 1969 the name was changed from Church of the Covenant to Covenant Presbyterian Church.

"Rev. Makin served the congregation for 3 1/2 years, leaving in July of 1969. In March of 1970, Rev. William C. Sistar Jr.

was called to serve the Covenant Church as pastor. When Rev. Diana Jackson, wife of Rev. John Jackson; Rev. Stern Bolte served as associate pastor in the Methodist Church in Sumter, S.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Williams served as lay missionaries in Uganda and Zaire, Africa.

By 1987, with the addition of members from Covenant Church and the fast growth of the community, there were times when chairs had to be used in the aisles of the Lake Mary sanctuary.

Part of the agreement with the Presbytery and the two combining churches was that the money the new church received from the sale of the Covenant church was to be used for building a new church. The presbytery received a third.

With guidance from a representative of the presbytery, four acres of land on Longwood-Lake Mary Road were purchased in 1988 and shortly thereafter additional land adjoining.

Some of the money was spent for preparing the site, paying off the mortgage, and producing a site plan. However, part of the agreement with the presbytery was that the new construction should not take place until our present building was sold. To date, this has not happened.

Meantime, the church has had to maintain two sites. There has been little or no activity on the matter since 1990 other than attempts to sell the old church. The membership count at this time stands at approximately 160.

The Lake Mary church, over the years, has produced the preponderance of community leaders, both in government and civic organizations. These include a county commissioner, six city commissioners, one mayor, five school trustees and two fire chiefs, plus many other men and women in positions of leadership.

So, at this 100-year landmark in time, we look back at our past with interest and a measure of reasonable pride, thanking God for his blessings.

one for my mom." David Dennis had more specific plans for "when" he wins the big prize.

"I'm buying two houses," he said. "One for me and one for my wife. And I'm going to buy a Jeep and a horse for my daughter. And then I'm sending my mother on a round the world trip."

Dennis is buying 100 tickets in hopes of winning the grand prize.

Sharon Lake is buying one ticket.

"My chances of winning are about the same as they are of getting hit by lightning twice in a row," she said. "But I figure, what the heck, I'll give it a try."

She said she didn't see any point in buying more than one ticket.

"So I'll have a two in a billion chance of winning," she said. "Big deal!"

If she does win, however, Lake said she plans to start her own plumbing business, because she's "tired of working for somebody else."

Jason McLean bought a candy bar and a soda when he went to the counter.

"Did you already get your lottery tickets?" the clerk asked, apparently surprised that McLean did not have a pink and green numbered sheet to purchase a lottery ticket.

"No," he said defiantly. "I haven't bought one and I'm not going to buy one."

Several in line behind him shook their heads and clicked their tongues disapprovingly.

"Hey," he said looking back at the group. "I'm ahead a dollar now. How many of you will be able to say that in the morning?"

McLean said he has never purchased a lottery ticket since arriving in Florida three years ago.

"What are my chances of winning?" he asked. "The only one who really wins in all of this is the Lottery Commission."

McLean was clearly in the minority, however. Behind him and before him in line, everyone was succumbing to Loto Fever.

Keep supporting Safehouse

It was long in coming. This area has needed a safe house to handle abused mothers and their children for many many years. It's a shame such a facility is even needed in today's society. Yet, with the large number of domestic violence cases reported daily, there is no alternative. Police and sheriff's deputies are constantly arresting persons for assault and/or battery in domestic violence cases. The persons who have been abused may feel a slight relief from the problem, but before long, the abuser is back on the streets again possibly to start the cycle over, often beginning with retribution.

Persons no longer have to file charges against another person or spouse. Law officers are allowed to make arrests based on the facts. Yet, even though (for example) a wife never filed charges against a husband for beating her, there is always the question of who reported the incident to police.

Checking police reports, it has become apparent that it's not always a case of disputes between married people or roommates. We seem to be constantly reporting on people beating up other members of their families such as parents or siblings. It's a sad world when we look at it in this light.

At least, with the opening of Safehouse of Seminole, there is a place where previously abused persons can go and expect protection. Persons attempting to come in contact with residents can expect swift and serious reaction from the law.

Unfortunately, the shelter is planned to accommodate 38 people and their children. Due to funding however, only one wing is presently operating.

We suspect, once the shelter becomes more known, it will rapidly reach capacity. This is as important as almost any other need our society must provide.

As such, we urge all appropriate governmental entities involved with Safehouse of Seminole, to find the money and continue the work.

Governments always seem to find money somewhere for this and that, often much less important causes. Let's find the money now, and keep the progress moving forward.

If this were utopia, we wouldn't need this safe house. But this is Sanford. This is Seminole County, and there IS a need.

Hotel land

I just finished reading the account of the Marina Hotel, and how our commissioners (in 1982) gave the lender superior claim to the land in spite of the shakiness of the then Holiday Inn.

This has now come back to haunt us. Just wondering who was on the commission in 1982 that made this brilliant decision and weakened the city's position and ultimately yours (the taxpayers of Sanford).

Airport linked to bright future

According to all reports the second day of the Central Florida Airport spectacular event drew the largest crowd ever to be present at the facility. It was without a doubt the biggest single event ever held at the airport. In spite of the inclement weather the Saturday crowd numbered about 10,000 but the crowd Sunday, April 2, was 30,000 plus.

The event was a cooperative effort with G&M Productions of Kissimmee underwriting it. The airport authority profited through the sale of 85,000 gallons of fuel and one dollar per automobile for parking. The Greater Seminole Chamber of Commerce provided workers for the concessions.

Airport Director Steve Cooke says that Jack Wert, director of the Tourist Development Council, believed that the event impacted Sanford in a positive way economically. The hotels were filled for the weekend. It was a family-type event and any time vast numbers of people are in an area there is generally a ripple effect upon businesses.

There was a plethora of activities that appealed to young and old alike. There were active performers and 35 static displays.

The active part of the show featured the Blue Angels comprised of three Navy pilots and two Marine pilots. The Blue Angels perform throughout the United States and have to be booked a year in advance. Booking involves their approving the site and other details.

Static displays were provided by: Piper Aircraft and the Air Force, Navy and Coast Guard. Among the static displays were: an A-6 Fighter, an F-16 Fighter (Falcon), an FAA Team Hornet (used on aircraft carriers), three C13 Hercules planes; one F-111 Fighter Bomber; one B1 Supersonic Bomber, and helicopters.

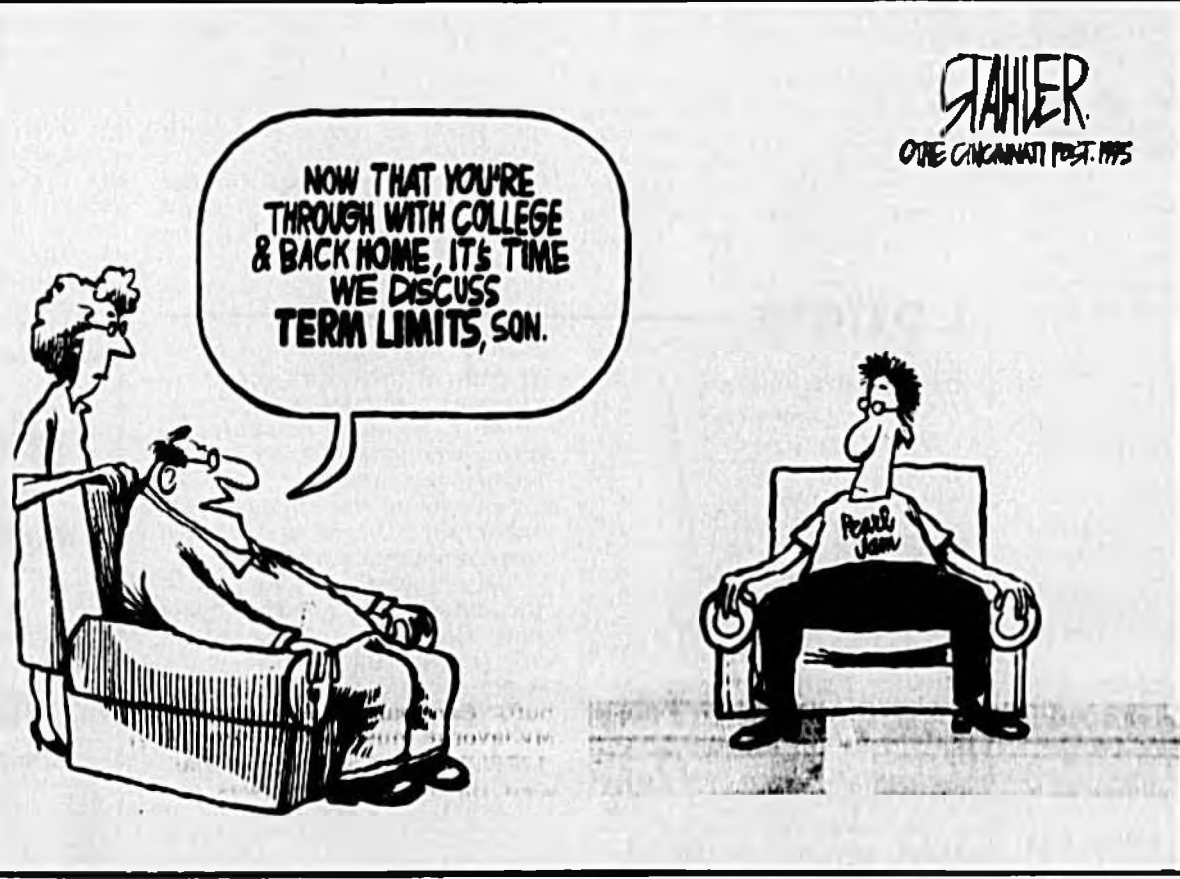

Other highlights were provided by Shawa Tucker and Ben Morpheu, acrobatic pilots who demonstrated great skill in maneuvering their planes. Gene Suchy flew a bi-wing plane and featured a wing walker, Theresa Stokes. The pilot flew in circles while she walked on the wings; it was exciting to watch. The race of the day was between a 1957 Chevrolet pickup truck equipped with two jet engines and a C130 Hercules; the truck finished first.

There were approximately 30 different concession stands. The overall opinion of adults was that it was a positive event and was really more than they had anticipated. The children were fascinated by everything — the planes that flew, the static displays and the performers.

From all indications Central Florida Regional Airport is a powerful asset to the city of Sanford. Although funds raised by the airport authority have to be utilized for airport development, the day will arrive when the airport is fully developed. Hopefully at that time the Federal Aviation Authority will deem that revenues generated may be shared with the city of Sanford. Just as the FAA removed the clause from the contract that would have permitted the airport to be reclaimed by the federal government, in time the airport has the potential of becoming a source of revenue for Sanford.

The airport authority board held a work session March 27 and voted unanimously not to merge with the port authority. They are amenable to cooperating with the county but believe that the airport is making marvelous progress. It is my opinion the expansion of the airport and the construction of the mall east of I-4 foretell a brighter economic future for Sanford.

GOP ideologues not conservatives

Today's column is a confession. I confess that I do not understand right-wing ideologues.

Notice I did not say conservatives. Hard-working, God-fearing, nation-loving, debt-hating, patriotic, principled, caring conservatives who weigh ideas and think for themselves, I appreciate and understand. I think -- I hope -- I am one. In fact,

No, I am talking about butt-kicking, fang-bearing, trash-talking right-wing ideologues, people who worship Newt as a messiah and don't know what they're supposed to think on a given day until they check in with Rush. They must be born with some sort of internal nastymeter which tells them what they're supposed to hate because their logic makes no sense at all.

Today's column is a confession

They say they believe in a free marketplace, but that is demonstrable nonsense. They agitate for market-distorting tax breaks and subsidies for the structures they build, the beasts they raise, the crops they grow, the children they give birth to. The result is empty buildings, overgrown herds, rotting silage and a busted economy. And why should the government be offering inducements to have children? It smacks of fascism.

They claim they believe in balanced budgets, but they push for tax cuts that exacerbate deficits and provide minimal benefits to the taxpayer. And few of them ever talk about how we might attack the overall $4.8 trillion national debt, which is a bigger threat to our security than 10 million Fidel Castros.

They scream out of one side of their mouths about intrusive government and scream out of the other side for the government to step in and force women to have children and purge the military of homosexuals and rewrite the Constitution to outlaw flag burners and allow prayer in public schools.

They rant and rave about declining values and virtues, then turn around and vote to kill a national service program that could be the most powerful force for the cultivation of values to come down the pike in more than three decades.

Let me dwell on this one for a moment. Right-wingers want to eviscerate AmeriCorps, the new program that employs young people for a minimum wage and some college tuition to help tutor children, assist the elderly, treat the sick, provide for the needy, work in libraries, police crime-infested areas and so on.

The program WORKS. Some 20,000 young people have signed up -- those same Generation Xers that right-wingers like to claim are unappreciative, uncaring, do-nothing blotches on the American landscape -- and they are by and large loving it.

National service gives young people something to believe in. It helps them to understand the concept of duty. It inspires a sense of gratitude. It gives them a way to repay their nation for the gifts of opportunity and freedom that have been handed down to them. It builds character. It exposes the various classes of society to one another and abets tolerance.

You want conservative? Put me in charge and some sort of national service would be mandatory. Every young person would be required by law to serve in the military, the Peace Corps, AmeriCorps or some corps that hasn't been thought up yet.

More than that: In the SpearCorps program, they would begin every work day with an hour or two of instruction in unrevised American history and what we used to call "Problems of Democracy."

In a world growing more violent

If you have come as I have to the point where you actively avoid the local newscasts some-days if only because you're so darned tired to hearing about how many murders or whatever have been acted upon the streets of Central Florida, then you also know we are not alone in that disgust of where our nation is heading. It just seems like the world keeps getting progressively more violent with each passing year, and we are all helpless to do anything about the causes. The disintegration of the American family, the increasing trend towards cost savings in business with its corresponding swelling of those who are without realistic hope; these and many other factors contribute to the juggernaut of crime in America today. The proposed solutions are always the same. Build more prisons, make the sentences stick, and execute the really bad perpetrators. Well, we do have about the highest percentage in the world of our population incarcerated, the recidivism rate due to lack of viable alternatives for ex-cons is a disgrace, and the last is, my topic for the day.

Capital and corporal punishment. Impressive words, for easy solutions. While the latter may have its place as an alternative entertainment among ~~consenting~~ adults (different strokes for ...), it is generally accepted by those in the know that kids who are hit tend to grow up to be hitters. And for the former, the majority of those sitting on death rows across America today are under 22 years of age, and how many kids do you know who actually have any real fear of death? As an ex-drug counselor who got tired of fighting the statistics, I speak from experience.

It used to be (and still is some places) that punishments tended to fit the crime. You stole something of a certain value, you lost a hand for it. You murdered a fellow human being, you were then legally separated from your life.

It's the old eye for an eye principle. But as the debacle in Los Angeles currently illustrates, other factors tend to get involved nowadays (as if they didn't always). Available money, one's race, what one did and in which part of the country one did it in; such things all contribute to the way justice is carried out in America. Oh sure, we all secretly cheered when that kid got caned for spray painting those cars in Singapore. He broke their laws, and paid their penalty. But do you really think that should his personality be basically bad, that he really is going to abstain from further acts of vandalism because of his beating? I remember from my teens, just how up in arms most of my fellow Americans (under 40) were when people were getting busted on drug charges in Mexico and Turkey. Now those were countries who knew how to deal with criminals in an appropriate manner, and how did we here react?

SEMINOLE OPINION

DAVID GEOFFREY COE

I just received a copy of the paper which I used to write for in Texas. It seems that the local principal got in trouble for spanking some of his students. The paper was solidly behind that principal, the editorials were somewhat mixed, and the delegated derrieres probably bore no marks of their ordeal by the time the week was out. The point is, however, if there is no consensus on the matter of simple discipline in school, how the heck are we ever going to agree on more serious punishments for more weighty offenses? As I said, there's only one way I can view any use of corporal punishment, and that would never be in case of a minor. And capital punishment is, ... well the experts do agree that it has no effect whatsoever on the crime rate.

Before we all go out and once more erect whipping posts and gallows in our town squares, I suggest we pause a moment and reflect on why we are really doing so. Is it because in our heart of hearts we truly believe that such anachronistic punishments are really effective deterrents to crime? Or perhaps, if we look into ourselves, we might actually find that we are more interested in obtaining a little bit of vengeance, just to offset our increasing frustration at having no better and more effective solutions to the ever spiraling problem of crime. Vengeance is mine, sayeth the Lord ... I for one don't know if I want capital punishment to exist or not; but at least I am honest enough with myself to know why I might be in favor of its usage.

campuses throughout the school district has prompted the schools to look for alternative ways to fight the problem.

The schools have worked in cooperation with local law enforcement officials to place undercover officers in at least one school to locate those students who were dealing in drugs or stolen property. Police K-9 units have been dispatched to some schools to sniff out contraband items.

While the problem is not "out of control," the security coordinator said, the district wants to see what they can do to eradicate the problem. They are looking at a variety of methods of dealing with it.

"We're just trying it (the Quadro 250-G)," said Halbig. "There are some very good points about it."

The device, which sells for $275 plus $250 each for a variety of computer chips, is touted by the manufacturer as a way to find weapons, a variety of illegal drugs, people, and even an errant golf ball.

John Sutton, who is a partner in the distributorship for the device, said he believes the Quadro 250-G is the solution to problems of drugs and weapons on campus.

"Using molecular frequency communication we are able to pinpoint the exact location of the substances that they want to remove from the schools," said Sutton.

Computer chips inserted into the hand-held device contain the "molecular fingerprint" of the specific object being sought. "It's really neat," Sutton said. "It could reduce the problems of drugs and weapons on campus by 90 percent."

The Quadro 250-G was originally conceived as a way to find missing persons, but inventor Wade Quattlbaum found that the molecular structure patterns of other items could work just as well.

He said the Quadro 250-G is 100 percent accurate if used properly.

The device will be used in conjunction with K-9 units. Doge, Sutton said, can only be used for about 30 minutes at a time before their keen senses fade.

With the Quadro 250-G, law enforcement and security officials, can narrow the search area and then bring in the canines for the finish work.

"This will really enhance the job they can do," he said.

Halbig said the school district is still looking at the various aspects of using the device in the schools and is still considering the purchase.

"We don't know yet," he said. "We're still considering it."

Sheree Kincaid said her son Josiah, 4, loved action-adventure TV and thought he might like the chance to see the real thing at the sheriff's office.

The youngster gaped with excitement at the deputies repelling down the side of the three story facility, but found little other action-adventure to keep his interest.

James Field, 9, found plenty to satisfy his curiosity about how criminals are captured and how crimes are solved.

"Look at this," he said, dragging his less-enthusiastic sister toward the display at the crime scene van. "They can find even the smallest pieces of evidence at a crime scene by sifting through it with this."

Laura Field, 8, arms across her chest, nodded and turned away.

"I'd like to sift you through that," she said under her breath.

Sheriff's office officials were pleased that a steady flow of people was coming to visit the facility and to talk with the deputies.

"We like the opportunity to do this every year," said Undersheriff Steve Harriett.

began a study of family genealogy.

Ellery, a native of Newport, R.I., represented his state at the Continental Congress. Ellery was the second oldest signer and according to Card's research, made the statement, "I want to see each man's face as he signs what could be his death warrant," as he stood beside the document as it was signed.

Card, himself, was born in Newport, as was his father and his father's father.

Jennifer, 13, attends Jackson Heights Middle School and Jackie, 7, goes to Sterling Park Elementary, where her mother teaches. The girls are taking their claim to fame in stride. Both seem more interested with soccer, a sport in which they both participate. Jennifer has played for five years and Jackie has played for three. Jennifer also took first place in the 100-yard dash in a school competition and is distinguished as the "fastest girl in school."

Family history has definitely given Jennifer good material for school projects. For a sixth grade assignment, she prepared an impressive display of all of the information she gathered on her predecessor, including her certificate as a junior member of DSDI.

"I think it's really neat," Jennifer said, "but I never really showed any appreciation for it until my dad started talking to me about it, and I saw the movie '1776'."

"I've always been a history buff," Card said. "I love history. My favorite musical of all time is '1776.'" The Card family has seen the movie which was originally released in the early '90s, as well as a couple of stage productions. "To find out I was related to somebody that was there, when that was going on, was really exciting," Card said.

As Card said, few people realize that the Declaration of Independence was not actually signed on July 4 and the Liberty Bell was not actually rung until July 8. Congress adopted the final draft of the document, written by Thomas Jefferson, on July 4, in Independence Hall in Philadelphia.

John Hancock put his famous signature on the document on that day.

But the document was not actually signed by the 50 members of Congress until Aug. 2, 1776.

The Liberty Bell, which hung in the tower of Independence Hall, did not "proclaim liberty throughout all the land" until July 8.

The now famous crack occurred exactly 59 years later during the funeral of Chief Justice John Marshall.

The Liberty Bell is housed in a pavilion on the grounds adjacent to Independence Hall, Card said, as part of the tapping ceremony, his daughters may have the opportunity to meet President Bill Clinton. The president has attended the ceremony for the past two years. The day's activities will include a briefing by the Secret Service and the traditional Fourth of July fireworks. Everyone in the family is looking forward to that except Jackie, who said she didn't like the loud explosions.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Gingrich drives home his point

WASHINGTON — The speech bore all the earmarks of a presidential address. And in case anyone missed the point, House Speaker Newt Gingrich drove it home in an interview afterward: He and the Republican Congress, not President Clinton, will control the national agenda.

"I felt like a leader," Gingrich told CBS after the network televised his 30-minute speech on the Republican agenda. Gingrich, R-Ga., delivered his look back on the first three months of the GOP-led Congress and look ahead to the rest of the year while seated casually on the edge of his office desk.

It was a presentation much like what one would expect from a president. He outlined proposals, countered political foes, and said his party, having kept its "Contract With America," was worthy of voter trust.

Judge nixes challenge of evidence

LOS ANGELES — A judge has refused to let O.J. Simpson's lawyers challenge the admissibility of the prosecution's most crucial evidence: DNA tests on blood found at the crime scene and in Simpson's car and home.

Superior Court Judge Lance Ito says the defense gave up its right to a challenge when it waived a hearing in January.

"The defense's argument that their waiver of a pretrial ... hearing applies only to DNA tests completed up to the time of the waiver is not persuasive," Ito wrote in a decision issued late Friday.

Simpson is on trial for the June 12 slayings of his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman. Court was canceled Friday because three jurors were still sick with the flu. No testimony is scheduled for Monday.

Remembering Kurt Cobain

SEATTLE — The fans already have started to congregate outside the house where Kurt Cobain was found dead a year ago today. Seattle's leading music magazine declares the anniversary "1 Year A.D."

But the city where Cobain and his band Nirvana launched a musical and generational revolution has no memorials planned, the local alternative radio station has no marathons scheduled and many fans say they would rather remember the rock star's life than the suicide that cut it short.

"We just decided it wouldn't be appropriate to celebrate or commemorate the day Kurt's body was found," says Marco Collins, music director for KNDD-FM. "We'd rather wait for an occasion that was more appropriate, like Kurt's birthday. We don't want to give this any more of the hype than it deserves."

It was April 8, 1994, when police received a call from an electrician installing a security system at Cobain's home. Authorities found Cobain, 27, locked in a sunroom, killed days earlier by a self-inflicted shotgun blast to the head.

IN BRIEF

AROUND THE STATE

Marlins sign three

MELBOURNE — The Florida Marlins bolstered their pitching staff by signing free agents John Burkett and Bobby Witt, then boosted their bench by adding Andre Dawson on Saturday.

Dawson, 40, wanted to return to his native Miami to finish his career, and will probably serve as a pinch-hitter and spot player. He batted .240 with 16 home runs and 48 RBIs last season despite knee injuries.

Burkett, 30, was 6-8 with 3.62 ERA for the Giants in 1994. His 24 starts were second in the league.

Witt, also 30, was 8-10 with a 5.04 ERA in 24 starts for Oakland last season, tossing five complete games and three shutouts.

FSU: Andrews leads Garnet

TALLAHASSEE — Florida State's annual spring intrasquad scrimmage, known as the Garnet & Gold game, wasn't very pretty Saturday but it was good enough to answer coach Bobby Bowden's biggest concerns.

Fullback Dennis Andrews, hoping to renew his scholarship on the strength of his spring performance, scored two touchdowns, including a 73-yard bolt in the first quarter to spark the Garnet to a 21-7 victory.

Danny Kanell guided the Garnet offense, completing 10 of 21 passes for 184 yards in a half against the starting defensive unit while Thad Busby connected on 15 of 23 passes for 197 yards and a touchdown for the Gold.

Miami: QB job up in air

MIAMI — The Miami Hurricanes concluded spring practice Saturday with their three-way race for the quarterback job still too close to call, coach Butch Davis said.

Offensive coordinator Larry Coker gave senior Ryan Collins a slight edge over sophomore Ryan Clement, with freshman Scott Covington third but coming on strong.

In the final scrimmage of the spring at the Orange Bowl, each quarterback led his unit to at least one of the four offensive scores, and their passing statistics were similar.

Collins completed 4 of 7 passes for 63 yards and one touchdown, but was sacked four times. Clement hit 5 of 8 passes for 72 yards, including a 57-yard touchdown bomb to Tony Galter. Covington hit 4 of 10 passes for 53 yards.

Florida: Who gets nod?

GAINESVILLE — After playing musical chairs with his quarterbacks for much of the past two seasons, Florida coach Steve Spurrier isn't in a hurry to change.

Danny Wuerffel was No. 1 at the end of last season and apparently still is after completing 9 of 11 passes for 118 yards and one touchdown in Saturday's annual Orange & Blue spring game at Florida Field.

Spurrier, however, didn't commit to Wuerffel being the starter in the fall.

"A lot can happen in four months," the coach said, looking ahead to fall practice and the Sept. 2 season opener against Houston when junior Eric Kresser conceivably could be No. 1.

Kresser threw an interception on his first pass but finished 15-of-23 for 240 yards, two touchdowns and two interceptions. He completed his last eight attempts, including a 43-yard TD strike to Jamie Richardson.

AROUND THE NATION

Bruins shoot by Lightning

BOSTON — Josef Stumpel and Steve Heinze each scored twice as the Boston Bruins beat the Tampa Bay Lightning 5-1 Saturday.

Alexander Semak opened the scoring at 5:17 of the first period on the Lightning's first shot of the game with a low drive past Boston goalie Blaine Lacher.

Dozen in Masters hunt

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Ben Crenshaw, a former champion with the silky soft putting stroke perfect for the greased-lightning greens of Augusta, and Brian Henninger, a 31-year-old journeyman playing in his first Masters, top a jam-packed leaderboard going into Sunday's final round.

Crenshaw, who won here in 1984 and has nine other top-10 finishes in the Masters, shot a 67 in Saturday's third round and Henninger shot 68, putting them at 10-under-par 208.

But that was not good enough to create any distance from the rest of the field. Ten players were within three strokes of the co-leaders.

Defaults mark last day of SAC tennis tournament

By TONY BOGORNER
Herald Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — After two days of thunder and lightning, the Seminole Athletic Conference tennis tournament ended quietly Friday afternoon at Lyman High Schools, four of the nine remaining matches being won by default.

Lake Howell's Amir Haghghi, the top seed in the No. 1 boys' singles draw, won his championship when No. 2-seed Jakub Teply of Lake Mary did not arrive by the appointed time and defaulted. Haghghi and Chris Perrin won the No. 1 doubles title the same way, Lake Mary defaulting because of Teply's absence.

Teply finally arrived at Lyman 70 minutes after the stated check-in time, reportedly because he had mistakenly gone to Lake Howell.

By the same token, Lake Mary's Craig Malatesta and Randy Brown won the No. 2 doubles title when Jason Levin and Juan DelAguiola of Lake Brantley defaulted.

The other default came in the girls' No. 3 singles final, Lake Mary's Kristin Kneese picking up the victory over Lake Brantley's

Julie LaBret.

In boys' matches that were played, Lake Mary's Anoop Mangat handed Seminole's Eddie Vargas his first loss of the season in the No. 2 singles final, 6-2. Malatesta and Brown played and won their semifinals match at No. 2 doubles, beating Oviedo's Ryan Norris and Rob Holtrey 6-1.

Lake Mary's Caroline Geys beat Lake Brantley's Erica Winn 5-3 in the No. 4 singles final while teammates Cheryl Malatah and Amber Bradley were beating Molly Bigourney

Pitchers hurl 'Blue' gems

From Staff Reports

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Pitchers were the early stars on the opening day of the 1995 Big Blue Baseball Bonanza at Lake Brantley High School Saturday.

Robert Vessey tossed a three-hit shutout and Nick Sosa drove in five runs with two home runs and a single as Lake Mary blanked Edgewater 8-0 in the first game.

Danny Lopez matched Vessey in the second game, hurling a three-hitter as Deltona whitewashed Seabreeze 2-0.

Lake Brantley was to play Meigs County (TN) Saturday night.

In Monday's schedule, Deltona-Trinity Christian will play New Smyrna at 10 a.m.; Jacksonville-Sandalwood will take on Seminole at 1 p.m.; Neptune Beach-Fletcher will challenge Lake Howell at 4 p.m.; and defending tournament champion Key West will battle Melbourne-Florida Air at 7 p.m.

Lake Mary and Deltona will meet in a winners' bracket game at Lake Brantley at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the losers' bracket at Lake Howell. Edgewater plays the Trinity Christian-New Smyrna loser at 10 a.m. while Seabreeze will play the Seminole-Sandalwood loser at 1 p.m.

Vessey struck out seven in his masterpiece. He also helped himself at the plate, going 2-for-4. Also hitting for the Rams were Chris

Getting the hits for Edgewater were Jon McDonald (2-for-4) and Ryan Lovering (1-for-3).

Hawks, Pat lead SAC

By RYAN ANDERSON

OVIDEO — Lake Howell struck for five runs in the second inning and held on to defeat the Oviedo Lions 6-4 in a Seminole Athletic Conference baseball contest at Mikler Field Friday night.

"This was really a big win for us tonight as far as the conference is concerned," Lake Howell coach Birt Benjamin said. "We're slowly picking the pace back up and I hope we continue to because we are going to really have to be at our peak when we meet Lyman and Lake Brantley."

With the win, Lake Howell (14-5) stays tied for first in the SAC with Lake Brantley at 5-1.

The Silver Hawks rocked Oviedo starter Brian Buchanan for five runs on three hits in the third inning and added another run in the fourth to go up 6-0.

Oviedo ruined Ricky Padilla's shutout bid in the fourth inning, when Adam Coleman doubled and scored on Mike Bergman's single. The Lions sliced the lead to 6-4 on Brian King's three-run home run in the sixth inning, but that would be

OVIDEO — Kim Dreyfuss was 2-for-3 with two runs scored Friday night as the Oviedo Lions defeated the Apopka Blue Darters 6-2 in a fastpitch softball contest at the Oviedo Sports Complex.

The win, Oviedo's fourth in a row, evens the Lions' record at 9-9.

"The girls are playing real well right now," said Oviedo coach Anna Hollis. "You hate to take a week off (for spring break) when you're playing like this. But we have a lot of injuries, so we could use an off week."

Oviedo plays again Tuesday, April 18, in a game at Lyman that could decide the Seminole Athletic Conference championship.

"The girls are aware of it," said Hollis. "I told the girls to hang on to what they've started and come back ready to play."

Also contributing to the Oviedo attack Friday night were Desiree Schwartz and Connie DeWitt (each with a single, run, and a stolen base); Tonya Bellamy (single); Jennifer Goadin (RBI); and Erin Zukowksi and Michelle Hoffmeier (one run each).

Quartet delivers for Seminole girls

By TONY BOGORNER
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — It was a "winner-take-all" scenario for the girls' title in Friday night's Seminole Invitational track meet at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium, Seminole leading Evans 102-100 going into the final event, the 4 x 400-meter relay.

The Seminoles had the Evans Trojans right where they wanted them.

"I figured we had the better 4 x 400," said Seminole coach Nate Perkins. "We were smiling when it came down to that race. That's where we wanted to be."

Tasha Lawson, Shawana Montgomery, Belinder Morgan, and Tenelle Hersey showed why, winning the race in 4 minutes, 6.7 seconds. Evans was a distant third (4:17.3), finishing behind Ocoola (4:17.2).

Winter Haven won the boys' portion of the meet, outscoring Seminole 103 1/2-82.

"The girls ran well," said Perkins. "It was very satisfying. As we head into the championship season, I hope they continue to perform in the same way. But I think this was a good indication of what we're capable of."

That quartet accounted for a great percentage of Seminole's points. Not only did they also combine to win the 4 x 100-meter relay (48.65), they contributed four solo first-place finishes and a third.

Morgan swept the triple jump (37 feet, 6 1/4 inches) and long jump (16-8 1/4). Hersey won the 300-meter low hurdles (45.78), and Montgomery was first in the 100-meter dash (12.03) and third in the long jump (16-7).

Katrina Perry added a pair of second-place finishes in the shot put (40-1 1/4) and discus (113-0), finishing behind New Smyrna Beach's Carl Collinson, who was

Preseason 'work' prevents problems

The boating season always begins with spring commissioning chores that make the rest of the season more enjoyable — and safer. Here's a handy checklist from 505,000-member BOAT/US, (Boat Owners Association of the United States), the nation's largest organization of recreational boaters.

Check the dates on safety gear such as flares and fire extinguishers.

Make sure navigational charts and guides are current. Channel markers, buoys and landmarks change.

Check all lights on the boat and trailer.

Review your boat insurance policy and update coverages if needed.

Check the first aid kit and toolkit and add fresh supplies.

Check to see that thru-hull fittings below the water line are tight and free of cracks and that sea valves operate freely.

Boat owners should check the rigging for cracked or over-stressed fittings and chainplate mountings and leaks where chainplates come through the deck.

Engine oil that looks brown or gray has water in it and a mechanic should be called in to find the source.

Inspect non-metallic thru-hulls on bilge pumps, sink and deck drains. They get brittle with age and winter ice can crack or loosen them. Look for hoses that have been forced off or split from freezing. Every spring, boats sink at the dock when these problems go undetected until the first heavy rain.

Get fresh batteries for flashlights, handheld radios and

FISHING FORECAST
 Bass action in the river continues to improve with dropping water levels. From Fussie Lake south has been excellent. Rapalas and swimming-minnow lure have been top producers.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports good catches of dolphin in 120 feet of water on out. Some king mackerel are beginning to show on Pelican Flats. Triptical are biting in the busy line, while sheepshead and flounder dominate action inside the Port.

Trout and redfish are rated as good on the flats of the Banana and Indian rivers.

Sheepshead are still the big news at Ponce Inlet.

Barnett honored for work with families

By NICK PFEPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

Barnett Banks, Inc., was honored this past week by the Florida Children's Forum, at the "Children's Day 1995" Ceremonies. The honors were given for the bank's programs and policies that enable working parents to balance work and family obligations.

Barnett chief human resources executive Paul T. Kerina commented, "At Barnett Banks, we believe that our employees have responsibilities to their families as well as their jobs. Providing child care and development programs that are easily accessible to working parents is a key element in helping Barnett maintain a reputation as an employer of choice."

He continued, "That is important in a competitive workplace and allows us to recruit and retain a quality work force."

Kerina oversees all human resources programs for the company.

Barnett provides for its working parents a Child Development Center at the company's office park in Jacksonville. The center is accredited by the National Academy of Early Childhood Programs, and, according to the Academy, is one of the largest day care centers in the country.

Barnett has three child development centers in Florida. The day care facilities near parents' workplaces allow parents to visit their children when needed, and to know their children are well cared for during working hours.

Lens crafters takes over Opti-World

Staff and wire reports

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — LensCrafters Inc., a subsidiary of United States Shoe Corp., has completed its acquisition of the Opti-World chain of eyeglass superstores.

Both businesses have locations in Altamonte Springs. Opti-World is located in Ashby's Square, and LensCrafters is in the Altamonte Mall.

There was no immediate word regarding either of the establishments or any proposed name change to Opti-World.

Terms of the transaction were not disclosed in Monday's announcement.

The acquisition of Opti-World's 59 stores, located primarily in the Southeast, increased U.S. Shoe's optical store count to 604.

"This acquisition accelerates LensCrafters' annual store growth to the highest level since 1990," said Bannus Hudson, president and chief executive officer of U.S. Shoe.

"LensCrafters has just completed a record-breaking year in fiscal 1994. I expect the acquisition of this chain to make a solid contribution to results in the coming year."

U.S. Shoe is a specialty retailer of women's apparel, optical products and footwear, operating 2,414 retail outlets and leased departments in the United States and abroad.

Ex-Grace CEO gets $43 million parachute

By CATHERINE WILSON
AP Business Writer

MIAMI — J.P. Bolduc can count on a golden parachute potentially worth $43 million — twice as big as first reported — despite being forced out as chief executive of W.R. Grace & Co. amid sexual harassment allegations.

The company previously said the severance package was worth $20 million, including the buyback of $12 million worth of stock Bolduc already owned.

But the Boca Raton-based chemical and health care company also is paying lifetime pension and health benefits potentially worth nearly $23 million if Bolduc reaches his life expectancy.

The information is part of Grace's 10-K annual report, filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Bolduc quit March 2 with a company statement citing "differences in style and philosophy."

A week ago, the company changed its tune, saying the board asked for his resignation based on an investigation of sexual harassment allegations made against him by employees and others. Bolduc vehemently denied the charges, and no official complaint was ever filed.

According to the SEC filing, the biggest potential moneymaker in Bolduc's package is the retirement plan paying him an annual pension of $648,665 a year and medical benefits now valued at $3,312 a year for life.

At 55, Bolduc has a projected life expectancy of nearly 27 years, based on a National Association of Insurance Commissioners table for purchasers of annuities, generally a wealthier and healthier group than the population as a whole. If his life expectancy matches the actuarial tables, the package adds $22.8 million to his severance.

The rest of Bolduc's compensation package includes the $12.2 million stock buyback; $6.1 million for a buyout of his employment contract; $1.5 million in deferred compensation; $1.3 million from Grace's long-term incentive program; $582,343 from a savings and investment plan; and $25,000 in legal fees for his "negotiated retirement."

Grace also allowed Bolduc to keep a life insurance policy with a face value of $4.5 million, a 1995 Mercedes-Benz and some office furniture.

Bolduc agreed to a clause keeping him from working at companies that compete with Grace's core businesses until he turns 62.

The agreement also contains a detailed secrecy clause strictly limiting what both the company and Bolduc can say about his departure except under court order or "as may be required by law." Violation by a company employee would result in firing.

Asked about the company's disclosure of the sexual harassment allegations, Gerald Walpin, Bolduc's attorney, said Thursday, "I think that you point up something that is a disclosure made in violation of the agreement."

Grace spokeswoman Mary Lou Kromer wouldn't comment when asked what legal grounds the company had for disclosure.

Bolduc's departure came after an internal controversy over lucrative perks the company gave to former chairman J. Peter Grace Jr. and his family — and Bolduc's efforts to limit those perks and publicly disclose them.

Grace, 81, resigned three weeks ago, effective in May, after it was disclosed that millions of company dollars were spent on private security guards, nursing care and a private apartment.

"The simple fact is that I never — nor did anyone on my behalf — try to hide or disguise any benefit granted to me by the company," Grace said in a Thursday speech to the board of directors.

Clinton calls GOP welfare plans tough on kids, weak on work

By LAWRENCE L. KNUSTON
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — President Clinton, striving to contrast his vision for the nation with that of House Speaker Newt Gingrich, said today that Republican welfare reform plans neglect children's real needs and don't put poor people to work.

"Newt Gingrich spoke eloquently about the need to reform the welfare system," Clinton said in his weekly radio address.

But the president said cutting costs is the primary goal of the Republican welfare plan and that cost-cutting is simply a means of obtaining the money "to pay for their tax cuts."

Addressing the annual convention of the California Democratic Party later in the day, Clinton said Gingrich's first 100 days have amounted to "an attack on government and an assertion that the private sector is always right."

"Now that is not true," Clinton said. Then he repeated his reluctance to veto major provisions of the "Contract With America," saying, "I still don't want to do that but I will if I have to."

In the radio address, Clinton said he agrees costs should be cut but said his goal is to get people off welfare and into work.

"So that's the first change I'd make in the Republican welfare proposal," he said. "Before I'll sign it into law it's got to have a stronger work component."

Clinton said the Republican bill is also "too tough on children."

"These children didn't choose to be born to single mothers," he said. "They didn't choose to be born on welfare."

"So I say to Speaker Gingrich and the leaders of the Senate and House in both parties, let's work together to get this job done," Clinton said. "It is time to end welfare as we know it, to put people to work without punishing children."

Clinton had two years to do that and failed, while the new Republican Congress, in less than 100 days, fulfilled its promises to do what voters said they wanted, responded House Majority Leader Dick Army of Texas.

"President Clinton passed the biggest tax increase in history. We cut your taxes," Arney said. "He dropped his pledge for family tax relief, but we kept our promise with a $500-per-child tax credit. We passed sweeping welfare reform that promotes work and marriage ... and cracks down on deadbeat dads."

"We did what we said we would do," Arney added. "I have another promise to Americans, and I quote Ronald Reagan, 'You ain't seen nothin' yet.'"

In the aftermath of Gingrich's nationally televised celebration of the completion of the House GOP's Contract with America, Clinton also said the next 100 days will give him the chance to press his own policies and test "the limits of conservatism."

The president vowed to use the veto when efforts to reach out to moderate Republicans fail to obtain compromise on crucial legislation.

Air Force One was bound from Texas to California while Gingrich was setting out his conservative vision for the nation's future.

Although the speech was available for viewing, Clinton read a book and gave an interview and did not watch. He let the contrasting agenda he laid out in a speech Friday to a Dallas meeting of the American Society of newspaper editors speak for itself.

In Sacramento the president spoke to the California Democratic Party before flying to Los Angeles to address the National Education Association on the issue of school violence.

In his speech to educators, Clinton was set to assert that drug use is rising in the nation's schools, that weapons are increasingly common and that school violence is widespread.

Clinton cited a new study by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention which identified 105 violent deaths in or near American schools during the last two years. These include 81 homicides, 19 suicides and five accidental shooting deaths.

The study said 65 percent of the victims were students, 11 percent teachers or staff and 23 percent were community members killed on school property.

Briefing reporters on Clinton's speech, Education Secretary Richard Riley said the numbers speak for themselves. "You cannot increase standards ... if you're in an unsafe, drug-infested situation," he said.

Riley said he was "kind of stunned" as House Republicans deleted all of the money for the Safe and Drug Free School program. Most of the money was restored by the Senate, and the issue is now being worked on by the two houses.

Speaking to the editors in Dallas, Clinton made clear that over the months ahead he intends to follow a careful path between compromise and confrontation, appealing to moderate Republicans whenever possible.

Pat Sentell (Miss McNutt) talks to class about hobbies.

Volunteers make Teach-In 95 a memorable day

Some people collect baseball cards, some collect stamps. Miss McNutt collects McDonald's toys. Miss McNutt, in reality, Pat Sentell, a marketing representative from the Job Service, was one of the many volunteers who participated in Teach-In 1995 at Lake Mary Elementary.

Pat Sentell spent her time in the library telling visiting children about hobbies. Pat is vice-president of the Sunshine Chapter of the McDonald's Collection Club. She has hundreds of McDonald's toys, some from as far away as New Zealand and Australia. She also has Ronald McDonald's hats, clocks, a telephone and other Ronald McDonald souvenirs. Pat's position as VP of the McDonald's Collection Club is more than just hobby-oriented. Once or twice a year, the club holds a toy and souvenir auction. All profits from the auction go to the Ronald McDonald house.

There were a number of other volunteers who made Lake Mary Elementary's Teach-In 1995 a success. The city of Lake Mary offered several volunteers including chief of Police Richard Beary and Sgt. Linda Belfiore from the Lake Mary Police Department, Fireman John Call and Fire Marshal Lynn Wright from the Lake Mary Fire Department, City Manager John Litton and Parks and Recreation Director John Holland. Lt. Dale Picou came from the Alamo Springs Police Department. Businesses were also well represented at the Teach-In.

Kathy Fuller came from Little Wing Books; Madonna Kolb and Joey Anderson from AT&T; Kathy Regan and Tammy Pacer from Barnett Bank; Tony Martin from Victoria Equities; Allen Mercer from the T-House; James Lewis from HomeBank Mortgage; Tameka Pottier from McDonald's and Edwin Wright from Spring United. The health industry was represented by Cheryl Bradley from Hospice; Karen Crosby, a surgical nurse with the Florida Hospital; and Dr. Scott VanLue. Other Teach-In participants included Betty Hoyer from the Orlando Science Center; Shapprell Dallas, a fitness instructor; and Betty Munoz from the Humane Society.

This was the third year Lake Mary Elementary has participated in the Teach-In.

Manage stress: Laugh it off

The Camerons mark silver anniversary

DORIS DIETRICH

Just by chance that any members of the Sanford Woman's club arrived at the April meeting feeling depressed, odds are they left holding their sides from laughter.

There's no doubt about it that Marge Ducharno had the members in stitches. Marge, R.N., B.S.N. is the nursing coordinator of the Health Care Education Department at Orlando Regional Medical Center. She spoke to the women about "Stress Management."

This delightful nurse took on the image of a stand-up comedienne as she told the women to take control of their lives with laughter. "We don't play enough," she said. "We bring stress on ourselves."

Marge mentioned three signs of stress — being tired all the time, little things begin to be bothersome and losing your sense of humor.

Laughter has curative effects, she said, explaining that it lowers blood pressure, helps relieve respiratory condition, is better than a workout, helps balance the immune system and is good for the cardiovascular system.

The speaker is in demand throughout the country as she spreads her humorous, infectious philosophy to a host of audiences. She arises daily at 4 a.m. to be at her job by 5, which means getting to bed early to end today's stress...and then Sears calls about roofing, siding or some such thing, she said. Marge growled with pain. Talking about stress...

Marge advised, "Think about what makes us crazy and do something about it."

She asked the women to spend 15 minutes every day doing "hermit time."

Rose Jacobson, chairman of the club's Public Affairs Department introduced the charming speaker who conducted a question and answer period following her interesting commentary.

President DeLores Lash conducted the business meeting and heard routine reports in an Easter setting. Pastel-colored baskets, eggs and other arrangements decorated the clubhouse and tables.

Faye Siler, second vice president and membership chairman, introduced a new member Gail McCord of Heathrow, Gail, R.N., M.B.A., is administrative director of the Emergency Service/Flight Medicine at Florida Hospital South. She is married to Dr. Robert McCord.

Faye inducted Gail and three other members who recently joined the club, Mary Jean Walker, Doris Stein and Helen Earnest. Each was presented a bouquet of mixed spring blossoms.

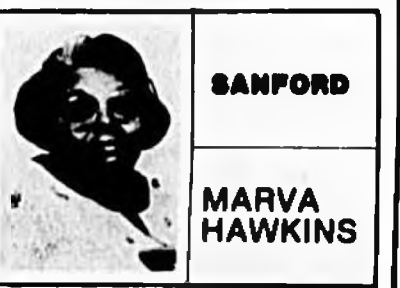

Hostesses were: Pat Hardin Brooks and Retha Blankenahp. See Dietrich, Page 2C

Tajiri Arts students perform in drama

"An Evening with William Shakespeare and Paul Lawrence Dunbar" highlighted the Young Performers of Tajiri Arts, Inc. as they presented the great works of these two people. Over the two evenings' performances the true story was told and the audience got to see the great untapped talent of the young non-professionals of Sanford and Central Florida.

Special recognition was noted of legendary jazz greats, Jesse and Evelyn McGee Stone, and Central Florida's own Broadway star, Harry Burney, actor and artist, and the Orlando Opera Children's Chorus. The evening was well spent and enjoyed at the Dr. Phillips Central for the Performing Arts. The director, Patricia Hitchmon Whatley, and Alton Lathrop, choreographer, indeed had the award-winning production of the season.

This spring performance was dedicated to the memory of the father and aunt of Mrs.

Director Whatley says she hopes that the young people will see that the themes and issues highlighted by Shakespeare are still present today and that Paul Lawrence Dunbar gives the Tajiri Arts students the courage they need to try to do anything they can imagine. From this experience, she hopes that her students will realize that not all successes are easy and sometimes the harder the road, the sweeter the victory. She expressed her gratefulness

Great grandmother sees first soccer game

During a soccer tournament in Jacksonville, Mrs. Marian Thompson, age 99, viewed a soccer game for the first time in her life. A resident of the Riverside Presbyterian residence, Mrs. Thompson wanted to see her great-grandson, David Berman, play soccer. For the first time since David has been playing soccer and has played in the Jacksonville area, the weather cooperated, the field was accessible to a wheelchair, Mrs. Thompson was healthy and the rest is history. After seeing David play soccer, she thought this to be a dangerous sport.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Southward Dinkins

Lisha L. Frick, Benjamin Dinkins exchange vows

ORANGE PARK — Lisha Leigh Frick and Benjamin Southward Dinkins were married April 8, 1995, 11:30 a.m., in the garden of Winterbourne Inn, Orange Park. The Rev. Edwin Montgomery performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Dennis and Zan Frick of Orange Park and the groom is the son of John and Jean Dinkins of Orange Park.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a white silk taffeta floor-length gown featuring a modified sweetheart neckline and short tulip sleeves accented with beaded appliques of Alencon lace. The fitted bodice was delicately covered with appliques of beaded Alencon lace down to a V-neckline. The full A-line skirt was accented by a bow at the back and was embroidered with Alencon lace at the hemline. Her crescent-shaped headpiece of white hand rolled roses accented with satin ribbon and pearls held her elbow-length, custom made, illusion veil. She carried a round nosegay of calla lilies, alstroemeria, ivy and Queen Anne's lace.

Jeanne-Marie Dennison served the bride as matron of honor. She wore a tea-length gown of navy blue bengaline taffeta with round neckline and fitted bodice. The gown featured a V-neckline at the back, short sleeves and a modified peplum slightly below the waist. She wore navy blue shoes and carried a nosegay of brightly colored spring flowers.

Tracey Frick, Laura Maierhofer, Sandy Dinkins, Katie Walker, and Patty Velado served as bridesmaids. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

Best man was John Dinkins, the groom's father.

Matthew Dinkins, John Maierhofer, Devin Frick, Drew Frick, and Jay Sumner served as groomsmen.

Flower girl was Megan Tebo. A reception followed the ceremony at the inn.

After a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina, the newlyweds are making their home in Orange Park.

The bride is employed as an art teacher at Grove Park Elementary School, Orange Park.

Silver anniversary

Joan and Richard R. Cameron were very pleasantly surprised on their 25th anniversary when her prentis, Mr. and Mrs. John Archambault, hosted a gala anniversary party at Otter's in Sanford on March 19.

The couple were married on March 20, 1970 at the First Christian Church of Sanford. They have one son, Rick, a senior at Seminole High School.

Richard, son of the late Richard R. Cameron Sr. and Thelma Claypoole, grew up in Sanford and serves as mechanic for the Seminole County School Maintenance Department. He has been employed by the county for 24 years.

Joan, born in Pepperell, Mass., moved to Sanford in 1969. An instructional assistant at Midway Elementary School, she has been employed by Seminole County Schools for 12 years.

The couple were recently honored by being selected representatives of their respective cost centers for the School-Related Employee for Seminole County. They hold the distinction of being the first husband and wife team to receive this honor the same year. In addition, Joan was named first runner-up for the district.

The evening got underway in the private dining room which was festively decorated in shimmering silver, red and black. The head table, skirted in crimson red, was centered with a silver and black glitter arrangement accented with balloon adornments. Each table had centerpiece of balloons with personalized ash trays and matches.

Guests munched on appetizers of onion straws, chips and salsa followed by a salad course. The main course, served buffet style, featured roasted rosemary chicken with potatoes, mixed spring vegetables and pasta. A special anniversary cake and miniature dessert tarts crowned the meal.

After dinner 40 family members and guests lavished gifts on the honored couple. A toast was given by Mike Muse, a longtime family friend.

George turns 81

George Mills was surrounded by the favorite women in his life when he celebrated his 81st birthday on April 3. Joining him were his wife, Shirley; and three daughters, Kerry Mills Parker, a translator, of London; Jennifer Laxner, an elementary school teacher, Davie; and Sally Robinson, a nurse at Central Florida Regional Hospital, who lives in Deland.

The family enjoyed a big birthday dinner and the girls have hit all the tourist attractions and shopped 'til they dropped.

George doesn't say too much as he relaxes, smiling, while sipping coffee from a cup Kerry brought from London. He seems to be taking the cup inscription seriously...there's a crown on one side and "His Lordship" on the other. George likes that.

'Taste of Sanford'

"A Taste of Sanford" will be held on April 21, from 4 to 7 p.m., at the Sanford Woman's Club, 309 S. Oak Ave. Area cateries will provide their mouthwatering specialties and club members will supplement these foods with their own favorite culinary masterpieces.

Tickets are $5 each and may be purchased at the door or from any club member. Chairmen are Fran Morton and Pat Bowen.

ESO to meet

Epsilon Sigma Omicron, a reading society of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, will meet April 19, at 10 a.m., at the home of Pat Foster with Lourine Messenger as the co-hostess.

Guest speaker will be Sanford Attorney Ken McIntosh who will speak on "Trial of Jesus from a Legal View."

Bridge Social set

The monthly Bridge Social will be held at the home of Charlotte Smith on Wednesday, April 12. Those planning to attend are asked to call Charlotte for a head count.

journeyed to Melbourne for a weekend of fun at the legendary Girl Scout Camp, Riverpoint is not so much a camp as it is a big house. Built over 100 years ago as a fishing lodge, Riverpoint is camping made easy. A big two-story building, Riverpoint has a well stocked kitchen with an industrial size stove, refrigerator and freezer; 10 bedrooms of various sizes; a great room for activities; a fishing dock and a tree house.

The troops arrived at Riverpoint on Friday, March 31. They then did something you can't usually do when you go camping. They ordered take-out pizza. Despite the less than favorable weather Saturday, the girls from Brownie Troop 1397, Junior Troops 536 and 148, and Cadette Troop 441 took turns fishing from the dock. The girls caught quite a variety of fish including two stingrays. They were also thrilled to spot a small pod of dolphins that included an infant. The girls also took turns playing in the tree house and swinging on ropes suspended from a very sturdy oak.

As part of their badge work, Troop 148 taught the other troops to play cooperative chairs. Similar to musical chairs, the goal of cooperative chairs is to make sure no one gets left out. At the end of the game, there were 25 people sitting on one chair. The troops also had a design contest. The girls were asked to design a flag for the Service Unit. In the end, the leaders combined two designs to make the flag.

The big even Saturday night was the talent show. The girls put on skits, sang and danced for the audience. The Cadette troop Springs as joint players in the 75th anniversary celebrations that will take place in the old Jaamine Theater across from Lake Orienta during the week of April 28 to May 7. Both the city and the national league were founded in 1920, the city emerging from a flag stop on the South Florida Railroad, the National League of Women Voters from the successful struggle to win the right for women to vote.

Already in operation, the Jaamine was built by Charles and Katherine Haines to serve as a theater for entertaining winter sojourners from New England. The Seminole League of Women Voters tie to this history is based on the past president of the league, Mary Ostrander, and her husband, Dick Ostrander, the present owners of the Jaamine and they are making it available for the joint 75th anniversary celebrations.

Preservation of the historic landmark over the years will be related as part of the Jaamine Open House tours and other festivities that Seminole League members will be co-hosting with Altamonte Springs. Plans in the making include informal talks, visual presentations of league and local area history, schoolchildren visits, musical reminders of the era and all in spirit and proper costume for the occasion. If you are interested in taking part in this event as a volunteer, a supporter, the league is looking for memorabilia to be displayed during the celebration. For further information, call the league office at 894-6586. Call 831-0843 or 644-4643.

Setting realistic goals we can reach

By LYNDSY HOLLIDAY
Herald Correspondent

Blood, sweat and tears. A mother's famous words.

What exactly do they mean? How many of you have achieved a goal through such terms?

Blood — for the effort and the want to

Sweat — for during the process, the ambition

Tears — for the conclusion, the end result, whether noble or corrupt

Goals can be set for any job. School work, sports, flexibility — just about anything. From little jobs to huge tasks.

A famed goal for most women is weight loss. Almost every woman, at least once in her lifetime, tries to shed a few pounds.

How many people actually conquer their dream?

You need the blood for the want to, the sweat for the ambition during the task and you will finish with the satisfaction, maybe leading to tears.

Men. They want to be pumped. They want the look of a gladiator.

Blood, sweat and tears. How many goals do we set for ourselves? How many goals can we actually accomplish?

Do our goals fit our potential? Yes. Making little goals will boost our esteem, but do they actually help us?

One saying that helps me through most of my problems, I heard from my grandfather.

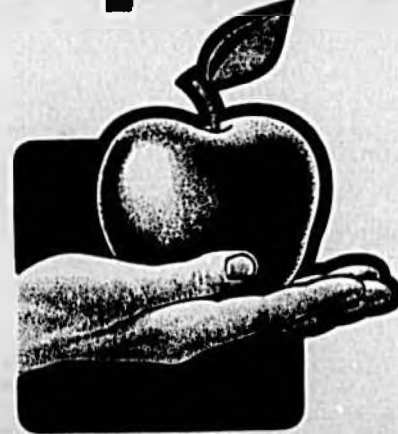

"You have to lose the first pound before you can lose the 10," he said.

It sounds like it's relating to one topic, but think about it. Trust me, it will click.

IN BRIEF

CFRH accredited for mammography

Central Florida Regional Hospital has been approved by the American College of Radiology's Mammography Accreditation Program. The facility has met the necessary requirements, which include a stringent review by a panel of breast cancer-detection experts.

The reviewers evaluate the staff qualifications, equipment, quality control and quality assurance programs at a facility applying for accreditation. The quality of the image and the amount of radiation are measured and must meet rigid standards. Accreditation must be renewed every three years.

One in nine women will develop breast cancer in her lifetime. Early detection is the key to survival. Mammography done in conjunction with breast physical examinations provided the most accurate diagnosis of early breast cancer.

Only 8,000 facilities have been accredited nationwide in the six-year history of the program. It was started in response to concerns by radiologists, other medical organizations, and the public that only qualified personnel perform and interpret mammograms and that only equipment specifically designed for mammography be used. The goal is to ensure women receive the best mammographic examination with the lowest possible risk.

The American College of Radiology (ARC), the American Cancer Society, the American Medical Association and nine other major medical organizations support the following guideline for women without symptoms:

- An annual clinical examination with screening mammography performed at one to two year intervals, beginning at age 40.

- Clinical examination and mammography performed annually beginning at age 50.

- ACR is a major national medical specialty society, with more than 28,000 members, including radiologists, radiation oncologists, and radiological physicists. The organization's headquarters are in Reston, Va.

Central Florida Regional Hospital is a 226-bed facility in Sanford, with 750 employees and over 140 physicians on its medical staff. A part of the Columbia Park Healthcare System, Central Florida Regional Hospital offers a full range of medical services including the only open-heart surgery center in Seminole County.

To schedule a mammogram, please contact Centralized Scheduling at 321-4500 ext. 5961.

Organ donor week set

In an era of breakfast-on-the-go, brown-bag lunches at your desk and microwave dinners consumed in front of the TV, why not bring your family together by discussing your feelings about something that could potentially save their lives and the lives of many others — organ donation.

According to Haskell Gates, National Kidney Foundation of Florida president, "Nearly 40,000 Americans — men, women and children — are currently awaiting life-saving transplants, and the list grows longer every hour of every day."

The National Kidney Foundation of Florida is encouraging all Americans to sign organ donor cards during National Organ and Tissue Donor Awareness Week, held April 18-23, to help ease the desperate organ shortage in the United States.

The good news is that annually over 4,500 people do donate their organs, but that is less than a third of the 14,000 Americans who met the criteria for organ donation each year, Gates pointed out.

To find out more about how to sign up to become an organ donor, simply call the National Kidney Foundation of Florida at (800) 927-9859, and request a donor card, or send a stamped self-addressed envelope to Donor Card, c/o the National Kidney Foundation of Florida, 1040 Woodcock Road, Suite 119, Orlando, FL 32803.

Taking steps to better health

Group helping others and themselves through Walkforce

By VICKI DeBORNIER
Herald Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — They say "a woman's place is in the mall."

In the case of a group of local women, that is certainly the case. The women, and a lone man, are not out there shopping, though.

They're raising money for a good cause and learning about taking better care of themselves.

"We are taking part in WalkForce Leukemia," explained Jan Varnon, one of the members of the Miss Florida Millers, a walking club that takes walks all over the state just for the health of it.

Walkforce is a four month program where participants walk as many miles as they can in twice weekly sessions to gain financial sponsorships for a leukemia patient.

The local group is walking for Jason Sands a Union Park (Orlando) Middle School student, but there are patients from Seminole County who are being sponsored by walking groups elsewhere.

The Walkforce group is raising money for the patients, but the walkers get something for themselves in the deal said Varnon.

"We're all learning more about walking and other health and fitness matters," she said.

The group takes part in various clinics throughout the four month event. Speakers at the clinics have included a podiatrist to talk about foot care and health, a nutritionist to talk about diet and maintaining a

There are groups which meet to walk for the Walkforce at the Florida Mall, the Orlando Fashion Mall, as well as at the Altamonte Mall.

The Miss Florida Millers is a club whose members walk either as individuals or in groups for

"We have a lot of fun," Varnon said. "We really do."

The path to greater health and wealth

By ALLISON BARKER
Associated Press Writer

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — Ginseng, that mysterious root of supposed vitality and health, promises riches and mystical powers for those willing to plunge into the darkest corners of Appalachia's toughest terrain. "The weedier, the snaker-looking place you can get into is where you will find the ginseng," says Jack Baladen, a ginseng buyer in Verdunville. "It's in deep, dark hills, back in the hollows."

Ginseng has been celebrated in the Orient for centuries for its medicinal powers, but it's part of mountain lore in Appalachia.

In 1992, ginseng sold for about $250 a pound in the United States and as much as $600 a pound in the Far East.

So it's no wonder the hills are alive with folks 'enging.

"Some people make it pretty much a full-time profession," says Bob Whipkey, an assistant administrative forester with the West Virginia Division of Forestry.

William Single, who farms about five acres of ginseng in Bruceston Mills, says, "It's like when prospectors used to go looking for gold and silver, but it's worth more than silver. If you find a good patch of 'eng you can make a thousand bucks quickly"

Marie Sargent, a 74-year-old Verdunville grandmother, says she makes about $500 a year Christmas money digging and selling ginseng in the fall.

"I get out and run the hills and go and go," she says.

Dick Lambert, who trades in ginseng at his canoe rental business in Fredericksburg, Ind., says, "Some people spend the whole season in the woods and will make $2,000, $3,000 a season."

The wiry root, green when harvested but brown when dried, is powdered for capsules, salves, teas, soft drinks, extracts and food flavorings. Some say it is good for arthritis, rheumatism, liver problems and even AIDS.

Mountain people say wild ginseng soothes nerves, calms upset stomachs and, yes, excites the libido.

But ginseng is not approved as a drug in the United States despite its health claims, says William Studer, executive director of the American Ginseng Society in Brooklyn, Mich.

"Your body can resist infections if your HDL cholesterol is high enough," Studer says. "American ginseng is one way to increase your level quickly."

Jimmy Mason of San Francisco, a former intravenous drug user who tested positive for the AIDS virus in 1987, says he started taking American ginseng in 1989 after two years on AZT.

"In a matter of two months after I stopped taking AZT and started taking ginseng, my T-cell count went up for the first time," Mason says. "My doctors think it's marvelous."

The plant is on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's endangered species list. Ginseng digging, buying and exporting is regulated by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the U.S. Customs Service and state agencies across Appalachia.

Some state laws require diggers to plant ginseng's bright-red berries immediately after they remove the root.

The root is cleaned and dried before sale at ginseng weighing stations, where it is recorded for state authorities before export.

Ginseng is sold by size, shape, color and age in Hong Kong, Taiwan, Singapore and China.

Ginseng once grew abundantly in Asia, but China now produces less than 100 pounds of wild ginseng a year, at up to $5,000 a pound, says Paul Hsu, owner of Hsu's Ginseng Enterprises Inc. of Wausau, Wis., a grower and exporter.

Exporting American ginseng is a $100 million enterprise, Hsu says.

"Wild ginseng is in high demand because it's scarce. West Virginia is one of the main states where you can get it," Hsu says.

Although West Virginia harvests most of the nation's wild ginseng, about 95 percent of ginseng for export is cultivated in Marathon County, Wis.

Cultivated ginseng, although abundant, is not coveted like wild ginseng.

"It took me 10 years to get my first ginseng stalk to grow. It's unpredictable," Slagle says.

Slagle, a high school shop teacher, has encouraged students to raise ginseng.

He says that in the rural counties of West Virginia, teenagers are as apt to discuss ginseng as football, and often buy their school clothes with their profits.

Local stores among first to get UV-protected contact lenses

By VICKI DeBORNIER

SANFORD — A pair of Seminole County visionwear stores are among the first in the nation to offer the first frequent replacement soft contact lenses to have a built-in block against the sun's damaging ultra-violet rays.

Pearle Vision Center at 3661 Orlando Dr., in Sanford, and Pearle Vision Express at 600 E. Altamonte Dr., #100, in Altamonte Springs, are among the exclusive distributors of the Precision UV.

The lenses, manufactured by Pilkington Barbes Hind, will be distributed exclusively by Pearle stores.

The new contact lenses will afford the 24 million Americans who wear contact lenses to have continuous protection from the sun's ultraviolet rays even when they are not wearing sunglasses.

"It's important to remember that year-round precautions are necessary, especially in the strong Florida sun," explained Dr. Jeff Smith, an ophthalmologist for Pearle.

He added the new lens helps wearers eliminate the guesswork involved in making sure their eyes are properly protected at all times.

Pearle's launch of the Precision UV signifies its continuing commitment to ocular UV protection and raising public awareness about the issue. They began the campaign in November 1993 when the landmark report, "Ocular Ultraviolet Radiation Hazards in Sunlight," was issued by Prevent Blindness America, the American Academy of Ophthalmology and the American Optometric Association.

The report linked long-term exposure to UV rays to a number of serious eye diseases, including photokeratitis, cataracts, pterygium and even macular degeneration.

The new contact lenses, already a strong seller in Europe and Canada, absorb up to 90 percent of harmful rays.

The lens features a UV inhibitor called "UVD," a special material that absorbs UV radiation. Once absorbed, the radiation is neutralized, converted into heat and then transferred into the air.

The lenses also possess one of the highest water contents of any contact lens available — 74 percent, which allows more oxygen to reach the surface of the eye.

Locally, the lenses, are being sold for $24.75 — the same price as other frequent replacement lenses. They are worn for one or two weeks at a time, the same as for other disposable lenses.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

A few weeks ago, I mentioned filming a saltwater crocodile in the Northern Territory of Australia. Perhaps some of you expected me to feature the defensive technique that is in today's deal. It was originally played in a tournament in 1951 to celebrate the Australian Jubilee.

In the Acol system being used then, an opening bid of one no-trump was weak, showing 12-14 high-card points. South's jump rebid of two no-trump showed 17-18 points. With 19, he would have leapt all the way to three no-trump.

West led the club seven: 10, three (low from an odd number), two. South had eight tricks but had to establish the ninth without letting East gain the lead for a fatal club return through the king.

South cashed dummy's heart queen: three, two, 10. He continued with the heart six and the spotlight was on East. If he played low, South would finesse his seven, establishing four heart tricks — and nine in all — while keeping East off the lead.

However, an alert East rose with the heart jack to swallow his partner's nine. This play is called a Crocodile Coup because the defender acts like a crocodile opening his jaws to capture his prey.

After winning perforce with the heart king, declarer continued with the heart ace, getting the bad news. South turned his attention to spades, cashing the ace and king. Now West had to be on his toes, throwing his queen under the king. After this, East had to win a trick and the contract was defeated.

Any pair who found this defense deserved the points that were showered upon them.
