Holland's Inauguration

All roads lead to Tallahassee today as thousands of people from all over the state make this ordinarily small town the most congested in Florida in preparation for the inauguration tomorrow of Spessard Holland as this state's 28th governor. Those who are unable to make the trip will be there in spirit as they await the inaugural address which will sound the keynote for the next four years.

Governor-elect Holland is expected to emphasize the importance of this state as a part of the nation's defense program and the necessity of building military highways to make communication and transportation among the various bases, now being constructed, easier and speedier and he may also point out that these roads cannot be built without adequate funds, something which the State Road Department has sorely missed in the last few years.

The subject of roads naturally brings up the question of taxation which has been made more acute, as far as the State is concerned, by the recent abolition of the State ad valorem tax levy. It may be expected that some form of new taxation will be necessary, particularly if the unpopular gross receipts tax is repealed. Just what form the new taxes will take remains a secret with Holland and the legislative leaders, even if they have yet decided among themselves.

That his administration is facing one of the most critical periods in Florida's history is well known to Holland and his associates. At a time when the state is growing so rapidly that normal revenues fail to keep pace with the demand for highways, schools, bridges and other improvements, the State is faced with the necessity of doing its part, an exceedingly large part for its size, in the national defense program.

Florida is fortunate in having at the helm at this time a man who through his own service in the World War appreciates the burdens of war, and from long years of service in public office in his county and state thoroughly understands the problems of government. Whatever the situation arising in the future, whatever emergency may be confronted by the state, the people may well know that their governmental affairs are in good hands.

Greek Colony

The war in Europe and the gallant defense of their homeland by the sturdy Greeks have lent added glamor to the little Greek colony of sponge divers at Tarpon Springs and have made more interesting than ever their annual feast of the Epiphany which their Greek Orthodox Church celebrates there today.

Greeks from all over the country come to Tarpon Springs for this annual occasion which is presided over by Bishop Athenagoras of Boston as the principal representative of the head of the church in the Western Hemisphere. The Bishop will throw a gold cross in the bay, and the Greek boys will dive for it. The one who brings it up will be followed by exceptionally good luck throughout the year.

The colorful feast of the Epiphany commemorates the baptism of Christ for the Greeks say it was at this time that he was made known to the people at large. The celebration begins with services at daybreak and lasts until noon. Then the churchmen in their finest raiment march in procession to Spring bay, where the banks form a natural amphitheater for the thousands of residents and visitors who come to watch, and where the cross ceremony takes place.

Not many newcomers to Florida realize that in this little Gulf coast town north of Clearwater, live about 4,000 Greeks, many of whom are still citizens of Greece, who make their living, and a very good living it is too, by diving for sponges off the coast of Florida. Some of these men make from $2,500 to $5,000 a year just diving for sponges while the boat owners and market operators make considerable more than that.

So far as we know this is the only sponge fishery in the United States. Most of these Greeks hail from the Ptolemaean Islands in the Mediterranean which are also the center of important sponge beds. They come over here because they can make considerably more money selling their sponges here than they can in the old country. Most of them expect to spend only a few seasons and then return home, but most of them remain to raise their families and become citizens.

They are intensely loyal to the United States and believe it is the best country in the world, next to their own. Most of them would like to become citizens and would like to have their families, many of whom are still in Greece, join them here. They are very proud of the part their countrymen are now playing in world affairs, and a few have returned home to join the colors.

The last time we were in Tarpon Springs we talked to a Greek girl who was born in this country, though her father and mother were both born in Greece and had lived there most of their lives. This girl had gone to regular American public schools and was as much of an American as any girl you ever saw, but she had also gone to a Greek school in the evening and knew as much about her motherland, its language, customs and traditions, as if she had been raised there.

That is the way with most of them. They are 100 percent Greeks. They are 100 percent Americans.

11 Navy Fliers Die When Plane Crashes, Burns

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 5 (AP)—Eleven navy fliers were killed Saturday night in the flaming wreckage of a naval transport plane which crashed in the rugged mountain country 35 miles southeast of here.

The transport, a Douglas B-24J four-engine craft, left Big Springs, Tex., Saturday with four naval fliers who had parachuted to safety from a plane shot down by enemy fighters near Mesa, Tex., Thursday. Three members of a board named to inquire into the accident there, and four other navy fliers.

The transport crashed during a rainstorm on a slope of Mother Grundy's peak. Navy officials said the visibility was slight because of a dense fog.

The plane was overdue Saturday morning. A few hours later Guy C. Haptonstall, a rancher, said of sighting a flash and hearing a "loud noise" after a plane flew over his house. A searching party was organized immediately, but the dense fog, rain, and rugged country impeded progress.

Reaching the spot yesterday morning, the searchers were forced to clear away brush to make a trail up the almost inaccessible spot where the transport crashed and burned.

Program Outlined For Producing Of Cattle And Hogs

Gainesville, Jan. 4—A comprehensive program for successful production and management of livestock in 1941 was outlined here today by Dr. A. L. Shealy, head of the animal industry department in the University of Florida College of Agriculture.

"Many of our livestock producers are already carrying out practices in this program with good results, but we consider them so important that we offer them for the consideration of all farmers who are raising cattle and hogs," Dr. Shealy said.

For cattle raisers, he offered the following suggestions:

Provide adequate food and pasture for the herd. Plant improved pastures for longer grazing seasons and greater carrying capacity.

Plan to produce a good supply of winter feed crops such as sorghums and sorghum for silage. Shocked sorghums may also be fed.

As non-productive cows set grass that should be eaten by good producers, call all non-productive cows and set them together by gravity.

In good condition for the breeding season in March, feed them during the winter.

Provide adequate minerals to increase breeding efficiency and to maintain good nutritional condition of the herd.

"Hog producers," Dr. Shealy said, "will do well to install a delimiting system of crop rotation to control parasites and provide ample feed for their stock. Hogs can be kept on any amount of crop every month in the year by careful planning."

He also suggested that farmers plant enough corn, peanuts, or clover to supply sufficient feed for "finishing" hogs for market. "It isn't profitable to sell unfinished hogs," he said.

Installation of sanitary waterers for the entire herd and elimination of the mud hole will also help in producing healthy hogs, Dr. Shealy said.

"Keep your eye on your stock," was Dr. Shealy's final suggestion to raisers of hogs and cattle. "You may manage these more effectively by regularly inspecting them."

Forty percent of American women have a disease, Dr. Shealy said. Another 10 percent have a disease and the remainder either or white.

Female 20% about the size in weight, millions of miles from the earth and a part of the air and a swarm of particles, loosely held together by gravity.

Taxes Paid On Domestic Wine Show Increase

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (Special)—Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Heverling issued today a statistical release on wine which indicated that the tax-paid withdrawals of domestic still wine in the United States during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1940, were $2,170,880 gallons, or 22 percent greater than in 1939, in which year withdrawals were higher than in any other post-1914 year prior to 1940.

Withdrawals of domestic sparkling wine, including both naturally and artificially carbonated wines, reached $3,718,400 taxable units (half-pints) and exceeded the previous high point for the fiscal year 1937 by 8 percent. Part of the increase in withdrawals may be attributed to increased purchases in June 1940, due to the higher tax rates which become effective July 1, 1940.

Compared with the previous fiscal year, tax-paid withdrawals of still wine containing not more than 14 percent alcohol increased from 22,461,618 gallons to 25,673,015 gallons, or by 9.8 percent. Tax-paid withdrawals of wines containing more than 14 percent alcohol increased from 44,914,760 gallons to 57,503,571 gallons, or by 28 percent.

Winery operations were reported at 1,090 wineries and 98 bonded wine store-rooms located in 32 states and Hawaii. There was a slight decrease in the production of wine (including wine produced for distilling material) in the production of brandy) 231,905,287 gallons having been produced in the fiscal year 1939 as compared with 212,367,737 in the fiscal year 1940. California led in the production of wine, accounting for percent of the total.

Total stocks of still wine, which on June 30, 1940, aggregated 93,344,003 gallons, declined by more than 1,600,000 gallons from stocks on the same date in 1939.

Free French Aid Attack On Garbo

This was the first major action by "Free Frenchmen" in the Berlin sector since the Gaullist forces in London.

The Free French press announced that the military attachment had taken a "very active part" in the British advance against the Italians.

bread and other grain products, fats, and dried fruits.

In view of the clothing and textile situation, Miss Sikes believes it would be most economical and practical for Florida home makers to clothe their families and furnish their homes with home-made cotton goods. Cottons are inexpensive, suitable, clean, and attractive, and have proven highly satisfactory for clothing and textiles in Florida.

Efficient planning for family consumption, as well as increased production of home needs, was suggested as a goal for the year. She says that home production of food contributes to health by furnishing a better food supply and at the same time releases available cash for more adequate clothing, medical and dental services.

Outlook For Farm Living Discussed In Annual Report

GAINESVILLE, Jan. 6—Prospects for farm family living in Florida during 1941 are about the same as in 1940, and show indications of a slight improvement in the next few years, according to the annual outlook report now being issued by the Agricultural Extension Service.

Family living depends on both the family income and the funds produced at home, the points out.

The report says that farm families depending entirely upon short staple cotton, fine-cured tobacco or citrus fruits as their major source of income probably will have a little less for family living in 1941 than in 1940. Those engaged in other types of farm production have a somewhat brighter outlook for income.

Miss Sikes calls attention to the fact that farm families in some areas have an opportunity during the first part of the new year to continue supplementing their incomes by work on nearby "defense" projects. "Such activities are being made to have more defense production industries located in rural areas."

Family living expenses are expected to be somewhat higher in 1941 than in 1940, and as a result the dollar farm families spend for living will be less, she says.

"Some commodities, such as wool, silk, and leather, will most likely show a marked increase in price. Prices of such commodities as fresh fruits probably will advance also. Only small increases are expected in prices of most staple foods which farm families buy, such as

Miss Joan Azzarello Returns From Miami

After spending five days in Miami attending the festivities of the Orange Bowl game and New Year's celebration for which she was a honor guest at all, Miss Joan Azzarello of this city, one of the four "Ladies-in-waiting" to Miss Jean Kober of Orlando, Orange Bowl Queen returned Thursday evening to tell of her "glorious trip packed full to the brim with excitement."

"I couldn't possibly have taken in more of Miami in the time I was there," Miss Azzarello began, "everyone was grand to me and I saw so much and did so many things and had such a wonderful time."

The thrill of riding on the float with the Orange Bowl Queen and the New Year's day parade, she described, but her disappointment about the Mississippi State-Georgetown game was that she happened to be seated on the losing side.

"When asked if she visited any night clubs, she said 'Oh, yes, we had a cocktail party at the Columbus Hotel and went to the club ball on Sunday night, then on Monday night we visited the Rumba Casino and Walter Winchell gave me his autograph and wrote 'To Joan With Lots of Love.' We saw Ted Lewis at the Royal Palm on Wednesday night and visited the El Chico, and on Thursday after having dinner at Pan and Bill's we went to the Casino where Ina Ray Hutton and her orchestra play the Bar Music and ended up at the Latin Quarters."

"You should have seen John Powers' 12 American Long Stemmed Beauties who were in Miami for the celebration," she continued. "On Wednesday morning Jean and we four girls had breakfast with them at Tropical Park and the night before they gave a fashion show after the coronation at the Bayfront Park with Ted Husling announcing."

"I nearly forgot our ride in the Goodyear Blimp," Miss Azzarello continued excitedly. "We rode up over the city, beach and ocean and saw what Miami is like from the air."

"And we danced La Congo, at least made a brave attempt at it, and went on a shopping tour of Miami Beach, visited the Miami Beach Tennis Club, and everywhere we went we were photographed. At the game I saw Wendell Wilkie, and Governor Cone."

"Oh, I just wish I weren't so excited about the trip," she continued, "every day was packed full of excitement."

Miss Azzarello, Sanford Jaycee entry in the contest for Orange Bowl Queen, which was chosen in Orlando in December, received her trip after being selected one of the four attendants to the Queen. She was accompanied to Miami by Miss Cecilia Trulock of this city with whom she shared rooms in the Miami Colonial Hotel.

Painting In WPA Exhibit Discussed

Speaking on the WPA art exhibit which will soon come to Sanford for exhibition, Mrs. C. R. Trimbull of Bradenton, a guest at a meeting of the Sanford Art Club held Friday evening at the home of Mrs. W. M. Scott, stressed "Palmetto Hammock," an oil painting by Albert E. Backus of the Vero Beach Sketch Club as outstanding among the group and explained several others of the pictures shown in Bradenton on Dec. 7.

The date for showings of this Temporary American Art Exhibit of Beautiful Pictures will be announced later by the Art Club of which Mrs. H. H. Coleman is president. Mrs. Alva Fuller is in charge of the travelling exhibits which circulate over the nation.

At the meeting of the Florida Federation of Art Clubs in Bradenton on Dec. 7, Mrs. W. M. Scott of this city was elected a member of the State Federation Board with duties as beautification chairman.

Mrs. Scott's program will have these four points stressed:

(1) What style of pictures to paint?

(2) How to sell pictures?

(3) Where to display pictures?

(4) Pictures and their friends.

The practical point to be shown by Mrs. Scott is that exhibits without sales are failures.

At Friday's meeting, Mrs. Mildred Babcock, art teacher of Seminole County's schools, reported on the new art club of the high school "Practical Steps of Art Craft," a book by Brandon Thomas, was presented Mrs. Babcock's use in connection with her high school work. The book will be donated to Seminole High School Library following its use by members.

Mrs. S. O. Shubalder, Jr., was elected recording secretary for the year at the meeting.

During an informal social hour several of the State's paintings, some of which have been awarded prizes, were exhibited for those present.

Present were: Mrs. Trimbull, Mrs. H. H. Coleman, Mrs. R. I. Cornell, Mrs. W. J. Thigpen, Mrs. E. G. Shaxon, Mrs. James Moughlin and Mrs. Scott.

4 New Rhesus Monkeys Will Take Up Residence On Monkey Island

Four new Sanford residents arrived from New York yesterday afternoon, to make their home on the bungalow on Monkey Island of the Seminole Zoo. These new residents are four Rhesus monkeys, originally from India.

The island has four Rhesus monkeys at the present time. It is the little brown fellow with a short tail who is continually pushing or pulling other monkeys. John Henry, that is his name, was the first to arrive.

John Henry, that is his name, was the first to arrive. He is of a species called "the Great Rhesus" and will at the size of the other Rhesus monkeys at the Zoo that are content in cages. James Moughton, park superintendent, hopes John Henry will remain friendly when he gets larger so he will be allowed to remain on the island. Right now he is the most playful of the inmates of the island, according to Mr. Moughton.

In some parts of India the Rhesus monkey is considered sacred, and is often protected and fed in the neighborhood of temples of Hindu priests. His food consists of grain, leaves, fruit, insects and insects.

The Rhesus are a quarrelsome lot and are likely to bully other monkeys but their fights are short and end with more noise than injury. Mr. Moughton said they move about in great bands, which is the cause of quite a bit of their scrapping, he added.

It was reported recently that over 12,000 of these monkeys were imported into this country in one year. Most of them are at medical clinics for research work as only about 2,000 were sent to zoos. The diseases of these monkeys are similar to those of human beings and they are very useful in such study, Mr. Moughton said.

It might be interesting to children who read Kipling's Jungle Book to know that the bad, mischievous Bandarlog Rhesus, were the kidnappers of the man-cub, Mowgli, said Mr. Moughton.

It was the first court test of the statutes, passed in 1935.

New Pledge Is Made Of Fidelity To Axis; Cairo Headquarters Announce Progress

Turks Gather On Bulgarian Border

CAIRO, Jan. 7.—(AP)—British troops thrusting deep into Libya were reported today to have reached Eladon, a strategic port for Tobruk, and to have captured 40 Italian planes damaged by previous British bomb attacks. The Italians had abandoned the airport.

The Italian cabinet today "solemnly reaffirmed" Italy's fidelity to the Axis alliance and its determination to fight to the end, even as the official British headquarters in Cairo announced that operations against Tobruk, Fascist North African base, were "proceeding satisfactorily."

A dark picture of Mussolini's African campaign was painted by London in an official report that 21,000 Italians had been knocked out of the war—killed, wounded, captured or missing—in the past 28 days.

Meanwhile, 400,000 Turkish soldiers were reported massed in Thrace along Bulgaria's southern border.

With more than 30,000 Italian prisoners so far, captured in the shambles of Bardia, where Premier Mussolini had ordered a desperate stand, the British vanguard yesterday was "approaching the Tobruk area," according to a general headquarters communiqué.

In Rome, the Italian press admitted the British had established positions about 22 miles from Tobruk, including the cases of Salt River and Gambut, and that these were under attack by Italian planes.

Against the staggering number of Italian prisoners taken in the encirclement of General Bergoglio's Bardia garrison, boasting to be between 70,000 and 80,000 the total number captured in 24 days of the Italian desert offensive, the British losses were said to have been amazingly small.

A Melbourne dispatch said that Australian troops, who led the final assault on Bardia, suffered fewer than 600 casualties.

Squadrons of British bombers aided the merchant advance units in their evening push on Bardia, an even more important base than Bardia, in tactics similar to those which paved the way for the three, two and one-half day final assault on Bardia.

At Tobruk, it was understood, Marshal Graziani has massed the cream of his blackshirt legions from his remaining 175,000 troops and is determined to make a strong stand.

Additionally, British sources estimate Germany is sending 1000 or more planes to the aid of Italy.

Telegrams reported Sunday said Germany had promised also to send Graziani two German mechanized divisions, perhaps aboard big Junkers transport planes.

Official communiques told of hundreds of tons of British bombs crashing upon Italian fortifications, barracks and airfields at Tobruk in continuous raids throughout Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Hangkok reports that the (Siam) forces had crossed Mekong River to invade French Indo-China, seemingly brought that border war to a more critical stage today. Military observers expressed the possibility that Japanese intervention was becoming stronger.
