Exotic snails seized

WILMINGTON — U.S. Agriculture Department inspectors seized two giant African snails from a Wilmington pet store this week.

The banana ramp snails from Nigeria had been transhipped from Tampa. They are about the size of a baseball. They devour vegetables and even eat paint, from which they get calcium.

Ines Stevens, owner of Nature of Things Pet Center where the gastropods were seized said she had no idea the snails were banned in the United States.

State and federal inspectors determined that a company in Tampa had imported the Archachatina marginata from Nigeria and had shipped about 100 to pet stores in at least 23 states.

At Tuesday's sentencing, Billy Dennison displayed his arm with his name tattooed in blue letters.

The boy's uncle, Francis Dennison, 23, was convicted of malicious wounding. He received nine months in jail.

The boy's father, William Dennison, 29, pleaded guilty to unlawful wounding. He was sentenced to one year.

Circuit Judge James Berry also ordered them to pay $2,500 each in fines and restitution and to serve three years probation.

The tattoo is being removed for free by a New York doctor.

Plan to kill monkeys halted

SILVER SPRINGS — After facing more than 80 angry animal lovers, state officials agreed to study further a plan to euthanize rhesus monkeys that may carry a virus often fatal to humans.

"The support for the monkeys in this community has been clearly demonstrated to me tonight," Mark Gilson, a state Department of Natural Resources spokesman, said Tuesday. "We are not through with our research."

Gilson said he has not made a decision on the monkeys' fate.

SHS magnet proposed

By VICKI BOGORMER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County school board said last evening that they would prefer making Seminole High School a magnet school rather than redrawing district lines in order to bring more students to the school.

The magnet school, according to Dr. Marion Dailey, is designed to provide "a distinctive, effective and energized curriculum, not available in other Seminole County schools, and make that specialized curriculum available to students on a district-wide basis."

Dailey is the district's assistant superintendent of instructional services.

Dailey offered 11 examples of the kinds of magnet schools Seminole High School could offer if it were converted to a magnet school. Courses of study from an academy for tourism to a performing arts school to the International Baccalaureate program.

Interim superintendent Richard Wells said he believed the magnet program was a more viable alternative than rezoning to Seminole's enrollment problem.

"I think rezoning would not be fair to anyone right now," he said. "We will be rezoning the whole district in a few years."

The district brought in Dr. Bob Schenck, principal of Eastside High School in Gainesville, and Sam Welker of that school, to discuss the advantages of being a magnet school. Eastside

School board: No rezoning at SHS

By VICKI BOGORMER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Some parents of Seminole High School students and other citizens concerned with the image of the school and the community are unhappy with the Seminole County School Board.

Last night's work session, attended by nearly 200 people, was designed to discuss solutions to the decreased enrollment at Seminole High School.

The citizens advocate rezoning students from other schools to bring Seminole's enrollment from 1,701 to 2,000.

"We are losing money due to reduced enrollment," said Pat Southard, president of the Seminole Parent Teacher Organization. "In 1990 every other school in the district got $25,000 in the Merit Schools grants, but because our enrollment is under 2,000 we got only $20,000."

Advocates of rezoning to increase the numbers of students at the school argue that the fewer students a school has, the fewer opportunities they have to make

Lake Mary 'thinkers' dine in Apopka

By NICK PFENAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Department heads and City Commissioners of Lake Mary will gather late this month for a planning session. The meeting will not be held in Lake Mary.

The Commission has agreed to hold the session, presently planned for Townsend's Plantation in Apopka, rather than at the City Hall. Mayor Randy Morris explained, "A location such as Townsend's would be appropriate as it gets ourselves and department heads away from the duties and the phones at City Hall."

A similar meeting was held at the same location a year ago. "It was a good meeting and everyone had an opportunity to discuss various things," Morris said.

"Of course the meeting will be open to the public," Morris commented, "but we will not be taking any public input or allow any disturbance." He added, "This is for staff and Commission discussion only, and we won't be making any formal decisions or votes on anything."

Morris suggested the meeting, and received approval during last week's Commission meeting. City Manager John Litton explained, "The meeting is moderated by an outside facilitator, which allows everyone of the participants to be on an equal level."

Litton reported that Pete Colby, on the staff at the University of Central Florida has agreed to moderate the meeting.

The place of the meeting, hiring the facilitator and the cost of the evening meal are to come from the City's general revenue budget. "This isn't a very costly event," Litton explained. "Last year it was only about $500."

Morris commented, "Such a planning session is extremely helpful in identifying the commission's goals and the implementation by the staff." He added, "Of particular importance is how some of these goals and programs affect the City's budget."

The staff will begin preliminary work on next year's budget by next month.

Among items Morris has suggested for the strategic planning session are those that deal with Commission required from the commission and staff that may involve other forces such as the county, state, East Central Florida Regional

Court innovation lauded

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — A unique Seminole County court record-keeping process that works similar to a grocery store automatic checkout has become a semifinalist in a $100,000 Harvard University awards program.

If selected, the county could receive a $100,000 award as one of the 10 innovative government programs in the nation. The State and Local Government Awards are issued by the Ford Foundation and administered by the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard.

The Seminole County program was among 73 semifinalists, including four from Florida, selected from more than 1,600 applicants. The list will be narrowed to 25 later this spring. The 10 award recipients will be announced in September.

Maryanne Morse, county court clerk, said she got the idea for the automated open-court minutes processing system from standing in line at her local super market.

"I was watching them check items out using the bar code reader and I thought 'Hmm, I wonder if we can do something like that,'" said Morse.

Morse said she had already begun to automate the thousands of case files by use of a bar code and color key process. Bar codes are those irregular-width lines on the side of most products. A scanner reads the lines and determines the price.

At Morse's direction, Technology Assemblers Inc., Lake Mary, prepared a program that allows a courtroom clerk to enter basic information from arraignments directly into a computer by use of a master bar code sheet and a light pen scanner. The process has saved the need to take the case file to another clerk to enter the data before it is refiled. That data entry clerk will be reassigned to other duties, said Morse.

As the system is developed, Morse said it will be applied to docket soundings and other courtroom functions that are routine. The system has cost about $30,000 to develop, Morse said.

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Lawsuits target travel companies

FORT LAUDERDALE — Two Daytona Beach companies that sell vacation vouchers for the Bahamas have been accused of misleading consumers in lawsuits filed by the Federal Trade Commission and the Florida Attorney General's Office.

The suits target Passport Internationale and Incentive Internationale and a host of companies that sell the vouchers through the mails or by phone. The lawsuits allege the firms engaged in deceptive trade practices.

"This strikes at a whole cluster of companies," said Allen Hill, a staff attorney with the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection in Washington. "There is a whole network that supports telemarketing."

The FTC and state complaints charge that the companies misled consumers when they failed to advise them of the full costs of trips or refund policies, the Sun-Sentinel in Fort Lauderdale reported for Tuesday's editions.

State attorney clears campaign aide

TALLAHASSEE — The campaign manager for former Gov. Bob Martinez has welcomed a state attorney's ruling that he didn't do anything wrong in 1991 when he pocketed a $61,000 bonus for a few months.

State Attorney Willie Meggs, however, turned over his files to the FBI, which is looking into how campaign funds were handled by Martinez and campaign chief J.M. "Mac" Stipanovich, the St. Petersburg Times reported Tuesday.

Stipanovich said Meggs' conclusion meant that "a responsible public official (told) me what I knew all along — that I had done nothing wrong. It was a bonus I had paid to myself with the approval of the governor."

EEOC suit targets employment agency

MIAMI — The federal government charged that a temporary employment agency sent coded records to employers who didn't want black workers or Hispanics with accents.

The suit filed Tuesday against Personnel One resulted from one of several investigations targeting employment agencies nationally, said Joy Cherian, one of four Equal Employment Opportunity commissioners who authorized the lawsuit.

"I find it hard to believe that such overt discrimination on the basis of race, color and national origin continues today, almost three decades after the passage of the Civil Rights Act," Cherian said.

The Miami-based agency refused to refer minorities to some employers, notably banks, but treated white applicants without accents more favorably, the suit filed in U.S. District Court charged.

Police look for missing young woman

GAINESVILLE — Police searched early today for a 22-year-old local woman whose disappearance has been described by authorities as suspicious.

Kelly Denise Page, of southwest Gainesville, was last seen by co-workers before noon Tuesday when she left for lunch. Her husband, Dan, became worried when he could not reach her by telephone, police said.

Mrs. Page's father-in-law, Charles, made a plea for anyone with information to contact the family.

"She's a sweet, loving young lady," he said. "This is out of character for her, terribly unusual."

Police said nothing appeared to be missing at the couple's townhouse, but the door was open and the place in disarray. Mrs. Page's purse was found in the house but the couple's 1987 Ford Bronco was missing.

"There's no proof of foul play, but at the same time it's suspicious," said Spencer Mann, spokesman for the Alachua County Sheriff's Office.

Mann said that while police are not certain a crime has been committed, they want to be cautious "because of the disappearance of Elizabeth Foster."

Miss Foster, a 21-year-old Santa Fe Community College student, vanished March 15. The body of the New Jersey woman was found days later in a shallow grave south of town.

School money campaign launched

Chiles, Cabinet push for legislative action

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles and Education Commissioner Betty Castor enlisted most of the Florida Cabinet in an effort to persuade lawmakers to raise more money for education.

Acting as the state Board of Education, Chiles and the Cabinet voted Tuesday to launch a campaign of news releases and meetings with business and civic leaders to urge legislative action.

The Cabinet's two Republican members divided on the resolution, proposed by Castor.

Failure to raise more money would mean teacher layoffs, including up to 1,700 in Dade County alone, as well as crowded classes, program cuts, textbook and supply shortages, and transportation cutbacks, the resolution said.

"I just don't think we ought to let that happen," said Secretary of State Jim Smith, who switched from Democrat to Republican in 1987. "I just think it's time for people to step forward."

The other Republican, Insurance Commissioner and Treasurer Tom Gallagher, cast the only no vote. He did not comment in the meeting but said later he opposes new business taxes in a recession.

"Businesses are having a terrible strain right now with their workers' compensation, with keeping people employed," Gallagher said. "I think this is a very tough time to expect taxes to be increased."

The resolution supports state Taxation and Budget Reform Commission recommendations similar to Chiles' proposals to boost state spending. After the current session, limited to drawing new districts for lawmakers, the Legislature is expected to resume work in a May special session on a budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Chiles vetoed a $30 million regular session budget that stayed within current revenues, saying it slashed spending too deeply for schools, social services, prisons and the environment.

The resolution echoed his support for sales-tax-exemption and business-tax changes to raise nearly $1.4 billion for those areas.

Gallagher, who could face Smith in a gubernatorial primary in two years, said the Legislature should try approaches such as an unsuccessful Senate budget plan that would have made some school spending increases without new taxes.

Go in' fishing

The Central Florida Chapter of Paralyzed Veterans of America is sponsoring the sixth annual PVA U.S. Open Bass Tournament this weekend. Chapter officers could use some additional volunteer boat owners to accompany the physically challenged fishermen who will vie for the grand prize, a fishing boat, right, shown flanked by Dennis Quinn, member; Steve Martinson, president; Brian Terwilliger, vice president; James Robinson, membership officer and Jack Powell, executive director. Split into three divisions, anglers will gather on the banks of Lake Monroe at the crack of dawn Saturday morning, continuing Sunday. Local bass club members and interested fishermen can volunteer for the event by calling Terwilliger at 331-8805.

Associated Press

TAMPA — The average cost per employee in a Florida health maintenance organization was $3,124 last year, compared with $3,046 in the rest of the country, a new survey shows.

The difference can be attributed to issues unique to Florida, said Michael Cadger, with A. Foster Higgins & Co., a consulting company which did the survey.

He cited higher costs to employers as a result of a large number of Medicare patients and poor Medicaid reimbursements, severe problems in the workers' compensation system and the lack of legal reforms.

Jill Chamberlin, a spokeswoman for Insurance Commissioner Tom Gallagher, said another factor might be a state requirement in recent years that HMOs have a 2 percent profit. That was put in place because 95 percent of the state's HMOs were on the brink of insolvency in 1989, she said.

Despite the gap between average HMO costs in Florida and elsewhere, the cost of a Florida HMO is still 22.3 percent below what employers paid per worker — $4,023 — receiving health-care benefits through a traditional insurance plan.

Under HMOs, consumers forgo their choice to pick what doctor or hospital they want in exchange for discounted or flat-fee prices from the HMO, which collects monthly payments from the insured people.

Florida's HMO costs have increased at more than 15 percent a year vs. the national average of 13.5 percent last year.

In 1990, the yearly HMO costs in Florida was $2,706.

Redistricting negotiations intensify

By GARY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The Senate logjam over legislative redistricting showed faint signs of breaking as lawmakers began to rally around a compromise map drawn by the Common Cause public interest group.

"I'm prepared to go do it, to go make it work," said Sen. Pat Thomas, a Quincy Democrat who is leading the legislative mapmaking effort in the Senate.

The Senate hoped to vote on a new version of the Common Cause plan for the 40 Senate districts Tuesday evening, but decided to postpone action until today at the earliest because the maps were not completed in time.

"I think we're making progress," said Sen. Richard Langley, R-Clermont. "They're looking at something besides the Democrats' map."

At stake is which party will control the Senate, which is effectively 21-19 in favor of the Democrats now.

A preliminary version of the Common Cause proposal contains 20 districts where Democrats have more than 50 percent of the registered voters.

Ross Perot supporters will dine and sign Friday

Associated Press

FORT WALTON BEACH — Ross Perot supporters plan to dine and sign petitions across Florida.

A "lunch hour for Ross Perot" at noon EDT is part of an effort to get the Texas billionaire on Florida's presidential election ballot.

"The intent will be to get the 1,000 people who have already called in to get together in various places across the state to have lunch and ... invite a minimum of 10 other people to come along and sign petitions also," Perot state coordinator Ed Hubbard said Tuesday.

The former Vietnam prisoner of war said in a telephone interview from Seattle, where he was on a business trip, that his goal is to exceed the 80,312 signatures required during the one-hour campaign.

"It is not our intention to stop signing people up at that point because that's the same as stopping when you achieve the minimum satisfactory goal," he said. "We're going to try to break that bad habit in Florida."

Perot supporters are organized in a pyramid fashion with 10 regional coordinators each responsible for 10 local coordinators, each supervising 10 other workers and so on down the line. "The idea is to do this the simplest, quickest, cheapest way we can do it," Hubbard said. "You've got 10,000 people in the pyramid. If each one of those people can go out and get 10 signatures you get 100,000 signatures in 30 seconds."

Hubbard is a retired Air Force colonel and now works as a management consultant and motivational speaker.

He said his biggest problem has been the large number of people trying to call the single telephone in his one-room office in this Florida Panhandle city, which serves as Perot's state headquarters.

Petition efforts are being conducted in the other 49 states. Perot has said he would run as an independent candidate only if his supporters get him on the ballot in all 50 states.

County seeks grant to help small businesses

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County is seeking a state grant to provide marketing and other information to small businesses.

"A lot of businessmen don't know what we have at our libraries," said Jean Rhein, director of the Library and Leisure Services Department. "We felt this would get information about what we offer to more of them."

The county is seeking a $47,000 state grant to purchase computer equipment and information databases to establish the program. If approved later this year, Rhein said the program could be established in early 1993. Rhein said the state grant, if approved, would likely be issued for three years. After that the county would either continue financing it or drop the program.

Rhein hopes to computerize information about selling to foreign and local markets, including lists of businesses and contacts. Among the information available for computer retrieval is federally-compiled statistics, financial information on large companies and "yellow pages" from thousands of telephone directories.

A part time library technician would be available to retrieve the information from computer databases that will be purchased for the program. Rhein said library staff will also offer seminars on use of the information and resources available on library shelves. County libraries currently offer information on establishing businesses and marketing products.

Rhein said the small business program would probably be located at the Central Library. The county Central Library in Casselberry is also a federal depository and offers government reports and information to small businesses.

Kids' views

It's too bad that young Americans don't have firsthand memories of the civil-rights milestones of the mid-1960s. Perhaps then they would understand how far the country has come, how far it has yet to go and how necessary it is to remain committed to the journey.

Whether they fully realize it, young Americans, white and minority, have benefited enormously from increased racial integration in the nation's schools and workplaces.

As a recent People for the American Way survey shows, young people are more likely than their parents to interact closely with members of another race. Yet half of them describe race relations in the United States as "generally bad."

And that's not a situation they seem inclined to work at changing. Forging a new moral consensus on race should be a national priority, not just for today's youth, but for adults who must do a better job of leading by example.

The poll, of 1,170 young people aged 15 through 24 by Peter Hart Research Associates, is the most detailed study yet of racial attitudes held by American youth. Division, anger and mistrust remain strong even where hope seems possible.

Although 71 percent reported having at least one "close personal friendship" with a member of a different race, most still cling to myths and stereotypes that fly in the face of their personal relationships.

Young Americans need adults to help them confront racial division and their part in perpetuating it. When parents, teachers, religious leaders of politicians ask young people to take time to examine their attitudes about race, they're more likely to recognize that their prejudices run counter to their ideals.

Rather than rely on buzzwords from past generations, Americans need to develop a new language of racial reconciliation. The first word to get thrown out of the new dictionary must be "blame." Too much of the dialogue about race in America has become mired in a vicious cycle of mutual resentment.

Minorities believe with moral certainty that whites are responsible for racial hostility; whites have the same moral conviction about minorities.

Instead of that sort of finger-pointing, young people need to be taught a formula for success that celebrates diversity while emphasizing education, personal responsibility and a fair chance. They need to learn to disregard finger-pointing of all varieties, including the coded kind used by some presidential candidates.

Young Americans must be educated to rely on their own experiences with people of other races and reject the stupidity of stereotypes. They are the children of the civil-rights era. They need to keep the vision of the terra alive. They need strong adult help in that task.

There is U.N. fungus among us

In Michigan, scientists have discovered a 10,000-year-old fungus, weighing as much as a whale, 30 acres large, hidden under the ground, with only pretty, little mushrooms poking above the surface.

In New York, at the United Nations, another huge, old and hidden fungus has been vegetating, but the mushrooms are threatening to sprout bigger and uglier. Preparations have been going on for two years for "The Earth Summit," a spectacular U.N. conference scheduled for Rio de Janeiro in June.

A domestic political fight about it is already under way. Environmentalists want President Bush to attend the ES gala and announce that it's a grand idea.

But it isn't. It's an old hidden, U.N. fungus, painted green. In earlier times the U.N. mushrooms were called, among other things, "The New International Economic Order," "The Law of the Sea" and "The Brundtland Report." But the theme is always the same: The U.N. gets power, the Third World gets money.

The generic argument has gone this way: Poor nations are poor because rich nations are rich. Rich nations should pay poor nations reparations. The transfer should proceed under a cloak of crisis ("the sea," "the environment"). The terms of transfer should be centrally regulated by U.N. bureaucrats.

The more definite ES idea, still mostly hidden beneath mountains of platitudinous and weasel-worded documents, goes this way: We need general environmental clean-up and, particularly, emissions control to deal with "global warming." Poor nations are too poor to do it. Rich nations must pay them to do it. Rich nations will raise the money by taxing their citizens for energy use.

Two years of negotiations toward these goals ended in fuzzy stalemate on April 4. An intense green propaganda campaign can now be expected to gain favorable resolution during the

The transfer of money should proceed under a cloak of crisis.

Rio meeting. So far, the United States has been recalcitrant.

Why? The ultimate costs are about $70 billion per year in new foreign aid. And the biggest donors would be nations where energy is used for such ignoble pollutions as single-family houses, two cars per household and air-conditioning. Like — surprise! — America.

It is sad to see the U.N. go down the rip-off road again, using environmentalism as the mushroom of choice. The environment is one realm where some global regulation makes some theoretical sense. If, for example, "global warming" should ever evolve from environmental theology to serious science, it could only be dealt with worldwide.

What to do? Rethink from scratch. The intellectual basis for the Earth Summit runs counter to what the human species has learned recently.

There is a better way. For we have learned something positive as well: Liberty works. Free markets and free politics yield prosperity. Only free countries are rich; only rich countries can pay the price of environmental cleanliness.

ELLEN GOODMAN

We should fear the fear of sex

BOSTON — When Magic Johnson first started talking about AIDS, condoms, and abstinence, he got his words a bit muddled. "The best sex," he said at one point. "Is no sex."

That wasn't exactly what he meant. Somebody out there may be getting ready to publish The Joy of No Sex. But Johnson was talking about the risks of sexually transmitted diseases and the one sure way to avoid them.

Still, in the months that have followed, months full of a sober and necessary discussion about sexual risks and sexual values, his original bungled phrase has stayed in my mind. There is something missing from the public discussion about sex. The current no-no, the one forbidden word is not the anatomically correct name of a body part: It is the word pleasure.

The debate among those who teach the young and single is deeply divided between two camps. Those who want to teach "safe sex" and those who teach "saved sex." The community is replete with intense arguments over what to say to young people.

On any given morning, one school in the country may be giving away condoms and describing birth control while another school may be leading their students in a chastity pledge: "Do The Right Thing, Wait for the Ring." Religious leaders on one front may be preaching abstinence at Sunday morning services while on the other front, the Harvard Divinity School, celebrates AIDS Awareness Week with an art exhibit entitled, "Sacred Condoms."

These arguments rage in communities from Shreveport, Louisiana to Greenwich, Connecticut. The consensus that we have to give our young some sex education splits right down the middle. Should the education be from the chastity curriculum like Sex Respect, or the caution and condom curriculum. Which breaks more easily: condoms or vows of celibacy?

But for all the furor, both sides share the same subtext: danger. And only occasionally do we notice a problem with this shared anxiety. Perhaps, for example, when a 9-year-old boy tells a reporter here: "When I grow up, I'm not going to have sex because I don't want to die."

Sex — that word that we too often limit to mean intercourse — has both dangers and pleasures. In the '60s and '70s, we talked about pleasures and forgot about dangers. Many of our children, our daughters in particular, were not liberated by the sexual revolution but made more vulnerable — to pregnancy, to disease, to exploitation. But in the 1990s, we talk about danger and forget about pleasure.

"We use AIDS to clobber our young people," says Debra Haffner of the SIECUS, the Sex Information and Education Council of the United States. "We are trying to say to them you will die therefore don't do it, rather than to talk about valued, relationships, decision-making. Pleasure? We don't talk about it at all."

None of this is surprising. When AIDS-infected "Uncle Eddie" makes front-page news for sexually exploiting young men in Philadelphia, pleasure is not the first thought on a parent's mind. When 13-year-olds are having sex and 15-year-olds are having babies, the most popular p-word is protection.

And when the sexual messages of movies and TV and MTV are locked in a media time warp where sex is rarely safe and never saved, we see our own role as one of rebuttal. They talk about sexual license, we talk about sexual danger.

Sol Gordon, one sex educator who speaks the language of young people even says, "I'm at a stage where I can't even talk about pleasure as a sex educator, I have to talk about health issues, life and death issues."

But to talk only of danger is to limit all of human sexuality to the sex act. To remain silent about sexual pleasure leaves the field to the exploitive distortions of the mass culture.

This may be a hard time for any sexual ethic more complicated than a bumper sticker. That may be especially true for those of us who believe in both postponement and protection and pleasure, according to its time and place and person. Those who believe in caring and carefulness.

Yet, there is nothing contradictory in teaching children about both the risks and delights of sex. If we don't, we may leave them safe but crippled. Along with all the other anxieties of the age, add this to the list: We need to also fear the fear of sex.

The community is replete with arguments over what to say to young people.

Speaker Foley may be too nice

WASHINGTON — If House Speaker Tom Foley, D-Wash., is deposed, it will be because he lost a battle that this "Mr. Nice Guy" never fought. It should have begun on June 6, 1989, when his predecessor, former Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, told Congress, "Let me give you back this job."

Foley made a mistake that month by not putting on the gloves and coming out swinging against the man most likely to make his life miserable, Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., the GOP's guerrilla fighter who now has the Democrats and Foley reeling.

Minority Whip Gingrich has been hammering Foley for the way the House is run, even to the point of blaming Gingrich's own bounced checks on the Democratic leadership.

This is a year when all the political stars should have been aligned for the Democrats. The country is galvanized for Democratic issues of health care, jobs and tax fairness. The party should be capitalizing on those issues. Instead, Foley, the third man in line for the U.S. presidency in the constitutional chain of command, is making headlines about bounced checks, no-cost prescription drugs, free parking and the low fees at the House gym.

The beleaguered Foley is being flogged on television by the telegenic Gingrich, who accuses the speaker of cover-ups and other crimes. The response from the unflappable Foley has been lawyerly and measured — reminiscent of Michael Dukakis' robotic response to the hypothetical rape of his wife.

Gingrich himself put his finger on Foley's biggest handicap back in 1990 when he said of Foley, "He has to get an A-plus for having helped return the House to a sense of decency, and returning congressmen to being colleagues again. He's very decent." In retrospect, the comment is less a compliment than the assessment of a man sizing up his enemy's Achilles' Heel.

In Foley's hometown, his father is remembered as the judge who was so well-liked that even defendants thanked him when he sentenced them to jail. In Foley's first congressional race in 1964, he set the tone by citing his opponent for "distinguished service." In 1985, Foley pronounced that he was "temperamentally not a basher."

Too bad. One pol told us that Foley didn't have to fight Gingrich on the floor of the House. He merely had to make life miserable for Gingrich in his home state of Georgia, where he barely scraped by with a re-election victory in 1990 with a margin of 1,000 votes.

The first step should have been to rally the unions in Georgia and other traditionally Democratic constituencies to a "scorched earth policy" against Gingrich, the Democratic pol suggested. Step two would have been to orchestrate fund raising and radio advertising against Gingrich on his home turf. Had this been done, according to some party strategists, Gingrich could have been pinned down in his own district this year fighting for his life at the polls instead of rolling the waters closer to the Potomac.

"The only way to deal with Newt is on the ground level," explained one chagrined Democrat, sympathetic to Foley. "If you treat him like a national figure, he'll be a national figure."

It's the kind of mortar fire that Foley can't seem to return in kind. Americans admire wisdom, patience and turn-the-other-cheek restraint. But they also feel better when the person in their corner has a limit to his patience. One source said that Foley would have gone greater political distances if a story had circulated about how he "grabbed somebody by the tie and punched him in the nose at any time in his life."

Gingrich accuses the speaker of cover-ups and other crimes.

School board begins search for $10 million to cut from budget

By VICKI DeBORNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board will begin the budget cutting process tomorrow morning at 10 a.m.

"We have to cut more than $10 million from our budget in order to comply with the governor's reality budget," interim superintendent Richard Wells said last night.

Wells said that his staff is still working on suggestions of where the fat can be trimmed, but they will be ready with specific suggestions on Thursday morning.

Preliminary figures show that $2.1 million will be saved by simply not replacing district-level administrators who leave or by replacing them with people with less experience who are, thus, at a lower pay scale.

Schools will be a big source of the cuts, Wells said, though he said those cuts will be made carefully and not at the expense of the students.

Leaders of various groups, from parents to school counselors to curriculum and media specialists have expressed their concerns to the superintendent and plan to be at Thursday's work session.

This preliminary session will be a time for discussion. No final decisions will be made until the summer when the final decisions will be put into effect.

Wells expects that this first meeting will be a long one as a lot of changes and cuts will be necessitated by the Reality Budget.

The budget work session will take place in the school board meeting room, 1211 Mellonville Ave., Sanford.

Improvements in the curriculum.

Southward, who lives in Longwood, has chosen to send her children to Seminole High School with special dispensation from the school board. They are actually in the Lake Mary school zone.

Speakers expressed anger that the school board often contributed to the poor image of the school.

"Your rhetoric often adds to the negative perception," said Judy Williams, co-chairman of the Sanford Committee's education committee. "When (during out-of-zone transfer requests) you make statements like 'we have to approve this one because we've got someone who actually wants to go to Seminole' it is catastrophic to our students."

When Williams accused the school board of contributing to the negative image, the crowd burst into uproarious applause. Board Chairman Nancy Warren, banging her gavel loudly, called for "a certain amount of decorum" before the audience member called out in a loud whisper that decorum is what kept them from yelling.

Martha Yancey, who said she was new to educational politics, added that she was "appalled to see what was going on in (our) high school."

She added, "I graduated from Seminole High School 50 years ago. Please do the best we can do for our children. We want them to do well and we want them to stay here."

Sandy Traeger, the mother of two Oviedo High School students, sided more with the school board when she pointed out that the solution to Seminole's woes had to be a district-wide one.

"I don't mean to suggest that Seminole High School doesn't have a perception problem, this is a county-wide issue. The quick solution is not always the best solution."

Indeed the board all but refused to even look at rezoning as a solution.

"I don't think much of rezoning," said Warren. "Rezoning is only done as a last resort. It is not one of our procedures to do so."

Interim Superintendent Richard Wells wanted to know why the citizens even wanted to increase their enrollment.

"I don't buy the assumption that bigger is better," he said. "Money is earned on a per-student allocation."

Vice chairman Jeanne Morris said she is opposed to rezoning because it won't solve the problems at the school.

"Rezoning doesn't mean the bodies will show up," she said.

Billy Higgins, chairman of the Sanford Committee, is currently in France as part of his job with Walt Disney World, but he sent a letter to the board in support of the rezoning option.

"We realize that rezoning may not be the most popular solution," he wrote. "We are asking that this decision not be made based on popularity. We are asking that this decision to rezone be based on fairness to all of our children and on sound business policy."

Magnet

has been, for the last five years, a magnet school for the International Baccalaureate program.

"It has changed the demographics of our school," Schenck said of the program. "It has added a more pleasant atmosphere to the school. We have the best teachers who are available to all the students."

Schenck and Welker told the audience that the magnet school, though it adds only 115 students per year, has made their school a better educational program.

Seminole High supporters greeted the magnet school program with polite applause, at best.

The board will discuss the magnet program, which has a start-up cost of between $200,000 and $500,000, again at the April 28 meeting. They will accept public input at that time, and they will vote on pursuing the plan further.

"Are we going to let them shove this down our throats?" asked Amaelia Royster, a parent who was livid following last night's work session.

Gretchen Schapker, principal at Seminole High, said she could not understand why the district would not consider rezoning. "Why is it that Johnny can be happy if he comes to Seminole High School under the magnet program," she asked the board, "but not be happy if he comes to the school under rezoning?"

The district opposes rezoning saying that students will be rezoned again in 1994 to fill the new high school that is planned for northwest Seminole County in 1995.

Billy Higgins, chairman of the Sanford Committee, summed up that committee's feelings on that in a letter to the board.

"We should not be paying for new facilities," he wrote, "while excellent facilities are under-enrolled."

Board chairman Nancy Warren said rezoning would not be "doing Seminole High School any favors."

She added, "The board has made a commitment to be patient and together we can work to find a solution to this problem."

Royster said rezoning is "the easiest, most effective solution" to Seminole's population woes. She would be happy to see a compromise solution that includes some rezoning and a magnet program.

Schapker said that she is not in favor of the International Baccalaureate program as a magnet option, pointing out that the majority of jobs in the future will not be in the liberal arts areas, rather, she said, something in the technology field would better serve her students.

Parents promised to be back on April 28.

"We'll have more to say about this," Gail Stewart said. "This is not the solution we want."

Everglades 'most endangered' Plan

By SCOTT BONNER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Columbia and Snake river system, where hundreds of Northwestern fish species are imperiled by dams and development, heads a conservation group's annual list of North America's most endangered rivers.

"There has been a tremendous decline in the number of native fish moving up and down those rivers," Kevin Coyle, president of American Rivers, said in announcing the 1992 selections today.

"Where there once were 16 million to 20 million migrating annually, there now are 2 million," he said, blaming hydroelectric dams for most of the damage.

The Florida Everglades and the Colorado and Mississippi rivers also made the top 10 list, which Coyle said symbolizes some of the continent's "worst environmental abuse."

Other trouble spots include California's American River, two rivers in Alaska and "legendary" trout streams in Montana and New York.

The rivers were picked because they face imminent damage from dams, diversion, dredging, pollution, mining, logging and other land development, he said.

The group also released a second list of 15 threatened rivers, including the Ohio River and the Rio Grande.

For the first time since the inaugural list in 1984, American Rivers is shifting its emphasis toward river restoration instead of protection of remaining stretches of undeveloped water, Coyle said.

"Now we are looking at river segments that already are declined. One of the premier examples of that is the Columbia-Snake river system," he said in an interview.

That system, running through Oregon, Washington and Idaho, was chosen No. 1 primarily because the American Fisheries Society has found 214 of its native fish species to be endangered, threatened or imperiled.

In the past year, the National Marine Fisheries Service has declared the Snake River sockeye salmon to be endangered. It has proposed that three other Northwestern salmon species be added to the list of threatened or endangered species.

California's American River and Maine's Penobscot River, both threatened by dam proposals, appear on the 1992 list for the fourth year in a row.

Alaska's Alick and Tatanahini river system made its third consecutive appearance. Coyle said the largest open-pit copper mine ever proposed threatens those wild rivers.

Quebec's Great Whale River, also threatened by a hydroelectric project, and the Everglades were listed for the first time.

"Most wetlands are in fact river systems," Coyle said. "The Everglades were really a sheet of water 100 miles wide that surged through south-central Florida. Over time, that reservoir has dried up."

American Rivers listed the upper reaches of the Mississippi River last year but has expanded its concerns from the headwaters in Minnesota to the mouth at the Gulf of Mexico.

In addition to the threat of oil spills from single-hull barges, the group is taking aim at "non-point source pollution — runoff from the bread basket of the United States in the form of soil, agricultural chemicals and industrial waste," Coyle said.

Rounding out the top 10 are the Blackfoot River of Montana and the Beaverkill and Willowemoc river system in New York's Catskill Mountains.

Coyle said his group has succeeded in winning legislative protection or postponing development on each of the rivers it has listed as the most endangered since 1984.

Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan Jr. adopted interim flow protection measures last year for the Grand Canyon section of the Colorado River, the No. 1 pick in 1991. Other past top selections include Oregon's Klamath River, the South Platte River in Colorado and the Kings River in California.

Morris said the planning session had nothing to do with the regular Monday night meetings currently being held in Lake Mary by the Charter Review Committee.

"This type of session isn't uncommon with governmental bodies or businesses," Morris said. "There are many annual meetings held for the purpose of pure discussion and plan considerations."

One of the photos of Elvis Presley suggested for the 29¢ stamp was taken at an early age. A young Elvis, with coat and tie, is seen holding a 1950's type "Ribbon" microphone. The second photo was taken during the later days of his career. Elvis is slightly heavier and wearing his flashy clothing. He is seen holding a newer "shotgun" type microphone.

Hundreds of thousands of ballots have been sent throughout the nation to post offices for distribution. Persons answering the call have been required to check "A" or "B" on a post card, stamp it, and return it to an address in Memphis.

The back of the card says, "To receive more information in 1993 about the Elvis stamp, please fill in your name and address."

Rader explained, "I don't think we'll be getting in any additional ballots. What we've been doing is giving people the address they can write to with their choice."

Deadline for voting is April 24th. For persons wishing to submit their votes, the address is, Elvis Poll, P.O. Box ELVIS, Memphis, TN 38101-1001.

Clinton surges toward nomination

By JOHN KING
AP Political Writer

NEW YORK — Bill Clinton savored today a trio of critical primary victories that moved him closer to a fall showdown with President Bush. Badly bruised challenger Jerry Brown vowed to "keep this debate going."

Clinton suddenly loved New York after winning its bloody primary Tuesday, and for good reason: that win and victories in Wisconsin and Kansas made the Arkansas governor the putative Democratic nominee, persistent voter doubts about his integrity notwithstanding.

Democratic Party chairman Ronald H. Brown called the results "an extraordinary day for Bill Clinton" and told NBC the front-runner was "a lot closer to our party's nomination today than he was yesterday."

Clinton sounded like a candidate eager to bind the wounds within his party and move on to the fall challenge against Bush.

On election night he offered an olive branch to those who voted for Brown and, in surprisingly large numbers, for dropout candidate Paul Tsongas, while presenting himself as leader of a new Democratic Party.

"In the future, people will look back upon this week and this campaign as a turning point," Clinton said. "Not for Bill Clinton, but for the Democratic party and for America."

Party chairman Brown said he had talked to Tsongas the former Massachusetts senator hadn't yet decided whether to re-enter the race.

"Paul Tsongas has indicated he doesn't want to be a spoiler," said the chairman. Other party leaders said they thought it unlikely Tsongas would get back in after Clinton's sweep.

The dramatic day in the Democratic race overshadowed predictable GOP contests in Wisconsin, Kansas and Minnesota. Bush won them all, big, over challenger Patrick Buchanan, and New York as well by default.

Clinton and Brown battled in Minnesota's "beauty contest," where there is no direct opposition. "Belegit," but that race was too close to call early today, with returns still incomplete.

For his part, Bush was heartened.

"Today's results are another endorsement of our proposals for fundamental reform," he said. "While the Democrats offer only confusion, we are earning a mandate to change America as we change the world."

Turnout was remarkably low in New York, where the total vote stood at just about 1 million in the Democratic presidential primary, down from 1.575 million in 1988.

In Minnesota, the official prediction of 12.5 percent turnout was too optimistic. Secretary of State Joan Grove said county officials counting the votes calculated the actual turnout at 6 percent to 11 percent of the registered voters.

As the Democratic race escaped New York and headed to Virginia this weekend and Pennsylvania in three weeks, Brown congratulated Clinton but vowed to fight on, trying to sound upbeat on a bad day.

Lesson in government: Students shadow county's staff, officials

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Forty-six Seminole County high school students "shadowed" county staff and officials and participated in a mock county commission meeting Tuesday.

The learning experience was provided in observance of National County Government Week. Other events include an open house at the county's new Central Transfer Station near Winter Springs at 2 p.m. today and a volunteer appreciation reception tomorrow.

Students from Seminole, Lake Mary, Lyman and Seminole Trinity Christian School, along with other high school students, accompanied court officials, county staff and sheriff's staff to learn about the day to day functioning of county government.

Afterwards, a dozen students drawn at random from the group participated in a mock commission hearing to discuss school topics. A pizza lunch with their county shadow partners followed at Fort Mellon Park.

Jeffrey Bouley of Lyman, served as commission chairman and District 2 representative. Other "commissioners" were Trung Vong, Seminole, Matt Zalesak, Lyman, Julie Dorell, Lyman, and Anthony Washington, Lake Brantley, David Yi, Lake Howell, served as county

Longwood looks ahead

'Outlook Committee' of 10 to study city issues

By NICK PEIPHAUF
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — City Commissioner Clarel Keith has suggested the Longwood City Commission create an "Outlook Committee". Keith predicted the committee would have a big job.

"There are so many things coming up that will affect Longwood in the future," she said, "that we need to start considering how to handle them now." Keith suggested possibly a 10 person committee, and volunteered to serve as the City's representative.

Among items she believes the committee could plan for is the eventual widening of CR-427 through a portion of the historic downtown area. "We need to consider all of the problems this could create in relocating buildings, especially where to have a new post office," she said.

According to City Administrator Don Terry, "The present post office will probably lose most of its parking area and will have to be relocated." The post office is located at the corner of CR-427 and Church Street. As of yet, no proposals have been advanced for any move.

"Some other things the committee could look into," Keith suggested, "is the beautification of the widened area along the highway, as well the beautification of the present Longwood City Hall."

She observed, "While the purchase of the Village Inn for a City Hall is temporarily on hold, the committee might continue to work on an agreement with CNL, the owners of the Inn, toward some future agreement." She added, "In the meantime, if we're going to be stuck in this present building, maybe the committee could come up with some way to make it look more appealing."

Keith suggested the committee be comprised of the City Planner, City Engineer, a representative of the Historic Association, and others including appointments of individuals by the various members of the City Commission.

Mayor Adrienne Perry observed, "We started an outlook committee about two years ago, and I'm pleased to hear a suggestion that it be started again." She added, "We need such a committee to not just look at our present problems, but those of the future as well."

With Commissioner Rex Anderson absent at the time, the other commissioners unanimously approved the concept of the new committee, although Commissioner Paul Lovstrand observed, "This is just what we need, another committee."

The members of the commission have been asked to present their nominations for the committee at the next Longwood City Commission meeting, scheduled for April 20th.

Scranton powers Lyman

By TONY BOGGERMAN
Herald Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — Thanks to inside-the-park home runs from first baseman Carrie Scranton and Lake Brantley's Tania Diaz, the Lyman Greyhounds found themselves alone atop the Seminole Athletic Conference softball standings Tuesday night.

Scranton ripped her third and fourth home runs of the season to boost the Greyhounds to a 12-5 decision over the visiting Oviedo Lions in an afternoon contest. Later on, Diaz hit a grand slam that rallied the Lake Brantley Patriots to a 7-5 win over the Lake Mary Rams.

With one game to play, Lyman (12-4 overall) leads the SAC with a 7-2 mark. Lake Mary drops back to second at 6-3, a half-game ahead of 5-3 Lake Howell, which had its game with Seminole rained out Tuesday afternoon. Lake Brantley is now 5-4 in the conference. Oviedo falls to 5-13 overall, 2-7 in the SAC.

On Thursday, Lyman hosts Lake Howell. Oviedo is at Lake Mary and Seminole entertains Lake Brantley at Fort Mellon Park. All three games are scheduled to start at 4 p.m.

win was a huge one, coming as it did after a 3-2 extra-inning loss to Lake Brantley last Thursday.

"That was a tough loss, particularly because we didn't hit," said Lyman coach Christy Tibbitts. "But

Brantley disrupts Lake Mary

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Three hours after being eliminated from the Seminole Athletic Conference softball race, the Lake Brantley Patriots — and Tania Diaz — fired a hole into the Lake Mary Rams' hopes of a conference title.

Diaz split the Lake Mary defense with a two-out, inside-the-park grand slam that capped a six-run rally in the bottom of the fourth inning to turn around a 4-0 Lake Mary lead and lead the Patriots to a 7-5 victory.

Earlier in the day, Lyman (12-4, 7-2 SAC) pulled a half-game ahead of co-leader Lake Mary and mathematically eliminated Lake Brantley with a 12-5 win over Oviedo. The loss to the Patriots (16-9, 5-4 SAC) dropped the Rams (13-7, 6-3 SAC) a

Red Sox and Royals romp ahead

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The K-n-D Trailer Hitch Red Sox and D.A.V. Royals continue to run roughshod over the competition in the Sanford Recreation Department Little Major League American Division as they posted big victories at Ft. Mellon's Roy Holier Field Tuesday evening.

Both teams showed their usual offense prowess as the Red Sox hammered the Fisher, Laurence & Deen Blue Jays 16-5 and the Royals clobbered the First Union Bank A's 18-4.

But both teams also received excellent pitching as Levi Raines and Donald White combined on a no-hitter for the Red Sox and Robert Hampton hurled a one-hitter for the Royals.

The victory improved the Red Sox to 5-0 on the season, but the Royals are nipping at their heels with a 4-1 mark. Both the A's and Blue Jays fell to 1-4. The other member of the American Division, the Sanford Ace Hardware Orioles, are also 1-4.

The next action for the Little Major League will be Thursday evening when there will be a National Division doubleheader at Roy Holier Field. At 5:45 p.m. the Cattle Ranch Cardinals will face the Sunland Corporation Pirates and at 7:45 p.m. the division leading Korg U.S.A. Expos will entertain the Railroaders Cubs.

The Red Sox actually trailed 2-0 after the first inning, but the division leaders scored six runs in the top of the second inning, keyed by a pair of two-run singles by Raines and Antonio White.

The Blue Jays came back with three runs in the bottom of the second inning to close the gap to 6-5

Babe Ruth: Rotary Royals now 2-0

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The defending American Division champion Rotary Club Royals became the Sanford Recreation Department Babe Ruth League's first two game winner Tuesday with a 15-6 triumph over the Blue Jays at the Sanford Memorial Stadium.

The game was close for most of the game as the Royals only led 6-4 entering the fourth inning. But the Royals used timely hitting and Blue Jays miscues to score nine runs in the inning.

The Royals improved to 2-0 with the win while the Blue Jays fell to 1-1. The two teams will be in action again Saturday as the Royals will take on the Moose Club Pirates at 3 p.m. and the Blue Jays will face the Hungry Howies Cubs at 10 a.m.

In today's game at Sanford Memorial Stadium, the defending City Champion Knights of Columbus Cardinals will look to go 2-0 against the undefeated Pirates at 5:45 p.m.

The Blue Jays countered with pair of runs in the bottom of the first inning as Tim Hunter walked, moved to second on a wild pitch and scored on a single by Dustin DeMarco. DeMarco later scored on a wild pitch.

The Royals came back with three runs in the top of the second inning when winning pitcher Terrance Jenkins singled and scored on a double by Alberto Williams. Alberto Williams scored on a wild pitch and Sammy Williams walked and scored on a single by Josh Alebrook.

The Blue Jays tied the score in the bottom of the second inning with Fabian McKinney and Tyler Blair scoring the runs.

Patriots use big seventh inning to bury Rams

LAKE MARY — One minute you're fighting for the lead, the next minute you're trying to avoid a blowout.

That was the sequence of events that faced the Lake Mary High School varsity baseball team in a 12-3 loss to Lake Brantley in a Seminole Athletic Conference contest at the Lake Mary Baseball Complex Tuesday night.

In the bottom of the sixth inning, the Rams trailed 5-3 and had the bases loaded with two outs. But after Patriot reliever Kevin Morro worked out of the jam, Lake Brantley sent 13 batters to the plate in the top of the seventh inning to score seven runs and turn the game into a rout. Morro earned his sixth victory without a defeat by throwing 3 1/2-innings of two-hit, shutout relief for Frank Harmer, who was making his first start of the season.

Harmer, who transferred to Lake Brantley from Lyman last summer, looked like he had recovered from his shoulder problems of last year by allowing only two hits while striking out four over the first three innings.

But Lake Mary got to Harmer for three runs on four hits in the fourth before he was lifted for Morro.

"Tonight was only the third time Frank (Harmer) has pitched this year," said Lake Brantley head coach Mike Smith. "The plan was for him to throw the first three innings and then have Kevin (Morro) throw the last four so they could get some work. But Frank was throwing so hard that we let him go back out for the fourth. We're looking for that third starter for the district tournament."

The Patriots hit the ball hard all night, roughing up Rams pitchers Dave Hudick and Ben Rovito for 15 hits, including five doubles.

Raines helps White Sox get off on right foot

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer

ANAHEIM, Calif. — The Chicago White Sox, expected to be a strong contender for the AL West title this year, opened with a 10-4 victory over the California Angels on Tuesday night as Sanford's Tim Raines drove in three runs and scored two.

Mark Langston, a 19-game winner last season, was tagged for seven runs and 10 hits in three-plus innings as he dropped to 0-4 in season openers.

Jack McDowell pitched six innings for Chicago, giving up two-run homers to Von Hayes in the first and Bobby Rose in the fourth. Hayes' homer was on the first pitch to him as an Angel, his first home run in 336 at-bats since Sept. 8, 1990.

McDowell, 17-10 in 1991, gave up eight hits, struck out six and walked one. Wilson Alvarez came on in the seventh after McDowell threw 98 pitches and finished with hitless relief for the save.

George Bell, acquired by the White Sox during spring training from the cross-town Cubs, was 0-for-5 in his White Sox debut.

Raines' two-run double in the second inning gave Chicago a 3-2 lead. Michael Huff hit an RBI single in the third and the White Sox made it 8-2 in the fourth.

"That's the way to get off to a good start for us," Raines said. "We put everything together, showed what we're capable of."

Raines scored Chicago's ninth run on a groundout in the fifth, and Frank Thomas hit a solo homer in the eighth.

Huff doubled and singled twice in Chicago's 14-hit attack. Ozzie Guillen had two of five doubles by the White Sox, and Robin Ventura singled twice.

Hayes, acquired by California in a trade with the Philadelphia Phillies, was injured much of last year and went through a season without homering for the first time in his 10-year career.

with one game to play. full game back
"It's nice to win a couple of games like this because we've lost a couple like this," said Lake Brantley coach Reny Betris, referring to the fact that all seven Patriot runs were scored with two out.

Trailing 4-0, Lake Brantley loaded the bases on consecutive singles by Carol Rabaja, Jennifer Masciarelli and Julie Helmers. But when the next two batters hit into fielder's choices — Rabaja and Masciarelli both being forced at the plate — it looked like the Rams would escape with their lead intact.

But pinch-hitter Melissa Bateman walked on four pitches to score Helmers with the first run. Rachel Poppe then hit a pop fly that somehow managed to fall unmoistened on the left side of the infield, less than 80 feet from home plate, allowing Kim Black to score.

Then it was Diaz's turn.

"You can't do that against a good ball team like Lake Brantley," said Lake Mary coach Jeannie Fisher. "The kids were mentally and physically prepared to play. But then we had that miscommunication in the infield . . ."

Lake Mary had taken a 3-0 lead in the third inning when Marissa Measer tripped home Karen Pinckney and Michelle Allen.

then scored herself on a single by Elizabeth Davidson. Jenni Longstaff singled and scored on Pinckney's double to make the score 4-0 in the top of the fourth.

The Rams got one run back in the top of the fifth when Measer singled, advanced to third on a pair of Lake Brantley errors and came in on Kellie Woodall's sacrifice fly. But the Patriots responded in kind, Julie Helmers hitting a one-out single, taking second on a fly ball and scoring on Nicole Rathbun's single.

Lake Mary will host Spruce Creek tonight before wrapping up its SAC schedule with Oviedo at home Thursday. Lake Brantley will play Seminole Thursday at Fort Mellon Park.

we did that today. That's the reason we realize that they could still lose a game. We were on a 10-game winning streak. After a loss like that, reality sets back in.

"The girls are starting to peak. Now I just hope we can stay at that level."

Lyman used a 17-hit attack to turn back the stubborn Lions, who rallied from a 7-0 deficit to close to 7-5 before the Greyhounds put the game out of reach with a five-run sixth inning.

Scranton (4-for-4 with two home runs, two singles, five RBI and three runs scored) opened the scoring by launching a shot into the left field corner, driving home Jamie Bland with the game's first run in the second inning. Jodie Bland and Jennifer Forston added RBI singles during the six-run explosion.

In the third inning, Scranton singled and scored on Susan Willis' triple to up the advantage to 7-0.

Oviedo cut into the lead with three runs in the fourth and two more in the sixth, but the Greyhounds answered with a five-run outburst in the home half of the sixth, the final two coming on Scranton's home run.

"We haven't had 'our' game yet," said Oviedo coach Nancy Van Wormer. (You never know. The defense is doing the job, but the bats are hurting us. They have the potential, it's there. It's just a matter of them getting them to all work together."

Willie, the winning pitcher (11-3), added her career with a triple, two singles, one run and one RBI. Forston had two singles, a run and two RBI.

Chad Ebbert, who transferred from Lake Brantley to Lake Mary over the summer, was 3-for-3 with two doubles and threw out three would-be base stealers Tuesday night against his ex-teammates.

coming into tonight," said Smith. "So I knew we would be ready. In the Palatka Tournament, the St. Augustine pitcher had signed with Flagler, the Starke pitcher signed with Jacksonville University and the Orange Park pitcher had signed with Vanderbilt.

"We didn't win the tournament but that's why we went, to face good talent and it made our kids better. And then last Saturday we faced (Lyman's) Kevin Stuckey, who appears to be throwing hard and really pitching well late in the season."

Contributing to the Lake Brantley attack were Randy Segal (3-for-4, double, one run scored, four RBI), Jeff Butler (3-for-5, double, two runs scored, two RBI), Eric Costado (2-for-3, double, three runs scored, one RBI) and Harmer (2-for-3, double, one RBI).

Also contributing were Mike

Speranza (2-for-4, double, one run scored, one RBI), Matt Wood (2-for-4, two runs scored, two RBI), Morro (1-for-1, two runs scored) and Gary Czachowski (one run scored).

Lake Brantley transfer Chad Ebbert had the big game for the Rams, going 3-for-3 with two doubles and an intentional walk. He also did the job on defense, throwing out three of the four Patriots who tried to steal.

Also doing damage offensively for Lake Mary were Chad Kessler (2-for-3, one RBI), Matt Green (1-for-3, double, one run scored), T.J. Hamilton (1-for-3), Hudick (1-for-4, one run scored, one RBI), Mike Werner (0-for-0, three walks), Chris Barfield (one RBI) and Brandon Hanahaw (one run scored).

The victory improved Lake Brantley to 10-5 overall and 7-2 in the SAC, giving the Patriots a half game lead over Seminole in the conference.

Traditional fare marks Passover

Guests to share Jewish holiday

By DEBORAH YINGLING
Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD — Most people panic at the thought of preparing a meal for six guests but not Carol Katz. For Thanksgiving last year she hosted a sit-down dinner for 61 guests at her family reunion. Katz advises would-be cooks not to be afraid in the kitchen. She certainly practices what she preaches. "It (cooking for a large group) frightens some people. Me, I just say, okay. Instead of an eight pound turkey, you make a twenty pound turkey. Instead of two onions, you use four onions. It doesn't bother me to do bigger things," she says nonchalantly.

Katz taught herself to cook beginning at the age of seven. When her mother traveled, she delegated some of the household duties to Katz including the responsibility of preparing meals for her three older brothers. She modestly describes her abilities in the kitchen as being able to "throw things together."

She has adapted to a health-conscious cooking style, using very little beef. Katz does not use any canned foods either preferring to make things fresh. She even echews canned tomato sauce and prepares a tomato sauce by combining tomatoes and green peppers. She does count on one major modern convenience. "My favorite utensil is the microwave," she says.

Katz plans to use her culinary talents to entertain guests for Passover dinner or Seder. All of the traditional fare will be served such as Charoses, a mixture of chopped apples, nuts and wine which symbolizes the bricks made by the Jews while enslaved by the Pharaoh in Egypt. "I am making certain traditional things...homemade chopped liver and we'll have gefilte fish. I make a matzo meal and onion stuffing," she says.

The Passover holiday, which lasts for eight days, begins on April 18 this year. The first seder marks the beginning of a celebration of the exodus of the Israelites from bondage under the pharaohs in Egypt. Special foods play an important role in the celebration and certain foods are forbidden during this time. No bread or any baked goods with leavening may be used. Grains, peas, rice, beans and corn are not allowed to be used. These restrictions are symbolic of the haste with which their ancestors fled Egypt and of the special privations used during the Jews' forty year journey through the wilderness.

Guests will participate in the recitation of the Haggadah, the traditional story of the Exodus. Each guest will read a portion from copies of a book prepared for this custom. Katz recalls, "One of the first ones (Seder) that my friends and I had, we had three different versions and it was difficult to follow so I made several copies of one book."

Katz says, "It's a meaningful evening. It brings back a lot of childhood memories."

Katz shares this recipe for a favorite Passover treat.

PASSOVER BROWNIES
1/2 cup hydrogenated vegetable shortening

2 cups sugar
4 eggs
8 Tbsp. dark, unsweetened cocoa
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup milk
1 cup matzo cake meal
1 tsp. vanilla extract
Nuts
Cream shortening and sugar together. Add eggs and beat with an electric mixer on high for two minutes. Reduce speed and add cocoa, salt, milk, cake meal and vanilla extract. Beat until blended. Pour into a 9x13x2 inch pan. Bake for 25 to 30 minutes at 350°. Cool in the pan for five minutes before cutting.

These apple fritters can be served warm or cold. This recipe makes approximately four servings.

MOTHER'S PASSOVER APPLE FRITTERS

1 cup matzo meal
3 eggs
2 Tbsp. oil
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup water
3 medium, tart apples, peeled,

cut into small pieces

Sugar and cinnamon
Mix together matzo meal, eggs, two tablespoons oil, salt and water. Add apples; blend well. Drop by spoonfuls into deep, hot oil. Fry until golden brown. Lift out with a slotted spoon and drain on paper towels. Sprinkle with mixture of sugar and cinnamon.

This is Katz's recipe for brisket of beef. It is a traditional dish that can be served for holidays or any time.

BRISKET OF BEEF

Beef brisket
Carrots, cut up
Onions, cut up
Fresh mushrooms, sliced
Celery, cut up
One jar of prepared steak sauce/brown gravy mix. Put all ingredients into an oven browning bag and bake for 25 minutes per pound of meat at 350°.

Salad days

Spring meal planning made easier with microwave

The microwave is most useful for cooking potatoes and other fresh vegetables until they are just tender-crisp, but still beautifully colored to be used for salads. Other salad ingredients such as meats, chicken, shrimp, bacon, can be quickly and easily cooked. Cream cheese can be softened. Salad dressings made in the microwave do not need constant stirring; they will not scorch.

When preparing salads for your spring-time meal planning, think about how your microwave can make the preparation easier.

HOT CHICKEN SALAD

1 cup chopped onion
2 cups chopped celery
2 cups chopped chicken (white meat preferred)
1 (8 oz.) can water chestnuts, drained and sliced
1 cup sliced mushrooms
1 cup green peas
1 cup mayonnaise
2 Tbsp. fresh lemon juice
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. freshly ground black pepper
1/4 tsp. poultry seasoning
1/4 cup slivered almonds, toasted*

MICROWAVE MAGIC
Midge Mycoff

1 cup crushed Ritz crackers
1/4 cup grated Cheddar cheese
1/4 tsp. paprika
In 2-qt. measure or casserole, place onion and celery, cover with plastic wrap, and microwave on 100 percent power 4 minutes. Add chicken, water chestnuts, mushrooms, peas, mayonnaise, lemon juice, salt, pepper, and poultry seasoning and mix well. Microwave on 100 percent power 5 minutes.

Sprinkle toasted almonds, crushed crackers and cheese over top and dust with paprika. Microwave, uncovered, on 70 percent power 8-12 minutes or until hot and bubbly. Serves 6-8.

Mayonnaise:
2 egg yolks
1 tsp. dry mustard

1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. sugar
1/4 cup wine vinegar or fresh lemon juice
1 1/2 cups extra virgin olive oil or vegetable oil
Freshly ground white pepper
Place egg yolks, mustard, salt, sugar and vinegar in bowl of food processor fitted with steel blade and process until smooth. With motor running, pour oil slowly through feed tube. Add pepper to taste, then pulse to blend.

Store in tightly covered container in refrigerator for up to 3 days.

*To toast almonds:

Place 1 cup almonds in 9-inch glass pie plate with 1 tablespoon unsoftened butter. Microwave on 100 percent power 1 minute, stirring to coat nuts with butter. Microwave on 100 percent 4-6 minutes or until nuts are light golden brown, stirring several times. Let nuts stand for 5 minutes.

This attractive color combination makes a good brunch buffet salad also.

SPINACH-FRUIT SALAD

1 clove garlic, minced

1 Tbsp. water
3 Tbsp. vegetable oil
2 Tbsp. tarragon-flavored vinegar
1 Tbsp. honey
Dash of pepper
6 cups torn spinach leaves
1 ripe avocado, peeled and sliced

1 Tbsp. lemon juice
6 strawberries, sliced
1 cup seedless green grapes
2 Tbsp. sliced almonds, toasted

Combine garlic and water in 1 cup measure. Microwave on 100 percent power, uncovered, 1-1/2 minutes or until tender. Stir in vegetable oil, vinegar, honey and pepper; mix well. Let stand.

Arrange spinach on large serving plate or in shallow bowl. Dip avocado slices in lemon juice, arrange attractively over spinach. Place strawberries around avocado; sprinkle with grapes. Cover and refrigerate until served.

Just before serving, mix dressing well and drizzle over salad; sprinkle with almonds.

This, too, is a good choice for a brunch.

Widows' name change matter of choice

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, George Demian asked you to settle a debate — the thrust of which was: When a married male dies, should his widow be addressed as "Mrs. (her first name) Doe"? Or "Mrs. John Doe"?

You replied, "John's widow should be properly addressed as 'Mrs. John Doe' until she either dies, or remarries."

Abby, it may be "proper" in the sense of drawing room manners, but whether a woman is addressed by her (dead or alive) husband's name should be her choice. Actually, Mrs. John Doe is not her name; it is her title by virtue of marriage. Why isn't it just as proper to address a woman as you do a man — using her name? A person's choice of Mrs., Ms., Miss or none of the above, for self or other women, depends upon where one stands politically. Come on, Abby, your advice to George needs a shot of feminist enlightenment. Why must a woman be addressed by her husband's name and not her own in order to be "proper" even after her husband dies? Bay you didn't mean it, Abby.

ADVISE

KAY SEXTON, PLEASANT HILL, CALIF.
DEAR KAY: I did mean

it...but it's a woman's prerogative to change her mind, and I am opting for that prerogative. Forget Amy, Emily and Letitia — from now on and henceforth: A widow need not use her husband's name in order to be "correct." She may be Mrs. Mary Jones, or Mary Jones, if she so chooses. And when I update my booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," I will make that change.

DEAR ABBY: My 20-year-old son is still wetting his bed every night. He has seen a urologist and has tried all the usual medications, but nothing has worked. (He is a very sound sleeper.)

I do not know where to go from here. Has anyone else gone through this who could give me some ideas on what to try next?

Please, Abby, my son really needs some answers.

DESPERATE MOM
DEAR MOM: You don't say how long it's been since your son saw a urologist, but he should seek a second opinion from another specialist.

If there is nothing physically wrong, and your son's only problem is reprogramming his sleeping habits, contact your nearest Sears Roebuck store about ordering its Wee Alert Buzzer. The premise is simple: An alarm will sound the moment moisture touches a screen placed under the bottom sheet, instantly waking a sound sleeper. After a very short time, the sleeper forms the habit of waking up naturally at the right hour of the night — or the "wee" hours of the morning. Good luck.

Stress can worsen affects of fibromyalgia

DEAR DR. GOTT: I would appreciate information on fibromyalgia and polymyalgia. I've had many tests and my diagnosis has been narrowed to these conditions. Anti-inflammatories such as Advil and Motrin have eased the pain, but I need some direction.

over-the-counter anti-inflammatory drugs are, in my opinion, inappropriate. You should be treated with cortisone. Return to your doctor and request clarification. To provide further information, I am sending you a free

MEDICINE
PETER GOTT, M.D.

copy of my Health Report "Consumer Tips on Medicines."

DEAR READER: Fibromyalgia is a common rheumatic disorder, of unknown cause, marked by muscle pain, tenderness and stiffness. The hallmark of this disease is the presence of "trigger points," localized areas of muscle or tendon that are exquisitely tender when pressed.

There are no specific tests for fibromyalgia, which is a diagnosis of exclusion, meaning that other, more serious disorders -- such as polymyalgia -- have to be ruled out. Fibromyalgia is usually worsened by stress; therefore, stress counseling is often part of the therapeutic program, which may also include analgesics, anti-depressant drugs, physical therapy and massage.

Polymyalgia, on the other hand, is a potentially more serious disorder. Although the symptoms are similar to those of fibromyalgia (minus the trigger points), polymyalgia also causes fever, weight loss and apathy. The condition is diagnosed by blood tests in conjunction with biopsies of muscles and arteries. The cause is unknown, but the disease is believed to be an example of self-allergy, an autoimmune disorder. Treatment with cortisone is always successful and should be given to avoid complications such as anemia, heart disease and loss of vision.

If you have polymyalgia, the additional diagnosis of fibromyalgia is redundant: One disease would explain your symptoms. Furthermore, if you do indeed have polymyalgia,

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
Most bridge hands are "normal" -- the textbook play works. But there are some for which the textbook play is wrong. The difficulty is in separating the routine hands from the unfamiliar.

Today's hand, taken from "Bridge -- Tricks of the Trade" by Terence Reese and David Bird (Gollancz, $16.50, 212-866-5860), is a good example. Cover the West and South cards. Against the contract of four hearts, West leads the spade jack and dummy plays low. Plan the defense.

At the table, not wishing to give declarer two spade tricks, East made the normal play of the four. Declarer won with the king and led a diamond to the queen and king. East switched to a trump. After winning with dummy's heart jack, declarer called for the spade queen. East won with the ace and returned another trump. South won with the queen and led his second diamond. West had to win with the ace, but he had no trump remaining. Declarer could ruff his spade loser in the dummy and discard his club loser on the diamond jack.

Declarer was rather lucky, but East missed his chance. If West had the diamond ace, East could see three defensive tricks. The only other chance was either a heart trick or -- more realistically -- a club trick. Also, the discard on the spade king wasn't going to be of use to South. If East wins trick one with the spade ace and switches to the club two (better than the jack), the contract dies. The defenders have the step on the declarer.

Before making the "textbook" play, always consider the hand as a whole. Readers are invited to send card-play questions to Phillip Alder, in care of this newspaper. They can be answered only through the column.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
April 8, 1992

Advancement in your chosen field of endeavor is a strong possibility for the year ahead. Your rise in status could come about through a unique chain of events.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Establish objectives today that are within your scope of possibilities. If you attempt something beyond your limitations, you could be sorely disappointed. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $3 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Subjects you find interesting might not be of equal importance to your friends today. If you interject these topics into a discussion, you might lose your audience posthaste.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You should do rather well today in situations where you're able to look out for your own interests, but things you attempt to manage for others might not be handled as aptly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Partnerships could have more disadvantages today than benefits. If there is something important you hope to accomplish, see if you can do it independently.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You might benefit in some manner from an arrangement initiated by another today, while at the same time be deprived of rewards for something you've done entirely on your own.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) People who are industrious and productive make your best companions today. You have abundant energy waiting to be channeled in a positive manner, and they'll help you do it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll be very effective today -- if you work on involvements that can be accomplished speedily. Tedious tasks reduce your interest and motivation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're holding the winning cards today, so don't devote your time and energy to insignificant situations. Go after something meaningful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Direct involvements with others for a constructive purpose will bring you the greatest happiness today. If you can't do anything with a pal, do something for a pal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone you're closely involved with might offer you some very wise advice today, but there is a chance you'll ignore it, just because you didn't think of it yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Dealings you have of a commercial nature should work out to your satisfaction today. But you might not be as fortunate in involvements with others for social purposes.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's best not to get too closely involved today with someone you recently met who makes you feel a bit uncomfortable. Continue to study this individual from a distance.
