Racehorse euthanised

SANFORD - Tommy Meadows, the former racehorse with a hobbled leg. eathantsed this morning.

The Humane Society of Seminole County tried to save the horse by sending it to the University of Florida Veterinary School where it was examined by horse surgery expert Dr. Pat Collahan Wednesday. Society director Diane Albers said this morning Collaban told her the injury to the hoof was too old to try to restore the horses' walking capability by rebreaking the fused bones.

Albers said a money appeal last week raised nearly $900, mostly from horse owners. She said one Orlando woman donated money, saying it Toming Meadows couldn't be saved then use her donation to buy a bag of apples for him before he is put to sleep. Albers said the request was fulfilled.

Albers said about $250 will be needed for Tommy Meadow's medical expenses. The rest of the money will be used for an emergency lung for injured horses. The society still needs up to $3,000 to build horse stalls at the County Home Road shelter, Albers said.

Counterfeit caper closed down

LONGWOOD - Richard Anselowitz, 63, of 11408 Sandy Hill Dr. in Orlando, was arrested on Thursday and charged with grand theft and theft of trade secrets.

Both are felony charges. He is accused with allegedly manufacturing, distributing and selling merchandise bearing counterfelt logos.

According to George Procechel, public information with the Seminole County Sheriffs Office, Anselowitz, owner and president of Promo Graphics, 1335 Bennett Dr. in Longwood, had been the subject of an on-going investigation by the SCSO's fraud division and Network Investigative Agency, a Tampa-based private investigations firm that specializes in trademark infringement cases.

merchandise in question was "hundreds of thousands of dollars."

According to Proeschel, bond for Anselowitz was set at $2,000 at the time of his arrest.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility in Sanford where he posted bond unmediately.

Soap Box Derby begins Saturday

SANFORD - The traffic that flows down U.S. Highway 17-92 between 13th Street and 20th Street in Sanford will be a little different on Saturday morning.

Rumbling trucks and automobiles will be replaced by 22 sleek fiberglass contraptions piloted by youngsters wearing fortified helmets.

The Central Florida Soap Box Derby's staging area and course will take over the federal highway for about nine hours beginning at 5 a.m. The race itself will last, if all goes well, from 8 a.m. to noon, but time will be needed to set up and then dismantle the course. Sgt. Dennis Whitmire of the Sanford Police Department, who is in charge of the traffice control during the race, said that those needing to travel north or south through Sanford will be

By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD - The expectation of no tax increase for the City of Longwood next year is still holding strong. To do it however, the city may have to reduce previously planned spending, and operate with fewer city employees.

As currently prepared, the proposed Fiscal Year 1991-92 budget provides for a General Fund budget of $6,972,714 and an Enterprise Fund Budget of $2,148.931. Added to a budget of $12,200 for the cemetery operation and $17,000 for the police education fund, the total is $9,150,845.

SANFORD - Residents paying property to Seminole County may see only a slight tax increase in the upcoming fiscal year, but the cost of making a telephone call or turning on a light could be noticably higher.

Seminole County manager Ron Rabun released his proposed $251.3. million budget Thursday for the year beginning Oct. 1, 1991 and it requires a 13 percent increase over last year's $222.7 million budget.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

State, feds settle legal fight over Everglades

WEST PALM BEACH - Farm fertilizer runoff choking the life from the Everglades would be removed by manmade marshes under a cleanup plan announced to settle a federal lawsuit over offution of the unique wetlands.

"Today is sort of the first step in saving the vergindes." said Gov. Lawton Chiles. "We have to move forward from here."

Chiles and U.S. Attorney General Dick Thornburgh met Thursday to disclose the agreement signaling an end to a 2½-year legal fight between the federal and state governments.

"Today marks a new day for the Everglades," Thornburgh said. "It's designed to end environmental damage resulting from phosphorous runoff from agricultural activities."

U.S. Attorney Dexter Lehtinen of Miami filed the suit in 1988, charging Piorida failed to enforce its own pollution control laws for water flowing from huge sugar and vegetable farms to the Everglades National Park and Loxahatchee National Wildlife Refuge.

Fertilizers in the runoff, majobs absents.

Fertilizers in the runoff, mainly phosphorous, have changed plant growth patterns and harmed endangered wildlife such as the Florida panther and wading birds.

District and approved by U.S. District Judge secret talks, the district must create a 34,700-acre artificial marsh to act as a filter between the farms and the Everglades, and more land would have to be added if the problem isn't solved.

A new state law gives the water manage power to impose taxes on growers to pay cleanup costs, but if the farmers fight such a tax in court the district still must build the marsh, according

The district's governing board Thursday set a July 22 public hearing and scheduled a vote on the plan for Aug. 6.

The new law passed last spring, which is named for pioneering Everglades protector Mar-jory Stoneman Douglas, also gives the water district authority to condemn land it needs for the Environmentalists generally praised the setdement but raised concerns that the filtering marsh would be too small. Florida Audubon Society lobbyist Charles Lee said studies have indicated that 75,000 acres may be needed. "All of the scientific information we are privy to indicates that amount of acreage is significantly less than what will ultimately be needed." Lee Preliminary water standards must be met by 1997 and long-term goals reached by 2002. Another major component of the agreement would require farmers to cut discharge of phosphorous into the Everglades by 10 percent by 1997 and 25 percent by 2002.

Tax reform group eyes exemptions

ORLANDO - Politically touchy moves such as ending sales tax breaks on groceries or even doctor bills won't be overlooked by the group seeking ways to overhaul Florida Such exemptions have been won in the Legislature through years of lobbying by large and small interests, Florida Taxation and Reform Commission member Jim Bax

"There's no rhyme or reason," Bax said. The state collects about $11 billion a year in taxes, most of it through a 6 percent sales tax on goods. But sales tax exemptions cost it another potential $11 billion in revenues.

Bax said one possible approach would be to end all exemptions, then resurrect those for which a good case was made. But legislators view some, such as the tax breaks on groceries and doctor bills, as untouchable.

A commission committee first recommended closing all loopholes including those for groceries, housing and services such as doctor's and lawyer's fees.

But the committee later voted to set standards so exemptions for necessities would be retained.

If the full commission adopts the committee recommendations, it would represent a move toward a sales tax on services. a revision that collapsed under heavy opposition when last proposed in 1967.

Gov. Lawton Chiles has asked the commission to start making recommendations for lawmakers by October, and wants the Legislature to work on tax reform in its 1992 session.

"We're going to bulldoze the house and rebuild it in some kind of rational way." Bax, a business consultant and former Health and Rehabilitative Services secretary, said at the 25-member commission's meeting Wednesday in Orlando.

Some exemptions are well known, such as those for groceries, hospital costs and medicine. Others benefit narrower interests.

Gas used for farming, aircraft sales to Florida-based carriers, fuels used in manufacturing, machinery used in federal procurement contracts, machinery used in recycling, boats temporarily docked in Florida for repairs, and purchases by non-profit groups are sales-tax exempt-

Claims problems from LSD testing

WEST PALM BEACH - More than thirty years after an unwit-ting Army sergeant was subjected to experiments with LSD and other drugs, the Defense Department dropped its opposi-tion to compensating him for health problems, lost income, and a series of bizarre behavioral changes.

"I think they threw in the towel. It helps our case enormously," said Rep. Harry Johnston, D-West Palm Beach, who sponsored the bill to pay Stanley $625,000 in damages.
Stanley, a jail shift command-

Johnston said that Monday he will submit for the review of House members and Pentagon officials an economic analysis justifying that amount.

The Defense Department's notice that it "does not object to the enactment of a private bill for Mr. Stanley" was delivered on the heels of a congressional hearing Wednesday that reviewed a possible connection with former Nazis in the experiments.

About 7,000 other soldiers took part in experiments during the same period in the 1950s'. Hunt said.

SANFORD - A new policy is being drawn up regarding the use of city property for special events. It is designed to simplify and clarify the often-confusing requirements and paperwork.

An initial proposal was created through the combined efforts of Sanford City Manager Bill Simmons. Parks Director Jim Jernigan, and Recreation Director Mike Kirby. The three men took a close look at existing policies and rules including those relating to obtaining permission to use or rent city facilities and the closing of streets. The study covered both non-profit and profit-making special events.

New capitolism

Imagine that the South had won the Civil War and the capital of the Confederate States of America was Richmond. Now, years later, North and South are going to reunite. Should Richmond become the new national capital, or should Richmond give way to Washington?

That's the situation the German parliament faced recently in its vote on Berlin. Should the government of Germany stay in provincial Bonn, nestled sleepily on the Rhine, or should it return to Berlin, Germany's greatest city, its former national seat, Europe's historical crossroads?

The Bundestag voted to return to Berlin, but just barely, 337-320. It chose to return to the legendary city of Brandenburg, magnificent place of lakes and forests that neither Nazia nor communista could destroy. Yes, Bonn is a comfy little place of natty burghers, much as Richmond is, but it was always a provisional capital, always a symbol of the Cold War, which is over.

The collapse of communism reunited Berlin and Germany and forced the agonizing choice on the Germans. It was tough because, rural or not, Bonn, in 40 years as capital of the Federal Republic, became the capital of a

All the German institutions are currently in Bonn — the legislature, the executive, the bureaucracy. Bonn without government would be like Washington without government - a ghost town, with wind whipping through hollow buildings.

It's going to be a problem for Bonn, but a short-term one. Long term, returning the government to Berlin is good for Germany and good for Europe. Europe's task today is to extend Western peace and prosperity castward, into the former communist states. The Germans again can make their capital the crossroads to Slavic Europe, as it was under the Hohenzollerns.

In our short memories, Berlin is associated with the Nazis, which is understandable. But long before the Nazis, Berlin was a flourishing city of arts, commerce and liberalism. It was a home for Europe's persecuted, like the Huguenots: it was the seat of revolt against European absolutism, as in 1848.

The Third Reich was a cancer grafted onto Berlin. The Germans should feel no qualms about returning there, now that the cancer has been removed.

Back to the future

The decision of the voters of Leningrad to give back their city its old name, St. Petersburg - even though Soviet authorities are not likely to make the change - signals an emotional break with communism.

St. Petersburg was founded by Peter the great in 1703 as a showcase capital and window on the West." Its design. architecture and art by great masters of Western Europe made it one of the world's most impressive and beautiful cities.

International readers became familiar with it through the writings of Pushkin, Turgenev, Dostoyevski and Tolstoy.

Generations of visitors have been captivated by its grand main thoroughfare, the Nevsky Prospekt, and such structures as the Sts. Peter and Paul Fortress and Cathedral, the Winter Palace, the Tauridas Palace and many other graceful government buildings. theaters, cathedrals and museums.

St. Petersburg's gaudy, carefree, aristocratic social life in the late 19th and early 20th centuries became the backdrop for the seething discontents of intellectual revolutionaries, workers, soldiers and sailors, which erupted in one revolution in 1905 and the momentous upheavals of February and October, 1917.

In 1914 the city's name was changed to Petrograd. In 1924, it was renamed Leningrad to honor the dead Nikolai, aka Vladimir Lenin, founder of Bolshevism — the precursor of Soviet communism — and the Soviet state.

Lenin was born Vladimir llich Ulyanov in 1870 at Simbirsk. He adopted the pseudonym Lenin in 1901 during his clandestine party work after exile in Siberia. Simbirsk was later renamed Ulyanousk in his honor.

During World War II, the heroism of Leingrad's people during the long, harrowing German slege became legendary.

The vote of present-day Leningrad citizens to take back the city's original name dramatizes, as much as any other single event, Russian rejection of communism.

Conservatives gird for court battle

Now that President Bush has nominated Judge Clarence Thomas to repiace Thurgood Marshall on the Supreme Court, one can only hope that conservatives aren't going to let the liberals deny Judge Thomas Senate confirmation by default.

That's what we (and, be it said, the bureaucrats in the Reagan White House and Justice Department) did in the famous case of Judge Robert Bork, whom President Reagan nominated for the Supreme Court back in 1967. Bork was so magnificently qualified that his supporters (including the present writer) made the ghastly mistake of masuming that engaging in hand-to-hand combat with his liberal foes would be counterproductive: that Bork's case would simcounterproductive: that Bork's case would aimply be damaged by dragging it through the political arena.

The result was that Norman Lear and his People for the American Way, and a score of other liberal propaganda outlets, landed on Bork with everything they had, and he was left to defend himself as best he could against one of the greatest onsisughts ever launched against a judicial nominee. When the smoke blew away. Robert Bork lay politically dead on the Senate floor, with Galahada like Kennedy and Metzenbaum looming over him.

If we have to err, let's err in the other direction this time. As Reagan's longtime chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Clarence Thomas stoutly championed the cause of individuale who had been discriminated against. but steadfacily opposed race quotas and "affirmative action." That, of course, made him anathema to the so-called "civil rights establishment," and it will exert all its strength to block his advance to the Supreme tanks: Are you working on the documentation of the case for Judge Thomas, and planning to make sure that it gets into the hands of every concerned citizen?

So, conservatives, let's gird for battle. And let's tell the White House and the Justice Department to get into this ecrimmage, too.

You conservative spokesmen, too — on radio and television, and in the print media: Are you ready to insist, loudly and firmly, that the question is whether the liberal Democratic majority in the U.S. Senate is unwilling to let any conservative at all replace Thurgood Marshall on the Supreme Court?

Let us, in other words, do battle for Clarence Thomas as if his confirmation by the Senate mattered - as it most certainly does. We don't have to wallow in mud to make the case for him: no doubt Mr. Lear and his colleagues will do that, and we can expose their tactics to public condemnation.

Victorious over Judge Thomas, but exhausted and psychologically in no shape for another battle; facing, less than a year before Election Day, President Bush's nomination of the first Hispanic ever proposed for the Supreme Court, the Senate liberals will have no belly for rejecting him. They will approve his nomination, just as they approved that of Anthony Kennedy, who has turned out to be (if anything) even more conservative than Bork.

Census may not be adjusted

WASHINGTON - High-level sources at the Commerce Department say that Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher will probably not order the results of the 1990 Census to be statistically adjusted. The Census Bureau now admits that the 1990 enumeration was by far the most inaccurate in history. A record number of Americans, especially from among minorities, failed to be counted. The remedy would be for the Commerce Secretary to order the Bureau to devise a mathematical formula based on an estimate of the undercount, and then to apply that adjustment formula to the results from all 50 states.

Immediately after releasing the results of the general census enumeration in April, the Census Bureau attempted to verify its count by means of a Post Enumeration Survey (PES). In the PES, 175,000 randomly selected households are closely examined, and the results are compared to the original general census results for these households. If the results are sufficiently similar, the already-released numbers are considered final. But if the two counts are off. Mosbacher - under a court order based on a suit from the 1980 census has until July 15 to decide whether to statistically adjust the numbers.

Preliminary figures from the PES showed that the 1990 count was seriously flawed. Now the final revised PES numbers have been made available: It shows that the 1990 count was even more seriously flawed than first believed.

It was widely assumed that there had been an undercount, and that most of that undercount was in major cities, centering around black inner-city populations. This was borne out in the preliminary PES figures. But that has changed significantly.

The biggest undercount apparently occurred among Hispanics in the Southwest. According to the revised estimate, more than 5 percent of Hispanics were not counted. This percentage far outstripped the estimated number of uncounted blacks.

A principle use of the new census numbers is reapportionment of the U.S. House of Representatives for the coming decade. As a result of the original count. 19 House seats are to be shifted among 21 states. Since December state legislatures have been redrawing all their congressional district boundaries based on the original numbers.

It is difficult to predict how statistically adjusting the numbers would affect congressional districts because the formula can be computed in a number of ways depending upon the PES results.

Six weeks ago, the best guess was that California would gain eight - instead of seven - new House seats: Georgia would gain two, not one: Montana would not lose one of its two existing scats; Pennsylvania would lose three and not just two seats; and Wisconsin and Oklahoma would each lose one. That has now changed. The best guess now is that Wisconsin will lose a seat to California, and Pennsylvania will lose a seat to Arizona.

The unusually severe undercount among Hispanics will also result in major population adjustments within states. This will put significant pressure on many states to comply with court orders and redraw their congressional boundaries to create new majority Hispanie districts. The argument over adjusting is both scientific and political. On the scientific side, some demographers argue that the PES survey figures themselves were "smoothed" in the period between the initial release six weeks ago and the final release. The

The 1990 count was by far the most inaccurate in history. amouthing process could have caused errors: and if the PES is off, and is used to create a mathematical formula for adjustment, the final result could be as skewed in a different direction as was the original count.

The political argument is that states are already so far along in the redistricting process it would be unfair to make them start over again from scratch. Moreover, adjustments based on the apparent PES results will cause fundamental political realignments within some states. In a certain sense it does not matter which way Mosbacher decides. Whatever he does, he will make many states and political subdivisions unhappy. They in turn will file suit or join one of several suits already filed. So the final answer will probably come from the courts. However, if Mosbacher decides not to adjust. It is doubtful the courts will act soon enough to affect the 1992 elections. The new district boundaries now being drawn based on the initial 1990 results will be allowed to stand for the 1992 election, with the possibility they will have to redrawn again for 1994 if the courts decree adjustment.

This will result in less upheaval. And, say Commerce Department sources, that is why Mosbacher is strongly leaning against ad-

Democrats must fess up on goals

WASHINGTON - Former Massachusetts Sen. Paul Tsongas is the only Democrat who admits he is running for president, but the list of stealth candidates is long and predictable. They want to keep the voters guessing about their presidential aspirations, but their politicking betrays them. Presidential wannabees who know what's good for them are lavishing attention and some money on the two states with primaries that could catapult them to a nomination -New Hampahire and Iowa.

Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., started early. Last fall he donated $2,000 from his private political action committee to the New Hampshire Democratic Party, On the same day he gave $500 to lowa's incumbent Democratic treasurer.

A spokeswoman for Gephardt said the contributions were "unrelated to any type of presidential bid." But the record shows that he hesn't donated to other state parties and candidates.

Gephardt is among the serious contenders who won't even admit so much as a yearning for the White House. With him in that category are Sen. Al Gore, D-Tenn., Sen. Jay Rockefeller, D-W.Va., Sen. Bill Bradley, D.N.J., and the Rev. Jesse Jackson, a Democrat. Under the heading of potential candidates who admit a passing interest, are Virginia Democratic Gov. Douglas Wilder, who concedes that he has fired up an "exploratory committee," and Sen. Tom Harkin, D-lowa, who says he is running a "testing-the-waters campaign."

Our associates Jim Lynch and Scott Sleek looked into these pre-campaigns and found them to be subtle, but persistent. Gore produced a 28-minute video about himself boasting of his impact on millions of people in Tennessee and across the nation. He also sent thousands of Christmas cards to people in New Hampshire, as did Gephardt and Rockefeller. Again, these non-candidates will assure you this has nothing to do with setting their sights on the Oval Office. Gephardt's office explained that his Christmas list "is very large."

There's more to this denial campaigning than the possibility that these Democrats will stick their necks out only to have them chopped off by a very popular incumbent president. Federal election laws place spending caps on each candidate. But those limits aren't imposed until they declare their candidacy, or at least concede they are "testing the waters."

Federal election officials tell us this year's cast of democratic hopefuls are stretching the "I'm-not-running" line to the snapping point. If the stage-shy candidates don't announce by September, they run the risk of getting into the act too late. By then, the nation's key corporate fund-raisers will have committed themselves to someone else. Tardy entrants also risk coming up short on the federal matching funds that will become available next January. To qualify for up to $15 million in federal matching funds, a candidate must raise more than $5,000 in private contributions from 20 different states.

The quest for federal campaign cash explains why Wilder has dispatched campaign veterans to lows and New Hampshire and disbursed fund-raising operatives throughout 28 states. It also explains why Rockefeller picked this summer to go on a nationwide stump tour promoting children's the county. Voters approved the program last November. Rabun said a slight increase was unavoidable because of 20 percent increases in the cost of health and property insurance and state mandates. The "base level budget," maintaining the same services as last year will cost more than 8 percent more, or about $243 million. Rabun proposed about $6 million new employees, equipment

"It was a budget that was a inflicult kind of budget," Rabun aid, "I had to say 'No' a lot to departments. But at the same in time. I tried to make progress in critical areas such as law enforcement and fire protection."

In all, county officials and constitutional officers requested nearly $20 million in new spending above what was necessary to maintain current services.

Rabun said. Rabun trimmed those requests to $6.1 million.
Rabun, in his fourth month as

The unincorporated road tax will increase slightly, from about 79 cents per $1,000 to about 86 cents. Although Rabun has proposed using utility taxes for rural road improvements and maintenance, a 26 percent drop in gasoline taxes led him to propose the property tax increase, Rabun said. The proposed Public Service Utility Tax would place a 10 percent tax on the purchase of electricity, metered or bottled gas, water, communication services, and other competitive services. project. "We haven't determined who did what," he said. "The city thought the contractors hired by Seminole County had run a drainage line from the school to an area near the railroad tracks, where it could be run into the ground for natural recycling. Instead, we found a line running right into big Lake Mary."

The mayor said the line going to the railroad track area did exist, "But someone apparently blocked off a 20 foot length of it. preventing the contaminated water from going in that direction. Instead. it went into the runoff water line leading to the lake.'

Lake Mary Public Works Director Rod Stroupe said the problem was first brought to his attention early this week. "When we found out about it, we made an initial test of the water." He said. "The results. which we got back the following day, showed definate signs of fecal coliform in the water. The amount shown to be in the water was twice the amount that is allowed in the lake." He said results were determined. Stroupe said Seminole County officials immediately ordered the school to stop pumping waste into the system. Morris said efforts will be made to find answers for many questions. "Why was this second line constructed? Who did it? Did they try to obtain proper permits for this? Why was the original drainage line to the tracks closed?" He said he plans an all out move to find out who did it and why.

One other concern the mayor reported is the drainage system at the school itself.

Good economic news: Recovery has begun

"The evidence does suggest the economy is bottoming out and starting out of the recession."

Greenspan told the House Banking Committee on Thursday, a day after President Bush announced his reappointment to a second four-year term.

"But." he added, "it is much too early to make a judgment as to the dimensions of the recovery or its pace."

More will be known today with the release of two economic reports for June. The Labor Department is releasing its Producer Price Index, which measures the price of goods wholesalers pay to producers such as farmers and manufac-

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department is reporting retail sales. In advance, most conomists expected sales had risen for the second consecutive month, boosted by the return of buyers to auto showrooms.

Analysts anticipated that producer prices, a good gauge of inflationary pressures before they reach the consumer, held steady or increased only slightly in June.

Producer prices rose a surprisingly stiff 0.8 percent in May, pushed up by big increases for

During the first five months of the year, prices dropped at an annual rate of 1 percent. Much of the good inflation news has been generated by energy costs, which rose after Iraq invaded Kuwait last August and then began falling after it became clear the invasion would not disrupt world oil production.

Prospects good for nationwide gun-purchase waiting period

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Congress took a giant step toward enact-ing a nationwide waiting period for handgun purchases when the Senate passed a comprehensive crime package with many features sought by President Bush.

The bill, which restores the federal death penalty and extends it to 51 crimes, won administration praise as it cleared the Senate on a bipartisan vote of 71-26 Thursday night.

The measure also contains a five-working-day waiting period for handgun purchases, bans nine types of semiautomatic assault-style weapons and toughens the penalties for illegal use of firearms.

Bush signaled earlier this year that he would consider signing gun-control legislation only if Congress enacted crime legislation with the death penalty and made it harder for state prisoners to appeal their convictions in federal court.

"This bill contains the heart of the president's crime bill," said Sen. Strom Thurmond, R.S.C. "There are some troublesome provisions, but they are outweighed by the tough provisions in the bill."

Thurmond said the habeas corpus restriction is "the most important thing we did."

The bill contains most of the essential features of the Democrats' crime package, including a $3.3 billion authorization for aid to local police and other law enforcement programs.

But the administration was so leased with the results that Thornburgh praised the Senate's vote for "President Bush's tough, anti-crime legislative package."

"This legislation will strengthen the ability of federal. state and local law enforcement to remove drug traffickers and violent offenders from our streets, once and for all," Thornburgh said in a statement.

The sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, interpreted the reports as a aign that the embattled dictator was seeking to shield himself behind a core of loyalists.

Except for televised meetings with top party. army and government of-ficials, Saddam no longer

Some of those purged or executed were said to have been Shitte Muslims, which would reverse a decadelong effort by Saddam, a Sunni Muslim, to widen the base of support for his rule.

Among those reportedly executed was Maj. Gen. Yalchin Omer, a Sunni Mualim and hero of the Iran-Iraq war who commanded an army division in the marshlands of the south, the only region where Saddam has not completely quashed rebellion.

Shiite Muslims, who rose up against Saddam in April, make up 55 percent to 60 percent of Iraq's population of 17 million.

Most of Saddam's ruling circle are members of the Sunni minority.

MIAMI — American baseball officials say a star pitcher for the Cuban national team who defected in Miami is "major league material." Rene Arocha defected while he and his teammates were on their way back to Havana after playing an exhibition against the U.S. national team in Millington, Tenn.

The 27-year-old pitcher and the rest of the amateur team checked into the Miami International Airport Hotel late Wednesday night. But Arocha didn't sleep in his room and never boarded the Trans Air Haiti flight back to Havana, police said.

Robbie Stadium Expansion

MIAMI - Owners of Joe Robbie Stadium plan to increase its capacity by about 3,000 seats to 75,829 for football and 56,000 for baseball.

Robbie Stadium Corp. also plans to add a 3,500-space parking lot south of the stadium. The owners want to add 2,829 seats scattered from the club section to the far reaches of the stadium. For football, most of the seats would be for auxiliary use, such as marching bands.

The stadium will become home of the National League expansion Florida Marlins in 1993.

Little League brawl

SOUTH WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. - Little League officials have suspended the Bassett, Calif., senior division team charter following a benchclearing brawl that involved 40 people and injured two during a game.

The fight occurred Wednesday night in the bottom of the sixth inning of a district tournament loser's bracket game between Bassett and Hacienda Heights, both of which are near Los Angeles. The game was in the Senior Division — for ages 13 to 15. According to Dick Cianfrocca, a Little League administrator who was at the game, Hacienda Heights was winning 5-2 when the catcher for Bassett took off his helmet and hit the batter across the face. As the umpire tried to separate the two, he was hit with the bat. Home plate umpire Ernie Arriola suffered a fractured skull and was hospitalized. At its worst, about 40 people, including some parents, were on the field in the scuffle. Compiled from wire and staff reports.

Leister, Altamonte Americans cap Senior sweep

APOPKA - The Altamonte Springs Americans completed their sweep through the Area 2 bracket of the District 14 Senior (14 and 15) All-Star tournament with a 9-5 win over Rolling Hills Wednesday night at Apopka-West Seminole Little League.

It was Altamonte Springs' second win of the week over Rolling Hills, having opened the tournament with a 4-2 win over Rolling Hills last Friday. On Saturday, Altamonte Springs routed Apopka-West Seminole 19-2.

After losing to Altamonte Springs last Friday, Rolling Hills earned the rematch by eliminating Pine Hills last Saturday and knocking off Apopka-West Seminole on Wednesday.

The Altamonte Springs Americans are now off until next Tuesday, when they will begin play in the District 14 finals at Eastmonte Park in Altamonte Springs.

Eric Leister wrapped up Thursday night's win in impressive fashion, striking out three batters in two innings to save the victory for starting pitcher Eric Katauskas, who worked the first four innings.

Jimmy Newberry pitched the fifth inning for Altamonte Springs but ran into control problems in the sixth, walking the bases loaded. Protecting a 9-3 lead, Leister came on and struck out the side, but not before an outfield error allowed two runs to score.

Leister needed just eight pitches to retire

Rolling Hills in the seventh.

Altamonte Springs took control of the game early, jumping out to a 6-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning.

With one out, Leister reached on an error. After Newberry singled. Chris Lewis ripped a three-run home run to put Altamonte Springs ahead to stay. Teddy Koller followed with a single, stole second and scored when Richie Alexander reached on an error.

After Alexander stole second, Neil Bryant also reached on error that sent Alexander to third. Bryant then stole second before Katauskas hit a two-run single, scoring Alexander and Bryant.

Newberry led Altamonte Springs' nine-hit attack with a 2-for-4 effort with one run scored. Substitute Danny Antonelli was 2-for-2 with a run scored, making him 4-for-4 coming off the bench for the tournament.

Sanford squad in chase for Babe Ruth title

By DEAM SMITH Herald Sports Writer

SARASOTA — For the first time in several years, a Sanford youth baseball team will go after a state title when the first-year Babe Ruth All-Stars play in the 1991 Florida State Class "A" Babe Ruth Baseball Tournament at Sarasota beginning

Babe Ruth Baseball is for 13-15 year olds. Class "A" was designed for first-year programs or younger (13 and 14-year-old) all-star teams.

Sanford will open play in the 11-team, double-elimination today at 1 p.m. against Ocala. If Sanford should win, it would return at 7 p.m. to face the Sarasota Nationals.

Other first round games scheduled for Friday will have Tampa playing Miami LA. Tallahasece facing Miami SK and the Sarasota Americans taking on Cape Coral.

Later today, the Tampa-Miami LA winner plays Ft. Pierce and the Tallahassee-Miami SK winner squares off against Keystone Heights.

If Sanford should lose its opening game, it would not play until 10 a.m. Saturday. The tournament is scheduled to last until Monday or Tuesday. If a team goes through the tournament unbeaten the tournament will end Monday. If the 'if necessary' game becomes necessary, it would be played Tuesday morning. Sanford's 15-member team. which was picked in a poll of the league coaches, is managed by Otis Raines, who led the Knights of Columbus Cardinals to the Sanford Recreation Department City Championship this season. He will have four players from his Cardinals team that went 16-3 this year. Named from the Cardinals were Deon Daniels, Tarrus Davis, Demetrius Jackson and Curtis Peterson.

The team that lost the City Championship Series to the Cardinals, the Prestige Lumber Expos, had its one-two punch of Todd Braden and Andre Rawlings named to the team.

Also on the team are George Beasley, Chris Boone, Quentin Hunt and Paul Renwick from the Moose Lodge Pirates: Eric Ingram and Eric Roberts from the Rotary Club Royals: Donald Hunt from the Hungry Howies Cubs: Seti "Ray" June from the Pretty Punch Blue Jays; and Craig Merkerson from the Woodman of the World A's.

Sanford will rely heavily on its pitching and team speed to try to win the tournament. Among the pitchers will be Daniels, Braden, Peterson, Rawlings, Roberts and Merkerson.

The catching will also be in good hands with Daniels, June or Boone behind the dish. June was the star of last year's Junior League All-Stars while Boone was one of the better hitters in the league this year.

As late as Tuesday, Raines was still looking for someone to step forward and show himself capable of handling the outfield.

Williams among holdouts as Dolphins open training camp

By STEVEN WINE AP Sports Writer

MIAMI — The Miami Dolphins opened training camp with high hopes but minus 17 holdouts. including an unexpected one. Safety Jarvis Williams, who is in the option year of his contract and seeking a new deal, declined to report Thursday. "I think that he feels by not being here, he's going to put the pressure on us," said Charley Winner, the team's director of player personnel.

Will he? "No." Winner said.

For each day missed. Williams will be fined the NFL maximum of $1,500. Team policy forbids negotiations with a player holding out while under contract.

"We've had bad experiences in the past on that, because it puts management between a rock and a hard place." coach Don Shula said. "If a player violates his contract and expects to negotiate it ... the next day you're going to have three guys all doing the same thing."

Williams, a starter since his rookie season in 1988, was not at his home in Palatka, Fla., and could not be reached for comment.

The other holdouts are unsigned. Among them are four draft picks, including top choice Randal Hill, who watched Thursday's practice with binoculars from the stands.

Drew Rosenhaus, the fleet receiver's agent, said he was Aside from Williams, veterans who are likely candidates for protracted holdouts include tight end Ferrell Edmunds, nose tackle Brian Sochia and cornerback J.B. Brown.

"The tough negotiations start usually right now, when players are required to be here." Shula said. "In the offseason they have all the time, and they never hopeful that Hill's holdout would seem to get anything done until

Description of nasal spray stinks

DEAR ABST: You recently said that older people should not be ashamed to ask their doctors questions about medications prescribed for them. They should know how much to take, how often to use it, what the side effects are, etc.

I wonder why the instructions that come with some medications are written in language that nobody can understand. For example, my doctor prescribed a nasal spray. The only thing I could understand was, "Shake well before using." Here is a sample of what else came with my medication and instructions. my medication and instructions:
Beclomethasone

17,21-dipropionate is a diester of beclomethasone, a synthetic halogenated corticosteroid. Animal studies show that beclomethasone dipropionate has potent glucocorticoid and weak mineralocoticoid activity.

. . The effects of beclomethasone dipropionate on hypothalamic-pituitary-adrenal (HPA) function have been evaluated in adult volunteers by other routes of administration. Studies with beclomesthesone dipropionate by the intranasal route may demonstrate that there is more or that there is less absorption by this route of administration. There was no suppression of early morning plasma cortisol concentrations when beclomethasone dipropionate was administered in a dose of 1,000 mcg/day for one month as an oral aerosol or for three days by intramuscular injection.'

Abby, there is much more that I cannot understand, but this should give you a general idea of what I mean.

JOHN W. EGGERS. BAN DIEGO

DEAR MR. EGGERS: I know exactly what you mean. Such gobbledygook is intended to confuse a person not schooled in Latin.

Don't be embarrassed. Ask your doctor for instructions that you can understand. And if there are any questions in your mind - ask for clarification.

ABBY: I am a 25-year-old woman who happens to have a very fair complexion. I do not tan very easily. My dermatologist just removed three precancerous growths from my arms and advised me to wear sunscreen when I plan to go out in the sun.

I get very irritated with people who tell me I would look a lot better if I got a little tan. Can you suggest a snappy comeback for these clods?

SUN-SHY IN GEORGIA DEAR SUN-SHY: Snappy comeback? You need no snappler comeback than the truth. Try this: "My dermatologist just removed three precancerous growths from my arms."

Then notice how quiet it gets...followed by a. "Gee, I'm sorry. I didn't know"...or words to that effect.

DEAR ABOY: This letter is in response to the letter from "Illinots Victim." the girl who -

So, have fatth, Abby. Go people are still out there. He even returned to Illinois after moving to California to appear in court for the prosecution, and was awarded four plaques for heroism. His name is Tyler Smith.

14 POINT

One small sailing vessel sits on the horizon, surrounded by the vastness of the sea. The sky is becoming threatening, its azure blue surrendering to churning clouds of blackness. No longer is the sea an expanse of liquid sapphire, sparkling in the sun. It has become a manipulative gray monster, violently tossing the little sailing ship with angrily waving arms.

Just as it appears that the tiny ship will forever become a prisoner to the depths of the sea, a white cloud of billowing sails floats triumphantly from the mast of the frenzied craft, and it begins its voyage back to the safety of the shore...headed in the right direction.

need not succumb to them, for like the billowing sails, God is always there if we call on Him, waiting to rescue us...to head us in the right direction.

Boomers' find purpose in C

Baby Boomer. It's a curious little name assigned to a generation of children born between 1945 — 1984. Never before those years or since, have there been so many babies born than from 1945 — 1964.

We hear and rend about the Baby Boom generation often. Understanding this gener-ation is difficult they say, and I believe I have some instrict into this because I, too, am one of the "Boomers."

They call us the "Peput Generation" and my that we're changing the U.S.

We have a unique set of values, lifestyles, objectives and orientations.

Statistics show that we marry later and begin having families later than our parents. They say many of us place a large emphasis on materialism, possessions, jobs and driving a BMW. We often have unrealistic expectations in life, which is why we experience so much stress, anxiety, tension and depression.

A U.S. News and World Reports article reported that "Boomers" are the "ultimate tant gratification generation; we want it and we want it now."

Sometimes they call us the consumer generation; a generation of credit cards and fact food buyers.

"The name of the game is best. Buying it. owning it, using it, wearing it, growing it, cooking it, driving it, doing whatever is it."

We're a high tech, high touch, high feeling generation, seeking practical solutions for today's many fast-paced needs. We also comprise, in 1991, the largest group of parents with families - so I guess we're the "Family Generation" as well. At any rate, these are only a few of the many things written and reported about the True happiness and purpose for one's life cannot be purchased or charged with a card. Meaning, worth and purpose are born out of one having made their peace with God the Creator, based upon a relationship with Jesus, His Son, our Savior.

We are accepted by our Creator, hence we can be at peace and accept one another. Our sense of worth, meaning and purpose now takes on a new dimension, and we can practically follow Jesus and His example as His Spirit enables us to.

The church becomes the place where we can commit and invest our spiritual gifts. energies, enthusiasm and dreams.

The Episcopal church is not only a worship center but will serve hundreds of peasant farm families as the meeting place. Over three hundred worshipers came down from the surrounding hills to attend the dedication. Holy Communion Service and Baptism of 15 children and adults by the Rev. Beverly L. Barge, pastor of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Lake Mary.

Sixteen members of St. Peter's recently returned from Honduras where they attended the dedication service, helped complete the building, constructed church furniture and experienced Christian love and bonding with these simple but beautiful people.
